Nothing Strange.

Intelligent people, who realize the important part the blood holds in keeping the body in a normal condition, find nothing strange in the number of diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla is able to cure. So many troubles result from impure blood, the best way to treat them is through the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla vitalizes the blood.

INTERESTING TO TOURISTS AND STUDENTS.

The late Alexander Winchell, Professor of Geology and Palæontology in the University of Michigan, shortly before his death took a trip to Montana, and was so delighted with what be experienced that he wrote F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., of the Great Northern Railways, St. Paul, Minn., a lengthy letter from Ann Arbor, in which he testified his pleasure, and from which we quote:

"I have just returned from the magnificent tour devised and conducted under

"I have just returned from the magnificent tour devised and conducted under your auspices, and I wish first to thank you for the courteses extended to me personally, and then to transmit an acclamation of thanks from the entire party. Nothing more delightful, more impressive or more memorable, could be planned—this was the oft repeated exclamation which I heard on every day of the tour. *

* * I shall make much use of the observations and exceriences of the trip, both in my lectures and in print, and I shall be very happy to increase interest in the regions traversed by your lines. No new part of America offers so much to students, artists, health-seekers and tourists."

It was the intention of Prof. Winchell to have made another visit to Montana, having become much interested in the marvelous opportunities for geological study offered by the upheavals in the Belt Mountains and other outlying ranges in the vicinity of Great Falls, which ranges also reveal abundant remains of ancient animal life.

Following the visit of Prof. Winchell, Prof. Scott and a party from Princeton College went out and found the bones, in many cases well preserved, of no less than forty different sorts of huge and grotesque animals that existed in the odden ages of life on the globe. Many varieties of fishes and other forms of early marine life were also found buried in the cliffs. It was a picnic for the scientific men who actionly learned much more than they expected, but who enjoyed with keen relish the splendid mountain scenery and exhiberating air, and managed also to eatch fine strings of fish, common now in the rivers and streams, and bag, too, not a little game.

FROM THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

To the Common Council:

The Board of Public Works to whom was referred the petition of the property owners on Washtenaw Ave. relative to sidewalk grade at Mr. Coon's property, adopted the follow-at Mr. Coon's property, adopted the following:

Resolved. That this Board does not recommend a change of sidewalk grade in front of Mr. Coon's residence on Washtenaw Ave., as referred to us by your honorable body, for the following reasons: The grade was acted on by the Sidewalk Committee of a former Council, with the City Engineer and the members of this Board, inspected the grade before it was approved by them.

The Board also recommends to the Common Council an amendment to the sidewalk ordinance, that the sidewalks along the east side of south State street between Monroe and Hill streets, be built of plank instead of stone, and plank laid crosswise on account of the steep grade in this locality.

By order of the Board of Public

By order of the Board of Public Vorks. W. J. MILLER, Clerk.

Received and filed.

FROM THE SAME.

To the Board of Public Works:

GENTLEMEN:—I would respectfully ask the privilege to temporarily lay the stone walk in front of my residence on Washtenaw Avenue, until not later than April, 1895 next. as I desire to lower the trees that will be injured if the walk is brought to grade now. If I am permitted to do this I hereby accept the grade as now established and will in 1895 lay the walk on such grade.

August 15, 1894.

Tathe Common Council:

To the Common Council:
Gentlemen:—The Board of Public Works have duly considered the prayer of the petitioner and respectfully asks approval of the same by your honorable body.

By Order of the Board of Public Yorks, W. J. MILLER, Clerk. Received and filed.

An ordinance to amend Section 7 of an ordinance entitled "An ordinance relative to Street Railways," adopted August 13, 1888, and as amended September 6, 1889, and approved September 11, 1889.

The Common Council of the city of Ann Arbor ordine:

The Common Council of the city of Ann Arbor ordains:

Sec. 1. That Sec. 7 of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Relative to Street Railways" adopted August 13, 1888, and as amended September 6, 1889, and approved September 11, 1889, be, and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 7. The cars used on said railway shall be drawn by animals or electricity only and at a speed not exceeding the rate of eight miles per hour, and shall be run as often as the city council shall prescribe provided that cars shall not be required to run oftener than fifteen minutes between the hours of 6 a. m. and 8 p. m., daily, or oftener than ever thirty minutes between the hour of 8 p. m. and 12 p. m., daily.

If electricity be used as a motive power, said company is authorized to erect and maintain all the necessary poles, arms and maintain all the necessary poles, arms and wires required for the full electrical equipment for the propulsion of their cars. Where practicable the poles of existing companies shall be used. Poles shall be either round or octagonal in shape as may be determined upon by said street Railway Company, and be painted to correspond in color with the foliage of the shade trees.

All wires and overhead work shall be suspended not less than eighteen feet above the track. All material and work shall be of the best, and subject to the approval of the Board of Public Works.

If propulsion by means of storage battery shall be generally adopted as electrical motive power for street car purposes in other cities the same shall be adopted by this company and the use of poles and wires dispensed with. The cars in use on said railway shall be run for no other purpose than to transport passengers and their baggage and the cars and carriages for that purpose, shall be of the best style in use on such railways and properly heated in cold weather by a modern heating apparatus, provided that other cars may be used for cleaning and repairing said railway. After sunset all cars while running shall be provided with suitable signal lights in both front and rear cars. Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect in ten days after legal publication.

Passed in Common Council August 20, 1894.

On motion of Ald. Ferguson, Supt. Carroll, of the Ann Arbor Street Railway Co., was heard relative to the Ald. Kitson reported present. Ald. Martin moved that the rules be suspended and the ordinance be given its first reading by its title.

Adopted as follows:

Yeas-Alds. Wagner, Martin, Almendinger, Wood, Snyder, Ferguson, Manly, Taylor, Kitson, Pres. Wines.—10. Nav-None.

First reading by title of An ordinance to amend Section 7 of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Relative to Street Railways," adopted August 13, 1888, and as amended September 6, 1889, and approved September 11, 1889.

FROM THE ANN ARBOR WATER COMPANY.

Ann Arbor, Aug. 20, 1894.

