COUNCIL AGAINST CHARTER AMENDMENTS.

An Interesting Meeting Fully Told-The Mıkado Coming-The Liberal Ministers' Conference.

"We are The Board of Public Works."

We are, we are, we are the board of public works. We are, we are the board of public works. We are the board of public works. What the —— do I care. What the —— do you care, What the —— do we care, What the —— do we care, We are, we are, we are the board of public works.

The above is somewhat of a paraphrase of a student song. # It can now be sung with great unction by the members of the board of public works. Messrs. Bullis and Clark are again ah, id, and the recommendation of Mayor Walker to have the charter amended by increasing the membership to five was voted down 10 to 5.

The meeting was a solemn one. President Hiscock's countenance was surrounded with his most severe, dignified smile. He was very prompt and the aldermen seemed to feel that the meeting was a memorial service, and the speeches made and actions taken might be eulogies on future political preferment.

The large number of distinguished citizens present, such as Messrs. Bullis Prosecuting Attorney Randall, Sedgwick Dean, John Duffy, J. A. Brown, M. M. Steffy and others showed the interest taken in the aldermen. When President Hiscock was ready to call the meeting to order it was found that Ald. Taylor was absent. The marshal was sent for him, and it was 8:15 when the meeting opened with every man in his place. The call for the meeting was read.

Ald. Ferguson moved that the charter be amended as shown by a proposed bill. There was silence in the council chamber.¹⁶ Pres. Hiscock remarked that as the motion was not supported there was nothing before the meeting. Thereupon Ald Snyder supported the motion and the President suggested that a vote be taken. The clerk was asked to read the bill which left the duties of the board of public works the same as in the present charter but increased the membership to five and made the appointment of the street commissioner and city engineer subject to the approval of the council. No two of the members of the board were to reside in the same The time of the appointments ward. were to be the first Monday in June instead of May and they were to hold their offices during the pleasure of the board.

Back From West Branch.

"I was more than ever pleased with the country about West Branch, Ogemaw county," said Leonhard Gruner, who returned home from a visit to that county recently. "It is looking up wonderfully. The people have had an excellent winter for lumbering. There are not big piles of logs along the railroad tracks, but mountains of logs. For weeks four log trains a day have been sent out of West Branch, and this will be continued for a long time to I saw birch logs two and onecome. half feet in diameter. There are all kinds of timber there, but not much pine. Large quantities of telephone and telegraph poles are being gotten out. These are always cash, and the trees are worth standing in the woods form $4 to $7. They are paid for as soon as hauled to the railroad station. All this money has helped the farmers and they are geting into better financial shape. Most of the mortgages on these farms do not run over $200 to $400, and as the land is appreciating in value you can see that they are gilt-edged. There is as good land in Ogemaw county as in Washtenaw county. There is also ome very poor land. Seventy-five new families have moved into West Branch during the winter. There was still snow in the fence corners when I left on Friday. The people were much worried about their apples they were not sure whether the frost had done any harm

By request, City Attorney Kline explained the proposed changes.

The members of the council then dirided into little knots and discussed the bill. Some slight changes were made on the suggestion of Ald. Brown and others who afterwards voted against the bill.

Ald. Prettyman said he was opposed to a change. They had held four or five meetings to revise the charter and the board of pubic works had been left alone. This had been done advisedly. To start now to make more members of the board was a start in the wrong direction. All political writers now agreed that it is the best policy in municipal affairs to make concentrated responsibility and not divided responsibility. Every alderman can see monuments in his ward to the old plan of doing work by the aldermen themselves. There was still a little executive work left in the council and they could see how the responsibility was shirked. One of the most flagrant cases was the cutting down of Broadway hill which should have been done years ago. Another was the placing of the bridges over the Huron river and the Michigan Central railroad. The council was responsible for these. One cause of dissatisfacton with the present board of public works was that as soon as there was a chuck nole before a man's door he would call up the street commissioner. A board of three members could be got at so easily that all responsibility was thrown upon them. He objected to the the street commissioner being confirmed by the council. KILLED BY THEIR ARMOR.

It Weighed Too Much For the Stoutest Russian Soldiers.

One of the interesting features of the late czar's funeral was, as usual, the two men clad in mediæval armor, one on horseback and the other on foot.

The mounted knight had his visor open, and his armor was of burnished gold, which glittered in the sun. He symbolized life.

The other was on foot. His armor was coal black steel. His visor was closed, and in his hand he bore a drawn two handed sword, the blade of which was shrouded in crape. He symbolized death.

The weight of these two suits of armor is so great that, notwithstanding the most gigantic men of the imperial guard being selected to don them, the one on foot who officiated at the obsequies of Emperor Nicholas I fell dead from exhaustion on reaching the church of SS. Peter and Paul, where the imperial mansoleum is situated. While at the funeral of Alexander II the black knight fainted during the march from the Winter palace to the place of interment and was carried to the hospital, where he died the same night.

A similar fate overtook the black knight at the recent czar's funeral. It was observed that he could scarcely drag himself along during the latter part of the procession through the capital, and on reaching the fortress he sank unconscious to the ground and has since died. -New York Advertiser.

The Tallahassee Madstone.

The most famous southern madstone belongs in the family of ex-Governor Walker of Tallahassee, Fla. The stone was presented to the governor several years ago by the person who took it from the stomach of a deer. The valuable little concretion is oblong in shape, about 11% inches in length and of a bluish gray color. One end tapers to a blunt point; the other is flattened and has an aperture through which the spongy, porous Interior may be plainly seen. When in ase. the opening is applied directly over the wound, and the pithy substance which forms the interior of the stone is supposed to "suck out" and absorb the peisonous venom, whether injected by a deadly serpent or a rabid dog. Persons who have seen the stone applied declare that it adhered firmly to the wound as long as there was a particle of venom in the system .- St Louis Republic.

Canine Etiquette. Conventional rules are most useful in ing, the result of deliberate reflection among men, seems quite as well understood by animals. The number of steps which a prince or embassador might advance to meet the other without derogating from his dignity, and the frequent halts and bows, find a parallel in the amusing form of canine etiquette, when one dog "spies a stranger" at a distance. The first dog stops short, then trots on a little, then crouches and finally lies flat down, with its nose on its paws, like a skirmisher ordered to open fire on the enemy. The other dog, which was less quick sighted, sometimes lies down, too, but more usually trots slowly up, with

The action of the first seems clearly to be a survival of a time when a dog naturally crouched in order to conceal itself the moment it saw any other creature which might hurt it or which, on the contrary, it might want to stalk. The sudden drop is something like that of a setter when "creeping" up on to the birds, but more like the crouch of the fox when it sees a hare or wants to conceal itself from persons whom it sees while it is still unseen. But now it is observed as pure convention, one which is obviously mere show, but to omit which would be a breach of canine etiquette which might and sometimes does lead to a fight.-London Spectator.

