

FINE PARADE AT SALINE

Jackson Turned Out in Full Force.

MAKES A STRONG BID

To Have The Celebration Held There Next Year.

Saline, Aug. 17.—Special to Daily Argus.—The village is alive today and everybody is celebrating the 10th annual German-American Day. The streets are crowded and jammed with people. It is a grand reunion of the Germans and their descendants. Old friends who have not met in years are meeting and telling of their family welfare. It is an ideal day or a celebration. All dampness is from within. The business streets are prettily decorated with green before the stores and streamers are floating on every avenue with the word, that in its language expresses more nearly its heartfelt meaning, "Wilkommen." The real friendliness of the old homely word, must be felt to be fully understood. That the people of Saline meant it, there cannot be any question, when the visitor mixed in with the great crowd and received the warm hand shake from his old friends.

The town commenced to fill up with people about 10 o'clock when the special excursion train from Jackson, via Manchester arrived. The former city was represented by 350 people and the latter with 200. The Jackson societies consisted of Arbeiter Verein No. 1 and 2, Landwehr, Schiller Lodge, No. 43, A. O. U. W., Concordia Gesang Verein, Schwaebeschen Unterstuetzungs Verein and the Jackson Harmonie. Among their members were Mayor Martin Loennecker, William Caldwell, city recorder, Fred J. Keebler, city treasurer, Dr. C. R. end, city physician, Ald. Fred G. Adler, of the bloody seventh, James Falihee, police commissioner, Fred Casey, cemetery board, Edward Goecker, Carl Eberle, fire commissioner and ex-Justice and Attorney Rudolph Worch, the gifted editor of the Jackson Volkeblatt. Among the Manchester people Nathaniel Schmid greeted his many friends. The Ypsilanti Arbeiter were represented both by members and also a band. Their trip to Saline was attended with difficulties as the trolley road stopped four miles out and the busses on hand were not sufficient for the crowd. A number of scattering people from Ann Arbor could be seen, but no society was represented in a body. The people that came to the town with teams could not be counted. After there was a general settling down the third occasion by the hot day was quenched most satisfactorily to everyone. Old friendships were renewed and new ones made. It was fully 11:30 o'clock before the procession moved. It started on the square and passed through the principal streets, under the marshaling of Mathias Rentschler aided by Charles Rentschler. It was headed by the Jackson band, which was followed by the other societies interspersed with the Ann Arbor Y. M. C. A. Band Ypsilanti Bands. Then came very tastefully gotten up floats. There were D. Nissley, boots and shoes; A. M. Humphrey, dry goods; Bixby & Son, York; York represented by a wagon load of children; Andrew Lindenschmitt, wholesale butcher; a picture of he olden time. In carriages rode John Frank president of the day, Hon. Henry C. Smith and Editor Eugene Helber.

More than casual mention should be made of the float representing the olden time. There was a large spinning wheel. A man cutting sour kraut and another packing it into a barrel with his bare feet. An old woman was cooking sour kraut on a stove she occasionally sawing some wood to replenish the stove. The procession as a whole was a great success. During the morning the Jackson people assisted by their Manchester friends quietly circulated among the crowd and worked towards the end that the next German-American Day should be held in Jackson. They were very reasonable, however in that they smilingly said that if they did not capture it this year, they hoped it would be another year. They promised the people a warm welcome if they came to Jackson. FREAUFF.

WE MUST WAIT THIRTY DAYS

Ypsilanti Comes First for Free Rural Mail Delivery.

SPECIAL AGENT IS HERE.

He is Inspecting a Route Out of the City of Ypsilanti Today.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Aug. 15.—(From a staff correspondent).—Congressman Henry Smith is in the city today and is in company with the special post office agent from Washington, who is in the city to inspect the proposed rural mail delivery routes. It is expected that two will be granted and it is quite certain that at least one will be established. Today they are inspecting the route southwest from the city.

Ypsilanti's petition was received by the postmaster-general July 24, the same date Ann Arbor's was received, but the former was opened first, and therefore takes precedence. The department ordered the agent to Grand Rapids last night but as he was in Ypsilanti he remains to conclude his work there. Ann Arbor must wait 30 days before he can go over the proposed route, but he does not hesitate to say that if the system is wanted it will be granted. He has recommended free rural mail delivery for Grass Lake.

TURNED OFF THE WATER

BECAUSE EIGHT HOURS USE WAS ENOUGH

A BIG FISH STORY FROM CHEESA—THAT GLAZIER OPTION.

Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 16.—Chelsea has been enjoying quite a building boom and is livelier and more business-like than ever.

George Dengler, of Ann Arbor, Burt Turnbull and Ed. Tichenor went fishing at Crooked Lake and caught seven nice pickerel and a dozen bass. The largest pickerel weighed 11 pounds.

It is said that the option of the trust on the Glazier Stove Works has expired and that Mr. Glazier has refused to renew the option. The works are booming along in good shape.

The village authorities are striving to enforce an observance of the hours for lawn sprinkling. These hours are from 5 to 9 a. m. and from 5 to 9 p. m. That makes eight hours a day but evidently some think more hours are needed. Several citizens have had their water supply turned off and it will cost them $1 to have it turned on again.

Constable Jacob Staffan has been an officer for over 20 years, much of the time being deputy sheriff. He has made numerous arrests in that time.

Much complaint is heard about the village of the extreme boldness of the tramps this year.

A DIAMOND RING STOLEN

And A Chelsea Watch Was Missed.

BOLD HOBOS BLAMED.

The Ring Still Missing but the Watch was Never Stolen.

Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 16.—Mrs. August Mensing had a diamond ring valued at $35 stolen from a kitchen table Monday forenoon. She had removed the diamond ring, which was a highly prized gift, from her hand together with a band ring, and laid them on the table, while she did some work. She stepped for a few minutes out into the yard and while there saw a tall, dark complexioned tramp dressed in black with a slouched hat, going through an adjoining yard, putting something in his pocket. When she went back to the house, the diamond ring was gone and the band ring, which was with it was left untouched. The officers were notified and tracked the tramp a little west of the village out there trace of him was lost. The question is asked, what would a tramp do with a diamond ring. The officers, however, say that a tramp usually has a pretty good idea of the value of a diamond and that they manage to dispose of them for a pretty good price.

Last evening, a hobo was arrested in Chelsea suspicion of having snatched a lady's watch from her dress at the depot about 8 o'clock last evening. A hobo traveling as an umbrella mender and imbibing freely, in sporting parlance a "mush-fakir" who while in Chelsea tried to fit a lady's hand into a gentleman's umbrella, was snoring on a truck in front of the depot when Mrs. Anna Gilbert rode up on her wheel. They engaged in conversation a few moments and afterwards Mrs. Gilbert missed her gold watch which she usually wore in her belt with a gold chain around her neck. She notified the officers and while she and Constable Jacob Staffan were at the telephone office sending word to Dexter, the umbrella man, who had disappeared, leaving his traps at the depot, returned for them and was nabbed by the village marshal. The boys who stood around said he showed every evidence of guilt. An hour later Mrs. Gilbert found her watch at home, where it had been all the time and the hobo was released.

GOOD SPEECHES AFTER DINNER

Promises of Free Rural Mail Delivery if Possible.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH.

Saline, Aug. 17.—(Special to Daily Argus).—The Arbeiter park has been specially prepared for the occasion. Merry-go-rounds, a large dance floor and numerous refreshment stands, offered young and old an opportunity to spend their time agreeably. The most pleasant feature, however, was the social reunions of old friends. That one day in the year, old friends meet is of more value than everything else. At 3 o'clock the crowd gathered around the speakers stand. The respected, venerable John Frank, president of the Saline Arbeiter society, made the welcoming speech. Everyone felt that his greeting came from his heart, and were not mere formal words. He meant everything he said. He bid everyone welcome and wished that they might fully enjoy the beautiful day. After the cheers died out he introduced Congressman Henry C. Smith, of Adrian. Everybody knows or is learning to know the genial hearted "Hank" Smith. Mr. Smith was in his happiest vein. He expressed his pleasure at being present at the gathering. He recalled the German settlement in Washtenaw county and what they had done for the county with their thrift, uprightness of character, and progressiveness. He spoke of the German virtues, that above all things they were descendants from German forefathers. He presented the expansion problem in a general way, calling attention to the great increase to American trade thereby. He spoke of rural mail delivery and promised his best efforts in securing this for the farmers. Mr. Smith's speech was interspersed with his usual inexhaustible fund of good stories. He was most heartily cheered.

Ezgene Helber the versatile, but humble editor of the Neue Washtenaw Post, of Ann Arbor, with his most captivating smile, proceeded to give a carefully prepared speech replete with evidences of wise and statesmanlike thought. It was a most able effort delivered with immense oratorical effect. At this late hour a full report cannot be given in today's paper. After the speaking a meeting of the delegates of all the German societies will be held and the next place of meeting will be decided upon. FREAUFF.

SCHAIRER & MILLEN, ANN ARBOR'S BUSY BARGAIN STORE.

THE ARGUS DEMOCRAT AND YPSILANTI WEEKLY TIMES. PUBLISHED BY The Democrat Publishing Company. D. A. HAMMOND, President. EUGENE K. FRUHAUFF, Vice-President. S. W. BEAKES, Secy. and Treas. PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY for $1.00 per year strictly in advance. Entered at the Postoffice in Ann Arbor, Mich. as second-class mail matter. FRIDAY AUGUST 18, 1899.

Today it is expected a representative of the post office department will be here to look over proposed routes for free rural mail delivery. The Argus is pleased to note that at last its contention for free rural delivery is likely to bear fruit. But for its continued pushing of the question there probably would have been no step taken, and Ann Arbor would continue in the rear of various other places in the state relative to this important improvement. Ann Arbor is on the very verge of being a first class post office. It is desired to make it such. Free rural delivery will help to make it such yet, if it has aided the cause of free rural delivery in any way, it has hidden its light under a bushel. Nevertheless the improvement is coming.

The attempted assassination of Maitre Lobari, one of the Dreyfus counsel, at Rennes yesterday, was not a wholly unexpected event considering the passions which have been aroused and the threatening letters which Lobari had received. It is not as yet definitely known whether there is a plot back of this dastardly act or not, but those responsible for the persecution of Dreyfus would seem to be equal to any crime.

The lawyer is not dead but he is incapacitated for further work at the trial. What the result of the crime will be on the prosecution is hard to predict. Ordinarily such a crime would be considered favorable to the accused, but the French are a peculiar people and it may have the opposite effect. It has undoubtedly left Gen. Mercier with a better standing than he would have had had he been subjected to the cross-examination of the able counsel for the defense. His testimony was shown up in a very damaging way by the ex-president of the republic. But the doings of this arch conspirator would have been made to appear in much stronger coloring had Lobari been present to take him in hand. As it was, however, the evidence of Casimir-Perier, showed that he resinged the great office of president rather than to have his name mixed up in the effort of those high in authority to defeat as he believed the ends of justice.

TRUSTS.

