"Hand in hand they wandered
By the summer sea."

They were lovers, you see, and could not wander any other way. But while they wandered his shoes wore out. She told him to go to Wahr & Miller's, when he purchased a new pair. He did so. He married her shortly afterward, and explained to his rich old uncle that he did it because she was the most sensible girl he had ever known. Sensible women, there is an opportunity for you—but a word to the wise is sufficient.

We are "hand in hand" with the people. A reputation for selling shoes that fit, shoes that last, shoes that make tired feet glad, is what packs our store on sale days, and brings a steady trade at other times.

ANN ARBOR'S FOURTH

A Great Day Celebrated in a Patriotic Manner.

A VERY FINE PARADE

Witnessed by Thousands who Lined the Streets

Along the Line of March.—Judge J. W. Donovan's Address on "The Farmer Boy,"—A Hot and Sweltering July Day.

Ann Arbor had not had a Fourth of July celebration for 11 years until last Saturday, but the one of that day fully made up for what has been lacking during the intervening years. The celebration was a hummer from start to finish, and with the single exception of the balloon ascension which was neither made at the time appointed for it, nor as it should have been, the whole program was carried out as advertised. Considering how busy the farmers are getting in their fine hay crop the attendance from the townships was a large one, but the major portion of the holiday makers was composed of residents of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and the surrounding villages. It is estimated that at least 1,000 Ypsilantians were present, as the motor line carried 1,000 passengers both ways, and a number traveled on bicycles and by the Michigan Central. Ypsilanti certainly showed her good will towards Ann Arbor's celebration and it remains for us to go and do likewise to them next year.

The sun rose bright and clear about 4:30 a. m. and the sound of the booming of the 45 gun salute was heard, waking up the soundest sleepers. Even at that early hour people were busy decorating their buildings and long before the procession was ready to move the streets presented quite a gala appearance.

The 9 o'clock train from Detroit brought on it the orator of the day, Judge J. W. Donovan, but the Montgomery Rifles, of Detroit, who had accepted an invitation to be present, were not there as they had missed the train.

At about 10:30 o'clock the procession which had formed at the junction of N. Main and Catherine sts., began to move, and it was the best that has ever been seen in Ann Arbor. The two most striking features in the bodies of marching men were the members of Ann Arbor Typographical Union, No. 154, and the sewer workmen of Schneider Bros. The former in their broad brimmed grey cowboy hats made a very neat appearance, while the sewer men with their picks and shovels—particularly the last man in the gang whose shovel had got broken from the strength of his exertions and had its point all curled up with the heat generated from his rapid motions—were representative of the masses who daily toil for an honest living. But the business display part of the procession was the chief attraction, and it was a most meritorious one. The parade was composed as follows: There were six bands in line, the Ypsilanti Light Guard Band, the Washtenaw Times Band, the Ann Arbor City Band, the Superior Cornet Band, the Milan Band, Becker's Military Band and the Gilt Edge Band—in the order named. Three military companies, the Ypsilanti company, the Adrian company and the Ann Arbor company, led the procession. Then followed the common council, fire department and the industrial part of the line. Walker & Co., buggies and bicycles; Henne & Stanger, furniture; Hugh Johnson's Restaurant; U. of M. boat livery—several boats in which were girls seemingly rowed through the air by young men; Polhemus' Livery; Ann Arbor Fruit Farm; Rohde—a log shanty and workmen sawing wood in it—and two other wagons for his coal and lime business; a basket making display without name attached; Wahr's free note books thrown to the crowd; Heinzmann & Laubengayer, machine grinding up corn; Muehlig & Schmid, hardware; Kayser's cigar factory, making cigars; Schaeberle's music store, a boy orchestra playing all the time; A. Levy, men making shoes; G. H. Wild, the tailor; W. E. Pardon, cutting up meat and throwing packages of it to the crowd; Harpst & Schoettle, bottling works; Dean & Co., display of baking powder; Charles Tessmer, the builder, several houses in process of construction; John Baumgardner, whole force at work as in a stone yard; Merchants' Protective Agency, load of cattle; Feiner, the painter; Hutzel & Co., plumbers; Weinberg the builder, "houses while you wait"; J. M. Wagner, meats; Allmendinger & Wines, art store; Reinhardt, the shoe dealer; Martin Haller, furniture; George W. Sweet, two wagons; Wurster & Kirn, bicycles and buggies; C. A. Sauer, two wagons—one showing architects working, the other men putting up house; Eberbach & Son, imitation of an old time pharmacy; Three Oaks Dairy; Chicago Shoe Store, two wagons of shoe boxes; Wm. Arnold, wagon with large clock on each side; Ann Arbor Fluff Rug Co.; Mack & Co.; Luick Bros., men joining and planing; Hurd, Holmes & Co.; Palace bakery; White Sewing Machine

Co.; Lerg's ice cream; Washington meat market; Rehfuss & Son; C. F. Pardon; Berryman, a photographer taking photo of two little girls; D. F. Schairer's little son and his team of goats; Frey, the cigar maker, making cigars; E. Jaeger, running a sausage grinder; Singer Sewing Machine Co.; Eberbach Hardware Co., two wagons, men hard at work and throwing tin cups to the crowd; W. J. Wenger, bicycles being repaired; Spathe's meat market; a notion display, no name; Lindenschmitt & Apfel; Morton, the milliner; Heusel Bros.; Dr. Nolan; O. M. Martin's ambulance; Minnis' Razor Strop—the Minnis brothers, with drum and fife in a decorated wagon; Ann Arbor Music Co., display of instruments, excellent music furnished all the time, free sheet music thrown to the crowd; Dr. J. A. Dell, herd of Shetland ponies, ridden and driven by boys and girls; Schneider Bros., plumbers and sewer contractors, had a gang of sewer laborers in line carrying picks and shovels.

Ann Arbor Typographical Union with 31 men in line led the societies. All the German organizations were in line also several wagons of school children. The G. A. R. had a neatly got up wagon, the central figure of which was Capt. J. Q. A. Sessions in the role of Uncle Sam. There were also several bicycle riders.

After the procession had disbanded all made a rush for dinner. At 2 p. m., came the exercises on court house square with Mayor Charles E. Hiscock as president of the day. The program opened with "Hail Columbia" by the six bands in unison, conducted by B. F. Becker. Following this came a brief address by President Hiscock which was replete with patriotic sentiments. He introduced W. W. Wedemeyer, who in a clear, distinct voice read the grand old Declaration of Independence which was unanimously passed by the Congress of the 13 United States of America July 4, 1776.

Judge J. W. Donovan, of Detroit, the orator of the day, was next introduced by the president, who spoke in part as follows:

The greatest happiness by one act in 60 years was Lincoln's emancipation of the slaves. Eliot says: "Some things and events go by like the winds; others clasp us with kindly hands, stir us like a passion and touch us like a song."

A Boston editor has proven that living in the open air, with temperate habits, neither rich nor poor, a married life, with hope in hereafter, insures long life and general happiness. Surely farm boys have these advantages.

The Greeks with wise men rated that a healthy body, a moderate income, a well trained mind were the elements of happiness. And yet the rich are said to have the best of everything. True, the city boy's wheel is finest, but the country boy's road is most sought for. The city dwelling is the finer, but what of the yard and shade trees. The city banker is envied, but Lincoln and Garfield, Grant and Seward, Webster and Washington were all raised as farm boys, and no men on earth excelled them or their actual advantages. Luther Beecher, Philo Parsons and John S. Newberry were not made happy by riches. King Cyrus, the greatest of leaders, was trained to hardship, reached a great fame, and said: "When I am gone think not of me as dead—I shall be living with the Gods forever."

But you say "I can't get any money for horses, grain and produce. Farms don't pay any more."

Wheat at 70 cents buys more than it did at war prices—more sugar, more sheeting, more comforts, more implements. If you keep out of debt and try it, debt is a monster—holding one in irons while interest eats out his vitals.

Clear the fences, paint up the houses, raise things that will sell, make the homes attractive and you will see profits.

Our country is on the eve of great prosperity. Factories in New England and iron works of Pennsylvania have lately started. The queen has had her jubilee; the Turks have whipped Greece into submission; Hawaii is a part of Uncle Sam's possessions; the nation looks lovingly at Cuba and prosperity is just ahead. We are living in good homes—better than ever before—our children are refined and educated. We are living in comfort, riding in carts and carriages, on gilded wheels, on palace boats and in palace cars and marrying dukes, lords, and noblemen. The old world looks on in wonder. What are the elements of our prosperity. Every man has an interest in cars, street light and transmission. A nation is rich and strong in proportion to its intelligence, its integrity, its comforts, its character—the same as a man enjoys. It is not the land—Mexico has land—it is what we are; it is what we enjoy; it is in the comforts of our lives; it is our style and mode of living; it is our home life.

He is a wise man who carries his boy leapt up into manhood. "Give me men," said Virgilinus. The archer who misses the target cannot blame another, he must turn to himself and not to another for the failure. Alexander the Great was jealous of the games, but knew the prizes went to the runners in the arena. Prince Albert made England grow in 1851 by inaugurating the Crystal Palace and by it showed the advantages of fine cloths and the finish of

AN UNCANNY OBJECT

Seen by a Fisherman in the Millpond at Geddes

CAUSES A SENSATION

In Ann Arbor Police Circles the Past Week.

Thorough Investigation in Progress Under Marshal Sweet's Direction.—Body of Some Kind Found Last Night.

Ann Arbor has had something of a sensation since Tuesday evening when John E. Kranich, a cigar maker living at 15 Pontiac st. and employed in C. F. Kayser's cigar factory, admitted to Marshal Sweet, who had received a previous hint from a friend of Mr. Kranich, that he had some time in April, while spearing fish in the river near Geddes, come across the body of a woman lying at the bottom of the river in a few feet of water. He said that the body had on a pink dress and that one leg was cramped to the knee. On striking the object with his spear it moved back again to its original position. By this time both Kranich and his companion had become thoroughly disturbed at the sight which was revealed under the rays of the jack-lantern with which they were fishing, and the latter, a young boy, threatened to jump from the boat if any attempt should be made to obtain a closer acquaintance with the mystery of the pond. The two fishermen then hastened away and determined to keep the matter dark.

Marshal Sweet, accompanied by Officer Reuben Armbruster and Mr. Kranich went to the point in the river where Mr. Kranich said he had seen the body, on Tuesday, and made a search for it, but the roily condition of the water prevented them from seeing the bottom of the river which is quite deep at that point.

Some young ladies who live on a farm in the neighborhood say that they saw an object in the water near the river bank, which one of them thought was a dead sheep, although they did not care to investigate the matter further. The point at which they saw the object was some distance above the place pointed out by Kranich and it also was searched.

Mr. Kranich is a steady, reliable man, and is one whom Marshal Sweet thinks would not stir up such a matter unless there was something in it, and is of the opinion that he kept the matter quiet so long through fear that such a discovery would get him into trouble.

Last night Marshal Sweet, Patrolman Armbruster, J. E. Kranich and Will Kopp, the lad who was with Kranich when the supposed body was seen, and a Detroit Tribune correspondent, went to the place, to make further investigations.

The boys had no trouble in locating the spot and rowing to it the party could see by the gasoline light something which looked like flesh and bones. A fish spear thrust into the mass brought up a quantity of fatty, fleshy animal substance. Several pounds of the matter came up, but it was late at night and the party could not tell whether the remains were human or not. A sickening smell arose from the matter. Four members of the party caught a whiff of it, and all became sick at once.

A thorough investigation will be made today and whether the substance is part of a human body or that of a brute will be determined.

THE CHELSEA FAILURE.

Chandler & Co.'s Liabilities About $42,000—Assets Not Known.

The schedules showing the liabilities and assets of the firm of C. J. Chandler & Co., of this place, who made an assignment to George Kempf, assignee, for the benefit of creditors, were completed Friday evening. The liabilities are $42,209 owing mostly to banks and bankers. The assets figure up at $19,292.60, which consists of buildings in Chelsea and contents, eggs, money in different banks and accounts. The appraisal of the assets has not been made, but probably the amount realized on the sale of the property, etc., will reach this figure. The firm has been doing an extensive business in the buying and selling of eggs and produce, buying in the west and shipping east. Mr. Chandler is the president of the Egg Dealers' Association, which was formed some time ago, and was thoroughly posted in this line of business, but the firm has been losing money for some time on account of the sudden changes in the egg market.

They Want It All.

Five years ago a man named Voigt stole a ride on a railroad in Colorado. Recently he became a Christian and was smitten with remorse to such an extent that he sent a written confession to the company, inclosing $1.65, being his fare at the rate of three cents a mile, with interest added. The fare at that time was four cents a mile and now the company has sent the man a demand for 52 cents additional.

