A $9,000 INCREASE

SHOWING OF THE FIRST REPUBLICAN YEAR.

The Increase in State Expenses Matched by an Increase in County Expenses—The People Voted for Increased Expenses When They Voted the Republicans In.

The reform republican county administration start out in the regular republican fashion, by showing an increase in the county expenses. The increase is shown from the books of the county treasurer and is given in the table below fully itemized, so that the increase and decrease may be seen in each department of the county government and it may be seen just what the expenses are for. ### Choral Union Series.

One of the most prominent Boston musicians, after looking at the University School of Music's arrangements, the Frieze Organ and University hall, said to the writer that he was absolutely amazed at the development music had made here, and further stated that while he had formed exalted opinions of what had been done, he had no conception of it before. His expressions coincide with the opinions of all who have known of the situation here. Many of the greatest universities in the West are organizing along the same lines, while even conservative Yale has recently established a Department of Music and appointed regular professors in piano forte playing, voice and violin. Unlike many of these institutions we have been obliged to build up our enterprises by ourselves, not having, as they, in many instances, have, a large and wealthy community to rely upon. To be specific, Yale in New Haven and Harvard in Cambridge are so situated that concerts are readily available, because there are so many given every season as a matter of course in those cities. But the prices are higher than with us and they lose the enthusiasm which results from a "pull all together." We have built up our concert ourselves and have reason to feel pleased with our success so far, but it becomes more and more difficult each year to meet the demand for more and greater concerts at the same low prices. The Choral Union series this year gives us more and greater concerts while the price per concert remains unchanged. Ten concerts for $3. The fact that we can only seat a limited number of people in University hall, and the desire expressed by so many for reserved seats at the festival has induced the society to offer reserved seats at $1 extra, good for the five concerts of the festival. It is to be hoped that the supporters of the University Musical society will see to it that the financial result may encourage the society to seek some method of providing a larger auditorium, for that seems to be the only adequate solution of the problem. Nothing less will satisfy the needs of the society. Such a hall would make possible greater concerts, and more of them with no advance in the price of a season ticket.

Defeated by Harvard.

The U. of M. eleven was defeated in the game of football with Harvard, placed on the Soldiers' Field at Cambridge last Saturday. Harvard put the strongest men they had in for the game and played it for all there was in it. But for the fact of a rainy day the home the supervisors' committee, found attached to the supervisors' annual proceedings, and runs from October 1, of one year to September 30 of the next year, both dates inclusive, and shows the actual amounts paid out of the county treasury for county expenses and the items for which it was paid. From these figures it will be seen that the county expenses from October 1, 1893, to September 30, 1894, were $33,412.91 and from October 1, 1894, to September 30, 1895 they were $42,364.07, an increase of $8,951.16.

An analysis of these figures show that one of the main causes of the increase is in the sheriff's office, where the increase has been as follows: sheriff, $616.56; deputy sheriffs, $600.22; board of prisoners, $1,368.33; conveying prisoners, $118; conveying insane, $195.40, total increase of the expenses of the sheriff's office of $2,898.51.

The figures speak for themselves and are here given without comment so that each voter may read, think, and draw his own conclusions. The double column table given below shows the county expenditures for two years and the increase or decrease for each item.

A PRIVATE SNAP.

Public Office Evidently So Looked Upon and Summed Up

FROM GEN. SPALDING'S POLITICAL PERCH.

He Will Appoint His Son to West Point, Without Any Competitive Examination—"Wouldn't Disappoint George"—News of a Week.

Gen. George Spalding, of Monroe, who is about to demonstrate to his constituents of the second district whether he makes as good a congressman as he did a soldier, is in the city today, says yesterday's Detroit News.

"I will leave for Washington in 10 days," he said. "I suppose the first thing to do is to raise some money. This will be done, I think, by enlarging the dutiable list. Wool should be taken from the free list."

General Spalding thinks congress should not be in too much of a hurry to recognize the Cuban belligerents. It is better to be in possession of authentic information before taking a step that will not help Cuba very much and might prove embarrassing to this country. Something will be done surely, but it must be done with proper dignity and deliberation.

The second district cadetship at West Point becomes vacant next June and Congressman Spalding has shown a disregard for precedent by appointing his son George without holding a competitive examination. The young man has always had an ambition to go to West Point and his father could not say no to his appeal. It savors strongly of nepotism, but General Spalding justifies his action on the ground that the preference has come to be purely political and that it is left for the M. C. to say whether he shall appoint by preference or competition.

Gov. Ashley's Lecture.

Governor Ashley's lecture before the Unity club Monday evening was one of the finest by common consent ever given in Ann Arbor. It was in every way a remarkable lecture. The tenacity of its style, the power of its thought and the vigor of its delivery surprised the audience and especially those friends who realized the age of the governor and the fact that he is just recovering from a long and painful illness. Governor Ashley was an intimate friend and social companion of Mr. Lincoln, and he was able to bring his audience into touch with the curious personality of the great president as no person not intimate with him could do. As handled by Governor Ashley in his splendid lecture Lincoln seems to come back to earth and talk with us, telling us his unimpaired stories of the awful responsibilities which rested upon him, and revealing to us all the lights and shadows, all the joys and sorrow, which made up his strange and incomparable character. This lecture of Governor Ashley should be repeated in every city of the country. It will interest the old, it will recall to the middle aged in vivid colors, the events of the great struggle to preserve the honor and integrity of our country and inspire young men with a new enthusiasm for official integrity and unselfish patriotism. A volume has lately been published containing some of the speeches and addresses delivered by him in his early manhood and when he was active in public life. It contains nothing more finished as a literary production or more vigorous in style or more elegant in thought than the lecture upon Abraham Lincoln.

Death of James Clements.

Another time has death entered like a wolf upon the fold and taken from our midst a citizen respected and useful at home and abroad. James Clements' demise Tuesday evening at the family home on South State street, was even more sudden than was that of Mr. Bach. Like Mr. Bach's death, too, it removes a man who has become closely identified with the city and its progress—a man of sagacity, business prudence and abilities of a no mean order.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock Tuesday evening the daughter, Miss Mary, passed her father's room and heard him breathing heavily. For a day or two he had been ailing, but he had made light of an attempt of hers to secure the services of a physician. "It is only a slight indisposition," he had said and he thought there was no need of a doctor's care and dismissed the idea with considerable strength. When the daughter entered his room he was found to be unconscious and before the arrival of a hastily summoned physician death had claimed him.

The deceased was born in England and had resided in this city since 1858. He constructed the gas works here and afterwards performed a similar service for the cities of Bay City, Lansing and Port Huron, in this state, Leavenworth, Kansas, and St. Joseph, Mo. He became interested in business concerns in Bay City and was the promoter and chief stockholder in the Industrial Works there. It was from Bay City that he came last Friday night, feeling poorly and complaining that he was not in his usual rugged health. However, he attended a meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank Saturday night and was around about both Monday and Tuesday. He was an honorary pall bearer, too, at the funeral of Philip Bach last week.

The deceased was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, in which he had been a vestryman for many years. In politics he was a republican, but a firm supporter and admirer of President Cleveland. In 1864 he was elected to the legislature from this district by the soldier vote, which was afterward declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, and he resigned after two months' service.

Mr. Clements' wife died suddenly October 7, 1893, and he never fully recovered his spirits again. The family left to mourn a kind father's loss consists of W. H. and H. W. Clements, of Bay City, Mrs. Ida Wheat, of Leavenworth, Kansas, the daughter at home, Miss Mary Clements, and James Clements, jr.

List of Concerts, Choral Union Series.

- Nov. 19. Theodore Thomas Orchestra
- Dec. 2. Song Recital, Madame De Vere Sapio.
- Jan. 17. Elijah, Mendelssohn, Choral Union, full orchestra, distinguished soloists.
- Feb. 11. Achille Rivarde and Annie Lachauer.
- April 6. Theodore Thomas Orchestra.
- May. Third Annual May Festival; Five Concerts.

The first concert of the series will be held next Tuesday evening and the program for that evening is as follows: Overture and Dream Music, Hansel and Gretel, Humperduick Symphony No. 7 A major, Beethoven Overture "Genoveva", Schumann Symphonic Variations, Dvorak "Sarka" Symphonic Poem.

