And Will Undoubtedly Elect Most of Them.

In Any Event There Will Be Several New Faces at the Next Meeting of the Board of Supervisors.—Poll Your Vote.

The ward causes of both parties were held in this city Monday evening and resulted in considerable interest being shown. The personnel of the tickets is better than the average. The following nominations were made:

ANN ARBOR CITY.

First ward—Supervisor, Col. H. S. Dean, Republican; Eugene Mann, Democrat; aldermen, Henry Richards, R.; Harry W. Douglass, D.; constable, W. E. Eldert, R.; M. C. Peterson, D. Second ward—Supervisor, Arthur E. Mumery, R.; Sid W. Millard, D.; aldermen, Charles Tessler, R.; E. L. Schneider, D.; constable, F. J. Huhn, R.; Paul Schall, D.

Third ward—Supervisor, J. J. Fischer, R.; no opposition; aldermen, Dr. J. A. Dell, R.; H. C. Exinger, D.; constable, W. H. Bowen, R.; Otto Schroeder, D.

Fourth ward—Supervisor, H. Krapf, R.; Wm. Walsh, D.; aldermen, Judge W. N. Brown, R.; Arthur Brown, D.; constable, John Lauchlan, R.; Henry Meuth, D.

Fifth ward—Supervisor, Newton Felch, R.; James Boye, D.; aldermen, Gottlob Gross, R.; George W. Weeks, D.; constable, Sam Taylor, R.; Asa Allen, D.

Sixth ward—Supervisor, A. J. Kitson, R.; Prof. B. M. Thompson, D.; aldermen, Dr. Charles Howell, R.; M. J. Cavanaugh, D.; constable, F. K. Cleaver, R.; Wm. Jolly, D.

Seventh ward—Supervisor, G. Frank Alldendinger, R.; Charles A. Ward, D.; aldermen, Prof. A. B. Stevens, R.; Lewis Limpert, D.; constable, A. H. Gage, R.; Wm. Zebbs, D.

The democratic caucuses, while no exciting contests were on foot were all largely attended, and indicated a healthy feeling and a determination to make a stroke for economy in the administration of public affairs, the republicans having developed extravagant tendencies. In the fourth ward a contest for supervisor resulted in the first ballot in William Walsh receiving 24 votes and Joseph Donnelly and James Donnegan each 25 votes. It was settled on the third ballot by the nomination of ex-sheriff William Walsh. In the fourth ward also Ald. Brown was nominated by a vote of 67 to 20 for William Goodyear.

Since the caucuses the following changes have been made in the tickets. In the first ward M. C. Peterson was withdrawn from the ticket and the nomination for constable on the democratic ticket was left blank. In the second ward Charles Tessler declined to accept the republican nomination for alderman and Simon Dieterle was put upon the ticket in his place. In the sixth ward a well laid plan to nominate Dr. Darling for supervisor by the ante-Judson element slipped up and the caucus was also packed to nominate Dr. Howell for alderman in the place of Harrison Soule. In the seventh ward a resolution was adopted by the republicans thanking the aldermen of the ward for voting to investigate Sweet and Judson. The resolution was introduced by Mr. Moran. In the fifth ward Ald. Rhodes was defeated for renomination in the republican caucuses and lays his defeat to the fact that he voted for the loop around the court yard square.

MANCHESTER.
The contest in this township this year will be between Burtless, republican caucus in order to promote harmony in the sheriffship, unanimously presented J. H. Kingsley for the republican nomination of sheriff, stating that he was allied to neither faction.

Mills; highway commissioner, John Fiegel; justice of the peace, Herman Rayer; school inspector, Valmore Nichols; member of board of review, Charles Roberts; constables, Chas. Kempf, Gustave Schenk. The republican ticket is headed by M. F. Case.

SALEM.
In this township the democrats have nominated Herbert Smith for Supervisor and the republicans Arthur Van-Sickle.

SALINE.
The democratic union silver ticket ought to make a good run in Saline when George J. Nissle, one of the ablest, strongest and most popular men in the township heads it for supervisor. Other democratic nominations are clerk, D. Sears; treasurer, A. Lindenschmidt; justice, C. M. Fellows; highway commissioner, C. Alber; school inspector, B. Hammond; board of review, J. M. Young. 25th Anniversary of the W. B. M. I.

At the annual meeting of the Michigan branch of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior, in connection with the Congregational church, held last week at Muskegon, the 25th anniversary of the organization was celebrated. All parts of the state were represented by delegates. Dr. Barrows, from Chicago, and other missionaries addressed the assembly. Mrs. Jas. B. Angell, of Ann Arbor, was re-elected president and Mrs. Robert Campbell, of Ann Arbor, treasurer. The latter read her tenth annual report, the summaries of which indicated that she had received from individuals and the various church organizations of the state and transmitted for mission work in foreign fields over $70,000 during that period. S. W. Clarkson, of Ann Arbor, was re-elected as auditor.

J. A. Macauley formerly coach for Michigan's foot-ball team, died at his home in Rochester, March 23, quite suddenly from heart disease.

ANOTHER NEW ROAD

Is Projected to Run From Detroit to Ann Arbor.

GREAT MILITARY DAY

In Ann Arbor on Easter Monday, April 11th.

Co. A Will Entertain Governor Pingree, His Staff, and Other Military Officers.—Reception, Inspection and Ball.

Another electric line from Detroit to Ann Arbor is projected by a company which has been organizing during the past year by Patrick M. Kinsella, which should it prove successful will bring a large stretch of country into closer connection with this city. The plan of the projectors is to interest the farmers along the proposed route as stockholders in the company and Mr. Kinsella says the company will be organized within a few weeks with a capital stock of $500,000. Its name will be the Detroit, Pike's Peak & Ann Arbor Railway. The Evening News of last Saturday gives the following statement of the route and prospectus of the line which was furnished it by Mr. Kinsella:

"The new line will start from the corner of Martin and Michigan aves., Detroit, and will run north to Warren ave., formerly called the old Ann Arbor road, then out Warren ave. through Dearborn. Coonville, Wallaceville, Perrinsville, Pike's Peak and Newberg to Plymouth. Here it will leave the Ann Arbor road long enough to run north and take in Northville and Salem. Then returning south it will strike the Ann Arbor road at Dixboro and enter Ann Arbor on the north side.

The line will be 50 miles long and the fare one cent a mile. A power house will be built at Pike's Peak, where there is a fine water-power. The roadway between Detroit and Plymouth will be widened to 100 feet. For about 12 miles it will pass through the beautiful scenery of the Rouge district and will tap a rich farming district. It will give special attention to the milk traffic. In Wayne and Washtenaw counties it will afford mail facilities to about ten star route stations. The road will not be a competitor of the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor line, except possibly on through business, and hardly then, as it will be fully ten miles longer."

MILITARY DAY.

The A. A. L. I. Making Great Preparations for Monday, April 11.

The first great after Easter social event will be the grand reception, military inspection and ball to be given by Co. A, 1st regiment, M. N. G., on Easter Monday evening, April 11, which will be attended by Governor and Mrs. H. S. Pingree, the governor's staff and their ladies, Capt. Cornelius Gardner and Chas. A. Vernon, of the 10th Infantry, U. S. A., Inspector-General Fred S. Case, Col. J. E. Tyrrell, Major Seymour Howell and the field officers of the First Regiment, M. N. G., besides some of the officers of the other regiments of the state troops. It will take place at the armory, which will be decorated in a manner that it never has been before and altogether will be the finest affair of the kind that has ever been given in Ann Arbor.

The festivities of the day will commence in the afternoon when Governor Pingree and his staff will be met at the Michigan Central depot at 1:35 o'clock by the full company and will be escorted to the Cook house where an informal reception will be held. After the reception such of the guests as desire it will be taken in carriages for a drive about the city, winding up with a visit to the University.

At 7:45 p. m. the official inspection and review of Co. A will take place at the armory. It will be conducted by Inspector General Fred H. Case, and Capt. Cornelius Gardner. This will be followed by a review of the company by the Commander-in-Chief and staff, and next will come the reception and ball.

Music for the ball will be furnished by a brass band and orchestra, the former playing the two steps and the latter the waltzes. Refreshments will be served in large, nicely fitted up rooms in Berryman's studio, to which access will be obtained from the armory by a canopy connection. The catering will be in charge of E. V. Hangsterfer and will be all that can be desired.

The armory with its fine large dancing floor, spacious waiting and cloak rooms and good balcony is an admirable place for such a gathering and the members of Co. A are working for and looking forward to this occasion as a red letter day in the history of the organization. The lady patronesses and reception committee have been selected from the best known people in Ann Arbor and everything points to a most pleasant gathering and enjoyable time.

The University band which has been organizing and practicing for some months, will procure uniforms and become a permanent institution.

The candidates for the relay team that is to be sent to Philadelphia are in active training at the athletic field. The team will comprise seven men.

The baseball season has commenced and a series of games is to be played with the Bay City team at athletic field which commence today and will continue until April 14.

SETTLED HIS CLAIM,

The Arbitrators Awarded J. V. N. Gregory Its Full Amount.

The arbitrators in the case of John V. N. Gregory vs. The Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co., met in Ann Arbor, Wednesday of last week and after due deliberation awarded Mr. Gregory the amount he claimed, being $900 on the two barns and $424 on the personal property. So much interest has been manifested in this case that the Argus here gives the facts in the matter so far as they have come to its knowledge.

Last fall while the threshers were at work threshing the crop on J. V. N. Gregory's farm in Lima his two barns and a quantity of personal property were destroyed by fire. The property was insured in the Washtenaw Mutual and Mr. Gregory applied to have the amount due on his policy paid over to him. The board of directors declined to order the amount to be paid to him because it was shown that by-law No. 32 of the policy carried by Mr. Gregory had been violated, by the use of wood for fuel in the engine instead of coal as the by-law calls for. This decision was arrived at by the board of directors after a most thorough investigation, in the course of which several witnesses were sworn and examined.

Mr. Lutz, the tenant on the farm, testified that he bought 1,300 pounds of coal for use in the engine while threshing his part of the crop and with Mr. Gregory's permission got a load of wood for that gentleman's share. Mr. Lutz's share of the threshing was finished on the first day. On the second day while threshing Mr. Gregory's share and using the wood for fuel the barns took fire from sparks from the engine, the wind at the time blowing strongly towards them, and, with their contents, the buildings were destroyed.

