No "wool-y horse" about Yapple. He likes Porter, though.

Mr. Crozier still has the floor. That little Hillsdale episode remains unexplained.

Mr. Yapple is a 36 years old "kid." Almost old enough to get along without papa.

Jeffersonian democracy has to step one side. It is Dickinsonian democracy now, you know.

Congressman Yapple (that Mendon boy, so called) voted against Gen. Grant and for Fitz John Porter.

The only labor candidate for congress in Michigan is the one nominated by the republican party in the first district.

There is some talk of setting Yapple's county fair speech to music, and bringing it out as a comic opera. It is so very funny, tra la, tra la.

Bob Frazer appears to be a very great threat on the side of our prohibition friends, and they are devoting whole cyclones of wind to him. Well, Bob can take care of himself pretty well.

The Adrian Press (dem.) flings this insult in the face of the laboring men of the first district and the state:

The republicans nominated Hank Robinson, the anarchist, whom the socialists and communists of Detroit had named as a candidate. Nice snootish that.

And now it is "Hank Robinson, that old greenbacker," with the fusion press, in place of "Hon. Henry A. Robinson," as formerly. Calling names is a telling argument! Strange how soon the grapes sour.

The nomination of Henry A. Robinson by the first district republicans has made the Free Press boil with rage. It strikes and kicks and screeches and rages and calls names in a way that a wild cat would look upon with envy.

We are sorry to see the Midland Sun so bitter in its opposition to Hon. R. G. Horr, whose old shoes in Congress would be of more value to the 8th congressional district than a car load of such men as now misrepresents the district.

To hear republicans talk, and read republican papers, one would be led to believe that there is no such thing as virtue among men. That every one has his price and every politician is a mercenary commodity. People making such charges only mirror their own corruption.

Yes, Bro. Patton's price appears to be a senatorial nomination. What's prohibition without the offices? eh?

Before the republican state convention the fusion papers referred to "that good man, Farmer Luce, whom the millionaire syndicate are opposed to." Since the convention it is "that blessed bondholder Banker Luce." Oh! Rats, boys, rats! Your chin music is tiresome.

Let it be recorded in the mind of every loyal citizen of Michigan that George L. Yapple in Congress voted against restoring Gen. Grant to the army, while he was upon a bed of sickness from which he was not expected to recover. But he (Yapple) did vote to restore Fitz John Porter to the army. Is not the text a sufficient sermon in this instance?

In one-half of this free nation to-day, it is as much as a man's life is worth to run for office on the republican ticket. And yet if a republican paper refers to this fearful state of affairs it is met with the assertion: "Oh, you're waving the bloody shirt." That is all the answer needed.

That shirt ought to be waved until this nation is free from such a state of affairs.

If any of our laboring men desire free trade let them go to the museum and inspect the goods in the Chinese exhibit with prices for the same in American gold attached. Free trade means these goods in competition with goods produced by American workmen. Furthermore let the Chinese find out what sort of goods foreign free trade countries demand, and they soon learn how to make them.

Can any one tell why the 3d party partisans are so bitter against the republicans and so mild toward the democrats? Why don't they fight the liquor traffic, if that's what they were born for, instead of fighting the republicans? Why don't they fight for principle instead of pelf? Why don't they abuse democrats, who are as antagonistic to them as an infidel is to a Christian? Why are they not consistent?

The editor of the Ypsilanti Commercial being a candidate for office has commenced squawling for some of that democratic boodle, worse than a young nursing pig for its dinner. After asserting that democratic parties "are not only furnishing the money to run their own campaign, but the prohibition canvass too," he adds "we feel hurt that we have not seen a single penny of that democratic money."

Now boys come down.

Capt. Allen is a poor man, that's true, and he isn't ashamed of it. There's no crime or disgrace about it. The large majority of mankind are with him. But being poor he doesn't put on aristocratic airs as does his competitor whom the Argus has been forced to admit is also poor.