To the Common Council:
Gentlemen.—The Ann Arbor Water Co. would respectfully eall the attention of your Honorable body to the promiscous use of fire hydrants for various purposes by persons in the employ of the city. The use of water by the city for sprinkling public parks, flushing sewers, etc., is a necessity, and we have no desire except to facilitate this in every way. But the preservation of these hydrants in condition to be of immediate and effective use in case of fire is a greater necersity, and is a duty imperative if our fire protection is to be maintained properly. This we feel that we cannot do while these hydrants are being promiscously used for other purposes, and we would ask that your Hanorable Body take some measures to prevent this in the future. For most of the use required by the city fixtures should be supplied for the use of small hose and fixtures, and the same would undoubtedly do the work to better advantage. For the balance of this season, or until such arrangements can be made, this company will be glad to furnish a man to attend to the hydrants at any time notice is given that the use of same is desired.

Very respectfully,
The Ann Arbor Water Co.,
per A. K. Hale, Receiver.

ARTHUR BROWN, Chairman JOHN L. DUFFY, Secretary,

The democratic convention to name a candidate for congress in the second district has been called to meet in Adrian, September 11.

The republican pharisees who seem so distressed over the alliance between the senatorial "conservatives" and the sugar trust, have had the power and the opportunity for weeks of giving the people free sugar and the trust a black eye. Why have they not availed themselves of the opportunity? Why did they not vote solidly for the Murphy resolution against any further "contested legislation? " For the simple reason that underneath their pharisee ism they wear the collar of the sugar monopoly. The sugar trust holds the title to them in fee simple. For proof see McKinley bill with its one-half cent a pound tax for the benefit of the infamous monopoly. Woe unto you sugar trust pharisees!

At the head of this page will be found the call for the democratic county convention. This convention will name the county ticket and delegates to the democratic congressional convention which will meet in Adrian on September 11. A duty will devolve on this convention upon the judicious performance of which will largely depend the hopes of democratic success this fall. It is the duty of every democrat, therefore, to attend his party primaries and assist in discovering the wishes of the rank and file of the party, that those wishes may be faithfully represented in and carried out by the convention. There should be no vacancies in the representation of any ward or township. This gathering should be thoroughly representative of the dominant party of the county and imbued with that enthusiasm which presages success. There is no reason why the democrats should not throw their usual majority in the approaching elections, provided every democrat goes to the polls and performs his duty. But there must be no stay at home.

vided the situation seemed inviting. Mr. Barkworth has represented his district in the lower house of the state legislature the past two sessions where he did valiant service for the democracy. The abilty he displayed and his faithful attendance upon his duties, even at the expense of his private business, won for him the respect of the democracy of the state generally, and he came to be regarded as a man of much promise. Recent utterances of his have, unfortunately, placed him at variance with a large portion of the democracy of the minded a man to be influenced by there is a strong feeling abroad that carrying out of government obligations and the faithful execution of didate whose utterances on important issues have not tended to promote that harmony in the party which is so essential to democratic success. The second district interests can be better taken care of by a democrat who is in sympathy with the democratic administration.

COOLEY ON STATE AND FEDER-AL RIGHTS.

The address of the president of the American Bar Association, Judge T. M. Cooley, of this city, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the association at Saratoga last Wednesday, was a most scholarly and thoughtful production, and in view of the notable happenings of the past year, most timely. Coming from the source it does, one of the recognized highest constitutional authorities in the nation, and being given to the discussion of the practical workings of our government during one of the most eventful years of our national life, it cannot fail to interest every intelligent citi-

Judge Cooley sees in the experiences of the year influences at work which "have a bearing upon the vital principles of our political institutions," and which in the time to come may, under the fanaticism of ignorance and careless or unprincipled leadership, "put our constitutional structure under suspicion' and raise doubts as to "whether the freedom we enjoy is more than nominal." "When such time comes," says the Judge, "the most fundamental principles may be in need, not merely of tacit acceptance, but of a defense that will consist in active and aggressive warfare upon those who in disorderly or unconstitutional ways assail them."

In his discussion of the so-called Coxey movement he condemns the same as inimical to the basic princioles of our system, without warrant n law, and but for the tolerant disposition of the American people, dangerous to the public peace. He same vigorous manner, declaring bition." that it is bad in morals; and as to arbitration as a legal preventative of such outbreaks he considers it inadequate. As to the federal interference in the strike, and the rights Observer. and obligations of the general government, he speaks as follows:

"There were national duties to be agents and courts to whom in part the performance was entrusted, and disorderly parties were interfering and rendering performances difficult-oftentimes impossible. But the position of the governor was that the maintenance of peace and the repression of disorder was a state duty, and the president was guilty of usurpation when he thus, without request, moved troops into the state for the purpose. We cannot admit that the position taken is even plausible. It has no warrant whatever in the federal con-Hon. Thomas E. Barkworth, of stitution, which, on the contrary, is

FROM THE SEWER COMMITTEE. To the Common Council:

To the Common Council;
Your Committee on Sewers, to whom was referred the report of the City Engineer relative to the construction of a lateral sewer on and along Washington street, beg leave to submit the following report:

We have gone over and inspected the route of the proposed lateral, and the lateral sewer district indicated in such report of the City Engineer, and have heard all persons appearing and desiring to be heard in relation to the matter, and we are of the opinien that a lateral sewer on Washington streeteast from the main sewer is a necessary public improvement, and that the same ought to be constructed, commencing at the main sewer and running easterly along Washington street to structed, commencing at the main sewer and running easterly along Washington street to State street thence southerly on State street to North University avenue, thence easterly on North University avenue and Washtenaw avenue near the intersection of Church street, also including the High School sewer and the University sewer as part of this lateral sewer system.

We have also duly considered the estimates of the City Engineer for the construction of such proposed improvement, and approve the same. We also approve the boundaries of the lateral sewer district indicated in such report.

FROM THE LIGHTING COMMITTEE.

