Anti-Judsonites Do Not Submit to the Lash.

PREVIOUS PROMISES

To Let the Wily Sheriff Have Things All His Way

Do Not Count for Much Now That the Sticking Point Has Come .-Republican Convention Is to Be a Warm One.

The contest for the republican county nominations is growing warm. The anti-Judsonites claimed that they had laid down and would let the sheriff have things his own sweet way, but the earlier caucuses do not indicate very lamblike qualities. Already two sets of delegates have been elected from Ann Arbor township and all factions are claiming the delegates elected in

The main contest will be over sheriff. Deputy Sheriff Lester Canfield at this writing seems to have the pole. The other candidates are all working hard, however, and are Wade McCormick, of Northfield, James H. Kingsley, of Manchester, Marshal Zenus Sweet and William Eldert, of this city. The name of Paris Banfield has also been suggested.

For clerk the contest will also be warm. City Clerk Mills is still working his directory and putting in his best work for the nomination. John Heinzmann, who withdrew from the post office contest, has suddenly loomed into prominence as a candidate. It is said that Probate Register Peter. J. Luhman, whose name was being favorably considered will bide his time. Charles Gauntlett, the Milan horseman, is also a candidate, but instead of looking after delegates, he is reported to be in Columbus, Ohio, watching his horses. Ex-County Clerk Dansingburg was also said to be a candidate but it is whispered, with how much truth we know not, that he is not now looking

For register of deeds, George A. Cook will be nominated by acclamation. For treasurer Jacob Braun, the present deputy, is slated for the nomination.

It was generally conceded that Frank A. Stivers would be the nominee for prosecuting attorney, although Frank E. Jones was the candidate in the event of the anti-Judsonites controlling the convention. But it is now said that Mr. Stivers does not look with longing eyes upon the felicity of running against Major Kirk. John W. Bennett's name has also been mentioned, but whether or not with authority we are unable to state. Some time ago Andrew E. Gibson was shaption but he too read the handwriting on the wall and is not a candidate.

City Attorney O. E. Butterfield can have the nomination for circuit court commissioner again if he wants it.

The county convention will also elect delegates to the senatorial convention to be held in Jackson. Campbell is a candidate for renomination and expects the nomination with the help of his Jackson friends. It is thought that the Pingree forces have slated ex-Congressman Allen for this place. There is a move on foot among the Jackson republicans to nominate John C. Sharp.

The Aun Arbor township contesting delegations arose in this way. At the caucus Wednesday afternoon, called by Aug. 18, 19 and 20: sun time, the time used by the court house clock, only the anti-Judsonites were present at the opening of the Idalene Webb, Saline. caucus and quickly elected Smith Bostford, Ep. Matteson, George Foster, D. L. Godfrey, J. C. Mead and A. F. Smith as delegates. Just as a motion to adjourn was about to be put a dozen rough riders arrived and one of them moved to reconsider. There is some dispute as to what actually revote of 12 to 11. The second set consists of Peter Baesler, John M. Bird, Lewis McCardy, George Schlee, Milton Keppler and John Campbell, all followers of the sheriff. There will be a contest in the convention and considerable interest is being taken in the question of who will be the chairman to name the committee on credentials.

Stories of Smith, the republican Engaged in the Spanish-Amnominee for congress are now in order. Here are two from Monroe county. It was at a country school house two years ago and the redoubtable Henry was orating in his best stlye when farmer entered who had had the misfortune to come into close contact with a carnivorous animal of the genus mephitis, commonly known as a skunk. As soon as the unsavory odor reached the nostrils of the orator, he stopped suddenly in his lofty flights of speech to remark, "I see there is a democrat in the house. I smell him."

It was shortly after Smith's nominathe city of Monroe, and doing his level best to shake hands with everyone he had ever seen before. He saw an old farmer whose face looked somewhat familiar, but he couldn't exactly place him. However with his blandest smile he extended the glad hand and questioned, "How are things in your town-ship?" "All right" was the response. Not yet locating his man, Smith queried "What are you going to do for the republican ticket this fall?" "Oh, we'll give the republican ticket a good majority this fall all excepting this man Smith." "What's the matter with Smith" asked the astonished canhim," was the instant rejoinder, "won't vote for him myself." "Do you know Smith?" "Yes I know him." "Why, I'm Smith." "Yes, I know that." press of the country had little to say in criticism. Now that it is ended much can be said—in fact much must be said. The plans for the war were well laid; the navy was well handled; the army did all that could be asked; the soldiers and sailors covered themselves with glory. But in the commissary and the medical departments great deficiencies and many cases of incomstarved while food was plenty; our brave boys died for lack of food, medicine and nursing. The mortality of the war was frightful; not from the enemy's bullets, but from the criminal inefficiency of certain officials and the rapacity of contractors. A GASOLINE EXPLOSION

Caused by Carelessness Results in Severe Burns to Charles Crandall.

Through an accidental explosion of gasoline in the Hay & Todd underwear factory in this city late yesterday afternoon Charles Crandall, son of the caretaker of the athletic field, was severely burned about the body, arms and face. In the process of manufacturing the underwear gasoline is used for washing out the material. The washing room is not far from the engine room, but is at all times seperated from it by heavy iron doors. Yesterday, however, some careless person left the doors open and it was not long before the gasoline fumes from the partially dried cloth found their way to the door of the firebox to the engine. An explosion followed, the fire from which ran into the wash room. All the boys but young Crandall ran from it, but he stood still. A second explosion followed, at his feet, and he was enveloped in flames which were, however, quickly extinguished. He is quite badly burned but will recover.

FOOLISH TREATMENT

Known Here.

