

Hot weather is bearable or exceedingly annoying, according to the condition or state of one's mind.

We would not advise Ulsters as the proper wearing apparel for these beautiful June days, and then expect your mental faculties to temper the heat to your overburdened body, but would suggest a Serge or Mohair Coat, a Duck or Marseilles Vest, a Manilla Hat, and Negligee Shirt, all of which, in endless variety, can be found at the Star Clothing House—then, with a mind equally cool, you are prepared for old Sol's fiercest rays.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Celebrated at Whitmore Lake, Dexter and Ann Arbor.

ARRESTED FOR GRABBING LITTLE GIRLS.

The Little Boys Think a Man Tried to Abduct Them.—Other News of a Dull Week.

The Fourth in Ann Arbor.

The Fourth was celebrated in Ann Arbor by the Landwehr Unterstuetzungs Verein at Relief Park with a flag dedication. The procession formed at the rink and proceeded to the park headed by the Detroit band, the Ann Arbor Rifles forty strong, the Detroit company of the Landwehr, the Arbeiter Verein, the Schwaebischen Verein and the Landwehr company. Patriotic speeches were made by Mayor William G. Doty and P. G. Suekey. A display of fireworks was made in the evening.

About 150 Ann Arbor people went to Dexter to attend the celebration there and reported a very enjoyable time.

A special train of open coal cars with plank seats took several hundred to Whitmore Lake, while a number of others went on the earlier train.

A number of our citizens had private fireworks.

The Celebration at Dexter.

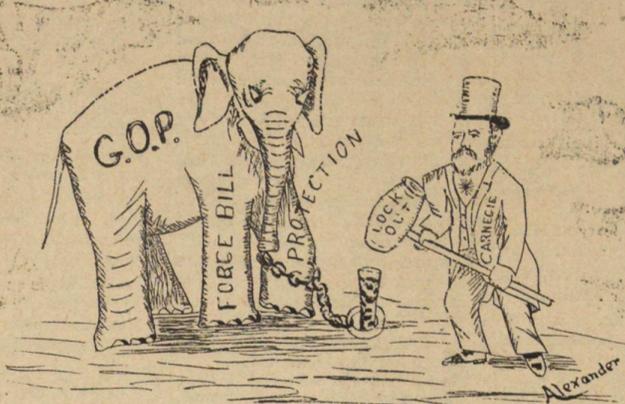

Early in the morning the people from the surrounding country and neighboring towns began to arrive and at ten o'clock, the hour set for the parade, the streets were filled with a noisy, happy crowd the numbers of which were momentarily increasing.

The procession appeared on Baker street about 10:30 and was the most unique and interesting ever seen here. It was a departure from the ancient form in every respect and most emphatically a credit to the ladies of whose industry and genius it was a production. Following the Dexter Band came the carriage containing the speakers and officers of the day; this was followed by an old fashioned carriage in which we find on the box a colored coachman; in the carriage, George and Martha Washington; next a beautifully decorated wagon upon which Miss Kate Krause represented "sunrise;" following this a wagon bearing Miss Minnie Rieder as Goddess of Liberty. The representation was Washington ushering in the sunrise of American liberty. Following these were the Peaked Sisters, while swarming around the wagons were a score of little chaps in costume, who represented the "brownies" on a frolic. The displays by the business men were all very fine, original, and formed no small part of the procession.

The exercises at the park were held immediately at the close of the procession. The Declaration of Independence was excellently read by Mr. J. E. Eagen. The orator of the day, Hon. Geo. H. Sleanor, of Alpena, upon his introduction by the president, Mr. C. S. Gregory, was received with a burst of warm applause. Mr. Sleanor's address was a masterpiece, and as such we prefer to let it remain in the memory of the hundreds who heard it—not destroy so valuable a gem by a garbled attempt at reproduction. The games and amusements that formed the program for the afternoon were an attraction and gave plenty of excitement to those whose systems craved the tonic. In the evening a large crowd lingered to see the fireworks which were a brilliant closing of the gala day.—Dexter News.

The Fourth at Whitmore Lake.

