The next Republican National Convention goes to Chicago, June 3, 1884. The selection of this place was quite a surprise to the eastern delegates, who had expected it for Philadelphia.

STANDARD TIME.

Standard time is coming. The wide awake communities have easily adapted themselves to the change while the slower and more conservative places are vainly striving to clog the wheels of progress by delaying action. However we believe it will not be long before the tendency of the times will crowd them and make them, in the end, do reluctantly what they ought to have done gracefully at the beginning.

As it is now, when we leave home with our watches at Ann Arbor time we can travel to Chicago, to Cincinnati, to New Orleans or even to the Missouri river, always having the exact time of the place and without the least trouble in looking up, first, the time the railroad runs by, and second, the difference between that and our own time.

For years this system has been in operation in England with perfect satisfaction and to the saving of much confusion not only for railroads and travelers but also for business men and the courts.

The change is undoubtedly an improvement and one can get used to it in a day if he only puts his giant intellect to work to figure out whether it is half an hour earlier or later than the old time that he must get up, eat, go to business or school and to entertainments. The change is merely nominal. If one is accustomed to arise with the sun he will wake at that time whether the town clock points to seven, half-past six or half-past twenty-one o'clock. What is the real difference? Does it not do us good once in a while to get out of a rut and shake up our ideas? The best ones will come to the surface. Standard time is the coming improvement—may it already come, and the sooner it is universally adopted the sooner shall we get used to it and like it.

OUT OF THE OLD.

The merry peals of bells Wednesday evening from the bell tower of the new library building indicated that something unusual was going on, and the crowds hurrying to University Hall proved it. At 7 P. M. standard time were gathered together over two thousand people glad to celebrate one of the University's gala days occasioned by the completion of the new library building. The platform was occupied by the Choral Union and the following gentlemen: Pres. J. B. Angell, Rt. Rev. Bishop Harris, Gov. George F. Rensselaer, Regent Duffield and Shearer, Justin Winsor and R. C. Davis.

Regent Shearer in reporting on behalf of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds, referred to the memorial in behalf of a library building, presented to the Board of Regents by the University library committee on January 12, 1881, followed on February 25, by the legislature's appropriation for the building, the acceptance of the design of Ware & Van Brunt, of Boston, on August 22, and the contract with Mr. Appleyard on September 7. Through there were many retarding influences, in the opinion of the committee the various works in the building are so far superior to any heretofore done for the University that the delay can well be overlooked.

Ex-Regent Climie, as superintendent, rendered invaluable service in his oversight of the building. The detailed statement of account with the appropriation for the library building is as below:

Total appropriation.....	$100,000 00
James Appleyard, contract price and extras.....	89,187 32
Services of architect and estimator.....	2,800 00
Preliminary and prize designs.....	2,075 00
Printing and stationery.....	184 90
Furniture.....	1,547 13
Gas fixtures.....	1,041 00
Connecting main for sewer and steam.....	418 30
Grading and work not entirely finished, at cost.....	748 39
Total.....	$100,000 00

President Angell, speaking for the Board of Regents, accepted the building, praising and thanking the committee, the architects, the contractor, the superintendent of construction, and the State legislature, all of whom combined in making this, the finest structure belonging to the University. The library of the University is the fountain of its intellectual power. Here in the library halls the revered masters of science and philosophy center around to sit with us as guides, inspirers and friends. Fitting it is that the house dedicated to such purposes should be the best that the munificence of a great and enlightened and generous State could furnish.

Now that a secure building is erected it seems not unnecessary to hope that the library and gallery of art may both have a rapid growth, as works of great value would now be secure in a fire-proof edifice. Touching upon the desirability of a large library as well as having a collection set apart for a circulating library for the students, and the size of the book-room, the speaker referred to the coming semi-centennial of the University's founding and expressed a hope that at that time—eight years hence—the library would have so grown as to necessitate enlarged quarters.