Many of our citizens will remember Dr. Chas. Ryan, now of Jackson, who was in Dr. Copeland's office last year and had hosts of friends here. He is a son of Presiding Elder Ryan of the M. E. church. He enlisted as a private in the 31st Michigan and his experiences are thus detailed in a dispatch from Chickamauga:

"Dr. Chas. Ryan, of Jackson, who came out as a private with the 31s Michigan, and was then transferred against his wishes to the division ambulance corps, has been discharged. want of the care that nurses could When the discharge came Saturday he gave a shout of joy and made preparations to leave camp on the next train.

Dr. Ryan has particularly just cause to complain about his treatment in the army. Because he objected to the soldiers who were not subjected to the transfer from his home regiment to the regular army hospital service he was put at menial labor, instead of being put in the hospistal where he could do the most good. The thought of an Ann Arbor graduate and a practicing physician digging sinks and handling mules while men were dying from lack of medical attendance is peculiarly exasperating to those with the army and some spirited correspondence passed between Col. Gardener and the doctors over the Ryan case.

Water Supply Then and Now.

In view of the present capacity of the Ann Arbor Water Co's plant the following extract from the introduction to the Ann Arbor City Directory of 1872, published by James M. Cole and John. Keating will be of interest:

"A long needed want of a better protection against fires, has caused surveys to be made by the city, of the feasibility of appropriating the waters of three considerable lakes about one and a half miles west of the city limits. The elevation is about 71 feet above the level of Huron st., at the junction of Main. The cost of this work is estimated at $100,000 and the volume of water daily for use of the city equal to about 540,-

Today the amount of water would not supply the city for eight hours. For the last five days the Water Co. has to bring out the answers to the ques- been pumping 2,250,000 gallons per tions—to discover and arraign the crim- day of the aqueous fluid. Comment is unnecessary.

A farmer of this stat; conceived a labor saving device last spring which has proved instructive if not profitable. Desiring to raise a 20 acre crop of pole beans, and being also desirous that nature should do her full share, he planted a sunflower seed in each hill. "BURNING STICKS."

Columbus' Impressions on His First Introduction to Smoking Tobacc

It was on the island of Cuba, in the autumn of 1492, that the use of tobacco was learned by Europeans. Columbus makes the first mention of the weed in his diary under date of Oct. 15. When he and his men landed on Cuban shores, the kindly natives, who mistook them for messengers from heaven, brought them numerous offerings. Among these, as stated by the admiral in his diary, were some "dry leaves, which must be something much prized by them (the natives), for they had already brought me some in San Salvador as a present.'

Little heed was paid to these leaves in the beginning by the Spaniards. They were in search of gold and saw no possibility of converting miserable weeds into that precious commodity. In the course of time they began to notice that as the natives went to and from their villages and the shore smoke escaped from their mouths, "in a truly diabolical manner." Soon they discovered that these unclad children of the wilds carried in their hands a "burning stick," which every now and then they would put into their mouths and blow out a cloud of smoke. This had a most heathenish look, as it is recorded, to the Spaniards, and they inquired, as well as they could by signs, into the custom.

They learned that the burning sticks were composed of the dried leaves so treasured by the natives, and that the custom of smoking the fragrant weed was supposed to lessen fatigue on long journeys. They tried it for themselves and found this actually to be the case. On many a troublesome jaunt thereafter they were refreshed as the pleasant perfume curled upward from their own "burning sticks."-Detroit Journal.

SPECULATING ON SHIPS.

How Underwriters Gamble on Overdue Vessels Posted at Lloyds,

When a ship is overdue, an opportunity is sometimes afforded for a gamble at Lloyds. It can be readily understood that underwriters who are interested in the "overdues" are only too willing to get rid of the risk by paying a premium on the insured rate to those who are willing, on their terms to relieve them of their responsibilities. The premium varies with the chances of the vessel turning up; the smaller the chances the higher the premium and vice versa.

The rates paying on "overdues" serve as accurate barometers of the probabilities or otherwise of the ship ever being heard of again. These underwriters who speculate on "overdues" are generally tors." The insurance on an "overdue" may pass through many channels before the ship is, on the one hand, "posted" at Lloyds as "missing," or, on the other hand, she arrives in safety.

A ship is never "posted" until the committee is thoroughly satisfied that her case is hopeless, and until the owner is of the same opinion. Before "posting" a notice is put up for a week inviting any information concerning the vessel. If this elicits no news, the committee at its next meeting votes the ship as "missing," and a notice is posted accordingly. The loss is then settled and paid for. It may be incidentally remarked that "posting" at Lloyds constitutes a legal death certificate for any one on board the missing ships. -Good Smallest and Oddest Republics.

Goust is the smallest republic as to area, but Tavolara is the smallest republic as to population. Goust is only one mile in area. It is located on the flat top of a mountain in the Pyrenees, between France and Spain, and is recognized by both of those countries. It is governed by a president and a council of 12. It was established in 1648 and has 130 inhabitants. The president is tax collector, assessor and judge. Goust has no church, clergyman or cemetery. The people worship in a church outside of their own territory, and the dead bodies are slid down to a cemetery in the valley below. In that valley all the baptisms and marriages are performed. Tavolara is 12 miles northeast of Sardinia. It is an island five miles long by a half mile wide. Its total population consists of 55 men, women and children. The women go to the polls with the men and elect every year a president and council of six, all serving without pay. The inhabitants support themselves by fishing and raising fruit and vegetables. The republic has no army and no navy.-Cincinnati En-

Market Quotations on Scalps.

