One of the iron bars in the cage had been sawed through at one end under a previous administration. They undertook to saw it through at the other end and escape through the narrow hole made by the removal of the bar. They made a saw out of steel removed from the bottom of a shoe. by means of a table knife which they secreted some time before and stealthily worked in turn at sawing the bar as opportunity offered Saturday, Sunday and Monday during the hours they had the freedom of the corridor.

Tuesday morning Sheriff Gillen having had his suspicions aroused, made a careful investigation and found where they had been at work and the lower end of the bar half sawed through. They had made an effort to conceal their work by the application of grease. They were locked up and after considerable searching the hiding place of the saw and knife discovered. They are at present kept confined to a cell.

Rafftrey is the ex-engineer of a trial at the Washtenaw jail on the charge of stealing a bicycle from Leon Shaw. Under the name of William Miller he did five years in the Jackson prison for stealing guns. His various other aliases have been Thompson, Scott and Daily and his portrait adorns the Detroit rogue's gallery. Jacob Schnitter is awaiting trial on the charge of stealing an overcoat from the house of Mrs. Stafford, immediately after the house was partially destroyed by fire. He has previously done time at Jackson for stealing.

New Incidents Taken from the Detroit Tribune Showing the Romance in a so fixed that he could not dispose of it. Dexter and Webster Farmer's Life, Who is Well Known Here.

The story of how Sir George Reade, of Webster, might have been an English baronet with large ancestoral estates has already been told in the Argus, and also something of his father's early settlement in this county. It may be here stated that Sir John Reade, the father of the present Sir George, was very wild as a young man and it was partly on this account that ship. his father brought him to this country. He first lived in the Fifth ward in this DON'T SUIT THE PEOPLE city and the old stories have it that he was drawn into the toils of some forgers or counterfeiters, and his father came on and helped him out and purchased for him a farm in Dexter which was fixed so that he could not sell it.

The Detroit Tribune of yesterday had a long resume of the story telling much that has already appeared in the Argus but weaving into the story much new material. Among other things the Tribune thus describes his American courtship and marriage:

Now that the legislature is now through with most of its junketing and ought to be able to do some business. Why not therefore fix some time for adjournment and then work to it?

Germany has long been credited with the best public school system in Europe, if not in the world. According to recent carefully compiled statistics, however, there appears to be a radical and dangerous evil in the system. According to those statistics there were in Prussia alone in 1896, 410 suicides among the children of the [elementary schools under 15 years of age. These suicides were traced directly to over work, or inability of the children to bear the strain of the course of study prescribed for them. In most cases they were the children of the poorer classes to whom a meat diet is unknown. Their nourishment was not sufficent to bear the rigor of the school discpline. In addition to these cases of suicide there were hundreds of cases of physical and mental breakdown. This is a fearful indictment of an educational system. Education at such a cost is altogether too dear.

The legislative junketers visited the Industrial Home for girls at Adrian Friday, the ways and means committee to examine into the needs of the institution in the way of appropriations and the joint committe on the home for the purpose of investigating rumors of cruelty set afloat by exemployees who have been discharged. A NEW KIND OF A DOUBLE TR

GIVING THEM TWO LINES TO DETROIT

A Wayne Farmer Tells What He Knows About Proposed Electric Roads.

An Argus Reporter Visits Plymouth in Search of Authentic News Regarding Two Rumored Lines. Brief Interview With one of the Promoters. Longer Talk With His Friend.

It is natural that the citizens of Ann Arbor should be Superior, a representative of the Argus visited Plymouth Saturday afternoon by way of the new electric line from Wayne. His purpose was to see certain gentlemen, who Somewhat unfortunately for him, the proposed meeting had been postponed and the gentlemen to be seen were not in Plymouth on that day. Nevertheless the trip of the Argus was not in vain.

The new road from Wayne to Plymouth runs a car every hour and a half, it taking three quarters of an hour to make the trip one way. When the car pulled in at Wayne, among a number of passengers who got off was a man of fine presence well over six feet tall with very broad shoulders and a beard which reached to his waist. He was an entire stranger to the Argus man but as he looked at the car for a minute with a sort of proprietary air, the Argus man had a premonition that this might be one of the men he was looking for with whom he was not acquainted. So he accosted him and asked if he had just come from Plymouth. On his answer in the affirmative the dialogue continued as follows:

"Can you tell me if Mr. George Waldo is in Plymouth this afternoon?"

"No, he is not there."

"Is this Mr. Waldo?"

"Yes."

