

OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

Death of a Manchester Soldier at Knoxville.

A DESERVED PROMOTION

Lieutenant Kies, of Bridgewater, Is the Lucky Man.

The Y. M. C. A. Tent Under the Superintendency of Richard Flynn, of This City, is Doing a Noble Work.

The 31st Michigan is preparing to move to Atlanta into winter quarters, which will be in the exposition buildings. Col. Gardener's plans to have the boys sleep in tents having been overruled. Lieut. Belsler is now with Col. Gardener in Atlanta to prepare the buildings for the reception of the regiment. They took a detail of 12 men with them.

Last Friday, James A. Sullivan, of Manchester, a brave soldier of Co. C, the Tecumseh company, died at Camp Poland, of spinal meningitis. He was doing guard duty while sick and only gave up and went to the hospital when his temperature reached 104. Rev. Fr. Heidenrich, of Manchester, was with him when he died. Sullivan was highly esteemed by his comrades. This is the 19th death in the regiment.

First Lieutenant Harry U. Kies, of Bridgewater, also of the Tecumseh company, has been officially appointed regimental adjutant, his rank dating back to Oct. 1. He has been enacting as regimental adjutant since the death of Lieut. Nash and is a graduate of the Orchard Lake Military Academy.

Richard Flynn, of this city, who was recently discharged from Co. A, is superintendent of the Y. M. C. A. tent of the regiment, in the success of which many of our citizens are interested. Chaplain White has just made a report to the war department which speaks highly of the work being done by the tent and its popularity among the soldiers. He gives the following facts: During the month of October there have been 16,645 visitors at the tent; 12,870 letters have been written; 14,370 sheets of paper, and 9,410 envelopes have been furnished gratis; $205.46 worth of two cent stamps have been sold, 117 books have been drawn from the library. There have been distributed 2,000 copies of religious literature; 2,000 copies of daily papers, 50 tracts, 50 testaments and there have been held 23 meetings of the bible class, and two entertainments. Seventy-eight sacks of mail were received and distributed, and no fewer than 13,399 pieces of mail were sent out, 81 express packages received, and eight dispatches.

The chaplain aided by Supt. Flynn, made 289 visits upon sick men in the regiment, and 87 sick men were aided with simple remedies, of which a supply is always kept in stock. The chaplain visited six sick officers in their quarters, held prayer with eight sick men, wrote 21 letters to inquiring friends in the north, who wanted information concerning their sons and brothers, wrote seven letters for sick men, held four prayer services, gave four special bible readings, and conversed with 21 men on special religious topics.

During the month he made 24 hospital visits, conducted religious services four times in the hospital, and held religious services for the regiment 15 times. In addition to these duties the chaplain has complied with demands made upon him in the city, and preached in three different Presbyterian churches, three Baptist churches and one Congregational church.

During the month the services have increased in attendance and spirit in spite of the chilly weather and no means of warming the tent. The disposition to gamble has been reduced to the smallest in the history of the regiment.

It is rumored that the regiment will soon be moved to Santa Clara, Cuba, and all are anxious to go, especially if they are not to be mustered out now.

Henry Renken, of the 34th Michigan has been transferred to Co. A.

THE CAR TURNED OVER

A CAR ON THE DETROIT LINE GOES INTO A DITCH.

The Thirty Passengers Miraculously Escape Serious Injury While the Motorman Has a Broken Collar Bone.

A car of the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor line was derailed in Detroit Wednesday and 30 passengers miraculously escaped injury. The front wheels of the car left the track and for some little distance the rear wheels stayed upon the rails, the car swung around and made for the eight-foot ditch along side the street and overturned completely, resting in the ditch upon its top and one side. How the passengers escaped injury is not known. Only two of the windows of the car were broken. The passengers crawled out through the rear door. Motorman Willis was found unconscious with his collar bone broken and Conductor Baetcher, who was thrown through the rear door, had his face badly cut with the glass. None of the passengers had any bones broken. A long line of brick wagons was passing at the time but none were struck by the car when it left the track, although it passed between two of them, grazing the horses noses. It is supposed that the brick sifting from the wagons had filled up the track in such a way as to cause the front truck of the car to leave the track. Quite a number of Ann Arborites went out to see the scene of the accident. It will be a big job to pull the heavy car out of the ditch.

POSSUM AND PERSIMMONS.

Lieut. Haarer of the Thirty-First Enjoys Them.

Eugene K. Frucauf, of W. Huron st., today received a letter from his friend, Lieutenant John Haarer, of Co. A, 31st Michigan Infantry, written from Camp Poland at Knoxville, Tenn. He says in his letter: "We will still be in Knoxville for another week. Last Friday Lieutenant Belsler went to Atlanta with the advance detail so as to have everything in readiness when we arrive. Though we like this place very much everybody will welcome a change. Nearly all the boys that I have spoken to on the subject seem highly elated over the prospects of our going to Cuba. The inactivity is what the men object to. As long as there are strange places to be seen and the slightest chances to get into action they appear satisfied.

"This fall I have had plenty of opportunity to test the merits of both persimmons and 'possum, and I find them very palatable. The other night I had some 'possum stuffed with oysters and Michigan celery on the side and I assure you it tasted fine. There are many opossum and rabbits around here, so the boys often hunt them, for such things are not found on the army bill of fare."

This is the way the Manchester Enterprise speaks of that $10,000 libel suit against the Register: The $10,000 libel suit Sheriff Judson brought against Editor Moran of the Ann Arbor Register, reminds us of a conversation between two Germans, when one boasted of having $3,000 insurance on his life. The other remarked: "Pi Chiminy, you are wort more dead as alive." In Moran's case it would appear that he is a valuable live man.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR

At the University of Michigan Has Passed.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President Angell Wants Aid for Advanced Students.

A Cosmopolitan List of Students.—Michigan in the War Lost Seven Men.—The Contractors Were in Attendance.

The Board of Regents were in executive session Wednesday and all the contractors were on hand having business with the board. They were called into the executive meeting and its business was undoubtedly settling with them.

President Angell and Treasurer Soule presented their annual reports. President Angell spoke feelingly of Prof. E. L. Walter, Judge Thomas M. Cooley and Prof. James L. High, who died during the year, and brought out the fact that of the more than 200 teachers now on the rolls only four were members of the faculty when he became president in 1871.

He said "The attendance last year was the largest in the history of the university, the total number, exclusive of the summer school, being 3,114. This was an increase of 236 over the preceding year. Including the summer school, the mark reached 3,223. The gain was largely in the law department, which then fully completed the change of course from two to three years. In the graduate school there is little change from year to year, and is a fact which encourages rather than discourages when it is considered that most of the stronger universities are able, by endowments to offer our graduates fellowships and scholarships yielding from $300 to $500 a year, or even more. It is well known that we have only one permanent fellowship and two or three temporary scholarships. With few exceptions, graduates must remain here, if at all, at their own expense, while they are offered a comfortable support if they will accept a fellowship at someone of four or five of the stronger universities in the country. It is a matter of congratulation that even now 76 students are pursuing graduate studies here.

Michigan furnished 1863 of the university's student population. This is 116 more than in the previous year, and the largest number ever sent by this state. Estimating the population at 2,500,000, one person in 1,342 is a student in the university. Illinois, although a well furnished with colleges and universities, sent us 365 students, Ohio 161, Indiana 98, Iowa 86, New York 71, and so on down. Every state in the union, except Delaware, and every territory, Alaska, the District of Columbia and the Hawaiian islands were represented, as were Germany, England, Russia, Turkey, Mexico, Japan and the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. It may be doubted whether so cosmopolitan a company of students is assembled at any other university in the country. The presence of non-residents is as distinct a pecuniary advantage to our treasury, as it is in giving a large catholic spirit to the whole university and in spreading far and wide its fame and reputation. The number of women in attendance during the past year was 678, an increase of 26. They are enrolled as follows: Literary department, 589; medical, 59; engineering, 1; law, 5; pharmacy 3; homeopathic, 8; dental, 8.

The work in the different departments is then reviewed in detail, special attention being devoted to the new law building. This will accommodate 1,000 students and cost, including the furnishing, $65,000.

"When the recent war with Spain broke out, the patriotic spirit of the university flamed up as it did in 1861. So far as is known, 124 students enlisted and many more would willingly have gone if their aid had seemed necessary. So far as is known, seven university men lost their lives in the war." The treasurer's report showed that the pay roll was $331,150.55. The receipts from students fees were $177,373.62.

The sum of $250 was appropriated for the expense of dedicating the new law building, $300 for a refrigerator at the university hospital, $300 for repairs on the hospital and $210 for the chemical department.

The Congressman-Elect in Town.

Congressman-elect H. C. Smith was in the city Thursday on business, with his usual happy smile and cordial manners. He thought the post offices would all be settled before he assumes his congressional duties next March. He inquired if Ann Arbor wanted a new post office building, thus indicating a possible line along which he might make himself solid for a second term. He was in demand among the faithful, whom he seemed to know well, owing to the vigorous campaign he has just passed through. His business was of a legal nature not connected with politics and his perennial smile will probably leave the city this afternoon.

A TALE OF RICE.

Rich Joke on Two Ann Arbor Young Ladies and a Hamburg Couple.