The market price of "scalps," as agreed upon between the early French colonists of Louisiana and the Indians, with whom they bargained to fight out their battles with hostile Indians for them, varied with circumstances. At the time the French were at war with the Alibamons a "scalp" of one of the last named, when brought to them, was paid for at the rate of a gun, five pounds of musket balls and as much powder. "On the 14th of March" (1704), writes De La Harpe, "a party of 20 Chicachos (Chickasaws) brought in four Alibamon scalps. They were given for each scalp a gun, five pounds of balls and as much of powder, according to the contract made with them."-New Orleans Picayune.

SMUT IN WHEAT.

Four Formulas for the Treatment of Seed Wheat to Prevent It.

The unusual prevalence of smut in the wheat crop of 1898 calls for extraordinary effort on the part of Michigan wheat growers to prevent a repetition of the loss from this source next year. It is now well known that smut is a disease carried forward from one year to another in the seed wheat. The disease converts the kernel into a Mrs. Parmalee and daughters are vis- black, ill-smelling mass of spores which, when the smutty kernels are broken up by the threshing machine or by handling, attach themselves to the sound kernels. When wheat so infected is sown, the kernels and these spores of smut germinate at the same time. The smut plant grows inside the wheat stem throughout the season, and spent last week at Mr. and Mrs. George when the crop is ripening it turns the kernels in the head of the wheat into Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinigeweg and the well known smut kernels. The little daughter, Linda, spent Sunday in spread of the disease may best be prevented by treating the seed wheat. The following methods of treating seed wheat to prevent smut have been sent ont from the experiment station of the Michigan Agricultural College. The remedies are neither expensive nor laborious in application:

TREATMENT NO. 1, FORMALIN.

Buy at a reliable drug store a pound of formalin. It should cost you not far from 60 cents. Mix with 50 gallons of water. Put the seed wheat in a pile on a floor which has been swept clean and sprinkled with the same solution of formalin. Spray or sprinkle the wheat with the formalin solution, shoveling the pile over meanwhile until all the surface of every kernel is Do not use an excess of the liquid or it will hinder germination. Leave in a pile for 24 hours and sow at once, or dry and sow later. The bags and other utensils with which the seed wheat comes in contact should also be

TREATMENT NO. 2.

Substitute one pound of corrosive sublimate for the formalin in the above remedy and treat the wheat otherwise exactly as explained above. Remember that corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison and neither the solution itself nor the treated wheat should be left where stock can possibly gain access to

The corrosive sublimate is rather hard to dissolve and the solution should be prepared by dissolving the pound of the arug in three or four gallons of hot water and adding later a sufficient quantity to bring the total amount up to the required 50 gallons.

TREATMENT NO. 3, BLUE VITRIOL.

Dissolve one pound of blue vitriol in four gallons of water and spray the wheat as in the treatments above. The four gallons should wet 13 bushels of wheat. This method is not as good as either of the preceding since copper sulphate, or blue vitriol, as it is variously called, injures the germination of the wheat.

TREATMENT NO. 4, HOT WATER. Soak the seed wheat for 10 minutes in water at 135 degrees F. Use a tested thermometer only. Provide two vessels large enough to hold 20 gallons each, if possible. One should contain to the fact that it was included in the warm water at about 120 degrees F., the other scalding water at 133 de-There is a point to be made just grees. THE CAMPFIRE.

Wartime Reminiscences of a Veteran of the Civil War.

"Men build fires in various places to cook their coffee by or to make themselves warm or for company's sake,' said a civil war veteran, "and any fire is likely to be more or less a gathering point, but I suppose that the fire to which the name of campfire properly belongs, the campfire of song and story, is the cook's fire at the end of the company street, built on the ground, under a pole supported at the ends by crotched sticks driven in the earth and from which the camp kettles are suspended. This was the gathering point of the company.

"Men did not always stand about the campfire. It depended upon circumstances and on the weather. They met here, of course, at mealtimes, and there were times when men would stand around the fire and smoke and talk, and then it might be that the men would keep their tents, playing cards or smoking there, or mending their clothes, or polishing up their accouterments, so that there were times when the fire was quite deserted or when perhaps there might be seen there a solitary figure, a man who had come to light his pipe.

"But, though it might be deserted, the fire still burned. Sometimes on cold and windy nights the wind would blow it about and scatter it, and sometimes, when it was no longer attended, the rain would put it out black, but there was usually a living fire there by day and a bed of embers by night, and here was the soldier's hearthstone."-

Parrots Are Never Original.

I have read of a father who would not let his children tell their dreams because there is in such narrative too great temptation to wander from the truth. Parrot stories are too often like dream stories-one-half true, and they are sometimes; plainly to any who knows the true talking power of these birds—made up entirely or greatly exaggerated. While the parrot has a certain unmistakable sense of humor, and is correspondingly wise, none of the various species is or ever was capable of the original wise and witty talk familiar to us in newspaper anecdotes.

In fact, the parrot is never original in speech. It is altogether imitative, and a bird that has never heard spoken words has surely never uttered a sylla-

But, judging from parrots' clever use of what they learn to say, it is almost certain that they come to know in a measure the meaning of the phrases they learn.-Charlotte Boner in St. Nicholas.

The Bamboo Gun.

The natives in the Bucherganj district of Bengal have been deprived of their guns, and since then they have resorted to the native bamboo in the hunt for defensive weapons.

They hollow out the bamboo, load it with an ounce or two of native powder and a handful of iron slugs and touch it off with a fuse in the immediate neighborhood of the offending person.

Another way, as the cookery books say, is to employ the bamboo as a fork with a cobra pinned to the far end. An application of the cobra to the sleeping body of an enemy is all that is necessary.—London Tit-Bits.

PIERCE FOR CONGRESS.

