The New Deputy Sheriffs—A Missing Heir—Facts from an Old Almanac—Annual Church Meeting.

The Deputy Sheriffs.

Sheriff Brenner is now duly installed in his office and has appointed Nelson Sutherland under sheriff; Patrick McCabe, turnkey; M. C. Peterson, Chris. Brenner, T. F. Leonard, and M. J. Martin, of Ann Arbor, deputy sheriffs. The other deputy sheriffs already appointed are Zina Buck and Jas. Eaton, of Ypsilanti; James Hudler and Martin Wackenhut, of Chelsea; John Gillen, of Saline; Joseph Gauntlett, of Milan; Erastus Logan, James Kelly, and B. F. Wade, of Manchester. It is stated that the sheriff has sent over for the poll list of Manchester before announcing the full list of deputies from there.

Annual Meeting, Presbyterian Church.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church held their annual meeting Monday night. S. W. Clarkson and James L. Babcock were elected trustees for three years. Mr. Clarkson was re-elected and Mr. Babcock was elected to take the place of Mr. Philip Bach who declined a re-election. The financial report showed a gratifying state of affairs. The receipts for the year were $3,370.39, expenditures $3,363.68, leaving the Society free from debt and with $200 yet due on pew rent. The $6,000 bequeathed by Mrs. Louise Sackett to build a parsonage will soon be available when a handsome house will be erected. The church now has a membership of 430, the Young People's Society a membership of 250 and the Sunday school a membership of 500.

Death of Henry Krause.

Henry Krause, a well-known citizen of this city, died at his home at two o'clock yesterday morning. He had been in poor health for the past few years and a few days ago had a stroke of apoplexy. He was born in Prussia in 1820, where he received a good education. When twenty-four years of age he emigrated to this country, and settled in this city the following year, 1845. While in Germany he had learned the tanners' trade and in 1846 he established the first tannery in Ann Arbor. In 1868, he built a large tannery here. For some years he also carried on the boot and shoe business in this city. He leaves a wife, three sons and four daughters. The sons are Henry, Adolph, and Samuel Krause and the daughters are Mrs. George Haller, Mrs. Rosa Herpoldsheimer and Mrs. Frank Perkins, of Lincoln, Neb., and Miss Rosa Krause, of this city. Mr. Krause was a good citizen and a respected member of the community, with a large acquaintance. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

A Missing Heir.

The Jackson correspondent of the Evening News sent to that paper the following information on Tuesday, which will be of interest to many in this locality:

Hemans Wood, of Chelsea, has riches thrust upon him just now. Mr. Wood was in town today to see if he could ascertain the whereabouts of a lost heir. The particular heir Mr. Wood wants to find can have $7,500 by just standing up and being counted in. His name is J. Dunning and he was last heard from in Little Rock three years ago.

Since Mr. Dunning left this part of the country, his uncle at Unadilla, Ingham county, died, leaving $50,000 in cash and bonds. Of this $15,000 went by will to J. Dunning's father. The latter being dead, the money falls to a sister of Mr. Dunning and to the lost heir, who is a locomotive engineer. Mr. Wood is administrator and has advertised all over the country for the lost heir. Dunning's former wife lives here. She has married again and has a daughter by the first marriage, who is heir if her father is dead, which seems likely.

Mr. Wood was also administrator of the James estate at Ann Arbor. It will be remembered that the heir, James L. Babcock, was to receive half a million if he married inside of five years, which he did. Mr. Wood said today that Mr. Babcock had offered him $5,000 a year to take charge of the James estate, after it comes into the latter's possession, which will be in a few months. Mr. Wood thought he would accept the offer, especially as he was to have house rent free in Ann Arbor.

What an Old Almanac Tells.

The American almanac for 1833 was resurrected from the midst of some old pamphlets one day this week, and the many facts contained in it give some idea of life in this country two years before the founding of the Argus. At that date, George B. Porter was governor of the territory of Michigan at a salary of $2,000, Stevens T. Mason was secretary of the state at a salary of $1,000. The territory, according to the census of 1830 had a population of 31,629, of whom 32 were slaves and 261 free colored people. There were only five blind persons in the whole territory, and only fifteen who were deaf and dumb. Men predominated, the white population consisting of 18,168 males and 13,178 females, and the settlers were mostly young. There were only 139 people in the whole territory over 70 years of age. That many can be found in Ann Arbor today. There were 4,389 young men between twenty and thirty, and only 2,540 young ladies of these ages for them to pair with. Families must have averaged larger in the territory than now, for although the married and unmarried women of over twenty numbered only 5,245, the number of children under fifteen was 13,729.

