Death of Giles Lee.

Giles Lee died at his home on North State street Friday night, aged fifty-seven years. He moved here from Green Oak township about five years ago. For twenty years he was supervisor of Green Oak township. He was a man highly esteemed by those who knew him. He leaves a wife and two sons, J. H. Lee, principal of the Mt. Clemens schools, and L. B. Lee, a student in the University. The funeral services were held at the house yesterday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Mr. Coburn.

Some Banking Figures.

From the last published bank statements of the eleven banks of the county, the following interesting figures may be gleaned. The total capital stock of the banks is $574,320. The total of deposits reach the magnificent sum of $2,766,303.31. Of this amount, $1,683,252.23 is deposited in the Ann Arbor banks and $643,223.35 in the Ypsilanti banks. The loans and discounts in the county amount to $1,951,178.82, and the stocks, bonds and mortgages to $947,767.11. The gold and silver coin held in the banks amounts to $110,296.76. Of this amount over $80,000 is in gold. The surplus and undivided profits of the eleven banks amount to $393,311.97.

A Reduction in Price of Stamped Envelopes.

The United States has made a reduction in the price of stamped envelopes and the reduced prices are now in force in the Ann Arbor post-office. The reduction is not uniform. The medium size of two-cent stamped envelopes, formerly known as C's and now as No. 3, now sell for 54 cents a package of 25 envelopes, that is fifty cents for the stamps and four cents for the twenty-five envelopes. This is a reduction of one cent. Twenty-five 1-cent white envelopes now sell for 29 cents, a reduction of one cent and 25 1-cent manilla envelopes being 28 cents. There is no reduction in the old A's and D's, now known as No. 2 and No. 5 when bought by the package. There is, however, a reduction of 4 cents on 1,000 A's, and 20 cents on 1,000 D's, or large size. The reduction on the medium sized envelopes is also 20 cents on 1,000 envelopes. On orders of 500 the government prints name and address without extra charge. So that now anyone can get 500 medium sized envelopes with name and address printed for $10.80, or $10 for the stamps and 80 cents for the envelopes.

A City Lock-up.

The Courier comes out this week in favor of a city lock up, and suggests that, with a few changes in the charter, the lock-up be built. The changes in the charter are not necessary, as the charter expressly provides for the building of a city lock-up, and one of the editors of this paper took strong grounds in a communication to the council some years ago in favor of building such a lock-up. It would not only be economical for the city and provide a place in which all vagrants could be stored without extra cost, and so add to the security of the people, but it would also do away with a ground of complaint which the country supervisors are continually bringing against the city. The only persons who would suffer by the building of a city lock-up would be the sheriffs and the drunks and vagrants.

A Great Council Meeting.

Last night's council meeting will long live in the history of civic affairs as one of the liveliest ones since the council was established. There were three separate rows on foot. The most earnest one was between the sheriff and marshal. Seventy-five dollars was appropriated to fit up a room in fireman's hall for a lockup. The marshal claimed that the sheriff refused to let the city officers have the prisoners they placed in jail, preferring to make complaint and get the fees himself. Sheriff Judson came before the council and denied the new ruling he was said to have made. The running exchange of compliments between the sheriff and marshal became so warm that the council adjourned. A very bitter feeling exists between the city and county officers. Another wordy war grew out of the building of the main sewer in the fifth ward. A petition signed by ninety-five residents and property holders of the fifth ward protested against the sewer there. Ald. Manly charged that the petition was inspired by the board of public works. After debate the council persisted in ordering the sewer. A long debate was held over proposed amendments to the city charter. Ald. Prettyman wanted a committee of citizens; Ald. Manly didn't. A committee of the council on charter amendments was ordered, but enough aldermen could not be found who would consent to serve on it.

A Former Student Suicides.