Coal Packed In Water.

To prevent the deterioration which takes place in coal when stacked in an ordinary manner it has been proposed in the case of a large quantity having to be stacked for a considerable period to try the effect of submerging it in a sufficient depth of water to give the necessary pressure for confining the gas within the pores. And it is further suggested that to prevent loss of gas in transit coal might be conveyed, while remaining submerged, by the numerous canals and navigable rivers which are now being Europe. -- Exchange.

From a letter written by Rev. J. there. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I

AL_ ON ONE "SPLIT."

A Run of Luck Which Enriched an Impecunious Gambler.

Some years ago, when gambling flourished in Washington, two of the most enthusiastic votaries of faro were old Bill Lunsford and Adam Koch. They usually bucked the animal together, and when they had a winning streak the bank proprietor was apt to walk the floor nervously, and there would be shifting of dealers every quarter of an hour or so. When the fickle goddess frowned upon them, however, there was joy in the heart of the man who carired the roll, and pheasants and venison were liable to mark the next night's supper. They always played the limit, which was $25 to "cases" in most of the rooms in their day, whether their luck was good or bad, and consequently they won big money or lost their stakes in short order.

One night Koch went up into Jones' place, over Charlie Godfrey's saloon, on E street, without a cent in his pocket. Lunsford was spread out before the faro table, with red chips at $1.25 apiece stacked up in front of him and stacks covering the case cards on the board. He was tipsy and unsociable, and when Koch suggested the loan of a couple of stacks he was met with a stormy refusal. He sat down and watched the play, however, and at last Lunsford, who was calling for a small bottle every other turn, got drunker and put a pile of chips on the king, of which only one h There are numbers of villages in Rus- shown. In a moment two kings followe each other in the deal, and Jim Davis who was dealing, took down half of Lunsford's bet. In doing so he found the latter had put 19 chips instead of 20 on the card, and consequently he left nine Marinin live by means of begging. And worse than any gambler who ever played

"You wanted a stake, durn you, and now you can have it," he exclaimed, and he threw the split at Koch. The latter coolly picked up the 621/2 cents and other local dignitaries, are enrolled and put it on a card. It won. He shifted the chip to another place, and it won parties. These parties go out in turn on again. Here and there he moved the chips over the table, now coppering them and now playing them open, and' every time he won. At the end of the deal he had $30. At the end of the next BREAD, CRACKERS, CAKES, &c. he had $245. The news got out on the street that Adam Koch had struck a winning streak. This was enough to crowd Jones' place with curious and excited spectators. At midnight Koch was $1,400 ahead of the game. At 5 o'clock in the morning he arose and called for a bottle of wine and paid the boy with a $10 bill out of a roll containing just $2,690. That was the luckiest gamble ever known in Washington. And Lunsford went broke trying to copper Koch's steady luck -Chicago Times-Herald.

The Word Cigar.

The word "cigar" is believed to come from the Spanish cigarra, meeuing a grasshopper, and at first the significance To have perfect health, you must and propriety of the term seem quescigarral, or the place where the grasshopper sang. Tobacco was usually grown in a cigarral, and when the leaves were rolled up and brought to a guest the host, specially to recommend the product, was careful to state that it was grown in his own cigarral. Thus the word which means grasshopper came, in a modified form, to be applied to the habitat of the grasshopper, and finally to the cigar, whose material was grown

A FAR REACHING DECISION.

The income tax is dead. The whole law was declared unconsitutional by the court of last resort last Monday by to furnish this preparation to so large a a majority of one, Justice Shiras having number of teachers as is required. Bethe previous decision of the court a few into the problem. Many would be weeks ago. The result is one more victory for wealth in its efforts to escape the payment of its due share of the burden of taxation. The overturning of sive instruction, rather than to go to the law will deprive the government of revenue variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000. The question of the needs of the government and be brought nearer to those in the more the justice of the tax seem not to have been considered at all by the court. Former precidents, likewise, appear to lieve the legislature has shown wisdom, have had no weight with the majority. There is little in the decision that can be considered liberal and broad. It appears to be based upon a strained and far-fetched constructon of the letter of the constitution rather than its spirit. It is a decision which might have done honor to the sticklers or "strict constructinists" of former days The decision is the more surprising when it is understood that every man of the majority is from the north. The decision is deprived of much of its weight and impressiveness by the fact that in order to obtain a bare majority against the law it was necessary for one of the justices, who is best known to the people as a corporation attorney, to reverse the position occupied by him in the previous decision of the court on which the ink is scarcely yet dry. Those who dissented from the decision are Justices Brown, Harlan, Jackson and White. Their opinions are in accord with the precidents of the first hundred years of our national history and are marked with deep conviction and grave fears as to the results of the new doctrine upon the taxing power which lies at the very bune basis of all government. The destruction of long and well established principles of taxation by this decision is a booming. It went to 81c, and remained viewed by the dissenting justices as a about there in spite of the strenous menace to the future. Their language efforts of the large speculators to keep while temperate, as is to be always ex- it down by dumping millions of bushpected, when coming from such a source, els on the new blood. When men of their learning and ability and habit of thought use such language with reference to such a matter, there can be little doubt but that well established principles of equity and justice have been violated. The principle involved in the overturned law still lives in spite of the decison of the court. And if the constitution does not give to congress the power to tax the great incomes of aggregated wealth, it should be amended and that power granted it at the earliest moment session. Under the circumstances, therefore, we believe the legislature did wisely in passing the Mount Pleasant bill. That there is urgent need for another normal school, few will deny. Its graduates nearly all go into the village and Entered at the Post-Office, in Ann Arbor, Mich. city schools while the rural schools as second-class matter. where the professional teacher is so much needed are almost wholly without trained teachers. Yet the greater part of the children of the state probably receive all their early training at least in the district schools. Teaching has become a profession, as much as law or medicine, and those who would follow it and honor it should have as careful technical preparation therefor. But it is impossible for one normal school "flopped" since the handing down of sides the question of distance enters teachers in the northern part of the state prefer to remain nearer home and put up with poorer yet more expen-Ypsilanti. > With writers like the author of "Coin's Financial School" it is constantly assumed that a law of congress, touching money, is omnipotent; that the precious metals are valuable because they are coined, and not coined because they are valuable; that there is no law to "demonetize" silver or gold except the law of congress, and that the United States, in issuing coins and declaring legal tender, may disregard all nations of the earth and dictate to eveverybody under the sun. The simple fact is that coining does not increase the value of the precions metals; that the law of value, i.e. , the estimation which men who buy and sell upon one or the other of these metals is superior to any man-made law and cannot be overruled, and that the surest way to "demonetize" either of them is to allow something cheaper to take its place. KANSAS CITY GHOSTS

FAMOUS SPOOKS OF THE TOWN ON THE BIG MUDDY.