It cost something to write letters to distant friends in those days. To send a letter over 400 miles cost 25 cents. If the letter was composed of more than one piece of paper, the rates increased, so that a letter consisting of two pieces of paper cost 50 cents, and of four pieces $1. Letters consisting of one piece of paper were carried under thirty miles for six cents. Postmasters, however, were entitled to have their letters carried free.

The college having the largest number of students in the United States at that time was Yale, which had 15 instructors and 346 students. Harvard had 24 instructors and 236 students, and was second in size. Michigan University, which now holds the first rank, had not then been organized. The largest library was owned by Harvard and consisted of 35,000 volumes, a number which would be considered insignificant today. The second largest library was owned by St. Mary's college, Baltimore, and contained 10,000 volumes.

In 1830 the expenses of the general government were $24,585,281.55, of which $11,355,748.22 was paid on the public debt. The public debt on Jan. 1, 1832, amounted to $24,282,879.24. Unfortunately the expenses of the Michigan territorial government are not given, but that of all the states is given in detail. For instance, the legislative expenses of New York were $75,006.00. The expenses of the Erie canal borne by the state were $1,276,965.44, while the tolls from the canal amounted to $1,202,531.31. The other cost of the state government outside of the canal was $471,022.01.

At that date the United States did the carrying trade of the world. The imports for the year ending Oct. 1, 1830, in American vessels amounted to $66,085,739 and in foreign vessels, to only $4,871,181. The exports carried in American vessels amounted to $63,882,718, and in foreign vessels to $9,966,790. The American tonnage which entered the ports of this country from foreign countries amounted to 967,227, while the foreign tonnage amounted to 131,900. How these figures have changed as a result of the war tariff!

In that year the various states had three ways of electing presidential electors. Maryland elected by districts, Delaware, South Carolina, and Louisiana elected by the legislatures, and the rest of the states elected them on a general ticket.

Lyman Burkhardt Pardoned.

Lyman Burkhardt, a life convict at Jackson, who has recently been pardoned, murdered Ludwig Miller in Scio township, August 10, 1875. The Detroit Journal contains the following interesting facts in connection with the murder evidently gleaned from Robert E. Fraser who was then prosecuting attorney of this county.

The commutation of the sentence of Lyman Burkhardt, a life convict at Jackson, recalls the crime for which he was sentenced naturally enough, but there were some circumstances connected with the discovery that he was the murderer which have not been mentioned in any of the recent references to his case but are, nevertheless, of greater interest than the mere story of the way in which he shed his uncle's blood.

When the news that old man Miller had been shot was reported to the authorities of Washtenaw county, Robert E. Fraser was prosecuting attorney of that county. Mr. Fraser repaired to the scene of the murder at once in company with the sheriff. Immediately on his arrival he began an investigation in the course of which he learned only these facts:

Miller had slept next the wall and Mrs. Miller at the front of the bed. The gun used by the murderer had been held so close to the victim's body that the wadding was forced a considerable distance into his flesh, and from the location of the wound and the position of the sleepers, it was evident that a good deal of care had been exercised to avoid awakening Mrs. Miller. A shot-gun, the property of the deceased, was found in the house and it bore evidence that it had been but recently discharged. A possible motive was suggested by the information that Miller had administered a light thrashing on the night before to his young nephew, Lyman Burkhardt, for some trivial offense.

Mr. Frazer ordered an autopsy and gained possession of the wadding in the dead man's body. This he found to be a piece of a German newspaper. He had the house searched again and soon found a German newspaper from which a piece had been torn. The wadding, carefully smoothed, fitted the torn part exactly. This seemed to prove that the crime had been committed by somebody living in the house. It showed that the gun had been loaded in the building and nobody from outside, pursuing the well defined plan evident in the result, would be likely to have waited until he gained access before loading his weapon.

Intuitively, Mr. Frazer suspected the nephew. He had no positive proof on which to have his suspicions, yet the more he thought over the matter the more strongly did he believe the youngster responsible.