ANN ARBOR HONORED.

Prof. Trueblood Elected President of National Elocutionists.

The National Association of Elocutionists, which closed its sixth annual gathering last Friday, July 2, at New York City, did a wise thing when it elected Prof. Thomas C. Trueblood, of Ann Arbor, president of the association. The New York Tribune speaks thus in its issue of July 3, of the learned professor:

Thomas C. Trueblood, the new president of the association, is the professor of elocution and oratory in the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor. He is a native of Southern Indiana and a graduate of Earlham College, from which institution he received his degree of A. M. In early youth good training in plain, expressive reading awakened in him a desire to become an accomplished public reader and teacher of the arts of elocution and oratory. To this end he studied assiduously with the best masters in this country and in England, notably the late James E. Murdoch, to whose guidance and inspiration Mr. Trueblood feels deeply indebted for his insight into the Rush philosophy, and the late Professor Charles J. Plumtre, of King's College, London. As a reader Professor Trueblood is well known throughout the West. His readings are taken from the best literature, with special attention to Shakespeare. In addition to his teaching and platform work, he has collaborated with Professor Fulton in the compiling of "Choice Readings" and in the writing of "Practical Elocution," "Chart of Vocal Expression," "Critics' Tablet," and "Introduction to Stickney's Fifth Reader."

DROWNED IN THE HURON.

A Seven Year Old Lad Believed to Have Committed Suicide.

The little hamlet of Birkett, five miles from Dexter village, was the scene of a tragic happening on Tuesday afternoon. Emil Staehler, a working man, his wife and three sons reside in the place, the boys being his children by a former wife. Mr. Staehler went away from home to work on Tuesday, leaving the three boys to attend to some work he had set for them to do. The youngest of the boys, Ralph, aged seven years, who is said to have been a hot headed, high spirited little fellow, rebelled against the work and got angry at something the others said or did to him and left them starting off towards the river, at the same time saying, "The next time you see I'll be dead." When the father came home about 7 o'clock he was told by the other two boys of the circumstance and of the disappearance of his youngest boy. He at once said "He is in the river." Accompanied by several of the young men of the neighborhood he at once began a search for the missing lad. By the aid of the fishing lanterns they carried the body of the little fellow was found about 9 p. m. three rods below the bridge in about six feet of water, with all the clothes on it. Life was extinct and the body must have been in the water several hours.

Rathfon Got His Divorce.

Frank Rathfon was granted a decree of divorce on Friday, by Judge Lillibridge, of Detroit, from his wife, Minnie E. Rathfon, on the ground of extreme cruelty. The court said:

"Notwithstanding the sensational character of some of the testimony, I cannot believe that the defendant has actually been guilty of criminal conduct. In some instances, I think, her conduct in this respect has been magnified."

"Her conduct with Dr. Strassenburg, of Lima, N. Y., however, is shown to have been inexcusable. Her relations with him and others were very imprudent, subjecting her husband to much scandal and humiliation. This fact, in itself, substantiated the charge of cruelty."

"In so far as the claim that her husband condoned her faults by taking her back is concerned, the condonation only extended to the things of which he was aware at that time."

"Regarding his alleged conduct with May Webb, a girl in his office, I am satisfied that it did not amount to scandal. I am also satisfied that the claim that Rathfon gained a residence in Lima is without foundation."

Schneider-Gates.

At the home of the bride's parents at Fosters' Station, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. A. L. Nicklas pastor of Zion Lutheran church, Ann Arbor, spoke the words which made Dr. Neil A. Gates and Miss Anna M. Schneider man and wife. It was a very pretty wedding and was attended by about 30 invited guests. Miss Amanda Schneider was bridesmaid and Mr. Moore Gates groomsmen. A fine wedding supper was served to the guests after the ceremony. The wedding presents were numerous, handsome and useful. Dr. and Mrs. Gates will reside in Dexter, where the doctor, who is a graduate of the medical department of the U. of M., has opened an office for the practice of his profession.

Two Manchester men went to Freedom after some hay and got so drunk that they let the team run away and upset the load. They did not get to their home until the third day after they set out after the hay.

Ignatz Wenk, aged 72 years, died at his residence in the northern part of Freedom, Saturday, June 6. The funeral services were held at the church of the Evangelical Association, Rev. Ross officiating.

Seven Manchester young ladies were received into the young ladies' sodality, of St. Mary's church, on Friday. Fr. Stapleton, of Jackson, delivered the sermon. In the evening the new altar presented to the church by its pastor Fr. Heidenrich, was blessed.

A man named Gouthley, of Toledo, obtained a justice court verdict of $1 with board bill and costs from the Silver Lake Ice Co., at Hamburg, of which Beach, the hero of the Ann Arbor Railroad obstruction proceedings, is manager. The verdict was for wages the complainant had earned.

Leonard Herman, of South Manchester, got into his wagon the other day and his horse started before he had got hold of the lines properly. As a consequence he got them crossed and when he pulled on one the horse began describing circles which finally resulted in Mr. Herman being dumped out and the wagon with some bags of oats that were in it were piled on top of him. At the same time the horse fell down or things might have been worse.

Charles Paul, of Chelsea, has purchased a fine new Advance threshing machine.

The cottages at Cavanaugh and North lakes are rapidly filling up with their summer population.

Mrs. Bertha Wilbur died at her home in Ypsilanti Saturday morning, from paralysis, aged 63 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Haire, of Stockbridge, are running a hotel at Cavanaugh Lake this summer.

Geo. Werker, of Sylvan, has set out 60,000 cabbage plants and should have plenty of sauerkraut this fall.

A swarm of bees have possession of the cornice on the northeast corner of the Stockbridge Baptist church.

The flower beds on the Michigan Central grounds at Chelsea now present a very pretty appearance.

Chelsea will hold its annual school meeting Monday evening and will elect two trustees and transact other business.

Farmers throughout the county have been exceedingly busy the past week getting in their unusually large crop of hay.

Thomas Fletcher, of Chelsea, has an acrobatic horse, at least it did a few tumbling acts on Main st. the other night.

Wm. H. Everett, of Ypsilanti, was held up by a couple of men Wednesday night of last week, who took $13 in bills from him.

Mrs. Delos Showerman, formerly of Ypsilanti, died in Detroit, June 29, and her remains were taken to Darien, N. Y., for interment.

Miss Winifred Cassidy, of Chelsea, who attends St. Joseph's Academy, Adrian, took the gold medal for penmanship in that institution at the late commencement.

A Chelsea lady bicycle rider struck the town dumb with envy the other day when she appeared on the streets in bloomers. They were the first pair that had been seen there.

Mr. Charles Coe, of Saline, and Miss Eva Woolcott, for 10 years in the shipping department of the Ypsilanti Dress Stay Co., were married in Milan, June 30, and will make their home on a farm southeast of Saline.

Fred Valentine, an aged resident of Manchester, has had two bad falls recently, the last one of which it is feared fractured his hip. On account of his age and feeble health his friends fear he will not recover.

Mrs. Clarence Harrington died at the home of her mother in Ypsilanti town, just outside the city limits, on Wednesday evening of last week, of consumption, aged 24 years. Funeral services were held at St. John's church, Ypsilanti, Friday morning.

E. R. Cookingham, well known throughout Michigan as a county atlas publisher, died at Ypsilanti, Tuesday morning, after a lingering illness, of consumption. Deceased moved to Ypsilanti about six years ago for the purpose of educating his family. His remains were taken to Caro for burial.

An eight year old lad named McCarthy living in Augusta, met with a bad accident Thursday of last week which at least will result in a stiff hand for life. He had hold of the hay fork rope and was hauled up into the pulleys, being too scared to let go of the rope and all the muscles and tendons of the inside of his hand were torn out. Dr. Hueston, of Ypsilanti, cared for his injuries.

Tuesday of last week was the 80th birthday of Mathew Prout, of Manchester, and his daughter Mrs. Besimer and her husband and son, of Jackson, came down to help celebrate it quietly. His old Masonic friends got wind of the event and in the afternoon a party of 12 drove out to see him, and presented him with a handsome silver topped cane as a remembrance of the occasion. The age of the oldest of the visitors was 82, of the youngest 40.

Mr. A. Beyer, who recently came to Ypsilanti from New Philadelphia, Ohio, on Friday morning purchased another 140 acres of land adjoining the parcels he recently bought. The land bought Friday morning belonged to George Wiard and joined the old Hemphill and DeNike farms and the price paid for the 140 acres was $5,000. The Hemphill farm of 55 acres, the DeNike farm of 130 acres and the Wiard farm of 140 acres makes Mr. Beyer a farm of 325 acres and one of the best pieces of land in the county. It is his intention to supply the farm with the best breeds of stock and run a large farm of this nature.—Times.

The second annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the Chelsea High School held Tuesday evening of last week, at the Maccabee hall, was attended by over 70 people, and was a very enjoyable affair. The hall was beautifully decorated with the association colors, yellow and white, and the floral decorations were marguerites and palms. After the edibles had been discussed, Toastmaster Herbert A. Dancer called the assemblage to order, and the following program was carried out: "Class of '97," Miss Lillian Gerard; solo, Miss Nellie Congdon; "The Chimney Corner Graduate," Nathaniel Laird; solo, Miss Grace Gates; "Our Class," Miss Edith Foster; "The School Yard," A. W. Wilkinson; solo, Miss Annie Bacon; "The Bad Boy in School," Orrin Thatcher; violin solo, Miss Nellie Lowry. At the business meeting the following officers were elected: President, Ransom S. Armstrong; vice president, Miss Fannie Hoover; secretary, Miss Ella Barber; treasurer, A. W. Wilkinson; executive committee, R. S. Armstrong, A. W. Wilkinson, Miss Fannie Hoover, Miss Ella Barber, and Mrs. G. A. BeGole.

Mythical Creatures.
Now that the cold light of science has thrown its ray upon the most remote parts of our globe, there is no longer room for legendary creatures—save the sea serpent—and we are told that the mermaid is nothing more than a dugong, a unicorn either a rhinoceros or a Tibetan antelope, while the cockatrice, the phoenix and the roc appear to be pure imaginations.

But in the Elizabethan age—an age when the dodo had but recently been discovered—these, and many other mythical creatures were, if not living, at all events actual realities to the ordinary public, and as such were referred to in the works of the great dramatist and other contemporary writers. We meet, for instance, in the "Winter's Tale" the line, "Make me not sighted like the basilisk," and in "The Tempest," "Now I will believe that there are unicorns." But not only was more or less of credulity given to the existence of these and such like fabulous monsters, but a web of mystic lore encircled the most common and best known of beasts, birds and fishes. Who, for instance, is forgetful of the popular superstitions connected with the salamander, the newt and the blindworm, and who fails to remember White's account of the "shrewwash" at Selborne? And if such superstitions still survive among uneducated peasants of the present day we may be assured that two centuries ago they were fully believed by the higher classes.—Nature.

Coffee as a Disinfectant.
The use of coffee as a disinfectant is generally known, but it is doubtful if the majority of people are aware of its true value in this direction. They probably know that it is handy and harmless, but besides these qualities it is really one of the most powerful and effective agents known, as has been shown by repeated experiments. In one case a quantity of meat was placed in a close room and allowed to decompose. A chafing dish was then introduced and 500 grams of coffee were thrown on the fire. In a few minutes the room had been entirely disinfected. In another room the fumes of sulphureted hydrogen and ammonia were developed, and the smell—which no words can express—was destroyed in half a minute by the use of 90 grams of coffee. As a proof that the noxious smells are really decomposed and not merely overpowered by the fumes of coffee, it is stated that the first vapors of the coffee are not smelled at all and are therefore chemically absorbed, while the other smells gradually diminish as the fumigation continues. The merest "pinch" of coffee is usually sufficient to cleanse a sick-room, even in aggravated cases. The best way to employ it is to freshly pound the coffee in a mortar, if no mill is at hand, and sprinkle it on a redhot iron surface.—New York Ledger.

How He Got Rid of Rye.
In view of the numerous warnings to farmers this year from wheat buyers to cut the rye out of their wheat, with the alternative of accepting a much lower price for the latter crop, the following, related by an Ingham county farmer, will be of interest: "In the good old days of dollar wheat I solved this rye question. I headed the injunction of holy writ and let wheat and tares grow together until harvest time, but bound the grain all together in bundles. Then at threshing time I had two extra men with broad ax and block, who cut off the heads of the rye, which always extend a foot or two above the wheat, before threshing. I thus saved rye enough to pay for the extra men, and had an article of wheat so nearly free of rye as to sell for the highest price."