To the Common Council: Your Common Council:
Your Committee on Lighting, to whom was referred the petitions, asking for electric lights on the corner of Fifth avenue and Summit street, and at the intersection of Washington street and Fourth avenue, respectfully report that your committee visited the different localities on Friday evening, August 17th, in a body, fully enspected the same and would recommend the following, namely:

That the petition for light on the intersection of Fifth avenue and Summit street, your Committee finds this locality the light not as necessary, as it would give better satisfaction to place the light on the corner of Fourth avenue and Depot street, on 60-foot pole. We therefore recommend that this light be granted and located as recommended.

That the petition for light at the intersection.

That the petition for light at the intersection of Washington street and Fourth avenue be granted, as this light is necessary for the reason, this locality has in the past year been built up on all four corners with business blocks, said light to be a swinging light suspended across the streets.

Respectfully submitted.

NERVE AND A SHARP KNIFE An Unprecedented and Exquisitely Delicate

Surgical Operation. For the first time on record the surgeon's sharp pointed knife has penetrated to the pancreas and saved a man's life. The operation was recently performed at the Hahnemann hospital. Some great surgical work is performed at this hospital, but there is a strict understanding that operations shall not be reported to the lay world, and that the name of the subject shall never be given out. The subject this time was a well to do merchant, who paid the surgeon a very large sum for his marvelous skill. There was a hard lump just below the patient's stomach. His stomach pained him, and his digestion was not good. The lump kept growing. His doctor made a cut in the abdomen and saw that the lump was beyond the reach of ordinary surgery. The merchant would probably die.

One of the surgeons at the Hahnemann hospital said he would like to make another slit in the abdomen, believing he might succeed in removing the lump. If he did, it might kill the merchant just the same, but if some thing was not done he would die any-

So the merchant took the last chance. A 6 inch slit was made, and the surgeon deftly ran his fingers down under the stomach and found a lump as large as his fist attached to the pancreas. The pancreas is about 5 inches long, an inch in thickness and 2 inches broad. From the fact that it digests all of the fats taken into the system the pancreas is a highly important organ of a human be-enormous size of the object clinging to the pancreas like a toadstool to a log, they thought the case was hopeless. But Ald. Wagner moved that the Street the operating surgeon still kept up his surveyed the situation he knew that if Ald. Manly moved as a substitute he cut away even the slightest segment of the pancreas the merchant was done for. Only by the very nicest calculation could the right cuts be made. He sponged off the blood and went to work. One and then another incision of the blade, and the cyst, filled with its horrible fetid matter, was removed, having been lopped neatly off just where it was In a few days the patient was on his feet again and said he felt like a new dering how many men have died from lumps in their stomachs who might Ald. Wagner moved that the Street have been saved and just how far the in an operation on the pancreas. -New Again between green hedgerows, with light over me heart and whistling lip. Confronted in the twilight by so sinister a scene, I felt all," said I. "You won't make your qualmish. Ragged clouds dropped their fortune in this locality." fringes over sullen western red, around spread the salt marshes, evil in their desolation, and I, with chilled blood, stared at the lonely mansion dominating the outlook. Here, thought I, an adventure awaits me. The hour, the house, the scene, hint at romance, and that of the strangest.

So much were my spirits dashed by these ominous environments that it was in my mind to walk the farther 10 miles and shelter for the night at Marshminster. Yet some fate compelled my unwilling feet toward that inhospitable door, and almost before I knew my own mind I was knocking loudly. It opened while my hand was still raised for the final rap, and a handsome woman presented herself to my astonished eyes. What beauty did among the tombs know not, yet there she smiled. Though handsome, she was not a lady and lacked the undefinable stamp of hirth. At the same time she was above the commonality. Not a lady, not a servant, but something between the two. Her appearance confirmed the promise of romance.

"I have walked from Eastbury," said I, cap in hand, "and wish to put up here for the night."

"Marshminster is only 10 miles away," answered she, in nowise disposed to admit me.

"And for that reason I want a bed here. Twenty and more miles walking under a hot sun has wearied me considerably."

"I am sorry we cannot accommodate von, sir.' "This is an inn," I said, glancing at the sign. "The Fen inn, sir," she replied, still smiling, "and full of guests for the time being.

"Full of guests in this locality! You must then entertain waterfowl, for I have seen no human being for the last 12 miles."

She made no direct answer, but shook her head and prepared to close the door. Piqued by the discourtesy and still more by the mystery of this reception, I was about to insist upon admission when my attention was attracted to a face at the near window. I recognized it as that of a college friend and waved my stick in greeting.

"Hello, Briarfield!" I shouted lust-"Come and help me to a night's lodgings."

The girl was surprised by my remark, and, as I thought, changed color. She stepped aside to let Briarfield pass and | voice. exhibited further astonishent at the urbanity of our greeting.

What wind blows you here. Denham?" asked Briarfield, shaking my hand.

"I am on a walking tour," I answered, "and hoped to have reached Marshminster tonight, but as it is 10 miles away and I feel weary I wish to sleep here. This young lady, however, says the inn is full of guests and"-"Full of guests!" interrrupted Briar-field, looking at the girl. "Nonsense, Rose. I am the only guest here!"

"We expect others, sir," said Rose obstinately.

"You can't expect a sufficient number to fill the house," he retorted. 'Surely Mr. Denham can have a bed?'

"I shall ask my father, sir!" When she disappeared, Briarfield turned to me with a smile and asked a strange question. "Now, I'll be bound," said he, "that you don't know my first name!'

"Felix." "No! You are wrong. I am not the rich Felix, but the poor Francis.'

"You see the result of being one of twins," said I impatiently. "If at college I could not distinguish between you, how can you expect me to do so now? I haven't seen either you or your brother for at least two years. Where is Felix?

"At Marshminster."

"And what are you doing here?" "Ah, that's a long story! If you"-

"Please to walk in, sir," interrupted Rose at this moment. "My father desires to speak with you."

"I have, then, to submit myself to the approval of the landlord," said I and forthwith entered the house, followed by Francis Briarfield.

The landlord, a lean, saturnine man above the common height, saluted me with a sour smile. In appearance and demeanor he was quite in keeping with that dreary inn. About him lurked a Puritanic flavor not ill suited to his somber attire and unctuous speech. He was less like an innkeeper than a smug valet. I mistrusted the man at first sight.