The Original Ghost Is From a Case of Fratricide-How the Santa Fe Spook Was Laid-How a Man With the "Jimjams" Stirred Up a Jail Full of Criminals.

It may be true that conscience makes cowards of us all, but with the ignorant and superstitious conscience is not a circumstance when compared to a vivid dark shadow, in each deserted house and around every dismal building the restless spirit of some departed sinner whose crimes will not allow him to enter heaven, who is doomed to wander around this earth until Gabriel's trumpet is sounded, who must hover near the scene of his former misdeeds until the last

The place by popular consent most adapted to ghost wanderings and the place most fruitful in the production of the bona fide article is naturally the graveyard. The drearier, gloomier and more mournful the aspect of the gravevard the more ghosts. But the real believer in spooks and spirits does not deem it necessary to go among the tombs and graves of the dead to find a spirit.

Ghosts are numerous. They can be found in all sections of the country. There is not a village nor a deserted country house nor a railroad bridge but has its ghost. But the ghosts are not all confined to the country by any means. There have been several in Kansas City that have gained extensive notoriety on account of their many visitations. and the parts of the city in which they are wont to disport themselves are still eyed with suspicion and looked upon skance by the inhabitants of Belvidere Hollow, Hick's Hollow and other portions of the city thickly settled by the descendants of Ham.

The oldest, the original ghost that is most vividly in the memory of the superstitious and is most often the topic of grewsome whispers among the people mentioned, walked the levee between Main street and Broadway 12 years ago. One winter's night, the story goes, a man was lying in wait for an enemy on the levee. In his hand he clutched a ponderous double barreled shotgun loaded with nails and slugs. He saw a man walking down the levee. In the dim, flickering light he thought he recognized his enemy. He raised his gun, fired and hurried away. The next day he read in the papers that his brother's body had been found on the levee, horribly mangled and torn. The murderer winced, but kept his secret. Then the dead brother's ghost began to walk. Every night, at the same hour of the shooting, it could be seen on the levee. Each time it would walk straight to the spot where the body had fallen. Then the ghost would fall, go through a death struggle and disappear. It kept this up for years, and there are those who say it does it still.

The second healthy, well developed ghost disported itself in the ruins of the old Santa Fe Stage Coach company's ofold Santa Fe Stage Coach company's of-fice at Second and Main streets in 1886. So generally known did it become that often large crowds would congregate and A. M. Clark, 47 S. Division st., Ann Arbor, or A. F. Clark Saline, Mich. await the appearance of the nocturnal who wished to investigate a little went into the ruins. When he emerged from them an hour later, he found a large crowd standing on the opposite side of the street, near the jail, watching for ghosts. Some one in the crowd, thinking that the young man had been playing striking him on the head. He fell senseless with a gaping wound in his head. The Santa Fe ghost has not been seen since In 1887 there was a story afloat that at 12 o'clock each night a ghostly cable train glided down the incline between Walnut and Main streets and disappearwho had died a short time before, after having been insaue for some time, the result of grief over the fact that his train had run down and killed a pedestrian. Crowds congregated at the junction nightly to see the strange sight. For the most part they went away disappointed, although there was plenty who declared they had seen "it. Another story, in which a ghost was never seen, but which smacked strongly of spooks, was the Conway murder on East Eighteenth street, between Oak and Locust, in 1885. Mrs. Conway, a young to death with a coupling pin. The murderer or murderers were never caught. Suspicion pointed toward two men, but there was no evidence. Both of them afterward died horrible deaths-one of the glanders and the other of cancer. The ghost of the victims never walked openly, but that section of the city was given a wide berth by the true believers for many months afterward. Last, but not least, were the ghosts of Clark and Jones, the men hung for murdering Mme. Wright in 1893. These ghosts materialized in the jails, one at Independence and one in Kansas City. The scare lasted for some weeks, and the negro prisoners were thrown into a state of terror by any strange sounds. One night, when the jail was in a state of comparative quiet, a drunken prisoner, who had just been brought in, had an attack of "jimjams." By some strange coincidence he was placed in the cell once occupied by Clark, and the prisoners soon located the groaning of the unfortunate man. The negroes, not knowing that the cell was occupied, supposed that the noise was made by a departed spirit, and all started to howling with the "ghost." The effect was something that can be imagined better than t can be described. Since the Clark ghost left the jail Kansas City has been bereft of spirits, and Belvidere Hollow is breathing more easily than it has for years. --- Kansas City Times.

COAL WAR PROBABLE.

Prices Greatty Reduced, Yet Dealers Are Holding Back For a Further Decrease. The refusal of the anthracite coal carrying roads in New York to accede to Reading's demand for 21 per cent of the total output of anthracite coal has caused much uneasiness in coal circles. and it is now thought that it will precipitate a coal war, which has been averted so far only on the belief that something would be offered by the coal presidents which would give relief to the coal companies.

Although there has been meeting aftimagination. The, greatest coward on er meeting arranged for the adjustment earth is the person who sees in every of difficulties, they have not been successful, and the price of coal has been greatly reduced, notwithstanding a few weeks ago it was officially stated that an advance had been made in circular prices. These; however, have not been lived up to.

There has been considerable talk among the individual operators in regard to closing up their mines, one or two of them having done so, and if it were not for the cost of keeping the mines clear of water and other neces sary fixed charges nearly all of them would follow suit. It is hoped by a number of these operators that the price may be so greatly reduced that something will have to be done to keep not only the coal operators, but the railroad companies, from bankruptcy, and the sooner the price gets so low that there will be a great loss to all concerned the sooner, it is thought, relief will be had.

The retail coal operators are practically without orders, and it is said that to insure the sale of coal a number of them are giving to each purchaser of a ton either a shovel or a bucket of lime, but even with this there are very few orders. -Philadelphia Press.

On Wednesday the house passed the senate bill establishing another State Normal school at Mount Pleasant. Should the measure receive the executive approval, Michigan will soon have a much needed want supplied. There need be no delay in putting the school in operation, since the Mount Pleasant people donate the fine building and site now occupied by the private normal there. There might and probably would have been some advantages in leaving the question of location out of the bill entirely and permitting it to be fixed by a disinterested commission after it had carefully considered the various offers and claims of the different cities competing for the institution, but the issue had become so warm and so much antagonism had been aroused that it was year & Co.

A Curious Fact.

The Popular Science News calls atten tion to a most remarkable account of the position of certain planets as located in "Gulliver's Travels." This book, written somewhere about 1726, contains the following words: "They spend the greater part of their lives in observing the celestial bodies, which they do by the assistance of glasses far excelling ours in goodness. They have likewise discovered two lesser stars, or satellites, which revolve about Mars, whereof the innermost is distant from the center of the primary planet exactly three of his diameters and the outermost five. The former revolves in the space of 10 hours, and the latter in $21\frac{1}{2}$, so that the squares of their periodical times are very near in the same proportion with the cubes of their distance from the center of Mars.

