Values of exports of domestic provisions, tallow and dairy products in September, 1883, $5,690,431; same month in 1882, $7,453,754. For the nine months ended September 30, 1883, $47,516; same time in 1882, $51,943,705. Dairy products for the five months ended September 30, 1883, $10,282,697, against $8,478,511 the same period of 1882.

Postmaster General Gresham has made the following ruling: The reduction on the 1st inst. of the domestic rate of postage from three to two cents, reduced also from the same date from six to four cents per half ounce the "double postage" charge made in pursuance of section 313, revised statutes, upon letters for delivery in the United States commonly called "ship letters," which are conveyed to this country by vessels not regularly employed in carrying mails.

Upon recommendation of the commissioner of pensions the secretary of the interior ordered the suspension of the following named pension attorneys: J. R. Lilley of Pottsville, Pa.; Francis Register of Philadelphia; M. B. Stevens & Co. of Cleveland, Washington, Detroit and Chicago; Wm. H. Wells & Co. of Washington, D. C.; and James H. Russell & Co. of Trenton, N. J. The commissioner recommended that some of the above named persons be disbanded. Suspension, however, is preliminary to disbarment if the charges are proven. The recommendations of the commissioner of pensions are based upon reports of improper practices before the pension office. The frauds practiced by these dishonest agents are enormous in extent and despicable in character, and this action on the part of the commissioner will receive the hearty approval of all.

The report of the Commissioner of Pensions for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1883, shows that there were 938,695 pensioners on the roll at the end of the fiscal year. During the year 1,000,000 of 70 whose pensions had been dropped previously were restored to the roll, making 33,955 names added during the year, an excess of 10,645 over the preceding year. The average value of each pension was $100, and the aggregate value of all pensions $232,245,192, an increase of $2,004,000. The amount paid for pensions was $60,066,000, exceeding the annual value by several million dollars. The balance of $172,179,192 was on account of arrears of pensions covering the period prior to the allowance of claims. The appropriation for salaries and fees to pension agents was exhausted, and there is a balance due agents. The whole number of claims filed since 1861 was 386,137, of which 502,078,257 were paid for pensions and costs of disbursement.

Under a recent decision of the comptroller of the currency concerning transportation of mails over subsidized branch lines of land grant railroads, $356,115 will have to be returned by the government to companies for mail transported over such branch lines during the fiscal year 1883; for the fiscal year 1884 $483,891 will be returned, and in addition there has been charged to postal expense but has been credited to the interest account of the railroad in accordance with the Thurman act. The major portion of the money to be returned to roads will be secured by the Union Pacific railroad company.

The New York Tribune believes Lieut. Garlington of the Yantic ought to be court-martialed, and thus find out why he did not accompany the work for which he was sent out. To be sure he stands acquitted of the charge of disobeying orders, but his statements are so contradictory and evasive as to invite the Tribune to make the suggestion that the navy department accuse charge of the next expedition for the relief of Lieut. Greely.

The reunion of the Army of the Tennessee will be held in Cleveland, O., recently under the most favorable and auspicious circumstances. The attendance was large, and the interest and enthusiasm all that could be desired. Gen. Sherman made a brilliant speech, reviewing the record of the army during the most memorable struggle of modern times. He paid a most glowing tribute to our soldier dead, and closed with a most touching eulogy to the late President Garfield.

The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the disbanding of Washington's army, occurred at Newburg, N. Y., on the 18th inst. The weather was most propitious, and the town was thronged with visitors, many distinguished persons being present. The proceedings passed off very smoothly. The procession was a most impressive one. The march through the town halted in front of Washington's head quarters. A chorus of 500 voices rendered music for the occasion, and Senator Bayard and Hon. Wm. M. Evans delivered eloquent and masterly addresses.

"Prominent" citizens of Dallas, Texas, believe that the suppression of public gambling would hurt the city in a monetary point of view, and have a tendency to create private gambling, which they consider an evil. A meeting of these "prominent" citizens was held the other day protesting against the warfare against public gambling, which is being waged there, with County Attorney Clint at the head of the movement. That official informed the "prominent" citizens that he would use his utmost endeavors to stop gambling while he remained in office, and the meeting adjourned.