Edward J. Twist, of Port Huron, a student in the law school last year, but who did not graduate, committed suicide Sunday at the residence of Mrs. A. G. Hirsch on South Ingalls street. He was the son of Ald. John Twist, of Port Huron, where he resided, and was twenty-four years of age. He came to the city to visit the Hirsch family with whom he roomed while in college, about a week ago. On Saturday he told his acquaintances on the street that he was going home Sunday. He ordered a hack to take him to the train Sunday, but was out when the hack called. He visited a barber shop Sunday morning and sent out for some note paper. Just as one of the city drug stores was closing Sunday morning he walked in and purchased two dozen quarter grain morphine pills. An hour and a half later he was found by the family unconscious. Dr. Lynds was sent for but was unable to restore him to consciousness. The box containing the morphine pills was found empty. He left the following letter addressed to his mother: "Mama: Treat Hirsch's folks kindly, they were good to me; treat 'a young lady friend' well. I loved her, she was more to me than anyone else in the world. I am going to Will now. Am tired of living. When you have put me in the grave use Mrs. Hirsch kindly. She treated me kindly. Ed."

Coroner Ball held his first inquest Sunday afternoon and the testimony developed a love affair as the probable cause at the bottom of Twist's rash act. He is supposed to have been rejected by a young Port Huron lady with whom he was in love, just before he came to this city on his visit. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of suicide and the remains were sent to Port Huron yesterday.

A Farmers' Club Meeting.

The Southern Washtenaw Farmers' club met at the home of John G. English, of Manchester, Friday, January 4th. This club is the oldest in the county, if not in the state, and is attended with as much interest as it was the first year of its organization. Mr. English has a fine home and entertained the society in his usual pleasant manner. Notwithstanding the cold weather there was a good attendance. After dinner President B. G. English called the meeting to order and announced the topic of the day, "What we have learned by the experiences of the past year." Miss Nettie English read a carefully prepared essay upon the title. This was followed by another from the pen of H. R. Palmer, an "experience meeting" was next in order. Richard Green was the first man called upon; he is a native of England and has made two or three trips in late years to his native land; he strongly favored "free trade," said pork went up when Germany took our meat, and beef the same, and that England controlled the price of our produce. George Rawson had sown fodder corn, had a large crop but found it was liable to heat in the barn or stack if harvested too early. Others had sown the common small field corn for fodder with good satisfaction. H. R. Palmer had found celery and similar crops profitable if taken good care of. C. M. Fellows had found that if potatoes were dropped on dry hot soil and not soon covered the sun burned the germ of the potato so that it would not grow. He gave a detailed account of his experience with three acres on his Saline farm; he had found it of great advantage to draw cornstalks while green or damp and putting two or three quarts of salt on each load while stacking. John G. English had been clearing more land of stone and thought it paid to improve a farm. C. M. Fellows and others had improved low land. All seemed hopeful of better days and should try to make the best of things as they were. Other business felt the "hard times" as well as farming. The next meeting will be at H. R. Palmer's, in Bridgewater, the first Friday in February. COR.

Business Improving.

J. D. Ryan returned from an extended business trip through Indiana last Friday and he reports a decidedly better feeling in business circles. He says that on account of the brighter prospects for future trade and the better spirit that pervades the business world generally, sales are much easier and larger. He sold fully one-third more goods than during his corresponding trip of last year. Stocks on hand having been largely reduced and new goods being offered cheaper than ever before, coupled with the greatly improved outlook for future business, causes the increased demand.

Through the various commercial agencies also news of a better business outlook is given out. A complete review of the different branches of business indicates that all lines are on a firmer basis and that there is more stability in trade. The surplus in all lines has been consumed and production is much greater than one year ago. At the same time a dollar will purchase more than at any previous time in the history of the country. The production of woollens last year was about one-quarter less than normal, but now that the new tariff rates have taken effect, largely reducing the cost to consumers, it is expected that the demand will show a marked increase. Last Wednesday was the first day that woolen goods could be withdrawn from the New York custom house upon payment of duties at the reduced rates, and the result of the withdrawals was the largest day's business for many years. The average fall in prices in the various branches of business since a year ago has been 5 1/2 per cent., varying greatly in different lines, however. The decrease in iron and steel products was 13.4 per cent.; woollens and cottons about 15 per cent., while the decrease in wages paid per hour's work averages but 1.2 per cent. These changes are relatively favorable to labor and will no doubt result in increased consumption, necessitating increased production and consequent improvement in every line of business.