And now comes ex-Secretary J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, and climbs into the wagon with Senator McMillan declaring that trusts are good for the people. While many citizens are crushed by them, he says, the great multitude receive a great advantage. He illustrates his assertion with his experience as a corn planter in Nebraska 45 years ago. There were no trusts then and corn had to be dropped by hand and covered with a hoe. Now there are 10,000,000 acres of corn in the state. If, he says, the man with the hoe who dropped the corn with his fingers, had never been supplanted by the double rowed, two-horse corn planter such a breadth of corn would have been impossible. But the man with the hoe and the blacksmith who made the hoe have been crushed out by the cruel combination of capital.

Now while there is some point in the ex-secretary's illustrative argument, it does not go to the root of the evils growing out of the great combinations of the present day known as trusts. It is true undoubtedly that every industrial advance works injury to some one for the time being, but these are slight indeed compared with the evil possibilities of the trusts. The evils resulting from the combinations of capital referred to by Secretary Morton were vastly over balanced by the almost immediate advantages. But it does not appear as yet at least that this is true of the trusts. The former combinations of capital were not sufficiently strong to influence and profit by political action. They did not depend upon the control of city councils, legislatures and congress for their profits. They were legitimate business organizations depending upon the legitimate gains of business for their profits. But this is not the case with the trusts. They are sufficiently powerful to corruptly control legislative action for gain and they do so control it. Thus the government instead of protecting the people from the extortions of these immense combines of capital, aids and abets them in their wrong doing. Then with these purchased advantages and immunities, they demand and obtain unjust and even illegal profits for their products. With these ill gotten gains they buy up at much more than cost prices the plants of other concerns in the same line of business and corner the market if possible on that product. They then fix prices to suit their own pleasure and the people are obliged to pay them, for there is no relief. These prices are kept as high as it is possible to keep them without engendering competition. And if competition does arise it is crushed with a merciless hand if possible. These combinations are absolutely unamenable to moral influences, they are soulless, and, exerting and controlling political power in proportion to their economic power, they trample upon the rights of the people. Controlling the product in their line, they not only fix the price of that product but control wages just as absolutely.

It is reasonable to believe that the cost of production of their product is cheapened by these combinations of producing agencies. The fact that the trusts throw many people out of employment, indicates that the demand for their products is being met at a less cost, but the evidence is wanting to prove that there is any advantage to the people in this lessened cost of production. The trust controls and keeps up the price. But it is certainly true that the purchasing power of the people is diminished by so many being thrown out of employment and they must therefore be detrimental to the masses. The fact is, as everyone knows, the trusts have as the principal object of their being increased profits. It matters little to them where these profits come from, if they are only forth coming.

That the trust is economic in character and a saving in human effort is undoubtedly true. That they assist materially in extending foreign trade is probably equally true. In time of panic they may tend, as their friends claim, to steady industrial matters, but their evil results, when allowed to run in the practically unrestricted manner they now are, over balance all these. If their good qualities can be retained and their evil ones avoided they might work much good. At any rate about all that is left for the people to do is to find some means of controlling these agencies in the public interest. There appears no way of rooting them out. They have apparently evaded or met all possible legal difficulties or prohibitions. But the people retain the right to control them and they will eventually be controlled in the interest of the public instead of against that interest as now.

Eight years ago Mr. Douglass set out 1,500 peach trees, 80,000 black and red raspberries, 600 plum trees and 300 pear trees. SHOT IN FACE AFTER PICNIC

Pinckney, Aug. 16.—At a dance held here last evening after the conclusion of the big picnic, there were among the visitors seven or eight young men from Hamburg. They filled up generously on booze, and soon got into a fighting mood. They announced that they were the whole thing, and they had made the trip to Pinckney for the sole purpose of cleaning out the town. They nattered about for trouble and finally found it. Guy Hinchey was their first victim. The entire gang set on him, but help was at hand. Guy's brother Roff came to his rescue, and a beautiful scrap ensued. The two brothers proved to be more than a match for the Hamburg bullies. The latter were being thrashed in a most approved manner, when suddenly a shot was fired, and Will Zebe, one of the Hamburg youths, fell to the ground. The bullet struck his left cheek bone and made a flesh wound. It is not serious.

The Hamburg men quickly scattered, leaving the Hinchey boys victors. It is not known who fired the shot, but it is believed one of Zebe's companions fired a revolver to scare the Hinchey boys. An officer has gone to Hamburg to arrest the young men.

HOW OIL IS INSPECTED

The Barrel Shipped to Chelsea was for Switches.

THE CHELSEA ACCIDENT

Of A Few Days Ago was Similar to the Detroit Accidents.

Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 17.—The barrel of oil which the various papers have stated as having been shipped to Chelsea, which contained part of the dangerous gasoline mixed with the kerosene, was not shipped here for general consumption. It was one of the 40 barrels of kerosene purchased by the Michigan Central for switch oil, and all of these 40 barrels have been recovered by the road.

The question has arisen why were not these barrels inspected. Deputy Oil Inspector Wilkinson, when asked about it, stated that when oil is put in barrels in this state, the oil in each barrel is not inspected but the oil in the whole tank. Each barrel of oil received from out the state is inspected. But oil shipped into the state in tanks is inspected in the tanks and the barrels filled from these inspected tanks ought to in all cases come up to the test.

In accordance with this custom, the tanks received in Detroit were properly inspected before being dumped into the receiving tank. But the state oil inspectors have no authority over gasoline and do not inspect it. The difficulty probably arose from a tank of gasoline having been by some carelessness, dumped into the big receiving tank and thus mixed with the kerosene.

