Sad Death of Miss Janes. From Wednesday's Times.

Miss Lois H. Janes, of 46 E. University ave., disappeared yesterday afternoon leaving a presumption that she had committed suicide by drowning. Miss Janes, who is a '93 lit, left home at about 9:30 in the morning saying she was coming down town to buy a pair of shoes. She did not return at noon, but this was nothing unusual as she was a very close student and spent much time in the library. When the postman delivered the afternoon mail, however, a short note was received which was opened by her younger sister, Frances. The note was rather incoherent and unconnected, but it conveyed startling information. It was as follows:

"I can't help it. I have done it. I have committed suicide down at the river. O, forgive me. Blame only me. I am not worth. But it only makes it worse."
LOIS.

As soon as possible Miss Frances found her sister Eunice and her brother Leroy and they consulted as to what was best to be done. They had hopes that their sister would return and disliked making her disappearance public if she should. After discussing the matter they decided to ask advice and came down town at about 4:30, going at once to T. A. Bogle and showing him the letter. Mr. Bogle advised them to report the matter to the officers, but they still had hopes that she would be found alive and wanted to avoid any publicity if she should be. After further considering the matter, however, they decided to report the matter and a party was at once organized to go to the river and search for her. By the time that the party was ready to do anything it became so dark that it was decided to postpone the search until this morning.

This morning there was a report that her body had been found at the pulp mill and Sheriff Brenner, Deputy Sheriff Peterson and others went out to investigate and found that there was no truth to it.

At about 9 o'clock the search was systematized, the ground divided and a party detailed to cover each section. Miss Janes had an umbrella with her the last time she was seen, which was in the post office at about 10 o'clock, and it was argued that if she had thrown herself in the river that she would necessarily leave that behind. It was thought that her hat would also be found near by and consequently before dragging the river it was decided to search the banks.

The section west of the T. & A. A. bridge was taken by H. J. Brown and E. B. Hall, who were to search both sides of the river. T. A. Bogle and M. J. Lehman took the section between the T. & A. A. bridge and the Geddes ave. bridge and Leroy Janes and Mr. Peters the section between the Geddes ave. bridge and Geddes. The officers were also searching and about 11 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Brenner and McCabe found the body just below Judge Kinne's summer house on Cedar Bend ave., lying on her back with her hands folded and her feet just touching the water. She had not been drowned, but had committed suicide by taking poison.

Near the body was found an envelope labeled strychnine, which evidently tells the story of her death. The envelope bore the business card of John Moore, druggist. The body was taken in charge by Coroner Clark and Funeral Director Martin and taken first to Mr. Martin's rooms and then to the house, 46 E. University ave. The funeral will probably take place Friday. Coroner Clark empaneled a jury which adjourned to Friday morning.

Miss Janes was the daughter of Capt. L. L. Janes and was well and favorably known in town and University circles. She graduated from the High School with the class of 1890 and was considered one of the brightest girls in the class. She took part in the junior exhibition of the year before and was well liked by all the members of the class. She entered the University at once and would have graduated this year if she had not been out of school one year. She was a junior and a splendid student, loved by her classmates and teachers. She had been especially interested in the study of philosophy and had received some settled impressions last year which she had given up this year and which she said left her entirely at sea. She had been looking for a position as teacher for some time back and had especially in view a position at Battle Creek. She had been corresponding in regard to this position for some time and had the promise of it if another who had it before did not want it. At the time of the meeting of the Schoolmasters' Club, about two weeks ago the principal of the school was here and she expected to learn something about her chances, but it seems that he gave her no encouragement and the disappointment worked on her strongly.

Last Thursday evening Dr. Darling was summoned to attend her and found her in bed. She complained of having a severe headache and dizziness. She told the doctor that not feeling well she had started for the medicine case, but had been attacked by dizziness and fell down. The next she knew she found herself in bed.

Dr. Darling examined her tongue to see if she was bilious and in so doing noticed a white spot in her throat which he thought could have only been occasioned by carbolic acid. He asked her if she had taken any by mistake and she claimed that she had not. The doctor asked her sister if there was any carbolic acid which she could have taken by mistake and she said there was not. Miss Janes recovered from this attack and although not feeling bright was about again until the occurrence of yesterday. The only explanation known for her wild act is her disappointment in her endeavors to find something to do for herself.

Capt. Janes was married about a year ago and sailed for Japan, where he is engaged upon a literary work, leaving his children here. He owns the house at 46 E. University ave., where they lived. Capt. Janes had for years been father and mother both to the children and had seemed bound up in them. The death of his daughter in this tragic way will be a severe blow to him.

Bitten by a Dog.

Rev. Eugene Yaeger, pastor of the Methodist church in Milan was bitten by an ugly dog, Wednesday afternoon. The bite was on the arm but Mr. Yaeger has been in feeble health and is suffering from heart disease, so that the bite although not in itself alarming, completely prostrated him and he has since been in a critical condition. Twice he was supposed to be dying but rallied from the attacks.

Taken to an Asylum.

Young Orla C. Gregory, the assistant cashier of the Dexter Bank, who lost his mind in such a sad way a few weeks ago, the insanity developing in the insane freak of robbing the bank, was taken to St. Joseph's Retreat, a private asylum at Dearborn, yesterday. He has rallied but little from his complete prostration. His uncertain steps had to be steadied yesterday by a man on each side of him and he appeared a complete wreck. His mental disorder is believed by everyone to have been the sole cause of his rash act, and while he is now in a bad condition, the medical experts express hopes of his ultimate recovery.

Opera Pinafore.

