ELECTRIC NEEDLE'S EYE

New Loop Line to be Built by the Street Railway Company.

THE BLACK KNOT IN LIMA MUST GO.

Something the Ladies Will Wear this Season.—The Inland League Course—A New Daily Paper in "Bib and Tucker."—W. M. M. B. A. Organized.—Democracy Out in Force at Saline.

Death to Black Knot.

Mr. Fritz, of Lima, who was in the city last Saturday, states that owing to the disease called black knot he has laid the axe at the root of several fine cherry trees. Under the law of the last legislature (see page 152, public acts, session of '93) the town board of Lima has appointed three commissioners whose duty is to examine all orchards and cause the destruction of trees affected with black knot or yellows. E. A. Nordman, F. G. Zahn, and J. Wood are the commissioners.

New Loop Line.

Superintendent Wilson, of the street railway, states that the proposed Hill street loop will shortly be built, probably before freezing weather comes, and very likely before the middle of next month, the work will be undertaken. If this is done, it is hoped to have the cars running over the new extension by the first of December. The patronage of the existing street car lines is such as to warrant the belief that the contemplated addition will receive the same benefit.

Piggish, and Took Olivet.

Olivet came down to Ann Arbor, Wednesday, for a game of foot-ball. There was no game—that is, none on their side. The U. of M. played, and the Olivets tried to. They were no match either in skill or size for the big, strapping but supple and skillful athletes of the U. of M. It was a murder outright, for the visiting team. Score 40 to 0. The U. of M.'s showed no mercy, but took the whole—that is, Olivet. One of the visiting team was considerably hurt, and had to be helped into the hack.

Work of the Equalizers.

The committee on equalization of the board of supervisors having made their report, the action of the committee was approved by the board, Wednesday. Only one change from the rolls of last year was made. This was in the case of the waterworks, which being now included within the city limits, the assessment was taken from Ann Arbor town and placed on the city. The increase of valuation for the city is $60,000, but as we have the goods, the change is manifestly fair and just. The city of Ann Arbor this year stands assessed at the valuation of $5,235,000. Ypsilanti goes in for $2,240,000.

Choral Union Concerts.

Prof. Stanley's announcement of the series of concerts for this season embraces names and dates as follows:

Nov. 22, the Anton Seid symphony orchestra, assisted by Miss Lillian Blauvelt, soprano; Jan. 11, Prof. Jonas, of the University School of Music, will give a piano recital; Feb. 1, Choral Union concert, with orchestra; March 8, Max Heinrich song recital. The season's program will conclude in May with the grand annual May Musical Festival, at which time Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust" will be sung. Season tickets $2.50, including admission to all the programs of the May Festival.

M. M. B. A.

An adjourned meeting of a number of the Masonic fraternity was held in Masonic Temple, Monday evening, for the purpose of organizing a mutual benefit association among the members of the Masonic order, to be known as the Washtenaw County Masonic Mutual Benefit Association.

L. C. Goodrich presided over the meeting and N. D. Gates was secretary. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and the secretary was instructed to forward a copy to the state commissioner of insurance for approval. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the county clerk. Another meeting of the association will be held Monday evening.

Prof. Sidney H. Morse.

On next Monday evening, Oct. 22, will occur the lecture of Prof. Sidney H. Morse, of Chicago, in the Unity Club series. Prof. Morse is a sculptor of renown. He was a personal friend of many of the conspicuous literary figures of this and the last generation, and has made busts of many of them. Holmes, Emerson, Channing, Longfellow, and Whittier are among the number, and to these must be added several names from across the Atlantic. Aside from his unquestioned ability as an artist, he is a delightful lecturer, illustrating his subject, "The Sculptor's Art," by making a bust in the presence of the audience and by numerous blackboard drawings. To all persons interested in true art Prof. Morse's lecture will prove a great source of interest.

The Crop Report.

From the crop bulletin issued from the office of the Secretary of State under date of Oct. 9, the total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the September report was published is 1,523,271, and in the two months, August-September, 2,476,074. This is 1,050,430 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year.

Oats are estimated to yield nearly 28½ bushels per acre; barley, 18¾ and corn, 40 bushels. Potatoes are estimated to yield 44 per cent. of an average crop, and winter apples are estimated at one-half, and late peaches three-fourths of an average crop.

Reports from the southern counties indicate that about 25 per cent. of the wheat crop will be fed. In Washtenaw county the estimate is that about one-third of the crop will be thus disposed of.

Autumn Novelties for Ladies' Gowns.

Woolen goods for autumn wear are light in weight, a desirable feature—as skirts of dresses are now so generally lined and interlined that they become too heavy for comfort even in midwinter, if made of weighty fabrics. Plain colors, mixtures of two or three colors and clouded effects are seen among the new goods. Small figures are preferred to large. Narrow stripes lengthwise, bayadere and diagonal, neat checks of blocks, and some plaids are shown in dull and in light colors though not in Scotch tartans. The peculiar blue called bluet appears in all materials, and there are many bronze shades, with green prevailing in some and brown in others. Capes will be worn again and must continue in vogue while large sleeves are used. For general wear the golf cape of cloth with Scotch plaid lining will be chosen. The McDowell Fashion Journals, from which the above information is gathered, contain in their last issue a great variety of novelties for the coming season.

The 16th Michigan.

Less than half a hundred of the now grey headed "boys" of the old 16th Michigan Infantry responded to the "roll call," yesterday. The stars and stripes floated over the court house and cheerily waved a welcome to the veteran soldiery.

At the afternoon business meeting the minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted and Capt. Z. B. Prentiss read a paper, "On to Gettysburg." The street railway placed its cars at the disposal of the vets, who made a trip to the grave of Col. Welch. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Menzo Swart; vice president, Theo. Hoeninghausen; secretary and treasurer, A. M. Apted. The next place of meeting will be Plymouth.

A banquet took place in the evening, an address of welcome being extended by Mayor Darling, with response by Commander Childs, of Welch Post. Dr. Breakey was toastmaster, and there were many responses; also a paper by Mrs. J. S. Berry, and resolution by Miss Mabel Smart.

Inland League Course.

The Inland League makes announcement of a course of twenty or more evenings, devoted to concerts, lectures, and socials, and other entertainments, the price of tickets being $1 for the whole course.

There will be five unique original socials for which attractive programs have been arranged, of which announcement will be made from time to time.

Truth vs. Fiction.

Saline got a thorough shaking up last Saturday night. Despite the storm that kept the yeomen of the country side from coming in to the meeting, a large and enthusiastic audience, for the night, greeted the speakers. F. G. Campbell was first introduced by Chairman Gillen, and gave an eloquent, stirring and invincible speech.

None who heard him can doubt that the future is safe in the hands of the rising young democracy. His discussion of the issues carried the weight of truth and won applause even from his opponents. At the close of this speech Mr. Gillen introduced J. Nelson Lewis, of Ann Arbor, who is well-known throughout the community as one who when he believes a thing is right goes ahead regardless of the action of other men. In his introduction, Mr. Lewis called attention to his having given so large a part of his work for twenty years to the ministry, and then said: "The question of politics is not outside the pale of religion but within. The man of highest religious principle should be the most active in the adjustment of political affairs. The highest type of religious life is true brotherhood, and true brotherhood in this age lies, in the United States at least, in using the ballot for the common good. Every man, woman and child should be a politician; indeed if true men and women they must be politicians." In the course of his speech, after the introduction, Mr. Lewis urged that true democracy was the highest type of government, and as being such consistently demanded,—especially in this hour, when the great step taken forward was likely to be retraced,—that every true man should rally to the support of its principles. He gave a lengthy review of the fictions presented by republican organs and speakers and scored them for attempting to foist the hard-times child, of their own parentage, off on the democrats. It was letting light in on all sides to hear his arraignment of the republican record for thirty years in national affairs and for the last two years in our state government.

He was frequently interrupted by applause and carried his hearers along in easy style by his clear reasoning, humorous sarcasm, and earnest appeal.

"Aching Void" Filled.

If there was anything that this city needed, it was one thing more than another. In the estimation of the Courier, a "long-felt want" existed which only a new daily could fill. It came Tuesday and everybody exclaimed, like the young lady with an unexpected proposal, "This is so sudden!" The Daily Courier is a four-page publication, and resembles its mother, the Weekly Courier, so closely that no one who has seen the offspring doubts her honesty for an instant. It has her "eyes" for republicanism, her "noes" for democracy, and her mouth in politics! And that chin, too! It is "chin-chin" for high tariff, and it yells for that which "infant industries" all cry for. O, it's its mother's child, all right enough. With such pronounced parentage it couldn't beal like anything else. It's a pretty "pond" lily.

The staff of the new comer embraces George H. Pond as editor, E. J. Ottoway, assistant editor, with Mr. Beal back of it financially.

Its birth was sudden. The fact that it was to be born was kept a family secret. Consequence was, scarcely anybody was present, and the new arrival itself apologizes for its hasty looks and other evidences of unlooked for suddenness. It announces, however, that it "has come to stay." The Argus extends congratulations and welcomes the new comer to this democratic literary bureau. It has a bright, clean face, is as full of grit as a chicken's gizzard, and the Argus hopes it will prosper. Rightly handled the Daily Courier should secure a place in the hearts of the faithful, and also become a useful purveyor of the local news of the day. The Argus gives its mother and friends notice right here and now, however, that if they allow that child to come into this sanctum and act naughtily politically, or fire paper-wads at the democratic candidates, it will go out of here soundly spanked and told to go home, get something for its wounds, and learn better manners.

