

BIG DOCKET FOR OCTOBER

Court Will Have Lots of Work This Term OVER 100 CASES

On the Calendar—33 Criminal Cases—Large Number of Liquor Cases to be Tried

The October term of circuit court will open Monday with 111 cases on the calendar, which is an unusually large number. The increase is mainly in the criminal cases, there being 33 of this class put on for hearing and Prosecutor Duffy will have an exceedingly busy time if it half the number are really tried. The other cases are divided as follows: Issues of fact, 49; issue of law, 1; chancery—first class, 6; chancery—fourth class, 22.

The majority of the criminal cases are for violations of the liquor law, there being twenty-four of these on calendar and it is said that the defendants will fight in every case. The criminal cases are: Peter Powers alias Lloyd Diamond, larceny; James Edwards, larceny; Edward Morey, larceny from the person; Fred VonKaul, larceny in dwelling in day time; Roy W. Hall, horse stealing; Fred Dupper, indecent exposure of person; Alexander Kniseley, assault with intent to rape; Philip Gauss, violation of liquor law—open on Sunday; Ernest T. Paul, violation of liquor law—selling to minor; Charles Kruger, drunkard and tippler—third offense; Frau Brown, Wm. C. Binder, Jeremiah Collins, Add Collum and Frank Koach, Wm. Corson and Adolph C. Andres, Lawrence J. Damm, Stephen Earl, Wm. and George Frey, Christian Frey and Edward C. Zachmann, Philip Gauss, Wm. Goetz, Emil Goltz, Jacob Gwiner and Alfred J. Paul, Richard Kearns jr., Gottlob Knapp, John Maubetsch, Asa B. Nash, Joseph Parker, P. Fred Reimold, John Schaible, J. G. Fred Schmid, Christ. Spaeth, all saloonists for violating liquor law by keeping open on Labor Day; George Leonard, larceny from the person.

The divorce cases on for the term are: Asa B. Nash vs. Mabel Nash, Frances J. Wheeler vs. Amos Wheeler, Clemma Williams vs. Bernard J. Williams, Lois Diehl vs. Henry Diehl, Joseph Geromiller vs. Ida Geromiller, Mary A. Lewis vs. George M. Lewis, Ada Belle Green vs. Lewis N. Green, Belle Weismeyer vs. Chas. Weismeyer, Bertha Carroll vs. Arthur Carroll, Jane Haight vs. Milo Haight, Burnett Steinbach vs. Ada Steinbach.

ONE HUNDRED AT NIGHT SCHOOL

THAT IS PRESFNT PROSPECT OF Y. M. C. A. NIGHT SCHOOL

The Corp. of Teachers and the Classes They Have—Excellent Chance For Employees

"The Y. M. C. A. night school has twice as many applications this year as ever before," said Secretary Johnson yesterday. Four years ago there were thirty-six students; three years ago, fifty-three; two years ago, ninety; a year ago, sixty; and this year the prospects are for considerably over a hundred.

Ten classes have been formed with a corps of nine paid teachers. These are John R. Allen, junior professor in mechanical engineering, who will conduct a course in heating and ventilation; W. H. Hawkes, of the High School faculty, who will lecture on electricity and magnetism; H. J. Goulding will have a class in mechanical drawing. Mr. Goulding is secretary of the engineering department in the U. of M. and has taught mechanical drawing here for eight seasons. H. E. Gardner, who was formerly principal in the schools of Missouri, will have geometry, algebra and arithmetic. Mr. Gardner is a post graduate student of Michigan, and specialized in mathematics. George R. Kelly will conduct a course in civil service, and Roy V. Coffey will teach bookkeeping. Mr. Coffey has been a teacher of bookkeeping for five years for Brown's Business college, which has its headquarters at Peoria, Ill. He is at present taking the higher commercial course in the University. J. C. K. Lindhout will teach penmanship. He is a senior law student and was trained in the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids. Warren H. Smith, a Michigan M. A., will conduct the work in reading, spelling, and business English. Mr. Smith was formerly principal of the schools at Pontiac and Lansing, and is at present in the real estate business in this city.

The great rush in the work this year, said Mr. Johnson, is for arithmetic and English. An extra section had to be

A NEW BUS FOR POLHEMUS

The Polhemus Transfer Co. put into commission Wednesday one of the handsomest buses that has been seen on our streets for a long time. The vehicle is one of the latest pattern, has ball bearings, rubber tired wheels and up-to-date improvements. The body is painted dark green and wine color, the running gear is bright red, the interior is upholstered in red plush and the windows glazed with beveled plate. Altogether it is a nobby turnout and the builders—Messrs. Walker & Co., of this city—are to be congratulated upon the excellence of the job.

BIG LIST OF DEAD BEATS

Presented by Members of Grocers' and Butchers' Association WILL BE PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Members, in Book Form—A Fine for Trusting Parties on the List

Interest was bubbling over Wednesday at the meeting of the grocers and butchers. Thirty-five were present and nearly every member brought his list of dead beats. A committee of eight were appointed to arrange for a systematized and alphabetical list which will be in full force and operation in about two weeks. This list will be published in book form, and sold to any business house outside of the association. "For we are willing that everybody should be benefited by it," said Secretary Miller. As soon as this list is arranged a special meeting of the association will be called.

The excitement ran high, said Mr. Miller, over the large lists that were there for inspection, one having 50 names upon it. And there was a good deal of surprise over who some of these names were. Not only the suspicious, but the unsuspecting were enrolled upon this undesirable list. "It is a sure go," said the secretary, "so those who wish to escape disgrace had better pay up at once." The association will impose a fine for the violation of the law which says "Thou shalt not trust Dead Beats." Five dollars for the first offense, ten for the second and twenty-five for the third.

The next regular meeting of the association will be held two weeks from last night.

LATEST ADDITION TO PEDAGOG STAFF

DEPARTMENT OF PEDAGOGY GROWING FAST

Prof. Alger to Take Part of the Work This Year and Do Institute Work—Prof. Whitney's Classes

Pedagogs demand an extra teacher. The department has grown so rapidly and to such an extent, that Professors Payne and Whitney must be assisted. Professor Alger will conduct a part of the work this year. He will do some state institute work and relieve Prof. Whitney of some of the school supervision which has always taken one Ann Arbor professor away from classes here in the second semester. This year Prof. Whitney will conduct three courses in the second semester, in connection with his outside work of inspecting the schools. Prof. Alger is a Michigan graduate of '97 and later a graduate of Columbia University. Before accepting the position here he was principal of the state normal at Cheney, Washington.

THREE DUMPED INTO THE LAKE

The cottagers at Whitmore Lake witnessed a little unusual excitement Sunday. Three students unused to the lake and unused to a sailboat attempted to experiment with it. The wind blew strong and spoiled their experiment, upsetting the boat, and dumping the boys uncomfortably far from land. As soon as the situation was realized three rowboats put out from shore and in a very short time rowed back with three wet, but uninjured students, who were taken to the Lake House, where they were stopping, to recover of their fright.

LONGER NOON HOUR IN SCHOOL

What Shall be Done With Degenerates?

HEALTH QUESTIONS

Questions in Tuition Brought Up—Demand Made for Free Languages—School Board Committees Named

The noon intermission in the public schools will be 15 minutes longer than it has been. This was decided by the board of education Tuesday evening on motion of Trustee Cavanaugh. The intermission will hereafter be from 11:30 to 1:15 instead of from 11:30 to 1 o'clock as heretofore.

The following committees were appointed by President Eberbach: Finance—Kyer, Seabolt, Miller. Buildings and Grounds—Beal, Kyer, Copeland.

Teachers and Textbooks—Bach, Harriman, Eberbach. Manual Training—Cavanaugh, Beal, Kyer.

Library—Harriman, Cavanaugh, Bach. Supplies—Seabolt, Copeland, Cavanaugh.

Janitors—Miller, Bach, Seabolt. Tuition—Copeland, Eberbach, Beal.

A question in tuition came up. Students sometimes take up a class for a week or two and for some reason drop out and want their money refunded. The superintendent instanced a case where a student who paid laboratory fees and had been in the laboratory but once and wanted his money back. After discussion Trustee Copeland moved that in cases where students had not reported for more than two weeks in any class, the superintendent and principal be authorized to refund the tuition. The motion carried.

Supt. Slauson recommended an appropriation of $150 for supplementary readers and on motion of Trustee Beal the committee on supplies were given power to act on the recommendation.

Dr. E. K. Herdman made an extended report to the board on certain pupils which seemed to require attention. He brought up the case of children who had been for three years in the first grade without advancing. One case he had in mind of degenerates, who required careful watching. Taxpayers, he said, claim the right to send their children to school, but have they if the children are demoralizing to other pupils.

Dr. Herdman brought up other cases of offensive catarrh and ear diseases which polluted the air of the whole school room, and wished to know if such cases could not be excluded for the benefit of the other children until the direction of the physicians who treated them were followed. Another case was mentioned where children had a communicable blood disease. Still another case was mentioned of a disease of the eyes where the child used the same towel as the other children. On the general subject of cleanliness, the doctor said that some children came to school so dirty that a piece of charcoal would make a white mark on their faces. The question was of the power of the teacher to send them home until they were washed. The question of vaccination in the public schools was also brought out.

Dr. Copeland thought the question of what could be done with degenerates could not be decided until after the law was looked up. Other trustees spoke on the questions and President Eberbach and Trustees Copeland and Cavanaugh were appointed to look into these matters and suggest some action to be taken at the next meeting of the board.

A long petition was presented asking that language studies be made free to resident pupils. Mr. H. H. Herbst accompanied it with a letter stating that of the 160 taxpayers to whom he had presented the petition only 6 had objected to it. The person who secured the remainder of the names reported that only one man declined to sign it. He thought that if every taxpayer had been seen the same proportion in favor of the change, 96 per cent, would be found to hold good.

The communication was received and placed on file after one of the trustees explained that he himself had been inclined to favor the idea, but that the fact that Mr. Herbst was pushing the matter inclined him to doubt his own judgment. So he thought the matter ought to be considered.

There were a few other routine matters brought up which will appear in the official proceedings.

One of the nature's remedies; cannot harm the weakest constitution; never fails to cure summer complaints of young or old. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

THE ESTATE HAS ONLY $24

A petition was filed in the probate court for letters of administration in the estate of Charlotte Watson, of Ypsilanti, which probably involves the smallest estate which it has been the lot of Judge Watkins to pass upon. Mrs. Watson, the petitioner states, was the possessor of no real estate at her decease, but had signed the voucher for the last quarterly payment of a widow's pension due from the government, amounting to $24 and the check for this has since been received and the probate court will have to decide who are, as heirs, entitled to it and partition it. There are seven children names as heirs of the deceased.

7,000 BOOKS ON SHAKESPEARE

Are to be Found in the University Library

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED

Little Fiction Received—Books are Mostly of the Utilitarian Kind

Four boxes of new books have arrived to swell the University Library shelves, two from Germany and two from England. And what is of particular interest is 12 volumes of Shakespeare, first printed in folio in 1623, re-printed in New York, sent to England and bought from there by the University. But this is a way the University has of buying many of its books; and it is just as cheap. Most of the books are purchased from the Southern Co., London, Eng.; Brockhaus, Leipzig, Ger., and from H. Walter of Paris; though some of the most elegant books are from Bangs & Co., of New York. These are the rarest, perhaps, and of most value; and once upon a time, after a little difficulty ensued from the loss of some books to the University, Bangs & Co. enclosed a little slip with the books which read: "These books are all in this box."

There is constantly someone inquiring about the Shakespeare library, said one in authority. People are coming from all over the country to look at it. It has grown so rapidly that it now contains about seven thousand volumes.

Another interesting series that just came is "Social England from its Earliest Times." Four volumes cover the ground to 1714. The work is in the process of construction. A box of fiction came to counterbalance the brain breaking books.