Getting Out of It.
"And now, ladies and gentlemen," said the hypnotist, "I will make this young man think he is under the influence of alcohol."
But the subject sat still, and apparently sorrowful.
"That doesn't look much like a jag to me," said the red nosed man in the front row.
"Can't you see," retorted the hypnotist, "that he has a load on his mind?"—Indianapolis Journal.

WOMAN'S LONG HOURS.

SHE TOILS AFTER MAN'S DAYS WORK IS DONE.

What She Has to Contend With—Work That Sooner or Later Breaks Down Her Delicate Organism.

The great majority of women "work to live" and "live to work," and as the hands of the clock approach the hour of six, those employed in stores, offices, mills and factories, hail closing time with joy. They have won their day's bread, but some duties are yet to be performed, and many personal matters to be attended to. They have mending to do, and dresses or bonnets to make, and long into the night they toil, for they must look neat, and they have no time during the day to attend to personal matters.

Women, therefore, notwithstanding their delicate organism, work longer and more closely than men.

They do not promptly heed such signs as headache, backache, blues, pains in the groins, bearing-down, "all gone" feeling, nervousness, loss of sleep and appetite, whites, irregular or painful monthly periods, cold and swollen feet, etc., all symptoms of womb trouble, which, if not quickly checked, will launch them in a sea of misery.

There is but one absolute remedy for all those ills. Any woman who has to earn her own living will find it profitable to keep her system fortified with this tried and true woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound speedily removes the cause and effects a lasting cure.

We are glad to produce such letters as the following from Miss M. G. McNamee, 114 Catherine St., Utica, N. Y.:

"For months I had been afflicted with that tired feeling, no ambition, no appetite, and a heavy bearing-down feeling of the uterus. I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Soon those bad feelings passed away; I began to have more ambition, my appetite improved and I gained rapidly in every way, and now I am entirely well. I advise all my friends to use the Compound, it is woman's truest friend."

How a Great Canvas Was Moved.
The moving of a painting from a pavilion of the city of Paris in the Champs Elysees to the Anteuil gallery offered a very difficult problem to the Paris city authorities. The painting, by M. Roll, representing the celebration of July 14, is 32 feet long by 23 feet high and with the massive frame weighs over 2,200 pounds. It was impossible to move the painting in the ordinary way, by taking the canvas off the frame and rolling it, for the painting, being varnished, it would probably have cracked in several places. It was therefore decided to move the canvas and frame as a whole. After much deliberation a special chariot was constructed over two of the floats which were used in the Mardi Gras procession. The city engineer, with eight laborers, proceeded to the pavilion and the painting was carried by eight men, eight others bracing the upper part of the picture to keep it in an upright position until it was deposited in the chariot. It was finally got out without accident and slid upon greased planks upon the chariot. Arrived at the Gallerie d'Anteuil, the picture was similarly carried to its new quarters. The painting is one of the largest in existence and was painted by order of the French government in 1880 to perpetuate the memory of the first national holiday of the third republic.—Paris Letter.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers have recently perfected an ingenious cure for dyspepsia. Their Digestive Cordial consists of a food already digested and a digester of foods happily combined.

The importance of this invention will be appreciated when we realize what a proportion of the community are victims of some form of stomach troubles. Thousands of pale, thin people have little inclination to eat and what they do eat causes them pain and distress.

This Digestive Cordial of the Shakers corrects any stomach derangement at once. It makes thin people plump. Every one will be greatly interested to read the little book which has been placed in the hands of druggists for free distribution.

The Largest Book.
Professor Max Muller of Oxford, in a recent lecture, called attention to the largest book in the world, the wonderful Kuth Daw. It consists of 729 parts, in the shape of white marble plates covered with inscriptions, each plate built over with a temple of brick. It is found near the old priest city of Mandalay, in Burma, and this temple city of more than 700 pagodas virtually makes up this monster book.

NANSEN IN THE FROZEN WORLD. Preceded by a Biography of the Great Explorer, and Copious Extracts from Nansen's "First Trip Across Greenland," also an Account by Eivind Astrup, of "A Journey Across Northern Greenland" with Lieut. R. E. Peary, U. S. N., followed by a Brief History of the Principal "Earlier Polar Explorations," etc. Profusely illustrated. National Publishing Co., Chicago, Ill.

As indicated on the title page, the volume opens with an appreciative and intensely interesting biography of Dr. Nansen, who, though less than thirty years of age, is universally recognized as by far the most successful Arctic Explorer the world has ever seen. His ancestry for almost three hundred years is traced. The boyhood of the now famous man is described in the most fascinating manner. Then we see him as a young man, foremost in all the sports requiring great physical exertion.

But the center of interest is in the great "Fram" Expedition. Here the reader is told how this wonderful ship was built; of its voyage to the North; how it was frozen into the ice. Then came the great Sledge Expedition of Nansen and Johansen, which occupied fifteen months, and in which they reached a latitude of 86 degrees and 14 minutes—a point much further North than had ever been reached by man. The return voyage of the "Fram" is also fully described.

In all parts of the civilized world Dr. Nansen is the hero of the hour. His wonderful success has brought him the fame it deserves. This volume not only tells what the masses of the people want to know about him, and what he has accomplished, but it also traces the history of the work in which he was so successful, from the earliest period of which there is either record or tradition down to the present hour, thus really forming a Cyclopaedia of Arctic Exploration.

This work contains over 500 pages, in one volume, and has more than 100 fine illustrations, is printed from clear and open type upon excellent paper, and is bound in durable and attractive styles. See the publishers' advertisement in another column.

FIRST SESSION IS HELD

National Council of Education at Milwaukee.

UNIVERSITY IDEALS DISCUSSED.

Address of Joseph Swain on the Work at the Stanford University in California—Various Good Points in Labor Done at That Institution Set Forth—Government of Students Reduced to a Minimum—Meeting of the German Teachers.

Milwaukee, July 6.—One session of the National Council of Education was held Tuesday and it was devoted to a discussion of university ideals. Most interest attached to the address of Joseph Swain on the work of Stanford university, California. He said that the methods of the University of Indiana were largely followed in organizing Stanford. So far as the ideals of Stanford university are shown in their requirements for entrance and graduation, it is chiefly in the extension of the elective system that it differs from Indiana university. Each student selects as his major subject the work of some one department and it is the privilege of the professor at the head of such department to require the completion of a major subject and also such minor subjects in other departments as he may consider desirable or necessary collateral work.

Reduced to a Minimum. With the exceptions mentioned the student is absolutely free to choose such subjects as he may think best, subject to the condition that he must satisfy his teachers that he is ready to profitably pursue the subjects of his choice. The government of students in both Indiana and Stanford universities has been reduced to a minimum. There are no rules and regulations. It is understood that students are expected to act in accordance with the customs of the best society and, being ladies and gentlemen, are expected to conduct themselves as such. The freedom of the teacher to use his own judgment in what he teaches within the limit of the subjects employed to teach, and his own methods of instruction, are unquestioned. The university exists for the good of the students, and therefore every sort of personal helpfulness is a part of the university's duty.

The Student's Course. A student should not be forced to do what is not best for him, for entrance, continuance, or graduation. He is taking his own course, not one prearranged for some one else. The teacher must be an elder brother who has got a little further on the road to learning and who is in the university to give the benefit of his experience to those younger than himself and to those who have not traveled so far on the journey. Tuesday evening the German teachers, who hold a separate convention, had their first session. The proceedings were all in the German language. Tuesday afternoon a school of practice was held in the section devoted to the education of the deaf and a meeting of the section of secondary education was also held.

ENDEAVORERS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Everything Is Now in Readiness for the Great Convention. San Francisco, July 6.—All is now in readiness for the great Christian Endeavor convention. Among the Endeavorers who have come across the sea to attend the convention is Miss E. J. Newton of Foo Chow, the representative of the Endeavor societies in China. With her is Miss Carmo Hostetter, who has come all the way from Tokyo to be in attendance at the convention. Miss Newton has brought with her a silken banner to be presented to the Christian Endeavor society that donated the largest sum of money to foreign missions. It is the gift of the Foo Chow Christian Endeavor union, whose greetings to the society were forwarded to General Secretary Baer by the secretary, Ling Muk, before it was decided to send a delegation.

One of the most interesting features at the Mechanics' pavilion will be the reproduction of an early California mission, which will constitute the headquarters of the Missionary Extension society, under the direction of Miss M. L. Berry, state superintendent of missions for the Christian Endeavor union.

Funeral of Ex-Governor Evans. Denver, Col., July 6.—The body of the late John Evans, ex-governor of Colorado, lay in state in the Capitol Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. and was viewed by thousands of people. Funeral services were conducted in the afternoon by Chancellor William F. McDowell of the University of Denver, which was founded by him. Then the Masons took charge of the body, which was interred in Riverside. The cortege was the largest ever seen at a funeral in Denver. Public buildings and many stores were closed as a mark of respect for the deceased.

Mysterious Affair at Cleveland. Cleveland, O., July 6.—A man 60 years of age Monday morning hired a skiff. He was accompanied by a woman 40 years old. The man told the boathouse keeper the woman was his daughter, and that she was weak minded. They rowed out on the lake. Until late in the afternoon the boat hovered around one spot. Finally, the occupants appeared to engage in a scuffle, and one of them fell or jumped from the boat. The other followed. There is no clew to their identity.

Murdered His Wife. Waukesha, Wis., July 6.—James Butler, a farmer of Lisbon, came home in an intoxicated condition. In a quarrel with his wife he seized an ax and almost hacked her to pieces. Shortly after the quarrel Mrs. Butler was discovered by two of her children and died soon after their arrival. Butler escaped and is still at large, but his capture is looked for soon.

Wiped Out an Old Feud. Empire City, Kan., July 6.—Sam Mitchell, husband of the newly-appointed postmistress of this city, wiped out an old feud here by shooting and killing Link Cole, ex-city marshal. The men met on the street and Mitchell shot without warning. Cole killed Mitchell's brother a year ago.

Woman Cyclist Killed. Chicago, July 6.—Mrs. Alice Gregg of 4326 Champlain avenue, while riding her bicycle along Stony Island avenue, was struck by a South Chicago trolley car and died a few minutes later.

SHERIDAN'S FIRST RIDE.

A John Gilpin Performance Which Showed Young Phil's Pluck.

The following story was told by the Rev. J. T. Headley, historian and biographer of many of the heroes of the war, in regard to a boyhood experience of General Sheridan: At five years of age he was playing near his home when some lads came along and amused themselves with the wide awake boy. A horse was feeding in an adjacent lot. "Phil, would you like a ride?" they said to him. "Yes. Give me one."

In a few moments the boy was on the animal's back. The sudden and unceremonious mounting of the young rider startled the steed, and away he ran. "Whoa! Whoa!" shouted the lads, but in vain.

Over the fence the animal sprang, and once on the highway it was a John Gilpin performance. Phil clung to the mane, while the sobered authors of the race turned pale with apprehension of a tragic end to it, expecting to see him dashed to the earth and killed. But out of sight vanished both steed and rider, and miles soon intervened between the two parties.

Suddenly the horse turned into the shed of a tavern, where its owner had frequently stopped in his travels. Men came out, and recognizing the horse, questioned the boy. One of the curious company, after securing the foaming animal, which had neither saddle nor bridle, inquired of the terrified Phil: "Who taught you to ride?" "Nobody," answered the boy. "Did no one teach you how to sit on a horse?" asked another.

"Oh, yes. Bill Seymour told me to hold on with my knees, and I did." "Wasn't you frightened?" "Nary a bit. I wanted to go farther, but the horse wouldn't go."

"Ain't you sore?" "Kinder, but I'll be better tomorrow, and then I'll ride back home." "That boy," said the questioner, "has pluck enough to be an Indian hunter."

The owner of the nag turned up not long afterward, in search of his property. He said that the animal was vicious and had thrown more than one experienced horseman. — New York Tribune.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Earth Movements.

Professor Joseph Le Conte recently read a paper before the Geological Society of America, from which we learn that there are two primary and permanent kinds of movements of the earth's crust—namely, those which cause continental surfaces and oceanic basins, and those which by interior contraction determine mountains of folded structure. These two are determined, the one by unequal radial contraction, the other by unequal concentric contraction—that is, contraction of the interior more than the exterior. There are also two secondary kinds of movement which modify the effects of the other two and confuse our understanding of them. These are, first, oscillatory movements, affecting large areas, and isostatic movements, or gravitative readjustments, by erosion and sedimentation. In the minds of some writers oscillatory movements have masked and obscured the effects of continent and ocean basin making, and isostasy has concealed the effects and prevented the proper interpretation of all the others. It is believed that to make secure progress we must keep these several kinds of movements distinct in our minds.—San Francisco Chronicle.