He is one of the kind who has a good word for the humbler, whom he treats with as much consideration as he does his more fortunate brother. He is frank, manly and straightforward, and he never will go about the district talking about his opponent, or be a temperance man in Washenaw, and a tippler in Lenawee or vice versa.

OUR STATE TAXES.

County Clerk Robinson received from Lansing the apportionment of state taxes for this county. It will rejoice the people to know that it is $23,198.63 less than last year, making the taxes much lighter throughout the county. Below will be found the various funds for which money will be raised:

University aid, act No. 32, 1885—$1500.00
Normal School—1681.14
Pensions—1681.14
Agricultural College—1681.14
Mining School—337.31
State Public School—1449.92
Michigan School for the Blind—951.93
Institution for the Deaf and Dumb—1289.58
Reform School—1650.01
State Industrial Home—1110.58
State House of Correction—1686.55
Michigan Soldiers' Home—299.21
Board of Fish Commissioners—389.77
State Board of Health—62.46
Military Purposes—2061.35
General Purposes—1919.72
Interest to counties on account of Swamp Lands—1819.25

Total—$8146.70

The indebtedness of the county to the state is $92.26 in addition to the above.

Last year the state tax was $61,309.08. Last year our county at an assessed valuation of $30,000,000 stood 3d in the list of counties. This year, on the same valuation it stands 4th, though the state valuation has increased nearly $100,000,000. Thus Washenaw's per cent. is much less than heretofore.

The county tax will not be apportioned until the supervisors meet.

"THE PILGRIMAGE."

The Knights who attended the St. Louis Congress last week are back and at their usual vocations, but when two of them meet they begin to smile a block away at thinking of the big time they had. It was a continuous picnic from the moment they left home until they arrived back.

From Jackson, where that commandment joined us, we had a special train through to St. Louis, which place we reached at noon on Monday. Upon our arrival we found an escort with a band drawn up to receive and conduct us to our headquarters, which were at a private house opposite the exposition building and facing the stand erected for the Grand Commandery to review the procession. There was more quiet and comfort than at the hotels while every procession passed that way and nothing was missed.

The beausant and banners were soon hung on the outer walls and the Knights of No. 13 began to mingle in the crowds to exchange cards and silk badges. The most enterprising badge "finks" were Dr. W. B. Smith, "Dr." Miller, Will Watts, W. J. Clark, Harry Clark, Tom Taylor and H. T. Morton. These each brought home from fifty to seventy badges, varying in beauty from a plain black ink one on narrow ribbon worth five cents to the California badge woven in silk and costing probably fifty cents a piece. They can be made into banners, scarves, cravats, etc. It is estimated that the Ann Arbor crowd thus distributed some 3,000 cards and 2,000 badges. As these will go all over the country from Maine to Texas and from Florida to California, it will make the best advertisement Ann Arbor has ever had, for the cards had a handsome embossed shield of gold and the badges were daintily printed on satin. So they will be worth preserving.

At every Commandery headquarters receptions were held all day long and until late at night. So there was much visiting and exchanging of courtesies. In connection with this pleasant feature it was of great interest for us to receive the graduates of the university. Hardly an hour would pass but several would enter who had been here to the university or who had had a relative in some of the departments. This showed how widely scattered they are and how widely varied are their pursuits.

The best day of the week was the one of the exhibition drills by the crack commanderies of the country, and in connection with this it was no small satisfaction for Michigan people to see Detroit and Jackson walk off with the honors in drill and execution of difficult maneuvers.

Following the drills was a grand instrumental concert given by the various bands there assembled under the direction of P. S. Gilmore. It was the grandest thing of the kind ever heard, when all the musicians were playing in full tone accompanied by 100 anvils and four batteries of artillery fired by electricity at the climaxes. On the grand music stand, where seats were arranged for 3,000, the drums, cornets, trombones, etc., each kind was massed together. This was called Charity Day, as the proceeds were for a Home for Widows and Orphans, and it was such a success that $75,000 was cleared above expenses by admission tickets to the grounds.