The first selection is an absolute novelty. The opera Hansel and Gretel has created the most absorbing interest throughout the musical world, and is the most important work of that nature since Wagner's "Parsifal." The Dream Music was played for the first time in Boston but seven days ago. The last number on the program is also new. Altogether it is a superb program. Prof. Stanley will give a talk on program on Monday, Nov. 18, at 4:30 p. m., at school of Music.

The Primary School Money.

The semi-annual apportionment of primary school money made by Supt. Pattengill Monday is the largest in the history of the state. The amount included in the apportionment is $576,578.44. The amount of the apportionment for Washtenaw county is $10,438.83, on the basis of 3 cents per capita for 12,571 children. It is divided among the townships and cities as follows:

- Ann Arbor town, 259 children, $214.97; Ann Arbor city, 3,132, $2,599.56; Augusta, 613, $508.79; Bridgewater, 319, $264.77; Dexter, 226, $187.58; Freedom, 446, $370.18; Lima, 275, $228.25; Lodi, 300, $249; Lyndon, 191, $158.53; Manchester, 661, $548.63; Northfield, 309, $256.47; Pittsfield, 301, $249.83; Salem, 557, $462.31; Scio, 545, $452.35; Sharon, 342, $283.86; Superior, 346, $287.18; Sylvan, 680, $564.40; Webster, 205, $170.15; York, 612, $507.96; Ypsilanti town, 301, $249.83; Ypsilanti city, 1,682, $1,396.06.

An Echo of the Clancy Case.

When Mrs. Edith Clancy ran away from her husband in Kalamazoo to join Patrick Boyle in Toledo, she left her eight years old daughter behind. Clancy, it will be remembered, followed the couple to Toledo, where he was struck on the head and returning to this city died here on his way home. The daughter has been provided with a good home, but the mother wants her and has commenced proceedings at Kalamazoo to secure possession of the child. When the case came up in circuit court at Kalamazoo Tuesday, it was shown that Mrs. Clancy beat and abused the little girl. Several girls testified that Mrs. Clancy was a morphine eater and to her actions while under the influence of morphine, and the judge decided that she was not a fit person to have charge of the little girl and refused to give it to her. The little girl refused to go to her mother while in the court room.

Six Horses Cremated at Ypsilanti.

About 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the barn of A. L. Yost, at Ypsilanti, burned. The barn was occupied by James Geraghty, a butcher, and six of his horses perished in the flames. A poultry buyer named Morse occupied sheds directly north of the barn and at the time of the fire had 500 live turkeys and 200 chickens in the shed. They were liberated and few were afterwards found. The fire communicated to J. P. Dickinson's axe handle store house and that was also destroyed, entailing a loss of $2,000.

Of Unsound Mind.

Judge Babbitt rendered a decision Tuesday to the effect that the late Geo. Moorman, of Ypsilanti, was not of sound mind when he executed his last will and testament on August 12 last. The deceased out off his own children and gave his estate, estimated at $100,000 in value, to his grandchildren. Moorman used morphine to allay pain during his last illness and physician testified that the effects would make him of unsound mind.

WASHTENAWISMS.

The secretary of state has issued 17,000 deer licenses, and still hunters clamor for more. As there is probably half that many deer in Michigan, the state is realizing handsome profits on the license law. It is a pity, however, to think of the large number of nimrods who will expend their cash and energy by shooting the air full of holes.—Toumsh Herald.

Saline is tough. The devil has been labored with for three weeks at a Methodist revival, but to no avail, and the meetings closed with just as many sinners in Saline as there were before they were begun.

O. M. Kelsey, of Saline, shipped six tons of turkeys to the eastern market in one day recently and distributed $800 to the farmers in the vicinity for the same.

The venerable Otto Schairer is the coiner of a new expression—"spontaneous ease of combustion." The break was made in the literature class. We have heard the Vassar girl tell about being "subordinated to the meteorological conditions of the atmosphere" or request a friend to "retire to the reverberating echoes of heaven's artillery," but we must have more of the context to solve "spontaneous ease of combustion.—School Notes in the Saline Observer.

Sunday afternoon a house owned by Frank Forner, situated about a mile and a half northwest from this place, was destroyed by fire. The house was near the one owned by Robert Leach, which was burned a short time ago, as was noted in last week's Standard, and Mr. Leach had stowed what few goods he had saved in the building, and was residing in the village. This fire finished the work of destruction commenced by the previous one.—Chelsea Standard.

The Ann Arbor Argus must have a blind man on its force, or else one who is not acquainted with newspapers. It credits a quarter column Press item to the Adrian Times. Now, if the Times would kick against it, we would not say a word. And a lot of papers which exchange with the Argus, and not with the Press will join in the robbery, and help in making the Times receive stolen property. No use going over to Ann Arbor to fight. Beakes would hide behind a postage stamp and Hammond is off peddling for a book trust, and it wouldn't be healthy to tackle the foreman or kick the office cat. Judge Kinne wouldn't do a thing to us in the court either, except to run us up against that big oak sidewalk tree, with a rebuttal and surre butter, and then mandamus. But, look here, Mr. Argus, just make that right or we will watch for you over here some day.—Adrian Press. Gentle reader, you can see how jealous of his fame as a humorist this man Stearns has come to be. We apologize—to the Times. It won't mind, perhaps, that we have disgraced it before the community at large by placing its name to one of the Press' "goaks." But we have! It is too late to mend the harm done now, but, before one and all, we do apologize most humbly for this innocent thrusting upon them of a son that does not belong to the Times. The shock to the Times must have been something terrible. Te dum, te dum!

Chelsea people groped around in the dark last week when the engine at the electric light station broke down.

A short time ago one of the young men who seem to have nothing to do except to sit around and look beautiful, so far forgot himself as to do several days' work. He received a check in payment and between the time he received the check and the time of cashing it, he raised the amount that it called for, so that he was ahead about seventy cents. The matter soon leaked out, and now he is known among the boys as "DeFrance." This is almost more than he can bear, and it is rumored that he has threatened to vomise.—Chelsea Standard. Must have been he "worked" the man who cashed the check.

A resident of Chelsea stole a rooster and some eggs. The China nest egg included, and his little boy's conscience pricked him so that he told the neighbor all about it. Now there is a coldness between the families such as grows up where confidence regarding chickens has been shaken to its very depth.

Dexter is agitating electric lights with a vengeance. Thos. Birkett is to put in a new engine for the Dexter mills and this would furnish power.

The Dexter Leader thinks that a good method to employ to keep the tramps out of the village this winter would be to insist on their taking a bath.

A number of our neighboring farmers formed a bee and drew 60 loads of gravel into Forest Lawn cemetery last Thursday, making a driveway around the new addition.—Dexter Leader.

Rev. W. P. Considine, rector of St Mary's church at Chelsea, will complete ten years of service this evening and the members of the parish will tender him a public reception.

Chelsea has a football team and will proceed to fill the village cemetery.

Chelsea's Relief Corps sent a $30 box of warm clothing last week to a family of six small children at Ecorse, Mich.

Dexter, now that it has its new concrete walks, will proceed to prosecute people who deface them.

Dexter's expectation of having electric lights reminds us of a story told by Bill Nye. Bill had tried about every thing for an accumulation of years of good living, which had culminated in that dull ache in the pit of the gastro-nomic territory. At length, driven to desperation, he quit the family physician and took a much advertised patent medicine and was cured. Being persuaded to write a testimonial for the cure he took pen in hand and dashed off the following poem in blank verse: "When I first took your medicine my lights were burning very low. Thanks to your invaluable remedy I now have electric lights."

Hickory and walnut trees in the county are reported to have borne well this year.

They have so forgotten the appearance of greenbacks at Chelsea that when a merchant gets a collection of bills they proceed to place them in a show window. Cashier Palmer last week had $1,105 in paper money thus arranged for public view—all confederate.

Ypsilanti has a benefactor in the person of Mrs. Mary A. Starkweather. On Tuesday she gave $10,000 for a Students' Christian Association at the Normal. The building will be two stories high, the first story of boulder stone, the second of red sandstone.

Cassius L. Hall, of Ypsilanti, has been granted a patent on a hose coupling.