One hundred and tifty years before it was known that Mars had a satellite, when the theory that it had one would have been met with ridicule, or at least disbelief, the author of this remarkable book described the exact number of satellites that Mars possessed, told their location and unusual speed; also a peculiarity in the relation of the speed to the central orb, a peculiarity based upon no principles with which astronomers are familiar. A careful study cf the statements made by many writers of marked ability will almost inevitably lead us to the conclusion that certain imaginative minds have the gift of prophecy, or, at all events, there may be flashes of divination possibly unsuspected by the writers themselves.

She said No.' No one got in before she herself got out at South Kensington, where the dog remained perfectly quiet, but at Sloane square a man was let in, and out rushed the dog, the door actually grazing his sides. Had he not taken up the precise place he did, he must have been shut in or crushed. 'That dog is a stowaway,' I observed to the porter who had opened the door. 'I suppose he is,' the man answered.

"The dog was making the best of his way to the stairs. Clearly the dog meant to get out at that particular station, (he had had ample opportunity of getting out both at Addison road and South ing so. How did he recognize the Sloane Square station, for he had had only those two opportunities of glancing out? It seems to me it can only have been by counting the stations, in which case he must be able to reckon up to five. "The dog was a very ordinary London cur, white and tan, of a greatly mixed Scotch terrier stock, the long muzzle showing a greyhound cross. He was thin and apparently conscious of breaking the law, hiding out of sight, and slinking along with his tail between his legs, and altogether not worth stealing. I suppose that he had been transferred congenial, and was slipping away in fear and trembling to his old quarters."

BEES AND BEEHIVES.

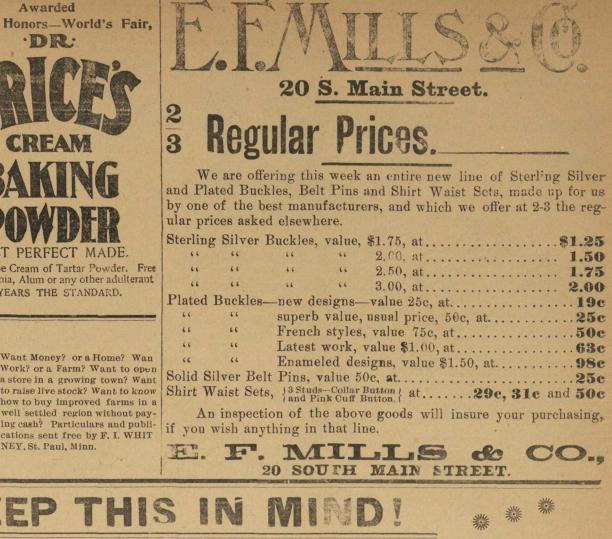

Old Fashioned Hives Scarce-Queen Bees Traveling by Mail.

The beehive everywhere represented as the emblem of industry, as for instance in pictures on the covers of savings bank books, is the old fashioned round, sugarloaf structure made of twisted straw, but as a matter of fact there are very few such hives now in use except in Germany and Austria, and even there the modern hive is taking their places. The modern hive is made of boards and is square, with some modifi- State. cations in shape and style. It is not nearly so picturesque as the old fashioned hive.

A gentleman farmer in New Jersey, desiring to get two of the old fashioned hives to set up on his place, commissioned a New York dealer in beekeepers' supplies to buy them. The dealer communicated with many bee farmers in his search and finally found one hive on Long Island. The gentleman had meanwhile found one hmself, so that he had his desire.

Dealers in beekeepers' supplies sell everything required, including bees in the season. One can buy a colony of bees or any number of bees, just as he can buy dry goods or shoes. Queen bees are sent from here all over the country. They are shipped by mail in little boxes called queen's cages. There is in each cage space for the queen bee and for a number of worker bees. In one end of the cage is placed a sufficent store of candy for food to last the bees on their journey. Queen bees are frequently sent from here to Australia in this manner. and 50 per cent of them reach their destination alive after a journey of 45 days. -New York Sun.

Remarkable Operation.

A remarkable operation was successfully performed at the Flushing (N. Y.) sanitarium recently by Dr. Charles A. Phelps, chief surgeon of the New York police department and visiting surgeon of Bellevue hospital. The operation was the removal of varicose veins and the patient G. E. Rissell of Williamsport, Pa. The veins extended from the hip to the bottom of the foot. They were tied in 120 places before the operation was completed. Dr. Phelps pronounced the case the most remarkable he had ever seen. - New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Remarkable Pulpit.

The Mechlin cathedral pulpit is regarded as the second finest in the world, the finest having been done by the same artist for the cathedral in Brussels. The writer, who has seen both, while admitting points of superiority in that of Brassels, prefers this, which is in the cathedral at Mechlin. It is made of oak, and the figures of Christ and of the women are life size. The sounding board is formed by oak leaves twined with those of a grapevine. The stem of the latter rises naturally from the ground at the entrance to the pulpit, which is apparently hewn out of a rock. The preacher stands under the shadow of the leaves, the cross at his right hand. Below him and in front of the pulpit, forming a part of the base, is a horse which has thrown its rider. It looks as though some impious horseman had approached Calvary heedlessly and been hurled to destruction over a precipice. The explanation of the design is not given by the guide at the cathedral nor in any book, so visitors and regular worshipers are at liberty to interpret it to please themselves. -Brooklyn Eagle.

Smoothing the Ruffled Feathers of the French National Bird_An Episode That Was Odious to the Central American Republic Results in an Emigration of Foreign Representatives-Minister Denby Suggests a New China Treaty.

WASHINGTON, May 23.-The United States has been again asked to act as in. termediary in an international complication. This time the trouble is between France and Venezuela, resulting in a complete termination of diplomatic relations between them. The French minister at Caracas recently was given his passports, whereupon France sent two warships to take away her minister and all the legation archives. At the same time France handed to the Venezuelan minister at Paris his passports, and he summarily departed. The request for the mediation of the United States is now made by the Venezuelan government through its minister at Washington, Senor Andrade. He was instructed by the Venezuelan minisister of foreign affairs a short while ago to request that the United States ambassador at Paris, Eustis, be asked to act as intermediary in restoring friendly relations between the two countries.

The Great American Intermediary.

The United States legation at Caracas was also notified of the desire of the Venezuelan government and sent a recommendation to the state department that the office of intermediary be accepted. Department officials will not dis cuss the subject, and it cannot be learned whether instructions have yet been sent to Ambassador Eustis. Should the United States undertake the reconciliation it their names were proposed as members of will make two questions in which our of. the board of foreign missions. The two ficials are intermediaries with European governments in behalf of Venezuela. Ambassador Bayard is already engaged in effecting a solution of the British-Venezuela question. The trouble between France and Venezuela originated about four months ago.