In the evening the people of the city illuminated their streets and buildings to an extent never before seen anywhere. Over the crossings at nearly every block were arches of heavy gas pipe on which glowed hundreds and thousands of jets inside red, blue and white globes. On all the lamp posts were 7 lights in branches, but so continuous were the lights along the streets that even one of these were scarcely noticeable. Then came flambeaux processions and men firing rifles. Bands played, the crowds yelled, the rifles cracked, the torches smoked, and as high cars rolled by, decorated and illuminated with red, blue and green fires, it made a scene such as Dante saw neither in Inferno nor in Paradise. But we saw it in St. Louis.

Next week we will write some observations of the city itself.

Representative Convention.

Called to order by H. E. H. Bower and Jas. J. Marshall called to the chair, with S. W. Beakes, as Sec'y.

Usual committees appointed and convention adjourned until after the county convention was over.

Upon re-assembling the committees reported, and the temporary officers were made permanent.

Jas. L. Stone moved that a committee of three on conference with the greenbackers be appointed, and Jas. L. Stone, Wm. H. Arnold and M. J. Lehman, were so appointed.

After being out a few minutes, the committee returned and stated that the greenbackers would like to have Geo. A. Peters, of Selm, nominated, but if they couldn't have him they would accept of Chas. H. Manly, as a candidate for representative.

Hon. John J. Robinson moved that Mr. Manly be nominated by acclamation.

Mr. Bailey objected. He said it was unfair to the other democratic candidates. Had the committee recommended a greenbacker he shouldn't have acquiesced, cheerfully, but they didn't, they recommended a democrat. That was no way to spring a candidate upon this convention. It was a trick to defeat democrats who were as good democrats as he ever was, and how was it done, by a handful of greenbackers who were not residents of this district. "Is Mr. Manly a better democrat than Mr. Sutton or Mr. Gregory? Would this convention submit to be dictated to by a parcel of greenbackers? He repudiated it, and termed the trick the most ridiculous burlesque ever attempted to be perpetrated upon a people. He again characterized the attempt to nominate Mr. Manly as "a burlesque, an outrage, a shame upon the democracy of this district," and closed by wanting to know "if we are men to sit here and allow it to be consummated." The applause at the close showed that Mr. Bailey was not alone in his indignation.

A ballot was ordered upon Mr. Robinson withdrawing his motion and the result is as follows:

1st. 2d. 3d.
Chas. H. Manly..... 30 24
John V. N. Gregory..... 14 1
Nathan Sutton..... 9 1
E. B. Pond..... 1 1

Total..... 51 26

Mr. Manly was then declared the nominee.

After the appointment of a representative district committee the convention vanished.

Democratic County Convention.

Called to order by Chairman Schuhl, Geo. W. Turn Bull, of Sylvan, called to the chair—first blood for the anti-Harriman faction. Upon taking the chair Mr. Turn Bull said that the nominations made were equivalent to an election, and the fusion of the greenbackers and democrats (nothing about prohibitionists) was the great desire of their hearts, the immense applause did not show up, in fact, there was an embarrassing silence.

Thos. D. Kearney, of Northfield, was made temporary secretary with several dissenting votes. The following committees were then appointed:

On Permanent Organization and Order of Business—P. McKernan, C. H. Whitman, M. Duffy, John Clark, J. Frank Spafford, On Credentials—George B. Schwab, F. J. Swaine, M. J. Lehman.

Assembled again at 1 1/2 o'clock. Temporary officers made permanent. Credentials reported. Nomination speeches on motion were limited to three minutes. One gentleman wanted to limit it to one minute if Cramer was to speak.

J. V. Sheehan moved that the greenbackers be invited to choose ten delegates the same be allowed seats in this convention.

D. Cramer moved as a substitute that a committee of five be appointed to confer with the greenbackers in session below. Carried. And chair appointed as such committee—Dr. W. B. Smith, W. J. Clark, Wm. H. Arnold, M. J. Lehman, and then took a fifteen minute recess to allow the committee time to report.

On motion of D. Cramer the present chairman and secretary of county committee were continued for two years.