A frightful catastrophe resulted from the explosion of the boiler of a freight locomotive within five miles of Oskolook, Iowa. The train of nineteen cars was thrown from the track by the concussion, while running at a high rate of speed. The cars tumbled over on both sides of the track and were all demolished. Nothing tangible remains of the engine, and the engineer and fireman, names unknown, who were in the cab, were blown to atoms, pieces of their bodies being found in all directions. The conductor of the train and one brakeman who were in the engine, were fatally injured. The financial loss to the railroad company will exceed $50,000.

day of her death spoke west of Ireland Gaelic. Mrs. Linnagan had several grandsons who died in the war. Her life passed uneventfully up to nearly 100 years, when she developed a peculiarly of getting lost. She had a good home with her daughter, but her sole ambition appeared to be to lose it. She was repeatedly brought back to police headquarters, where her peculiar hobby always excited much amusement.

Advices from Altata, Mexico, report that the population of the town is decimated by yellow fever, the deaths averaging twenty a day for two weeks. On October 3rd Altata was struck by a hurricane, killing several people, destroying the greater part of the town and inhabitants sought refuge in the mountains. Several miles of the Sanjolos & Durango railroad track were torn up. A bridge at Guracillos was blown down. The depot and machine sheds were the only buildings left standing. The private loss is estimated at $50,000. What with the fever and hurricane the devastation is something terrible. The custom officials say the collector of the Port of Altata was among those killed in the hurricane.

A meeting of prominent colored citizens and others interested was held in Washington the other night to discuss the recent decision of the supreme court on the civil rights bill, and its effect on the future of the colored race. The assemblage was remarkable for its unanimity and harmony of sentiment. Fred Douglas acted as master of ceremonies, and declared that his race felt the decision as they had felt the attempt to force slavery upon Kansas, the enactment of the fugitive slave law, the repeal of the Missouri compromise and the famous Dred-Scott decision. He claimed this action of the supreme bench had inflicted dire calamity upon 5,000,000 colored people in this country, leaving them naked and defenseless against the malignity and prejudice of the world, and presented the United States before the world as a nation utterly powerless to protect the rights of its citizens. Col. Ingersoll followed Douglas in a speech, full of satire and reproach, and declared that the only resource of the colored man lay in the ballot box. Resolutions were adopted declaring it to be the duty of all friends of justice to see that full and equal protection is meted out to every citizen, and that the political parties should be held to the principles laid down in their platforms, in respect to the protection promised to the sons of the "dark continent."

Lieut. Viand, author of the report that French sailors massacred natives at Hue after they ceased resistance, has been retired and recalled to France. His narrative is officially described as erroneous and calculated to bring the French army and navy into disrepute.

An explosion occurred at Wharfedale, in the Wharfedale, Yorks. When the explosion occurred five men rushed to the bottom of the shaft and were rescued, though injured. The men remaining in the pit, numbering twenty, were lost. A search force was organized, but the falling of the roof of the pit retarded work. The explosion is attributed to blast work.

Representatives of 500 liberal associations of Great Britain held a conference at Leeds, England, recently. Speeches were made by John Morley, M. P., Dr. Dale and others in favor of the county franchise bill and it was urged that it should be made a party measure by the leaders of the Liberal party at the next session of Parliament. Letters were read from John Bright and from Mr. Trevelyan, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, expressing sympathy with the objects to be discussed at the conference.