A still larger crowd than last year attended the Fourth of July picnic at Whitmore Lake under the auspices of St. Patrick's church, Northfield, and as most of those present last year were present this year, the attendance was good proof that Rev. Fr. Goldrick's efforts as an entertainer were greatly appreciated. The exercises of the day opened with a speech by Mayor Doty. The mayor was in good voice and his speech soon caught the audience, who applauded it vigorously. He highly complimented the township upon its annual custom of celebrating the Fourth, and in round periods referred to the declaration of independence and the self evident truth "that all men are created equal," a truth which sprang from the heart.

Carnegie Locks Out the Republican Elephant From the Presidential Race by Proving That a High Tariff Does Not Raise Wages.

It was the homely affairs of life, when heart goes out to heart, that bears witness to our common equality. He hoped that the time would come when every township would annually celebrate the Fourth.

Dinner was served from half past eleven until four. Loads of good things were devoured and loads of them were left.

At four o'clock the other exercises of the day began. Rev. Fr. Goldrick, the master of the ceremonies, opened with a few pleasing remarks and introduced William D. Healy, of Detroit, as "The Nate Little Bit of a Man." Healy is a comic singer of note and soon everyone was roaring over his song. As the audience insisted on encoring him Fr. Goldrick came to the front with the remark that "you can't bring people here and get every cent out of them and not give them any entertainment" and Healy sang "Just Wait and See McGuire," which was as good as his first song.

Prof. E. N. Bilbie sustained his high reputation as a violinist by playing two selections, the last in response to an encore, and earned the encomium Fr. Goldrick bestowed when he said that "Washtenaw county was noted for its food products, wheat and cereals, and we had now seen that it was not behind in producing musical genius."

George Pruneau, of Detroit, sang a Dutch comic song "At a Party Down at Michael Schneider's" and in response to a recall "Scissors to Grind."

Bruno St. James, of this city, sang a fine tenor solo, and responded to an encore with another one, both of which were well sung and well received.

William D. Healy sang "Down Went McGinty" and gave an imitation of a speech delivered by Mr. McGuire at the Grand Army Reunion in Boston.

The crowd again dispersed about the grounds, old friends entertaining each other, patronizing the stands for ice cream, soft drinks and cigars or buying chances on Bishop Foley's portrait or the $25 suit of clothes, shooting at targets, dancing, wandering about the lake for pond lilies or having a good time in a thousand and one ways. At five o'clock a blind-folded boy drew the numbers out of a hat and Ambrose Kearney secured the suit of clothes and the editor of the Argus the fine portrait of the bishop.

Arrested After a Struggle.

Deputy Sheriffs Peterson and Schall arrested George Meyers in front of the opera house yesterday afternoon. He resisted arrest and the officers had considerable difficulty in getting the hand-cuffs on him, as he was strong as an ox. He was charged with approaching little girls of ten and twelve years of age and striving to induce them to go walking with him. He attempted to seize one little girl Wednesday night and another yesterday morning on Miller avenue but both got away from him. The girls identified the man, who said he didn't mean anything. He was taken to jail where he gave his occupation as a laborer, his age as 38, and his residence Baltimore. He has been around the city for at least four weeks. He changed his clothes several times yesterday.

The little boys about town have been alarmed this week by a man, who attempted to induce several of them to go into the country at seventy-five cents a day, and who got his clutches on a couple of the boys and was carrying them along with him.

WAR AT HOME.

Labor and Capital Come to Blows in Pennsylvania.

TWENTY MEN ARE KILLED IN THE FIGHT.

Carnegie's Highly Protected Steel Works Attempt to Cut Down Wages and Lock Out the Workmen. An All-Day Battle With Pinkertons.

The principal news item of the week is the labor troubles in Pennsylvania which culminated in a battle Wednesday between the strikers and the Pinkertons, in which many lives were lost. The trouble arose over a reduction of ten per cent in the wages of the workmen in the Carnegie steel works in Homestead, Pennsylvania. Notice of the proposed reduction was given the workmen, who then hanged the president of the company in effigy. The company ordered an immediate shut down of the works, two days before the time provided by the contract under which the men were working. The company proceeded to fortify their works. Carnegie is a Republican millionaire, one of the principal donors to Republican campaign funds and his industry is one highly protected by the McKinley bill, the protection ranging from $18 to $84 per ton. Hence the reduction in wages gave the lie to the Republican claim that protection tends to raise wages. The company admit that under the old scale of wages they were making money.

