

THANKSGIVING.

By the president of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

At no period in their history since the United States became a nation has this people had so abundant and so universal reasons for joy and gratitude as the favor of Almighty God, or been subject to so profound an obligation to give thanks for His loving kindness and humbly to implore His continued care and protection.

In witness hereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this first day of November, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, and the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifth.

(SEAL.) R. B. HAYES, By the President: WM. M. EVANS, Secretary of State.

CAPT. E. P. ALLEN.

The defeat of Hon. E. P. Allen is not only a disgrace to the republicans of his district, but to the entire people of Ypsilanti without regard to party.

TO PROFS. DUNSTER, ADAMS & CO.

GENTLEMEN: At the recent election you not only voted against Joe T. Jacobs for senator, but asked your church associates and others to do the same, alleging as a reason for such action that I was an enemy of the university, and that Jacobs was a friend of mine and would be controlled by me in legislative matters relating to the university, if elected.

The assertion that I could control Mr. Jacobs is an insult to him, and unworthy of notice by me. But the charge of being an enemy of the university is a serious one, and as I have been so often accused of this by you and your friends in the past, I think it is about time for you to make the statements public which you so frequently make in private.

NOTES EDITORIAL.

I have lived in this city fifteen years, my record as a friend or foe of the university is before you, and I call upon you to show where I have been an enemy.

Respectfully yours, RICE A. BEAL.

The university professors who are exulting over the assertion that Hon. E. D. Kinnel will do the bidding of the great defaulter and his friends in any matters that may come up, simply because he happened to be counsel in the case, probably do not know that there was serious trouble between him and his client in settling that small attorney bill, or they would not feel so jubilant.

THE ELECTIONS.

Our roster did his crowing in October and consequently is not needed now. When Indiana and Ohio were carried by the republicans, we considered the battle as practically won, and the election of Garfield and Arthur a foregone conclusion.

Last Tuesday everything passed off very quietly for a national election, but the result shows that the people were terribly in earnest. From Maine to California, from Michigan to Mason & Dixon's line, there has been but one expression, and that has been in a manner unmistakable.

South and Jackson fought, "I have been terribly rebuked, the filthy mud-throwers, who attempted to bring dishonor and reproach upon the name of an honest and honorable man, simply because he was a candidate in opposition to their party, have been rebuked; the forging of letters for political effect, has been rebuked; the daubing of people's doors and fences with '329,' has been rebuked; and the policy of making an alliance with any clan or sect in disregard of principles, to attain power, has been rebuked.

The people have said to the world that they still further trust the party which has piloted the nation safely through so many crises.

The latest returns indicate a fine working republican majority in the next House of Representatives, a majority of one in the Senate.

For the next four years at least, the entire control of the government will be in the hands of the republican party, and we have full faith to believe that the administration of James A. Garfield will be as pure and patriotic as has been that of the present incumbent, Rutherford B. Hayes.

MICHIGAN, MY MICHIGAN!

The result of last Tuesday's contest in this state, has been very flattering to the republicans. From present indications it looks as though the republican electoral ticket had been chosen by about 50,000 majority, and that Jerome, for governor had about 40,000 majority.

The reduction of the vote for governor was caused, as all know, by the action of the liquor dealers throughout the state, in opposing him.

The entire congressional delegation will be republican as heretofore. Mr. Lord has about 475 majority in the first district, and Mr. Horr, in the seventh, about 2,500 notwithstanding every means possible was used to defeat him.

In this, the second district Mr. Willis will have at least 2,500 majority, while Lacey, in the 4th has some 5,000 or 6,000 majority.

In the legislature the thing is almost unanimous. There will possibly be one democrat in the senate, and 12 or 15 in the house, not enough to hardly hold a caucus.

The one senator will have things his own way probably in regard to these important events, but his caucus will be most terribly lonesome unless he is unusually jolly sort of a fellow.

The result is unprecedented in the history of the state. Not even in the old war times, has there ever been such a sweeping victory.

THE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND.

The coming legislature is to permanently locate the state school for the blind, now temporarily running at Lansing. As position in nine points in the law, and as Lansing works "like the mischief" for everything within her reach and reaches for everything possible, in a legitimate manner, it is the general impression that this school will remain in her pocket.

The blind ought to have the advantage of a large city, as their education is entirely by ear. Ann Arbor offers better advantages than any other city outside of Detroit for this school, but it was urged that she already had one state institution and was not entitled to more.