The Carriers Must Hustle.

The postoffice department at Washington has given orders for the most rigid enforcement of the eight hour law for carriers and will not permit any overtime to be donated by the carriers or required by the postmaster. So that a new schedule of working time has been rendered imperative in the Ann Arbor office. The carriers report 5 minutes earlier in the morning, being given 5 minutes less time to make their morning collections. They also have 10 minutes less time in the evening. Owing to the frequency with which the mails arrive a few minutes late in the winter, the windows for the delivery of mail will be opened at 7:15 and will close at 7:35 p. m. In order to relieve the long line at the window of carrier No. 1, residents of Maynard, Thompson and Jefferson streets who have their mail delivered by carrier No. 1, in the day time, will get their mail from the window of carrier No. 7, in the evening. As the line at window 7 is much shorter this will cause less delay in getting their mail.

The carriers are also prohibited from going back to houses to receive mail. The letter boxes are put out for the purpose of receiving letters and the time lost by the carriers in going back to houses to take letters is so much as to prevent their delivering all their mail and getting back to the office within eight hours unless the practice is stopped. The orders from Washington are so strict that the carriers must report back to the office on the scheduled time, even if they have to bring back part of their loads undelivered, so that everyone can see the justice of this restriction.

An effort is being made to obtain additional carriers for the city, which has, however, met with a partial refusal. It will be, however, pushed for all it is worth. In the meantime the postmaster requests those citizens who have not yet provided their houses with letter boxes to do so, or to cut openings in their doors so that the mail may be delivered without delay. The mails coming into the Ann Arbor post-office are constantly increasing and the carriers are indeed compelled to hustle.

Influence of the College Woman.

The Lawrence (Kansas) Daily Journal contains the following concerning an address by Mrs. George Kingsley, formerly of this city:

"Mrs. Ella Hill Kingsley, of Paola, one of the brightest and most highly cultured of our representative women, gave a very valuable and interesting talk on Saturday afternoon upon the 'Influence of the College Woman' at Chancellor Snow's residence, to a very small audience who were brave enough to encounter the storm.

So strong was the regret expressed for those who were unable to be present that Mrs. Kingsley was persuaded to stay and repeat her address in library hall yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The subject was introduced by the consideration of the main purpose of an education and the development through it of culture and character. The special fitness of college-bred women for philanthropic work was dwelt upon at some length, and an interesting account was given of the career of Miss Jane Adams, of Hill House, Chicago,—or her career as a college girl and subsequently as a power for good in elevating the physical and moral conditions of the poor. 'The power of education in the home with whole communities of workers equipped with the knowing and thinking mind' would do more to insure the permanence of our nation than any other condition because this bears in it elements for transmission. The elevation of the social life of the college, a high standard of intercourse between young men and young women, as they meet in the comradeship of the intellectual work of the classroom and outside of college walls, may be brought about by the refined and dignified deportment of the young woman who with a lofty ideal of womanhood commands the honor and respect of her associates, as did the first young maiden who entered Michigan University, who could never have obtained admittance for others of her sex against the strong prejudice to be overcome there, if she had been a frivolous and giddy girl. Extracts were read from Emerson on behavior, to enforce the point that social culture and refinement must unite to form a charm of manner which will enable its possessor to be a force in the world, a union of self reliance, tact, kindness and quick perception. These qualities, in connection with high principle and moral strength, will cause the college woman to be a power in promoting social purity and progress in all that is good, beautiful and true."

Good When You Find It.

Judge Caldwell of North Carolina was slow to see the point of a joke. On trying a case on one occasion the solicitor called in vain for a witness named Sarah Mooney. As she did not answer he informed the court that he could not proceed "without ceremony." The bar laughed, but the judge looked puzzled. Some weeks after that when at home the point dawned on him, and he broke into a loud laugh. Upon his wife inquiring the cause of his merriment he explained that the solicitor had called Sallie Mooney, and when she did not answer he had said he could not proceed without ceremony. The wife said she did not see the point. The judge said it had taken him three weeks to find it, but when she did see it it would be very funny.—Green Bag.