Dr. Hendon from conference committee reported that the greenbackers wanted the clerk, but if they couldn't get that they wanted representative.

D. Cramer moved that this convention express itself in favor of giving the nomination of representative to the greenbackers. Carried by a rising vote.

D. Cramer moved the committee be discharged.

D. Cramer moved that the chair appoint two tellers, and Mr. Brennan, of Manchester, and Mr. Sawyer, of Ypsilanti, be appointed.

P. McKernan moved that Wm. Hall be renominated by acclamation for sheriff. D. Cramer seconded it. Carried.

D. Cramer presented the name of Dr. D. P. McLachlan, of Milan, and also the name of Frank Joslin, of Ypsilanti, using 3 minutes for each, for county clerk.

E. J. C. Cramer presented the name of Fred J. Howlett, of Lyndon, saying that that township had never had a representative on the democratic county ticket, and he spoke so well and addressed "the gentleman of the jury" so often that the chairman failed to rap him down as he did the other speakers when the three minutes were up, but allowed him to speak full fifteen minutes as chairman and speaker both from Chelsea you know.

After several seconds of the various nominees the convention proceeded to ballot, as follows:

1st. 2d. 3d.
Fred J. Howlett..... 40 24
Wm. G. Doty..... 22 1
Dr. D. P. McLachlan..... 19 16
E. J. C. Cramer..... 14 1
Frank Joslin..... 10 7
J. Warren..... 4 1

Total..... 110 56

The nomination of Doty was made unanimous on motion of John Sheehan. P. McKernan moved that Jas. Kearns be renominated for register of deeds by acclamation. Carried.

D. Cramer moved that Fred H. Belser be renominated by acclamation for the office of treasurer. Carried, and Fred commenced unloading his pockets of hundreds and thousands of dollars he had printed off for himself for fear that some dark horse might snatch the prize away from him.

P. McKernan moved that Ezra B. Norris, according to all former custom of the democratic party be renominated for prosecuting attorney. This was a terrible blow for Cramer who had been feeling for the office and had announced himself as a candidate. But he had talked so much already that the convention was in no mood to listen to his candidacy, and so Norris was put through with a rush, though the impression was prevalent that it meant defeat.

D. Cramer again popped up however. No power on earth could keep him in his seat, and he heaped coals of fire upon McKernan's bare head by moving that P. McKernan be re-nominated for circuit court commissioner for a fourth term by acclamation. Pat stood the coals all right and took the nomination without a dissenting vote.

D. Cramer moved once more, and renominated Frank Joslyn, of Ypsilanti, for the other circuit court commissioner by acclamation.

D. Cramer again arose to his feet. He must be heard. He moved this time that Martin Clark and O. C. Jenkins be nominated for coroners by acclamation. Some one objected and called out that Ann Arbor shouldn't have all the offices—(what sarcasm)—but Cramer insisted that this city be entitled to two coroners anyway, and carried his motion by acclamation. Pat stood the coals all right and took the nomination without a dissenting vote.

SENATOR H. W. BLAIR

WILL SPEAK IN

FIREMAN'S HALL

NEXT

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Immediately after the Republican County Convention. Everybody invited.

LOCAL.

Six persons joined the M. E. church on Sunday last.

The supervisors are to meet on Monday, October 11th.

Remember the republican ward caucus Friday evening, Oct. 1st.

C. J. Miner is building a very large and fine house on Liberty street.

Myer & Overbeck, Dr. McLaughlin and Geo. Moore, have each put in a telephone.

Next Sunday morning at half-past nine is the monthly class meeting at the M. E. church.

Prof. M. E. Cooley has bought the lots of J. T. Jacobs next east of Jacobs' new house on Monroe street.

The sale of lands for non-payment of taxes will take place next Tuesday at County Treasurer Belser's office at 9 o'clock a.m.

On Sunday next the ordinance of baptism will be administered, also the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at the M. E. church.

Last Friday night a man who had been boarding with Wm. Denman on E. Liberty street, got up in the night and lit out with a watch, shot-gun, revolver and an overcoat.

