

THE ANN ARBOR HIGH SCHOOL

Commencement Exercises of a High Order

FINE ESSAYS & ORATIONS

Well Represented the Seventy Eight Graduates of the School.

The commencement exercises in the high school yesterday were opened by high school Wednesday were opened by after a selection from Fischer's orchestra, the superintendent, H. M. Sautson, introduced the first speaker, Arthur Clark Cole, whose subject was, "Recent Polar Explorations." Mr. Cole reviewed the work done by recent explorers, and praised the work of Nansen and Peary. He said the most successful polar expeditions were not those fitted out by governments, but by individuals. His remarks were ably delivered and well received.

The next speaker was Lydia Belle Norris, whose subject was, "American Humor." Miss Norris declared that the foremost American humorists, Mark Twain and Stockton, did more than make jokes; they were philosophers. The Dooley papers, though very funny, contain much wisdom, and have a large effect upon the thought of the nation. The speaker said that, despite man's declaration to the contrary, the American woman can see a joke as quickly as her brother. "She sees it as soon as he does, but it doesn't seem the funniest thing in the world to her."

Miss Louise Anna Mann followed with a well written essay entitled "We Want to Know." She enumerated some of the unsolved problems of today, and said that "one century brings forth enigmas, another endeavors to explain them." "Knowledge consists in knowing what no one else knows. In our desire to gain knowledge of the future we are tempted to visit sorcerers, phenologists, etc., but, the wisest thing to do is to take things as they come."

"Football Considered as a Fine Art," was the subject of Leo H. Darrow's essay, which proved to be one of the most interesting that was given. Mr. Darrow gave a history of football, and in a manner that had somewhat of irony in it. He tried to show that the game had developed into a fine art. "Who can imagine anything more artistic," said he, "than twenty-two men kicking and squirming after the skin of a slaughtered pig?"

"A Voice from the Past," was the subject of Miss Nellie MacNaughton's essay. It was a history of the progress of early races, and was told in the form of an idyll.

"The Other Fellow," was the title of an essay in which Victor Fitzpatrick took occasion to dwell upon human faults and weaknesses. It contained some very good ideas, and the appearance of such an essay is always timely.

Mildred M. Haire spoke on "Chivalry of the Twentieth Century." She said that although the old order of chivalry had passed away, "a truer, deeper chivalry has taken its place." It is now a chivalry of heart and soul, a bond of brotherhood and sisterhood. "Things to Remember and Things to Forget," was the title of Rosina Schenks essay. She said that although it is well to forget all unpleasant things, there is much to be remembered, especially in school life.

In "National Distinctions," Harold Wines showed wherein America is superior to other nations. His discourse showed him to be a patriotic American, and a student of political, social, and economic conditions of Europe and America.

Miss Mabel Wood was the last speaker, and in "School Spirit," she contended that students should not spend all their time in study, but should actively support all the school's interests. At the close of the exercises, J. W. Parry, president of the graduating class, presented to the school in behalf of his classmates, the class memorial, the picture of J. W. Montgomery, of the science department. It was accepted in behalf of the school by E. F. Mills, president of the school board. Then, after the class song had been sung, 75 diplomas were handed out to the members of the class of '03. After the presentation of diplomas benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Young.

ANOTHER SHOWER FOR JUNE BRIDE

A very pretty social function was given Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Katherine Connor, who is to be one of the June brides, by Miss Allie Sherk at her home on E. Kingsley street. It was a handkerchief shower and the dainty bits of linen were numerous and beautiful which were showered upon the prospective bride. The parlors were prettily decorated with roses and palms which were artistically arranged about the rooms. The dining room was decorated in myrtle and pink roses, the myrtle being festooned gracefully about the table. A tall vase filled with roses made a beautiful centerpiece. A dainty spread was served by the hostess and all drank to the happiness and health of the bride.

Eighteen young ladies were entertained very pleasantly during the evening with various games. A guessing contest furnished a good deal of amusement. The prizes were won by Miss Kowalski and Miss Cella Williams.

UNIVERSITY LOSES TWO GOOD MEN

Prof. Arthur Hall Goes to University of Illinois

Prof. Guthe Also Resigns

To Accept a Government Position at Washington with Increased Chances for His Investigations

Prof. Arthur Hall, who has been such a valuable assistant in the mathematics department of the University here, has received an appointment as assistant professor of mathematics in the University of Illinois.

Prof. Carl Guthe, who for a number of years has been assistant in the physical department, has been offered a government position which will be accepted by him. He will go to Washington as assistant physicist at the National Bureau of Standards. While the position does not afford a large increase in salary, it will give Prof. Guthe much more time for research work and study, a thing of which he is very desirous.

Prof. Guthe is a very brilliant young scientist and has made several valuable discoveries in the scientific world. This work will give him a chance to go farther into his work and the world will undoubtedly hear much of him within a few years.

U. OF M. GRADUATE MARRIED IN LANSING

A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday evening, June 10, at the home of Mrs. Carrie K. Stabler, 700 Pine street N., Lansing, when her daughter, Jessie Vena, and Dr. Austin R. Burdick, were united in marriage by Rev. W. A. Frye. After the rendering of the solo, "O Promise Me," by Mrs. Roy Moore, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Lydia Betz. The bridal party entered the parlors at 7:30, led by little Bessie Turner, niece of the groom, acting as flower girl. Then followed the maid of honor, Miss Genevieve Allen, formerly of Ann Arbor, and bridesmaid, Miss Henrietta Betz. Next came Master Rex Clark, bearing the ring in the petals of a white rose, and last the bride and groom.

The party took their places in front of a bank of palms, under an arch, in the center of which hung the wedding bell, where the ceremony took place.

After the ceremony congratulations were received and a dainty supper was served by Miss Alta Stabler, sister of the bride, Miss Flossie Waite and Miss Erna Brown.

The bride was very becomingly attired in white wash chiffon and carried white roses.

The bridesmaids were in white and carried pink carnations.

The flower girl and ring bearer were also in white.

The decorations in the parlors and dining room were pink and white.

The couple were the recipients of many beautiful as well as useful gifts.

The bride and groom are both well and favorably known here, Dr. Burdick being a member of the class of '02, and they both have the best wishes of a warm circle of friends.

The couple had made their plans well, but did not escape the vigilance of their friends, who after watching all trains outwitted and caught them at the Grand Trunk depot.

The happy couple left on the midnight train for Chicago, amid shouts and showers of rice and old shoes.

Dr. and Mrs. Burdick, after their return, will reside in Webberville for the present.

ST. THOMAS COMMENCEMENT

Held Wednesday Evening in the Parish Hall

THREE WERE GRADUATED

And Will Enter the University Next Year—A Fine Program Was Greatly Enjoyed

The commencement exercises of St. Thomas high school were held in the parish hall Wednesday at 8 o'clock before a large gathering of the friends of the institution. The stage was beautiful with palms, ferns and cut flowers, while the national colors were everywhere to be seen throughout the auditorium. The following program was carried out without a hitch:

Greeting.....Chorus
March—"Guest of Honor".....
.....St. Thomas Orchestra
"Pas des Cymbales".....Instrumental
"An Epoch Century".....
.....Jane Constance Clarken
Overture—"Poet and Peasant".....
.....Orchestra
"My Own United States".....Chorus
"Panama Canal".....Jennie Alice Garber
Selected.....Harp Solo
Overture.....Instrumental
"Lutspliel".....Violin Quartette
Address.....Rev. E. D. Kelly
Class Song.....

The playing of St. Thomas orchestra was exceedingly good, but especially so in the overture, "Poet and Peasant." The members are all good musicians and were very enthusiastically received. In the chorus "My Own United States," the work of the select voices was inspiring. An instrumental duet, two pianos, by Nellie Brown and Allie Tice, was most enjoyable and the popularity of the players noticeable. A second overture by the same players and Miss Somers and Miss St. James was given with spirit and finish. Miss May Clarken, who has been studying harp in Cincinnati for the past year, received a perfect ovation and was recalled for a second number, giving "Kathleen Mavourneen" for the encore. Her harp work was delightful and enjoyed by everyone.

There were three graduates in the classical department, two of whom read papers, Miss Jennie Clarken, a sister of the harpist, writing on the subject "An Epoch Century" and Jennie Graber, of Findlay, Ohio, writing on "The Panama Canal." The former discovered but four great educational epochs in the history of the world. The 16th century in Italy was one of these four, a period unsurpassed either for the profundity or universality of its culture. The dark ages that superficial history teachers tell about must exist in their own imaginations.

Miss Graber gave a history of the Panama canal up to its present time and predicted great advantages for peace, for war, for commerce, at its completion. Great continents are broken like wishbones, continued the speaker, and seas are joined together like the play pools of laughing children.

The commencement address was delivered by Fr. Kelly, who paid a good, strong tribute to the sisters who are engaged in the cause of education.

The graduates of the school will enter the University next year as the school is on the University diploma list.

Besides the honors conferred upon the graduates, several of the students in the Conservatory of Music were generously remembered.

TWO GRADUATES WERE MARRIED

A SOROSIS GIRL MARRIES A PHI KAPPA PSI

Pretty Wedding of Miss Verna Louise Harris to Clayton E. Crafts

Another beautiful June wedding took place last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William Butler Harris. At 6:30 o'clock the wedding party took their places in the beautifully decorated drawing room while the beautiful old wedding march was being played. The bride, Miss Verna Louise Harris, looked very beautiful, attired in a gown of white gauze over white satin, trimmed with Irish point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. A white veil fell in beautiful folds from her hair, which was done high, to the edge of her gown. The bridesmaid was Miss Margery Knowlton, well known in society circles of Ann Arbor. She was gowned in white pointe d'esprit over white taffeta and carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. The room was attended by Mr. Phil. G. Bartelme of Chicago. The decorations throughout were of pink and white against backgrounds of green.

Miss Harris was one of the most popular members of the class of '01. She was a member of the Collegiate Sorosis, as was also her bridesmaid. She was not only a great favorite with the sorority girls, but was lived by all the independent girls who knew her. Miss Harris was also a fine student besides being a social leader.

Mr. Harry Kent Crafts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Crafts, of Chicago. Mr. Crafts was also a graduate of the '01 literary class and was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. This year he took his law degree at Northwestern University, where he became a member of the Phi Delta Phi fraternity.

Only the immediate friends and relatives were present at the ceremony, about thirty in all, but a large reception was given at 7:30 o'clock, for which over two hundred invitations were issued.

Mr. and Mrs. Crafts will spend their summer in Canada. On their return they will make their home after Sept. 1, at 5433 Washington Boulevard, Austin Station, Chicago.

YOU MUST PAY FOR YOUR DOG

Council Decides to Enforce the Dog License

THE DOGS RESPONSIBLE

For the Enforcement of the Law as Lately They Have Been Biting People

When the license committee reported Monday night at the council meeting against giving the Maccabees the license fees on the occasion of their convention, Aug. 12, the whole subject of licenses was opened up. Dr. Hinsdale, speaking to the subject of dog licenses, said the state board of health was particularly strenuous at this time for the enforcement of the law as many cases of hydrophobia were reported in various sections of the state. The state law provided for the muzzling of all dogs and health officers were authorized to shoot dogs not muzzled. He thought the law and the city ordinances should be enforced, yet this was not done. He had a muzzle for his dog hanging up at home, but his dog was in the council chamber without a muzzle. He told of paying his dog license three years in succession and getting a 1901 tag each time and he thought he had paid enough for that 1901 license.

City Clerk Granger said he found no tags had been gotten out in 1902, but he had taken it upon himself to order a hundred for 1903. Few, however, paid the dog license and fewer the dog tax. Most of the draymen and hack men, he said, had paid their license. He thought the ordinances of the city should be strictly enforced and would be glad if the council would take some action on the matter.

Finally, after considerable discussion the city clerk and marshal were directed to strictly enforce the ordinances relative to licenses and muzzling of dogs. People, therefore, who have dogs they care anything for will do well to comply with the law both as to licenses and tax and muzzling. Several persons have been bitten in our city recently and for the reasons that the law has not been complied with. No one who is bitten by a dog has any good feeling over the matter and they cannot be expected to have. It is a serious matter and no one should be subjected to the danger of hydrophobia in order to give some worthless cur the freedom of running at large without a muzzle.

