Never before has more difficulty been experienced in getting the election returns of the county. The Argus is the first paper to make any attempt at giv- 32; fifth, 9; leaving Thompson's ma ing the complete returns of the county and we confess that our table is sadly deficient. We have been forced to estimate the majorities on the state ticket in Salem, Scio and York, but believe that our estimates will be found nearly correct, in which case Judge Durand receives about 635 majority in this county. Hooker carries Ann Arbor city by 12. Judge Kinne's majority for circuit judge in this county is 1,461 and in the district something over 1,200. The unfortunate religious phase of the judicial campaign operated in Monroe as here and the majority on the state ticket there being exceedingly light, it is reported that Mr. Gilday's majority in Monroe is under

The total vote in Washtenaw county is about 8,000. There were more ballots than this in the boxes, as from all quarters came tales of unmarked ballots found which could not be counted, as for instance 20 in the first ward, 30 in the second, 37 in the third and 30 in Salem, 29 in Lodi, 38 in Scio and so considered, it will be seen that the hot fight in the circuit judgeship brought out a heavy vote for the spring election. A large majority is given against the various constitutional amendments. reaching, probably, about 1,200 in the county. In four wards and 12 towns the amendment relative to the highways received 432 votes in its favor and 1,145 against is. The towns went uniformily against the amendments excepting that Freedom gave a majority in favor of the amendment relating to internal improvements.

Here is a table of the votes on supreme and circuit judges, the majorities estimated being marked with City Election.

The election, Monday, was a hotly contested one in this city and a large vote, for a spring election was cast. The vote at noon was exceedingly light but a determined effort on the part of both parties in the afternoon succeeded in bringing out a large vote. The Australian ballot system prevented an inkling of the result from getting out until the slow process of counting the votes began. A great deal of scratching was indulged in, many voters remaining in the booths for lifteen minutes. A much larger number of spoiled ballots were found this year than last. In fact in the first ward there were 9 unmarked city ballots and 20 unmarked state. In the second ward there were 30 unmarked ballots, and in the third ward 37. The Democrats had nominated one of the cleanest men in the city, Eugene G. Mann for mayor, and naturally expected success. The greatest work was put in on the Republican-Municipal Club-Prohibishrewd move by putting up a Democrat, Prof. B. M. Thompson, to head Democrats Run Up Against a Snag, Mon- feated, made a good run under adverse circumstances and received many Republican votes. Nobody expected to beat City Clerk Miller and so his majority is no larger than 55. Although, if good officials deserve to be complimented with second terms, he deserved a still stronger testimonial. Miller, however, leads his ticket, carrying four wards as follows: Second, 167; third,44; fourth, 20; fifth, 19. Mills, who made such a gallant fight, carried the first by 47 and the sixth by 148, as follows:

A Deadly Weapon.

GENTLEMEN: I have been a great sufferer for over ten years. My whole system became deranged from diseased blood, and I was attacked with the worst forms of kidney and liver trouble, dyspepsia, neuralgia and rheumatism. My sufferings cannot be described. The sallowness of my skin disfigured me, and the neuralgic pain from his school duties at St. Clair disfigured me, and the neuralgic pain was so severe that it contracted the muscles of my face, partially closing my right eye. The ablest doctors gave no relief, but I am now entirely cured by Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, and wish to recommend it to all as a worderful blood medicine.

Arrested—the progress of Consumption. In all it's earlier stages, it can be cured. It's a scrofulous affection of the lungs—a blood taint—and, as in every other form of scrofula, Dr.

Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a certain remedy. But it must be taken in time—and now is the time to take it.

It purifies the blood—that's the secret. Nothing else acts like it. It's the most potent strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-builder known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, and all lingering Coughs, it's a remedy that's quaranteed, in every case, to benefit or cure.

If it doesn't, the money is returned.
In other words, it's sold on trial.
No other medicine of its kind is.
And that proves that nothing else is "just as good" as the "Discovery."

Hood's Cures

Almost Miraculous Absolutely Helpless and Hopeless

The Grip, Rheumatism, Debility.

Of Crawfordsville, Ind.

"It is with much gratitude that I tell of the wonderful help received from Hood's Sarsaparilla. For several years I have been a very great sufferer with rheumatism. In the winter of '90 and '91, when I had been obliged to use crutches for a long while, in my unfortunate condition I had a severe attack of the grip, which put me down bedfast, for nearly a year. As I had a severe cough, the doctor thought my lungs affected, and that there was little or

No Hope of My Recovery In the fall I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and, to my utmost delight found that I had at last obtained a medicine which was doing me good. When I began to take it I was unable to rise from my bed without help. There was severe pain and swelling in my hands, feet, knee-joints, and left ankle. I had become so hopeless of ever being any better that

I Desired to Die And be out of my great pain. But as I continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla I continued to tinued with Hood's Sarsaparilla I continued to mend. From an utterly helpless condition I have now reached a good state of health. I do all my work and walk around without crutches. The pain and swelling, caused by the rheumatism, are gone. I have no pain in my hands and wrists, and they are not swollen or drawn any more. The cough and lung trouble and soreness in the chest, which followed the grip, have all gone, and I can sleep comfortably. I am greatly improved in flesh, strength and color. My bowels, hitherto inactive without physic, are, since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla quite regular, and other bodily functions healthful. My relatives and friends are delighted at my remarkable improvement, and join in giving the highest praise to Hood's Sarsaparilla," MRS. MARY ANDRESS, Crawfordsville, Ind.

NEVER A FAILURE.

The Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota never had a failure of crops. It produced 30,000,000 bushels of wheat besides other cereals in 1890. Farms can be had on the crop plan, or long time cash payments. It is not an uncommon thing to pay for a farm from the proceeds of one crop.

It has all of the advantages of an old country in the shape of school, church, market, postal & railway facilities and all the chances of a new country in the way of cheap lands, rich soil, and increase in values. It is one of the most fertile and promising regions in America not yet fully occupied. In the rush to the far west, however. this rich valley has been over-looked. It has room for a million more people.

and Singers Get the Smiles. excess of devotion that Paderewski receives from enthusiastic women calls attention to the fact that it is always the more delicate and refined type of manhood that inspires this sort of hysterical idolatry among the women. There never was a more superb example of handsome manliness than that of Edouard de Reszke, the French tenor, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Fuller visited but he was here and is in his own country but vaguely admired by women, and with none of the mad, rapturous ecstasy and adoration of which Alvary, the German tenor, was the ungracious recipient.