The district in Detroit where the seven serious burning accidents occurred in which many were fatally injured is not nearly as large as the district where the bad oil was sold. One who is acquainted with the district says that it will be noted that in nearly every case the names are Polish. He says that they are more apt to kindle fire with kerosene. Many of them gather up cedar blocks, which are wet and soggy and will not burn without oil. In this way he accounts for the limiting of the accidents to the Polish district.

The accident in Chelsea by which Will Lehman was burned by the explosion of gasoline, Mr. Lehman states was incorrectly reported. He had no knowledge that the oil with which he saturated the refuse he was trying to turn in the open air was gasoline. He used the kerosene oil can but he found that the children had been fooling with the oil cans and thinks that they must have poured a little of the gasoline into the kerosene can. A very little gasoline will cause a terrific explosion. Mr. Lehman is fully recovering although his face is still scarred.

GOING DOWN A STEEP HILL

HOW THE ACCIDENT TO PROF. HENCH OCCURED.

"Boston, Aug. 16.—Prof. Geo. A. Hench, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who was injured by a fall from a bicycle at Franconia, N. H., Saturday, and who was brought to the Boston city hospital yesterday suffering from a fractured skull, died at that institution just before noon today. Prof. Hench was professor in the University of Michigan and was passing his vacation in the White mountain region.

"The accident to Prof. Hench occurred while he was going down a steep hill. A companion who was riding with him missed the professor and, returning, found him lying in the road with his face and body badly out and bruised, and unconscious. He was taken to the hotel, where the local physicians found a fracture of the skull. They advised his removal to Boston, where he could receive expert treatment and the patient was brought here yesterday afternoon.

"After examination, the hospital physicians decided to perform an operation for the fracture of the skull. This was done with apparently successful results. The condition of the patient was reported as comfortable both immediately after the operation and this morning. Unfavorable symptoms developed during the forenoon, and death resulted. Prof. Hench did not recover sufficiently to tell how the accident happened.

"Prof. Hench was unmarried and 32 years old. He was a native of Pennsylvania and his remains will be shipped to Carlisle, Pa., tomorrow."

SHE WAS SHOT IN THE LEG

THE CASE WILL BE BROUGHT INTO COURT.

THE SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTALLY DONE BY TWO BOYS IN SALINE.

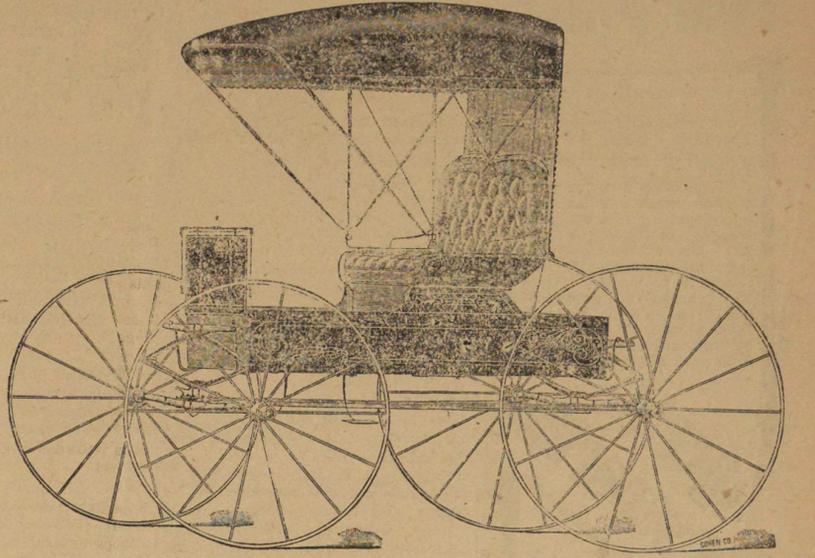

Last December, Helen Rose Lutz, the 15 year old daughter of Ulrich Lutz, of Saline, while passing Unterkircher's drug store in that village, was shot in the fleshy part of the leg above the knee. The bullet is charged to have come from a target rifle in the hands of Jay R. Watson and Fred Koch, two boys. The case has been placed in the hands of Lehman Bros. and Stivers, attorneys. An appointment of Ulrich Lutz as next friend was filed in the clerk's office today preparatory to commencing suit. It is understood that the defense will attempt to show that the boys were in the store examining the Christmas goods. They did not know this rifle was loaded.

Jay R. Watson pulled up the trigger while Fred Koch was also holding the rifle. It went off, the bullet going through the door striking Helen Lutz. The guardian of Watson had the girl brought over to the University hospital and by means of the Roentgen X ray the bullet was located and found back of the bone. He paid the cost of the operation and the nurse that was provided.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Eberbach & Son's, Ann Arbor, and Geo. J. Haessler, Manchester, drug stores. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.

Four Tires Set For $1.00

The above is a picture of the new Tire Setting Machine in the Ferguson carriage factory. It sets the tire while you wait without either heating or dampening it. It is claimed also, that it does the work more satisfactorily than the old process.

Better results can be produced by this machine in an operation requiring less than ten minutes time than can be obtained from the above twelve operations.

Capacity: The machine will upset a 1 1/2 inch by 1/2 inch steel tire or a 2 inch by 1/2 iron tire or anything smaller and will take in a wheel of any diameter from 30 inches to 60 inches.

The change in adjustment for wheels of different diameters is easily made in two minutes.

A set of wheels can be taken from the vehicle, the tires reset and the wheels put back in place in less than thirty minutes.

Tires can be set on 600 to 800 new wheels per day by the power machine, requiring not to exceed 3-horse power to operate.