Mrs. Sarah Barakat, a converted Syrian lady, will give a narrative of her life and some interesting facts concerning Syria at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening.

The cellar at the jail fills with water at almost every rain, making it very unhealthy for the family of Sheriff Walsh who lives above. It looks as if there would have to be some underdraining done.

The champion's belt for light weights now rests gracefully on the shoulders of M. C. Sheehan, who in two rounds threw one of Ann Arbor's 6 ft. democratic politicians squarely upon his back each time, and thereby won $10. The laugh runs merrily around the county. It was an humiliating position for a "senator."

Monday night burglars broke one of the side lights of Alley's store at Dexter, gained an entrance and stole a lot of goods, consisting of men's underwear, tobacco, etc., etc., amounting to perhaps $100. They also took some $40 or $50 worth of jewelry from Mr. Murdoch, who also occupies a portion of the store with his jewelry business. No clew as yet, to the thieves.

On Sunday evening next, Oct. 3rd, Mrs. Layah Barakat, a Syrian lady, will speak at the Presbyterian church at 7.30 o'clock. Everyone should hear the thrilling story of her eventful life. Her husband accompanied Gen. Gordon as an entrepreneur, and she herself escaped from massacre in Syria and Egypt. She has been in this country since 1882 and has addressed large audiences.

Mrs. Ella Campion, daughter of John O'Hara, of Ann Arbor town, died Sept. 26th, 1886, aged 24 years, of consumption. Funeral yesterday at 10 a. m. Mrs. Campion was married some months ago, and went to the far west to make a home there. Being taken sick she started for her home alone, and lived to reach here, but died the day following. It was a very sad affair.

Henry Bennett who is now visiting his old home with his parents, started out for California, a puny consumptive 13 years ago. He soon began to recuperate in the exhilarating climate of southern California, and invested in the orange and grape bearing lands of the San Gabriel valley with an eastern colony, where, with returning health, and a prosperous venture he has accumulated a nice little fortune. He will soon return with his parents to spend his days in that health giving climate.

Last summer Miss Hattie Calkins and her sister, of Dexter went to Gaylord, Mich., to teach school, and both completed their summer term very successfully. About a month since Miss Hattie was taken ill with typhoid fever, and last Monday her corpse was brought back to Dexter to receive the last sad rites. The event causes much sorrow about Dexter where she was so well known. Since the above was in type we learn that the remaining sister Miss Alta Calkins is now dangerously ill at her home in Dexter.

Mr. Salisbury was placed in a rather embarrassing situation last Thursday, down at Ypsilanti. He was being hustled around and introduced to the supposed faithful, in order to make a grand impression by his military bearing, when an old German democrat standing near was spied out. Here was a chance to impress the Germans, thought Mr. S's chaplain, and so Mr. Schneider (we will call him) was hailed. "Allow me," says Salisbury's groom, to introduce the next congressman from this district, not thinking, probably that it was necessary to give the name. The old German looked up a second and quickly extending his hand, said: "How you was, Mr. Allen?" Explanations followed, but it was too late to relieve the embarrassment of "the next congressman" (in a horn).

Judge L. M. Goddard, of Leadville, Col., is visiting his brother-in-law, Wm. G. Doty.

Sam Blitz was called to Detroit yesterday by the sickness of his wife who is visiting there.

Gen. O. B. Wilcox's family are now living on E. Ann st., in the house vacated by Mrs. Prof. Williams.

Dr. W. B. Smith and wife are visiting in Ottumwa, Iowa, where the Dr. has large landed interests.

Mrs. M. C. Pearson was called to Garrettsville, Ohio, last week by the dangerous illness of her mother.

Hon. Chas. S. Gregory and wife of Dexter, returned Monday from a visit, with friends in Syracuse, N. Y.

J. T. Jacobs expects to move into his new house soon, and the finishing touches are being put on the same.

Prof. Eliza Jones who has spent two years in Europe, studying, has returned to his duties at the U. of M.