From this sworn testimony of Mr. Lutz, which was corroborated by Mr. Deible, the engineer, and others who were present at the time, the board made up its mind that by-law No. 32 of the policy had been violated at the time of the fire with the knowledge and consent of Mr. Gregory and it was unanimous in its rejection of the claim.

The charter of the company gives every member the right to appeal to arbitration, not only as to the amount of an award, but also questions as to the liability of the company in any claim. Upon this right Mr. Gregory appealed to arbitration and chose as his representative James L. Gilbert, of Sylvan. The company choose as its arbitrator George S. Rawson, of Bridge-water, and they two choose Fred Hutzl, of Pittsfield as the third man. The result of the arbitration was Messrs. Gilbert and Hutzl claimed that the company was liable, while Mr. Rawson held to the contrary and filed his reasons for such decision with the company. The articles of arbitration made it binding on both parties to abide by the decision of the arbitrators and the company has settled the claim thus decided against them.

It is the intention of the board of directors to so amend by-law No. 32 that there will be no question in the future as to the liability of the company if any member uses wood for fuel while threshing after having once kindled the fire. Due notice of the action of the board in this matter will be sent to each member.

CUBAN DEMONSTRATION

By Students of the U. of M. Saturday Afternoon.

Saturday afternoon a demonstration of students began in fun, but ended in earnest. It was a demonstration in favor of the freedom of Cuba and war with Spain. A parade of students marching to martial music was made and a public meeting held in front of the Delta Upsilon house, which was addressed by A. J. Sawyer and by Will R. Day, son of Assistant Secretary of State Day, who is a student in the law department, and others. Spain was burned in effigy and telegrams offering the services of a U. of M. regiment in case of war were sent to President McKinley and Secretary of War Alger. On Monday a message was received from Secretary Alger thanking them for their offer. Several squads of students have been engaged in drilling on the campus since that time.

America's Greatest Medicine

The following is a characteristic Hood's Sarsaparilla testimonial. Facts like these have made Hood's Sarsaparilla America's Greatest Medicine and endeared it to thousands of homes scattered all over this broad land.

"We like to tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for us. Our four children had diphtheria. From the very first our little boy Ralph, then seven years old, was very sick and for several days it seemed as if he would never be any better. After a while he began to improve and in a few weeks was able to go out, although weak and miserable. Then, gradually

All Strength in His Limbs gave out. The physicians told us it was paralysis, which sometimes follows an attack of diphtheria. We did everything for him, but he grew worse until he was in a pitiful condition. He suffered terribly at night and complained continually of his head, and in what little sleep he was able to get, moaned unceasingly. He lost all control of the muscles of his body and limbs. He had no appetite and complained of feeling sick at his stomach all the time. After we had tried many different remedies and had about given up all hope, we commenced giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time he ceased to complain, his appetite improved and at the end of three months he was able to attend school a part of the time. Now he is well and quite a strong and rugged boy. You are at liberty to use this testimonial, as we feel we cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine." Mrs. R. E. ANDERSON, Cumberland, Maine.

To Give New Life
And purify the blood there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the ideal spring medicine, nerve and stomach tonic. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine because it accomplishes wonderful cures when all other medicines fail. Sold by all druggists. $1, six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

The man who is blown up by a hidden mine of explosives may have seen things that should have aroused his suspicions, but heedlessly put them aside as of no moment. It is the same with the sickness that ends in death. Insidious disorders of the digestion and bilious spells are passed by as of no moment. In themselves these complaints may not be dangerous, but if neglected their cumulative effect is terrible.

The man who neglects the little disorders that are the signs of approaching ill-health is walking over a hidden mine that may cause his death. The explosion will come in the guise of consumption or some other deadly disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all disorders of the stomach and liver. It cures 98 per cent. of cases of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, laryngitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood, lingering cough, nasal catarrh and diseases of the air passages. It acts directly on the diseased tissues, driving out all impurities and disease-germs. It is the great flesh-builder, blood-maker and nerve-tonic. There is nothing in the medicine store "just as good."

"Have been in poor health for about seven years," writes Mrs. I. Albert Eakins, of No. 148 Main Street, Dallas, Texas. "Every summer I'd have a bilious attack lasting two weeks. Besides I thought I should go insane sometime. I worried about everything; had the blues all the time and did not care to live. Now I am well."

Constipation is a little illness that if neglected builds a big one. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe.

Charles A. Arnold has christened his farm on section 2, Superior, the "Patriot Stock Farm," in honor of "Patriot," his thoroughbred Percheron stallion.

George C. Parker, of Lima, has purchased the Case property in Scio and moved thereon. His brother, Charles, has moved on the farm thus vacated.

In 1839 he came to this locality from Scotland and took up the occupation of farming. Shortly after he opened a tailor shop in Ypsilanti and later embarked in the dry goods business. By strict attention to business he amassed a comfortable fortune and retired from mercantile life about 25 years ago. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and leaves a widow and one daughter to mourn his loss.

Clayton McFall, of Milan, would have lost his life Sunday week had it not been for the presence of mind of Frank Dalrymple. The boys were standing on a bridge watching the river, which was unusually high, when the railing of the bridge suddenly gave way and young McFall was precipitated into the water. The current was so strong that he was unable to reach the bank, but Dalrymple seized the broken railing, put it against a tree and held it there until McFall could get hold of it and then the boys who were with him pulled him out.

Miss Laura Green who lives with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green in Manchester town, went down cellar Monday of last week to get some gravel, when the wall caved in on her and she would have died had not her mother missed her and remembering that she went to the cellar, took a lantern and found her partly buried by the earth. She was extricated by a neighbor and is recovering. At the same time her father, who is nearly 100 years of age, started up the road after the cows and fell upon his face in the road and was unable to arise without help, which was afforded by a neighbor.

Charles Nacker, of Salem, had been a Colorado miner from 1880-85 and learned many pointers regarding the values of mineral products. Last fall as he was putting a ditch through his farm, one mile north of Salem he discovered some familiar stones and bog ore that gave him the impression that they carried a profitable percent of iron, and his curiosity could not be appeased until he expressed a sample to the Michigan Agricultural College for analysis. Last week Mr. Nacker received the results of the analysis from Prof. F. S. Kedzie as follows: No. 1 stone contains 20.39 per cent; No. 2 bog iron ore contains 53.58 per cent iron. When this bog iron ore is near enough to a large city for the profit to more than cover the cost of transportation it is sold and used for the purification of illuminating gas. The iron is not present in sufficient quantity to pay for working the ore for iron." Mr. Nacker's impressions were well founded and he still thinks Salem may yet be the southern Menominee of Michigan.—Pinckney Dispatch.

SENATORS TALK WAR.

Rawlins, Foraker and Frye Introduce Resolutions.

MASON MAKES A RED-HOT SPEECH.

The Illinois Senator Declares the Maine Catastrophe Calls for Vigorous Action—Applauded by the Galleries—Movement Among House Members to Bring Intervention to a Vote—Cabinet in Accord with President's Message.

Washington, March 29.—Discussion of the Cuban question, in any of its phases, is evidently an irresistible attraction. The prospective consideration of the critical problem in the senate drew another tremendous crowd to the galleries, and, as on the previous day when Cuba was the foremost topic, hundreds of people jammed the corridors, disappointed because they could not gain admission. Rawlins of Utah

Introduced a joint resolution recognizing the independence of Cuba and declaring war against Spain. Foraker offered a resolution for Cuban independence. He spoke of the delays caused by the De Lome incident and the Maine incident, but declared that the Cuban question would come up whatever was done with the Maine. Frye introduced a resolution reciting the conditions in Cuba, and directing the president in his discretion to take steps to drive the naval and military forces from the island. The resolutions went to the senate committee on foreign relations.

War Speech by Mason.
Mason followed the introduction of the resolutions in the senate with a vigorous war speech. He described vividly the disaster to the Maine. He said that if ninety of the victims had been senators or sons of senators we would not have been forty days declaring war. Yet the lives of all Americans were sacrosanct alike under our law and equally entitled to consideration. Mason said the catastrophe should be replied to vigorously. He could not speak for others, but for himself he was for war. This declaration brought out a vigorous outburst of applause from the galleries. He declared there could be no peace so long as a European nation owns and butchers its slaves on this hemisphere. He said it was not necessary for the Maine court to fix the responsibility. The law did that. If it was a torpedo or a mine it was a Spanish torpedo or a Spanish mine.

Says Spain Must Answer.
Hence, Spain must answer. He would oppose any proposition looking to indemnity as he would oppose making a diplomatic incident of the catastrophe. He would oppose any kind of autonomy or any plan to assist Spain, but his demand was that the Spanish flag should be driven from the western hemisphere. Neither did he believe that Cuba should be required to pay an indemnity to Spain. "We are told," he said, "we must wait on the Spanish elections; but if Spanish elections are as rotten as Spanish diplomacy we had better not wait."

Let us awake, said Mason, in conclusion, "to glorious war as did our fathers—a war that shall insure the honor and respect of our flag all over the world."

May Overrule the Chair.
A very determined movement is on foot among the members of the house in which prominent men of both parties are co-operating to bring a proposition for intervention in Cuba to a vote, if necessary, by arbitrarily overruling the chair. The situation is being thoroughly canvassed, particularly on the Republican side, as the Democratic leaders have given assurances of their cooperation as soon as the Republicans who are engineering the scheme are ready. Hull, chairman of the military committee, is at the head of the movement on the Republican side, and it is asserted with great positiveness that it has decided strength.

Resolution for Intervention.
It was the intention of these members to attach a resolution for intervention to the appropriation for the relief of the Cubans, which it was expected the president would ask for in a message Tuesday, and it is claimed that it was the fear of this which induced the president to change his plans and withhold the message. If the message is not sent in the programme is to present a resolution and if it is ruled out of order, to overturn the ruling of the chair. A very prominent member who is using all his energies to promote the foregoing programme says that there will be no delay beyond Thursday.

War Resolution in the House.
Marsh of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on the militia, introduced the following joint resolution declaring war between the government of Spain and its dependencies and the United States and her territories: It is hereby declared to exist between the government of Spain and her dependencies and the United States and her territories, and that the president of the United States is hereby authorized to use the whole land and naval force of the United States, including the militia and the naval militia thereof, to carry the same into effect."

PEACE PLAN IS PROPOSED.
Cabinet Considers Spain's Suggestion for Ending Cuban War.