CARS SMASHED INTO EACH OTHER

BILL JUDSON WAS A LIFE SAVER ON THE CAR.

The people on Main st. on Saturday evening, were treated to the sensation of a railroad accident, in which no one was hurt, but much screaming was done and the front of two cars damaged.

When the 8:45 trolley car of the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor electric road from Detroit came up Packard st. and on to Main st., Motorman Updyke tried to reduce the speed of his car.

The collision was accompanied with a loud noise and so much electric fire as to cause an alarm to be given and call out the fire department. The motor men of both cars jumped just before the cars met.

When the car came down Main st. Saturday night Archie Wilkinson jumped off and rolled along after it on the pavement, as did also Eugene Ed. Groves.

The street from the post office to where the cars stopped was covered with splinters and glass.

There were no passengers in the city car. In the Detroit car were Oil Inspector Judson and his deputy Archie Wilkinson, of Chelsea and six women.

Monday the car people state it was not moor man Updyke who ran the car Saturday evening, but no one about the Ann Arbor office seems to know the name of the motorman or conductor of the car.

When the car came down Main st. Saturday night Archie Wilkinson jumped off and rolled along after it on the pavement, as did also Eugene Ed. Groves.

Know then, that Doan's Ointment will cure any case of hemorrhoids, commonly known as piles or any disease of the cuticle or skin, generally termed eczema.

Mrs. T. Martiny, of No. 501 Detroit st., says: "I suffered a great deal from fever sores and at times the inflammation caused a burning sensation which was intense. I used numerous ointments and lotions but nothing ever gave me permanent relief. I saw Doan's Ointment highly recommended and got a box at Eberbach & Son's drug store. On applying it, relieved all the distress and irritation almost at once. I continued the use of it until the part looked healthy and nicely healed.

An American Railroad in China.

Moneyed men from the United States have secured a franchise for building a railroad from Hong Kong to Han Kow, China, a distance of nearly 700 miles. While railroads are necessary to a nation's prosperity, health is still more necessary. A sick man can't make money if there are a thousand railroads. One of the reasons why America is so progressive is the fact that in every drug store is sold Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that celebrated tonic for the weak, appetizer for the dyspeptic and sedative for the nervous. It is taken, with great success by thousands of men and women who run down, pale and weak. It increases the weight, and the gain is permanent and substantial.

A DETENTION HOSPITAL

Dr. Herdman Very Strongly Urges It Upon.

THE INSANE MANAGERS

His Able Paper Written on the Lines Judge Newkirk Advocated.

Judge Newkirk's recent letter published in the Argus, advocating a county detention hospital for the insane while they are waiting for admission to an asylum in order to keep them from contact with criminals in the jail, has attracted much attention not only throughout Washtenaw but through the state as well. It appears that the same thing has occurred to others also, especially with reference to the points in Judge Newkirk's second letter which appeared in the Argus a few days ago. Dr. Herdman is in hearty accordance with what the judge has said as is shown by the following paper which was written last November.

Some suggestions respectfully submitted to the joint board of asylum managers regarding the establishment of a detention ward at the University hospital for cases of mental disorder, Nov. 15, '98.

Gentlemen:—The managers and superintendents of our state hospitals for insane and the members of the faculty of the department of medicine and surgery of the university are in charge of institutions established and sustained by the benevolent spirit of the citizens of the state.

We are all working, to the best of our ability, to discover the causation, prevention, cure and best management of cases of mental diseases.

We have at each of these institutions gathered special knowledge and are prepared to contribute something of value to this end.

We are all disposed to mutual helpfulness in the work and desire to enter into closer and more effective relations in prosecuting it.

We have now at the university very creditable arrangements for dealing with the post mortem facts bearing upon insanity, its causes and consequences, and to this we all freely contribute our knowledge and our aid.

This could be accomplished by establishing on the hospital grounds at the university a detention ward where a limited number of cases of mental diseases could be sent. Provision for not more than thirty (30) at one time would, I think, be ample.

To this detention ward might be sent, from any part of the state where the transfer was practicable, such cases as, one, in the judgment of the judge of probate are doubtful cases of insanity and yet which present such features as render detention in a suitable hospital for a brief period advisable as a precautionary measure; and, two, such other cases as seem to require the services or examination of trained and well recognized specialists in the treatment of disorders outside of the nervous system.

The detention ward should be an additional ward to the present University hospital, under its management and rules, but especially fitted up for the proper care of this class of cases; and the superintendents of the state hospitals for the insane should be members of the clinical staff.

In the ward should be provision for special nurses and attendants and accommodations for the pathologist of the state hospital for the insane and his laboratory.

Briefly stated, the advantages of the establishment of such a detention ward would be:

1. To the patient. (a). He would have the benefit, if thought necessary or advisable, of an examination by specialists in any branch of medicine or surgery, who are responsible to the state for the performance of these duties, and among these, the experienced superintendents of the various asylums.

(b). He would have the benefit of this examination at that stage in his disorder when it would be most likely to prove helpful.

(c). Every means of investigation as to the nature and cause of this disorder which is afforded by modern laboratory methods could be brought to bear upon his case.

(d). It would tend to eradicate from the public mind the misconception as to mental disorders and impress the fact that diseases of the mind are to be put in the same category as diseases of the body, and thus relieve the patient of the opprobrium which is now attached to asylum confinement. In other words it would bring forcibly home to the public mind the fact that our asylums for the insane are hospitals and not prisons.

2. To the asylum. (a). As the primary object of such a ward is to assist in an accurate diagnosis of the case—it would in no respect prove other than helpful to the after treatment of the patient in the asylum to which he may be subsequently sent and thus enable the members of the asylum staff to do their work more effectively.