It gives me great pleasure to express my faith in Carter's Cascara Liver Pills. They are the only medicine I ever take, and they always do their work well, and do just as you say, do not gripe or sicken, and leave the system strengthened and toned up. They give me a good appetite and refreshing sleep. I recommend them to all my friends, ANNIE BIRAY, Chicago. For sale by H. J. Brown.

The Servian Army.

A curious thing connected with the Servian army is the manner in which nearly all the regiments carry the big drum. Instead of being slung in front of the man who plays it this instrument is put upon a small two wheel cart drawn by a large dog, the latter being so trained that he keeps his place even through the longest marches. The drummer walks behind the cart and performs on the instrument as it goes along. Each regiment has two or three drums, but scarcely any of the regiments have a band.

The Dingley tariff bill, after six weeks' of continuous debate over it, finally passed the senate Wednesday by a vote of 38 to 28.

It is said that thirty-one of the forty-five states have placed a limit of not to exceed ninety days upon their legislative sessions. Such a law in Michigan would save the state many thousands of dollars, besides placing fewer unconstitutional laws in our statute books.—Hilldale Leader.

Say, let's try that scheme, there is no question but that it is a good one.

The wisdom of the mayor's proclamation calling upon the dog catcher to shoot all unmuzzled dogs, is at least open to question. It is based on the idea that dogs are in danger of going mad. But in previous years in this city this precaution has not been necessary and it has against it the fact that it is inhuman to the dogs. It has a tendency to worry them; it hurts their feelings; it causes them discomfort. Cross dogs should be muzzled, but why should household pets, which are properly cared for, be compelled to suffer. Some men get mad and use their fists unlawfully, why not issue a proclamation that all men should be shot who do not go around with their fists muzzled.

In accordance with an editorial prediction of the Argus, an accident has already occurred on the Whitmore Lake bicycle path, by which a young lady was badly injured. It occurred after dark and the colliding bicycles did not carry lanterns. There will be more accidents on that path, if the bicyclers do not carry lanterns. Human lives are in danger nightly, not only in that path but in the streets of this city by the failure of the council to pass a bicycle ordinance. This ordinance is needed not only for the protection of those who do not use wheels, but also for those who do. In fact, the bicyclers themselves are the ones who are most apt to be injured by the failure of all wheelmen to use proper precautions. Bicycling has come for all time. Let the changed conditions it has brought about receive full recognition. A bicycling ordinance is a crying need in Ann Arbor. The next death which occurs may be laid to the negligence of the council.

The senior class of the University were guilty of a very discourteous act in their intentional failure to invite the regents of the University to the senior reception. The class was composed of young men and women, who had just finished their college educations, which they had been enabled to obtain at a mere trifle of its actual cost by the bounty of the state, administered by the regents, who have devoted their time and energies to this work without compensation. It was a disgraceful act to thus insult these men. The excuse for doing it is a trifling one. In order to help on the gymnasium work in which these young men and women have pretended to be interested, and to defray the expense of opening and lighting the building by the state, the regents had adopted the rule that all organizations using it for receptions or parties should pay $100 for the use. The seniors were not compelled to use it. They could have put up a tent as formerly at an expense greatly exceeding $100. Receptions are not part of gymnastic work. If the four years' college work has not taught the recipients to be courteous, it has failed in part. We doubt if future classes can be induced to follow the footsteps of '97.

Judge Donovan spoiled what otherwise would have been a good Fourth of July oration in this city last Saturday, delivered in good voice as it was, by descending to the level of partisan politics and making a republican stump speech. He would cure all evils by more taxes. He would increase the price of our farm products by shutting out foreign farm products, forgetting that the price of our great staples is fixed by competition with foreign products, not in the home markets, but in foreign markets, so that to increase the price at home, he must increase the price abroad. He would build up the factories by taxes paid by the farmers and the workingmen, forgetting that for many years we have been striving to do this and our industries still cling to the title of infant. In the next breath he told how Prince Albert built up the English manufactures, but he forgot to tell his hearers that it was done under free trade and without the aid of any tariff taxation. England failed to build up her factories during the period of heavy tariff taxation. These have been developed since she entered upon her course of free trade, and she became mistress of the seas after we built our tariff wall. It is well enough to talk of increasing the yield of farms without further bringing down the prices of farm products. This can only be done by increasing exports, the money standard remaining the same. You cannot foster commerce by putting barriers to prevent trading. Commerce is a matter of barter and trade. Reduce it to individuals. You are less liable to sell your products to a man, who knows you have forbidden your family to purchase any of his products. But this question is out of place in a Fourth of July oration, addressed to people who, honestly differ on the question of tariff taxation.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH PICNIC At Whitmore Lake Was Attended by Many People.

Two celebrations of the Fourth of July by the citizens of one town in one year is rather a queer state of things, but such was practically the case in Ann Arbor this year. While Saturday, July 3, was the big public celebration, Monday, July 5, was the private individual's celebration, the stores were pretty generally closed and the merchants, clerks and artisans took a holiday. A large proportion of them wended their way by train, bicycle or horse and carriage to Whitmore Lake, where the people of St. Thomas' parish, Ann Arbor, had made arrangements for a mammoth picnic, with program of music and speeches, winding up with a balloon ascension. The picnic was very largely attended and the pleasure of the day was in nowise spoiled by the heavy shower of rain which fell between 11 and 12 o'clock shortly after the arrival of the train which left Ann Arbor at 10:10 o'clock.

A fine dinner was spread by the good people of the parish of St. Thomas', Ann Arbor, assisted by those of St. Patrick's church, Northfield, who together with their indomitable pastor Rev. L. P. Goldrick, did yeoman service in contributing to the success of the day. The dinner was well patronized and so it should be as the price, 25 cents, was small enough for even a bootblack to indulge in a good square meal.

Shortly after 3 p. m. Rev. L. P. Goldrick, who had been pressed into service as toastmaster by Fr. Kelly, mounted the platform and called the assemblage to order. He made a brief opening address which was both patriotic and humorous, and then called on Becker's Military Band, of Ann Arbor, to play the national air "Hail Columbia." Mayor Charles E. Hiscock was not present and Hon. F. J. McDonald, of Toledo, orator of the day and an old Washtenaw county boy, to speak on "The Day We Celebrate." The gentleman delighted his hearers with an eloquent and at times impassioned speech full of fire and patriotism and was loudly applauded for his fine effort at its close.

A solo, by Frank McIntyre "I Live for Thee," was exceedingly well sung. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Nellie Brown, who did a like service for Mr. Kelly and Miss Caspary.

Henry Conlin, of Webster, was the next speaker and the subject of his talk was "Our boys." Henry did himself proud and in the course of his remarks managed to weave in two or three good jokes on Fr. Goldrick, but that gentleman got back at him when he next got on his feet and charged him with having been the means some time ago of giving the epizootic to all the horses in Northfield. The crowd was intensely amused at each good crack that was given and gave each man his share of applause.

Joseph Kelly, of Ann Arbor, gave a fine baritone solo, "Let All Obey," and was followed by a soprano solo from Miss Frances Caspary, whose voice is hardly strong enough for out door singing.

Fr. Kelly then severally thanked the parties who had done so much to make the picnic a success and retired in favor of James E. Harkins. Jim has always been a favorite with a Whitmore Lake audience and he had evidently lost none of his popularity Monday. Accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Harkins he first sang "My girl's a high born lady." He was enthusiastically encored and sang "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight." Again he was encored and he responded with "Sweet Rosy O'Grady." This brought the program to a close and the people dispersed until it was time for the balloon to go up.

The time set for the balloon ascension was 6 o'clock but it was just about 7 when it rose from the earth with George B. Rooney hanging to it by a bar. He did not use a parachute and dropped to the ground with the balloon about half a mile from where he went up making a very pretty ascension. The first train then started for Ann Arbor and from that time until after midnight the train ran to and from bringing home the large number of people who had got out to the lake.

During the day a baseball game was played between the Ann Arbor Browns and the Atlantis, of Ypsilanti, which resulted in favor of the Browns.

ANN ARBOR'S FOURTH

cloths possessed by the French, so that the British artisans were encouraged to improve their products and compete on better terms with the French. What's the matter with the farmer boys of Ann Arbor? They are most all right. They have been on vacations, to college, which is excellent, to cities, which is information. But fashion is turning to the farms for homesteads. All over England it's the fashion. Gov. Morton, Senator Stewart, Tom Palmer and others live in the country. The whole "400" in Cleveland, Rochester, Cincinnati and San Francisco have adopted the fashion of residing in the country.

We are learning a great lesson by experience. We have taken in too many emigrants to have them conform to our laws and customs. They crowd out our farm boys. The compel our boys to compete with ill-clad and poorly paid men and women. Time was when a farm boy could learn a trade and earn a fine place as builder and be in society. Now the Poland has out that salary into half rate, and machines are cutting the rates of labor. Today it seems too common to labor. We must raise the old standard. It is not enough to own a farm, but to know how to farm. It is not enough to be a lawyer, one must be a good lawyer now to win cases or get out of the business. It is not enough to be a doctor. He must cure cases and be a good doctor. Looking at our country as we would at a farm or a business house, we need more patient courage to overcome difficulties. We need more power to return pleasure, more of the "think for yourself," more intense thinking. We only know but little yet, only a millionth part says Edison. The cars and telegrams and wheels and machines are good enough, not cheap enough. The farms are large enough, they can raise more bushels, but too many bushels are imported. Too many pounds of wool are imported, too many millions worth of cloth are brought in; and by far too many millionaire girls are exported to buy $5,000 titles.

Public sentiment can do much to reform great evils. It can build better roads, it can protect farm products; it can increase trade by reciprocity. I am a firm believer in Blaine's plan of commerce. We can do more. We can take in Cuba. We need her coffee. We can say to Germany and France and the East, take our meat as here inspected or keep your products on the other side. We have a glorious future. If we are honest, temperate, wise and ingenious, we shall win great rank among nations. We have more money since election. We are digging more millions of gold yearly, which means we can float more silver. We must start up the factories. We must begin again to make up our earth into money and not buy too much ready made earth. We want more hope and have a grander view. We must look to the future. I see a great era just ahead, when wages shall be higher, when factories shall reopen, men find employment, farm products find a market, when young men will stop going to cities and find happiness on the farms, when front rooms shall be open and farm homes warmed by coal fires, when American boys will be good enough for American girls to marry, when farmers shall hold seats in congress, when the luxuries of life shall be a common blessing of the mass. Farmers and farmers' boys, take the whole matter home. Forgive your enemies, learn to please people, please them by prompt payments, by cheerful living. Make your homes happier, make your lives sweeter, use your cattle and horses and animals with kindness and love your wives and children more. Read good books and papers, trust in God and vote for good men and wise laws and you will be happy. Let us all stop grumbling at a government that we can amend by careful voting. Let us not leave to Providence what belongs to our labor. Let us encourage home trade. Let us get things to give for money and not expect money for nothing. The government will not cut firewood or plow your summer fallow. Good times will come first to those who are most cheerful and most industrious. If you want better laws watch the caucuses. If you want better roads vote for them. If you want finer farms improve your stock and plow deeper. If you want fewer boys to go to cities, beat the city life by country homes. If you seek happiness, think about it seven days each week.

The trolley and the wheel will bring Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Saline in as suburbs of Detroit in five years, with Pontiac, Dearborn and Wayne in one year. The cities are soon to be trading centers, while the farms will turn into gardens and homes for the people. Be ready young men with attractive places to fill the markets and brains to catch the changes. Be ready, young men, when the times comes. If it was a foot race, horse race or bike race, you would be ready. Are you ready for the contest in life's arena?

At 4 p. m. the fire department, under Chief Siple, gave an exhibition of modern methods of putting out fires which was characterized by those experienced in such matters, who witnessed it, as the best exhibition of its kind they had ever seen. During the rest of the afternoon a band concert occupied the attention of those who chose to listen to it, the balloon ascension having been postponed until later.

The baseball game on the athletic field, between the Ann Arbor Browns and Jackson Athletic Club resulted in a victory for the Browns by the close score of 9 to 8. It was a good game and well worth seeing.

The bicycle races at the fair grounds attracted a good sized crowd and were productive of considerable sport. The open and handicap races were run in exceptionally good time in spite of the hot weather. Wanderer and Miller, of Detroit, gave an exhibition half mile on a tandem, in :59 1-5, and breaking the amateur state record. Ann Arbor riders won the largest number of prizes, but Detroit riders captured two of the most valuable. The results in the several races were as follows:

One mile novice—C. M. Banfield, first; S. Sanford, Detroit, second; T. Dodsley, third. Time, 2:44.