With two wideawake dailies in the city the Argus (semi-weekly; $1 a year, best paper in the city, and largest circulation in the county) feels that it is in jolly company, and enjoys the situation. Welcome to the new Daily Courier! although it is with a pang that the Argus contemplates the repetition by the Daily Times and Daily Courier, of the melancholy incident of the Brattleboro snakes, which seized each other by the tails and began swallowing. Each finally swallowed the other, and there was an end of both.

The subject to be debated by Lyceum No. 1, tonight is: "Resolved, that the right of suffrage should be restricted by education." Affirmative, Cheever and McGeorge; negative, Caldwell and Mack.

Our team met their second defeat at Orchard Lake, Saturday, by M. M. A. Score, 63 to 6. Duffy made the only touch-down. The poor playing of the line, and the fumbling of the quarter-back, caused the defeat. Biscoe of the M. M. A. did the best playing.

An open date is left in the Students' lecture course for ex-President Harrison. There is no doubt that the ex-president will favor Ann Arbor with his presence. McKinley has been here, Reed has been here, and the ex-president will not submit to a judgment against him in the suit for the next presidency, without pleading the general issue and giving notice of a set-off. It will be a very raw spell of weather that can keep the ex-president from filling a date in Ann Arbor.

Will Whittaker has rented his farm in Lima and moved to Ann Arbor to study medicine.

Jas. O'Donnell spoke at the town hall on Tuesday night, to a moderate audience, on the tariff as talked by republicans before every election. He was badly rattled on the silver question. There was very little enthusiasm, especially when Col. Deland told the people they should vote for the republican national banker for congress, instead of the democratic candidate, because he had been in all the parties. Col. Deland is the last man who should throw stones at anybody for that reason.

The Chelsea fair, last week, was a very great success. The show was for years and said to be equal in most respects to the state fair. The attendance was good, but would have been better if the weather had been more favorable. The large number of gambling devices that were present should hereafter be shut out.

S. A. Mapes has machinery here and will open a steam laundry in a few days.

Mechanical Progress. In the year 1883, when the first contract was signed for the increase of the United States navy, there was not a single mill in the country that had ever made plates required in the specifications. There was no foundry suitable to turn out the work, no forges for the same and no plant that could make the armor plates. Since that time there have been brought forward shops and yards that can produce in any quantity and of the highest quality any work in steel, brass or iron that the new navy demands.—Hardware.

I have been troubled with this complaint for over ten years, with dull headache nearly all the time. After taking three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I am cured of catarrh and clear of the headache. I was also troubled with a scalp disease, which was very annoying, four or five years. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I do not have any trace of this trouble. A NEVADA JOKE. How a Wag Played It on an Innocent Visiting Sportsman.

Nothing can be more interesting in an ordinary way than the fate of practical jokers. Shooters and sportsmen generally will appreciate the latest from Eureka, Nev. Bent on landing game, a visitor held forth in his hotel with regard to his ability to bring quail to earth. Among the audience was a wag, who, being a sport himself, was desirous of testing the foreigner's ability as a shot.

"We do not shoot quail," said he, "we bag them, and if you want to go out you may do so tonight and see better fun than any gun can furnish."

Accordingly the so-called gamester journeyed out from a small hotel in Nevada to see the extraordinary plan by which quail could be "bagged" at night-time. The party walked two miles into the hills and arranged a trap by laying down 30 pieces of candle in V shape. "Into this," they explained, "we drive the quail, and one of us holds a sack at the end of the V, into which the quail run." By a previous arrangement an argument was commenced as to who should have the honor of holding the sack and securing the birds while the remainder did the hard work of beating them toward the trap.

When the point was apparently settled, one of the party said: "No, this is not fair. Mr. de — is our guest, and as such is entitled to hold the sack." Generously enough, to the boasting sportsman was given the honor of holding a bag bound at the mouth to a hoop so as to catch the birds. All the others left to beat up quail. For three hours the visitor faithfully held that sack, and when the last candle burned out he found himself in the midst of a lonely valley, which was full of deserted shafts and other dangerous holes, two miles from any house and surrounded by a darkness which resembles a stack of black cats. When he arrived at this hotel and found that his cohorts had been there enjoying the joke for hours, he simply went to bed and wept. He sold his gun next morning and left for California—a state where, he says, "people would not do such a thing." —San Francisco Call.

Kid Killing.

Herod's slaughter of the innocents was not a circumstance to the kid sacrifice offered yearly for the hand of fair woman. In round numbers 9,600,000 kids and lambs are slaughtered to supply the necessary stock for one famous French manufacturer. One skin in good condition yields three gloves, but the average is about 1 1/2, or a pair and a pair of thumbs.—New York News.

Dress of Montenegro Women.

The dress of the women throughout Montenegro varies but slightly, and as no distinction of rank exists the only difference between the garments of the rich and the poorer classes consists in the superior fineness of the materials used, or in the quantity or quality of the ornaments. Their dress is simply a long flowing white camica, girdled by a black sash. Black and white are the national colors of the Montenegrins. Some of the women wear a heavy leathern girdle set with three or four rows of large carnelian stones, some times fastened in front by a massive antique silver clasp. A simple piece of black cloth is an addition worn on the head by the older matrons. Montenegro is everywhere mountainous. As a precaution against invasion there are no roads, and carts are unknown. The goods of the country are carried to Cattaro by the women, aided occasionally by mules. They are knit together in clans and families and have many feuds among themselves. The men are armed even when engaged in agricultural operations.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Dyspepsia seldom causes death, but nerpts its victims to live on in misery. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Curative Cold Bath.

People who have nervous prostration, headaches, the blues or dyspepsia, who take cold easily, who are subject to irritability, who lead sedentary lives, who need their wits about them all the time, and who are not making the progress they desire, should get addicted to the cold bath habit. It is not only cleansing, but curative, stimulating, encouraging and invigorating. It is brain brightening, nerve-soothing, blood quickening and the best treatment ever taken for the complexion, digestion and disposition.—New York World.

"Why Is He So Irritable?"

This question is often heard and nearly as often unanswered.

It is not always remembered, as it should be, that the occasion of ill-temper and irritability is often to be found in the physical condition of the persons affected. What is the use of trying to "harmonize" a man whose liver has gone back on him? If a man is tortured with rheumatism, how can he be expected to be affable and agreeable? Can a confirmed dyspeptic be expected to be cheerful and always ready to tell a funny story? The only way to remove the difficulty is to get at the cause. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, impure blood and liver troubles yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla; this is why it is an effective tranquilizer, a peaceful messenger, and a preventive of domestic quarrels.

Estate of John Croman.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASHTENAW—ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Ann Arbor, on Wednesday, the 3d day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four. Present, J. Willard Babbitt, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Croman, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of William A. Wesells showing that he has a claim against said estate which has not been presented for examination and allowance, and that the time limited by the court for that purpose has expired, but that said estate has not been closed, and showing also good cause for the omission to present said claim in time.

It is therefore ordered that Friday, the 9th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned as the time and the probate office for said county as the place for the examination and adjustment of said claims before myself. And it is further ordered that said petitioner give notice of the time and place and object of said hearing to all persons interested by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Ann Arbor Argus, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

In the face of the upward tendency of wool the howler for high tariff feels that he is like a burr in a sheep's tail—neither useful nor ornamental.

Voter, when you go to Lansing, run up into the office of Rev. Washington Gardner, secretary of state, and hang up in one of those soft $90 chairs. You helped pay for 'em.

From various sections of the county the Argus has received cheering news about the growth of Barkworth sentiment. With every speech he makes he strengthens his chances of election.

The calamity howl of Gov. McKinley is so deep and full of anguish that he utterly fails to hear the pleasant hum of reviving industry and prosperity.

This, from the Mt. Clemens Press, is not very heavily coated with varnish, hence is more easily gotten at: "Sad to relate, sugar is getting cheaper and wool is going up in price."

Congressman Burrows, who has been stumping Michigan on the McKinley plan, had a unique experience at Holland a few nights since.

Over in Adrian, the other day, the democratic supervisors voted for H. Craig, a bright, wide-awake, young colored republican, for court house janitor.

There are two old soldiers on the republican county ticket, Seth C. Randall, of Ann Arbor, for prosecuting attorney, and Jerome Allen, of Ypsilanti, for surveyor.

If they get no better support than the one-armed Morse did from the Courier, their being soldiers shouldn't be mentioned.

The republicans have made such a record of scandal and extravagance in their handling of state affairs during the past two years that they now find it necessary to do some tall lying and juggling with the figures in order to wool the taxpayers as to their doings.

The last legislature gave a snug little bonus of $2,000 each, amounting in all to $10,000 in the way of an increase of salary to members of the supreme court. This was done to induce them to live in Lansing and attend to the duties for the performance of which they were elected.

Michael Brenner, of Manchester, has served this county two years in the capacity of sheriff, and is a candidate for re-election. His record is public property, and it is not only a record that he should be proud of, but that should be equally satisfactory to the county.

This is a time when everybody in general and candidates for office in particular are expected to do more or less political sprinting. However, any person who has business to transact with our genial prosecuting attorney, Thomas D. Kearney, will find him steadily sawing wood for the county.

When Governor McKinley, on his spectacular tour through Michigan, arrived at Ionia and began to fire off his old speech prepared for some period in ancient history, he suddenly espied, a short distance down the street, a large banner bearing the inscription, "Our factories are running twelve hours a day as the result of the Wilson bill."

them are running nights. Nevertheless the tin Major worked off his old gag without revision and tried to convince his hearers that the industrial situation was of stygian hue.

Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, though beginning to fail in physical health, still possesses a vigorous mendacity and the power of misrepresentation. He wails because the canned fish caught off the coast of Maine is to have a free competitor.

The Chicago Record, has recently been represented at the University by a bright lady member of its staff, who draws inspiration from her surroundings and says: "A large attendance is not of course final test of merit in an institution of learning, but it is not without significance, either. But better still is the indication that the higher education is a growing force in the west, and year by year takes stronger hold on the people."

Estate of Jane Harrell. STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY of Washtenaw, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, on Monday, the 8th day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

Present, J. Willard Babbitt, Judge of Probate in the matter of the estate of Jane Harrell. On reading and filing the petition duly verified, of Elijah Treadwell, praying that guardianship of the person and estate of said Jane Harrell, may be granted to himself, or some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 12th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next of kin of said Jane Harrell, and all other persons interested in said matter, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said matter, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the ANN ARBOR ARGUS, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, and by causing a citation out of and under the seal of this court to be personally served upon said Jane Harrell, and upon John Harrell, husband of said Jane Harrell, and upon Betsey A. Treadwell, the mother, at least 14 days previous to said day of hearing.

The Morenci Observer remarks that Gov. McKinley, at Adrian, "was in good voice but talked against a stiff breeze." Yes, the governor will find that he has talked against a stiff breeze all the fall.

"Shall Women be Eligible to Election to the General Conference?" is a question that may be voted on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21, by members of the M. E. church over 21 years of age. The meeting should be largely attended. It seems to the unspiritual eye of the Argus that the ladies should be embraced in or by the conference.

No. 1589 won the $25 watch at Fred Brown's, Wednesday evening.

John Krause, whose fingers were reached after and nipped by a "sticker," has sufficiently recovered to resume work in Luick's planning mill.

The farmers of this county are digging some pretty fine potatoes out from under the Wilson tariff law, and getting a good price for them.

The Ann Arbor correspondent of the Free Press, announcing the appearance of the Daily Courier, adds that "it will be republican in politics." This is a most unpardonable tautology.

Supervisor Galpin, of Superior, after expending some very expensive adjectives on the rascally thief who had stolen his horse, found the quadruped in the woods on his own farm. His nightmare ended.

The students' prohibition club will meet this evening at Room 12, law building, at 7 p. m., for the purpose of electing officers, and perhaps for parceling out the offices to be secured in Washington, should Editor Grandon be elected to congress.

Jacob Maurer was before Justice Pond, Wednesday, charged with mistaking the illuminated court house dial for the full moon, on a cloudy night. As Jacob could give no better reason for this optical illusion than that his head ached, the justice sent him to jail for ten days.

The third social in the series of Inland League entertainments was held Monday evening. A musical program was executed by J. Bendinger, Miss Elsie Liebig, and Leon and Carl Jones, the latter in cornet and trombone duets. Miss Davidson gave readings. Miss Minnie Davis accompanied the songs.

Address by the Pastor—Topic: "Christ's Call to Young Men." All, especially young men, who have no other church home, are cordially invited to attend.

Some University professors are soon to issue a book on "Bibliography of Criticism." We hope they will get on to the homogeneity of republican sentiment concerning the Wilson tariff bill, as an illustration of homology of idiotic criticism, a very important point to an expert bibliomaniac.—Thus Willard Stearns. The Lord be merciful to him, a sinner!

F. D. Clark, superintendent of the Michigan School for the Deaf, sends the Argus a copy of the Mirror, published by the school, the work being done entirely by the pupils. The scholarship displayed is excellent. The Argus is asked to notice the editorial entitled "Our State Census," and would gladly do so if the article could be found in the number sent, and were warranted by its excellence.

The recent arrests at Ypsilanti, under the state law, for liquor violations, have had a sobering effect at the other end of the "link." The Commercial, referring to the new water find in this city, observes that "water is one of the most valuable mineral products known to man" and congratulates Ann Arbor on her good fortune. Like all new converts, the Commercial is enthusiastic.

Mrs. John G. Wild died at her home on West Fourth street last night, after a brief illness, of inflammation of the lungs. She leaves her husband and seven children, Messrs. Gottlieb H., David, Gottlobe, Will, and Misses Caroline, Ragenia and Minnie, to mourn her loss. The funeral will be held on Saturday, at the residence, at 1 p. m. The deceased was 54 years, 11 months and 18 days of age. The family have the sincere sympathy of numerous friends in their sad bereavement.

Prof. Ansbach, a sleight of hand performer of much merit, strolled in where the supervisors were wrestling with those problems that wrench the frames of statesmen—the allowance of bills. The singular gentleman passed around among the supervisors with a hat, and gathered from them a large collection of coins, extracting the cash from their eyes, ears, noses, mouths and pockets. It was the first time in the history of that matchless aggregation that any of them had ever been robbed of what they did not have.

The trial of Paul Tessmer, charged with taking groceries from Stabler's store in August last, resulted yesterday in his acquittal by a jury before Justice Pond. The Argus is informed that it was in error in stating that Mr. Tessmer was in jail on the charge made against him.

Rev. Dr. Cobern will deliver the first of the course of Inland League lectures next Monday evening, at the Church of Christ. Subject: "Some Skeptical Objections which have been Buried by the Excavator's Spade in Egypt, since I left College."

A man named Wm. McCormick died suddenly on the farm of Walter Kinghorn, five miles southeast of Ypsilanti, Tuesday. He hired as a farm hand, and was set to work husking corn. Not returning search was made and he was found dead where had been at work.

The Young Womans' Christian Association will give an entertainment in the Baptist church next Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of the order. The purposes of the order are such as to deserve the help of all good people, and the young ladies should be encouraged. Admission 10 cents.

J. N. Lewis addressed a democratic campaign meeting at Jerusalem last night. The old familiar hymn, "Jerusalem, My Happy Home," has been ruined for life now.—Daily Courier. That's a campaign lie! The consensus of God's people—the democracy—was so great and the old hymn welled up from the throats of the multitude in such swelling diapason, that the republican gentiles marveled and exclaimed: "Behold the fulfillment of the prophecies, in spite of our high tariff tricks. Jerusalem is being rebuilt."

The first of a series of law suits against the three principal men who organized the Keeley institute in this city was commenced yesterday at Detroit, Dr. Coombs being the plaintiff. The supervisors have fixed salaries as follows: County clerk, $1,200; treasurer, $1,000; prosecuting attorney, $1,200; probate register, $1,300; commissioner of schools, $1,500; superintendents of the poor, $3 per diem and expenses; members board of school examiners, $4 per day; boarding prisoners, 12 1/2 cents per meal. Several hundred dollars reduction in the aggregate.

The trade winds of luck still blow against the hopes and desires of Rev. M. M. Goodwin. The "good ship" Columbia is still in port and yellow fever has broken out in that region of the Bluefields. The Columbia herself, thanks to the fervent, effectual prayers of the chaplain, is not affected, but should the Rev. Goodwin take a passenger ship he must remain in quarantine about three weeks at New Orleans, and during those dreadful three weeks heaven only knows what would happen to strew the billows with newly wrecked hopes. One thing, however, can be set down as fact, and that is, that whoever again catches the elder out on another mission like the present, after he once gets home, will have his permission to hang him from a yard-arm of the vessel.

We have received from a madam in Salt Lake City a circular commending a preparation for which she is general agent, for restoring gray hair to its original color. She invites us to send a sample of our hair and be convinced. In answer to this bald invitation we have only to say that when we express the top of our gentle head to Utah to be juggled by some female mystery of Mormondom, it will be when we have reached the period of hairless senility; and when we haven't any hair it will be of no use to color it. The only way in which we have preserved our hair, to this date, has been by dodging the blandishments of those of whom we were in doubt, and it is not yet late enough with us to begin to be foolish on this subject. Our hair shall stay right in Ann Arbor.

W. W. Wedemeyer will take the stump for the republicans next week, in the western part of the county.—Times. Taking into account Mr. Wedemeyer's stature-tor altitude, the Argus is puzzled to understand what could have induced him to take the stump, unless it is to get on an air-line with his notions of a high tariff. Mr. Wedemeyer is a reputable young man and stands high, morally and physically, in the community; the Argus, therefore, regrets that he should have oxidized his escutcheon with the leaden hue of republicanism. But we trust it will turn out with our friend of the three double-yews according to the experience of another speaker of this campaign. When he was remonstrated with for his heresies, said he: "I didn't fool 'em any; they didn't believe a word I said!"

MOB LAW IN OHIO.

Results in a Bloody Collision with the Militia.

SIX SPECTATORS SHOT TO DEATH.

Some of the Victims Being Mere Boys and One an Aged and Prominent Citizen.

Real Rioters Seem to Escape Injury—Attempt to Outrage the Law by a Lynching Responsible for the Bloodshed—All Quiet at Latest Accounts—One of the Acquia Creek Robbers Captured—Political Riot at St. Louis—Criminal Notes.

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O., Oct. 18.—William Dolby, colored, who one week ago criminally assaulted Mrs. Mary C. Boyd, aged 55, at Parrot's station near here, was captured at Delaware, O., and brought into court at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. It was a case of railroading, a special grand jury having been summoned for the express purpose of indicting the prisoner, which it did promptly—it would have been as much as its members' lives were worth to have done otherwise. The negro was promptly tried, pleaded guilty and generally everything that could legally be done to calm the mob spirit was done. But the mob wanted blood. Nothing else would satisfy it and it gathered about the jail first and then about the court room demanding the "nigger."