Alvary was small and slight in stature. His shyness was almost painful. His devotion to his German frau and numerous olive branches hopelessly prosaic and unromantic. But the women stood about the stage door in groups for a glimpse of their divinity, and squandered their entire allowance on opera tickets when he sang.

Kyrle Bellew was in his day another victim of woman's devotion. They found out where the effeminate Marc the barber into saving bits of the sacred fleece for them to wear in lockets and watches. How that barber ever reconciled things with his own conscience, how he will settle it with the recording Milan market: Potatoes 80c per angel is a mystery, for not even the bu., butter 25c per lb., lard 14c per Sutherland sisters could have supplied all the locks that were surreptitiously dealt out to the fair devotees for a time.

Pierre Loti, in France, now one of the Immortals, is another man of the marked feminine characteristics which appeal to the enthusiasm of women and claim their championship. It was on shipboard that this writer, whose real name is Jean Viaud, got the name of Loti, which is Japanese for "violet," and it was as Violet that he was known among the grace less, but discriminating subalterns. Men call his writing feminine in discernment and cloying in style, and say that he chooses his words like bonbons. But the strong and brilliant Mme. Adam and her followers, in their enthusiasm for Loti at the time of his election to the academy, opposed a man of distinguished DINNER SETS, TOILET SETS largeness of thought and marked genius.

Dignity and elegance are both winning cards for gaining popularity with women. It is to the former that Walter Damrosch previous to his marriage gained his following of fashionable women, and it is to the latter quality, as well as his dramatic talent, that Riddle is indebted for the admiration of the women who listen to his readings. Perhaps it is the unexpected strength and fire in the guise of an exquisite that charms. The odd thing about it is that the very women who rave over these types of men are wedded to husbands of the practical rotund school; men with plenty of development in the aldermanic region; men whose wedding vests won't meet by several inches, and whose bald spots are fast growing glossy; men who couldn't unlerstand their rosettes any better than Amelie Rives' unfortunate hero, and who laugh at the little women and their ravings over long haired heroes, confident of their own charm and liking the women all the better for their pretty enthusiasms.-New York Sun.

Force of Imagination.

It was in Paris. A lot of high rollers were talking about tobacco. Howell Osborne was there, Wilkie, the retired dentist, and several other fellows who had hard work to spend their income. Wilkie, who didn't smoke, offered to bet a dinner that he could fool another member of the crowd on a cigar. Man swore he couldn't. He'd been cussing a blue streak because he couldn't get Perfectos on account of the government monopoly. So they blindfolded him, and Wilkie lighted cigar after cigar and handed them to him. "Pooh," he would say, "another Parisian failure."

By and by Wilkie lighted a cigar, which he had obtained with some mystery, extinguished the flame with a quick stroke of his penknife and handed it over. The cigar was still warm. The expert took several puffs and threw down the cigar, exclaiming, "French, and mighty bad!"

Then they set up a howl, for the cigar was a smuggled Perfecto.—Paris Letter.

Breaking a Wishbone.

The divining rod is a feature in all early mythology, especially so among the Hindoos. As the forked branch of a tree it indicated in various parts of Europe. Asia and Africa where treasures were hidden or where water might be readily found. From the forked branch of a tree it was but a step to the forked clavicle of a bird, and this bone was soon invested with the power of securing the gratification of the wishes of those who in break ing it retained the forked part, for it was the fork that was possessed of myoric power.—New York Telegram.

The Usual Practice.

A Detroit lawyer was in Washington recently and among the sights took in the supreme court of the United States. "What do you think of it?" asked a friend in the evening.

"Well, I sat there and listened awhile, and though I am ashamed to confess it I went to sleep "Oh, that's all right," said his friend

When Washington Was Inaugurated. On the occasion of Washington's second inaugural, many of the members of congress were desirous of waiting on him in testimony of respect as chief magistrate. Last fall, when the national campaign had opened, Mr. A. G. At the expiration of Mr. Turnipseed's term of office, Mr. Jas. A. Bordeaux succeeded him, and immediately set about making the second annual observance of Jefferson's birthday, which occurs April 13, a success.

To say that with the aid of the club accomplished this, is but giving scant justice. Already 1,000 invitation have been sent to prominent democrats those desiring them.

AT THE POLLS.

Result of the Elections for State and Municipal Officers.

Hooker (Rep.), for Supreme Judge, Said to Have Won-The Amendments Probably Carried-Detailed Returns from Many Points.

VOTERS EXPRESS THEIR CHOICE.

DETROIT, April 4—On Monday occurred the election in this state for a judge of the supreme court and two regents of the state university. Candidates were named by four political parties—republican, democratic, prohibition and people's—but the leading candidates were those of ple's—but the leading candidates were those of the two former. For justice Frank A. Hooker was the republican nominee and George H. Durand his opponent. The republican nominees for regents were Frank W. Fletcher and Herman Kiefer; Robert F. Bunker and Herny A. Harmon were their democratic opponents. In addition candidates for judges of the circuit courts and school com-missioners were voted for in the different missioners were voted for in the different counties throughout the state. Municipal offi-cers were chosen in most of the cities and towns.

The vote generally throughout the state was light, not more than a two-thirds vote being polled. The returns are so meager that little can be told as to the result of the election. The returns already in show Hooker, the republican nominee for supreme judge, to be ahead, and he is probably elected. His friends claim a plurality of 10,000 for him. As to the regents of the state university, nothing definite in the way of results can yet be given.

Several amendments to the state constitution were also voted on and were probably carried.

were also voted on and were probably carried. One was relative to the increase of salaries of state officers and another to give the legislature authority to create county and township boards of highway commissioners, with a view of mak-

In good roads.

In Detroit the women took an active part in the election for school inspectors. Over 5,000 of them were registered and nearly all voted.

According to the Tribune the republicans have also carried Wayne county and the city of Detroit, electing their judicial and school candidates with possibly one or two exceptions. In Bay City, Saginaw and Detroit the religious side of politics has cut a considerable figure, the Patriotic Sons of America being arrayed solidly against all Catholics. In the two first named towns that issue predominated over all others and the fight was intensely bit-

Following are the returns from the principal towns in detail:

Adrian—The republicans elect six out of seven city officers by majorities ranging from 33 to 483, the democrats retaining the cierk by a majority of 300. The council will stand a tie, with a republican mayor holding the casting vote. For circuit judge, Lane, the present incumbent, beats Westermar in the city by 141. Indications are that the republicans have carried the county by about 300, an increase over last fall. Ann Arbor—The vote on state officers is nearly a tie. Ann Arbor gives kinne, republican, 622 majority for circuit judge, and seven towns increase this to 793.

