A Musical Event.

The concert on November 26th in university hall will without doubt be the most enjoyable musical treat ever offered the residents of Ann Arbor. The reputation of the artists taking part is such as to render any comments on our part entirely superfluous. The programme to be given will show each and every artist to advantage and uulike most programmes of such combinations. It. is of the highest grade of artistic merit. That the University Musical Society has the enterprise to secure such ar. tists, is an evidence of the spirit with which the musical affairs of our city will be conducted, and every public should support it by extending a liberal patronage.

New Jersey goes heavily democratic, the democrats gaining the legislature and one congressman. Cleveland's plurality will be over 7,000. The prohibition vote was light.

Harrison carries Vermont by 23,500: Colorado, 8,000; Maine, 23,000, Kansas, 42 plurality, Charles E. It looks as if Cleveland had a very small plurality of the popular vote, but so small is it, that if the election were to be decided by the popular vote it would be some days yet before it would be positively known how the country

Indiana is probably republican. Marion county gives Cleveland 400 majority. This is Harrison's home and it gave Blaine a plurality of 226 in 1884. Where they know him best, according to republican logic, they like him least. Nevada gives a republican plurality of 1,500.

California is doubtful. Cleveland has made heavy gains but probably not enough to carry the state. He carries San Francisco. The prohibition vote falls off from 1884. The democratic state committee claim the state by 2,000; the republicans by 7,000.

It is not yet known how the house of representatives will stand. Both sides are claiming it and it looks as if the majority either way would be less than ten. The republicans have gained a number of districts and the democrats have gained other districts. The republican gains have however been the most numerous.

THE RETURNS FROM MICHIGAN.

Michigan has gone heavily republican. Harrison carries the state by 20,000 and Luce by 10,000. Wayne county gives spirited citizen as well as music lovers Cleveland a plurality of 4,494 and Burt a plurality of 9,638. Saginaw county gives Cleveland 2,000 and Burt 2,300. The upper peninsula gives Harrison and Burt about 4,000.

The democrats lose two congressmen in the state, the republicans defeating Tarsney and Ford. Barnes made a fine run in the Lansing district but is defeated by 200. Bliss has 500 majority in Tarsney's district. Whiting is reelected by 500. The Idemocrats gained slightly in the legislature. The senate stands 21 republicans and 11 democrats the house stands 61 republicans and 39

Incomplete Figures for Citizens to Figure Out to Their Own Satisfaction or Dissatisfaction.

Harrison's Friends Claim New York, and The Herald and World Incline to Believe They are Right in Their Claim.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 .- The Herald this morning says: "At the hour of going to press with our first edition probabilities in-dicate the election of Gen. Harrison to the presidency. This opinion is based upon the dispatches received from all the states in Union, and which may be divided as folnecessary to elect, 201. "Conceding the votes of Connecticut and New Jersey to Mr. Cleveland and regarding Indiana, California and Nevada as doubtful, Gen. Harrison has a majority in the electroal college. The figures show the electron of David B. Hill as governor, and Hugh J. Grant as mayor. Mr. Hill has made a strong canvass. The nomination of Mr. Hewitt had the effect which his supporters represented by intended papers. principally intended—namely, the defeat of Mr. Cleveland by division of the Democratic forces in New York.

"The political lesson of the election is that the national supremacy of the Democratic party has been sacrificed to the ambition of David B. Hill and Abram S. Hewitt and the fact which Democrats throughout the country should lay to heart is that, in this game of politics, their possession of the imperial patronage of New York city is of far more importance than the government of the Union."
The Tribune this morning says: "The result in this state is not yet certain, but the prospect strongly favors a victory for Har-rison and Morton. The plurality for Cleve-land below the Harlem river instead of the 80,000 or 85,000 confidently expected by Democrats appears to be only about 70,000. Outside New York and Kings counties the Republican gains have thus far been steady with each additional report of election districts. The proportion of those gains at the hour of writing is such that if continued throughout the state they would insure the victory of Harrison and Monton electors by a hand one plurality. and Morton electors by a handsome plurality. Returns from other states justify the be-lief at the hour of writing that Harrison and Morton would have a majority of the electoral votes even without New York. Connecticut is now believed to have chosen Harrison electors. The friends of Gen. Harrison in the west confidently claim Indiana, though the returns are as yet necessarily incomplete. New Jersey returns do not look favorable, but there is as as yet no indica-tion that any other northern state has chosen Cleveland electors. With Indiana and Connecticut the Republican candidates would probably be elected even though the result in this state should disappoint the hopes based upon returns thus far received." The World says: "As this edition of The World goes to press (2 a. m.) the indications are that Harrison has carried the state of New York by a small plurality. The gains which he is making in the state promise to wipe out the 74,000 plurality for Cleveland on this side of the Harlem, and leave him a fair margin of 3,000 to 5,000. Upon this basis the election of Harrison and Morton must be conceded. The hope that a few western states may be added to the Democratic column can hardly be realized. Illinois, Michigan and California could only atone for the less of New York and Connecticut. Indiana is still in doubt, both parties claiming it. Connecticut has passed to the Republican column. New Jersey, which never fails the Democracy in a national contest, increases her plurality for Cleveland. But the Republicans have carried the day, and the party which, four years ago, triumphantly swept the country, bows to the decree."