PRETTY SENIOR PROMENADE

BROUGHT OUT TOWN AND GOWN IN NUMBERS

The Chinese Lanterns Made a Scene from Fairy Land

The senior promenade is the one event of the college year where town and gown mingle indiscriminately. The one given Monday night by the senior class was a very successful affair. The people took advantage of the ideal night and turned out in crowds. There was a larger number of lanterns than usual, which added much to the brilliancy of the scene. The decorations of the various fraternity houses were particularly beautiful. The lanterns scattered about among the ivy on the Delta Kappa Epsilon house on S. State street was very striking.

From 8 to 11 o'clock crowds of people walked to and fro on the campus walks and gathered in groups on the grass.

Otto's band furnished the music for the occasion and was highly appreciated, judging from the continued crowd about the stand.

The revolution in Serbia resulting in the assassination of the king and queen and various of their relatives and members of the cabinet, while horrible in the contemplation may be said to be a natural result of the conduct of the royal debauchees and their surroundings. The actions of the king and queen have been such for years as to drive away from themselves the support of all decent people, and others, of course, cared nothing for them at best. There seems to be no regret among any of the people for the violent taking off of the reigning regime, and even those who never can approve of assassination, aside from their abhorrence of the deed, probably have little to regret in the change thus brought about. The new regime may be and probably will be, little if any better, but it can be worse. It is said that the new king set up by the army is a decent sort of a fellow, but he will be surrounded by murderers and assassins, those who are responsible for his elevation being the ones guilty of the violent taking off of King Alexander and the others. In the very nature of the case, Serbia being a sort of Balkan principal, along with several other buffer states, there can be little in the nature of settled conditions. These small states, were their people all that could be desired in character, would find it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to maintain a decent and orderly conduct of public affairs, because of the outside influences to which they are subject. Their independence is only quasi independence and even that is only a matter of sufferance, being maintained only because of the jealousy of the great nations which surround them. The people are little united and lack in large measure the patriotic spirit of cohesion and consequently are divided into cliques and factions ready at any time to be at the throats of each other. None of the governments which are set up have much regard for the rights of the people, and the affairs of these governments are conducted on a scale of cost rivaling those of the great nations surrounding them and the people are burdened with taxes almost beyond endurance and there is little or nothing to attach them to any regime. These peoples would be better off probably if they were attached to some one or more of the strong governments of Europe. This fate overtook Poland and because of similar causes to those which keep Serbia in a constant turmoil. Serbia and the other Balkan petty, quasi independent states have been the victims of invading armies for centuries and these experiences have left their indelible influences fixed upon them. And the Slavic peoples who constitute the bulk of the population appear to be incapable of uniting to main tain their rights and liberties. In many ways they are a very capable people, but lacking cohesion, they are a prey to the designs of jealous surrounding nations. And they seem destined to continue in the same path they have for centuries, or to absorption after the manner of Poland.

A BETTER WAY.

The American Society of Equity of Indianapolis has issued a bulletin to the farmers of the United States demanding an increase in the price of wheat, arguing that the minimum price of wheat should be $1 a bushel and urging the farmers not to sell for less than $1. The Society was organized a year ago, with that city as a national headquarters, to maintain higher prices for farm products by co-operation of the farmers of the country, and this is the first formal demand for increase in prices. The bulletin reasons that because of the low visible supply of wheat and the high cost of production, owing to high prices for most other commodities, $1 at Chicago is only an equitable price for wheat. It may be heresy, but it may be suggested to the Equity Society that there is another and easier and a more certain way for the farmers to accomplish the result aimed at, and it does not involve the risk and almost certain failure of attempting to imitate the manufacturing trusts. In the first place the price of wheat is fixed in Liverpool and not in Chicago, and if we ceased entirely to export the chances are that the price in Chicago would not go to one dollar. There are too many farmers and there are too widely scattered to form a trust, and even if they were not they are not protected by the tariff rates, as are the manufacturers. The latter can get together, form a trust and force the prices as high as the tariff wall at any time they choose. The farmers can do no such thing. The manufacturers have thus forced up the prices that the farmer must pay for manufactured goods an average of about 40 per cent since the Dingley tariff bill became a law. The prices of many articles, such as barbed wire, wire nails, tin plate, window glass, etc., have been forced up 100, 200 or 300 per cent in our markets, though sold at very low prices to foreigners.

If tariff duties on trusted products were taken off, manufactured goods which now sell for $1 would sell for 60 cents. The farmer could then buy as much with his bushel of wheat selling at 75 cents in Chicago as he would get if he could force the price of wheat up to $1 while paying the present high tariff on his goods. It is entirely feasible for the farmers, by voting for no tariff on trust goods, to reduce the cost of what they have to buy. It is not at all feasible for them to get together long enough to artificially raise the price of wheat 30 or 40 per cent. The farmers are the backbone of protection in this country, although, as a learning in this country, late Ben Butterworth—said in 1890: "The manufacturers and the trusts get the protection and the profits of the tariff; the farmer gets the husks and the humbug." How much longer will the farmer continue to buy republican gold bricks?

A FOOLISH STAND.

On Saturday the Chicago branch of the National Civic Federation made an effort, as the representatives of the public, to induce the joint committee of striking hotel and restaurant employees to accept arbitration and was prepared to offer John Mitchell as arbiter, but the committee contemptuously rejected the offer, declaring they would not arbitrate as long as there was any possible chance of winning without. The committee still demands that the employees must come to the committee severally and treat on an individual basis, that they, the committee, will have nothing to do with the employers' association.

Relative to this foolish stand the Chicago Record-Herald says: "This display of contempt for the right and for public sentiment may gratify the vanity of men who are drest in a little brief authority, but it is doing their cause a grievous injury. For the issue raised has resulted in a general indifference to the complaints concerning hours and wages and left the strikers isolated and condemned by their own folly."

The chief justice and Justice Harlan of the supreme court, in their dissenting opinion in the case of the Japanese tried for murder under Hawaiian law inconsistent with the constitution of the United States, used language quite as radical, if not more radical, than any used by Col. Bryan in the campaign of 1896. The decision undoubtedly deserved the radical language used by these two jurists. Judge Harlan denounced the decision as an attempt to nullify the bill of rights and convert the republic into a despotism. The decision practically holds that the will of congress is absolute in the territories, as absolute at least as the will of the English parliament. But the annexation resolution by which Hawaii was constituted a part of the United States provided that only the laws of Hawaii which were not in conflict with the constitution should remain in force. Taking therefore the extreme view of the majority that the constitution only goes into new territory when expressly extended by congress, it follows that Hawaii was not an integral part of the United States and not entitled to the benefits and immunities of the constitution even after congress had passed the annexation resolution. Chief Justice Fuller characterizes the decision of the majority as an usurpation by the majority of legislative power. He declares it was almost criminal for the court to tamper with the plain words of the annexation resolution which expressly says that only such Hawaiian laws shall be continued as are not in conflict with the federal constitution. The court, he says, had no right to make exceptions in supposed obedience to expediency and strain the act of congress. For the chief justice to characterize a decision of this court as "almost criminal" is to use language that would be considered almost sacrilegious in the avif there be not other way to stop these to the average citizen that the court makes decisions which warrant the use of such language by its own members who dissent.

SOCIETY'S INVESTMENT IN THE COLLEGE GRADUATE.

Dr. Wm. E. Barton of Oak Park, Chicago, speaking to the graduates, in a baccalaureate address, at Yankton College, South Dakota, used the following language as to the heavy investment of society in the education of the college graduate: "The educated man has been spared for four or five years from the ranks of the producers at a time when his friends and companions are doing something for society. He has been made the beneficiary of large endowments, and for his sake a body of picked men has been set apart to teach him a great many arts and sciences. He is a man for whom more is done than for any other man in modern life, and society has in store for him a judgment day if he does not render account for what he has received."

He said that only a third of the college graduates of Europe amounted to anything, but that that third ruled Europe. Here he thought there should be no waste at all among such graduates. He declared society would demand a reason for any failures among a body of men and women for whom society has done so much.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain seems to be in troubled waters with his little protection bark. Apparently he has only the return with him in his purpose to return England to the protectionist fold. The 41,000,000 Englishmen who would have to pay more for bread for the possible betterment of the foreign 12,000,000 descendants of Englishmen in the colonies, are up in arms against the proposal. It is true that Chamberlain has thrown out a very alluring bait in the form of a proposal for old age pensions for laboring men, but this would scarcely be a quid pro quo for all the people. It would be far better, however, than the conditions under which Americans are laboring. Americans have the highest protective tariff in the world for the benefit of the comparatively few very rich people who are directly advantaged thereby by being engaged in industries which bleed the whole of the people for that advantage, but an old age pension list for laborers would be bowled out of sight too quick, if such a proposal were made here. But the English people as a whole know the advantages of free trade to the whole people too well to be caught on any such hook as Chamberlain is now fishing with. At least that seems to be the outlook just now. It is thought that the rebuff given his plan may drive him from the cabinet, or cause him to resign. Of course the colonies of England do not export enough wheat to supply the needs of the mother country, but Mr. Chamberlain does not admit that a tariff would make bread any dearer. He uses the old thread-bare argument so often resorted to in this country that wages would be increased to the English laborer by such a tariff. But just how these two things could be true at the same time is not clear and probably is not to Chamberlain himself.

The confession of Mrs. McKnight that she murdered her brother, his wife and their innocent little child, together with the strong probability that she may be guilty of several other murders which have occurred in her family in the past few years, is so shocking and so horrible as to be almost beyond belief. It seems that there have been no indications about the woman to lead any one to think her a degenerate. In her confession she says the spirits of those she murdered returned to her and she felt that she was forgiven. That such traits are commingled in her would certainly indicate that she must be a degenerate. And so far as any purpose in these murders has developed, that purpose seems to have been avarice. It is probable that no one would have thought there was anything wrong about the deaths of the Murphy family but for the fact that Mrs. McKnight some time after the murder of her brother and his family recorded a mortgage against his property which had been clumsily raised from $200 to $600. Verily modern conditions and civilization develop mental freaks as well as physical.

Every day now adds to the unsavory mess that is being uncovered in the postoffice department. It is in all probability true that the free delivery bureau of the postoffice department was a huge machine used by the enemies of President Roosevelt to defeat his renomination to the presidency. It is even said that at least one United States senator and many members of congress were concerned in this machine. It is not altogether improbable that the connection of certain persons with this great conspiracy to down the president had to do with the sudden change about relative to the endorsement resolution in the Ohio republican state convention. Of course it would never do to have the names of the men at the top of this conspiracy connected with the same, but the connection could be used to make them eat crow all the same. It appears that Machen and Beavers had practically independent control of their offices and that Postmaster General Payne gave only nominal attention to their doings. And because of the favor of certain senators and representatives the men Machen and Beavers were able to put through any kind of an old contract that they desired. It seems also that this matter had been going on a year or more before anything was started in the way of an official investigation, that the postmaster general would not believe anything wrong and that nothing was done in the way of looking into the scandalous conditions until the president forced his hand.

The threatened storm in England over the proposed Chamberlain fiscal policy appears to have been averted for the present and the political life of the colonial secretary prolonged by the shrewdness, ability and generalship of Premier Balfour. The prime minister certainly handled a difficult situation with consummate tact and ability. The premier declared that he was still a free trader, but that he had an open mind on this great subject and he refused to speak the final word then on so important a subject relative to which time was making constant changes. He declared that there was no way, however, to know the thought of the country on the great issue except through his discussion. He refused to conform to a policy relative to which his own mind was open. He then stated the conditions which the empire had to meet, tariff walls erected against her by other nations, the growth of trusts and the desire of the colonies for closer relations. In fact he sidestepped in such impassioned way and so elegantly that he rehabilitated Chamberlain and laid the specter of cabinet defeat. Balfour was loudly cheered and the majority of the house is still with him and even Chamberlain can remain in the cabinet.