For the school should be located for the greatest advantage of the class for which it is founded, not for the benefit of the business men of this or that village or city. But the needs of the blind seem to have been the last thing thought of, and the peculiar requirements of their education has not weighed in this contest at all.

It has been simply a fight between localities, on the ground of pecuniary advantage to the place. Lansing has already the state capitol, the state agricultural college, the state reform school for boys, and now, in direct opposition to the argument with which Ann Arbor was shut out from seeking it, is given this new school for the blind.

Detroit was certainly the proper location, and the one desired by every blind pupil or instructor who had at heart the good of the class, and had she been in the least enterprising, she might have obtained it. The next place looked to was Grand Rapids, but she, too, was indifferent, and made no effort. The smaller places all over the state were forced, and by their hot contests Lansing was chosen as a temporary home for the school.

Well, Lansing, in the course of a few years, will be an admirable location. She is growing rapidly, and will soon offer advantages which the blind must have in order to secure a proper education.

Considering the good of the class alone, the authorities will do well to keep it where it is rather than peddle it out to the highest bidder among smaller places. But the guiding motive which alone has actuated the people in different localities in respect to the location of this school, has been that of gain, or benefit to individuals or corporations, with no thought of the class whom the people of the state desired to benefit in the founding of the school. That is what we claim to be wrong. The idea of the great state of Michigan letting to the highest bidder her institutions of this sort, is a thing to be deprecated. It is wrong.

U. S. SENATE REPUBLICAN.

The people have decided that this is a national election.

Let the eagle scream and all the little birds sing praise.

State's supremacy ought never to be able to give another kick.

There is no truth in the assertion that the democratic party has "gone up." It has gone down.

And now voters don't be deceived—Oh! show! election is over with, isn't it? We become so accustomed to appealing to the people that we forget all about it.

We understand that Mr. Geo. W. Owen, formerly of Detroit, has purchased the Hon. John N. Ingersoll's interest in the Cornum American. This will retire one of the oldest newspaper men in Michigan, and one that the profession will regret to lose.

The residents of the north woods are keeping their promise respecting the killing of all dogs brought into that region for the purpose of hunting deer. A party of 47 hunters from Indiana went into that region with 33 bounds. They went back home with three.

A gigantic scheme of harbor improvements at Montreal, which contemplates the turning of the course of St. Lawrence river is being talked up. The estimated cost of the same would be $7,000,000, and would take several years' labor. The improvements would make a new and easy railroad crossing if accomplished.

There seems to be a question as to the lost propeller Alpena being a sound boat, in good, seaworthy condition. A thorough investigation should be had, and the blame, if any there be, placed where it rightfully belongs. There was certainly something wrong, either in the boat or in its management, but alas, not a soul survives to tell the tale.

As a means of communicating with the shore in case of a disaster, St. Joseph man proposes to have the vessel owners keep a cage of carrier pigeons at each end of the boat's route, and take some of the birds at every voyage, to be released in case of disaster, with a message. Not a bad idea, if in the excitement, the birds would not be forgotten.

The murder of Lord Montross, one of the poorest Irish landlords, who was shot down in cold blood by emissaries, it is supposed of the Irish land league, is creating great excitement in England, and the feeling of sympathy for the oppressed of that island is gradually reacting. Such violence kills any cause, no matter how just it is. The people of to-day do not tolerate shot-guns as arguments.

It is for the interest of the state that no talent which God gives to any child should be lost. If a poor boy, a child of a dependent widow, or an unfortunate immigrant, has any extraordinary talent, which being developed would add to the wealth and welfare of the state, and if that talent for want of opportunity to develop itself is lost, like a gem sunk in the unfathomed caves of the ocean, the state is the loser.—Rev. L. Bacon, D. D.

How many of our exchanges tell the sequel of a sad story in the paragraphs so often we see now-a-days, running like this: "Mr. Soandso has returned from the west and taken up his residence among us again."

These few words often tell of glorious hopes blasted; of people who, having comfortable homes or a paying business, have left the same to pursue the vision of fortune in the great west. They have been there, expended the savings perhaps of years, and returned to the old home to again commence at the bottom of the ladder and try to reach their old position. It is a warning to people to let well enough alone. Michigan is as good a state as there is in the Union. He who is nicely situated here is foolish to seek the uncertainties in the west. He who does not prosper here will be liable to meet the same fate anywhere, yet such an one can better afford to try fortune elsewhere.

Michigan is a good state for the honest, industrious, persevering man, and he better stick to it, if he has a foot-hold.