The address of the librarian, Mr. Davis, contained much of interest pertaining to the library and was heartily received. The speaker recognized three well-defined periods in the history of the University, the first beginning in 1817 and closing in 1821, the second extending from 1821 to 1837. The period of to-day is that from 1837. Very little was said concerning books and libraries by chroniclers of the earlier periods. In 1809 Mr. C. C. Trowbridge, of Detroit, sent out to the University a parcel containing eleven volumes of miscellaneous books. From a letter sent by the librarian at that time, we learn that the package of books referred to was exchanged from the dark corners of his house, and were all that remained of the few books that fell into his hands as secretary of the Board of Trustees of the then existing University of Michigan at Detroit. This is all that is known of books and libraries down to 1837.

From 1837, however, information is both abundant and definite. The first officer appointed by the first Board of Regents was a librarian, the Rev. Henry Colclazer. One of the first purchases made was a copy of that now rare work, "Audubon's Birds," for which the sum of $970, was paid. This was in February 1838. 2700 volumes received in Ann Arbor in December 1840 from Dr. Asa Gray, who had been buying largely in the book-markets of Europe, constitute the foundation of the library. Shortly after the accession of Dr. Tappan to the chancellorship in 1852, through the generosity of citizens of Ann Arbor, some 1200 volumes were added to the collection.

In 1856 the books were for the first time properly shelved, so that they could be used daily, in what is now the north wing of University Hall. The position of librarian now became one to which were attached arduous duties and grave responsibilities. The erection of the law building in 1863 provided better accommodations for the collection, where, after its removal, the books remained until their transfer a few days since to the new building.

In 1870 the library received the first important gift. This was the entire library (4,000 volumes and 6,000 pamphlets) of Carl H. Rau, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Heidelberg. It was bought and presented to the University by the Hon. Philo Parsons of Detroit. From 1856 to 1877 the average annual increase was about 800 volumes, and in June of the latter year the librarian reported the entire collection to consist of 23,000 volumes and 8,000 pamphlets. 1877 was an epoch year in the history of the library. Special appropriations from the State and private gifts to the library began in that year. The McMillan Shakespeare Library of 3,500 volumes, and 2,000 volumes presented to the School of Political Science through Prof. C. K. Adams, by some unknown person, came to hand last year. Since 1877 the average annual increase has been about 3000 volumes, and there are upon the shelves to-day 40,000 volumes.

Such was the librarian's story of the increase of the library in extent. Concerning its usefulness he said that until 1856 it was, the greater part of the time, a circulating library, open once a week for the delivery of books, but when the books were shelved, in connection with a reading-room, their greatest usefulness was developed. A card catalogue of the authors represented in the library, and of the subjects treated by them, was begun by Mr. Ten Brook. Statistics of the use of the books by readers within the limits of the reading-room, and by members of the faculties at their homes, show that in 1869-70, 45,000 volumes were used; in 1870-71, 49,000 volumes, and in 1882-83, 95,000 volumes. From this point to the close we quote Mr. Davis's words in his appeal for an increase of the volumes of the library:

This completes the history of the library and brings me to the limit that was set for me; but I should be wanting in the instincts of a librarian if I let this occasion pass without one word of appeal, of solicitation, for a department of the University that is very dear to me, and that possesses for all an interest that no other one department can ever possess.

We need more books here to help the student answer the questions of his professors, and, also, to help him answer other questions which no lips utter, and no fingers write, but which come thronging to him from within and without as the boundaries of his knowledge widen.

A great library, rich in all literature, and in all science, is needed in this wide Northwest to which the literature and the scientist may resort with a reasonable certainty of finding what they want.

This needs no argumentation—no amplification. The seats of great libraries in this country are few. Away to the east is Boston, with Cambridge hard by, there is one, and the best; New York is two; Philadelphia, three; Washington, four; and these are all, and they are all distant from us. Why may not Ann Arbor become five, and in one collection meet the wants of the students under tuition here, and of independent workers elsewhere, whose convenience will be best served by coming here? Here is a nucleus. Here are secure accommodations. Here are guaranties. Here are merits by nature and by training to guide the growth of such a library, and make it symmetrical. All this is needed is that the present liberality of the State shall continue, and that instances of private munificence, like those I have named, shall be of frequent occurrence. Shall it not be so?