The Times doesn't give it up, but says the Republican gains in this state are diminishing, and the state may yet be Democratic. It also claims Indiana, and thinks there is a chance for Illinois.

Connecticut Votes Coming out of the Box

Very Close. HARTTORD, Conn., Nov. 7.—Returns received up to midnight last night by The Evening Post from 114 towns show a Republican gain of 1,324 over the vote of 1884. The same ratio of gain in the remaining towns will give the state to Harrison by about 450. Both parties claim the state.

THE UNDOUBTED STATES.

They All Go as Heretofore by Majorities That Are Sufficient.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Figuring the relative gains of the presidential candidates it must be considered that in 1884 Butler received 24,000 votes in this state which are this year divided between the regular candidates. This makes it almost impossible to compute the respective gains or losses of the Republicans and Democrats with accuracy.

The result in the congressional districts in this state indicate that the Republicans have elected ten of the twelve congressmen.

The presidential vote of Boston complete is Harrison 27,312, Cleveland 36,159. Beard, Rep., for congress is defeated in the Third district. Candier, Rep., is elected in the Ninth, and Walker, Rep., in the Tenth. Boston, Nov. 7.—The Republicans claim a plurality of 35,000 in this state for Harrison. The Globe, Dem., concedes 30,000 to 32,000; and also concedes the election of ten Republican congressmen out of twelve.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Two hundred and eighty-six precincts outside of Cook county show net Republican gain in Illinois of 2,588. If maintained throughout the state Harrison's plurality will be about 25,000. Palmer, Dem., for governor shows large gains, but present figures indicate the election of Fifer, Rep., by about 5,000 to 8,000 plurality.

Judge Kinne presided at the last republican meeting in this city. Possibly he thinks his majority in this judicial district was due to the republicans.

MANY prohibitionists in this district put Allen slips on their ticket. The fact that Stearn's majority in this county was not up to that of Cleveland was largely due to this to hold a presidential election. Business interests would be best subserved by a change in the constitution making the presidential term six years.

proves the truth of the poets saying "what fools these mortals be."

The result of the campaign shows what we have always maintained that worth $1.50. Genuine bargains are readily appreciated 2t an educational campaign should be commenced before candidates are nominated, so that the average voter and look at the question at stake, with eyes not blinded by partisanship.

THE democratic party must take no backward step. Let it push the tariff reform issue and in four years more when the people will have become more awakened to the importance of the question that issue will sweep the country overwhemingly.

COUNTY Clerk Howlett develop. ed wonderful running powers. No special effort was made in his behalf and he had no workers at the polls. Yet his majority ran several hundred ahead of the ticket. This is as it should be. The people have testified their appreciation of a good county clerk.

THE back counties of New York show heavy republican gains. Had it rained in New York as it did here yesterday, the vote in those counties would have been much lighter, as the roads in those counties would have been almost impassable. If it had rained Tuesday, Cleveland might have carried New York. Cleveland ought to bounce Gen. Greely for not furnishing a heavy rain storm on that day.

THE republicans promised if they carried the state to pass a constitutional local option law. The legislature is strongly republican and the governor is a prohibitionist at heart. The republicans will seek to settle the temperance question this year and we should not be greatly surprised if they passed a prohibition law, which they would not submit to the people. They have the power to do it.

WE HAVE MET THE ENEMY. WE have met the enemy-we are theirs. That tells the whole story. Harrison is elected president of the United States. Grover Cleveland, who has made one of the very best presidents this country has ever had, has been relegated to private life. Harrison does not have a large major ity but he has sufficient to elect him. As usual the election hinges on New York and New York has given Harrison 10,000 plurality, while Hill the democratic candidate for governor has a plurality of 15,000. This s an odd result and indicates that at least suspicion may justly be thrown upon the New York executive who has been so vehemently charged with treachery to Cleveland. Again the quarreling New York democracy has lost a democratic president. Connecticut and New Jersey have gone democratic and Indiana and California are doubtful although they are probably republican. If the democrats, how. ever, have carried them, it will make no difference in the result. Harrison will be the next president.

The Cook's Run mines employ about 160 men, but for some reason, only twenty were at work on Saturday afternoon, when an explosion occurred, which resulted in the instant death of sixteen miners and the probable fatally injuring of three others.

