POPULIST MEETING.

The Fifteenth Annual Farmer's Picnic Turns Out One.

A THOUSAND PEOPLE LISTEN TO WEAVER.

In Spite of the Pouring Rain—Weaver Terms It a Populist Meeting and Makes a Strong Speech for His Hobby.

The fifteenth annual picnic of the farmers of Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties was held on the fair grounds in this city on Wednesday. It threatened rain all the morning, but in spite of this fact a thousand people gathered on the grand stand and the addition covered with awning, to hear General Weaver speak. At the time for the meeting to open the clouds were very heavy, and soon burst into a torrent of rain. The awning leaked so that those on the addition crowded over under the water-proof roof. In point of attendance, considering the weather, the picnic was a success. So also was it in the interest shown in the speech of the day. But the features of a basket picnic were nearly lost sight of. It looked and sounded more like a populist political meeting than a farmers' picnic. As a political meeting it was a decided success. Those who had rented privileges on the grounds had little or nothing to do. The crowd assembled only to hear the speaking, and dispersed as soon as it was over. President Wood, of the organization, was absent, and the meeting was called to order by R. C. Reeves, of Dexter, the secretary, at half past two, who asked President Wood, if present, to come forward. After a moment Mr. Reeves announced that he had just been told that Mr. Woods' wife was sick, so that he would be unable to be present. So Mr. Reeves presided.

Mayor Thompson made the address of welcome, saying in substance that there was something more than the cordial greeting the city always extends to those who visit it. The greeting had the flavor of that old friends extend to one another. Ann Arbor recognizes her old friends in the great body of men assembled. There is an old rule that times change and we change with them. But it sometimes happens that we fail to keep in touch with the times. Something like that has happened to some of the farmers of Michigan. You have been plowing and sowing as your fathers did before you, and have failed to recognize fully that the market conditions of the world have changed and you have been suddenly overwhelmed with the great harvests of the west. The Michigan farmer with land worth $50 an acre cannot compete with land in the west worth $10 an acre, which raises wheat put down in Liverpool at a cost of only two cents a bushel more than it costs the Michigan farmer for transportation. Less than a generation ago, the farmer's success depended almost exclusively upon his industry and economy. The man who was industrious and economical was certain to succeed. But today there must be something besides work and frugality to bring success. The successful farmer must not only till his broad acres, but he must forecast the markets of the future. He must know what to sow, in order to sell profitably. Today the farmer must manure his land with the costly manure of brains. Scarcely a factory fifty years ago called for mechanical supplies and skill that the farm requires today. Now, the wit and wisdom of the intellect is more surely polished by rubbing and polishing against other intellects. Hence the advantage of these meetings, and frequently more is learned by an intellect holding adverse views coming in contact with yours. The mayor said he was not present to discuss the financial question. The money famine had struck him years ago, and he didn't know but what it was a little unkind to remind him of it on festive occasions of this kind. He had been told that the government could make a treasury note for two and three-tenths mills. The question is, how can we exchange five mills for a five dollar treasury note and make the other fellow take it at par? How can we obtain money at less than it is worth, and make the other fellow take it at par? He said, I give place to a man whose attention has been given to these questions for years, whose ability, genius and eloquence may throw some light on this question:

Gen. James B. Weaver, the populist candidate for president at the last election, who polled 1,300,000 votes, was then introduced. He had begun his speech saying that it was the first time he had ever been in the city of Ann Arbor, but Ann Arbor's fame had gone abroad; her institution of learning and the enterprise of her people were well understood throughout the republic, when the rain came down in torrents and interrupted the speaking. In a few moments after the General and some of his hearers had got in out of the wet, he mounted the reporters table and proceeded, his speech being in substance as follows:

I am glad to have the opportunity of talking to you to day. I come in the spirit of patriotism and charity for all. I concede that there are patriotic people in all political parties of the county. I have learned in my brief political career that other men can be as honest as myself and still differ with me in politics and religion. Now let us consider what is for the best interest of the whole country and what has brought it into the calamitous situation in which it now is. I feel the same now as I did when I stepped to the front in the late war and said, take my life to save my country. This is the spirit in which I ask you to-day to approach this subject. The only thing I am afraid of is human prejudice. It has done more harm than pestilence or famine. It is said that we have a great country and so we have. It will be conceded that we have more people and more wealth than ever before. There is as much property and as many people anxious to sell as in any other period of the history of the country. But you can't convert your property into money. Your products are being sold at less than cost of production. It will be conceded that God has done his full share in throwing the harvests of the world into the laps of the people. It will be conceded that the farmers are industrious, frugal and economical. Now what is the matter? Every man says something is wrong. I hate to hear a man say it is above my powers of comprehension. God made you with a head. What for? To follow some one's lead? Oh, no; Had He intended you to be led He would have put a handle in place of the head. Such a man is afraid to inquire what is the matter. He is afraid one of his idols will have to be taken down. What is the matter? Is it the election of a democratic administration? I can prove that it is by every republican editor. But how can it be when every law in force is a republican law enforced in the same manner as before. Then how is it possible that this has cursed the country and brought on business paralysis?

Then, on the other hand, it is said that it is the result of the Sherman law and that is purely and simply a republican picnic, passed by a republican congress, signed by a republican president and fathered by Sherman, a republican leader. President Cleveland says its the Sherman law but I don't believe that President Cleveland believed that when he said it. How can the Sherman law produce the ills under which we are suffering to-day? Why: there it is, a little innocent looking law less than three years old. It simply provides that the secretary of the treasury shall purchase 4,000,000 ounces of pure silver each month and shall issue legal tender notes for it payable in coin. The third section says he shall coin up enough of this bullion to redeem these notes when presented. Notice that these notes are payable in coin and not in gold. Now, how could that bill take a single gold dollar out of the treasury, for the secretary can pay it in silver if he sees fit. The notes and the silver dollars are worth a hundred cents on the dollar. Its a fraud and a lying pretense to pay these notes in gold. Foreigners presented three million and a half of these notes and demanded of the republican secretary of the treasury that they be paid in gold. Had that republican secretary of the treasury stood up for the people and said these notes are payable in silver, take that or nothing, you would have had a republican president to-day. He allowed foreigners to come here and demand gold and repudiate the contract. The government flies into a panic and cried things are going to the bad because we issue silver dollars. It isn't possible that the Sherman act has driven a single gold dollar out of the country.

Now if the panic is not the result of the election of a democratic administration or the Sherman law, what is the cause? Go back with me to that blessed period in our history when the Angel of Peace folded her wings and cried aloud to both armies: "Put up your swords, the war is over." How many people had we living in the northern states when the war closed? Less than 25,000,000. There were 10,000,000 in the southern states or 35,000,000 all told. Where was the money in circulation when the war closed? Every dollar of it in the north among 25,000,000 people. The south hadn't any money. Their money went down in a single day. What kind of times had we in the North at the close of the war? Never since man became civilized were times so prosperous, money so plenty, prices so high. People were out of debt and paying cash as they went. I take my witnesses with me. I hold here a document that caused me to leave the republican party. That same document kept me from going into the democratic party. It's no populist document. It's a republican document, the report of Hugh McCullough, secretary of the treasury in 1865. I quote from page 183. "Notwithstanding the ravages of the war, the condition of the country is far in advance of what it was in 1857. The people are now comparatively free from debt." On page 186. "It is undoubtedly true that trade is carried on for cash much more largely than in 1861." How much money had we in circulation among the 25,000,000 people of the North? John J. Knox, the great comptroller of the treasury, about four years after the war, stated the public debt to be $2,907,000,426, of which $1,540,000, were treasury notes. Besides these was the temporary loan payable in thirty days which would bring the currency up to $1,707,000,000. Then there was $168,000,000 national bank currency, $78,000,000 state bank currency and $190,000,000 specie, making a total circulation medium of $2,143,000,000 or over $85 per capita for every man, woman and child in the North. No wonder times were good when the war closed and that wheat was worth $2 a bushel. That was your condition then. There was more joy around the fireside of the farmer and laborers of the north then there ever has been since.

