SEWERS.

The veto of the mayor, made not from opposition to the plan for sewers but from a technical point of doubt as to the legality of raising the money by the way proposed, should not put a stop to the use of every effort to get the matter before the people. Rather than to pass it over the veto it would be better to lay before the taxpayers the proposition to vote $10,000 for the immediate starting of the work. Time is money on this sewer pipe, on account of the astonishing low rate it can be purchased. To show the results of the breaking of the sewer pipe try we give list prices and present buying prices for a comparison.

Table with 3 columns: List price, Present price. 6 inch pipe 40, 20; 8 inch pipe 50, 25; 10 inch pipe 60, 30; 12 inch pipe 70, 35; 14 inch pipe 80, 40; 16 inch pipe 90, 45.

These are just one-half the prices upon which Prof. Greene based his figures, thus reducing the cost below the $30,000. But no one knows how long it will be before another combination is formed to put up the price to the old figures.

We need sewers terribly and immediately. Something must be done now, or some other project may come up of a plan to involve $100,000 for another system. It is not safe to delay a much needed improvement.

SUGAR AND WOOL.

The following is taken from a Washington dispatch to the Detroit Tribune, published this a. m.:

Representative Allen this morning, in conjunction with nine other representatives of north-western states and territories, were before the committee on tariff and advocated a radical downward cut in sugar and a radical elevation of the wool schedule. Asked why this double back-action cut was advocated, Mr. Allen responded to the effect that native sugar growing had dwindled to such insignificant proportions that a reduction of the tariff on foreign sugar became a necessity in order that that commodity might be cheapened to consumers. When it came to wool, that was a rapidly growing industry in which large sums of money were invested in the United States, and it needed protection to the present all the way.

Representative Allen has prepared a bill which he will present at the first opportunity attaching the weather signal service bureau to the agricultural department in order that the farmers may receive prompt information as to the state of the weather.

As the new pension agent is to be appointed within the next fortnight the several candidates are hustling. Gavett, of Grand Rapids, probably had the strongest backing, but the sentiment that it should be given to an ex-soldier who had been maimed by loss of leg or arm has been growing so much that it will probably put him out of the field.

EDUCATION.

At the recent banquet in Washington of the Alumni of the University a reply to a toast on co-education was made by Mrs. Stowell which we publish below:

"Co-education in the university of Michigan. The 'co-eds' speak for themselves." Response by Mrs. Stowell. Although the "co-ed" is purely a University of Michigan expression, co-education is as old as the human race. For when the apple was plucked from the tree of knowledge and one bite taken from it—and when with true womanly instincts—the rest of the apple was given to the man—then co-education began. That taste obtained—the one nibble from the side of the apple—the remainder with woman ever since. And for nearly six thousand years, during all of the dark ages when woman was only endured for her usefulness as a nurse and taught to believe she could have no place in heaven excepting through her husband—she has been trying for more fruit from the same tree.

The prospects seemed bright for securing more when this new country, through the instrumentalities of a woman was discovered. And especially bright were they when the University of "William and Mary" was established in the new country. But what a disappointment when only the Williams and not the Marys were admitted! Then to think that Harvard college was established over one hundred and fifty years before Mass. made any public provision for the girls. The girls were not allowed even to go to the grammar schools in the city of Boston until within seventy years, and they were not admitted into the high schools until within about forty years. The cultured city of Boston with such a record!

Michigan, as usual, was in advance, though for about the same time with the opening of the Boston high school for girls, a woman in Michigan, Miss A. C. Gove, with much zeal and determination was trying to have established at Lansing a university for women, identical with the one at Ann Arbor for men. To this truly noble woman probably more is due from the women of Michigan for their educational advantages than to any other one person.