Dreadful Possibility.

It was evident that they were man and wife and were returning from assisting at the wedding of two of their friends. "Wouldn't it be awful," she was heard to say to him, "if they were to live together long enough to find out that the silver we gave them was only plated?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Wife Beaters in Germany.

They know how to treat wife beaters in Germany. The brutal husband has to work all through the week, turn over his wages to his wife on pay day and go to jail Saturday night and Sunday. About two weeks of this, sort of fun takes all the wickedness out of a fellow.—New York World.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The message which Governor Rich sent to the legislature last week is a straightforward, business like document, and contains a complete resume of state affairs.

The work of the senatorial caucus in naming Mr. Burrows for senator for the short term must have been a keen disappointment to Governor Rich. He naturally desired popular indorsement of his judgment in appointing Senator Patton, but all the influence of his high office thrown actively into the scale in favor of his appointee could not secure from the people's representatives the coveted approval.

There is no more disgraceful chapter in the history of partisan journalism than that which records the treatment that Secretary Gresham has received from the republican press since he left the republican party. No lie has been too petty or too big, no misrepresentation has been too contemptible, no malice has been too malignant, for employment against the man who had the independence of thought and the courage of action to leave the republican party when it no longer represented his views.

The renomination of Senator McMillan by the unanimous vote of his party associates in the legislature, and the like support of the democratic contingent, was a high tribute to his character and worth. Mr. McMillan has made a good record in the senate and has filled creditably every committee position to which he has been assigned.

A bill has been introduced into the house of representatives providing for a national board of arbitration to settle strikes on interstate railways. It is drawn upon the lines laid down in the recent report of the commission on the Chicago strike.

The Patton and Olds contingent who went to Lansing to "bury Caesar," not to "raise" him, now that their incantations resulted so differently from their hopes, are sliding back to things terrestrial along an incline oiled with predictions of the future. This serves well to break the dull and sickening thud of their fall.

employer's interests are not being advantaged thereby, unless there be a contract specifying time of employment. In other words, employers cannot be forced to pay higher wages than they think they can afford, or employes to accept lower wages than they think they ought to receive.

The outgoing state officers each escorted his successor from the executive office to the assembly chamber and presented him for inauguration, after which they returned to the executive chamber. After the inauguration the escort committee accompanied the state officers and their ladies to their residences.

The building cost over $20,000, and the leader in the dedicatory services was Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy, the adopted son of the mother and founder of the sect, assisted by Dr. S. J. Hann. The new church starts on its course entirely free from debt. Over 215,000 subscriptions were received without any begging or borrowing, and the ground upon which the church is built was given by Rev. Mary Baker-Eddy and is valued at $40,000.

A CURIOSITY OF LUNACY.

Periodic Recurrence of Mania, by Which the Patient Lives Three Lives.

There is a special form of mental disease first described in France, whose definite character is given to it by its periodicity, and hence it is called folie-circulaire. In it there are three sections of the mental circle that the patient moves in—viz, elevation, depression and sanity—and in this round he spends his life, passing out of one into the other, for it is, when fully established, a very incurable disease.

WASHTENAWISMS.

The Chelsea Lady Maccabees install officers tonight. Albert D. English has bought a farm in Bridgewater. The Manchester firemen have been testing their machine. Adam Eppler, the Chelsea butcher, has built a new ice house. Rev. G. Eisen, of Andrews, Ind., preached in Chelsea last Sunday. The closing of the Chelsea stores at eight o'clock is being discussed. About fifty Chelsea citizens began the new year with a dancing party. There were seventeen interments in the Saline cemetery during 1894. The Saline Farmers' club meets at the home of L. Wood, in Chelsea, came near burning up last week, from a fire built in a stove in the cellar to keep the onions stored there, warm. A horning party in Waterloo made night hideous, and afterwards discovered that there had been no wedding. They were only a few weeks too previous. The annual family reunion of the Taylor brothers was held at Mrs. Hannah Taylor's, near Chelsea, on New Year's. They are a bright, able and intelligent family. Although the following item is taken from the Chelsea Herald, we will wager that there has never been a party of the kind referred to in Chelsea: A new and delightful game is all the rage in different parts of the state. It is called "onion social." Six young ladies stand in a row. One of them bites a piece out of an onion, and the fellow pays ten cents to see which of the fair ones bit it. The correct guesser kisses the other five girls, while the chumps kiss the right one. The onion eater averages more kisses than the remainder of the girls, and there is said to be great rivalry among them as to who shall bite the onion.

