The Thirty-second Left for Tampa, Fla., Last Night.—Both Regiments are the Flower of Michigan Young Men

Although fully 10,000 visitors were at Camp Eaton last Sunday it was a busy day for the boys of the 31st Michigan Volunteers. It was their last day in camp consequently all the packing away of camp stores and personal effects preparatory to departure had to be done. At 5 o'clock the reveille was sounded, at 5:30 the men had their breakfast after which work began. At 6 o'clock the bugle gave the signal for the tents to come down, and inside of 30 seconds every tent was lowered to the ground. The regular army boys can perhaps give the volunteers some pointers in pitching tents, but not on taking them down. The tents were rolled up and loaded on wagons and hauled to the depot, where they were loaded on the cars. During the morning five company boxes were distributed to each company and by noon they were filled with company property, the woolen and rubber blankets were also rolled up in regular army style.

Capt. Ross Granger was field officer of the day, and bad guards stationed around the regimental parade grounds, and company streets of the Thirty-first, so as to prevent memento seekers from carrying off the soldiers' property. All persons who were not enlisted in the regiment and had not the proper authority were compelled to remain

A GREAT JOINT MEETING.

Over 400 Masons from all Parts of the County Here Last Night.

Last night was a memorable one to Macons in Washtenaw county, fully 400 being present at the joint initiation of Golden Rule and Fraternity Lodges, of this city, when Piof. B. M. Thompson and President Gottlob Luick were made Master Masons. Every lodge in the country was represented to a more or less degree in numbers. The work done was of the highest order of excellence.

A splendid banquet was partaken after the ceremonies were over, and when the cigars were lighted Judge H. Wirt Newkirk assumed the duties of toastmaster and introduced the following toasters and speakers: "The Grand Lodge," Grand Master James Bradley, of Port Huron; "Sooial Freemasonry," M. M. Rhead, Ypsilanti; "Third and Last Call," John W. Bennett; "The Rule and Guide of Our Faith," Rev. W. L. Tedrow; "Symbolism of the Evergreen," A. J. Sawyer; "Symbols," J. E. Beal; "My First and Last Impressions of Freemasonry," Prof. B. M. Thompson. Other speakers were Mr. Gordon, of Detroit, Prof. E. F. Johnson, W. W. Watts, Geo. McColum, L. C. Goodrich.

Never at any Masonic gathering in Ann Arbor were better or happier speeches made, there was not a poor one in the lot and Ann Arbor Masons can feel proud of its brilliant array of speakers. Pathos, humor and sound learning were evidenced in everyone and it was a pleasure to sit and listen to them.

LOCATED AT LAST

Sampson and Schley are Now at Key West.

THE SPANISH FLEET

Has Now Safely Reached Santiago de Cuba.

The Oregon is at the Barbadoes and the Harvard Has Left Martinique.—An Immediate Naval Battle Not Expected.

Since the shutting off of information from the navy department, there has been but little war news, but this morning the hostile fleets in Cuban waters have been located. Aid. Cervera and his Cape Verde fleet have arrived safely at Santiago de Cuba on the southeastern coast of Cuba, where he will sail. Sampson and Schley are both at Key West, where divers have been employed to clean the bottoms of their ships. It is thought that the United fleet will be divided again, Sampson taking the larger cruisers and battleships to attack Cervera at Santiago de Cuba and Schley taking the monitors and smaller vessels to Havana.

A dispatch from Madrid says that Cervera after coaling will sail for Havana. A battle may occur in another week by which time Admiral Dewey will probably have captured Iloilo the second largest port in the Philippines.

The Harvard has left the island of Martinique and the Spanish torpedo destroyer Terror is waiting for the required 24 hours to elapse before going after her. The Oregon and consorts have been reported at the Barbadoes.

THE MAY FESTIVAL

Was a Succession of Brilliant Concerts This Year.

The May Festival for 1898 came to a close Saturday night with a superb rendition of Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" with Mine. Jobanna Gadski as Senta, Miss Janet Spencer as Mary, Mr. David Bisphain as the Dutchman, Mr. William H. Rieger as Erio, the steersman, and Mr. W. A. Howland as Daland, assisted by the Choral Union and the Boston Festival orchestra, and it is safe to say that all who heard the beautiful music were charmed with it. The parts which seemed to please the audience best were the scenes between Senta and the Dutchman, Senta and Erio, and the spinners' chorus and the responses of the maidens and crew by the Choral Union. The whole was under the admirable conductorship of Prof. A. A. Stanley.

The crowning act of the evening, however, was when the Columbian organ pealed out and joined by the full orchestra, the soloists, the chorus and the audience generally, rendered "America" in a style that made University ball ring and caused the greatest of enthusiastic applause. It was a fitting close to as fine a series of concerts as has yet been given at any May Festival.

The program of the symphony concert Friday afternoon was changed to some extent in that Mr. Howland sang

"The Two Grenadiers" instead of the aria he was expected to sing and it was anything more acceptable to the audience than the aria would have been. He was heartily cheered. The other number which was changed was that of Miss Von Grave, a piano concerto. Her music had been mislaid, so Mr. Heindl gave his cello solo which he was to play the next afternoon in place of it. Mr. Emil Mollenhauer conducted the orchestra in the numbers that fell to his share—Tschaikowski's Symphonic Pathetique and the overture to "Gwendolyn" by Chabrier. Both were fine numbers finely rendered.

The concert in the evening was another symphony concert in which Baron Berthold and Miss Stein added further lustre to their already bright records with Ann Arborites. The main feature was Prof. Stanley's symphonic poem "Attis." It had been heard here once before on the great organ when it was in manuscript. It was warmly received by the audience and musicians declare it is a fine piece of musical composition. The other number on the program was a bass solo by Signor Del Prete.

Saturday afternoon's concert was an orchestral matinee in which the orchestra Miss Von Grave and Prof. Alberto Jonas were the instrumentalists, and Miss Janet Spencer and Mr. Wm. H. Lavin sang solos. It was a fine concert throughout.

Prof. A. A. Stanley and the University Musical Society deserve the gratitude of all for the opportunities afforded at these May Festivals to listen to such great works by such great artists and at the exceedingly reasonable prices charged. It is Prof. Stanley's ambition to present the greatest works in music in these concerts, so that students of the university may, as they go out into the world, stand for the best in music and thus hasten the day when America may boast a truly musical public.

WEBSTER FARMERS' CLUB.

A Pleasant and Profitable Meeting Held Saturday.

When the Argus scribe arrived at the hospitable and comfortable old home of Wm. E. Boyden in Webster at about 11 o'clock Saturday morning to be present at the regular monthly meeting of the Webster Farmers Club, which was to be held there, he found besides Mr. Boyden and his household, just two farmers there. It looked as though the fine weather had tempted the members to stay at home to attend to their spring work and let the discussion of topics interesting to farmers take care of itself. But before 12 o'clock—that's dinner time in the country—vehicle after vehicle rolled into the yard and when dinner was announced over 40 hungry people were ready to make a Dewey-Manila attack on the appetizing fare that had been provided. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Phelps, son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison T. Phelps and daughter, F. E. Mills, Harris Ball, and T. W. Mingay, of Ann Arbor.

Dinner over those who felt so disposed went out on a tour of inspection of the valuable herd of shorthorn cattle which finds its home on Mr. Boyden's farm. Among these was a fine lot which he brought last week from the west. There were many fine beasts among them and opinions were divided as to which animal was the best.

About 2 o'clock George E. Merrill, president of the club, called the meeting to order. Rev. G. A. Moorehouse offered prayer and the regular business of the meeting commenced.

The next meeting of the club, and the last until September, was announced to be held with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith, of Ann Arbor town.