The Lyra Singing society of this city, together with Miss Timberlake, of Jackson, and others, under the leadership of Prof. R. H. Hempf, rendered Pinafore to a crowded and appreciative houses on both evenings, Tuesday and Wednesday. Everyone concerned performed his part like old stagers and there was not a single break from start to finish. That Professor Kempf is an excellent drill-master, with a keen and accurate appreciation of the various parts, no one can doubt after witnessing the rendition of the opera. He had good material to work upon and the training brought it out in fine style. The chorus performed its part in a most pleasing and satisfactory manner, while the ease and naturalness of the soloists removed from the audience at once all that vague dread of a possible hitch which frequently attends an amateur performance. The work of the orchestra was well done and was in keeping with the other parts in execution. The more attractive features of the opera were correctly interpreted and emphasized, in fact, the performance as a whole was one of best the amateur performances we have witnessed.

Mrs. R. H. Kempf as Little Buttercup was very pleasing, and her rendition of the song "Im called Little Buttercup" as well as her part in the duet with Captain Corcoran "Things are Rarely What they seem," was especially fine. Miss Timberlake as Josephine, in love with one of her father's sailors was charming. She has a fine voice and she manages it beautifully. She rendered the solo "Sad is Her Lot" in a most pleasing manner. The duet with Ralph Rackshaw, "Remember Audacious Tam," was quite as attractive, and so was the trio with Capt. Corcoran and Sir Joseph Porter, "Never Mind the Why and Wherefore."

Walter Taylor always comes up to the required standard in any part he undertakes, and as Capt. Corcoran he was no exception. He was natural in all his parts, and sang "I am the Captain of the Pinafore" in inimitable style.

The part of Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., was taken by Mr. W. A. Spitzley, and he performed it in a very creditable and "awfully" correct manner. He sang well also.

Mrs. Taylor made a most natural and easy Hebe, first cousin to Sir Joseph. Her singing was good.

Mr. H. Allmendinger as Bill Bobstay, and Mr. S. Dieterle as Bob Becket, won success.

The military drill by an even dozen of the Light Infantry boys was a decidedly pleasing feature and they were encored to the echo, and were obliged to return and give another performance. They were dressed in full uniform and made a fine appearance.

No part of the performance was more acceptably and gracefully done than the dancing of the Sailor's Hornpipe by two little girls, Luella Granger and Elsa Kempf, as two Grandpinites. They just simply charmed the audience with their graceful movements, and the little people received rounds of applause.

The whole presentation was a flattering success and is worthy of warm commendation. Everyone concerned in putting it on the stage should feel well satisfied with the results obtained.

A Veteran of the Blue and Gray Meet.

Seeing Major A. F. R. Arndt's name on the register at the Germania hotel reminds the writer of an incident which occurred at the Somerville Springs, St. Clair, Mich., last summer. The Major, during the late unpleasantness, was one of the boys who wore the blue, and according to his tell, his men were "true blue." It happened that at the battle of Shiloh one of the important duties which the Major was called upon to perform was to make a tour of inspection of the outer pickets each morning, as they were in close quarters. Just across the river were the boys in gray, waiting impatiently for marching orders. It happened that the officer on inspection on the other side was Major C. C. Clarke, now of Detroit, who had given orders several times to his men to make a target of Major Arndt, but somehow they fell short of their mark and the Major came through safely. Last summer as above stated the Major of the Blue and the Major of the Gray were introduced to each other by the genial clerk of that hostelry, on the spacious veranda, and a more pathetic scene has seldom been witnessed than the exchange of courtesies between these brave warriors of '61 to '65. As they chatted, the light dawned upon them how near they had at different intervals come to being the cause of each other's death; and as the old veterans sat there with tears in their eyes and swelling, manly hearts, they thanked the God of battles for having spared their lives and brought them together after so many years, to enjoy the blessings of "one country and one flag." Major Clarke says that his eyes are open to the fact that they were wrong then, and that it is for the best that it went as it did, and that the thought that their eyes could not have been opened before the lives of eight hundred thousands of America's bravest sons should have been sacrificed, was a mystery which he could not solve.

The Mills Lecture.

The last number of the Students' Lecture association entertainments came off last evening in University hall. It was a lecture by the Hon. Roger Q. Mills, United States senator from Texas, on "Thomas Jefferson and the Principles of Free Government." The speaker went at once to his subject, and characterized Jefferson as a most remarkable man, a famous writer, civil leader, philosopher and saint. The speaker enumerated the attributes of greatness, and declared that when measured by such a standard, in his own field of action, there was but one Jefferson. A man who would become a leader should first know himself, and this lesson Jefferson had thoroughly learned. Grand men are raised up by Providence to fill great places in the onward march of the world's history. Jefferson appeared upon the scene when a creed of liberty was to be written. There was none other who could write it. Washington could wield the sword in wresting liberty from a tyrannical and oppressive monarch. Adams could with his eloquence fire the souls of men to heroic deeds of daring, but Jefferson alone could take the pen and formulate the creed of liberty. In this he was inspired from on high and had a prophetic vision of the future. He inherited his intense love of liberty and his unflinching courage from a sire whose ancestors came from Wales, and his polish and grace of manner from his mother in whose veins flowed the blood of the best of England's aristocracy. His ancestors were among those who favored all the reforms in England which brought liberty nearer to the public. When but a boy Jefferson went to hear Henry in the Virginia house of Burgesses and was thrilled with his oratory and its effect upon him was deep and lasting.