The explosion took place in one of the many gas pockets of the mines about 250 feet from the opening. One miner, who was working some distance away, was blown through the air-shaft and his body was not found until 9 o'clock yesterday morning when it was discovered in a brush pile. Two others were hurled out at the mouth of the mine, and their lifeless bodies were found 170 feet from where they had been em-

Superintendent George Miller states that the explosion has a parallel only in the Poca-hontas mine disaster, and that the cause of it will, perhaps, never be learned. Hundreds of people from the neighborhood visited the scene of the disaster yesterday.

Fragments of clothing worn by the victims of the disaster are scattered among the limbs of the surrounding trees, some of them fifty feet above the ground. Five of the killed are Swedes, six Italians, two Irish and three Hungarians.

The following are the names of the killed: John Carlsen, aged 25; Charles Alman; John Anderson, aged 20; Martin Pierson, aged 50; Aaron Carlsen, aged 35; John Beckus, aged 28; Stephen Beckus, aged 32; Michael Marcy, aged 22; Sylvester Marcy, aged 20; Dom Closkey, aged 40; George Melleto, aged 32; Maurice Yanks, aged 27, and two unknown—all unmarried; Michael Curran, aged 87, wife and eight children; Patrick Donley, aged 55, wife and seven children.

PANIC IN A SEMINARY.

A Girls' School Burned and Its Occupants Badiy Frightened.

GODFREY, Ills., Nov. 5.—The Monticello seminary for Young Ladies was burned at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. There were 125 girls, a staff of teachers and a dozen female servants in the building when the fire broke out, all of whom narrowly escaped death. Between i2 and 1 o'clock the girls on the fifth floor were awakened by a suffocating smoke, and on opening their windows saw a red glare below them in the main building. The halls were filled with smoke, but the older students and the teachers bravel the danger resolutely, and staggered through the upper floors, arousing the girls and order-ing them to run for the rear stairway. The girls leaped out of bed in their nightclothes, and without trying to save even their wearing apparel fled screaming through the halls and down the stairways. Many of them showed rare presence of mind, but the majority were in a frenzy bordering on insan-The teachers proved equal to the crisis and bravely stood their ground until every student was rescued. When a government contemplated such a step the proper thing to do is to have the blockade first effected established and then to notify the maritime nations of the world that its ports are blockaded. This the Haytian government did not do. IOWA JOBBERS REJOICE.

Iowa Railway Commissioners Reaffirm Their Schedule of June 28.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 3.-The most important decision ever made by the Iowa railroad commissioners was filed Saturday morning in the case of the complaints of Davenport, Dubuque and Burlington job bers. The commissioners reaffirm their schedule of June 28 in the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth classes, and A, B, C, D, and E classes, with the addition of the lumber rates, in the Burlington case the western classification being adopted in lieu of the Illinois classification.

The decision is signed by Commissioners Smith and Campbell, Commissioner Dey refusing to sign on the ground that Mr. Wilde, of Davenport, secretary of the Twin Cities Freight association, in a letter dated Oct. 31, threatened him with the opposition of the jobbers unless he signed the decision by Friday, Nov. 2. "In this situation," says Dey, in a note to the press, "I am compelled by my feeling of self-respect to decline until after the election to give any expression of my views upon the subject."

The decision causes great rejoicing among the jobbers and manufacturers here, as it puts the commissioners' schedule in force despite the Brewer and Fairall injunctions.

Children Burn Up $900.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6 .- Mr. and Mrs. Gobe, of 1037 West Twenty-second street, met with hard luck Saturday afternoon when, by ac-cident, they lost the savings of years, amounting in all to $000. Mr. Gobe is employed in the malleable iron works, and when he went home from work Saturday he found his wife in great distress. She had placed their savings, which were in paper money, in an old stocking and hidden them under the bed. It was discovered by the children, who, after playing with the bills for some time, threw them in the stove. The money was almost entirely consumed before the accident was

A 16-Year-Old Counterfeiter.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.-Capt. Porter and the ecret service officers are engaged in a hunt for a lt-year-old counterfeiter who has thus far been successful in passing a number of poorly executed $5 bills. Wednesday evening the lad jumped on several State street cable cars, in each instance paying his fare with one of the bills. When he received the $4.95 in change he jumped off. The letter "t" in the line "payable to the bearer" was not crossed, and the letter "r" in "bearer" fell somewhat below the line. The bills had vignettes of Gen. Grant, which were coarsely executed.

Two Victims of Strong Drink. CHICAGO, Nov. 6 .- Mr. and Mrs. Burghall lived at 450 Austin avenue, this city. were both hard drinkers, and yesterday morning Mrs. Burghall, who had served several terms in the bridewell for drunkenness, died of chronic alcoholism. At nightfall the husbard, William Burghall, followed in a fit of apoplexy, which seized him when the news of the other's death was received. They leave two children, girls 13 and 7, and a son who is a young man.