Called for Military Protection. This being the case Sheriff Cook called out the local militia company Tuesday evening, and with it guarded the jail. This action making it more difficult for the mob to have its way, of course increased its fury, and Governor McKinley was appealed to for additional assistance, and troops from Columbus were sent here yesterday morning, Colonel Coit in command. The mob surrounding the jail and court house attempted to take Dolby from the officers when removed from the jail to the court house for trial, but were kept at bay by the free use of bayonets and clubbed guns. While bringing him from the jail the mob charged and almost succeeded in getting him. Henry Kirk, the brother-in-law of the assaulted woman, was knocked down the steps and badly bruised. Another man was bayoneted through the finger, while a bayonet was thrust through the clothes of another.

Revolvers in the Court Room. Deputies with revolvers drawn guarded the prisoner in the court room. Dolby cried like a baby and kept looking around for help. Soldiers were marched in to keep the crowd quiet. After the sentence the prisoner was taken to the grand jury room. A mob gathered about the court house and the officers were powerless to do to the train, and Sheriff Cook wired the governor to send more troops. The mob grew rapidly in numbers and desperation. Colonel Coit made a speech asking the crowd to disperse, but it was received with jeers. The prisoner was prostrate from fear, and lay crying and moaning all the time.

Troops Fire on the Rioters. The mob kept Dolby and his guards prisoners in the court house until 6 p. m., and then made an attack. The militia repelled them without firing at first, but at 6:45 p. m. one gang of rioters attacked the south door and another the north door simultaneously and the south door was forced open. Some one threw a stone at Colonel Coit, and he cried out that at the next stone thrown he would order the men to fire. The open door gave on the street, which was filled with women and children, many yelling, "Give us the nigger." Another stone was thrown and the troops fired, not on the attacking party it seems, but as usual, over their heads.

RESULT OF THE VOLLEY.

All the Killed and Wounded Only Lookers on, as Usual.

At any rate not a man of the real rioters was hit, but the volley dealt death and wounds among the people who were looking on. Two were killed outright and four more were fatally wounded, one having since died. The killed are: Smith Welsh, aged 16, and Jesse Judy. Mack Johnson, of Williamsburg, Brown county, died in an hour. William Sams, shot through the bowels, fatally; George Keating, aged 14, shot through both legs and groin, will die; F. L. Nitterhouse, an old and prominent citizen, shot through both ankles. A full list of the wounded cannot be had as they were taken away promptly, but the following are known: Theo. Ammerman, Dial Parrett, John McCune, John Korn, Earnest Ellis, Frank Smith. Upon the firing the mob dispersed in all directions, and immediately all places of business in the city were shut up. Mayor Creamer peremptorily closed all places where liquors were sold. Every street was filled with people. Mothers, sisters, wives, sweethearts crowded around the dead and wounded and added pathos to the scene and fire to the rage of the mob by their lamentations. Against the militia the indignation was bitter, vicious, and vehement. It pervaded all classes.

As the time passed the mob grew in size and fury. All over the country by telephone, by courier and by electric wires the news had sped. All the roads leading to the city were filled with men on horseback, in wagons and on foot, hurrying with all possible speed to the scene of bloodshed. Meanwhile in Washington Courthouse a search was going on for arms and ammunition and for dynamite. Shots were heard, "Down with the militia!" "Blow up the dogs along with the black fiend." These shouts but feebly expressed the pent-up passion of everybody, for everybody was in the street and all were members of the mob as far as personal feeling was concerned. Men moved about as if bent on business, but said nothing. There is no doubt a purpose to blow up the court house.

At 11:30 last night the mob was diminishing and it is believed that when the Cincinnati regiment arrives and the prisoner is taken to Columbus on a special all trouble will be over. During the night the soldiers in the jail fired on all suspicious persons, as they feared the jail would be blown up with dynamite.

Murdered by Burglars.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18.—Christiansen Pearson, a special policeman employed by the wealthy residents of Hyde Park to guard their houses, was found dead in the cellarway at the home of A. A. Mosher, president of the Air Line road. The murderers had several hours to hide themselves away before their crime was known, but they blindly left a clue that will prove of more service in bringing them to justice than their photographs. The murderers were burglars upon whom the watchman came unexpectedly to himself, as he had not time to draw his own pistol. One suspect is a negro.

RIOT AT ST. LOUIS PRIMARIES.

Several Persons Hurt in an Attack on a Number of Negroes.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—A riot broke out at one of the polling places in the Seventh ward, where Republican primaries were being held for the selection of delegates to the Republican city and the Twelfth district congressional conventions. Knives and pistols were drawn, and for a time it looked as if there might be bloodshed, but nobody received more than bruises. Fifteen police officers appeared on the scene and quelled the riot, arresting Tom Moloney, one of the leaders of the gang which caused the trouble, and nine or ten other men. Several leaders escaped during the confusion. It seems that the riot commenced when A. H. Luster drove up to the polling place with a shotgun and announced himself an A. P. A. and said he was afraid of nobody.

Another version is that he damned the A. P. A. and said that he was ready to fight any member of that organization. His remarks, whatever they were, incensed the crowd and a rush was made for him. He drove off and escaped, but the trouble continued and the men who were later arrested attacked a number of negroes who had already voted, or who were waiting to do so, for the reason, it is said, that they were supporting A. P. A. candidates. A crowd of several hundred people gathered around the negroes, who were knocked down and beaten and the single policeman present, finding that he could not control the mob telephoned for additional officers who quelled the riot.

Luster was arrested later. He said that he was taking a friend to the polls in his buggy, while on his way to go hunting. This, he said, accounted for the presence of his gun.

SEARCHY IS IN A CAVITY.

Because of the Holes Found in His Big Roll of Greenbacks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A special to The Times from Cumberland, Md., says that no further doubt can possibly exist that one of the Acquia creek train robbers has been caught in that city. A web of circumstances and convincing evidence has been woven about the prisoner, who gives the name of C. J. Searey. By the first train from Washington a party of Pinkerton detectives arrived at Cumberland, including Captain F. H. Hinde, who had just returned from the scene of the robbery. He was accompanied by Crutchfield, the messenger in charge of the car at the time of the hold-up. In the prisoner's possession was $1,051.52 in cash, of which $897 was in greenbacks.

When Mr. Hinde saw the roll of greenbacks he held them up to the light and examined them closely, declaring there was no further doubt that the prisoner was one of the robbers. He showed that every one of the notes had small perforations. In every package of money shipped by the Adams Express company the notes are stitched together, leaving, when separated, tiny holes which a person could not fail to discover upon examination. Every note contained these holes in the places where they would be made by the person making up the money package.

Criminal Novelty in Kentucky.

OWINGSVILLE, Oct. 18.—George Deatley was sentenced to seven years and eleven months and Lee Deatley six years and nine months in the penitentiary as accessories to the murder of Mart Cline by another Deatley brother, who was sent to the penitentiary for life. The father, L. P. Deatley, was given a change of venue to Montgomery county. This is the first instance in the history of the county where three brothers were sent to the penitentiary at the same court.

Cowardly Assault on a Wounded Man.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 18.—Two neighbors, Hart and Black, sat up with Jack Greeno, at Carey, who had his leg amputated in a boiler explosion the morning before. Toward midnight Black told Hart he would remain the rest of the night alone. Greeno suspected something and advised Hart to go for neighbors. While Hart was gone Black beat Greeno in an unmerciful manner. The injuries may prove fatal.

Evidently Wasn't a "Tenderfoot."

TRINIDAD, Colo., Oct. 18.—A man named Ungers, who came from Pennsylvania about three weeks ago, in a quarrel over a game of cards at Hastings shot Antonio Procasso and his brother, killing the former and fatally wounding the latter. The murderer took refuge in his cabin and fired upon the officer who attempted to arrest him. A crowd surrounded the house, and then Ungers surrendered. He was brought to this city to prevent lynching.

Freak of a French Woman.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Madame Marie Cresto, since Ambrose Thomas refused her a prize at the conservatoire, has been possessed with a mania against Thomas, and has placarded Paris with abusive posters. Believing that Thomas was lurching with President Cassimir-Perier she rode on horseback into the court yard of the Palace Elysee screaming, "Vive Cassimir-Perier!" "A Bas Thomas." She was arrested.

In Other Words a Pottery Combine.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 18.—Representatives of the leading pottery manufacturers of the country held session in this city, the purpose of the gathering being to effect an organization which aims to create uniformity in prices with a view to ending the deadly competition that has been going on for more than a year. Now there is a disposition on the part of all the companies to join forces.

Cloakmakers' Strike Is Still On.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—No termination of the cloakmakers' strike is yet probable. While some of the smaller manufacturers have surrendered to the strikers and signed bonds for the maintenance of the price scale the larger houses stand unyielding and firmly. It is their determination not to recognize the union, and to deal with employees only and as individuals.

Episcopal Bishops in Council.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The house of bishops of the Episcopal church, met here with fifty-nine bishops present for the election of a missionary bishop for the diocese of Olympia, Wash. The day was occupied with preliminaries and the work of the session will be completed today.

MET ON THE STUMP.

Thurston and Bryan Discuss the Issues at Lincoln.

SEVEN THOUSAND AT THE DEBATE.

Both Leaders Receive a Hearty Welcome and Illuminate the Questions of the Day—Reed Makes a Non-Political Speech at Ann Arbor, but Talks Politics to a Friend—McKinley Keeps at Work—Big Crowd to Hear Wilson.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 18.—The first of the joint debates on the political issues, between W. J. Bryan and John M. Thurston occurred here yesterday afternoon. It is estimated that 7,000 people were in Agricultural hall during the speaking. The whole state was represented and many from other states were present. The fact that both speakers are avowed candidates for the United States senate added to the interest of the occasion. The reception given to the principal figures of the afternoon was hearty and enthusiastic. C. J. Smith, of Omaha, and John P. Maul, of Lincoln, took turns in presiding. As Bryan was to open the debate Smith made the introductory statement. He stated the conditions of the debate and invoked respectful attention to both speakers.