A couple of Ann Arbor young ladies played a joke on a strange couple on an Ann Arbor passenger train the other day which was not intended for them. A young Scio couple were married and it was desired to shower them with rice. The two Ann Arbor girls were told that the Scio couple intended to fool them by not taking the train at this city but would probably drive to Hamburg and take the train there. So when the train arrived at this city the young ladies armed with big bags of rice, boarded it and asked the conductor if a young married couple had got on at Hamburg and if so where they were sitting. The conductor had seen a newly married couple, who lived at Hamburg, get on the train and he gave the desired information. The Hamburg couple were looking unutterable things at each other when the young ladies stole up behind them and without looking at their faces broke the bags of rice over them literally showering them. Imagine the surprise, consternation and dismay of the Hamburg couple and of the young ladies who fled as they saw the faces of the newly married. The Scio couple escaped.

After Many Days.

Chas. Dwyer has been busy in settling up the estate of Nicholas McCarty, of Dexter, whose will was admitted to probate 18 years ago, but has never been settled until this time on account of the difficulty of establishing the identity of one of the heirs, Mrs. Eliza Keeler, of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Keeler is now in the city for the purpose of establishing her claim. The estate was originally worth about $3,000 and there are 18 heirs. Mr. Dwyer is one of the administrator's bondsmen and as such is making the settlement.

STORM SEWERS DONE

SEWERS ON DETROIT AND SECOND STS. NEAR COMPLETION.

The Board of Public Works is Called Upon to Settle a Horse Damage Case.

The board of public works held a brief session Wednesday. The claim of A. H. Holmes for $33 damages to a hack horse and harness, owing to its falling into a ditch on E. Ann st. last June was the only topic of difference before the board. J. F. Schuh, who was the contractor doing the work, was before the board and claimed that a light had been placed at the ditch and Mr. Holmes claimed there was no light there. Mr. Schuh offered to pay any damages the board would order him to pay but the board declined to act in the absence of Dr. Smith.

The work on the storm sewers being constructed by the city was discussed. The storm sewer on Detroit st., between Kingsley and Division st., is nearly completed. The Michigan Central furnished eight or ten men to assist the city in this work as this storm sewer will carry off much water which now runs down upon and damages the property of the road. The sewer is constructed in the gutter on the east side of the street. A storm sewer is also being constructed by the city on Second st. between Jefferson and Madison sts., running from the middle of the block to Jefferson st. about 250 feet. There was quite a ravine at this point the street falling from both ways and as the property owners graded up their lots a water pocket was made, the water having no outlet and soaking into the neighboring cellars. This storm sewer will remedy this.

FICKLE GASOLINE

Severely Burns Mrs. John Miller, of S. Main St.

John Miller, who lives just beyond the tollgate on S. Main st., took home some stove blocking Wednesday and told his wife to mix it with gasoline and apply it to the household stoves when occasion demanded an extra neat shine on them. Mrs. Miller did so and made the first application to the coal heater. After having successfully accomplished her purpose with this she proceeded to the wood stove in the kitchen, in which the fire was supposed to be extinct, to give it a like dressing. But unfortunately for Mrs. Miller, a few smoldering embers remained there, and as the warm surface of the stove rapidly generated the dangerous gas it was ignited, an explosion followed and the lady was badly burned about her arms and the back of her neck. But for the timely assistance of a passing farmer, who heard the explosion and Mrs. Miller's screams, and ran to her assistance with a horse blanket from his wagon, the accident would have been more serious than it was.

City Assessor O'Hearn has nearly completed the extension of the rolls for the fall taxes in this city. The taxes this fall will be in the neighborhood of 80 cents on a $1,000 valuation less than last year. The many friends of the assessor will regret to learn that he is in poor health this fall. Notwithstanding this the rolls have been made out with the same care and accuracy that has always characterized them.

Talk Is Cheap

$12.00 buys a machine that talks. If you want it to it will play a tune—play an orchestral selection or sing a song. It's an extra good talker though and will give you an oration, an exact duplicate of some of the best comedians. It's called a Graphophone. Come in and listen to it.

THE WEBSTER FARMERS

HELD THEIR MONTHLY MEETING
LAST SATURDAY

And Debated the Question of Direct Legislation.—Members of the Legislature Attacked and Defended.

The regular monthly meeting of the Webster Farmers' Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ball, of Webster, Saturday, Nov. 12. There was a good attendance and an enjoyable social time was spent by all. Miss Julia Ball furnished music and Miss Nellie Mingay, of Ann Arbor, gave a German dialect recitation.

The usual debate was carried on by the gentlemen members of the club. The subject of the debate being "Should legislation affecting state interests be submitted to the people before becoming laws Initiative and Referendum." Affirmative, E. A. Nordman; negative, Wm. Ball. Mr. Nordman seemed to think the best and only thing to do was to have the law submitted to the people. It was suggested that legislators were induced to present bills by money. Mr. Ball said that the laws sometimes affected the upper peninsula and not the lower and that the lower peninsula did not need to have any say in the matter as the law did not appeal to their interests. It is not true that legislators are bribed. He added that the reports concerning the bribing of legislators was generally the creation of a reporter who was paid five dollars for what he wrote. Mr. Geo. Wing seemed to think it was not true that reporters did this. Mr. Reeves said Mr. Ball seemed to have a great deal of faith in legislators and not much in the people. The Declaration of Independence says that the voice of the people should be heard. He claimed that Mr. Ball inferred that the people are not equal to the supreme court.

J. W. Wing said many things might be improved. The legislators go to the state congress with their pockets full of private bills. One says, "I'll vote for your bill if you will vote for mine." He thought the ignorance of the people is to be trusted rather than the dishonesty of the legislator. If a man wants his work well done he sees to it himself and the commonwealth should do so too.

Mr. Ball maintained that legislation was an exchange of courtesies for mutual aid. A great deal of good natured badinage arose between Messrs. Nordman and Ball referring to their respective campaigns. Mr. Ball said he did not think Bro. Nordman would want any one to think that he bribed anyone to vote for him. Mr. Nordman replied in a similar manner and great amusement was occasioned by the "digs" they gave one another. The meeting broke up at four o'clock after a very lively debate of about an hour's duration.

Success comes to those who persevere. If you take Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and persistently, you will surely be benefited.

The Story Teller.

In eastern countries, writers, they have in place of story-tellers. It is their art to interest their listeners with tales of love, and marvelous adventures, and hair-breadth escapes, and magic cures. There's a story of a wonderful medicine that has made thousands of cures that seemed almost magical, which every woman should read or hear. To have heard it or to read it, may save a woman her own life or that of her husband.

The medicine is the discovery of Dr. R. V. Pierce, an eminent and skillful specialist, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes the appetite hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich, the nerves steady, the brain clear and the body strong. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption and diseases of the air-passages. It cures nervous diseases and is the best medicine for overworked men and women. A woman may save her husband's life by keeping a bottle in the house, and getting him to resort to it when he feels out-of-cures that seem almost magical, which every woman should read or hear. To have heard it or to read it, may save a woman her own life or that of her husband.

Another good thing to have in the house is a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never gripe.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying Electric Bitters and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. CHAS. A. WARD, Vice-President.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1898.

For the next six weeks merchants doing business on unpaved streets will have daily object lessons on the utility of such public improvements.

At the meeting of the board of regents today Col. Dean was still firmly anchored in the seat for which Col. Eli Sutton made his race against time.

And after all of the talk which was fired at random, and otherwise, during the campaign it develops that Mr. Pingree was the principal issue in Michigan politics.

Lieut. Nirdlinger proposes to sail through the air from New York to Washington. Senator Burrows has been practicing that trick for some months and he isn't quite sure of success yet.

Those who mourn the defeat of the redoubtable Jerry Simpson, of Kansas, for a re-election to congress may have the satisfaction of knowing that, like a true westerner, Jerry died with his boots on.

If the supreme court finds that Mrs. Merrie Abbott, who has just been elected to the office of prosecuting attorney in Ogemaw county is ineligible there will probably be a merrie row in the land of pine and hemlock.

At a conference of vessel owners it has been decided that hereafter all trans-Atlantic lines shall pursue separate paths. This is a conclusion at which numerous politicians have also arrived since the recent election.

After March 1899 it is predicted that the bimetalists who have been hanging like grim death to the promises of the St. Louis platform will have a dose of gold standard rammed down their throats that will be an eye opener of the most effective character.

The administration has decided that the last Spanish soldier must shake the dust of Cuba from his heels by Jan. 1, 1899. The departure of the Spaniard from the western hemisphere after 400 years of wanton rule will not be the occasion of sincere regrets.

The crokers have been saying for several years that Ann Arbor is overbuilding, yet the hundreds of new houses that have been built in the last five years are all filled and the few houses that are empty at the present time are old and undesirable places for habitation.

Michigan is not the only state where the "regulars" and the "irregulars" in the republican camp are engaged in ripping each other up the back. Delaware has Addicks republicans and anti-Addicks republicans and the selection of a United States senator from that state depends upon which side kills the other off first.

The republican losses in the national house of representatives are offset by their gains in the senate and the gold men will have full control of both houses after the 4th of March, 1899. It is entirely probable that international bimetalism as an article of republican faith will disappear shortly after that date.

After having so nobly rewarded Frank Jones the republican party of old Washtenaw should remember Editor Helber. Rumor has it that Mr. Helber is slated for the republican nomination for mayor next spring and that failing to realize that ambition, Congressman Smith will recommend him for a consulate at Lard Island.