Auburn—Mrs. F. D. Johnston, republican, is elected school commissioner of Alger county by a small majority. The county also gives the republican state ticket a small majority. Returns from rural districts will increase the majority.

Battle Creek—The republican city ticket was turns from rural districts will increase the majority.

Battle Creek—The republican city ticket was elected by pluralities ranging from 2 to 500. The republicans also elected three out of five aldermen. For justice of the supreme court Hooker (rep.) received 1,189: Durand (dem., 757. Smith (rep.), judge of the Fifth judicial circuit, received a plurality of 337.

Bay City—Democrats elected the mayor, comptroller and treasurer by majorities of 750 to 1,000. The republicans elect eight of thirteen aldermen, giving them control of the council.

Big Rapids—The republicans elect Charlie Gay, mayor: William Ferguson, treasurer; four out of five supervisors, three out of five aldermen, and three members of the school board. John T. Clark, democrat, is elected recorder.

board. John T. Clark, democrat, is elected recorder.

Cadillac—The republicans have elected their entire ticket with the exception of marshal, the democrats electing their candidate for that oftice by a majority of 6. The republican majorities vary from 91 for mayor to 2 for justice. The council will be a tie, with the republican mayor to hold the balance of power.

Charlotte—The republicans carried everything in the city election. And exceptionally large vote has been polled. The following are the pluralities of the respective city officers: Mayor, Frank Merritt, 217; recorder, J. H. Greenman, 64: treasurer, Frank G. Smith, 25; supervisor, William Beekman, 121. All the wards have gone republican.

Cheboygan—At the city election to-day the democrats elected S. Harris Embury mayor and J. H. Clune treasurer. The republicans elected entire city and ward tickets, with the exception of marshal, two aldermen and one supervisors, by majorities ranging from 11 on mayor to 141 on treasurer. The democrats elect their marshal by 89 majority. Republican candidates for justices of the supreme court received large majorities.

Decatur—At the spring election David A. Squier was elected supervisor; Perry M. Young, clerk; Marion Hinkley, treasurer. The democrats elected the supervisor, the rest of the ticket being republican.

Dowagiac—Dowagiac gives the state ticket six majority, and Goolidge, judge (rep.), 99. It elects the entire democratic ticket, except one alderman and one supervisor.

East Tawas—The township of Baldwin elects the entire republican ticket except highway commissioner.

the entire republican ticket except highway commissioner.

Flint—This city went republican by about 300, electing Andrew J. Ward mayor, the entire city ticket and every alderman. George H. Durand, the democratic candidate for supreme judge, carried the city by about 500, and Charles H. Wisner, the republican candidate for circuit judge in the Seventh judicial circuit, carries the city by at least 600. The county will give Durand about 800 to 1,000 and Wisner about 1,600. A majority of the board of supervisors will also be republican. The vote in the city and throughout the county was light.

Grand Rapids—The republicans scored a victory, reelecting Mayor Stuart and the entire ticket with the exception of judge of the superior court, the democrats reelecting Burlingame.

Grand Haven—The election resulted in the election of Henry Bloecker mayor by 70 majority. Arend J. Klaver (rep.), marshal, 27 plu rality. A democratic city recorder is elected, and a republican to the office of city treasurer. The supervisors elected are democratic. Three republicans and one democratic alderman are elected.

Greenville—Greenville reelected Le Roy loore, democrat, mayor. The council is strongly republican.

Moore, democrat, mayor. The council is strongly republican.

Hillsdale—The election here was very spirited, made so by the strife for a new courthouse in the county and electric light in the city. The former is defeated by 800 to 1,000; the latter, however, is carried by the election of all four aldermen, making the council stand 7 to 1 for the city owning its own plant. Mayor Goodrich was reelected by 375 majority. The entire republican state ticket is elected by majorities of from 1,200 to 1,600. The republicans also elect fifteen of the twenty supervisors in the council.

Holland—George P. Hummer is elected mayor by 19 majority. The republicans elect the city elerk, marshal, treasurer, one supervisor and five aldermen. The democrats elect one supervisor and one alderman. The vote for issuing bonds for an electric light plant carried by a two-thirds majority. The republican state ticket has a good majority.

Ionia—The democrats elected George Gundrum mayor, and three out of four aldermen, also the treasurer and one supervisor, a gain of mayor and one alderman over last year for the democrats. The republicans elect the clork and collector and gain one supervisor. Indications strongly favor the election of F. D. M. Davis as circuit judge for the eighth circuit, a gain for the republicans.

Iron Mountain—W. S. Laing (rep.) was elected mayor.

thin ow status seven temoerate to the republican.

Saginaw—The republicans make heavy gains in the city. Nineteen of the twenty four voting precincus in the city give Hooker, republican, for supreme court justice, 2,672; Durand, demorat, 2,806. The republicans 'cleet the pofice judge and nine out of fifteen members of the common council. McKnight and Wiber, republican and non-partisan-candidates for circuit judges, are probably elected by about 300 plurality.

St. Ignace—For the first time in years a republican, E. Sherwood, is elected mayor. Nearly all the rest of the ticket is democratic.
St. Joseph—In the city election Wallace A. Preston (rep.) was elected mayor by a majority of 18. The entire republican ticket was elected, with the exception of city collector and one alderman.

Iderman.
West Bay City—West Bay City republicans lected their entire city ticket and five out of the city aldermen.

elected their entire city ticket and live out of the six aldermen. Ypsilanti—The democrats elect Henry R. Scoville mayor, one supervisor, one constable and three aldermen. The republicans elect one supervisor, one constable and four aldermen. The council will stand a tie.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Little Business Transacted by Lawmakers During the Week.

During the Week.

Lansing, March 29.—The house judiciary committee reported an amendment to the tax law providing for the taxation of the full amount of the capital stock of banks and insurance companies regardless of mortgages held by them. The house passed a bill creating a separate board of control for the state public school and asylum for dangerous and criminal insane. The senate killed the Brundage anti free railroad pass bill. In committee of the whole bills providing for a uniform system of computing interest and discount, appropriating $109,500 for the current expenses for the school for the deaf and providing a separate board of control therefor, were passed.