Half-mile open—O. Wanderer, Detroit, first; H. Felter, Detroit, second; H. Stofflet, third. Time, 1:07 1-5.

One mile handicap—E. M. Stofflet, first; H. J. Richards, second; H. Felter, third. Time, 1:15 4-5.

One mile consolation—P. C. Meyers, first; F. Whitlark, second; G. P. Henry, third; G. W. Campbell, fourth. Time, 2:55.

Foot race, 220 yards dash—C. Stevens, first. Time, :24 1-5.

At 6:45 p. m. the dress parade was given by the military companies under command of Major Howell, of Adrian.

In the meanwhile a dense crowd had been gathering and by the time the parade was over the court house square and streets around it were thronged with people, pushing, crowding and jamming each other, all anxious to see the balloon ascend. But it was after 8 o'clock before the huge bag was filled with air and then it took two attempts before it finally soared above the court house and George B. Rooney, the aeronaut, let loose from it and made his parachute drop, landing back of W. F. Stimson's store, on E. Ann st. The ascension was not a success.

Even before the balloon ascended the fireworks display had begun and it was both a good and brilliant one. Sky rockets, mines, batteries, wheels, Roman candles, geysers and whirlwinds, balloons, rocket bouquets, parachute rockets and exhibition pieces followed one another or were exhibited at the same time in rapid succession for nearly an hour at the end of which time even the most enthusiastic admirer of fireworks was satiated. The fireworks ended the celebration, and it was a very quiet and orderly celebration at that.

With the exception of one accident everything passed off all right. That accident happened to Dr. John Wm. Keating, who, while watching the balloon being cast from its moorings, was struck on the head by a falling scantling which inflicted a nasty scalp wound.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand for twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effect following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent by mail, mention the Argus and send your full post-office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

The ice cream social and picnic given for the benefit of the north side church by the ladies, last Monday afternoon on the island, proved a success both financially and otherwise. The north side mandolin and guitar club furnished excellent music, and a good time was declared by everyone present. It is proposed to hold several of these picnics during the summer and it is also intended to fix up the island for picnic purposes.

WHEN HIS MA GETS NEW. Aw, what's a feller a-goin' to do When his ma gets new? When she gets so full o' fits an' fads She's got no time for little tads; An' wears a sweater, roasts or freeze, An' a pair o' pants that bag at th' knees; An' scoresches, an' rows, an' spars, an' walks, An' goes t' fizzical culcher talks— Aw, what's a feller a-goin' to do When his ma gets new? Say, I'm in th' worst fix ever 'saw— I can't tell ma fr'm pa! They act alike an' dress th' same An' ride a wheel with a dimon' frame Smoke cigarettes an' stay out nights To clubs an' 'venues' an' Woman's Rights Spend an hour ev'ry day a-punchin' a bag; Calls kid's 'caddies' an' a horse a 'nag'— Darn, What's a feller a-goin' to do When his ma gets new? I've been in one continual stew Since ma got new. 'I don't think life'll be worth two dimes 'F I'm licked with a golf stick many more times Ma says she "will surely puncture my tire 'F I don't keep baby out o' th' fire." While she makes a century run 'er so, An' forgets all about her light-bred dough— Aw, what's a feller a-goin' to do When his ma get's new? —Herbert Grissom in Truth.

The Young Ladies' Society of the Bethlehem church celebrated its 25th anniversary in the parlors of the church last evening. Rev. Paul Irion, of Freedom, delivered the address and the pastor, Rev. John Neumann, gave a report of the work of the society since its organization.

The hours during which the Ann Arbor postoffice will be opened on Sunday have been changed to from 9 to 10 a. m., local time. This is half an hour earlier than for the past three years and is caused by the taking off of the mail train which formerly reached here at about 10 o'clock.

Mrs. W. E. Howe, of 106 W. Huron st., has been more unfortunate than commonly falls to the lot of one member of the human family. About three weeks ago she fell and dislocated her right shoulder. This hurt was mending nicely when on Tuesday she went to walk down the steps from the house and tripped on her shoestrings, which were unloosed, and falling down she broke her right hip. Drs. Morton and Smith were summoned who put her under chloroform and set the fracture. The poor lady is almost as badly off as if she were paralyzed on her right side.

Railroad Jack is traveling around among the neighboring towns, making speeches. Jack should seek new fields. He has ceased to be a curiosity and is becoming something of a chestnut.—Dexter Leader. He cannot "become" a chestnut, Mr. Leader, he was always that. A tramp is not a new thing by any means.

June 26, L. Whitney Watkins, acting under instructions for the state game and fish warden, went to Bridgewater and served warrants on Wm. Westphal, jr., Gotlob Benzler, Henry Brass, Adam Hoerning and Insego Arnold for illegal fishing. They will be examined in Justice Pond's court in this city on Wednesday, July 28.

Notice has been given the employees of the Geddes paper mill that it will be shut down tomorrow and remain so indefinitely. The mill has been in operation for 17 years and the longest time heretofore that work has been discontinued has been two weeks, but the proprietors do not hold out any prospects of the industry ever starting up again.—Times.

It is now proposed to authorize postmasters and deputies to open letters on which no postage stamps have been placed, to learn the name of the writer and avoid sending them to the dead-letter office. If all who write would have their names and address printed on the envelopes they use, as the post office department requests, no such trouble would occur.

At the meeting of the state board of pharmacy at Star Island last week, the officers elected were as follows: F. W. R. Perry, of Detroit, president; George Gundrum, of Ionia, secretary; A. C. Schumacher, of Ann Arbor, treasurer. It was decided to hold the next examination at the Soo, Aug. 4-5. Of the 24 pharmacists and assistants who were granted certificates not one was from Washtenaw county.

Mr. Charles Nicola and Miss Marie K. Byington, both of whom were graduated from the medical department here July 1, were married that evening at the Adventist church on S. Division st. Both the young people are from Battle Creek and are prominent in Seventh Day Adventist circles. They were given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Martin, 68 E. University ave., which was attended by Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Martin and the senior medical class as guests. Mr. and Mrs. Nicola had quite an exciting time on the east bound train with some of their friends whom they had sought to avoid. They will spend a short time in Battle Creek, after which they will go to their new home which is a new sanitarium Dr. Kellogg has established near Mexico city.

Only two arrests were made all day Saturday.

The Ypsilanti depot garden is nearly ready for the season's inspection. Mr. Laidlow's chief work is a realistic log cabin with its accompanying well, well-sweep and bucket—one of the greatest effects Mr. L. has ever produced. Another novelty is the reproduction of the Liberty Bell which is just receiving the finishing touches.—Ypsilanti.

In the July number of the North American Review, Elizabeth Bisland, discusses very seriously the peculiar question "Are American Parents Selfish?" Miss Bisland expresses the opinion that throughout all Europe, including England, the responsibility of the parent is more broadly conceived than in this country.

Unlike the Manchester celebration last year when everything was free, the Ann Arbor folks intend to charge 25 cents admission to see the bicycle races and sports at the fair grounds.—Manchester Enterprise. Everything the Fourth of July committee had to do with was free, Bro. Blosser, but the bicycle races and baseball game were practically private enterprises.

The people of Pinckney and Stockbridge both, together with all other people of the county and vicinity are invited to come to Ann Arbor July 8, and attend the monster celebration there.—Courier. If you had held a legal day celebration, and not a devil-please one some of us would have gone.—Stockbridge Sun. Well, we got along very well without you, Mr. Sun.

The board of regents has awarded the contract for the machinery for the new lighting plant to the Ridgeway Dynamo and Engine Company, of Ridgeway, Pa. Work will be begun at once. Prof. Carhart was made scientific superintendent of the work and he will have complete control of the wiring of the buildings. Engineering students in the university will be given work on the plant whenever practicable.

Pat McCabe is the owner of what may be properly designated "a happy family." The members of it form a very unique collection and consist of two great-horned owls, a long-eared owl, a crow and a game rooster, all of which live together in the happiest manner in a cage about four by six feet in dimensions. A peculiar feature is that the birds in a wild state are naturally deadly enemies to each other.—Dexter Leader.

Rev. C. J. Deyo, of Britton, Lenawee county, delivered a sermon to the Masons in which he said: "I have been told that the Masons killed Morgan. I don't believe it, but will give you the benefit of the doubt. The Catholics and protestants have killed thousands, while the whole Masonic fraternity is accused of killing one man." There are a great many others who think as Mr. Deyo does. The sermon has caused considerable discussion.

George Schill, a veteran of the war of the rebellion, and a member of Welch Post, G. A. R., died at his home on the north side, Wednesday morning, of heart trouble, aged 74 years. The funeral services will be held at the house this afternoon under the auspices of the G. A. R. and the remains will be interred in the Fifth ward cemetery. Deceased had no family and no relatives and what property he died possessed of he has willed to his housekeeper who had taken good care of him in his life.

They are telling a good story on the regents of the university. The members of the board brought their wives and dress suits preparatory to attending the senior reception Tuesday evening at the gymnasium, it having been customary for them to be honored guests on that evening. But the seniors had paid the $100 rental for use of the gymnasium and figured that the regents could as easily and properly pay for their admission. It was quite a joke on the regents and they did not enjoy it immensely. The seniors were short of regents at their reception in consequence.—Times.

The 4th of July

Will be a glorious day for all who buy their clothing at our store this week.

Every Suit in Our Establishment will be sold at a sacrifice. Men's, Boys' and Children's Suits. Heavy Weights, Spring Weights and Summer Clothing, nothing reserved. By buying a suit of us this week you can save enough money to celebrate the 4th in a fitting manner. This is not the kind of a reduction sale some merchants have from the 1st of January to the 31st of December, but a genuine reduction sale, giving a heavy discount from the original price, such as we can afford to give but once a year.

It Means a Week's Sale Without Any Profit to Us.

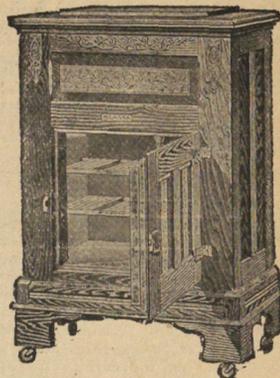

But we are bound that everybody shall turn out on this glorious day as becomes a patriotic American. So come along, bring your cash and be fitted out with the best clothing in the wide world at the lowest possible price.

A GREAT EXPENSE

To Carry on an Almost Helpless Fight. —At Last the Fight is Over.

(From the Battle Creek Moon.)

Our representative called at 26 Battle Creek Avenue, the residence of S. I. Robbins, and in an interview with him brought out the following facts: Mr. Robbins tells of his wife's experience in a manner that carries conviction with his words. He says: "I am sorry my wife is not at home this P. M., but no one knows better than I how she has suffered during past years. For twenty years she has been afflicted with the various forms of kidney complaint and an enlargement of the liver. She was often confined to her bed for more than two weeks at a time suffering untold agony. She has doctored constantly, and I have paid out in doctors' bills for her alone as much as $900.00, and then her relief was only such that she would be able to be around for a spell. Some time ago she felt the symptoms of another attack coming on, such as a pain in through the kidneys and back. I hardly know what induced me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, instead of sending for the family physician; however, I got some and she commenced their use. It was a surprise to us both to see their action; the attack was warded off, and she continued taking them with marked improvement each day of their use. She is better now than she has been in years, the pain in the back and others in the kidneys have entirely gone. Hardly a day goes by that we do not mention the great good Doan's Kidney Pills have done her. I was always opposed to patent medicines, but confess that my wife's experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has done much to change my opinions. If it were not for those pills she would not have been able to be out this afternoon."

Medical Effects of Electricity.

In a recent communication to the Societe Internationale des Electriciens concerning the therapeutic and physiological effects of high frequency currents M. d'Arsonval showed the powerful inductive effects which can be obtained with these currents. A striking experiment consists of placing three lamps in tension, allowing the current to pass through the body. These currents cause no sensations, and a man placed in a circuit does not feel that he is traversed by the currents which brilliantly illuminate the lamps. The principal results of this electrification are an augmentation of the oxidations in the organism and an increase in the production of heat. A subject who, under ordinary conditions, eliminates 17 to 21 liters of carbonic acid per hour throws off 37 liters after having been submitted to this action. High frequency currents do not act solely upon the surface of the body, but also profoundly upon the interior. All of these results have been obtained upon a number of subjects by MM. Apostoli and Charrin.

M. d'Arsonval cited, in closing, the action exercised upon microbes and bacteria by these currents. The microbes and bacilli are modified, and the toxins are killed and transformed to vaccine. MM. d'Arsonval and Charrin hope by this method to arrive at a direct treatment for the interior of the bodies of patients suffering with zymotic disease, and experiments to this end have been begun.—Electrical World.