The probing into governmental matters at Washington continues and apparently wherever the probe is inserted and withdrawn a very bad odor follows. It is now stated that a clerk in the auditor's office of the District of Columbia has been found to have embezzled, it is said, $60,000 to $75,000. It is also said that bad smelling trails have now been traced to a confidential clerk of the postmaster general himself, one H. H. Rand. Payne is said to be standing by his confidential clerk as warmly as he formerly did by Machen. But it is likewise stated that President Roosevelt has put the matter to Payne in about this way, that either Rand must go or there will have to be a new postmaster general. Rand, it is claimed, has been very closely associated with Machen, Tyner, Miller and other unsavory persons, as per the investigations now going on. Apparently the only reason things have been running so smoothly in departmental service is because no one has taken the trouble heretofore to look around. There is little question but that governmental affairs in Washington are rotten and it is to be sincerely hoped that the President will follow up his statement that he will pursue every trail which smells of stealing and public plunder, no matter where it leads.

The legislature which has just adjourned passed a resolution to submit to the people the question of an entire revision of the constitution. This is an important matter, one that should be taken up and discussed pro and con. The people are generally very conservative about changing the basic law, but certainly there is need of changes in the present constitution of the state of Michigan. Means should be found to exclude from the legislature a large amount of the purely local legislation which now takes up so much of the time of that body. Provision should be incorporated into the basis law for the initiative and referendum. The people should have a more direct check on the legislature than they have at present and they should have the means of compelling that body to carry out the will of the people directly. Provision should be made for a salary for members for a session, or a specific limit to the length of the session during which the members shall receive pay. There are various other changes which ought to be made and which could be made to the advantage of the people.

The French senate has passed a bill cutting the term of military service to two years. It is thought this term will eventually be cut to one year. Under the empire the term of military service for Frenchmen was seven years. The republic began its progressive and humanitarian policy in this matter by lowering this term to five years. The second cut reduced it to three, and now it is to be reduced to two, with a reasonable certainty, it is claimed, of an ultimate cut to one year. Under the measure just passed by the French senate there are no exemptions, all must serve. But it may be seen from this change from seven years of military service to two years what the republic means to the French citizen. A saving of five of the best years of his life is a great gift to the French citizen at the hands of the republic. This cutting down of the term of military service, thus enabling the citizen to devote five more years of his life to the pursuits of peace, is not only a distinct gain to the citizen, but an equal subtraction from the sacrifices to the military spirit and a no inconsiderable gain for the policy of peace as opposed to war. The progress of the world in gentleness and peace as substitutes for ferocity and war is slow yet sufficiently marked to convince most observers that real progress is being made.

President Angell's word of warning to educated women relative to certain perils which threaten the so-called higher society circles is worthy of thoughtful consideration. He instanced the growing tendency among women to gamble and resort to the divorce courts and to remarry again with unseemly haste. In this connection he used the following language: "Certain customs which are rapidly gaining ground among women in what are called the higher social circles demand a vigorous effort on the part of intelligent and high-minded women to secure the elimination of the element of gambling from amusement and games, innocent in themselves. We have a right to expect from educated women pronounced condemnation of the rapidly growing practice, for which both sexes are guiltily responsible, of procuring under loose laws, laxly administered, divorces on trivial grounds or by collusion, and of contracting subsequent marriages with unseemly haste. In some quarters and in what calls itself our best society the renunciation of the solemn marriage vow on slight pretexts and the playing of games for stakes by women in private parlors are treated with a levity and publicly discussed with an indifference which recalls the declining days of the Roman empire. The purity of domestic life, the sanctity of the home, the very foundation of society are imperiled by these abuses. The educated and high-minded woman should by word and by example sound the alarm concerning them with no doubtful or hesitating voice."

It is said that President Roosevelt's campaign will not be managed next year by Senator Hanna, nor yet by Senator Quay. It is also said that it is the purpose of the president to have his campaign handled in a way that will lay all suspicion as to the use of money to buy voters and aid on the republican canvass improperly. If all this be true, it will be an interesting experiment. The Argus hopes it may prove to be fact and that the country may witness a national canvass conducted by the dominant party without the attendant enormous corruption fund that has been the prominent feature of the past several presidential campaigns.

The condemnation proceeding in the matter of the Henning property have fallen to the ground because of some technical flaws, it is said, in the preliminary steps taken by the city attorney under a preceding administration. This is no great surprise, but it may result in the dropping of the whole matter. It looks as though the same fate has already overtaken the "cat hole" affair.

 Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by A. E. Miss Barbara Stollsteimer Died in Scio
Who Were Searching for their Aunt, and Died before a Physician Arrived

Miss Barbara Stollsteimer, a daughter of John B. Stollsteimer, met a very sad death at her home in Scio Friday afternoon. While descending the cellar stairs she fell to the cellar bottom. All of the family except two little girls were out of the house and the children in searching for their aunt, found her lying unconscious on the cellar floor. The family were called and a physician was summoned, but life was extinct before he arrived. Coroner Watts did not consider an inquest necessary as the death was clearly due to an accident. The doctor thought her fall was due to an attack of apoplexy. Miss Stollsteimer was a sister of John Bretz and Chas. Zuern of this city.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs. The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty. If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone. If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle Home of Swamp-Root, by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DELIGHTED WITH PHILIPPINES

Judge E. F. Johnson, of Manila, with his family, arrived in the city Wednesday evening and they are meeting old friends. They are in excellent health and the climate of Manila seems to have agreed with them. In fact, Judge Johnson is very much pleased with the climate there and is greatly interested in his work. He says he has heard nothing of his appointment as one of the seven associate judges of the supreme court of the Philippines as announced in the papers yesterday, except what he has seen in the papers. The supreme court in the Philippines consists of four American and three Filipino judges. Judge Johnson's promotion will incidentally carry with it an increase of $1,500 in salary.

The Filipinos, according to Judge Johnson, are rapidly adapting themselves to American ideas. He says he is told by some of their leading men that there are more Filipinos now who speak English than at any one time spoke Spanish before. When Dewey sank the Spanish fleet there were no buildings outside of Manila exclusively devoted to schools. Now there is a school house in every village and the school children all learn the English language.

"The Filipinos," said the Judge, "are loyal Americans. What trouble is now caused is by bands of robbers or highwaymen, who possibly resemble the old Jesse James gangs in this country. In four years the Americans have established civil government in every province, while after 300 years of Spanish rule there were 31 provinces in which no civil government had been established."

Judge Johnson says that the Filipinos almost worship Governor Taft and that the governor has succeeded wonderfully well in his work. He tells about how the population of Manila turned out en masse when the news came that Gov. Taft was to leave the islands to accept a position on the U. S. Supreme Bench, under banners with such inscriptions as "We can't spare Gov. Taft."

There are 15,000 Americans in Manila outside of the 4,000 soldiers. In speaking of former Ann Arborites in Manila, Judge Johnson says that next to Gov. Taft, Dr. Bourne is probably the most popular American with the Filipinos. He has become wealthy dealing in lumber and it is supposed that he is worth at least half a million. His father and family are with him and are delighted with the climate and with Manila.

If the people were off the streets of Manila, you would hardly know that you were in a foreign city. The stores are just as they are here. Electric lines are being established, etc.

The Judge, in the course of a general conversation with friends in the Cook House last evening, speaking not for an interview, and we hope we are committing no breach of faith in quoting him in this article without asking his permission, described the court proceedings in the Philippines. He found the courts lumbered up with old cases. What struck him as the oddest was a case started in 1885, which was an appeal from the decision of the umpire in a cock fight, which was permitted under Filipino laws. The decision involved a $500 stake. The judge had the money paid into court and then told the parties that he was not versed in the rules of the cock-pit and hence was not prepared to do justice in the case, but with their consent he would turn the money over to the provincial treasury for the care of the blind. After much hesitation the parties consented and the news of the decision went all over the island. And since that time there have been no appeals from the umpires in cock fights to him.

He has had the hard duty of sentencing 37 criminals to execution. Not one of these has even asked a modification of the sentence. He has sentenced three Americans to 24 years imprisonment for embezzlement. The majority of the lawyers are Filipinos and they make good lawyers. In fact some of the best lawyers in Manila are Filipinos.

He brought with him a number of presents from the friends of the Filipinos who are here in school for them. He also has a number of things for the museum, including the saw of a sawfish, one of the largest he ever saw and a tail six feet long of the stingray, a fish which has a stinger under its tail. He also brought some of the native weapons.

The Judge will remain among his friends here for some time before returning to his duties in Manila.

THE WESLEYAN GUILD TO RAISE $150,000 FOR A BUILDING

The Wesleyan Guild is planning a campaign to raise $150,000 for a building and endowment, the building to be erected on the two lots the guild owns on the corner of State and Washington streets. A meeting of the trustees of the guild was held last week at which a full discussion took place as to the nature of the building that was needed, as to what rooms it was necessary to provide, etc. Mr. D. W. Springer was finally asked to formulate a rough plan of the proposed building, showing what rooms he thought desirable for amusements, such as bowling alleys.

Rev. Mr. Ninde offered to go over the state this summer in an effort to raise the needed money. While no action was taken this seemed to strike the trustees present very favorably.

The new building will be for the use of the Epworth League. It is greatly needed for the work of the Methodists among the large number of students belonging to that denomination in the city. There is no doubt that if the need is properly presented to the people, that the money for its erection can be raised and there is also no doubt that the trustees of the guild are now prepared to take hold of the work in earnest. The Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Baptists have now guild buildings and the Methodists have an opportunity to profit by the experience of the others in planning a building suited to their needs.

STARTED TO MEET HER LOVER BEFORE SHE GOT HER DIPLOMA

One of the large number of graduates of the University will not be on the platform to receive her diploma. About that time she desires to receive a marriage certificate, and has started on a long journey across the continent. Miss E. Olive MacNaughton, a member of the senior literary class started Friday morning for California to meet her lover, Mr. John P. Lucas. Miss MacNaughton is a well known Ann Arbor girl, a fine student and a popular member of her class. Mr. Lucas was a member of the '03 engineering class, but during the winter secured a fine position at his home in Ontario, California.

President Angell assured Miss MacNaughton that her diploma would be sent to her at commencement time. The couple will be married at Mr. Lucas' home on Miss MacNaughton's arrival. Their many friends and classmates join in wishing them much joy.

CHILDREN'S RECITAL AT FREIZE HALL

THE FIRST EVER GIVEN IN THE BUILDING

Unusual Amount of Talent for Young Pupils—The Program They Gave.

The first children's recital ever given in Frieze Memorial hall was given on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The pupils who took part were those of Miss Minnie Davis and Miss Elizabeth Campbell. They were assisted by Miss Bogle, alto, and Miss Wilson, soprano. The pupils ranged in age from eight to fifteen years and they exhibited an unusual amount of talent for such young pupils. The solo work was done entirely from memory, with but two exceptions. James Howell, who made such a success at the recital given on Wednesday evening, again pleased his audience greatly. The duet by the two youngest pupils, little Dorothy Wines and Margaret Jacobs, was generously applauded and these two little ladies played with a sangfroid which is rarely seen in older pupils.

The following program was given:

- 1 Italian Waltz, Hazel Ladd.
- 2 Barcarolle, Margaret Cooley.
- 3 Spanish Dance, Ethel Lewis.
- 4 Ever So Glad Waltz, Margaret Jacobs.
- 5 Charming Marguerites, Violets.
- 6 The Sweetest Flower, Miss Bogle.
- 7 The Hillside, -ae Brownies, Irene Bigalke.
- 8 At Evening, Water Sprites, Emma Esslinger.
- 9 Eventide, Skating, Louis Hall.
- 10 Pixies Sliding Down Hill, Marjorie Van Valkenburg.
- 11 Holly Hocks, Cornelia Campbell.
- 12 Curly Locks, Dorothy Wines.
- 13 Hide and Seek, Marionettes, Mary Haynes.
- 14 Evening Twilight, Rollin McNitt.
- 15 Lullabye, My Little Love, Under the Rose, Miss Wilson.
- 16 In the Cool Shade, Gertrude Patterson.
- 17 Gnomes' Revelry, Merry-go-round, James Howell.
- 18 Duets—Playing School, The First Rose, Hurrying to School, Dorothy Wines and Margaret Jacobs.