"I was just going out to see you Mr. Waldo, but I can see you as well here, if you are not going back on the car." "I am going back a short ways on it and I can only give you a minute."

"The people of Ann Arbor are much interested in a projected road through the township of Superior to Ann come. Can you give me anything about it?"

"No, our plans are not ready to be given to the papers. I have nothing to say."

"What is he." "I don't know, except that he's a Detroit to Ann Arbor, who according to a tip which had boss." "What does he do?" "He jollies the farmers been given him were to meet in Plymouth Saturday. and others." Cudgeling his brain as to how he was to get his story, the Argus representative saw an intelligent looking farmer get on the car, who had gone down on it and stopped at a farm house, and whom he had seen Mr. Waldo "jolly," in Wayne. Calling the farmer by name (he had heard Mr. Waldo use it.) he invited him to set down by him and told him his name and mission. He found he had struck a gold mine, which only the short ride prevented from yet greater development. I No notes were taken of the conversation. The answers to the queries were pat and to the point, developing a familiarity with the subject and dovetailing into points of which the reporter had previous knowledge in such a way as to prove that the gentleman who was talking had considerable knowledge of the subject.

"There was no doubt," he said, "that a line would be built through to Ann Arbor and it was being planned to build it next summer. You saw where this Plymouth line made a turn in the marsh a mile or so from Wayne? Well there is the point at which they branch off to Ann Arbor. That point is on a straight line east and west with Ann Arbor. It will go through Cherry Hill and the township of Superior. It is to be part of the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor system They are building feeders to the road all along the line. This Plymouth road, which is now being extended to Northville will be part of the system. The officials of the Ann Arbor road have been over it several times inspecting it. It hasn't yet been accepted by them for it has not yet been ballasted enough Arbor. There are two ways in which it is stated it will but it will be. Almost all these roads being projected are meant for feeders to the Ann Arbor road. There is one from Ypsilanti through Saline to Adrian. I understand the contract for this road has been let. The gentleman who were in the old motor line between Ann Arbor and Ypsiinterested in the matter. The township has no railway lanti were anxious for it. Then there will be a line built Dearborn is on a straight line between facilities. It is a fine township with good farmers, and from Wayne to Belleville. No, it won't stop there. It but will strike on farther east. This line will be commenced in June.

'The new line to Ann Arbor takes the place of a double track on the preswould take up too much of the highway and their business needs it. The new line will be much shorter. It will save at least four miles from here to Ann Arbor. A morning and evening flyer will be put on which will make but one stop in a township, and the line being so straight much time will be saved. Right here you notice how this track makes a turn in this marsh-well extend this line on straight east in the direction it is going before it makes this turn and it will go straight into Ann Arbor. Why did they build the line in this way if it were not to get this start for Ann Arbor and prevent any other line using this road. If they only intended to reach Plymouth it was great folly to build the line through this morass where the road bed had to be made, when a shorter and better road could have been taken from Wavne, when all this road bed making would have been saved." As our informant spoke, we were traveling through a big marsh, where the dark water was running on both sides of the road bed of the electric line which had evidently been made at considerable expense.

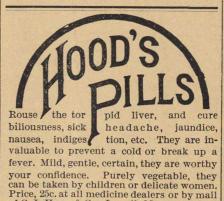

"Have they got the franchises, did you ask? They have for this township but they have not asked for the other townships yet. There should be no trouble in getting them however. The roads bring up the values of the farms beside which they run. They have, however, made two surveys of the

"Do you see that farm there? It contains 200 acres and the road runs on two sides of it. When the owner was asked if he had any objections to the electric line building on his side of the road, he replied that he had not, that if they wanted to they could cut right across his farm and he would donate the land. Since the road has been built he has had two offers for the farm one from a large stock man and the other from a syndicate who wanted to cut it up in 10 and 20 acre lots. Before the road was built, it could not have been sold at any price. That is what the electric lines are doing for the farms along them.

HUNTING FOR COAL

Charles Kreiter, in putting down a drive well for J. Fred Schiable, at Manchester, struck an unknown mineral substance. This is believed to be the same that caused considerable excitement in the village some years ago. Many citizens believe that if an organized effort was made to make a systematic exploration something would be found of great value. To do this money would have to be raised and a driller hired. There are citizens who have claimed that it is possible that the coal basin of Jackson extends into Washtenaw county. An examination of Prof. Winchell's geological map of Michigan, gives color to these views. It would be a source of satisfaction for every one to have the question settled. The outcome might result in belping developing the village. If coal were found it would induce the location of manufacturers. To drill to a depth of 2,500 fet the sum of $5,000 would have to be raised.