The inquest was held in the house, as there was no public building at hand. Young Burkhardt was one of the witnesses, as a matter of course. Mr. Frazer sought to make him the principal witness. After the boy had told, in a simple and apparently straightforward way, a story which went to show that he was in no way connected with the crime, the prosecutor took him in hand and subjected him to the severest kind of cross-examination. Every attempt to make the lad show that he was in any way connected with the murder was useless. The witness answered intelligently, brightly and apparently honestly. Had he been the most acute of lawyers he could not have been more successful in his replies. And then his almost childish, frank countenance seemed to give his every statement the impress of absolute truth.

Suddenly Mr. Frazer bade Burkhardt follow him, and he led the way into an adjoining room in which the post mortem examination was being conducted. Miller's body, stark naked, gory, rent open by the surgeons' knives, lay exposed on a table. A dish full of blood stood near the entrance. A pail in which reposed several of the organs taken from the corpse was close at hand. One of the doctors held the lifeless heart in his hands.

All those engaged in making the examination ceased work immediately, glanced inquiringly at Mr. Frazer and then turned their gaze on the boy evidently in wonder that one of his years be brought to view so horrible an exhibition. Mr. Frazer kept his eyes fixed on Burkhardt's face. He looked for a paling of the young man's cheeks, for a trembling of his lips, for the faintest quiver of a muscle. He looked in vain. The youth was passive. He not only remained unmoved as he regarded the awful sight; he did not manifest the slightest interest in it. The whole affair appeared to be a matter of complete indifference to him. He was hurried back before the jury and again subjected to the thumbscrews of a severe cross-examination. His story remained the same, however. Not once did he deviate from it by a hair's breadth. Finally, after every resource that the prosecuting attorney could call to his assistance had been exhausted, the witness was allowed to leave the stand without having thrown a single ray of light upon the mystery. Mr. Frazer, however, decided to have him arrested without having any very clearly defined idea of what might be accomplished by doing so and as much for the lad's protection as anything else, since an excited crowd had gathered and was threatening a resort to lynch law.

The jury retired to consider the evidence, which was wholly lacking in material on which to ground a charge against anybody. Shortly afterwards a young newspaper reporter named Harris, who was then employed in Ann Arbor, but who came to Detroit subsequently, hastened to Mr. Frazer and said that Burkhardt had confessed to him.

As soon as Burkhardt had left the room in which the inquest was being conducted, Mr. Harris called him aside and said to him:

"Come upstairs with me and tell me the whole story."

The two went at once to a room overhead and there then Burkhardt acknowledged that he had killed his uncle for punishing him the night previous. His reason for denying the crime was that he felt afraid of the prosecuting attorney and dreaded being killed by the crowd. Mr. Harris took all these statements in writing.

As soon as this revelation was made to Mr. Frazer, he had the sheriff start for Ann Arbor with the murderer in order to evade a hanging. Then he caused the jury to be recalled and put Mr. Harris on the stand to repeat the confession. The precaution adopted in sending Burkhardt away was fully justified when the reporter told his story. The rage manifested by the men who listened to the recital showed that the miserable boy would have been given short shrift had he not been removed. Burkhardt subsequently pleaded guilty before Judge Crane, of the Washtenaw circuit court. The judge examined him, experts testified to his sound mental condition, a jury fixed the degree of his crime and he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

COUNCIL CHAMBER,
Ann Arbor, Jan. 4, 1893.Adjourned session.
The council was called to order by the President, the Hon. Mortimer E. Cooley.Roll called. Quorum present.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE MAYOR.

City of Ann Arbor,
Mayor's Office, Jan. 4th, 1893.
To the Honorable Common Council:
Gentlemen: Over ten years ago the charter and ordinances of the city of Ann Arbor were compiled and published by the authority of the city.