Bryan Grows Eloquent on Silver.

Then he introduced Bryan, who was greeted with cheers. The terms of the debate confined the speakers to no particular topic. Bryan touched chiefly on silver, the income tax and the Pacific railroad indebtedness. The income tax was fair and he was satisfied the future would vindicate his judgment. As to the Pacific railroads, if he was elected to the senate he proposed to do his best to have the government mortgage foreclosed. It was on the silver issue that he was most eloquent. He was sure the white metal would be victorious eventually. He pointed to gains that he alleged it had made recently in all parts of the country as a vindication of his position. Bryan was cheered vociferously at the conclusion of his remarks.

Thurston on the Pacific Roads.

Thurston received an ovation. His speech was more of a general nature than that of Bryan. He confessed to be at a disadvantage in the estimation of some in discussion of the Pacific railroads, since he was the attorney of the leading company. Still he was confident it was not the advantage of the people of the whole country to have the government foreclose its second mortgage, since it must then pay the enormous first mortgage indebtedness. Replying to Bryan's income tax views he was brief and deprecated the measure, believing it could not endure.

Warns Up on the White Metal.

On silver the speaker also became brilliant. After declaring to the surprise of some that he favored the free coinage of the American production, he pictured the enormous loads of foreign white metal that he said would be dumped into this country in the event of free coinage, and in closing declared that idea perfectly preposterous.

In Bryan's closing reply he became personal and denounced Thurston for his political acts of the past. They speak at Omaha tonight.

REED TALKS AT ANN ARBOR.

Nothing Partisan in His Speech—In Case of Republican Success.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 18.—Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, addressed the students of the Michigan university. His subject was "The Relation of Leaders to Progress." University hall, which is capable of seating 3,500, was packed by a gathering which greeted the distinguished congressman with great enthusiasm. Reed was introduced by President Angell of the university. His address was of an entirely non-political character, but discussed the influence of the people on growth and progress.

McKinley Keeps Up the Pace.

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 18.—Governor McKinley concluded his day's trip here, where he delivered a public address last night. He left Pistoria early in the morning en route to Dayton and found numbers of people congregated at several stations passed, who greeted him with cheers. But one speech was made in response, that being at Anna, where the sight of school children and ex-soldiers drawn up in line and voicing a chorus of hurrahs prompted the governor to say a few words. At 2 o'clock a long address was made at the fair grounds, Dayton, where a large audience was assembled. Unless something should occur to prevent it Governor McKinley will start for Louisville, Nashville and New Orleans today.

Wilson Forces Storm Phillippi.

PHILLIPPI, W. Va., Oct. 18.—This place was captured by storm by the constituents of Hon. W. L. Wilson, from Barbour, Taylor, Tucker, and Randolph counties. As early as 9 o'clock in the morning several visiting delegations paraded the town, cheering each other in the exuberance of their enthusiasm, and when the train bearing Wilson and his party arrived the station was surrounded by a crowd which blocked all the approaches. In the column which escorted Wilson to his hotel were twenty-five young ladies, attired in white, on horseback, followed by about 600 horsemen, and these by 8,000 voters. No such demonstration has been seen here for thirty years.

McVeagh Speaks at Marshall.

MARSHALL, Ills., Oct. 18.—A large and enthusiastic crowd of Democrats gathered here to greet Franklin McVeagh. The speaker was introduced by Hon. H. C. Bell, deputy commissioner of pensions. McVeagh was received with great enthusiasm and spoke for over an hour. He was followed by George W. Fithian, candidate for congress from this district.

Receiver's Order Challenges the Law.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 18.—J. F. Pierce, candidate for state auditor on the Populist ticket, has been notified by George L. Black, assistant superintendent of the Union Pacific Coal company, that he must either withdraw from the ticket or leave the employ of the company. The order, it is said, comes from the receivers of the road. The law of the state makes it an offense, punishable by a fine of from $100 to $500, for any individual or corporation to interfere with their employes or in any way prevent them from becoming candidates for office.

Contested Illinois Nominations.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 18.—The state board of review heard the contested nomination cases from the First and Fourth senatorial districts. The board took the same under advisement. Chairman Maxwell, of the People's party state central committee, filed objections to twenty nominations from Chicago. The board decided to hear the case in the attorney general's Chicago office Tuesday, the 23d inst. The board of equalization nominees were thrown out. Shanahan was declared the nominee from the Ninth district.

Loud Welcome to Stevenson.

DANVILLE, Ills., Oct. 18.—Vice President Stevenson arrived here yesterday afternoon from Champaign. A battery fired a salute and all the steam whistles in town were blown. Delegations from Hoopston, Watseka and Rossville, as well as from the country districts, were present. The vice president spoke to a large crowd in Lincoln park. Last night at the armory Hon. J. B. Claggett and J. F. Donovan spoke.

Deserts the "State" Democracy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The resignation of E. Ellery Anderson from the state Democracy and his determination to support the Democratic headquarters last night. Mr. Anderson sent a long letter to Fairchild, the third party leader, explaining the reasons that actuated him in taking this step.

Gone to Join the Populists.

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Oct. 18.—Judge Jefferson McAnelly, for many years one of the most influential Democrats in northern Colorado, has resigned as member of the Democratic state central committee and joined the Populist. He is a free silver man.

Allison at Keokuk.

KEOKUK, Ia., Oct. 18.—Last night the campaign in Keokuk was opened by Senator W. B. Allison, who addressed a large crowd at the Opera House. Prior to the speaking the Flambeau club gave a brilliant nocturnal parade.

AN UNFORTUNATE BRIDGE.

False Work Tumbles to Pieces and Injures Three Men.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 18.—The ill-fated new Louisville and Jeffersonville bridge has been the scene of another accident. Three men were hurt, one perhaps fatally. The accident was caused by the falling of a part of the false work under the fourth span, which had just been completed and locked. The men were engaged in removing the false work, which is to be removed to the fifth and last span to be completed. They were at work on the first bent or division of the structure. The top timbers had nearly all been removed, and the remainder of the section collapsed. Harry Williams, Tom Proseny, and L. O. Millhouse, of Beaver Falls, Pa., fell with it.

All dropped into a large barge with the falling timbers. Millhouse sustained a fracture of the right arm and two ribs. He also received internal injuries, and it is thought he will die. Proseny's arm and back were injured, but he and Williams were able to walk to their homes in the vicinity, their injuries being slight. There have been a number of accidents since work was resumed on the bridge, but the company has taken no chances on a recurrence of the horror of last December. Several times when the wind has attained a high velocity the men have been called from their work until it had subsided.

He Got Even with the Sheriff.

ALTON, Ills., Oct. 18.—Harry Sharp has just been released from jail at Edwardsville, where he was sent for prize fighting. Shortly after his imprisonment, so the story goes, Sharp became infatuated with the sheriff's daughter and in due time she reciprocated his attachment. They loved clandestinely for a time, but when the girl's parents discovered the affair there was a great storm and the lovers were forbidden to see each other. Notes were still passed, however, and a formal engagement followed, when another family quarrel took place and the young lady left home. She returned recently and the parents are thought to be reconciled to the match.

Retaliation on an Editor.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Oct. 12.—Warrants for the arrest of J. C. Kelly, editor of the Sioux City Tribune, and revenue collector for the northern district of Iowa, have been sworn out by County Supervisor Walter Strange, charging him with "stuffing" printing bills. Mr. Kelly was out of the city and the warrants could not be served, but he will be arrested as soon as he returns. The Tribune has been pushing an investigation of alleged stealings of county funds by supervisors and Strange, who swore out the warrants, is already under $5,000 bonds.

And the Dog Got Away.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Oct. 18.—A large mad dog rushed among the school children in West Guthrie and bit and lacerated Bessie Gates, aged 10 years, in so fearful a manner that it is feared she will die. The dog then attacked a team of horses. Two men attempted to shoot the dog but the bullets struck Mrs. Littlejohn in the thigh and groin, inflicting fatal wounds.

Buried in a Sewer Trench.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 18.—Mike Luhei, an Italian, and Andrew Gennar, a German, were working in a sewer trench eleven feet and two feet wide when the bank caved in, burying both men. Gennar was taken out alive and not seriously hurt, but Luhei was not gotten out for an hour and a half. Death must have been instantaneous with him.

Illinois Mining Institute.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 18.—The Illinois Mining institute closed a two days' session with about sixty mine owners, managers and inspectors in attendance. The officers elected were: President, Richard Ramsay, Braeview; secretary, Colonel John S. Lore, Springfield; treasurer, Thomas R. Stockwell, St. Louis.

Bottomf gets a Year in the Pen.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., 18.—John A. Bottomf, who embezzled $1,200 from the United States Express company here and fled to Europe and gave himself up in New York, has pleaded guilty to larceny and been sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

CHAPTER XI

My interview with Olivia passed off better than I expected. If she had ordered me out of the house, I would only have looked on it as the just punishment for what must have appeared my impertinent interference in what did not concern me. The very fact that she listened so quietly proved that she suspected Felix was masquerading as her lover. She could only be assured of this by overhearing his interview with Rose Gernon and therefore accepted my invitation to go to the Jermyn street rooms. If their tenant was Francis, he would resent the intrusion of Rose, but if Felix the two confederates would doubtless talk of their guilty secret.