Ann Arbor has enjoyed a rapid and healthy growth by virtue of its location and its advantages as an educational center and not through any effort of those interested in the prosperity of the city to build it up. The time has arrived, however, when concerted action upon the part of our business men and property owners, carefully directed, can double the population within the next decade. Ann Arbor is now a city of homes and educational institutions. It will detract nothing from those attractions to make it a city of manufactures also. We have the location, the surroundings, the railroad connections and everything necessary for a successful inland manufacturing town. What we need to cultivate now is a disposition upon the part of our people to encourage such enterprises.

THE MISSION OF DEMOCRACY.

After the election last week, Justin R. Whiting, the democratic candidate for governor, said in an interview that hereafter the fight should be made under the name "democracy." And Mr. Whiting is right. The democratic party of this state has never gained a vote by prostituting a time honored name to fancied political exigencies. The addition of a long and incongruous tail to the old name has been a constant source of vexation and trouble. The populists and silver republicans who joined with the democracy in the combination did not ask to have the platform changed by the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t." There has been no controversy over the offices and those who have supported the cause of democracy as a matter of principle would have done so as readily under the simple and expressive name of "democrat" as they would under the hybrid, "Democratic-people's-union-silver party."

The leaders of the populists and the silver republicans realize the mistake of the past and there is no doubt but that the next struggle between the people and the autocrats of the republican party will be made under the simple name of democracy. The Adrian Telegram, however, sees fit to criticize Mr. Whiting for expressing this sentiment. The Telegram wants a new party and a new name. But the Telegram is laboring under the misapprehension that the democratic party is a party of "one idea" when nothing could be further from the truth. There may be times when some particular question presses forward for immediate solution and becomes, for the moment, of all absorbing interest. But the democracy is builded upon a broader foundation than that required for the determination of any one question. It is the living exponent of those political principles which constitute the true theory of popular government and which conserve the political equality and the rights of the masses.

From the beginning political parties in America have divided upon fundamental propositions in the administration of government. The democratic party, in its earlier years, was representative of the common people as against the classes, of men against property, of local home rule against centralization and federal aggrandizement. It is still committed to the solution of live questions upon the lines of true democracy. That some questions should be more prominent than others is in the very nature of things. Those which are most pressing must be determined first. Each will have its turn. And when those issues which are today demanding recognition have passed into history, there will be others ready for political action which are now forming in an atmosphere of careful study and consideration. These will the democracy take up and settle upon democratic lines. This "one idea" business is a myth, a delusion. So long as popular government shall endure and the necessity shall exist for the protection of the people from the greed and power of organized wealth—the self constituted American aristocracy—the democratic party will have a mission to perform.

In spite of the prosperity making Dingley tariff, cotton is the lowest in 50 years, the New England mills are compelled to close, wool is a drug on the market, hides and leather are slow and few, if any, industrial enterprises are announced for 1899.

The city council would do well to invest a portion of this year's deficit in providing a street sweeper for the paved district. The present method of cleaning the pavement is altogether too expensive for anyone but the dispenser of a republican congressional campaign fund.

Judge Frazer, of the Wayne circuit, has decided that his court is not constituted for the purpose of encouraging mercurial matrimonial relations. To the second application for divorce from a woman who had been twice married to the same man the court said with all due judicial solemnity "Nit."

There is some talk of a revolt against the re-election of Thos. B. Reed, speaker of the house, but it is altogether probable that the insurgents will soon be subdued for the republican majority in the next house presents such a narrow margin that the iron hand of the czar will be needed to keep it from flying the track.

We would remind those journals that are crowing over the large excess of exports over importations in this year of grace that this condition does not, as they seem to assume, indicate an era of prosperity, but, on the contrary, that our people are too poor to take goods in return for those they send away and that we have got down to the level of that cheap foreign labor about which they have so often told us.

And when McKinley thinks that he must share that "endorsement" with Alger he must be overcome with that tired feeling.

Owing to Gen. Spalding's active business methods Hank Smith's bargain counter will not present a very inviting appearance.

Secretary Alger says the result of the elections is a vindication of his administration of the war department. The secretary is easily satisfied in the matter of vindications.

If Teddy Roosevelt wants to get all the fun that is to be had out of the governing business he can secure valuable pointers from Michigan's frolicsome chief executive.

Pingree says that "Hanna is the president and the president is Hanna" and since the receipt of the late election returns we are inclined to think that what Pingree says goes.

And "papa's boys" who were appointed to responsible positions in the military service must come in for their share of the alleged ballot box endorsement. It will be sometime before the endorsement of Gen. Dodge's whitewashing committee is ready.

One result of our short and sharp conflict with Spain is the recognition of American military resources by the nations of Europe. In his speech at the Lord Mayor's dinner, Lord Salisbury said that Europe fears the mighty force of the young republic. While the English premier anticipates possible trouble from American expansion he believes British interest will be benefited thereby.

The latest proposition is to pay Spain a money indemnity for relinquishing control of the Philippines. While it may be the just and proper thing for the United States to whack up liberally for the privilege of civilizing seven or eight millions of savages whom Spain has utterly failed to control, the settlement of the eastern question upon such a basis will hardly meet with the approval of the average American citizen.

After Heinrich Christian Schmidt had sufficiently recovered from the effects of his election to represent the 2d district of Michigan in the congress of the United States to gather in the loose ends of that perennial smile, he called up the Adrian Times and submitted to an interview which cracked and snapped and scintillated with gems of statesmanship. After reviewing the situation carefully the new congressman is positive that he was elected because he got the most votes.

The first lagging industry which attracts his eagle eye is the United States fish hatchery at Northville where it is surmised that more "protection" is needed for the infant fish.

Such post offices and other federal jobs as Gen. Spalding has left over will be carefully used to lubricate Heinrich's chances for re-election.

The farmers are also to be helped, probably in the cultivation of the notion that no one but a genuine Smith can make a real good congressman.

As a jollier Congressman Smith is all wool and a yard wide and warrant not to rip, ravel or run down at the heel.

Editor Robinson, of the Railway Age, makes the statement that the railways of this country pay 41 per cent of their profits in taxes. While this assertion may fall within the lines of veracity it is yet palpably false and misleading. Mr. Robinson evidently designates as "profits" that portion of railway earnings which is left after running expenses and interest on bonded debts is deducted. Upon this basis his estimate is correct. But it must not be forgotten that there are few railroads in the country whose bonded debt does not exceed the value of the property. The stock and, in many instances, a goodly portion of the proceeds of the bonds, represent the profits which the promoters have made out of the construction of the roads. The profits of a railroad which is carrying a bonded debt of twice the actual value of the property cannot be justly measured by the sum which is left to the stockholders after the interest upon that debt has been paid. What business man, whose stock of merchandise is mortgaged for more than its actual value, can estimate the profits of his business by what he has left after his interest charges have been met? What farmer, whose farm is mortgaged for more than it will sell for in the open market, makes enough to pay his interest and taxes? Indeed it must be a good farm and a good farmer who, without interest to pay, can realize a profit after a reasonable charge is deducted from his income for the labor of himself and family.

A CARRIAGE FACTORY

To Employ Seventy-Five Men Projected.

EXCELLENT PROSPECTS

For the Re-Opening of the Ferguson Works.

The New Company Will Start Out With a Number of Orders Ahead. Half of the Capital Stock is Already Raised.

It will be good news for those interested in the growth of the manufacturing interests of this city to know that plans are being made to re-open the Ferguson Cart and Carriage Company's works, which have been closed since Alva P. Ferguson consolidated his business with the Pape-Weber Carriage Company, of St. Louis, Mo., and moved to that city in January, 1896.

The Ferguson works were first established in Ann Arbor about 10 years ago and for a number of years were an important factor in the business life of the city and afforded employment to a large number of workmen. The Ferguson road cart, which was one of the chief products of the factory in its palmy days, obtained a national reputation and was sold in every state in the union.

A company with a paid-up capital of $25,000 has been organized for the purpose of re-opening the works and building a special line of buggies and three styles of Ferguson road carts. If the deal is consummated the factory will be employing 50 men inside of 60 days. The capacity of the works will be 3,000 buggies and 1,000 carts per year. Carriages for the city trade will be built to order.

The new company has an order from Hooker & Co., of San Francisco, Cal., contingent upon its ability to commence the shipment of buggies in January. A Munice, Indiana, firm will also place an order for 500 buggies. It is the intention of the promoters of this enterprise to supply the western trade.

One-half of the capital stock has been subscribed by outside parties and an effort is being made to interest Ann Arbor capital to complete the balance of the capital stock. This is an enterprise which our people should take hold of and push to a successful issue. An institution which will employ when running in full force, 75 men, will be a most desirable addition to the business of Ann Arbor. We have only to look around and see the prosperous neighboring cities whose business depends entirely upon their manufactories to be convinced that we should let no opportunity slip to increase the number of Ann Arbor's manufacturing institutions.

Pontiac has six carriage factories employing a large number of men. Flint has added five carriage shops within a year giving employment to over 300 men.

Ann Arbor is as favorably situated as any of these interior cities for the location of manufactures and the whole city will be benefited by a concerted effort upon the part of our property owners and business men to secure such industries as that which is the subject of this article, as well as securing a profitable investment for surplus capital.

GLEN V. MILLS, City Clerk. Dated Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18th,

STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Monday, the 14th day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight.