NARROW ESCAPE SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Harrie Teaboldt, of the Washtenaw Light & Power Co., while wiring in the new annex at the rear of Brogan's, Tuesday afternoon fell from the ladder on which he was standing and came near doing something serious. The ladder slipped and Mr. Teaboldt was lunged forward, saving himself a fall of thirty feet from the roof to the basement, by getting entangled midway in the wire which hung from the ceiling.

Coroner Watts was on the spot to attend to anything fatal, but Mr. Teaboldt picked himself up from the brink of the cellar with nothing worse than a bruised arm and ten minutes of time wasted.

ADMINISTRATOR MUST PAY BILLS

Judge Watkins brought another administrator up with a round turn.

Patrick J. O'Connor filed with the court what he desired to be considered his final account in the estate of Chas. O'Connor, deceased, but the judge did not take kindly to the report and has filed an order declaring that the final account, as such, be disallowed, and that the document will be treated as an annual account. The reasons for this act of the judge are stated to be that certain accounts against the estate which have been heretofore allowed have not been settled, among them being one due Lehman & Stivers which with interest now amounts to $75.

CITY SCALES ARE COMPLETED

FIRST LOAD WEIGHED FOR CHAS. NINE

A Very Fine Weighing Apparatus Put in—Will Weigh Ten Tons

The new city scales are completed and the first load was weighed on them this morning, the first applicant being Chas. Nine with a load of hay, the weight of which was 6,480 pounds.

The scales were put in by The M. M. Rowley Scale Co., of Detroit, and are probably one of the finest sets of platform scales in this section of the country. They are what are known as the "Compound Beam" pattern and no loose weights are used, all the weighing being done with sliding weights on the two beams. The platform of the scale is 8x22 feet and is large enough to hold a team as well as the wagon to be weighed. The platform is set in the street about 19 feet from the front wall of the city building and a very ingenious set of balance levers are necessary to convey the weight to the rod which controls the recording beams in the clerk's office. Although so large the scales are capable of very fine adjustment and are so evenly balanced that no matter on what portion of the platform a weight is placed its exact will be given. They are capable of weighing from 2 1/2 pounds to 10 tons.

The scales were put in by the company's representative, J. W. Campbell, of Detroit, who is very proud of the job.

CARL HARRIMAN'S NEW BOOK

Carl Harriman is engaged in finishing a new book which will probably be out in November. His Ann Arbor Tales proved a very successful book and many who enjoyed the tales will watch with interest for Mr. Harriman's next book. In the meantime the Lippincotts have accepted a novelette by Mr. Harriman to be published in a forthcoming number of their magazine. Between times Mr. Harriman still continues as assistant editor of the Pilgrim.

FOR VIOLATING HACK ORDINANCE

Ed Kelly, Adolph Woodbury and Wm. Fishel were brought before Justice Doty Tuesday on complaint of Detective Burrows of the M. C. R. R., charged with violating the ordinance governing the conduct of hackmen at the depots. It is charged that the men were too strenuous in their manner of soliciting patronage. As this was the first offense, Justice Doty allowed them to go on payment of $2.75 each, as costs, and a promise to sin no more.

FEARFUL ODDS AGAINST HIM

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies, "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for Liver and Kidney troubles and all forms of Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by A. E. Mummery and H. F. Miller, druggists.

AN ANN ARBOR NURSE MARRIED A YOUNG GRADUATE

The Parents in Jonesville Couldn't Make Out Telegram Announcing Her Home Coming

Jonesville, Mich., Sept. 26.—Miss Myrtle Blossom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Blossom, who left here over a year ago to study as a nurse in the hospitals of Ann Arbor, surprised her parents by bringing a husband in the person of Dr. O. R. Austin, of Chesaning, a graduate of the Homeopathic department of the University of Michigan last June, and with a city hospital in Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Blossom had received a message reading: "Dr. and Mrs. Austin will be home tonight," but it merely was a puzzle to them.

AN ARTICULATED SYSTEM OF EDUCATION FOR COUNTRY YOUTH.

The proposed plan of articulating consolidated rural schools, each of which will cover an area from three to five miles square; agricultural high schools, each to cover about a dozen counties; and the agricultural college course in the State universities or State college of agriculture and mechanic arts, will meet the needs of four factors—namely, the pupils, the teachers, the courses of practical instruction, and the subject matter to be taught. The fact that nearly every farm boy and girl who has had the advantage of a course of study in the Minnesota Agricultural High School is not only enthusiastic in its praise but desires to live on a farm, is proof that the school has a faculty of instructors peculiarly adapted to its work, and that the plan of the school and the available subject matter are such that agricultural high-school education succeeds and meets the need. While the home, the consolidated rural school, and the agricultural high school train for the farm and the farm home, there is large need for teachers, experimenters, writers, and other specialists with higher training, such as is supplied in the college course in agriculture. The proposed system of three articulated classes of schools needs all along the line teachers broadly and technically trained. No doubt many of these teachers must be educated in existing high schools, academies, and normal schools, which more or less closely articulate with agricultural colleges.

Forty years have been necessary for the experimenting with and the development of collegiate courses in agriculture in our State universities and State colleges. During the past fifteen years experiments have been successfully carried out in establishing large agricultural high schools, and in a third as many years of trial consolidated rural schools, with free transportation, have been successfully inaugurated in numerous localities. Once our educators generally realize the practicability and the far-reaching importance of these three classes of schools, they will, doubtless, lead the people to adopt them and to carry them into an articulated system. As city primary graded schools, city high schools, and university and college courses have been articulated into a unified system, so the consolidated rural schools, the agricultural high school, and the college of agriculture can be articulated into a parallel system. The one, with its industrial side strengthened, will serve the city life; the other will serve the country life, and without very serious loss of time to the student who desires can transfer from one system to the other. The whole system of American education thus unified will become as useful to country people as to city people.—From "Our Farmer Youth and the Public Schools," by Prof. Willet M. Hays, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for October.

The way of the transgressor is hard as Eli R. Sutton has evidently found out, notwithstanding the fact that he was acquitted by a jury of the serious charges made against him in connection with the conspiracy to rob the state, in the military supplies deal. There are probably still others, in addition to all those who have already been brought to book who are trembling over the return of Sutton. It is not at all probable that all the guilty parties concerned in that matter have yet been found and Sutton may, like Gen. White, be disposed to tell some things he knows. It would be interesting to the public to learn how that jury came to acquit Sutton. It is thought that Sutton's return at this time may have an important bearing on the trial of John Holbrook, charged with tampering with the jury which tried Sutton. Sutton may be convinced that there is nothing in the old saw that there is honor among thieves and he may tell what he knows. In the interest of justice what he knows would possibly and probably be a great help.

THIS WAS NOT SO IN OUR GRANDFATHERS' DAYS.

The strike of eighth grade school boys and girls of the Cass school, Detroit, was one of the most ridiculous things that has come to the public notice in many a day. Because a certain teacher had been dismissed by the board for a very good cause, if reports given out by the committee which investigated him be true, these youngsters went on strike and caused a small riot at night necessitating the calling out of a considerable force of police. These juveniles tore down fences and started bonfires therewith, and did various other unseemly things, even to the serious wounding of a policeman. All this, too, with the parents looking on and helpless it would seem to prevent such conduct. This all goes to show the lengths to which lack of parental authority and control permits children to go. Instead of the parents taking these obstreperous youngsters in hand and spanking them soundly and sending them to bed, they are allowed to become disturbers of the public peace, necessitating the calling out of the police. It is not surprising, however, that such things should occur among children left entirely to their own control. Nor is this absence of control the only burden apparently imposed upon these young shoulders. Seemingly these children are not only not brought up and allowed to come up as they will, but they have the additional heavy burden imposed upon them of bringing up their parents and causing them to go in the path the children desire them to take. That children under such circumstances should manifest very bad judgment or perverse doings is not at all surprising. There ought to be a lesson in all this for parents to learn, however, if there be any whose children go to the Cass school in Detroit who are not too old to learn.

A WORK IN THE INTEREST OF JUSTICE.

One hears much bitter denunciation of Eli R. Sutton just as present, as well as the prosecuting officers, because of his reported resolution to give the Ing'ram officials such information as he possesses as to the bribing of members of the jury which committed perjury and prostituted justice in his interest. But just why any reputable citizen should have any feeling over this matter is not clear. Why should not the officers of the law use this evidence to convict the perjurers and bribe-takers who swore to do justice and failed to keep their solemn oaths? Why should not these men who had no regard for their oaths and who disgraced their citizenship be put on record in such a way that they will have no farther chance to cause a miscarriage of justice in the future? Why are these men entitled to any of the sympathy of honest men?

It is this manifestation of sympathy for such scoundrels, on the part of reputable citizens, which helps to make a life of crime a comparatively easy thing. Citizens who have a clean record do not quite approve of the action of these jurymen in perjuring themselves to defeat justice, but many do not approve of the prosecuting officers using the evidence of others concerned in the conspiracy to convict them. This, too, when conviction is impossible without such evidence to support other evidence obtained from other sources. These perjurers and bribe-takers should be punished for their crimes and why not use the evidence of Eli R. Sutton to this end? The fact is there is altogether too much kindly feeling among so-called good citizens for such criminals as those engaged in the Henderson-Ames military supplies deal and the perjurers who as jurymen prevented some of the rascals from receiving the rewards of their crimes. The Argus believes the Ingham officials and the committee of prominent attorneys are working in the interest of the public and of justice, and they should have the support of all honest citizens.

A COMMENDABLE JURY.

The Wayne county grand jury, which has spent the greater part of the summer investigating a department of the Detroit municipal government in the interest of the people, has practically finished its work. Among the results of the heavy labors of the jury appear six indictments as follows: D. W. H. Moreland, John Hock, Henry Meridian, Robert Conway, Herman Wartell and John Jefferson White. These men were either connected in some capacity with the department of public works officially or were contractors doing work for the commissioner. The offenses charged against them are stated in the indictments found against them and consist in some species of fraud or grafting at the expense of the public. Whether they will be convicted may not be predicted, but it may be said of the jurors who have spent their summer investigating for the people that they are entitled to the commendation of the public for faithful service. This jury has passed through a long siege and has performed its work so well that there has been very little criticism of its members or their doings. It is a common saying that all juries in Wayne county are tampered with. There seems to be no evidence of any such thing in the case of the present grand jury. Then the jury is composed of men above the average in standing and ability. The jurymen have apparently been conscientious and painstaking in the performance of their duties in all respects. And when men have so served the public, especially under such trying circumstances, they deserve well of the people.

The position taken by the Knights of Labor in the resolution adopted recommending that the differences between the Washington Federation of Labor and the president of the United States be submitted to arbitration and that Senator Hanna be the arbitrator, is the most ridiculous proposition that could be devised. This is the resolution:

"That as Senator Hanna, of Ohio, is said to be a great friend of organized labor and that he is also considered a loyal supporter and sincere friend of President Roosevelt, we therefore suggest to both sides to the present controversy existing in the printing office that they refer the dispute to Senator Hanna for a decision."

Just as though the president of the United States can submit the matter of the performance of his duties in the enforcement of the laws of the nation to arbitration before Senator Hanna as arbitrator. This labor organization is a voluntary organization of citizens and if these citizens have a grievance against the government of the United States or the president in the performance of his duties, the courts are open to them. But this idea of placing this labor organization on the same footing as the government of the United States is the greatest joke of the season. The Federation would better take its case to The Hague tribunal.

The fight of certain labor organizations against President Roosevelt in their effort to unionize the government of the United States is not to be all one-sided. The contest has already gone far enough to indicate that there are leaders in the organization far-seeing enough to appreciate the folly of an attempt to substitute union labor rules for the laws of congress. The president under the law has no right to discriminate in favor of union men and against non-union men in the government service. The president could not do what the Washington bookbinders are demanding without violating his oath of office and making citizens privileged who belong to certain voluntary organizations over other citizens who choose not to belong to such organizations. Government salaries are paid from taxes which all help to pay and to shut out certain citizens from the possibility of holding these positions because they do not belong to a labor union cannot be permitted for a moment. We do not believe the majority of the union laborers of the country will stand for any such proposition either, when they understand it. In a fight of this kind against the president, citizens irrespective of party will be with the president.