Since that time the city has received a new charter, numerous ordinances have been enacted or repealed and amendments equally numerous perhaps have been made to ancient legislative enactments. This accumulated mass of ten years of municipal legislation reposes in the book of ordinances in the office of the city clerk, inaccessible save to those who have expert knowledge to aid their search and a careful memory of the office hours of the city clerk. Surely if the maxim "ignorance of the law excuses no one" is ever inapplicable it is doubly so in the case of the citizens of Ann Arbor who can honestly plead ignorance of their own local laws. In these days of reviving interest in law, when a peaceful and orderly people, law-abiding and self-respecting seek only to know the law in order to give it their obedience and their respectful devotion, it ought not to be said of our civic legislature that it withheld from them that which is and ought to be "the rule of their civil conduct prescribed by their supreme municipal power commanding what is right and prohibiting what is wrong." Professional agitators and shrewd attorneys might profit by this dereliction, the one at the expense of the city's good name for law and order, and the other at the expense of their uninformed clients; but the council ought not to be accessory before the fact to either misfortune.

The records of your honorable body disclose the fact that an appropriation was made Sept. 5th, 1892 for the purpose of revising the ordinances of the city. I have repeatedly urged upon the city attorney the necessity of expedition in the premises, but I am informed that he has been unable as yet to secure the assistance of his coadjutor, Ald. Wines, the chairman of the ordinance committee. To the end that the charter and ordinances may be eventually and speedily compiled and published, I trust that the council will exert its authority to hasten the work already too long delayed.

WILLIAM G. DOTY, Mayor.

Ald. Martin moved that the communication be accepted and placed on file.

Ald. Wines moved as a substitute that the communication be referred back for correction.

Which motion was lost as follows:
Yeas—Ald. Wines.—1.
Nays—Ald. Martin, Snow, O'Mara, Taylor, Kitson, Prettyman, Pres. Cooley.—7.

Ald. Prettyman moved to lay communication on the table.

Which motion was lost by a yeas and nay vote as follows:

Yeas—Ald. Wines, Kitson, Prettyman, Pres. Cooley.—4.
Nays—Ald. Martin, Snow, O'Mara, Taylor.—4.

The yeas and nays being called on the original motion, it prevailed as follows:

Yeas—Ald. Martin, Herz, Snow, O'Mara, Taylor.—5.
Nays—Ald. Wines, Kitson, Prettyman, Pres. Cooley.—4.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Lighting to whom was referred the matter of lighting the city for the next year, commencing Jan. 1st, A. D., 1893, would respectfully recommend that the proposition of the Ann Arbor T. H. Electric Company be accepted under the same condition as last year.

Your committee would further report on petitions referred to your committee, and recommend the following: the petition for two lights on west Huron street be denied and that one light be granted and located near the west line of John M. Wheeler's land, on a 60 foot pole, and the light now located at the intersection of Huron and 7th streets be moved further east as Lighting Committee may locate, also a light be located on State street and placed on a 60 foot pole at the entrance of the main building to the University Hall, and we further recommend the three lights, one at the intersection of Detroit and North streets, one at the intersection of Division and Lawrence streets, and one at the intersection of Third and West Huron, be each placed on a 60 foot pole.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM HERZ,
ARTHUR J. KITSON,
Lighting Committee.

This important item is timely, and may be of incalculable value to many of our city and county readers: "The following remedy for diphtheria, which is taken from the Scientific American, is claimed by that journal to be the best known: At the first indication of diphtheria in the throat of a person, make the room close, then take a tin cup and pour into it a quantity of tar and turpentine, equal parts. Hold the cup over a fire so as to fill the room with the fumes; you will cough up and spit out all the membranous matter, and the diphtheria will soon pass off. The fumes of the tar and turpentine loosen the matter in the throat, and thus afford the relief that has baffled the skill of the physicians."

For the Good of Others

Rev. Mr. Williams heartily endorses Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We are pleased to present this from Rev. A. A. Williams, of the Sillsbee street Christian Church, Lynn, Mass.: "I see no reason why a clergyman, more than a layman, who knows whereof he speaks should hesitate to approve an Article of Merit and worth, from which he or his family have been signally benefited, and whose commendation may serve to extend those benefits to others by increasing their confidence. My wife has for many years been a sufferer from severe

Nervous Headache for which she found little help. She has tried many things that promised well but performed little. Last fall a friend gave her a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems surprising what simply one bottle could and did do for her. The attacks of headache decreased in number and were less violent in their intensity, while her general health has been improved. Her appetite has also been better. From our experience with

Hood's Sarsaparilla I have no hesitation in endorsing its merits."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Rev. Sylvanus Lane,

Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: "We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family of five, and find it fully equal to all that is claimed for it. Some people are greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me."