When Lee and Johnson surrendered, 10,000,000 of Uncle Sam's prodigal sons came home without a dollar in their pockets. There was 40 per cent increase in population in a single day. Your money had to be taken away from you to be sent down South, and they needed it more than you did, because they didn't have any. They took away $700,000,000 of our money. They were entitled to it. This very McCullough said: There is an immense volume of paper currency in circulation. There is so much money that it is undermining the morals of the people. There is so much money they won't work. The only remedy is to contract the currency. Destroy the currency, and in three months one billion of it was taken out of circulation and put into interest-bearing bonds. What was the result? Why, the panic of 1873. That was it that introduced the rava avis, the tramp. Here we are now in 1893. Hard times all the way between, and a panic at each end. If after the populists or any other party shall have been in power thirty years, and shall have cursed the country with two panics, don't you think it about time for them to retire?

Suppose my friend has a family of ten children, who grow up, marry and have thirty more children, and finally lose their money and come home. Would he take his wife to one side and say: "Wife, we have some greenbacks in the bank and have been getting along pretty well, but here are forty of our children we must feed? Uncle Sam in the same circumstances burned up his greenbacks. What's good for Uncle Sam is good for my family. Let us burn up the greenbacks and put a mortgage on the farm." That's what your secretary of the treasury recommended at the close of the war.

How much money have we now in circulation? We have 65,000,000 people, 40,000,000 more human beings added to our money using population, over 150 per cent increase. That increases the demand for money over 150 per cent. Now I want you to remember that the demand for money is equal to the sum of the demand for all other things. When a lady wants a dress she first demands the money to pay for it. The reporter who wants a hat demands first the money. Now, ac-ording to the books, for this 65,000,000 people we have $1,600,000,000 money, or $500,000,000 less than 25,000,000 people had. What's the matter? It's the empty pocketbook. That's what's the matter. Not a dollar's increase in circulating medium, but an actual decrease of $500,000,000. Then if you take out what is lost and destroyed, what was used up in the fine arts and what is hoarded, what have you left? Grand Senator Plumb in congress said: "I defy any agent of the money power to show that we have over $600,000,000 in circulation." The national banks are not willing to let us have another dollar unless the government will give it to the banks.

Your land isn't worth more than half what it was. Who has got the difference in the value of your farm? You may be sure it hasn't been destroyed. But you haven't got it and your son hasn't got it. You will find it piled up in the brown stone fronts in Boston and on Wall street. The curse that has come over this entire country is a money famine. The gold bugs concede it when they want to let the banks issue more currency. These farmers say when they get into power they are going to put more money in circulation, gold, silver and paper, all issued by the government and not by the banks, and all legal tender, and no man is to be allowed to make a contract to be payable in one only. They are going to give you free and unlimited coinage of the good old-fashioned Andrew Jackson silver dollar.

The old politicians say: "My God! the country will be ruined. Europe will dump all her silver over on us." They have got no silver to spare. If they should dump it over on us, they wouldn't give it to us. They would take our wheat. But they say they would dump it over and take our gold away. Is there any gold dealer here? Who has got the gold? The banks. They won't part with it unless they get something for it, will they? The government can't trade, so that the government will not be called upon to pay the balance of trade with the gold in the treasury. The balance of trade implies that somebody has bought more than he has sold. Let's not buy more than we sell. Then how can they get our gold away from us?

But they say your silver dollar hasn't got a dollar's worth of bullion in it, and it won't go in Europe. We don't want our money to go to Europe. The people are going to make money that will stay at home and transact business here. That is what's the matter with gold. When we want it, it is gone abroad. Gold is a coward's money.

Here is the Bland silver dollar, containing 412 1/2 grains nine-tenths fine, and I assert that I can buy as much with it as I can with a gold dollar. The bullion in it is only worth 60 cents in the market, but the dollar in it is worth 100 cents. Which do you want, the bullion or the dollar? Now suppose you double the bullion and make it 825 grains, it would still be a dollar. What a spectacle a man makes of himself who wants a dollar's worth of bullion in his dollar. I can strike this dollar a blow with a sledge and knock the dollar out of it without knocking a cent's worth of bullion out of it.

Here are two half dollars containing only 365 grains, and I can buy as much with them and pay as much as I can with the big dollar. The value is there, because the law says it shall be a legal tender. Where is the dollar? It isn't in the metal. It's in the law. Aristotle said centuries ago that money was the creature of law, and not the product of nature. God never made a dollar. Put a dollar's worth of bullion in your dollar and it will go away from home when you want it.

The world brings her goods over here in boats, buys our products and ships them back. The world will take anything that will buy our products. During the war we hadn't any specie. Yet the world was glad to buy our products and bring things over here. Great Britain for twenty years had nothing but an incontrovertible paper money, and during that time she built her empire around the world.

Our greatest need is an independent American system of finance. If we have a foreign system, the old world dominates our finances. It is a long way from Jackson to Cleveland. I never will give my voice to any system of finance where a non-resident alien interferes in its administration.

WITHOUT THE
Non-pull-out
BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

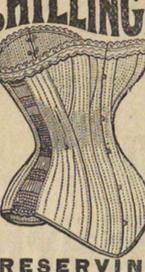

This idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that in case of a pull or twist it is pulled or twisted off.

NEVER A FAILURE.

The Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota has never had a failure of crops. It produced 30,000,000 bushels of wheat besides other cereals in 1890. Farms can be had on the crop plan, or long time cash payments. It is not an uncommon thing to pay for a farm from the proceeds of one crop. It has all of the advantages of an old country in the shape of school, church, market, postal & railway facilities and all the chances of a new country in the way of cheap lands, rich soil, and increase in values. It is one of the most fertile and promising regions in America not yet fully occupied. In the rush to the far west, however, this rich valley has been over-looked. It has room for a million more people.

Hits the nail on the head—one of Dr. Figo's Pleasant Pellets. They do the right thing in the right way. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels—thoroughly and effectively, but mildly and gently. They persuade, rather than force. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet's a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, but the best. There's less to take, but there's more good in it, when it's taken. They're the original Little Liver Pills, and they've never been equaled. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured. They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for value received. Can you ask more?

A Spanish oak eight feet in diameter at the base was cut down near Georgetown, Sussex county, Delaware, a few days since, and from this giant was squared a stick of timber sixty feet long and two feet square from end to end. To cut, hew and haul this great stick cost $71. Fourteen mules and a yoke of oxen were required to haul it to the railroad at Georgetown.

A NARROW ESCAPE!
How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was both discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it, as I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. I weigh 135 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130 1/2. Its effect in my case has been truly marvelous. It far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Pottsville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an English specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 18, 1893.