The choice of the democratic convention at Jackson at the congressional envention will be ratified at the polls in November unless all indications fail. Mr. Pierce's selection left no hard feelings among the other candidates. He was more confident of success in the campaign, and made far more of an effort to secure the nomination. He has ever been a staunch democrat, and has no Pingree nonsense about his democracy. He is a believer in Bryan and the doctrine of free coinage as laid down in the Chicago platform and is an outspoken advocate of Whiting for governor. His private life is above criticism, and his business career is without reproach. For the past four years he has been postmaster at Hudson, and the people than our beautiful and stylish Augustathere dislike to see a change, so thoroughly well has he served the entire public. The democracy of the district will find him a vigorous, tireless worker. He is a man above and beyond state color wanted. THE TELECTROSCOPE.

Wenderful Invention of a Poor Galician

School Master. Jan Szczepanik's wonderful invention, the telectroscope, will, if all accounts be true, realize all that Edward Bellamy predicted about twentieth century entertainments in his last book. Equality, Szczepanik is a Galician schoolmaster turned inventor. The wonders of his telectroscope are to be fully brought out at the Paris exposition of 1900. Meanwhile the now distinguished Pole can look back upon the few years of his past life in which ne was heroically struggling to win an education. He was fortunate enough to get into the University of Cracow, where he spent three years. Lack of funds compelled him to retire before be had finished his education. His new invention, he says, will take the place of the post, or the mail, of the future. By it any scene can be perfectly reproduced, pictorially, at any desired distance. For example, one might sit in Chicago and have a fine view of San Francisco or New York him. bay, with all its brilliant colors, moving and anchored ships, and water sparkling in the sun. Mountains and cities, in fact, any natural or artificially arranged scene can be produced true to life at a distance. All that is needed is to suggest the improvement certain to come in telephonic communication and the imagination can do the rest. Herr Szczepanik says his machine will reproduce letters perfectly, thereby taking the place of the post and the telegraph. Roughly speaking, the picture is broken up into a number of points. Each point is reflected in mirrors, and the reflected ray of light is converted into an electric current, which can be transmitted any distance. At the receiving end, the current is again transformed into the corresponding ray of light. This ray of light is reflected in mirrors and the reflection thrown upon a screen. Now it follows if all the points of a picture are taken in very rapid succession, the resultant reflection on the screen will be the entire picture. There are many ways of converting light rays into elecscience. An electric battery with a selenium cell is used. The battery is connected by wire with an electromagnet at the receiving end, where the light rays. The electro-magnet will move in sympathy with the current sent out from the transmitting apparout into a spectrum and the prism remagnet will bring the required color showing of the telectroscope at the build an annex to the exposition with a ten thousand seating capacity. The admission will be three francs. The inventor will get 60 per cent and his backers 40 per cent of the gross re-

Spread the English Tongue. From the St. Louis Republic: While there are 125,000,000 people at the present time whose everyday language is English, there are only 90,000,000 who speak Russian, 75,000,000 who speak German, 55,000,000 who speak French, 45,000,000 who speak Spanish and 35,-If every democrat votes for Whiting 000,000 who speak Italian. This marvelous growth of the English tongue is directly due to the rapid development of the United States, aided, of course, by the Anglo-Saxon's natural colonizless than 80,000,000 people, and greatly less than that number in the whole of the United Kingdom. Camp Dewey, Before Manila. Phillipine Islands, July 27.

The Astor Battery was landed today on the beach in front of Camp Dewey. It was raining-or rather, it was pour-

Three native casquos were sent alongside the transport Newport, which brought the battery from San Francisco, and on them the guns and camp impedimenta were loaded.

When the six guns had been safely transferred and the men had stowed themselves the captured steamer Rapido took them in tow and started for Camp Dewey, four miles away. There was great cheering from the men on the casquos as well as from the men remaining on the Newport, and each vessel passed as the casquos were towed through the fleet anchorage added a few cheers of welcome to the newcomers.

Before half the distance to the beach had been covered a violent rainstorm broke. Casquos have woven awnings, which keep out the sun perfectly, but they are about as much protection against rain as a sieve would be. The rain came down in sheets, and before it stopped every man in the Astor Bat-

It was raining again when the cas quos reached the beach. Orders were to make a prompt landing and send the casquos back to the fleet for another load. The water of the bay could not make the men any wetter than they were, but the soggy clothes they came. Then the men went to work.

The casquos had been run as close to shore as possible-some 50 yardsand heavy planks had been laid over he side and into the water. Down these came six Hotchkiss guns, held in check by a dozen men until near the end of the plank. Then they were turned loose and a dozen more men on ropes started on a run through the water, dragging the guns, hub deep in the surf.

When the guns-fine, effective pieces for field or mountain work-were landed they were carefully wiped dry with oiled rags to prevent rust.

Big cases containing saddles were next to come off. One case was broken by the waves, and saddles, stirrups, tric currents already known to men of girths and straps were spilled, but were rescued. The cases which were not broken open were soaked through and through. They were promptly opened on shore, and a few hours of sunshine currents are to be reconverted into and a little oil put them in as good condition as when they came from the factory.

The noon hour came while the unloading was going on.

The natives might have rangements with a syndicate for the thought British soldiers always fought that way. Here were lightly attired Paris exposition. The syndicate will natives by the hundred, men and women, to look on, and Gen. Greene was an interested spectator. But no one smiled.

The clear notes of the bugle rang out in the falling rain. Every man came to attention in true military telectroscope until after the close of the fashion. A line was formed one end of which was jammed against a soldier who had a box of crackers, and alongside of whom was another soldier with a lot of cans of corned beef with the tops cut off.

One man had bathing trunks on. The others called him a dude. Those who wanted to preserve the proprieties wore belts. Every third man made some pretense to clothes, but the rest were as bare as they were born, except for hats. Whatever else the soldier might shed, he stuck to his hat.