Has Done Its Work!

THE NOVEMBER BATTLE

Is Decided as the October Skirmish Indicated.

A DEMOCRATIC SEDAN.

A United North and a Solid South Now Confront Each Other.

Gen. Garfield Carries Every Northern State Except Nevada.

U. S. SENATE REPUBLICAN.

The House of Representatives Republican.

ALMOST EVERYTHING NOW REPUBLICAN.

GLORY, GLORY, HALLELUJAH!

Nearly or quite every "doubtful" state has wheeled into the republican line as the following table, showing how the states will cast their electoral votes, will indicate:

Table with columns for REPUBLICAN and DEMOCRATIC, listing states and their electoral votes.

The above is not an correct as can be given by the reports up to the time we go to press, and if confirmed will give Garfield 69 majority in the electoral college.

Maine gives the republican ticket about 5,000 majority.

Indiana gives about 8,000, the same as in October.

New York, 25,000.

Pennsylvania, 30,000.

Ohio, 35,000.

Massachusetts, 50,000.

Miowa, 85,000.

Illinois, 30,000.

Connecticut, 2,857.

New Hampshire, 2,000.

Vermont, 30,000.

Nebraska, 25,000.

Colorado, 2,500, etc.

It is not necessary for us to go through with the entire list. The above is sufficient to show what favor the republican party is in the northern states.

The south remains solid for the democratic ticket, except perhaps Tennessee, which may possibly have chosen a republican governor and legislature.

The republicans have gained United States senators in Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and one in Mississippi. This will give the republicans one majority in the next senate.

And should Tennessee elect a republican legislature, as indicated, there will be two republican majority.

In the house of representatives it looks much as though the republicans would have a majority of about ten, having made gains in several states.

This will give to the republicans the entire control of the government, and insure another lease of power for twenty years.

The Result in the County.

It is utterly impossible at the present time to give the complete majorities of last Tuesday's election in the county. Upon several of the offices the vote is so close that it will probably take the official canvass to decide.

The Hancock electoral vote will have about 350 majority in the county, and Mr. Waldy about the same for congress, while the democrats have carried the first and third representative districts, defeating Capt. E. P. Allen, a thing for which Ypsilanti will repent.

For state senator, Joe T. Jacobs, republican, is probably defeated about 10 votes, though the democrats claim the election of Rose by 60 or 70 majority.

For judge of probate, William D. Harriman, democrat, the present incumbent, has some 750 majority.

For sheriff, Edwin W. Wallace, democrat, is elected by a small majority, but how much it is at present impossible to determine.

For county clerk, Everett B. Clark, republican, the present incumbent, is elected by 440 majority against a spirited and fierce opposition.

For register of deeds, Erastus N. Gilbert, republican, has about 20 majority, as nearly as can be estimated from unofficial returns.

For county treasurer, Jacob Knapp, democrat, is elected.

For prosecuting attorney, the election is so close that the official canvass can alone determine, though the chances are thought to favor Chas. B. Whitman, democrat.

For circuit court commissioners, Howard Stephenson and Patrick McKernan, democrats, are undoubtedly chosen, as also the balance of the democratic ticket. Martin Clark and Conrad George, coroners; and Chas. S. Woodward, county surveyor.

The following are the majorities for the different candidates in the various precincts of this county, as near as we have been able to obtain them. Of course they will vary considerably from the official figures:

ANN ARBOR CITY.

First ward—Garfield, 102; Jerome, 81; Willis, 84; Jacobs, 70; Kinnel, 206; Depew, 41; Yeckley, 98; Clark, 123; Gilbert, 121; Emerick, 174; McMahon, 99; Hinckley, 72; Breaker, 98; Owen, 88; Yeom, 199.

The farmer's wife was out in the garden watering her thirsty flowers, when a young man, walking hastily along the street, came up to the gate and enquired if she had seen a man pass on a bicycle. She dropped her watering-pot and said she had not, adding, "but I tell you what I did see. I don't know as you'll believe. I'm sure I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it myself. It was one wheel of a wagon running away with a man; and I never was so frightened in all my life."

The Reading railroad company is making arrangements to put upon their road the fastest train in this country. It will run between New York and Philadelphia, and it is proposed to go the entire distance in 90 minutes, or exactly a mile a minute.

As the ordinary locomotive is not, in many respects, adapted to this high rate of speed, the company have had one of a peculiar style built especially for this train. Its driving wheels are six and one-half feet in diameter, and are without the usual connecting rod, these being regarded as unsafe for such speed.