The Argus, in pursuance of its policy of giving all sides a fair hearing, prints Gen. Weaver's speech practically in full. It does not now desire to discuss it further than to call attention to the apparent discrepancy between his statements concerning the per capita circulation of money with those found in the Chicago News Almanac, which over the table says that the table was prepared at the Treasury department. In 1865, according to this table, there was a per capita circulation of $20.57, in 1869 of $17.60, and in 1890 of $23.45. It will be remembered that General Weaver's figures were $85 and $9. This strikes at the very root of his argument concerning the cause of hard times.

A DESPAIRING WAIL.

The Inter Ocean is sick. The Inter Ocean is sad. The Inter Ocean no longer puts its trust in the Republican party. Thus and thus and thus:

"There are Democrats, and many of them, who do not believe in a policy that will cheapen American labor, and there are a few Republicans who are not thoroughly imbued with the doctrine of protection. Democrats who believe in protection should have the courage to express their belief, and to vote as they believe in regard to fiscal matters. Protection has been the American policy, and under it America has passed from the state of poorest to that of richest among civilized nations. The mere shadow of free trade has produced alarm; the mere possibility of tariff for revenue only has weakened confidence in the continued prosperity of the country. It is for the patriotic elements of both of the great parties to bid the shadow flee, to dispel the alarm, and to restore confidence by requiring Congress and the President to make an early and plain declaration of their intentions in regard to tariff."

The Inter Ocean reaches out in the dark. It cries aloud in the wilderness. It reads the riddle of the stars a-wrong. There are no Democrats of the kind it imagines and describes to answer its call. Wherever you find a fellow of that ilk, who pretends to be Democrat, he is a prevaricator, a prevaricator Republican, a coward, who is afraid to claim his soul as his own, a hypocrite, who is ashamed of his opinions, and who, if tempted, would sell his Maker for half what Judas got and take his pay in Mexican dollars.

But what has come over the spirit of the Inter Ocean's dream? Why should it so soon despair of Republican adequacy? Why should it appeal to Democrats to save its one great, pivotal Republican principle? Is it not a little late in the day for this High Priest of the Robber Barons to seek a parley with Democrats, and to appeal for a non-partisan consideration of the Robber Tariff?

"He either fears Free Trade too much,
Or his belief falls flat,
Who starts back at Protection's touch,
And would not stand it pat."

—the saying may be somewhat musty, as our little friend Hamlet would observe, but all the same it is a sign of the times that out of the Chapel of the Robber Castle—the Western Holy of Holys of Pennsylvania's Supreme Being—a voice should issue, as from the tombs, beseeching Democrats to come to the rescue of that Thieving Tariff!

Well, they won't come. They won't come worth a cent. Thanks to a campaign of education, extending over fifteen years, the Democratic party is at peace with itself as to Free Trade. It is at war with the Republicans, and only with the Republicans, who in their turn are now at war with themselves, touching that execrable and exposed fraud, High Tariff.

It is worse than a fraud. It is a variegated assortment of frauds. It was a beggar-on-horseback. It is a beggar on crutches. It was a bully-in-the-saddle. It is a poor devil by the wayside. It pretended to be a statesman. It has been proven a mountebank. It has been set up for a patriot. It has been shown to be a highwayman. It posed as a philanthropist. It turned out an impostor. It put on heaven's livery to serve the devil of Mammon. It plucked the wage-earners. It pillaged the poor-box. It stole the communion service and robbed the Treasury, and took out a post-obit on the national credit. And now? O Belisarius, Belisarius, thou dire old brigand, hath it come to this? HATH IT COME TO THIS?

No matter. Naught will avail—nor prayers, nor prayers, not even those of the Inter Ocean. The old sinner must go—e'en in his rags and dirt—with one eye bandaged and both legs on wooden pins. He has had his say and his day. The plea of "infancy," the subterfuge about "the business of the country," the cant as to his love for the American workingman, all to no purpose. He has broken every promise to reform. He has kept no single pledge either to himself or to anybody else. There he stands—or rather totters—Old High Tariff—the veriest red-nosed vagrant—the toughest, blear-eyed tramp, rotten from head to heels! Presently he will be carted off, like any other cañion, and dumped into the nearest ditch; and then all the high-priests and low-priests of the Robber Baron persuasion, finding their business "busted," can go down to the grocery and swear at the court!

And what then? Why, the Inter Ocean will get it a new song, ending it just as lustily as it sang the old. The rose in Mr. Nixon's button-hole will smell as sweet, and Mr. Kohlsaat's smile will be just as sunny, and, after a while—after a great while—when the people of the United States have ceased to wonder how it was that they came to tolerate so long a cheat so obvious—may be, mind, we say may be—some one will put up a shingle over a little, lonely ash-pile in the bone-yard, and on this shingle shall be inscribed "Sacred to the Memory of that Thieving Tariff!"

"Whilst he lived, he lived in clover;
When he died, he died all over!"
—Henry Watterson in the Louisville Courier Journal.

Death of Judge Crane.

The following article relative to the late Judge Crane, was written by Mr. Cooley Reeves, and will appear in this week's Dexter Leader:

Died, at his home in Dexter, about one o'clock Monday morning, the 14th day of August, 1893, ex-Judge Alexander D. Crane, in the 84th year of his age.

The Judge was born in Mentz, Cayuga county, New York, in 1809. His parents were Stephen and Keturah A. (Topping) Crane, natives of New Jersey. Until the age of 16 his life was spent on a farm at which time he was apprenticed to a blacksmith.

In 1827 he first came to Washtenaw county, stopping for a time at Ann Arbor and March 1, 1830, establishing himself at his chosen trade in Dexter, locating his shop near where L. L. James now resides.

Here at the age of 21 years, his forge burned brightly for a time, but his love for the practice of law extinguished them and he went out from his shop to gain for himself a solid standing in the legal profession. This he soon accomplished, and established himself in the minds of the people as a safe counselor, a capable attorney and a man of energy. During the preparation period for the practice of law, he was collector of taxes for a number of years, also deputy sheriff.

In 1849 he was appointed our village postmaster by President Fillmore.

In 1853 he was elected prosecuting attorney for Washtenaw county. To accept this offer he resigned post-mastership.

In 1873 he was appointed by Gov. Bagley, judge of the 4th Judicial District of Michigan, embracing the counties of Washtenaw, Jackson and Ingham. This position he filled for three years, and the following is a showing of his record:

At a meeting of the members of the bar for Washtenaw county, held at the court house in the city of Ann Arbor on the 30th day of December, A. D., 1875, after complimentary remarks by C. Joslin, A. J. Sawyer, E. D. Kinne and others, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, Hon. Alexander D. Crane is about to retire from the bench of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, on account of the expiration of his term of office as Circuit Judge, and WHEREAS, it seems fitting and proper that the members of the Washtenaw County bar should express their sentiments and feelings toward Judge Crane upon this occasion, now, therefore be it

Resolved, That during the three years of his public service upon the bench, he has proved himself always competent for the many and onerous duties of the office; and has shown himself an honest, upright and impartial Judge. And it is further

Resolved, That while we regret the severing of this relation, so long and pleasantly existing between the bench and bar, we tender to Judge Crane our most sincere and cordial good wishes for his future health, welfare and happiness, and our thanks for his uniform courtesy and kindness to us.