People were getting in out of the wet Tuesday at Ypsilanti when the water main near the stand tower sprung a leak. Another Johnstown horror was very likely averted by a water works employe who happened to be near by and who succeeded in shutting off the stream. A large section of the new Normal training school was washed away.

Miss Frances Stewart, clerk at the Ypsilanti Normal, stood on a chair in order to light a gas jet. Her skirts were not of the divided kind and she stumbled and fell, and the prong of the jet passed entirely through the fleshy part of her hand.

PITH AND POINT.

The Adrian Press Said but Little About Washtenaw Last Week.

James Boyle is the North side supervisor at Ann Arbor, and for a few days past has had a little Boyle on his knee. He seems to rather enjoy it, too.

An Ypsilanti grocer named Meanwell advertises as a bargain some fine cider at 20 cents a gallon. It is pretty good cider that brings $2 per barrel of 50 gallons, and $10 for it at retail, gives an idea what profit there is in handling the "devil's kindling wood." That grocer may mean well, however, in his offer, but he is the son of a profit sure.

The Washtenaw board of supervisors hardly know what to do about the Snekey deficit as treasurer. They would like him to pay the "scauds" about $4,100, and they will not ask criminal prosecution. What kind of bonds do they give over in that county, anyway? What's the matter with suing the bondsmen? In the language of Caesar "et tu Brutey!! damnun sum."

Last Tuesday Conrad Krapp and Charles Spoor, of Ann Arbor, attained the fiftieth year of membership as Odd Fellows. The three links that bind them to the order are pretty well worn, and considerably lengthened, but Adrian lodge I. O. O. F. has living one of its charter members who became an Odd Fellow, January 25, 1845. Uncle Daniel D. Sinclair, the present chaplain of our lodge, leads the Ann Arbor brothers a little.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

Fun as Seen by the Monroe Democrat's Humorist.

Ypsilanti high school scholars clamor to the board for the use of the campus for foot ball recitals. They feel the humiliation of taking to a back lot and having a herd of Jersey calves mix in the game.

Jack Loney, a hackman, sued patrolman Armbruster of Ann Arbor, for false imprisonment. A jury returns a verdict of no cause of action. Loney is a very "jetty" negro. Thus, almost within the shadows of the oaks where the republican party was born, "civil rights" gets a smash in both eyes.

George Letter, whose case against Rev. Ryan for false imprisonment is still pending, has been arrested charged with selling unlicensed "jags" at the Washtenaw county fair. If convicted, he is likely—using a printer's term—to find himself a "lower case" Letter in the county jail.

Why does not the lighting committee of the common council see that the court house is properly lighted?—Washtenaw Times. Well, as we understand it, the dial has not been illuminated since a belated prohibition member of the council mistook it for the full moon and also asserted that the tower "wiggled."

A marriage license was made out for Dan J. Ross at Ann Arbor last week. Dan looked it over, jerked up the sag in his trousers, scratched the back of his ear reflectively, and then shoved it back to the clerk. "Course," said Dan, "course I'd like another wife or two, but you see, the present Mrs. Ross would make it very sulphurous for me. I only wanted a deer license."

Three hundred Ann Arbor students have pledged themselves to read one chapter in the bible each day, till they read it through. From the horrible attempts of some of the editors around Michigan's intellectual electric light station, to quote scripture, we feel justified in the opinion that they would discover considerable news by following the example of the 800 students.

A medic of the University, the other day, backed up against a dissecting knife sticking out of a pocket at the side of a table in the anatomical laboratory and is now the proprietor of a gash that may give him inconvenience in various ways, one of which may be a case of blood poisoning, as the knife had just been in use. Thus, in one way and another, is surgical information taken into the system.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining, of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

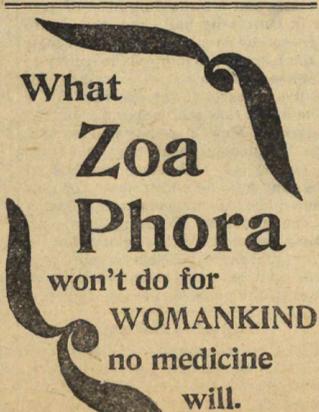

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, etc., free.

Nervous Prostration

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve.

Prolonged derangement of the nervous system not only affects the brain and mental powers, but develops disease in some of the vital organs. The most dangerous of these indirect results is when the heart is affected. This was the case of the Rev. N. F. Surface, Fawn River, Mich., who writes under date of Feb. 14, 1895:

"Fourteen years ago I had a slight stroke of paralysis. Overwork brought on nervous prostration. I was exceedingly nervous and the exertion of public speaking caused the heart palpitation that threatened my life. I used two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure for my heart trouble, and two of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve for my nervousness and feel better than I ever expected to feel again. I can speak for hours without tiring or having my heart flutter as it formerly did, and I have you to thank that I am alive today."

Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1895.

The republicans in the state increased the taxes considerably over a million dollars last year. The county expenses were increased over $9,000 this year over last.

General Harrison is being boomed pretty vigorously for president. There are any number of men in the republican race, including Morton, Depew, McKinley, Reed, Allison, Bradley, and many dark horses ready to spring in case of contest.

The showing made on our first page of the increase in county expenditures during the past year over the preceding year of about $9,000, is only another illustration of the difference between democratic and republican administrations.

General Spalding's first official act as congressman of this district indicates that he is no respecter of precedents. For many years it has been the custom in this district, as in most others, to award the scholarship in West Point, which belongs to the district, by competitive examination.

Mayor Strong had an odd visitor the other day, who wanted to present him with one million dollars and impart the information that the queen had made him a duke.

"I've brought that one million dollars," said the man, as he fumbled in his pockets.

"I've had the mayor made a duke." "A what?" asked the secretary.

"Shall I tell him myself? Better break the news gently. Tell him that the million will help him keep up appearances," said the man.

"My Dear Mr. Mayor: I have succeeded in having the queen appoint you a duke."

The mayor failing to rush out and embrace him, he sent the following note:

"If I am not seen, I will withdraw it."

Even this threat failed to bring an answer and Wilson went away angry.

Precious Metals.

The statistics regarding the movement of the precious metals present some points of interest. The exports of gold for the month of August, exclusive of ore, amounted to $16,667,261, an increase of over $11,500,000, as compared with those for the corresponding month of last year.

PAUL JONES' CAREER

HE WAS THE FIRST TO HOIST THE AMERICAN FLAG.

He Had a Peculiarly Fascinating Way with Sailors—A Tireless Letter-Writer and an Inditer of Verses to Women—A Noble Commander.

Miss Molly Elliot Seawell has a sketch of John Paul Jones in the Century in which she brings out many new facts concerning the great American naval commander. Concerning his early career, before the capture of the Scorpion, Miss Seawell writes: On December 22, 1775, was made the beginning of the American navy; and from this point the true history of Paul Jones begins.

He was then 28 years old, of the middle height, his figure slight, but graceful, and of a dashing and officer-like appearance. His complexion was dark and weather-beaten; his black eyes were expressive, but melancholy. His manners were easy and dignified with the great, but he was without doubt fascinating to women.

He was deterred by the greatness of the "Fair," as he called them when they pleased him, and made love to very great ladies quite as boldly as when with the wretched Bon Homme Richard he laid aboard the stout Serapis. He had a peculiarly persuasive way with sailors as with women; and if he wished to enlist a sailor would walk up and down the pier with him by the hour, and he never failed to get his man.

General Spalding's first official act as congressman of this district indicates that he is no respecter of precedents. For many years it has been the custom in this district, as in most others, to award the scholarship in West Point, which belongs to the district, by competitive examination.

General Spalding, in defiance of this custom, and without any examination, has appointed his own son, George, to the vacant cadetship. It is a fine thing to hold a public office if you can use it only for feathering your own nest.

We venture that if the general's majority had been 60 instead of 6,000 a competitive examination would have been held.

One Million Dollars for the Mayor. Mayor Strong had an odd visitor the other day, who wanted to present him with one million dollars and impart the information that the queen had made him a duke.

"I've brought that one million dollars," said the man, as he fumbled in his pockets.

"I've had the mayor made a duke." "A what?" asked the secretary.