REASONS

WHY

Quality and style considered, our prices are always lower than other dealers. We sell every article used in furnishing the home. To do this we must carry seven complete stocks of goods. All these stocks are under one roof, are under one management, are sold by one force of salespeople.—When you have considered these things you will see that our expense of doing business is but little more than that of the dealer who sells but one line of goods.—Now, this difference in expense is taken from the cost of selling our goods—and when our profit is added to the cost you still find our prices much lower than other dealers.—Again, doing the amount of business we do necessitates our buying in very large quantities, and quantities for cash get the prices down.

CITY PHYSICIAN'S REPORT FOR QUARTER ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1898.

Table with columns: No., Nationality, State, Occupation, Disease, Result, Visits, Exp. Contains 17 entries for various patients.

Respectfully submitted, D. M. COWIE, City Physician.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Nov. 7, 1898. To the Hon. Mayor and Members of the Common Council: Gentlemen—Your Board of Health begs leave to make their report for the month of October. There have been thirty-five inspections made and those nuisances thus inspected abated.

The health of the city continues good, there being only nine deaths to report for the month.

Your Board of Health would request that the Council instruct the Board of Public Works to have the property occupied by Mr. H. O. Walters on E. Ann street connected with the sewer as it is in a very unsanitary condition, and there has been a number of cases of sickness in families residing in this property.

Your Board would also suggest that it would be very wise if the Council would provide us with a pest-house, as there are a number of places in the state infected with small-pox, and many of our soldiers returning from the war are likely to bring diseases into our midst, if such were the case we are not in a position at present to cope with them should they break out. This we deem is very important as former Boards have had a great deal of trouble in times gone by when such diseases broke out and there was no place to take them.

We would also ask that the Board of Public Works notify all property holders on the line of the finished sewers, that the sewer is completed and ready for them to connect.

ELI W. MOORE, President. H. B. DODSLEY, Inspector. E. A. CLARK, M. D., Health Officer.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Nov. 7, 1898. To the Honorable Common Council of Ann Arbor: Gentlemen—I desire to call your attention in reference to pavement tax levied in District No. 1, this city.

The rate per front flagging is $5.48 as against $4.79 in District No. 2, the additional cost in District No. 1 being for the paving in front of the Court House.

A number of people are desirous of paying their tax in full to save the 5 per cent interest rate, but absolutely refuse to do so, as long as the cost of the Court House flagging is assessed to them in proportion to the frontage.

Unless the matter is adjusted, it will cause a great amount of trouble in the future.

Very Respectfully, EDWARD L. SEYLER, Treasurer.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Nov. 7, 1898. To the Hon. Mayor and Members of the Common Council: Gentlemen—Your Board of Health begs leave to make their report for the month of October. There have been thirty-five inspections made and those nuisances thus inspected abated.

The health of the city continues good, there being only nine deaths to report for the month.

Your Board of Health would request that the Council instruct the Board of Public Works to have the property occupied by Mr. H. O. Walters on E. Ann street connected with the sewer as it is in a very unsanitary condition, and there has been a number of cases of sickness in families residing in this property.

Your Board would also suggest that it would be very wise if the Council would provide us with a pest-house, as there are a number of places in the state infected with small-pox, and many of our soldiers returning from the war are likely to bring diseases into our midst, if such were the case we are not in a position at present to cope with them should they break out. This we deem is very important as former Boards have had a great deal of trouble in times gone by when such diseases broke out and there was no place to take them.

We would also ask that the Board of Public Works notify all property holders on the line of the finished sewers, that the sewer is completed and ready for them to connect.

CHAPTER X.

Olga appeared as Kate Hardcastle at Tuxedo, and the town, or that part of it circling in carefully barred orbit, talked of her. The papers seized on her as something new and printed pictures of her as a beauty, libelous things in which she looked dropical or murderous or only harmlessly mad. Mrs. Erifosson kept the reporters well informed, fumed over the newspaper abortions of her darling, went with her everywhere, to noon breakfasts, to dances ending at dawn, and in asides took pills to stay her heart.

Every one knew that Smedley Joyce, who had met Olga in London, had been her sponsor in the best society. In his sister's box at the opera she had made her first appearance in New York. He had got invitations for her, given a luncheon in her honor, and at his rooms on Fifth avenue, at a tea where a rajah in a marvelous turban winked his brilliant eyes, David Temple saw her again.

There are some men one cannot dissociate from the names upon their visiting cards. Smedley Joyce was one of these. Smedley, even to his intimates, seemed an impertinence and Mr. Joyce commonplace. He was his full name, from the glittering apex of his bald crown to the toe of his equally glittering boot. If he could, he would have been lighter, younger and with the lungs of a football half back, but just as he was people deferred to him. Hopelessly devoted to a single life, his cult, however, was feminine beauty, and the woman he admired became the fashion. The personality of Smedley Joyce pervaded New York. He was a permanent fad; his vogue was unquestioned, like the Thanksgiving turkey and the horse show.

In the fragrance and dusk of his beautiful rooms he seized David's hand in greeting and gave it the fashionable upward jerk.

"Ah, you did get up to see us, you dreadfully busy man! You'd make us forget you if that were possible." And David found himself passed on to make room for the next comer.

He declined tea from the matrons receiving and kept near the door. He had come in only for a few moments to see the rajah and talk with him. As he stood there, his big shoulders and keen face showing clearly above those surrounding him, he looked across the whispering, constantly changing crowd for the famous Hindoo.

Close by the big, yawning leaves of palms screening the zither players he saw him. The lean brown profile with the huge crimson turban above was bending over some one. It was Olga. When the crowd parted, David saw her plainly.

She was on a low seat beside a pink lamp, her mother, now chatting at a little distance, having early seen the advantage of the rosy light. She was in velvet and furs, her lips under a delicate veil lazily smiling. A hat with a brim, and a big one, shadowed her eyes and gave them deeper mystery. Her pose was regal, gentle. The upward glances given to the rajah were lazy, provoking. Her delicate lips were humid with a childish sensuousness.

No wonder David and a dozen other men who watched her came to the same decision—she was beautiful, loving, gentle, true. She seemed the sort of woman men so frequently choose as a wife and never as a comrade; a helpless, fascinating, fastidious creature whose eyes express the words: "Tell me, dear, just what to do. You know so much better than I;" not a woman of original opinions on anything under the sun; as conventional in thought as in the way she wore her hair; not tailor made, independent or athletic; one whose gowns were always marvels to men's eyes, fragrant mysteries of lace and ribbons; a woman to love ease and cushions and never remember an address, to coo to a baby, crave needlework and dabble in charity, altogether a seductive contrast to the restless spirit of a man's business life.

Her physical radiance came upon David for the second time with the power of a summons. He had frequently thought of her since the previous meeting. No one who once saw Olga ever quite forgot her. Side by side with the fancy of what Elaine might have been her lovely face, rare in type, took its place.

He made his way to her and she gave him her hand, sinking back in a lazy attitude. The rajah was forgotten by him, and they talked of many things, of trifles mostly, but Olga had a way of making light talk entrancing. Her speech was pretty and her laziness wrapped a listener with a sense of magnetic quiet.

Growing more serious, she questioned David about The Citizen, of Anne's position in the office and spoke in an attractively feminine way of the mystery attending the making of a newspaper. "How can Anne do it?" she said, smoothing her muff, her trustful eyes lifted to his. "Oh, I suppose I'm stupid, helpless, but I shouldn't like such a life of tension and rush; always among the wheels—that's how it seems to me. I'm afraid I'd be like a silly butterfly caught in a machine."

"Anne's desires are different from yours," said David, and the perfume of the violets under her chin lightened his heart as if the shade of spring had passed him. He looked at her almost tenderly. "Yours are better."

"Think so?"

"Better for a woman," he said softly. "I think so, but perhaps I'm intolerant, perhaps I'm old fashioned. I admire Anne, and I like her more than I can say. I like many women who hold her ambitious views, but they seem to me to gain brilliancy and self reliance at the sacrifice of a quality that is beautiful and indefinable, like a mist or a perfume."

"And you don't despise a woman who likes needlework?" asked Olga, as if confessing to one of her pet diversions, "who doesn't belong to a woman's club, who cries over a novel and maybe not one of the best?"

"God forbid!" said David vehemently. "Soon she'll be found only among obsolete classifications. I, for one, intend to extol her before she quite disappears."

"Dear me!" she said, with low laughter. "I almost feel the pin through me now, as I repose in a glass case labeled in black and white, 'Rare specimen of woman belonging to the remote era, when she did nothing but try to be happy and was glad of it.'"

She leaned toward David as she spoke, and some one brushing past her to greet a friend forced her closer, so for a second her shoulder pressed his, her lips were an inch away, her warm, startled breath swept his throat. It was but a second's nearness, yet his heart gave a throb of almost savage joy. In a flash her beauty became a temptation, a passionate happiness filled him, a breeze seemed to sweep along his nerves, and he knew why an unexplained joy had come to him with the first sight of this woman's face.

With her arrival his senses had struggled to awaken as at a call. Now there was no resisting the feeling. It was a quick, complete fascination. Conscious of it, he grew silent and looked at Olga with new vision.