How Unpleasant

It is to see a beautiful child's face disfigured with vile humors, bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches, and sores, and sadder still, when the young and innocent are laughed at and twitted in all such cases. Parents should give them that good and pure remedy, Sulphur Bitters, which will search and drive out of the blood every particle of humor.—Health Gazette.

The troubles that kill are the ones we borrow.

Fail to do their Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from Nervous Prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nerve caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nerve for Headache, Nervous Prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. A guessing match took place at Milan, recently, as to the number of kernels in a certain vessel, the correct guesser to receive a bicycle. There were 684 guesses, ranging from 1 to 132,016. The actual number was 1,273. The nearest guess was 1,275, by Samuel Finch, who is now endangering life and limb trying to subdue the refractory spirit of his newly acquired "steed."

Edward DePuy and family spent Christmas with Mr. D.'s father at Ridgeway, where thirty of the thirty-eight surviving members of the family were gathered for a merry day. The receiving and giving of suitable tokens was indulged in abundantly. The annual election of officers for the family circle was also held, all of which added much to the day's pleasure.—Saline Observer.

An exchange says: A burr oak tree, 30 inches in diameter, was recently cut on the farm of Henry Proper in Scipio. In working the timber a ring and staple were found overgrown with solid wood 12 inches, the point of the staple reaching the heart of the tree. The iron must have been driven into the heart of the oak at least fifty years ago and there was no outward indication of the fact that at some time the then slender tree had been used for a hitching post.

The 21st reunion of the Hodgeman family was held at J. T. Hodgeman's, on Monday, Dec. 26. Relatives to the number of sixty were present. Those from abroad were: B. W. Hodgeman and wife, of Kalkaska; F. G. Spring and wife, of Detroit; Fred Alber and family, of Ann Arbor; J. F. Oliver and wife, of Mason, Jas. Boylan, wife and family, of Brighton; J. P. Hodgeman and wife, of Pinckney; E. W. Clark and family, of Hamburg; and E. I. McCuen, of Albion.—South Lyon Picket.

The matter of shaded roads is one upon which the movements for road improvements and for forestry preservation may work together. The ends of the latter, or at least a part of them, would certainly be subserved by the planting of trees along miles of country roads. It would add a considerable amount to the forest area of a state, and would thus affect the rain fall to some degree. The added beauty and comfort of the highway is an item of no mean importance, and is worth considering in a new country, while the added expense once the system of roadmaking and mending is established would be comparatively small.

Saturday evening, December 24, Mrs. William McKinney went over to the house of her son Ed. to invite them over to her house to a Christmas dinner. She started to return home, went down the steps and took a couple of steps down the walk when she suddenly sank down and dropped over backwards, at the same time exclaiming, "Oh!" and raising her hand to her heart. Her son Ed. had not yet closed the door and ran to her assistance, but she was dead when he reached her. They carried her into the house and summoned a physician, but death was instantaneous and medical skill of no avail. She was carried to her home on the corner of Pearl and Cummins streets, shortly afterwards. Mrs. McKinney was 65 years of age.—Tecumseh News.

Among the many opinions handed down last Friday by the supreme court, is the case of Silver vs. Hillsdale Insurance Co., resulting in reversal. No little interest has been occasioned by this suit in Manchester, Clinton, and Tecumseh, and every inch of the ground has been hotly contested. It has been now twice in the supreme court, the first time arising out of an amendment sought as to the parties who should bring the suit; but upon each time it resulted in favor of the plaintiffs, though in the Lenawee circuit each time it resulted in favor of the company. The main point involved was whether the heirs, the brothers and sisters, of the late Frank Silvers, of Tecumseh, had an insurable interest in the life of the assured that they might take under the policy.

Dr. SYDNEY RINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London, Author of the Standard "Handbook of Therapeutics," actually writes as follows: "From the careful analyses of Prof. ATTEFIELD and others, I am satisfied that VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocoas.—It is certainly 'Pure' and highly digestible.—The quotations in certain advertisements (from Trade Revue) from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading, and cannot possibly apply to VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA." The false reflection on VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is thus effectually repelled, and the very authority cited to injure it, is thereby prompted to give it a very handsome testimonial.

The Ann Arbor Argus

S. W. BEAKES, EDITOR AND PROP.

TERMS.—$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1893.

VOLUME FIFTY-NINE.