Jas. M. Stafford expects to move into the house so long occupied by H. D. Bennett, the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Dr. Hallock has returned to live in Ann Arbor again, and her large circle of friends attend her her greetings.

Prof. Delos Fall, of Albion college, was in the city a short time Saturday visiting his brothers, Dewitt C. and Chas. S.

Mrs. W. H. French who had been in the city a few days on her return from the east left yesterday for Redwood, Wis.

J. Q. A. Session got pay for his horse killed in the army during 1862, $140. The bill had been pending about two years or over.

A. H. Heron, of the Detroit Tribune was in the city Monday, and reports an excellent political outlook throughout the state.

Miss Mary Siple, of Lansing, will live with the family of her uncle, Fred Siple's, this winter, and attend the school of music.

Mrs. Warden, leader of the Presbyterian choir, and teacher in the School of Music, has returned after a long and happy vacation.

Walter Miller who has been spending the last two years in Greece, reached Ann Arbor last Sunday p. m., and has assumed his duties as instructor in Greek in the U. of M.

Mr. Wiley of Dexter was in the city on business Monday. He is a man of huge proportions, he is only 6 inches taller than he measures round the waist. He weighs 340 pounds—is 5 feet 8 in height and 5 feet 2 inches in circumference. He is 58 years of age—can walk quite easily, and has usually good health.

Horace Carpenter, of this city, who has just passed his 80th birthday, has lived in this country over 60 years, and is as bright and active as the average man of 50. Mr. Carpenter has not missed calling at the Courthouse office a year and paying for his paper since the memory of any of the present COURIER force runs back. He is prompt as the cycle itself.

Solomon Day is in jail 15 days for being drunk.

Frank Fay, of Lima, is in jail 30 days for being disorderly.

The Ann Arbor fair drew the crowd, even though the weather was lowering.

The road to happiness does not lie along the democratic political highway this fall, boys.

The annual meeting of the Methodist church takes place next Monday evening at 7.15 o'clock.

Henry Taylor, colored, was arrested by Sheriff Walsh yesterday on a telegram from Lansing where he is wanted on a charge of battery.

Some of the caucuses Saturday night didn't have much more than enough in attendance to fill out the delegation. Enthusiasm not very great.

A lot of second-hand furniture, mattresses, coal and wood stoves, etc., for sale at the Courthouse office cheap. Call between the hours of 11 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Jas. Rabbit a half-demented fellow threw a stone through the plate glass front of Holme's store in Dexter last Friday night, and has been placed in jail for safe keeping.

Wm. G. Doty was slaughtered simply and solely because he was a friend of Judge Harriman. No man in the convention dare say a word against him—his qualifications or his deserts.

Ann Arbor only wants to pay tax piled on her by the supervisors (Fred J. Howlett, Chn.) She don't want any other, because Judge Harriman lives here you know!

The Ypsi. Sentinel not finding anything else to growl about comes up to Ann Arbor and blows about the voting of $24,000 for a new school house. A spy glass would not be necessary to discover the green in those spectacles.

The speech of John V. Sheehan, nominating Mr. Doty was a masterpiece of polish and oratory. There was no fling at any other candidate or his friends, but a manly and handsome presentation of the man of his choice. Good for John!

The fair authorities that will furnish seats about their grounds for tired sight seers, will confer a great favor, and help swell their crowd. Many people stay away from the fair grounds because there is no place to sit down for a moment's rest without paying an extra quarter for a grand stand ticket.

"Little Africa" lies in the western part of the city, forming a part of the second ward. It is a hilly, hilly, hilly section of the first ward, and contains a large population.—Ypsi. Sentinel.

This lesson in geography is one that is of great value to tourists and strangers visiting our down-the-Huron neighbor. A city without its lions is nothing, and Ypsilanti keeps her well to the front you see.

A rampant Yagle and Salisbury free trader was endeavoring to make a circle of friends with whom he was talking the other day, believe that wages all over Europe were as good as in the United States to-day. He had an uncle or cousin who had traveled all over and knew all about it. An article in another column, entitled "Girl Workers in Coal Pits" is a fair specimen of a portion, at least, of foreign laborer's pay. Read it, please, Allen! Explanations followed, but it was too late to relieve the embarrassment of "the next congressman" (in a horn).