Favorable to the Jobbers. DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 30 -A majority of the railroad commissioners have agreed upon a decision in the case of the jobbers and shippers against the railroads, and have sent the same to Chairman Dey, at Iowa City, for approval. It is understood to be favorable to the jobbers.

A Little Thing Like the One with the Sioux Will Have to Go.

Washington City, Oct. 23.—The negotiations between the Sioux and the government are at an end, and it is more than likely that congress at its next session will amend the Sioux act so as to provide for the opening of the great reservation without any further attempt to gain the consent of the Indians. The increasing demand of the west for more land for the settlers, and the fact that the Sioux can make no progress without the reduction of their reservation has convinced the authorities that public policy demands that no further attention should be paid to the treaties under which the Indians are constantly falling behind in their efforts to prevent the wiping out of the tribal relations.

An Indian Fight Apprehended.

STANDING ROCK AGENCY, D. T., Oct. 24 .-A dispatch was received here at noon yesterday conveying information that 200 Crow Indians were traveling in this direction to wage war with the Sioux. They were expected to arrive at Cannon Ball river, twenty miles below the agency, last night, and a fight is expected. The Crows have taken advantage of the Sioux while the leaders have been conferring at Washington. company of the Eighth cavalry, with a large force of Indian police, has already been dispatched to meet the attacking Crows.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it : hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity, of the Blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarasparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies, for a while, thinking the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alterative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being above all others, we used it with marvelous results. The sore healed and health and strength rapidly returned."

—J. J. Armstrong. Weimar. Texas.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time."—E. L. Pater, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"Ayer's medicines continue to be the standard remedies in spite of all competition."—T. W. Richmond, Bear Lake, Mich.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

W. H. Teller, a Bronson farmer, has lost five horses, valued at $1,000, within the past eighteen months. No one seems to have been able to diagnose the disease that carried 'em

Miss Sadie Owen, a young lady of Pontiac, broke a pair of fiery mustangs with her own hands, and then drove 'em over to Saginaw, a distance of sixty-five miles, to visit a lady friend of that city. There's a girl who can do something besides bang the piano.

A Saginaw lady avers she lost a railway ticket and $17 in cash in a store of that town, and now brings suit against the proprietor to recover damages. If she wins there'll probably be a general stampede in business circles.

Macomb comes smilingly to the front as the only county in the state that pays its entire state tax.

Mrs. Catherine Clark, a Big Rapids lady of 89 years, has nearly a baker's dozen of living children, the oldest of whom is 63, twenty-one grandchildren and twenty-five great-grandchildren. Her father died in his 100th year, while two sisters are living at the age of 87 and 93 respectively.

A Coopersville parson got himself into a warm climate by giving political advice from the pulpit. He'll know better than to try it again.

The ruthless plow has invaded an Indian cemetery, exposing aboriginal skulls and rela bead necklace sixteen feet in length.

George Loring, a Girard farmer, made 300 barrels of perfect winter apples as a reward for his labor.

W. P. Ainsley, postmaster at Williamston, was assaulted on the night of the 26th ult., and has disappeared. His accounts are supposed to be correct and no explanation accounts for his strange disappearance. He had held the office for the past eleven years. Farwell claims to grow the clay that makes the finestest brick in the state.

Rev. Samuel Sepions, who died at St. Johns recently at the mature age of 83, had devoted 56 years of his life to the ministry 43 of which were spent in Michigan.

White the East Saginaw police were napping the other night, burglars drilled a safe on Washington avenue and abstracted the cash contents therefrom. The safe stood within two inches of the plate glass front, the moon shone brightly and the glare of the electric lights danced merrily, and yet not a soul discovered the robbery until the sun was peering above the eastern horizon. Don't send your duns on postal cards. It's not the proper caper, and the law says it isn't legal. A Sparta merchant tried it, and now wishes he hadn't, as the simple act has brought him a whole heap of trouble.

The climate of Muskegon seems to be favorable for the production of strawberries and sawdust. But that's not all. Michael Cowley, of that city, has taken the $150 prize, offered by a Philadelphia seedsman, for the largest cabbage grown in the United States, It weighed 621/4 pounds,

The steamer C. P. Fish was burned in the Saginaw river on the 27th ult. All the passengers were rescued.

Some Unadilla chap seems to have developed a passionate fondness for celery. A farmer of that place had a whole half-acre of the esculent stolen in a single night.

East Saginaw capitalists are skirmishing around the Flushing coal fields in the exectation of discovering a place for profitaole investment.

The F. & P. M. railway is short at least 200 cars with which to handle its business, but as other railways are pretty much in the same fix, they are unable to borrow of their neighbors, and shippers continue to use em-phatic language because their freight doesn't move on time.

A Dansville man who marched with Sherman to the sea and did his share toward making the Johnnie's capitutate, came home when the "cruel war" was over, married and settled down to the joys of domestic happiness, but was disappointed by the unfaithful-ness of his wife, is now living a bermit's life in the woods not far from that town. He lives in a 10x12 cabin, cooks his own grub and works for neighboring farmers just nough to support himself panion— a maltese cat.