The next move of the company was to import 300 Pinkerton men to man their fortified works, so as to begin repairs of the work and enable them to hire new men in the place of their former workmen. The Pinkertons proceeded up the river in a barge but were met by the locked out workmen and their sympathizers to the number of several thousand who had assembled to prevent their landing. One of the Pinkertons opened fire on the crowd. The Pinkertons were armed with Winchesters and the locked out men with rifles. At once a general fusillade began. The workmen hastily constructed breast works and the Pinkertons sought refuge in the hold of their boat.

The workmen secured a ten pound cannon and planted it where it could rake the barge and another cannon was placed on the opposite shore. Oil was run into the river and lighted and dynamite exploded. Oil was also sprayed over the barge by means of hose. In the meantime the tug which had towed the barge up stream had cut loose and there was no way of getting the barge out of the hot fire. The Pinkertons poured volley after volley into the ranks of the workmen. Finally the Pinkertons either became exhausted or their ammunition gave out and they ceased firing. Attempts to burn the boats still continued but were stopped by the chief officers of the steel workers association who had arrived on the scene. The Pinkertons surrendered, were disarmed and marched to the rink where they were locked in. On the way the guards placed over them got them through the mob with great difficulty. Stones were hurled at them, their eyes blinded with dust and one Pinkerton had his eyes put out by an umbrella in the hands of a woman. During the fight eleven workmen and nine Pinkertons were killed and 100 wounded.

The Carnegie company says it will refuse to allow union men to work in their mills. The workmen continue in possession of the mills. No property has yet been destroyed. The protective tariff seems to protect American workmen and raise their wages, doesn't it?

A Great Convention.

Following the two great political conventions of last month will come two great religious conventions of young people this month. In New York city there will meet this week the Societies of Christian Endeavor, and next week from July 14th to 17th there will be held in our own city of Detroit, the second International Convention of Baptist Young People's Societies. An attendance of between 6,000 and 7,000 is anticipated, a splendid program with the best speakers in the denomination has been arranged by the general officers of the society whose headquarters are at Chicago, and the local committee have provided the great rink for the exercises, the armory for a reception and excursions, souvenirs, etc., to make the occasion delightful and memorable. The railroads have granted half-fare rates, and many from Ann Arbor are expected to attend.

Not Much of a Case.

Officer Eaton, accompanied by his attorney, D. C. Griffen, went to South Lyon, Thursday, with Marshal Lum, of that place, to be examined under the charge instigated by the friends of Griffen, the rapist whom Eaton was compelled to shoot in order to arrest. The prosecution was in charge of D. Augustus Straker, the colored lawyer of Detroit, who demonstrated that he was not so familiar with criminal practice as one would judge from the reputation given him. He certainly brought out no damaging evidence, and built up his case so loosely that it is doubtful if an information is ever filed in it. As an instance of his vague knowledge of the law he insisted upon the prisoner entering a plea.

The evidence of the prosecution was rather favorable to the prisoner than otherwise, inasmuch as it corroborated the latter's story of the occurrence, by which the people of this county have judged and justified the officer. After prosecution had rested the defense left their case to Justice Calkins without testimony, who, while convinced that the charge was not clearly shown to be well grounded, bound Eaton over for trial, fixing the bail at $300. Bondsman were furnished by the South Lyon bankers, who had been advised by wire from this city that any needed security would be given. Messrs. Eaton and Griffen returned the same evening.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

A burglar visited E. Jedele's residence, last Saturday night, and by prying up a window with a pocket knife, gained entrance to Mr. Jedele's bedroom. The noise awoke Mrs. Jedele who aroused her husband just in time to see the thief escape through the window, carrying Mr. Jedele's trousers and his watch. The trousers contained only about $1.50 in money, but the watch, a fine silver one given Mr. Jedele by his father twenty-two years ago, was the most serious loss. No clue has been found to the thief but he left behind his pocket knife which he can have by calling for it and proving property.—Dexter News.

When about a mile west of the Eitchell school house, the wool team became frightened and unmanageable and started to run. Blakeley tried to stop them, but one was a colt, and they gave him hard work. He shouted to Mr. Hadley to get out of the way, and he turned out, but on the wrong side. Mr. Blakely's team jumped into their buggy, demolishing it. Hadley's team ran away, throwing himself and James Blakely out and injuring both men quite severely. Mr. Hadley was taken back to his son-in-law's and a physician summoned. No bones were broken and we presume he is recovering. The team ran over a mile. The buggy was a total wreck.—Stockbridge Sun.