(b). The pathologist of the asylums would have an opportunity to investigate the abnormalities of the blood, secretions and excretions in their relation to the clinical symptoms.

(c). The addition of several experienced alienists would greatly strengthen the hospital clinical staff and their consultations could not but be broadening and helpful to all.

3. To the medical student. (a). The advantages that would be given him for the study of diseases of the mind would excel those anywhere now furnished.

(b). The student would see cases in their beginning stage and have the opportunity to see them examined and the cases discussed by the most experienced alienists.

4. To the science of psychiatry. It would be the means of focusing at a germinal point all knowledge and experience bearing upon this important subject and of spreading abroad the results of its fruits in the most effectual way.

Many other considerations, pro and con, will no doubt present themselves to your minds, but it has appeared to me that you have already taken an important step forward, both wise and opportune, in dealing with the vital interests with which you are charged and which you have so faithfully and effectually managed, and that what is now proposed is but a further advance along the natural line of progress.

Very truly, W. J. HERDMAN, Professor of diseases of the Mind and Nervous System.

WERE NO BEANS BUT BARNS BURNED

KEARNEY CLAIMS THERE WERE 400 BU. IN THE BARN.

INSURANCE COMPANY CLAIMS ONLY A FEW WERE THERE.

In February or March last Thomas P. Kearney lost his barns by fire. He was insured in the Washtenaw Fire Insurance Co. Kearney claimed there were 400 bushels of beans in the barn which were burned. The insurance company refused to allow the claim, holding that there were no beans there, or if there were any, there were not 400 bushels, in fact but very few bushels. As the parties were unable to come to any settlement of the matter resort was had to arbitrators. Kearney selected Peter Cook, the insurance company selected Andrew Campbell and these two selected Wm. Appill for the third arbitrator. The issue will be heard at the court house Aug. 17. A. J. Sawyer represents Mr. Kearney and Lawrence & Butterfield and Cavanaugh & Wedemeyer the insurance company.

HAD NO WATER. it is Claimed Four Sheep Died in Pasture.

The firm of Blum & Awrey have filed a lengthy declaration in the case of Joseph Gauss, of Bridgewater, vs. John Hensler, of Freedom, pending before Justice Fish, of Saline. The declaration alleges that Gauss gave Hensler 50 sheep to pasture at 75 cents a week. Hensler guaranteed that he would take the best of care of the sheep and give them tame pasture. Gauss claims that four days later he looked at the sheep and found them in the woods with no water. Four sheep were dead, and after driving the sheep home three more died. The bill of particulars charges $20 for dead sheep and $80 for depreciation in value of 40 sheep. A. F. & F. M. Freeman, of Manchester, are the defendant's attorneys. The date for trial is set for Aug. 17. It will probably be adjourned.

LAND HAD BEEN WITHDRAWN FROM MARKET BEFORE MARL WAS FOUND.

It has been a number of years since any government land was taken up in Washtenaw county and now that Nathan Pierce is endeavoring to get title from Uncle Sam to the land in Lima on which Four Mile Lake is situated, he is finding that it is not the easy task he had in mind when he set out to get it. He first thought he could get it from the state but on application found that the state didn't own it. Getting on the right track, he made application at the United States land office in proper form and believed the title cinched. Now, however, he has been informed by the authorities that it will be necessary to have a special act of congress to enable him to get title and there is an opportunity for "Meinself and Heinrich" to make themselves useful. The ground on which this decision is based is that the land was once offered for sale and no purchasers appearing, it was withdrawn from the market. It was formerly considered valueless and title to it is now wanted as it is found to contain extensive marl deposits and plans have been made for the erection of extensive Portland cement works. This decision would also apply to the reputed unentered sections of government land at Whitmore Lake.

PROF. CAMPBELL ON CEMENT

He Is Making Tests as to Proper Heat.

TO MAKE STRONG CEMENT

One of the Practical Benefits of Original Research Here.

Appropos of the article in yesterday's Argus relative to the efforts Nathan Pierce is making to secure a title to Four Mile Lake because of the extensive marl deposits therein and the possible erection of Portland Cement works, it may be interesting to know that Prof. Edward D. Campbell, professor of analytical chemistry in the university, is doing research work having a direct bearing upon the manufacture of Portland Cement.

Many times the public gets the notion that the research work done in our educational institutions has no value in the ordinary affairs of business life, but no greater mistake could be made. Hundreds of discoveries which represent years of the most ardent labor in the laboratories are utilized in guarding the health and promoting business enterprises of all kinds. Said Prof. Campbell today: "I prefer to do research work the results of which have a direct bearing upon industrial matter rather than that which is of interest chiefly to the scientist." The work which he is doing now may be grouped under two divisions: First, the influence of the temperature, at which cement is burned, on the properties of the cement. The higher the temperature at which it is burned the stronger the cement is, until a certain maximum is reached when the cement becomes over burned and is then of little or no value.

Second, the relation between the chemical composition of the raw materials and the temperature at which they should be burned to produce the strongest cement. That is, the professor proposes to determine just what quantities of marl and clay of known quality are to be mixed and burned at a given temperature to produce cement of a given strength. These points which he is investigating, it will be seen, have a direct bearing upon the manufacture and cost of Portland Cement. In fact the manufacture is a problem in applied chemistry. Prof. Campbell thinks it will take him a year and a half to satisfactorily complete his investigations but he expects ultimately to establish a formula embodying the before mentioned points. To aid him in his investigation, Fairbanks, Morse & Co., of Chicago, recently sent him as a present to be the property of the laboratory, an automatic Cement Tester worth $100. It is a fine piece of apparatus and the professor is delighted with it and is very grateful to the before mentioned firm for thus remembering him.