Of many odd things that are occasionally stolen, a family record is about the oddest. But that happened in Ann Arbor the other evening while Mrs. Elizabeth Sweet, of Felch street, was out of her house. The family record, which was more than usually complete, was framed and hanging on the wall. It was stolen and nothing else about the house was disturbed. The loss was not discovered until the following unsigned communication was found in the mail box: "Dear Madam—You no doubt feel

DR. ANGELL'S BACCALAUREATE

One of the Best Ever Delivered in University Hall

IN CAP AND GOWN

The Various Members of the Graduating Classes Appeared Last Evening

Sunday night, for the first time in the history of the University, the graduates of all departments appeared at the baccalaureate address in cap and gown. Every seat and all standing room was taken when President Angell arose to give his annual address to the graduating classes, which was given in the Free Press this morning nearly in full. President Angell showed how the life of Christ should be taken not only as an example for people in every walk of life, but especially for the student. He first considered the time element in the life of Christ. He said too many students take short cuts to knowledge and do away with systematic training. He next spoke of the untiring industry of Christ. "College students overrate the value of brilliancy and underrate industry." In the third place he showed that the same temptations come to the student to use his knowledge for an undue display of power as came to Christ. "The possession of great learning and great talent lays on one not diminished but added responsibility for the noble use of such gifts."

Fourthly, he spoke of Christ's search after truth. He pointed out that there not only should be no conflict between science and religion, but science should be an aid in finding the truth. He next spoke of the short duration of Christ's active life. He pointed out that the length of a man's life is not the important fact, but the use of it. The efficiency of prayer was next spoken of. "Many of those who maintain that prayer has no place in the physical domain, do not deny the possibility of its efficacy in the intellectual and spiritual domain."

He next spoke of the difficulties Christ had to overcome. Everyone is called upon to take part in a battle for righteousness' sake.

In conclusion he held up the manhood of Christ as worthy of emulation by every scholar. The young women and men were then told what their duties were as educated people. He pointed out to the women the grand work they might accomplish as teachers. He then spoke to the young women who would settle down at home. Their duty should be to make sweet the lives of those who had sacrificed so much for their education. He then spoke plainly to the young women in regard to certain social evils of our country which it was their duty as educated women to combat. Among these evils he spoke of the growing tendency of women to gamble. He then spoke of the divorce question and the unseemly haste with which marriages were contracted after divorce. The indifference, he pointed out, with which these questions were discussed recalled in a startling manner the closing days of the Roman empire, and that educated women alone can eradicate these evils.

He then pointed out to the young men their duty both in civic and industrial life, and that their education did not exempt them from mingling with their fellow men. But add to all you may learn from whatever source the great lesson taught by our Lord's teaching and example is that it is the humble, devoted, self-sacrificing life that is crowned with richest fruitage and the most blessed reward.

PROTECTS THE RIGHT OF WAY

The decree in the case of the Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar works against the Ann Arbor Railroad company absolutely prohibits the railroad from tearing up or removing the planking on the right of way of the Vinegar company over the railroad track or blocking up such right of way from First street. There is, however, a provision permitting the road to elevate its track at this point so as to carry the track over the right of way or from temporarily obstructing the right of way for not exceeding 60 days provided they furnish a way of ingress and egress during that time.

AND THIEF LEFT A LETTER

very bad about the loss of your record, but I have been watching several days for a chance to get it as that is my whole business to get family records and marriage and birth certificates as I get a good price for all I can get. You will very likely hear from this again some time and you will lose nothing by it in the end. I could find no one in your neighborhood so took the opportunity. This is such an exceptional large record it will be worth considerable to me. I just happened to see it as I passed your house one evening when your shades were up."

COBWEB PARTY AT MISS FERGUSON'S

A very delightful party and handkerchief shower was given Saturday evening in honor of Miss Helen George and Mr. Lloyd Gandy by Miss Mildred Ferguson at her home on Mary street. Miss Ferguson was assisted by Mrs. Harry C. Robinson. After presenting the gifts brought by the guests a guessing contest took place which represented a wedding among the flowers, each answer being the name of a flower. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Cowie and to Mr. Bennett of the medical department. Mrs. Cowie very gracefully asked permission to present her prize to the lady in whose honor the party was given. After awarding these prizes the guests were given numbers and each was requested to find the number on the ribbons which were woven into a net-work through the rooms, and to trace the ribbon to the end, to which was attached a souvenir, a gift from the hostess, the ladies having the blue ribbons and the gentlemen yellow. Very pretty souvenirs were the result of the search. The guests were then invited to the dining room, which was effectively decorated with smilax and flowers, and lighted only by candles with pink shades, the centerpiece being a large oval mirror which reflected the flowers and lighted candles, the whole effect being very artistic. A bountiful and delicious supper was served.

FINE PROGRAM AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A very unique Children's Day program was given at the Baptist church Sunday evening. The decorations were exceedingly appropriate to the occasion. The gentle plash of a miniature fountain and the twitter of birds among the flowers and palms produced a very pleasing effect. The greater part of the program was given by the primary class. They showed that they had been drilled very carefully by successful teachers. The two solos by Ruth Whitman and Lucille Galloway were particularly good. The little tots climbed to the platform with a fearlessness that older people sometimes lack.

"The Song of Solomon," a lyric idyl in five acts, was something new, but was a decided success. The part of the principal character in the play was taken by Miss Gertrude Palmer, who deserves great credit for the success of the undertaking.

THE MOST FATAL DISEASE.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the fact that it is so insidious it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent fatal developments if taken in time. "I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a speedy cure." Sold by Arthur E. Mumery.

CHILDREN'S PARTY AT GYMNASIUM

Mrs. F. Jordan should feel well satisfied at the result of her children's party. One hundred and ten invitations were sent out and one hundred little children responded by presenting themselves at the Barbour gymnasium at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The gymnasium was thrown open to them to do just as they pleased for three hours. Games of all sorts were played until they were seated at a long table in the basement, where a dainty lunch of berries, ice cream, candy and cakes was served. The children left at 5 o'clock to look forward eagerly to next year's entertainment.

ATTENDANCE

A large and applause-bestowing audience greeted the musicians last Friday at the recital of St. Thomas Conservatory. The stage was tastefully decorated with palms and cut flowers, giving an artistic setting to the musical program.

Miss St. James played the three beginning number with a delicacy of touch and rhythm remarkable in a player so young. She belongs to a musical family and it is not trite to say that there is a bright future before her in the musical world.

"Pas des Cymbales" was played by Miss Brown, first piano, and Miss Tice, second piano. Both performers are well known musicians of the city, the former one of the organists of St. Thomas church and the latter a member of Root's orchestra. They play with a dash and freedom which immediately arouses their audience. Miss Brown will graduate in pipe organ work next year.

Miss Somers, of Dearborn, next gave three selections, one the Italian Concerto from Bach, an Etude from Chopin and an Etude from MacDowell. Her playing betrayed some slight nervousness on the start, but she warmed into her work in the two etudes and gave evidence of fine execution and talent. Her interpretation in another and final number from Mendelssohn, the Capriccio in B Minor, the orchestral parts being taken by Miss St. James, was tasteful and sympathetic in both movements.

Miss Brown and Miss Tice gave a second duet, this one from Nivin, with an inspiring touch of musical skill.

The Conservatory has doubled its attendance in the last two years and is one of the most successful institutions in Ann Arbor. It is the oldest school of music in the city.

Hurt So Badly Was Nearly Crazy.

Had no Sleep—Could Hardly Lie Down.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Permanently Cured Me.

"A year ago I suffered from extreme nervous stomach trouble. I was afraid of everything, could not bear to hear singing or music and reading or hearing of a death nearly brought on my own. I could not sleep or hardly lie down, the back of my head hurt me so badly I nearly went crazy. My shoulders hurt and the least thing I did would bring on an attack of extreme nervousness. There were times when I would have a lump in my throat and my mouth would be so dry I could hardly speak. I was in despair until I began to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have taken in all twelve bottles and consider myself permanently cured. My home doctor has since remarked on my healthy appearance and said he wished he could say his medicine helped me. He knows it was Dr. Miles' Nervine. We are never without the Anti-Pain Pills and consider your medicines household remedies. I cannot say enough for the Nervine, because in addition to my own case my daughter, who was out of school for a long time because of St. Vitus' dance, was completely cured by eight bottles. She is now feeling fine and going to school every day. We thank you for your kindness and will never stop singing the praises of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine."—Mrs. C. E. Ring, Lima, O.

GOT HIS DOLLARS

Presentation Speech Made by Mayor Brown

TO EX-MAYOR COPELAND

The Two Gold Dollars Were Set in a Handsome Watch Fob

A pretty little ceremony, something new, which took place at the council meeting Monday, was the presentation by Mayor Brown to his predecessor, Dr. R. S. Copeland, his salary for the two years he served as mayor. As is generally known the salary of the mayor of Ann Arbor is one dollar a year and it has long been the custom to pay this in gold. Monday night's payment was in keeping with precedent. The mayor and ex-mayor came into the council chamber and took seats in front of the council. President Walz announced the mayor and recognized him as desiring to say a word. Mayor Brown arose and in a very clever little speech presented Dr. Copeland the two gold dollars in a beautiful gold setting suitably inscribed. The mayor spoke as follows:

Dr. Copeland, I have been requested by this Council to deliver to you, your salary for the two years that you so faithfully served this city as mayor.

By the terms of our city charter you were entitled to receive from our city treasury the sum of one dollar per year and in this little box which I am about to hand you, will be found two gold dollars. I do not wish you to infer that this sum represents in any degree, the value that this city government places upon your services, for I assure you that the members of this administration appreciate to the fullest extent the valuable services that you rendered to this city, and we freely acknowledge our deep obligation to you and to your administration for the very satisfactory condition in which we found all departments of this municipal government.

We also acknowledge our indebtedness to you for your many valuable suggestions as to permanent improvements made and that can be made here in the city such as the improvements along Allen's creek, the separation of grades and construction of parks, etc., and we hope that these can all be brought about in the near future so that the present generation may derive the benefit that is certain to accrue if the work that you so strenuously and fearlessly advocated in the face of stormy opposition is ever completed.

If the people of the city of Ann Arbor would awaken to the fact that this is truly a beautiful city and if some of those among us who are looked up to as our leading citizens, would cast aside for the time being, their selfishness and broaden out just a little, and become interested with the same spirit that prompted you in the performance of your duty as chief executive of this city, Ann Arbor would soon be setting the pace that all other cities would be glad to follow.

In behalf of this city, I am pleased to present this little box and its contents, which will always remind you of the two years of your life that you so faithfully labored, not only for those who appreciated your services, but for those who live simply for themselves and who are always willing to criticize.

The setting was in the form of a watch fob, with a gold dollar on either side. The head on the coin being outward on one side and the reverse side of the coin outward on the other. On one side of the medalion was the inscription "City of Ann Arbor to Royal S. Copeland," and on the other "Mayor 1901-2, 1902-3."

Ex-Mayor Copeland responded in a facetious and happy vein. He started out by telling some very "pat" stories which space forbids repeating here, said he was surprised that a democratic mayor should pay in gold. Nevertheless he had a full appreciation of the pay.

Finally, joking aside, Dr. Copeland proceeded to review the leading acts and aims of his administration. He said the times were somewhat strenuous during his term, but the best interests of the city were always the controlling factors of one and all connected with his administration, the intentions of all were honest. He started out, he declared, to befriend the laboring man first, but furnished business for 17 lawyers, and he had no doubt, through the excitement created furnished much practice to physicians as well. He alluded to the unfinished projects for public advantage and hoped and believed the present administration would carry forward and to completion these projects. He had no doubt that grade separation would be carried to completion. He believed the people still want the parks. He congratulated the new administration upon the progress it was making and especially upon the improvement of the city's streets. He was glad of his two years experience in public life but thought that was about all he cared to indulge.

Cypress Trees.

Cypress trees in parts of America are very long lived. By counting the concentric rings where they have been sawed through it has been estimated that 1,000 years is no uncommon period of growth with them.

ONE COULD USUALLY TELL BY THEIR FACES

Whether the Markings were High or Low—Scenes at High School Tuesday Morning

Had there been a physiognomist at the high school Tuesday morning when the students were given their markings he certainly would have been interested in the sight to be seen. The faces of the students wore different expressions, and it was easy enough to discern by them the story of success or failure. Some entered the building with firm step and bright face, seemingly sanguine of success, but left with unsteady gait and lustreless orbs. Others tottered into their various class rooms, but came out with beaming faces and lordly airs. But still others there were who didn't seem to care a pin about their work, and sauntered in and out their class rooms as leisurely and unconcerned as they would walk around the boulevard on a Sunday afternoon. Perhaps the thing which created more surprise was the low markings received by some of the most prominent seniors. The faces which emerged from the physics room looked serene, as a rule; but it is said that the genial Montgomery handed out more plucks and cons in chemistry than ever before. Miss O'Brien could give out half a dozen 95's in English history, but in the other history classes the general average was not greatly above 85. Last February fourteen students entered Mr. Springer's commercial law class, but only three or four came out with flying colors. The course was a very hard one, and some of the students, to speak figuratively, were rather soft. In other classes the markings were mediocre.