Washington, March 29.—The cabinet meeting was unusually interesting. The entire cabinet was present, including Secretary Sherman and Assistant Secretary Day. There seems to be no longer any doubt that the president has given serious attention to a plan proposed by Spain for an armistice for six months, during which the home government hopes to effect peace with the insurgents and give them a liberal form of home-rule government.

The cabinet meeting gave considerable attention to the new plan. A majority of the senators and members of congress are against it because they have no faith in the promises of Spain.

CABINET IN ACCORD.
The Message of the President Approved by Every Member.

Washington, March 29.—At the close of the cabinet meeting Secretary Alger gave out the following statement: "So far from being any difference of opinion among the members of the cabinet they are all in hearty accord with the president, and have been without a single exception. When he read to them his message on the Maine there was not a dissenting voice nor a suggestion of change. It commanded the approval of every member. How could the president have said more? He gave congress the report at once and stated that he had forwarded it to Spain and is awaiting her reply. He must take one step at a time. It may be said further that there need be no fear that he will not take the next. He has not lost a moment in presenting not only the 'Maine' incident, but the whole situation to Spain. The country can well afford to await the result of the negotiations which will be promptly made known, whatever the result."

BELIEVES SPAIN WILL FIGHT.
Sir Charles Dilke Regards War as Inevitable.

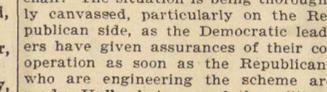

London, March 29.—Sir Charles Dilke believes the United States will be obliged to smash Spain in order to obtain peace in Cuba. He said: "I cannot see how war between the United States and Spain can be avoided. It is impossible to express an opinion on such meager details of the findings of the Maine court of inquiry as have been published here, but affairs have come to such a pass with Spain that she may welcome war as the best means of getting rid of Cuba."

"It has become such a millstone around her neck that she must free herself from it somehow, and to the proud Spaniard war would be the least disagreeable way. I do not think mediation by any European power is likely. Mediation could only proceed on the basis of some species of autonomy, and to any further attempted solution in that direction the Cubans will not assent."

YOUNG WOMANHOOD.
Sweet young girls! How often they develop into worn, listless, and hopeless women because mother has not impressed upon them the importance of attending to physical development.

No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodical pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be guided physically as well as morally. If you know of any young lady who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell every detail of her symptoms, surroundings and occupation.

She will get advice from a source that has no rival in experience of women's ills. Tell her to keep nothing back. Her story will be told to a woman, not to a man. She need not hesitate in stating details that she may not wish to mention, but which are essential to a full understanding of her case, and if she is frank, help is certain to come!

Get More and You Get Less

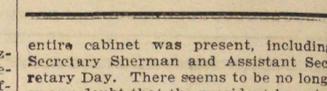

Why is it every sarsaparilla which tries to sell itself, ranges itself against Ayer's as the standard? Why is it that all have to offer extra inducements—bigger bottles, fancy wrappers, cheaper price—anything, everything, but the one inducement of quality?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has never been equaled by any cheap imitation of it, and quality tells, just as blood tells.

It Is the Standard.

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than twenty-five years, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. A preparation must possess great merit to maintain such a reputation. I believe your sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier that has ever been introduced to the general public. I often hear other manufacturers say that this is 'as good as Ayer's,' but no one ever heard it said that Ayer's was 'as good' as any other kind. They always set Ayer's up as the standard of excellence."—S. F. Boyce, Duluth, Minn.

Frogs Sing Love Songs.

One of the most extraordinary things about frog music is the fact that the frog keeps his mouth closed when he is singing.

He can sing through his skin. He is provided with a pair of resonant chambers like drums, and he makes his music by snapping his muscles against the distended membranes. Then he can breathe through his skin and supply all the wind that is necessary without opening his mouth.

A French scientist, after long listening in the woods, has made out and reduced to writing the song of the frog, or "swamp music," as he calls it, and has discovered that the frog's repertoire is varied and extensive. Frogs can carry on conversations at long distances and can communicate to each other emotions of fear or anger.

Their songs, however, are all love songs and are only indulged in when there are female frogs about. It is then that the frog distends his drums to their utmost, throwing his head well back and his legs far apart and raising his voice, as it is called, to the very highest pitch of the musical scale.—Pearson's Weekly.

Russia Declares She Will Open Ta-Lien-Wan.

TO BE PUBLIC GATEWAY TO CHINA.

Count Muravieff Issues a Circular in Which He Declares That Foreign Powers Will Be Afforded the Possibility of Entering Closed Regions on the Yellow Sea—One Hundred Men Killed in an Outbreak at Constantinople—Defeat for Dervishes.

St. Petersburg, March 29.—The Official Messenger publishes a circular which has been telegraphed by Count Muravieff, the Russian minister for foreign affairs, to the representatives of Russia abroad. It is as follows: "By virtue of a convention signed at Pekin March 27, Port Arthur and the port of Ta-Lien-Wan, and the territories adjacent, have been ceded to Russia in usufruct by China. You are requested to notify the government where to you are accredited, adding that the above mentioned ports and territories will be immediately occupied by Russian troops, and that the Russian flag will be hoisted by the side of the Chinese flag.

Open to Foreign Trade.

"You may at the same time inform the foreign minister that the port of Ta-Lien-Wan will be open to foreign trade, and that the largest measure of hospitality will be extended to the ships of all friendly nations."

An official communication issued to the press adds:

"The cessions are for twenty-five years, but may be extended later by common accord. Further, China has conceded the right of constructing a railroad to connect the ports with the Trans-Siberian main line."

After stating that the arrangement is the direct and natural consequence of amicable relations between two neighboring states anxious to advance the interests of their peoples, the official communication continues:

No Interests Injured.

"While safeguarding the integrity and sovereignty of China, and satisfying the essential needs of Russia, the arrangement injures the interests of no foreign state. On the contrary, it affords all nations the possibility of entering in the near future into relations with the river regions of the Yellow sea, hitherto closed to them. The opening of Ta-Lien-Wan to the merchant ships of all nations will create a new and wide market for commerce and industry, owing to the Trans-Siberian line, which is henceforth destined to connect the extremities of the two continents and the old world. The arrangement, therefore, is of high historical value to Russia and should be hailed as a fortunate event by all those who have at heart the benefits of peace and the development of good relations among nations."

Escorted by Cossacks to Pekin.

Pekin, March 29.—M. Pavloff, the Russian charge d'affaires, when visiting the Tsing-Li-Yan (Chinese foreign office) for the purpose of signing the agreement arrived at between Russia and China regarding the cession of Port Arthur and Ta-Lien-Wan, was escorted by mounted Cossacks. The foreign consuls had demanded that the taotai disperse the militia, execute the murderer, arrest the leaders of the rioters, pay 500 taels for the property destroyed and allow the mission to recoccupy its premises with adequate protection for the future.

Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health

Easily Enough.

Here is a Sioux City (Ia.) Sunday school story:

They were studying in the catechism about the wonderful greatness and power of God. "Can God do everything?" asked the teacher. It was generally admitted that he could. Then the teacher rather mischievously propounded a stickler perhaps as a test of faith. "Could God make two and two equal five?" he asked. The query rather startled the little girls in the class, and their faces took on a worried, puzzled expression. They had never thought of such a thing as that, and it looked as if their faith was wavering. The teacher waited with a rather amused smile on his face. Then up shot a little hand. "Well," asked the teacher, "what do you think about it?" "Yes, sir, he can," was the prompt and certain response. Now it was the teacher's turn to look surprised. "Well, how can God make two and two equal five?" "By adding one," was the triumphant answer, and the mischievous teacher couldn't dispute it.—Sioux City Journal.

"Look here, young man," said the druggist.

The clerk did not have to be told that he had made a mistake. He knew it long before. Indeed he had figured it out for himself and was able to tell just how it happened.

"You have charged only 75 cents for this prescription," asserted the druggist, "and the regular price is $1."

"I admit it," said the clerk. "The fact is I was rattled. You see, I made a hasty calculation as to the cost of the ingredients, and the result was 3 cents instead of 4 as it should have been. That is how it happened."—Chicago Post.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. City Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Annual Charter Election of the City of Ann Arbor, will be held on Monday, April 4, 1898, at which the following ward officers are to be elected by the qualified electors, viz: a Supervisor, and an Alderman and Constable in each ward. Said election will be held at the following places: First Ward—German School Building, Washington st., near Fifth ave. Second Ward—Pratt Block, S. Main st. Third Ward—Pomological Room, basement of Court House. Fourth Ward—Engine House, Huron st., cor. Fifth Ave. Fifth Ward—Engine House, Swift st., cor. Pontiac st. Sixth Ward—Engine House, E. University ave., near College. Seventh Ward—Weinberg's Shop, State st., near Packard.

GLEN V. MILLS, City Clerk.

Dated, March 21st, 1898.

Supervisor Voorheis, of Superior, is a good man for that township to reelect.

Dan Seyler is a good man to elect in Lodi and it needs a good man to succeed Supervisor Wood.

C. L. Tuomey has been supervisor of Ann Arbor town before and a good one. He should be elected this year.

The Register this week booms only two candidates for supervisor, viz., Col. Henry S. Dean and G. Frank Allmendinger.

Well said, Senator Thurston: "Let the men who worship the dollar stand aside and those who worship the flag follow it."

Saline this year has a chance to do a good thing in electing one of her best, most active and enterprising citizens, George J. Nissle, as supervisor.

The democrats have presented excellent ward tickets and should seize the opportunity to elect them. They need not be ashamed of any of their candidates and in the interest of economical administration should see that they are elected.

The good people of Sylvan should see that H. Lightball is again returned to the board of supervisors. It would be a distinct loss to the board should he fail to return. His work as chairman of the board gives him an influence which redounds to the credit of the township. He is a straight up-and-down good man.

Eli W. Moore, of the Ann Arbor Agricultural Works, returned last night from an extended business trip through the east. While in Philadelphia he visited the navy yard there. He says the preparations for war are amazing.

But isn't Mr. McKinley afraid that Spain's sensitive feelings may be hurt by these preparations or that she may be put to the expense of erecting another submarine mine.

Sheriff Judson has filed a legal notice on the Ann Arbor Register demanding a retraction of the articles which have appeared against him. The Register this week practically declines to retract and it is expected that a libel suit will follow. The Register intimates that it has some more ammunition in the course of preparation and advises the sheriff to hold off until he gets some more material on which to base his suit. However they didn't expose much of it this week.