Gen. Greene wandered down to the beach, his faultless uniform protected by a long rubber coat, a rubber-coated aide walking five paces in the rear. The men had finished luncheon and were once more hauling big cases through the breaking surf. When they learned of the General's presence every one stopped work and turned into a marble staand right hand to a salute.

If Gen. Greene realized the ludicrousness of the situation he did not turned and the general and his aide men to the unloading of the casquos.

The Astor Battery has been assigned the place of honor in Camp Dewey, the extreme northern end of the camp, and 33-35 therefore the point nearest the Spanish lines. Tents were pitched in a heavy downpour of rain. It will take at least two days of sunshine to dry the men's belongings, and two days of sunshine in the Phillipines at this season of the year are hard to find.

MOME-MADE PHILOSOPHY.

Peeple that are not abul! to govern themselves, are hardly fit to select anybody to run their government for them. It rekwires more time to teach a man how to vote, than how to read Latin; yet most men will attempt the job of votin' for a dollar bill or less. The voice ov the peeple is werry often the voice ov pregyoodice and ignorunce; while the voice ov their leaders is mostly the voice ov the skeamer.

Yisterday is only the memory ov a dream-termorrer is but the sequal to all our dreams, and only to-day is left in which we kin eat up the cold wittles left over from the past.

A gas light and your employer's money is almost similar, yit exactly oppersite in their natshures-it is about as dangerous to blow the one out as it is to blow the other in.

Down our way they call a conservative man "A cold-storage ware-house," because he has been usin' his head durin' his hull life as a reservoir for idees that would decay in a real live head.

Tyranny greases its pardners with golden ointment, and its slaves with the lash; and society is diwided into them as it has got a lump in their purse, and them that has got welts on their back.

There's a good bit ov the wild goose about the averidge man or womanthey want to foller some leader when they are sore. Most any sort of a king kin work up a follerin' among the lambs that are sighin' for new pastyure and a bell-wether.

I never was brave enuff to be a medal-wearin' hero and patriot, but I swan tery was as wet as water would make to goodness, if I had been in a Spanish city jist after the Maine was sunk at Havana, I wud have bot a pint ov peanuts and shelled the town like a countryman on circus day.

The wise men of the world have proved to the peeple that a devil is a useful and necessary article in the plan ov economy, and that hades is the left interfered with easy movement, so off hand corner ov justice and mercy, and the peeple are sighin' because they haven't harder things to believe.

> If it isn't a crime to beat down the laborin' woman's wages below the level ov decent livin, then there is no sich thing as crime, and immorality is only a figment ov a diseezed mind, and plunderin' the peeple is one ov the queer ways in which God helps the orphant.

The avridge Kristshun doesn't sing about the head ov the rich man layin' as low as the pauper's in death-doesn't sing it with a spirit ov rejoicin' over the rich man's downfall, but because the averidge Kristshun sorter feels good to think he is goin' to sleep in the same bed with the millyunaires some day soon.

TAKE THE WRO	DNG	BET

How a Bluffer Fooled a Crowd in Delaware.

From the Washington Star: It was a New York drummer stopping in Washington on his way west just long enough to tell the administration how to conduct the war, and while he was resting after his efforts in that direction he was talking something else than war talk. "I was stopping in Wilmington, Del., four or five nights ago," he said, "and being rather lonesome I went with three other fellows to a billiard parlor for excitement. We had played a few games, in fact it was about time to quit, when a rather welldressed party, six feet tall and weighing 200 in his stockings, came in, and after talking around promiscuous like a while he offered to bet any amount that he could beat any man in the room, even, at any game of billiards he might select. Seeing no takers of his bet he offered to double his wager that he could knock any man in the room out in four rounds. He slung out his chest and shut up a big pair of fists in a way that was not inviting to the amateur, and nobody offered to go into the ring with the slugger. The big fellow by this time was becoming sassy, and in rapid succession offered to swim, or row, or shoot, or fence, or ride, or even play a game of golf against any man in the room at any time any one might designate. At last the stranger picked up one of the billiard balls on the table where we had just finished our game and, juggling with it a minute, he offered to bet he could hold it out at arm's length for thirty minutes. Well, it seemed that every man in the room knew how darn heavy a postage stamp got at the end of a man's extended arm in about five minutes, and there was a rush to take him up. He was betting three to five, and it wasn't long till he had up seven or eight dollars covered by all the loose change the crowd had, a co-operative bet having been made up against the Spaniard, let us call him. The preliminaries being finished, the feat be gan, and we sat around waiting hungrily to divide the spoils, but the longer we waited the longer he held on, and when the half hour was up he let the ball down as easy as if it didn't weigh over an ounce. We looked at each other and looked at him. 'Sorry, gents,' he said, as he raked in Jennie: "Why do you always take the pot. Sorry, but you ought to have een my bluff. This little trick is my entire stock in trade, and I can't row. or swim, or ride, or do a thing except a lot of suckers. Good evening' the Main Point of Observation.