He felt how apart from all others is the moment when a man first faces the question placed before him by his own consciousness, "Is this the woman I am to love?" It may be he awakens to the truth slowly after she has passed through the changes from stranger to nearest friend. Or one look into an unfamiliar face may blur all save the pursuing newness of that one truth. The moment is the same—oversweet, painful, intimately dear, never to be forgotten.

There was no chance for further talk between them. Smedley Joyce bore down on Olga with a monocled stranger in tow. A moment afterward a famous singer was announced. Every one knew it was Smedley Joyce's law that the music for which he paid so much should be respected, and silence save for an occasional whisper and rustle settled upon the crowd as the singer appeared.

She was pale, with heavy lidded, sad eyes. A white gown draped her thin form. Roses flamed in her girdle. Her contralto voice was strange, unearthly, as she sang in a whisper of the heart wrung damsel who watched from heaven. She sang of love with death closely following. Her fingers moved slowly; she seemed talking to the keys:

"I wish that he were come to me— For he will come," she said. "Have I not prayed in heaven? On earth, Lord, Lord, has he not prayed? Are not two prayers a perfect strength, And shall I be afraid?"

"There will I ask of Christ the Lord This much for him and me— Only to live as once on earth, With love; only to be, As then awhile, forever now Together, I and he."

Music had never moved David Temple like that strange song. It saddened his heart, while his brain was ravished with a sense of its beauty. It gave to the new passion thrilling him an ideality which it did not possess.

He looked at Olga, hoping for one glance, but she was sitting with her head turned away, her eyes on the singer, waiting for the next song. David wanted to hear no more. He wished to keep the memory of that cry of human need, holding an echo as if caught in the far spaces of heaven, to knit it with the revelation of the hour.

Outside he found the dusk and the icy air. There was a medley of cold colors in the sky, the solemn night was near, the avenue veiled in gray. He hurried on, feeling a new happiness tempered by the pain of uncertainty. Questions troubled him. Was this really love? Was his hand upon the string from which so many marvelous strains and pitiful discords had been struck?

He had always calmly and remotely contemplated the rounding of his life with a great love, but something in him had heretofore disdained sentiment. At its best it had seemed a majestic weakness, commonly only a ridiculous thing. He had known perfect friendship, but the love he had seen make fools of the wise, turn the flow of a life completely out of its course, had seemed as removed from him as insanity until tonight.

He still felt the touch of Olga's body, the violet's perfume no sweeter than her breath.

Only to live as once on earth With love

"As once on earth!" There was rapturous memory of a joy he had never known in those words. Their burden of passionate melody went with him like the voice of conscience. He saw only Olga's inviting eyes.

The Nonchalant Canton Merchant.

"Frequently on entering a Canton shop you will find its owner with a book in one hand and pipe or fan in the other, and wholly absorbed in his studies. You will be doomed to disappointment if you expect the smoker to start up at once, all smiles and blandness, rubbing his hands together as he makes a shrewd guess as to what he is likely to take out of you, and receiving you with obsequiousness or with rudeness accordingly. Quite the reverse. Your presence is apparently unnoticed unless you happen to lift anything; then you hear that the fan has been arrested, and feel that a keen eye is bent on your movements all the while. But it is not until you inquire for some article that the gentleman, now certain that you mean to trade, will rise without bustle from his seat, show you his goods, or state the price he means to sell at—with a polite yet careless air, which plainly says: 'If it suits you, we make an exchange.'—From 'Through China with a Camera.'

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A Swim in the Dead Sea.

Everyone has heard of the buoyancy of the water of the Dead Sea. It is virtually impossible to sink in the Dead Sea, and so great is the quantity of salt in the water that if you dip your hand in and draw it out again, you will immediately see the salt crystallizing in the sun. It is needless to remark that an involuntary mouthful of Dead Sea water is a horrible experience, never likely to be forgotten by the bather. However, if you don't stay in the water too long, a swim in the Dead Sea is a very extraordinary and pleasurable experience. The shores, as is well known, are strangely desolate, and they are strewn with bits of wood and branches of trees all crusted with brine in the most curious manner, and woe unto anyone who goes into this water having open cuts or scratches on his body.

The Heaviest Railroad Train.

A locomotive of the Pennsylvania railway recently drew a train about three-quarters of a mile long, made up of 180 loaded coal cars, from Altona to Harrisburg, 132 miles in twelve hours. The weight of the train behind the tender was 5,212 tons, the locomotive weighing 104 tons. This is said to have been the heaviest train ever moved a long distance by a single locomotive.

State street, thence southerly along the west line of State street forty-five feet; thence westerly parallel to the first line to a point in the east line of N. Division street forty-five feet from the place of beginning; thence northerly on the east line of N. Division street forty-five feet to the place of beginning.

You are hereby notified that the Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor will meet at the Council Chamber in said city on Monday, the 7th day of November, 1898, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., to consider the proposed improvement, and to hear the parties interested therein.

GLEN V. MILLS, City Clerk.

Received and ordered filed.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Nov. 7, 1898. To the Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor, Acting as Commissioners of Highways for said City:

The undersigned residents and freeholders of said city, owning property abutting upon the street proposed to be opened between Division and State streets in said city, as a continuation of Catherine street, of a width of forty-five feet, hereby object to the opening of said street for the reason, among others, that there exists a public street or highway extending from Division street, in an easterly direction, along the north line of lands formerly belonging to Mrs. Mary J. Maynard for a distance of thirty-six rods, more or less, of a width of thirty-nine feet, and on and over the lands now proposed to be taken for a public street.

Also that the grant and conveyance by Mrs. Mary J. Maynard to the City of Ann Arbor, of the strip of land thirty-nine feet wide, and extending east about thirty-six rods, bearing date the 7th day of March, 1898, and the acceptance thereof by the city constituted such strip of land a public street and highway, and that there exists no necessity of condemning such lands for a public street.

St Andrews church, by H. J. BROWN, Senior Warden. SAMUEL R. GREGORY. JENNIE B. GREGORY.

By Ald. Brown.

Resolved, and it is hereby ordered that a public street or highway be laid out, established and opened within the limits of the City of Ann Arbor and as a continuation of E. Catherine street in said city between N. Division street and N. State street, and more particularly described as follows: That is to say, commencing at a point in the east line of N. Curious Old Coins.

John Lavelle of Janesville, Mich., while at work in his garden found a copper coin, which is a good deal of a curiosity. The inscription on one side of the coin reads: "My Currency, My Glory." The reverse side of the coin reads: "Perish credit, perish commerce," "Down with the bank," "My victory." A good-sized porker is pictured in the center of the piece, and the reading matter stamped on the side of the animal is so obliterated as to make it unintelligible. The coin is evidently a relic of a campaign when finances were as prominent as they have been in some of the later years.—Ex.

Coal Burned by Steamships. The amount of coal consumed by a vessel during a voyage depends very largely upon the speed, for the consumption of coal increases almost in a geometrical ratio to the speed. There are many ships which burn from 100 to 300 tons of coal per day, the lowest consumption being when the vessel is going at a moderate rate. British men of war do not consume so much in proportion as swift passenger steamers which ply between Europe and America, for, unless in an emergency, they are not driven at the highest attainable speed. The ocean steamers often burn from 2,500 to 3,500 tons during a passage lasting six to seven days.

SPEAK OUT.

The Search Light of Publicity is Pleasing Ann Arbor People.

Publicity is what the people want. Let the public speak on the subject. There has been too much claim-too little proof. Claims endorsed by strangers are not proof. Claims made by strangers are not proof. There is only one kind of proof for an Ann Arbor citizen. The experience of people we know. When friends and neighbors endorse. Make public statement of their case. There can be no question about such evidence. This is the proof we have, which backs up every box of Doan's kidney pills. No other kidney pills, no other kidney remedy. Can produce such proof. Here is one proof of the many we have.

Mr. Edwin Wooley, of 618 Fountain st., carpenter and contractor says: "I have been subject for years to attacks of backache or pains through my loins and kidneys, generally of a constant, heavy aching nature. If I did any work which required stooping it was very painful. A cold or any exposure always affected me. I could not rest well nights and in the morning felt as tired as when I went to bed. I tried different remedies but they did not do me much good. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and having heard them highly spoken of I went to Eberbach & Son's drug store and got a box. My back was troubling me a good deal at the time and I began using them. The first few doses made me feel better and in a short time I was thoroughly relieved and have had no trouble since. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly."

For sale by all dealers, price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

The Y. M. C. A. Fair at the Armory.

ALL WERE WELL PLEASSED

And Had Every Reason to be So With the Attractions.

Tonight Will Be the Band Concert and a Crowd Should be Out.—The Sights in Greater New York Worth Visiting.