ANN ARBOR.
Terms made known on application.

Will the Detroit Tribune or Ann Arbor Courier please inform us why Senator McMillan, or boss McMillan as some republican papers term him, dodged the vote on the Stewart silver bill. Was he standing squarely on the republican platform?

The profound harmony which now exists in the Republican party in this state was exemplified in the contest for delegates in St. Clair county at Port Huron. The Rich men captured the delegates in two of the three legislative districts and the Pingree men the delegates in the other district. The whole convention then refused to recognize the delegates from the Pingree district and proceeded to elect new ones instructing the whole county for Rich, the Pingree men leaving the convention in a body and threatening vengeance. The harmony existing in the Republican party will go a long long way towards electing a governor.

WHY WOOL IS LOW.

The Republican press in striving to find some excuse for the low price of wool under the McKinley bill accuses the farmers of dishonesty and slovenliness in putting up their wool. That this excuse does not always work is shown by the letter of A. Wheeler, a Republican farmer, to the State Republican, of Lansing, in reply to their strictures. Mr. Wheeler said:

Last week I saw an article in your paper from Mr. Tompkins on the wool question. I claim to be an average farmer, so his article hits me. I have raised sheep and sold wool for fifty years, and I do up my wool the same now as I did when I first commenced; there was no complaining or howling then, as now, although wool was much higher.

I admit there are some dishonest wool-growers; so there are dishonest wool-buyers, for I have seen as dishonest wool-buyers as I have seen in any class of business men; but that would not justify me in making such a sweeping charge as Mr. Tompkins made against the average farmer.

A few years ago the wool-buyers complained of the bad condition of wool, so the next year I put up my own wool and was very careful to remove everything that would be objectionable. I washed my sheep, not in a mudhole but in Grand river, and at shearing I tied it up, not with a half ball of binding twine but with wool twine, with two strings one way and three the other; and when I took it to market and the buyers looked it over and made their best bid I went to one of the best wool-buyers and told him I had taken extra pains in putting up my wool and there was nothing objectionable in it. He replied that he could not give me any more on that account. I believe the wool that comes into the market now is in better condition than it was thirty years ago when the country was new. Why can't the wool-buyers put the blame where it belongs?

In looking over my books I find I sold to L. D. Hastings, of Hammondsport, N. Y., on June 29, 1853, some 387 pounds of wool at 50 1/2 cents per pound, and in 1855 I sold him 500 1/2 pounds at 38 1/2 cents per pound. In 1856 I sold him 358 1/2 pounds at 41 cents per pound.

The prices given by Mr. Wheeler were in the years when the tariff of 1847 was in force, a tariff which the protectionists call "a British free trade tariff."

REPUBLICAN HARMONY.

The Argus has repeatedly called attention to the dense harmony in the Republican ranks. To prove it it has but to quote from the leading editorials in the Courier and Register this week. When they are read carefully we are sure there will be no further doubt concerning the harmony.

The Courier says: The Courier believes today as it did two years ago, that Mr. Rich is the most available candidate the party has for the office of governor. It believes that Mr. Rich's nomination is equivalent to an election. It believes that the nomination of no other Republican is equivalent to an election. If any other candidate shall be successful in the convention, however, this paper will give that man cordial and hearty support, but the history of 1890 ought to be a warning to the party.

Two years ago there were considerable many kickers in the Republican ranks. There were men who fought a portion of the Republican ticket openly and boldly, and some of these men now appear on the scene advising the Republican party what to do. Are such men safe guides for the party to follow?

The Register says: The Register claimed, and still claims, that the same men who two years ago put Mr. Turner to the front are now straining every muscle to have Mr. Rich nominated, and what is worse they are using the very same tactics that they used to make Mr. Turner a candidate. This was shown very clearly in the manipulation of the convention at Port Huron only a few days ago. There can be no doubt that had not satellites of Millionaire McMillan manipulated the whole business from the primaries to the electing of delegates to the state convention, an entirely different set of delegates would have been elected to go to Saginaw. It is just this sort of thing that has placed the party out of power in this state and we have reason to fear that a similar course on the part of those who are heading the Rich boom will result in a similar defeat this fall. The Republican party in this state is not in the habit of wearing a collar closely buckled around its throat by a few autocratic leaders. The party had enough of this two years ago, but it seems those who managed the affairs of the Republican party have not come to a full realizing sense that the people should, without undue influence, be allowed to choose their candidates for public office, and are attempting by the same tactics, though in a slightly varied form, still to have things all their own way. The candidacy of Mr. Pingree represents a spontaneous revolt against this sort of thing and as such it has the hearty sympathy of the thinking element in the party in all parts of the state and will, we are confident, result in making Mr. Pingree our next candidate for governor unless this better element in the party is overwhelmed by the shrewd manipulations of a few political wire pullers in Detroit.