Mothers, Do You Know that paregoric and many so-called soothing syrups and most remedies for children contain opium in some of its forms, and that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons? If not then remember these facts, and avoid them as you value your child's life. Carter's Cascara Cordial is a purely vegetable article, carefully prepared, and will relieve your child of that sour stomach, which induces diarrhoea, relieve constipation and bring natural and healthy sleep, such as nature intended. Get a bottle from your druggist and you will be delighted by the results. Price, 25 and 50 cents. For sale by H. J. Brown.

A London Incident.

Landlords in poor districts in London are not allowed to take the tools of a defaulting tenant for rent. Yet a woman complained to the magistrate in west London that her landlord had seized her sewing machine for rent, and so had deprived her of the means of livelihood. The machine did not belong to her. She had it on the hire system. The magistrate told her that she could not recover it, and she would not only have to lose the machine, but also to pay its value to the firm from which she hired it.—Woman's Journal.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

Many Persons Lose Their Lives in the Water.

SKIFF RUN DOWN BY A STEAMER.

Four Young People of Little Rock and Pine Bluff, Ark., Are Thrown into the Water and Drowned—Overloaded Boat Results in the Loss of Four Lives in Superior Bay—Well-Known Railway Man Killed by a Bomb Explosion.

Little Rock, Ark., July 6.—A terrible accident occurred on the river Monday night which resulted in the drowning of four persons. The drowned are: Miss Jessie Sanders, aged 18, of Little Rock; Miss Mary Arbor, aged 19, of Little Rock; Jacob Dante and Joseph Dante of Pine Bluff, Ark. Miss Arbor was the daughter of Mrs. Arbor, and was prominent in Jewish society circles in this city. Miss Sanders was a beautiful young lady. Miss Arbor and the Dante brothers were in the skiff on the river where they had gone to view the fireworks being set off from the center of the new bridge. When the pyrotechnic display was over the pleasure steamer U. K. Riggs started on an excursion up the river and ran down the skiff, throwing all the occupants into the water.

Skiff Was Overloaded.

Superior, Wis., July 6.—A terrible accident occurred in Superior bay Monday afternoon, which resulted in the death of four persons, all residents of Itaska, a small railroad suburb near Superior. A party of seven persons started to cross the bay to Wisconsin point. The skiff, which was overloaded, soon began to dip water, and shortly afterward capsized. Those who lost their lives are: Daniel McDonald, aged 19; Mamie McDonald aged 29; Christie McDonald, aged 16; Burton McCreary, a fireman on the Omaha railroad, unmarried, aged 27.

Entire Family Drowned.

San Antonio, Tex., July 6.—George Reedy, a ranchman, his wife and two children were drowned in the Rio Grande while trying to cross the river in a skiff.

HENRY E. STONE KILLED.

Exploding Bomb Causes the Death of a Well-Known Man.

Nonquit, Mass., July 6.—Henry B. Stone of Chicago, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway, was instantly killed by the explosion of a bomb at his summer home here. The children were discharging fireworks on the lawn. Mr. Stone's little daughter asked him to fire off a bomb. He lighted it and threw it from him, but the explosion did not follow. After waiting a short time, Mr. Stone cautiously approached the spot where the bomb lay and bent over to see what the trouble was. Just then it exploded. Large fragments struck Mr. Stone's head, and he fell instantly killed.

Accident to Aeronauts.

Eureka, Cal., July 6.—Professor George Weston, the aeronaut, and his assistant, H. S. Colton of Aberdeen, Wash., were fearfully crushed while the former was attempting an ascension and parachute jump. When the balloon was inflated and the restraining ropes cast off it shot up sixty feet with Colton tangled in the ropes. He was dropped to the earth and sustained fractures and bruises from which he will die. Weston clung to the parachute and a strong wind carried him with terrific force through the tops of some trees and he, too, dropped to earth, crushed and mangled in a terrible manner.

Boy Killed by an Explosion.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 6.—The 10-year-old son of H. S. Webb, a farmer who resides five miles from this city, lost his life from the explosion of a keg of blasting powder. It seems that the boy was celebrating the 4th of July by using blasting powder. In some manner he dropped a piece of burning fuse on the keg of powder and in his attempt to brush it off fell into the keg and ignited the powder. The explosion burned the boy so badly that he died a few hours later.

Three Killed in a Wreck.

Woodsville, N. H., July 6.—A freight train on the White Mountain division of the Boston and Maine railroad was wrecked by a washout at a point four miles north of this station early Tuesday. Three men were killed and the engine and three cars were badly wrecked. The killed were: Patrick Lenton, engineer, Whitefield, N. H.; Bert Pebbles, fireman, Woodsville, N. H.; O. E. Lange, brakeman, Berlin, N. H.

Deaths from Heat at Detroit.

Detroit, July 6.—The list of persons who died in this city from sunstroke and heat prostration Monday was swelled Tuesday to thirteen. One boy was killed in a runaway caused by fireworks and a little girl was fatally burned. Fifteen others were injured by fireworks accidents.

Chicago Victims of the Fourth.

Chicago, July 6.—The list of dead and wounded as a culmination of too much pyrotechnic patriotism is appalling, and far beyond previous records. So far as ascertained from the police reports five are dead and a dozen more seriously injured and a score or more laid up for repairs.

Killed by a Jersey Bull.

Platteville, Wis., July 6.—George H. Goodridge of this city was killed by a Jersey bull Monday. His brother-in-law, Elijah Bailey, was killed in the same yard and in the same manner eighteen years ago.

Killed by Lightning.

Independence, Kan., July 6.—Lightning struck the house of Milton Gregory Monday night, instantly killing Sam Gregory, aged 16. His brother Jade was rendered unconscious and was not expected to live.

Are Working Full Time.

Sedalia, Mo., July 6.—One of the evidences of the improving condition of business along the line of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway is shown here in the resumption of full time in the extensive shops of that road in this city. From this on the employees will work nine hours per day and six days a week.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Wisconsin Farmer Said to Have Killed Fred Nelson.

Hayward, Wis., July 6.—Eugene Buell, a farmer, living near here, lies in jail charged with the murder of Fred Nelson, with whom he was associated in business last September and who has not been seen since. At that time Nelson drew $400 from the bank here and went off with Buell. The next report was that on account of some scrape Nelson had been forced to leave this part of the country temporarily.

Early last winter Buell bought a farm a few miles west of here, paying cash for most of it. It seems that parties have been searching the woods on the quiet since the snow has gone off and a couple of days ago a man named Wetenhall and an Indian were going along an old trail near Round Lake. They came across a jawbone and pieces of the skull of a man and in a clump of bushes near by they found the clothing and the rest of the well-picked bones of a human body. The top of the skull had been crushed in by a heavy blow. The clothing was identified as belonging to Nelson. Buell was immediately put in jail on suspicion. He was called up for his preliminary hearing but waived examination and it was postponed until Thursday.

THINGS ARE WARM AT HONOLULU.

American Girl Beaten by Japanese Sailors, Who Are Later Thumped.

Vancouver, B. C., July 6.—The latest mail advices from Honolulu say that Miss Nellie West, an American lady, was severely beaten by two Japanese marines from the war ship Naniwa recently, while trying to assault her brother, who had been set upon by a number of men-of-war men from the Japanese navy. She was confined to her bed next morning and was unable to appear against her assailants in court, where they were charged with assault and battery.

Feeling here runs high over the matter. A well-known business man knocked down three Naniwa sailors on the street the following morning in consequence, while American blue jackets went hunting for the ringleaders of the Japanese who made the assault. One who was pointed out to them as being guilty was so severely beaten by them that his life now depends on the result of a delicate operation.

Report on Jackson Prison.

Lansing, Mich., July 6.—Warden Chamberlain of the state prison at Jackson has submitted to Governor Piggree his report for the fiscal year ending June 30. It shows that the average number of men in prison during that period was 817. The number in prison at the beginning of the year was 824; received by sentence, 261; escapes returned, 1; returned from the asylum for dangerous and criminal insane, 2; paroled convicts returned, 2; total receipts, 1,090. The number discharged at expiration of sentence, 186; escaped, 1; discharged by order of the supreme court, 2; new trials granted, 2; transferred to the asylum for dangerous and criminal insane, 13; transferred to the Detroit house of correction, 1; pardoned, 17; paroled, 13; total departures from prison, 247. Total number in prison at the close of the year, 843.

To Arbitrate the Miners' Strike.

Indianapolis, July 6.—The Indiana labor commission Tuesday sent letters to the labor commissions of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois inviting them to meet with the Indiana commission in this city at as early a day as possible to consider the possibilities of arbitrating the coal miners' strike. The Indiana commission hopes for favorable responses to its invitation and in case the labor commissions of the four states meet with them in an endeavor to terminate the strike before it is far under way.

Astor Feels Snubbed.

London, July 6.—William Waldorf Astor is indignant because his paper, The Pall Mall Gazette, was omitted from the invitation list for the queen's party at Windsor castle Saturday to members of the house of commons and their wives. The Gazette therefore boycotts the entertainment, explaining: "We have to apologize to our readers for the absence of any account of what must have been a most interesting function, but as we did not see it we cannot describe it."

Twenty-Five Thousand Affected.

London, July 7.—In consequence of the strike of engineers in London in support of their demand for an eight-hour work day, the Federated Employers' association has posted notices throughout Great Britain locking out 25 per cent. of the members of the striking societies. It is understood that the societies will order the remaining 75 per cent. of their members to leave work immediately. Twenty-five thousand men will be affected.

For Pardon of the Youngers.

Kansas City, July 6.—W. C. Bronaugh has left here to present to the Minnesota board of pardons a most formidable petition asking the pardon of Cole and Jim Younger, the bandits. The names of the petitioners, which are now made public for the first time, include some of the best known public men in the country.

Women Led the Mob.

Madrid, July 6.—A large crowd of women assembled at Alhacete, province of Murcia, and armed with sticks and spades, made an attack upon the active offices which they sacked. They then spread petroleum about and burned the place. There was also a riot at Cordova growing out of the collection of taxes.

Suicide of an Old Employee.

Chicago, July 6.—John Christianson, aged 45, head lineman for the Gold and Stock Telegraph company, was found dead Tuesday morning, having committed suicide in the vaults of his employers by asphyxiation with gas. Christianson had been in the employ of the company for twenty-five years.

Leaped to His Death.

Denver, July 6.—J. S. Cathon of Cleveland dashed himself from the observatory on top of the Equitable building to a grating just below the second floor, about 200 feet. He was instantly killed, almost every bone in his body being broken. No reason is assigned for the deed.

Death of an Aged Railway Man.

Toledo, O., July 6.—John R. Osborne, senior counsel and treasurer of the Wabash railroad up to 1891, when he resigned on account of blindness, died at the residence of his daughter in this city at 1 p. m. Monday, aged 84.

Fireplaces of Snow.

About the end of January, or when the sun again appears above the horizon, many families at the two Eskimo villages near Point Barrow, in Alaska, leave their winter houses and travel inland 75 or 100 miles to hunt reindeer along the upper waters of the large rivers that flow into the Arctic ocean east of the point. Here they encamp in large, comfortable snow houses, usually dug out in a solid snowdrift. Like all Eskimo winter houses, these are entered by means of a long, low tunnel, and opening out of one side of this tunnel there is a fireplace built of snow slabs.

A young man and his wife moved down from Point Barrow after winter had set in, and as there was no accommodation for them in any of the permanent wooden houses they built themselves a small hut from blocks of snow and roofed it over with sailcloth. I made them a visit one afternoon and found the house pretty cold and uncomfortable in spite of the large stone lamp that was burning all the time. The entrance tunnel was about ten feet long. At the left hand as you entered and close to the door was the fireplace. This was about 2½ feet square and neatly built of slabs of snow, with a smoke hole at the top and a stick stuck across at the proper height to hang a pot on. When the first fire is built in such a fireplace, there is considerable melting of the surface of the snow, but as soon as the fire is allowed to go out this freezes to a hard glaze of ice, which afterward melts only a very little. These fireplaces are used only for cooking, as the Eskimos rely wholly on the oil lamps for warming the dwelling.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Thousands Celebrate

With thankfulness their restoration to health by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Think of the vast army who have been cured by this medicine—Men women and children, who have suffered the consequences of impure blood, who have been the victims of scrofula sores, eruptions, dyspepsia, nervousness, sleeplessness. They have tried other medicines and have failed to obtain relief. They tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did them good. They persevered in its use and it accomplished permanent cures. Do you wonder that they praise it and recommend it to you?