It is a good thing for a man to do to provide the means whereby his fellow man may become wiser. The noblest thing in all human performance is to make men better. One way to make them better is to make them wiser.

Rev. George Duffield, D. D., followed the Librarian with the Dedication Ode, taking as his title the motto upon the largest of the seal of library bells. The ode, of considerable length, is written in the scholarly manner of the author and was well received. We are sorry that the lack of space precludes our publishing it. Justin Winsor, Librarian of Harvard College, gave a scholarly address on books in general. We give the following extracts to indicate the ideas advanced:

"With very rare exceptions not a book has been published since the invention of printing without its use in some way. The next best thing to finding a book helpful is to satisfy yourself that it is not helpful. Nothing is more true than that comparatively few books add much to our store of knowledge. Most books are indeed a digested mass with more or less skill of other books, but they do not make up the class of useful as distinct from original books, and they have a certain adaptability in one direction or another which is the excuse of their being. Further, more a book may have a curious psychological interest, independent of any addition to knowledge which it may convey, as representing type of mind, local peculiarities, race structure, which as one of a mass becomes of some importance in a study of mind. It is always dangerous to say a book is of no value for it is impossible to say what current ephemeral publication may become of cardinal interest. "I am sometimes, from my observations, forced to a conviction of the narrowing influences of special studies, in that they are apt to use the wrong end of the telescope in viewing other attainments. It is no small part of a librarian's duty to make a counterpoise in such cases and to defend on general principles all sorts of studies. It is foil and counterfoil in study which make its object seem palatable and graspable. The most costly nuggets of our English libraries to-day are the little sixpenny play books of Elizabeth's time, when countless thousands perished with the reading and whose survivors are the chance walls which have run the gauntlet of all sorts of vicissitudes. It is to-day the rule of Bodleian, the British museum and the other great libraries of Europe to reject nothing, having long ago learned the folly of discrimination. I am glad to say that our chief American libraries follow the same rule. Counting by volumes it may be safe to answer that in the last 250 years there have been put upon the world an aggregate of not far from 10,000,000 books, trash included, and of them scarcely more than a fifth part can be found in any one library, and probably very much less than all can be found combined in all the great libraries of the world. Taking 300 for the average edition, which I think is low, will give an aggregate of 3,000 million volumes issued since the invention of printing, and I doubt if there is in the United States in the public or private libraries 15,000 volumes, or one-half of one percent, of the grand total. This is a striking estimate of the inadequacy of public collections of all sorts to preserve the world's literature. It is a significant fact that not a single library in the world is perfect enough to satisfy any considerable number of different specialists. I have had to do with some of the best general libraries in this country, and yet I have never attempted an exhaustive investigation of a single subject that I did not find myself at a loss both for the books which have been and the books which have not been written. With libraries in most ways too narrow and confined, we are forced in every direction to take matters at second hand, not to speak of what we miss altogether. Libraries like those of London, Paris and St. Petersburg are not the creation of a lifetime, and it is hardly more than that since we in this country set seriously to work to amass large collections of books, and yet within a year a Spanish scholar engaged on a history of Columbus has found it important to cross the ocean to explore our libraries. "Bibliography is becoming, and it is essential that it should be so, a far less special attainment than it used to be. It is in fact a study fast becoming necessary to every scholar, who without it may be lost in a wilderness of books." The speaker closed with a glowing tribute to Antonio Panizzi and his labors in behalf of the British museum. At the conclusion of these exercises the invited guests visited and inspected the new building. It was brilliantly lighted, and among those present were noticed many alumni and distinguished guests from a distance. As some of them we mention, Dr. Nathaniel West, Bishop Harris, Regent Duffield, Shearer, Van Riper and Walker, ex-Congressman Edwin Willets, Gov. Bagwell, ex-Gov. Jerome, ex-Judge Isaac Marston, Col. Withington and Shearer, Dr. Samuel Duffield, W. J. Baxter, T. R. Chase, J. M. Arnold, Prof. Wells, H. R. Gass, H. Fralick, Silas Farmer. The book room and the gallery were all thrown open to the guests, and a chance was given for a full inspection of the building in all its parts. One curious feature has been discovered about the circular gallery above the reading room, and that is that it is a perfect whispering gallery, wherein one can be heard whispering at a distance of 150 feet. This is a very unusual thing and only comes by chance. We know of no other in this country, and, indeed, of only two in Europe, i. e., one in St. Paul's in London and another in an old temple near Naples. The room just vacated by the general library will be calcimined, renovated and thoroughly cleaned preparatory to receiving the law library now on the second floor. The room occupied by the latter will be similarly treated, to be used as a quiz room. The tables in the present law library will be removed into the Nydia room in the north wing, where they will be used in connection with the student's reading room.