ICE ON THE BRAKES

Frightful Ride Given Electric Car Passengers.

DOWN A GRADE A MILE A MINUTE,

With a Crash into a Building at the Bottom—Motorman Seriously Hurt, but the Others Escape with Slight Injury—Fire at Toronto Destroys the Globe Building and Costs the Life of a Fireman—Four Sailors Drowned.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 7.—A serious accident occurred on the Kingston Electric Street railway. The lower portion of the road is a very steep grade, along the lower end of Broadway. Near the top of the hill is a switch. When car No. 1, in charge of Conductor James Norton and Motorman Charles Link, reached this point going down it was found that the brake would not hold the car. The motorman made frantic efforts to get control of his car, but the ice had got between the brake and the wheels and the sand box seemed to have no effect. There were five passengers aboard and they made desperate attempts to jump from the flying car, but were prevented for a time.

Finally one man, T. P. Ostrander, sprang for his life and landed safely in a snowbank. Two of the passengers were ladies, and they were kept in the car by the conductor, who stuck to his post, as did also the motorman. By this time they were moving at the rate of a mile a minute, and many spectators gazed in horror at the runaway, which looked every moment as though it would dash into one of the buildings that lined the road down the hill. The car kept the rails, however, until the sharp curve at the foot of the hill was reached. Right here the tracks lead into Ferry street, on one side of which stands the building of the Cornell Steamboat company.

Crashed into a Building. The runaway dashed over this curve at a terrific rate and plowed half way through the office, taking down a huge iron pillar in its flight. The motorman was seriously injured about the skull and he has been unconscious ever since and is likely to die. Conductor Norton came through safely. Mrs. James Seifforth was seriously shocked and received a number of minor injuries. Her sister, who was also on the car, was severely bruised, but not seriously. Two gentlemen from Germantown jumped just before the car struck and escaped with slight injuries. Motorman Link was taken to the city hospital, but the others did not require much attention.

FATAL FIRE AT TORONTO.

Five Firemen Go Down with a Wall of the Globe Building.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 7.—Fire was discovered in the basement of The Globe building, on the corner of Young and Melad streets. Before the first reel arrived flames were pouring from every window from garret to basement. The entire fire department was soon on the spot. Chief Ardagh and five men of the fire brigade mounted upon the cornice running around the first story of The Globe office and were breaking windows to introduce the hose when the northwest wall from the cornice up, five stories, fell with a crash.

Chief Ardagh was badly hurt about the head and had to be removed in a cab. Robert Bower received such injuries that he was taken to the hospital, where he subsequently died. Charles Smedley, Francis Forsythe, Robert Foster, James Davidson and Harry Saunders are severely injured. The Globe building, erected in 1889 at a cost of $80,000, with a plant valued at $60,000, was soon a complete wreck.

From The Globe building the flames crossed the street to Harry Webb's restaurant and that building was gutted from roof to cellar. Loss on the building $20,000; on the stock $50,000. In the rear of Michie & Co., Italian wine merchants, the building was also slightly damaged. Then McKinnon & Co.'s new wholesale dry goods store was wiped out, entailing a loss of $70,000 on the building and $100,000 on stock which had only been moved in a few days ago.

The above with other losses make the total reach $866,000; insurance, $451,000.

Reply to Stewart's Questions.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 7.—Ex-Secretary Foster, who is here awaiting the sailing of the Empress of India for Japan, says that his mission has been much misrepresented and he wishes to set forth his position clearly. At the request of the Chinese government he has consented to act as counsel to the Chinese peace commissioners. He does not expect to be allowed to attend the sittings of the peace commissioners, as all deliberations will be carried on in private. He will simply act as counsel and adviser in the matter, and altogether in a private capacity, his appointment not being connected in any way with the United States government.