Hon. Albert G. Porter, the republican governor of Indiana, was born at Lawrenceburg, in that state April 20, 1824, and graduated at Asbury University, in 1844. The next two years he devoted to the study of the law, and in 1846 was admitted to the bar, and began practice in Indianapolis. In 1853 he was appointed reporter of the supreme court of Indiana, publishing five volumes. Subsequently he served two terms as attorney of Indianapolis, and was also twice elected a member of the city council. In 1858 he was elected a representative in congress, serving two terms. He was appointed first controller of the treasury in 1878, an office which he still holds.

NEW BOOKS.

THE CREATION AND THE EARLY DEVELOPMENT OF SOCIETY; BY JAMES H. CHAPIN, Ph. D., PROFESSOR OF GEOLOGY AND MINERALOGY, LAWRENCE UNIVERSITY, NEW YORK; G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, 237 N. 4TH AVE.

This work, for the general reader, is the best we have ever read. It treats of the creation of the universe in a common sense manner, and in language which can be understood by the reading public. Scientific words and terms, if used at all, are explained and made understandable, and the simplicity of expression, coupled with the general soundness of ideas and plausibility of theories advanced, makes it far preferable to the works of many scientific writers who have treated upon the same subject. Prof. Winchell, in his "Sketches of Creation," traverses much the same ground, but the work is clothed in language of such a character that unless the reader is familiar with scientific terms or is himself a walking encyclopedia, he loses very much of the meaning and strength of the ideas and thoughts brought forth. Prof. Chapin deserves praise for not falling into this rut so universally traversed by writers upon similar subjects. The reader is introduced to the world in nebulae or vapor, carried through the cooling process, and has explained to him the biblical expression: "Let there be light!" Then comes the firmament, the sea and the dry land, following which is a chapter each upon plant life and animal life. To the reader not versed in the mysteries of geological truths and theories this story is one of rare worth, giving him a conception of how step by step this world has advanced, even as a child advances from infancy to childhood, through childhood to young manhood, thence on to middle life, to which stage, it would seem, the world must be at the present day—the full prime of its existence.

Then the professor gives the geological record as traced in the rocks and by various other methods, the footprints of time upon the earth. The origin of man is next considered, but the reader receives no very clear conception of his origin, only the Darwinian theory is not given credence. Man's origin must have been the same as the origin of the world, coming directly from the hands of an overruling power. The problem of civilization is admirably treated, every truth advanced being clinched by historical facts. "The failure of primeval society," is a chapter which may admit of some criticism. The writer takes it for granted that man is born with evil inherent, and whatever good comes from him must spring from constant education and the force of human wisdom as attained. Almost the doctrine of total depravity. He says:

"The boy left to choose his own companions had his own inclinations to be ruled. The patient watchfulness of teachers do not always suffice to secure a different result. This may be the main truth, yet how often do we see a bright, pure, shining life, growing amid evil and foul surroundings; a thing utterly impossible unless the good had been implanted in a far greater degree than evil. The diversity of tongues is accounted for by the separation of tribes into nations and each being quite isolated from the other, gradually took upon themselves new forms of expression, and after a lapse of time these became new dialects. "The antiquity of man," and "ancient civilization in North America," are both interesting and instructive chapters. The latter is especially interesting to the dwellers upon this continent as being descriptive of the "mound builders" of North America. The book is an excellent one, and the writer in giving it to the public has made a valuable contribution to the literature of the world.

HOUSEHOLD AND FARMER'S CYCLOPEDIA; OR, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE. BY DANIEL R. SHAPIRO, author of "Foundations of Success and Laws of Trade," etc. Illustrated. 32mo. No. 1. Anchor Publishing Co., 36 Locust street.

This book, comprising a work of over 600 pages, is one which, as its title indicates, every farmer, stock raiser, mechanic, or workman of any trade or occupation, will find of rare value. It is a book designed to aid the worker, and do away to a great extent with expensive services of professional men. One great merit is the use of plain language, and the avoiding of all scientific and technical terms, so that the simplest may understand its advice and receipts. For working men and working women this a book of practical utility, and we doubt not that the public will fully appreciate the labors of its compilers and publishers. The work is published in German, as well as in English, and is sold exclusively by subscription. Those desiring to sell books, would do well to secure the agency for this one. Address Anchor Publishing Company, 305 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo.