Some years ago Joel W. Hamilton effected a sale of the Ann Arbor Register for Prof. Frothingham, and claimed a compensation refor of $1,28 —but didn't get it. Then Joel sought the assistance of the circuit court, recovering judgment for the amount, but the supreme court kicked over his Jersey dish. Twice since them has the game been played over with the same results, the last decision of the Lansing tribunal being rendered a few days ago.

After duly considering the matter the supreme court says the Cleveland Iron Mining company pay Mrs. Andrew Halsby $5,000 on account of her husband's death by a mine accident in 1875. Delta avenue, at Gladstone, is one of the finest paved streets in the state, and yet that town isn't two years old.

The big $300,000 damage suit of C. H. Plummer, against East Saginaw parties, on account of non-fulfillment of a lumber contract, resulted in a judgment of $5,000.

Fire damaged Hodges' iron works at Hancock $15,000 worth on the 26th, Insurance, If Orin Safford, an old-timer of Flint, is while her parests were away from home, but getting too near the stove her own clothing caught fire, burning her in a horrible manner. She died in great agony twenty-four hours later. Burglars made the circuit of New Boston business houses and raked in a snug wad in cash, and a lot of other truck. Whoever will bring back the perpetrators can have $100 and no questions asked.

V. V. Bidwell, of Waldron-Bidwell nono longer sells groceries, but is running a harness shop instead.

An Ypsilanti student lugged off a gate on hallow'een, and it wasn't a very good gate, either, but he paid a $15 fine for his fun just An East Saginaw man was awakened the out of bed to investigate, alighting on a burglar's back. But the burglar didn't care to get acquainted, and throwing his rider to the floor, leaped from an opon window and vanished in the darkness.

Martin McNearney, the Mud Lake man at full who was convicted of keeping a house of unsavory reputation and sentenced to spend three years at the Jackson prison, has failed to show up at that institution. Crooked to show up at that institution. Crooked "It is or no use to argue the question, work on the part of Alcona county's sheriff Philip, I am neither stubborn nor opinionated, is suspected.

The chap who hallow'eened the depot safe lifetime.' at Saranac got just 38 cents for his trouble. The Grand Rapids man who suspected his wife of being unfaithful and got a detective to help him watch their home on a recent dark night is altogether sick of his conduct. The wife seeing the men outside, sallied these so called 'blood purifiers'—the kind the called 'blood purifiers'—the kind the called 'blood purifiers'—the forth with a shillalah and gave 'em both a good drubbing.

Mr. Fisher charges that his wife circulated scandalous stories about him and an innocent young woman living in the household, and even went so far as to give such stories circulation through a newspaper. One evening in November, 1885, Mr. Fisher states that his wife "began to talk at him," and continued the Caudle lecture until ailments they ever have. #### A Lake Sailor Drowned.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Nov. 3.—The schooner McLaren arrived Friday evening with her colors at half-mast, and reports that a Norwegian sailor named Johnston, near Point Betsy, fell from the main cross-tree Thursday, striking the rail, and bounding over the side. He disappeared in the vortex. The vessel made an effort to rescue him, but could not succeed.

THE NEW CHARGE D'AFFAIRES.

Something About His Philanthropic Mother-His Coming Marriage.

Washington City, Nov. 5.—Lady Herbert, mother of the Hon. Michael Herbert, recently appointed charge d'affaires of the British legation here, is the guest at Doughergan manor, Maryland, of ex-Governor and Mrs. Carroll. Lady Herbert is an authoress of European celebrity. She is the mother of ten children, her eldest son being the earl of Pembroke. She is devoting her talents and a large part of her income to charitable and religious work amongst the colored race, and, as an evidence of her earnestness in this respect, she gives the proceeds of the rental of her London house to the support of an orphanage of eighty children in London. The marriage of Mr. Herbert will take place in New York city on Nov. 27. The bride-elect is Miss Wilson, and after their wedding journey they will come to this city, where Lady Herbert will have provided a suitable establishment for them. Lady Herbert has a large circle of American acquaintances, and her tour in this country will be replete with interest, both socially and in other ways.

ABERDEEN, D. T., Nov. 5 .- Hiram Baker, a farmer, living near Bath, came to this city and reported a terrible fight he had with a maniac named Place. Thursday night Place and Baker slept together at the latter's place.

About midnight Place, who had acted strangely for some days, became violently insane and attacked Baker in the dark, swearing he would kill him. After receiving a number of blows with a chair, and having his face and hands terribly scratched and bitten, Baker escaped and fled to the house of a neighbor, followed by the lunatic with a hatchet in his hands. Baker received shelter, and Place, who gave up the chase, is still at large.