Curtis Jett, arrested on the charge of murdering Town Marshal Thomas Cockerell at Jackson, Kentucky, has been convicted and sentenced to death. He was already under sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of J. B. Marcum. It remains to be seen whether the law will be allowed to take its course, but he undoubtedly deserves the full penalty of the law which he has so long outraged with impunity. The murders that have gone unpunished in Breathitt county, Ky., have shocked the entire country and in the interest of justice it is to be hoped other guilty parties will be punished for their crimes in crime ridden Breathitt county.

Plot That Failed

A Dramatic Incident That Occurred During the Civil War.

How a Girl Tried to Effect the Escape of a Confederate Prisoner and Its Tragical Ending.

Annie Fickle was a girl who when the war began lived in Lafayette county, Mo., near what is now the town of Odessa. She was the daughter of a substantial farmer and of intense southern sympathies. Though a mere girl, she was a leader among her in the work of caring for the wounded, the burial of the dead or the rescuing of the captured. Armed men of either side, sometimes in companies of two or three or more, sometimes alone, rode up and down the country seeking each other with hostile intent and fighting at every crossroads.

In the midst of it all went Annie Fickle, flitting about hither and thither, sometimes like an angel of mercy ministering to some sick or wounded friend in concealment, sometimes boldly playing the spy on the enemy. It was all of a kind with her, anything to assist the men of the south.

Her chosen one was Captain Andy Blunt, a dashing, daring fellow who followed the irregular methods of the guerrillas—here today, there tomorrow. One of his men, Otto Hinton, was captured in a skirmish and imprisoned in Lexington. Hinton was one of the handsomest young men that ever came from old Lafayette.

Here came in Annie Fickle. Otto Hinton was her neighbor and friend. She went to Lexington to make her temporary home with a friend. The place was strongly garrisoned by Federal troops. Hinton's jovial good nature and musical accomplishments had so charmed the Federal authorities that he was allowed unusual liberties. In charge of a single guard, he was permitted to visit some of his friends and occasionally dine with them. At one of these places he often met Annie and thus became acquainted with the plan for his rescue. Annie resolved to take the guard into her confidence. He listened to her story and professed loyalty to her. Hinton was invited to take supper on a certain evening at the house of the friend where he had often met Annie. The night arrived, and Hinton and the guard came. Annie, too, was there. Blunt and one of his men were to be in town in disguise, call at the house and knock at the door at a certain time. They were to be admitted, were to overpower the guard, but not harm him, and take Hinton away and restore him to his liberty. Annie had told the guard all, and he had assented.

In the face of the plot now about to be developed Annie, the guard, Hinton and the people of the household sat down to supper just as the shadows of night came on.

The supper was well nigh concluded, and the appointed moment had arrived. There was the knock at the door. Blunt was there. Annie knew it. Hinton knew it. The guard knew it. The guard knew what it meant. He arose from his seat at the table, drew his revolver and shot Hinton dead. This was the signal for the entrance through the rear of the house of a squad of soldiers, who first arrested Annie and then rushed to the front door to secure Blunt, but he and his man had fled as soon as they heard the pistol shot.

Annie was hurried away to the same prison that had for many weeks been the home of Hinton.

From Lexington she was sent to Warrensburg. Captain Jehu Smith was the provost marshal at Warrensburg, and he recently related the following incident that occurred in the time she was under his charge:

"Annie impressed me as an uncommon girl," said he, "and my attention was particularly attracted to her by the affair in which she was mixed up at Lexington. I was surprised one day to receive a note from her saying she wanted a private interview. I went to see her, and when we were alone she told me she wanted to lay a matter before me that concerned her honor and that she had determined to tell me everything and trust to me for protection. She then proceeded to tell me of the proposal by an officer of the regiment, one of high standing and who had access to the prison.

"She said she was helpless and that she did not know what to do except to lay the matter before me. I was naturally indignant at the conduct of the officer, as Annie, whatever political crimes might have been charged to her, was a girl of irreproachable character. I told her she could depend upon me to protect her and that I would have the officer court martialed and driven from the army. 'No,' she said, 'do not do that. There is enough publicity about me already. I do not ask that and would not have you take such a step. Your word that I shall be protected is all I ask.' Thus the matter ended. Soon after that Annie was taken from my jurisdiction."

From Warrensburg she was sent to the Gratiot street prison in St. Louis, where many Missourians of southern sympathies were confined. After she had been there a few weeks she and a Confederate officer imprisoned there dug a tunnel under the prison walls, the officer doing the digging and Annie carrying the dirt away in her apron. They reached a point where they thought it safe to ascend to the surface and break through. They were, indeed, after weeks of patient toil, outside the prison inclosure and under the brick pavement of the street. When they raised the bricks and were about to make their exit a prison guard discovered them and shot the officer. Annie went back, to remain till the close of the war.

In the meantime her betrothed, Captain Elbert, was killed in a fight near Chapel Hill.

When the war ended and Annie was released she returned to her old home in Lafayette county. As the years went by she met and loved a Mr. Parker, whose wife she now is. She became the mother of many children, who grew up to call her name blessed, for she made a good and blameless woman. Recently she and her husband removed from Odessa, Lafayette county, to the state of Louisiana.

THROTTLED BY A GHOST.

Scoffer Paralyzed and Stricken Blind in a Haunted House.

For many years the old Beers house, on Eighth street, Bloomsburg, Pa., had had the reputation of being haunted and was unoccupied until Newton Lyons of Central came to Bloomsburg to work and took up his residence in the Beers house, living alone. Mr. Lyons heard the ghost stories, but laughed at them and for a month slept in the house and declared there was no such thing as a ghost. He had an experience, however, one night recently which caused him to change his mind, and now he cannot be persuaded to spend another night in the house.

Mr. Lyons says that shortly after going to bed he heard strange noises about the house which he could not account for, but he did not make an investigation and at last went to sleep. About daylight he was awakened by a cold hand clutching his throat. With full possession of his senses, he grabbed the thing that held his throat with both hands, and instantly his hands became paralyzed, but the clutch on his throat loosened.

He jumped from the bed to follow what appeared to him to be the dim form of a woman, and when near the door of the room he was suddenly stricken blind and fell to the floor unconscious, remaining in that condition for an hour. His eyes pained him for the entire day and were red and inflamed, but physicians could not account for the trouble.

Mr. Lyons declares that the apparition made no sound and that upon his recovery he found the doors and windows fastened in the same manner they were when he went to bed.

ALBERT W. AMES IS DEAD

For 46 Years With American Express Co.

OLDEST AGENT OF LINE

For Over 40 Years Ann Arbor Agent—One of Best Known Men in City

Albert W. Ames, who for so many years was the American Express agent in this city, died at his home, 323 E. William street, Thursday, September 24th. He has been in feeble health for a long time and it was on account of poor health that he retired from active work for the American Express two years ago, after a longer service than any man then in their employ.

Mr. Ames was born in East Dorset, Vermont, Feb. 28, 1828. His early life was spent in Bennington, Vt. As a young man he clerked in a store in New York city. He came to Michigan in 1855 and in October of that year entered the employ of the American Express Co. as a messenger between Detroit and Chicago. At this time there were but few railroads in Michigan, the Michigan Central, the Michigan Southern and a road from Detroit to Pontiac. J. F. Stuart was then American Express agent in Chicago and James C. Fargo was the superintendent at Detroit. In their office but three clerks and a colored porter and four wagons were needed to do their work. For six years Mr. Ames acted as express messenger and then in 1861 he became the company's agent in Ann Arbor and held this position for 40 years, when in 1901 he retired on account of ill health. He was the oldest employe in the service.

For many years in connection with the express office he ran the only news stand in Ann Arbor and the older residents will remember the big stacks of papers to be found in the office. This brought him into contact with nearly everyone and there were few better known men than Mr. Ames or more highly esteemed. The Express office in this city grew to large proportions while Mr. Ames was in charge of the work and that his service was highly esteemed by the company was shown by his long length of service and his retirement on a pension.

Mr. Ames is survived by his wife and four children, Mrs. Miriam C. Powell, of Minneapolis, Mrs. Nellie B. Edmond, of Duluth, Mrs. Helen Ames MacDonald, of Hancock, and Herbert W. Ames, of Chicago.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon from his late residence, to which the friends are invited. The interment in Forest Hill cemetery will be private.

A PHYSICIAN HEALED.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I had been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostate gland. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I prescribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles. I have prescribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ANN ARBOR R. R. OFFICIALS UP FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

Dean & Co. Claim They Have Disobeyed Judge Lockwood's Injunction

Completion of Grade Separation Must Stop Until After Supreme Court Has Heard Injunction Suits in January

Another move has been made in the grade separation problem. Dean & Co. ask that the officials of the Ann Arbor road be punished for not obeying an injunction issued by Judge Lockwood, of Monroe, who sat in the case here for Judge Kinne, restraining the road from building an embankment across First street or encumbering First street between Liberty and William streets.

The officials whom it is sought to punish for contempt of court are Manager Henry W. Ashley, Roadmaster J. O. Laughlin, Chief Engineer O. D. Richards, Foreman Joseph W. Kinsey and Engineer William O. Huston.

The order to show cause on October 2 was issued late yesterday and is accompanied with maps and profiles by City Engineer Groves with an affidavit as to their correctness, and by affidavits by Henry S. Dean and Jasper C. Gates.

Col. Dean's affidavit is to the effect that on Sept. 12 a gang of about 40 laborers under the direction of a foreman assisted by gravel trains and several teams began building an embankment along the right of way of the railroad company across First street, that he notified Roadmaster Laughlin that this was in violation of the decree of the court, that on Sept. 17 Chief Engineer Richards was directing the work, that on Sept. 18 he heard his attorney, Gates, order Foreman Kinsey and Engineer Huston to desist. He sets up that the grade has been made so steep as to make it impracticable to haul the loads Dean & Co. have been accustomed to haul.

Attorney Gates seems to be endowed with clairvoyant powers, for he swears to an interview in Judge Lockwood's office in Monroe on December 17, 1903, a date which of course has not yet arrived, with Manager Ashley, Chief Engineer Richards and Attorney Smith, in which he asked them to desist from raising the embankment. They told him they would not desist until the embankment had been raised to the height of four feet above the grade of First street.

This is all of the case to be gathered from the court files yet. It is said that the Ann Arbor road claims to have simply raised the grade to the point from which they cut it down when they constructed their road.

Work of separating the grade has practically stopped for the year. The various injunction suits were appealed to the supreme court and it was expected to hear them early in October, but in some way the cases did not get up in time and will hardly be heard now before next January. This means that the completion of the separation of the grade at the southern end must be delayed until next year.

The dirt under the Huron street bridge has been cleaned out and it is expected to drive piles on Washington street beginning tomorrow.

BOLAND ROAD PROGRESSING

Dexter Wants to Get Power House

CHANGING HIGHWAY

Scio Board Give Their Consent on Petition of Farmers on the Road

The progress of the Boland road is thus described by the Dexter Leader:

The electric road still occupies the center of the stage and matters along the line of its completion have made considerable progress the past week.

A report that is fraught with much interest to the people here is that a power house is to be built in Dexter. This report The Leader has not been able to verify, but can say such a report is current, and that it comes from very good authority.

The resumption of work on the line west of Dexter is also a matter of more than passing interest. On Monday the fencing gang began operations building the fence on the outside of the tracks, the posts for which arrived last week. A gentleman from Chelsea informed The Leader Saturday that the material for laying the third rail is being drawn this way from Chelsea, and that the work of re-ballasting and cleaning up the line is going along finely.

That the electric road people propose to have their line as free from curves as it is possible to build it is evidenced by the trouble and expense they are going to to accomplish this end. At various points along the line they have reduced or eliminated curves by buying valuable land or moving buildings at heavy expense, but the most important undertaking is that of moving the highway for a distance of 1014 feet in order to straighten their road bed.