Some of the drunken loafers who were bowling about the streets last Wednesday evening, tore down a portion of the fence in front of the high school building.

A lecture will be given at the Unitarian church next Sunday evening, by Rev. C. G. Howard, upon "civil service reform." The lecture is said to be an admirable one.

It is with regret that we announce that Capt. Mansfield, who lives upon Division st., had a partial stroke of paralysis last Saturday. He is recovering quite rapidly, however.

Mr. William Wade, president of the Detroit reform club, will deliver an address next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, on temperance, at the red ribbon rooms, on Main street.

Science enumerates 588 species of organic forms in the air we breathe. Just think of it! Every time you properly popping the question to the adorable being whom you idolize is nearly at an end. Route out of the lethargic state which enshrouds you, take him by the left ear, march him to the woodpile, and pointing to the axe and saw lying idle, tell him that a vigorous use of those implements will alone cause a dinner to be cooked. This advice is to married girls, of course.

A portion of the crowd in the court house Tuesday evening to listen to the telegraphic reports, could be compared to nothing else but the "galley gals" in the opera house. They yelled, pushed, and jammed, and acted like a pack of wild hens, and some like civilized beings, and damaged the seats and other furniture to a considerable extent. If they didn't like the complexion of the reports, they ought to have been decent over it.

The genuine—not one of the many "originals"—Tennessees, are to give a concert at the Methodist church in this city, on the 27th of November. This troupe is composed of singers who have gained for themselves in all parts of this country and Europe an enviable reputation. They will be well worth hearing, and the bare announcement of their coming will be sufficient to draw a full house.

David T. McCollum, for nearly a half-century a resident of the fifth ward of this city, died last Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock. He was aged 81 years.

There was a citizen much respected, and his death leaves another vacancy in the list of pioneers.

Washington county isn't as surely solid for the democrats as she used to be. There seems to be a mighty reduction from the 600 or 800 majority claimed a few months ago.

The immense quantity of apples has caused the cooper shops to run on extra time, the demand for barrels being enormous. Everything works together for good, you see.

Last Saturday the senior and junior classes of the high school played a game of football. The juniors, for the first time in history, were triumphant by a score of three to one.

The Ann Arbor Democrat heads one of its articles, "Licked by Thunder." Very expressive, but not quite to the point. Licked by republicans would have been the truth of the matter.

Domestic difficulties caused Mrs. L. Lutz, of the 2d ward, to take a dose of poison with suicidal intent, Thursday, last week. But medical aid was summoned in time to save her life.

President Hayes has issued his proclamation calling upon the people to observe Thursday, the 25th day of November, next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. See proclamation in another column.

There is to be a grand justification meeting at Ypsilanti to-night. Senator Baldwin, Hon. Henry W. Lord, M. C., Hon. E. P. Allen, and others, will address the meeting.

The editor of the Ypsilanti Sentinel threatens to leave that place unless better supported, whereupon the Detroit Evening News saucily remarks: "Such a change would be a cruel blow to Ypsilanti."

A scientific writer avers that 4,000 distinct species of grass have been found in the world, so when you tell a man to "go to grass," please be a little explicit or he will be all at sea as to your intention.

A law student named John Phillips, not having been sufficiently impressed with the chapters on larceny, was arrested on Monday upon the charge of stealing a book from John Moore, and paid a fine of $15.

The young ladies' missionary society of the Congregational church, are to give an oyster supper and art loan exhibition, in the parlors of the Congregational church this evening. A general invitation is extended.

Tuesday, election day, was one of the pleasantest ever known in the history of the country. Providence smiled, you see, upon the republicans, and they returned the compliment by rolling up a glorious majority for the right side.

Upon the occasion of the seventh anniversary of the young people's association of the Presbyterian church, last Sunday evening, Rev. Dr. Steele delivered the annual address. The effort is highly spoken of, and a large audience was assembled.

Next week we will give tables with complete returns for the whole county. It is impossible to give accurate figures this week, and so do not lumber up our columns with estimated returns which would stand a fair chance of being completely changed.

Pittsfield pulled up nobly for the republicans. E. B. Clark, for clerk, had 151 majority, and E. N. Gilbert for register, had 110. Mr. Clark also went out of this city with 376 majority, and Mr. Gilbert out of Ypsilanti with 132. All remarkably good runs.

There will be a meeting of the Ann Arbor scientific society, at their rooms in the north wing, main building of the University, to-morrow, Saturday evening, at 7:30. Prof. Calvin Thomas will read a paper upon the study of words. A general invitation is extended.