About this same time a petition asking for the admission of women to the university, was sent to the Board of Regents. This petition was the result of earnest efforts on the part of Miss Rogers. The most serious objections then seemed to be on the ground of the ways and means. It was supposed that new buildings, new recitation rooms, an entire new faculty, and even a new library would necessarily have to be secured to accommodate the women. And as one man is reported to have said, "The recitation rooms would all have to be sealed with rocking chairs." But they were admitted, thanks to the board of regents. Two of the regents who have always advocated higher education for women, are with us to-night, Gen. Cushman and Judge McGowan, and let me say, sub rosa, that Judge McGowan's first vote as a regent was for the admission of women to the university. They are there now, over 300 of them, right, royal girls too. Three hundred taken by themselves would make a good sized ladies' college. Is it a success?

I wish time would allow me to enumerate the present position of responsibility and honor occupied by so many of the women who have received their training at our beloved university. One of them at the head of the missionary work in Athens, Greece, is doing a noble work. One of them at the head, for so many years, of the grandest educational institution for women in this country, if not in the world. One of them, so honored in a foreign land that the emperor sends his imperial barge to convey her through his country, and then loads her down with presents for the good which she has done to the empire, she being the first foreigner to ever see the face of the empress. One of them called to Vassar to take a chair especially established for her. One, whose examination was such that she was the first woman ever appointed to do scientific work for the government. Miss Southworth who is with us to-night and many more could be given if time allowed. Eight of our alumnae have been in the faculty of Wellesley College, and seven out of twelve fellows at Bryn Mawr were at one time U. of M. girls.

There is no more passing around the class in the place of geological specimens, coal from the coal-hod, or a shoe from some unfortunate freshman's foot. These disordered attitudes of the present day to the greatest objection of the moment to our co-education seems to be the fear that our girls will become masculine; that they will lose their love of home and its daily appointed duties. If any one here entertains such fears I wish they could visit with me—as I have visited so many times—the rooms of our college girls. You see these pictures on the walls, fancy needle-work strewn around, little touches of bright color here and there, flowers blooming in the windows, frequently a pet canary in its cage, and forth its sweet songs. The very atmosphere of the room is that of home and shows the inmates are full of home life. What a contrast to the rooms of the young men. Their rooms are only where they work; where they stay by force of circumstances, with no thought of its being their home. A large proportion of all the girls from the universities have happy homes of their own and in future years the roll of students at Michigan University will be greatly increased by representatives from these happy homes. The greatest needs of the university to-day are unmistakable.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS.

Fortunately two fellowships have been established, and strange to say both of these were given to women. One was by the Western Association of collegiate alumnae and the other by the widow of Prof. Elisha Jones. But much more than either, new buildings, money, scholarships or fellowships the University of Michigan to-day needs woman in its faculties, both in the literary and medical departments. Our university is regarded from all parts of this country as a progressive institution, which is taking lead in all educational reform. 'Tis almost marvelous that such wonderfully progressive strides have been accomplished in its fifty years of existence, and yet the old stand University of Bologna was its result-beaten front, and its grey hairs, its weathered face, its hundred years of life, has a woman in its law faculty as well as a Mrs. Prof. of mathematics. There is much yet to be accomplished for the cause of co-education. The doors of Johns Hopkins University should swing open. Johns Hopkins University, priding itself on its high grade of intellectual advantages, saying to all other American universities: Come here and complete your education. Jane Bancroft, professor of French history and literature, and Dean of the Woman's College of the North-Western University, and the only lady ever allowed to attend a course of lectures in the University of Paris, was refused the privilege of attending a course of lectures in French history at Johns Hopkins University, and with the polite note of refusal they sent to her a list of the text books used in this same course of lectures in French history at Johns Hopkins University, which shall say to all the world: We as a nation believe in co-education.

There is a terrible uprising among the students of all the universities of Russia against the tyranny of the governing powers. This means a fresh lot of prisoners for the fearful hovels of Kara.

How long can Russia practice these fearful crimes against humanity?

The following dispatch is taken from Tuesday's Detroit Tribune: "Representative Carruth, of Kentucky, said: 'Michigan seems to be capturing the honors of the house this session. Either O'Donnell, Allen or Burrows is in the chair when Speaker Reed is not, and I must say that they fill the position remarkably well.'"