Rubbed a Venezuelan Sore Spot.

A number of Europeans residing at Caracas united in a confidential note to their respective governments, in which they told of the lax condition of the gov-ernment and the tendency of the Vene-zuelan officials to avoid the settlement of just claims. The note was signed by the ministers of France, Germany, Spain and Belgium. The Italian minister did not sign it, but sent it to his government for "information." By mischance the "confidential" was omitted from the note and Italy published it with the signa-tures of the four ministers in the Italian "green book." Venezuela was thus publicly pilloried.

Doesn't Enjoy Her Isolation. She at once gave their passports to the French, Spanish and Belgian ministers, but the German minister had left before Vernon, passed through Jeffersonville, this indignity could be offered to him. By this step Venezuela was almost cut off from relations with the leading nations.

PATENT SUIT AGAINST CARNEGIE.

Uncle Sam Has a "Wad" Laid Away for Just Such a Case.

WASHINGTON, May 23.-The filing of a suit in Pittsburg by the French armor firm of Schneider & Co. against the Carnegie Steel company, to restrain the lat torn to pieces by the brutes. The mother ter from making armor from nickel steel of one of the boys witnessed the tragedy for the United States government without payment of royalty, on the ground of infringement of the patent held by the Schneider company, caused no surprise at the navy department, where some such of their process in treating armor plates

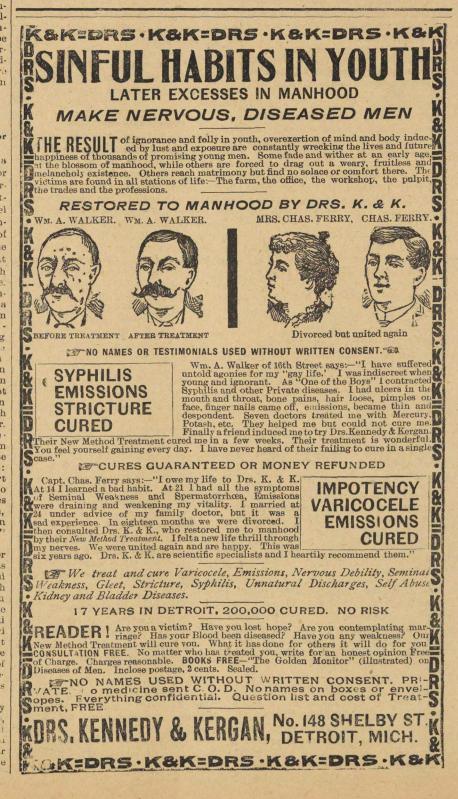

The navy department has gone on Children Cry for record (a most unusual proceeding) in declaring that the Schneider patent is not valid This was done at the time when the department made its contract with the Carnegie Company in 18.2 for armor. Among a lot of whereases and after a recital of the fact that certain parties claim to control the right to make armor plate containing nickel, was this language: "Whereas, The party of the second part

[the navy department] declines to recognize the claims of said patentees and pay the royalty demanded by them, said royaity being 2 cents per pound upon finished armor plates and appurtenances,

Nevertheless, to guard the contractor against just such a suit as this which has now been brought, the contract provided that money equal to the royalty on each plate accepted by the government should be laid aside in a depository, and in case a court of competent jurisdiction should find the patent invalid the money should be repaid into the treasury. So, as it stands, the Carnegie company cannot lose

The defense of the Carnegie Company will be based on two contentions: first, that the entire Schneider patent is invali because a simple alloy cannot be patented under our laws and because the particular properties of this alloy had been made outdoor labor of regular but not heavy character.

Why Your Back is Lame-Why it Aches and Pains, and How to Cure it.

Do you know what it is to have a back that is never free from aches and constant pain, a lame back, a sore back, an aching back, in fact, a back that makes your life a burden? What have you done for it? And does it still keep you from the happi-ness that perfect health brings to all? We a burden? know full well if such is your condition a cure for it will be a blessing you no doubt desire. Plasters won't do it, but doubt desire. Frasters won't do it, but may assist in bringing strength. Liniment won't do it; for, while it may give tem-porary relief, it does not reach the cause. The cause, there's the point; there's where to make the attack. Most backaches come to make the attack. therefore from disordered kidneys, therefore you must correct their action if you would be cured. Read the following from D. D. wish to say it is a truly great medicine. Thirty years ago I had nervous prostration while in the army, where I served for over four years. I think it was during this service that the seeds were sown which have caused all my trouble. Severe bilious attacks bothered me, and at such times my kidneys were worse. It is almost impossible to describe the pain which so often lamed me. I have been so lame that to stand up after I had been sitting down required a great exertion. Walking was at times an impossibility, even at night I did not rest, being forced to get up during the night. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and wondered if they could make an almost lame man well. I got some, and soon after taking them began to feel their good effects. I used them for some time, my lameness all left me and I have not felt it since. Doan's Kidney Pills have done me an inestimable amount of good. For sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. known to the world before the issue of the patent by the publication in the proceed. ings of the British Iron and Steel Institute of 1890 of a paper prepared by Professor Riley, an eminent British metallurgist. This publication had attracted the attention of the naval ordnance bureau before the French nickel steel p'ate was submitted for the celebrated trial at Indian Head in 1890.

The second plea of the Carnegie company is that they don't make their nickel steel in the manner prescribed in the formula of the Schneider tettent. As to the suit brought by the Harvey patentees against the Bethlehem company, it may be stated that the United States government is not involved.

OVATION TO COMMANDER GORDON.

Extracts from His Speech to His War Comrades-Winnie Davis Nearly Overwhelmed by the Great Rush to Greet Her_An Almost Indescribable Scene_ Historical Review of the War-Claim That the South Fought for Home Rule. HOUSTON, Tex., May 23.-One feature of the opening of the reunion of ex-Confederates here was the speech of General Gordon, of Georgia. He said in part: "Thirty years ago these ex-Confederates lost their fight for separate nationality, but Texas, victorious sixty years ago, was not more glorious and grand than were these brave men around me, in their overwhelming defeat. Texas, victorious, won her way to statehood and a place in the front rank of states. These Confederates, crushed and disbanded as soldiers, addressed themselves to the duties of citizens with a conservatism so conspicuous. a patriotism so true and broad, a fidelity to the decisions of battle so unquestioned and sincere as to challenge the confidence and esteem of patriots in every section of the Union.

Achievements of Ex-Confederates.