This change will be made east of Honey Creek, where there is a short bend in the highway near Arthur Lyon's west line.

The J. A. A. & D. Co. propose to move the highway to the north four rods and to run their line over the land now occupied by the highway. Their map calls for a strip of land 4 rods wide, commencing in the center of the highway, 411 feet from the N. and S. ¼ line of section 23, thence on a curve to the right 1014 feet to a point on the west line of the E. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of said section 23 where the center line of said highway as it now exists intersects at a point 448½ feet N. of the E. and W. ¼ line of said section 23.

The township board held a meeting Wednesday, Sept. 16, and agreeable to a petition by the property owners of the highway in that road section, passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the township of Scio grant the J. A. A. & D. Traction Co. the privilege of changing the highway in section 23 agreeable to the map attached with the understanding that the railroad company grade the new road bed and leave it in as good condition as it is at the present time, the new road bed to be graded and put in condition for travel before the old road bed is disturbed. The new road bed to be covered with gravel under the supervision of the highway commissioner."

The proposed change will give general satisfaction. Not only will it enable the electric road Co. to build a much straighter track, but it will straighten the highway and take care of a bad piece in the road, thereby benefiting all concerned with no expense to the taxpayers of the road district or township.

DEATH OF MISS SARAH A. HAYLEY

Mrs. Sarah A. Hayley, widow of Thomas Hayley, died Friday morning at her home, 533 E. University avenue, at the age of 68 years. Several years ago Mrs. Hayley had a severe fall from which she never quite recovered. This affected her nerves and heart, from which trouble she has been suffering the past year.

Mrs. Hayley was a well known resident of this county, having come to Ypsilanti with her husband, who died about a year ago, from Massachusetts soon after their marriage. From Ypsilanti they moved to Delhi, but had made their home in Ann Arbor for the past 20 years.

The deceased leaves three children, Wm. Hayley, of Bay City, Mrs. Adelaide Davis and Miss Emily Hayley, both of this city. Mrs. Hayley will be greatly missed by her many friends as she was a woman whom all loved who knew her well. The funeral services will be announced later.

YPSILANTI BEAT ANN ARBOR

THE TWO HIGH SCHOOLS MET FOR PRACTICE GAME

And Ypsilanti Won by the Score of 18 to 0—Only Three Old Ann Arbor Players

Saturday's football game, between the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti high schools, although resulting in a defeat for the Ann Arbor team, served the purpose which Prof. Jocelyn had in mind when he arranged for the game. Only three of the Ann Arbor team had ever played in a football game before and for the first half were completely at sea to know what was expected of them. But in the second half, when they got into the game, they held the Ypsilanti team down completely so that the score of 18 to 0 in favor of Ypsilanti which was made during the first half was the final one.

The Ypsilanti team deserve great credit, they knew the game and played it well. But Coach Jones is not at all discouraged for he has only been with the team for the past two days and had never before lined up the team that played Saturday. From a financial point of view the game was a great success, for $19.50 were cleared for the Athletic association.

Next Saturday the first schedule game will be played with Jackson. It will be announced later, where the game is to be, but wherever it is everyone interested in the team should be present and give his hearty support.

GUENTHER-MUEHLIG MARRIAGE

Pretty Home Wedding on Jackson Avenue

Mr. and Mrs. Muehlig Will Reside at Their New House, 807 Liberty Street

The marriage of Lydia M. Guenther to Edward R. Muehlig took place last Thursday at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Guenther of Jackson avenue.

Under a floral bell of white, in a room garlanded with arbor vitae and decorated in pink, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Nicholas of the Zion Lutheran church, the ring service being used.

The bride wore a gown of cream colored silk and carried tea roses, and the bridesmaid, Miss Bertha Muehlig, sister of the groom, was dressed in white mull trimmed with valenciennes, and carried pink carnations. Ernest Guenther, brother of the bride, was best man.

After the ceremony and congratulations, the wedding supper was served, in a room decorated in green and white which stood out in bridal contrast against the east room, trimmed in autumn leaves, asters and ferns.

From the chandelier hung ropes of smilax, knotted at the corners of the table with ribbon bows. Those who assisted in serving were Miss Sarah Seabolt, Miss Mollie Seabolt, Miss Iva Seabolt and Miss Ella Seabolt.

Mr. Andrew Muehlig and family and Mr. and Mrs. Schmid and Irvin Schmid, proprietors of the firm in whose employ Mr. Muehlig has been for twelve years, and Mr. Oscar Weibrecht and Mr. Austin Allmendinger, were the only guests present outside of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Muehlig postponed their wedding journey and went directly to their furnished house, 807 Liberty street, where they will be at home to their friends after October 7.

These young people are both well known in Ann Arbor, and congratulations and many beautiful presents show the high esteem in which they are held.

CALLED HOME BY SUDDEN DEATH

A BOY WHO JUST ARRIVED TO ENTER COLLEGE

Receives News of His Father's Sudden Death by Drowning

Archie Oakes, of Grand Haven, who came to this city Friday to enter the University, was called home Saturday by the sad and sudden death of his father, Dustin C. Oakes, cashier of the National Bank of Grand Haven, who was found dead in the river Saturday noon.

Mr. Oakes was in the habit of taking long walks for stomach trouble, and left the bank shortly after 11 o'clock. It is believed that he fell from a fishing tug at the river front during an attack of heart failure. His body was found 15 minutes after his watch stopped. Oakes was 45 years of age, was prominent in several manufacturing enterprises as well as in his bank. He is survived by a widow, two sons and a daughter, the oldest son being the boy who was called back from Ann Arbor Saturday.

JAILED FOR ASSAULT ON HIS WIFE

Godfrey Berger was given 15 days in jail Monday by Justice Gibson for assaulting his wife. Saturday evening Berger turned his wife and children out of the house. He was crazy drunk on wine, of which he had a large quantity in his cellar. Marshal Kelsey and Officer Collins arrested him. He is a big, powerful fellow and it took considerable diplomacy to land him in jail without a bad fight. Their home is on Seventh street and a patrol wagon would have come in handy Saturday night.

A NIGHT ALARM.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the brassy cough of croup, which sounds like the children's death knell, and it means death unless something is done quickly. Foley's Honey and Tar never fails to give instant relief and quickly cures the worst forms of croup. Mrs. P. L. Cordier, of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three year old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, the first dose gave quick relief and it saved her life." For sale by A. E. Mummery.

A Night Of Horror

Terrifying Experience of a Young Woman With Tarantulas.

Awakened From Sleep to Find Her Bed Covered With a Swarm of Loathsome Big Spiders.

One often hears hideous stories of encounters with venomous snakes and spiders by people who have been compelled to sleep in old deserted cabins in some wilderness, but what girl ever dreamed of going to bed in a beautiful city home surrounded by every luxury and waking to find the room swarming with great, vicious spiders? Yet that is exactly what happened to Miss Clara Hitchcock, a beautiful and accomplished young woman, while visiting friends in Los Angeles, Cal., recently.

Miss Hitchcock is an exquisite type of woman—young, vivacious and intellectual. She is tall and willowy, after the fashion of the Gibson girl. Her wavy hair, in which the sunbeams seem to linger and radiate, is pure gold and makes a gorgeous frame for her lovely, expressive face. Her complexion, with its pink and cream and dimples, would be the envy of a baby, but try as she will to be courageous and indifferent, the color dies from her cheeks and the dimples cease to play when she relates the horrors of that night.

"I had telegraphed the fact of my coming to my friends," she said, "They were at the station to meet me. I arrived late in the evening, was very tired after my long journey across the continent, and after a very short chat in the library my hostess took me to the spare room on the second floor.

"I lost no time in getting to bed and in a short time was sound asleep. As the night progressed I became restless. Once it seemed that something dropped on my forehead, but when I put my hand I felt nothing. I slipped off into a troubled doze, but was awakened by something running across my hand, which was lying outside the coverlet. A sort of terror stricken nervousness swept over me.

"The night was inky black—so black I could not discern any object in the room. I imagined I could hear sounds dim, strange and intangible. When I was getting ready for bed I had noticed a banjo in a corner of the room, and now I heard a faint tinkling as of something creeping over the strings.

"I felt as if I must have a light or die. I crept out of bed and groped about in the darkness for the electric burner. When I found it and turned the screw no light came. The works were out of order. Something cold and fuzzy ran across my bare feet. With a moan of terror I jumped into bed and pulled the covers close about me.

"But why didn't you call the folks in the house?" asked the listener.

"I did cry out several times, but as my room was far separated from the other sleeping apartments no one heard—no one came. Oh, the hideousness of that night! I covered my head with the bedclothes.

"But I couldn't breathe very well, so I threw the covers back again. As I did so a great, bristling, fuzzy thing, with hairs that pricked and feet that clung to my flesh, crept over my face. I struck at it wildly and sent it flying with such momentum that it hit against the opposite wall with a mussy thud, then dropped to the floor.

"After that I fell into a dream tortured sleep and did not awake until the sunlight was streaming through the dainty lace curtains that shielded the windows. A dim memory of awful dreams came to me, but I felt so drowsy and so tired, I gaped and stretched my arms, but as I let them drop my hands came in contact with things soft and hairy that writhed and struggled under my palms.

"Terrified I caught at the ironwork of the headboard. I sat up. The white rounterpane was covered with immense black tarantulas, some of which were standing on their haunches bristling with wrath, probably because of my quick movements. They were not only on the bed, but they were crawling up the curtains, while the carpet was dotted with the awkward, sprawling, venomous things, many of which covered a space as large as a man's hand. The room was a regular Dante's 'Inferno' as far as horrors were concerned. I screamed in terror."

The screams of the terrified girl brought the household quickly, for it was getting up time, and all were awake. The hostess arrived on the scene in negligee and slippers, but beat a hasty retreat when she realized the situation. The host, however, managed to control his repulsion and fear enough to wade into the spider den and kill the pests with a walking stick he had hurriedly grabbed when he heard the first signals of distress. As the spiders seemed eager to crawl up his clothing, he was compelled to tie his trousers securely about his ankles to avoid being bitten.

During the slaughter Miss Hitchcock fainted. When the spiders had all been killed and Miss Hitchcock resuscitated investigations were begun to find out how the creatures got into the room. A large number of berry boxes were found in a corner by the dresser and added greatly to the puzzle. At last, however, the actions of little Willy, the youngest member of the family, just turned ten, aroused suspicion.

When asked what the matter was he broke down completely and confessed the whole process from beginning to end. It seemed that the day before he had hunted the fields on the outskirts of the city for tarantulas, which he intended selling to the novelty works for 5 cents each. He caught thirty-five of the loathsome creatures and confined them in some empty berry boxes and had placed them in the spare chamber.

HORSE WHIPS SAVAGE BULL.

How a Farmer's Life Was Saved by the Pluck of a Stallion.

Hero horses are not uncommon in the annals of history, but the story of the bravery and intelligence of a stallion owned by a Tennessee farmer is so unusual as to deserve recording.

Bob Hunt, a well known stockman of Jackson, Tenn., owns a beautiful gray stallion and a fine Jersey bull. The latter is a vicious animal and on more than one occasion has shown a pugnacious disposition. Usually a pitchfork serves to subdue him, but sometimes his pugnacity gets the better of his discretion.

One day recently Mr. Hunt, in company with a small boy, was crossing the pasture in which the bull roams, leading the stallion. Suddenly the bull appeared upon the scene and showed evidence of wanting to fight. Mr. Hunt gave the halter rein to the boy and thought he would drive the irate animal away.

The bull started to flee, but changed his mind after running a short distance, and, discovering his pursuer did not have the dreaded pitchfork, he lowered his head and charged upon his master. Mr. Hunt attempted to run and fell. The bull butted him as he passed, and it looked for a moment as if Mr. Hunt would be gored to death.