The first annual fair of the Young Men's Christian Association, in aid of the building fund of that organization, is now in progress at the Light Infantry armory and judging from the attendance Tuesday evening is a success. It is a success also from the standpoint of the prettiness and attractiveness of the decorations and displays. The exhibits have all been arranged with much artistic taste and the effect on entering is most pleasing. A flood of light greets one on entering the door and falls with pleasing effect on the very varied colors of the booths arranged around the outside of the large room. In these booths many of the progressive merchants of the city have displayed with most pleasing effect their various lines of goods. Among these are noticed Heme & Stanger, Schuh & Co., The Ann Arbor Gas Co., The Ann Arbor Music Co., and various others. Cousins & Hall have a very fine display of flowers from the green house. In the northwest corner of the room is to be seen a log cabin with the appearance of a squirrel skin stretched upon the door under a queer legend in some dialect unknown to the writer and within the cabin a dusky Indian ready and willing to tell one's fortune or furnish the needy with magic soap. In the center of the room extending from the south side are three pavilions or booths very pretty in design. The first one is the Japanese booth in which are displayed all sorts of Japanese articles for sale. The second one is called the paper booth, hung about with various colored fringes of paper and within are exposed for sale every conceivable paper made article. The ingenuity of the ladies must have been greatly taxed to originate so many articles in paper. But passing on to the next booth, called the fancy work booth, the visitor is confronted with as many more pieces of fancy work, none of which are like any of those seen in the preceding booths. All three of these booths and the multitude of articles offered for sale are decidedly attractive. To the right of these booths from the entrance, the ladies of the Congregational church have their tables on which they serve an appetizing supper and delicious ice cream. In fact on every hand are to be found the most favorable and tempting opportunities for enticing the unwary lucre from the pocket. In fact the accomplishment of that very thing is the principal purpose of the fair and all appearances indicate that those having the fair in charge are adepts in that line. All visitors seem, however, in view of the worthiness of the purpose, to be willing victims.

In the farther end of the armory is a platform and upon the back wall the emblematic star of the organization. The music was furnished last evening by the Athens Band under the leadership of Mr. Backhaus. The district school under the direction of Prof. Springer, with some of our prominent business men as pupils, which was to have been a part of the program last evening, for some reason did not materialize. The gallery has been metamorphosed into a most interesting museum and the passage through the same is designated a "Day in Greater New York." The sights to be seen here are certainly worth the cost.

DROWNED IN BRIDGEWATER.

A Young Man From New York Tips Over a Boat in Joslyn Lake.

A sad case of drowning in which a young man from New York city lost his life, occurred at Joslyn Lake near Bridgewater station, seven miles east of Manchester, last Thursday evening. Louis Fischer, of New York city, a young man of 21, had been visiting his uncle, William Westphal, for some time. Thursday he was out hunting with Wm. Sauder, Geo. Glatz and Alfred Westphal and about dusk they started to cross the lake in a boat. Fischer was considerable of a dare-devil and it is said rocked the boat until finally it upset. The others of the party finally reached the shore but Fischer sank. Large parties of men dragged the lake for his body. His body had not been found Monday although all kinds of grappling apparatus had been used and dynamite exploded.

SOLDIERS' HARDSHIPS.

Fought and Bled for Their Country and were Victims of Dread Disease.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—It has been truthfully said that few if any of the soldiers who answered to their country's call and went to the front in the late war returned home without some disease, brought about by the hardships of camp life and battle. A large percentage of these brave men contracted rheumatism. But thousands have been cured. Here are two cases of the many in this city: Capt. A. T. Elliot, U. S. Infantry, retired, 2649 Columbus ave., says: "For ten years I have been troubled with Rheumatism, could get no relief. I read of DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. After taking part of a box, I found relief. Before I commenced to take them I could not cross my legs. Now I am at ease, and can say that I am perfectly cured."

Amos H. Watkins, 422 Hennepin Avenue, states: "I have been troubled for fifteen years with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, caused by service in the army. I have suffered great pain and could get nothing that would relieve me until I tried DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. I must say they have worked a miracle on me. All pains have left me. I have taken my belt off and feel a well man again."

There is no case of Rheumatism, or any other disease, arising from disordered kidneys, that Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot cure.

Charitable Union Thanksgiving.

Last November, as an experiment, instead of giving out Thanksgiving dinners to the poor of the city as had been the custom, the Charitable Union asked for "pound" donations of groceries, canned vegetables, etc., such articles as might be stored and given out as needed during the winter. The call was responded to quite generously and the committees were able, all through the winter, to send applicants to the storehouse for flour, rice, corn meal, rolled oats, sugar, tea, coffee, soap, salt, canned tomatoes, corn, etc.

The success of this experiment warrants the society in making a similar call for the coming Thanksgiving. All who can make contributions of this kind are requested to leave them with Mrs. Parker, corner E. Ann st. and S. Fifth ave., Wednesday, Nov. 23, and Thanksgiving day.

Donations of clothing should be left with the committees of the different wards: Mrs. Morris or Miss Sager, First and Sixth wards; Mrs. Bach, Second ward; Mrs. Wetmore or Mrs. Booth, Third ward; Mrs. Parker or Miss Henning, Fourth ward; Miss M. S. Brown, Fifth ward; Mrs. Lane or Mrs. Finney, Seventh ward.

Matches Without Phosphorus.

The government of Belgium has offered a reward of 50,000 francs (nearly $10,000) for the invention of a match paste containing no phosphorus. The competition is open to citizens and subjects of all nations. It is required that the matches shall ignite when scratched on any surface, including cloth, but that they shall not ignite readily by friction, so as to be dangerous when carried in the pocket.

FROM THE PHILLIPINES

CARL R. MINER WRITES OF OUR NEW ISLANDS.

A Letter From Manila Which Was Seven Weeks on the Way, Advocates a Protectorate There.

John R. Miner has just received a letter from his son, Carl R. Miner, who is a member of the Astor battery at Manila, which is dated Sept. 26, and postmarked Philippine Station, San Francisco, Cal.—a far off station it is, over 7,000 miles from the main office. The letter was seven weeks on the road. Among other things the writer says that he had been spending four days at Dr. Bourne's house, nursing a sick lieutenant. "Dysentery has been one of the chief ailments, although the hospital steward says we have not lost a case from this cause. The hospital ship started from here last Tuesday with 250 sick and wounded soldiers on board, of which the Astor battery sent six, among whom was the wounded Sergeant Silliman, formerly superintendent of Grace Hospital in Detroit. "It would be a shame to give up so valuable a country when there is practically no one else to hold it. There are some disadvantages to be considered. If we attempt to annex the territory without giving the natives a trial at self government, we will have our hands full but, if there is a protectorate established, everything ought to work smoothly so far as American interests are concerned. "A large majority of the men out here are very homesick and when the report came a few days ago that 5,000 regulars were on the way to relieve the volunteers, there was great rejoicing. For my own part I want to see the country before I leave it. My faith in it increases the longer I stay. The mail service is very bad. We haven't had a letter in three weeks. Once in a while we get a Hong Kong paper and that is all we hear of the outside world excepting a 10 line cablegram in the Spanish paper every evening. Some of the men have started a soldiers' daily under the name of the American Soldier, but it contains nothing but barrack gossip. However when the mail does come there will be more of it for the waiting."

He Wants the Bonds Broken.

Another divorce suit comes from the western confines of the county. John W. Cappy asks for a divorce from his wife, Alice E. Cappy, whom he married in Hastings, Nov. 15, 1878. They have two children. The ground on which the divorce is asked is extreme cruelty. The bill lays the blame largely to a boarder who was taken into the family, who it is charged, soon became the confidential adviser of the wife. Cappy says he often saw them together, when he thought they were talking about him, and gave the wife her choice between keeping the boarder in the house or himself. The boarder remained, although the bill charges he would go off on sprees, when Cappy would renew his demands that he be no longer allowed to remain in the house. The unhappy couple have not lived together since November, 1896.

RETURNS FROM KLONDIKE.

H. M. Wallace Comes Back With His Pockets Full of Nuggets.

H. M. Wallace, who in company with Dr. R. D. Wilson, John T. Hoelzle, W. S. Bennett, Harry Ramsey and Harry Wise, of this city, and J. H. Taylor, of Ypsilanti, left for the Klondike a few months ago, returned Tuesday, much pleased with the prospects of his company. The party penetrated the wilds of the northwest territory to the confluence of the Hoolotini and Thirty mile creek, a distance of 250 miles from Skaguay, where the company have leases on 175 miles of river bottom, from the Canadian government. Mr. Wallace remained eight days at the camp on the Hoolotini and witnessed the washing of much coarse gold and brought back with him many handsome nuggets of the yellow metal which were washed from gravel near the surface. He reports the Ann Arbor boys in good health and spirits. He will return to the diggings in February.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

There are 950 students in the Normal. The first quarter of the Normal school year ended last Friday. A little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brooks, Friday. Rev. Wm. Gardam exchanged pulpits last Sunday with Rev. John Mockridge, of Detroit. Mrs. Margaret Stevens, of Plymouth, mother of Charles L. Stevens, of this city, died last week. The Young People's Mission of the Presbyterian church met at Mr. and Mrs. H. Webb's, Tuesday. Henry Haskill, of Toledo, a former Ypsilanti, will be married Nov. 22, to Miss Dora Haywood, of Claremont, N. H.

Ypsilanti city fathers are discussing the dropping of some of the heavy insurance carried on the waterworks plant.

The football game between the Normals and the alumni last Saturday resulted in a tie, neither eleven being able to score.

William Corbly, of Crystal Lake, and Miss Agnes Owen, of Ypsilanti, have been made Mr. and Mrs. Corbly by Rev. R. K. Wharton.

Twenty-five of the business men are taking advantage of the Normal gymnasium, Monday and Thursday evenings under the instruction of L. P. Whitcomb.

The jury acquitted Prof. E. L. D'Ooge of violating the bicycle ordinance last Saturday on the ground that the ordinance was not valid, the proper legal formalities in its passage not having been complied with.

The Cleary Business College graduated 42 students last Friday with very interesting exercises. Mayor Maybury delivered a very polished and eloquent commencement address. The college is increasing rapidly in attendance and efficiency.