To add to the general peace and harmony in the republican camp the Pingreites are pitching into the McMillanites in words of which the following editorial from the Neue Washenaw Post is a sample:

"Our state legislature presents at present a strange spectacle. Many of the legislators are striving by every art known in politics, to prevent the governor from compelling the railroad corporations and other large monopolies from paying their just proportion of taxes. They refuse to give the people relief from one of the most unjust tax systems known in modern times. They insist on discriminating in favor of non-resident bondholders and large capitalists as against the common people. Is it therefore any wonder that the latter claim that they have been bribed and corrupted by the power of money or the promise of office when 99 out of every 100 taxpayers in Michigan demand of their representatives a fair and equitable tax law? Why do you suppose they cannot get it? Why do you suppose these political Benedict Arnolds deny their constituents reasonable request? One would think that they would fear to return to their constituents after such a gross betrayal of their rights. When United States senators will corrupt legislators and strive to perpetuate an unjust tax system by bribing state senators with lucrative federal offices, then it is time for the people to arise and cast down the party that is represented by such corrupt leaders.

AN ABDICATED LEADER.

For 41 days the country waited in stern self-repression for the official verdict upon the destruction of its great battle ship and the extinction of 266 gallant lives. "Be patient," urged the spokesman of the administration. "Suspend judgment. It is better to know than to think. Perhaps the Maine was destroyed by an accident. If it shall prove that she was wrecked by design the president can be depended upon to take such action as will satisfy the most exacting American spirit. Retribution will be meted out in full measure and running over. Only have faith."

The nation had faith, and waited in pent-up wrath through six weary, heart-breaking weeks—for this:

I have directed that the finding of the Court of Inquiry and the views of this government thereon be communicated to the government of Her Majesty the Queen Regent, and I do not permit myself to doubt that the sense of justice of the Spanish nation will dictate a course of action suggested by honor and the friendly relations of the two governments.

It will be the duty of the executive to advise the congress of the result, and in the meantime deliberate consideration is invoked.

That is absolutely all the comment the president has to make upon an act of murderous treachery that stands alone in modern history. He has less to say about the destruction of an American battle ship and the murder of 266 American sailors than he would say about a proposition to fill the Potomac flats. He humbly holds out his hat to Spain and trusts that she will drop into it something satisfactory to us, or at least to herself.

And this is what we have been arming for so ostentatiously in sight of an admiring world. It is for this that we have been scouring the military markets of Europe and painting our war ships greenish gray. This is the object for which congress appropriated $50,000,000—$8,000,000 per line for six lines of platinides—the most expensive dishwater in the history of literature.

No, there is something more. What of Cuba—free Cuba, whose sufferings have wrung the American heart and stirred even hardened politicians to emotion? Cuban independence was promised up to yesterday morning. Whatever might be done about the Maine, we were told, the liberty for which the patriots had struggled for three years was assured. The mighty republic of the north was about to stretch its protecting wing over them, and the shadow of Spanish tyranny was to disappear. But now Cuba Libre seems to be forgotten at the White House. The administration has a plan, it is said, to feed the reconcentrados whom Spain has been starving, to secure an armistice under Spanish rule until October, and meanwhile to obtain by negotiations the "practical independence" of the island—a "just as good" imitation which will be as satisfactory as a substitute for real independence as a counterfeit bill is as a substitute for a genuine one.

Of this precious scheme the Cuban Junta speaks with a biting contempt that will make Americans who feel pride in their country hang their heads. "The United States," say the Cuban representatives, "may be willing to forgive the blowing up of the Maine and the assassination of its 266 officers and men. But our business is to fight, and we will keep at it."

For three years we have fought Spain as well as America. I mean we fought America to get our arms and supplies landed.

We are in better condition now than we have ever been.

We will have no armistice unless the United States forces us into it.

Our consent has not been asked and it will never be given.

The action of the Junta kills in advance the alleged presidential scheme for keeping the flag that represents wholesale murder still flying over Cuba. If the insurgents refuse to accept the terms proposed, as they do refuse, what can Mr. McKinley do? Will he spend the remainder of this $50,000,000 defense fund in helping Blanco to suppress the patriots, or will he allow anarchy and rapine to continue in Cuba indefinitely? The American people will not permit either course. They demand the immediate settlement of the Cuban question on the basis of the absolute independence of the island. They will accept nothing less, and the sooner Mr. McKinley recognizes that fact and accommodates himself to it the better chance his administration will have of ending its term with some shreds of reputation left. If the president entertains the suicidal plan attributed to him—and we say "if" not because we seriously doubt it, but in the hope that a regard for the honor of the nation may yet lead him to better counsels—he is standing on the edge of a precipice.—New York Journal.

NAVAL COURT REPORT.

ship, from a point eleven and one-half feet from the middle line of the ship, and six feet above the keel when in its normal position, has been forced up so as to be now about four feet above the surface of the water; therefore about thirty-four feet above where it would be had the ship sunk uninjured. The outside bottom plating bent into a reversed V shape, the after wing of which about fifteen feet broad and thirty-two feet in length (from frame 17 to frame 25) is doubled back upon itself against the continuation of the same plating extending forward.

A frame 18 conning tower broken in two, and the flat keel bent into an angle similar to the angle formed by the outside bottom plating. This break is now about six feet below the surface of the water and about thirty feet above its normal position. In the opinion of the court this effect could have been produced only by the explosion of a mine situated under the bottom of the ship at about frame 18, and somewhat on the port side of the ship.

6. The court finds that the loss of the Maine, on the occasion named, was not in any respect due to fault or negligence on the part of any of the officers or members of the crew of said vessel.

7. In the opinion of the court the Maine was destroyed by the explosion of a submarine mine, which caused the partial explosion of two or more of her forward magazines.

8. The court has been unable to obtain evidence fixing the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine upon any person or persons. The court, having finished the inquiry it was ordered to make, adjourned at 11 a. m. to await the action of the convening authority.

W. T. SAMPSON, Captain U. S. N., President. A. MARIK, Lieut. Com. U. S. N., Judge Advocate.

U. S. Flagship, New York, March 22, 1898, off Key West, Fla.—The proceedings and findings of the court of inquiry in the above case are as follows:

SOME OF THE TESTIMONY

Upon Which the Naval Board of Inquiry Reached Conclusions.

The following are portions of the testimony: Ensign W. V. N. Powelson was called the third day of the court. He testified that he had been present on the Maine every day from the arrival of the boat Fern and during a great deal of the diving.

In reply to a question to tell the court all about the condition of the wreck, he said the forward part of the ship forward of the after smokestack had been to all appearances completely destroyed. The conning tower lay in a position opposite the door leading to the superstructure and to starboard, inclined at about 110 degrees to the vertical with the top of the conning tower on board. Continuing, he described with close detail the condition under the main deck on the port side. The fixtures were completely wrecked, while fixtures in the same position on the starboard side were in some cases almost intact. The port bulwark between the main and berth decks at the conning tower support had been blown off on both sides, but a great deal more on the port than on the starboard side. The fire room hatch immediately abaft of the conning tower had been blown in three directions—aft, to starboard, and to port. The protective deck under the conning tower supports was bent in two directions, the plates on the starboard side being bent up and on the starboard side bent down.

Bent Up to the Starboard.

In reply to an inquiry as to whether he meant with reference to their original positions Ensign Powelson replied affirmatively. The beam supporting the protective deck a few inches abaft of the armored tube to port of the midship line was bent up to starboard of the midship line. Just forward of the conning tower, underneath the main deck two beams met at right angles, one beam was broken and pushed from port to starboard. A grating was found on the poop awning, just forward of the conning tower. A piece of the side plating, just abaft of the starboard turret, was visible. This plate was bent outward and then the forward end bent upward and folded backward upon itself. "This plate was sheared from the rest of the plating below the water line. This plating below the water line has been pushed out to starboard."

The armored gratings of the engine room hatch were blown off. A composition strainer was picked up from the bottom on the starboard quarter at a point about opposite the poop capstan and about seventy feet from it. The chief engineer thought the strainer was from the firemen's wash room. It was not a strainer of any kind.

Near the piece of outside plating to which witness referred above, he said there were pieces of red, shellaced planks. On these planks was bolted a composition track two inches wide and an inch thick.

The Starboard Turret.

Ensign Powelson then said that a 6-inch powder tank that he saw appeared to be an empty tank broken by the explosion, as it was not badly dented and merely ripped the length of the seam. A 10-inch tank was badly battered out of any conceivable shape. Continuing, witness said the divers up to the night before he was then on the stand had not been on the outside of the ship. The mud was too deep for them to walk on the bottom. "What is the condition of the starboard turret?" witness was asked.

"To my knowledge it was not found, sir," was the reply.

He understood something had been found under the place where the turret formerly was, but its exact character had not been determined.

"What impression is produced upon your mind by reports as far as you have quoted them?" Ensign Powelson was asked.

"From reports alone, or from the appearance of the wreck?"

"Either from such reports or the conditions which you believe exist."

"The impression produced upon me," replied the witness, "is that an explosion took place well to the port of the midship line and at a point in the length about opposite the conning tower."

after angle bulb beam was located, the plating was blown off on the only remaining plate of the main deck on the port side, while the wood was still attached to that part on the starboard side. Between the conning tower base and turrets. What witness saw would indicate that the pressure lifted the protective deck up on the port side, and the protective deck on the starboard side held fast and bent that deck downward. Witness here exhibited two sketches of the court showing diagram of various parts of the sunken ship and explained them to the court.

Could See the Plate.

The witness' evidence about the strip on the starboard side of the outside plating of the ship which was folded and rolled back was recalled to him, and Powelson said he could see plate underneath it as it was bent out, as it was only two feet under water where the shear occurred.

Witness had taken soundings and had found five fathoms of water on both sides of the Maine down to the mud. Taking a 14-pound lead line and dragging with a wherry for obstructions on the port side, he dragged to where he thought the water ways would be found, he found no obstructions whatever. On the starboard side he found obstructions for twenty feet where he had reason to believe that the waterways had originally been.

In answer to questions he said there was nothing under the port plating at all. He dragged along the bottom to see if anything had fallen out and found nothing. Witness thought the ship on the port side was entirely gone opposite points indicated on a diagram handed the court. It was entirely blown out.

This concluded Ensign Powelson's testimony on the third day.

Captain Sigbee's Testimony.