LANSING, March 29. -The house passed the LANSING, March 29.—The bouse passed the bill amending the mortgage tax law of 1891. It was found to be very defective in operation, and has been amended so as to tax all real estate mortgages held by banks and insurance companies. Another bill passed was that providing for the optional use of the Rhines vote recorder at municipal elections. An appropriation of $30,000 for two additional cottages at the eastern asylum for the insane was recommended.

eastern asylum for the insane was recommended.

The senate, by a strict party vote, passed the bill taking the management of the state school for the deaf and dumb from the central board of control and replacing it in the hands of a special board. A contest was had over the passage of the bill authorizing county or district agricultural societies, commerce or navigation companies, train railway manufacturing, banking or mercantile companies organized under the general law, whose term of existence has expired or is about to expire by limitation, to reorganize for a further period of thirty years. It failed of passage by three votes, Another attempt will be made to pass it. The bill appropriating $95,000 for colony houses at the Michigan asylum for the insane was cut to $72,000. A favorable report was made on a bill requiring fire insurance companies of other states operating in Michigan to place insurance in Michigan property through offices in this state only.

The senate passed the house blll providing for taxation of bank stock without regard to the mortgages held. It adopted a resolution providing for a special committee of three from each house to make a searching investigation of affairs at the state prison with reference to the management, the discipline and the rules in general. Both branches adjourned until April 4.

LOW WAGES IN MICHIGAN.

Pay in the Building Trades Averages Only $1.59 a Day.

LANSING, April 3. - Ex-Labor Commissioner Robinson, of Michigan, who succeeds Statistician Dodge, of the federal department of agriculture, issued advance sheets of his annual report Friday evening. It deals with the condition of employes of the building trades in the principal cities of the state. Nearly 14,000 persons were canvassed, and their average wages are given as $1.59 a day and the average number in each family 4.39. These wages were reported by 5,000 persons to be insufficient to supply the necessaries of life. The average monthly cost of house rent was $7.32. Pauperism has decreased, while crime has increased. In 1890 one person in every 165 was sent to prison. In 1888 the total amount of interest paid on mortgage indebtedness in Michigan was $9,451,854, while in 1892 it was $13,756,860. Commissioner Robinson makes the statement that there is not an increase of foreigners in the United States, and insists that a social condition which admits of idleness in a country whose cultivatable area is Mountain-W. BROWN'S PARTNER.

'Chihuahua" Brown came to Pyrites when the camp was first started. That was six months before the time of which Pyrites was a typical mining town or 'camp" far up in the Rocky mountains. It had grown in six months from one log cabin to a town of 1,000 inhabitants. It was a rough, unpretentious town, both as regards its buildings and a large number of its citizens, but under the duck suit of the miner there are more honest hearts, more noble and generous natures, than will be found in almost any other calling in life.

With the rush of miners came a rush of gamblers. Four saloons sprang into existence in a night. Then began the erection of the most commodious and pretentious building in the camp-the Palace dance hall-which was hurried to completion. It looked more like a barn than a palace, but it proved as great an attraction for the feverish wealth and pleasure seeking population of Pyrites as its floors of variegated marble.

It is a noticeable fact about a new mining camp that the most high sounding titles are applied to the most common looking structures. The cheapest place always has the grandest name. For instance, the Delmonico restaurant was the worst of all the eating establishments in Pyrites, and the Windsor hotel offered the poorest accommoda-St. James livery stable had nothing better in the shape of equines than some broken down stage horses, and the Crystal Grotto saloon was only a board shanty where 5-cent whisky was sold for two bits a drink.

The cleanest, most homelike eating house in the place was Mrs. McGuire's restaurant. Bridget McGuire was a lively, bustling Irishwoman, with a red face and hair a shade lighter. She was popular with "the boys," as she called the miners who patronized her place. "We can always get plenty on our forks at Mrs. McGuire's," was the usual sentence of praise bestowed upon her estab-

"Chihuahua" Brown boarded with Mrs. McGuire. He was a quiet, retiring sort of a man. No one knew much about him, except that he once had some mining property near Chihuahua, Mexico. There was another Brown in Pyrites, so he was given the sobriquet of "Chihuahua" to distinguish him from the other Brown. He paid his board promptly and was highly esteemed by Mrs. McGuire, who sometimes spoke of him as "the widow woman's friend" on account of his once having loaned Mrs. McGuire $200 without security when the good natured Irishwoman first started in business.

Now she was beyond the need of financial assistance, and was doing a flourishing business—such a large business in fact that she had been obliged to send to Denver for additional help to wait upon the table. The "help" duly arrived upon the stage and created a sensation in Pyrites. The first general description was given out by the stage driver, "Fairplay Bill," to a deeply interested throng of listeners at the Silver Bear saloon. "She cum upon the stage alongside of me," said Bill. "There was three girls for the dance hall besides. When we got to the first station at Turkey creek canyon, she asked if she could ride on the seat with me, she did so admire the scenery. I took her up beside me on the box, and you never heard a girl go on so about the color of the sky, and the trees and rocks, and the wild flowers blooming on the mountain side. She pointed out things to me about the scenery I never see before. I never see a girl so gone on scenery. She really did enjoy it. I got so durned interested hearin her talk I cum purty near slidin the whole outfit down the mountain as I cum around Dead Man's curve. She's differ-

I could tell that first time I see her. Guess she was glad to get up on the box with me, 'way from them dance hall girls. They tried to get fresh with her while she was on the inside-asked her if she thought she could do better in Pyrites than she could in Denver. She said she thought she could, 'cause the wages was better.

'Wages!' says one girl, with a little cackley laugh like a graveyard. 'That's goed; you don't mean to tell me you're going to work for wages?' says she. What are you going to do?

"'I'm goin to work in Mrs. McGuire's restaurong-just like that; restaurongwaitin on the table.'

"'You'll soon git over that,' says the dancehouse girl, laughin.