"How did you discover that I am a physician?

"I don't understand you," said Mr. Barnes, not knowing what the man was aiming at.

"Mr. Barnes, you brought me into this room saying that you wished to ask me a question. When I entered and saw this corpse, I knew at once that your pretended questioning was but a subterfuge. I wondered why you brought me in here, and while thinking it out I kept silent. So have you. Very good. All I can make of it is that, this woman having been murdered and knowing that I am a physician, you wished an expert opinion in the case. I wondered how you had discovered that I have a medical education, and so I asked you the question. Do I make myself plain?"

Quite so," said the detective coldly and much disappointed. "My reply must be that I did not know you to be a physician, and that I did bring you in here to ask a question.

"Indeed! Then what is it?"

"I wish you to tell me who this wom-

"You overrate my ability. I never saw the woman before. Is there anything more you wish to say?"

"Nothing.

"Then I will wish you good morning." With a polite bow and drawing on his glove, Mr. Thauret started to leave the room. Mr. Barnes quickly stepped in front of him, determined that he should not have a chance to warn Mr. Mitchel. Opening the door, he then let him pass, thus keeping his eyes on the two others. Mr. Thauret bowed formally to Mr. Mitchel and passed out. Then the latter followed Mr. Barnes into the presence of the dead woman. If Mr. Thauret was undisturbed at the sight which met him, it was not so with Mr. Mitchel. He had scarcely observed what was before him than, with an ejaculation of horror, he stepped closer to the corpse and exclaimed: "My God, Mr. Barnes, what does this mean?'

'What does what mean?' said Mr. Barnes quietly.

The two men stared at one another a few moments, when Mr. Mitchel, suddenly lowering his eyes, said, "I'm a fool!" and once more turned to look at the corpse. Presently he turned and said, with all of his old time composure: "You said you wished to ask me a question. What is it?" "I wish you to tell me who this woman is.' "Was, I suppose you mean. She was Rose Mitchel.

"Ah! Did you know her?"

"I agreed to answer but one question. I have done so.'

"You have admitted that you knew

"You will find it difficult to prove

"Oh, shall I? I have witnesses. Gentlemen, please come forward." A door at the farther end of the room opened and two physicians entered. The detective continued, "What have you to say now?" 'That I am most profoundly indebted to you for having enabled me to prove what has happened, and also that you have so soon let me know that we are not alone." Mr. Barnes bit his lip at this taunt, and Mr. Mitchel, turning to the doctors, continued: "Gentlemen, I am delighted to know that you have overheard what has occurred. You may be called upon to give testimony. If you will remember, I think that you will admit that Mr. Barnes asked me who this woman is. Correcting his grammar, I replied, 'She was Rose Mitchel.' Am I accurate?

'Quite so,'' said one of the doctors. "Mr. Barnes claims that I have admitted that I knew the woman. I claim that I have merely admitted that I knew her name, which is a very different thing.'

"You admitted more than that," said the detective testily, "for you must have known more than her name to be able to give a name to this dead body.

"You are quite right, Mr. Barnes, I must also have known her face. In the same way I know both name and face of a strap, apon which appeared the name Lillian Russell. Were I to identify her dead body, would that prove that I was a personal acquaintance?

'Certainly not, but you cannot claim that this woman was known to you in that way, for she was not a public char-

"How do you know that?"

"Well, then, was she? "That is another question, and I decline to answer it-at least before witnesses. If you will walk with me as far as my hotel, I will do the best I can to explain to you how I could identify this corpse without having been acquainted with the woman herself." "Of course I will go with you, for explain this you must," and together the two men left the building.

They walked across to Fifth avenue and down that thoroughfare for several blocks in silence. Mr. Mitchel was evidently thinking over the position in which he found himself, and Mr. Barnes was satisfied not to hasten the explanation. He thus gave himself time to make a few mental notes, which if written down would have read as follows:

"Why did both of these men start when I said that the jewels were hidden off the train? It might be because both knew that to be a fact. If a fact, Thauret might have known it, because he himself may be the thief. In that case, either Mitchel is an accomplice or he saw the other man hide the satchel at some station. Could Mitchel himself have hidden the satchel? How could be have done so when I watched his section all night, unless of dourse I fell asleen, which is not probable. It romows, then, that I must discover what acquaintanceship A exists between these men in order to de-

