NOTES EDITORIAL

The Roscommon Pioneer of February 27, says: "We find on our table this week, a copy of the Ann Arbor Courier, and with it the name of the brave and talented R. A. Beal, as editor, is at this time necessary to make the Courier welcome in any Michigan home. His action in the great University steel, or rather his fidelity to the much-injured Preston B. Rose, creates a desire in the heart of every honest man to become better acquainted with him."

The Shiawasee American has entered upon its 27th year. As the editor remarks, it is, with but one or two exceptions, the oldest paper in Michigan. The American has done good service these many years in the cause of republicanism. Brother Ingerson is a great worker, and he has made his paper an acceptable visitor to a large number of homes, not only in Shiawasee, but adjoining counties. During the coming year we expect to see our old friend striking stalwart blows for the party of which he is one of the main spokes in this State.

A. L. Aldrich of the Flint Globe, ex-treasurer of the Michigan press association, Feb. 24th sent a draft of $37 to E. F. Grall, present treasurer of the association, being the amount in his hands as treasurer since 1876. Mr. Aldrich heretofore declining to pay over this fund to his successors in office on account of technicalities possibly satisfactory to himself. His late action may not have been induced by the resolution of the last meeting of the association respecting his refusal to pay over the association funds. We simply note the fact that this payment seems to be a sequel of the resolution.—[Greenview Independent. It was the expressed conviction of many members of the association at the time the resolution referred to above was passed, that it would produce, or hasten the action which he has finally taken in regard to this fund.

The Shiawasee County Atlas of March 24, contained the following: "We have received a number of the Ann Arbor Register containing a large supplement respecting the Douglas side of the somewhat noted Rose-Douglas controversy. As we have taken a pretty close observation of the different phases of this matter as they occurred, our opinion of the matter has grown up gradually from said observation, and is not likely to be changed by ex-parte retrospection. From our stand point it looks like a fight between a small aristocracy (which smells damnably of codfish) on the one side, and the people of this State on the other; and, as we feel about it, we would be perfectly willing to let Mr. Douglas take the University if he would remove it from the State, go with it, and place himself under bonds not to take anything else belonging to the people. This may be severe criticism but it is just the way we feel about it and we can't help it. Should this little band of aristocrats become triumphant we would do all we could to prevent the appropriation of a penny to sustain an institution that would grow what we should look upon as a damnable outrage on common sense, humanity and decency."

The Evening News, of March 3d, says: "A suspended sentence for a railroad clerk (who was also a lawyer) for stealing $6000 from his company, and four years in the State's prison for a poor boy who stole a $30 suit of clothes, is Judge Cooley's idea of justice as exemplified in two cases just disposed of by him in the Lenawee circuit, where he has been sitting for some time past. Judge Cooley is a great jurist, one of the greatest in the United States; but, after all, to have the philosophy and history of English law upon one's finger ends, does not always make one a just judge. It requires qualities of the heart as well as of the head, to produce that result. There may have been extenuating circumstances in the first and aggravating circumstances in the second case that do not appear on the surface; but one should stick to it, if mercy was to be shown at all, it belonged to the poor boy who committed his first offense, and who knew nothing of law, rather than to the lawyer versed in the law he broke, whose twenty times greater theft was also a despicable betrayal of the confidence reposed in him by his employers." The News is not respectful of persons. It criticizes in a bold outspoken manner those who sit in our "high places" as well as those in the more humble walks of life. It shows a manly independence commendable in this time serving generation.

oldest day known during the past twenty-one years of careful registration (with one exception, not verified) being 64°, and the warmest, from Nov. to May 82°. I have perhaps already written more than you will publish and must stop. We were all invited by the American Consul to call at his residence on Washington's birthday. I must add a little poetry to this delightful climate and quit:

County Items.

...Miss Lula Sill has gone to Ypsilanti, visiting friends, this week.

...Rev. C. A. Clark filled the M. E. pulpit last Sunday morning, and Rev. Hudson, of Chelsea, in the evening.

...The quarterly conference of the M. E. Church here will be held on Saturday and Sunday, March 13 and 14, 1880.

...Mr. Lombard, for some time telegraph operator at Plymouth, has been visiting Dexter for several weeks, being the guest of Rev. L. P. Davis.

...The next red ribbon social will come off next Friday evening, in Costello's hall. It is under the supervision of Messrs. Fields and John Williams. Full particulars are not on hand.

...There were numerous mistakes in last week's Dexter locals, for which the correspondent is not responsible. The item about Gen. Cary has been divided and transposed as to make it appear ridiculous. Do not blame the humble scribbler.

...Last Friday evening, just as the Rev. L. L. Gage and family were about to retire for the night, they were unceremoniously taken in hand—by me, the house was taken possession of—by about fifty persons. No damage, however, was done; but, on the contrary, all were well behaved. The fact is, it was a surprise from the pastor's people, the day being his fiftieth birthday. The invading party had brought with them, and they all had a very pleasant time. Nearly every one left a package of something or other for the pastor's family. We are glad to see such pleasant relations between pastor and people.

...The election here last Monday was a regular walk-over for one party. The Republican ticket was elected by an overwhelming majority, exceeding even the expectations of the most sanguine radicals. The following are the candidates and majorities of the elected parties, the Democrats being in italics: For President—Harris Ball and Roscoe P. Copeland; Mr. Ball's majority, 79. For Recorder—E. E. Appleton and James Kearns; Mr. Appleton's majority, 78. For Treasurer—E. D. Bennett and H. C. Gregory; Mr. Bennett's majority, 73. For Trustees—Albert Gresham, W. W. White, C. S. Bilby, B. C. Whitaker, Dr. J. W. Lee and J. P. Foster, average majority of Republican trustees, 65. For Assessors—B. B. Williams, Wm. Warner, L. H. Jones and E. Jolee; average majority of Republican assessors, 78.

Changes in Persia.

A glowing account is given by the Golos of the improvement going on in Persia since the country has been taken in hand by Austrian and Russian officers. A marked change, says the Russian paper, now appears in Teheran. Nearly all the rich Persians now drive in European vehicles; some have had built splendid and great houses in European style; the principal boulevards are lighted. But the most important change is that the Shah is constructing a good road from Teheran through Kasvin, Kendshan and Tauris to the Russian frontier at Dshufia. From Teheran to Kasvin it is already completed.

Several of the Austrian officers are being organized by the Austrian officers in the Austrian manner. The cavalry has been reorganized and has been confided to the Russian Colonel of Cossacks, Domontowitch, aided by some other Russian officers. The police is being organized by an Austrian Count, who has been appointed Chief Master of Police. The police and gendarmes are to number 25,000 men. Two foreigners who wish to establish gas works at Teheran arrived several days ago. A company for that purpose has been formed, and counts the Persian ministers of foreign affairs and of posts among its members. The coming of the new Persian money continues without interruption; the chief of the mint, Amir Sultai, furnishes every day as much as 25,000 toman in silver coin.