"'I hope so,' says the little lady, 'but I ain't ashamed of any work that's henest," says she. 'No true woman is above earnin her own livin by manuwell labor if necessary,' says the little lady. And latter fact she did not know. then them three dancehouse girls had a chill, and the little lady got up on the box with me at the next station, and durin the drive up the canyon she wanted to know if them three ladies were goin to work at Mrs. McGuire's restaurong, too, an I durn near fell off the box. I had to throw the silk into the leaders an kind o' git my attention 'tracted to the hosses before I could git my face straight enuff to tell her 'I guess not.' I'm durned if she ever got on to the fact that them girls inside was dancehall girls. She's a lady, she is."

This was how Doris Ware came to Pyrites to be the "help" at Mrs. Mc-Guire's restaurant. It was not strange that the business of the restaurant increased. Mrs. McGuire's new waiter girl was very, very pretty, and a pretty face is an attraction anywhere, but especially so in a new mining camp, where women constitute a very small minority of the population.

It is not strange either that many of Mrs. McGuire's boarders fell in love with Mrs. McGuire's waitress. There was quite a noticeable sprucing up in the way of general appearance among the boarders. Two or three of "the boys" affected bright colored ties, and when they came to their meals they were particular about washing their faces very clean. They seemed to put more than the usual amount of water on their hair and combed it back slicker than they had been in the habit of doing.

All this seemed to have no effect upon Mrs. McGuire's help. She was as demure, retiring and modest as when she first arrived. There was one boarder who loved the pretty waiter girl with the consuming passion of a secret affection. He scarcely dare raise his eyes to her, he was so diffident. The flutter of her dress was sufficient to cause every nerve in though its walls were of lincrusta and his body to tremble. If she spoke to him, he was sure to put a lump of butter in his coffee or sprinkle sugar all over his plate during the ensuing moment of confusion. This boarder was "Chihuahua" Brown. He was so reserved in his manner, so quiet and gentlemanly that Doris was naturally attracted to him. They became friends, and gradually "Chihuahua" Brown learned of the past life of Doris Ware. Her father had been a man of wealth; he was a speculator. A bad investment had left him almost penniless. He lacked the moral courage to face adversity, and in a moment of desperation and despondency he blew out his brains.

The shock almost killed his wife, a woman of a delicate, nervous temperament. His daughter Doris rose superior to the occasion. She supported her mother from the rather small wages she earned in a store. One day she read an tisement in a western paper, "Ten girls wanted for light, easy occupations in the mountains; wages, $25 per week." With such large wages she could comfortably support her mother. The amount was more than twice as much as she had been receiving. She had used her meager savings to come west, only to find that "the light, easy occupation" for which the 10 young girls were wanted was to serve beer in a dance hall in Leadville. Being almost without money she took the first place she could get. It was her present one-waitress in Mrs. McGuire's restaurant.

"Chihuahua" determined that the girl should not longer work in the restaurant. But what could he do? There was no other occupation in which she could engage and remain in Pyrites, and he could not bear the thought of sending her away. If she remained in Pyrites without working, it would subject her to foul suspicion and make her a general subject for scandal.

Well, there was one thing which ought to be done, if it could be done. One September morning "Chihuahua" Brown bade adieu to Pyrites for a short time and went up to his mines on Snowshoe mountain. Before going he laid in a large supply of writing paper, some big, thick pointed pens, a bottle of ink and some blank mining deeds.

The miners working adjoining claims noticed that "Chihuahua" Brown was paler than usual. His manner was less reserved. He was nervous and excited at times. He sat up late at night writing and always concluded by tearing up what he had written. One night when he was thus engaged one of the men working on the night shift came to the door and yelled:

"Chihuahua! Chihuahua! Come into the mine and look at the stuff we've got in there-we've struck it big."

"Chihuahua" hurried into the mine.

It was a beautiful September afternoon in Pyrites. The mountains were covered with wild flowers, and here and with identical marks. "Aye, but doctor," gold. Doris went for a stroll early in the afternoon. She gathered the flowers as she went along, and almost every step revealed some new beauty of the floral kingdom. Her mind was not so much upon the flowers as it was upon him—big, bearded, honest, manly "Chihuahua" Brown. She had received a letter from her mother that morning, in which a remittance of $100 was acknowledged. The letter to her mother had been sent by "Chihuahua" Brown, and he had stated therein that the $100 was a part of the proceeds from a mine in which Doris had an interest with him. The money was badly needed by the mother, and her gratitude was almost extravagantly expressed.

Doris strolled on, thinking of the generosity of "Chihuahua," and the secret, delicate method he had taken of showing

It was time to return. The shadows began to gather on the mountains, and darkness would soon be upon her.

She started back to the trail; but, alas, there was no trail where she thought it should be. Again she located in her mind's eye the place where she had left the trail in her search for flowers, but there was no trail when she arrived there. It was almost dark. She realized that she was lost. Lost in the mountains, lost in a little basin, with the town of Pyrites just over a small ridge. But this

Higher up in the basin she saw a light. It came from a miner's cabin. She started there. It was very much farther than she thought it was. It seemed at least an hour before she arrived at the little cabin from the windows of which the light streamed out upon the dark mountain. The door was slightly open. Doris knocked. No answer. She entered the

There was a fire in the stove, for the night was chill. A neat little bunk with clean blankets and coverlid stood in one corner. There was a mining map upon the wall. A bucket of water and a washbasin were near the door. Candles and miners' candlesticks were stuck in the log crevices. In the center of the room was a table covered with writing paper. On the table was a light that had guided her to the place-a candle stuck in the mouth of an empty bottle.

What was this? A mining deed. Maxwell H. Brown to Doris Ware, a onehalf interest in the Goodness Gracious

A letter—she must not read it. Her name? Why, what could this mean?

DEAR MISS DORIS—All my life I have been going it alone, and I'm getting tired of it. I want a pard—a pardner, I mean—and that's you. I took you into pardnership on the Goodness Gracious lode last month. Will you be my pard for life and have a regular warranty deed made out by Parson Wilson? I never was in love till I met you. I don't know how this affair will pan out, but I don't think I'll be able to winter through /without you. I know my to winter through /without you. Answer me quick. If I don't get an answer, I'm afraid I'll hurt some of the boys, because I don't know what I'm doing half the time. Please marry me—will you? And oblige, yours respectfully,

MAXWELL H. BROWN. Just as Doris finished reading she heard a step, a heavy step, at the door. She grabbed the pen and wrote in large letters at the bottom of the sheet: My answer is yes.

Some one was bending over her. Some one had seen her write; some one saw that plain, big "Yes," and she was gathered tight in a pair of strong arms and felt a fervent kiss upon her lips.