It is reported that much damage to property and great loss of life was caused by earthquakes on the peninsula between Chemo, Asia Minor, opposite Chios and Vozira, on the southern coast, Gulf of Smyrna. All the villages in that region were destroyed. It is believed that upwards of 1,000 persons perished. The survivors of the disaster are suffering fearful privations. A complete panic prevails. Most of the houses collapsed at the first shock, burying their inmates. People who escaped became panic stricken and sought the fields, where many huddled together in a starving condition and suffering from cold. Help for the stricken people is going forward from Smyrna. CRIME. Orrin A. Carpenter of Lincoln, Ill., is arrested for the murder of Zora Burns, whose mutilated body was found in the woods near that city recently. Zora had for some time been employed by Carpenter. Investigation disclosed that Zora had left his employ and returned to the home of her father in a village near Lincoln, and on the day preceding her death paid a visit to Carpenter's office, remaining with him an hour alone. He was the only person she visited so far as known while here. As to the nature of her visit Carpenter related a story plainly denied by the facts subsequently disclosed. It was also discovered that the dead girl was a student and testimony of various parties tended to show that he had supplied the girl with money and had written her various letters. The bartender of the Nolte house in Lincoln testifies that Carpenter purchased from him half a pint of whiskey on the day of the murder. Examination of Carpenter's buggy disclosed that the cushions were stained with a quantity of blood, and on his discovery a warrant was immediately sworn out for his arrest. He was followed to jail by a large and excited crowd. The accused is credited with being the wealthiest resident in Lincoln, owing a large grain elevator in the city, a farm near the city and other property. He has a wife and two daughters.

The Miser and the Maid. For 50 years a miserly and eccentric character named John Williams, but familiarly called "the doctor," has lived entirely alone in Walden, N. Y. For 40 years he worked at his trade of stone mason and hoarded every cent of his earnings, living on oysters when possible and bread and butter when he had to have when it could be obtained. He lived recently in an old dilapidated stone house, the only inhabitable portion of which was the garret, lighted by a small window. A attempt after attempt was made by visitors to enter his house to see how this miser lived, but no one ever succeeded in obtaining entrance except a tax-collector named Bradley and a little girl named Minnie Oldham, the daughter of a poor working man of the village. Bradley surprised Oldham and succeeded in collecting the first taxes he had paid in 15 years. The Oldham girl was a dally and welcome visitor, as she had been a favorite of Wilson from a baby. She was kind to him and looked after such household matters as he would permit to be done. Several years ago the mother of the miser, who supported herself by doing domestic drudgery, became worn out by old age and hard work, and she applied to her son for assistance. He refused. He bought her a pair of shoes, but she walked her 20 miles to the poor house, delivered her over to the authorities of that institution, first taking from her the shoes. She died in the almshouse soon after and was laid in a pauper's grave.

The only other person in the world to whom Wilson showed any friendship besides the Oldham girl was an eccentric person of his own age named Howard Kidd; but even this man was denied entrance to his house, and he was allowed to touch them for many years.

Did St. Patrick Ever Exist. "Who was St. Patrick?" is the appropriate question which Moore J. Conway sets out to answer in the North American Review. "Did he ever exist?" This, it seems, cannot be determined with anything like certainty; he appears even more mythical than some of the legends of fairy tales. The most ancient record of him dates back to the year 635, and it is only enough to deserve a fair measure of credit, but it, like most other records concerning him, leaves considerable doubt as to his origin. It is just to leave the question of his individuality unanswered. Probably Palladius, the first Christian missionary to Ireland, who was a friend of Germanicus and was styled Patricius in the Roman Martyrology, was identified with the patron saint of Ireland. One of the strongest reasons for supposing so is the fact that no contemporary ecclesiastical writer mentions a Patrick, while nearly all speak of Palladius. The most remarkable instance of silence upon the subject is that of Bede, who mentions the missions of Palladius, Noman and Columba, but says not a word of Patrick.

It was discovered the other morning that the residence of William Dutton, of Adrian, ex-president of the Lenawee county savings bank, had been entered by burglars in the night, the doors being open, clothing scattered here and there, and a gold watch, a diamond ring, a cash and a gold watch were taken from Mr. Dutton's pockets and from his safe were abstracted real estate mortgages amounting to probably $100,000 government bonds aggregating $7,000, bonds of the Michigan Central for $20,000, bonds for $15,000 of the village of Sheridan, Montclair county.