The Argus agrees with both its esteemed contemporaries in this far: It believes with the Courier that "the nomination of no other Republican (than Mr. Rich) is equivalent to an election," and it agrees with the Register that the course of the Rich men like that of the Turner men two years ago "will result in a similar defeat this fall."

The interesting question is which will come out on top in the Washtenaw Republican Convention, the Courier or the Register?

THE REPUBLICAN STRADDLE.

The McKinley act is the practical expression of the theoretical views of the Republicans in relation to protection. It is based upon the idea that wealth is created by taxation, and that the more you take from a man the more remains for his enjoyment.

Before drawing the bill Mr. McKinley wrote the Republican platform of 1888, in which the party avowed its purpose to use the taxing power for the purpose of "checking imports," that is, of destroying, as far as possible, our international commerce, confining our people, buyers and sellers, to the home market.

Republican success in 1888 placed Mr. McKinley at the head of the Ways and Means Committee. Striving to embody in legislation the promises of the platform, he gave us an act that abolished revenue duties, but vastly increased the taxes imposed for the benefit of the American manufacturer.

Mr. James G. Blaine was too astute a politician not to see that this meant the destruction of American commerce and the overthrow of the Republican party. He declared to the committee, and publicly, that this bill did not open a market to another barrel of flour or to another pound of pork. He forced the Republicans, who in one section had erected a barrier against all international commerce, to adopt what he called a reciprocity section, the purpose of which was to make the people believe that this same party was encouraging international commerce.

On that issue the Republicans went to the country and were overwhelmingly beaten. Nevertheless they put it in their platform at Minneapolis, and before the nomination all the prominent leaders were claiming credit for this so-called modification of the McKinley act. But no sooner had Mr. Blaine left the office of Secretary of State and

Mr. Harrison secured the nomination, than the President "kicked the fat into the fire."

The test of reciprocity is not in treaties with South American Republics, where our farmers can have no markets for their products, but with Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany, where we dispose of our surplus wheat and cotton, and where the prices of our farm products are fixed.

Mr. Harrison sends a message to the Senate concerning the failure of his negotiations with Canada, and insisting on retaliation. The ground of Mr. Harrison's complaint is that the Canadians are not willing to tax themselves as the American people are doing, for the benefit of the American manufacturer.

Mr. Harrison has two ends in view. He desires to convince the people that he is carrying on a vigorous foreign policy with Canada, and at the same time that he is striving to extend the reciprocity scheme, and to enforce the McKinley act in Canada by means of retaliation. This bill is a declaration of commercial war, and can not be made to work with Mr. Blaine's idea of reciprocity. One or the other has ultimately to be abandoned.

There is a limit to the straddling power of any political party.

The people will turn from these

Republican jugglers to the Democratic leaders for satisfaction concerning tariff taxation. There is no longer any doubt as to the purposes and principles of the Democratic party. It denies the right of Congress to tax one man for the benefit of another. It insists that the duty on imports shall be for revenue only.

Here is the issue in the whole political campaign. If the American people are content with the McKinley plan of spoliation they will vote for Mr. Harrison. On the contrary, if they hold with the Democrats that all taxation should be solely for revenue, they will vote for Mr. Cleveland.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The excessive rains of last Saturday and Sunday buried the tracks of the T. & A. A. road, at the Summit street crossing, with sand and gravel, necessitating the employment of a large force of men to disintomb the rails. Mr. John Nanry, of Superior, got off a good remark to a Republican wool grower the other day. He said: "Dead as wool has been under the McKinley act, and you never knew it to be so dead before, there wasn't a bit of stir in the market until after Cleveland was nominated. Then wool began to look up and I had lots of buyers around trying to buy my wool. Before that not a one came around. Look back a few years and you will find that wool was always lower the higher the tariff."