Another step at the door. It was "Galena" Mike, a miner.

"Chihuahua," he said, "there's an foot vein of that stuff, and it will run at least $1,000 to the ton."

"Chihuahua" did not answer Mike, but Doris heard him say: "I wouldn't give one minute like this for 8,000,000 tons of it."—Richard H. Linthicum in New York World.

Giving a Daughter Away In the Orient. In the east-in India, China and Japan

-girls are married very young. With us they would still be considered children and would be in bibs and pinafores. But over there girls of 12 are considered of full marriageable age, and it is not at all uncommon to find wives of 6 or 8 or 10 years. When a proposal of marriage is made, the father of the young girl is applied to, and the following style of answer is considered stylish and elegant:

"I have received with respect the marks of your goodness. The choice that you deign to make of my daughter to become the wife of your son shows that you esteem my poor danghter more than she deserves. My daughter is coarse and stupid, and I have not had the talent to bring her up well. Yet I shall nevertheless glory in obeying you on this occa-

This is the proper and accepted mode of reply. But fortunately for the girl wives of the east individuals are often kinder than the law itself, so that a family is often bound together by happy and cordial relations, such as could not Mich. exist if a man really felt his wife to be coarse and stupid.—Kansas City Times.

A Bumptious Doctor.

An amusing instance of bumptiousness and affectation of superior knowledge on the part of a medical man receiving a wholesome check at the hands of a juryman is recorded in Lord Cockburn's "Circuit Journeys." A woman was being tried for the murder of her child, and it appeared from the evidence that the child's throat was crammed full of bits of coal, and that there were marks of a thumb and two fingers on the outside of the neck.

These practical tests, however, had little effect upon medical opinion. Whenever any of the murderous appearances, such as the finger marks on the neck, were put to one of the doctors called for the defense, the scientific gentleman, to show his experience, stated that however much these things might startle the ignorant they were of no consequence to a person of large practice, and that he him-self had seen hundreds of children born ent from any biscuit shooter ever I see."

Friendship Between a Horse and a Dog. A plumber at Narragansett had a horse 27 years old, which was used for carrying around his master's material when that was necessary, but spent most of its time in a small pasture. A fox terrier. also belonging to the plumber, was an inseparable companion of the old horse. When the old horse was harnessed to the cart the dog was on guard to see that nothing was stolen from the cart. In the pasture the dog was always sniffing around the horse and was never so delighted as when the horse would begin to roll in the grass, which it often did, apparently to please the dog, which would jump about in every direction and bark for pure joy.

At night when the horse was put in the barn the dog always entered with its friend and slept on the animal's body. One day the neighbors heard the most dismal howls coming from the pasture and found that the old horse had died. There was the terrier on the dead body, howling out its sorrow and misery. The dog remained with the body until it was removed for burial. - New York Tribune.

A Pocket Life Saving Apparatus. In 1874 Lieutenant Brunel of Dieppe introduced his pocket life saving lines, of which already upward of 3,340 are being used in France, where they now rescue annually some 285 lives. Nevertheless these admirable inventions are almost unknown in our empire. Brunel's small pocket line consists of a wooden float, round which some 90 feet of stout cord is wound. The other end of the cord terminates in an efficient grapnel armed with four small hooks. The whole apparatus complete weighs only five ounces and is the most convenient of all life saving lines. Hence I urge its adoption everywhere, especially for officials freight cars,' and at II p. m., after and others engaged about our coasts and inland waters. What You Shoot In China.

A naval officer once told the writer that pheasant shooting in China was very fair and would be really good if there were not so many obstacles about to enjoying it comfortably. Imitation In the Matter of Dress.

Imitation is one of the most marked characteristics of human nature, and in nothing is this more noticeable than in the matter of dress. Metal Ties For Roadbeds.

Numerous metal ties have been invented and many railroads have tried them, but all have proved unsatisfactory. The principal objections to them are based on their cost and their nonelasticity. A track laid on metal ties wears out rolling stock much faster than one laid on timber.-New York Tribune.

MAKING LIQUID AIR.

A SCIENTIST EXPLAINS HIS CHEM-ICAL DISCOVERIES.

Professor Dewar's Experiments May Prove to Be the Greatest Investigations of the Century-Powerful Gases Reduced to a

The Pall Mall Budget of London published an interview with Professor James Dewar on what is represented as being "a great scientific discovery," that of making liquid air. Introductory to the interview the article says that "his liqnefactions of permanent gases and the use of vama to preserve great cold mark one of the most important chemical discoveries of the century." It is held by scientists that any gas may be liquefied if the pressure and cold may be obtained and a vessel of sufficient strength to withstand the great pressures.

Of the gases that may be liquefied carbonic acid gas has been found to be the cheapest and readiest made, and while it has been known for many years that it could be liquified it has generally been so prepared only in small quantities for scientific uses. The use of compressed air as a motive power has presented many difficulties, the principal one being its bulkiness: hence large vessels must be used in order to get a sufficient amount of motive power, and it is hard to make these strong enough and at the same tir. light in weight.

As a motive power it is used at a presure of from 600 to 900 pounds. But if Professor Dewar has discovered an economical and ready way of liquefying it, it will tend to solve a problem in carrying a motive power in storage bulk that will be of great benefit to the students in this line. In the talk with the representative of The Pall Mall Budget, he says: 'Well, I don't think there's very much to say, because I've told all I have to tell about the matter in my two lectures, but I do believe there's a great deal more to be learned about the subject. You see, at present we've got these gases down to 210 degrees below zero, and the lowest possible temperature is 274 degrees below. If we could get some 30 degrees lower down, we might liquefy hydrogen. Hydrogen has never been liquefied in a free state yet.

'Now, it's a strange thing that air can be made into a homogeneous fluid. You would think, as oxygen can be liquefied at -182 degrees and nitrogen not until -192 degrees, that as you made the air colder and colder the oxygen would become liquid first and then the nitrogen. I saw that prediction made in a standard work only the other day. Now, I dare say, you will ask why the oxygen don't come down first."