WASHTENAW'S FAIRS.

Writing up a county fair the next week after it has occurred, is something like paying for a dead horse, but as the day of issue of the COURIER is on Wednesday, the type for its issue must of a necessity be set up before the fair has fairly opened.

The fair of 1886 must be considered a great success, especially as the lowly weather for a greater portion of it had a strong tendency to keep down the size of the crowd. Notwithstanding that fact there was a very large attendance both Thursday and Friday, the grounds being completely filled with people.

But what can a reporter say of fair exhibits that he has not said over and over again for years?

The huge hogs, squashes, turkeys, pumpkins, melons and potatoes were all there; the mammoth ears of corn, the bags of wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat and other cereals, the fine strings of corn, of all kinds, were there in vegetable hall, together with rolls and crocks of delicious looking butter, and tempting bread and biscuit.

The fruit hall had some delicious displays of grapes, pears, and so many kinds and varieties of apples that it would take a half column or so to mention the various kinds. There were also canned fruits, jellies, pickles, etc., etc., in great profusion.

In poultry, the display did not appear to be equal to future displays, yet it was of a superior quality generally.

The cattle, sheep, the swine were all superior in numbers and exhibits to last year, which was considered an exceptionally large exhibition.

In horses, additional sheds had to be prepared in order to accommodate the entries.

FLORAL HALL.

Is always the center of attraction. Here is always a crowd. They jam and push, step on each other's toes, crowd and stand and talk, making it one of the most undesirable places to enter on the grounds. But a reporter has to push himself everywhere, so we commenced at the north entrance. Directly in front in the center was Eberbach's mammoth hardware display, and it was a fine one.

To the left was Grosman & Schlicker's store exhibit, next came Wm. Arnold with an excellent show of jewelry, clocks, watches, etc. Then Warner's variety store had an exhibit of attractive goods that kept a crowd around it all the time.

To the right was D. F. Altmendinger with pianos and organs from his Ann Arbor factory. Next in line was W. W. Douglass & Co., with a line of clothing and gent's furnishings goods. Following still to the left we noticed a handsome case of jewelry from C. Bliss & Son.

Turning into the west wing we find John Keck & Co's beautiful exhibit of upholstered parlor sofas, with draperies tastefully arranged and also an elegantly fitted up bed room. Exclamations of delight were heard upon all sides over this display. It showed rare good taste in arrangement.

Upon the opposite side was a fine lot of chemical glassware, etcetera, from Eberbach & Son's. And Mack & Schmid's display of ladies' outer garments, shawls, wraps, cloaks, etc., that were the delight of the feminine portion of the multitude. There were real seal, plush, etc., and a $400 camel's hair shawl.

In the south wing was D. F. Schairer's elegant display of beautiful and costly wearing apparel for ladies and children, which attracted no end of attention.

Then the Lewis & Gibson gallery had some photographs that took the premiums, and were pleasant to look upon.

Opposite was the booth for ladies' needlework and fine arts, containing some beautiful and exquisite pieces of work—that reflected much credit upon the patience and industry of their makers.

The east wing now completes our circuit. Wines & Worden have a display of carpets, rugs, etc., that is pleasing to the eye, and made one long for a Gould or Vanderbilt pocketbook. Then Schuch & Muehligh had a handsome booth of hardware goods, including a beautiful mantle with grate. Opposite of which was the Davis sewing machine in full operation by Mr. Schuch.

The center was more beautiful than ever with its pyramid of flowers arranged by Cousins & Hall.

YPSILANTI FAIR.

Through the kindness of Mr. Wm. Campbell, one of the Ypsilanti fair officials, we local was furnished with a free pass to all the sights, scenes, races and grand stands of the 15th fair of the Eastern Michigan Agricultural Society, and so with pencil duly sharpened we proceeded to see the sights.