The boy dropped the rein of the stallion and started off for help. It was then that the noble animal proved himself faithful to his master and was a real hero. Rearing up on his hind feet, with a snort of defiance, he bore down upon the bull, which in the meantime had returned a second time upon Mr. Hunt and was about to trample him to death. The horse bit a large piece of "beef and hair" out of the bull's back at the opportune moment and, wheeling, planted both rear heels in the ribs of his opponent, almost sending him to the earth and causing him to roar with pain.

The bull left his prostrate victim and fled in terror, with the horse pursuing him and taking chunks of hide and flesh every few steps until he had been chased to the bottom. The horse then returned to his master.

The healthy woman need not fear the change which comes at the beginning of life's autumn. It is the woman who is worn out, run down and a sufferer from womanly diseases who naturally dreads the change of life. This is the critical period of woman's life, and the prevalence of womanly diseases makes it the duty of every woman who would avoid unnecessary suffering to take special care of herself at this time.

The ills which vex so many women at the change of life are entirely avoided or cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong, and enables the weakest to pass through this trying change with the tranquility of perfect health.

"I have been a very healthy woman, and this time has been very hard with me," writes Mrs. Maggie Morris, of Munson Station, Clearfield Co., Pa., Box 16. "I am come to the time of change of life, and I have been sick a great deal of and on. When Mrs. Hemmis moved beside me I was sick in bed, and when she came to see me and we were talking over our sickness, Mrs. Hemmis told me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' also 'Pellets.' I got her to bring me a bottle of each from the drug store and I used them. They did me a great deal of good, and I got two more bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I never saw such a wonderful cure. Before I commenced your remedies I was good for nothing; was in such misery I hardly knew what to do with myself; now I can do all my work myself and feel well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take.

SHALL WE HAVE FREE LANGUAGES

Demand for New Policy at High School

AS TO TUITION CHARGES

Three Communications From Ann Arbor Tax Payers On the Subject

Ann Arbor, Sept. 28th, 1903. Editor of Ann Arbor Argus:

Dear Sir:—By the letter of Mr. Herbst in a recent issue of the Argus I have been greatly surprised to learn that Ann Arbor has the unique distinction among Michigan towns of charging tuition for language study in her high school. To a former student in two of the free high schools of the state and to a high school principal and superintendent for several years in other Michigan towns, and to a resident of Ann Arbor who in common with the citizenship of the state has taken a just pride in what we had supposed was the free school system of Michigan, you can imagine that it was something of a shock to his civic pride to learn that it remained for Ann Arbor, the boasted center of the educational life of the northwest, to levy tribute on parents and students who have the capacity, taste and ambition to cultivate the study of the languages in her high school. In common with other tax-payers and citizens of the state, I had supposed that we had done with rate-bills and established a free system about forty years ago and while, judging from our city's attitude toward a municipal water system and electric light plant, I was prepared to learn that we might be fifteen or twenty years behind the times, I would not have supposed that our educational matters, the chief object of our pride, were forty years behind the times. Policy and principle, it seems to me, require that tuition for languages and all other branches be abolished for resident students, and the public schools be made free as the law intends. To charge for instruction is to violate the spirit if not the letter of the law and it is very questionable whether the courts would not pronounce the action illegal if the matter were brought before them. Whether legal or not the tuition is an unfair burden on many tax-payers and is plainly a case of double taxation. It also discriminates unfairly against the study of languages and tends to strengthen the influences that are lowering the standard of scholarship and making the aim of the schools the perfecting of a wealth producing and money earning machine and not the development of well rounded manhood and womanhood. Let us take a forward step of forty years and stand abreast of the progressive cities of the state. Let us have a free high school.

C. K. PERRINE.

Editor Argus:

Will some present or former member of the school board enlighten resident school patrons, or tax-payers of Ann Arbor, why a tuition for language—Greek, Latin, French and German—of $3 each a semester is charged? Who conceived the propriety, the wisdom and justice of imposing such a tax on the already burdened tax-payer? One may pertinently ask, was it to enable the school board to hire professors of languages at an expense of from $2,000 to $3,000 per annum, and to make it a success conditioned that pupils could not graduate unless they took languages?

Please speak, some member or members of the present or former board, and enable us to see the propriety of such a tax, for unless this is done there will be a very hot campaign open in the future. And too, why should people who move into town to do business and to become permanent residents, tax-payers or not as yet, be obliged to pay tuition often amounting to $25 to $50 a year? Are such people, often poor laboring men, not burdened enough with the care of providing a winter's supply, with wages at $1.50 a day, or often not over $8.00 a week? Outrage! The hound stands ready to chase the child to school, extra tuition is demanded, food and clothing are the other necessities. Citizens, why do you allow wealthy gentlemen, men who are not blessed with children of school age, and single men to become your school officers? You complain and ask for relief, yet you stuff the ballot box with material that if it win out looks only to the interest and propagation of self. Of course if necessary the writer will pay the additional tax—or call it blood-money; but I believe the injustice—a tuitioned free school—can not endure much longer, seeing the opposition and the hardship it entails on many people.

Will not our present school board kindly do away with the offensive regulation and cease to be a hindrance to pupils graduating, or to their continuing their studies to the end? Few families will and can endure the expense. It will amount to what a far-sighted gentleman remarked: "If this extra tax is not removed, in a short time we shall need no more language professors."

MOTHER AND CHILD

Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil made almost as palatable as milk. It is easy and soothing to the weak stomach; it checks the tendencies of children toward thinness.

Scott's Emulsion gives strength to weak mothers because it creates healthy flesh and new blood.

Nursing mothers will find a special value in Scott's Emulsion because it insures a flow of rich, nourishing milk for the baby. More and better than a medicine; Scott's Emulsion is a food.

Scott's Emulsion is not a mere extract, containing imaginary "active principles" which do not exist, but is full of actual nourishment which sustains vital force and builds up the body tissues more rapidly than any other known remedy.

We'll send you a sample free upon request. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

that all instruction in the public schools should be free, "that if the instruction in foreign languages is not to be free, throw them out. But if instruction in these subjects is to be provided in the public schools make it free to the children of all the residents of the city." You have hit the nail square on the head. I cannot see how this position can be successfully assailed. It was never in the contemplation of the state to demand payment for any branch of study in our public schools. If any study is of sufficient importance to the people to demand its introduction into our public schools, and it is introduced there, it should become a part of our public school system and free to all. If it is not of such importance, "keep it out," as expressed by you, and let those who are able and wish to take such studies go to pay schools for it. The needs of the state and the people change with time. What seemed sufficient to make good citizens fifty years ago will not answer today. Our schools must grow with the growth of the state and society. The state is benefited in proportion as its inhabitants become self-supporting, law abiding and good citizens. Our public schools are the ground work and foundation for the attainment of these results. If demands of the times make the study of bookkeeping or short hand, or manual training an important aid to produce self supporting, good American citizens and the people of a community demand any of these studies to be a part of the curriculum of our public schools, they should be made such and be free to all. The same applies to the study of any language. And as stated by you, if the people do not wish any particular study to form a part of our free public system, "keep it out," and let us not have a mixture of free and pay schools in our public school system.

We are frequently accosted with the remark that our public schools are merely for the teaching of the English branches. This is not correct. Our public schools are for the purpose of making the children of the state intelligent, self-supporting and law-abiding citizens, and that method of teaching which will produce the best results in that direction should be adopted by the state. If teaching German or book-keeping or manual training give the boy and girl a better chance of earning a livelihood in the struggle for existence, these studies should be adopted in our public schools and should be free.

A generous, broad and liberal policy adopted in the school system of the state will react upon the state and will repay it many fold financially by producing more and better taxpayers, intellectually and morally, by producing more intelligent and better men and women, and will produce broader citizens all around.

DEATH OF

MRS. DODGE

Mrs. Elmira Dodge, wife of Postmaster Henry Dodge, and daughter of the late Joseph Pray, died at her home at Whitmore Lake early Monday. She has been ill for only a week with typhoid fever, but has been suffering for some time with inflammatory rheumatism. Mrs. Dodge was still a young woman, being but 38 years of age. She will be greatly missed as she was one of the most prominent ladies of her village, being lady commander of the Maccabees in that place. The funeral was held from her late residence Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

TEN YEARS IN BED.

R. A. Gray, J. P., Oakville, Ind., writes: "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." For sale by A. E. Mummary.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WHALEY MARRIED HALF CENTURY

Many Guests Present as Well as All the Children and Grandchildren

Milan, Mich., Sept. 29th, 1903.—Mr. and Mrs. William Whaley are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary here today, and it is very elaborate.

Mr. William Whaley was born in Loudon township, about four miles from Milan village, on November 22, 1834. He was the first white child born in Loudon township, and his father was one of the three white men who were the first settlers of the township, the father of John Bunce, also a resident of this place, having been one of the three. His mother died when he was very young, leaving him to his own resources, which his success in life indicates were ample for his need. He went to school at Dundee during his boyhood days.

Sarah Vealey was born in the state of New York, November 5, 1838, and when she was six years old came to Michigan with her parents, who settled at Dundee.

Mr. and Mrs. Whaley were married in Loudon township, September 29, 1853, thus having lived together happily for fifty years.

There were eight children born to them, only three of whom are living, as follows: Mrs. Emma Gauntlett, wife of Archie Gauntlett, and William H. Whaley of this place, and George F. Whaley, who resides at North Branch, and is connected with the Rex Hoop & Stave Co. of that place.

Mr. Whaley served in the war of the rebellion in the First Michigan (Custer's) Cavalry, for two years and eight months, and took part in 33 engagements, many of which were very important battles. He now draws a pension of $24 per month.

In 1853 he opened the Milan cider mill and cooper shop, and has operated them since that time. He now has an evaporator which employs several men, women and boys during the apple season.

He has been one of the men who was instrumental in making Milan what it is today, having paid out thousands of dollars yearly for products and labor, money which was mostly expended here in Milan, for the past fifty years.

He is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, Masonic and Oddfellows orders.

Mrs. Whaley belongs to the Eastern Star, Maccabees, Woman's Relief Corps and Daughters of Rebekah orders.

Over one hundred invitations were sent out of town. Among the guests are all the children, grand children, Mrs. J. T. Hafford of Albion, Myron Russell of Saline, Detective Clem Title of Detroit, George Whaley of Topeka, Kansas; Mr. Whaley's only brother, Henry Barr of Saline, Mrs. Penfield of Dundee, and Horace Pulver, one of his boyhood school-mates from Dundee, and many others from nearby places.

It was one of the pleasantest golden wedding celebrations ever held here.

Sheriff Gauntlett of Ann Arbor is here today visiting.

Rev. Howard A. Field is today removing his household goods to Detroit, and with his wife will leave soon.

Fred Moffitt of Jasper is visiting his parents, Wm. Moffitt and wife.

Addison Gardner has returned from his visit in Detroit, and is staying with his daughter, Mrs. Lincoln L. Schmitt.

Charles M. Blackner returned from his Detroit trip this morning.

L. Wells Sprague and wife, who have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Rosina Redman, for some time returned home to Greenville today.

Frank Showers has left here for Mt. Pleasant, where he will study music at the Normal. He was cashier for A. E. Putnam.

Charles H. Kelsey spent the night here at his home.

Richard Eastlick and wife are in Carleton attending the base ball tournament.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Redman street, died this morning.

Miss Hattie Wolcott has been out from Detroit visiting her mother.

Mrs. Milton J. Crane of Hillsdale is visiting C. L. Clark and wife.

Mrs. Carrie Easterly is moving to Detroit, where her son Willie, has a good position in a machine shop.

Mrs. Max Saxton is visiting Mrs. Rosina Redman today.