The Beta Theta Pi quartette of the university, are to give a concert at red ribbon hall, Eaton Rapids, Saturday evening, Nov. 13th. The quartette consists of W. T. Whedon, 1st tenor; C. F. Hunt, 2d tenor; J. H. Grant, baritone; D. E. Osborne, bass; and F. L. York, accompanist and soloist.

Next Friday evening, Nov. 12th, Wallace Bruce will appear for the first time before an Ann Arbor audience, at the university hall, under the auspices of the lecture association. Wherever Mr. Bruce has lectured he has met with remarkable success, and it is expected he will be greeted with a large audience here.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Emanuel Mann fell out of her chair, and expired immediately thereafter. Cause of the death, supposed to have been heart disease. She was 56 years old, and had been a resident of this city 44 years. She leaves a family, all arrived at man's estate, and a large circle of friends who will mourn her loss. Mr. Mann is one of our prominent citizens and receives much sympathy in his affliction.

R. F. Talman, of Detroit, is in the city, in the interest of the telephone company of that city, endeavoring to work up an exchange for this city. The plan is to place a central office with connections for private and business houses, offices, etc. Lansing, Kalamazoo and Adrian have recently decided to have this new and convenient method of communication established.

A month of lowry and sometimes gloomy weather, yet October, just passed, has been to the whole, quite a welcome month. There was no very cold weather, and very little frost. The farmers have been enabled to accomplish their fall work in an admirable manner, secure their fruit and vegetable crops in an excellent condition, and do their husking out-of-doors. All this has been of great benefit.

Girls' girls! Leap years rapidly draws to a close! Your time for properly popping the question to the adorable being whom you idolize is nearly at an end. David T. McCollum, for nearly a half-century a resident of the fifth ward of this city, died last Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock. He was aged 81 years.

There was a citizen much respected, and his death leaves another vacancy in the list of pioneers.

There is one thing which a man running for office is obliged to submit to, which is to say the least, abominable, and that is the constant bleeding by dead bees. Last Tuesday evening we noticed several men who had been working for a certain candidate for his election the entire day, stop into the place of business of the man whom they had opposed, and cheekily ask for cigars. "Or ten cents to buy something with," and what was true in this instance was true in many others. Both parties are troubled with this class of men. If the candidates upon both tickets would unite, and resolve to pay no attention to this class of dead bees, but let them earn their drinks and cigars by honest toil or go without, one step in the direction of purifying our politics would be taken, and a great step, too. As it is at present, election time is a harvest for the bumper and plug-ugly element, and the candidates are never benefited, and an appreciable extent by what they give them.

The people of this city were somewhat jubilant over the result of Tuesday's elections, and on Wednesday evening assembled in front of the court house to "jubilate." There must have been some 3,000 or 4,000 people in the crowd. The band conducted patriotic airs, and students sang several songs, some of them being patriotic and some of them perhaps not exactly appropriate to the occasion, but all goodly. Fireworks also added to the attractions of the occasion, while the burning of red light in various places surrounding the square, the glare of bonfires, and the illumination of the Chandler house front, all tended to make the occasion a jolly and noisy one. At 7:30 o'clock Hon. A. J. Sawyer called the multitude to order from the court house steps, on the south front, and spoke a few congratulatory words. He was followed by Prof. Adams, and Prof. T. P. Wilson, the latter being remarkably happy in his utterances. All about 9 o'clock the gathering dispersed, all happy with the hand and shake for an hour or two continuously. The greatest satisfaction was manifested on all sides over the results, and no such enthusiasm has been shown here since war times.

Anthony McReynolds has returned from Cleveland.

John F. Miller, of Washington, has been in the city the past week.

We are sorry to note that A. L. Noble is having a bad time with his eyes. It is hoped that he may soon recover from his affliction.

Mrs. R. D. Frackleton, of Petersburg, Ill., is spending a few weeks in Ann Arbor, visiting her cousins, Mrs. R. A. Beal and Miss M. D. Beers.

hold the bag against his nose and head, forcing him to inhale the steam and moisture, keeping it there until the meal begins to cool off. Of course it must not be hot enough to scald. Immediately after that, blanket the horse from head to foot with two or three good blankets, and keep them on him day and night, giving each night a hot wash of bran with a tablespoonful of ground ginger. This treatment, he says, always produces a very fluent discharge of mucus and catarrhal matter from the nostrils, affords ample relief, and is invariably successful. It is practiced by several prominent horsemen in this city and state.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, for Washtenaw county, was held at Dexter on the 27th and 28th of October, 1880. Although a large number of delegates was not present, a pleasant and instructive time was enjoyed. Many phases of the work was discussed, chiefly among them, was "The education of the children in the Temperance cause."