"I can give you supper and a bed, sir," said he, bending his body and rubbing his hands, "neither, I regret to say, of the first quality."

"Never mind," I answered, unstrapping my knapsack. "I am too tired and hungry to be particular."

'We have only lately taken up this house, sir," he continued, still bowing, "and things are a trifle disordered."

I glanced around. Despite the cheer-In present in present iments, I ful blaze of a fire, the room had a mil-

'What's the meaning of these mysteries?" I asked abruptly. The horror of the place was already influencing my spirits. "What mysteries?" demanded Briarfield in a listless manner.

"This inn has been uninhabited for some considerable period. A suspicious looking rascal and his pretty daughter have taken up their abode here with no possible chance of getting customers. stumble on this castle grim in the twilight and find you here—you of all men -whom I believed to be in South America. Don't you call these mysteries?

"If you put it that way, I admit the mysteries, replied Francis, coming toward the fire. "I know little about the inn, still less about the landlord and his daughter. As to myself, I am here by appointment to meet my brother Felix. Came from London to Starby and rode from thence to this inn."

Why meet him in this murderous looking house?' "He named the place of meeting himself.' "And you?" "I only arrived this month in England from South America. I wrote him from London, asking to see him. He appointed this inn as neutral ground for us to meet, so here I am." "Why neutral ground? Have you quarreled?"

"Bitterly." "You did so at college," said I, looking steadily at him. "Strange that such ill blood should exist between twin brothers.'

"The inevitable woman," said Francis in a harsh tone, quite at variance with his usual soft speech.

"Oh! And her name?" "Olivia Bellin!"

"I know her. Do you mean to say, Briarfield, that"--

"Hush!" he said, rapidly indicating the door, and there stood the girl Rose listening to our conversation. Her face was pale, and it was evident that the mention of the name had powerfully affected her. Seeing our eyes were on her, she apologized in a low, nervous

"Your pardon, gentlemen," she said, placing a tray on the table. "I did not intend to interrupt your conversation. Allow me to lay the table for supper.'

"First show me my room," said I, picking up my knapsack. "I am dusty and wish to give myself a brush up."

Rose nodded and preceded me out of the apartment. I glanced back and saw that Francis had returned to his old post by the window. Evidently he was watching for the arrival of his brother.

"When does Mr. Felix Briarfield arrive?" I asked Rose as we ascended the

"You don't know the name?" I re peated, seeing she was lying, "yet Mr. Francis Briarfield is here to meet his loves me still. The last letter I received

"It may be so, sir. But I know nothing about it. Mr. Briarfield is a stranger to me, like yourself.

"It is to be hoped you received him more willingly than you did me.'

My words fell on the empty air, for after her last remark she hastily departed. I mechanically attended to my wants and wondered what could be the meaning of the girl's attitude.

"She knows Miss Bellin and Felix Briarfield," I thought, "perhaps not personally, but at least their names. She is also aware of the intended visit of Felix to this place. I must find out from Francis the reason of that visit, and it may throw some light on the demeanor of Rose. I am glad I came here tonight, for that landlord is scarcely a person to be trusted. Certainly my presentiment of romance is coming true.

When I descended to the dining room, I found supper laid and Francis impatiently awaiting my arrival. A lamp was lighted, and for the first time I saw his face plainly. The alteration in his looks and demeanor since our college days was astonishing. Felix had always been the graver of the twins, and it was the distinguishing mark between them. Now the livelier spirits of Francis had calmed down to a subdued gravity which made the resemblance between them still greater. We seated ourselves at the table in silence, and he colored as he caught my earnest look.

'You find me altered?" he asked, with manifest discomposure.

"Very much altered and more like Felix than ever."

"I haven't seen him for over a year, said Briarfield abruptly, "so I don't know if the resemblance is still strong.

ically. "I saw Felix two months ago, and now I look at you tonight I can scarcely believe it is Francis and not Felix seated before me."

"We are alike to outward view, Denham, but I hope our natures are different. "What do you mean?"

"Felix," said he, with marked deliberation, "is a thief, a liar and a dishonorable man."

"You speak strongly."

"I have reason to." "The before mentioned reason, Briarfield," said I, alluding to the feminine element.

"Yes. By the way," he added feverishly, "you said Miss Bellin was known "In a casual way only. She is a society beauty, and I have met her once or twice; also her very silly mother. The latter is as remarkable for folly as the former is for beauty. Well, Briarfield, and what about Miss Bellin?"

"But why here, of all places?" "Miss Bellin is in Marshminster. Felix is staying there also, and in his letter asked me to see him at the Fen inn, as he wished to explain his conduct fully before I met Olive again."

"And you agreed?" "As you see."

my brother.

"In your place," said I meditatively, "I should have gone at once to Marshminster and confronted both. There is some trickery about this."

'You think so?" "I am by nature suspicious," I answered. "Perhaps too much so. Yes, I think there is some trickery." Francis frowned and glanced at his

"It is now 8 o'clock," he said, replacing it in his pocket, "too late to go to Marshminster.

'Besides which," I added, "our worthy landlord has doubtless neither trap nor horse."

By this time we had finished supper, and Rose came in to clear away Thoughtfully filling my pipe, I watched her closely. Undeniably she was a very beautiful woman and ill suited to her present occupation. Why a girl so handsome should bury herself in this lonely inn was a mystery to me. I felt sure that there was a purpose connected with her presence here, and that inimical to Briarfield. The landlord did not make his appearance, which was to me a matter of some relief. I disliked the fellow

Francis, smoking hard, sat staring at the fire and took no heed of Rose. Once or twice she glanced in his direction and looked as though about to address him. Catching my eye, she bit her lip and desisted. Finally she disappeared from the room, with manifest anger at not having accomplished her design.

"Strange," said I, lighting my pipe. "What is strange?" asked Briarfield, looking up. "That girl knows your brother."