Captain Sigbee in testifying before the court of inquiry, which convened in the harbor of Havana Monday, Feb. 21, said that he assumed command of the Maine on April 10, 1897, and that his ship arrived in the harbor of Havana the last time Jan. 24, 1898. The authorities at Havana knew of the Maine's coming, and that Lee had informed the authorities according to official custom. After he took on an official pilot, sent by the captain of the port of Havana, the ship was berthed in the man-of-war anchorage off the Machina, or the Shears, and according to his understanding was one of the regular buoys in place. He then stated that he had been in Havana in 1872 and again in 1898.

He could not state whether the Maine was placed in the usual berth for men-of-war, but said that he had heard remarks since the explosion, using Captain Stevens, temporarily in command of the Washington City of Washington, as authority, for the statement that he had never known in all his experience, which covered visits to Havana for five or six years, a man-of-war to be anchored at that buoy; that he had rarely known merchant vessels to be anchored there and that it was the least used buoy in the harbor.

In describing the surroundings when first moored to this buoy Captain Sigbee stated that the Spanish man-of-war Alphonso XII was moored in position now occupied by the Fern, about 250 yards to the northward and westward of the Maine. The German ship Griesenau was anchored at the berth now occupied by the Spanish man-of-war Legaspe, which is about 400 yards about due north of the Maine. He then located the German man-of-war Charlotte, which came into the harbor a day or two later, which was anchored to the southward of the Maine's berth, about 400 or 500 yards.

He had no recollection of any work going on in the magazine or shell rooms on the day of the explosion. The keys were called for in the usual way on the day in question and were properly returned. At the time of the disaster the two after boilers in the after fire room were in use because the hydraulic system was somewhat leaking.

Testimony of General Lee.

Consul General Fitzhugh Lee appeared before the court on March 8. His testimony related to the official formalities preceding the Maine's arrival. On Jan. 24 he received a message from the state department saying that the Maine would be sent to Havana on a friendly visit to resume the regular status of a friendly relation between the two countries, and he was ordered to make arrangements at the palace for the interchange of official courtesies. After a call at the office he sent the state department a cipher, saying:

"Authorities profess to think the United States has uttered a promise in sending the ship, and will obstruct autonomy and produce excitement and most probably a demonstration. Ask that it not be done till they can get instructions from Madrid. Say that if for friendly purpose, as claimed, delay is unimportant."

It was too late, however, the Maine had already sailed. She arrived next day and Lee reported her arrival to the state department.

Wainwright's Testimony.

Lieutenant Commander Richard Wainwright testified that the regulations in regard to paints and inflammables and all other precautions were strictly carried out on board ship. Every possible care was taken to avoid accident. All visitors were scrutinized before being allowed to come on board the ship. Nobody was allowed unaccompanied. Special lookouts were required at night. No unauthorized boats were allowed to approach the ship.

There was fine discipline, obedient crew, quiet men. He was in the captain's office at the time of the explosion; felt a very heavy shock, and heard noise of falling objects on deck. Thought the ship was being fired upon. Was told by the captain to see the boats were lowered. He saw few men coming, mostly officers. He saw no reason to flood the magazines because water was coming up. He saw fire forward. Boats began to crowd around the wreck.

He induced boats to take the wounded to different vessels. He ordered a list taken of the saved and wounded. There was excellent discipline after the explosion. Orders were followed with promptness of a drill. The only order not obeyed was the one to leave ship.

He first examined the wreck at daylight the following morning. He took a zig, with Lieutenant Hood and two men, and attempted to board the wreck. He was warned off by an armed boat's crew of Spaniards and then pulled around the wreck. There were still some burning fragments.

Testimony of Chief Gunner's Mate.

Chief Gunner's Mate Olsen of the U. S. S. Iowa, told how he had been sent to Havana for the purpose of doing diving duty on the wreck. He had descended four times, making about eight or nine hours of total examination. Olsen told how on his first descent he went over the forward part of the ship.

To use his own expression, he said: "I found the wreck all blown up. I found a lot of grate bars down there." The second time he went down further forward and there located a lot of 10-inch shells. Forward of these the plates were bent inboard over them.

Asked if he imagined himself looking forward he stated that he did. Going over the plates he struck into a lot of 6-inch shells with the slings on them. Going to the right witness stated he found a lot of wreckage. It seemed to have been blown over the starboard. Olsen stated that he put his hand into the cranks and brought out several 6-pounder shells.

The next time he went down, Olsen testified, he went outside the ship, forward of the crane on the port side. He followed the bottom along and found that the ship's side was blown out board and alongside the crane it could be walked on.

"At the part where she is blown up completely," witness said, "part of her bottom plates are turned up. Then you follow the bottom from there up and the plates are blown outboard. At the top and underneath the bottom they are blown inboard and bent up. About three feet forward of that spot there is a piece of iron laid along the bulkhead. The skin of the inside of the double bottoms is curled like a sheet of paper inboard from stem to stern.

Amidships on the same place there is an armor plate, one plate complete, the top of the plate standing up. The plate is inclined over the starboard completely. It stands up with the thick part of the plate down.

If you are troubled with your hair falling out give Sobumacher & Miller's Hair Restorer a trial. This we are convinced will prove beneficial. It promotes the growth and leaves the hair in a soft, smooth condition. We do not mean to say that it will do this in every case, as that is nonsense, but we do mean to say that it will prevent the hair from falling out in the majority of cases. We allow you to use one-fourth of the bottle, which if used according to directions will be a treatment for about one month. If at that time you receive no benefit we will gladly refund you the money paid for the preparation. SCHUMACHER & MILLER, 12-14 Druggists, 219 S. Main st. York and Augusta.

Puny Children Who would prescribe only tonics and bitters for a weak, puny child? Its muscles and nerves are so thoroughly exhausted that they cannot be whipped into activity. The child needs food; a blood-making, nerve-strengthening and muscle-building food. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil is all of this, and you still have a tonic in the hypophosphites of lime and soda to act with the food. For thin and delicate children there is no remedy

If all spring chickens were as tender as the feelings of some people concerning what is said in the newspapers, or on the public platform, there would be less fault found with the cook, and more pleasure expended during the process of digestion. The Trees of Paris.
 Paris is probably the only city in the world which has trees that bloom twice a year habitually. These are the horse chestnuts. There are 17,000 of them planted in the squares and along the boulevards, and 26,000 buttonwoods. The trees in Paris are numbered, just like the people, the cabs, the animals, the lampposts and the matches. These horse chestnuts have only been doing this trick for about five years, and only some of them have made a practice of it. These die, or apparently die, in the latter part of July, and all the leaves fall off. A month or so afterward they all come out into flower again and little green leaves shoot forth continually until they are nipped by the first frost. There is a reason for this, and the scientists worked over the matter for a long time to be able to explain it. Briefly and unscientifically the trees lose their leaves because they are attacked by a little fungus which is blown upon them by the wind; then, being still full of sap, they start to put forth leaves all over again.

Inadequate Identification.
 A woman who is newly come to town went into one of the banks one day last week to have a check cashed. The paying teller examined the check with that air of suspicion a paying teller never loses.

"You'll have to be identified, madam," he said politely.
 The woman was in a great hurry.
 "Identified!" she said. "Why, I haven't time to go and get anybody to identify me! Besides, I don't know three people in town."

"I'm sorry," said the teller, "but the rule is invariable."
 "But," protested the woman, "I really am the Mary L. Brown named on the check. You don't doubt that, do you?"

The teller looked embarrassed.
 "It's only a form, madam," he said, "but we must insist on some identification."

A happy thought struck the woman. Her name was on her handkerchief.
 "Would the name on my handkerchief be any identification?" she asked. The teller replied that it would.

"Well, then," said she majestically, handing over the square of linen, "perhaps you'll be good enough to give me the money now!"
 The teller examined the handkerchief and handed it back without a word. In one corner was daintily written in indelible ink, "Sarah Jones."

The check was not cashed till next day, and the newly arrived woman has discharged her laundress.—Washington Post.

NAVAL COURT REPORT.

Responsibility for Wreck of the Maine Not Placed.

DESTROYED BY SUBMARINE MINE.

President McKinley Sends the Report to Congress Accompanied by a Message and Directs That the Conclusions of the Court of Inquiry Be Sent to the Queen Regent of Spain—Text of the Report—Testimony of Important Witnesses.

To the Congress of the United States: For some time prior to the visit of the Maine to Havana harbor our consular representatives pointed out the advantages to flow from the visit of national ships to the Cuban waters, in accustoming the people to the presence of our flag as the symbol of good will and of our ships in the fulfillment of the mission of protection to American interests, even though no immediate need therefore might exist.

Accordingly on the 24th of January last, after conference with the Spanish minister, in which the renewal of visits of our war vessels to Spanish waters was discussed and accepted, the peninsular authorities at Madrid and Havana were advised of the purpose of this government to resume friendly naval visits at Cuban ports and that in that view the Maine would forthwith call at the port of Havana. This announcement was received by the Spanish government with appreciation of the friendly character of the visit of the Maine and with the notification of intention to return the courtesy by sending Spanish ships to the principal ports of the United States.

Maine Enters Havana Harbor.
 Meanwhile the Maine entered the port of Havana on the 25th of January, her arrival being marked with no special incident besides the exchange of customary salutes and ceremonial visits. The Maine continued in the harbor of Havana during the three weeks following her arrival. No appreciable excitement attended her stay; on the contrary, a feeling of relief and confidence followed the resumption of the long interrupted friendly intercourse. So noticeable was this immediate effect of her visit that the consular general strongly urged that the presence of our ships in Cuban waters should be kept up by retaining the Maine at Havana, or in the event of her recall, by sending another vessel to take her place. At forty minutes past 9 in the evening of the 15th of February the Maine was destroyed by an explosion, by which the ship and all on board were utterly wrecked. In this catastrophe two officers and 260 of her crew perished, those who were not killed outright by her explosion being penned between decks by the tangle of wreckage and drowned by the immediate sinking of the hull.

Prompt assistance was rendered by the neighboring vessels anchored in the harbor, aid being especially given by the boats of the Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII and the Ward line steamer City of Washington, which lay not far distant. The wounded were generously cared for by the authorities of Havana, the hospitals being freely opened to them, while the earliest recovered bodies of the dead were interred by the municipality in a public cemetery in the city. Tributes of grief and sympathy were offered from all official quarters of the island.

The appalling calamity fell upon the people of our country with crushing force and for a brief time an intense excitement prevailed, which in a comparatively less just and self-controlled than ours, might have led to hasty acts of blind resentment. This spirit, however, soon gave way to the calmer processes of reason and to the resolve to investigate the facts and await the material proof before forming a judgment as to the cause, the responsibility, and of the facts warranted, the remedy.