Thanks to a sovereign judiciously bestowed on the carekeeper, I had discovered that Rose Gernon intended to visit Felix at 8 o'clock. How the carekeeper found out I do not know, but in some mysterious way servants seem to gain all information concerning the doings of their superiors. It sufficed for me that Rose would be in the rooms of Felix on this evening, and that Olivia would catch them in a trap. I had no pity for the guilty pair, but I was genuinely sorry for Olivia. She little knew the torture she was about to undergo. I did and almost regretted that I had interfered in the matter. However, I consoled myself with the reflection that it was better for her to suffer a few hours' pain than lifelong misery.

That she agreed to go to Jermyn street at that hour without a chaperon proved how desirous she was of learning the truth. Delicately nurtured, gently bred, she must have felt horrified at the risk she was running of losing her good name, but seeing that her life's happiness depended upon knowing all she flung etiquette to the winds and came. When I found her at the foot of the stairs at 8 o'clock, I admired and respected her from the bottom of my heart.

"Am I late?" she asked, touching my hand with trembling fingers. "Only five minutes," said I, looking at my watch. "I have been waiting at the head of the stairs for that time. However, we can soon walk round to Jermyn street."

"Do you think any one will know me, Mr. Denham?" said Olivia, taking my arm. "See, I have on a plain dress, and this veil is a thick one."

"No one will recognize you," I answered soothingly. "Nor do I think you will meet any one of your acquaintances."

"I should have brought my mother but that I wished her to know nothing of this treachery. If I find I have been deceived, I shall break off my engagement with Francis. But you will keep silent about my visit, will you not, Mr. Denham?"

"No one shall hear a word from me," I answered earnestly. "But keep up your spirits, Miss Bellin. Even if you find you have been deceived there will be some consolation in knowing that it is Felix and not Francis."

"You are wrong there," she replied positively. "It is Francis. I have told you so all along."

I shrugged my shoulders without reply. Evidently nothing could shake her faith in the man. All I could hope for was that the two confederates would betray themselves.

"What are you going to do, Mr. Denham?" asked Olivia anxiously. "We will go up to the rooms of Briarfield," I answered, and there overhear their conversation."

"Is that not dishonorable?" she said, shrinking back. "In most cases it would be," I replied hastily, "but it does not do to be too particular in this matter. If you break in on them, they may deny everything. Thinking they are alone, you will hear the truth. Remember, Miss Bellin, when one deals with a villain one must beat him with his own weapons. Depend upon it, it is most necessary that we should learn all."

"They can speak of nothing I do not know."

"Are you aware of the truth?" said I, somewhat startled by this remark. "I am aware of the truth," she repeated slowly, and before I could question her she flitted up the stairs. There was no time for me to ponder over her words, as it was now past 8 o'clock, and Rose Gernon might descend at any time. I therefore spoke a few hasty words to the caretaker, telling him I wished to see Mr. Briarfield, and followed her at once. In two minutes we were both standing before the door of Briarfield's room.

"It is locked," said Olivia faintly. "Never mind," answered I, producing my latchkey. "This key of mine opens the door. I was, as you are aware, a great friend of Francis and learned that my key fitted the lock of his rooms some time ago. I have not forgotten the circumstances, so it comes in useful now. See!"

I turned the key, and the door opened noiselessly. Motioning to Miss Bellin to precede me, I followed her quietly and closed the door behind us. We heard the murmur of voices in the sitting room. She as well as I knew its whereabouts thoroughly. The door was slightly ajar, and in front of it stretched a tall screen, with fretwork at the top.

see and hear without danger of being observed. Thus far our enterprise had succeeded in the most successful manner, and nothing remained for us to do but to listen to the important conversation now taking place.

Felix, standing with his back against the mantelpiece, looked anxious and angry, while Rose Gernon, her hands on the table, faced him fiercely. Evidently the conversation was not progressing in a satisfactory manner to either.

"No!" she was saying rapidly. "I accept no money for what I have done. You know the only reward. I claim—your love!"

"I cannot give it to you," said Felix doggedly. "You know that as well as I do."

"Do I?" she cried passionately. "Do you dare to say that to me after all your vows and protestations? Why did you tell me you loved me if it was but a lie?"

"I did not tell you so."

"Yes, you did, Felix—you did! I remember the hour, the day, when you swore that you would make me your wife."

"Keep quiet," I muttered to Olivia, who made an involuntary movement. "I tell you, Rose, there is some mistake," said Felix angrily.

"You mean spirited hound!" "I am a mean spirited hound," he answered wearily. "No one knows that better than I do."

"Some women," continued Rose, not heeding his interruption, "some women would have you killed. I am not a woman of that kind. I'll stay and marry you."

"Impossible! I am to marry Miss Bellin."

"You promised to give up Miss Bellin if I helped you to see your brother at the Fen inn."

"My God!" muttered Olivia, trembling violently. "Hush!" I whispered. "Now we shall hear the truth."

"I have changed my mind," retorted Felix in answer to the last remark of Rose.

"That may be, but I have not, Mr. Felix Briarfield. I fulfilled my promise and went down with Strent to that lonely inn. Your brother came, and you know that he never left it again. I have fulfilled my promise. I now require you to fulfill yours and make me your wife."

"I cannot! I cannot!" he said in a faint voice, wiping his brow. "For heaven's sake, take this money I offer you and leave me."

"I have mixed myself up with crime for your sake, and you offer to put me off with money. It is useless. Your promise I have, and that promise I require you to keep, or else!"

"Or else!" "I'll tell the truth to the police."

"And thus ruin yourself in ruin with me."

"I don't care," she said sullenly. "Anything would be better than the torture I am enduring at your hands."

"And what will you tell the police?" asked Felix in an unnatural voice. "You know well enough. I shall tell them how you killed your brother."

"No, because you deny Felix killed Francis."

"What do you mean, Miss Gernon?" I asked rapidly. "I mean that this man whom Miss Bellin thinks is her lover Francis is Felix Briarfield, and Felix Briarfield," she continued, "is my lover."

"No!" said Felix hurriedly. "It is not true!"

I expected to see Olivia grow angry, but in place of this a bright smile irradiated her face as she looked at Felix. I could not conjecture the meaning of her action and began to grow uneasy. Rose also looked anything but comfortable. Evidently she had met with her match in Olivia.

"I overheard part of your conversation," said Olivia, addressing her pointedly. "Very honorable, I am sure," retorted Rose, with a sneer.

"Honor is thrown away on women like you," answered Olivia scornfully. "I am glad I listened, for it enables me to protect the man I love against your arts."

"That is not the man you love," said Rose spitefully. "He lies in the marshes surrounding the Fen inn, slain by the hand of his brother."

"That is not true—I swear it is not true!" cried Felix, approaching nearer to Olivia.

"Be quiet, Francis," she said quickly. "Let us hear what she has to say."

"I have to say that Felix Briarfield loved me," cried Rose angrily. "He loved me long before he ever saw you, but when you crossed my path he wanted to leave me. He impersonated his brother Francis, who was at that time in America, and you, poor fool, did not discover the deception."

"You are quite right. I did not," replied Olivia calmly. "Go on."

"When his brother Francis came back this month, he thought all would be discovered and implored me to save him. He told me of a plan whereby he intended to decoy his brother to the Fen inn on pretext of explanation. There he intended to kill him."

Olivia made no remark, but placed her hand within that of Felix. I wondered she could do so, seeing that he was accused by his accomplice of a hideous crime, and made no denial.

"I went down to the Fen inn with a man called Strent."

"That was not his real name," I interrupted. "How do you know that?" she said sharply.

"Never mind. I know that it is so."

"I decline to tell his real name," said Rose, darting a furious look at me. "I call him Strent, and by that name you knew him and knew me at the Fen inn."

"I certainly did not expect Rose Strent, waiting maid, to change to Rose Gernon, actress."

"You are too meddling, Mr. Denham," she said coolly, "and would do better to mind your own business."

"Scarcely when I have discovered so vile a crime."

"It was he who committed it," said Rose malignantly, pointing to Felix. "He came to the inn and killed his brother."

"It is a lie!" cried Felix in despair. "I laid no hand on my brother. I did not even see him."

"Wait one moment, Miss Gernon, before you make this accusation," said Olivia. "You say that Felix is your lover?"

"I do."

"I don't know how he died," she said resolutely. "As regards that I am as ignorant as you are, though I believe Francis killed him."

"Ah! You then acknowledge me to be Francis?"

"I acknowledge nothing. Let me pass, Mr. Denham. I have to attend to my business."

"Not till you tell me where your so-called father, Strent, is to be found."

"I don't know," she said sullenly. "Yes, you do," persisted Olivia. "And you shall not leave this room till you tell all."

"If I do not go to the theater, I shall be ruined."

"That does not matter to us," said Francis mercilessly. The woman looked at our three faces, and seeing therein no hope of mercy compromised the matter.

"Let me have a night to think over it," she entreated anxiously.

"No," said Francis and Olivia in one breath. "You must tell all now."

"There is no time," she urged. "I am late as it is. I must go."

"Let me speak, Briarfield," I interposed, seeing he was about to refuse again. "We do not want to make a public scandal of this—as yet."

Francis consulted Olivia with a look and turned to me.

"You know more about this case than any one else," he said quietly. "Miss Bellin and myself are quite prepared to leave the matter in your hands."

"Very good. Then Miss Gernon can go to her duties. I undertake that she shall be forthcoming tomorrow. Oh, yes, Miss Gernon," I added ironically, "I have made all my plans. Knowing you were mixed up in this case, I engaged a detective to look after you."

"A detective!" she said, with a terrified look.