The Argus enters upon its fifty-ninth volume today. The oldest paper in the state, outside of the weekly Detroit Free Press, the Argus yet aims to be in advance of its contemporaries. Its columns will be greatly improved in the coming year, and as some marked changes are contemplated, and it will aim to merit its markedly increasing patronage. The Argus believes that its readers appreciate the honest hard work necessary to make a paper, at once readable, reliable, and full of the news of the locality in which it circulates. It has always found that that kind of work pays, and when the contemplated changes in the Argus are made, as they soon will be, we feel sure that the paper will be even more a welcome visitor in the homes of the county than it has been in the past.

The year 1893 bids fair to be an important and newsy year, a year which will demand stirring reporters if the papers expect to chronicle all the news; a year, we trust, of prosperity to the people. And we wish all our readers a full share in that prosperity.

Sixty years ago billion dollar congresses were unknown. The expenses of the general government then did not amount to near one-twentieth of the expenses of today. In fact the entire receipts of the government for the first forty years would barely suffice to run the governmental machinery for one year today. The total expenditures of the general government in 1830 consisted of $24,585,281.55, of which $11,355,748.22 was paid on the general debt. In other words outside of the payment on the debt, the total expenditures of the United States in 1830 was about thirteen million dollars. Under the present system of extravagance that amount will not nearly suffice for the expenditures of a single department. In fact the pension department now demands each year an amount which would sixty years ago have sufficed to run the whole government for ten years. In these years we have increased from a nation of twelve millions to one of sixty-three. Why should our ordinary governmental expenses today so largely exceed six times those of sixty years ago?

The Register, as the organ of the Municipal Club, another name for the republican club, comes to the defense of that organization in a labored editorial designed to prove that the denunciation of the administration of the laws in this city is no reflection upon the present administration, and that although "the present authorities are doing very well," yet there is need of an organization to stop the violation of liquor laws, shut up houses of ill-fame and gambling houses. Now these good people who dream of the great moral revolution they are to bring about in the city have been challenged to point out a single house of ill-fame in the city, or a gambling house. They haven't done that and they will not. Glittering generalities are all that suit them. The only object of the club is to bamboozle a few democrats into voting the republican ticket. Their very admissions show that there is no field for the club. When the Register says that the club does not aim to secure victory for either of the great political parties it only shows that the Register is forced to prevarication to cover up the real reason for the organization of the club, a reason which if known would defeat the very aim of the organization. We feel confident that the democratic party in this city will this spring put up a strong ticket of clean men. Let the republican party do the same and the independent voters choose between them. But let no man in advance pledge himself to support the nominees of a coterie of men under whatever guise they assume, without knowing what men shall be named for the suffrages of the people this year. The people of the city wish a chance to name the men to be run for office and they don't desire a self-constituted committee to do it for them. We want a good clean administration and when we have one we don't want the city held up to an outside world, always ready to cavil at Ann Arbor's good name, as a modern Sodom and Gomorrah, when no city in the State is more orderly.

REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

Ald. O'Mara, Chairman of Special Committee on city Buildings, reported progress and moved that President Cooley be added to the Committee. Adopted.

ANN ARBOR, January 2, 1893.

To the Common Council:
GENTLEMEN:—Your committee appointed November 21, 1892, to consider and recommend a plan for securing a system of sewers for the city of Ann Arbor, beg leave to report as follows:

The committee has had three meetings, at which the different features of the problem have been considered in detail, thoroughly discussed, and voted on separately.

Your committee is unanimously of the opinion that the construction of a system of sewers for the city of Ann Arbor is a necessary public improvement, and that the work should be commenced as soon as practicable.

The system and plan recommended by the Board of Public Works in their report to the Council under date of January 28, 1892, is regarded as the more desirable, all things considered, for this city. Any further enlargement of the main or lateral sewers for the purpose of providing for surface drainage is not considered advisable.

Your committee does not wish to be understood, however, as not in favor of surface drainage in certain portions of the city, but suggests that this question may be more readily met and disposed of with less expense to the city by the use of separate drains laid to the nearest accessible natural water courses.