Cyrus M. Starks brought to the notice of the club the fact that last year they had been royally entertained by the Salem Club at the home of I. Savery and suggested that it was the Webster club reciprocated. A motion was carried to invite the Salemites to meet with the home club in September at some central place to be decided on later.

Mrs. Carrie Ball, of Hamburg, then read an article by "Beatrix" on "How to Make Farm Life Enjoyable." Asthe writer of the article, who is editor of one of the departments of the Weekly Free Press, was formerly Miss Lizzie Gardner, of Lima, the daughter of a farmer, she is well qualified to speak on the subject, and the caustic remarks in the article, which contained so many truths, brought out many a smile. At the conclusion of the reading some of the statements in it were vigorously opposed by Wm. Ball, of Hamburg.

A well prepared paper by Miss Cullen on "The Advantages of the graded system in our district schools," followed. She gave some good arguments in support of her position. The graded system establishes uniformity. It enables one teacher to take up another's work and continue it. The result of its adoption would be that teachers would be hired by the year instead of by the term and they would thus be able to keep up their work and better results would follow.

C. M. Starks commended the paper heartily and thought that if teachers would follow the ideas put forth in the paper and be backed up by the people, we need have no fear of the future of our schools.

Wm. Ball thought the benefit of the system would depend on the results. Was in the main in favor of the ideas set forth in the paper. There is another question whether too much system would not result in machine methods. The difficulty in grading country schools is found in the difference in the age of the scholars and the irregular attendance. He thought the best scholars of their age could be found in the country schools as at present conducted.

F. E. Mills, said the grading of the schools should commence with the grading of the school boards. Only about half the people elected on school boards are fit for the position. Some of whom are put there for a joke. The county school commissionership should be taken out of politics, for as now carried on it often results in the best man for the position being left entirely out of the question.

R. C. Reeves and J. W. Wing also spoke a few words on the subject.

The discussion of the "Best method of restoring and retaining soil fertility" was then taken up. Wm. Ball, Wm. E. Boyden, Wm. Smith, Andrew Smith, J. S. Pacey, J. W. Wing and Mr. Lyons took part. The main ideas developed were plenty of manure, the growth of clover to be turned under when green, plenty of cultivation of the soil. One or two advocated growing rye and feeding it off in the fall and spring with sheep and afterwards plowing it in.

F. E. Mills called the attention of the club to the arrangements made by the Washtenaw Fair Society to offer premiums of $20, $15 and $10 for the best exhibit of fruits, grains and grasses at the fair next fall, the exhibits to be made by farmers' clubs and granges. He said it would be for the benefit of farmers and farming interests in general and stated that the Washtenaw society is now 50 years old and the oldest society in the state.

On motion of Mr. Ball the matter was left over until the next club meeting, then to be brought up and acted on. The club then adjourned till June 11.

outside the lines. Visitors who desired to see their friends and relatives had to send for them, and do their visiting outside of the guard line. This was on the command of Col. Gardener and many of the fathers and mothers who had gone long distances to say good bye to their sons objected to this regular army style.

At the noon hour many fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers assembled under some tree near the camp and ate their family dinner together. The parties thus assembled were not noticeable for their lightheartedness, but all seemed to be in a serious mood. Many a keepsake changed hands and was quickly hidden away in a soldier boy's blouse. Taken all in all it was a very sober occasion for all.

In the morning Mastering Officer Capt. Irvine mustered in Cos. G, E and D of the Thirty-third Michigan Volunteer Infantry in the presence of several thousand people. The soldiers were tendered an ovation when they took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

In the afternoon Governor Pingree had the Thirty-second, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Infantry formed in companies on the regimental parade grounds and G. F. Sterling & Co., of Detroit, took their photographs. At 3 o'clock the Thirty-second gave a regimental dress parade for the benefit of the visitors.

The executors of the estate have engaged W. L. Klein, a law student, to search this county for a trace of the heir.

SAVE THE BABY!

A mother will risk her own life many times to save her babe from the horrors of hydrocephalus. There are graver perils from which a mother should protect her child. A mad dog is a rarity, but thousands of children die daily because of the seeds of disease implanted in their little bodies before birth.

A woman may insure the health of her babe if she sees to it that she is thoroughly strong and healthy in a womanly way during the period of gestation.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all weakness and disease of the delicate and important organs that sustain the burden of maternity. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and elastic. It banishes the squeamish spells of the expectant period and makes baby's introduction to the world easy and nearly painless. It rids maternity of peril. It insures the newcomer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. It transforms sickly, nervous, fretful, despondent, childless women into healthy, happy, helpful, amiable wives and mothers. Over 90,000 women have testified to the benefits derived from this marvelous medicine. It replaces examinations and local treatment upon which most physicians insist. It substitutes certainty for the doubtful treatment of obscure physicians, who seldom correctly diagnose these troubles. All medicine dealers sell it, and Dr. Pierce will cheerfully give free advice to ailing women who write him.

Scores of women who have been permanently cured of obstinate and dangerous diseases by this great medicine have permitted their names, addresses, experiences and photographs to be printed in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This book is free and contains 1008 pages telling the home-treatment for most diseases. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to cover mailing only, for paper-covered copy. Cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. Information comes to us that a man sometimes giving the name of Burrows and sometimes that of Smith is traveling through Michigan representing himself as an employee of the J. C. Crows and Crows.

A correspondent of Country Gentleman says in regard to preventing crows from pulling corn: What will prevent in one section seems to fail in others. In my section images and twine are played out. The crows have become accustomed to them and will not respect them.

One of my neighbors told me he left his coat hanging on a twine pole while he went to his dinner. When he came back he found a blackbird sitting on his coat as a sentinel to others pulling his corn. I will give what is effectual with me and it is so simple all may try it: Take old newspapers, some five or more to the acre; lay them on the ground, only one thickness; put a lump of earth or stone in the middle so the ends may move with the wind. Put them on elevated places if the ground is uneven, as the rain and dew will soon dry out, so the corners can move with the wind. You can renew them occasionally if required.

This I think will be effectual in sections where it is not already played out.

A neighbor had a field adjoining mine and images, twine, tin and shingles failed. He had to replant several times, while papers protected mine, not a single spear being harmed. This remedy is also effectual to keep woodchucks and rabbits from beans and peas.

By the Way.

Among the agricultural products that are credited with increased exportations during the past year one of the most conspicuous is flaxseed. The quantity sent abroad reached as high as 4,713,747 bushels, with a value of $3,850,835.

Excellent accounts of the drought resisting qualities of the hairy or sand vetch and its adaptability to our climate have been reported to the department of agriculture from Washington, Nebraska, Georgia, New Mexico, South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana and Pennsylvania.

To replace the nitrogen taken away by crops or to increase the amount already present the Utah agricultural station recommends that a leguminous or pod bearing crop should be made a part of every rotation. The crops that may be used are many, peas, beans, vetches, etc.

It has only two ears; otherwise it seems to be double. It is a white pea and was bred by Jay Diokerson, of Sompter.

Manchester Enterprise: When the physician went to examine Allie Hough, of this place, he discovered that he had a crooked finger on his left hand and remarked, "We can't take you unless you have that finger off." He turned and laying his hand on the table said, "Take it off now, doctor." The doctor looked up with surprise at the answer and said, "You are too plucky to leave behind," and he passed him.

The importance of using only highly bred seed for sugar beets is emphasized by an authority on the subject. In Europe the production of sugar beet seed has become a separate branch of industry.

Mr. Charles Schott, of 617 Fourth Ave., says: "There is no doubt in my mind as to the excellent properties and high merits of Dean's Kidney Pills and I unhesitatingly recommend their use to any one requiring a remedy for the kidneys, believing they will always fulfill all the claims, made for them. From the results of a cold settling in my kidneys, I was for a long time troubled with a heavy aching pain through my loins. At times it was so severe that I could scarcely bend over and could hardly rest comfortably in any position. I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills recommended by parties who used them so I procured a box at Eberbach & Son's drug store and took them. I used them but a very few days when the pain disappeared entirely and I have felt splendid since."