"This leads me to recall three remarkable achievements by these ex-Confederates in peace, which impartial history will pronounce a fitting climax to their splendid record in war. The first is the reconstruction, mainly through your instrumentaliry, of the labor system of our entire sec-You returned from a long, exhausvion. ive, and unsuccessful struggle to find the agricultural labor of your states not only lisorganized, but as a system (to the management and control of which you were born and trained) it was utterly destroyed. Yet you heroically undertook the task of its reorganization under a new system and of adapting yourselves to that new order.

Marvelous Exhibition of Self-Command. "The second is your astounding success in securing, in spite of the radical revolution in the conditions around you, and in so short a period, financial independence for your families and industrial prosperi-ty for your section. * * * The third achievement is the passionless, unostentatious and peaceful manner in which you laid aside the trapping and discipline of the camp for the modest grab of the citizen and silent restraints of civil government. For this marvelous exhibition of self-command under supremest trials. for this complete burial of all sectional bitterness * * * you will yet find your reward in the universal plaudits of your countrymen as it is already secured in the power, progress and cherished freedom of our reunited republic.'

Wild Euthusiasm Over Gordon.

There were 8,000 people in the auditorium and as many more outside unable to gain admittance. The jam was terrible. Wnen General Gordon rose to speak the band struck up "Dixie," but its strains could not be heard, so great was the din raised by the vocal demonstration given the beloved chieftain. At the conclusion of General Gordon's address, committees on credentials and resolutions were appointed and then General S. D. Lee, as chairman of the historical committee, read his report.

FACTS OF THE "UNPLEASANTNESS."

As Viewed from the Standpoint South of Mason and Dixon's Line.

This report is partly as follows: "The true cause of the war between the states was the dignified withdrawal of the southern states from the Union to avoid the continued breaches of that domestic on the north side, which steadily have tranquility guaranteed but not consum mated by the constitution, and not the high moral purpose of the north to destroy slavery, which followed incidentally, as a war measure. As to the war itself and the results of the war, the children of the future would be astonished that a people fought so hard and so long with so little to fight for, judging by what they gather from histories now in use prepared by writers from the north. They are utterly destitute of information as to events leading to the war. "Their account of the numbers engaged, courage displayed, sacrifices en-dured, hardships encountered and barbarity practiced upon an almost defense less p ople, whose arms-bearing popula. tion was in the army, are incorrect in every way. A people who for four long vears fought over almost every foot of their territory, on over 2,000 battlefields, with the olds of 2,864 272 enlisted men against their 600,000 enlisted men and blockaded and rivers filled their coasis with gunboats-with 600 vessels manned by 85, 00 -ailors-and who protracted the trugg o until over one-half of their soliers were dead from casualties of war the effects of his injuries. ad something to fight for. "They fought for the great principle of local self-government and the privilege of managing their own affairs, and for the protection of their homes and fire-While the south would detract not ide an lota from the patriotic motive and endenvor of those opposing them, she in-tends that the truth of history shall be written by a sympathetic and friendly pen, to give her credit for what our ancestors did and for what was done by the south in the war between the states. Also to chronicle the results of that war and its effects upon the south and upon our common country. "We cannot too strongly urge upon our people the great importance of avoiding as far as possible the purchasing and disseminating of books and literature which are unkind and unfair to the south, which belittle our achievements, impugn our motives and malign the character of our illustrious leaders. In conclusion we would respectfully recommend that Dr. J. L. McCurry, the patriot, states-man, philosopher and educator, be in-vited to deliver an address at our next annual reunion on the subject of slavery, nullification and secession, with special reference to the attitude of the people north and south to these three leading questions of American history." At the conclusion of this report so great was the din that adjournment was had until 7:30 o'clock p. m., and then Miss Winnie Davis, the "Daughter of the Confederacy," was introduced. A wild shout went up that fairly made the enormous building tremble. Never was there seen such a demonstration. Hats were flying in the air, gray-haired men were cheering and yelling completely drowning the music made by the band, which was playing the "Bor sie Blue Flag." It had been intended th . The masses of old veterans were so overcome with enthusiasm that a wild rush was made for the place where Miss Davis stood, and in an instant she was surrounded by a mass of men, all pushing pell-mell to grasp her hand and show how happy they were to meet her. Realizing the danger of such a crush Gov. Lowry and several others came to the rescue, extricated Miss Davis from the crush and placed her where she could be seen by all and bow her acknowledgments.

REPORTS OF A SHORT CROP

The Cause of the Persistent Rise in the Price of Wheat_Gotnam Excited.

CHICAGO, May 23 - Unmistakable confirmation of the reports of damage to growing crops and shortage of visible supply not only in this country but in every other country where wheat is grown got under the market and gave it such a boost as it has not had during all these weeks of excitement. Even before the market opened the advance had begun. At closing Tuesday evening the price for July was 735% cents; yesterday morning It was in the neighborhood of 75 cents, but it was on the rise and and did not stop until it reached 77 cents. There had not been so much excitement on the board since B P. Hutchinson ran the price up to $2, while the bears stood around "cussing" him.

The advance may be explained as the result of a strengthened belief in a short crop. For weeks reports have been coming in from all portions of the northwestern and central states of damage by frost advertised in huge black letters: and insects. From South America and Europe and Russia also reports came of short crops and limited supplies. All this was verified by the national crop report and that of Crop Expert Inglis. They both agreed that the damage done to wheat in Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and even New York had been underestimated, if anything. So wheat went up Prices on the curb after the close of the

NEW YORK, May 23 -- Intense excite ment prevailed in grain circles here, the transactions in wheat alone footing up to 34,000,000 bushels, making over 103,000,000 bushels for three days. As the market neared the close July wheat touched 80 cents. This price was greeted with loud cheers from the bulls The market closed manently cure any itchy disease of the at top prices.

HOW TO WIN IN 1896.

According to the View of a Colorado Silver Representative.

DENVER, May 23 - Congressman John F. Shafroth. Republican, who has just returned from Salt Lake, where he attended the silver conference as a delegate from Colorado, says if the Democrats put a free silver candidate in the field for president and the Republican party does not it will be the duty of the Republicans at Cincinnati- Joston 8, Cincinnati 21; of this state to support the Democratic at Louisville-Baitimore 11, Louisville 4; nominee unanimously and heartily. "The Democracy is a great national party," he added, "and has a foothold over the country that a new party would not have, and by working jointly the Republicans and Democrats of the west would have a great chance of carrying the day for their candidate.

"I believe in giving my own political party the first opportunity to keep us in the fold, but if it does not come out in its platform for free silver plainly and unmistakably and with no loophole left to crawl out of the position, then I am going to leave the party and vote for the candidate, no matter what his politics may be, who will support and carry out free silver principles. For these reasons I would have the delegates to the national conventions definitely instructed so that should the national conventions refuse to champion silver the delegations could leave the convention honorably and afterwards unite upon their own candidate.'

Flattering Himself.