When a young man he was elected to the legislature of his native state and introduced the first bill permitting slaveholders to manumit their their slaves, and from that time onward he never ceased to plead for the freedom of the colored race. With his clear insight into the future he saw the specks on the horizon which grew into the storm clouds of 1860 and bursting deluged the country in blood. He declared that the country would be punished for its offense in enslaving men and predicted the freedom of the slaves. He not only desired freedom for himself and his generation, but for all men and for future generations as well. Nor was political freedom alone the end of his creed of liberty. He was just as ardent an advocate of religious freedom. Believed that every mind should be untrammelled and free to work out its highest destiny. He believed that the duty of government should end with the preventing of injury to one's fellowman. Believing in the equality of all men he opposed the laws of primogeniture which had obtained in England and had to some extent been transmitted here. He was an advocate of the laws of inheritance which prevailed here, whereby estates are divided equally among the heirs. He believed that so far as the law was concerned it should establish pecuniary equality as well as political. Believed man reached his highest estate when at peace with his surroundings and with nature. Jefferson was a student of nature and believed in the divinity of truth. It was never intended that the masses should have saddles strapped on their backs, upon which an aristocracy or privileged class should ride. Believing in all these things, in equality and God, he was necessarily a democrat.

At 33 years of age, he was intrusted with the task of drafting the declaration of independence which through the eloquence of Adams was adopted and has become the creed of liberty for the world. Jefferson believed that government derived all its power from the consent of the governed, and that every man is a sovereign, a sovereign who has subjects. He objected to the constitution because it contained no bill of rights. His influence was largely instrumental in causing such a bill to be inserted. He believed in education, and was one of the best educated men of the country.

Hamilton and Jefferson represented opposite views as to the proper extent of powers of the federal government, and this was the cause of the friction in Washington's cabinet. When Jefferson was driven from the cabinet the people began to separate into parties.

The speaker reviewed the events of his public life from this time onward, and closed with a touching account of the closing scenes of the life of this great man. He told of the wish of Jefferson that he might die on the fourth of July.

He depicted in pathetic terms the scenes about his death bed and the passing of his great spirit at high noon on the anniversary day of the nation's birth. He alluded also to the death of Adams a few hours later as the curtains of night were being drawn about the earth, and drew a beautiful imaginative picture of the delay of the heavenly chariot in its passage from Monticello to Quincy in order that these two great souls might journey together to the republic of the just on high.

Although Mr. Mills was not in good voice, his address was an excellent one and was listened to by a thoroughly appreciative audience.

Mrs. E. Fogarty respectfully invites you to attend her second spring opening, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 11, 12, 13, 14, 1894. It surpasses all previous efforts. Flowers, laces, plateaus and fancy hats and novelties well represented. Mrs. E. Fogarty, 45 South Main street up stairs.

There is much sickness in town and further deaths are expected.

Congressman Gorman is treating his constituents to packages of garden seeds and copies of a recent speech made in congress by him on the tariff question.

"The man who spoiled the music" is the unique title of an entertainment at the M. E. church on Friday night, this week. It would be a smart man who could spoil some music we have heard. It would sooner spoil him.

A young man from the north of Chelsea and his companions visited the school house in district No. 5, of Sylvan, last Sunday and put the water pail in the stove and committed many other depredations.

It would be far better if we would strew more flowers along the pathway of the living and not quite so many around the bier of the dead. It would smooth the rough road of our loved ones here, but after death it can do them or us no good.

The market has been active the past week and receipts free. A large amount of wheat has been bought at 55 cents, but there is too much wheat and it shows signs of weakening. Barley $1.05, oats 32 cents, rye 46 cents, beans $1.30, clover seed $5.50, potatoes 40 cents, eggs 8 cents, butter 15 cents.

Mrs. Sarah Heckel died at the residence of Mrs. Smith on West Middle street, very suddenly, of pneumonia, last Saturday. She was forty-three years old and an estimable woman. Her husband died some years ago. She was a daughter of the late Walter Webb, of Lyndon. Her many friends and neighbors attended the funeral at the town hall on Monday.

It is not often that we have to record so many deaths at one time as have occurred in this village since one week ago and all young people. We cannot understand why young people so full of life, and hope and joy should be taken away, but it is no doubt wise and well and will be plain to us sometime when we shall come to know even as we are known. These events say to us very forcibly: "Be ye also ready for you know not the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh."

Miss Matie Conaty died at the residence of her father on South Main street, last Saturday, of consumption. She was twenty years old, and graduated from the high school of this village last June. She was a good and interesting girl, with a bright and useful future before her if she could have lived; but it was ordered otherwise, to the great regret of all who knew her. She was buried from St. Mary's church on Wednesday.

Miss Lottie Taylor died at the residence of her father in this place on Tuesday morning, of consumption, at the age of twenty-five. She had suffered much from the fell disease, and death was a relief. She graduated from our high school several years ago and was ready for usefulness. She wanted to live, but was called to join her mother, who preceded her about one year ago. The cutting off of her bright hopes for the future was very sad. The funeral took place from the family residence on Railroad street on Thursday.

Judge Aaron T. Gorton died at his residence in Waterloo on Tuesday. He was eighty-three years old and one of the pioneers of Jackson county. He belonged to Washtenaw as much as Jackson. He lived an active, upright and exemplary life, bringing up four sons and two daughters in the way in which they should go, and leaves them a competence of property. He was prominent in every good enterprise and was loved and respected by all who came in contact with him. Few citizens would be more generally missed or go more generally regretted.

Mrs. W. J. Knapp died at the family residence in this village last Friday, of convulsions, and her child also died. She was one of the jewels of humanity who will be much missed from the church, the community and societies to which she belonged, as well as from the household left so desolate by her sudden and untimely departure at the age of twenty-seven. The funeral was from the family residence on Monday, and the floral offerings by the societies and her former pupils and associate teachers were beautiful and elaborate, and showed the esteem in which she was held.

Mrs. Farrell and daughters drove to Tecumseh last Saturday.

Bright Spring Days.