If he remains under Michigan pay, he ought to be a United States citizen. Mr. Jonas should either naturalize or amble.

Unfortunate Beginning.

Sir William Rowan Hamilton, professor of astronomy in the Dublin university, used to speak with the strongest reverence of Bishop Brinkley, his predecessor. He had for him a filial affection and used to recall with a humorously melancholy the time of their first meeting, when, said he, "I am afraid I offended him."

I was a youth of 18 and sat next him at some public luncheon. We did not speak, and I felt that good manners required me to break the silence. My eye happened to rest on a large map of Van Diemen's Land hanging on the wall, I turned to him.

"My lord," said I, "were you ever in Botany Bay?" The bishop turned to me with a look of severe displeasure.

"Eat your soup, sir," said he, "eat your soup." And then it occurred to me that he thought I was asking whether he had ever been "transported," for at that time Botany Bay was where desperate criminals were sent for a punishment. — Youth's Companion.

ASKED THE AVE.

The Cape Verde Fleet Departs from Curacao.

ITS DESTINATION UNKNOWN

Spanish Vessels Set Sail at the Bequest of the Venezuelan Government.

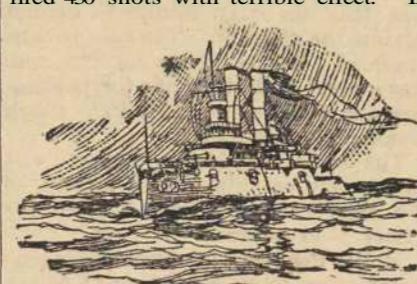

New York, May 17.—A dispatch from Willemstad Curacao, says: The Spanish cruisers Vizcaya and Maria Teresa left this port at 6 o'clock in the evening. Their destination is unknown. The four other Spanish warships which were off the harbor disappeared about noon, but in the evening one of the torpedo-boat destroyers was sighted again.

While here the two warships took on a small quantity of coal and provisions. Their departure was due to a request by the government to leave, as provided in the decree of neutrality. There were no colliers with the fleet. A rumor says there are some commercial ships in this vicinity.

Washington, May 17.—It is said at the navy department that Admiral Sampson reported to the navy department by cable from Cape Haytian. It is understood that the admiral by reason of information just received by him, has changed his plans of operations and instead of going to Key West has directed his vessels towards Cienfuegos, where he is expected to arrive within the next day or two.

London, May 14.—A dispatch from St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, says San Juan de Porto Rico surrendered at 6 o'clock in the evening. The dispatch adds that immense damage was done to the city and that a number of important buildings collapsed. The Iowa and Detroit, according to this dispatch, fired 430 shots with terrible effect. In conclusion, the dispatch says the Americans did not attempt to take possession of or destroy the town beyond razing the fortifications.

New York, May 16.—A special from Key West reports that in the fight at Cienfuegos Commander Washburn Maynard and Lieutenant Cameron M. Winslow, both of the gunboat Nashville, were slightly wounded.

The dispatch adds that the Spanish loss is estimated at 400, and that of the United States fleet, four killed and four wounded. The lighthouse was demolished, it is reported, the arsenal destroyed and the batteries on shore silenced. The town was set on fire by shells from the American fleet.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON'S REPORT.
Description of the Bombardment of the Porto Rican Capital.

Washington, May 14.—The navy department has received the following dispatch from Admiral Sampson. It is dated St. Thomas, May 12, and is as follows:

"A portion of the squadron under my command reached San Juan this morning at daybreak. No armed vessels were found in the port. As soon as it was sufficiently light I commenced an attack upon the batteries defending the city. This attack lasted about three hours and resulted in much damage to the batteries and incidentally to a portion of the city adjacent to the batteries. The batteries replied to our fire but without material effect. One man was killed on board the New York and seven slightly wounded in the squadron. No serious damage to any ship resulted."

Admiral Sampson's statement that he attacked with only a portion of his fleet is taken to indicate that he did not find it expedient to take the entire squadron into the harbor, though it is not believed he has separated his fleet.

A special from St. Thomas says the casualties on board the United States fleet in the bombardment of San Juan were as follows: Killed—Seaman Frank Widemark of the New York. Wounded—Samuel Feltman, leg broken, and four other seamen on the New York: Marine M. G. Merkle, elbow broken; Seamen R. C. Hill and John Mitchell, slightly hurt.

READY TO TAKE MANILA.

Admiral Dewey Awaiting Order* from Washington.

Washington, May 17.—A special from Manila via Hong Kong says: Admiral Dewey stands ready to take Manila whenever orders are received from Washington. Several Spanish boats, including the gunboat Callao, have been captured by the fleet. The Callao steamed into the harbor with colors flying and when brought to by shots from Dewey's fleet immediately surrendered. The Spaniard's commander was not aware of the fact that war had been declared. Food is scarce in Manila, the soldiers and the poor being obliged to eat horse meat to sustain life. The city is hemmed in by rebels, whose warlike attitude keeps the residents in a state of terror. Five foreign ships—one German, one French, one Japanese and two British—are in the harbor to protect their subjects and observe operations. The Spanish loss in the battle of May 1 is given by the Dons as 312 killed and 700 wounded. Admiral Dewey is transferring guns from Cavite to a transport.

DKWEY KILLED THREE HUNDRED.

Dispatch from Manila to The Liberal at Madrid.

Madrid, May 16.—A dispatch to The Liberal from Manila, dated May 9, and says by special steamer to Hong Kong, says: The ainstal has surrendered and Cavite has been evacuated by our troops. The Spanish losses were 300 men killed and 600 men wounded. The enemy suffered considerably, including an officer killed on the Olympia. The Baltimore was damaged. Our shells did not burst, and all the enemy's shells burst. Admiral Dewey has had a long conference with the foreign consuls. The Yankees took and burned the merchant ships. Corregidor island was betrayed.

A consultative assembly is discussing the horrible situation created by hunger and misery. We are isolated by the blockade and are in fear of an immediate attack. Since the cable was cut little new has happened. The blockade continues, but Admiral Dewey says he will not bombard the town without his government's orders. He also says he hopes that a general rebellion will take place within four days. New bands are on foot in Pamanga.

ENGAGEMENT AT CARDENAS,

Ensign Bagley and Four of the Crew of the Winslow Killed.

Key West, Fla., May 13.—There has been an engagement off Cardenas, near Matanzas. The United States cruiser Wilmington, Commander C. C. Todd; the torpedo boat Winslow and the auxiliary gunboat Hudson were engaged. One officer and three men of the Winslow were killed and several were wounded. The dead are Ensign Bagley; John Varvors, oiler; Josiah Tun-nett, cabin cook; J. V. Meeks, fireman, and J. Daniel, fireman. The wounded are: R. E. Cox, gunner's mate; D. McKeon, quartermaster; J. Paterson, fireman; F. Gray and Lieutenant J. B. Bernardow. All are slightly wounded, except Patterson, whose condition is serious. Ensign Worth Bagley was appointed from North Carolina on Sept. 1, 1891.

The men were killed by a bursting shell fired from a Spanish gun. The Winslow was rescued by the Hudson in a badly damaged condition and towed to a place of safety.

WILMINGTON'S REVENGE.

Fires the Town of Cardenas and Kills 300 Spaniards.

Key West, May 16.—Reports received here tell of the havoc inflicted on Cardenas by the cruiser Wilmington Thursday evening. Bodies of Spanish soldiers are piled up in the ruins of the forts, and hundreds in the city are wounded. Spanish treachery, which caused five deaths aboard the Winslow was avenged by the Wilmington asson as the torpedo boat was taken to Key West. The Wilmington shelled the masked battery, and when that was silenced gave its attention to the other forts and then the town.