The young lady from Boston had just met the young man from Chicago at the house of a friend, and as he had been represented to her as a very bright fellow she felt that she was going to have a pleasant talk with him. She led him along through an interesting little series of personal compliments to accustom him to the Boston manner, so to speak, and then she sprung Ibsen on him.

"Of course," she said after just a brief touch upon books, "you know Ibsen?" "Ibsen? Ibsen?" he repeated slowly as if in doubt.

"Yes. Henrik Ibsen."

"Um-um," and he rubbed his chin and contorted his face. "Does he live in Chicago?" "Why," she laughed, uncertain whether he was serious or only trying to quiz her, "of course he doesn't." "I thought not," he said in a tone of great relief. "I've only been in the business six months, but I rather flattered

IS ARGON THE LINK?

THE NEW GAS SEEMS TO EXPLAIN THE MYSTERIES OF SCIENCE.

It Causes the Wonderful "Aurora" and Rears a Curious Relation to Electricity. Heat and Light-May Be the Primal Cause of Life.

The aurora borealis has now been explained as the work of argon, the element in the atmosphere revealed to the scientific world only a few months ago, and savants are asking in amazement what further chemical discoveries are impending. Mysteries which for ages have puzzled men of science may, it is pointed out, find their solution in argon, a basic element hitherto unsuspected, which is destroying all the old laws and setting up new ones.

Who is to say where the frenzy of experiment which has now seized the scientific world over this new substance may not end?

Who can tell what revolutions are impending as the new gas is condensed and tested and as one scientist after another contributes the results of his work to the general knowledge?

But a few months ago and argon was unknown, and now the aurora, nature's noblest phenomenon and a never ending puzzle to scientists, is explained by its action. A few months or even weeks and clean. hence no one can tell what other mysteries may not also be solved, and from day to day the field is broadening in the and dropped into a seat directly opposite pathway of discovery along which the thoughts of the scientific world are now directed. A gas present in stupendous quantity has been found which reveals strange qualities and bears a relationship to light and heat that is yet mysterious. Without it human life would be impossible, and under its influence electricity is curiously affected.

Tested under the spectroscope, argon is found to have light giving qualities. It is also mysteriously affected by heat and cold. At these phenomena the men of science are astounded. Here, it is admitted, may be a discovery greater than that of electricity, more revolutionary in its effects than that of steam itself.

The primal and hitherto undreamed of cause of many of the forces of nature may at last have been unearthed. There is hypnotism, for instance, a strange, mysterious force, well recognized, but unexplained by known laws. Argon, it is suggested, may lie at the bottom of this scientific mystery. By breathing it into the lungs in greater or less quantity the human system may become charged with this new gas, which, having mesmeric influence of its own, may affect the wills of other individuals.

In medicine this new gas, which, condensed, looks like cheese, may play a most important part, yielding to the physician drugs and fluids of the greatest potency. It may cure diseases, refresh exhausted natures and be the veritable elixir of life which shall banish

ONLY A BUNCH OF VIOLETS.

But It Brought Happiness to a Little Cripple and Moisture to Many Eyes.

Seated in the corner of a Broadway car was a frail, little crippled boy, evidently an intense sufferer from a spinal disease. His head and the upper part of his body were inclosed in a network of steel and leather, and an iron brace was tightly strapped to the side of one of his legs. Poverty, too, seemed to be his misfortune. His clothing was of cheap material and bore the stamp of homemake. and in every fir zer of the black cotton gloves worn by his 15-year-old sister. who accompanied him, there was a hole. Her dress was patched in several places, and her hat was a thin straw affair, trimmed with a band of faded red ribbon, but withal she was wondrous neat

At Thirty-third street a handsomely dressed young woman boarded the car the pair. Tucked in the folds of her coat was a big bunch of fresh, double violets, tied with a long purple ribbon, and their fragrant odor at once pervaded the car. The little boy caught the scent, and at once his great brown eyes were thrown upon the flowers. Then he whispered something to his sister, who blushed and told him to wait awhile. Turning his attention again to the violets, the lad gazed upon them until his eyes grew bright and round, and every few moments he would draw an extra long breath, as if to take in all of the sweet perfume he could. Soon every one in the forward part of the car was watching him. From the look of admiration there grew in those brown eyes an expression of longing so earnest and deep that it made the heart thrill with sympathy.

The young woman, with changing emotions, glanced uneasily at the boy at intervals, and soon the power of those eyes and the soul they revealed overcame her. With a quick tug she drew the violets from her coat, and with a tear springing to her eye handed them to the boy, purple ribbon and all. Before the child recovered from his great joy she sought the platform and was

Nearly all the men sitting near by suddenly resumed interest in their newspapers, and some of them coughed. The women looked straight ahead through the glass, beyond the sidewalk and much farther than the obstructing show windows and doorways. It was not an earthly view that pictured itself to them: their vision was turned toward their hearts, into the tiny corner where fondest of all hopes and sweetest of sad memories were treasured.

HOW THE CHINA-JAPANESE TREATY THREATENS OUR WORKINGMEN.

Celestials Who Live on 5 Cents a Day Will Defy Competition-How Improved Machinery and Foreign Capital Will Influence Wages-Telling Figures.

Who can say what will be the effect pon the industries of this country if the cheap labor of China is employed in the manufacture of goods for the markets of this country? Who can predict the disastrous and ican workingman will be in the face of the competition of 400,000,000 Chinese, who can live on 5 cents a day?

dustrial and social conditions in this vestment of millions of American capital in the cheaper manufacturing centers of the Flowery Kingdom?

These are questions which sooner or later will confront the American workingman and capitalist if the China-Japan treaty goes into effect.

In that treaty lies hidden a menace to the workingmen of the world. It is a and consumes 1,200,000 pounds. Ninethreat to the industrious civilized white peoples of the earth, and one that to an economist or one thoroughly familiar with the labor conditions of the different nations is full of evil portent.

There are in China 402,680,000 of the thriftiest, hardest working, most inlustrious, most imitative and cheapest living people on the face of the earth. The ordinary Chinaman can in China live on 5 cents a day and can work 16 hours a day without fatigue.

If the wall which for centuries has shut in the hordes of Chinese by themselves, and, despite the efforts of wealthy capitalists of all nations, has prevented the introduction of modern machinery and methods, is now thrown down, it will give a virgin opportunity to millions of capital seeking investment, but it will sound the deathknell of the in- that could be assessed upon foreigners dustrial prospects of every man who today depends upon the restrictions of production, according to the laws of supply and demand.

The condition of peace quoted which Japan has imposed upon China means that Japan or any other nation, under what in modern treaty making is called the "favored nation clause," may put into the interior of China modern machinery and carry on commerce with the inhabitants. Under instructions, too, of Europeans or Americans, the Chinese will be in a position to begin the manufacture of every staple article of commerce that the world consumes.