The Doctor's Mistake.

One of the old mistakes of the profession was to think that there were no other ways of curing disease except those which had been handed down from former times. It is not to be denied that the Doctors have done great things for the world. But when it comes right down to the real curing of disease, it must be admitted that Brown's Iron Bitters has done enough to earn the generous gratitude of this whole present generation, including the medical profession. There are no mysteries or secrets about the compounding of Brown's Iron Bitters. This preparation is of iron and iron is the only preparation which will not injure teeth or stomach. In this it is beyond comparison better than the other preparations, which are mischievous and injurious. You need not fear a mistake in trying Brown's Iron Bitters. Your druggist has it. It gives vigor to the feeble, and new life to the dyspeptic. Children take it, not only with safety, but with great advantage.

AYER'S PILLS.
A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S PILLS are a safe, sure, and pleasant remedy for all of which they are a safe, sure, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession. These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient. A Sufferer from Headache writes: "AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and my PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest pill I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

"Oh, my," said an old lady who fell out of bed in a Boston hotel night before last. "I've hurt the exterior of my spinal column." "Good enough—I mean, my gracious!" said her husband, sitting bolt upright in bed, "we will see the proprietor for damages."

Cured When Physicians Give up.
"Our family physician gave up our child to die," wrote Henry Knice, Esq., of Verli, Warren county, Tenn. "It had fits. Samaritan Nerveine has cured the child. $1.50."

"Got on your husband's errand, haven't you?" asked a neighbor of Mrs. Bilkins. "Yes," replied Mrs. B. sadly, "it's the only one there is between us now."—Life.

Wells' "Rough on Corns."
I have been afflicted with rheumatism for many years past, so I could not walk without crutches. I suffered very much pain, and I was prevented from transacting my ordinary business. I tried several different kinds of medicine, but the only one that gave me permanent relief was the Rheumatic Syrup. After using the Syrup for a short time, I found I could handle my feet and limbs with perfect ease, and to day I am well, and I desire to recommend this wonderful discovery to all who are suffering with rheumatism.

Estate of Oliver Wheeler.
STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw.
At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, held at the Probate Office, in the City of Ann Arbor, on Wednesday, the 4th day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three. Present, William D. Harriman, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wheeler, deceased. George S. Wheeler the administrator of said estate, comes into court and represents that he is now prepared to render his account as such administrator.

Thereupon it is ordered that Saturday the twenty-ninth day of December, instant, at ten o'clock in the said court, for the purpose of examining and allowing said account, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said estate, of the pendency of said account for said court, on Saturday the 31st day of January, next, at ten o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and that the heirs and next of kin of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at said court, then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on said day, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. We learn that the Superintendent of the Poor have contracted for some four or five tons of beef at $6.65 per hundred, about twenty-five cents less than last year. Some five tons of pork will be delivered within the next two weeks, costing $5.50 per hundred. $7.35 per hundred was paid last year, so that the purchase this season is at a very much lower rate. Fifty cords of wood, at $3.00 per cord in the woods, have been bought and will be drawn by the county teams. The building ordered by the supervisors will not be put up before spring. Some improvements have been made in the county house recently. There are about eighty-four inmates at present. The season of the year brings in quite a number that are out during the summer months.