When all was silenced small boats were landed. In the masked battery 113 bodies were found. Cardenas was set on fire, and it is thought that at least 300 Spaniards perished. Not it shot hit the Wilmington.

Boston Fears Attack.

Boston, May 16.—Officials of high rank at the navy yard place considerable credence in the rumors that some of the enemy's fleet is not far from this coast. Orders from the war department were received at Fort Warren to remove all women and children from the fort to a place of safety in case of bombardment. This was at once done, all of the women and children being hurried to Boston. The fact that the United States cruiser Columbia and the ram Katahdin left the port hurriedly with sealed orders, only strengthened the suspicion that something of a grave character is imminent.

Spanish Cabinet Resigns.

Madrid, May 17.—All the members of the Spanish cabinet have resigned. Senator Sagasta communicated the situation to the queen regent, who will instruct him with the task of forming a new ministry. It is officially denied that the cabinet changes are connected with a peace movement. On the contrary, it is declared that Premier Sagasta's ministry, when the new cabinet is formed, will continue to prosecute the war with the full resources of the country.

Nine Hundred Spaniards Killed.

London, May 14.—According to a special dispatch received here from Havana (via Kingston, Jamaica), there has been an engagement between the Spaniards and the insurgents, during which 900 of the former were killed. The location of the battle is not mentioned in the dispatch.

Charleston Has Not Sailed.

San Francisco, May 17.—The Charleston is still at Mare Island. The vessel is ready to put to sea at a moment's notice but no one seems to know when orders to sail will be received. It is generally understood, however, that she will get away very soon.

Spanish Spy Commits Suicide.

Washington, May 13.—George Downing, the Spanish spy arrested here several days ago, has committed suicide by hanging himself at the barracks where he was confined.

Chronic Dyspepsia Cured.

After suffering for nearly thirty years from dyspepsia, Mrs. H. E. Dugdale, wife of a prominent business man of Warsaw, N.Y., writes: "For 28 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The lightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the formation of gas. No matter how careful of my diet I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and tried numerous remedies without permanent help. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Serve and Liver Pills and Nervine. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects to keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any old symptoms."

THAT M. C. R. R. CONTRACT.

The aldermen of the city of Ann Arbor were most beautifully hornswoggled Monday night into confirming Mr. Butterfield as city attorney. The sole valid objection to Mr. Butterfield was his position as attorney of corporations with which the city was having trouble, or was likely to have trouble. The objection that the mayor had not kept his promises, had really nothing to do with the council, but is for the people to settle with the mayor himself in good time. Mr. Butterfield is one of the attorneys for the Michigan Central and as such made the plea which induced a circuit judge in Detroit to decide that it was the city's business to keep in repair the overhead bridge over the Central which is such a money saver to that road. City Attorney Kearney in a carefully drawn opinion indicated just how the council could avoid this expense, much to the detriment of the road. When Mr. Butterfield's nomination first came up enough republicans indioated their opposition to confirmation on the ground that he was the railroad's attorney, to render his defeat probable. To draw these men back into line, the Central railroad which is greatly interested in having a city attorney biased in its favor, wrote a private letter offering to enter into a contract with the city to keep the overhead bridge in repair provided the city would give up all its rights which Mr. Kearney so clearly pointed out and the council, after confirming Mr. Butterfield, instructed him to make a contract with the Central company along these lines subject to their approval. The Argus wants to predict right here that every alderman who votes for such a contract will be sent into innocuous desuetude.

The Argus has every confidence in Mr. Butterfield's honor and integrity, but he is a biased man, and his bias is perfectly natural. The contract with the Central under which the city contracted to keep the bridge in repair, was made with a committee of the council on which a Michigan Central railroad attorney was a leading member. He is a man whose reputation for honor and integrity is not excelled by the reputation of any other man in this city. He is thoroughly an honest man, and would today undoubtedly defend the contract which seems to the council and the citizens made in the interest of the railroad company. Sooh being the case does the council want to trnsl the drawing of another contract to another railroad attorney. What good can come of such a contract? What right has this council to shut off the growth of the Fifth ward at any future date or prevent steps being taken to increase our farmers' trade from the north?

They say that Dewey is a dude. Well, he is a dandy dude. Would that be bad more of them.

About the only war result chronicled from day to day is the old refrain Dewey has taken another gunboat.

It is now 19 days since Dewey won his great victory and was in position to take Manila had he men to garrison it. And still no troops have yet left this country for the Phillipine Islands.

Every time a coast defense vessel indulges in a little target practice or fires a signal gun, reports are sent broadcast of heavy cannonading heard off the Atlantic coast to the alarm of the denizens of the coast cities.

There is nothing in the constitution to prevent the United States from establishing colonial governments in the Phillipines, Porto Rico and Cuba, until such time as they are Americanized enough to be admitted into the sister-hood of the states.

The Charleston which sailed from San Francisco Wednesday with ammunition for Dewey will add another cruiser to his fleet with the same fighting capacity as Boston and a little less than the Olympia or Baltimore. With the captured gunboats the Charleston will put Dewey in better condition to cope with any fleet Spain may send to the Phillipines. Dewey in himself is as good as any battleship Spain can command.

Representative Sawyer says that Senator Burrows is being horuswogged by the Pingree orowd. Mr. Sawyer probably knows. But, if report is correct, Mr. Sawyer himself tried to play a little game of hornswoggling on the Pingree orowd and found the governor too much an adept at the game to be caught. So he probably feels that Burrows is not adept enough to play that kind of a game with Pingree.

Prof. F. M. Hamilton, the alderman from the first ward, has a fine reputation as an educator and is an excellent business man, but he is of too honest and unsuspicionB a nature to make a good politician. The Argus commanded Mr* Hamilton's first position that he would not vote to make an attorney of the Michigan Central an attorney for the city. But Mr. Hamilton's vote was necessary for confirmation and he was shown a letter from the railroad company to Mr. Lawrence indicating their willingness to make a contract with the city. Now this letter don't bind anybody. It was not written to the city. It is only a promise to promise anyway. Of course the railroad company is willing to make a contract with the city if the city's interests under that contract are to be looked out for by an attorney for the railroad company. We are afraid Mr. Hamilton would be a poor man to run up against a gold briok game.

DOWN SOUTH IN DIXIE

the boys good bye and wished them Godspeed. The train left at 11:55 standard time. The seond section, containing Co. A, B, C and G, left at 12:21; the third section, Cos. L, I, K and M, left at 12:40. The first section was in command of Col. Gardener, the second, Lieut.-Col. Shubel, and the third section, Maj. Chas. H. Harrah.

The trains consisted of 28 sleepers, one horse car, one flat car, and five freight cars. The route was over the D. G. H. & M. to West Detroit, Michigan Central to Cincinnati, and the Queen & Crescent to Chickamauga. The traveling rations consisted of 2,940 pounds of Quaker bread, 2,205 pounds of canned corn beef, 1,323 pounds of baked beans, and about $600 in cash to buy coffee at stations along the road. Of these stores Co. A received one-twelfth. The field rations will consist of 7,350 pounds of bacon, 1,470 pounds of beans, 980 pounds of coffee, 1,470 pounds of sugar, 25 pounds of pepper, 392 pounds of salt and 98 gallons of vinegar. In addition there will be 392 pounds of soap, and 147 pounds of candles. It has been figured that a daily allowance equivalent to 18 ounces of bread, 20 ounces of meat and 16 ounces of vegetables is necessary to keep a soldier in fighting trim. In addition to needs 71 ounces of fluid. Coffee, of course, is the soldiers' drink and be will be amply supplied with that.