Shown Up Still Again.

The haughty beauty glanced at the card that the servant had brought her and noticed that it bore the name of a titled fortune hunter of unsavory reputation. "Show him up," she said. "What, again?" asked the footman in surprise. "Again?" repeated the haughty beauty, "What do you mean?" "Why, the papers have already shown him up once," answered the footman, who had been doing a little reading. "Nevertheless," returned the haughty beauty, with her most imperious gesture, "it is necessary to show him up before I can turn him down." Saying which she turned to a mirror to practice the icy stare for which she had become noted.—Chicago Post.

Salaries of Rulers.

The royal family of England costs the British government, in round numbers, $3,000,000 annually. Of this sum the queen receives nearly $2,000,000 a year, besides the revenues from the duchy of Lancaster, which amount to a quarter of a million. The lord lieutenant of Ireland receives $100,000 a year for his services and expenses, and the Prince of Wales $200,000 a year.

The president of France receives $240,000 a year for salary and expenses, an enormous salary, when it is remembered that the republic is sweating under a stupendous national debt of more than $6,000,000,000, the largest debt ever incurred by any nation in the world. Italy can have 10,000 men slaughtered in Abyssinia and still pay her king $2,600,000 a year. The civil list of the German emperor is about $4,000,000 a year, besides large revenues from vast estates belonging to the royal family.

The czar of all the Russias owns in fee simple 1,003,000 square miles of cultivated land and enjoys an income of $12,000,000. The king of Spain, little Alfonso XIII, if he be of a saving disposition, will be one of the richest sovereigns in Europe when he comes of age. The state allows him $1,400,000 a year, with an additional $600,000 for family expenses.

We are said to be the richest nation on earth, yet our president's salary is only $50,000 a year. It was only $25,000 from 1789 to 1873.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

NO BEET SUGAR BOUNTY

Action Taken by Republican Senators in Caucus.

IS POSTPONED TILL DECEMBER.

It Will Come Up as an Independent Measure the First Thing After the Meeting of Congress—President McKinley and Party Return to Washington from Canton—Suffered from the Heat on the Journey—Condition of Senator Harris.

Washington, July 6.—The Republican senatorial caucus Tuesday decided to not again present a beet sugar bounty amendment to the tariff bill, and Senator Allison was authorized to have the amendment offered by Senator Allen tabled.

The discussion in the caucus bore entirely upon the question of policy in postponing the bounty matter and there were several brief speeches bearing on both sides of the suggestion that it should go over.

Motion Made by Morrill.

The motion to this effect was, however, made by Senator Morrill, after a motion made by Senator Davis to stand by the finance committee in withdrawing the amendment had carried.

Held Out Quite Stiffly.

Senators Thurston, Perkins, Gear and other western senators held out quite stiffly for the incorporation of the bounty provision in the tariff bill, but when the decision was made against them acquiesced in it gracefully.

RETURN OF THE PRESIDENT.

He Suffered Considerably from the Heat During His Journey.

Washington, July 6.—President McKinley and his party returned here from Canton at 1:47 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on the regular train over the Pennsylvania railroad. The party consisted of the President and Mrs. McKinley, Miss Mabel McKinley, Miss Buckingham of Canton, and Assistant Secretary of State Day.

A MAN OF APPETITE.

AN AWFUL ORDEAL FOR A DYSPPEPTIC LITTLE LAWYER.

Went Into the Restaurant Just to Have a Few Oysters—Met Mr. Grump, the Brewer, Who Was Lunching a Little Before Going Home to Supper.

"There used to be a famous place for these things down in Atlanta," remarked the portly gentleman as he cautiously eyed the Welsh rabbit and sipped his musty ale.

"Why, don't these suit you?" asked the man who had never traveled.

"Oh, yes, fine, but I was just thinking of a little incident that occurred there."

"A story, is it? Well, let's have it." "It's not much of a story, but I will tell it the best I can. You see, the place I spoke of was kept by a man named Beirmister and was not only famous for its Welsh rabbits, but for its oysters and hard crabs as well. Delicious they were too."

"There was a dyspeptic little lawyer around town, sharp and shrewd, but a martyr to the stomach. He used to go around with the boys until some one would suggest going over to Beirmister's and getting some crabs and beer; then you could count the lawyer out. The boys would try to persuade him by telling him how delightful were the crabs, how succulent the oysters, but the lawyer would flee from them in terror at the thought."

"About 5 o'clock one fine afternoon in the early spring a friend and myself were journeying toward Beirmister's when we met the dyspeptic lawyer. As usual, he stopped us for a little chat, and we walked down the street together. In a few moments we were in front of Beirmister's, and my friend, taking a different tack, persuaded the little lawyer to enter with us on the plea that we would find no one in at this time of day and that we were only going to eat a few oysters."

"Once inside, we found the place crowded. The seats at the tables were all occupied, except at one table, over in a far corner of the room, at which there were three vacant chairs, the fourth being occupied by a fat German brewer named Grump. We knew Grump, and so went to this table. I introduced the lawyer—Blakely, I believe his name was—to the brewer and ordered beer for the crowd. The lawyer protested, so we left him out."

"Mr. Grump," I remarked, "we are about to have a few oysters. Won't you join us?" "Vell, you see, I have alretty something ordered."

"Oh, that's all right," I insisted. "A few oysters will give you an appetite." "Is dot so? Yah, I take me a few—chust von leetle dozen."

"My friend had been engaged in an earnest conversation with the lawyer while I was talking to the jolly old German, and when the waiter came with the beers he told him to bring some crabs, 2½ dozen oysters on the shell and a glass of hot water. He had persuaded Blakely to try some oysters."

"At Beirmister's when an order was given for crabs they invariably brought a dozen, and you paid for as many as you consumed out of that number. The waiter soon returned with oysters, crabs and hot water. In the meantime Grump, who was a great talker, had struck up a conversation with the lawyer, and they were cracking jokes at a great rate."

"Blakely's courage fell when the oysters were placed before him. He manfully drank the hot water and commenced to imitate Grump's heroic style of eating oysters. He managed to down two and then laid his fork gently by his plate and fastened his eyes on Grump. With the aid of a few glassfuls of beer the brewer's oysters had vanished. My friend had managed to get away with two crabs and insisted that Grump help him dispose of the remainder. I was still busy with my dozen oysters."

"Vell, I help you some," said Grump, and picking up a knife he went at those crabs like a dorky shucking oysters. The dyspeptic watched him as if fascinated and remarked in a sneering tone that came straight from the stomach: "You have a good appetite, Mr. Grump."

"Yah, I t'ink pretty goot," and he actively went for another crab. The dish was cleared in a few moments, and I made a mental note that Grump had eaten nine crabs, a dozen large oysters, and drank ten glasses of beer. When the crabs were no more, Grump called to a waiter:

"Here, Franz, I am waiting." "Franz disappeared, and in a few moments brought in a large Welsh rabbit and deposited it before Grump. I could see the little lawyer shrink from the odor wafted across the table, but he was game and would have staid at that table until he died. Grump insisted that we share the dish with him, but all hands refused."

"With apparent relish and a fresh glass of beer he attacked the rabbit, and in an incredibly short time the dish was clear of the least particle. Grump wiped his mouth, folded his napkin, and called for another round of beers. If I had not had a reputation to sustain, I would have refused, but as it was we drained the glasses."

"Now, I must home be going," remarked Grump, rising. "What's your hurry?" asked the dyspeptic lawyer in his most sarcastic tones. "Do stay and have something else." "Nein. I must to mein supper go," answered the German.

"The dyspeptic wilted. Now, if you are looking for a fight, just tell that little lawyer that Grump wants him to eat supper with him. You'll get it quick and strong."—Washington Post.

A LIFE LESSON.

There, little girl, don't cry. They've broken your slate, I know, And the glad wild ways Of your schoolgirl days Are things of the long ago. But life and love will soon come by. There, little girl, don't cry.

There, little girl, don't cry. They've broken your heart, I know, And the rainbow gleams Of your youthful dreams Are things of the long ago. But heaven holds all for which you sigh. There, little girl, don't cry. —James Whitcomb Riley.

AN INDIAN LEGEND.

In the county of Berkshire, state of Massachusetts, the lofty Monument mountain rears its gray form. If there is anything sublime attached to a mount, a rare beauty will be admitted to linger around this wild and towering line of rocks. Its bold and frowning front extends about one mile, and so roughly is it flung together by nature and standing at the same time so perpendicular that a tremulous chill hurries over the body as the awe-struck beholder gazes up at it.

The red bolt from the thundercloud, the winds and the power of centuries have torn way many fragments of stone from on high and sent them smoking to the base, where already a long pyramidal line is strung along, quite a mountain in itself. The rear of this place falls off with a gentle slope, which is overshadowed by tall and regal looking trees, whose giant roots have never been broken. It presents a fearful yet magnificent appearance. There is no village near to wake the solemnity of its solitude, and silence is as profound as the sun's meridian as at the hush of midnight. It always seemed to me this spot was a favorite with the sun, for the first rosy flush of morning appeared uneasy until drinking the dew from the trees upon its brow, and his last rays lingered there at evening, even after a partial twilight began to fling a dusky shade over the vast valley below. But this may be imagination.

I must just mention a circumstance in relation to this mountain which it has received.

Once this backward slope was studied with the wigwags of the Indians, called the Stockbridge tribe, and tradition has handed down many an ambiguous and chilling tale in regard to them. It was an established law among them that when an Indian committed a deed the penalty of which was death he should plunge himself, or, refusing to do this, be plunged by some one of his tribe, over this frightful precipice. Many had been dashed to the rocky vales below, and so high was the spot from where the victims were cast off that it was generally supposed that the rapid descent through the air deprived them of breath, and few if any had ever been conscious of anything when they had reached the earth.

A beautiful squaw transgressed by marrying into another tribe, and the penalty for such an offense was and ever had been death. She was well aware what her fate would be previous to her sealing it, but it did not restrain her. She disobeyed, and nothing could atone but the full extent of the law. Although she had courage sufficient to face death in marrying, she did not feel willing to sacrifice herself according to the mandate, and it therefore devolved upon some one to precipitate her over the cloud capped mountain. All her limbs being bound except her hands, she was borne to the verge and launched away with all the stoicism for which the Indians are famous. But here a thing occurred which had never been known before. In her downward flight she came in contact with the long branch of a pine which swung out many feet from the rocks, and, grasping it with the clutch of death, succeeded in breaking the force she had attained, and remained holding fast, suspended between the top and base of the mountain.

There she hung at the mercy of a slender branch, without even a hope of rescue. The space between her and the rocks was too much to think of touching them, and her strength, even in the cause of life, was not sufficient to draw her up to the limb. She cast her eyes up, but nothing was there but her relentless enemies, whose diminished and dusky forms were arranged along the edge of the mount.

They mocked her in the situation in which she was placed, and the aisles of the forest reverberated to their hideous and unearthly yells. Below all was in miniature—the rocks were dwindled to a level with the surrounding vale, the trees had shrunk away to bushes, an old chief, who was sitting on a rock stringing his bow, was but a speck, and the outline of his form could scarcely be traced.

It was morn when her sentence was executed, and tradition says that when the shadows of evening began to gather round she still was there, and her shrill cry was heard disturbing the quietness of the hour. Night came and passed away, and still she was swinging on this sloping pine, and the noise which she uttered told that hunger was doing his work upon her. Late in the morning some of the Indians, going over to the verge of the precipice and bending over, saw a few crows circling round the unfortunate victim's head, as if impatient for her wasting body, which they evinced by diving and darting at her form and then, rising suddenly in the air with outstretched wings, as if some motion of life had deterred them from their purpose. Often did they rest their weary wings upon the very tree by which she was supported, and the long day passed with some one of these sable creatures watching the moment when the grasp should fail and her body fall below.

It was on the night of the second day that a scene took place which has never been forgotten. The sun fell away at eve with a peculiar splendor, turning every object in the valley to a golden light and causing the Housatonic, in its serpentine course, to gleam up and spangle like liquid fire. Many was the hunter who lay watching the beauty of the beams which were flung around him, and when the last gorgeous streak had faded over Monument mountain the broad heavens were clear and blue, except the crimson folds which floated in grandeur along the west. Yet the squaw still hung by the branch of the pine, and her cries alternately rose through the deep stillness that reigned around.

But soon a leaden haze began to rise along the azure wall of the west and was shortly succeeded by dark, dismal looking clouds, around whose edge the lightning played, as if to light them on in their sad and gloomy pathway. The thunder muttered faintly, then sent its roll up to the meridian, and finally, with increased power, cracked and shook through the very heavens. The shriek of the squaw was heard in the profound pause after the roar had died away, but its echoes stirred not the sympathies of any one of the tribe. Higher and higher rose the storm. The lightning crinkled over the sky more vividly, and the report followed so soon and heavy that the gray old trees of the mount trembled as the peals burst through the upper world.

