Starving Ireland.

For months we have been reading of the destitution of the people of Ireland, who appeals to the people of this country have not in the past been made in vain.

This is the beginning of a grand outpouring of charity that will flow from all portions of this country.

This administration has got along pretty well in the line of scandal until recently. Close upon the heels of the Seward consulate scandal comes an eruption from the interior department.

Hayt, commissioner of Indian affairs, has long enjoyed immunity from specific charges of dishonesty, because he held the confidence of secretary Schurz, who faithfully stood by his subordinate until Hammond, Hayt's partner in frontier irregularities reached his supposed death-bed.

The bill before the New York legislature, providing for the selection of presidential electors by congressional districts, is condemned by many of the more conscientious members of the republican party as a measure of doubtful expediency.

Some time ago it was announced that census supervisors would be selected equally from both parties. There was no ground for such an assertion save the fact that the senate might refuse to confirm the nominations, if all were taken from the republican party.

The annals of criminal history is without a parallel to the case of the Oswego Co., N. Y. murderer. Orlando Greenfield, three times tried for the murder of his wife, and sentenced to be hung on Friday, was respited four weeks by Gov. Cornell, through influence of politicians.

It would have been a little more satisfactory to the legitimate press if Mr. Osmon of the Detroit News had given the names of the twenty-two wild-cat newspapers of Michigan started to "boost hysterical politicians into respectability" &c., as mentioned in his address at the late meeting of publishers in this city.

We tender to the republican party our heartfelt sympathy over the defeat of their candidate for senator from Mississippi. It made no difference if his ineptitude was known to intelligent persons, Jeff. Davis was a good enough sewerer to frighten timid northern souls. It served a purpose.

About the boldest act of political effrontery on record was that of John Kelly and his little gang of followers that bolted the ticket and defeated Gov. Robinson last autumn and upturning our success this year to meet in Albany to dictate the regular democracy of that state.

Don Cameron has again demonstrated his ownership of the republican party of Pennsylvania. In convention Wednesday at Harrisburgh, delegates to Chicago were instructed to vote for Grant by a vote of 133 to 113, and to vote as a unit was adopted viva voce.

The Blaine boom is assuming startling proportions; the Sherman boom rears its head occasionally from a custom house or internal revenue office; the Grant boom is ready to burst; meanwhile Washburne is being groomed as the dark horse.

Kx-Senator carpet bag Conover, now sustained on treasury soup, says Florida's delegates will go to Chicago pledged for John Sherman. Executive order No. 1, said something about civil service reform, it is remembered.

Just after Grant landed in Cuba there was an earthquake common to that country. The General undoubtedly construed it into a "boom" for himself.

$50,000,000 a day it takes to run the world somebody discovers. Some enterprising Yankee will soon offer to take the job for less money.

Responses of the Fraternity to their Recent Visit to Ann Arbor.

The members of the association were most kindly received not only by the faculty of Ann Arbor, but by the faculties of the University and citizens generally, and were most hospitably entertained.

Tuesday last we spent in Ann Arbor, in attendance upon the meeting of the Michigan State Press Association. During our stop we were very pleasantly entertained by Judge Harriman and family, and if our brothers of the "press gang" fared as well, the readers of their papers will undoubtedly be surprised.

President Angel and the faculties of the University did everything in their power to make the visit of the association pleasant and profitable. The crowning glory of the whole affair was the supper, and the speeches following after.

Big editors, little editors, old editors, young editors and indifferent editors, from all over the state, were in attendance. After the business of the association was all transacted, an invitation from President Angell to visit the Michigan University was accepted, and at precisely half-past two o'clock that large body of wise men started for said institution, and there spent the time very pleasantly until six o'clock, when the President announced that supper was ready, and soon all were seated at the well loaded tables.

Prof. Langley gave a scientific lecture upon the electric light, demonstrating to the fullest degree all that has yet been achieved in this popular branch of science. The exhibition was intensely interesting. Tea was then served in one of the class rooms of the main building, where a most bountiful and excellent repast was refreshingly and strengthening to many weary travelers from afar, followed by remarks from President Angell, and numerous members of the Press, interspersed with capital singing of college songs by one of the University Glee Clubs.