Resolved, That the secretary is hereby instructed to present a copy of these resolutions to Judge Crane. Also to furnish the county papers with a copy for publication; and that leave of the Court be asked for entering the same upon the Journal after Judge Crane's success in entering upon the duties of the office.

In 1861 he raised a company of 101 men and entered his country's service as their captain. The following communication from the field officers of his regiment gives the reason of his short service:

Headquarters, 4th Reg. Mich. Inf'y,
Camp Mansfield, July 26, 1861.
CAPT. ALEXANDER D. CRANE,

My Dear Sir:—Your resignation has been received with sincere regret, but we are compelled to recognize it as a necessity owing to the injury to your foot being of such a permanent character as to unfit you for the active and severe duty of an officer. It affords us great pleasure to bear testimony to your zeal and activity as an officer, and your personal worth as a gentleman, and we are satisfied that among those who will be actively employed in the service of the country, there are few if any who have the welfare of that country more at heart, or who would make greater sacrifices in her behalf than yourself.

With sincere regret that we are compelled to separate, and with the most hearty and sincere wishes for your future success and welfare, we remain, Dear Sir,

Your obedient servants,
D. A. WOODBERRY, Col. 4th M. I.
W. M. DUFFELL, Lt. Col. 4th M. I.
JONATHAN W. CHILDS, Maj. 4th M. I.

The Judge's life seems to have been largely associated with military display. His resolute commanding tone was generally heard at the head of immense processions of a military character from an early day. His prompt and decisive manner made him a valuable man on such occasions, and several governors of the state in an early day gave him important positions in the state militia.

Among his papers is a commission from Gov. Stevens T. Mason, bearing the date of March 30, 1838, giving him the colonelcy of the 7th Reg. of the 4th Brigade of the 2d Division. Another communication from Gov. E. Ransom, bearing date of April 29, 1848, giving him a Brigadier General commission. And Jan. 1, 1858, a Major General commission is granted him by Gov. Kingley S. Bingham, giving him command of the 2nd Division State Militia.

His usefulness in the M. E. church was fully in keeping with his sterling character in his active days, doing with all his might what his hands found to do. As a worker in the temperance cause, he had few equals. He helped to organize the Grand Lodge of Good Templars of the state of Michigan, and was elected its first Grand Master. For a faithful life as a member of the Masonic fraternity, he was unsurpassed, attending strictly to the requirements of the lodge, especially its stated sessions up to the last weeks of his life.

On February 6, 1830, in Detroit, Mich., Mr. Crane was married to Nancy Smith who was born in Erie county, Pa. J. Martin Crane, of Grand Rapids, is the only surviving child of this union. Mrs. Crane died Sept. 13, 1842, and in 1843 he married Mrs. Julia A. Topping, who was born in Germany in 1799. On June 21, 1862, she was buried, and in Feb. 1863, he married Hellen L. Palmer, a native of New York, where she was born April 15, 1823. She still survives with her three sons, Chas. F. Crane, of Toledo, and Geo and Steven Crane, of Dexter.

Martin L. Crane, a brother 82 years of age, of Novi, Mich., was unable to attend the funeral obsequies on account of failing health.

Thus one by one the sturdy pioneers of our county are passing away. Long years since, the Judge helped to bury the last of those who were residents of this place on his arrival in 1830. These were Hon. S. W. Dexter, Dr. Cyril Nichols and Samuel W. Foster.

On Tuesday afternoon, from his late residence, was borne by fraternal hands, the remains of this resolute and sturdy pioneer, Judge A. D. Crane, to its last resting place in our village cemetery, Rev. F. E. Pearce, of the M. E. church, officiating.

Mrs. Jones was telling Mrs. Smith that her husband intended giving her an insurance policy. "Oh, that's nothing," replied Mrs. S. "My husband is going to give me a $1,000 bond, and he has cut all the coupons off so I won't have any trouble with it."

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

The American appetite for prunes is growing. Last year 22,000,000 pounds were imported, against 7,000,000 the year before.

The twin screw and triple screw steamships with improved engines develop more power with less coal than the single engines. The Etruria burns about 300 tons a day.

The electrical bicycle is cropping up in England. The weight of the batteries when filled with liquid is to be forty-four pounds, and the whole weight of the machine is to be 155 pounds.

Two little Newark, N. J., boys, aged about six and ten years, while attempting to cross a street in that city one day got stuck in the mud. A laborer heard their cries, and, coming to their assistance rescued them.

The word "syndicate," which is of American origin, is now used in the British house of commons to characterize combinations by which a number of members having a common object in view unite for balloting purposes.

The students of Yale college divide the scholastic year into four seasons—the football season, the base ball season, the training season and the book beer season. The latter comes in March between the training season and the base ball season.

The guns in use on the ships of our modern navy have a plate of steel armor fastened over them and bent slightly back, so that a missile striking it would be deflected upward. A visitor said he supposed that this was a serviceable protection to the men who were working the guns. "Lor' bless yer!" replied the old salt who was explaining the mechanism of the big rifle, "tain't to protect the men, it's to keep the works from gettin' knocked out of order. There's men enough."

The equestrian statue of Washington which is to find its home in Philadelphia is the work of a German sculptor, Professor Rudolph Siemering. The whole structure is fifty feet high and the octagonal base is fully thirty feet in diameter. Eight emblematic figures are grouped about the base of the pedestal, and on other parts of the base are various American animals and figures of Indians. The figures of Washington and his horse are many times larger than life, and all of the figures around the base of the statue are modeled on a heroic scale.

CHIPS AND SHAVINGS.

Two thieves worked for a half hour and broke into a South Chester, Pennsylvania butcher shop and got one nickel as their booty.

One of the squires of Oil City was recently called upon to marry two young people of that vicinity. He had pronounced the usual question, "Do you take this woman for your lawfully wedded wife," etc., when he was interrupted by the groom with the question, "Say, squire, what in thunder else do you think I got you to come here for?"

A Sunday school teacher was trying to impress upon his pupils the care of the Deity for all living things, great or small, and getting to the peroration of his address he said: "The Lord who made the mountain made the little blades of grass. The Lord who made the ocean made the pebbles on the shore. The Lord who made me made a daisy." And then he wondered why the class burst into laughter.

Some 300 people took the train here on the Toledo road, Sunday, for Island Lake or intermediate stations.

The young people's union meeting will be held in the Congregational church at 6:30 next Sunday evening.

Harry P. Stearns, son of Willard Stearns and a graduate of the University, has been appointed assistant postmaster at Adrian.

The announcement of the literary courses in the University for 1893-4 has just been issued. A number of new courses have been added.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas F. Leonard was in a miniature cyclone on York last Friday, which took off the roof of the barn in which he sought shelter.

Town Clerk Widemann, of Ann Arbor town, had his finger dislocated Tuesday, by a Colt he was leading falling off a bridge and jerking the town clerk after him.

The next county school teachers' examination will be held at the court house Friday, August 26. Another special examination will be held the last Friday in September.

Union services next Sunday evening will be held in the Congregational church, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, and not a half hour later as heretofore. Rev. W. L. Tedrow will preach.

The barn of Jacob Burner, on the Stevens farm in Dexter township, burned last Saturday afternoon, together with 100 tons of hay, 700 bushels of wheat, and two hogs. The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion.