THE LOCAL FAUNA TO BE STUDIED

A NEW COURSE ADDED TO ZOOLOGY WORK

Curator Adams will Have Charge and Give Lectures—Only a Dozen Students Can be Accommodated

A new and interesting course has for the first time been put into the biological department of the University and the first class has been formed for this semester's work. The new course will be known as field ecology and is intended as an introduction to the study of the relation of animals to their natural environment, as illustrated by the local fauna. The primary aim is not to give a mass of information, but to present a point of view and such methods of work as should aid one in studying his local fauna. There has been a demand for such a course for some time but there has been difficulty in securing some one to give it. Prof. Adams, curator of the museum, has finally consented to take charge of the work, but does not want more than a dozen students in the class, as it would be difficult to do justice to a greater number.

ANOTHER BILL FOR DIVORCE

EVELINE AND JAMES ALFORD ARE NO LONGER ONE

Eveline Alford, of Ypsilanti, has filed a bill for divorce from her liege lord, James W. Alford, of the same town, in which she retails a tale of woe that would move a wooden Indian.

She states that she gave her loving heart to James' charge on the 16th day of May, 1878, in the township of Augusta, and for a time all went well. But later James took to drink and began to be cruel, using abusive language to her and actually threatening to destroy her life. Upon one occasion, she states, he was seized with the murderous feeling in the middle of the night and arose from his couch with threats that he would cut her throat and the threat caused such fear that she was almost frightened into giving up the ghost. Finally to cap the climax, James ceased to contribute to her support about two years ago and she has since been compelled to fight the battle alone. She relates that they have four children and about five acres of land. She asks that she be given the land and granted alimony and attorney fees.

SIMEON DUNN'S 88TH BIRTHDAY

Simeon Dunn, father of Mrs. George Eddy, was at home Wednesday to his friends in commemoration of his 88th birthday anniversary. Mr. Dunn was born in 1815 in Groveland, N. Y., and since 1837 has lived near Hillsdale, Mich. He is one of Michigan's pioneers, having helped lay out the government land. In 1852 he took the overland trip to California in search of riches. He served in the army under VanBuren and Polk and was made captain, and loves nothing better now than to tell of all the maneuvers that took place in the war. Mr. Dunn is in excellent health and is young among his seventeen grandchildren, and is honored as a strong man and good.

It's folly to suffer from that horrible plague of the night, itching piles. Doan's Ointment cures, quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50c.

HAND IN HAND.

WHERE YOU FIND ONE, YOU'LL FIND THE OTHER.

Health and Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy are boon companions; they travel together hand in hand, and where you find one you'll find the other. The countless testimonials received by the Doctor from sufferers who have been cured of the numerous diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Female Weaknesses, is splendid proof of this fact.

Put some urine in a small glass and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment; if it is pale or discolored, cloudy or rosy; your kidneys and bladder are sick and there is no medicine in existence that has made such remarkable cures as Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. If you are doubtful, it will only cost you the price of a postal card TO DISPEL THAT DOUBT.

It is a matter of absolute indifference to us how many physicians or specialists have prescribed for you without bringing you relief; write your full name and address on a postal card and send it to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and you will receive absolutely free, a trial bottle of DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of sufficient quantity to convince you of its rapid relieving powers, and that a continuation of its use will cure any disease of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood.

Druggists sell it in New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles.

WEAKNESS PECULIAR TO MEN AND WOMEN. It is sad to contemplate the unfortunate condition of so many men of our day and generation. At 30 they feel 50; at 40 they feel 60, and at 50, when they should be in the very prime of life, they are almost ready for the grave. The fire of youth has gone out, the fountain of vitality is exhausted. Premature old age! No matter what produced it, whether immorality in youth, later excesses, or business worries, the one thing for you to do is to get back the vim, the vigor and vivacity of manhood. Don't lose your grip on life. We can and will not only help you, but cure you to stay cured. Curing diseases and weaknesses of the nervous and physical system has been our exclusive business for the past 30 years, during which time we have cured enough fallen men to make an army. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will restore to you what you have lost. It purifies and enriches the BLOOD, strengthens the NERVES, vitalizes the mental organs, checks all unnatural drains and pains and fits a man for the active duties of life. Edwin Conde, of Krapf & Hayden laundry, fell from his wheel Wednesday afternoon while turning the corner on Washington and Main streets, and was pretty badly shaken up when he was brought to the laundry. The street was wet, and in the speed of making a short turn Mr. Conde was thrown hard upon the pavement. He was badly bruised, but nothing more serious has been heard.

The Chelsea Herald, published by T. W. Mingay, has enlarged to a six-column quarto. Larger type is used, which must be very restful to the eyes of its older readers, and Mr. Mingay has more needed room for his advertisers. Some of the readers who were young men when they first began reading the Herald must be comparatively well along in years now. Long may the Herald flourish.

Miss Ellen B. Frink entertained eight of her girl friends Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6, at her home on Washtenaw avenue. This small reception was given by Mrs. F. G. Frink in honor of Miss Ellen's 14th birthday. If it is true, as someone has said, that the main thing at a party is to have plenty to eat, this little company had the main thing—and they had a very pleasant time besides.

Miss Ella B. Mills of this city, who graduated with the class of '95, has been teaching continually since then, and for the past five years, has held a responsible position as teacher and principal of the State Industrial Home for Girls, at Adrian. She has been granted a leave of absence for one year, which she will spend at the Normal, at Ypsilanti, in special studies and music and drawing.

Jacob Lutz has filed a bill for a mandamus against George J. Buss, the secretary and manager of Cutting, Reyer & Co., asking that he show cause why Mr. Lutz be not permitted to inspect the books of the company at all reasonable times. Mr. Lutz is the owner of three-twentieths of the stock in the company and claims that the directors under whose direction Mr. Buss is acting are hostile to him.

Frederick Stollsteimer, aged 43 years, died Saturday evening at his home in Scio. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. John Volz and Mrs. Charles Zuern, of this city. He leaves a widow and six small children. A short service was held at his late residence Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock, and another at Dexter at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Meister officiating. The interment was made at the Dexter cemetery.

Walter W. Case, Michigan Central agent in this city, was married Wednesday to Miss Agnes M. Calhoun, at the residence of the bride, in Detroit. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the immediate relatives being present. After the ceremony the couple left for a trip to Salt Lake city and other western points, expecting to return in about ten days, when they will make their home in one of the Cornwell houses on E. Kingsley street.

WHAT IS LIFE?
In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at A. E. ## WHAT WE ARE COMING TO

The latest thing in the interurban roads is a buffet and parlor combination car, twenty of which are being built by the Union Traction company of Indiana, controlled by the Widener-Elkins syndicate. These cars will be finished in mahogany, will have four 75 horse-power motors, equipped with air brakes. There will be a small kitchen. In the buffet department will be parlor chairs and in the other section regular day coach seats. The twenty cars when finished will cost the Union Traction company $240,000. The Indiana Traction company will use these buffet parlor cars in the express service that it will establish between Indianapolis and Marion, Ind. An extra fare will be charged on them. The only stops to be made by these cars between Indianapolis and Marion will be at Anderson and Elwood. The distance of 76 miles, including all stops, will be covered in two hours. The cars will have sufficient power to travel at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

STICK BELONGED TO GRANDFATHER

Sheriff Gauntlett is the possessor of a policeman's billy which he not only prizes for its age, but also for the fact that it was carried by both his father and grandfather, who served as policeman in the city of London, England, for many years.

The stick is about 15 inches long and is made of some light but tough wood and has become of a dark mahogany color through age. It must be over 100 years old as Mr. Gauntlett's grandfather was a policeman for many years. He was followed by his son—Mr. G's father—who became the owner of the stick and brought it from England with him. Later it became the property of the sheriff, who considers it one of his choicest possessions.

MRS. WALKER'S SIDE OF THE CASE

Mrs. C. P. Walker desires to contradict the article which appeared in the Argus of Tuesday concerning her mother, Mrs. William Lamborn, of Felch street, who broke her hip last week. She denies that her mother had taken more than a quarter of a grain of morphine and objects very strenuously to not being allowed to see her mother, which she lays upon Dr. Herdman, who has nothing to do with the case now that it is in the hospital. Her objection to her mother's going to the hospital in the morning seems to have been from the fear that they would hurt her in moving her, and she claims that her mother begged her not to allow her to be taken to the hospital.

INTENSE LECTURE VIVID PICTURES

"Fox's Book of Martyrs, revised and vivified," might well entitle Henry Herbert Booth's pictorial lecture given Monday night in First Baptist church. Quiet, little Ann Arbor, that has prayed for excitement, is not without influence, for the rather small house that was present last evening was thrilled and disturbed and satisfied with every old and lingering method of torture, horror and exquisite creepiness. For the pictures were vivid and good, which represented the seemingly impossible persecutions of the early Christians by the mob, the lynch law, the dungeon, the arena, the bonfire of fagots and the carnival of blood—all because of the hope they had in a Nazarene carpenter who died on the cross. Mr. Booth has a clear, intense way of lecturing, with nothing sentimental about it, which proclaimed the earnestness of the man who takes this rather aesthetic method of doing good. Occasionally he would put to his audience a "soul searching" question, which savored of the "revival," but the putting was effective and the pictures, many of which were accompanied by music, were worth double the quarter or the "comp." that revived us again.

THE DEATH OF PETER LONG

Peter Long, a former well known resident of Ann Arbor, died Monday at Brainard hospital, Alma, Mich. He was a brother of the late Mrs. John Phillips, of this city, and of Mrs. Elizabeth Hanson, of Detroit, both of whom died within the last seven months.

He is survived by a wife and two sons, two sisters, Mrs. Mary Howles of this city and Mrs. B. E. Clark of Detroit, and also by one brother, Mat Long, of Detroit. The remains were brought to this city Wednesday for interment and the funeral was held at St. Thomas church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

In selecting a business training school the best is the one that produces the most successful results. It is the Detroit Business University, Detroit, Mich. It points to over fifty years of unexampled success.

DR. FRUTH

Will be at the Cook house, Ann Arbor, Thursday, Oct. 15, from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m.

THE MOST RELIABLE and successful specialist of all Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood diseases of every nature upon the latest scientific principles, has visited the neighboring towns since 1890, cures the cases he undertakes and refuses a fee from the incurables. This is why he continues his visits year after year, while other specialists have made a few visits and cease to return.

HE PARTICULARLY invites all whose cases have been neglected, badly treated or pronounced incurable. Patients who are doing well under the care of their own physicians need not call on us, as our province is to treat those who can not find relief otherwise. No money required of responsible parties to commence treatment. DR. FRUTH through years of experience has perfected the most infallible method of curing Nervous Debility, Physical Weakness, Premature Decline, Poor Memory, Lack of Will Power, Mental Anxiety and Insomnia, which often ends in insanity and death. A perfect restoration guaranteed under legal contract in writing, backed up by abundant capital to hold for my promise. It costs no more to employ an expert than to risk your life with an inexperienced physician. I ALSO CURE all curable cases of Catarrh, Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidney, Heart, Stomach, Bowels, Bladder and Skin Diseases by a treatment that has never failed in thousands of cases that have been pronounced beyond hope. EVERY CASE of Piles, Fistula, Rupture and Varicocele guaranteed cured without detention from business. REMARKABLE CURES perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but personal consultation is preferred. REMEMBER DATE of visit. Come early as parlors are always crowded. A friendly call may save you future suffering; it has made life anew to thousands who had been pronounced beyond hope. Bring sample of your urine, for examination.

A History of Washtenaw County Medical Society

By Doctor William F. Breakey

The following history of the Washtenaw County Medical Society was read before the society some time ago. It calls to mind the names of many who did so much to relieve the ills of mankind that it deserves circulation outside of the medical fraternity:

The present society had its inception in a call for a meeting of the physicians of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, issued about the middle of June, 1836, which meeting was held in Ann Arbor June 27 following, at which time this society was organized, or perhaps I should better say reorganized, as this was not the first medical organization in the county. Indeed Washtenaw was the first county in the state to establish a county medical society. The Territorial Medical Society, organized in 1819, had the authority conferred by the Territorial Government to grant and revoke licenses to practice medicine, and to determine the qualifications of candidates for practice and also the fitness of medical students to enter upon the study of medicine. The Territorial Society likewise granted to licensed physicians in any county, on application, the right to form a local society. "Thus June 12, 1827, permission was granted Doctors Cyril Nichols, Rufus Pomeroy, William Kitteridge and Daniel Low to form a Washtenaw County Medical Society."