The party was invited to the lecture-rooms for the literary classes, where tables were spread for about 100 guests. Grace was asked by Rev. Prof. Cocker. The food consisted of oysters, raw and scalloped, cold ham, crackers, biscuits and butter, cake of three kinds, pickles, tea and coffee, ice cream; the latter was the most delicious "frozen pudding" we ever saw dealt out abundantly on so public an occasion.

The people of Ann Arbor were to the last degree hospitable and the Faculty showed their knowledge of the University to the inspection of the visitors, by an enjoyable tea, and by granting the use of one of the lecture rooms for the evening session of the association. Even such a passing glance at the University showed that it was doing a grand and good work. One of the greatest needs of the institution is endowments; and certainly the time has arrived when the wealthy citizens of Michigan should strive to perpetuate their names by connecting them with the buildings and the professorships of the University.

Now a few words to President Angell and the citizens of Ann Arbor: By your courtesy and kind hospitality, there perhaps never was a gathering more beautifully and pleasantly arranged and conducted than the one that we have just had. From the time that the members arrived at the depot, to their return were treated with the most kind and friendly manner. At the depot we were met by delegations of citizens with carriages in waiting to take us to the Court House, and then at the buildings and to dine with each member was passed over to some citizen who escorted him to his residence where every thing was done to make them comfortable and feel at home as could be. At the University we were friendly met by the faculty officers of the institution and shown every particular of its workings. On the whole we all felt that we were deeply indebted to the citizens of Ann Arbor for the kindness received from them in all that beautiful city.

The visit to the University was most happily planned. President Angell, who has had a fine experience in the editorial chair of a most prominent eastern journal, knew the opportunity of a visit to the University of Michigan an insight into her greatest institutions, through the medium of the press.

The library should be increased in number of volumes to at least 150,000. A library building should be built for library purposes alone, capable of accommodating the large number of students who seek information from its shelves. There are at present about 1,400 students pursuing study at the University, not one-twentieth of whom can be accommodated in the present library.

There are the large hearted, liberal men of wealth of Michigan on this question of the needs of the University? Well did Dr. Angell say, "here is an opportunity for the future." Let some millionaire send a hundred or two hundred dollars into a University library fund.

A WOMAN ON THE STAND.

Miss Magnesia's evidence in a case at Court. An important case of assault and battery, Shanks vs. James, was up for consideration before Judge Lytle, the District Justice of the Peace, Miss Artemesia Pipes, the principal witness, indeed the only one of any importance in the case, was preparing to give her evidence.

"You're a good girl," said the Judge, "but you're a little nervous. Don't let it show. You'll do better if you just tell the truth as you see it. You'll do better if you just tell the truth as you see it. You'll do better if you just tell the truth as you see it."