Court of Inquiry Organized.
 This course necessarily recommended itself from the outset to the executive for only in the light of a dispassionately ascertained certainty could it determine the nature and measure of its full duty in the matter. The usual procedure was followed, as in all cases of casualty or disaster to national vessels of any maritime state. A naval court of inquiry was at once organized, composed of officers well qualified by rank and practical experience to discharge the onerous duty imposed upon them. Aided by a strong force of wreckers and divers the court proceeded to make a thorough investigation on the spot, employing every available means for the impartial and exact determination of the causes of the explosion. Its operations have been conducted with the utmost deliberation and judgment, and while independently pursued, no source of information was neglected and the fullest opportunity was allowed for a simultaneous investigation by the Spanish authorities.

Findings of the Court.
 The findings of the court of inquiry were made after two or three days of continuous labor, on the 21st of March and having been approved on the 22d by the commander-in-chief of the United States naval force on the north Atlantic station, was transmitted to the executive.

It is herewith laid before the congress, together with the voluminous testimony taken before the court. Its purport is, in brief, as follows:
 When the Maine arrived at Havana she was conducted by the regular government pilot to buoy No. 4, to which she was moored in from five and one-half to six fathoms of water. The state of discipline on board and the condition of her magazines, boilers, coal bunkers and storage compartments are passed in review, with the conclusion that excellent order prevailed and that no indication of any cause for an internal explosion existed in any quarter.

The explosion in the evening of Feb. 15 everything had been reported secure and all was quiet. At forty minutes past 9 o'clock the vessel was suddenly destroyed.

Two Distinct Explosions.
 There were two distinct explosions, with a brief interval between them. The first lifted the forward part of the ship very perceptibly; the second, which was more prolonged, is attributed by the court to the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines. The evidence of the divers establishes that the after part of the ship was practically intact, and sank in that condition a very few minutes after the explosion. The forward part was completely demolished.

Upon the evidence of concurrent external cause the finding of the court is as follows:
 At frame 17 the outer shell of the ship, from a point eleven and one-half feet from the middle line of the ship and six feet above the keel when in its normal position, has been forced up so as to be now four feet above the surface of the water; therefore, about thirty-four feet above where it would be had the ship sunk uninjured.

Outside Bottom Plating Bent.
 The outside bottom plating is bent into a reversed 'V' shape, the after wing of which, about fifteen feet broad and thirty-two feet in length (from frame 17 to frame 25) is doubled back upon itself against the continuation of the same plating extending forward.

"At frame 18 the vertical keel is broken in two and the keel bent into an angle singular to the angle formed for the outside plates. This break is about six feet below the surface of the water and about thirty feet above its normal position.

"In the opinion of the court this effect could have been produced only by the explosion of a mine situated under the bottom of the ship, at about frame 18 and somewhat on the port side of the ship."

Conclusions of the Court.
 The conclusions of the court are: That the loss of the Maine was not in any respect due to fault or negligence on the part of any of the officers or members of her crew.

"The ship was destroyed by the explosion of a submarine mine, which caused the partial explosion of two or more of her forward magazines; and, that no evidence has been obtainable fixing the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine upon any person or persons.
 I have directed that the finding of the court of inquiry and the views of this government thereon be communicated to the government of her majesty, the queen, and I do not permit myself to doubt that the sense of justice of the Spanish nation will dictate a course of action suggested by honor and the friendly relations of the two governments.

It was the duty of the executive to advise the congress of the result, and in the meantime deliberate consideration is invoked.
WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

TEXT OF THE REPORT.

Findings and Conclusions of the Naval Board of Inquiry.
 The following is the full text of the report of the court of inquiry:

U. S. Iowa, First Rate.—Key West, Fla., Monday, March 21, 1898.—After full and mature consideration of all the testimony before it, the court finds as follows:
 1. That the United States battleship Maine arrived in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, on the 25th day of January, 1898, and was taken to buoy No. 4, in from five and a half to six fathoms of water, by the regular government pilot. The United States consul general at Havana had notified the authorities at that place the previous evening of the intended arrival of the Maine.
 2. The state of discipline on board the Maine was excellent, and all orders and regulations in regard to the care and safety of the ship were strictly carried out. All ammunition was stowed away in accordance with instructions, and proper care was taken whenever ammunition was handled. Nothing was stowed in any of the magazines or shell rooms which was not permitted to be stowed there.

Magazines Always Locked.
 The magazines and shell rooms were always locked after having been opened, and after the destruction of the Maine the keys were found in their proper place in the captain's cabin, everything having been reported secure that evening at 8 o'clock.

The temperatures of the magazines and shell rooms were taken daily and reported. The only magazine which had an undischarged shell was destroyed at the time the Maine was destroyed. The torpedo war heads were all stowed in the after part of the ship, under the ward room, and neither caused nor participated in the destruction of the Maine. The dry gun cotton primers and detonators were stowed in the cabin aft and remote from the scene of the explosion. The waste was carefully looked after on board the Maine to obviate danger. Special orders in regard to this had been given by the commanding officer. Varnishes, driers, alcohol and other combustibles of this nature were stowed on or above the deck, the bunkers were in working order, and there had never been a case of spontaneous combustion on board the Maine.

The medical stores were stowed aft under the ward room, and remote from the scene of the explosion. No dangerous stores of any kind were stowed below in any of the other storerooms. The coal bunkers were inspected. Of those bunkers adjoining the forward magazines and shell rooms four were empty, namely, B 3, B 4, B 5, B 6. A 15 had been in use that day and the Maine carried River coal. This coal had been carefully inspected before receiving it on board. The bunker in which it was stowed was accessible on three sides at all times, and the fourth side at this time on account of bunkers B 4 and B 6 being empty. This bunker, A 16, had been inspected that day by the engineer officer on duty. The wreckage of the bunkers were in working order, and there had never been a case of spontaneous combustion on board the Maine.

The Night of the Explosion.
 On the night of the destruction of the Maine everything had been reported secure for the night at 8 p. m. by reliable persons through the proper authorities to the commanding officer. At the time the Maine was destroyed the ship was quiet, and, therefore, least liable to accident caused by movements from those on board.

3. The destruction of the Maine occurred at 9:40 p. m. on the 15th day of February, 1898, in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, being at the time moored in the same buoy to which she had been taken upon her arrival. There were two explosions of a distinctly different character, with a very short but distinct interval between them, and the forward part of the ship was lifted to a marked degree at the time of the first explosion.

The explosion was more in the nature of a report, like that of a gun; while the second explosion was more open, prolonged, and of greater volume. This second explosion was, in the opinion of the court, caused by the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines of the wreck.

4. The evidence bearing on this, being principally obtained from divers, did not enable the court to form a definite conclusion as to the condition of the wreck, although it was established that the after part of the ship was practically intact, and sank in that condition a very few minutes after the destruction of the forward part.

The following facts in regard to the forward part of the ship are, however, established by the testimony:
 That portion of the side of the protective belt, which extends from about frame 30 to about frame 41, was blown up aft, and over to port. The main deck from about frame 30 to about frame 41, was blown up aft, and slightly over to starboard, folding the forward part of the middle superstructure over and on top of the after part. This was, in the opinion of the court, caused by the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines of the Maine.

THE COST OF TRAINS.

Passenger Coaches More Expensive Than Many Fine Houses.
 "Ninety-five per cent of the traveling public do not own in their own right or occupy through rental a dwelling house which, including all its contents, costs as much as one of the ordinary modern passenger cars run on any first class railroad."

The foregoing statement, which is calculated to arouse the incredulity of the average individual, was made recently by George J. Charlton, assistant general passenger and ticket agent of the Chicago and Alton railroad.

"Just let me give you a few facts to prove that assertion," continued Mr. Charlton. "The cost of the average passenger car today is from $6,000 to $7,000. A reclining chair car costs from $10,000 to $12,000. These figures represent the bare cost of the car. When you add to that from year to year the expenses of maintenance, instead of figuring, as the ordinary business mortal will figure, a return in interest for the capital invested you simply aggravate the situation.

"I once heard a prominent master car builder say that it cost $500 to simply look over a car after it had served five or six months on the road and had been sent to the carshops to be examined and put into presentable shape for another six months' run. He meant that the ordinary 'dressing down' and cleaning of a car would cost over $500, and if you extend your investigation to general shop repairs—perhaps adding a little upholstery here and there—you could easily get away with another $500."—Kansas City Journal.

NOBODY CLAIMED THE PAPER

A Rebuke by General Washington That Evidently Frightened the Owner.

Major William Pierce left behind him a partial record of the debates in Philadelphia which supplement those of Madison, Yates and King; also the following anecdote:
 When the convention first opened at Philadelphia, there were a number of propositions brought forward as great leading principles for the new government to be established for the United States. A copy of these propositions was given to each member, with an injunction to keep everything a profound secret. One morning, by accident, one of the members dropped his copy of the propositions, which, being luckily picked up by General Mifflin, was presented to General Washington, our president, who put it in his pocket. After the debates of the day were over and the question for adjournment was called for the general arose from his seat and, previous to his putting the question, addressed the convention in the following manner:

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to find that some one member of this body has been so neglectful of the secrets of the convention as to drop in the statehouse a copy of their proceedings, which by accident was picked up and delivered to me this morning. I must entreat gentlemen to be more careful, lest our transactions get into the newspapers and disturb the public repose by premature speculations. I know not whose paper it is, but there it is (throwing it down on the table). Let him who owns it take it." At the same time he bowed, picked up his hat and quitted the room with a dignity so severe that every person seemed alarmed. For my part, I was extremely so, for putting my hand in my pocket, I missed my copy of the same paper, but, advancing up to the table, my fears soon dissipated. I found it to be the handwriting of another person. When I went to my lodgings at the Indian Queen, I found my copy in a coat pocket which I had pulled off that morning. It is something remarkable that no person ever owned the paper.—American Historical Review.

THE CAR WAS SWITCHING.
 But It Caused the Despair of a Sleepy Lecturer in Search of Rest.

"I have long made it a practice to sleep whenever I get an opportunity," said a man who lectures, "but a recent experience in Baltimore has made me shy of opportunities. You see, I spend a great deal of time on railroad trains, and frequently, in order to keep engagements, I am forced to travel at night. Now, I have great difficulty in getting asleep on a sleeping car, and sometimes I toss around all night.