LOVING TRIBUTE TO DR. VAUGHAN

In Commemoration of Twenty Five Year's Service

GIVEN A SYMPOSIUM

By Thirty-Two Medical Authorities of Articles on Original Research Prepared Especially for Occasion

The event of Wednesday was the celebration of the 25th anniversary of Dr. Victor C. Vaughan's doctorate and of his connection with the medical faculty of the University. The regents, the medical faculty, a number of distinguished alumni and the medical students in the city, assembled in the medical building to witness the surprise to Dr. Vaughan which came in the shape of a presentation to him of a volume of original articles on research work printed in commemoration of the occasion. The volume contained original articles by 32 of Dr. Vaughan's colleagues and co-workers during the 25 years of his work on the faculty and covers almost the entire range of medical research work and was dedicated to Dr. Vaughan not only to commemorate his long and valuable services to his alma mater, but also to American medicine in general.

President Angell presided at the gathering and in his usual unapproachable manner performed the pleasant duty of expressing the gratitude of the University and the alumni to Dr. Vaughan and the recognition of his great services, and the brilliant scientific discoveries he has made. Dr. Angell told of the difference in methods of instructions between now and 25 years ago and of the development of work in the laboratories.

Dr. Prescott made the presentation speech. He spoke of a quarter of a century as a period in the life time of a man, in the progress of the University and the advancement of science and of the book as a symposium by 32 doctors, men who are authorities on their subjects, a tribute of honor which belonged to Dr. Vaughan by virtue of his history, a rendering to him what he deserves, a tribute for faithful service to science, to the University and to the cause of medical education.

Dr. Vaughan was deeply affected. He feelingly expressed his gratitude, paid a tribute to Dr. Angell and said that a few years ago when it became necessary, on account of deaths, to reorganize the medical faculty, the regents had enabled him to select what he regarded as the best medical faculty in the United States. It had been an inspiration to him to work with his colleagues and of all the research work he had done he thought the best was in the selection of a faculty every member of which was the best in his specialty. He paid a tribute to the students and alumni and said it had been an honor to have been associated as teacher with some of the greatest scientific men in the country, men who would have been great no matter whom their teachers. He paid a loving tribute to Dr. Prescott from whom he had received his inspiration for scientific work. He regarded the gift as a tribute of love and respect more than of honor. In its pages he expected to find inspiration for work, comfort for hours of rest.

beginning of the eighteenth century the means of travel were the same as in the days of Abraham. It was not until experimental investigation that the world began to grow and develop and in the last century progress had been greater than in all previous centuries. He paid tribute to the scientific research of the German universities and said that in some universities it did not find congenial atmosphere. He said the state had the right for the very best knowledge possible. He concluded by saying that his heart was always much greater than his tongue and overflowed with feelings his poor tongue could not express.

DR. TAFT TO BE PROF. EMERITUS

Settlement of Trouble in Dental Faculty

DRS. WATLING & BRIGGS

Have Sent In Their Resignations—An Effort Will be Made to Keep Up the High Standard of Dental Department

The troubles in the dental faculty have been settled by the board of regents. The protest of the alumni against the dismissal of Dr. Taft, who had faithfully served the University for 25 years, was listened to and it was a great tribute to Dr. Taft. The regents made Dr. Taft a professor emeritus, greatly lightened his work and gave him a slightly reduced salary. Dr. Watling's resignation was allowed to stand and Dr. Briggs' resignation was received. Considerable feeling was expressed in reference to Dr. Briggs by the alumni and it was on this account that his resignation was received.

In all probability a new dean will be selected at once for the dental faculty and the regents will undoubtedly devote considerable attention to building up the dental department, which has long been regarded as one of the best in the country. Dr. Watling's resignation will be greatly regretted by his former students, who hold him in such high regard.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS DAY

Celebrated in High School Hall Monday

BANQUET AT WHITMORE

The Junior Class President Carried Off Honors at the Banquet

Class day exercises were held in high school hall Monday at 2:30. The seniors did not manifest the enthusiasm that is often exhibited on such occasions, and had it not been for the juniors in the gallery they might have fallen asleep. The program was an interesting one, and consisted in an address by President Parry; class poem, Boyce Shutz; essay, "Twentieth Century Ideals," Arthur Cole; oration, "The Influence of Literature," C. W. Gust; class prophecy, Elsie Eberbach.

The senior banquet at Whitmore Lake was largely attended, 75 dinners being served in all. Half a dozen toasts were given, but William Belknap, president of the junior class, whose subject was "The Class of '04," deserved and received the loudest applause. His speech sparkled with wit, and proved that his ability as an athlete is eclipsed by his literary genius. Following is a list of subjects and speakers: "The Class of '03," L. D. Wines; "The Class of '04," William K. Belknap; "The Faculty," Miss Mildred Haire; "Athletics," Henry George; "Our Jolly Times," Miss Eleanor Hutzel; "Our Literary Achievements," Lawrence Todd.

The Argus-Democrat has news from all over the county. $1 per year.

Heppnes, Ore., June 18.—Seven bodies of flood victims were taken from a pile of debris Wednesday. Of the seven, one is a Chinaman and one a woman about 30 years of age, unidentified. Two hundred people, many of them women with children, asked for permission to sleep on the floors of the Catholic church, the courthouse and the schoolhouse during Tuesday night. The officers granted permission, but were surprised at the repetition of the request made Monday night. It is not destitution but fear that causes the inhabitants to quake with apprehension whenever a cloud hovers over the canyons above the town.

Many men declare that they will never live in the town again and are imploring their families to desert the place. Despite the endeavor to calm the prevalent hysteria, the people generally are under the spell of horror, and business has been abandoned. An official estimate shows sixty people missing and undoubtedly lost. This is in addition to about 130 bodies already recovered, making a total death list of nearly 200.

SHOULD WORK PROCEED?

Completing of Warships Involves a Legal Question. Washington, June 18.—Secretary Moody had a conference at the department of justice Wednesday with Attorney Knox as to the right of the government to proceed with work upon its war vessels regardless of the interference of any courts, and even at the expense of calling in federal troops to insure the continuance of the work. The case in point is that of the cruiser Galveston, at the shipyard of the W. R. Trigg Shipbuilding company of Richmond, Va., whose contract for the vessel the government declared forfeited on May 14 last, because of the insolvency of the company. The principle involved is regarded as vitally important to the navy. The attorney-general will not render his opinion for several days.

The supply creditors of the W. R. Trigg company have notified the government of their intention to appeal to the state courts of Virginia for an injunction stopping further work by the government upon the Galveston, which it was intended should be launched next Monday. Rear Admiral Bowles, chief constructor of the navy, has advanced the contention that no court has a right to interfere with work upon a government warship.

NO MOVE JUST NOW.

President Thinks Jewish-Russian Affair Has Been Well Covered.

Washington, June 18.—Following the appearance here of the executive council of the Bnai Brith, a number of other Jewish organizations have addressed themselves to the president and Secretary Hay, requesting hearings on the status of the Jews in Russia.

The president, however, after discussing the matter with Secretary Hay has come to the conclusion that the ground was completely covered at last Monday's conference. That he has nothing more to say on the subject at this time and consequently that no useful purpose would be served by additional hearing. Secretary Hay has been charged to make such a reply to the Jewish organizations.

The petition prepared by the council of Bnai Brith has not yet been forwarded to the Russian government. This cannot be done officially, and it may be that the publicity given to the petition will be regarded as sufficient to meet the needs of the case.

Won the Kaiser Prize.

Baltimore, June 18.—The Kaiser prize, for which several singing societies attending the thirtieth saengerfest of the Northwestern Saengerbund contested, was won by the Junger Maennerchor of Philadelphia. The Arions of Brooklyn, the present holder of the prize, were a close second. The contest for the Mendelssohn bust, for city organizations with more than 200 singers, was won by the United Singers of Newark, N. J., with 59 points.

Great Musical Festival.

St. Louis, June 18.—One of the greatest festivals of music in the history of the country was inaugurated last night in the Liberal Arts building at the World's Fair grounds, when 15,000 spectators listened to the opening concert of the thirty-first national saengerfest, under the auspices of the North American Saengerbund. The opening program included famous vocal soloists, a mixed chorus of 6,000 voices and one of the largest orchestras ever assembled in America.

Tucker Post, and Jerry Smith, the last named having performed a similar duty at the White House for over a generation.

ALUMNI BANQUET

Largest Gathering in History of the Association

MANY ALUMNI PRESENT

From Out of Town—Carl Braun Re-elected a Director—Loving References to Old Teachers

The High School Alumni Association held the largest and most brilliant banquet in the history of its organization, in High School hall Tuesday evening.

The chapel hall was gayly decorated with bunting in the colors of the school—crimson and maize. A large high school banner in the athletic colors, purple and white, was suspended from the south wall, while the platform was decorated in green and white.

Four long tables were spread in the centre of the floor and about one hundred and sixty guests were seated to enjoy a delicious menu.

Miss Alice Porter, president of the association, called the guests to order and after the divine blessing had been asked by Rev. L. P. Jocelyn, a short business session was held and the minutes of the last meeting were read and the report of the treasurer was also read, after which Mr. Carl Braun was re-elected to the Board of Directors.

In the absence of Judge McAlvay, who was expected to preside as toastmaster, Mr. O. C. Seeley, '75, of Detroit, was called upon to fill his place. He responded most pleasingly and made many a happy hit with his quiet humor.

Mrs. Jas. Kerr put the guests in a happy frame of mind by singing two beautiful selections, "Violets," and "Springtime." She was heartily encored and responded with another very pretty number.

Wm. Olcott, '79, of Duluth, Minn., was called upon for a speech. Mr. Olcott was one of the early athletes of high school and college and he told in a particularly interesting manner of the athletic sports at that time. He was the means of starting the first gymnasium in connection with the school. It was situated on the third floor over a store down town. Mr. Olcott was at one time manager of the U. of M. base ball team.

He urged the students of this year's graduating class to secure a good preparatory course before taking up any of the technical courses and work in the world. A man can not cope in the business world with the practical man unless he has a practical education. He it is who reaches success.

Mrs. Covill, '82, of Lynne, Mass., was next called upon for a toast and she told in a most facetious manner of some of the adventures of her class.

Dr. Solomon Eisenstaet, '84, of Chicago, next made a pleasant little speech and congratulated the class of '03 in having so excellent a preparatory course as this high school gives.

Miss Effie Danforth, '93, who is teaching in the Ely School for girls, related some amusing incidents in class work when she was a student here and told of her work in the school where she now teaches.

Wm. Parry, president of the '03 class, made a brilliant speech and told of the class spirit which had been so prevalent in their class throughout its course.

Miss Lucy Chapin, corresponding secretary, was called upon and she told of the alumni who had sent greetings from every quarter of the globe. A letter from Dr. Brown, well remembered as "Happy Brown," was read.

It was a notable fact that as each response was made that reference was made in a loving and respectful way to Prof. Pattengill and Perry, who have such a warm corner in the heart of every alumnus.

The program was ended by Mrs. Kerr, who sang "Auld Lang Syne," the company all joining in the last verse. After the banquet was ended the tables were cleared away and dancing was enjoyed. Root's orchestra furnished a program of music during the banquet and for the dancing.

An unusually large number of out-of-town alumni were present and everyone enjoyed renewing old friendships and relating anecdotes and escapades of their high school days.

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake Is Made by Many Ann Arbor Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache.

To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

An Ann Arbor resident tells you now this can be done.