The Moot Congress of the University. —This organization instituted by members of the Law Department some time ago, is making very rapid progress, and furnishes a splendid opportunity for gaining information not only in parliamentary but constitutional law. —The house is composed of one hundred members representing the different states of the Union, and the officers are elected for a term of four weeks. —At the first election of officers W. C. Hudson of Ohio was chosen Speaker on third ballot, and at the expiration of his term of office he was re-elected to the same position on the first ballot. —He is a very fine looking man of light complexion is about six feet in height, well proportioned and easy in manners making an admirable appearance. —His politics are democratic but not a bitter partisan, and has always had the reputation here of a man with unblemished character, and good judgment. —His executive ability is not often excelled and his knowledge of parliamentary law as shown by his rapid and correct application of it; and his firm but unpartisan ruling is to be admired by all. —The address delivered by him upon taking the chair, was said to have been as fine as ever given by any student in the University. —Stewart C. Y. Y. the clerk of the house is a good writer a good reader and fills the position with honor. A. D. Dewell, Michigan the sergeant-at-arms is the well known athletic champion of the senior class and at his command, eye, even at his appearance order is brought out of confusion. —Among the members on the floor of the house we are scarcely able to mention the leaders at present as it has generally been nip and tuck. However we might mention occasionally but it is generally well known ere he resumes his seat. —Melkjohn of Wis. may be named for parliamentary tactics and force of argument always produced in defense of his position. —Shaw of Oregon is noted for his bull dog pluck and wire pulling as well as his commendable manner of argument. —Wichie of Minn. is not to be left without mention; he is small in stature but is known as a rapid thinker, and often rouses the whole house by his fiery eloquence and from the bill introduced by him at last meeting we should judge he meant death to Mormonism in the U. S. —Congress Reporter. L. C. M. —The University. —The University Athletic association have challenged the Racine (Wis.) high kickers to a game of foot ball, to be kicked at Ann Arbor; also to have a tournament in June. —The twelfth annual reunion of the Phi Delta Phi secret society, of the university of Michigan, will take place at Ann Arbor, on Friday, February 20, The annual session of the Grand Chapter will then be held, and a banquet will be furnished by Kent Chapter. —An organ of no pathy the Argos would be remiss in its duty did it fail to criticize Prof. Wilson's welcoming address to the editorial fraternity, and rebuke him for permitting such disrespectful allusion to an honored and revered professor, connected with the university since 1852, as appeared upon the blackboard in the homeopathic room. Prof. Wilson has not been long enough in his seat to give it comfortable warmth, yet he improves the first opportunity to inject into an address to the editorial fraternity a slap at all organs, which was in very bad taste. Upon the board a few feet behind him was a sentence "keep your eyes wide open" or words to that effect, inviting attention of publishers to what appeared on the other side, in full view to visitors passing down stairs just behind the board. The following written in excellent hand was observed: "Old plus bromide of potassium says that all homopaths are fools. He ought to be a good judge for he has lived with a fool all his life. Old plus bromide of potassium equals Palmer." There was beside a caricature of the professor. Allusions of this shameful character to so eminent a gentleman as Dr. Palmer ought to result in expulsion of the student from the university, and a reprimand by the regents of the professor who must have known it was there, and if repeated without due diligence to discover the writer, the professor himself should be invited to resign. The homeopathic department does not stand any too high now, and the fighting propensities of its professors should be held in check during a visit from gentlemen abroad, who must have thought strange of the indiscreet utterance of the new professor, and vulgar allusion upon the blackboard to a distinguished gentleman. —Manchester. —Manchester, Feb. 2. —Interest in the temperance cause seems to be reviving here. —The German Workmen's Aid Society advertise a grand ball to come off soon. —Friday evening a club dance was held at Goodyear hall, and was well attended. —Dr. Stowell who has been spending several months in Kansas, returned Friday last. —Main St. was again visited by one of those itinerant, cure-all medical vendors, Saturday afternoon. —W. H. Pottle has been having the 24 floor of his block fitted up to be used as a carpet room, intending to put in a $2,000 stock. —A surprise party was given to Prof. Field Saturday night—a party of one, a nine-pounder, a future voter, and, we presume, a Democrat. —Joe McMahon has rented the Goodyear house to a German, inexperienced in the business. We hope the house will be as well managed in the future as it was during landlord Stone's stay here. —B. F. Conklin, son of Dr. A. Conklin of this village, completed his course at the Cincinnati Medical College a few days ago, and has returned to Manchester and will go into practice with his father. —The concert given by Mrs. Miller a week ago Friday evening was a success in all respects. Mrs. M. is pronounced one of the best singers in the state, and was supported by the best musical talent in town, thus rendering the entertainment one of the finest of the kind Manchester was ever favored with. —The discovery of the circulation of the blood was an important event in the history of medicine; but if the blood be full of impurities, its circulation, which Providence intended as a blessing, proves a bane. Hence we should cleanse the blood with Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup. —6-2