"Last week I lectured in Baltimore, and after the lecture I found a sleeping car in the railroad yard which was to be added to the train bound for New York. That was my opportunity. I bought a section, hunted up the porter and asked him if I might retire with the expectation of not being aroused before morning.

"That's what the car is here for, colonel," he answered. "We don't pull out till 1:30 in the morning, and you can just go right to sleep."

"That sounded inviting, and I retired. I fell asleep promptly. The movement of the car aroused me, and, thinking that we had been coupled on to the New York train, I closed my eyes again. At that moment the car ran into something on the track with a crash and stopped so suddenly that my head was bumped against the end of the berth. Undoubtedly a smash up, I thought, and I proceeded to get out of my berth. The porter was sitting in the seat opposite.

"For heaven's sake, what is the trouble?" I asked.

"Nothin'," he replied; "just switchin'."

"Back I crawled, feeling very cheap. Again I felt drowsy, and once more the car was bumped violently, then shoved along the tracks at a rapid rate and shunted into the end of another train, starting a series of crashes that sounded one after another clear away up the track. The quiet that followed lasted so long that I began to doze. Another bump harder than the previous ones aroused me, and for the next five minutes it seemed as if two engines must be engaged in shunting my car back and forth for the fun of it. I would feel the car slide along only to come to an abrupt stop with a lot of noise. Then it would slide back to another track and stand still. For the next hour I was tossed and bruised in my berth, and I could stand it no longer. I crawled out and dressed as best I could under the circumstances, made a flying jump from the car on one of its shunting trips past the station and went to a hotel and spent the night. The memory of that experience has made me cautious about entering sleeping cars that are loading around the yard waiting to be coupled to a train, even if it does seem to offer an opportunity to make up sleep. The amount of shaking up that one man receives in a car that is 'just switchin' is surprising."—New York Sun.

Prussian Streets.

The German emperor as king of Prussia has the sole right to name streets, and he has just refused his consent to the proposal to call two streets after the names of Dr. Bertram and Dr. Langerhans, two popular members of the municipal council. His majesty disapproves of such a course during the lifetime of the godfathers. This apparently refers to men of official standing only, whose political opinions might change after the streets had been named, for the Mommsenstrasse in Charlottenburg was recently passed with approval. Some new German streets have a tendency to long names. "Prince August von Wurtembergstrasse" is today a name and nothing more. The houses have still to be built.

ORDER IS SIGNIFICANT.

Colored Troops to Be Sent to Dry Tortugas.

TWENTY-FIFTH REGIMENT CHOSEN.

Upon Their Arrival There the Colored Soldiers Will Be Instructed in Artillery Practice—General Miles and Other Army Officers at Cleveland to View the Mandreling of the Big Gun Dr. Gatling Is Having Constructed in That City.

Washington, March 23.—By direction of General Miles, commanding the army, orders have been issued for the transfer of the Twenty-fifth regiment of infantry to the Dry Tortugas. The fact that this regiment is made up of colored troops is regarded as quite significant in showing the purpose of the war department to concentrate colored troops in the vicinity of Cuba, inasmuch as it is recognized that the negro is better able to withstand the Cuban climate than the white man.

The only colored officer outside of chaplains, is First Lieutenant Charles Young, of the Ninth cavalry, who at present is on duty at the Wilberforce university. The four colored chaplains are attached to the colored regiments. The Twenty-fifth regiment is now located at Forts Missoula, Assiniboine and Harris, Mont., where they have been for the past eighteen years. There are about 450 men in all under the command of Colonel A. S. Bird. The movement will begin in about two weeks and the troops on arriving at Tortugas will go into camp, there being no regular barracks accommodations at that place for them. It was announced some time ago that the department would detail a company of artillery to man the improved caliber guns, which the ordnance bureau intends to mount at Fort Jefferson. The colored troops upon their arrival, it is presumed, will be instructed in artillery practice and thus will be enabled in case of necessity to assist the artillery company in its work.

GENERAL MILES AT CLEVELAND.

Views the Mandreling of the Big Gun Designed by Dr. Gatling.

Cleveland, March 23.—General Nelson A. Miles arrived in Cleveland from Washington. The general was accompanied by a number of officers of the regular army, who compose the board of ordnance. The party was met here by ex-Congressman Outhwaite, Dr. Gatling and Captain Day. Among those with General Miles was Major Phipps. The gentlemen were at once driven to the works of the Otis Steel company, where the big gun designed by Dr. Gatling, is being constructed. It was for the purpose of viewing the mandreling of this gun that the board came to Cleveland. It is expected that this style of gun will be an important factor in coast defense, and the government deemed it best to have skilled officers on the ground while the big gun was being internally forged. The work on the gun was at once commenced. Every detail was carefully watched by General Miles, Dr. Gatling and the others of the party. General Miles expressed himself as highly pleased with the result.

Troops to Leave Fort Reno.

El Reno, O. T., March 23.—At noon troops from Fort Reno began loading at this point on the Rock Island tracks, taking Gatling and Hotchkiss guns and all the available field pieces at the fort. It is understood they are to be sent to eastern coast points and will go via Fort Worth, Tex.

Off for Hampton Roads.

Philadelphia, March 23.—The United States cruiser Columbia, which sailed from League island for Hampton Roads and anchored in the Delaware river below Newcastle, Del., hoisted anchor and proceeded on her journey at 2:40 p. m. The ship proceeds direct to Hampton Roads.

THE TIME OF RENEWAL.

All nature is renewed in the springtime. The sky takes on a fresher color, the trees don their Easter garments, everything seems glad and happy. It seems a pity that at such a beautiful season so disagreeable a malady as the so-called "spring fever" should unfit a great many people to enjoy the unaccustomed sunshine and freshness that prevails. What is spring fever? It is that sluggishness and irritability which everyone takes a spring tonic for. "Bad blood" some people call it. A great deal of "blood medicine" is sold in the spring of the year. The blood, the vigor, the health must be renewed, with the trees and flowers and grass. The principal difficulty is, which of the numerous spring tonics is the best? Which will cure permanently and remove quickly all the disagreeable symptoms? Read what Mrs. Adlin Adams, Crafton, Ky., says of Pe-ru-na: "I was about to give up all hopes when I concluded to take Pe-ru-na. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can't speak too highly of it."

A book containing several hundred letters similar to the one from which this is an extract, will be sent free to any address by the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

A SEEMING DISCREPANCY.

The Dear Lady Has Her Daughter's Interest at Stake.

She is a lady whose husband has accumulated a large share of this world's goods. She does not care how much anything costs and desires people to know that she doesn't care. So it was not through any fear that she was not getting her money's worth that she re-proved her youngest daughter, who had been practicing at the piano. The little girl's efforts had been barrowingly persistent and dutiful, and she was hurt as well as surprised when her mother indignantly remarked:

"Dolly, I am compelled to remind you that we have employed the best teacher in the city for your musical education and that as we propose to spare no expense in the future you ought to be more conscientious in laying a foundation. You will gain nothing by dithering the work now. I am delighted that you shall learn to play the piano no matter what it costs."

"I was practicing faithfully," the pupil protested.

"My dear, do not attempt to deceive your mother."

"But you heard me practicing, didn't you?"

"It may be," was the chilly rejoinder, "that your mother's advantages in early life were not so great as those I intend that you shall enjoy. But there is one study in which I was always good, and it will be useless for you to attempt to mislead me in anything connected with it. That is arithmetic."

"I never said you weren't splendid in arithmetic, but that hasn't anything to do with my piano playing."

"Unless my eyes are at fault those are five finger exercises that you are now supposed to be working on."

"Yes."

"Very well. Do not think that I forget myself so far as to speak in anger. But I should very much like to know what you mean by trying to play five finger exercises with both hands." —Detroit Free Press.

RIOT AT THE MILLS.

Striking Operatives Fail to Prevent Men Going to Work.

Lewiston, Me., March 23.—Great excitement prevailed here for a time when the striking operatives of the Andrew Coggin cotton mills gathered about the gates of the corporation to endeavor to prevent the return of those who are willing to abandon the strike and resume work. About 1,200 persons were assembled near the gates before the usual hour for the help to go in. As those who were ready to work appeared the strikers endeavored to persuade them not to do so. When the efforts failed there was a disturbance. Agent Bean of the corporation, who appeared in the midst of the trouble, was hit with a stone but he was not injured. Several of the squad of police officers present were struck with stones and pieces of wood, but no one was seriously hurt. After the machinery had been started the strikers disappeared.

Evidence. "Think of it!" exclaimed the somewhat pedantic citizen. "A generation or so ago boys were supposed to have a good knowledge of Latin before they were 16 years of age."

"What of that?" inquired the mild mannered friend. "Doesn't that show that our pretended advancement in refinement is a misapprehension?"

"Not at all. It proves that we are more considerate and humane, and therefore more refined. Think of the amount of corporal punishment it must take to give a boy a good knowledge of Latin before he is 16 years old!" —Washington Star.

HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Her Attitude Made Him Question the Joke Manufacturers' Veracity.

"Some time," said the young man, "when business is light I am going to take a day off, and when I do some of the comic papers will do well to engage a large assortment of guards."

"Assort to turn in some comic verse, are you?" inquired the older man facetiously.

"No, I'm not," answered the young man, with emphasis, "but I'll bet when I get through with them they will know a few things about their business that they never knew before."

"Oh, they've been having fun with you, have they?" exclaimed the older man. "But you mustn't mind that. It's all in good nature, you know."

"They haven't mentioned me," asserted the young man, "but they have led me astray by a long series of inane jests, and I intend to show them the error of their ways. I suppose you know that I've been married just about a year?"

"Yes, I heard of your wedding."

"Well, just about two months after we were married my wife informed me one morning that her mother was coming to visit us. I immediately thought of the comic papers. Before she became my mother-in-law I rather liked the old lady, but of course things were different after the wedding. Consequently I stamped around and swore a bit and declared that I wanted it understood that no relative to either party to the contract could step in there and run that house. Then my wife came back at me with the statement that if her mother wasn't welcome we might as well come to an understanding at once and arrange for a separation. I replied that she was welcome so long as she was willing to mind her own business, but that it was a well known fact that no mother-in-law ever had succeeded in doing that yet. Naturally the result was that when her mother arrived my wife and I were not on the best of terms, and it didn't take long for the old lady to see it. When she did see it, she acted."

"Roasted you, I suppose?" said the older man.