Another one of our oldest citizens has gone to rest. William Morton died Wednesday at 12:20 P. M., being 73 years old. In 1812 he was born in Armagh county, Ireland, and came to this country three years later. In 1855 he came to Ann Arbor from Whitewater, Wisconsin, and resided in the Sixth Ward until four years ago, when he moved to the old Chase place on the south Ypsilanti road. There he died of general debility. The family remaining consists of his wife and the children: Dr. W. J. Morton, E. J. Morton, Miss Maggie Morton, W. H. Morton and Mrs. Daniel Emerson of Wisconsin. The funeral is to be at the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An active temperance campaign under Dr. J. H. Conway, of Philadelphia, began in this city Sunday afternoon last. The work seems to be after the order of the moral suasion movement of six and seven years ago. Dr. Conway is a disciple of Francis Murphy, and introduces the blue ribbon as his badge. His aim is to draw away the drinkers from their cups and induce young men and boys never to begin the use of intoxicants. He seems to be a Christian man, and claims to expect no success without the help of God through prayer. He claims to be a gospel temperance worker and emphasizes the necessity of drinkers seeking earnestly the help and grace of God to insure their firm standing against the power of appetite. In connection with his work every where a mid-day prayer meeting is established. Accordingly such a meeting is held in Firemen's Hall each afternoon at 3 o'clock. On Sunday afternoon the hall was filled to overflowing. Several of the clergymen were present. Rev. R. B. Pope opened with reading of the scriptures and prayer. Dr. Conway probably disappointed some of his auditors by not giving one of his formal addresses, but earnestly threw himself into the active work of his campaign by securing the signatures of nearly all who were present. Blue ribbons were fluttering from most all the coats and dresses as the large audience dispersed. 334 signatures to the pledge were secured. In the evening another full house, of those who do not ordinarily attend church, greeted Dr. C., and 60 more signatures were added. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights have witnessed a full house, and the results of four days is 1,157 signatures. Dr. Conway has the power of tremendous work himself, and the faculty of setting others at work. He visits drinking men during the day and sees them at his room. His kindly manner and nobleness of heart wins all with whom he comes in contact. One of the distinguishing features of his work is the sending forth of an army of canvassers who go everywhere soliciting signatures to the pledge and extending invitations to the meetings. It is hoped all good citizens will encourage the good work by their presence and cooperation. Money also is needed to defray necessary expenses. Friday morning, as we go to press, we are informed that the number of signers to the pledge this week, thus far, is 1,350, among whom are many of those who have hitherto been classed with the hardest drinkers of the city. Last evening, although stormy, was one of the best for the cause of temperance ever known to this city.

Farming in Michigan a Success. According to the U. S. Agricultural Report for six years in succession the farmers of the Wolverine State received more actual cash per acre for eight of the principal farm crops, than did the farmers of any one of the great farming States of the West and Northwest. The aggregate for the six successive years in Michigan, per acre, was $97.43, and in Ohio, the next highest, it was $84.11, while in Nebraska it was but $43.60, being the lowest figures in the ten principal Western agricultural States.

In the year 1883 the average cash value of those crops was in Michigan, $19.48 per acre. According to the same reliable authority that of States is well up amongst the sisterhood of states in supplying the world with articles of prime necessity, being first in salt, first in lumber, first in copper; and as for iron, in comparison with Pennsylvania, the value of the ore at the mines where it was produced, it was in Michigan, according to the last census report for 1880, $6,024,648, and in Pennsylvania it was $5,517,079, though the output in Pennsylvania was 259,963 tons the most. While in the matter of miners wages per month, the average in Pennsylvania was $28.57 and in Michigan the average was $42.11. Michigan is fourth in her wool product and amongst the foremost in fruit, and she ranks all others, according to U. S. official returns for the census year, in the average number of bushels of wheat per acre, and is fourth in aggregate amount produced. All this and much other valuable information may be obtained from a pamphlet entitled "Michigan and its Resources."