Mrs. Lawrence O'Toole, of 1825 Hill street, says: "The pains across my back were almost constant, and were so severe at times that I was often obliged to rest my back against the wall before I could straighten. I could hardly rest in any position, and was as tired in the morning as the night before. I could not stoop to pick anything off the ground, and was, generally speaking, used up. The kidney secretions deposited a heavy sediment and were too frequent, greatly disturbing my rest at night. I was bothered much with headaches and spells of dizziness, wore plasters until I was tired of them, and took a lot of medicine, but it did me no good. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I felt confident they would help me, and I got a box at Eberbach & Son's drug store. They did at once, and in a short time thoroughly cured me."

RECEPTION BY MRS. C. S. MILLEN

One of the prettiest of social functions for the month of June was the reception given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Chas. Millen at her residence on Lawrence street.

In the dining room a profusion of green vines gave it an almost sylvan appearance. The dining table was daintily spread and a mammoth bouquet of pink peonies made an attractive centerpiece and provided a welcome bit of color to the room.

Mrs. Cornwell and Mrs. Burr served at either end of the table. Mrs. Cornwell looked charming in a pink gown which matched the flowers in the room. Mrs. Burr wore a beautiful gown of red, which harmonized beautifully.

Mrs. Millen was assisted in receiving her numerous guests during the reception hours by Miss Robinson. Mrs. Millen will give another reception on June 29.

THE YEAR JUST CLOSED A VERY SUCCESSFUL ONE

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

In Competition With Other High Schools—The Promise for Next Year is Rosy

The year just closed has been a very successful one for the Ann Arbor high school. In every way she has shown her supremacy, and the statement that we have now the leading high school in Michigan is no idle supposition, it is fact. We have a highly paid and efficient faculty; our text books are of the latest and best; our laboratories are stocked with the most modern apparatus; the students are hard, earnest workers, and we are fortunate in having a principal whose highest interests are the schools, whose efforts to make the Ann Arbor high school first in everything are untiring, who possesses qualities that endear him to the students and make his life an inspiration to all.

But the fame of the school does not rest entirely upon the work done in class-room and laboratory, nor yet upon the excellence of the teachers. The records that have been made in athletics and literary work are such that no student can look back upon them and feel anything but pride. To recount them all would be a long yet pleasant story to tell.

The football team was the first agency to spread the fame of the school. It won victory after victory, and Marshall, Ypsilanti, Detroit Western, Mt. Clemens, Charlotte and Alma high schools went down before its awful onslaughts. At last everything in the lower peninsula of Michigan save Benton Harbor, had been vanquished. The first game with that school was played on the Benton Harbor grounds, and resulted in a tie, 0-0. Everyone was confident that our school would win on the Saturday following, when the game was to be re-played on Ferry Field. But Pfeifle and Butler, two of Ann Arbor's best players, were protested on the eve of battle, and without them the home team was defeated by a score of 10-6. Thus it was that Ann Arbor did not win the championship, although its record was an enviable one.

The element of bad luck seemed to be present also with the track team, notwithstanding its good record. At the indoor inter-scholastic track meet in Waterman gymnasium last winter, Ann Arbor won second place, being defeated by Detroit University school. At the Michigan inter-scholastic meet at Albion, May 16, Ann Arbor won by a great number of points. The inter-scholastic on Ferry Field occurred a week later, and it was hoped that our school would carry off first honors. But the Lewis Institute, of Chicago, which does not belong in the category of high schools, and the University School of Detroit, were pitted against Ann Arbor. Our team was further handicapped by the loss of Warren, the champion long-distance runner of the school. Yet Ann Arbor made a fine showing, winning out over all other schools but the two above mentioned.

The baseball record was also good, and until the final game the team remained undefeated. Cleary Business college, of Ypsilanti, successful elsewhere, was defeated, as well as other large schools. Ann Arbor high school also won the class series in the University, securing the final game handily by a score of 15-0, and earning sweaters from the U. of M. Athletic association. The last game of the season resulted in a defeat for Ann Arbor at the hands of Howell high school, the score being 4-2. But the Howell boys refused to play another game, acknowledging their inferiority.

The standard of literary excellence has been well maintained, and this has been due in large measure to the work of the Clenadeum, the school's literary society. The influence of the Clenadeum can hardly be overestimated, and its members have been leaders in the school during the year. Last year the Clenadeum debated with Detroit Central House of Representatives, and won. There were no debates this year, but H. A. McNitt, a member of the society, represented the school in the Peninsular Oratorical league contest, at Pontiac. Seven leading schools of the lower peninsula were represented, but McNitt won by a large number of points. S. W. Crane, of West Saginaw, who represented his school in another league contest last year and carried off all the honors, this year found Ann Arbor a different proposition, and could secure only a poor second. Our great success along this line has led many to believe that there were several others in the school who could have won, and had either Howard, Todd or Parry represented Ann Arbor, the result would probably have been the same. There is no denying that this efficiency is largely due to the training gotten in the Clenadeum.

Another factor in the upbuilding of the student is the Christian association, the oldest organization in the school. Its weekly meetings have proved of great value to the students, and its frequent socials have drawn the young men and women into a closer fellowship.

PRETTY WEDDING IN PITTSFIELD

MISS LENA FRYE AND MR. CHAS. F. BROWN

They Will Reside at the Corner of Fourth and Summit Sts. in This City

A very pretty home wedding occurred Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Frye, in Pittsfield, when their daughter, Tena Frye, was united in marriage with Mr. Charles F. Brown, of Saline.

The wedding party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Miss Ehnis, and took their places under an arch of evergreen and roses, where Rev. Mr. Ehnis, of Plymouth, performed the impressive marriage ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Lizzie Redlen, of Detroit, and Christian Brown, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The bride wore a very pretty gown of green foulard and the bridesmaid wore rose colored foulard.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to about fifty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will go to housekeeping at the corner of Summit and Fourth streets.

STREET ROLLER FOR LIGHTER ONE

Eight aldermen and President Walz responded to roll call when the gavel fell at Monday night's council meeting and Aldermen Schumacher and Grose soon joined this number.

Mayor Brown sent in the following message:

To the Common Council of the City of Ann Arbor:

Gentlemen—At the request of Mr. Charles Balrd, Graduate Director of Michigan Athletic Association, I desire to appoint John B. Slater patrolman without pay, to serve upon the Athletic Field.

I wish also to call your attention to the large amount of damage that is done to our crosswalks and pavements and fixtures in the street by our large street roller. I believe that if this roller was exchanged for one that is not more than one-half as heavy, that the city would be able to derive a large benefit from the use of such a roller, and would recommend that the question of exchange be referred to Alderman Hutzel, Chairman of the Street Committee, who has had a large experience in the purchase of this class of articles, to see if an exchange can not be effected that will be beneficial to the City.

I also wish to call your attention to the stone crusher, which has long been a useless piece of furniture to the City, and would recommend that this be referred to the Board of Public Works or to the street committee to be sold for what it will bring for old iron unless they can be fortunate enough to find somebody who has a use for it.

I will also inclose herewith a communication this day received from Mr. M. J. Fritz in reference to the purchase of his property for the purpose of diverting First street in accordance with the franchise heretofore passed by the Common Council. I am of the opinion that the litigation which has been going on for some time in the courts in reference to this matter will soon be settled; and that if First street is to be diverted in accordance with the said franchise, then the title to this property will have to be acquired and would recommend that this communication be filed with the proceedings in reference to said matter.

Yours truly,
ARTHUR BROWN,
Mayor.

Hon. Arthur Brown, Mayor:

Dear Sir—In accordance with your request I herewith beg to submit for your consideration price for (66) sixty-six feet of land in width along the westerly line of the Ann Arbor Ry. Co.'s right of way and running parallel thereto from south line of Liberty street to First street south, as shown by your engineer's drawings for diverting First street to the west side of the railroad and passing through the house now occupied by us, according to my best judgment I would fix the sum at $3500 (thirty-five hundred dollars). I am at loss to give you date at which we could give possession, as we would be compelled to build or purchase another home, but this and other minor considerations could no doubt be arranged to our mutual satisfaction, if we can come to an understanding as to value of the property. Our price for the entire property is $5,500 (fifty-five hundred dollars), although we did not desire to sell it.

Respectfully yours,
M. J. FRITZ.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 15, 1903.

In the discussion which followed it was brought out that the street roller has been rented to Lenane Bros., and is being used in their work on Liberty street at a rental of 50 cents an hour. Ald. Hutzel thought this was not enough and did not believe it was wise to rent such high priced machines to anyone. He believed the roller should be placed in a shed and cleaned up and put in condition to be sold or exchanged for a lighter roller, better adapted to the needs of the city.

He finally offered a resolution that the roller be placed in the shed back of the engine house and this was carried.

An invitation was received and accepted from the secretary of the Michigan League of Municipalities inviting the members of the city administration to attend the meeting of the league in the city of Adrian this week.

A communication from Alderman Schlenker was read requesting that the petition relative to the removal of the Dean & Co. oil and gasoline tanks be recommitted to the ordinance committee, the fire commissioners and the chief of the fire department, with instructions to render report. The alderman's communication was accompanied with the ordinance of the city of Detroit relating to the location of tanks for the storage of inflammable oils, and also a digest of the Cleveland ordinance relative to the same subject.

Ald. Hutzel moved that the communication and accompanying documents be referred to the ordinance committee, the fire commissioners and the chief of the fire department with instructions to prepare an ordinance.

Ald. Fischer thought as this subject had already been under consideration by the ordinance committee and they had been informed by the city attorney that an ordinance could not be made to reach the case of Dean & Co., there was no purpose to be gained in again referring the matter.

Ald. Hutzel said the purpose of this motion was to pass an ordinance to fix and control the location of such plants in the future. The communication was thereupon referred as stated above.

A communication was read signed by Mrs. M. Wallace and others, asking the city to make good some bad tar walks which had been constructed some time ago by lots No. 501, 503 and 509 on Fountain street.

Dean Seabolt asked permission to erect an iron staircase on the north side of the opera house.

Petitions were read and referred to the proper committees asking for a tar walk on the west side of Seventh street and on the north side of Kransue street; and for an electric light at the corner of Hiscock and Brook streets and on the corner of Miller avenue and Seventh street.

The petition relative to replating portions of Fairview cemetery, filling up and seeding the gravel walks and painting the fence, was taken from the table and after discussion referred to the board of public works and city engineer for estimates of cost.

The report of the finance committee, including bills amounting to nearly $900 was read, approved and warrants ordered drawn for same.

City Attorney Kearney, to whom was referred the report of the city physician relative to the selling of cocaine by certain druggists to colored cocaine fiends, made a report as to the law relative to such sales. He said there appeared to be nothing in the Michigan law to stop this sale. The law required a proper record to be kept of such sales and that the packages or bottles be labeled "poison" and that the abel also carry an antidote for such poison, and as long as these conditions were complied with nothing more could be done.

The city treasurer made an exhaustive report concerning unpaid lateral sewer taxes and unpaid paving taxes. In furtherance of the recommendations of the report Ald. Douglas offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the common council hereby certifies to the city assessor that there is now due and unpaid lateral sewer taxes to the amount of $60,32 in District No. 8, and $309.83 in District No. 9, and $218.88 in District No. 10; and there is now due and unpaid paving taxes to the amount of $381.85 in District No. 3, and $998.50 in District No. 4, and $788.60 in District No. 5, and $149.90 in District No. 6, according to detailed report of unpaid sewer and paving taxes, which is hereby made a part of this certification, and that the City Assessor is hereby directed to spread the same upon his rolls along with the other city taxes pursuant to law.

The city engineer submitted his report of the estimated cost of constructing a lateral sewer in District No. 12. The total cost he estimated at $1,826.60, of which sum the city should pay $177.87 and the property concerned the balance.

Resolutions were offered and referred providing for the appointment of a pound-master, the construction of a brick walk on State street on the Southwest side of Packard, for the placing of an electric light on Greenwood avenue midway between E. University and Packard, that a fire hydrant be placed on Oakland avenue, on a line between the property of W. H. Butler and the Nu Sigma Nu house.

PNEUMONIA MORE FATAL THAN CONSUMPTION.

It is not generally known that more people die from pneumonia than consumption. This is because every one young or old is susceptible to its attacks after exposure. J. W. The result was magical and puzzled the doctor as it immediately stopped the racking cough and he quickly recovered." Refuse substitutes. Sold by Arthur E. Mummy.