The late W. S. Benham. As we have previously announced, W. S. Benham, of the Grand Haven Herald, and his wife, Sarah Louise, were both passengers on the ill-fated Alpena, and consequently found a grave with the waters of Lake Michigan for their shroud. Whitman S. Benham was born in New York, Feb. 9th, 1826. He was a prominent editor in western New York when a young man; was afterwards admitted to the bar; went to California when the gold fever raged, where he remained three years; returned here he was given charge of D. Appleton & Co.'s business in the west, with headquarters at Chicago. He was married to Sarah Louise Bates, Feb. 9th, 1856, and settled at Peru, Indiana, and in 1861 became the editor of the Peru Republican; in June, 1868, he became proprietor of the Free Press, at Newton, Iowa; and on June 30th, 1877, he assumed control of the Grand Haven Herald, where he has remained until his sad death. He has been a fearless, outspoken, brave man, ever ready to defend the right against the wrong, no matter how unpopular such action might be. He was one of the true noblemen of the earth. It will be remembered that during the strife in this city, of the crippled soldier against the monied aristocracy who sought to crush him, the Herald gave no uncertain sound. In its issue of Dec. 8, 1874, was the following paragraph: "In our newspaper this week we give a history of the university trouble, which seems to be the end of the matter. It is a credit to his perseverance and peculiar sagacity that he has been able to bring to the credit of historical record, in which the position in which Douglas and there were left the public to decide. It is a credit to his peace and justice dwell within the walls of Michigan, that he has been able to do so."

Death of Mrs. Duffield. The many friends of Regent Duffield, in this city, will be pained to learn of the death of his most estimable wife, whose many excellent qualities endeared her to all who knew her. Samuel W. Duffield, for some time pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city, was a son of the deceased. The following account is from the columns of the Lansing Republican: "We are pained to announce that Mrs. August W. Duffield, widow of the Rev. Geo. Duffield, died at her residence on Washington Avenue, at 7:30 this (Saturday) morning. She had been invalid for the past two years, but the immediate cause of death was apoplexy. Mrs. Duffield was a daughter of Col. Samuel A. Willoughby, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1821. She was married to the Rev. Geo. Duffield, in 1848. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Margaret W. Pierpont, wife of Edwards Pierpont, of New York, and three children, Rev. Samuel W. Duffield, of Altoona, Penn.; Mrs. Duffield, wife of J. L. Duffield, of Galesburg, Ill.; and Edward P. Duffield, of Bancroft, Mich. Mrs. Duffield leaves a large circle of warm friends who will sincerely mourn her loss. Chancellor Tappan, in a letter written Oct. 22, 1880, said of her: "She was a young girl when I became intimate in the household of her parents. I have known her ever since. She is a child of God, and a good mother. This is her record—a record of a pure, a lovely, a useful life."

To the Students of the University. We have been very much surprised ever since our stay in Ann Arbor at the way in which industry is carried on between the students and citizens. A couple of students will rent a suite of rooms at such and such a price. In a week or so they will do their best to beat down the landlady on the rent, complaining that they cannot afford to pay so much. Yes, boys, you will cheat an honest, hard-working woman out of her earnings, to buy cigars, whisky and every other vice that money can obtain. At the same time saying that Ann Arbor people have lived on you long enough. I think if any one is imposed upon, it is the citizens. Our clubs can get their meat and groceries cheaper than they can.

Besides, do you think, boys, that they want us here just for our company. I am sure we are treated very well, indeed. And in return we might be a little self-sacrificing and do without a few cigars per week in order to pay our honest debts.

County Items. CHELSEA. From the Herald. Whopping cough prevails in Fosters' district, Sylvan. Schools closed on account of it.

The apple buying business is nearly finished. Very few apples are coming into market.

Samuel Seney, of Lima, has just threshed, off 95 acres of land, 2,733 bushels of wheat. How is that for Lima!

On last Tuesday, in this village, of diphtheria, Willie, only son of William Judson, died, aged 2 years and 8 months.

DIEN.—At his residence, in this village, on last Monday, after a short illness, Louis Staffan, aged 27 years, the oldest son of Frank Staffan. The whole community at large sympathize with the bereft parents.