Eleven tramps recently attempted to conceal themselves on a Michigan Central freight for the purpose of stealing a ride, getting on east of here. The conductor knowing of their presence on the train waited until after starting up and nailed the doors shut. Arrangements had been made by telegraph for the arrest of the party at this station, and they were accordingly transferred from the car to Sheriff Wallace's residence on the arrival of the train here. They were given trial on yesterday before Judge Joslyn. One of the number from every appearance was deserving of more sympathy than the others; he was, therefore, given sixty days at the Detroit House of Correction. The remaining ten were sentenced to the State House of Correction for six months. Sheriff Wallace starts for Ionia tomorrow with some of the number.

According to the vote of the common council the standard time became the time Sunday, and the town clock took a half-hour recess between twelve and one o'clock. Clocks and watches about the city are quite generally running by it and so are the most of the manufacturing institutions. However, some of the more conservative citizens, having possible legal complications in mind and being worked up by the cry that they would not be "run" by the railroad, and other notions prevailing, are opposing it. They have created so much of a stir as to frighten the school board, the common council and the powers that control the town clock. The consequence is that the time will be changed back again next Sunday. The school board also got scared off the track and changed the school hours yesterday morning.

The Regents held a short session just before the exercises in the Hall Wednesday evening. A vote of thanks was given the American Steam Gauge Co. for a number of fixtures presented to the department of mechanical engineering. Wm. K. Higley was granted the degree of pharmaceutical chemist, having completed the requisite amount of work. Application for the same was not regularly made in June. $500 were appropriated from the general fund for the purchase of books for the law library. The board then adjourned until 9 a. m. yesterday morning, at which time no session was held, through lack of quorum.

Justice to Conway.
EDITOR COURIER: In your last issue you say "Conway was frozen out of Ypsilanti in double quick time." Will you allow me to state the facts for the benefit of your readers. Before Dr. Conway undertook his work in Ypsilanti he was under agreement to commence work in Port Huron. He had at his command only five days to give to Ypsilanti, and those five days were given with the result of crowded houses each night, and a total of over 500 signatures to the temperance pledge. As you would not knowingly be unjust to any one, and as you have been grossly misinformed by some one, I trust you will give this a place in your paper.

Rev. Mr. Stalker of this city, delivers a temperance address at Saline next Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Widenmann, Wednesday went to her daughter's at Preston, Canada.
Miss Hosmer, of Midland, Mich., left for home on Wednesday. She has been studying music in this city for some time.
Miss Carrie Benham left Wednesday for a visit with her sister in Grand Rapids. She will remain until after the holidays.

Entertainments.
Part II of the program at University Hall this evening will consist of a selection from the opera, "Daughter of the Regiment," in full costume. The Minnie Hauk company at Milwaukee on Monday night had a house of 2,400. This is a very expensive entertainment with the Lecture Association, and its merit is deserving of a splendid house.

The Utica Press has the following: Marie Prescott is a great actress, and more than all, an American actress. In a word, no actress this season has held her audience in Utica better than Miss Prescott. Even men found it convenient to wipe their eyes during the pathetic passages and weeping women could be seen by the score. So still was the house that the rustling of a programme made a painful annoyance. For power and pathos Miss Prescott has few equals on the stage. Her acting is perfect. The entertainment was the best given in Utica this year.

COUNTY ITEMS.
DEXTER.
From the Leader.
Mrs. J. H. and Miss Carrie Magoffin have spent several days in visiting the numerous friends of the family in our village, all of whom deeply sympathize with them in their recent bereavement. They will return to Ann Arbor for a short visit, and then go to Cheboygan, their late home.