"Shall I tell him myself? Better break the news gently. Tell him that the million will help him keep up appearances," said the man.

He wrote the following: "My Dear Mr. Mayor: I have succeeded in having the queen appoint you a duke."

ABOUT SHOES.

Care Is Required in Fitting Them to the Feet.

There is a threadbare joke about the woman who wears a No. 3 shoe on a No. 5 foot—a feat that is impossible in exact ratio to the antiquity of the story. There is a distinct limit to the squeezing capacity of any shoe, no matter what may be the endurance of the wearer.

The best authorities assure us that any one could have what sculptors call the perfect foot, a long, narrow one, if mothers would only begin, with the first shoes, to put their children in those that are a little longer than the foot, adding all the extra space necessary before the toes instead of at the sides, as they are for some unaccountable reason so prone to do.

The other day a woman who had worn her shoes so short that her feet had bumped themselves up at the instep in the most unsightly protuberances told a salesman who tried to persuade her to lessen the width and increase the length of a new purchase, that she was considered by her friends to have a "perfect Trilby foot."

The Chinese are not the only race who disfigure their useful extremities. They go systematically to work to accomplish their deformities, while our women do it by blindly ignoring the pedal space that nature has allotted them.

And (but of course this is a secret) we find, if shoe dealers are to be trusted, that women are not alone in this vanity. They declare that men commit the same folly of broad and short, and what is oddest of all, that country people are much more prone to it than city-bred men and women.

HUMOROUS.

"Help! Help!" cried the man who was being robbed. "Calm yourself," said the highwaman; "I don't need any assistance."—Town Topics.

Johnny—Papa, what does it mean when they say a man is 'his own worst enemy'? Papa—It generally means that he drinks like a fish.—Puck.

"He didn't have the sand to propose, did he, Bessie?" "Yes; but she rejected him. She said that while he had the sand to propose he didn't have the rocks to marry."—Harper's Magazine.

Lawyer—Have you formed an opinion on this case? Jurymen—Sir, "Do you think after the evidence on both sides is all in you would be able to form any opinion?" "No, sir." "You'll do."—New York Weekly.

Grumblers.

How full the world is of grumblers! Many of the same people who scold in summer because it is warm scold the next winter because it is cold. There is no point between zero and the nineties that suits them.

If it rains, all that is left to do is to put up our umbrella, if we are so fortunate as to have one, and trudge along. Wet feet and bedraggled skirts won't kill one any more than poverty and drudgery will, if there is something within us too sunshiny for poverty to cloud and too noble for drudgery to debase.

Loving Too Late.

Not long ago I met a young lady in poverty whom I had previously known in wealth, and this was in substance the story she told me: "Father died suddenly in Washington, and the professional skill through which he had coined money for us died with him. I am not weeping because we are poor. I am broken hearted because none of us saw that he was dying. Was it not pitiful that he should think it best not to tell any of us that he was sick? And I, his petted daughter, though I knew he was taking opium to soothe his great pain, was so absorbed by my lovers, my games and my dresses that I just hoped it would all come right. If I could only remember that even once I had pitied his suffering or felt anxious about his life, I might bear his loss better!"

The story is common enough. Many a father, year after year, goes in and out of his home carrying the burden and doing the labor of life, while those whom he tenderly loves hold with but careless hands all of honor and gold he wins by toil and pain.

No Cause For Alarm.

He (gently)—Are you not afraid some one may marry you money? She (sweetly)—Oh, dear, no! Such an idea never entered my head.

He (tenderly)—Ah, in your sweet innocence you do not know how coldly mercenary some men are. She (quietly)—Perhaps not.

He (with suppressed emotion)—I would not for the world have such a terrible fate happen to you. The man who wins you should love you for yourself alone.

She—He'll have to. It's my cousin Jennie who has the money, not I. You've made some mistake. I haven't a penny.

He—Er—very pleasant weather we're having.—Boston Globe.

Spotted Cigars.

There is a tradition among cigar smokers, which finds more or less credence, to the effect that spotted cigars are the best. To meet the demand for spotted goods some manufacturers use diluted sulphuric acid, which, being liberally sprinkled on the tobacco to be used for wrappers, gives the desired speckled appearance.

In the Future. Mrs. De Fashion (about leaving the children's party)—Marie! Nursegirl—Yes, n. a. m.

Mrs. De Fashion—It's time for us to go home. Which of these children is mine?—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Sowing and Reaping. Here is a thought from Sir Frederick Leighton: "Whatever littleness degrades our spirits will lessen them and drag them down. Whatever noble fire is in our hearts will burn also in our work. Whatever purity is ours will chasten and exalt it, for as we are so our work is, and what we sow in our lives that beyond a doubt we shall reap for good or ill in the strengthening or defacing of whatever gifts have fallen to our lot."

A Practical Husband. Surely the Monmouthshire man who caused his wife's wedding ring to be inscribed, "If he doesn't work, thee shasn't eat," was determined that there should be no mistake in what he required in a wife.

In putting in the State street sewer the excavation did not make proper connection possible with the residences of M. L. D'Ooge, A. H. Pattengill, F. C. Wagner, Isaac N. Demmon and Sarah M. Gardner. In a petition these parties claimed to the council that the fall given them was only about three thirty-seconds of an inch, while the rules of the board of public works provide for a fall of one-fourth of an inch. The sewer committee looked over the matter yesterday, took no steps, but will very likely make, report to council advising that the sewer be made worth something to the petitioners. The work will entail an expense of about $300.

Hill, of Detroit, Mrs. Marion Johnson, of St. Paul, Minn., Hale Bliss, of Chicago, and Munson Bliss, of Kansas City.

Last week the Woman's League was formally admitted to membership in the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs. Miss Soule, the league delegate, presented the cause of the woman's gym, to the federation in the hope of securing funds from the various clubs there represented. Much enthusiasm was shown for this cause as presented, and efforts are now being made through Miss Soule to realize substantial benefit from the federation. Eleven hundred dollars have been pledged for the establishment of a professorship for women here by the federation, but it was hoped that this sum might be diverted from its original purpose to the women's building, which is now our most pressing need. Mrs. Stone, of Kalamazoo, is an influential supporter of this new plan.—U. of M. Daily.

Roy Parsons, '97 C. E., has returned to college after a two weeks' illness at his home in Howell.

Santanelli, a hypnotist, holding forth at the opera house this week, hypnotized a boy Tuesday night so that he will sleep, Santanelli claims, until Saturday night. A watch of students is kept over him to see that he gets nothing to eat. Some people think it is a fake, while others are firm in their belief that the boy is remaining in slumber all this time. Mr. Louis Boes, parochial teacher of the Zion church parish, and Miss Anna Lutz were united in marriage at six o'clock last evening at the Zion church. The church was handsomely decorated in honor of the event. Miss Boes, sister of the groom, and Miss Amanda Lutz, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids, while Karl Kern and Wm. Gauss acted as best men. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Max Hein. The newly wedded couple commenced house-keeping at once in the house already for their reception, at 24 West Second street. The groom has been parochial teacher of the Zion church for six years and the bride is a well and favorably known young lady.

The Appearance of "Tribby." Probably the most noteworthy attraction of the season at the opera house will be the appearance on Monday evening of A. M. Palmer's Madison Square company in the much talked of, highly lauded dramatization of DuMaurier's "Tribby." No book has sold like "Tribby" in years, no book touched a more general chord and the dramatization is said to be a most perfect reproduction of Taffy and the Laird, Little Billie and the immortal barefoot. Palmer has several companies on the road and the one coming to Ann Arbor is considered equal to any of them.

Mr. Gladstone's Postal Cards.

A few years ago Mr. Gladstone was seized with a mania for answering on postal cards all communications addressed to him. His reply to requests for an opinion were so delightfully non-committal, that the recipient of the postal was never any the wiser as to the great statesman's views. For instance, Mr. Gladstone was once asked what he thought of the use of tobacco. Forthwith on a postal came the following: "While some persons consider the use of tobacco to be exceedingly injurious to themselves and offensive to others, not a few persons consider it an innocuous and delightful indulgence. What do you think about it?" These quasi-palindromes on Gladstone's pen were all much alike and created such fun that they were eagerly sought for. The old gentleman has for some time ceased this manner of correspondence, but the enterprising swindler in London, who has been flooding this country with Gladstonian postals, must have made a rich harvest. He netted $3 a piece for them. It may have been that Mr. Gladstone's studied care not to express an opinion was due to the fact that he expected an imposition of this nature would arise. St. Augustine dubbed Cicero "a weigher and measurer of words." But give the wonderful sage of Hawarden a postal and he can discount the great Roman orator at his own game.—Philadelphia Record.