Literary Notices. The November Number, concluding the sixty-seventh volume of Harper's Magazine, is rich in illustration. The frontispiece, illustrating Austin Dobson's poem, "At Last," is from a drawing by E. A. Abbey. Herbert Tuttle contributes an article, entitled "A Vacation in Vermont." "Some Glimpses of Artistic London" are given in an article by Joseph Hatton. Henry P. Johnston contributes an article apropos of the Centennial Anniversary of the Evacuation of New York by the British. "A Castle in Spain" is concluded Mr. William Bodley's article, entitled "Our Children's Bodies," strikes vigorously at the defects of our home and school training. Dr. H. H. Kane describes a "Hashish Home in New York." Julian Hawthorne contributes a thrilling All Hallows' story, entitled "Ken's Mystery." The Editorial departments are full of entertaining and useful matter; and the publishers' special announcement of the forthcoming Christmas Number—and of the leading attractions of the Magazine for 1884, indicate their purpose not only to maintain the high position already gained for this periodical, but also to still further advance its standard of literary, artistic, and mechanical excellence.

St. Nicholas for November is the first number of a new volume, and is full of promise of good things for the coming year. Louisa M. Alcott has the first half of a bright story called "Sophie's Secret." J. T. Trowbridge contributes a thrilling biographical sketch of Capt. Mayne Reid, and Frank R. Stockton furnishes one of his inimitable fair tales, entitled "The Beeman and his Original Form." Then, appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, is a down-at-heel sketch by Hezekiah Butterworth, "A Thanksgiving Dinner that Flew Away," while E. S. Brooks, in "The Little Lord of the Manor," writes of the final evacuation of New York by the British just one hundred years ago. Another article of more than ordinary historical interest is the paper on "The Origin of the Stars and Stripes. There is also, in time for production during the holidays, a cleverly written and easily produced Christmas play, called "Among the Pines." Natural history receives due recognition in accounts of some "Benevolent Birds." A varied assortment of verses completes the number.

Teeth extracted without pain.—In 18 years of experience in the use of gas for extracting teeth I never have been able to do so successfully by any other means than Gas or Vitalized Air Apparatus. It works to perfection and teeth are extracted without pain. With my long experience I feel that I am offering my customers an unexcelled but less than a valuable. W. W. Nichols, office over Joe T. Jacobs, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Having taken possession of my planing mill again, I am prepared to do planing, scroll sawing, moulding, sash, doors and blinds, and all work in my line, would be pleased to see all of my old customers and many new ones. H. KRAPP, 1162-65 Detroit Street.

The Armory Hall Academy of Dancing for 1883-84 has an opening social on Friday evening, Oct. 26, 1883. The class in dancing for ladies and gentlemen begins on Friday evening, Oct. 27, at 7 p. m. R. GRANGER, Manager.

The system adopted by M. S. Smith & Co., the leading Detroit jewelers, some forty years since, of making every article on sale in their establishment in plain figures, and of adhering strictly to one price, for all comers, has proved so satisfactory to the house and their patrons, that the Messrs. Smith & Co., declare that they would rather retire from their business than return to the old "bunter" system, under which one customer pays in excess of a fair price to make up for discounts given to another. The one price system is peculiarly adapted to the jewelry trade, for the reason that most patrons are ignorant of real values. Whenever it becomes apparent that the skilled buyer can purchase at no lower figure than the novice—that all are treated alike—there can only follow the most satisfactory results to dealer and patron. A house like that of M. S. Smith & Co., which is filled with the richest and most artistic examples of bijouterie and pearls, can on this plan cater to the best trade, and the proof of the popularity of the system of selling plain figures is found in the enormously increased sales of the house since the system was adopted.—Detroit Post and Tribune.

B. & A. OVERCOATS!

THURSDAY—COLD AND WET.

Lupins Cashmere.—Inquiry is being made for them and we keep a large stock of everything Lupins makes. You may find everything here that is elsewhere and some beside, that others do not have. As to prices, surely we would not charge higher than others, only to have cut goods to take back. The fact is this store levels prices.