Railways will be built through the country, the great rivers dredged and made navigable for ocean going steamers for hundreds of miles into the interior, facilities for marketing the produce of the country will be expanded and made to meet the needs the new condition creates. The product of cheap Chinese labor will be put upon the market at such a price that competition by any other people will be impossible.

As an instance of the ingenuity and adaptability of the Japanese to modern methods in manufacturing, as well as that of his foster brother, the Chinaman, with whom, by the treaty, he will be in offensive and defensive alliance and cooperation, it is only necessary to cite the fact that at an exposition now being held at Kimoro, Japan, the exhibits of Japanese manufactures of fibers, textiles, leather, machinery, upholstery, hosiery, hardware, surgical and scientific instruments, chemicals and glassware are offered at such prices that all possible competition is annihilated. The total exports of the United States in 1894 were $869,240,937. More than half of this, or, to be more accurate, fiveeighths, is subject to competition when China becomes modernized and her inhabitants become used to modern machinery and modern methods of manufacture and agriculture. Of course this may not be for years, perhaps 25 or 30 vears, but it will begin as soon as the Japanese-Chinese trade alliance goes family and himself on the wages he into effect. Our total imports in 1893 were $866,-400,922, and in 1894, a bad year, they were $654,994,622. In 1903 they are likely to be increased $100,000,000 by goods and staples from China alone. Last year the United States exported $5,858,488 worth of goods to China, of which $2,884,220 was in cotton goods for the year 1893-4 and the countries and $2,438,636 in petroleum. We imported from China $17,135,028-$7.-397,253 in tea. $3,163,684 in silk. $807 635 in matting and about $1,000,000 worth of skins and furs. Our exports to Japan were in 1894 valued at $3,981,-377. Of this $2,226,247 was in petroleum. Our imports were $19,426,522, over $10,000,000 being in silks and $6,000,-000 in teas. One of the peculiar features of the impending order of things in China is, the fact that the market in China for foreign goods will really never be much greater than it now is. The needs of To the Chinese are few and of the sort to which they are accustomed. The use of York World. luxuries in their everyday life will not become general perhaps for a century to come. In view of this fact there will be no demand in China for foreign mosa. The tea provinces are in the west and south. In these provinces also the mulberry tree grows in great numbers, and from Kwang-Tung, Sze-Chwan and Cheh-Chiang particularly most of the Chinese silk of commerce comes.

The principal countries to which China exported goods in 1893 and the value thereof in taels (a tael is a silver measure of value, about $1.33) are as follows:

Great Britain and Hongkong	.59,958,169
India	 . 2,735,478
United States
Europe (without Russia)	 .15,855,079
Japan	 . 9,387,975
Russia	 . 9,383,918

As an instance of how cheap labor hopeless condition in which the Amer- has affected the manufacture of cotton in England alone may be shown the enormous increase of the manufacture of cotton in India since 1863. It was be-Who can anticipate the changed in- gun in that year at Kurla, in the presidency of Bombay, and considered a country which will follow upon the in- doubtful experiment. Still it grew until at the present day there are in Bombay, Madras, Bengal, Surat, Brach and Ahmedabad over 2,500,000 spindles at work, producing cotton goods valued yearly at the sum of $150,000,000, consuming 2,700,000 bales of cotton. Of its manufactures of cotton India now exports yearly over 30,000,000 pounds ty per cent of its consumption was formerly manufactured in England, and as a result of the competition of India looms with those of England the cotten manufacturing business in the latter country was never so bad as it is at the present day. Perhaps one of the most important concessions, aside from the commercial privileges, which China has granted is the abolition of what is known as the 'likin'' tax, at d perpetual free transit for goods through the entire empire. The "likin" tax is an institution in China as old as its revenue system-in fact, it has for centuries furnished the interior towns with most of the revenue upon which they carried on their government. It finally became a local duty or tax or foreign goods by any province or municipality to such an amount and as frequently as the local authorities desired. Under the operation of the tax and the provision in it which perhaps caused the Japanese more trouble than any one else in recent years, for it was against them it was most rigidly enforced, a merchant shipping goods into the interior was liable to have them assessed for valuation and taxation by every municipality through which they passed. Frequently the tax was so heavy it became necessary for the merchant to pay the full value of his goods to have them released. The exaction of this tribute really amounted to an embargo on trade and kept traders out of the country. The rush of cap talists to take advantage of the conditions of the peace treaty has already begun. Chester A. Holcomb, for many years secretary of the United States legation at Peking and author of a book called "The Real Chinaman," is already on his way to China from Washington in the interest of a syndi cate of American millionaires. His mission is to obtain concessions and to pick out the most likely places and lines of trade or manufacture in which money can be invested.

He is but one of a hundred others on their way to China with a similar object in view, and they are from England, Germany, Russia and France, as well as from America.

death. Affecting the brain, it may excel opium or alcohol in exhilaration, and emotions like fear or love may be under its control. In explosive force argon may excel dynamite. Being lighter than air, argon may lift balloons to illimitable heights and cause men to fly. The cause of the aurora, it may dispel the night. It may be the essential principle of electricity, the potential force of energy or that missing link of seience, the primal cause of life.

These are few of the outcomes of argon which are now visible to the scientific mind as results attainable in the near future. No one can tell what discoveries are at hand while the news of argon's solution of the aurora is still fresh from the laboratory.

It was the eminent French scientist, Professor Berthelot, who sought to ascertain whether argon might not explain the aurora and whose work has now been crowned with victory. He says

"During experiments in passing electric currents through argon mixed with benzine I obtained splendid displays of colors similar in every respect to those of the aurora borealis. Testing these with the spectroscope, the identification . seemed fully confirmed. It will be necessary to investigate further with larger quantities of the new gas, but the results already obtained certainly suggest that the aurora borealis is caused by the action of electric currents upon the argon and other elements in the atmosphere. Electric Candles.

The electric candle is in great request in England for the lighting and decoration of dining and other tables. An ingenious device for lighting the candle is provided by placing small pads under the tablecloth and taking the current from them by means of two pin points in the base of the candlestick. The candles of course are extinguished on being taken from the table and are relighted when they are replaced in the proper position. They are so arranged that the bulb and glass imitation of a wax candle can be removed, when the candlestick can be used for any ordinary candle. When used with shades of colored silk, the electric candle makes one of the prettiest additions to a dinner table that it is possible to imagine. -Pittsburg Dispatch

All of the 19 provinces of China contain coal, and the country is regarded by authorities as one of the first coal countries in the world. The stores of tron and copper in the country are stupendous in extent, notwithstanding they have been worked for centuries.

China, too, is an agricultural country. Wheat, barley, corn and millet are cultivated in the north, where they grow in great quantities. In the south most of the rice is raised, and here cotton, wherever the effort has been made, has shown a marvelous liking for and adaptability to the soil and climate.