All the way through Ohio a continuous ovation was given the Thirty-first. The most remarkable demonstrations coming from the working classes, who deserted their work benches and rushed to the windows of the many factories along the C. H. & D. road to wave a greeting at the stopping places. Women and young girls distributed dainty things to eat and kisses to the soldiers. Through Kentucky the same degree of enthusiasm was visible but the women dispensed with the kisses. Fruit, flowers and dainties were, however, showered liberally on the men.

Chickamauga Park wa reached about 5 o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday, the three sections of the regiment having arrived at Chattanooga, Tenn, shortly after 7 in the morning, but owing to delay caused by the inability of the single track railroad which runs from that city to Chickamauga to handle the large number of troop trains that were arriving, they were delayed several hours.

Then the Thirty-first had a hot, dusty march of four miles before they reached their bivouac in a beautiful grove about the center of Chickamauga Park, and fully 25 of the men dropped out of the ranks exhausted. Col. Gardener had to hire private teams to haul his camp equipage. It was almost dark before the provision wagons reached the camp grounds, and after dark before the tents came in. As a result the boys slept on the tents instead of under them, most of the boys made their own coffee and ate their travel rations. The officers fared not so well, and Chaplain White, Maj. Hunt and Surgeon Colby went without coffee. Col. Gardener had a supply of bacon and coffee in his chest and cooked his own supper, and then slept in the open air on his cot.

Private McGinnis, of Detroit, contracted pneumonia on the road, but is now improving rapidly under good medical care.

The Thirty-second Regiment was ready to leave Camp Eaton in 24 hours after notice was given it and left early last evening for the camp at Tampa, Fla. Col. Tyrrell gave it as his opinion that such a fine regiment never before went out of Michigan.

BUGLE NOTES.

There are about 15,000 volunteers in camp at Chickamauga. Gen. Geo. Spalding has secured the appointment of Major Seymour of Adrian, as additional paymaster in the University hospital, has been appointed hospital steward at Island Lake.

BUGLE NOTES.

The Charleston which sailed from San Francisco Wednesday with ammunition for Dewey will add another cruiser to his fleet with the same fighting capacity as Boston and a little less than the Olympia or Baltimore. With the captured gunboats the Charleston will put Dewey in better condition to cope with any fleet Spain may send to the Phillipines. Dewey in himself is as good as any battleship Spain can command.

It is said that steps are to be taken to organize a militia company in this city to take the place of Co. A now mustered into the U. S. service.

Dr. Leroy Southmayd, son of Mrs. Sarah E. Southmayd, of Ann Arbor, has been appointed assistant army surgeon in the volunteer army from Colorado.

The commissary department at Cerrickamauga now has plenty to feed the army with for some time. Uniforms, equipments and general supplies in immense quantities are also en route.

The Thirty-first Michigan has been attached to the first brigade of the second division, the other two regiments in the brigade are the Third Pennsylvania and the One Hundred and Sixth Indiana. Col. C. Gardner is provisional commander of the brigade.

Governor Pingree had the great seal of the state of Michigan taken from Lansing to Island Lake, Wednesday, by Secretary of State Gardner and Executive Clerk Dunham to facilitate the signing and sealing of commissions of the Thirty-second Regiment officers.

In a letter to the Times J. B. Hillman says that Private Webb, of Co. G, was the first man in the third battalion of the Thirty-first Regiment to steal a kiss from a southern girl. Those Ypsilanti fellows are adepts at that business, having had good practice at home.

When Governor Pingree telegraphed to Secretary of War Alger of the departure of the Thirty-first Regiment he said: "A better or more enthusiastic body of volunteer troops never left this or any other state. Hundreds of the men in the ranks left positions paying from $1,000 to over $5,000 a year."

The governor's staff were treated to a regular army dinner yesterday. It consisted of bard tack, sowbelly and beans, and coffee without milk. They wanted to wait for the second course, but when told there would be no other, they ate sparingly of the food, but did not like it a little bit. Mere fuss and feather soldiers, that's all.

The recruits who arrived at Camp Eaton during the past week are anything but comfortably situated. They have no tents to sleep in, and are compelled to undergo many hardships that the enlisted men of the Thirty-first and Thirty-second infantry did not have to undergo. As each regiment leaves Camp Eaton for the south it takes all the best tents in camp, until those that remain are almost unserviceable.

DANGERS TO THE U. S. ARMY

Which Will Come from Disease in Case of Invasion of Cuba.

Below is given the full text of an address delivered by Dr. W. B. Hinsdale, dean of the Homeopathic Medical College, before the Unity Club on Monday evening. The lecture was listened to by a good sized audience and was received with much attention:

Some diseases, like races of men, are indigenous to certain localities, others quite generally dispersed. As we can trace races to their original habitats, so can we trace diseases to pretty definite quarters of the globe; especially infectious and contagious diseases.

As the peculiar wants of some animals can only be supplied within limited environments, while others are more general, so with diseases some being confined to certain localities others universal. Thus, malaria soon disappears when transferred to uplands, while typhoid and many other diseases travel the world around. Still further, some plants and animals change their features and habits when bred in a new country, so with diseases, even becoming more fatal. Thus an unaccustomed person will be more severely attacked by the diseases indigenous to a certain locality.

The similarity between certain diseases and living bodies seems to be something more than a coincidence. In fact the microscope has proved that the cases of contagious and infectious diseases are living organisms like the grasses of the fields or the birds of the air.

In our study of lands and localities we often overlook what is of vital interest to us, the diseases indigenous to them. When, however, we are obliged to send our friends to conquer them, our disconcern changes to the keenest apprehension.

In the case of Cuba, the diseases to be dreaded are mostly those peculiar to a tropical climate and a country so notoriously neglected in regard to its sanitation. Especially is this true at this time of year. The risk to our army going to Cuba in the late autumn would be many times less than for them to go now. Aside from the miasmic diseases to be encountered, there are the fatalities from heat-stroke during this heated term.

The question is often asked, what is yellow fever?

Briefly described, it is an infectious disease prevalent in tropical countries. It is undoubtedly an indigenous disease to the Island of Cuba where it prevails endemically. Havana is notoriously a yellow fever center.

There is no doubt about this disease being what is called a germ disease, but so far as our positive knowledge of the germ itself is concerned it is still hypothetical.

The disease is probably not contagious but highly infectious. Some authorities maintain that the infection is communicated by means of the atmosphere, others, that like the typhoid germ, it is only communicated through substances taken into the alimentary canal, mostly as foods and drinks. It is supposed that the poison is not given off in an active form, by the person diseased, but undergoes subsequent development in a favorable soil.

Some of the favoring causes of its development are: a very high degree of temperature, atmospheric humidity, a low elevation, unhygienic conditions, intemperance, and physical exhaustion.

Frost absolutely destroys it. A person once having yellow fever will probably not have it again.

The premonitory symptoms are: indefinite headache, languor, loss of appetite, etc. Yellow fever is characteristically a disease of two periods. Usually there is a chill at first, promptly followed by a reactionary fever. Vomiting is one of the characteristic symptoms. The matter vomited early in the disease may be streaked with blood.

At the close of the first period convalescence may begin and go on uninterrupted till full recovery. Or the patient may present prostration, distress in the bowels, and a yellowish tint of the skin, from which the disease takes name. The vomit at this period is coffee-ground in appearance, and black. This is the fearful black vomit.

Some of the things to be observed by the individual are: keep dry, avoid the use of alcohol in any form, also all native fruits except the lemon, and any kind of food unless it has been previously sterilized by heat.

If it is true that the infection is only introduced into the body by way of the alimentary tract, theoretically prevention is easy, because if nothing be taken into the stomach in the way of food or drink but what has been first sterilized by cooking or boiling, the germs will certainly be killed and there can be no more risk in connection with yellow fever than in connection with typhoid when the same precautions are observed.

Immense boilers will have to be connected with every camp for the purpose of boiling drinking water. Sterilizing ovens will also have to be established for the fresh roasting of hard-tack, and all foods will have to be cooked or raised to the boiling point immediately before using.