"It's not impossible," he answered carelessly. "Felix always had an eye for pretty faces, and as he appointed this inn as a meeting place he has probably been here before. Rose Strent no doubt draws him hither by her beauty." "That is not a compliment to Miss

"I know it. Felix is a profligate scamp and will make her a bad husband. He shall not marry her," added Briarfield angrily. "I say he shall not marry her and make her life miserable. I'll kill him first. "

"Man, man, think of what you are saying-your own brother!" 'My own brother-my twin brother," scoffed Francis, "is that any reason why he should take away from me

"Where did you meet her?" I asked, ignoring this last remark, which was but idle. "In town over a year ago," he replied, calming down. "She is, as you know, very beautiful, and her mother wished her to make a great match. I am comfortably off, but have not a title; therefore Mrs. Bellin would not sanction the engagement. Then I had to go to South America on business connected with my property. Before I left she that nothing should part us or render her false to me. See, here is the ring she gave me," he added, stretching out his hand, "this pearl ring. I was to be back in six months, and our engagement "It is stronger," I answered emphat- was to be made public. I am back in six months and the first thing I hear is that she is to marry Felix.'

"Did she write and tell you so?" "No. But Felix did and asked me to meet him here before seeing her."

"Now, I wonder if this apparent treachery of Miss Bellin has anything to do with your twinship?"
"What do you mean?" asked Briar-field, starting up.

"You are so like in appearance," said I, "that no one could tell you apart. You have lived constantly together save for the last six months and know every action of each other's lives. It may be that Felix has passed himself off to Miss Bellin as you.'

"Impossible! She would detect the deception.'

"I doubt it, save by intuition. I assure you, Briarfield, that the resemblance between you is most perplexing. There is not the slightest difference. You dress the same; you have the same gestures; you almost think the same. It is scarce possible to tell which is which when apart. I thought tonight that you were Felix."

"It cannot be; it cannot be," he muttered feverishly "Her own heart would tell her the truth."

"Did you tell Felix of your engagement?" I asked abruptly.

"Yes. I told him all. "And when did you hear last from Miss Bellin?" "Some three months ago. It was because she did not reply to my letters that I came back so soon." "To whom were your letters sent?"

"To her, of course."

"Care of Felix?" said I, with instinctive suspicion. "Why, yes," he said, with a sudden frown. "I did not want Mrs. Bellin to know of our engagement, so did not dare to write openly. Felix undertook to deliver the letters." "He may have undertaken to do so, but," I added forcibly, "he did not." "Denham!" "The whole case is as clear as day," said I. "Felix was in love with Miss Bellin and wished to marry her. Knowing she was in love with you, he was well aware he had no chance, so resorted to trickery. When you left for Chile, he gave her your letters for three months, then, saving he was going abroad, ostensibly left England, but really staid and presented himself as you."

"As me?" "Yes. He has traded on the marvelous resemblance between you. He knows all your life, all your love affairs, and I have no doubt that Miss Bellin believes that he is Francis Briarfield, her lover, returned from South America in three months instead of six." "If I thought so," muttered Francis, biting his fingers, "if I thought so"-"I am sure it is so. Now you see why it is imperative that he should interview you before you meet Miss Bellin. He wishes to reveal the deception and throw himself on your mercy.

"He'll get no mercy from me if this is so," said Briarfield in a somber tone. "Oh, fool that I was not to write direct to Olivia when I came back to England! But it is not too late. When he comes here, I'll learn the truth and denounce him to Olivia. Then our troubles will be over."

"A man capable of such a trick is capable of worse," said I sententiously. 'I advise you to be on your guard against Felix." "Do you think he'll kill me?" "I don't go as far as that," I replied cautiously, "but your meeting will be-

The Latest In Letter Writers.

An enterprising country publisher, who has remarked that immense numbers of people suffer from an almost unconquerable repugnance to letter writing, has prepared a special post card for the use of lazy correspondents. The back of the card is divided lengthwise into 10 unequal spaces, and the energies of the reluctant scribe are spurred by the following suggestive headings, one of which is conspicuously printed to the left of each of the divisions: 1. UNCLE SAM'S NEW LIBRARY

The Most Perfect Structure of Its Hind I: the World.

No such library as this new one of Uncle Sam's was ever planned before. books need fresh air as much as human beings, else they rot. The floors are sheets of iron, and fire could do no damage worth mentioning, for books will not burn. They will only smolder under favorable circumstances. The library has 1,800 windows. Those which admit light to the great book stacks above described are single sheets of fine plate glass. Looking from the interior courtyards, the walls inclosing the book stacks appear to be almost wholly of glass. Thus the title on the back of every volume may be easily read. The shelves already provided will accommodate 1,500,000 books—twice as many as are now in the library.

The building has been so constructed as to afford space for other stacks, which may be put up at any time, and will hold 2,700,000 volumes more. A million books in addition may be accommodated in the courtyards, and there is room for more besides. The librarian of congress a century hence will not find himself cramped in the least. - Washington Star.

ON PULLMAN'S SIDE

Testimony for the "Baron" of the Model Town.

A DIFFERENT VIEW AS TO RENTS.

Witnesses Who Say That They Are Not Higher in Pullman Than Elsewhere-Drinking Habits of the Workmen Criticised-Gen. Miles Denies a Statement-Why Geo. M. Pullman Declines Now to Run the Works on Half Time.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—There were a few witnesses on the Pullman side before the labor commission yesterday, but they ran short for some reason. Pullman was not one of them, however, and it cannot be stated that he will be, as the commissioners keep their own counsel. They announced, however, that there would be plenty of witnesses on the Pullman and railway side and a few more on the A. R. U. side. The only persons subpænaed so far are five men from Pullman-ex-strikers who could not pay car fare. They were subpoensed so that their expenses could be paid by the commission, and one of the commissioners advanced the money for mileage and perdiem to each of the Miles Denies a Statement.

To make this history complete it should be said that army headquarters has given given out a statement relating to some things that have been testified to in this inquiry. When on the stand Debs referred to a report that General Miles, on his return to the city to take charge of the United States troops, immediately went to the headquarters of the general managers. The general says that this is not correct; that he not only did not go to the headquarters of the general managers, but did not even know where those headquarters were; that he did not need the advice of the general managers as to his duty. The only intercourse he had with the managers was an appeal from them for protection, which he sup-

Testifies as to the Rents.