KIT GRALE

By JAMES T. McKAY.

Hilbury harbor-a little old house by the water ride. Sunset, the 1st of June. He sat in the open door, looking out. Be-fore him lay the reach of quiet water, winding away to the right, between shaded grassy slopes, patches of rank salt grass and pebbly beach, to the bay and the sound beyond. Across the wooded ridge on the other shore, the golden light of the setting sun came flooding over his gray streaked head and fever worn old face. There came a weary, wandering look into his eyes, which sent no message to his brain of the pleasant summer Kit saw the strange expression in his face, through the door of the inner room where she was busy getting tea. That vague, unmeaning look was not strange to her, but only too familiar. Yet it pained her none the less for that. She saw that something must be done now; that he must be roused and set to work with a purpose, if this settled despondency was to be hindered from drifting into something worse. He was almost strong again. It was time to act.

She came through and leaned over his chair; laughed and chatted to him with a loving art; smoothed back his grizzled locks with a caressing touch. When he grew brighter she told him her plans for the future, used all a woman's tact and all the skill of love to brighten the doubtful prospect and incite to try once more the battle with fate in which he had been beaten already. She knew there was no use trying to move him by his own interest. He had no heart to try again, no desire for what he might gain. Only one motive was left by which she might move him-his love for her. To that she did appeal, earnestly, prevailingly. She argued her cause with skill and fervor, persuaded, reasoned, pleaded.

"Promise me, father." "Promise me, father," she finished, her face flushed with eagerness; "promise me you'll try. For my sake, father, for my

He got up and leaned against the door post. He looked away across the western hills to the matchless glory of the sunset clouds. The rich, deep glow fell full upon his face, and the face was firmer and more manful than it had been for months, more like the face of the happy old time that was gone forever. He turned toward Kit then, and said, slowly and solemnly, "God help me, Kit, I will!"

That night they discussed their plans and prospects, and resolved what had best be done first. Kit saw her father brighter and more hopeful than for many a day, and knew that to keep him so he must be kept in action. So it came about that they made the little necessary preparation for Grale to go to the city in the morning. It was rare pleasure to Kit to see how he strove against the gloomy inertia that had grown habitual with him since their troubles; to see him once more interested and thoughtful of the future. She lay down to rest that night, not anxiety, but with a thankful, happy heart.

Grale took the morning boat, Kit watching him off and wishing him safe back. He missed her cheery voice and smile when he was gone; he was feeble yet, in mind and body. The old weary, stolid feeling stole upon him again, while the steamer plowed on down the sound, through the river, and ran in to the wharf.

He turned into Ship street and walked along slowly, watching the shipping at the wharves. It was a sight very familiar to his eyes. Many and many a time he had walked there and watched the same strange, bustling scene, when his step was quick and strong, and his blue eye bright with the light of hope and the pride of life. But times were sadly changed since then, and be was another man. Street and shipping and busy life were pretty much what they had been years before. There was the very pier before him where he had moored the Flying Fish a hundred times. But a strange schooner lay in her old berth now, and John Grale stood there a broken man-broken in He stopped and looked about him awhile at the familiar surroundings, and the memories of the old time came thronging upon him very sadly. He stood irresolutehad no heart to go on.
"It ain't no use," he muttered. "They're all gone now-all gone. There was George went first on that cursed reef, an' that was hard enough, God knows. I wish I'd 'a drowned along of him that night. there was poor Emily went after her brother, an' now the Fish is gone, too, with the rest. It's late in the day to begin it all over again -it ain't worth the while a-tryin'."

He leaned against a wall a while in gloomy abstraction. But after a little he started up with a changed expression, put his hand vaguely to his head, then muttered again, as one who suddenly recovers a broken thread

"Yes, yes, I forgot. I remember now. No-not all gone, not all. That's what I said to Kit. An' Kit, she said, wouldn't I try for her sake. Ay, Kit, I've you left, anyway; an' you're worth any man's working for, late or early. Yes, yes, I promised an' I will-for your sake, Kit, for your sake!"

He started on then more briskly than before, with an evident purpose in his gait—down Ship street, up Bullion lane. It was summer time, and the sun glowed hot and sultry on the bricks and stones. The human tide rolled onward up the street, went swirling and eddying round and round him. He found the number he wanted, 200, and went up to the second floor where the office was.

* Was Mr. Wyckel in? He was; would the gentleman walk into his private office! Grale went in. The lawyer sat at his desk, writing rapidly, his head screwed round to one side to clear his eyes of the smoke of the cigar which was always between his teeth. As Grale entered, he looked up keenly from under his brows, without lifting his head, his hand still driving the pen. His eyes dropped again. He scratched and puffed on to the end of his sentence, his bead all the while screwed awry. He sat up

"Ah, John! it's you, is it? How do you

He got up, put the pen between his teeth, and offered his band.
"What's the news?" he asked, behind the

"How's all the folks in Hilbury? You ain't just looking like Samson yourself,

"Pretty well, sir; pretty well, thank'e. Not much news, I reckon. Hilb'ry's pretty much what it was when your father had the Pine Hill place. But what I come in today, Mr. Wyckel, was to see if you couldn't help me in a little matter o' business."