DEATH OF GEN. POST

One of the Heroes of the War Suddenly Summoned.

GONE TO HIS REST AND REWARD

"On Fame's Eternal Camping Ground"—Wounds Could Not Keep Him from Duty and His Ambition Was To Be Continually at the Front—The Career of the Soldier and Statesman—Both Houses of Congress Adjourn in Respect to His Memory.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—General Philip Sidney Post, member of congress from the Tenth district of Illinois, died at the Hamilton hotel in this city yesterday morning, after an illness of but one day. His death was from heart failure resulting from acute gastritis. For some time he had been suffering at intervals with attacks which physicians pronounced dyspepsia, but had attended to his congressional duties unremittingly. He passed the holidays at his home in Illinois and reached Washington Wednesday. Early Saturday morning he was seized with an attack of his old trouble, which did not, however, assume serious form until evening.

Heart Failure Sets in at Night.

During the night heart failure set in and for some hours before his death, which occurred at 4:30 a. m., the physicians could detect hardly any pulse beat. Mrs. Post and a son, W. S. Post, were with him. There is another son, Philip S. Post, a lawyer in Chicago. The Illinois delegation in congress held a meeting at 10 o'clock this morning and took appropriate action, and the house adjourned after the reading of the journal. The usual committee from the house and senate were appointed to act as an escort to the body to Illinois. The funeral party will leave Washington at 8 o'clock tonight, arrive in Chicago tomorrow night and the funeral services will be held in Galesburg, Ill., probably Wednesday afternoon. There will be no funeral services in this city.

Won Distinction as a Soldier.

General Post was best known through his brilliant military services in the rebellion, where he won high rank and distinction with great rapidity. When the war began he was appointed second lieutenant in the Fifth Illinois infantry. After the first Missouri campaign he became major, and eight months after his enlistment was made colonel of the Fifty-ninth Illinois for gallantry at the battle of Pea Ridge, in which he was desperately wounded. Before he was able to mount his horse without assistance he rejoined the troops, then hurrying forward to Corinth, and was at once assigned to the command of a brigade. From May, 1862, to the close of the war he was constantly at the front.

Began the Battle of Stone River.

In the Army of the Cumberland as first organized he commanded the first brigade, first division of the Twentieth army corps from its formation to the dissolution of the corps, a brigade conspicuous in all the engagements of that army, under General Rosecrans. With it he commenced the battle of Stone River, drove the enemy back several miles and captured Leetown. During the Atlanta campaign he was transferred to General Wood's division of the Fourth corps, and when the latter was wounded at the battle of Lovejoy Station took command and returned with it to Tennessee to oppose the progress of the enemy north.

Wounded Again at Nashville.

On Dec. 15, 1864, in the Nashville fighting he carried Montgomery hill at the point of the bayonet, and in the next day's battle fell dangerously wounded while leading an assault on Overton hill. In July, 1865, he was given command of the western district of Texas and remained until the withdrawal of the French from Mexico removed the danger of military complications.

Sketch of His Civil Career.

General Post's civil career has been an eventful one. He was born March 18, 1833, in Florida, Orange county, N. Y.; was graduated from Union college in 1855; practiced law in Kansas, where he also edited a newspaper, and in Illinois. After the war, in 1866, he was appointed consul to Vienna; was promoted consul-general for Austria-Hungary in 1874, resigned in 1879, was commander of the department of Illinois G. A. R. in 1886 and was a Republican member of congress for four terms beginning with the Fifty-fifth congress.

MAY POSTPONE THE CAUCUS.

Both Houses Adjourn for the Day—Currency Bill Prospects.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—This week promises to be a most eventful one in the house of representatives. It may not only determine the fate of the Carlisle currency bill so far as the lower branch of congress is concerned, but in the event of the defeat of the measure have a far-reaching effect on the currency question and on the policy of congress on the administration. The Democratic house caucus which will convene at 3 o'clock this afternoon, unless postponed on account of the death of Representative Post, will be the first important step, as it is expected to test whether any bill can command a majority and what the form of the bill is to be.