Frank W. E. Glover, a real estate agent living at 326 Michigan avenue, said he had been asked to appear and give his views by a gentleman who was not con-nected with the Pullman company, but Glover did not know that he was not acting for that company. He could give facts only as regarded Kensington. He owned a subdivision there and rented houses in that suburb. He knew nothing about the Pullman houses except from the exterior. Said he: "I would consider from these observations that the Pullman houses which rent for from $18 to $22 a month were cheaper than my houses at Kensington, which I reut for $12. In my houses there are no conveniences except running water in one room. For a decent workingman they are not inviting. We make no repairs; the tenants make whatever repairs they wish. When Pullman tenants have come to us to rent our houses they invariably talk about the beautiful homes they left. The surroundings of the Pullman houses are muca more desirable than mine."

Workmen Only Got Half Time.

Glover knewsomething of the conditions of wages at Pullman, because some forty men wao were paying him for houses on the installment plan had come to him at various times and told him that owing to reduction of wages or scarcity of work they could not pay as much as they had agreed to pay. There was but little work, they said, but the Pullman company gave them three days work a week and then gave another set of men a chance.

[In his letter to Governor Altgeld declining the governor's suggestion to put the men on half time so as to give more men work, Pullman said the company had tried that last winter, and the result was to show such a small amount weekly to each man as to give an erroneous impression of the scale of wages. Hereafter the policy of the company would be to employ no more men than it could employ stead-

Quite in Love with Pullman.

Glover did not consider the fact that houses were detached and stood alone on lots preferable to those in a block. He thought the six-room brick houses in Pullman would cost from $3,000 to $4,500, while his own frame cottage cost about $1,200. He thought the Pullman houses worth much more than his. "As you go by in the cars and see the beautiful grass plots and the pleasant surroundings," he said, "I think if I were a poor man I would sacrifice almost anything to live in such a desirable place." He added that for his houses he was dependent on Pullman employes for tenants. The witness also said that rents in Kensington had not been reduced; he was getting the same rent for his houses as for several years past.

SAYS PULLMAN MEN DRINK BEER,

And Inclined to the Belief That Rents Are Not Exorbitant There.

Paul E. Hermes, a news and stationery dealer in Pullman, who had worked for six years in the Pullman shops, was the next witness. Mr. Hermes said that he, personally, had no fault to find with the Pullman. He left the town when the 1886 strike occurred and did not go back until it was over. Witness has a nine-room house in Pullman for which he pays $35 a month. He did not think a similar house could be had in Chicago, Kensington or Roseland for the same rent. think if many of the men would leave beer and whisky alone they would be better off," said Mr. Hermes. "The Kensington beer wagons are passing through Pullman in a stream all the time."

This was especially the case on pay days. He continued: "The Kensington saloonkeepers, 100 or more, have nearly all become rich, and all the money comes from the Pullman employes. On the other hand, many of the men are saving. When I was working in the Pullman shops at $3 a day I could put away $5 a month. When I got a little more I could save $7.50 a month." Witness thought the Pullman employes would compare favorably with the same number of men in Chicago. As to the complaints of the foremen, this was always the case; whether wages were high or low there were some who would always grumble at something.

L. H. Johnson, a hardware dealer at Pullman, was questioned very closely by one of the commissioners concerning his lease. He stated that his is the only hardware store in Pullman, but says he has no agreement with the Pullman company by which competition in his line of business is kept out. He has a written lease of his store building, but there is a clause in it by which the company can oust him on ten days' notice. The company had reduced his store rent voluntarily, but not his house rent. He did not know anything about comparative rents. He CLEVELAND IS BACK thought the absence of a sewer system in Kensington made a material difference as to desirability of residence. H. Atwell, a News reporter, testified as to rioting, but added nothing new. The News man charged much of the turbulence to the deputy marshals. Axel Lundgren said that in all his thirteen years' service for the Pullman company he had no complaint as to wages or treat-

Fire Marshal Fitzgerald appeared next with a record book and a copy of the re-ports which showed the following losses in incendiary fires during the strike: One hundred and sixty-six freight cars, eight switch towers, six freight depots, five switch shanties and one hay barn. "I attended nearly all these fires myself," explained the marshal. "The only fires we saw kindled were by boys, the oidest of them not more than 19.

They Were After the Sheriff. VICTOR, Colo., Aug. 23.-W. O. Wirt, of Council Bluffs, who was shot in both arms when riding to Cripple Creek, will probably lose his left arm. There is no doubt that the assassins mistook Wirt and his traveling companion, J. M. Roseberry, for Sheriff Bowers and a deputy who had been hunting for some of the desperadoes that infest this district. James Drury has been arrested on suspicion of having been one of the attacking party. He was active in the strike and is said to be a Molly Maguire.

Twenty Per Cent. of Us Idle. BALTIMORE, Aug. 23.—Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, made an address to a large meeting of workmen, in the course of which he said: "In the beginning all men started equally, but now one class has nearly everything and millions, though willing to work, are on the verge of starvation. In America today there are 3,000,-000 men, willing and ready to work, who are idle for want of work to do-molding themselves, or rather being molded into felons and beggars.'

A Husband Terribly Avenges a Wrong Done to His Wife.

St. Louis, Aug. 23.-A special to The Republic from Louisiana, Mo., says: A terrible tragedy was enacted about eight miles from this city in Buffalo township, in which John Irby, about 30 years; old, was shot and killed by Oscar Purgahn, a German farmer. The story of the farmer is that Irby went to Purgahn's home while he was absent, and with a drawn revolver compelled Purgahn's wife to submit to his desires.

He then threatened her with death if she ever told of his crime. Mrs. Purghan, however, told a neighbor of the affair, and he came to town and told Purgahn, who immediately hastened home and taking his gun started in search of Irby. He came across him near the house, coming toward town in his wagon. Purgahn says that Irby made a demonstra-tion as if to attack him and he shot him. Purgahn gave himself up.