Representative Mills is in receipt of many letters from people in the county concerning the date of the Washtenaw county fair this year, notwithstanding the fact, as has been hitherto announced, that no county fair will be held this year.

City Treasurer George H. Pond collected $29,241.06 city taxes between July 15 and August 15. This leaves about $10,000 uncollected taxes to be carried over to December, when 5 per cent will be added to it, increasing the city revenue about $500.

The Michigan Central give their annual excursion to Petoskey and Traverse City, Tuesday, August 29, on a special train leaving Ann Arbor at 9:10 a. m., Dexter at 9:30 a. m., and Chelsea at 9:45 a. m. The fare for the round trip is $5. Tickets are good returning until Sept. 7.

Walter B. O'Neill, law '91, died in Washington, D. C., last Thursday. He had just taken the important position of law clerk in the Attorney General's office. He was a young man of particularly bright prospects, of brilliant mind, kindly, courteous and upright in disposition.

The members of St. Mary's parish, of Chelsea, held a very enjoyable picnic in Stevenson's grove, North Lake, Tuesday, August 15. There was a very large attendance from surrounding towns. An excellent dinner was served in the beautiful grove, after which the program was carried out. Good music was furnished by local talent. Mr. Dawson, of Detroit, gave several taking recitations. Hon. T. A. Bogle, of this city, gave an excellent address which was well received by the large audience. From all reports it may be judged that this picnic was fully as successful as those of previous years.

Lyman Brown, of Salem, was arrested, Sunday, by Deputy Sheriff Peterson, charged with repeatedly trying to coax a little ten year old girl off for improper purposes. Brown is a married man, sixty-one years old, with children of his own. He was brought before Justice Bennett, Monday, and his examination adjourned until Monday next. In default of bail, he is in jail.

Charles McCormick has resigned his position as keeper of the county poor house. This is to be much regretted by the county, as Mr. McCormick has made the best keeper the county has ever had. Under his administration the expenses have been very materially reduced and the county farm made to produce much more than before.

Sixty years ago next Sunday, Rev. Frederick Schmid arrived in Ann Arbor and called on the Germans. This was the commencement of the organization of a German church. One week later the first German sermon in Michigan was preached. Bethlehem church celebrates this event next Sunday, services being held at 10:30, 2:30 and 7:30. A number of German ministers will be present.

Dr. Mead, assisted by Dr. Howard Whitney, removed the plaster cast from the broken limb of Mrs. Slater M. Sherman, on Friday last, and found the broken limb doing very well. Mrs. Sherman received her injury on June 23, while on her way to the World's Fair, by being thrown out of an electric car. She will not be able to get about for some time, as the breakage was a bad one.

The Michigan Central changed time, Sunday. The trains passing through here at 11:40 p. m. and 7:51 a. m., going east, and at 3:22 p. m., going west, have been taken off, and several important changes made in the running of the other trains. POPULIST MEETING.

These bankers are fighting the free coinage of silver because it will let the people control the currency. The peoples party is the only party that points out a remedy. The country got tired of the republican party in '84. You turned them out and put in Grover. Four years later you turned Grover out and put in Benjamin. Then you turned Benjamin out again. There was no remedy—no change except a change of postmasters. All you have done is to change drivers.

The devil is the chief financier and he has been secretary of the treasury three or four times. All the power of the government is conferred upon congress by the constitution and yet money is issued by private corporations. Money and transportation is taken out of the control of congress and put in the hands of corporations, so that practically all that is left to the control of the government is the police force and that is used to hold up individuals to let corporations go through their pockets. Let's expand the currency until we get enough.

At the conclusion of Gen. Weaver's speech he called for questions and promised to answer them in a fair and candid manner and not attempt to turn a laugh on the questioner. A number of questions were fired at him which he wittily evaded answering. And in several cases he attempted to get the laugh on his questioners. A speaker always has the advantage by such tricks as several of our citizens found out. After the questioning he announced that he was the editor of a paper in Iowa and any one who wished to subscribe could do so.

A half dozen members of the society gathered together after the crowd had begun leaving and elected George S. Wheeler chairman of the meeting. Henry C. Waldron, of Salem, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Russell C. Reeves, of Dexter, secretary and Amos Phelps, treasurer. A blanket motion was made to reelect all the old directors and unanimously carried.

A Girl's Luncheon.
I took four girls to lunch one day, May and Jane, sweet Bessie and Kate. The garcon menus gave to us, And then he had to stand and wait.

"Just order what you like," I said, For we were out to have a time. They read the menu through and through— This is their order set to rhyme.

"Oh, anything will do," said Jane, "And I will take the same," chimed May. "It really matters not," said Kate, And then sweet Bessie had her say.

"Pray, leave it not to me," she cried, "For I can eat most everything." And then she laughed a silly laugh, And with her napkin cleaned her ring.

The waiter now impatient grew, Much anger in his eyes did gleam, But in another hour or so They all decided on ice cream. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

Adrian Press Washtenawisms.

One Andrew Shaler, of Milan, claims to have raised 165 bushels of wheat off three acres of ground. Containing as it does the word "off", the above is no lie.

If Mr. Koebbe, of Freedom, does any more threshing this fall, he must get a new separator. A broken neckyoke and a down-hill runaway disposed of the one he recently owned. Total wreck.

If the state press has any influence in secret society affairs, Miss Bower, of the Ann Arbor Democrat, will certainly be the great record keeper of the Lady Maccabees of Michigan. We are all for her, to a man.

Jacob Schmittler, of Washtenaw, who narrowly escaped matrimony by being arrested with a marriage license and a gold watch in his pocket, and his intended wife and mother-in-law by his respective sides, gets a couple of years in Jackson.

John Greening, of Chelsea, last week concluded to knock off one day of hard labor and go huckle-berrying. Receipts: A pair of wet feet, a partial sunstroke, a quart of huckleberries and bugs. Disbursements: Considerable profanity and one valuable watch.

A mulatto named Bird last spring flew away with Mary O'Conner, of Northville. The two were made a pair last week by Justice Bennett, of Ypsilanti, and both Birds now snuggle in the same nest. Did somebody remark of the existence of a "race prejudice"?

If Emma Kelsey, of Mooreville, did not have a mince pie dream the other night, somebody crawled through her window and choked her. This seems not to have prevented her from screaming so loudly as to attract attention, and the supposed lady-throttler disappeared.

At Ann Arbor, last week, by the overturning of a bus, returning from the picnic of the Schwaebischen Unterstuetzungs Verein, Julius Trojanowski was flung skiih and had a rib broken off. We hated to tackle this item, and only did it out of a sense of duty, as a news purveyor.

Mrs. Mary Collins Whiting, a Washtenaw female lawyer of considerable fame, has been sued by her brother-in-law, Benjamin McGraw, in $10,000 damages, McGraw alleging that Whiting induced his wife to forsake him. It seems that Mrs. McGraw was a valuable woman.

Just about the time that Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti stop making faces at each other, somebody pokes afresh the embers and "nigger-heads" of malice, and the flames shoot up anew. Now comes the Argus, which deposes and says: "Ypsilanti feels proud because one day this week passed with only two fights in that city."

The Chelsea Herald has been grievously imposed upon by its imagination. It locates in the road near Brighton a young lady, helplessly tangled in the machinery of a bicycle, sends a young man to her rescue, and recites substantially all the harrowing details of the true narrative of the real case, as it occurred near Adrian and originally appeared in the Press.