"Roasted me, nothing!" returned the young man. "She roasted her daughter. I happened to overhear it, and when she laid down the law as to the duties of a wife my heart went out to her, and I felt meaner than a bobtail flush for all I'd said of her. And she's been the same ever since. She doesn't mix in much if any when there's a 'tiff,' but I can easily see that she takes my end of it when I'm not there. And good natured! Say! She's the best natured woman you ever heard of. Talk about mothers-in-law! I wish you'd point out one of those humorous writers to me for a minute. I'm feeling pretty strong today." —Chicago Record.

Men Who Travel.

Hustling and hasty meals often play havoc with the traveling man's digestion. An experienced commercial man, who spends most of his time on the road, states that he never allows himself to be without a bottle of Carter's Cascara Pills. He always takes one pill after a hearty or hurried meal and finds them a mighty good thing. The Supreme Court.

Justice Brewer has noted some curious coincidences in regard to the members of the supreme court. The judges are seated on the bench on either side of the chief justice in the order of the date of their appointments, the senior at the right, the second at the left, and so on. Before the retirement of Justice Field on the right of the chief justice were seated the three colors, Justices Gray, Brown and White. None of the associates who sat on the right of the chief justice had children. Every associate who sat on the left had a large family, and all but Judge Peckham had grandchildren. —New York Tribune.

The Heart must not be trifled with.—Where there are symptoms of heart weakness, there should be Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. It is a magical remedy, gives relief in thirty minutes, and there are thousands who testify that it cures permanently. Mrs. W. T. Kandle, of Dundalk, Ont., says: "I was for years unable to attend to my household duties. I used Dr. Agnew's cure for the heart, the result was wonderful, the pain left me immediately after the first dose, and a few bottles cured." Sold by H. J. Brown, J. J. Goodyear & Co., 14.

Purists and Pedants.

Many purists condemn such a phrase as "no sort or kind" on the ground of tautology. I should be sorry, however, to see it disappear, because it is a landmark in English philology. It is a relic of the fusion of Saxon and Norman-French. At that period many phrases of a bilingual character crept into use, and this is one of them. "Truth and honor" is another, truth being "troth," or honor, as in "by my troth." "Voice" as a verb is much objected to, coming to us moderns as it does from American sources—e. g., to "voice" the public sentiment. I don't like it and never use it, but it occurs in Shakespeare. Notoriously many so-called Americanisms are old English provincialisms. The purists threaten, indeed, to become insufferable pedants. It is now the custom of the printer's reader—our great authority—to treat "none" as invariably singular, a contraction for no one. But it is useful as a plural and is so used in Shakespeare—e. g., "Speak daggers, but use none." Why may we not continue to say, "I spoke to no women at the meeting because there were none present?" —Academy.

AN ENGINEER SAVED.

How Mr. Baxter's Life was Miraculously Saved.

His Experience as Related to a Times Reporter.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28.—The Buffalo Times has devoted an entire column to the remarkable case of R. J. Baxter, of 131 Walter street, an engineer running on the W. N. Y. & P. Ry. It appears that Mr. Baxter had been afflicted with Bright's disease and stone in the bladder, a complication of disease that was universally supposed to be incurable. He was at first treated by his family physician without receiving any benefit. The Brotherhood's doctor next diagnosed his case and advised him to go to the hospital, which he did, as a last resort to have an operation performed. After remaining in the Sisters' Hospital for some time, he was found to be in too weak a condition to stand the strain, having gone down in flesh from his normal weight 210 to 106 pounds. The operation was then abandoned and he left the hospital, to die. One of Mr. Baxter's brother engineers hearing of his sad case and knowing that Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease, visited his friend and prevailed upon him to try them. To a Times reporter Mr. Baxter said: "In a few days after beginning to take Dodd's Kidney Pills my condition began to improve, the paleness gradually left my face, the stone passed away and the puffiness under my eyes began to disappear, and two months from the time I began them, I surprised the W. N. Y. & P. Ry., by applying for work. I am now back on my engine again as well as ever I was in my life having regained my normal weight and there is not a symptom of the disease left in me. Nothing that has happened in railroad circles here for many years has created such a profound sensation as his recovery, which is considered nothing short of a miracle."

The Locality of Disease.

In an interesting article on the areas of disease the London Saturday Review remarks upon the consensus of medical opinion that diseases in general have their local habitations—some, like tropical animals and plants, living only in the tropics; some, like consumption, gradually spreading over the whole earth, while others, like leprosy and smallpox, are by degrees becoming limited in their distribution, possibly tending, it may be, toward extinction. On the other hand, however, there are regions to which diseases have never reached, for instance, on the summits of high mountain ranges and in the circumpolar snowfields the earth and air and water are as barren of the microbes of disease as they are of animal life. The writer in the Review admits that in a country like Britain, thickly populated for many centuries, and with the freest circulation of population, it cannot be doubted that every yard of surface contains the germs of the more common diseases, and the native of some newer land brought over to British shores falls a victim to its plague-stricken soil, but by generations of a destructive elimination Britons have become highly resistant to their native diseases, yet not fully so, for cancer and consumption, two of the most common scourges, still hold powerful sway.

HE HAD HIM THERE.

How a Passenger Got Even With a Street Car Conductor.

He was intent upon his newspaper when the conductor came along and stopped in front of him.

The conductor stooped down to get a better look at his face and said, "Fare, please."

The man with the paper paid no attention, and finally the conductor tapped him gently on the arm.

"Did I get your fare?" asked the conductor as the man with the paper looked up.

Now, if there is anything in this world that has a tendency to make a man who has paid his fare get angry it is to have the agent of the corporation to whom such fare was paid come along and ask him if he has paid it. It may be all right, but it always seems as if there was an inference that some one is trying to beat the road. Thus it happened that the man with the paper replied rather sharply:

"You ought to know."

"Oh, it's all right, sir!" explained the conductor hastily. "No intention to offend, you know. I merely wanted to make sure."

Then he returned to the platform, while the man with the paper returned to his reading.

A few minutes later the man with the paper went out on the platform himself, and just before reaching his corner he gently tapped the conductor on the arm, even as the conductor had tapped him.

"Did you ring up my fare?" he asked.

There were immediate indications that the conductor was getting mad. He tried to say something, but only spluttered.

"Oh, it's all right!" the man with the paper hastened to explain. "No intention to offend, you know. I only wanted to make sure."

Then he swung off the car, and when he reached home his wife detected traces of a faint smile on his face. —Philadelphia Times.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

Sometimes Hard For Them to Understand the Importance of Discipline.

That the soldiers of the Continental army—yesterday farmers and artisans—could fight history tells, but in the transition stage the idea of subordination that marks the difference between an army and an armed mob was difficult to grasp by men in whom the idea of personal independence was so strong.

The captain was no better than the private in the village from which both hailed, and it was not strange that the private, when ordered by his superior officer to fetch a bucket of water from the spring, should retort: "Get it yourself. I got it yesterday. It's your turn today." This was not insubordination in the view of the rank and file, but merely the assertion of a proper spirit of manliness.

It happened not infrequently during the civil war that the private was a richer man than the officer, as in the case of Elias Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, who on several occasions presented a fine horse to some major or colonel too poor to purchase such a mount himself.

There was another soldier of this stamp, Koch by name, who was well known in Philadelphia. He left a fortune of over $1,000,000. It fell to his lot one night to be stationed sentinel over a baggage wagon. The weather was cold and wet. This set the sentinel musing. After remaining on post for half an hour he called lustily:

"Corporal of the guard!"

The corporal came and inquired what was wanting. Koch wished to be relieved for a few minutes, having something to say to the officer in command of the post. His wish was gratified, and in a few minutes he stood in the presence of General Macpherson.

"General," said he, "what is the value of that wagon over which I am sentinel?"

"How should I know? Was that all you wanted?" responded the general impatiently.

"Something approximate," insisted the soldier.

"Oh, well, $1,000 perhaps."

"Very well, General Macpherson," responded the private. "I will write a check for that amount, and then I will go to bed." —Youth's Companion.

The Middle Aged Man.

"I wonder," said the middle aged man, "why we take life so hard. At the very best we have only 75 or 100 years of it, and yet we fume and fuss and worry all through it. I think of it sometimes. Here I am—well, say, 50, with maybe 20 years ahead. The cold chances are against my getting so many, but take a hopeful view and say I've got 20. But that's a mighty short time, eh? But just think of frittering away that time in worry!"

"When I think of these things, I make up my mind that, by cracky, I will not worry any more, and, oh, I think I take things more philosophical than I used to! But let some little thing come up! I don't fly all to pieces over it maybe, but it drags and grinds. And only 20 years to live!"

"What a waste of time! What poor, miserable critters we are!" —New York Sun.

Bullets Point to Point.

A remarkable personal reminiscence of an incident which occurred during the Franco-German war: "A perfect stranger (an Englishman)," said he, "called upon me and handed to me a chassepot rifle, which he related he had picked up on the field of battle after Gravelotte, which had a bullet or two stuck in about the middle of the barrel and which he requested me to get removed. This was done, and upon examination two bullets were found to have met point to point. A German bullet must have entered the muzzle of the French rifle barrel just as the French rifle had been fired, and the two bullets had met together without bursting the barrel. I enclose my card." —London Telegraph.

Must Have Loved Him.

Many stories have been told of a Manchester man who is supposed to be the—well, to put it humanely—plainest man in England. But we think the following is the funniest: "Mamma," a child was heard to say in an awestruck whisper after a prolonged survey of the peculiar features of the guest, "that gentleman's mamma must have loved children very, very much."

"Why so, my dear?" inquired the unsuspecting parent.

"Oh," returned the child in the same audible whisper, "cause she brought him up." —Strand Magazine.

Priceless Pain

"If a price can be placed on pain, 'Mother's Friend' is worth its weight in gold as an alleviator. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other two children than she did together with her last, having previously used four bottles of 'Mother's Friend.' It is a blessing to any one expecting to become a mother," says a customer.

Thus writes Henderson Dale, Druggist, of Carmi, Ill., to the Bradford Regulator Company, of Atlanta, Ga., the proprietors and manufacturers of "Mother's Friend." This successful remedy is not one of the many internal medicines advertised to do unreasonable things, but a scientifically prepared liniment especially effective in adding strength and elasticity to those parts of woman's organism which bear the severest strains of childbearing.

The liniment may be used at any and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists at $1.00, or sent by express on receipt of price.