There are eight announced candidates for the Ypsilanti postmastership which is expected to be filled next February. The candidates are Harlow Wells, P. W. Carpenter, J. B. Wortley, Chas. Stevens, Ben. Kief, Frank Stowell, George Barnes and Mr. Graves. They are already laying their wares.

Twenty relatives walked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. DeMosh Sunday evening and presented them with a fine oak chair. A little later a party of 30 Maccabees arrived with a fine supper. Each party were in ignorance of the other. The occasion was Mr. DeMosh's 33d birthday.

Eleven of the graduates of Cleary's college last Friday are residents of Ypsilanti as follows: Shortland course—Misses Etta F. Berry, Gracia M. Frederick, Oveda Frederick, Dora E. Fletcher, Clara M. Fulton, Stella G. Shaw and Messrs. Milton L. Dake, Geo. W. Revenagh, Edwin Revenagh and Eugene Strang. Business course—T. S. Cope.

As soon as his employer can find some one to fill his place the lucky man will lay aside forever the implements of his trade and sail for merry England to enjoy his fortune.

M. B. McGregor died at his residence on S. Adams st., Monday morning of paralysis, aged 66 years. Until stricken over a year ago he had been a perfectly healthy man, never sick. On one occasion Tennyson was asked by the present bishop of Ripon whether the three queens who accompanied King Arthur on his last voyage represented Faith, Hope and Charity. The poet's reply gives an indication of his idea of the spirit in which poetry should be read. "They mean that and they do not. They are three of the noblest of women. They are also those three graces, but they are much more. I hate to be tied down to say 'This means that,' because the thought within the image is much more than any one interpretation."

SMITH'S GINGERSNAPS.

Bright Points from the Pen of the News Artist of the Jackson Herald.

In spite of the pencil destroying war between Grass Lake and Chelsea editors, Chelsea parties have rented a Grass Lake building and will open a bakery here. They are reported to be well bread people.

Sharper at the Clinton postoffice and in Bridgewater, recently worked that old firm-flam trick of making change and beating the money changer. The whisks on this trick are gray, but yet it works as it did in its palmy youth.

A Green Oak man, recently captured 300 green frogs which he sold to the University for scientific purposes. The professors strap a frog down to a board get him between the light and a microscope and thus illustrate the difference in the circulation of blood, between a real and a cork leg.

Three Ann Arbor bakers got into a furious fight, last week. "Bread-baskets" were punched, "upper-crusts" cracked, and one poor bun who was knocked "galley yeast" was unable to "rise." In fact only a few of his crumbs were swept up. The while batch was taken into police court and kneaded. Two were required to put up the "dough" for mixing the third, the judge remarking that if they had been half baked they would not have been so row.

Mr. Rowseman, new proprietor of the Milan Leader, had hardly got to keeping house last week, but found time to remark that the Leader would ignore politics, and this be his motto: "Milan, first, last and all the time." It is strictly in order for the town to support an editor like that. He proposes to ignore the great evil and work for the good of the village. "Behold, an Israelite in whom there is no guile!" Milan, support him, by taking his paper and advertising with him! Free show and church supper tickets are not enough.

Daniel Tichnor, of Chelsea, on the occasion of his recent 96th birthday, set an example to the rising generation, by shaving himself. There is many a dude one-fifth Uncle Daniel's age who cannot shave himself. Mr. Tichnor had been a shaver 18 years when Michigan was born and was 10 years old when its first governor let out his natal yelp. What has shortened Mr. Tichnor's trip is the fact that once or twice in his life he has taken a chew of tobacco. But for that, he might, today be 125 years old just as well as not. Let every young man eschew the habit.

Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, of Ann Arbor, recently preached a philippic against the Washtenaw jail; not that he wanted the jail abolished, but he has been there himself—as a visitor, and finds that the only place in it, where boys and perhaps innocent persons awaiting trial, can be separated from contamination by hardened wretches, is the lunatic room, close under the steel plates of the roof where, in summer, it is as hot as any place known to his theological geography, and where not a breath of fresh air can deal death to disease germs. The minister wants this condition remedied.

Sheriff Judson, of Ann Arbor, has sued Editor Selby Moran, of the same city, in the sum of $10,000 for imparting a sort of rotten-egg aroma to his character. Selby and Jud. are worshippers at the same general party shrine; but they disagree concerning the bald-headed joss who sits on the gubernatorial pedestal. Moran revered him not and dealt his haircap cap some resounding thwacks, which the county body snatcher resented and this $10,000 damage suit is the result. Brethren, settle it! Can you not compromise on $9,999? Remember, that your little hand, were never made to scratch out each other's eyes out.

MEN WON THE FIGHT.

Gen. Shafter Gets Small Credit for Santiago from General J. C. Breckinridge.

CAMPAIGN WAS HAPPY GO LUCKY,

Seems To Be the Opinion of the Witness, Who Is Anything Except Complimentary to the Commander Before Santiago—Much Praise for Miles—Characteristic Story of Beresford Told to Illustrate the Situation Before the Surrender of Toral.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The feature of General Breckinridge's testimony before the war investigators yesterday was its tone in regard to General Shafter, which was anything but complimentary. On the other hand it was highly eulogistic of General Miles. He said that the preparations for embarking Shafter's force at Tampa was quite inadequate; that there were no lighters to speak of nor any preparations to land in the face of the enemy except the warships at Santiago. At the front the only point was to get men forward; equipment was not considered. The fight there was won when General Toral's nerve gave out. He did not consider General Shafter was above criticism in the conduct of the campaign.

"Limitations of Gen. Shafter."

Proceeding General Breckinridge said that all engaged in the war had acted with zeal, and every man had done the best of which he was capable, and he had never known a war in which there was not criticism at the close of it. "What was to be expected from the limitations of General Shafter? * * * I am sure that if he [Miles] had had charge he would have been in the front rank." He could not believe the result was a miracle, but he ascribed the outcome to the fact that the army was one which was capable of meeting all calls. "No matter how it was tangled up," he said, "it went to victory." He had at the time quoted Lord Beresford when he said to his army upon a certain occasion: "I have led you into a devil of a fix, and it is now your duty to fight like hell to get me out of it."

Leaves Room for "Speculation."

The most interesting perhaps of Breckinridge's testimony was when he declined to testify. He was asked if he had visited General Shafter in his tent when the latter was ill at Santiago, and General Breckinridge replied that he had done so. "Did he then offer the command of the army to you as has been reported in the press?"

General Breckinridge replied: "I very much prefer not to answer that question. You should ask General Shafter. * * * If General Shafter has not repeated the conversation I ought not to do so."

"As a matter of fact, he did not turn the command over to you?" suggested Governor Beaver, to which General Breckinridge responded: "No, he did not, and I do not think there is any impropriety in my saying that he could not have done so."

Those Sinks at Camp Thomas.

Dr. Conner questioned General Breckinridge about the condition of the sinks at Camp Thomas when the troops left there, saying that it had been represented to the commission that some 3,000 of them had been found to be uncovered. The general replied that necessarily some of the sinks had been left uncovered; that it was difficult to clean up after a large army evacuating a camp. He said, however, that he had foreseen this and had asked $1,500 from Washington for the purpose of putting the sinks in proper condition. This money had not arrived before his departure, but he supposed it had been received later and had been used by his successor for the purpose for which it was intended.

DOCTOR FROM PENNSYLVANIA.

Tells the Commission Something More About Army Hospitals.

Dr. William G. Weaver, of the Ninth Pennsylvania volunteers, proved an important witness, as he gave detailed information concerning the conduct of a regimental hospital at Camp Thomas. Weaver said that typhoid had broken out about the 18th of June and that it had increased from that time until the 20th of August. There had been about 600 cases of this disease in the regiment and twenty-eight or thirty deaths. The doctor said there was an insufficient supply of drugs and that at times he failed to get what was needed. Quinine was one of the articles of which there had been a scarcity and 100,000 pills were secured from home.

He said that at one time there were fifty-six typhoid patients in the regimental hospital because there was no accommodation for them in the division hospital. At another time there were sixty-seven fever patients in the company tents for whom admission could not be secured in any hospital, division or regimental. In summing up the causes of disease in the camp Dr. Weaver included over-work of the men as one. The first reveille sounded at 4:30 and after that time the men were kept quite constantly engaged with drills and other exercises until 6:15, notwithstanding the weather was intensely hot. He also expressed the opinion that the water from Chickamauga creek was polluted. He considered the water in this stream hardly fit to bathe in, much less to drink.

Dr. Weaver related his difficulties in securing tents for the regimental hospital and he said that in one case Chief Quartermaster Lee had refused to allow the regiment to have a tent which was stored and which was its property. Col. Lee said the tent could not be taken out except in the proper military manner. In this connection, Governor Beaver expressed the opinion that this conduct on the part of Colonel Lee was an outrage, and he said the only mistake that the doctor and his colonel had made was that "they had not taken the colonel by the nape of the neck and kicked him out of the camp."

Major Louis A. Lagarde, a regular army surgeon who was in charge of the division hospital at Siboney, said the transports taking troops to Cuba were overcrowded, and the air was very fetid and hot. On his steamer, the Saratoga, thirteen cases of fever had developed going over. The men sent north were supplied with all that could be spared, but the hospital authorities felt that those who went north, even though short of attendance and supplies, were taking fewer chances than those who remained, as yellow fever was even then beginning to make its appearance. The orders were to send only such men as could wait upon themselves. He said he had obtained from the Red Cross society all that he had asked for.