Emancipation day, at Ypsilanti; was an occasion of much pomp, parade and plug hats. All the country round about "knocked off" work and put on its white vest and shiny tile. Dinner was served at the fair grounds. The speakers failed to appear, and the athletic sports and baseball were declared off. Otherwise the day was such as the spirit of Lincoln might have approved, except the crap-shooting and quality of drinks sold on the grounds.

O'Sullivan, a distinguished New York criminal lawyer, declares Dr. Vaughan, of the University, to be the foremost chemist of this continent, and adds that he is better known in England than America, and more appreciated in New York than in Michigan. Quite likely, in both cases. The fact is, that here, in the Michigan huckleberry bushes, there are so many of us distinguished that we don't appreciate each other. The east is beginning to find out that low-necked clams, long-tailed coats and the gold standard never yet discovered tyrotoxin in cheese.

The Chinese pay their doctor only so long as he keeps them in health. They believe in preventing rather than curing disease. This is sound sense, and one of the strongest recommendations of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a medicine which not only cures diseases but prevents them.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

(OFFICIAL.)

Council Chamber.

Ann Arbor, Aug. 14, 1893.

Adjourned session.

President, Watts being absent, the council was called to order by the acting president, Ald. Manly.

Roll called. Quorum present.

Absent—Alds. Snow, Ferguson, Taylor, Prettyman and Pres. Watts—5.

The chair announced that the first order of business would be motions and resolutions.

On motion of Ald. Martin the floor was granted to Dr. Hale.

Dr. Hale stated that he was here to put the water works in first class condition and to give the city an ample water supply.

By Ald. Wagner:

Resolved, That the Ann Arbor Water Co. be hereby requested to place forth with a telephone at the place near the reservoir or on the corner of Chubb and Spring streets, where they have stationed a man to turn the gates of the water mains on hearing an alarm of fire, same to be directly connected with telephone at Engine House, from six o'clock p. m. to six o'clock a. m. In case the water company fails to place said telephone by noon of Aug. 17, the City Clerk is hereby directed to cause the same to be done and report his action to the Council.

Ald. Herz moved that the resolution be referred to the Board of Fire Commissioners and Fire Committee, with power to act and report at our next meeting.

Which motion was lost as follows:

Yeas—Alds. Herz, Wood—2.

Nays—Alds. Schairer, Wagner, Martin, O'Mara, Manly, Kitson—6.

The yeas and nays being called on the original resolution, lost, a majority of the aldermen elect not voting therefor, as follows:

Yeas—Alds. Schairer, Wagner, Martin, O'Mara, Manly, Kitson—6.

Nays—Alds. Herz, Wood—2.

To the Common Council:

The following recommendation was made by the Board of Public Works, as requested by the common council, asking for estimate of the cost of grading Mary street, from Packard to Edwin streets: We estimate the cost for said grading and filling in, about $100.

By order of the Board of Public Works.

W. J. MILLER, Clerk.

Referred to Street Committee.

On motion the council adjourned.

WM. J. MILLER,
City Clerk.

A steel chimney has been built in Chicago which, it is said, is 350 feet high, with an outside diameter of nine feet five inches. The steel varies in thickness from 5-32 inch at the top to three-eighths of an inch at the bottom. The lower seventy-five feet is lined with eight inches of fire brick, and above this the lining is of hollow tile, supported at intervals of twenty-five feet by angle iron riveted to the steel shell. The foundation is made of steel rails and one-beams laid in cement.

Last winter at Lenoir, N. C., a mule fell off a bridge into the river below, which was covered with a thick coating of ice. Mr. Mule disappeared beneath the ice, but in a short time his head was seen protruding some distance above where the ice was broken. By swimming, it is supposed, quite a distance under the ice, the animal had saved its life.

A LITTLE COMMON SENSE.

About Malaria—What Old Cases of Ague Should Know.

You have had fever and ague; or, perhaps, have had dumb ague, in which there are no distinct chills. At any rate, you have malaria in your system, which makes you miserable during the later summer months and fall. You have doctored much. Quinine you have taken till your ears ring, arsenic till your nerves quiver, and strychnia till your jaws are stiff. Still the malaria hangs about. You don't feel good a little bit. Miserable! that's the only word that describes it. Chilly feelings, hot flushes, cold feet and legs, coated tongue, bad taste, offensive breath, poor digestion and appetite—all these and more. Tonics fail, nervines are useless, and liver medicines a waste of time and money.

But Pe-ru-na will cure you—cure you completely—make you feel as good as new. And you will stay cured, too. Pe-ru-na contains no quinine to injure the brain, no arsenic to destroy the stomach, no strychnia to impair the nerves. It is a natural, wholesome, never-failing nerve tonic, blood purifier and invigorator of the whole system.

Send for a free copy of "Aurora," a treatise on malarial diseases and other affections of summer. Sent postpaid by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Homes for World's Fair Visitors.

In view of the crowded condition of Chicago and its hotels during the World's Fair period, Poole Bros. have done a public service in issuing a very carefully prepared list of the homes in Chicago that are thrown open to the public on this occasion. The list is complete and gives the name, location, and number of rooms, etc., so that correspondence made before the visitor comes to Chicago. This list is accompanied by splendid sectional maps of the city on a large scale, by which the location of every house can be accurately found. Copies can be obtained at the Michigan Central ticket office at the publisher's price, 50 cents—less really than the value of the maps themselves.

GOOD HEALTH.

IS YOUR BLOOD IMPURE? Are you suffering from any Kidney or Female Complaint? Have you a Cough, Cold or any disease of Throat, Chest or Lungs? Is your Liver performing its functions properly? If you have any of these complaints it will certainly pay you to try the medicines mentioned below, which are warranted.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

Messrs. FOLEY & Co., Chicago. GENTLEMEN:—I had a serious taint of the blood from childhood. An ulcer began on the side of the nose, having all the appearances of a most malignant cancer, became about the size of a silver dollar and exuded a thin, offensive matter. The agony of mind I suffered cannot be described as I contemplated the progress of the disease.

I was induced to try the Clinic Sarsaparilla; it appeared to neutralize the poison in the blood, the ulcer ceased. The diseased tissues in the bottom and edges of the sore seemed to loosen and the natural flesh to take its place. Thus the cure continued until an even surface remained. No part of the disease remains. Mrs. H. B. ADAMS, 1609 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

SUFFERED 27 YEARS.

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes, August 10th, 1891: MESSRS. FOLEY & Co. GENTLEMEN:—Please send me six dozen Honey and Tar at once. I will say that within the past two months I have had three or four cases of Pneumonia, in all of which I have used your Honey and Tar with the most gratifying success. Yours truly, J. C. BOSTON, M. D.

TWO ARE DEAD.

A Michigan Family Circle Broken by a Fire in Chicago.

A Son of James Godfrey, of Buchanan, Perishes by the Burning of a Hotel.—William Ulery, His Nephew, Also Loses His Life.

OTHER MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY INJURED.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—One of the saddest cases in connection with the burning of the Senate hotel at 6:30 a. m., Monday, where seven lives were lost and twenty-one persons injured, was that of James Godfrey and his family.

Mr. Godfrey was awakened by the cry of fire, and at once aroused the family. The father told Ulery to take charge of his son, while he dragged his wife and daughter to the window.