Professor Campbell says there is a large amount of marl in Washtenaw but the clay here is probably not the kind for manufacturing cement.

LAST EVENING AND ATE TO THEIR HEARTS CONTENT.

CHARLES A. PRAY DISCOVERS AN HONEST MAN IN ANN ARBOR.

Whitmore Lake, Aug. 12.—(Special to Daily Argus).—The young people of Whitmore Lake were invited last evening to a marsh-mellow roast and 26 of them repaired to the dock where the little steamer Petrel was ready to take the party across the lake to Stilsonburg, where they disembarked and climbed the hills and at the extreme summit about 600 feet above lake level they lighted a fire and roasted and ate marsh-mellow to their hearts content. At 12 o'clock midnight they embarked for the city. This was one of Miss Nellie Stevens' popular parties and was very enjoyable.

DEATH OF REV. S. D. BREED

Rev. Samuel D. Breed, after an illness of about four months, died at his home, No. 317 E. Ann st., this morning at 10:30 o'clock. He had been long identified with Michigan and the Congregational churches of the state. He was born in 1820 at Volney, New York. In 1838, when but 18 years of age, he came to Michigan alone. For three years he worked as a farm hand summers and attended Leoni and Grass Lake academies in the winter. Before he was of age he took up land in Ingham county which he cleared and brought under cultivation. After 10 years there he moved to the present site of the village of Chelsea and built the third dwelling house there. Here he opened the first shoe shop and for several years conducted a large business successfully. During the years of his residence in Chelsea he was identified with the whole life of the place, religious, civic and business.

He was an ardent abolitionist and his home was a station on the famous underground railway from slavery to freedom. He was present at the birth of the republican party under the "oaks at Jackson."

Having acquired some property, he determined to gratify his life long ambition to preach the gospel and in 1859 he became a member of the first class in the newly established theological seminary at Chicago. He was ordained in 1861 and his first pastorate was over the Congregational church in the Child's neighborhood, Augusta, this county. He remained in this field for five years. Later he held pastorates at Grand Blanc, New Haven, Napoleon and Rochester. Desiring to give his children educational advantages he moved to Ypsilanti in 1875 and in 1885 to Ann Arbor where he has since resided.

He was married in 1841 to Miss Orpha Fenn, of Sylvan, who died in 1843. She left one child Reuben O. Breed, who while a student in the university in 1862 enlisted in the army and soon died. In 1848 he was married to Amelia E. Bosworth, of Smithville, New York, with whom he lived until her death in Ann Arbor in 1873. She was the mother of four children who now mourn the loss of a faithful and loving father. The children are Rev. Dwight P. Breed, Ph. D., for 20 years a Congregational minister in this state, but now of Creston, Iowa; Miss Amelia M. Breed, who has been her father's home maker; Rev. Merle A. Breed, pastor of the First Congregational church in Westboro, Mass.; and Miss Gertrude T. Breed a teacher in the Ann Arbor high school.

The funeral will be held from the house on Friday at 1 o'clock and the interment will be in the Vermont Settlement cemetery, four miles north of Chelsea, among the friends of his early manhood, the pioneers of the county.

WILL MEET OPPOSITION

Editor Argus:—In last week's Argus-Democrat we read a proposed electric line from Ann Arbor to Jackson, Manchester, Saline, Ridgeway, Britton, Tecumseh, Adrian, etc. It seems, indeed, that the farmers are to be highly blessed or badly cursed, just as he feels about it. Some people think the cars a great convenience. Others think them a great curse. There are advantages and disadvantages in having an electric railroad passing one's house. When it is hot weather or bad roads a farmer can go to town on the cars much cheaper than he can go with a team and wagon thus saving time and the wear and tare of team and wagon, besides the freight car can take his produce to the larger cities often securing better prices than at the home market. Some horses may take fright, but no more so, we think, than at steam threshers, which are so common at this season of the year. Horses soon become accustomed to these things. In last week's Free Press we read of a proposed line from Ann Arbor out State st. to the Ypsilanti and Saline track thence to Adrian through Clinton and Tecumseh. We thought this a favorable route, thus following the present line out of Detroit over the old "Detroit and Chicago Pike," which is wider than most highways, with an easy grade which was sought out by the state officials in its construction. This route passes through the townships of Saline and Bridge-water which have Ann Arbor as the county seat and many people would find it more convenient to go to court or conventions by rail than with teams. Clinton is just over the line in Lenawee county, has a population of 1,000 or 1,500, and their court and conventions meet at Adrian. It passes through Tecumseh. It secures good accommodations for travel to both county seats, passing through an excellent farming country, this route is only one and a half or two miles farther to Tecumseh or Adrian from Saline than by Macon, but we think Clinton with its 1,000 inhabitants will more than make up the difference of Macon with 150 or 200 people, besides Manchester is only seven miles from Clinton and is easy of access and will furnish many passengers. Mr. Rockwell's idea of keeping out of the highway and going through the farmers' fields or yards will meet with much opposition and would lead to more litigation than is met with along the highway.

C. F. Staebler, township clerk of Ann Arbor town, will be at the county treasurers office Saturday, Aug. 26, to receive woodchuck scalps and sparrow heads. 35-36

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

MAKES THEM BOTH PAY

Getting Her Street Lighting Free—Rates Charged Private Citizens.