There was a shortage of nurses, as the military necessities were such that it was impracticable to keep as many men at work in this capacity as were needed. Dr. Lagarde expressed the opinion that the United States could have a supply of stores on hand as well as the Red Cross, and he believed that it would have done so if such a battle as was fought had been anticipated. There was a sufficient quantity of medical supplies, if they could have been unloaded. The lighters were all used for unloading articles of military equipment, and it had been next to impossible to get the hospital supplies landed.

Referring to the charge that the sick on the Seneca had no change of clothing, he said he presumed this was true, as nobody in Cuba seemed to have more than one suit of clothing. Furthermore, the hospital had no ice to spare to the transports. Ice was a scarce article. The gentlemen of the press had furnished the chief supply to the institution.

ELEVEN KILLED ON THE RAIL.

Terrible Collision on the Grand Trunk in Canada—Twelve Wounded.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 16.—By a wreck on the Grand Trunk railway at the Diamond crossing, near Trenton, Ont., early yesterday morning eleven persons were killed and a dozen more, or less injured, several seriously. A freight train of three cars was endeavoring to enter a siding when the Montreal express crashed into it at full speed, completely wrecking the freight train. The engine and several cars of the express were derailed, burying the fireman and engineer and an extra engineer named Riley. A wrecking train was dispatched to the scene at once and the crew set to work with the assistance of the uninjured passengers caring for the dead and injured. A number of the latter were taken to Belleville and placed in the hospital.

The dead are as follows: William Lunness and Charles Goodchild, cattle drovers, Toronto; John Casey, engineer off duty, Belleville; William Brady, engineer Montreal express, Belleville; John MacDonald, fireman Montreal express, Belleville; Marie C. Kern, George Hadrich and Katrine Hadrich, all Russians. Three other Russians—man, woman and female child—altogether unidentified.

W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT.

Mrs. Stevens, of Maine, Is to Fill Miss Willard's Place.

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—The first event of interest yesterday in the W. C. T. U. convention was the election of Mrs. Stevens, of Maine, president, the place Miss Willard so long and so successfully filled. Mrs. S. M. D. Fry was elected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman, recording secretary. There was a skirmish fire all day on the Temple matter, Mrs. Carse bringing it up every time she saw a chance, and finally it came to a vote again and the Temple went down again.

The fight was on a resolution pledging co-operation in the retirement of the Temple trust bonds, because the W. C. T. U. was morally bound to such action; no one thought it legally bound, and the friends of the Temple argued that hearty indorsement was given the new bonds by the national convention in Boston 1891; that such indorsement decided many to purchase the bonds, and that the moral obligation thus incurred by the national union toward the bondholders has been acknowledged again and again. Even the moral obligation was repudiated by many and the final result was the defeat of the resolution—75 to 267.

MORE HONORS FOR DEIGMAN.

Merrimac Hero's Friends Want Him Admitted at Annapolis.

Stuart, Ia., Nov. 16.—Efforts are being made to get Deigman into the naval academy at Annapolis, by which Stuart men intend to show that their hero worship is more substantial than sweet girl kisses and receptions. Deigman is a few months too old for admission to the national academy for naval education and special congressional legislation is to be tried. Representative Hager has framed a bill providing that Deigman be permitted to go to the naval academy and Iowa's congressional delegation is expected to work for it.

Sunday evening a reception to Deigman was given by the girls of the L. L. C., the onse who kissed him. Miss Mabel Hackthorne, whom rumor has announced as Osborn Deigman's sweetheart, denies that she is engaged to the much kissed hero. "I honor him," she said, "but as for being his sweetheart or anything like that, there is nothing to it."

Last of a Famous Family.

She was the daughter of John Swartout, who was the personal friend of Aaron Burr, and his second in the duel with Alexander Hamilton. After the duel Burr took refuge in the Swartout home.

M. R. C. C. SHULTS, of Winterset, Iowa, inventor and manufacturer of Shults' Safety Whiffletree Coupling, writes of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. "Two years ago an attack of LaGrippe left me with a weak heart. I had run down in flesh to mere skin and bone. I could not sleep lying down for smothering spells; frequent sharp darting pains and palpitation caused a constant fear of sudden death, nothing could induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the doses, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years."

The U. of M. band made hosts of friends at the Y. M. C. A. fair and together with the growing interest was responsible for the largest crowd yet at the fair. Several new features were sprung on the crowd last evening and all went merrily.

Henry H. Camp has appealed from the decision of the probate judge admitting to probate the will of his father Admiral E. Camp, on the ground that his father was mentally incapacitated, being under the undue influence of his wife, son-in-law and two grandsons.

Frederick Schmid has just received intelligence of the death of Christian F. Hanser, a former resident of this city, from cancer of the jaw at the Pontiac asylum. A writ of error for the appeal of the case of Joseph E. Gage vs. Pittsfield township has been received at the circuit court. Arthur Brown and John Koch will soon have the south side of E. University ave. from Prospect st. out to Packard, completely built up with houses. Mr. Brown is building four and Mr. Koch two. The foundations of four of these houses are already in and the frames of two are up and nearly inclosed. The work is being rapidly pushed.

Supt. A. D. DeWitt, of Dexter, informs us that arrangements are being made for a rousing teachers' inspiration institute, to be held in either Ann Arbor or Ypsilanti near the close of January next. The session will last for three days. Eminent speakers and leading educators from abroad will be present. School boards throughout the county will be asked to close their schools, that every teacher in the county may attend. It is hoped that this may be the greatest educational rally ever held in this county.

Three carloads of butter and eggs go through this city on the Ann Arbor road every week. They are large refrigerator cars. The last one to pass through here contained 30,000 pounds of butter. If a person had to eat this butter at the rate of a half pound a day, he would have to eat on this carload for 165 years. A carload of eggs contains 200,000 eggs and if a man 21 years old started in to eat up a carload at the rate of an egg for each meal he would be 204 years old when he got through and awfully sick of eggs.

In Memoriam.

The following lines in memory of Nathan Sutton Nixon, deceased, were written by his daughter:

Yes, we know the depth of sorrow,
Deep within the human heart,
When death steals away our loved one
And we are called from him to part.
But, oh! how hard to lay him down,
How hard to give him up,
To see within the silent tomb
Oh! sorrow's bitter cup.
Think you dear ones it were in vain
Our loved one came to earth,
To gladden here his three score years
With his joyous youthful mirth?
Oh, no, my friends, it was not vain;
He filled his mission well;
His life so pure, his record bright,
While at his post he fell.
Just think of him as sheltered
Safe in the shepherd's fold;
No sickness there will enter,
No sorrow, pain or cold.
Now papa, will be watching
And waiting by the shore,
To greet his wife and children
When the boatman rows them o'er.
Mother, children, strive to meet him
Yonder on that blissful shore;
Friends, with what joy he'll greet you,
Then all partings will be o'er.
Then cheer up, dear ones, cheer up,
And let your tears be dry.
An abundant entrance papa's gained
To glorious realms on high.

The Methodist fair, held Wednesday afternoon and evening, was an exceedingly pleasant event. Supper was served by the ladies of the church, after which the remaining articles of the fair were sold at auction. The receipts of the evening were something over $70.

The banquet given by the K. O. T. M.'s was socially a success. The evening began with a speech delivered by Hon. Mr. Conner, of Saginaw, after which the friends and guests partook of an elaborate supper. Then followed the toasts, replete with humorous stories and spicy jokes. The guests vote the Maccabees capital entertainers and hope that the good work which they have so ably carried on in the past will be augmented in the future.

IN JUSTICE COURT.

Four More Persons Find Refuge in the Hotel Judson.

Justice Duffy's court is not idle. Tuesday afternoon three men were up for being intoxicated. Lucius Anderson, who lives just outside the city, was sentenced to pay the costs or 10 days in jail and stood committed. Edward Fair and Charles Ford, two hoboes, were well loaded down. One of them when asked how he got drunk said he was not feeling well and thought he would drown his sorrows. They had no money and are each spending 10 days in jail.

The assault and battery case against George Morton on complaint of his wife was tried Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Morton claimed that he hit her on the mouth with a game bag. Arthur Brown appeared for the prosecuting attorney and Densmore Cramer for the defendant. The jury went out and wrestled with the case for two hours but were unable to agree and the case will be retried on Nov. 29. Tuesday Mrs. George Morton, the complaining witness in the last case was arrested on the charge of being a woman of the town, plead guilty and was sent to jail in default of paying a fine of $5 and costs. She will remain in jail 30 days unless she pays the fine.

Wednesday the examination of Herbert Audette, the young boy charged with an atrocious assault, was on the application of the defendant adjourned until Nov. 30.

In Justice Duffy's court yesterday, Jerome Lane made his appearance, a clean looking, well-dressed man, charged with being drunk "feloniously" and "with malice and aforethought" yesterday. When the complaint was distinctly read to him he pleaded not guilty thereto and his case was set for Dec. 1. In the meantime he was left in the care of the tip-staff, Zenus Sweet, to be produced on that occasion. The arrested man has a good trade and is said to be a good workman but he had amassed $40, which he had been endeavoring with success to spend.