Your committee would therefore recommend the adoption by this Council of the system and plan as submitted by the Board of Public Works, above referred to, with the addition of a twelve-inch branch main sewer extending from Broadway down Wall street, crossing the river, and joining the main sewer, if found practicable, otherwise discharging into the river at the nearest suitable point; and with the further addition of such auxiliary plan of surface drainage as may be found expedient and necessary. The different methods of raising the money to construct such a system of sewers have received much consideration. The question naturally divides itself into two parts; first, the main, or trunk sewer; second, the system of lateral sewers. In order to reach a conclusion likely to meet with the approval of a majority of our citizens, the opinion of experienced financiers has been sought, also the opinion of a number of our citizens, known to hold opposing views. While at first it was the vote of your committee to raise the money for the entire system by bonding, that plan did not, on more mature consideration, commend itself so strongly.

A careful measurement of the sewer map discloses about twenty miles of sewers laid down in the original plan, which does not embrace the recent extensions of the city limits. At an average cost of $5,000 per mile, the lowest estimate for the entire system would approximate $100,000, while it is possible the amount might reach $150,000, or more.

Your committee is unwilling to recommend placing this city under so large a bonded indebtedness, when freedom from such debt has always been a matter of pride to our citizens. The construction of the entire system would, under bonds, probably be demanded at once, so that of necessity a large proportion of the laboring help would have to be imported. As about 80 per cent. of the cost of a sewer system is for labor, any plan which does not embrace the people and keep our money at home, it seems, should meet the approval and command the support of our citizens.

The more natural and economical plan would be to build the main sewer at once, and put in the laterals as they are demanded, or found necessary. This will admit of extending the major part of the work over a period of two or three years, at least, and provide work for a number of years as extensions are made.

The final estimates for the cost of the main sewer submitted by the Board of Public Works showed that it can be built for about $28,000 or $32,000. To provide for street crossings, flushings and other accessories, this sum may properly be increased to $30,000.

Inasmuch as no system of sewers is practicable in this city without the main sewer, and as it serves for all alike, with the exception of the fifth ward, both for the present and the future, it seems entirely proper that the money for its construction should be raised by bonding.

Your committee would therefore recommend the raising of this sum by issuing bonds for a term of years, and that the Finance Committee and City Attorney be instructed to procure the necessary legislation at the present session of the Legislature.

As to the best method of raising the money for the lateral sewers, your committee do not at present feel prepared to recommend definitely. The question has been discussed at length, and various plans considered, but none of them appear to be totally free from objection. As more information is desired, and is being sought, your committee would respectfully ask a further time before submitting its final report.

A PROMINENT MAN.

One of Albany's Ablest and Best Known Citizens.

SOME INTERESTING INSIDE HISTORY IN THE LIFE OF A BUSINESS MAN.

He Speaks Strongly and Straight to the Point.

The successes of prominent business men are always of great interest to the people.

So, also, when a well-known and honored man is in trouble through illness not only his friends, but all who know him by reputation, are deeply interested in his welfare.

Mr. Seth E. Parsons is one of the leading business men of Albany, N. Y., and is widely known and highly esteemed as a citizen of sterling integrity, with the energy and force of character characteristic of our American business men.

SETH E. PARSONS.

Seen at his home, 22 Park St., by our paper's representative, he expressed himself in terms of the greatest gratification that he had escaped possibly a most serious nervous difficulty which might have prostrated him.

"I was very nervous," he said, "I could not hold my hands still, especially my left hand; there was an involuntary contraction of the muscles and movement of the fingers.

"My food troubled me very soon after eating. My kidneys and bladder were affected so it was difficult to urinate freely.

"I used the celebrated medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and without being tedious reciting my experience, I can say that these difficulties have left me, and my nerves are quiet, and my food does not distress me.

"I feel without hesitation in saying that I think Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has produced these favorable results."

We have heard of many remarkable cures being effected by this remedy, but when we learn directly and from his own words of its curing a man of Mr. Parson's prominence and standing, we believe that such a cure should be to all a guarantee of the great curative powers of the remedy and should influence all thinking persons who are suffering from disease to use this truly remarkable medicine. It can be purchased for $1 at any druggist's, and we know it is purely vegetable and harmless.

What gives us most confidence in the remedy is the fact that it is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th Street, New York, the eminent specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases and that the doctor offers to all sufferers free consultation with him either by calling at his office or writing him.

A new remedy has created a sensation among physicians by its wonderful effects in speedily curing every form of Piles. It is called the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is cheap and simple to use, but nothing removes the disease so quickly, safely and surely. Any druggist will get it for you.