All camps should be located on high ground. Prevailing winds from suspicious localities should be avoided. All important is dryness of the soil. All cots and beds for the men should be as high above the ground as possible. The men should be obliged to sleep with covering however warm the night may be. They should have as much bedding as possible between them and the ground. The strictest rules against intemperance and debauchery should be enforced.

While yellow fever is the disease most dreaded in the popular mind in relation to a Cuban expedition, however, so far as its prevalence is concerned it will not occupy the highest place.

Malarial diseases will destroy more lives of northern white soldiers going to Cuba than any other disease, except diarrhoeal and dysenteric effections. The tame old fashionedague is but the slightest suggestion of the tropical malaria that often kills the patient with the first stroke.

The telurio conditions favorable to the malaria germ propagation are dampness of soil, stagnant water, abundance of vegetable growth, and a mean temperature for 24 hours above 65 degrees.

In our study of the report of the Surgeon General of the U. S. A. for the civil war we find the following interesting statistics. Of those affected by the diseases named below, the percentage of deaths among the whites and colored is as follows:

Attorney Arthur Brown traded a good house and lot in Flushing with Daniel L. Davis for an 80-acre farm in York, neither having seen the property of the other. Davis was satisfied with his end of the trade, but when Brown want to look at the York farm, which Davis had praised upas a model of perfection, he found it was not up to the guarantee. He promptly filed a bill in the Genesee circuit court to have the deed granting the Flushing property to Davis set aside. The case came on Monday and Davis gave up his claim when he saw the witnesses. Mr. Brown bad against him and traded properties over again.

Times: Although George H. Pond has been confirmed as postmaster for Ann Arbor he will probably not assume the duties of the office until May 30, thus allowing Postmaster Beakes to serve his full four years without any time curtailed from the sentence for good behavior. Under the civil service rules now all the regular employees from the head clerk down, are subject to its regulations and there can be no removals except for cause, so that there probably will be no changes in the working force. It seems that the only exceptions to the civil service rules are the postmaster, the special delivery boy and the sorub-woran but whether these three are placed in the same oatory or to give the postmasters an opportunity to deal out a little patronage has not been duly stated.

Modern discoveries concerning the origin of diseases have brought the little organisms called bacteria into so much prominence that search has been made to ascertain if they existed during the early geological periods. A few months ago the fact was announced that M. Regnault of Paris had discovered bacteria in coal. Continuing his researches, he found evidence that bacteria were probably coeval with the first appearance of organic life on the earth. They attacked vegetable tissues, as well as the bones and teeth of animals, but as a rule they belonged to species distinct from the bacteria of today.

Marriage, according to Dr. Schwartz, of Berlin, is the most important factor in longevity. Of every 200 persons who reach the age of 40 years 125 are married and 75 unmarried. At sixty years the proportions are 48 to 22; at 70 years, 27 to 11, and at 90 years, 9 to 3. Fifty centenarians had all been married. The doctor asserts that the rate of mortality for husbands and wives between the ages of 30 and 45 years is 18 per cent, while that for unmarried persons is 28 per cent.

Hide in Cuban Ports During the Day and Do Their Cruising at Night.

Small Naval Boat with a Crew of Seventeen Reported Blown Up Off Cardenas—Nationality Not Stated—Trick of the Spaniards Which Resulted in a Complete Failure—Tried to Invade Oni Avaruji in Range of Morro Castle.

Cape Haytian, Hayti, May 17.—[Copyrighted, 1898, by the Associated Press.]

Two Spanish cruisers or gunboats are making their base of operations at Badiquiri, or Guantanamo bay. They are known to be moving every night in the Waters between Hayti and Cuba. A Haytian, schooner, plying between the Hole St. Nicholas, Jean Rabel, and Glatinagua, reports through an agent of the Cuban insurgents at Port de Paix, having met Spanish vessels several times during the past few weeks. The Spanish vessels are supposed to hide in the Cuban ports during the day and to go out cruising at night.

Madrid, May 17.—A dispatch received here from Havana says that a small naval boat, having a crew of seventeen men, has been blown up off Cardenas while engaged in removing torpedoes from that harbor. The dispatch adds that a torpedo exploded through the negligence of those engaged in the work and that all the crew of the boat referred to perished. The dispatch does not indicate whether the boat was an American or a Spanish craft.

Key West, Fla., May 17.—Boats which had just arrived here from the blockade fleet say they have no knowledge of any craft having been blown up off Cardenas or elsewhere. The opinion is expressed that the Spanish report probably originated in the Wilmington sinking of the Spanish derelict schooner loaded with old iron.

THE TRICK FAILED.

Scheme of the Spaniards at Havana Which Came to Naught.

Key West, Fla., May 17.—The United States cruiser Wilmington, Commander C. C. Todd, when about thirty miles east of Havana, fired four shells into a Spanish trap in the shape of a derrick, sinking it and thus doing away with another piece of Spanish trickery.

The commander of the Wilmington had been warned by dispatch boats that some dangerous wreckage was drifting about the spot mentioned and the cruiser steamed in that direction to investigate the reports. An old Spanish schooner, with her deck loaded to the rails with rusty iron, car wheels, etc., closely packed together, was found floating in the track of torpedo boats, and dispatch boats. The iron-laden schooner had evidently been sent out of Havana harbor in the hope that a torpedo boat or small craft of the blockading force would crash into it and be so damaged as to cause her to sink. As wires were noticed around the iron rails on the schooner, Commander Todd believed the Spanish trap might also contain explosives, and therefore, laying off a considerable distance from her, his guns promptly sent her to the bottom.

Yale Has Left St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, May 17.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Yale has cleared from this port, and turned westward.

tion by the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror. It involves the use of the Yale and the Montgomery to watch the port at the three-mile limit, to wait until the Harvard appears, and then to be prepared, in case the Terror follows, or other Spanish torpedo boat destroyers come along, to fall upon them with their heavy and light rapid-firing guns and destroy them.

On the other hand, there are naval officers who laugh at the fuss that has been made over the situation at St. Pierre and declare that there is nothing to prevent the Harvard from leaving if she desires to do so, and nothing but the assumption that the torpedo boat destroyer is a formidable vessel to lead to the opinion that it could destroy the Harvard without difficulty. When Captain Cotton has completed the repairs, said to be needed by the Harvard, the nature of which has not been communicated to the department, he can leave, and it is believed that France will stick closely to the custom under neutrality laws to prevent the Terror from leaving until twenty-four hours later.

SPANISH CRAFT AGAIN SEEN.

Supposed To Be the Torpedo-Boat Recently Seen Off Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N. S., May 17.—Captain Harrison Furness of the liner St. John City has arrived in port from St. John, and reports having sighted off seal Island, near the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, a curious-looking, low-lying craft, which was steaming at a rapid pace. Clouds of smoke were pouring from her funnel. Officers on deck turned glasses on the strange-looking vessel, and made her out to be a torpedo-boat, painted black, with yellow funnel. The first officer, Gelding, who is familiar with various types of torpedo-boats, said that the craft passed was undoubtedly a Spanish torpedo-boat of powerful make.

She showed no colors, and headed in the direction of the St. John City, but changed her course, presumably making out the British flag. After passing Seal Island the torpedo-boat steered away in a westerly direction, running like a race horse. She was of the newer British type of torpedo-boat. The craft was undoubtedly one of the Spanish ships reported several times within the last week off the Nova Scotia coast. She could not have been a British boat, as the only British torpedo-boats on this side of the Atlantic have not been out of port this season.

Saw Three Strange Warships.

LIMBS WERE NUMB.

Mrs. Lizzie Martin was in Almost a Helpless Condition.