The question of municipal ownership of water works, which when raised in Ann Arbor the other day seemed to meet the approval of public sentiment, is having a practical illustration in Chelsea. Chelsea owns her water works and her electric lights and President Staffan and Secretary McEwen when seen by an Argus staff correspondent stated that the revenue from private consumers of water and electricity paid for all running expenses, interest on the investment and furnished the village with its street lights free.

The village bought its plant of F. P. Glazier, who had established as a private corporation a water company and electric lighting plant. They paid $43,000 for the plants and it is said by some that they paid more than the physical value of the plant, part of the purchase price being for the franchise. Be this as it may, they at once had to buy a new boiler at an expense of $2,000 and also a new dynamo and make many extensions. The extensions and new machinery cost $10,000. Last year $1,500 was borrowed for extensions.

The labor employed consists of an electrician at $60 a month, an engineer and a fireman at $40 each. The electrician is also an engineer. About 50,000 gallons of water are pumped daily. Users of water are allowed to sprinkle their lawns from 5 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. A street wash costs $4.80 a year. This sprinkles a lawn and the streets. A hydrant costs $1.20 a year. This sprinkles the lawn and permits water to be used for domestic purposes. Water inside and outside a house is furnished for $9 a year. The question of water for bath rooms has not yet been raised.

The prices for electric lights are $5 a month for one arc light or $9 for two. Sixteen candle power incandescent lights are furnished stores at 50 cents a 16 candle power light a month. Lights in dwelling houses differ according to number and location. On the first floor the cost per month is 50 cents for one light, $1.45 for three, $1.65 for four, $1.85 for five, $2.54 for 10 and 10 cents for each additional light. On the second floor 25 cents for one light, 40 cents for two and 70 cents for five. A light in a cellar or barn costs 10 cents a month.

Wells are the source of the village water supply and the two plants are run together thus greatly economizing power. Yet the main expense is the fuel used, that greatly exceeding the labor in cost. While protesting that they paid a big price, village officials express their belief that village ownership of water works and electric lights is a success.

SALEM SOLDIERS REUNION

THE VETERANS ENJOYED A FINE TIME.

AND LISTENED TO MANY GOOD SPEECHES FROM VETERAN MEMBERS.

Last Saturday at the home of Comrade Butler on the base line in Salem occurred the annual reunion of the Salem Soldiers' Association. There were 31 old soldiers present with their wives and children, also many friends. There were at least 250 people in attendance.

The veterans began to arrive about 9 o'clock and from that time until noon the old boys told reminiscences of the comradeship, 35 to 38 years ago. The other people present were interested listeners to the tales of civil war experiences related by the old soldiers. Many of their stories would make interesting reading. The Salem brass band discoursed patriotic music throughout the entire morning social session.

Promptly a 12 o'clock the ladies announced dinner was ready, and such a dinner as they put up! Well, it simply left nothing else in the food line to be desired. Full justice was done by each and every one present. After dinner a program of music and literary entertainment was had. The afternoon exercises opened with music followed by prayer by the Rev. Coffin. President Geo. S. Wheeler presided and called on J. Q. A. Sessions, of Ann Arbor, for a speech. Comrade Sessions spoke of the mission of the United States and made the modest claim that it was destined eventually to include the whole earth, including the Philippines. The Salem choir sang a patriotic piece of music in a very pleasing manner after which Judge Newkirk was introduced. He spoke of his memories as a child, of war events, and the duty of every American to appreciate his government and the sacrifices that have been made for its maintenance. Although the civil war is now in the distant past it should not be forgotten. As Bunker Hill monument commemorated an important event in our history so the great principles of the civil conflict should be remembered, so that knowing what our liberties and institutions have cost their value may be the better appreciated.

The choir here sang again and then Rev. C. T. Allen was introduced. A large number of his company were residents of the vicinity. He was well received and his words greatly pleased his old comrades. The band then played "The Star Spangled Banner," after which W. K. Childs, of Ann Arbor was called for. He addressed his remarks to the ladies and pleased them as he always does. He jollied them on their good cooking, their good looks and assured them that none understood better than themselves how to entertain such a gathering.

An invitation was read from H. J. Pinckney, of Superior, for the association to meet at his home next August, 1900. It was accepted with alacrity. Then all joined in singing "America," with a will, after which social intercourse was renewed until the time arrived for saying adieu. All voted the meeting one of the most successful the association has had.

THE ORIGIN OF GERMAN DAY

Celebrated First German Settlers in Washtenaw.

WHO THE MEN WERE

And Why So Many Wuertembergers Settled in Washtenaw

Many unacquainted with the origin of the German American Day may not understand its object. Ten years ago the annual celebration was organized in Ann Arbor. It was meant to celebrate the first settlement of the Germans in Washtenaw county. It was to be a reunion of the descendants. In this connection it will be of interest to know that the first German family that settled in Ann Arbor was the late Henry Mann and wife, and their son Hon. Emanuel Mann and daughters and daughters Mrs. Frederick Schmid and Mrs. August Hutzler, the latter being the only surviving member of the family. This was in May 1830. The special cause of the large immigration of Wuertembergers to the county, was a letter that Heury Mann wrote to his uncle in Stuttgart, describing the country. This was published in that county's household paper called the Schwaebischen Mercur. From that time thousands of good sturdy, honest people left their homes for "Ann Arbor" the new El Dorado. That they made no mistake is best evidenced by their prosperous descendants. They settled not only in Washtenaw county but spread over the state. Two years before Mr. Mann came to Ann Arbor a young German by the name of Schilling settled in Scio. He is still living at Sebawaing, in Huron county. He came from Weinsberg, from which the name of the present post office is taken. Ann Arbor can well be called "Schwaebische Stadt" on account of the numerous descendants of the Schwaebians who are settled there.