Caterpillars and Eye Diseases.
It will come as a surprise to many of our readers that caterpillars are responsible for an affection of the eyes which may entail prolonged suffering and even result in serious damage to vision. That such is the case has been abundantly proved by a number of instances on record in which more or less intractable inflammation of the eyes has been found to be associated with the presence of hairs which, after removal, have been identified as belonging to the genus caterpillar. At a meeting of the Ophthalmological society a case was related in which a lad was struck in the eye by a caterpillar thrown at him by a playful schoolfellow. He picked up the insect to examine it, and the hand which seized it became red and developed papules and other indications of local irritation. A day or two later the eye became the seat of what proved to be a very troublesome inflammation, associated with the presence of rounded elevations due to an accumulation of cells around the imbedded hairs, which were subsequently discovered and removed.—Medical Press.

Marvelous Results.
From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Does a Deer Challenge?
I will try to reply to your question, "Does a deer challenge?" In the Lake Superior region it is not an uncommon thing to hear a buck whistle, as we call it. He may be following the trail of another buck, or may be only disturbed by the hunter. The sound is somewhat like escaping steam, but shrill and loud enough to be heard from a fourth to a half of a mile. I have known one, after being slightly wounded, to take cover in a dense swamp and repeatedly send forth his angry challenge. The sound is, I think, produced by the throat and mouth and would require the head to be elevated and mouth slightly open. I am of the opinion that this is the only note of anger or warning that the white tail deer gives.—Forest and Stream.

Hood's Is Wonderful
No less than wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescriptions have failed. The reason, however, is simple. When the blood is enriched and purified, disease disappears and good health returns, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

The Luxurious Romans.
The Romans had no flower show. There were "bread and circuses," but not bread and flowers. The luxurious Roman used roses in enormous quantities at his banquets. It was a fine joke to have roses fall from above on guests, reclining at their tables, and the flowers in such quantities as to smother them. A writer in The Quarterly recalls a picture of Alma Tadema's "The Rose Feast of Elagabalus," which shows the superabundance of roses. To spend on a banquet in roses 4,000,000 sesterces, equivalent to about $160,000, is recorded by Suetonius, but possibly Suetonius exaggerates.

No Humbug.
Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma. A Dinner at Solon Chase's.
D. A. Boyle of Bedford tells the following: "I remember once when Senators Frye, Hale, John D. Long of Massachusetts, Delamater of Illinois and several others were at Turner fishing and called on Uncle Solon Chase. Hale, by the way, used to go to school to Chase somewhere in that neighborhood, and Long, I think, was born down there. Well, they all happened to call on Chase that day, and he invited them to his house for dinner. He had a housekeeper whom we all called the hired girl. She was a strange old soul and subject to 'tantrums,' Chase called them. "Of course she managed to have a 'tantrum' on this particular day, and when Chase got his company down to the house the girl refused to get dinner, and the only things eatable in the house were baked beans and blueberries. But that didn't bother Solon very long. We set the blueberries and the beans on the table, and then Chase made a little speech of welcome, winding up by saying, 'Gentlemen, I guess what's good enough for me is good enough for you. Let's eat.' They did eat and had fun enough over that meal to make it digest well, you bet!"—Lewiston Journal.

A Feline Mourner.
I had a little dog, a Skye terrier, and some time after he came to my house a wandering cat was added to the establishment. He was very kind to "Bessie," as we called our new inmate, and watched over her with great care, never allowing her to go out by the front door, but pushing her gently in when she attempted it, but they had many a romp together in the back garden. My dog died at the good old age of 13, and the cat mourned him like a human being, losing all her liveliness and moping about the house.

About a year after the dog's death I desired the gardener to put turf over his grave, as the house was let, and I feared strangers might dig there. To do this he began to level the earth over the grave and whenever the cat saw him digging there she got into a most excited state, frisking about in the wildest spirits, evidently expecting that her kind companion was to be restored to her. Her disappointment when he never appeared was trying to witness, and she has been a "sadder and a wiser" cat ever since, doing her duty faithfully by the mice, but apparently expecting little pleasure in life.—London Spectator.

Bicycle Superstitions.
Folks open to the influence of signs, omens, etc., should read the following list of bicycle superstitions, compiled by the Minneapolis Journal: "1. The wheelman who allows a hearse to pass him will die before the year is out. 2. To be chased by a yellow dog with one blue eye and one black eye indicates a bad fall. 3. To see a small boy with a slung shot beside the road is a prophecy of a puncture. 4. If you pass a white horse driven by a red-haired lady, your rim will split unless you say 'cajan-drum' and hold up two fingers. 5. The rider who expectorates tobacco juice on the track will lose a spoke. 6. If you take your machine to the repair shop, it is a sign that you will not buy that new suit of clothes. 7. Kicking the man who asks the make of your wheel is a sign of high honors and riches within a year. 8. Lending the wheel is the sign of the double donkey. 9. To attempt to hold up a 275 pound woman learning to ride is the sign of a soft spot."

Polyglot Signs.
The array of signs rendered necessary where people of various nationalities congregate often confuses one not familiar with the foreign languages, especially when the person is not aware that they all mean the same thing. On a door leading into one of the local sugar refineries are the following inscriptions: "No Admittance." "Der Eintritt ist Verboten." "Verbodner Ginzang." "Nie Wchodzic." There is still another collection on board the Red Star line steamships sailing to Antwerp. There is of course no smoking except on deck, and each stateroom is provided with the following signs: "No Smoking." "Niet Rookten." "Defense de Fumage." "Nicht Rauchen."—Philadelphia Record.

CAME OVER WITH A CONVICTION.

Arrived in New York with the Preconceived Idea That the Defender People Were Going to Play a Trick on Him—Why Jabez Spencer Balfour Skipped Out—Russia and Turkey—Other Old World News of General Interest.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Headed "Should Dunraven Apologize?" the St James Gazette publishes a leading article in which it again severely criticises his lordship. It says:

"Lord Dunraven arrived in New York with the preconceived idea that the Defender people were going to play this trick upon him and having expected it was going to be done he found an easy way to convince himself."

Let Him Prove It.
The article concludes: "Let Lord Dunraven return to New York and assist the New York Yacht club committee in its investigation. If he can prove it we know the Americans well enough to believe that they will acknowledge he has been wronged. If he does not prove it the accuser owes Mr. Iselin and others a very handsome apology. Otherwise we are afraid that most people will think that temper and mortification betrayed him into behaving rather badly."

The Yachting World says that British yachtsmen "will want more than merely idle assertions before they disbelieve Lord Dunraven," and adds: "The whole history of the cup contests is one of jugglery upon the part of the Americans who are not the best of sportsmen."

WHY BALFOUR SKIPPED.

City Financiers Advised Him to Seek a Haven in South America.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The trial of Jabez Spencer Balfour, accused of frauds in the Liberator Building and Loan society and other similar organizations, was resumed with the opening for the defense, Balfour's lawyer making an ingenious attempt to mitigate the effect of his client's absconding to South America. On behalf of Balfour he made an apology for the defendant's having left the country. It was a very foolish move, but he only did so upon the advice of prominent financiers. Balfour, he said, was now a broken and ruined man, deserving sympathy rather than condemnation.

St. Petersburg Press Advocates a Protectorate Over Turkey.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 14.—Lord Salisbury's speech at the Guild hall has produced an electrical effect here. It has brought about the universal expression of opinion that the powers must intervene with joint action in Turkey. The Novosti says:

"In order to avoid war the powers must establish a protectorate over Turkey. The Mohammedans, Kurds, Syrians, and Cretans are rising in various parts of the empire and Turkey is hurriedly calling out her reserves." The Novoe Vremya, in a long article on the situation, speaks of the power of the Turkish army being great by reason of its fanaticism and its being organized by German officers.