The house adjourned immediately after its assemblage out of respect for Post. A rule fixing the future course of debate will not be introduced until tomorrow, and its terms will depend largely on the events of the caucus, if it is held. It had been hoped to get a final vote by tomorrow or Wednesday, but Springer says it may be necessary to let the debate run through the week. There are evidences, however, that a coup d'etat will be put in execution by tomorrow by those opposed to the bill. This will be a motion to strike out all after the enacting clause, which would be equivalent to a motion to kill the bill. It was by a stroke of this kind that the Morrison tariff bill was summarily killed long before its friends had anticipated a final vote.

The parliamentary leaders of the house have been consulted and have agreed that this move is regular and in accordance with the rules. They are expecting the move, although it is not known positively that it will be executed. If an early vote is thus precipitated and all of the bill after the enacting clause struck out it would do away with the five-minute debate and put a summary end to the struggle. If, however, the motion to strike out should fail to secure a majority the five-minute debate would proceed until the final vote was taken. The senate followed the course of the house and as soon as the death of General Post was announced adjourned.

DENIED BY PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

An Imputation Made During a Debate in the National Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The attention of President Cleveland having been called to a hint thrown out in the senate discussion on Friday that the visit of a certain committee of royalists from the Hawaiian islands was connected in some way with the departure of American ships from that locality, the president said to an Associated Press reporter: "Of course such an insinuation is very absurd. Its propriety and the motive behind it, I am sure, can safely be left to the judgment of fair and right thinking Americans."

He added that he was entirely willing that the people should know all about it. He said the committee of royalists asked an interview which he gave them as a courtesy, but entirely unofficially. They wanted to know whether there was any hope that the president would do anything to restore the queen. The president carefully wrote out a reply intending to read it personally, and was ill when the committee called by appointment and sent it to them. The president read the reply to the Associated Press reporter. In brief, it replies in the negative to the question asked.

The president reminds the committee that the audience is not official and that he meets them merely as individuals. He reiterates his well-known view that there was unjustifiable interference, both diplomatic and naval, on the part of the United States at the time of the revolution, and says that his efforts to rectify the wrong having failed he had turned the matter over to congress and had nothing further to do with it. Congress had refused to do anything, the government established by the annexers had been recognized, but this recognition and the attitude of congress amounted to an absolute denial of present or future aid to the royalists. And this ended the incident.

Another Statement from Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The following official telegram has been received at the Turkish legation in this city, dated at Constantinople: "Certain newspapers have maintained lately that the number of Armenians in Turkey reaches many millions, and that they are badly treated. Both assertions are absolutely false. According to the most reliable statistics the Armenians living in Turkey are a little over 900,000, of whom 500,000 are established in Constantinople itself. To prove that the Armenians are not ill-treated the telegrams says they have schools and a literature."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Another day in the house was consumed by debate over the Carlisle currency plan, in which Cockran was the most conspicuous figure. Cockran opposed the bill throughout and declared himself in favor of the Baltimore plan. Lacey of Iowa also spoke in opposition while Boatner and Catchings exhorted their party to unite in support of the measure.

Social Functions at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The president and Mrs. Cleveland have issued invitations for receptions at the White House on the evenings of Jan. 10, from 9 to 11 o'clock, in honor of the diplomatic corps; Jan. 31 to congress and judiciary, and Feb. 14 to the army, navy and marine corps.

Flint, the noted expert on hypnotism, has, with his client, gone to Minneapolis to interview Blixt, the murderer of Miss Catherine Ging, at the invitation of Attorney Odell, who will defend Blixt. The letter inviting Flint to Minneapolis shows clearly that Odell will plead that Blixt was hypnotized by Hayward and so controlled to murder Miss Ging. This will be the second case in the country in which hypnotism has been pleaded to acquit an actual murderer, the first one being the recent case in Kansas, in which the actual murderer was acquitted and the man who, as alleged, hypnotized him sentenced to hang.