MEMHHIS, Aug. 23.—As the north-bound express train of the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama railway was nearing Hazel, Ky., it struck a wagon loaded with people, killing five of the occupants, and wounding one. The killed are: Moses Jennie, Lillie Ray, E. Tobias Ray and the Misses Harmon, two sisters. John Ray was thrown 100 feet and severely injured. The party was crossing the track as the train came thundering down on them and the team becoming frightened at the alarm of the whisle ran into a cattle guard.

HAS HE A MESSAGE FOR CONGRESS?

A Question That Now Bothers the States men, Who Are Waiting for Him to Act on the Tariff-What He Will Do Something "No Fellow Can Find Out"-A Little Friction in the Senate Over the Question of Oratory.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.-President Cleveland returned to Washington at half past eight last night from his few days' rest at Gray Gables. He was accompanied by Secretary Lamont, who met him at New York, and by Dr. O'Reilly, who went away from Washington with him. The fact that Cleveland was expected had been generally known and a good sized crowd was at the Pennsylvania station when the train rolled in. So far as appearance can indicate the president was evidently profited by his short trip. And now the president is here speculation turns on what he will do about the tariff bill. It has been reported that during his absence he has written a message to congress, but nobody knows that this is true. Still everybody wants to know what the alleged message is about, and speculation in political circles is on the tiptoe.

Something No One Can Find Out. An effort was made last night to obtain some information as to what course the president is likely to pursue with reference to the tariff bill, but not the least intimation thereof could be obtained either at the White House or from the members of the cabinet. Private Secretary Thurber said that the president had been very much benefited by his trip to Gray Gables. Congress Wants to Go Home.

Congress wants to go home. There is no doubt about that, and whatever action the president may take the two houses will undoubtedly adjourn the moment they decently can-unless debate breaks out in the senate, as is threatened. However, Gorman and Crisp had a long conference, and the matter of early adjournment was discussed. It was believed by the Democratic leaders that a business quorum cannot be longer maintained in either house; that it would be well to have an early adjournment, and that it should come as soon as the tariff bill is finally settled. The absence of a quorum in the senate resulted in telegraphing members to come back to the city, and the members here are straining every nerve to keep the

CHANDLER NOW IN THE WAY.

His Absence Hangs Up the Free Alcohol Bill-Opposition to Oratory.

Before telegraphing for absentees the Democratic leaders made an especial ap peal to the Rapublicans to permit the bill to correct the error with reference to alcohol in the arts to go through without obction in the absence of a quorum. It appears, however, that when Chandler went away he left behind him a request that the bill should not be taken up in his absence and the Republican senators are guarding this request. The Democratic senators now threaten to retaliate by tak ing up the supplemental tariff bills and trying to pass them in case they succeed in getting a quorum, but they realize that there are many difficulties in the way of putting such a programme into effect, and did no t resolve upon any definite plan beyoud exerting themselves to the utmost to secure the attendance of a quorum.

As a matter of fact there was a quorum in reach in the senate for there were thirty Democrats, eight Republicans and two Populists answered to their namesmaking a total of forty-and Jones of Nevada and Quay were also present, but failed to answer. Later Caffery of Louisiana appeared, when Jones and Quay also asked to be recorded. A quorum was thus obtained by the addition of these three names. This discovery was made as the result of the Republicans carrying out their plan of insisting on a quorum.

The Republicans made the point of no quorum in the early stages of the session. The consultations among the leaders indicated that they were willing that the alcohol schedule of the tariff should be corrected, but no agreement could be made on the Democratic side to stop any further speechmaking. Lindsay of Kentucky has been prepared to make a speech on the tariff. The Republicans do not want it to be made. The friends of Lindsay insist that a quorum can be brought here and that the speech must be made, if any senator desires to make it. It is to shut off Lindsay that the Republicans make the no quorum point, and it is a question whether any senator will return to the city from his home only to help Lindsay make a speech.

Getting Ready for the New Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. - Preparations for the new tariff bill are going forward at the treasury department with all possible speed. Carlisle has already prepared the blank form of license for custom house brokers provided for in the bill, and it is now in the hands of the printer. Several clerks are hard at work preparing an index for the new bill. This will occupy about twenty pages in the new tariff volume which, for the convenience of customs officials, will contain both the new law and the McKinley act of 1890.

Senate Calls on the Absent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.-No business the senate. Attention was called to the after the vice president rapped for order. Tho Democrats consulted and decided to direct the sergeant-at-arms to telegraph absent senators to return. The proposition was agreed to without objection from the Republicans and the senate went into executive session, adjourning twenty-five Brosius takes advantage of the leave to print granted by the house when the tariff bill was passed to insert a speech loaded with campaign poetry. NOVEL BURIAL CASKETS.

An Audacious Innovation and an Enterprising Agent's Successful Canvass.

During the past few weeks Washington has teen canvassed by the agent of one of the most peculiar pieces of funeral paraphernalia ever invented. It is a burglar and fireproof coffin, with so many strange adjuncts that a person seeing it for the first time would throw up his hands in holy horror at the audacity of the inventor and the admirable perve of a manufacturer that will place such an article on the market.

Despite the many ghastly features in connection with these coffins and the almost blasphemous talk of the enterprising agent, this city has proved to be a lucrative field for him to work, and now a number of citizens are equipped with the strangest burial appliance of the decade. The description of the coffin as given by the agent is as follows:

Primarily the coffin is fire and burglar proof. The case is made out of boiler iron hardened with old bone, spruce bark and leather, which forms an enamel that cannot be penetrated by chisel or drill. It is put together with angle iron and flush rivets. The locks are all on the inside, so constructed with hooks and staples, with a spring behind them, that when a pin is drawn out from the outside the bolts spring down and lock automatically, and the coffin is then locked so that it cannot be opened from the outside. The only person who can unlock and open the strange coffin is the person inside."