The two republicans elected to the United States senate from Montana will take their seats in that body. After thoroughly discussing and dissecting the returns from the famous—or infamous—Silver Bow district, where every miner was voted regardless of citizenship, or anything else, no other result ought to be expected.

Congressman Allen's resolution relative to the tunnel at Detroit passed the House unanimously Monday morning, and fifteen minutes later was sent to the Senate.

This resolution calls for an exhaustive investigation of the matter by a competent board of engineers. The Senate immediately passed the resolution. Our representative is to be congratulated on his good fortune in this sensible movement.—Adrian Times.

Last week a burglar shot a policeman to death in Detroit. The Detroit papers point to it as the result of punishing murder by imprisonment. Yet the same week a Chicago bullet mortally wounded one policeman, shot another twice in the face, put a bullet into the arm of a printer and shot at another printer who was chasing him, but he was finally captured. Now they hang for murder in Illinois, yet this sounder seemed to hold life very lightly in the face of the gibbet from which he must dangle. Here's a chance for our esteemed contemporary, the Free Press, to get out of a hole and show how hanging deters men from crime.—Adrian Press.

There are other papers in the State, also, that might crack that nut between their teeth to good advantage.

The Arena's question for this week is upon the comparative merits of a scientific and classical education. The debaters are Messrs. Barcus, Shirley, Taylor and Leland.

That peculiar piece of dress apparel more or less appropriately nicknamed by a freshman, "The monkey cap" has found favor with some of our effeminate boys, those who like to show off their pretty bangs.

Toward the close of this term an elocutionary entertainment will be given in the high school chapel, under the direction of Mrs. Truelblood. Would it not be a good plan to have these elocutionary entertainments at least once a term and charge a small admittance to one of them? Enough money could thus be procured to decorate and pay general expenses of the "Junior Ex." and commencement exercises.

A subscription list has been circulated among the business men by the baseball association to secure funds to furnish the team with new suits, pads, masks, gloves, bats and balls. So far the citizens have subscribed quite liberally and the required amount will probably be forthcoming by the time it is needed. The new management is of the opinion that the club the coming season will be one of the best the high school ever put on the diamond. So mote it be.

The names of the seniors who are to take part in the graduation exercises at commencement were announced in chapel Tuesday. They are as follows: Alfred B. Connable, Petoskey; R. Clair Campbell, Ypsilanti; Thomas E. Goodrich, Brutus; Marcus C. Boylan, Ann Arbor; Chas. W. Ricketts, Ashmore, Ill.; Carrie Hemenger, Algonac; Emma McMorran, Port Huron; John E. Hoemer, Marshallfield, Mo.; J. Raleigh Nelson, Ann Arbor; Gertrude Sunderland, Ann Arbor.

The commercial department has been enlarged so that the "club swingers" have not as much room as they should have. When these classes were started it was hoped by a large number that the classes would develop into a gymnasium organization and that the high school would within a few years provide itself in some way with a good gym. With the growth of the commercial department, it is certain the room on the third floor will be nearly all utilized and the "club swingers" will be frozen out, unless some special provision is made for them. If they could have all the spare room in the basement they might manage to get along, although the ceiling is not so high as it should be.

Death has again invaded our number and taken away a young and blooming life. Only a few short weeks ago Miss Nellie Cheever was pursuing her studies with vigorous enthusiasm, so that the announcement of her death last week caused much sorrow among her classmates. Part of the junior class attended the funeral, in a body. The following resolutions were passed by the class and presented to the sorrowing mother:

IN MEMORIAM.
WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father has seen fit to remove from our number our esteemed friend and classmate, Nellie W. Cheever, we, the members of the Junior class of the High School, do hereby desire to express our deep sense of bereavement at our loss. Nellie was ever esteemed by all who knew her as a diligent student, an enthusiastic Christian and a true friend. We shall miss her as a member in the classroom, and her cheerful companionship in the social hours. We will ever remember her noble qualities of heart and ambition to live a worthy and useful life.

We extend to the sorrowing friends our sympathies and a hearty good will, and trust their loss here is more than compensated by her gain in the home above.