The various Washtenaw county histories have but little to say of pioneer physicians and nothing of medical societies. Like the usual subscription histories they dedicate to fame subscribers chiefly. The only mention I find of physicians in early history—apart from a few individual biographies—is in the history of Pittsfield Township, namely, "no physician settled in this town prior to Doctor Nathan Webb, 1835, (A biographic sketch of Doctor Webb says he came to Pittsfield in 1840). "Doctor Nichols, of Ann Arbor, was one of the first physicians to attend the afflicted in town. Doctors Lord, Denton, Cole and Brighton have gone to the spirit land. Doctors Pomeroy, Millington, Town and Fairchild from Ypsilanti were also early doctors who visited the township as a professional man."

I have an old time-worn folio paper given me after graduation, in 1859, by Doctor Denton, who held the chair of Theory and Practice of Medicine and Pathology in the University from 1850 to 1860. It is entitled, "Medical Ethics Compiled and Abridged by the Ann Arbor Association of Physicians, from the code adopted by the National Medical Convention in 1847, Philadelphia."

The circular is made up of abstracts and quotations from the code of ethics, followed by a "Tariff of Pecuniary Acknowledgements" adopted by the Association. This paper bears no date, but it evidently was published between 1847 and 1851 as an item in the tariff reads—"Visits in the county after dark or in the village after bedtime double." Ann Arbor ceased being a village and became—by incorporation—a city in 1851.

Just when this association was organized, or whether by the doctors authorized in 1827, I am as yet unable to learn, nor when it died or the causes which led to its untimely end. I have been unable to find any record of its transactions. Its purpose to maintain rational medicine and ethical practice and to require some entrance qualifications of medical students is evident in the paper quoted. It is a fair inference that it left some latent seed which germinated in the conception of the present society.

The constitution of the existing society says: Article II: The objects of this society shall be the advancement of professional character, medical knowledge, the elevation of and the encouragement of zeal, emulation and friendly intercourse among the members of the profession.

Article IV: It shall be considered a dereliction of duty for any member of this society to admit into his office as a student of medicine any person who shall not first present a certificate of qualification as provided in article VI.

Article IX: The code of medical ethics of the American Medical Association shall be adopted by the society.

Two classes of membership were provided for—active and honorary. Among its charter members were: Doctor Alonzo Palmer (its first president), Doctor Abram Sager, Doctor Albert B. Prescott, Doctor Henry S. Cheever, Doctor William Lewitt and Doctor William F. Breakey, of Ann Arbor, and Doctor Francis M. Oakley, Doctor Edward Batwell and Doctor John W. Babbitt of Ypsilanti. These were followed within the year by many others. In its list of members was to be found the name of nearly every regular and reputable physician in the county and of many of those within contiguous counties, while its honorary membership included many prominent physicians and surgeons.

The meetings of the society were held quarterly. No departure from this plan was formally authorized, but when Doctor Gibbs was president monthly meetings were held. The original plan was to hold two meetings in Ann Arbor—usually the winter and spring meetings, the June meeting in Ypsilanti, and the fall meeting in some other part of the county. The society aimed to enlist the interest of all its members, particularly to bring into active relations, and within the reach of its influence all practitioners of medicine.

The proceedings of its meetings while formal were very democratic. All were doctors. No distinction existed other than is always spontaneously accorded to merit. The humblest, youngest and most modest were made to feel at home in the society and encouraged to contribute to its work and welfare. The reading of several short papers rather than long essays was encouraged, thus giving opportunity to more of its members to contribute to the interest of meetings. Numerous reports were made of cases in practice, with brief discussions in which all were invited to participate. Among the important subjects discussed by the society in its early years was that of criminal abortion. The action of the society formulated in resolutions prepared by Doctor Sager was referred to the State Society with the recommendation that that body present it to the State Legislature, and this expression was the means of securing important legislation. That the society had the courage of its resolutions was shown by the fact that one of its members, against whom charges were being prepared, withdrew before they could be preferred, thus saving himself expulsion. He moved from the county but was subsequently repeatedly arrested, charged with the same crime, and though he several times escaped conviction, he finally served a term in the state prison for causing death by criminal abortion.

The society secured the analysis of numerous much vaunted proprietary medicines and exposed their worthlessness. In this creditable work Doctor Silas H. Douglas, Doctor Albert B. Prescott and Doctor Preston B. Rose were chiefly active. Various scientific investigations—physiologic, pathologic, pharmacologic, and therapeutic were undertaken, and many valuable papers and important contributions to medical literature of the time were presented. Among them, as samples, and quoting from memory, were "Diseases of the Cord and Placenta," "Case of Simultaneous Intra and Extrauterine Pregnancy," "Ophthalmia Neonatorum," "Case of Delivery by Cesarean Section"—one of, if not the first reported in the state, by Dr. Abram B. Sager; papers on "Consumption," "Climate," "Paralysis," and others by Doctor Alonzo B. Palmer; and papers of much interest then on the Climatology of New Mexico, Colorado, and the higher altitudes of the Rocky Mountain range in that latitude, also in North Carolina with discriminative observations of the class of cases benefited, and the need for care in gradual elevations, by Doctor Henry S. Cheever, studied when trying to arrest his own tuberculous disease which proved fatal. Doctor Oakley and Doctor Batwell contributed many interesting and valuable papers practical and helpful to physicians, and both ingenious in mechanic devices for surgical appliances, a qualification of much value at that time when instrument makers and supplies were not as numerous and near as now. Papers and addresses were also given by Doctors William Warren Greene, Alpheus Crosby, Samuel G. Armor, Frothingham, Maclean, Sewell, Howell, Abel, Dunster and others.

But valuable as were these contributions of investigation and practice, they were hardly more beneficial to members of the society than was the social commingling, and the opportunities to know and appreciate the individual characteristics of fellow-practitioners and to observe that in supporting a brother physician in proper conduct they were supporting the profession of medicine as a whole, and tending to maintain that high professional esprit de corps essential to the success of organized effort.

The more recent work and contributions of living members, the limits of this paper do not afford space to even mention by title. It is no disparagement to any that may be overlooked. Valuable work has been done under the presidencies, in successive order, of Doctors George, Darling, Gibbs, Vaughan, Carrow, Dock, Novy, Huber, Warthin, and Peterson.

Among the practical things accomplished in the direction of securing better fees for public service was the adoption of a scale of fees by the Board of Supervisors of 1874, for post-mortem examinations and for coroner's inquests (excluding chemic analysis for poisons). A committee of the society, consisting of Doctor Webb, Doctor John Kapp, and your historian, went before the board, representing the importance of correct findings, the responsibility attaching to such examinations, and testimony involving interests of property, personal liberty and life, in addition to risks of infection to operators, and presented a schedule of fees. The fees adopted by the board were fair and reasonable for the time, ranging from $5 for ordered inspection of cadaver, with reference to testifying as to cause of death; $10 each for section of thorax or abdomen and examination of their viscera; $15 for section of skull and examination of any two of these cavities; and $25 for all of them. This fee bill for ordinary legal inquests was quite generally copied in different parts of Michigan and other states, but unfortunately after a few years, boards of supervisors—whose rules are not like the laws of the Medes and Persians—declined to be bound by the rules of their official predecessors, and they claimed as a reason for not adhering to this scale of fees, that in so many cases the doctors found it necessary to examine contents of chest, abdomen and skull, and did not always find the cause of death then, but charged the whole schedule of fees. It is not improbable that there was some ground for the action of the board.

The society has had various stages of prosperity and adversity—of enterprising zeal and decline of energy. Some earnest differences arose that divided its members in positive opposition at the time, and enlisted the sympathies of the profession at large and furnished the laity opportunity to ask "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" Time has removed most of the actors in the little drama, and in the dim retrospect, the remembrance seems almost amusing in the sidelights cast during the lapse of more than a quarter of a century.

No history of the society would be complete without mention of the break in its ranks on the introduction of homeopathy into the university. As it divided the faculty of the department of medicine and surgery and members of the State Society, it is not strange that the subject should have aroused as great interest in the home society as it did in the profession of the state and throughout the country. The secession of members of the faculty and the formation by them of the Ann Arbor Academy of Medicine followed. The Academy was denied representation in the meeting of the American Medical Association at Buffalo the following year through protest from this society. Later the faculty was glad to make use of the attitude of this society, supported by the State Medical Society, to induce the regents to relieve the department of medicine and surgery of many of the most obnoxious features of the relations at first established. The contention led to bitter feeling at the time, members on both sides no doubt failing to apprehend the real position of those differing, and each claiming to be actuated by highest regard for the good of the profession and the university. Like the shield in the fable, the situation had two sides. Fortunately members of the society were too wise not to recognize established facts, and too sensible to permit such a situation to destroy the usefulness of the society, and the controversy has long since been a closed incident.

Many of its members have served their communities in public office with fidelity and credit. Doctors Webb, Ewing, and Howell represented their districts and the county in the State Legislature, while others rendered service on the Boards of Education and Public Health. Doctors Batwell, Breakey, Cheever, Dunster, Ewing, Gariges, Maclean, Oakley, Owen, Palmer, Prescott, Rose and Smith served in the Civil War from 1861 to 1865, and Doctors Bourns, Owen, Nanerede, and Vaughan in the War with Spain.

Its roll of honor of those who have answered the last call and paid the debt of nature, grows larger year by year. Naming them from memory, but not in the order of their departure, I place in this memorial record Doctors Armer, Ashley, Babbitt, Batwell, Benn, Bigelow, Cheever, Crosby, Chamberlain, Douglas, Downer, Dunster, Ewing, Fairchild, Frothingham, Gariges, Gates, Greene, Halleck, E. Hall, Daniel Hall, Hawxhurst, Helber, Howell, Kinne, Lewitt, Lyster, Loomis, Oakley, Palmer, Post, Rexford, Root, Sager, W. B. Smith, Elias Smith, Van Tyne, Voorhies, Wells, Webb, and Zimmerman.

There may be others who have been overlooked in the preparation of this list.

It is an honor to have known them and to have been associated with them in professional work. Of the charter members I believe only Doctor Prescott and myself survive. The story was told of Thadens Stevens, when so old and helpless that he had to be carried up the steps of the Capitol to his seat in Congress, that he asked the two vigorous young men who bore him—"Boys, I wonder who will carry me up when you are dead?" I trust Doctor Prescott will continue in faithful service for many years yet, and while I do not attempt much sprinting on foot, or desire service on standing committees, I hope to be able to share in the history the society will continue to make as long as possible, so—

"When I remember all the friends so linked together I've seen around me fall, like leaves in wintry weather, I do not feel like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted, Whose lights are fed, whose garlands dead, and all but me departed." For I renew my youth and keep in touch with the procession in the presence of these zealous younger doctors, the infusion of whose young professional blood is to keep up the circulation of the society till they in turn give it over, healthy and prosperous, to their successors. Its opportunities are large to do good for the profession, for its members, and for the public. A society no more than an individual can always secure immediate results of its labors. But its ideas, its opinions and its facts of scientific demonstration can be recorded. It can enter its protests against vice, error and quackery and sometime, soon or late, it will achieve success.

It will do the same for you: "I write you this letter through gratitude for the benefit I have received by taking your valuable remedies. For three years I was subject to dizzy spells, sometimes several in a day. When I had them I could not raise my head from the pillow. My heart was greatly affected and I frequently had spells of severe palpitation and fluttering, pain, tenderness, choking sensations, could not lie on my left side and was not able to do any work. I called a doctor who helped me some but the dizzy spells grew more frequent and I was so very nervous that I did not care to live. One day I asked the Lord to take me from this world or put my eyes on something that would help me. The first paper I took up was a New York paper and in it I saw your advertising. My husband got me three bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and I have since which time I have had no more dizzy spells. I can lie on either side and sleep all night. I have been able to do my own work for three years. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure saved my life."—Mrs. R. H. Burch, Burch, S. D.