Night had set in with all its blackness, when a party of the tribe proceeded to behold the situation of the squaw. Soon after their arrival a flame of fire suddenly lit up the woods. The pine was struck by a thunderbolt, setting it on fire, which, being parted from the cleft of the rock, spun round and round so swiftly that naught could be traced of the tree itself or the squaw whom they supposed to be attached to it. Upward it hurried into the air, burning and whizzing in its course, the torrents of rain not even dimming its glare. Tradition says it whirled with such velocity that it did not seem to the eye to turn at all. Away it went, and it is said the Indians gazed at it until it seemed no bigger than a star, when finally it was lost in the blackness of the sky. The base of the mount was immediately examined, but nothing was to be seen either of the pine or the squaw, when it was finally concluded in council that it was the work of the Great Spirit. The Indians, therefore, raised a monument by rolling stones together, which stands to this day, and from which the mountain takes its name.

The untutored urchin quickens his pace when passing this spot after daylight has departed from its summit and whistles a lively air to elevate his drooping spirits, and the teamster, as the crack of his whip rings among the rocks, starts from his seat as if a spirit spoke, so strange are the associations connected with Monument mountain.—New York News.

INCREASED ATTENDANCE!

At the Summer School Which Opened This Week.

The university summer school opened Wednesday and the total registration in all departments is about 250. The school will run for six weeks. The executive committee at the head of its affairs is Prof. E. A. Lyman, chairman, Prof. Ernest H. Mense, secretary, and Prof. F. M. Taylor, J. H. Drake and Karl E. Guthe. Work in the law department began Monday with 35 students enrolled. This is an increase over the attendance at the law school last summer.

In all there are 35 professors and instructors retained for summer work, six in the law and 29 in the literary department. Courses are offered in all the regular subjects of importance and a large number of summer school students are teachers who make use of this opportunity to perfect themselves in their chosen line of work. In addition to the regular work special courses of free lectures are given. During this summer Prof. B. M. Thompson will lecture on "The Judicial System of the Jews;" Prof. J. C. Knowlton will lecture on "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint;" and Prof. H. L. Wilgus will lecture on "The Magna Charta."

Excursion to Toledo.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The council has ordered the construction of the W. Liberty st. lateral sewer.

Lepper & Wilcox, of the Cook house, Ann Arbor, and Hawkins house, Ypsilanti, have dissolved partnership, Mr. Lepper retaining the full interest in both houses.

The captain of the Salvation Army will be speaker at the Y. M. C. A. rooms next Sunday at 2:45 p. m. His subject will be "Courage." Do not let the warm weather keep you away as fans and a cold drink will be used to overcome it. Bring a friend with you.

About 50 Ann Arbor newsboys went on the Evening News annual newsboys' excursion to Detroit on Wednesday and had a most enjoyable day at Belle Isle, besides which their baseball team defeated the Saginaw boys by a score of 16 to 4.

W. D. Adams is nursing a very sore right hand which he got Monday night while firing off a new piece of fireworks called "The golden gate." That firework is evidently wrongly named. It should be called "Hell gate," it was so difficult to get it to explode.

Supt. Wm. E. Robinson, for eleven years superintendent of the Detroit schools, terminates his connection with those schools this year. Wales C. Martindale, principal of the Williams school, in Detroit, was elected his successor last evening.

Commissioner Wesselius reports the earnings in Michigan of railroad companies for April at $2,089,67.93, a decrease of $219,574.54 from April, 1896. The total Michigan earnings to May 1, this year, were $7,979,285.75. This is a decrease of $826,895.15, or 9.39 per cent.

At the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening the street paving ordinance, after being amended so that the assessments shall be made on the foot frontage system and having its name changed to "An ordinance relative to street paving," was passed by a vote of 10 to 3.

Service stripes have been sent out from the quartermaster general's office to state militiamen who have been in service over three years. It is a gold ornament for the sleeve of the uniform and is the first time they have been sent out by this department. Over 350 pairs were sent out.

A four-year-old admirer of William Jennings Bryan, living near Coloma, was approached by a lady Sunday school worker and asked why he did not attend Sunday school. Being urged to reply he told them that it was because they were "allus hurrahin'" for Jesus when they knew he was a Bryan man.

Bert Ferguson, of Ypsilanti, was opening a ginger ale bottle Monday when the cork flew out and struck him on the eye ball of his right eye. The retina of the eye was torn loose from the inside of the eye ball. Dr. Carrow says that of all the cases he has examined he never saw a similar case but once before.

Fred J. Schleede, the well known State st. bookbinder, will build a new brick store in place of his present store on State st. He has removed his stock around the corner on Liberty st. and work on the new store will be commenced at once. Mr. Schleede has built up a good business by strict attention to it and deserves the success he has met.

Fred Searley, who worked for John F. Lawrence, on his farm, was overcome by the heat yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. He was taken to his mother's home at 56 W. Jefferson st., where all night long he suffered intensely, his breathing being so painfully loud that it could be heard half a block away. He died about 6 o'clock this morning having never recovered consciousness.

Harmon S. Holmes, of Chelsea, has been appointed a member of the state prison board, by Governor Pingree, to succeed Albert Stiles, of Jackson, and it is understood that gentleman will not contest the governor's right to make the appointment. Sheriff Judson is evidently still carrying out his principle of caring for his friends. Floyd R. Mechem, of Ann Arbor, has been appointed a member of the state board of law examiners to succeed himself.

The piano and violin recital given by the pupils of R. H. Kempf and Frank Smith at the residence of Prof. Perry, 61 E. Washington st., last evening, was well attended in spite of the intense heat. The program was well arranged and grew in interest as each number was played. All the pupils acquitted themselves well. The soprano solo by Master Charles Stimson was an agreeable break in the instrumental program and was admirably sung.

The third annual Y. M. C. A. excursion to Detroit will take place next week Thursday, July 15. The train will leave the Michigan Central depot at 7:30 a. m. standard and returning will leave Detroit at 8 o'clock p. m. standard. On the arrival of the train in Detroit the steamer Sappho will be in waiting at the wharf near the depot and those who so desire can take a four hours' ride on it up the river, through St. Clair Flats, the ship canal and return. This will be the cheap excursion of the season and the proceeds are to be devoted to the gymnasium fund of the Y. M. C. A. Fare for the round trip $1, children under 12 years 50 cents. Bicycles and baggage will be carried free on the train.

IS NOW WORTH $500,000.

But "Boston" Wheeler, of Saline, Finds No Charm in City Life.

Herbert W. Wheeler, better known as "Boston" Wheeler, has returned to Saline, Washtenaw county, as an heir to $500,000 recently left him by his father. Some few years ago the elder Wheeler came out from Boston and purchasing a farm north of Saline, built a fine modern house on it and established his son as manager of the place. It was said that the young man had been pretty wild and his father took this course in order to bring the young man into closer touch with the stern realities of life. Besides what the son could reap from the farm he was allowed $50 per month.

Young Wheeler fell madly in love with one of Saline's maidens and a marriage resulted. It is said that if young Wheeler had ever sown any wild oats before marriage, he discontinued growing any of the crop after he fell in love and nothing that could be desired by his wife was left unprovided for her comfort and ease.

Last spring Mrs. Wheeler was taken sick and after about two weeks of illness her husband got word from Boston that his father was dying. He thought it safe to leave his wife and took the train for the east.

No sooner had he arrived than he got a telegram that his wife was dead. He returned to Saline and immediately received word that his father was dead. The estate of the elder Wheeler has been probated and it was found that "Boston" was a semi-millionaire. The man has become so accustomed to the beauties of farm life that he has announced his intention of living at Saline permanently, notwithstanding the fact that he controls $500,000 worth of property, and has long held the city life, which no longer holds out any attractions for him.

Are you troubled with your hair falling out? If so please give Schumacher & Miller's Hair Restorer a trial, this we are convinced will prove beneficial. It promotes the growth and leaves the hair in a soft smooth condition. We do not mean to say that it will do this in every case as that is nonsense, but we do mean to say that it will prevent the hair from falling out in the majority of cases. We allow you to use one-fourth of the bottle which, if used according to directions, will be a treatment for about one month, if at that time you receive no benefit we will gladly refund the money paid for the preparation.

She Scored One on Kirk.
Prosecuting Attorney Kirk was trying the case of the The People vs. Charles M. Smart in Justice Joslyn's court at Ypsilanti, Wednesday, and was examining a witness. Said Cody to the woman "Let's see, you married a colored man didn't you?" "Yes," promptly replied the woman. "Don't you think it rather an unusual thing to do for a white woman to marry a colored man?" asked the prosecutor. "Yes," she quickly answered, "but my sister did worse than that." "What did she do?" asked Kirk. "She married a flannel mouthed Irishman!" said the woman. And then there was a silence on the part of the prosecuting attorney, so far as any further questioning of that woman was concerned, which might have been felt.

Bitten by a Dog.
Mrs. Alice Woodbridge went to City Clerk Mills' house Monday evening at 6 o'clock to see him on a matter of business. She was accompanied by a black cocker spaniel. Mr. Mills' little two years old daughter saw the dog and childishly tried to play with it when the vicious little cur sprang up and bit the child across the nose and on the cheek making the blood flow in a stream. The dog is not licensed and is lawful prey for Dog Catcher Blackburn, who should shoot it on sight, as such dogs are not fit to be allowed to go about the streets where children are at all times playing around, especially as was the case with this spaniel, as its owner admits that it is cross and snappish with children.

Now Runs to Toronto, Ont.
The Michigan Central railroad has now acquired a direct entrance into the city of Toronto, Ontario, something which it has long been wanting to do. The Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo and Canadian Pacific lines are the connecting link and it connects with the Michigan Central at Waterford and Welland, Ont. The new road is an important addition to both the Michigan Central and the Canadian lines, and the system between Buffalo and Toronto is operated jointly by the three roads, Michigan Central from Buffalo to Welland, where the T. H. & B. begins, and the Canadian Pacific from Hamilton to Toronto. The official tour of inspection of the new road was made on Wednesday.

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED.

U. of M. Alumni Associations Are Now Consolidated.

The organization of the Alumni Association of the U. of M., has been effected. It is a consolidation of the various alumni associations at present in existence. By-laws were drafted and adopted by which officers will be located at Ann Arbor, the period of existence to be thirty years. To be eligible, members must have taken degrees—associate members must have attended college one year or more. Members of the senate and regents are eligible to associate membership.

The board of directors elected was as follows: Levi L. Barbour, five years; L. P. Jocelyn, four years; Prof. E. F. Johnson, three years Dr. G. Carl H. Eber, two years; and Prof. F. C. Newcombe, one year. The board has elected the following officers: President, Regent Barbour; vice president, E. F. Johnson; recorder, L. P. Jocelyn; treasurer, F. C. Newcombe. A salaried general secretary will be chosen later.

Regent Cocker says: "I consider that this move is worth more to the University than a cash gift of $100,000. It was the pet idea of the late Dr. Henry S. Frieze, who maintained that the University alumni were wasting their energies by a division of purpose. In one organization, actuated by one idea, the desire to further the interests of the University, the alumni must prove to be a power for good."

PROBATE COURT NOTES.
Messrs. Chas. Worden, N. Kyer and Comstock F. Hill, commissioners appointed in the E. W. Morgan estate have filed their resignations and refuse to act.

George Alley, of Dexter, filed his final account as administrator in the Rebecca Stanton estate in the probate court yesterday. The hearing will be Tuesday next.

The Armbruster will contest in the probate court, has been adjourned until July 27.

A petition has been filed in the probate court for partition of dower in the Nicholas Carr estate, Dexter.

Adding to Its Facilities.
The Peninsular paper mills, at Ypsilanti, is increasing its capacity by the erection of an addition 55x89 feet in size, which will cost $2,500, and work on it has already been in progress for over a week. The extension of the buildings was made necessary on account of the cramped condition of the finishing room and the new wing will be used for a calendar and finishing department. The Peninsular Paper Co. is now working night and day, 24 hours in each day, from Monday morning until Sunday morning, in order to keep up with the demand for its goods, and the daily output is 13,000 pounds of finished paper.

The Railroad Blue Ribbon Meeting.
The railroads between Detroit and all Michigan points not over 155 miles distant, have made a rate of one fare for the round trip on Monday, July 13, the day on which the great M. and M. stake is to be trotted, and one and one third fare for the remainder of the meeting.