"Next, as to the murder. It is odd to find both men possessing the means of both were undisturbed and plainly incredulous when I suggested that the woman might have been murdered to obtain the jewels. If Thauret killed the excited by cadavers, and, what is more significant, a physician would know how to find the jugular vein with a penknife. Still it is not difficult to sever that vessel without special knowledge. As to Mitchel, his behavior is more mysterious. Had he committed the crime, knowing his extraordinary abilto expect him to be calm before the corpse. Yet he was much excited and went toward the body for a closer scrutiny. Murderers usually shrink away from their victims. In spite of that he gave the woman's name, and it tallies with that which she herself had claimed. Now, if he was willing to tell me the name, and if he committed the crime, why did he remove the names from all the garments? Why, unless Rose Mitchel is an alias, and the real name is thus kept secret? I may ask him some of these questions."

At this point Mr. Mitchel addressed his companion:

"Mr. Barnes, I should like to know of what you have been thinking as we walked, and I suppose you have a similar curiosity regarding my own been endeavoring to view my own position from your point of view, to guess what your deductions are from my behavior in the presence of that dead woman."

"I cannot give you my deductions," said Mr. Barnes, "for the simple reason that I have adopted none as yet. It has always been my practice to avoid decidwork to discover the truth. Therefore I avoid theories."

"Good! I see that my opinion of detectives, as expressed in the conversation which you overheard, must be main, but you are an exception to the

About a month later I received a letter signed Rose Mitchel, which informed me that the writer could divulge a secret in relation to my family which would cause Miss Remsen to break with me. "That is correct. I was in this woman's power.'

"That is a serious admission, now that she has been murdered."

"I know it. But here we are at the

The two men entered the building, and Mr. Mitchel obtained the key to his compartment. He never took it away from the place, for he thought it safer in the keeping of the officers of the vaults. Descending into the great strong room he took a tin box from his drawer, and then went into a little private room provided with a table and chairs. Opening the box he took out several packages which he laid on one side. Among these the detective was amazed to see a red Russia leather case bound around with Mitchel in gold letters. Could it be possible that this was the case containing the missing jewels?

"Ah! Here it is," said Mr. Mitchel. "Here is the photograph." He handed it to Mr. Barnes, who saw at once that it was the picture of the dead woman. "And here is the letter. Shall I read it to you?" Mr. Barnes assented with a nod. His thoughts were mainly upon the red leather case. Mr. Mitchel read aloud:

"DEAR SIR—You will be surprised to receive this from one of whom perhaps you know lit-tle, but who knows much concerning your family—so much that, were she to tell all she family—so much that, were she to tell all she knows, your high toned sweetheart would send you adrift in a jiffy. Some say that silence is golden. So it must be in this case. If you wish me to keep silent, you must be ready to pay me $10,000 the Thursday night, when I shall call for it. I send my photograph that you may know I am the writer when I call. You see I am not afraid to do this because if you call in the police I will simply tell my you call in the police I will simply tell my story and you will be ruined. I may go to jail, but that does not worry me much, as there are worse places. So be ready to receive me on Thursday night. Yours truly, "ROSE MITCHEL."

Mr. Mitchel handed the above to Mr. Barnes, who read it over carefully, examining the envelope and postmark, both of which proved that the letter was genuine and a year old.

"Did you give her the amount demanded?" asked Mr. Barnes.

'I must explain what I did. When I received that letter, it was plain that there would be nothing to lose by receiving the woman and hearing her story. I determined not to give her any money. Therefore, when she called, of

C. SHULTS, of Winterset, Iowa, manufacturer of and Shults' Safety Whiffletree Coupling, writes of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. "Two years ago an attack of LaGrippe left me with a weak heart. I had run down in flesh to mere skin and bone. I could not sleep lying down for smothering spells; frequent sharp darting pains and palpitation caused a con-stant fear of sudden death, nothing could induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the the doses, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years."

"Every Path Hath a Puddle." booooooooo

The puddle in the pathway of most lives is a defective circulation due to a blood supply that instead of growing clear and strong like a mountain brook, is stagnant and impure. Puddles may be purified, however, and become limpid streams. That is what Hood's Sarsaparilla does with human blood.

It clarifies, purifies and strengthens the blood, and when this is accomplished, the vital organs, liver, lungs, kidneys, bowels, are all braced and invigorated. It never disappoints.