Three spectres that threaten baby's life. Cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry never fails to conquer them.

who is suffering from malnutrition is like the fettered swimmer. His stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased.

It is not a question with him of winning in the race for business but of simply keeping up under any circumstances. Whenever disease affects the stomach it is affecting also the blood and the health of every organ of the body. For blood is only food converted into nutrition and nutrition is the life of the body and every organ of it.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and enables the perfect nutrition of the body which means perfect health.

"For six long years I suffered with indigestion and my liver and kidneys, which baffled the best doctors in our country," writes E. L. Kessel, Esq., of Woolley, Prince William Co., Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time, and after taking a 'cart-load' of medicine from three doctors I grew so bad I could hardly do a day's work. I would have death-like pains in the side, and blind spells. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Before I had taken half of the second bottle I began to feel relieved. I got six more bottles, and used them, and am happy to say I owe my life to Dr. Pierce."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

ADVOCATED BEFORE THE COUNCIL

The subject which elicited the most interest and discussion at Monday's council meeting was the report of Dr. Hinsdale for the health committee of the council on the subject of a detention hospital. The report in full is as follows:

To the Honorable the Council of the City of Ann Arbor:

Gentlemen—The committee to whom was referred the matter of a detention hospital beg to make the following report:

Two or three conferences have been held by your committee, jointly, with several members of the medical profession of the city. The opinion expressed by those who attended the conferences is to the effect that a detention hospital is absolutely necessary and should be provided before another winter. The regents of the University have expressed a willingness to consider a proposition from the city looking towards mutual and joint accommodations. It is the opinion of your committee if the city will appropriate about ten thousand dollars for the purpose of making adequate, permanent and modern accommodations for such cases of small pox and other diseases dangerous to public health as may require isolation and quarantine, from time to time, that it will be a wise expenditure.

The demands for an isolation and detention hospital are so evident that argument in its favor is unnecessary.

It is recommended by your committee, therefore, that a formal proposition be made to the regents that the City of Ann Arbor will contribute $10,000 to building jointly with the University a hospital, upon grounds to be provided by the University, to cost not less than $20,000; provided the city be guaranteed in perpetuity, or so long as the hospital so built may stand, sufficient and adequate accommodations for such cases of infectious diseases as it may wish to place therein. The maintenance, service and equipment of the hospital to be provided by the University free of cost except the running expenses.

Very respectfully submitted,
GEO. H. FISCHER,
HENRY W. DOUGLAS,
Committee.
W. B. HINSDALE,
Health Officer.

June 15, 1903.

The recommendation of the committee that a proposition be made to the regents pledging the city to contribute $10,000 toward a joint detention hospital to cost at least $20,000 was earnestly discussed. It seemed to be the sentiment of all the aldermen who joined in the discussion that something should be done and that it would not meet the demands to simply put a few hundred dollars into a so-called pest house which at best would scarcely be a fit place for a patient to be taken to. Ald. Hutzel, while agreeing that a detention hospital was a much needed auxiliary to the public safety in time of contagious diseases was not clear as to where the money was to come from at this time to meet the city's share of the cost.

Dr. Hinsdale made an earnest plea for some definite action, saying that the regents would not listen to the committee until it had some definite proposition to present to the board. He declared that the county was paying half the sum named in the committee's report each year for the care of patients afflicted with contagious disease. But, he said, the cost was not the important point to be considered. The matter of cost ought not to stand in the way of protection to life and the proper guarantee of the safety of one and all from the danger of malignant communicable diseases.

He set forth the advantages of a partnership with the University in this project. The University, he said, had the ground on which such a building could be erected, it had sufficient heat to warm it without additional expense, light to light it, trained nurses to care for the patients and physicians to give needed medical treatment.

President Walz suggested that inasmuch as the bills for caring for patients afflicted with the before mentioned diseases were ultimately borne by the county, it might be well to invite the board of supervisors to participate in the project.

Ald. Grose thought this was scarcely feasible because patients could not be moved here from remote parts of the county.

Ald. Douglas said he was informed by physicians that it was entirely practicable to move patients.

After considerable farther discussion the matter was finally referred back to the committee with instructions to confer with the board of supervisors at its October meeting and secure the judgment of that body as to the practicability and desirability of uniting with the city in the furtherance of the proposition. This reference of the matter was made after the statement by Alderman Douglas that it was his understanding that the University had no money that it could put into a detention hospital this year, and as the city was in practically the same condition, such reference to enlist the assistance of the county was probably about all that could now be done.

atar and there the beautiful Episcopal service was read by Rev. Mr. Sunderland.

During the ceremony "Traumerel" was played softly on the organ and the triumphant tones of Mendelssohn's Wedding March sounded as a recessional.

Immediately after the wedding a small reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Haller, corner of S. Fifth avenue and Packard street, where the newly wedded pair received the congratulations of the relatives and their most intimate friends.

Dr. and Mrs. George received their guests in the library, which was banked with ferns and palms and vases, and beautifully illuminated with festoons of tiny electric lights in many colors.

A wedding supper was served to the guests, the bridal party being seated at a long table in the dining room, which was decorated with a centerpiece of roses and silver candelabra graced either end of the board.

The bride's favor to her maid of honor was the lace handkerchief carried by the bride. This gift was in conformity with a very pretty old custom. The favors to the bridesmaids were golf stick hat pins in silver, and that to the flower girl, a ring. The groom's favors to the best man and ushers were gold studs with pearl centers. His gift to the bride was a beautiful sunburst of pearls with diamond center.

Dr. and Mrs. George left on a late car for Detroit, getting away from the party awaiting them at the depot. They left on the boat today for a trip to Mackinac and other northern points. They will return in time to be present at the marriage of Miss Helen George and Lloyd Gandy next Thursday, after which time they will be at home at 301 S. Fourth avenue.

Miss Haller is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Haller and is very popular with the young people of the city.

Dr. George was graduated from the literary department of the U. of M. in 1896 and the medical department in 1899. He is assistant on the surgical staff at the University hospital. For the past two years he has acted as city physician. He has a large and lucrative practice and is considered a very brilliant member of his profession.

The popularity of both bride and groom was attested by the large number of presents which were received by them.

HALLER-GEORGE WEDDING

Celebrated in the Unitarian Church Last Week

RECEPTION AT THE HOUSE

Dr. Conrad George, Jr, and Miss Katharine Haller Were Happily Married

Under the soft light of candles falling on stately palms and nodding roses at the Unitarian church last Thursday evening, were united in marriage Miss Katharine Haller and Dr. Conrad George, Jr.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the friends of the bride. The wedding was a pink and white affair throughout. Behind the pulpit was a tall screen of white bunting and banked on either side were palms and ferns arranged with excellent effect. A great rope of green intertwined with pink roses was festooned from the oaken beams overhead and hung from this were two baskets of roses and green. Two silver candelabra bearing pink candles shed a soft light over the whole scene.

At promptly 8 o'clock Miss Marion Smith began the opening strains of the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus and the Treble Clef club preceding the bridal party came slowly down the aisle singing the Bridal Chorus. Following them came the ushers, Walter Haller, Henry George, Edson Sunderland and Oscar Eberbach, the bridesmaids, Misses Dorothy Krause of Grand Rapids, and Katherine George, beautifully gowned in white chiffon and carrying arm bouquets of pink carnations. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Chrissie Haller, sister of the bride, who wore a beautiful gown of white silk batiste, trimmed in chantilla laces and wearing a Victoria veil and carrying a bouquet of pink roses. She was followed by the little flower girl, Ruth Whitman, who was gowned in pink. She scattered roses on the path of the bride, who followed her.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. She was richly gowned in white satin grenadine, beautifully trimmed with a bertha of real duchess lace. Her veil was fastened gracefully to her high coiffeur. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl sunburst, the gift of the groom.

The groom with his best man, Mr. Lloyd Gandy, met the bride at the

The Doctor's Part In Race Suicide

By Dr. ROLAND G. CURTIN of Philadelphia

HAVE never heard any one who has given explanations of the question of "race suicide" speak of the PART THE DOCTOR TAKES IN THIS GREAT TRAGEDY.

By high fees he may increase the family expenses to such an extent as to plunge the young husband into debt. Where formerly in maternity cases the usual charges were from $10 to $25, they have advanced to as high as $250.

In the matter of nursing practice has changed. Formerly but little nursing was needed. Now it is necessary to have a trained nurse for weeks.

THE LARGEST NUMBER OF CHILDREN COMES FROM THE UNASSIMILATED FOREIGN POPULATION. Therefore it occurs to me that in thirty years the balance of political power will be in the hands of these children and not in those of the "strain" that has brought our country to its present position among nations.

Among the causes of the diminished birth rate not generally mentioned are the changes in the method of living. The apartment house, which is growing in favor, is a bad school for good wives and mothers, especially those that are young. CHILDREN ARE NOT WANTED in such quarters. The servant girl question often drives families to these houses. The population in the apartment houses, as a rule, turns a cold shoulder upon the woman who is a fond mother or commiserates her for her enslaved position.

ANOTHER CAUSE IS THE PURSUIT OF MANLY CALLINGS BY WOMEN. First, it makes them feel independent of marriage, and, second, they take the work from the men, so that THE MEN CANNOT AFFORD TO MARRY.

Another cause is the nervous trades, which bring on and unfit women for maternity and housekeeping. CLERKS, STENOGRAPHERS AND SHOP AND FACTORY GIRLS ARE TO BE INCLUDED IN THIS CATEGORY.

THE SENTIMENT OF JEALOUSY

By P. MANTEGAZZA, Italian Anthropologist

WHY, when love is offended, should we invent a new sentiment, jealousy? ALL SENTIMENTS, WHEN THEY ARE SATISFIED, BRING US CLOSER TO THE ONE WHO HAS GIVEN THEM SATISFACTION, lead us to lavish caresses on him, to do good to him. Every wounded sentiment, on the contrary, leads us to return the offense, to do ill to him who caused the offense.

If by jealousy we mean the pain suffered when we feel that we are not loved, or have been deceived, EVERY HEART THAT LOVES OUGHT TO BE JEALOUS, just as whoever loves country and mother cannot see them offended without suffering pain. But if we take it to mean that tyrannical suspicion which leads us to torment the person who possesses us I would say, on the contrary, THAT WE NOT ONLY CAN LOVE, BUT CAN LOVE BETTER, WITHOUT BEING JEALOUS, and that we cannot love and experience jealousy.

HOW RELIGION IS AFFECTED BY COLLEGE EDUCATION

By President HARPER of Chicago University

THE university is just beginning to feel the effects of the disregard of religious instruction which has been prevalent during the last twenty years. IN THE HOME AND ON THROUGH THE PREPARATORY SCHOOL THERE HAS BEEN A PECULIAR AND FATAL LACK OF RELIGIOUS TRAINING. The boys and girls whose characters and habits would be affected by this irreligious spirit have now reached the age when they should enter the universities, and their views on life and religion are accepted by the public as those fostered by the university. There is naturally a tendency in a university environment TO CONFIRM THEM IN THEIR SKEPTICISM. They are thrown into the company of others of like opinions, opinions that have been formed through lack of religious instruction in early life. The university training may possibly strengthen these opinions.

To teach a man to discriminate is the primary purpose of education. If it does not do that, it has not served its purpose. But in doing this IT VERY FREQUENTLY CAUSES THE STUDENT TO DOUBT THE TRUTH OF WHAT LITTLE RELIGION HE HAS. It is difficult to see why it should not do this.

No truth is accepted on the basis of another person's authority, according to the scientific attitude of mind which is taught in the universities and colleges of today. THE COLLEGE STUDENT IS TAUGHT TO QUESTION EVERYTHING. Problems whose very existence he had never imagined are offered to him for solution. Philosophy commands him to doubt the existence of matter. Problems which in his years of adolescence he had firmly believed were settled are being investigated and new solutions offered by his teachers and fellows. He passes through not only a mental but a moral evolution. The same questioning attitude which he is directed to assume in the class room toward scientific phenomena may be unconsciously assumed by him in his everyday life toward religious dogma.

JUST AS HE DOUBTS THE OCCURRENCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE HE DOUBTS THE TEACHINGS RECEIVED FROM PARENT AND PASTOR.

IRA IN THE CITY.