That the fair was a success in point of exhibits and attendance no one can doubt for a moment. It was a good fair, and in matter of arranging entries neat and tasteful, and so that the greatest amount of display can be secured from the articles entered, the Ypsilanti people can give points. We never saw things better or more showily arranged. It must have taken time, patience and a head familiar with the subject. And this feature of arrangement provided the whole of the grounds. There was nothing hid under a bushel, and the exhibitor had the satisfaction of seeing his exhibits displayed to the best possible advantage.

One of the great attractions of the fair was the patent incubator of G. J. Nixley, of Saline. It was a sight worth seeing, as the hatching of chickens by machinery was a novelty to the multitude. The poultry exhibited by Mr. Nixley was also of a superior order. He seems to have the chicken business down to a fine point.

The needle work department was excellent, but the Merchants' displays were hardly what one might expect considering the many fine stores that there are in Ypsilanti.

There was an unusual compliment of catch penny and grab games that appear to be a natural auxiliary to a fair, and no one need to have gone hungry or thirsty if they had a nickle or so about them.

The half-mile track upon these grounds is a fine one, and some of the races were of interest.

The grand stands were continually crowded, but we heard of nothing greater than peanuts being vended, though that can be accounted for by the fact that we were not with a betting crowd.

One of the greatest curiosities upon the grounds was a live baby weighing only one pound. It was the only survivor of triplets, and its mother seemed to feel proud of her small speck of an offspring.

Another noticeable feature was the profusion of democratic county officers and candidates. They were as plentiful as stick-tights on a healthy burdock plant.

But taken as a whole Ypsilanti's fair was a credit to the place. A county that can produce two such fairs at the same time within eight miles of each other, as were the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti fairs, may well be considered a rich county.

Amusements.

That sterling and picturesque play the Lights of London, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Friday evening, October 1st. The "Lights of London" is one of the very few plays of which the public never seem to tire.

Since its first presentation some six years ago in New York, it has been played in nearly every American theater, an invariably to lucrative business. Shook & Collier made a fortune out of it, and were in a fair way to do even better when they produced the piece, which is now controlled by Mr. Jacob Litt, who has secured one of the strongest companies that have ever been in the play, including all of the best people that were in the cast during its memorable "first" season in New York. He has had entirely new scenery especially gotten up for this season, and the mounting, calcium effects, etc., will exhibit some of the most consummate patterns of stage craft. Reserved seats tickets for sale at Yale's P. O. news depot.

There is a rich treat in store at the opera house next Tuesday evening for every one who appreciates genuine Irish wit. The comedians, Barry and Fay, opened their season in Allentown, Pa., recently, and the Allentown Chronicle speaks of their performance in the following complimentary terms:

"No one who witnessed the performance last night in Music Hall of Irish Aristocracy would have been able to resist the company's first presentation of the comic Irish play the season. Barry and Fay having played the characters of Muldoon and Mulcahy hundreds of times, of course were perfect and exuberantly funny. And they have gathered around them a company who make a handsome stage appearance and are naturally fitted to interpret the role which they were assigned to fill. Everything went as briskly and smoothly as if it was their last instead of their first performance of the season. Notwithstanding the intense heat a good-sized audience was present, and that they enjoyed the performance is evident from the most continuous laughter all over the house during the entire play."

"Under the Gaslight" is one of those phenomenal plays that always draws a crowd. It has many strong points that the people appreciate. Of it the Detroit Tribune remarks:

"The management of the Grand opera house must have been as well pleased with the large attendance as the audience was with the play 'Under the Gaslight' last evening. The drama has been produced here many times before, and is revived for this week by Jacob & Proctor bids fair to be more of a success than ever at cheap prices and with a good company. The first-class seats were much to the play. The railway train and the rescue of George from the police, bound to the track, called forth great applause. The scene on the part of the police, and the avowed specialty acts. The part of Shorkey is in good hands. J. Clinton Hall makes all the company were good in their parts. The play will be given every afternoon and evening this week."

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and pure power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are