The spring should be pre-eminently a season of contentment, happiness and hope. In these bright and pleasant months the country should enjoy its highest degree of tranquility and prosperity. But spring, it is well known, is often a period of discomfort and disturbance in the physical system. Important organs of the body become torpid or irregular in their action, and the fact is instantly reflected in the mental condition of the individual. A disordered liver means disordered nerves and a dull and unsteady brain. Anything which will bring the physical system into harmony with budding nature confers an enormous benefit upon the nation, besides the mere allaying of physical discomfort. Hood's Sarsaparilla does this, as thousands of grateful and happy men and women can testify, and increased use of this standard spring medicine is of more real importance in promoting health and quiet in the business world than reams of abstract theorizing.

Lodi.

The farmers are busy sowing oats regardless of the inclement weather. They say if they wait until it gets any warmer the spring rains will commence and either drown out the oats or else make them wait until it is too late in the season to sow and get a good crop. To a man on the fence, it would seem like "Hobson's choice," whether they waited for better weather and have the oats drown or sow now and have them freeze to death.

Geo. Hammond has moved onto his new farm which he bought of Mr. Crofoot, of Lodi Plains. Another good democrat added to our ranks.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida street, San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficiency of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osmond, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kinchloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

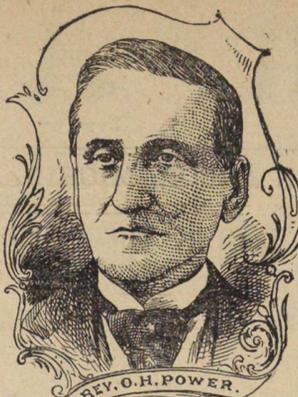

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

J. W. Hailey, of Batavia, N. Y., conductor on N. Y. C. Railway, and one of the best known men on the road, says of Parks' Tea: For ten years I have suffered from constipation. SUFFERERS FROM PILES AND RECTAL DISEASES.

Have Now a Simple but Effective Cure. Modern medical science and skill has at last succeeded in producing a remedy which effectually cures that common, but extremely annoying trouble, piles.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is the remedy referred to and repeated and thorough trials of the remedy during the past three years have demonstrated that it is the long sought for remedy which can be depended upon as a genuine cure. There are many remedies which give relief, but such relief is only temporary, and the trouble soon returns, as bad, or worse than ever. But the Pyramid Pile Cure stands practically alone as a lasting cure. It not only gives immediate relief but the relief is there to stay.

Mr. J. W. Rollings, a gentleman living at Sweet Springs, Mo., writes briefly and to the point regarding his experience with Piles, he says: "I consider the Pyramid Pile Cure without an equal. It cured me in less than thirty days. I waited fifteen days or more to be sure the remedy had fully cured me before writing you. I can now say I am cured and I shall recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure at every possible opportunity because it deserves it."

We quote from this gentleman's letter to show our readers how promptly the remedy acts* and also that there is no return of the trouble.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is simple and harmless, containing purely vegetable ingredients and can be used in all cases with perfect safety and with the assurance that a cure will follow. Physicians prescribe it and use it in all cases of piles in preference to the danger and uncertainty of a surgical operation. It cures without pain or inconvenience of any kind.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co., of Albion, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at one dollar per package, making it the safest, surest, cheapest Pile Cure before the public and one you can try with almost certain success.

HEINZMANN & LAUBENGAYER. No. 9 W. Washington Street. Telephone No. 85.

FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1894.

A bill has just been passed in the Iowa legislature giving women the right of suffrage in town, city and school elections.

The only labor interest to which certain United States senators seem to give recognition in the performance of their official duties is the labor of the lobby.

And when it was all over not a Senator from either side of the chamber congratulated the man who had spoken.

Such are the reports from Washington as to the reception accorded Senator Hill when he finished his recent speech in the senate.

The republican pharisees who held up their hands in holy horror at the appointment of Van Alen to the Italian mission look with great satisfaction and complacency upon the purchase of a Rhode Island senatorship by that millionaire resident of New York City and prince of good fellows, George Peabody Wetmore.

Apparently we have arrived at that dangerous period in our country's history, foreseen by many of the greatest of our early statesmen, when the privileged classes created by special legislation would prove stronger than the government and control it by corrupting it.

According to the New York World Congressman John DeWitt Warner has prepared a document upon Sugar Tariff and the Sugar Trust for the use of the finance committee of the senate giving all the known facts on the subject.

Could the so-called democratic "Conservatives" in the United States senate once realize the vast distance between the moral position occupied by themselves and that always assumed by Thomas Jefferson, the great father of democracy, their action upon certain schedules of the Wilson bill would undoubtedly be changed.

When I first entered on the stage of public life I came to a resolution never to engage, while in public office, in any kind of enterprise for the improvement of my fortune.

The republicans affect to be greatly shocked at the doings of the wicked democrats in seating one or two democratic contestants from districts claimed by republicans.

Those features of the federal constitution which the test of time has proven most unsatisfactory of all the work of the fathers are the compromises. The one relating to the election of president and vice-president was long since overridden by the people and made of no effect.

HOODWINKING THE PEOPLE.

There is no question but what the republican party of Michigan needs purging. The recent scandal it has undergone at Lansing is sufficient evidence of that fact, and attests the exceeding looseness which characterizes the official functions of men elected to high stations within its party ranks.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

The result is that the people all over the state, irrespective of politics, view with suspicion the entire management at the State Capitol, and instead of a feeling of confidence and trust, a spirit of mistrust and apprehension is bred and begot that widens and extends with the dawning of each new day.

A STEEL MILL CLOSED.

Can Do No More Business Until the Tariff is Removed.

It is the main mission of the Republican press at this time to find as many factories closing as possible and then announce that they are shut down for fear of the adoption of the reform tariff.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.

An Adventurous Miner Runs Onto a Strange Prehistoric City.