Smoke poured in through the ventilating holes at the top of the partition, and it was with difficulty that Godfrey reached the end of the passage Ulery crawled through the smoke and flames, and, seizing the boy, he started for the window.

Ulery smashed a pane of glass with his foot and leaped out of the window, letting the cool air rush down his throat. He was rescued by the firemen, but his brave effort in behalf of his cousin caused his own death.

For Scrofula

"After suffering for about twenty-five years from scrofulous sores on the legs and arms, trying various medical courses without benefit, I began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and a wonderful cure was the result. Five bottles sufficed to restore me to health."—Bonifacia Lopez, 327 E. Commerce st., San Antonio, Texas.

Catarrh

"My daughter was afflicted for nearly a year with catarrh. The physicians being unable to help her, my pastor recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I followed his advice. Three months of regular treatment with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills completely restored my daughter's health."—Mrs. Louise Rielle, Little Canada, Ware, Mass.

Rheumatism

"For several years, I was troubled with inflammatory rheumatism, being so bad at times as to be entirely helpless. For the last two years, whenever I felt the effects of the disease, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and have not had a spell for a long time."—E. T. Hansbrough, Elk Run, Va.

WILD CAT BANKING.

Some Early Banks In Washtenaw County and in Michigan.

HOW WILD CAT BANKS WERE RUN THEN.

Good Work Done by Ex-Gov. Felch—Some Reminiscences Called up by a Collection of Bills in the Pioneer Room.

Among the many and varied relics in the possession of the pioneer society of Washtenaw county, is the financial freaks known as "wildcat money." The earlier effort for the establishment of a bank within the present limits of the state of Michigan was in 1805. The act of congress, which established the territory of Michigan, conferred legislative powers on the governor and judges, and at their first session as a board, a petition for an act incorporating a bank was presented to them. At this time there was no demand for local banks, for the territory was comparatively a wilderness, the small town of Detroit had just been laid in ashes, while the country was mainly in the hands of the Indians.

There were no manufactories, no railroads, no farming interests, no roads in the interior, even, while ships had scarcely begun to ply along the shores of the lakes and rivers. In general commerce the fur trade was the principal traffic. And thus the petition for a bank charter was presented, not by citizens of Detroit, but by capitalists of Boston, who were engaged in the fur trade. This petition was granted September 15, 1806, incorporating the Bank of Detroit, with a capital of $400,000. The great distance and limited facilities for communication gave these capitalists the advantage of circulating inland bills of credit against their western banks for a long time before their redemption. Judge Woodward, one of the judges who granted the act of incorporation, was appointed its president, but the bank was soon disapproved by congress, and in 1809 the bills were quietly withdrawn from circulation.

The next bank established in the territory was the bank of Michigan, incorporated by the governor and judges December 19, 1817, with a capital of $100,000. The validity of this act was fully established by the courts in 1830. By the terms of the charter, the incorporation was to expire on the first Monday in June, 1839; but the legislative council, February 25, 1831, extended its life 25 years longer, and subsequently it was allowed to increase its capital stock and establish a branch at Bronson, now Kalamazoo. The two banks above named were all the banks which derived their corporate existence from the governor and judges.

The first bank charter granted by the legislative council was the Merchants' and Mechanics' bank of Michigan, approved April 2, 1827. The bank was to be established at Detroit, with a capital of $200,000, with liberty to increase it to $500,000. This corporation was also made an insurance company, but there are no records that such a company was ever organized under this charter. March 29, 1827, the bank of Monroe was incorporated, its capital stock to be $100,000 to $500,000, and to continue in existence twenty years. The Farmers' and Mechanics' bank of Michigan was chartered November 5, 1829, and March 7, 1834, it was allowed to increase its capital stock and establish a branch at St. Joseph. The bank of River Raisin was chartered June 29, 1832, and allowed to have a branch at Pontiac. The bank of Wisconsin was chartered January 23, 1835, and was to be located in the Green Bay country, but on the organization of the state of Michigan it was thrown outside of its jurisdiction.

March 26, 1835, there were incorporated four banks, namely: Michigan state bank at Detroit, bank of Washtenaw at Ann Arbor, bank of Pontiac, and the Erie and Kalamazoo railroad bank at Adrian. The bank of Pontiac was also a railroad bank, its establishment being an amendment to the charter of the Detroit and Pontiac railroad company. The nine banks last named are all that were created by the legislative council.

Next, the state legislature in 1836 chartered the bank of Manhattan, Calhoun county bank, bank of St. Clair, bank of Clinton, bank of Ypsilanti, bank of Macomb, bank of Tecumseh, and bank of Constantine. The same legislature passed "an act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain moneyed corporations," which was in fact the famous safety fund system of the state of New York. It required each bank to deposit with the state treasurer, at the beginning of each year, a sum equal to one-half of one per cent on the capital stock paid in, and the fund so created was to be held and used for the benefit of the creditors whenever any bank subject to its provisions should become insolvent. But this statute was destined to have but little practical effect. The system in New York proved inadequate for the security of the public interests, and it was practically abandoned in Michigan.

By this time the financial affairs of the whole country had become greatly disturbed in consequence of wild and reckless speculation. The currency became greatly inflated, fabulous prices given for property, and the masses of the people subjected to the cruel mercies of shrewd financiers. The legislative session of 1837 was flooded with petitions for the creation of banks, and the legislature met the emergency by adopting a system of free banking, under which were organized a great number of those institutions known as "wild-cat banks." The statute authorized any twelve freeholders of any county who desired to do banking, to apply to the treasurer and clerk of the county for that purpose, and books were to be opened for subscriptions to the capital stock, $50,000 to $300,000. Ten per cent on each share was required to be paid in specie at the time of subscribing and thirty per cent of the entire capital stock in the funds before the association should commence operations. The president and directors were also required to furnish securities for the payment of all debts and the redemption of all notes issued by the association.

This new law was received with great enthusiasm. On its final passage in the house, only four members were bold enough to vote against it, namely: Alma of Kent, Monrore of Macomb, Purdy of Washtenaw and Felch of Monroe. This legislature closed its session March 22, 1837, by adjournment to November 9 following, but the financial embarrassments of the country increased so rapidly that the governor (Steven T. Mason) called an extra session for June 12, 1837, and in his message he attributed these embarrassments, in a great measure, to the error of overbanking, overtrading and a want of providence and economy. The banks east and south had already suspended specie payments, and Michigan was of necessity drawn into the current.

A special commissioner was appointed by the governor to examine the affairs of the banks. His report to this special legislature held forth, however, that the banks of Michigan were solvent, but that a little time ought to be granted them as a defense against the suspension of banks in New York and elsewhere.

The number of banks doing business in Michigan at that time was the unlucky number of 13. The legislature granted them time until May 16, 1838.

The legislature the winter following undertook to secure the public by appointing three bank commissioners to visit all the banks in the state at least once in every three months; to examine the specie held by them, inspect their books and inform themselves generally of their affairs and transactions. Monthly statements of the condition of the banks were required to be made and published, and no bills were to be issued without bearing the indorsement of the bank commissioner. Under the general banking law, as already stated, every subscriber to the stock was to pay 10 per cent in specie on each share at the time of subscribing, and 10 per cent every six months thereafter, and 30 per cent of the whole capital stock was required to be paid in like manner before the bank should commence operation. The specie thus paid in was to be the capital of the bank, and the basis of its business operations. It was held that banking could not be carried on without bona fide capital, and without it no bank would be permitted to flood the country with its bills.