A very pleasant gathering was held on Saturday last, December 1st, at the home of Capt. J. B. Arms, to celebrate the 82d birthday of Mrs. Arms. A large number of old friends and neighbors and early settlers of Webster and Dexter were present and enjoyed themselves as heartily as old people are wont to do in talking over old times. Among the number were Mrs. J. Reeve, Mrs. S. H. Ball, Mrs. Polly Ball (mother of Harris Ball), Mr. Phelps the elder, Mrs. Cook, Dr. Gray, Mrs. Swift, and others.

MANCHESTER.
From the Enterprise.
Friday morning the Wales Riggs' college, at Sylvan, caught fire near the stove pipe and burned to the ground. All the boys' bedding and part of their clothes and books were destroyed, and nearly 400 bushels of seed corn ruined.
Manager Keck of the Ann Arbor telephone exchange had a telephone put into the Congregational church and on Thursday he had the kindness to call us to hear the music. We could hear the voices very distinctly and the organ sounded finely. We called up some of our subscribers, and gave them the benefit of the music for which they were very thankful.

On Thursday evening of last week, at about seven o'clock, as Nate Bordin, hog drover or dealer, of this place, was returning home from Ann Arbor, and when a short distance out of the city a solicited a ride a short distance, stating where he was going. When arriving at the corner just east of Jacob Hicks' the man wished to get out, and while in the apparent act of doing so very suddenly struck Mr. Bordin a heavy blow in the face and over the eyes, throwing him to the ground on the opposite side of the road. Immediately gathered himself and threatened to shoot the tramp on the spot (at the same time) having no fire arm in his possession)—when the tramp quickly took to his heels and fled. Mr. Bordin succeeded in getting to Mr. Hicks' house, bleeding very profusely, where he was attended for the time, and was accompanied home, by one of the men from Mr. Hicks'.

YPSILANTI.
From the Ypsilantiian.
The Ypsilanti Mineral Spring Company shipped a car of water to Boston.
Geo. Wilson of Canton township near Sheldon's had a 4-year-old iron-gray colt stolen from his pasture last Sunday night. The thief has not been captured and no traces of his whereabouts nor that of the horse been discovered.

From the Commercial.
Tuesday night Willie Ward returning home from Cleary's writing school, met a horning party. They set up a sudden shout, which frightened his horse and in jeopardy of going over and down upon the road track if he attempted the bridge, turned the horse toward a fence. The breaking of the tugs saved his life, but his horse was badly bruised and he had a narrow escape. This horning business is contemptible and ought to be stopped inside the city limits.

Society Elections.
Washtenaw Chapter, No. 6, R. A. M., elected the following officers Monday evening: H. P., T. P. Wilson; K. I. C. Handy; S. E. J. Johnson; C. of H., J. A. Gates; P. S., C. E. Hiseock; R. A. C., L. C. Goodrich; G. M., E. N. Gilbert; G. M. 1st V., N. D. Gates; Treas., D. C. Fall; Secy., Z. Roath.