"Yes! One of the smartest detectives of Scotland Yard. Permit me to escort you to the stage door of the theater and introduce you to that gentleman. Perform your part tonight and go home. Tomorrow come to these rooms at noon and tell us all you know. I am not afraid of your escaping, as my detective will watch you till we see you again."

"Suppose I refuse?" said Rose viciously.

"In that case I'll have you arrested at once as an accessory to the murder of Felix Briarfield."

"You are too strong for me," she said savagely. "I accept your conditions. Tomorrow I'll come here at 12 o'clock. Can I go now?"

"Certainly—provided you accept me as your escort."

"As you please," she replied disdainfully. "As for you, Miss Bellin," she added, turning toward Olivia, "I wish you joy of your bargain. That man is Francis Briarfield sure enough. I knew it all along and played on his fears for my own ends. He is a coward, and Felix was worth a dozen of him. For you, Mr. Briarfield, I have nothing but contempt."

With this parting shaft she sailed out of the door, closely followed by me. The detective was waiting on the other side of the street and followed us closely. Rose glanced uneasily from side to side, but not one word would she speak, nor did I wish her to talk, having quite enough on my mind for the present.

When we arrived at the stage door of the Frivolity theater, she halted on the step. In the light shed from the lamp above I could see her scornful face.

"What I have promised I shall do, Mr. Denham," she said spitefully, "but tomorrow I can tell you nothing. With all your cleverness as a spy you have discovered nothing but a mare's nest."

CHAPTER XII

For the moment I felt but little surprise, as I thought Olivia was but making the same mistake she had made formerly. Yet when I noted that she knew the true date of her lover's return and remarked the strange expression on the face of Rose I became instinctively convinced that she spoke the truth. It was Francis Briarfield who stood before me, and the dead man was Felix. How the change of personality had taken place I was unable to guess, but nevertheless felt that it was true.

Rose Gernon, with a look of disappointed rage, was the first to speak. She stamped her foot and laughed scornfully.

"This is ridiculous!" she said contemptuously. "It was Francis who died. He!"

"Francis did not die, as you well know," interrupted the young man. "Felix fell into his own trap, and for safety I assumed his name. I believe you were aware of this all along."

"How can that be? And if I really did know you were Francis, why did you not say so?"

"Because I did not wish to betray myself. For aught I know you slew my brother and were quite capable of accusing me of his murder."

Rose evaded this question, and tossing her head, with a sneer, moved toward the door. Before she could reach it I blocked her passage.

"Not yet, Miss Gernon," said I meaningfully. "Though we have discovered Felix to be Francis, we do not know how the former met with his death."

"I told you I was Francis all along," he said reproachfully.

"Yes, in such a way that I thought you were Felix," I answered ironically.

"Had I known you were so true a friend, I should have made you my confidant. As it was, when I remembered my wild threats of killing Felix, I dreaded lest, finding him dead, you might accuse me of his murder."

"Who killed him?" "I don't know. When I saw him, he was dead."

"And Strent and Rose?" "They had left the house."

"What time was this?" "About 6 in the morning."

"And I was not up till 10 o'clock. You had plenty of time to fly. But what put it into your head to place the dead body of Felix in your bed?"

"It's a long story, and I hardly know if you will understand my motives."

"Yes, I do. You were afraid of being accused of the crime. It was foolish of you to mistrust me. I would have aided rather than blamed you."

"I see that now. It was kind of you to try to avenge my death. Unfortunately all your industry was dangerous to me, and I had to baffle it."

"You certainly did so very adroitly. But tell me the story. I am anxious to know what took place."

Francis was quite unnerved by the late interview and before continuing poured himself out a glass of brandy. Then, pushing the bottle toward me, he began his strange narrative without further preamble.

"When I went to bed that night," he said slowly, "I could not sleep for ever so long. I kept wondering if your theory could possibly be true about the treachery of Felix. If it were, I considered how I should punish my brother. While thus thinking I fell asleep and didn't wake up till close on 6 o'clock in the morning. All my troubles came on me with full force, and you know how much worse things look at that hour than in broad daylight. There was no chance of further sleep, so I put on my clothes and went down stairs. The first thing I saw was my brother Felix lying dead on the floor."

"Had you any idea who killed him?" "Not the slightest. I thought it was either Strent or the girl, so I went in search of them. They had fled, for I found my horse gone, so this flight confirmed me in my suspicion. At first I determined to wake you up and explain all, but remembering my foolish talk of the previous night I thought you might think me guilty of my brother's death."

"That was a foolish idea."

"Well, put yourself in my place, and you would have thought as I."

"Not a bit of it. I should have had more moral courage."

"I hadn't at that moment. I thought you would denounce me and I would be hanged, so took steps to secure my own safety. I went outside and found my brother's horse at the side of the house. Strent and his daughter had taken mine and overlooked my brother's in the hurry of their guilty flight. I saw a means of escape and took it."

"But what about the substitution of yourself for Felix?"

"I did that to throw off the scent. I guessed that your idea was right, and that Felix was masquerading as I, so thought I might go back with safety as myself. Felix was far cleverer than I, and it was certain that he had provided some reasons for the absence of his real self while he passed himself off as me. The whole plot unrolled itself in a moment before me, and I saw in carrying it through lay my only chance of safety."

"It would have been far easier to have trusted to my friendship."

"I see that now," said Francis penitently, "but I did not then. I wanted to leave the house without your waking, so took the body of Felix softly up stairs, undressed it and laid it in my bed. Then I folded up my clothes on the chair beside the bed and dressed myself in his suit."

them, as I had seen them plenty of times. Then I dressed in a morning suit and went down stairs to find Olivia.

"Did she guess the truth?" "Not at first, but she saw there was something wrong as she kept referring to events of the previous week about which I knew nothing. Luckily Mrs. Bellin did not come down to breakfast, so I was able to tell her all when the servants left the room."

"Had she recognized that Felix was masquerading as you?"

"She had more or less, but was not quite certain. When I told her all that had occurred, she believed me at once. In some instinctive way she knew that I was really her lover. Then we set to work to concert measures for my safety. Olivia told me Felix was supposed to be in Paris at the Hotel des Etrangers and showed me his letters, so it was decided as wisest to keep up that fiction. She told me all that had taken place during my absence, and by the time you came I was thoroughly fitted into the skin of Felix."

"Then I came and insisted you were Felix."

"Yes. You see, I told the truth, and so did Olivia, when I said I was Francis. But of course, as I had changed clothes with the dead man, we saw where you were making your mistake. I never thought you'd take my death so much to heart."

"Seeing that, Briarfield, you ought to have told me all."

"Olivia suggested as much, but I was afraid. When you asked me to ride out and see the inn, I asked for a night's grace in order to get rid of the body. I rode out during the night and threw it into a pool near the inn."

"I know that pool," said I grimly, "and traced your trail thereto."

"I am afraid I did it badly," said Francis, with a shudder. "It was a horrible task, yet necessary, as I thought when you saw no body the next day you would think it was a dream or a hallucination."

"I did very nearly," I answered gravely. "And what about Paris?"

"Oh, that was very easy! When you said you were going there to look up Felix, I followed you to London by the same train and crossed over to Paris at once. At the Hotel des Etrangers I found Felix had bribed the manager to send on those letters to Olivia. He, of course, thought I was Felix and talked quite openly before me. Felix had invented a very ingenious plot to enlist the manager in his service. What it was I need not tell you, but I told the manager what I wanted, and he did it well. Of course I paid him lavishly."

"You mean he deceived me by saying you had been six weeks in Paris?"

"Yes, and about my going to Italy. Of course when you saw me you thought I was really Felix, and that you were out of your mind."

"How could I do otherwise when your statements were backed up by the manager? I did not know what to make of it."

"Well, that's all I have to tell," said Francis, "and a lot of trouble it has been. I wish I had told you all at first."

"What about Rose Gernon?" "Oh, she found me out and made believe I was Felix. She wanted to marry me, as you saw. I had great trouble with her."

"We'll settle her tomorrow," said I grimly. "But, now, Francis, who do you think killed your brother?"

"I can't say. I don't even know how he died."

"He died," said I, "from a wound in the hand inflicted by a poisoned arrowhead which was taken from Bellin Hall."

"And who wounded him?" demanded Francis, turning pale.

"We'll find that out tomorrow," I answered, "from Rose Strent, alias Rose Gernon."

A LIE NAILED.

Spencer O. Fisher's Strong Speech at Bay City.

Republican Extravagance Disclosed, Democratic Principles Clearly Defined and His Own Position Before the People Declared—Truths Frankly Put.

At an immense mass meeting at Bay City recently Hon. Spencer O. Fisher, democratic candidate for governor, was most enthusiastically received by the great audience.

"I feel that I should make a statement at this time and I am glad to speak here in my home—the city of my adoption—where I am so well known, of an attack that has just been made upon me by Hon. Timothy Tarsney, of Detroit, Mich. This, as you all know, is but the result of the sting of a defeated rival in the contest which secured for our city the United States court and government building.

"My life is an open book, to be investigated, and I challenge the fullest and freest investigation of the same in relation to the charges made by Hon. Timothy E. Tarsney. The charge that I was in conference at the Normandie hotel in Detroit with Messrs. Traynor and Beattie, or either of them, is unqualifiedly false. Many hundreds of my dearest friends in this, the city of my home, give religious fealty and devotion to the Catholic church. I ask every one of them to give me an answer to the charge that by the letters referred to I have ever intended to show hostility to those of the Roman Catholic faith.