I WONDER what they're doin' these delightful days out there, Where the good old crispy feelin' comes a-stealin' through the air; I can almost taste the cider that is pourin' from the mill; Seems as though I hear the rustle in the corn shocks on the hill; I can see to see the punkins gleamin' yellow on the ground And the bees a-buzzin' round.

I wonder if they ever, as they're walkin' on out there, Get to thinkin' of where I am; wonder if they ever care? Oh, I s'pose the old spring bubbles just as cool and just as clear I'm in need to fore I ever dreamt of comin' way up here, And the path down here, in the kitchen, s'pose it's there the same today, And wore down as smooth and bare as though I'd never come away.

I wonder if they ever notice my initials where, Long ago, I cut 'em into all the stable doors out there? And I wonder when they see 'em if they ever think of me And would like to see me back there where the wind's a-blowin' free, Where the hick'ry nuts come tumblin' with a rattle from the limb, And the Lord's still near the people, and they still believe in him?

I s'pose the sumac's crimson and the maple's turnin' red, Just as though I'd never left there with big notions in my head, And the co's I'll bet go wadin' to the middle of the stream And stand there, kind of solemn, and look fur away and dream. Not a thing has stopped out yonder just because I left one day, And if I'd go back the city'd never know I'd been away. —S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.

Not to be Kept. "What do you expect to do about those promises you made?" "I don't know," replied Senator Sorghum. "Aren't you going to keep them?" "Keep them?" he repeated absent-mindedly. "Well, my boy, you know I am not collecting souvenirs."—Washington Star.

THE CAMPHOR MONOPOLY.

How Japan Controls the Trade of the World. Japan, owing to her acquisition of Formosa, controls the camphor product of the world, and, according to the Tokyo correspondent of the London Times, the Japanese diet recently passed a bill extending the Formosan camphor monopoly to the whole empire. The Chinese yield has never exceeded 220,000 pounds, while the yield in Formosa has in recent years averaged over 6,000,000 pounds. In the rest of Japan the annual production is about 300,000 pounds.

To take full advantage of the situation the Japanese government four years ago placed the manufacture of Formosan camphor under its control and made the sale of such camphor a monopoly. Its objects were, it is said, twofold—increased revenue and a more complete control of the camphor forests. Japan claimed the Formosan forests as the exclusive property of the crown.

Japan has taken elaborate measures to guard the Formosan camphor forests and the border residents against the attacks of savages and to lay out beds of young trees in all the camphor districts. The destruction has also forbidden the destruction of young trees, which were formerly cut down for fuel by the camphor workers.

Within certain limits the Japanese government does not interfere with the manufacture of camphor, but the entire production must be sold to the government at a fixed price, and the government names the maximum amount to be produced in order to prevent the markets being oversupplied. Japan has taken measures to raise the quality of the Formosan product, which has been dirty and oily, giving the erroneous idea abroad that it is inferior to Japanese camphor in crystallizing power.

In March, 1900, tenders were called for from firms, Japanese and foreign, desirous of obtaining the sole selling agency for Formosan camphor. A British firm's offer was the most favorable, and it obtained the contract.

P. O. IRREGULARITIES TRACED TO HIGH OFFICIALS.

BRISTOW'S REPORTS OF PREVIOUS INSPECTIONS PUBLISHED.

TOO LATE NOW TO TAKE ANY LEGAL ACTION.

Washington, June 18.—Postmaster-General Payne Wednesday made public the reply of Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow to the charges of Seymour W. Tulloch, former cashier of the Washington city postoffice regarding the irregularities in the postal administration and also reports of inspection and investigation of the Washington postoffice by inspectors between June 30, 1889, and July 31, 1900, together with the transcript of the Tulloch charges made some years ago and the conclusions thereon then reached by Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith.

These papers constitute by far the most significant documents yet made public as the result of the sweeping postal investigation. The reports show the existence of many irregularities during the period involved.

The inspector who investigated the irregularities reports that the files of the postoffice cashier show direct orders from superior authority for the disbursement of all questionable items cited. The inspector urged "that the responsibility for the many illegal appointments, the payment of two salaries to one and the same person and the disbursement of thousands of dollars for which practically no service was performed, should be placed where it properly belonged and the many abuses corrected."

In a summary of the several reports the postmaster-general says:

"The charge of Mr. Tulloch is in its essence against President McKinley and Postmaster-General Smith. President McKinley is no longer living; Postmaster-General Smith, who carried out President McKinley's policy, has answered for himself.

The postmaster-general also says: "It will be seen that the whole subject was taken up by Postmaster-General Smith and investigated by him."

So Public Can Understand.

Mr. Payne quotes from the recently published reply of Mr. Smith and adds that these papers are now published "in order to matter the public understanding of a matter, a large part of which has already been published. The papers are filed without action for the reason that they relate to the business of a prior administration. The subject matter of complaint is four years old and all action thereunder was closed over two years ago."

The documents made public today show that on May 1 last Mr. Payne wrote a letter to Mr. Bristow, calling attention to the published interview with Mr. Tulloch and asked Mr. Bristow: "What truth, if any, there is in the statements, and particularly that part which speaks of your connection and that of the postoffice inspectors."

Mr. Bristow's reply in part, dated three days later, is as follows: "In response to your inquiry of May 1, 1903, as to the truth or falsity of the assertions of Mr. W. S. Tulloch that appeared in an interview by him in the Washington Post of that date, I beg to hand you herewith an abstract of three reports made by the inspectors on the condition of the Washington postoffice."

"The first, marked 'exhibit A,' refers to the transfer of the postoffice to Hon. John Merritt, incoming postmaster, by Mr. James P. Willett, retiring postmaster, which occurred June 30, 1899. At the time this inspection was in progress, as nearly as I can remember, Chief Inspector Cochran and Inspector in Charge Smith called upon me and advised me that the inspectors had discovered many irregularities of a serious nature which seemed to be authorized by the department."

The most important exhibit is the confidential report of Postoffice Inspector in Charge Smith of the Washington division, made in July, 1899, setting forth irregularities which he urged should be investigated.

In conclusion the inspector states that the files of the cashier's office show full, direct and positive orders from superior authority for the disbursement of all the questionable items mentioned in the inspector's report; that the responsibility for the many illegal appointments, the payment of two salaries to one and the same person, and the disbursement of thousands of dollars for which practically no service was performed should be placed where it properly belongs, and the many abuses corrected.

ANOTHER DISMISSAL.

Superintendent of Money Order System Loses His Job.

Washington, June 18.—As a result of alleged indiscretion in matters pertaining to the award of contracts for printing the money order forms of the government James T. Metcalf, for many years superintendent of the money order system of the postoffice department, Wednesday was removed from office by the postmaster-general. A full investigation of the case will be made later. The dismissal is the result of acts of Mr. Metcalf in opposition to the bid of Paul Herman of Rutherford, N. J., the lowest bidder by $45,000 and in favor of the next highest bidder, the Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford company of New York, of which Mr. Metcalf's son is an employe.

In his letter of dismissal Postmaster-General Payne says:

"The bid of Mr. Herman as submitted was regular in form, and that he had deposited a certified check for $5,000 as a forfeit. It further appears that within a day or two the Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford company filed a protest against awarding the contract to Herman, alleging that he was not financially responsible; that a short time thereafter Mr. Herman called at your office and you advised him to withdraw his bid and re-enter the employ of Wynkoop, Hallenbeck, Crawford company, understanding at the time that such withdrawal would result in the contract being awarded to said company and consequently in a loss to the government. It also appears that you did not acquaint your superior, First Assistant Postmaster-General Wynne, with the fact that you had endeavored to have Mr. Herman withdraw his bid."

Postmaster-General Payne, in announcing his action, stated that there was no charge that Mr. Metcalf had done anything that is amenable to the law, but said that his conduct was a serious indiscretion that could not be overlooked. Mr. Metcalf, he said, always has been considered a faithful, efficient, painstaking and honest employe.

Mr. Metcalf was closely examined for two hours and he, it is stated, corroborated the facts stated in the letter of dismissal. The postmaster-general conferred with President Roosevelt regarding the case and the order of dismissal followed.

Mr. Metcalf originally was appointed from Iowa and has been in the postal service since 1882.

Mr. Metcalf, when seen last evening, said that he has done nothing wrong and has nothing to conceal; that his son's employ in the bidding firm could have no effect on the award; that he suggested Herman's return to his old company to handle the government work there because he (Mr. Metcalf) knew that Herman's means were limited and that a stoppage of supplies in the midst of a contract term would have proved serious.

They were escorted across the country to Goodland by the Osborne militia company, which has been guarding them since their arrest.

THE KING'S PROMISES

PETER SENDS HIS MANIFESTO TO SERBIAN PEOPLE.

BANISHES FROM MEMORY ALL ACTS AGAINST HIM.

HIS MOTTO: "FOR SACRED CROSS AND CHERISHED LIBERTY."

Geneva, Switzerland, June 18.—King Peter has just telegraphed to Belgrade the following manifesto to be proclaimed to the Serbians, the substance of which was cabled to the Associated Press June 15:

"Thanks to the favor of God and the will of the people, I am called to the throne of my ancestors. I submit myself to the popular decision and today ascend the throne of Serbia.

"I consider it to be my first duty to thank God for the favor accorded me, and I express the hope that the powers will hail my succession as an event which will give Serbia an era of repose, progress and order.

"I give my word to respect the rights acquired by all.

"I will be the protector of the legality and well-being of the people.

"I call upon the heads of the church and the military and civil functionaries to retain their functions and execute them conscientiously.

"I declare that I banish from memory all acts committed during the past forty years bearing upon me.

"Every honest Serb will find under my reign protection for his moral and material life.

"The motto of my dynasty is: 'For the sacred cross and cherished liberty.'

"It is with that motto, assured of the attachment of the army and church, that I ascend the throne as Peter the First, King of Serbia."

JEWS ATTACKED HIM.

Notorious Jew Hater and Editor Stabbed in the Neck.

St. Petersburg, June 18.—Kroushevan, the notorious Jew hater and the editor of the anti-Semitic organ in Kishineff, the Bersarabetz, the articles in which are believed to have been largely responsible for the massacre of the Jews in Kishineff, was attacked by a party of Jews in the street here Wednesday. He was stabbed in the neck by one of the Jews. The wound is not believed to be fatal. His assailant was captured and proved to be a former student of the polytechnic school at Kief.

Another Kishinev.

Berlin, June 18.—The Tageblatt, in advices from Lodz, Russian Poland, gives an account of disturbances there on Monday last. About 5,000 young workmen, Jews, paraded the streets in an orderly manner, but as a socialist demonstration. The police, in view of the number of those engaged, called on the Cossacks for assistance, and then the police and Cossacks charged the workmen, beating them with the flats of their swords and with their fists. It is reported that ten young men were beaten to death and that of the ten arrested all were seriously wounded. Surgeons worked for five hours sewing up wounds after the fury of the police had been spent.

Peonage Quite Common.

Washington, June 18.—United States Attorney Reese of Montgomery, Ala., was at the war department of justice Wednesday in response to a request from Attorney-General Knox, who wished to confer with him in regard to the progress of the prosecutions of persons in Alabama for peonage. It is said the system is not in operation to any considerable extent near the cities and large towns, but that in some of the more sparsely settled sections it is quite common. The officials of the department of justice are determined to eradicate the evil and to that end every discovered case will be vigorously prosecuted.

Forgery Charged Against Machen.

Washington, June 18.—It is believed that the grand jury will shortly be asked by the postoffice authorities to find another indictment against A. W. Machen, former superintendent of free delivery. The charge, it is said, will be forgery, based upon the cashing of a check for $369, drawn by the cashier of the New York postoffice in favor of Henry L. Lorenz of Toledo, O.

A Fatal Prank.

New Bedford, Mass., June 18.—Clarence Mason, son of the chief of police, is suffering from an attack of blood poisoning as a result of being branded at an initiation of the secret society of the local high school. It is feared he may not recover. Joseph McIntyre, another student, is in a serious condition.

A Prisoner of Bandits.

Tangier, Morocco, June 18.—Walter B. Harris, the traveler and author, who was a member of Sir Arthur Nicolson's special embassy to the sultan of Morocco last year, is a prisoner of mountaineers at Zennat, headquarters of the bandit Ralsull. Government troops attacked the place, burning many farms but they did not succeed in rescuing Harris.