Adrian Press Washtenawisms.

The editor of the Dexter News professes to have been taught to sing by Prof. Sage. What a bloody stab at the professor's reputation!

South Lyon street lamps burn with such a brilliant opaqueness that the lamp sexton carries a lantern on his rounds to extinguish them in early morn.

Ypsilanti colored aristocracy has organized a minstrel troupe and will display the advantages they have received from their high social position, at an exhibition next Monday evening.

An Ypsilanti liveryman is in hard luck. His horse fell into a trench not protected by signal lights, and the beast had not enough love for his master to break his leg, or injure himself so that the latter could recover damages from the city.

An Ypsilanti man did not propose to have a lot of frozen apples on his hands and so kept an oil stove in his barn and his apples were saved, at small expense. The scheme would have been a good one had not the stove set fire to the barn which was destroyed.

Buel Johnson, of Bridgewater, grabs a twin under each arm and exclaims, "Look at the Christmas presents from my wife!"

Capt. Clint Spencer, formerly postmaster at Ypsilanti, a one-legged veteran, gets a $1,200 clerkship in the office of the secretary of state. Mr. Spencer had a little hard luck in his financial conduct of the postoffice, but he meant all right, and we hope he will enjoy the two years that are open to the Republicans for browsing the state patronage of Michigan.

Ann Arbor students consume their surplus vitality and develop their legs and their wind by chasing each other cross country in the game of hare and hounds. The last run was over eight miles and was made in time that caused the Ypsi motor line managers to become apprehensive lest their best patronage should be lost, a more reliable means of rapid transit having become popular.

The Ann Arbor high school is to be converted into a gymnasium. At least, a Toledo lady is going to give instruction in physical culture there for the benefit of the teachers of the city. Hope she'll give 'em the Delsarte movement, and then they will declare the jag factory a failure sure.

It is said that ex-state petroleum granger Platt is out of grease again, and wants more lubrication at the hands of Gov. Rich, on the ground that he delivered Washtenaw gagged and bound, into his hands.

Capt. Allen, for railroad commissioner, has been "suggested." Well, he would be an improvement on some of the former incumbents, but not upon Charley Whitman.

The Sharon Center parsonage has been sold, there being no further use for it or parson either, since Hon. John J. Robison moved back into the township.

An English floral publication, Forget-Me-Not, comments with wonder and admiration on the custom on the Michigan Central, of presenting ladies on the trains with bouquets. It is well known that this custom prevails at Ypsilanti, but Forget-Me-Not, with true English conservatism declines to rush upon Ypsi's orthography "as the horse rusheth into the midst of the battle."

The attention of the pastors of Ann Arbor is called to the church column of the Times published each Saturday.—Washtenaw Times.

Has it come to this, that Ann Arbor pastors have to consult a guide-book to see when their cases are "on call?" But of course, everybody knows that Ann Arbor needs street signs.

An unknown cross between a fool and an imp, at Ann Arbor, one evening last week, grasped the arm of a young lady and insisted on loaning her the value of his personal attendance to her home. With cool presence of mind, the young lady drew from her pocket a glittering weapon, covered him with it, and exclaimed, "Now, go." He went with such immediate celerity as to almost fall over himself. The weapon she used was a nickel-plated curling iron. Another lady was similarly treated about the same time. Having no nickel-plated curling iron, she ran to her big brother, who chased but failed to overtake the scoundrel, fear having greatly inspired his cowardly legs.

Mr. Edwin Arden, the well-known romantic actor, will appear in an elaborate revival of his play called "Eagle's Nest" at Grand opera house, on Thursday evening, Jan. 12. His principal support will be Frank Losee and Marion Elmore. Although there was plenty of scenery on hand left over from the old production, Mr. Arden's manager announces that the scenic effects will be entirely new. Mr. Arden has established himself as an actor of sufficient merit to be an independent attraction. In his forthcoming appearance at Ann Arbor, however, he will have as a background a number of original and startling scenic illusions. Among them will be an electrical effect of lightning in a storm scene, a rain storm, a snow storm, and a fire scene. In one of the acts the hero will dive headforemost from a flag staff thirty feet above the level of the stage. Later on there will be a fight between the hero and the heavy villain in the clouds.