Manville W. Cresworth, an English mining man well known throughout southwest Mexico, arrived at Mapimi, Mexico, recently from a long overland journey through the Sierra Madre mountains, his starting point being Culican, near the Pacific coast, in the state of Sinaloa.

He told the correspondent that the wonderful city is situated about 80 miles west of Lake Colorado, in the recesses of the Sierra Madres. It occupies a basin about 10 miles long by eight miles wide.

Owing to the freight charges, we cannot, of course, compete with the mills west of the Alleghenies in purchasing this ore. Nor can the foreign ore from Cuba and the Mediterranean, which we use entirely, paying the duty of 75 cents a ton, compete with the western ore.

The result is that our steel business has gone to pot and will continue so if the western output holds out and the tariff is not taken off the raw material.

If the tariff is taken off raw material, we shall be able to compete on even terms with the other steelmaking companies. If it is not, I do not think there is a single company east of the Allegheny mountains that will be able to continue operations in steelmaking.

As I understand the tariff, it is intended to encourage the industry and not to shut up manufactories. When this is the result, it has outlived its usefulness.

This is a Pennsylvania concern. Its owners own iron mines in Cuba, from which most of the iron for these plants was taken, and they now find that protection is not the ideal system they have so long imagined it.

Macbeth's Frank Statements.

Mr. George A. Macbeth of Pittsburg is the largest individual manufacturer of glass in this country. He is a wide awake man who keeps "up to date" in improvements, and who, in spite of "protection" on many of his raw materials, and the fact that he pays higher wages than are paid by either domestic or foreign competitors, can export large quantities of glassware to all parts of the world.

The bill is all right in its way, but it doesn't weigh much. In other words, it is good enough as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough.

When the reporter mentioned the fact that Ihmsen's glass house was to shut down, Mr. Macbeth leaned back in his chair and simply said "Eat."

"May be," said he, "the firm is justified in so doing, but I would like to see their figures. I firmly believe that the window glass workers make too much money. They will have to come down. Who has to pay them their high wages? It isn't Ihmsen's or any other window glass manufacturers. It is the consumers.

Germany's trouble with unemployed labor is even more serious than that of this country and much greater than that of free trade England. Yet Germany has an imitation McKinley tariff, which the government shows no disposition to reduce.

Henry De Puy who lives on East Washington street, hauled a load of wheat from his farm the other day containing 126 bushels and 47 pounds which with the wagon weighed 9141 pounds. Henry feels proud of the load of wheat, but not so of the price he received for it. He thinks if the tariff really adds 25 cents a bushel to the price of wheat, he should have received more money for his load.

The Argus wishes Mr. and Mrs. Hammond happiness, prosperity and long life.

Thomas W. Keene.

On next Friday night, April 17, the eminent tragedian, Mr. Thomas W. Keene, and his superb company, will be the attraction at the Grand opera house, presenting his great characterization of "Richard III." Mr. Keene has for a dozen years past been a conspicuous figure upon the American stage, having risen through his own indomitable energy and perseverance from the ranks of the players who interpret a drama in general, to the position of an acknowledged star, presenting only the greatest roles in the realm of English dramatic literature. Mr. Keene has had a great deal to overcome, but his progress has been steadily onward and upward, until today he stands in the enviable position of being the only American tragedian now before the public whose efforts are confined solely to the interpretation of the masterminds of classic drama.

About two hundred people listened to the joint debate between Webster and Jeffersonian societies Tuesday evening, in the law lecture room. This debate was the first of a series of three joint debates by the same societies. The remaining debates will be held in the course of a few weeks.

The question under discussion was, "Resolved, That the South Presents a Better Field for Development than the West."

Mr. D. A. Edwards, of the Webster society, was the first speaker on the affirmative. Mr. Edwards clearly showed the great advance which the South had made since the late war, and inferred that this was good proof of its future prosperity. Mr. A. L. Curtis represented the Jeffersonian as the first speaker on the negative. Mr. Curtis said that the West was destined to be the great agricultural, mineral and stock land of this country.

Mr. Curtis was followed by Mr. F. G. Jones, Webster's second speaker. Mr. Jones showed his ability in destroying the arguments of the opposite side. He illustrated his arguments with a large map of the United States, comparing the productiveness of the South with that of the West. Mr. Jones strengthened his side very materially.

Mr. V. O. Coltrane closed for the Jeffersonians and made a strong plea for the West, not denying the progress of the South, but attributing it to a tardy endeavor to catch up with the rest of the nation.

The judges, Rev. Gelston, Mrs. J. T. Sunderland and Prof. E. F. Johnson, by a close vote rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative, thus bestowing upon the Webster the first victory of this series of debates.

Dean Knowlton presided and favored the audience with a number of well chosen remarks.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 509 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

HOT BATTLE EXPECTED

Jochim's Trial Attracting Attention at Lansing.

THE PROSECUTION WORKING HARD.

Attempt Being Made to Show That the Ex-Secretary of State Was Not Ignorant and Innocent of the Manipulation of the Returns Upon the Salaries Amendment.

LANSING, April 11.—In the trial of ex-Secretary of State Jochim Tuesday the prosecution did not waver in an attempt to show that the defendant could not have been as ignorant and as innocent of the manipulation of the returns upon the salaries amendment as he pleads. Evidence was introduced to show that messengers went with a letter of introduction to county clerks signed by Jochim personally with a request that they be allowed to make a comparison of the returns with the record; that the tabulation was made finally in his private office where the work of the clerks lay two weeks before being promulgated; that Jochim made three attempts at a final canvass before final action which involved three distinct trips to Lansing; that in view of the general belief that the amendments had not carried, and the interest that he personally would have in increasing his salary from $800 to $2,000 per year would render it very unlikely that he could be wholly ignorant of the falsity of the canvass as signed and published.