Stepping quickly back to the desk Professor Dewar took up a pencil and began to draw with rapid strokes on the back of a letter. The diagram when it was finished looked more like the law of diminishing returns turned up on one side than anything else that I am acquainted While he drew he rapidly explained how the influence of atmospheric pressure on the different volumes of nitrogen and oxygen in air makes them boil almost exactly at the same temperature. As he made each point he frowned a little, drawing up the wrinkles between his eyes. "Now, that, in the old theological days, would have been taken as a providential dispensation. The strange thing is that when liquid air evaporates again they are under the same pressure, and the nitrogen goes off first, as you

"Ozone can be liquefied by acting on the vapor given off from liquid oxygen by electricity. It is a splendid dark blue color, almost as dark as indigo. Ozone has not the same molecule as oxygen, and the electricity breaks up three twos into two threes. That is the secret of it. The queer thing about liquid ozone is that when it goes back into gas again it explodes. You wouldn't think it, but it is stronger than dynamite as an explosive. It's simply because the ozone goes back into the molecular form of oxygen so fast. The force that comes from the electricity makes it explode without meeting with any outside body. It's a tremendous explosive.

"We have discovered that liquid oxygen acts as a lens. It is so transparent to heat, so to speak, that even at 182 degrees below zero you can focus heat on it from one side and light a piece of paper by it on the other. You know that's just what happens in the earth. The sun's heat gets focussed on to the earth through the lens formed by the vacuum of space, which is so cold that it hasn't any temperature at all-absolutely zero.

Professor Dewar gave a lecture on "Liquid Air" at the Royal institution in the presence of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Lord Salisbury and other notable persons. He showed that by the withdrawal of heat the air is converted into a liquid with total loss of chemical properties, incapable of supporting comoustion, or of entering into combination even with phosphorus and sodium, while certain physical properties remain. The conversion of oxygen into ozone was also described, and the retention by oxygen of its peculiar optical properties at the lowest temperature was demonstrated by the very dense and well defined bands of its spectrum. In ordinary conditions oxygen shows no unreasonable thermal absorption, but at low temperature its thermal absorptive power becomes mani-

May Be Worse.

"What is more awful to contemplate," said a lecturer, glaring about him, "than the relentless power of the maelstrom?" And a henpecked looking man in the rear of the building softly replied, "Femalestrom."-Exchange.

Trained Fish.

Fish have many times been taught to perform tricks, and it would appear as if they had much more intelligence than is attributed to them. Mr. J. A. Bailey of circus fame once had two brook trout in a small aquarium in his private residence that would jump out of the water and take files held between the forefinger and thumb and would also ring a little bell when they required food. They would also leap over little bars of wood placed about two inches above the surface of the water.

It is a very simple matter to teach the fish these tricks. At first a little tower containing a tiny, sweet toned silver bell was fastened to the iron work of the aquarium with a piece of string attached to the tongue of the bell extending into the water where the trout were. On the loose end of the string an insect or other tempting morsel was placed, which the fish would at once seize, and pulling the cord the bell in the tower would naturally tinkle. After this had been repeated several days the fish were left without food for some little time until they made the discovery that they could obtain it by pulling at the string to which the delicacies had been attached. This they never failed to do ever afterward when they were hungry and as that was nearly all the time the little bell was constantly tingling as the fish were continually pulling the cord, and it was quite a pretty and novel sight .-New York Herald.

The Hawaiian Death Prayer.

Upon the minds of such a people as the Hawaiians were, while under their ancient form of religion, it was but natural that superstition should gain a rooted hold. The most curious and effective belief to which they were made death-a belief that survives among the natives to the present day. For the sucsess of the tragical death prayer it was necessary to obtain some hair or a piece of finger nail of the intended victim. A priest was then employed to use incantation and prayer for his destruction. Al ways informed of the doom that the priest was invoking upon him, the victim generally pined away and died.

There is a story current that an Englishman in the service of Kamehameha I, having incurred the displeasure of a priest, the latter proceeded to "remove" him by the death-prayer process. The Anglo-Saxon, however, set up an opposition altar in derision, and jokingly proclaimed that he intended to pray the priest to death. Alarmed at the threat and overwhelmed at the failure of his own incantations, the sorcerer died, proving by his death his faith in his religion. -E. Ellsworth Carey in Californian.

He Was Hls Own Grandfather.

Of all genealogical curiosities the one set forth below is probably the oddesta singular piece of reasoning to prove that a man may be his own grandfather! Here it is: There was a widow (Anne) and her daughter (Jane) and a man (George) and his son (Henry). This widow married the son, and the daughter married the father. The widow was therefore mother (in law) to her husband's father and grandmother to her own husband. By this husband she had a son (David), to whom she was of course great-grandmother. Now, the son of a there was no material gain for either great-grandmother must be grandfather side. or granduncle to the person to whom his mother was or is great-grandmother, but in this instance Anne was greatgrandmother to him (David), therefore David could not be other than his own grandfather.-St. Louis Republic

Colonel Hale's Short Visit to Town.

Colonel Hale blew into a rapidly growing western town recently and quickly grasped the fact that there was no cable road. With everything gone but a silk hat and $125, he spent $100 for admission in a swell local club and proceeded to exist on the remaining $25. He gathered about him the leading moneyed men and laid bare the scheme of millions in a cable road. He agreed to obtain the franchise and put it through for $30,000, part of which was to paid down as a guarantee of good faith. The colonel dusted up his silk hat and attacked the aldermen next. By dint of promising and pompous appearance of wealth he secured an ordinance, was voted stock, drew what was coming to him and blew out again, leaving every one to wonder .- St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Drummers In King Henry's Time. King Henry V had a band which discoursed sweet music during his expedition to Harfleur, each member being recompensed for his services with the sum of 12 pence per diem. When the citizens of London were mustered in the thirty-first year of the reign of Henry my daughter, 'Gretchen, how do you VIII, we hear that "before every stand- spell borax?" and what do you suppose ard was appointed one dromslade at the least." Each company of 100 men at this time possessed a couple of drum- more common sense lessons and not so mers. - All the Year Round.

SIXTEEN YEARS OF EUCHRE.

Nearly 20,000 Games, and One Side Only 154 Games Ahead.

Twenty thousand games of euchre! This is the record of the play of the four Chicago gentlemen who have sat every Saturday evening for the past 16 years and engaged in that game which generally marks the initiation of every novice into the never ending mysteries of cards. Daniel Westervelt and C. L. Root have played against Thomas Benton James and James Taylor. They have been urged many times to play whist or casino or pinochle or seven up, but never for one moment have they swerved from their devotion to euchre.