"Most women will, of course, follow their own tastes in dressing for outdoor exercises, and many of them present a woefully misapplied appearance," writes Mary Katharine Howard describing "Costumes for Outdoor Sports" in the Woman's Home Companion." 'Especially is this true of the wheelwoman, many of whom seem to go on the plan that 'nothing shows on a galloping horse,' and feel that when the wheel is in motion no one remarks about her clothes. But right here she is mistaken. Whether riding or resting her costume is always the point of observation, and bystanders overlook a multitude of sins in grace and speed if the costume be suitable, becoming and fetching. Many womenyes, the majority of them-auect a foolish modesty concerning the length of the bicycle-skirt, and are not slow to vote the short-skirted girl as bold and rapid. Neither do we advocate an ungainly abbreviated skirt, but we do indorse the skirt that is short enough not to go flopping in the breeze as soon as a little speed is desired. A skirt to the stocking, but that is the only point in its favor, for it is ugly and ungracebul both on and off the wheel. Wear the short skirt, and conceal the stockcostumes. To be sure, they are warm in summer, but your only alternative is a low-cut boot or an Oxford tie. The latter should never be worn except by boys, men and very small girls, while the former displays the stocking when riding. For both looks and comfort a moderately heavy glove should be worn. Never wear a trimmed hat; that is, in the sense of flowers and lace or fluffy effects. The more severe the hat the more suitable, durable and tasteful it is. The much-abused Alpine shape should only be worn above pretty and youthful faces. Quite the prettiest wheeling costume is the divided skirt, which falls so close together that no one knows whether it is an all-around and Big Four lines. Fare for round skirt or the bifurcated one, worn with a pretty shirt waist, either of silk or some washable material, and an Eton of limit may be obtained by depositing jacket to match the skirt, with boots

"The Kind that Cures."

The theaters of Paris have popular representations on certain days, when the seats cost only a quarter or half the usual price. There are also days like the national holiday (July 10) when most of the theaters give gratuitous spectacles. These occasions are characterized only by the best pieces, and actors dispute among themselves for the advantage of playing before this special public. No other audience is more grateful or more impressionable. They rarely have the pleasure of being present at the play. They are not blases, nor are they familiar with the wings. Having gained their places by long waiting at the door, they occupy them as conquests; they listen in silence, applaud with enthusiasm, weep all together, the prey of simple and contagious emotion.—Outlook.

Queen Victoria's recent trip to the continent was beneficial to her general health and is said even to have improved her eyesight, but these improvements involved a cost of £15,-000). She paid something like £2,400 though she was in Cimiez for less than two months, she was charged for the full time. There was also the cost of maintaining a suite of some sixty to seventy persons. FIRST ILLINOIS LANDS

Colonel Turner's Regiment at Camp Wikoff.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE.

Beer, Champagne and Numerous Delicacies Given the Santiago Heroes by the Chicago Committee of Reception-The Three Days of Quarantine Done Away with in Case of the Illinois Boys-Presi-

Camp Wikoff, L. I., Aug. 30.—Camp Wikoff has welcomed the Chicago boys rom Santiago. The transport Berlin, bearing Colonel Turner's men of the First regiment, has come in, was visited by the health officers, and, thanks to the precautions of the regiment's officers, such was the condition of the command that they were ordered into detention camp at once and escaped the weary days of quarantine at sea.

The men filed off the vessel in straggling order, their wan faces telling of the care and nursing which is necessary before the First can march into Chicago to the cheers of admiring thou sands. With the flagrant faults of mismanagement of the Long island military rendezvous, partially rectified by the storm of public sentiment, which caused such a cutting of red tape after Secretary Alger's visit, the manner in which Colonel Turner's men of the First Illinois are to be cared for by the Chicago committee may inspire further steps toward improvement.

Special Arrangements Made.

W. A. Bond, who preceded the Chicago committee of reception appointed by the Army and Navy league, made arrangements whereby absolute dependence on the quartermaster's department will be unnecessary. sion was secured from the medical authorities whereby the first reception accorded the boys from Cuba was made of a most substantial character. The vessel chartered by Mr. Bond was loaded with supplies and foods which, upon the advice of Dr. Nicholas Senn, were best calculated to restore the strength which has been ravaged by the hardships of the Cuban campaign. On board the little vessel is a great quantity of ginger ale, beer and chamgagne, with numerous delicacies which contrast strangely with the hard-tack fare of the south.

> MANY OF THE SICK TO BE MOVED. Efforts Being Made to Transport Soldiers to New York Hospitals.

Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, L. I. Aug. 30 .- Efforts are being made to transport some of the sick at Camp Wikoff to New York city, where they can be cared for at the hospitals. Between 600 and 700 can thus be cared for. Friends of sick soldiers have in many cases found it impossible to locate them at Camp Wikoff, as a tour of the grounds involves about twenty-five "Now good digestion waits on ap- miles of walking. Six hundred beds If it doesn't try Burdock Blood Bit- have been added, a tardy effort thus being made to remedy early lack of forethought. The total number of sick shows something of a decrease. There are fifty yellow fever convalescents. The Seventy-first New York has taken its departure, the weak men in line making a pitiable sight.

Saturday President McKinley is to review the troops at Montauk Point. He will also improve the opportunity to tions here. Secretary Alger will come Thursday and will do everything in his power to have the camp in first-class condition before the president arrives. An investigation of the medical administration or the Santiago campaign and the management at Camp Thomas has been asked by Surgeon General their posts at the hospitals he will ask the appointment of the investigating Dr. Senn is reported to have said that if the troops stay there another month there will be an epidemic of typhoid. THE PRESIDENT'S MOVEMENTS. He Will Leave Canton for New York Thursday Morning.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30 .- While President McKinley very much desired to pay more than a brief visit to his old home in Canton, he finds that the duties of his office are such that he will be obliged to cut his visit there to a mere call. The president will spend a couple of days in camp at Montauk Point and Camp Wikoff so as to correctly inform himself as to the condition of affairs and the truth of the reports that have been circulated from personal observation and contact with the men. The presidential party will be at Colonel Myron T. Herrick's residence, "The Overlook," on Euclid heights, in this Cowpeas on Stubble Land.

In answer to correspondents who ask whether cowpeas cannot be sown on stubble land after harvest, a writer in Farm and Fireside says: I wish to discourage such an experiment. In a moist summer I have got fair growth in this way, but the nitrogen was largely lost by action of frost. In an ordinary season there is insufficient growth to method. It is valuable for thin or weedy crop for fertilizing purposes, but must have the full heat of summer for its development. It makes a good growth on land that fails to make a profitable stand of clover.