It says that Russia must be equal to the occasion, one of the necessities being the concentration of 60,000 troops at Erzerum to begin with.

BAYARD AT DUNDEE.

Given the Freedom of the City and Open the Art Exhibit.

DUNDEE, Scotland, Nov. 14.—United States Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard was presented with the freedom of this city by the civic authorities. In accepting it he said that no duty was so grateful to him as that of representing international comity between two great civilized people. He desired to see a clear understanding between citizens of such countries.

In time of peace they should do everything possible for the good of each other without self injury, and in time of war they should do each other no more harm than was needful for their self-respect. During the afternoon Mr. Bayard opened the fine art exhibition here, and in so doing referred to the catholic character and refining influence of art, which was open free to all and brought mankind within a common brotherhood.

Irish National Federation.

DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—There are 100 delegates present at the meeting of the Irish National Federation called to consider the resolution expelling Mr. T. M. Healy from that organization. This is a result of the charges of treachery which Mr. Healy made against the Irish parliamentary party at the Nationalist convention at Omagh, County Tyrone, in July last, when he accused Mr. John Dillon of selling Tyrone to the English party. The motion of Mr. Healy to admit representatives of the press to the meeting was rejected. Mr. Healy was recently removed for the same cause from membership in the executive committee of the Irish National league of Great Britain.

Cubans Dissatisfied with Maceo.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A dispatch to The Telegraph from Madrid asserts that the Cuban insurgents are becoming dissatisfied

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Prince Christian Victor of Schlesweig-Holstein, eldest son of Princess Helena of Schlesweig-Holstein, second daughter of Queen Victoria, is to accompany the British expeditionary force which is to start for Coomassie, the capital of Ashanti, the purpose of which is to coerce the King of Ashanti into recognizing the British right to maintain a resident agent in his country. The prince was born in 1867 and is a lieutenant in the rifle corps.

EX-CONGRESSMAN ARRESTED.

Edward Wemple of Fultonville, N. Y., Charged with Incendiarism.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Edward Wemple, ex-state senator, ex-congressman and ex-state comptroller, was arrested at his home in Fultonville on the charge of attempting to set fire to the residence of Hubert H. Fonda, in Fultonville, on the evening of Nov. 10. A basket, filled with shavings, saturated with kerosene oil, was placed against a rear door and set on fire. The fire was discovered and extinguished in time to save the building.

Wemple is also charged with having set fire to the Wemple foundry, which was burned a month ago, and with causing other incendiary fires in Fultonville. He spent a fortune in politics and contracted habits which led to his downfall. He took treatment for dipsomania, but failed to derive benefit from it. His friends claim that his strange actions are due to his being mentally unbalanced.

The Great Corn Crop in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Nov. 14.—Secretary Coburn, of the Kansas board of agriculture, has issued his final crop report for the year. The item of foremost interest is the yield of corn. The secretary says: "The yield for this year, with one exception, is greater than any previous year in the state's history and ranks Kansas one of the four banner corn states of the world. The total product is 201,457,396 bushels, an average yield on the entire area planted (8,394,871 acres) of twenty-four bushels per acre. The average price to the farmer is 18 cents a bushel."

AN ACCIDENT.

Mr. Quintus Hummel, of 118 Michigan Ave., Detroit, tells a War Story of his own Experience, and the Result.

(From Detroit News.)

Our representative called at 118 Michigan Avenue, the residence of Mr. Quintus Hummel. Mr. Hummel is a veteran of the late war, and received, in the campaign, an injury which has given him much pain and suffering since. He belonged to a Michigan cavalry regiment and his horse becoming frightened one day reared up, throwing him backward. In falling he struck his spine on a sharp stone, inflicting a deep cut over five inches long. The injury affected the kidneys. About two years ago the left kidney started to bleed, and has been doing so ever since. Mr. Hummel, in a few pointed sentences, gave our representative the following account: "The accident of my 'war days' left me in bad shape; pain in my back and spine rendered me almost useless, and I was compelled to give up work entirely. I could not turn over in bed without assistance. I have spent hundreds of dollars in various ways trying to find relief. Physicians have told me my spine was honey-combed for 13 inches. I had given up in despair, never hoping for relief, when a friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, and they have done me a world of good. The pains have disappeared from my back, and the bleeding of my kidney has almost entirely stopped. I know I can never be entirely cured, as I would have to be a new man, but Doan's Kidney Pills have done more to make me feel like 'a new man' than all the other things I have tried during past years. I have not had any recurrence of the pain or bleeding since taking them."

AT THE MERCY OF A CATARACT.

Perilous Adventure of an Acrobat Over the Niagara Falls.

"I was wretty near heaven for half an hour," said H. C. Prentice, the acrobat.

Acrobat Prentice's remark just quoted was the prelude to the story he told the Buffalo Express reporter of his adventures while viewing Niagara falls for the first time.

Mr. Prentice and Thomas Adamson went to the falls, and they tried to keep together as they went from point to point viewing all the famous spots about the cataract. They spent an hour or so in viewing the falls from above, and then they put on rubber suits and started below. They went down the elevator and then down the stairway to the rocks. After a time they concluded that they had seen all that was to be seen below, and were upon the point of returning when Prentice told Adamson to go and ask one of the guides if there were anything else to be seen down there. Mr. Adamson turned about and went to hunt for the guide. He was gone about five minutes, and when he came back his friend Prentice was missing. Adamson was puzzled at the disappearance of Prentice. Adamson had spent about half an hour looking for Prentice, when the news reached him that his companion had been found down between the rocks up to his neck in water. In a few minutes after this news reached Adamson he was joined by Prentice, who told of his experiences after Adamson had left him to look for the guide.

Mr. Prentice said that after Adamson turned back he thought he would walk down into a gully between the rocks. He noticed that it was comparatively dry there. He was therefore considerably surprised soon after he got down into the gully to have a stream of water two feet deep and moving with great violence strike him in the back of the legs. The stream was so strong that it staggered him, and to avoid being swept from his feet and carried on into the river he crouched down in an angle of one of the rocks, with his back to the torrent and braced himself to resist the power of the stream that had cut off his line of retreat. He had hold of the edge of the rock with his hands and he did not dare to let go for fear the current would sweep him out from behind the angle. He yelled for help, but the noise of the water drowned his cries. At one time he looked over the edge of the rock and saw the Maid of the Mist 100 feet away in the river. He shook his head, hoping that the passengers on the little boat would notice the motion, but no one saw him.

After he crouched down behind the rock the water washed over his body up to his neck. He was on the point of giving up when a stranger who had also come down to the rocks saw him and notified the guides. Prentice was hauled out with a pole. The stream of water that surprised him came from a millrace that is closed part of the time.

You ought to know that when suffering from any kidney trouble that a safe, sure remedy is the Clinic Kidney Cure. Guaranteed or money refunded.

BATTLESHIP TEXAS.

Bottom Frames and Brackets Badly Buckled.

CEMENT LINING IS ALSO CRACKED.

Belief That the Vessel Was Too Lightly Built to Stand Her Own Weight While in Dock—General Contents of the Report Submitted by the Commission, Examined into the Nicaragua Canal Scheme—Washington News of Interest.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—There is trouble with the battleship Texas. She is in dry dock at New York and last week it was reported to the navy department that two of her steel frames were strained. By direction of Commandant Searce, Constructor Bowles made an examination and he reported that the Texas was resting easily and supported thoroughly in all respects. Still, as a measure of precaution, six feet of water was let into the dock to lighten the load on the keel blocks. On the 11th inst. further straining of the ship was reported and then the dock was flooded to a depth of eleven feet, as far as the water could be admitted without danger of disturbing the position of the Texas on the blocks. Commandant Searce called for a detailed account of the injuries sustained by the ship, and in return received from the constructor a report stating exactly and by number the injured frames and where they were located.

THE BATTLESHIP TEXAS.