Detroit, May 16.—"I want to and my testimony to the wonderful merits of Dodd's Kidney Pills," said Mrs. Martin, who keeps a boarding house at 102 Gratiot Ave. "Two years ago I took a headache, which caused me a great deal of annoyance. The doctor told me I had female weakness and was run down; his medicine did not do me any good and I grew rapidly worse, my limbs were numb and I was almost totally disabled, suffering tortures that only women afflicted such as I know. I have now taken four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Tills., which have thoroughly cured me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are woman's friend; they give strength to the kidneys so that the uric acid and all impurities are removed from the blood which causes it to flow through the system rich, red, pure and health giving.

How to Say Vlxe.

How to pronounce the name of the Spanish warship recently at anchor in New York bay has been a subject of much curiosity among Americans. The name of her commander, Capt. Eulate, is pronounced as if spelled Ay-oo-lah-tay. The first two syllables run tog-ta a little, the third accented and the last very short. He pronounces his ship's name "Bith-kah-ah," or as nearly as that as the American tongue can get at it. The second syllable rhymes with "rye," and is nearly two syllables, the two sounds being run close together.

SUSPECT WIDOW AND SON.
Investigation of the Death of J. S. Collins at Xopeka in Progress.

Topeka, Kan., May 17.—The mystery surrounding the murder of J. S. Collins at his home at 5 o'clock in the morning is gradually being cleared up. Suspicion rests upon members of the family, and both John Collins, the son, and Mrs. Collins will be held pending a fuller investigation. The murdered man was followed to the cemetery by the greatest concourse of people known in the history of Topeka. The investigation by a dozen detectives during the last three days proves conclusively, the officers say, that Collins was not murdered by a burglar, and that he had no enemies who would go into his home and murder him.

On Friday evening Collins and his wife were away from home, attending a Masonic gathering. Young John Collins and his sister Grace were left at home. When the parents returned, the children had retired. "When the shots were fired from the shotgun which killed Collins, Mrs. Collins said, she was also hit by the scattering shot from the gun, and that she called to her son and daughter, who were asleep in their rooms above. Investigations show that Mrs. Collins was not shot at all. The revolver which Mr. Collins always kept under his pillow was found in a closet. The theory is that if young Collins murdered his father he removed the revolver from underneath the pillow while his parents were out to be sure the father would not kill him in self-defense.

Detectives visited Lawrence, where young Collins had been attending the university. They discovered that he lived beyond the $25 monthly allowance provided by his father, and that he had borrowed money here and at Lawrence without the knowledge of his parents.

He often complained because his father was well-to-do, had not given him more money. It is related that young Collins seemed not at all grieved over the death of his father. Officers say they have circumstantial evidence which may lead to the conviction of both widow and son.

What Others Say About It.

It gives me pleasure to express my faith in Carter's Cascara Cordial, which is the only medicine I ever take or recommend. During a time when I was greatly overworked I was persuaded by a friend to try the Cordial. I am happy to say I immediately began to realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I have in my travels recommended it to many people, and personally know of several cases where the Cordial has effected a cure when the doctors have failed.

Respectfully,

MABEL JENNESS MILLER.

Washington "Widows."

I like gratitude. I like to hear of grateful people, and an anecdote I heard recently of one Washington man has pleased me immensely. He has recently married the widow of a very wealthy gentleman, and on the proceeds of the transaction he has built a handsome house. When the house was finished and the moving into it was accomplished, the wife and her mother fell to discussing just where they should hang the portrait of the former husband. They had just decided to hang it in a small room on the second floor when the new husband came in and beard of the master.

"Hang him up, stairs!" he said. "No, sirree. No, sirree. That man was my benefactor. I owe everything I have to him. He shall hang in the place of honor."

Aud husband No. 1 now smiles down from over the mantel in the drawing room.

But that makes me think of another Washington widow who has recently bestowed herself and her belongings on a second husband.

"It's so fortunate," said she to me. "My first husband's last name began with a W, you know, and so does my second husband's first name. All Mr. W.'s handkerchiefs are just the thing for Willie, and I haven't even had to have the initial on them changed."

MOW MUCH HE LOVED HER.
My bosom, Sylvia, to prove,
You bid me tell how much I love,
X love thee, then—but language fails—
More than bees love flowery vales,
More than turtle loves his dove,
More than warblers love the grove,
More than nature loves the spring,
More than linnet loves to sing,
More than insects sunny beams,
More than poets airy dreams,
More than fishes love the flood,
More than patriots public good,
More than flocks the grassy plains,
More than hinds increasing rains,
More than lords their pedigree,
More than Yankees to be free,
More than heirs love twenty-one,
More than heroes laurels won,
More than elves the moonlight shada,
More than ancient maids to wed,
More than hermit loves his cell,
More than beauty to excel,
More than miser loves his store,
More than myself. Can I do more?

A WOMAN'S WAY.

The hoproom at Fort McKibben was gay with flags; the floor was like a burnished mirror; nearly all the married officers were there with their wives and daughters, and of course not a bachelor was missing; the gold lace on the uniforms glittered in the blaze of many lights; women who in the daytime were merely ordinary mortals had taken on with their evening gowns an air of spiritual beauty; a waltz had just ended, and the danoers were collected in groups, talking and laughing; the cornetist of the band was playing a solo, when Captain and Mrs. Kingsley came into the room.

The cornetist caught his breath and lost a note, but no one noticed. The talking and laughing ceased. Every one knew that Mrs. Kingsley was the most beautiful woman in the army, but no one had ever seen her as beautiful as she was that night.

She was very tall, with a full yet slender figure of surpassing grace. Her hair and eyes were dark. Her skin was creamy white, with a real rose tinge in her cheeks. She wore a black gown, and her shoulders gleamed above the chiffon that draped the bodice.

The simile is hackneyed, but her eyes were indeed as bright as the diamonds in her hair. A great red rose burned over her heart, and as she stood in the doorway beside her husband she made a picture that could not be ignored.

Every one looked at her, but she looked at Captain Howard only, who was standing alone, and who, after gazing at her a moment as if spellbound, went toward her.

Her eyes were solemn, her mouth unsmiling, as she gave him her hand.

"Well, Howard," said Captain Kingsley cordially, laying his hand on Captain Howard's shoulder. They had been roommates at West Point and firm friends from that time on.

"How are you, Rob?" said Captain Howard constrainedly.

"Why, what's the matter?" said Captain Kingsley. "You look as solemn as an owl."

"I feel just as I look," said Captain Howard. "Mrs. Kingsley, may I have the next dance?"

"I hope it isn't the thought of dancing with me that depresses you," Mrs. Kingsley said, making an effort to speak lightly.

"I need not answer that," said Captain Howard.

The music began, and Mrs. Kingsley nodded and smiled to her husband as she danced away with Captain Howard.

For a few moments neither spoke. Then his arm grew tense around her, but he did not draw her closer.

"Great heavens! This is terrible!" Mrs. Kingsley whispered.

"I wonder if you can imagine how like a traitor I feel?" said Captain Howard. "I am devoted to Rob, yet here I am, trying to steal his wife."

"But you cannot feel as much like a traitor as I do, for after all his goodness to me—his unfailing love—I want to tie stolen."

He stopped dancing and offered her his arm. They went out on to the porch. At the farther end of it he turned toward her, and she stepped back from him a little way.

"This cannot go on forever," he said.

"Do you really love me?" she asked.

"You know it."

"And do you know how I love you?"

"Yes."

For a moment she looked into his eyes, then she held out her hands to his.

"No," he said firmly, taking them, tint holding her away from him, "I still have some sense of honor. If Rob were not my friend, it would be different, but as it is you must either go away with me and be mine altogether or you must stay here and be only his."

"But if I go away with you it will break Rob's heart."

"I can break his heart without compunction, but I cannot kiss his wife out here in the dark and then go back into the hoproom and speak to him as a trusted friend."

She looked at him scrutinizingly.