TRIED TO DRINK CARBOLIC ACID

Two Year Old Baby Has Narrow Escape

BABY SISTER TOOK BOTTLE

From a Shelf to Which She Climbed and Gave It to Little Fellow

Carbolic acid came near causing the death of the two year old son of Gottlieb Hartman of W. Liberty street, last week. George, the little boy was playing with his little sister only about a year older. The children were alone for a short time and finally wanted something to drink. The little sister climbed up to some shelves on which were a number of bottles and picking out the one which looked the most like water, she handed it down to the baby boy, telling him to drink it. The little boy started to do so but spilled it over his face and neck. Of course the instant the carbolic acid, for the little girl had handed down the carbolic acid bottle, touched the little boy's face, he began to scream, which quickly brought his mother to the rescue.

Dr. Blair was summoned at once but found that the child had not swallowed more than two or three drops. A half spoonful of the acid would have proven fatal.

The child is resting quite comfortably this morning.

A family suit is on in the circuit court. Elsie, Agnes and Bert Hinckley, all of age, have sued their father, George Hinckley, for the 80-acre farm in Dexter township, their mother, Margaret Hinckley, left. There was one other child the mother left, Floyd Hinckley, now aged 19 years. The estate was not probated and the three children claim that their father obtained their signatures to a paper which he represented was to take the place of one their mother burned and which he has since told them was a quit-claim deed of the farm to them. They claim that no consideration passed and want the deed canceled.

DIAMONDS IN ALASKA.

While many prospectors have been confining their search chiefly for gold and copper deposits in Alaska, others have been searching for diamonds, and according to recent reports they have been successful in finding a few valuable specimens. There are many other persons who have been searching for years for something far more precious than gold or diamonds and that is—health. They have tried this medicine and that one in a vain hope of finding it, without success. They should try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters because it is the most successful health maker in the world, and is backed by a record of fifty years of cures. It will positively cure indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness, insomnia and malaria, fever and ague. Try it.

A GRAPHIC PICTORIAL LECTURE

The thrilling story of the early Christians was most graphically told and illustrated by Henry Herbert Booth at Baptist church Sunday evening. Every available seat in the church was taken and scores of people were turned away.

It was no idle picture show but a lecture made more interesting by a series of connected and well arranged views, not copies of artists pictures but were taken from life. A company of 600 Orientals had posed for Mr. Booth and having their heart and soul in the work. As pictures they were perfect. They glowed with all the brightness and coloring of Oriental life.

The lecture opened with the events in the ministry of Jesus Christ. One picture after another was thrown upon the canvass until the entire story of the crucifixion, the early martyrs, the life of St. Paul, of St. Peter, the persecution of Nero and the life in the Catacombs was told and illustrated.

Mr. Booth is a pioneer in the work of preaching the gospel by eye as well as by ear. If he is given the loyal support of Christian workers he will be able not only to illustrate his own sermons but those of others and put these pictorial sermons in the hands of all ministers.

SIR JOHN SOANE'S WHIM.

The Practical Joke a Celebrated Man Played on Posterity.

One of the most famous of post-mortem jokes was that perpetrated by the donor of the celebrated Soane museum of pictures and other valuable objects d'art to England, the late Sir John Soane, who died in 1837. In his will Sir John made provision for the opening of three sealed cupboards on certain specified dates in the presence of the trustees. In 1866, that is to say almost thirty years after the death of the testator, the first of the mysterious receptacles was with much ceremony and breaking of seals opened in the presence of a committee of men, with the then president of the Royal academy, Sir F. Grant, at their head. Instead of a priceless treasure or some evidence that would throw an entirely new light upon some doubtful incident in political history the contents of the cupboard proved to be worthless accounts, letters and stationery.

Twenty years passed by, and the interest that had smoldered after the disappointment of 1866 was again fanned into flame at the prospect of breaking the seals of the second cupboard, at which rite there were present among others Dr. Alfred Waterhouse, R. A., and Sir (then Dr.) B. W. Richardson. Like the cupboard mentioned in the well known nursery rhyme, Sir John's second cabinet proved "bare" of any sensation, the contents being chiefly composed of letters relating to certain long forgotten family quarrels that had not even the merit of being interesting. If some of those authorized to be present at the opening of the third and last receptacle of mystery were dubious about the profit that would accrue by letting the light of day fall upon the contents thereof after sixty years' darkness one at least, Sir B. W. Richardson, looked forward with unabated interest to that day in 1896 when the last seal would be broken and the mystery solved, but he, alas, died just two days before the ceremony was performed, and the fact that Sir John had played a practical joke upon posterity was duly confirmed by the presence of a collection of perfectly worthless letters and papers.

MERRY MEALTIMES.

The Table No Place For Fault Finding, Nagging and Strife.

Has it ever been your lot to sit at a table with a group of young folks who ate the meal in silence or, with a few constrained remarks, looked askance at the head of the family before venturing on any remark? I have seen such a sight on more than one occasion. Doctors have told us over and over again of the beneficial results arising from a meal eaten with a contented frame of mind and with cheerful surroundings; but, sad to say, there are many households where each meal is a constant scene of bickering, nagging and fault finding.

This is not only the case where there are young children, who require a reprimand occasionally for carelessness, but I am speaking of those homes where the girls and boys are well into their teens. Wrong is that parent, either father or mother, who chooses the hour when all are assembled round the table to mention some half forgotten grievance or to find some fault.

If any trivial thing has been done wrong or any duty omitted wait until dinner or tea is over before you scold, blame, or reprimand. Let the food which God gives us for the purpose of nourishing and sustaining our bodies have the opportunity of accomplishing that end, which cannot be the case if every mouthful is swallowed with either a sarcastic word or an uncompromising remark. More indigestion, nervousness and other derangements are caused by the too common fault of uncomfortable mealtimes than many people would suppose, and it is our positive duty, which we should all try to remember, to make those hours of the day cheerful and agreeable to the children and to set them an example which you would be the first to notice and approve in others.—Scotsman.

So Nice and Sympathetic.

A gentleman whose one glass eye has served him for years had the misfortune to drop it. It smashed to atoms. This happened when he was far away in the country. He inquired of a friend where was the nearest place for him to go and get refitted. "Why don't you call upon the girl you were flirting with all last night?" his friend inquired. "She has a first class reputation for making eyes."—Punch.

Prayer of the Convert.

A south sea islander at the close of a religious meeting offered the following prayer: "O God, we are about to go to our respective homes. Let not the words we have heard be like the fine clothes we wear—soon to be taken off and folded up in a box till another Sabbath comes around. Rather, let thy truth be like the tattoo on our bodies—ineffaceable till death."—Carleton's Magazine.

The Temperature.

"Why do you watch the thermometer on the wall so closely?" queried the invalid. "Because," replied the untrained nurse, "the doctor said if the temperature got any higher I was to give you another dose of quinine."

Bewildered.

"John Henry, I'll thrash you soundly if I ever catch you telling another story that isn't true."
"And yet, ma, I heard you say to the minister that I had great imagination."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A show of daring oft conceals great cowardice.—Lucan.

MOTHER BROKE HER HIP

And Lay for Days in a Stupor Without Medical Aid—Daughter Bound She Should Not Get Hospital Aid

It was hard to get the free beds in the University hospitals for the city poor, and it sometimes seems hard to get them occupied by the people who should be there.

Mrs. Lamborn fell down in the kitchen of her home on Felch street either Tuesday or Wednesday night. Her husband fixes the date as Tuesday and the daughter as Wednesday. She suffered great pain and was given, according to the family, a half grain of morphine to ease the pain. Friday, at about 1 o'clock, Dr. E. K. Herdman, the city physician, was called in and found Mrs. Lamborn lying on a lounge in an unconscious state. It was impossible to waken her. A brief examination convinced him that her hip was probably dislocated and he left word to be called as soon as she awakened. Saturday at about 10 o'clock she awoke from her stupor and the doctor was again called. He advised immediate removal to the hospital and an ambulance was sent for as she was willing to go. When Dieterle arrived with his ambulance and they were lifting her to the stretcher the daughter, a big, husky girl, interfered and forced the mother back on the bed to which the doctor had previously transferred her. She insisted that the mother was not going to a hospital.

Later Saturday Poor Commissioner Siple, Chief of Police Kelsey and Dr. Herdman again visited the house, as it was evident that the woman could not be treated at home. Dr. Morton had in the meantime called and repeated the injunction to take her to the hospital. Between the four of them consent was finally secured and another call was made for the ambulance.

Sunday noon she was still under the influence of the opiate which had been administered before medical aid was called, as she had quickly dropped back into the stupor from which she had awoke. The doctors had given her no drug and could not understand how so little morphine could keep her under the influence such a length of time. But Sunday afternoon a thorough examination was made and it was found that she had a bad fracture of the hip, which it took four doctors to reduce.

In the meantime the family is again raising a racket about her removal to the hospital. If she had not been removed she would have died and besides, the city could not have cared for her where she was without great expense. Mrs. Lamborn is 65 years of age and is a very large and fleshy woman. Dr. Herdman deserves credit for securing these beds for

Mrs. Sally Hack, who is better known as "Grandma Hack," was born in Richfield, N. Y., May 10, 1807, in which place she spent her girlhood days, her maiden name being Sally Paine. Mrs. Hack will be 97 years old next May, and is the oldest resident of the village, and is as spry and hearty as many people at 60, although she has failed much during the past year. She married Bethuel Hack on January 5, 1826, when she was 19 years of age, and lived in the state of New York until 1832, when she and her husband moved to Michigan. Four children were born to them, two of whom died while young, James B. having died at Monroe, Mich., of smallpox while on his way with a regiment in the Civil war, and Emaline. William Henry, who lives a half mile east of town, and Sarah Adaline Ostrander, who resides at London, about six miles east of town, are still living. Mr. and Mrs. Hack lived on a farm one and a half miles east of Milan, where Mr. Hack managed a large farm until he died on April 14, 1872, at the age of 75 years, after which Mrs. Hack removed to Milan village, where she has since resided. Mrs. Hack has lived to enjoy having twelve grandchildren, of whom four have died, and seven great-grandchildren, of which one has died, which is not a common matter of relation. Mrs. Hack has a very remarkable memory for one so old, and she relates some very interesting and exciting experiences of her pioneer days in Michigan. She went this summer to spend a week with her daughter at London, having ridden all the way in a carriage. She also attended the old folks' service held in the Methodist church about a month ago. She is now completely blind, and is getting very deaf. Nearly everyone in town keeps advised as to her health, and her callers are very numerous.

$100 WORTH OF APPLES STOLEN

John Williams, of Webster, was in the city Monday and reported to the sheriff's office the theft of about twenty-five bushels of apples from his farm some time Sunday night.

Mr. Williams says that he had picked the apples up and placed them in crates ready to be taken away for sale. The thieves evidently entered the orchard with a wagon, the tracks of which were plainly seen this morning, and loaded the crates containing the apples into the wagon and drove away.

Mr. Williams places his loss at about $100 and has no clue to the thieves.

PRETTY WEDDING AT DEXTER

A very pretty home wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sackett of Dexter, when their daughter, Myrtle, was united in marriage to Orson Goodrich of Battle Creek, Rev. Millen of the Baptist church, officiating.

The bride looked very charming in her gown of white organdie, carrying white roses. Mr. Warren Sackett, brother of the bride, stood as best man, and Miss Winifred Miller of Ann Arbor, was bridesmaid. She too looked very pretty in her dainty gown of white, null carrying red roses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich are well known and popular young people and the congratulations of their friends are seen in the lovely gifts that were bestowed.

Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Goodrich of Hudson, mother of the groom, Mrs. Ella Mudge of Bay City, Miss Caroline Goodrich of Battle Creek, sister of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sellman, Mrs. Abbie Miller and Miss Winifred Miller of Ann Arbor.