Literary Notices.
THE PRINCESS. A Medley. By Alfred Tennyson. Illustrated. Octavo, pp. 223. Boston: James R. Osgood & Co. Price $6.
We thought, a few years ago, when Messrs. Osgood & Co. favored us with their magnificent Fine Art edition of "The Lady of the Lake" that the very perfection of book-making had been reached, and that its beauty of design and excellence of finish could be hardly equalled, certainly not excelled. But, on examination of this recent edition of Tennyson's "Princess," we are forced to acknowledge that we did not do full justice to the book-maker's art, nor to the almost infinite resources of this enterprising house. "The Princess," as a poem, needs no introduction to our readers. Its well-known charm lent aided lustre to the author's honored name, and surely no rarer setting could be found for so brilliant a gem. We had been promised a "superb edition," and our expectations have been more than realized. It is a veritable oeuvre de luxe and quite worthy the noble Princess whose fair fame it chronicles. Besides the richness of binding, the faultlessness relating to all matters of paper and typography, there are one hundred and twenty illustrations by our best American artists, who have most happily conceived and expressed the spirit of the poem. The frontispiece is one of Delman's charming drawings—a "portrait" of the Princess sketched from the poet's lines.
"There at a board, by some and papers set, With two tame tapers crooked beside her, All busy compass'd in a female form, The Princess."
From this rare combination of high poetic and artistic merit there results one of the most beautiful gift-books ever published. It is a brilliant avant courier of the numerous holiday books. Harpers' Magazine says: "The rich pictorial suggestion of Tennyson's Princess has prompted Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. to produce an edition of the poem, interpreted by American artists, which is unrivalled by any other for the perfection of its typography, and the wealth, beauty, and infinite variety of its illustrations. These are thoroughly in harmony with the finely poetical, semi-medieval, semi-modern spirit of the poem, and enable us to discover new beauties that were latent in it." The illustrations prepared for this elegant volume, a hundred and twenty in number, were drawn and engraved under the supervision of A. V. S. Anthony, the drawings having been executed by the best American artists.
Houghton, Mifflin & Co. of Boston have just published a life-size portrait of Nathaniel Hawthorne, in the same general style with their portraits of Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Lowell, Holmes, and Emerson. It represents Mr. Hawthorne in the fullness of his physical vigor, and cannot fail to be very acceptable to those who appreciate the remarkable excellence of Mr. Hawthorne's Works. The price of the Hawthorne portrait, as of the other portraits, is only one dollar.

BACH & ABEL.
NEW PRICES!
Has the mild Autumn weather delayed your purchase of winter goods? If so read this and be thankful. Run your Eagle Eye down this column. Let your mind follow your eye and take in all we tell you.
This week we scoop together a lot of Ladies Light Coats, good quality, and well made, prices $4 and $5, your choice at $2.50. A few Satin Dolmans, good styles, prices $16 and $18, your choice at $6. Three-quarters off ought to dispose of them. Good assortment of Silk Circulars, prices $15 and $18, your choice at $12. They ought to be very reasonable at that price. We have a lot of Ladies Dolmans, not long but just long enough, good quality prices $13, $15, $18, $20 and $24, your choice at $6. Examine them. This is no humbug. We propose to give you a benefit.
BACH & ABEL.
We succeeded this week in getting a case of 6-4 Ladies Cloth in all the desirable shades, which we propose to sell at $1 per yard. They are cheap. The same goods are being retailed to-day at $1.25 per yard in this city. We also have a case of 5-4 same goods which we will sell at 75 cents. Twenty-five cents less than you can buy them elsewhere.

We are doing a great business in Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. We will give you the best Silk Handkerchief for 75 cts and $1, you ever cast your orbs on. Also the best Linen Handkerchiefs at 15c and 25c you ever saw. We have about two hundred dozens of these goods and we propose to sell them during the next two weeks.
We have a case or two of dark dress cambrics, which we have been trying to sell at 12 1/2¢ per yard, but they seem to linger at that price; to make short work of them, we will sell them at 8 cents. This will be a decided bargain.
BACH & ABEL.
We have about ten dozen Ladies 2 Button Alexandre Kid Gloves in Black and Colors, which we must dispose of; will make the price for a short time at $1. per pair, just about half price. This is a great bargain.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla
cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, Catarrh, and all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood; expelling the morbid humors from the system, enriching and restoring the blood, and restoring its vitalizing power.
During a long period of unparalleled usefulness, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has proven its perfect adaptation to the cure of all diseases originating in poor blood and a weakened vitality. It is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodine of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier and blood-food that can be used.
Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.
"AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has cured me of the Inflammatory Rheumatism, with which I have suffered for many years."
Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.
"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed or dress without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it has cured many of my patients. It is the best medicine I have ever used in this vicinity. I can give you no more praise to the medicine than that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public."
River St., Buxton, Mass., May 13, 1882.
"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world."