It is true now and then some one to stimulate trade cut prices, but the moment it is advertised, or we hear of it, that minute our prices must go down, show us where our cashmere or any other goods are higher than elsewhere and we will thank you. We can show you many goods that are lower than elsewhere and you can thank us. BACH & ABEL.

Fashion forecasters we are not. We would be unworthy our opportunities though, if we couldn't very often tell the drift of the current. Our provision for your anticipated calls have often proved the wisdom of our thought. The Jersey coats have made a place of their own. Of course, now, everybody knew they would. We have about 20 doz. in all, sized from 30 to 42, which we will sell at $2.50. Former price, $4.00. Have you seen them? Our Merino Underwear Counters are through these days. We simply mention it to let you know that we have extra help there, and can give you prompt attention.

Plaids are in greater request than last season, and are a deal more pronounced in style. Their use is by no means confined to the young, and both in full suits for misses, and skirts combined with Jerseys and other waists for young married and middle aged ladies, there is scope for a wide range of taste. We are especially fortunate in opening to-day a very desirable line at prices that can not be duplicated. BACH & ABEL.

Mere mention! A choice assortment in all the shades of English Tricots 54 inches wide, opened last week. BACH & ABEL. Cloak buyers or visitors looking at our remarkable stock (who are equally welcome), will find it more agreeable and receive better attention in the morning. Our cloak trade is very large, and in mid-afternoon the throng of customers is quite pressing. We are constantly asked about our plush cloaks and dolmans, especially about our $35.00 cloak. We have but a small assortment at this price and when they are gone can not be duplicated again this season at that price. BACH & ABEL.

Dr. Felix Le Brun's G and G CURE. A Guaranteed Cure for Gonorrhoea and Gleet. Safe, pleasant and reliable. No bad effects from its use. Does not interfere with business or diet. Price, $2.00 per box, or three boxes for $5.00. Written guarantees issued by every duly authorized agent to refund the money if three boxes fail to cure. Sent postage prepaid on receipt of price. Address, J. H. BROWN & Co., Sole Agent, Ann Arbor, Mich.

SCROFULA and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Itchings, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood. To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SASSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases. A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores. "Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, Mrs. ANN O'BRIAN, 145 Sullivan St., New York, June 21, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian, also upon Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge. The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. Ball, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882: "I have suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality. It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease. PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists; price $1, six bottles for $5.

INDIAN SUMMER.

ANDREW B. HIXON IN THE CENTURY. After October the summer being past. That summer days return. The partridge whirrs.

A noisy wing to ambush in the first; And for a while the sun strikes his beams. It is an autumn that of spring-time dreams.

The warm breeze comes, and airy, softly sifts. The silent tree-branches, and the empty birds. Whence, hushed, drop into the leaf-laden streets.

Al! dear, this tardy sunshine, and the last! So much we find—no summer being past. And hark! for us—a little breath so fair a country, such a genial air!

Shall I forget our woes, and be aware Step over to the borderland of death!

A WOODEN SHOE.

BY JUAN KINGSOLEY.

Toward the end of September, 1832, it was announced among the artistic circles of Paris that Nicolo Paganini had fallen seriously ill, at the conclusion of a grand concert given by the illustrious violinist.

Paganini, whose leanness was already almost spectral, now seemed to have which the slightest shock might sever. The physicians unanimously ordered solitude, absolute repose, and a strict regimen as to diet.

In order to carry out these prescriptions, Paganini removed to the Villa Luteana, in the Faubourg Poissonniere. This excellent establishment, which no longer exists, was intended exclusively for the reception and cure of wealthy invalids.

At length Paganini appeared, renewed with every appearance of smiling health, and in his favorite violin played some of those ravishing strains which never failed to transport his auditors to the seventh heaven of delight.

muscular fingers accomplished this task with difficulty, and the company, whose curiosity caused them somewhat to trespass on the bounds of good manners, crowded around in order to see the contents of the box.