Watershoot, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. —The Baptist society will be at the residence of Mrs. O. M. Smith Wednesday evening. Extensive preparations are being made to make it a pleasurable and financial success. —Richard McLean of Lima, who has been in feeble health of late, was taken with a violent attack of hic-coughing Friday which proved nearly fatal, lasting over six hours; he still lives in a precarious condition. —The band elected W. W. Wait secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. I. Keal. The following compose the rest of the officers—Pres. J. H. Eaton. Treas. David Waite. Business manager, DeForest Litchfield. —"It said the bear came out Monday and seeing the reflection of his prodigious proportions upon the ground crept back with a shiver into his subterranean retreat, to escape the cold weather which superstitious people say will undoubtedly follow. —A couple of our school boys occupied their leisure time by indulging in a fight a few evenings ago. Their pugilistic labors seemed equally crowned with success, as one gazed rather demurely upon the others demolished countenances through a pair of very high colored eyes, when mutual consent had separated the twain. There will probably be two vacant seats for a while in the school. —Mr. Fred Gross, of Lima, was quietly admitted a member of the long array of Beneficents last week, and very unwisely forgot to "set 'em up" to the boys, but the boys did not forget him, and the other night when he was peacefully dreaming, all unconscious of what was going on without, his peaceful slumber was interrupted by a chorus of yells, intermingled tin horns, cow bells and other noisy instruments. He was at first inclined to be angry, but a look at the determined faces around him convinced him of the uselessness of such folly, and accordingly with smiles he did the "fair thing" by them, who congratulating him departed in good spirits. —Half a dozen young men living a short distance from town, not being satisfied with the termination of a row at a dance, a short time since, and learning that several of their former antagonists intended visiting a debate at a school house near by, that evening, started out with blood in their eyes and revolvers in their pockets for the scene of action. Arriving there the debate came to an untimely end by the commencement of a wholesale fight, several blows were exchanged, revolvers drawn, but no serious damage done. Perhaps it would appear much better for those gentlemen to resort to more peaceful methods to settle their disputes in the future and leave such warlike demonstrations to the uncivilized inhabitants of the far west. —Sylvan. —CHELSEA, Feb. 5. —W. J. Knapp who has been to Florida on a wedding trip returned last night. —Mrs. Warren of Ann Arbor will address the Reform club Sunday afternoon at the club room. —O. R. Clark sold his property here last week and left for Kansas with some other families from Kent county. —The masonic fraternity had a supper at their hall last Tuesday night which was well attended and much enjoyed. —The Chelsea village board is considering an ordinance to suppress lilyard and pigeon hole tables in public places and all gaming. —The going is some better here and wheat, barley, oats and pork have begun coming to this market again after the long dull time we have had. —Rev. H. P. Ross lectured to the Reform club last Sunday night and gave good satisfaction. His oil paintings add great interest and effect and every club that can, should secure a lecture from him. —The rush still continues and crowds come from all directions to secure the great bargains that are offered at Mack & Schmidt's and which have created an excitement unparalleled in the annals of the dry goods trade in this city. —FARM FOR SALE OF 160 ACRES, Or will divide it if parties wish in 80 acre lots. A Novel Vehicle.

An English publication contains an illustrated description of a curious vehicle which was one of the novelties of the late Royal Agricultural Show. It is called the omnium from two Greek words meaning 'all-running' and is described as a horse-drawn carriage that carries and lays its own track.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

Crane style—An open fire-place. It is a little more in the plural is nice. The plural of house should be certainly nice.

His Humble Opinions. This other night about ten o'clock a constable, who was walking up Maple street on business, was halted by a weak-looking little man who was a bit grumpy.

ABOUT a year ago a prisoner was brought from one of the Territories into the United States and confined in the Detroit House of Correction with the warning that he was a desperate character and had boasted that he would 'run' the institution.

American Overlook.

One need not dwell upon the desirableness of calm and sedate habits of the individual, as with Nations, stirring periods of action are not favorable to an idealistic art.

As a solitary old man entered a railroad car with his wife at Truro, Cal., a flask of whisky fell from his pocket. A passenger picked it up and offered to return it.

A WITNESS in a case at Nashville was asked whether he had much experience in and knew the cost of feeding cattle, and to give his estimate of the cost of feeding a cow to a yearling.

A SONG OF NOTE.

My name is the Augustus Standish, I'm a charming man, I'll do you good and I'll do you harm, I'll do you good and I'll do you harm.