Dyspepsia - "Suffered everything but death for years with dyspepsia. Nothing relieved me until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made and kept me well. Can eat anything I wish." Mrs. Eugene Murphy, Hull's Mill, Danbury, Conn.

impure Blood—"Five years I suffered with pimples on face and body. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me permanently. It also cured my father's carbuncles." ALBERT E. CHAST, Tustin City, Cal.

[Erysipelas-" My little girl is now fat and healthy on account of Hood's Sarsapa-rilla curing her of erysipelas and eczema. It is our family medicine, as we all take it.

ACRES DEEDED HIM.

The Case Has Already Been in the Supreme Court of Michigan Which Overruled the Circuit.

Probate Judge Newkirkt Friday afternoon was engaged in hearing an appli-35, Clark S. Wortley 35, Helen C. cation to receive a commission on claims in the estate of James W. Quirk jr. 10, Darwin C. Griffen 50, Waugh, deceased of York. The inter-Alice Barnes 10, Thos. W. and Alice est in the case was shown by the large number of neighbors who filled the room. What added to the interest was two days notice. Robert M. Hemphill the fact that one phase of the case has been in the supreme court and there was decided against the claimant William J. Webster. The room of Randall & Jones represented the claimant and E. B. Norris the estate. Mr. Norris contended that the application should be dismissed, and if not, the the same allowing only for contraction claimant should be made to give security for the costs. After hearing all the arguments Judge Newkirk said he had looked into the case somewhat amount of wire to make splices, and and he did not believe any techinicalities should stand in the way of justice, and he therefore refused to dismiss the application or order security for if said trolley or feeder wires are cut costs. This case has caused more than ordinary attention on account of the parties being well known and the peculiar law question involved. Webster entered into a contract with James W. Waugh for 40 acres of land to be paid for by his services during the lifetime of Waugh. The contention of Attorrey Norris was that as the land was a homestead and Mrs. Waugh had not signed the contract it was absolutely void, although Mrs. Waugh was also dead. This opinion was not held by the circuit court, but the decision was reversed by the supreme court and Mr. Norris' opinion sustained. The present effort to revive a commission on claims is for the purpose of trying to or feeder wires could be raised over a collect from the estate for the services building of Webster.

The bill in the original case to enforce the land contract was filed June 22, 1897. The parties made defendants were Sarah A. Warner, Nancy Peterhans, Nahum Waugh and Alfred Davenpert, administrator of the estate of James W. Waugh deceased. The bill alleged that on the 27 day of August, 1877, Webster purchased a half interest in 40 acres of land containing a cider mill, etc., from Waugh and wife. That on the same day he made a contract with Waugh for the other undivided half interest, the terms of payment being: "The party of the second part is to perform all the labor of working pay all the expenses of keeping such lands and premises in repair and the avails thereof to deliver to the party of the first part. The party of the first part is to do one-half of the labor in the shop and cider mill. 'I had been troubled for six years with Dyspepsia and Nervousness. Language cannot express my suffering. My principal troubles were indigestion, Sour Stomach, Nausea and Vomiting, had not enjoyed Sound, Refreshing Sleep for a long time. As is naturally the case with dispeptics I tried nearly everything recommended for my troubles, but found no particular relief. Meeting a friend one day, I began to rehearse my miserable condition, when he stopped me with this remark, "Say, I'll tell you what will cure you com-pletely." Having heard the same thing so many times, I did not press C. Page jr., 2½, E. Jedele 3¾, J. O. him for the information, continuing, Hoyt est. 3¾, E. F. Although I have only been taking the treatment for a short time, I can now enjoy and retain my meals. Just be-fore retiring I take one tablet. The result is I sleep sound all night and feel refreshed in the morning. I take pleasure in recommending this wonderful treatment to any person suffering with Stomach and Nerve troubles. STEP-SON WANTS EORTY ELECTRIC LINE ENJURES RHODE FROM MOVING.

> They Claim the City Has No Right to Grant Permission to Move a Building Across Their Tracks.

> The Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor road filed a bill late Saturday evening to restrain William H. L. Rhode from moving a house across their track on Main st. A preliminary injunction was ordered issued as prayed for by Judge Kinne, the defendant being allowed to move for a dissolution upon suprintendent of the electric road swore to the bill. The bill recites the organ. ization of the company and the franchises under which the road is running in the city of Ann Arbor. It further alleges "that in putting up said trolley and feeder wires a tension is put upon in winter and expansion in summer that will not permit of cutting and splicing as it requires a certain your orator therefore asserts that if wire is cut two, points or splicess instead of one would be required. The bill then states that a permit has been granted Mr. Rhode by the board of public works to move a building on Washington st. across Main st., and to do this the wires would have to be cut. It is further charged that the city of Ann Arbor has no authority whatever to grant permission to any person to interfere with the electrical system of the complainant or injure its electrical equipment or cut said trolley or feed wires. The injunction asked for is that the defendant be restrained from moving a building across the complainants tracks. Cutcheon & Stillwagon are the compainants solicitors.