It appears also to be a part of the program of the prosecution to place a sufficient number of county clerks upon the stand to impeach the canvass and exclude any possibility that that was an honest error.

The indications and the temper of counsel point to a very hot battle.

A Son Stabs His Father.

BAY CITY, April 11.—William Fox, proprietor of the Quannicasse House at Quannicasse, returned home from this city Monday night and got into an altercation with his son, Harry, about taking care of the cow. After some words Harry went to bed, but his mother took his part, telling her husband that he was not to blame. The two had some words and Mrs. Fox went out of the house. Fox went after her, but was met at the door by Harry, who stabbed him in the breast, the knife entering about two inches above the heart and cutting a wound about three inches long. Harry then ran out of the house, and in a few moments his mother returned. She found Fox in a swoon and thought he was dead. She ran to alarm some neighbors, but it was nearly an hour before any one reached the place. Dr. Sutherland, from this city, was called to attend the man and he believes that he will recover.

Michigan Patents.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The following patents have been granted to Michigan inventors: Victor V. Bacon, Dorr, bottle holder; Abraham Baker, South Haven, bird trap; John F. Barrows, Saginaw, banjo; Orson Briggs, St. Louis, hay lifter; V. T. Briggs, North Lansing; wire fence machine; William N. Carlisle, assignor of one-half to G. H. Paine, Detroit, toe weight; Thomas Crane, Bay City, air-feeding device for furnaces; Jasper K. Fisher, Lowell, knockdown cutter; Michael Garland, Bay City, twin circular sawing machine; Alvin M. Grainger, Grand Rapids, hinge; Dexter Hazard, assignor of one-half to F. O. Clark, Marquette, saw sharpening machine; Ernest J. Knowlton, Ann Arbor, compound for waterproofing fabrics; Henry McGuire, Memphis, hopple; John Miner, Detroit, boring machine; John W. Murray, Jenison, automatic switch stand; Silas H. Raymond, Grand Rapids, carpet sweeper.

Now Charged With Forgery.

SAGINAW, April 11.—Seldom in any city, and never before in Saginaw, has there been a deed committed which has caused so much interest as the recent Wells-Stone affair.

Monday Parsons' bail was fixed at $7,000, but he has not been released. His friends say that owing to the fact that other charges are to be brought against him, they will wait until such charges have been brought and then furnish bail for the full amount required.

Prosecuting Attorney Snow has drawn up a complaint charging Parsons with forging a $5,000 check on the First National bank of the West Side. No warrant has yet been issued for this second offense, the complaint awaiting the signature of E. P. Stone. A warrant will probably be issued today.

Bones of a Man Found.

OMER, April 11.—Nearly two years ago a large barn, owned by Mrs. Mary Alexander of Pine River, Arenac county, was destroyed by fire. It was hinted that persons with whom she was not on friendly terms could explain how the fire originated. While clearing up the debris this week the charred remains of a man was discovered, as well as a pocket-knife, brass buttons, etc. As there is no one missing in that vicinity, it is supposed that the man was some tramp who was occupying the barn and may have set it on fire accidentally.

New Michigan Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Postmasters appointed: Altona, Mecosta county, Eli Lyons, vice R. L. Willetts, removed; County Line, Saginaw county, Mrs. Jennie H. Cnisholm, vice John McCrady, resigned; Deford, Tuscola county, C. J. Malcolm, vice Daniel Croop, removed; Horr, Isabella county, E. R. Ferguson, vice Miss Carrie K. Hanson, removed; Peters, St. Clair county, Henry Kaufman, vice John Peters, removed; Quaker, Lenawee county, J. N. Carmon, vice E. E. Meeder, removed; St. Jacques, Delta county, Daniel McAuley, vice William Lowe, resigned.

A Life Convict Dead.

IONIA, April 11.—Daniel Googins died at the asylum for insane criminals of exhaustion. He was 77 years old, and was sent from Grand Rapids as a life convict to Jackson 12 years ago for murder in the first degree. He was transferred to Ionia three years ago.

Female Impersonator Suicides.

GRAND RAPIDS, April 11.—Charles Howe, a well known female impersonator, living in this city, committed suicide by morphine in a room at the Clarendon hotel. He was only 19 years of age and was exceptionally handsome, though of a markedly effeminate cast. There is a good deal of mystery surrounding the affair, and no cause for the tragedy has been assigned. Young Howe took out a $500 life insurance policy a few days ago. He was under engagement to travel with the Wilbur Opera company as impersonator next season.

Met a Horrible Death.

STANTON, April 11.—The 14-year-old son of Pat Belleau, a well-to-do farmer residing in the township of Bushnell, this county, met with a horrible death. He went to the field to catch and bring to the barn a 3-year old colt that belonged to him and had always been handled by him. After catching the colt the boy carelessly tied the end of the halter strap around his wrist. The colt, partly through fright and its high life, began to jump and run. The boy was in this way dragged all over the large field, being knocked against stones and pine stumps until, when found by a younger brother soon after, his body was literally crushed to a pulp.

Experts at Work.

BATTLE CREEK, April 11.—There is no doubt now but that James W. Wood, the absconding treasurer of the Ancient Order United Workmen, took money from the county while treasurer. It is supposed that the first money he took from the lodge was to balance his accounts with the county. Treasurer Marble has been sick for some time and Wood kept the books for him. Marble has experts at work on the books to learn if there is a shortage.

Hanged and Riddled With Bullets.

BELTON, Tex., April 11.—Word has reached here that a mob took Ed Cass from his home at Grove, about 27 miles from here, a few nights since, hanged him on a tree and riddled his body with bullets. It is said that Cass was mixed up in a mob that visited Jack Reagles of that neighborhood some time ago. Cass had turned state's evidence and was the leading witness against members of the other mob who had been indicted by the grand jury and it is suggested that that may be the cause for putting him out of the way as it were.