To be absolutely correct, these four euchre players, these two pairs of faithful adherents to the powers of bowers, reached their nineteen thousand six hundred and fiftieth game of euchre Saturday evening, and upon the occasion of the twenty thousandth game each of the players intends arriving at the scene of play smoking a 50-cent cigar. Except on holidays or anniversaries, it is said, they are supremely indifferent to the quality of the tobacco they burn.

Thomas Benton James is a pensioner of the wholesale house of Marshall Field & Co. He was a general salesman for that firm and its predecessors for 23 years, and about two years ago was placed upon the retired list with continued pay for services rendered. He is a sprightly gentleman of mature years, which he places at 69, but which his friends usually speak of as being some where under 100. Mr. James' partner is James Taylor, a congenial companion with a life record of 70 years. It is said that James Taylor can indicate by a graduated system of pressure upon the foot of Thomas Benton James whether he is holding right, left and ace, ten spot and queen, or no trumps at all. Daniel Westervelt is 73 years old. He was a salesman for Field, Leiter & Co., afterward for A. T. Stewart & Co., and finally for Storm & Hill, retiring when the latter firm retired. C. L. Root is the "boy" of the quartet. He is only 63 and is considered rather wild and frisky by his companions. Mr. Root drove stage between Blue Island and Chicago during the result of the stage of the properties of the county of Market in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned administrator of the county of Washtenaw, on the 3lst day of March A. D. 1893, there will be sold at public Vendue, to the highest bidder, at the east front door of the County of Washtenaw in said State, on Monday the 22nd day of May A. Every Saturday night as regularly as the week rolls around these four cronies meet and play euchre. They shift about, like sittings of the supreme court, from one house to another, but they always sit in the same chairs and in the same relative positions. Almost eight years ago Mr. James brought to a meeting a copy of "Cavendish on Whist," for which he came near being expelled from the society.

The four players have become so attached to the simple game of euchre that it is now a part of their very natures, and in the 16 years of their weekly contests only on an occasional case of sickness, to the number of three or four times in all, has canceled the engagement of either player. A complete record of the games is kept to show which side leads from year to year. At present Mr. James and his partner are 154 games ahead of their opponents. At the ten thousandth game they were 192 games in the lead, but have been losing for the last two years. For a period of five years

All four of these lifetime euchreists are gentlemen rather simple in their customs, disinclined to adopt the intricacies of whist or the novelty of cinch, and are unwilling to concede that some Saturday night three of their number will meet at the appointed place, light their cigars, get the cards in readiness and wait for one who will never deal the cards again. -Chicago News-Record

A Scene In a Town Meeting.

To a city man town meetings are a novelty. I attended one some years ago over which an ex-governor presided. The various reports had been acted upon, and finally was read by the moderator an article on the amount of money the town should appropriate for the support of the schools this year.

The question had hardly been put when a citizen with a pronounced German accent jumped up, and with a roguish twinkle in his eye said: "Mr. Moderator, I want to ask the taxpayers to think a little while before we appropriate so much money as we did last year. What is de use of supporting a high school in this town if the childrens spend their time learning how many legs a straddlebug has got, when they can't answer some of the simplest questions. I want my boys and girls to learn something practical. The other day I wanted to write a letter to order some borax that I use in my business, and I said to she said? She said she didn't know. I tell you, gentlemen, what we want is much straddlebugs business."-Boston Globe.

The Wagner Concert.

A large and appreciative audience reeted Anton Seidl, the greatest living Wagner interpreter, as he came forward to direct the Tannhauser overture last evening, in University hall. The version given, known as the "Paris version," develops at length the "Venus music," and represents a perfect whirl of voluptuous excitement a veritable orgie. The superb quality of the "brass," the brilliancy and virility of the 'strings," and the exquisite refinement of the "wood-wind" were admirably displayed in this selection. Seidl is a magnetic, inspiring conductor, and his readings reveal his intellectuality. No one can conduct the great works which were on the together or separately. Inquire at 50 Thompintellectuality. The "Prelude" Lohengrin, that bit of musical tracery, was given with great delicacy of style. 'The superb rendering of the duet between Ostend and Elsa, prepared the way for Miss Juch's triumph in "Elsa's Dream." Miss Juch is one of the greatest vocal artists we have at this time, and she aroused genuine enthusiasm last evening.

Tristan and Isolde is justly considered one of the greatest, if not the greatest of Wagner's works. Isolde's Lament and Death portray the grief of Isolde as she finds Tristan dying more perfectly than words, SPRING MILLINERY and the effect is overpowering, especially to those who by an intimate acquaintance with the music can appreciate the wonderful weaving together of the ideas.

The Meistersinger quintette revealed the purely melodic side of Wagner; that is, melody in somewhat conventional style. In reality Wagner's music is nothing but melody. It is so rich in melody, the melodies are so interwoven, that the impression of those listening to his music for the first time is simply that of amazement.

The Grand Scene of the Walkures was a wonderfully vivid picture of the characteristics of these FLOUR AND FEED STORE warrior maidens. The scene represents the gathering together of Brunhilde's sister Walkures to shield | BREAD, CRACKERS, CAKES, &o. her from Wotan's wrath. It was superbly given.

Of the singer next to Miss Juch, Miss Stein must be awarded the honors of the evening. "Siegfried and the Bird" is a wonderful tone picture. Siegfried hearing the birds sing, wishes that he might understand their song, and thinks that by imitating the song on his horn it may become possible for him to GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS do so. The bird is singing Sieg-8 15,325.41 fried's past history and the history of his ancestors. After the struggle with the dragon, through tasting its | Produce generally.

After which, the chair having stated been pictured to us through the tropical motives in the orchestra.

More mournful funeral music than Siegfreid's Death has never been penned. It gives us a march which s at the same time a funeral oration, Yeas—Ald. Wines, Schairer, Morton, for the march is made up of typical motives illustrating the whole life of motives illustrating the whole life of motives illustrating the whole life of the dead hero.

The Flower Maiden scene from Parsifal was finely done. The enormous difficulties make it well nigh impossible to do it justice, but a more perfect performance of this scene has never been given.

All in all, it was the most superb concert ever held in Ann Arbor, and it was fitting that our great University should become acquainted worth 7e and 8c, for one week. with representative works of the greatest dramatic genius since Shakespeare, interpreted by such a rare conductor as Anton Seidl.