The musician first drew out a large packet, enveloped in strong brown paper, and secured with several seals. Having opened this, a second and then a third envelope appeared, and at length the curious eyes of twenty persons were regaled with a gigantic wooden shoe, carved out of a piece of ash, and almost large enough to serve for a child's shoe.

"Ah!" said Paganini, "a wooden shoe. I can guess tolerably well who has sent it. Some of these excellent ladies wish to compare me to a child who is wretchedly lame, and expect me to wear one. Well! let it be so. We see if we can not find some method of making this shoe worth its weight in gold."

So saying, and scarcely saluting the company, Paganini withdrew to his case and his contents. During three days he did not reappear in the drawing room; he worked from morning till night with his hands. In fact, the musician, whose hands were wondrously flexible and dexterous in other things besides violin playing, had fashioned a perfect and sonorous instrument out of the wooden shoe. Having finished it, he sat down to playing, and the expectation was that he would play the piece which he had just finished.

Next day a public notice appeared that on New Year's eve Paganini would give a concert in the large hall of the Villa Luteana. The great master announced that he would play ten pieces, five on the violin, five on a wooden shoe. The price of the tickets was fixed at twenty-five francs each. Of these only 100 were issued, and it is needless to add that they were purchased by the elite of the beau monde, who during several months had missed the aspect of the artist.

At length Paganini appeared, renewed with every appearance of smiling health, and in his favorite violin played some of those ravishing strains which never failed to transport his auditors to the seventh heaven of delight.

oleomargarine made from tallow changes to a deep crimson red. When laid on a hot surface, the colors are diversified—showing all the colors of the rainbow.

The New York Times reminds farmers that smut is rapidly increasing, few crops being free from it. A solution of four ounces of blue vitriol—sulfate of iron—dissolved in a gallon of water for each five bushels of seed, which is steeped in it until it is absorbed, has been found the most effective to destroy the minute spores which produce the fungus.

A correspondent of the Farmer and Fruit Grower recommends the use of salt as a remedy, for the red rust that attacks blackberries and black raspberries. His treatment is to throw salt freely among the old canes, a plump waxy specimen of a child who is wretchedly lame, and expect me to wear one. Well! let it be so. We see if we can not find some method of making this shoe worth its weight in gold."

The horticultural editor of the Rural Home says black raspberries can be produced cheaper than any other fruits, because they will grow on poorer soil, can be cultivated largely by horse; their picking can be delayed longer without their decaying, and they can be shipped greater distances than any other small fruits, or at least, than strawberries and raspberries. Good cultivators have probably received rather better net results from the red than from the black raspberries. These require better soil, better culture, and prompt picking and marketing, and good home market is more essential.

If it is desired to start the nut on a bolt that has got rusty on plow or carriage it can often be accomplished by pouring kerosene oil on and allowing it to remain a few hours, then giving the nut a smart blow, and putting on a little more oil. In some cases it can be done by pouring on the kerosene and setting it on fire, thus heating the nut and swelling it, as well as burning out the rust. Where this is not practicable from fear of injury from too much heat, a layer of blacksmith's tongs, heated red hot and allowed to grasp the nut firmly until the tongs are nearly cool, will warm up a small nut enough to loosen it.

J. M. Stahl, in the Indiana Farmer says: "A hog has been fed a certain time the increase of fat is hardly perceptible to the naked eye, and it is difficult to find the animal increases at all in size; yet it will increase in weight. The fat becomes more solid and dense. Generally farmers do not fatten long enough, for a hog should be very fat. But the sooner he can get this full of solid, dense fat the better. All the time during the process of fattening some food is being consumed in keeping up the vital functions; only the residue is stored up as fat. The longer the hog fattens the more food is consumed for this purpose. And the shorter the time the less likelihood of loss from accident or disease, and the sooner the farmer can put his capital to use again."

At length Paganini appeared, renewed with every appearance of smiling health, and in his favorite violin played some of those ravishing strains which never failed to transport his auditors to the seventh heaven of delight.