READY FOR ARGUMENT.

Ex-Secretary of State Jochim's Trial Near the End.

BOTH SIDES REST THEIR CASE.

A Large Number of Witnesses Examined in the Salaries Amendment Fraud—Mr. Jochim Placed Upon the Stand—Said He Never Examined Documents Presented to Him For Signature.

LANSING, April 12.—When the case against ex-Secretary of State Jochim, charged with falsifying a public record in connection with the salary amendments returns, was taken up for the third day, Joseph M. Weiss, attorney for George H. Bussey, was present. The first witness was W. O. Webster of Ionia, who said he met Jochim in April, 1893, at the railroad station in Ionia, and that Jochim then informed him regretfully that the salaries amendment was lost.

Marcus Peterson was the next witness. He testified that so far as he knew Mr. Jochim had no lot, part or hand in the work of canvassing the election returns. He admitted that he took much interest in the passage of the salaries amendment; had on his own notion written a letter to people urging its support at the polls, and procured the sending out of messengers to get returns where there were discrepancies between the certificates and the published returns; he reasserted that Mr. Jochim had talked to him about the amendment twice only, once when the witness suggested the postponement of the canvass, to which Mr. Jochim assented, and next when he proposed the sending out of messengers.

Frank W. Potter was then placed upon the stand, but his testimony was devoid of interest. The prosecution then rested.

A large number of witnesses were put on the stand in Jochim's behalf during the afternoon, testifying to his good character, among them Justice Grant of the supreme court. Jochim was then placed on the stand and displayed a vast amount of innocence with reference to his duties as secretary of state and as member of the board of canvassers, he testifying that he never made an examination of documents presented for signature, but signed whatever was laid before him. The defense rested and the arguments will begin today.

VOYAGING IN THE SKY

BALLOONING WITH PROPER CARE IS NOT DANGEROUS.

Shaping One's Course by Weights and Barometer—Experiences of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Myers—Playing Shuttlecock Between Two Thunderclouds.

Among the very few people who have reduced aerial navigation to anything like an exact science are Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Myers, who are now living on Reid avenue, Brooklyn. By a series of experiments stretching over a period of more than 16 years they have learned to manage and guide a balloon with approximately the same accuracy that a sailor employs in guiding a ship, the only element of uncertainty being the weather. A reporter called on the Myerses a few days ago to learn some of their experiences and adventures in cloudland.

He found them not at all like what one would expect of people who pass a large portion of their lives in a most perilous occupation. Mr. Myers is a slender, rather short man about 40 years old, with black side whiskers, the face of a scholar and a benevolent expression. Mrs. Myers, who was formerly known professionally as Carlotta, is a sweet faced woman, with keen gray eyes, wavy brown hair and a bright, eager manner in conversation. She looks to be about 36 years old. She does not now make ascensions, having stopped in 1891, but she helps her husband in his experiments at his farm at Mohawk, N. Y. In her career she has made more than 500 ascensions. Mr. Myers has been up among the clouds 55 times himself and has superintended upward of 1,200 aerial excursions. For observational purposes and in pursuance of his studies in meteorology he still makes his dangerous trips, although indeed both he and his wife maintain that ballooning, when carefully conducted, is not a dangerous occupation. Neither of them has ever been injured.

"To an experienced aeronaut," says Mr. Myers, "the danger is really no greater than that of sailing in a small boat. It is possible to navigate a balloon by taking advantage of the different air currents, and in going down the balloonist can steer by weights on the same principle as steering a canoe by leaning to one side or the other. The platform on which the aeronaut stands serves as the rudder, and by throwing his weight to one side or the other and thus slanting the platform he can guide himself. Of course his rising and falling are controlled by the valves and the sandbags."

In illustration of this Mr. Myers told how his wife once followed a course mapped out for her by Peter C. Campbell of Brooklyn, who built the airship in which Ed Hogan went out to sea and was lost four years ago. Mr. Campbell challenged Mrs. Myers to start from East New York, go to the city hall in Brooklyn, thence up the river, across New York and to the Pennsylvania station in New Jersey, to the city hall in Jersey City, and finally to land in Seacaus. She made the trip in less than an hour, and Mr. Campbell gave her a handsome gold badge as a memento.

"There are two or three rules always to be observed in managing a balloon," continued Mr. Myers. "First, be sure that everything is taut and shipshape; secondly, don't try to estimate distances for yourself—they are extremely deceptive when you are in the air. Refer to the barometer, which is the aeronaut's compass, always. The most important rule of all, 'Never give up the ship.' No matter what happens, as long as there is anything left of your balloon and you are still fastened to it, you've got a chance."

"Have you ever had any unpleasant experiences?" asked the reporter.

"Mrs. Myers has had more experiences than I have." Being appealed to, Mrs. Myers, after a minute of thought, said: "A very peculiar aerial adventure I once had was over Stafford Springs, Conn., where two thunderclouds played battledoor and shuttlecock with me and my balloon. Usually I experience no difficulties with electric clouds. Their terrors diminish as you approach them, and when actually among them the danger is slight, if it exists at all. In this instance, however, I got between an upper cloud and a lower cloud, both heavily charged. I and my balloon acted as a conductor between them. First, I would go up to the upper cloud and become charged with electricity and then be repelled to the lower cloud, only to be recharged and bounced back to the upper again. I played this elevator game 11 times before the clouds got matters adjusted to their satisfaction. Then they let me go unharmed, but pretty badly frightened by being made the plaything of such gigantic powers."