But the investigations of the commissioners showed a very general violation of the law in this respect. In many cases, instead of specie a kind of paper denominated "specie certificates," was used, in some cases specie borrowed for the occasion was used and immediately returned to the owner; sometimes even a nail keg filled with old iron, or gravel, or sand, and covered over the top with specie, was employed to deceive the commissioners, and sometimes the notes of individual subscribers or others, usually denominated "stock notes," were received and counted as "specie." The books of the banks were also kept in so imperfect a manner, sometimes with fraudulent design, as often to give little indication of the transactions of the bank or of the true condition of its affairs. By the ownership of several banks residing in one company of men; by frequent sale and transfer of stock, and by many other tricks and turns, a little specie was made to go a great way in flooding the country with worthless paper.

Under this law 40 banks went into operation, many of them in obscure places, where there were in reality no towns at all, and before the commissioners could perfect their work of reform the crisis came. Failure succeeded failure until only seven banks remained, while the worthless paper afloat represented more than a million dollars.

But in the midst of all this speculation and excitement Hon. Alpheus Felch was appointed bank commissioner. He was known to be a man who never swerved from duty, and the bank officers attempted sharp practice. Specie boxes were got and filled nearly full with old scrapiron, then covered with specie. Mr. Commissioner was asked to take the mint count as marked on the box, but he was not caught so easily. The boxes were emptied on the floor and the fraud exposed.

Another trick was tried. The banks clubbed together and procured specie sufficient for one bank, and while the commissioner was making his examination he was asked what bank he would visit next. When that was ascertained, the specie which had been hastily repacked was loaded into a wagon and hurried off to the bank indicated. But the commissioner was too sharp for them, and instead of going to the one named changed his mind and went in another direction.

Thus the frauds were all exposed. But at this time the country was running wild with speculation. Prices were inflated and everybody was rich. Money was plenty, and men suddenly elevated themselves to wealth and power. But when the collapse came, these fortunes vanished as if by a single stroke, and 99 out of every 100 of the speculators were left without a dollar.

Then congress came to the aid of the speculators by passing the bankrupt law, which many availed themselves of and paid their debts. Many good specimens of this wildcat money are in the possession of the Pioneer Society of Washtenaw county, and are well worth examining. Many of the bills have no dates, and some even are not signed by either a president or secretary. A collection comprising a $10, $15 and a $20 bill, of the Washtenaw County Volunteer Family Relief Fund is especially noticeable, the $10 and $15 bills having written across the face, in red ink, "Redeemed, June 28, 1883. Signed, Fred H. Belser, Dep. County Treasurer."

Wild-cat banks originated in this way: In the year 1835 Samuel W. Foster and John Holden, of Scio, Washtenaw county, applied to the Bank of Michigan, in Detroit, for a loan of money to buy wheat to stock their mill. The bank could not accommodate them, but referred them to a broker doing business in the basement of the bank building, where they found money if they would submit to a "shave." On their return home they conceived the plan on which the "wild-cat" banks were gotten up. Foster presented the bill to the legislature, and the bill was passed, the four members heretofore mentioned being the only ones brave enough to vote against it. Very soon after the enactment of the law, banks sprang up all over the state, and their bills were as plenty as raspberries. In Washtenaw county there was one at Ann Arbor called The Millers' Bank of Washtenaw, which was conducted fairly, and paid all its indebtedness. Another was started in Lowell, an imaginary place on the Huron river; another at Ypsilanti, one at Saline, one at Manchester, and one at the village of Sharon.

In some cases where stockholders had not enough land of their own to give the required security, they mortgaged a piece of the government land to make out enough. Fortunes were made in a few months. New cities and villages sprang up as fast as the surveyor could survey and plat them, and splendid maps showing contemplated railroads, hotels, mills and large public parks were shown to the would-be investor. High-sounding names were given to the streets and avenues, and the most glowing inducements held out to the stranger, who could not find these mythical places even with a guide and map. In Washtenaw county there were towns called Boston, Saratoga, Windham and Sharon, and the plats of them are on record in the register's office.

The five dollar bill of the Exchange bank of Ann Arbor has a design of a railroad train, the engine of which is of itself a curiosity. This bank presumably won the confidence of its customers by having "safety fund" printed on its bills. A real curio in this collection is a bill of the bank of Virginia, dated at Richmond, September 2, 1820. It is in the form of a promissory note, the owner's name, D. Conner, being filled in with ink, while the president, directors and company agree to pay the bill, which is No. 379. Another curious one is a "government stock bond" bill for $1.50, the figures $1.12 and $1.50 being printed in the denominational corners.

But the most curious of all, which, while like the two just named, is not Michigan money, is a great relic. This is a diminutive bill three inches long and one and one-half inches wide, on which is printed: "Act of February 17th, 1864. The Confederate States of America will pay thirty dollars for 7 months' interest due July 1st, 1867, on bond No. 8,225, for $1,000. Sixth series."

There are also a number of other states represented in this collection, and also several speculative banks of Canada. The oddest features of the whole thing, perhaps, are the denominations. There are $1.50 bills, $3 bills, $4 bills, $8 bills and $15 bills, and still there are people who sigh for "the good old days" when a dollar was worth 100 cents today and not a penny tomorrow.—Detroit Journal.

Dr. Jenkins, the health officer of New York, is a light built man, about five feet seven and one-half inches tall, and would look like a youth under 20 years of age, it is said, were it not for his auburn side whiskers.

Sufferers from Piles should know that the Pyramid Pile Cure will promptly and effectually remove every trace of them. Any druggist will get it for you.

J. H. Ross of Baltimore, now 76 years of age, carried the mail from the postoffice at Washington to the White house in General Jackson's day. "Old Hickory" was gracious to him, and would sometimes bid him come in and warm his feet by the office fire.

In Paint the best, is the cheapest. Strictly Pure White Lead is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, chalk, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done. When buying it is important to obtain properly made. Time has proven that white lead made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion possesses qualities that cannot be obtained by any other method of manufacture. This process consumes four to six months time, and produces the brands that have given White Lead its character as the standard paint.

"Armstrong & McKelvy"
"Beymer-Bauman" "Eckstein"
"Fahnestock" "Anchor"
"Kentucky" "Morley"
"Southerner" "Shipman"
"Red Seal" "Collier"
"Davis-Chambers"

are standard brands of strictly pure Lead made by the "Old Dutch" process. You get the best in buying them. You can produce any desired color by tinting these brands of white lead with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

For sale by the most reliable dealers in Paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will cost you a postal card to do so.

FREE TO MEN
Why waste time, money and health with "doctors," wonderful "cure-alls," specifics, etc., when I will send FREE the prescription of a new and positive remedy for a prompt, lasting cure. Lack of strength, vigor and manhood quickly restored in young or old men. I send this prescription FREE of charge, and there is no humbug or advertising catch about it. Any good druggist or physician can put it up for you, as everything is plain and simple. I cannot afford to advertise and give away this splendid remedy unless you do me the favor of buying a small quantity from me direct or advise your friends to do so. But you may do as you please about this. You will never regret having written me, as this remedy cured me after everything else had failed. Correspondence strictly confidential, and all letters sent in plain, sealed envelope. Enclose stamp if convenient. Address