Department Not Satisfied. This report was transmitted to the navy department with the statement by the commandant that no delay in the work then in progress on the ship would ensue and that the straining appeared to be due to the weight of the ship on the keel blocks. The department was not altogether satisfied and has now called for still further particulars regarding the report so far made as preliminary. It appears from these reports that about twenty-one of the bottom frames and brackets of the Texas are buckled from a quarter of an inch to an inch and a half, while the cement lining of the double bottom cracked in many places. Whether it will be necessary to undertake to repair these frames and remove the dents in the bottom cannot be told until a further examination is made, and to do this it may be necessary to remove all of the weights of the ship in order to draw off the eleven feet of water safely, otherwise the strains might again become excessive and irreparable injury follow.

Plans Purchased from England. In the absence of full details, which must in the end be gathered by a special board, the department officials are not disposed to place the blame for the accident upon Constructor Bowles, as he has the reputation of being one of the best dockmen in the navy. Instead, there is a belief that the Texas was too lightly built to stand her own weight while in dock, and if this should be the case it would cost a large sum of money and much time to straighten the hull. The vessel was built on plans purchased from England, and it is said that the department officials were of the opinion from the first that they were defective, in that too much in strength had been sacrificed in order to save weight and make the vessel float at the calculated displacement.

ROUTE FOR THE BIG CANAL.

General Contents of the Report Submitted by the Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Trustworthy information has been received as to the contents of the report of the commission which examined into the feasibility and cost and recommended a route for the Nicaraguan canal. The report is in the hands of the president, who is using it in connection with his work on his annual message to congress. The report indicates that a canal across the isthmus via the Nicaraguan route is entirely feasible from an engineering point of view. The cost of the project, as estimated, is $110,000,000, but it is stated this sum is too small by some millions.

The commission was nearly three months engaged in the survey work. The route as proposed by the commission is 173 miles long, or three or four miles longer than that which the canal company proposed. The commission made surveys to the right and left of the company's route and has suggested some changes which it believes will be advantageous. The commission's waterway will be supplied with locks. The San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua will be employed, but the former will require considerable dredging. The lake is fifty-six and one-half miles across from the San Juan to the mouth of the Lajas.

Some dredging will be required on the west coast of the lake, which is shoal for a distance of something like 1,350 feet. Brito will be the western terminus of the canal more than seventeen miles. The estimate has been made that in order to complete the canal which the commission proposes, six years will be required, and in order to finish it within that time a force of 20,000 men will have to be constantly employed. The commission also went to Panama and made a survey of the route there, and also refers to this project in its report.

Germany's Express.

The empress of Germany fully shares the military enthusiasm of her husband, as was demonstrated at the close of the maneuvers at Stettin recently, when she appeared as colonel of the cuirassiers of Queen Louise, a regiment of which she has been the honorary commander for some years. In a very soldierly uniform, a white cloth habit, with scarlet facings and gold lace on collar and cuffs, and mounted on a splendid charger, she rode at the head of the regiment, leading it first at a trot, then at a gallop before the critical eyes of the kaiser, the emperor of Austria and the king of Saxony.

Mrs. Kendal.

At the recent wedding of Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, to a son of Captain and Mrs. Bancroft, also of stage renown, it is reported that "Mrs. Kendal, magnificently attired in pale mauve moire, officiated energetically." Mrs. Kendal's American audiences will be inclined to think she certainly did.—New York Times.

Cavalry Held in Readiness.

DISASTERS ON THE RAIL.

Three Wrecks in Which Seven Persons Lose Their Lives.

ARLON, O., Nov. 14.—A wreck on the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling railroad at Warwick, fifteen miles south of here, resulted in the death of two men. The engineer of a freight train on stopping whistled for a flagman to be sent out. The conductor, Charles Ernst, and brakeman John Adams were asleep in the caboose and did not hear the signal. A second section ran into the first at twenty miles an hour. Both Ernst and Adams were killed. The money loss will be $10,000.

SUMMIT, N. J., Nov. 14.—Four cars which were being drawn up a steep grade on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway, near Short Hills, broke away from the locomotive and ran back at great speed, crashing into a locomotive of a newspaper train which was moving forward at a good rate. The engineer of the newspaper train was killed and his fireman badly injured.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14.—A dispatch from America, Ala., reports a disastrous wreck on the Southern road at that place. There was a collision between a work train and a train loaded with coal. Tony Cunningham, Mose Maghee, Luke Bales, Sam Franklin, all laborers on the work train, were killed. Engineer Matthews of the coal train, Firemen Phillips and Sewell of the same train and Andrew Townsend and Pink Williams of the work train were seriously hurt.

Colorado Springs Robbers Are Apparently Lost in Rocky Mountain Atmosphere.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 14.—Notwithstanding the utmost efforts on the part of the police, county and Wells-Fargo secret service officers, together with the county bloodhounds, not even a shadow of a clew has been secured of the two robbers who so successfully held up Night Express Agent Kroust of the Wells-Fargo Express company Monday night at the Santa Fe depot and relieved him of $20,000 in currency and only by pure accident missed securing another package containing $35,000 more.

Beyond the fact that both men wore crude gummy masks and wore of small stature, Agent Kroust is apparently too scared to remember anything, and it is doubtful if he could ever identify their voices.

Ex-Senator Spooner Injured.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 14.—While crossing the Columbia river on the transfer boat ex-United States Senator Spooner fell from a carstep, his abdomen striking a projecting rod. Killed by the Deadly Wire.

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 14.—Michael Carroll, aged 33, a single man, was electrocuted here. He climbed an electric light pole to adjust telephone wires, and caught hold of a live electric wire. He fell and hung on a cross-arm, where he bled to death in the presence of several hundred people. The fire department was called out and with the aid of the hook and ladder company removed the body to the earth.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14.—Near Lafayette three drunken employees of the stove factory of Longbrook Creek attacked Captain F. G. MICHIGAN'S PURE FOOD LAW.

Commissioner Storrs has Begun to Enforce it Energetically.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Storrs has begun a vigorous enforcement of the pure food law.

An article of unquestioned purity, however, such as Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, was shown to be by the chief chemist of the U. S. agricultural department and the World's Fair jury, as well as by every food expert who has tested it, the Commissioner will find no occasion to examine.

"The scope of the law," as was remarked by a prominent and lawyer discussing it, "does not include such an article and grocers selling it can not be molested. Just as the laws respecting larceny are for punishing thieves so the province of the pure food law is to single out and brand the adulterated article, not the pure one. Its enforcement will protect both the people and the honest manufacturers."

Still Finding Dopes in England Although Prohibited by Law.

Though "missing word" contests were declared illegal six months or a year ago in England and were supposed to have been definitely stopped, they are still being carried on.

It is only the fraudulent ones that are now in existence. The "missing word contest" was so popular for many months after it was introduced that it has been kept up even against the law.

It never attained any great popularity in this country. A sentence was printed with one word left blank, and the first person who supplied the missing word by mail got the chief prize, other awards being made up to a considerable sum.

Each competitor sent in something like a shilling as entrance fee, and the total amount received in this way, generally an enormous sum, was distributed among the winners.

That was the way the competition went when it was managed fairly. But the most of the missing word games, if not all of them, that are now running, are managed on no such principle.

The periodicals now conducting them are generally printed somewhere on the continent, and are scattered broadcast on British soil. In many cases they are not periodicals at all, but merely circulars sealed up as letters giving the terms of the competition and the sentence to be completed.

An instance of how one of these swindles works is that of a working man who sent three shillings abroad to a contest. A few days later he received in reply a letter marked "Private," ostensibly from an employe of the foreign concern which offered in "revenge" to supply the missing word secretly for twenty shillings, or about $5.

The deluded mechanic sent on the money and received the word. Shortly afterwards he got a letter from the company, saying that he had won, and that there were several hundred dollars standing to his credit.

The only trouble was, so the letter ran, that another competitor had lodged a complaint and claimed two pounds. If he was willing to buy the man out, sending two pounds by postal, the prize money would be forwarded to him in full.

The working man started to pawn clothing in order to raise the money, when a friend suggested to him to have the company send the prize money minus the two pounds. He wrote to that effect. In answer came a letter stating that he need not send the money, as it had all been settled.

But they had a charge on their books against him for "notarial and other costs of currency," amounting to five shillings. Would he send that over immediately for expenses. Confidingly he did so, and never heard from the company afterwards.

Found His Overcoat. The train stopped in the great dark station of a New England city and a gentleman who had been dozing during the last hour of his journey got up in haste, seized his bag and hurried out of the car.