"Another experience, more common to balloonists and more dangerous, I had on the occasion of the first trial of natural gas for ascension in 1888 at Franklin, Pa.," continued Mrs. Myers. "The balloon was filled hurriedly, and in some way the balloon cloth got caught over the valve, closing it. I went up too rapidly and tried to open the valve, but broke the cord. In such a case there is but one thing to do—knot the ropes and keep the balloon from expanding to its full extent. Under ordinary conditions a balloon half full at the earth's surface will be fully expanded at an altitude of 3 1/2 miles because of the decreased pressure of the atmosphere. Hence by knotting up the balloon ropes the cubic area is diminished, and the gas begins to pour out sooner. Notwithstanding my doing this, so fast did the balloon rise that it reached an altitude of more than four miles before it stopped going up. There I found a strong east current, as is almost invariably the case in very high altitudes. By the aid of that current I traveled 90 miles in as many minutes and finally landed in the only clear spot in a forest of 40 miles extent."—New York Sun.

A BAY KNIGHT ON HOOPS.

He Saved His Master's Little Daughter From the Attacks of a Savage Cur.

The bay Jack is one of a dozen hunters which Mr. James B. Dill keeps in his stable at his home on Harrison street, Orange. His dad is breeding hunters. The other morning Mr. Dill was standing just inside the stable door talking to his groom and had Jack's bridle in his hand.

Suddenly he heard a scream and recognized the voice as that of his little daughter. Jack, the bay hunter, heard it, too, and he must have recognized it, for quicker than it takes to tell and before Mr. Dill realized what had happened, Jack had jerked the bridle from Mr. Dill's hand, backed out of the stable and was running across the stable yard. Mr. Dill followed, and what he saw was calculated to make him follow pretty rapidly. His little daughter was being attacked by a dog—a big, ugly, yellow cur that did not belong around the place. She had seen her father return from his ride and had started from the house to the stable to meet him, as was her custom. The strange dog had sprung at her. Its teeth were tearing her dress, and she was vainly struggling to release herself.

What Mr. Dill saw Jack, the bay hunter, saw, too, and he must have had the same appreciation of the little girl's danger that the father had. Running until he reached the little girl and the dog, he reared up on his hind legs and then brought his fore feet down with crushing force on the vicious cur. The dog released its hold on the girl's clothing and fell, but Jack had not finished his work. Turning just as the dog was about to rise again, he let fly his hind legs and gave the cur a kick that landed it in a heap against a stone fence full 10 feet away. Then Jack's work was done, and he waited for Mr. Dill to come up.

Mr. Dill found that his little daughter was not injured, though badly frightened. Then he went over and took a look at the dog. It was dead. Then he went over to his bay hunter, Jack, gave him an affectionate slap or two and placed his little daughter on Jack's back. The hunter seemed to appreciate the compliment and neighed with delight as he started for the stable, where Mr. Dill told the groom to give him "the best in the house and plenty of it."—New York World.

PAGES IN CONGRESS.

The Careers Before Them Are Not In All Cases Very Desirable.

There are lads now employed as pages in the house and senate who have undoubtedly embarked on careers which will revolve about the huge marble building on Capitol hill. Some one of them may live to step into the shoes of Captain Bassett, for instance, the aged and dignified assistant doorkeeper of the senate, who began his services in the upper chamber over 60 years ago and is apparently good for several years more. Some of them may become plain, ordinary, everyday doorkeepers of the house or senate.

There is one man watching a senate door these days who has occupied that one position for 14 years. For years before he began this work he was similarly employed in the house of representatives. The pay of a doorkeeper is not very large, and the distinction which attaches to the place is absolutely nil. The work is not arduous, however, and the man who fulfills it does not have to use either his hands or his brains to any extent—a fact which seems to have had weight with some of the doorkeepers.

If the parents of the lads who are now running about the capitol at the beck and nod of senators and representatives were to be guided by the experience of persons who have held these positions, they might display less anxiety to condemn their offspring to an undesirable future.—Cor. New York Times.

Setting Type by Wire.

Donald Murry, a newspaper man of Sydney, has invented and patented a device by means of which an operator in New York, with a keyboard before him like that of an ordinary typewriter, cannot only produce typewritten copy in New Orleans, but, it is claimed, can operate a typesetting machine here and deliver his matter thus in lead ready for the forms. Not only that, but the same operator, by using a number of telegraph lines, can set up the same copy simultaneously in a dozen different places. In this operation any ordinary currents are used, such as are capable of being relayed and are subject to all conditions of ordinary telegraphy. The work can be done with the same speed as an ordinary typewriter is operated and dispenses with all clockwork mechanism, synchronously moving type wheels and other cumbersome devices. It is said to be capable of manipulating some 80 different characters.—Press and Printer.

Cordite Versus Gunpowder.

The days of gunpowder as a charge for naval guns are numbered, as some experiments just concluded at the government proof butts, Woolwich, appear to prove a decided superiority for cordite. A 6 inch quick firing gun was loaded with 29 pounds 12 ounces of the ordinary black gunpowder and yielded a velocity of 1,890 feet per second, with a pressure strain on the gun of 15 tons per square inch. The same gun was charged with 14 pounds 8 ounces of cordite and gave a velocity of 2,274 feet per second and a pressure of 15.2 tons. More important still, after 250 rounds had been fired, there were no signs of erosion.—London Telegraph.

Buried in a Ghoul Proof Grave.

Mrs. G. F. Ronton, wife of a West Newton pioneer, was buried at that place a few days ago. She was 58 years of age and was an exceedingly large woman, weighing 352 pounds. This necessitated a casket 6 feet long, 28 inches wide and 19 inches deep. A few weeks ago an attempt was made to rob a grave at West Newton, near the lot in which Mrs. Ronton was buried, and this led the relatives of Mrs. Ronton to have a ghoulish proof grave vault of iron made.—Indianapolis Journal.