Queer Reckoning.

Indian street peddlers throughout Mexico sell bananas for 12 cents a dozen, but when offered 24 cents on payment for two dozen bananas the peddlers refused it and demanded 25 cents. The course of reasoning is that 1 real is 12 cents; 2 reals, 25 cents; 8 reals make a dollar. So the traveler must pay a real for one dozen bananas, but 25 cents for two dozen, and no amount of argument will convince the peddler that this is not right.

A Wise Answer.

It takes but an ordinary man to return an angry answer to an insult. The extraordinary man is he who, under such circumstances, holds himself so well under control that he controls his adversary also.

Persia once possessed such a man and was clear sighted enough to make him a judge. He was the chief judge of Bagdad in the reign of Caliph Hadee, and his name was Aboo Yusuph. He was a very wise man, for he knew his own deficiencies and was actually sometimes in doubt as to whether he possessed sufficient wisdom to give a just decision in cases peculiarly shrouded in mystery.

It is related of him that on one occasion, after patient investigation of facts, he decided that he had not sufficient knowledge to pronounce on the case before him. There was in his presence a pert courtier, one of those men who take long to learn that wisdom and impudence are not closely related.

"Pray, do you expect that the caliph is to pay you for ignorance?" he asked, hoping to place the judge at a disadvantage.

"I do not," was the mild reply. "The caliph pays me—and pays me well in Santiago and on board the Olivette, -for what I do know. Were he to attempt to pay me for what I do not know the treasures of his empire would not suffice. "-Youth's Companion.

EVERYTHING IS IN GOOD ORDER.

American Authority Has Been Established in the Important Towns of the Province and Industry Is Thriving-The Department of Santiago Now Under Command of General Lawton-Death of Rough Rider Tiffany.

Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 27.—General Shafter has formally relinquished the command of the department of Santiago de Cuba to General Lawton and boarded the steamer Mexico with the members of his staff and sailed for the United States. General Toral and his staff called upon General Shafter during the afternoon to bid him adieu. The Spanish officer thanked General Shafter for the courteous treatment accorded him since the surrender, and for the kindness that had been shown to all the Spanish prisoners. He wished General Shafter a pleasant trip home. General Shafter complimented General Toral on his gallant defense of the city, and expressed the wish that he would upon his arrival in Spain receive the treatment that his bravery deserved.

QUICK EXODUS FROM PORTO RICO. Many Troops Leave This Week-Parade at New York Contemplated.

Ponce, Porto Rico, Aug. 30.-Details of the homeward movement have been practically completed. General Miles and his staff and eight companies of the Second Wisconsin leave Tuesday night. The Fourth Pennsylvania volunteers are to start home Wednesday. All the cavalry horses, guns and carriages of batteries of Pennsylvania will leave on the Mississippi Thursday, while the men of the three Pennsylvania batteries and the Third battalion of the Second Wisconsin will sail the same day on the Concho.

The men and guns of the Missouri, Illinois and Indiana batteries are to the Seneca and another ship not yet selected. It has been arranged that the whole detachment of about 5,000 men will land in Brooklyn. After resting there a few days they will parade across the bridge to Wall street, to Broadway, to Fifth avenue and thence to Central park. The men in line will be commanded by General Wilson and General Miles will review them. General Brooke is preparing to move to San Juan. One hundred wagons have been sent to him from Ponce to transport supplies across the mountains.

Reports of disorder continue, but the authorities believe the outbreaks are sporadic and will soon quiet down. General Miles will probably issue a proclamation calling for order and decreeing severe penalties for disobedience. The trial by a military commission of twelve civilian prisoners charged with burning the town of Coto begins in Ponce. Colonel Griffin of the First volunteer engineers will preside. The prisoners having no counsel General Wilson has detailed Major Walton of the pay corps to act in that capacity. This is the first trial of civilians since the military

The Pope Is Worth $20,000,000.

Rome, Aug. 30.-It is estimated that during his pontificate Leo XIII has amassed $20,000,000, including presents of precious stones, gold and silver, to the value of $10,000,000. President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic, is said to have presented the pope with the

THE SOY BEAN.

One of the Most Promising of Annual Leguminous Forage Plants.

The soy bean ranks high among the leguminous forage plants of comparatively recent introduction in this country. Of all legumes in cultivation the SOY BEANS. peanut alone exceeds it in the amount and digestibility of its food constituents. The soy bean requires about the same class of soils as Indian corn and will grow about as far north as that crop can be depended on. The best results with it have been obtained in the region between the thirty-seventh and forty-fourth parallel east of the Rocky mountains. The region best adapted to it, then, is the "corn belt," a circumstance which argues well for its future use and value in conjunction with corn for fattening animals.

The soy bean should be planted in late spring or early summer after the ground has become warm. In general the early varieties should be used if a seed crop is desired and the medium or late varieties if it is to be used as forage, it having been found that the latter much excel the former in value for that purpose. In some parts of Virginia the soy bean is planted in the corn rows in alternate hills or between the rows at the time of the final cultivation. Usually, however, it is grown as a main crop, either broadcast for forage or in drills when cultivated for seed. The amount of seed required when it is sown in drills is less than when planted broad- any buttons missing from her boots. four pecks. The rate of growth is quite rapid, and unless the field is very weedy the crop does not require much cultiva-

The crop should be cut for hay from the time of flowering until the pods are half formed. Later than that the stems are coarse and woody and the feeding value rapidly declines.

The crop may be converted into good silage and for this purpose should not be cut until the seed is nearly ripe. The chief value of silage is that it provides a succulent food during the winter time when green forage is not available, but as certain changes take place in the silo, which render a large part of the protein indigestible, it is better to depend upon corn than to use any leguminous crop for this purpose.