In a moment he came rushing back; he had forgotten his overcoat, says the Youth's Companion. But no overcoat was there, for his son had come along from the smoking car, recognized it and carried it out.

"Where's my coat?" exclaimed the owner, excitedly, diving under the seat and knocking off his hat as he rose. "This is my seat! I'm sure I left it here."

But the persons sitting near had just entered the car and took no interest in him; nobody answered. Out he hurried and again missed his son, who had gone into the station to inquire about tickets.

He was sure his coat must be in that car. There was nothing for it but to go back, and back he went. Meanwhile a lady attired in black, with a long crape veil over her face, entered the seat he had vacated and sunk wearily back in the corner, her veil over her face.

In rushed the excited gentleman. The train was about to start and if he was to find his coat it was now or never. "There it is," he cried in triumph. "I knew it was there!"

He plunged forward and literally grabbed at the veiled lady. She shrieked, he gasped an apology, the train started and he plunged out of the car.

He Couldn't Explain. A very small newsboy, who had just sold his last paper, leaped against the iron lamppost and shouted with all his lung power: "Pa-i-i-per! Twelvy-clack pa-i-i-per! Extry twelvy-clack!"

The boy was working overtime, either from force of habit or because of his natural exuberance. It is not uncommon in Calhoun place for a boy to stop short and yell several times, merely to relieve himself.

It happened that a pedestrian was attracted by the shouts of the boy against the lamppost. He smiled as he looked at the youngster and then said, "All right, give me one of your papers."

That startled the boy. He looked sheepishly at the man, rubbed his hand into his pocket and said, "I ain't got any."

"Didn't I hear you calling a 12 o'clock paper?" "Yes, but I didn't mean"— It was too much of an explanation.

A professor of psychology who had studied the laws of unconscious cerebration might have told why the boy stood on the corner shouting papers when he had no papers to sell, but the boy adopted a less difficult course and ran away.—Chicago Record.

Taking Exercise. Poor Harry Shelman, the long haired poet who dressed his entire person to resemble Buffalo Bill, and who was, in fact, startlingly like the greatest of scots, used to tell me of a literary friend of his who had a novel method of taking exercise.

His workshop was on the top floor of his house, far from the noise of the street, and he used to write about 15 hours a day. He was not a Howells or a Bronson Howard, whose working hours never exceed four in any one day.

He worked, he labored, he toiled. He had no time for a bicycle and could not afford a horse. He hated walking. Run he could not. Swimming was out of the question. Still he must have exercise. He kept his dictionary in the basement and his thesaurus in the kitchen.

As he used both very often it was necessary to make many trips down stairs and up again, and in that way he kept himself in splendid physical condition. A visitor once saw him dashing down stairs like a madman and soaring up again like a kite and was distressed till informed by John's wife that John was simply hunting for a word and had found it.—New York Press.

A Philadelphia Mustache. "I've seen some peculiar whiskers in my day," remarked a Ninth street barber yesterday, "but there was a fellow in here the other day who simply beat the deck for mustaches. They were of the long, flowing kind, and when in repose hung gracefully down over his shirt front.

After I had finished shaving him he asked me to dress his mustache, giving me my instructions how to do it. First, I gave it a brilliantine bath and combed it out. Then I waxed it until the points stood out on each side of his face like bayonets.

He seemed very proud of it and didn't object when I asked him if I might measure it. In fact, he seemed rather pleased. I took a tape line and found that from tip to tip that marvelous mustache measured a trifle over 23 inches. He next asked me to curl it. This was a difficult operation, but after exhausting several curling irons I succeeded in heating a section of gas pipe to the proper temperature and finished the job.—Philadelphia Record.

Not So Funny After All. Two little fellows struck a mine of amusement one day last week and worked it for all it was worth. Their plan was to stand at the street corner, and when a pedestrian got in good range they called out excitedly, pointing to the victim's feet: "Say! You dropped your footsteps!"

It was great fun—for the boys. Presently an old lady approached the corner. She was fat and looked important. The boys hugged themselves in sheer delight. This time, to prolong the enjoyment, they began: "Say, missus! 'Sense us, but you dropped something!"

"Dear me! What? Such nice little boys, I'm sure." And she stopped and picked up a silver quarter lying directly before her and sailed on.—Philadelphia Times.

Costly Society in the Navy. A commander in the United States navy says that the heaviest drain on the resources of the officers comes from social obligations, especially in foreign ports. They are invited to dine with a king, a prince, a governor, and as a representative of this nation they have to go.

Then in return they must invite the potentate to dinner with them. They must decorate the ship brilliantly and provide a sumptuous "spread" not only for the king, but for as many ministers and hangers on as he chooses to bring with him, and every time this is done each officer must go down into his pocket for $25 or more.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Napoleon's Mother. Napoleon's mother was as much of a soldier as her great son. On one occasion, when he wanted his own way, she gave him to understand that the first duty of a soldier was obedience and that if he wished to be a soldier he must, first of all things, learn to obey.

When Dickens first met Hans Christian Anderson in a London drawing room, he asked his fellow novelist to pay him a visit at Gadshill. The invitation was promptly accepted and the guest remained a long time.

Upon many occasions during his protracted visit Dickens found his patience put to the test by his new friend. In spite of Hans Christian's many merits and good qualities, his very marked peculiarities made him an exceedingly difficult person to entertain.

He was extremely sentimental and emotional, and frequently, for no apparent reason, would burst into a flood of womanish tears and run away to his room.

A few days after his arrival he rang the bell and asked to see the eldest son of the house. The eldest son was away, and when Dickens himself went to see what his guest desired he found that Anderson wished the eldest son to shave him, that being the custom of his own country.

Dickens explained that in the first place young Charles was absent, and that, secondly, it would be an experiment fraught with danger for him to attempt the desired service, as, with the very best intentions, he would probably nearly decapitate his illustrious guest.

Under these most untoward circumstances Hans Christian, weeping, betook himself to the nearest barber shop and had his beard attended to professionally.

A Queer Shampoo. In one of the hotel barber shops a small Italian boy named Joe officiates with the whisk broom. The other day the hotel housekeeper sent down to the proprietor of the shop and asked him to fix her up a bottle of shampoo.

He fixed it and told Joe to take it up to the housekeeper. "You tell her," said the barber, "to take half a teaspoon of the shampoo and put it in two teacups of water and apply."

Joe took the shampoo and went up to the housekeeper with it. In a short time he came back, and the barber asked, "Give it to her all right?" "Yes," said Joe. "With the directions?" "Yes," said Joe again.

Half an hour later the barber noticed the housekeeper out in the hall, looking curiously into the shop. He walked out to where she was. "Hello!" she said. "Which is it? Are you drunk or crazy?" "What do you mean?" asked the barber, with much dignity.

"You must be one or the other, judging from the message you sent up with that shampoo." "What message did I send?" "Joe told me you said to tell me to make a cup of tea and put it in the bottle and lie about it!"—Buffalo Express.

Philosophy of a Prince. "Did you ever hear the story of how the Prince of Wales asked the sultan to go and see the Derby run?" asked Orlando Jones. "Well, it was this wise: The race for the Derby was about to be run, and as the sultan was then visiting England the prince sent one of his lords in waiting to inquire if the eastern potentate would not like to go and witness the classic contest.

The son of the moon and stars was seated propped up by cushions, smoking placidly, when the royal emissary was ushered into his presence. "His royal highness bids me ask your majesty if it would please you to witness the race for the Derby?" said he, bowing low.

"Does his royal highness mean that I should go and see a horse race?" inquired the sultan blandly. "He does, your highness." "Tell the prince that I cannot do so," replied the ruler of the faithful. "Why should I want to go? All men who are not fools know that some horses are swifter than others."—Atlanta Journal.

No Point! McGee. J C McGee, one of the best known geologists in the government service, is called No Point McGee by his friends because, not having had a Christian name given him by his parents, when he went into the government service, he was compelled to choose distinguishing initials. He took all the letters of the alphabet, placed them in his hat and drew two at random.

These he selected for his name, and since then he has signed himself J C McGee. This became known about the government office, and then his name was published J C McGee, without the periods, for the printers said there was no abbreviation.—Philadelphia Press.