To the Common Council:

Ann Arbor, June 13, 1892.
Hon. W. G. Doty, Mayor of the City of Ann Arbor:

MY DEAR SIR: I hand you herewith a petition addressed to yourself and the common council for a change of the name of North street to that of Kingsley avenue or street. It is signed by the residents and owners on that street, and I am informed that the change is not only ardently desired by them, but that it would be highly gratifying to all whose attention has been called to the subject.

This street, when the village was laid out in 1824, was the most northerly street on the plat and was therefore appropriately named North street. But since that time the village has become a city and its boundaries extended far to the north of it, with additional streets and buildings, thus rendering the original name of the street no longer in any sense appropriate.

I am glad to see that the petitioners have chosen for the new name of the avenue or street, that of my honored friend now no longer with us, Hon. James Kingsley. He was one of the earliest and most active of the worthy pioneers of our city and no man had the respect of his fellow citizens more than he, and no man more richly deserved it. He held almost every office within the gift of his neighbors and fellow citizens. He was a member of the old territorial council from 1830 to 1833, and more than once a member of the state legislature, and was in the convention that drafted the present constitution of the state. In his own county he was supervisor and judge of probate. He was mayor of the city and a regent of the University. He was always active in advancing the interests of the city and the public. His influence was felt in establishing the railroad system and obtaining the location of the Central road through our city, and from my association with him in the legislature of 1837, I can bear witness that no man in this locality did more to secure the location of the University in Ann Arbor than did Judge Kingsley.

I think there is nothing of a permanent character in our city which bears his name. He deserves a monument more enduring than we can give. Let us at least show that he is not forgotten in the city where his long and useful business life was spent, by giving to one of its avenues, in honor of his memory, the name of Kingsley.

I hope the city authorities will look with favor on the application of the petitioners and will grant their request.
Very respectfully yours,
ALPHEUS FELCH.

SIDEWALK COMMITTEE.
Ald. Kitson moved that Rule 18 be suspended in order that the Sidewalk Committee can make report. Which motion prevailed.

To the Common Council:
Your Sidewalk Committee to whom was referred the recommendation of the Board of Public Works would recommend that the sum of $160 be appropriated from the Contingent Fund for the construction of a cement sidewalk in front of Firemen's Hall and that said walk in front of the doors be constructed with cedar blocks on cement or gravel foundation.

Respectfully submitted,

Ald. O'Mara moved that the report be accepted and adopted.
Ald. Wines moved that the report be laid on the table until our next regular meeting, which motion prevailed.

Ald. Snow moved that the Council now adjourn, which motion was lost by the following ye and nay vote:
Yeas—Ald. Snow, O'Mara—2.
Nays—Ald. Wines, Schairer, Martin, Taylor, Kitson, Prettyman and Pres. Cooley—7.

SLIGHTLY USED and SECOND HAND PIANOS.

How we get them.

During the college year we have at rent about Forty Upright Pianos, also a few squares. July 1 these pianos come in until the opening of college, October 1.

We also receive many second hand upright and square pianos in exchange for New MEHLIN, BRAUMULLER and ERIE Pianos.

What is done with them.

As soon as these pianos come in or are returned to our warerooms, they are taken by our factory workmen, and tuned, regulated and repolished and, if necessary, revarnished, making them practically as GOOD AS NEW.

Why we do this.

We put these pianos in first class shape because we wish to sell them. We are money out if they stand on our floor three months of each year. It is better to sell them at once, get our money in use and buy again when the demand for renting pianos opens in the Fall.

How we sell them.

We offer these pianos at the very lowest figures and accept monthly payments of $10.00 to $15.00.

Any time within one year after purchasing, any of them will be accepted by us at full price paid in exchange toward a new Mehlin, Braumiller or Erie Piano.

Prices.

Prices vary. Some pianos have been used but a few months---are good as new. Some have been in use two or three years. Some squares can be had at $40.00 and $50.00. Good uprights, $125.00 to $150.00. A few Haines Bros. Pianos, used but nine months, at $300 and upwards. Every piano is marked at bed rock. We want to sell them.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

Any person contemplating the purchase of a piano should get our prices THIS MONTH.

Pianos were never offered as cheap before. See how our warerooms are CROWDED.

Money does not take up as much room as pianos. Come in and see what we can show you in Pianos and PRICES.