The ripe soy beans are among the richest of concentrated foods. The yield varies, according to soil and season, from 6 to 13 tons of green forage. The

ROOTS OF YELLOW SOY BEAN. yield of seed varies from as low as 15 to as high as 100 bushels per acre, the average being about that of corn, from 25 to 40 bushels. This crop is a heavy potash feeder and requires fertilization with lime and with potash and phosphoric acid when grown on such lighter soils as are deficient in these elements.

According to the year book of the department of agriculture, the source of these statements and illustrations, the soy bean is one of the most promising of the annual leguminous forage crops, and, as before indicated, may prove of special value in connection with Indian corn, the latter supplying the "roughness," the soy bean producing the digestible crude protein necessary to make a complete and well balanced ration.

A Having Implement. The bull rake, go devil or bucker, as it is sometimes called, has large teeth 11/2 inches by 2 inches, tapering up to larger size next to the frame of the rake. These teeth are 7 feet long. The hay gathering portion of the teeth is 51/2 or 6 feet long, and the other 16 inches is bolted to the frame and axle. The axle consists of a holllow iron tube about 2 inches in diameter. frame is about 14 inches high and serves to stop the hay as it slips back on the rake teeth. A seat beam reaches out five feet or so behind the rake, and the driver's weight will balance the teeth and hold them up when he sits near the outer end of this beam and allows them to run low and gather hay when he sits close to the frame, while some other machines have a lifting gear for this purpose. The rake is 12 feet wide and consists of 13 teeth. It is drawn by two horses, one hitched on each side of the rake, beams being arranged to which singletrees can attach, and a long beam also to which the pole and breast straps largest diamond in the world. It is fasten for guiding the rake and backing. - Denver Field and Farm.

SLICK PETE'S WATCH DEAL.

Bought Them at $2.15 Each and Sold Them to Swindlers For $10 Apiece.

An old time detective the other day was discussing with some sleuths new in the profession the methods of up to date swindlers. After deprecating the originality of the modern crook he told of what he considered the sharpest game he ever saw worked. "I suppose you fellows know," he said, "that during Centennial year Philadelphia was a hotbed of bunko steerers and sharpers of every description. Well, I was detailed to keep an eye on these gentry, and in time I became acquainted with most of the 'big ones,' who were generally exceedingly bright men. One in particular, who was known as 'Slick Pete.' I took a great liking to, for he had an inexhaustible fund of humor and was a good hearted chap. Toward the end of the Centennial exhibition one day I dropped into a down town auction room where some fake jewelry was being sold. A lot of watches were offered, and I saw that they had been made evidently for bunko steering purposes, for the works were good, and the cases were made to look like solid gold. They were finally knocked down for $2.15 apiece, and I saw that the buyer was 'Slick Pete.' Jewelry was out of his line, but I knew he had some scheme in view. Two months passed before I again saw Pete, and then I asked him what he had done with the watches. He began to laugh and said, 'Oh, skinned some swindler with them!' Then followed the explanation. He had hired a room and inserted an advertisement in various papers something like this: 'Found -A solid gold watch; Elgin works; loser pay costs. Apply, etc.' Nearly every crook in town answered the ad. and claimed the watch. Pete, who made up as an old man, seemed a mark, and the 'fly' crook, in the hurry to depart, made but a cursory examination. 'The costs,' $10, were invariably handed over, and in two days Pete had disposed of his stock."—Philadelphia Record.

Neatly Dressed.

There is an exquisite charm about a neatly dressed woman. She does not wear her hair loose, as if it is just about to fall on her shoulders. Her gloves are not ripped at the seams, nor are cast, varying from two to three pecks Her veil does not reveal a hole over per acre and in the latter case three to the chin, nor does the binding of her skirt show ragged in places. Not many women show their tidiness in these details, but the well-groomed woman considers that neglect in these little things is full of shame to womankind. Note the well dressed tailor-built woman. Her cloth gown fits her without a crease, and there is neither speck nor spot on it. Her linen collar and cuffs are snowy white, and remain properly fixed in their places. Her gloves do not wrinkle, but button smoothly over her wrists; her shoes are dainty and polished. Her bonnet or hat is pinned on straight, and her hair is neatness itself. She is the picture of delicate finish and wholesome order. Would that we could come across her somewhat oftener!

Girard, the famous French painter, when very young, was the bearer of a letter of introduction to Lanjuinais, of the council of Napoleon. The young painter was shabbily attired, and his reception was extremely cold; but Lanjuinais discovered in him such striking proofs of talent, good sense and amiability, that, on Girard's rising to take leave, he rose, too, and accompanied his visitor to the ante-chamber. The change was so striking that Girard could not avoid an expression of surprise. "My young friend," said Lanjuinais, anticipating the inquiry, "we receive an unknown person according to his dress-we take leave of him according to his merit."

willing, some are unwilling. Some women drudge for themselves, some for their family. Their routine is endless; no matter how ill they feel they work. Women never half take care of themselves. Early decay and wrecked lives abound, mainly through neglect. Every woman should have the book called "Health and Beauty," which the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., will mail on request. It tells women some easy things to do to protect health, and all about the virtues of Pe-ru-na for women's peculiar ills. Mrs. Bach, Pres. Soldiers' Aid Soci Your favor of the 8th received; also the medicine. We very much needed the quinine, it is so rainy and damp down here. We can now give each of the boys a tablet night and morning. This, we think, will ward off fevers and colds. We are deeply grateful to the Soldiers' Aid Society for its kindness, and I assure you we all appreciate your efforts and those of our friends in our behalf. Very truly yours, ROSS GRANGER, Capt. Thirty-First Mich. Vol. Inf.,