He took the pen from his teeth, replaced it with the cigar, and sat down, relapsed at once from his cordial appearance of interest in an old acquaintance and his early country

"You want legal advice, I suppose," he said. "Take a chair. Let me hear your case."
"No," Grale answered. "I don't want no advice, I want money."

"Oh, money, eh? Well, let's hear," said

"I'll tell ye how 'tis," Grale went on. "Ye know I been a many year now a runnin' packet 'tween Hilb'ry an' town, I started in a little sloop, the Lapwing, forty-seven in '89. We got along pretty well, an' laid by enough in five year to sell out an' buy the You know the Fish, Mr. Wyckel? You come down in her with me once for a lark, I recollec', when you was a young feller in old Joe Grapple's office."

"Yes, yes, I know the Fish well enough," said the lawyer impatiently. "Get to the point, John. Come to the business."

"Well, I will, sir, fast as I can. But ye might gim me a little time, Mr. Wyckel, for old times' sake. Well, as I was a-sayin', we kep' the Fish a-goin' pretty tight through the season, year an' year, an' never heerd but we give good satisfaction-tried to, anyway. We was misfortinate some years—bought on a venture sometimes and lost, or the Fish would carry away somethin' in a blow. But takin' one year with another we couldn't complain, an' managed to lay by somethin' handsome, case of anything should happen. But the tide turned in '49, an' the ebb's left me in pretty shoal water. My wife Emily died in '50, an' that was a hard blow, though Kit and me bore up the best we could. But since then, seems as if everything went wrong. I bought hay of the farmers on a spec' one winter, an' it went down a third on my hands. Then a lubberly Brexam schooner went an' run into us in the Gate, an' cost me more'n I could well spare to repair, lettin' alone losing the freights of four reg'lar trips in the drivin'st time o' year. Then they went and started that infernal propeller on my route and I was fool enough to try to fight 'em off. But it wasn't no use, as I might 'a Sheet an' sail ain't no sort o' a match for steam and screw. But I had got reckless like; didn't care; didn't stop to think or count. I fought 'em desperate; carried for half what it cost me to run the schooner; carried for anythin' or for nothin' rather than let the stuff go to the Dreadnought. Week after week the bank book dwindled more and more. Kit tried an' tried to git me to hold on to what we had, an' try some other place. But I was mad an' a fool, an' kep' on, losin' regular every trip. "Well, ye see, that couldn't last for-ever. One week I come home an' there wasn't no more money at the bank. But I wouldn't stop even then. We had passed the Dreadnought on our way up, an' Delevan an' his crew chaffed us as they went by and give three cheers for the Dyin' Fish. I couldn't stan' that, no how. I swore I'd take freights free the next day she loaded, an' I did. I borryed what I could from the farmers an' took a full load that day anyway. Delevan laughed on the other side of his mouth that night-ha, ha!

"But that was my last trip. I couldn't borry no more money-couldn't pay what I had borryed. They come down on me; got a 'tachment on to the Fish, an' sold me up. She went for a song, poor thing! to Ben Egerley, of Northhaven, and after sheriff, constable and lawyers — no offense, Mr. Wyckel-had got all they could lay their hands on, there was just enough to pay the loan, an' ten dollars an' a quarter to me. I don't exactly remember just what happened since: I been a little wild, I think, for some time—a little wrong, you know. I wouldn't 'a cared so if 't hadn't been for the I'd got so used to her ways, ye see, sir; I come to feel to her like she was alivelike she was human. I ain't so young as I was once, Mr. Wyckel an' it's hard work rowin' up stream when you've got so far down. If it wasn't for Kit, sir, I think I'd 'a gone an' drowned myself when they sold the Fish. Ye see, I wasn't just right in my head. But my Kit's the best girl, sir, an' the handsomest. She never give me one hard word for all my crazy folly. 'Father,' she says, 'we've been misfortinate, but we mustn't You've had hard times, father,' she says, 'but you must keep a good heart. must bear up an' try again. You'll try, father, won't you,' says Kit, 'for my sake? An' Ispromised her I would, sir, an' God help me, I will!