"What a curious thing a man is," she said. "My sense of honor would be satisfied if I could keep him from knowing, for I would hate to hurt his feelings."

"Then I am afraid that you have no sense of honor," he said smiling.

"Yes, I have," she said, without the slightest resentment in her voice. "I wouldn't do anything if he were away, but when he is here to take care of me and to defend my honor I really don't think that it is very wrong for me to do anything I can without his finding out."

"What a curious thing a woman is," he said mockingly, but leniently. "However, it is easy for a man to overlook a great many weaknesses and shortcomings in the woman he loves."

"And when a woman loves a man, he overlooks nothing," said Mrs. Kingsley. "It would grieve me to death if you were willing to deceive Rob. I am happy in my love for you because I believe that if I did run away with you you would be as true to me as you are to him."

"And will you go with me?"
"Won't you kiss me unless I do?"
"No," he answered, looking at her steadily. She thought for a moment.

"Then—I will go," she said.
"Alice," said Captain Kingsley's voice close beside her, "I unintentionally overheard what you said. I was bringing your wrap to you." He laid the cape about her shoulders as he spoke. "Come home with me. Howard, meet me in the morning, half an hour before reveille, at the target range."

He seemed to speak mechanically. There was no feeling in his voice, no expression of pain or of anger on his face.

Captain Howard bent his head in silent agreement, and Captain and Mrs. Kingsley walked slowly homeward side by side.

The dawn was glimmering in the east, the birds twittered in a desultory fashion, the dew was heavy on the trodden grass, when Captain Kingsley and Captain Howard met on the target range.

"You brought your pistol?" said Captain Kingsley.

"No," said Captain Howard.
"That is just like you," said Captain Kingsley. "I suspected that you would not bring one, so I brought two." He handed one to Captain Howard as he spoke.

"I don't want it, Rob," said Captain Howard, taking it reluctantly. "How can I raise it against you? You have done me no injury."

Captain Kingsley walked five paces away from Captain Howard.

"Are you ready?" he said, turning toward him.

"Yes."

"Then count three and fire."

The two shots rang out simultaneously. Neither man was touched.

"Why did you do that?" said Captain Kingsley, frowning.

"Why did you?" said Captain Howard.

"I gave you a chance to revenge yourself."

"What good would revenge do me?" said Captain Kingsley. "I think that my only wish is to put myself out of her way. Do you mean to shoot me or do you not?"

"I do not," said Captain Howard.

"You leave me no alternative. I must do it myself," said Captain Kingsley.

And he did.

He was buried with military honors in the post cemetery. The papers announced that while he and his friend, Captain Howard, were shooting at a mark his pistol had gone off accidentally and killed him.

The evening after the funeral Mrs. Kingsley was sitting in her drawing room when Captain Howard came in.

"Alice," he said, "dreadful as this has been I cannot regret it, for it gives you to me."

She looked at him, but blankly as if she did not see.

"What is the matter?" he said.

"Don't you love me any more?"

"Love you? Yes, but that has nothing to do with it," she answered.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I am going away tomorrow."

"And when may I come?"

"You? Why, never."

"Aren't you going to marry me?"

"You don't suppose that I could marry you after this? When Rob was alive and at home, I would have done anything—anything—but, as I have told you before, if he had been away I would have behaved in a most exemplary manner. Now that he can never come back—now that I am left alone to uphold the honor of his name, do you dream that I would marry you of all people? My sense of honor forbids it."

She smiled wanly, but there was an unshining resolve in her eyes.—Elizabeth Harman in Home Magazine.

FARM AND GARDEN

THE DOUBLETREE.

A Practical Farmer's Ideas About Kvalizing Int the Work of the Horses.

Not every farmer has stopped to study the physics of the doubletree. Very few doubletrees are made with three holes in them on a line, as will be seen in Fig. A. They are oftener made as in Fig. B, so that the strain will not be so liable to split the wood. You seldom ever see one made as in Fig. C, yet it is occasionally made in this way with rigid attachment.

Now let us look at them closely. When the three holes are on a line, it matters not which horse is ahead, both pull an equal share of the load, as will be seen by Fig. D, where both ends are equal. When the holes are out of line, as is usually the case on doubletrees, like B, it will be seen at a glance that the horse that gets behind is not only behind, but he enjoys the short end of the doubletree and is pulling more than his share of the load. This is shown in Fig. E. Should the sides of this doubletree be reversed the horse that goes ahead will have the short end and will be pulling the greater part of the load, as in Fig. F. Should you be unfortunate enough to have a doubletree like Fig. C it will be seen by glancing at Fig. G that the horse which is behind not only enjoys being behind time, but he is by his laziness compelling his mate to pull the greater share of the load. I give these figures for the boys on the farm to ponder over. These lessons will not only be found interesting, but will be valuable for any one to know who has to work with horses, says a practical farmer, who expresses the foregoing ideas in an Iowa Homestead.

Bow to Disinfect the Pruning Knife.

The County Gentleman quotes Professor M. B. VVaike in regard to disinfecting the pruning knife used in cutting out wood diseased by pear blight, as follows:

"The solution to be used in disinfecting the pruning knife is the carbolic acid solution, which is doubtless the best for this purpose. It is made by shaking up the acid, preferably the crystalline form, in a bottle with water. The solution should contain about 5 per cent of the acid. A piece of cloth or a sponge should be fastened inside the vessel containing the solution, and each time the knife is used it should be wiped on this cloth or sponge. A solution of ordinary chloride of lime is also good for disinfecting the knife. It should contain about 2 or 3 per cent of the chloride of lime. Another solution which can be used for this purpose is corrosive sublimate (mercuric chloride). A solution containing one-tenth of 1 per cent would be sufficiently strong. Tablets containing sufficient corrosive sublimate for a quart of water can be obtained at almost any drug store."

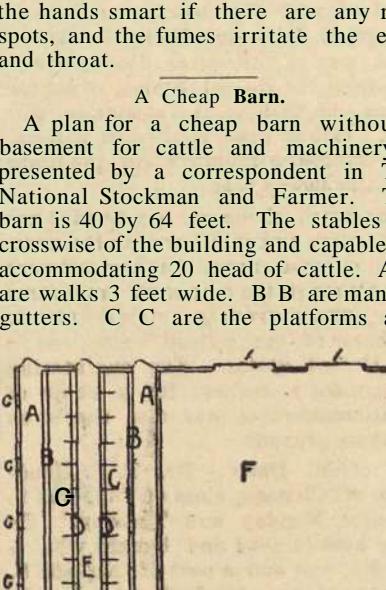

Formalin Treatment.

Dr. Arthur seems to have been the first to test the efficacy of formalin in combating the potato scab. It is not very expensive and can be bought by the fluid ounce at most drug stores. The following is his description of the method of treatment, which is quite simple:

Eight ounces of the formalin are added to 15 gallons of water, and in this the seed potatoes are soaked for two hours. After taking from the bath they can be cut and planted as usual, either at once or after some time. Formalin is not corrosive, and so can be used in any kind of vessel, and not being poisonous there are no particular precautions to be observed. It does, however, make the hands smart if there are any raw spots, and the fumes irritate the eyes and throat.

A Cheap Barn.

A plan for a cheap barn without a basement for cattle and machinery is presented by a correspondent in The National Stockman and Farmer. The barn is 40 by 64 feet. The stables are crosswise of the building and capable of accommodating 20 head of cattle. A A are walks 3 feet wide. B B are manure gutters. C C are the platforms and stalls. D D are the feed troughs and mangers or racks combined. E is the feeding alley. F is storage room for the farm machinery 88 by 40, with sliding doors H H 12 feet wide and I I 10 feet wide. G G G are windows. The building should be 20 or 24 feet high, which will give storage room in the loft above for quite a large amount of hay. The hay may be taken in at one or both ends by means of the horse fork.