MOVE TO DETROIT.

Clayton Lambert & Co., Move From Ypsilanti.

The Detroit Free Press of Sunday contained the following item:

"A week ago, the Free Press made mention of the fact that Clayton & Lambert, manufacturers of plumbers supplies at Ypsılanti, wished to enlarge their output and desired a location in Detroit. Yesterday W. A. Pungs and representatives of that firm signed contracts which will result in the erection of a factory 40x75 feet in size and three stories high, the building to be up-to-date in every respect. The site is on the railroad track, just in front of the Pungs-Anderson plant on Pallister ave., near Russell st. Mr. Pungs thinks the concern will be a decided acquisition to Detroit, as the firm will employ 150 skilled hands and at least 50 of their old employes at Ypsilanti will move here. The products of the firm have a world-wide sale, the plumbers' fire-pot which they manufacture having a fine reputation. At present the Ypsilanti plant is working practically 24 hours a day, and Messrs. Clayton & Lambert are anxious to get into the larger factory they will have Clayton & Lambert are anxious to Bolinto the larger factory they will have day of hearing.

He had been in his office about 8 o'clock and went home afer trying all the doors of the building. Officer Collins, at 10 o'clock discovered the office door open. He sent a messenger to Mr. Wurster. When the latter hurried to the office he found that a Record machine model 28, special, No. 12,410, retailing at $50 was gone. It had been in the front row of his machines. Since Tuesday Fred Kirn, of the firm has missed his keys, It is suspected that some one found them and of tor Mr. Wurster, left, the office about the value of the Probate pected that some one found them and after Mr. Wurster left the office used, the key to open the door. men of energy to keep their devotion to business within bounds. The spur of necessity or ambition disregards health. Overworked men are an easy mark for kidney troubles and all catarrhal diseases. The experience of Mr. J. Brake, Petrolea, Ont., Canada, is well told in his letter which follows: Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:-"Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. When one of your lectures on the above disease was read to me I began to take Peru-na and Man-a-lin, and found it acted just as represented. In three months I was a well man, and have continued so ever since. Seeing the good effects on me, numbers of people of this town have called on me who were suffering from dyspepsia. They have taken your medicine with the best results.'

Pe-ru-na is the scientific remedy for catarrh. Bright's disease is catarrh of the kidneys. Diarrhœa is catarrh of the bowels.

Write to the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for Dr. Hartman's free book on catarrh, in which these things are clearly explained.

Mr. A.W. Coale, manager Gem nickel mines, Hillside, Col., writes:

"I tried Pe-ru-na for catarrh. My hearing was plmost gone in one ear, and one bottle of Pe-ru-na cured me."

In January the quartermaster general notified him ouilding. The leases formerly were D. Y. & A. A. R. R. Co. made out to the state, but the lease in question was for $100 a year more than the state allowed for rental and was therefore signed by Ross Granger as captain of the Light Infantry. The contention is made that as Capt. Granger never threw up the lease and no rent was due, Cook had no right to take possesion and no letter from the BECAUSE THE WIFE HURRIED quarter master general could confer any authority upon him to take possession as the state did not rent the building. A committee waited upon Mr. Cook Monday to see if he would vacate the armory in time so that it could be fitted up before the return of the company. This he declined to do but made an offer to sell whch was reported to last night's meeting. The committee after last night's meeting notified him that they had been instructed to commence proceedings against him to recover the armory and spent two hours with him this morning endeavoring to arrive at some amicable understanding It is probable that they will have a report to make at the meeting of the general committees next Friday evening. At the meeting of the general committee last night all the various subcommittees asked for further time as all arrangements and raising of funds were largely dependent upon the outcome of the armory embroglio.

There was considerable interesting discusssion on the subject of medals, their price, size and material and it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the members of the Ann Arbor Light Infantry and the other Ann Arbor boys who had served in the war should be given medals. The committee on medals was given further time to report.

Ann Arbor celebration and the Ypsilanti council had appropriated $200 to help along the celebration there but this did not seem to worry the committee any. Considerable enthusiasm was shown at the meeting and after its adjournment to meet again Friday evening, they gathered in groups to discuss the situation.