"On the tariff question we have been somewhat divided, but as a manufacturer of lumber on Saginaw river I make a statement, without fear of contradiction, that the placing of lumber on the free list is a Godsend to this community. I am in favor of free wool. I am the principal stockholder in between seventeen and eighteen thousand sheep in Colorado.

"The speaker then referred to the ruin brought upon the country by the demonetization of silver by Germany, the Latin union and England, and predicted dire results if silver was not placed on the same ratio or footing with gold.

"The Ohio democracy declared in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and I am pleased to see that our candidate for congress is in favor of that measure. That is what the populists are after. They want the dollar of the fiddlers. The man who is on your ticket."

Mr. Fisher then made a strong appeal for the election of the democratic senatorial and legislative tickets.

Mr. Fisher then took up the question of direct taxation by the state and compared the state expenses between the two parties. He said that he believed in liberal appropriations to the state institutions, but believed that many abuses exist that should be done away with, and before the end of the campaign he hoped to be able to reveal startling facts concerning this matter.

ROUNDABOUTS.

The Lake Shore company has no depot at Tecumseh. It is doing business there in a hand car house, and a beautiful sweat-box it is!

Burt Oles, an epileptic in the Monroe county house, fell last week and striking a piece of crockery his nose was cut off close to the face.

Every nominee for congress in the fourth district is a doctor. The unhappy voters of that district must take their physic whoever is elected.

The Petersburg Sun is sowing the seeds of tragedy in the hearts of local talent, and a number of stage murders are expected during the present season.

A few persons from here took the Wabash for the McKinley meeting at Adrian, Thursday forenoon. The Lake Shore didn't sell a single ticket at this station, and that extra coach had a dismal look.—Morenci Observer. What!!

Lindholm, embezzling republican ex-deputy secretary of state, arrived at Lansing in custody of an officer. Lindholm does not put up the charitable defense his friends make for him. He evidently had rather be called a knave than a fool.

Mr. Pattengill, of the School Moderator, remarks that "any school teacher that does not know the words of 'America' would do well to pack up his satchel and start for Korea." Minister Sill shall hear about this, when he gets back.

A railroad man was approached by a sweet salvation army sister at Corunna. "Are you a Christian?" she kindly asked. "Nuh, ee am a Swede." "Wouldn't you like to work for Jesus?" "No," was the gruff rejoinder. "Ee haf a job wid de Ann Arbor railroad."—Adrian Telegram.

A Montgomery man last week walked twenty miles and woke up the county clerk in the night for a marriage license. He got it, and walked back the same night. Love like that ought to last. But you can't always tell. Maybe in less than three weeks they will be throwing crockery at each other and vowing divorce.

Over near Morenci dwells a pig that is its own constituency. He is owned by Mr. Kinkaid and inventories as follows: One head, two mouths, two tongues, two eyes, four ears, eight legs, two tails, two shoulders and four hams. The mother of this pig got frightened at the republican state platform.

Some people would seem to know how to adapt themselves to a change of seasons. A Petersburg man is still raising strawberries; an Ann Arbor man yet wears his straw hat, "clocked socks" and low-necked shoes, and there is occasionally, but rarely, an old mossaeb who says he will vote the republican ticket this fall, as usual.

A brace of tramps, for stealing cabbages and other vegetables, at Hudson, were arrested, but allowed by the justice to exercise their legs provided they should be put into immediate motion. The Hudson Gazette says they arrived in Adrian "in time to hear the eloquent McKinley make his masterly plea for tariff robbery."

The marrieds and singles played ball at Holloway last week. Of course the singles could beat any hen-pecked, child-ridden nine whose nights had been worried out by jawing wives and squalling babies, eh? Certainly. Well, there is where you "struck out." Would you believe it, the old chaps sailed in and showed the kids what their pa's could do and beat them 18 to 15.

CONCILIATION PROCEEDINGS.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, ANN ARBOR, MICH., Oct. 15, 1894.

Regular session. Called to order by President Wines. Roll called. Quorum present. Absent—Ald. Wagner, Manly.—2. The journal of the last session was approved.

FROM THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS. To the Common Council: The Board of Public Works as directed by resolution of your honorable body of September 17, 1894, has the honor to submit the following estimates made by the City Engineer. The amount of earth to remove on E. Washington st., along the S. side of Felch Park is 1440 cubic yards, and considering that the distance to move the same is short, that $90 is a sufficient appropriation to cover the cost of same, and to fill the east side of E. University ave., from Packard st. to Prospect st., to be 1700 cubic yards, the expense of excavating the same will need an appropriation of $340.

Received and filed. Of Koch & Henne and sixty others asking the Common Council to pass an ordinance for the protection of the merchants of this city against non-resident dealers who come here from time to time offering their goods and wares for sale and share all the privileges without paying any of the expenses of the city government.

Referred to committee on ordinances. A petition signed by Mary Collins Whiting and 171 others of the city remonstrating against the removal of the electric light on S. State st., south of Packard st.

Received and filed. A petition signed by John L. Ziegler and 10 others asking that a sidewalk be ordered built on the east side of Ashley st., from Jefferson st. running south to intersect with walk already built.

Referred to committee on sidewalks. A petition signed by James L. Babcock and 16 others asking that an electric light be located at the intersection of Main and William sts.

Referred to committee on lighting. A petition signed by Henry Cornwell, asking permission and authority to construct and maintain a lateral sewer connection from his dwelling house on the east side of Division st. to and with the main sewer at the point of its crossing Detroit st.

Referred to the committee on sewers. A petition that was signed by John G. Schairer and 60 other residents and property owners and presented to the Common Council October 3, 1892, in reference to the smoke nuisance was referred to committee on ordinances.

REPORTS OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES. To the Common Council: Your committee, to whom was referred the message of Mayor Darling in reference to the supply and quality of water furnished to the city of Ann Arbor, by the Ann Arbor Water Co., respectfully report as follows: That owing to the nature of the soil, and the depth to which it is necessary to go to find water in this city, the supply of water is a peculiarly dependent upon the Water Company for a sufficient supply, and are therefore compelled to patronize the Water Company, and have at all times, evinced a willingness, and shown a capacity to extend their patronage liberally to such Water Co.

We also find that said water Company has failed to maintain its works in a condition capable of doing at all times the streams in number and height, at the places as it has agreed to do in said contract.

Also has failed to furnish the inhabitants of this city with a sufficient quantity of water suitable for domestic purposes; on the contrary have through a part, and we believe a large part, of each year, taken the water furnished to the public from the main sewer stream that is a common sewer for the inhabitants living on the banks.

Learned and competent chemists have examined the water, and at times have found the same to be seriously contaminated. It is unnecessary for us to say that such water be dangerous to health, and therefore we are of the opinion that the Water Co. has shown an incapacity to perform its part of said contract, and have failed to appreciate the obligations assumed by them.

The people of the city, while they have appreciated the alarming situation, have been slow to demand, that the Water Company be brought to book; they have long and expected that the promise so often made by the Water Company be fulfilled. They are now with one voice demanding the protection of their health and property.

Therefore in view of the demonstrated inability of this Water Company to perform its contract, to supply us with the proper quantity of water, and to furnish an adequate supply of wholesome water for domestic purposes, and in view of the enforced consumption of an increased amount of water, by reason of connecting with the sewers, your committee would unanimously recommend that the Common Council of this city promptly pass an ordinance repealing the ordinance passed the 1st, 1885, entitled "An Ordinance Relative to Water Works."

Also that this council pass a resolution setting forth the terms of the contract between the Water Company and the City of Ann Arbor, and that they, the Council, deem and declare said contract broken by said Water Company, and that the city because of said breach of said contract refuse to further honor thereby, which ordinance, resolution and notice, your committee herewith report.

RESOLUTION. WHEREAS, The city of Ann Arbor by its mayor, recorder and aldermen, entered into an agreement with the Ann Arbor Water Company on the 6th day of May, 1885, which contract was passed into an ordinance of said city on June 1st, 1885, in which contract said Ann Arbor Water Company among other things, agreed to build water works at all times capable of throwing by reservoir pressure six streams eighty feet high, at the court house, at one end, and by direct pressure the same number of streams at the same place, one hundred and ten feet high, and again five streams fifty-four feet high at the University Campus, and the same number of streams at the same place, by direct pressure, ninety feet high.

Also would maintain in its reservoir 1,000,000 gallons of water, and at no time allow it to fall below 750,000 gallons, except when necessary to cleanse the same, or in case of unavoidable accident, and during such times or times, said main line, by direct pressure a sufficient supply of water for fire and domestic use.

And whereas, the Ann Arbor Water Company has failed to build the works and supply the reservoir with water, and the streams in number and in height, as set forth in said contract also to furnish the inhabitants of said city, along the lines of their water pipes, a sufficient supply of water suitable for domestic purposes, although requested so to do by the inhabitants of said city, and the contrary have supplied at various and numerous times during the existence of said contract, and especially during the month of August, 1894, water to such extent as to furnish a wholesome, and of a quality not fit for domestic purposes, and has taken said water, at various times from the Huron river, when said river was at a low stage of water, said river being a sewer for the inhabitants, who reside on its banks above the city of Ann Arbor.

Now, therefore, be it resolved and declared by the Common Council of the city of Ann Arbor, that the said contract now existing between the city of Ann Arbor, and the Ann Arbor Water Company, by reason of various and numerous failures on the part of said Water Company to fulfill their agreement in said contract, as heretofore enumerated, to the great injury and damage to said city, and the inhabitants thereof, is hereby declared void, and that the city of Ann Arbor should not, and will not further continue said contract in force, and that all contractual relations between the city and said Water Company, under and by reason of the above specified contract, shall be and are no longer in force.