Last Friday evening Miss Olive Conklin, who is about to leave for a midist for New Orleans, as a missionary among the freed men, was very happily surprised at her home in Sylvan, by the arrival of a large number of friends and relations, who came to spend the evening in social intercourse with her, and with each other. They came laden with "the good things of life," and after partaking of a fine repast, all assembled in the parlor and listened to appropriate remarks by Rev. Mr. Munger, of Grass Lake, and Rev. Mr. Walden of Waterloo, after which Rev. E. A. Gay, of Chelsea, in behalf of the assembled friends, in a neat little speech, presented Miss Olive with a beautiful writing desk, also a very fine motto, wrought and presented by Mrs. Walden, of Waterloo. The happy recipient was so overcome with emotion, that she could scarcely find words to express her gratitude, but all realized it. Prayer was then offered and the company joined in singing "All hail the power of Jesus name," led by Bro. Geo. Davis. The occasion was one long to be remembered and cherished in the hearts of all who were present.

DEXTER. John Doane, one of Dexter's aged citizens, while getting out of a buggy one day this week, fell in such a way as to receive several bad bruises.

Last Wednesday, Mrs. Michael Daly, of this place, slipped, while descending a pair of stairs at her home, breaking an arm in the fall. This is a sad affliction, as her work is the only support of a large family.

Mr. Walter Brass and Miss Carrie Allport, both of Webster, were married at the residence of the bride, Wednesday, Nov. 3d, by Rev. Mr. Bush, of Detroit. They took the evening train west on a bridal trip.

Manchester. The farmers are putting in their best looks to get their corn all husked before the freeze.

Some of our young men are getting up a high toned maniquering ball, to come off on Thanksgiving.

V. R. Peck has sold his farm to George Harmandinger for $4,000. Mr. Peck will either move to town or go south to spend the winter.

L. D. Watkins returned home from his western trip on Saturday last. He got "caught out" in the snow storm in Nebraska, and fared worse than a soldier in the regular army.

W. H. Starks and Steve Perrin chose each about 20 of the best hunters of the country, and on Thursday last had a grand hunt. The side that won a good supper at Kirchner's, paid for by the other side.

H. D. Walter, of Bridgewater, bought of C. M. Fellers, of Sharon, five registered Merino ewes. The young man is turning his attention from trotting horses to fine sheep. D. C. Walter also bought a fancy Vermont ram.

A young man named Wm. Rentelher, who works for George Rawson, in Bridgewater, was kicked by a horse recently, and had his arm broken just below the shoulder. In passing the horse the young man hit it a clap with his mitten, and the horse kicked him. Dr. A. Conklin & Son reduced the fracture.

A mother was talking to her seven-year-old son about the filthy habit of smoking, and hoped that he would never contract it, when he replied, "Why, ma, I can never be a man if I don't learn to smoke." What a sad mistake that boy has made. We hope that he will become convinced before he learns by experience that a boy can tobacco to be a man without the use of tobacco.

Manchester has tired of the galling chains of democracy, it would seem, and has started over into the republican ranks. At least some of the republicans received majorities there at the late election.

What is the matter with the engagement ring? Or the ring of the diamond bell? Consoling. Post author - "Heaven, what a pain there is in my head!"

I tell you, says a rabid free thinker, "the idea that there is a God never comes into my head." "Ah, precisely like my dog."

The man who died game was never known to quail - Boston Transcript. No, but he woodcock his gun at the wrong time, and now he is an angel without a shooting jacket - New Haven Log.

We see by the Milwaukee Sentinel that Daniel Webster died twenty-eight years ago. The Milwaukee papers are constantly hunting up some fresh sensational item like this, and springing it upon an unprepared public.

The writer for the press always has two chances. One is that his matter may be crowded out for want of room, and another is that it may go in for want of something better in its place - N. O. Picayune.

Spriggins says he doesn't see why people pay a clergyman to solemnize their marriages. He thinks they will find marriage solemn enough without extraneous and mercenary aid.

Without showing the condition of our teeth. Every laugh exposes them. In order not to be ashamed of them, let us use that standard dentifrice, SOZODONT, which is sure to keep them white and spotless.

Physicians claim Hops and Malt Bitters are the best. Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!!! Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth?

The close confinement of all factory work gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetites, languid, miserable feelings, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters.

Bladder and Urinary Organs by Absorbing into the system through the pores of the skin, nourishing and strengthening vegetable tonic, giving it wonderful power to cure at once.