There are two grades of coffins—those for vaults and those to be interred in graves. The coffin to be placed in a vault is equipped with torpedoes that can be exploded from the inside. The theory of this is that in case a person is buried alive he can throw back the bolts, explode the torpedoes and warn the sexton and thus escape. The coffin to be placed in a grave has attached a strong spring and arm. In case the person inside finds that he wishes to get out all he has to do is to throw back the spring, and this arm is thereby released and cuts its way to the top, exploding a torpedo and warning the keeper of the graveyard.

These coffins are sold at so much per pound, and the first purchaser does not have to pay anything down. He simply gives a written guarantee to the manufacturer that he will pay for the coffin from his estate within 15 days after death, or, failing to do this, the manufacturer can claim his body to do what he may wish with it.-Washington

ARGENTINE'S DIGNITY SAVED.

Minister Zeballos Proved Equal to the Emergency That Confronted Him.

Just before the Minneapolis sailed from here a few weeks ago for the trial trip which proved so successful Dr. B. Estanislaus Zeballos, the Argentine Republic's minister to this country, who had been invited to go along as a guest, walked up the gangplank in Cramps' shipyard with a servant. He was shown to the room which had been reserved for him, and which, in view of the crude condition of the cruiser consequent upon her trial trip, he found plainly furnished. He also discovered that the president of the trial board and Chairman Cummings of the house committee on naval affairs had staterooms that were somewhat more roomy and better situated, but no better furnished.

Dr. Zeballos at once declared that in his capacity as minister to the United States from the Argentine Republic he could not accept any accommodations on the ship which were not equal to those assigned to any other person, and he made a request for a better room. It was impossible for Captain Sargent to find such accommodation or to turn Mr. Cummings or any other official out of the quarters to which he had been assigned. Dr. Zeballos declared that, under these circumstances, he could not accompany the ship on the trip and would leave forthwith.

The officials of the Cramp company expressed their regret very politely, and Dr. Zeballos, with servant trailing behind him, walked down the gangplank and thus preserved the dignity of the Argentine Republic, but missed the most beautiful trip that has ever been made.—Philadelphia Record.

An Unappreciative Valet.

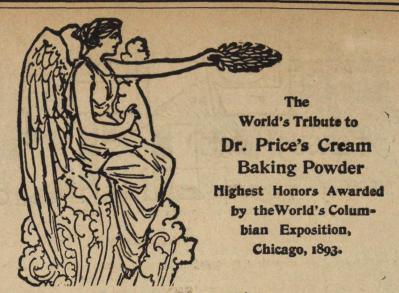

It is doubtless difficult for a conscientious valet to determine where perquisites end and theft begins, but the valet of Professor Lenbach, the famous Austrian portrait painter, seems to have been more conscientious than most valets. He loved order, and no place is so difficult to keep in order as an artist's studio. So he invariably cleared away all the sketches which he found messing about the place and sold them cheap to picture dealers or bartered them for tobacco. Professor Lenbach, having the untidy instincts of the painter, no sooner discovered this than he raised objections. The valet explained that he rewas transacted during the short session of garded his master's sketches as worthless. The explanation does not appear absence of a quorum within five minutes to have mollified the professor, for he is prosecuting his valet.-Pall Mall Bud-

WE WILL NEARLY ALL BE THERE The End of the World Advertised at a Near but Untold Date.

Kansas City, Aug. 23 -A small pamphlet entitled "What Do These Things Mean?" is being freely distributed among the homes, particularly of workingmen, about town. It is interesting inasmuch as it attempts to prove that the end of the world is at hand and that the wonderful things told in the book of Revelations are about to come to pass. The recent railroad strike is declared to be the last sign of the prophesy. This last sign, it declares, is distress with perplexity.

Nations have been perplexed before and likewise have been distressed, but this is the first time, it is asserted, that both calamities have come at once. The pamphlet is published by the International Religious Liberty association. At their office no one was able to fix the exact day for the end of the world, but it was stated that the present generation will live to see it and that most of us will be present when the end comes

He advocated the appointment of foresters-one to each 1,200 or 2,500 acreswhose duty it would be to watch the forests and prevent fires. This was the European way, and we would never in this country prevent forest fires until our for-

Sons of Veteraus at Davenport. DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 23.—At the afternoon session of the Sons of Veterans the most important legislation of the meeting was passed. The constitution was amended to provide for reduction of the age of eligibility from 21 to 18 years of age; placing regiments of the Sons of Veterans Guard under the jurisdiction of division commanderies, thus doing away with the guard as a national organization, and admitting to meetings of the camps as visitors all honorably discharged Union soldiers and sailors, instead of only members of Grand Army. The third degree ritual was resubmitted by the committee on rituals and ceremonies and was adopted.

Jewish guides in Rome never pass under the arch of Titus, but walk around it. The reason is it commemorates a victory over their race.

Preparing for Illinois State Fair.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Aug. 23.—The state board of agriculture met here to complete arrangements for the state fair the last week in September. The grounds were inspected, and it was found that work on the exposition building had so progressed as to insure it being in a condition for use by the middle of next month. It will not be completed, but will be inclosed so that the most valuable exhibits can be shown with perfect safety.

The Fates Were Against Harman.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 23.-Henry Harman, of Logan county, was showing to his friends a rifle with which he proposed to square things with a neighbor, who in a quarrel recently had shot his (Harman's) hand off. Harman dropped the rifle and it went off, lodging a bullet in his brain. William Workman started through the woods for a doctor. He passed some men who were felling trees and one of the trees fell on him, crushing him to death.

Distilleries Suspend Operations.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Of the forty or fifty distilleries owned and operated by the whisky trust, the Riverdale distillery of Chicago is the only one left in operation. 'We have suspended operations,' J. Hennessy, manager of the Schufeldt distillery, "because the whisky manufacturers have thought it best to do so until the immense quantity of whisky which has been taken out of bond during the Races at Washington Park.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.-The match race at Washington park between the 2-year-old pacers Directly and Carbonate proved no contest except for the effort Directly made to beat the record time. Carbonate was beaten, 1/8 of a mile in the first heat, thus obviating the necessity of a second. Directly made the circuit in 2:12, which equals his previous Buffalo performance. The other races were tame.