"An' that's what I've come about today. sir. I don't know how 'tis, but somehow I can't bear to think of goin' on the water under another man, after bein' master so long in the Fish. Howsever there's a bit of land on Kensel Point that a cousin of ours left to Kit some years ago. We'd try an' sell off part of it to start on the rest with the money, but Kit she promised that she'd never sell it as long as she lived. So I've come to ask you, sir, to lend us five hundred to start with. We'll give you a mortgage on the place, an' I think we can pay you the interest regular, an' clear it all off in three years. Kit an' me made some calculations 'long of the crops, an' I'm pretty sure we can promise that safe enough. I've brought the deeds of the place so you can see it's all clear." The lawyer took the papers, examined them carefully, and said: "This is all straight, I believe, John, I know the farm, I think—the old Haliberton place, isn't it, on the harbor side of the Yes; that's it," Grale answered. "You'll be easy on us in the terms, Mr. Wyckel, for the sake of old times?"

"I'll make it right," said Wyckel. "You know these things must be done according to rule and custom." He stepped into the outer office and spoke to one of the clerks:

"Mr. Marshal, will you take a mortgage and fill it out according to this deed? take a blank with interest, assessment and insurance clauses. And make it twenty days' default, at 7 per cent.-for five hundred at three years. Abraham Wyckel knew perfectly well that rule and custom made a mortgage from thirty to sixty days' default; but his rule and custom was to get all he could and give as little as the law would let him. Once he had been an impulsive, generous boy. Now he was a hard man, and none the less for the mask of urbanity which he commonly wore. Through years and years of perpetual reference to the letter of the law—years of familiarity with, and continual use of, its inevitable errors and emissious, whereby it may be, and daily is, warped from the support of simplest justice—the habit had grown upon him of measuring all questions of right and wrong by code then, took the cigar from his mouth, and and statute, and, in business transactions, of using the same, either by an extreme construction or technical evasion, and always in the most strictly legal form, in such a manner as to give him the best of the

> Yet the world called him an upright man, and so he was, as the world reads. He knew that nothing pays a man so well, in money value, as sound credit and a good reputation So he was honest in his dealings, within the limits of the statute of frauds, and his word as good as his bond, provided you took it in the strictest possible sense, and stripped it of all meaning which, though generally understood as attaching to the phrase, could not in > strictness be proved to be expressed. The clerk came in presently with the mort-gage duly filled out. Grale took it and commenced to read. But he soon became confused and thoroughly befogged in the copious verbiage and endless replication of the form. "I suppose it's all square, Mr. Wyckel," he said, looking up. ruefully; "but I can't make head nor tail on't. But ain't it a little stiff, sir—just a little stiff?"

And when he came to read the accompanying bond for a thousand, he was fairly trightened, and could hardly be reconciled to it, though Wyckel explained to him that the whole amount could not be collected, but only the actual debt; and that the bond was only used to make the lender more secure.

"Well, well," he said, shaking his head doubtfully, "I suppose you know best. But I don't see it clear for that. Mebbe ye might 'a been a little easier on us, for the sake o' old friends. But I can't go back on it now. I give my word to Kit, and I'll go through with it, fair or foul. But it looks a'mighty squally to wind'ard, an' Mr. Wyckel, like 't

'ould come on a blow 'fore we're through,"
"Well, John," the lawyer answered, "if you don't want the money, we can put this blank in the fire, you know. But business must be done on business principles. If you say the word, I'll send and have the title searched. Then I'll drop you a note, and you can have the papers signed properly by your daughter, bring them down and get the money."

He rose then, bowed Grale out politcly, and went back to his writing and his eigar. A week or two later Grale received a note from the lawyer, went down with the papers duly signed and attested, and received the money. He was not a little astonished when Wyckel deducted more than a tenth for ex-He was not a little astonished when pense of search, drawing up the forms and postage. The Hotels of Switzerland.

The thousand and two hotels and lodging houses above referred to represent a capital of $60,000,000, one quarter of which consists in furniture, fittings and other movable effects. The gross yearly receipts are about $10,000,000, most of which is gathered in between May and October. The number of employes, male and female, required to carry on this vast system of entertainment amounts to over 16,000.

The Swiss hotel waiter is a type of himself. He generally speaks three, often four languages, anticipates the stranger's every want, is always at hand when the bell rings, is neat in his dress and appearance and amiable and courteous in demeanor and receives the parting guest's pourboire with an expression of mute thankfulness which is invariably gratilying to the donor.

In most regards it may be said that the Swiss are the model hotel keepers of the world. The general introduction of eleva-tors and electric bells has done away with almost the last vestige of any objection by even the most fastidious travelers. The table, cuisine and cellar of any first class Swiss hotel cannot certainly be surpassed anywhere. The landlord lays tribute upon every quarter of the continent, in order to provide an acceptable menu for his guests. Thus we find that the annual importation of wines for the Swiss hotels alone foots up $700,000; of poultry, $400,000; of fresh fish, $250,000; of canned goods, $200,000; of coffee, tea and sugar, $250,000; while even so comparatively trivial an article as table oil for salads figures as high as $40,000 in the list of imports. figures are interesting, as showing on what a scale this immense Swiss hotel business is conducted.—Consul Catlin's Zurich Letter in Philadelphia Times.
