LIFE'S PARADOX. They are the happiest who know most pain. In even the saddest life, to ever taste A thousand smiles are shed—our rainiest tears Has more of sunshine in it than of rain. Joy's golden ring o'er measures sorrow's train. Ah, point me out that form that o'er the bier Has longest linger'd, shaking in silence Exasperation of grief has often lain From a spoudy couch in ecstasy Of midnight wretchedness, and I will say, There is the heart that beats the quickest. Youth loves soft finger touch. Capacity For suffering is but that for joying—'tis Who no sound was 'dapted the heights of rapture climb.—Atlanta Constitution.

HERMIT ISLAND. By Katherine Lee Bates. Prices 12.5. D. Lothrop Company, Boston. A little girl, Doctor Faustus, presiding at a midnight banquet of all the good things associated with her former life, and solemnly dedicating herself to the Powers of Evil, is a bold and somewhat novel figure for a story. Loving delicacy of touch, however, and an unerring instinct for literary and moral proportion render what might have been a revolting, if not a skillful hands genuinely beautiful and powerfully dramatic.

A REDEEMED PLEDGE.

The last Republican National convention had a plank in its platform as follows:

The gratitude of the Nation to the defenders of the Union cannot be measured by laws...

As a carrying out of this promise the two houses of Congress have just passed a dependent pension bill...

This bill may take $50,000,000, making our pension list as large as the annual expenditures of Germany...

Then again, how could our surplus be better distributed? This does not go to the wealthy, but it does come from them...

Thus have the Republicans fulfilled their pledges to the people, despite the fierce opposition of Democratic leaders...

EDITORIAL NOTES.

To increase the army of tramps adopt free trade.

It has been only 71 years since the first steamship crossed the Atlantic Ocean.

It is noticeable that Speaker Reed remains in his saddle all right. Southern wiles and southern mouth have not blown him out yet.

The meeting of the State press association at Saginaw July 16 to 18, is expected to be one of the most important in the history of the society.

If the laboring men ever have to be taxed for free trade, they will find out that a fraud the free trade poll parrot is that constantly yells "the tariff is a tax."

How will it benefit a man to have everything cheap, if the means of earning money to buy it with are cut off? Introduce free trade and see how quick this will be the case.

The past warm, open winter made it very hard upon clothing merchants and dealers in woolen goods. The demand was very light and factories are yet overstocked with cloth.

Is there any of the laboring classes in this country who came from foreign lands who are desirous of returning to their native country again? If not why will they favor a policy that seeks to destroy the prosperity of this country?

With free coinage the way is open for all the world to dump their silver upon the United States and take away her gold. Had that bill become a law gold would have disappeared in this country as quickly as coin did at the commencement of the war of the rebellion.

Last year this country paid England $21,726,207 for tin plate. Supposing that amount went into the hands of Americans. Would not this country be that much more prosperous? Over two-thirds of the above amount it is estimated was paid for labor. Nor give it to the American laborer as protection would do?

The laboring men in this country are the most prosperous of any in the world. This is an admitted fact. And this prosperity is the direct result of the American policy of protection to home industry and home products.

Congressman Allen, of the second district, made a sensible speech in the national house a few days since in opposition to the system proposed of farming out the new post office buildings...

CAPT. ALLEN'S GREAT SPEECH I

HE ADDRESSES THE HOUSE ON THE NATIONAL ELECTION BILL AND CREATES GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

The Detroit Tribune's Washington correspondent sends the following synopsis of a speech by our congressional representative in Congress made in the House Monday:

WASHINGTON, July 1.—At last evening's session of the house, Capt. Allen fired at the Democrats a telling speech in favor of the proposed law to purify the ballot, taking as a text the extract from the republican platform in favor of a free and honest popular ballot.

that the negro demonstrated through four years of bloody war the fact that he was both patient and trustworthy. Do you suppose that a race capable of all this has come up "out of great tribulation" for naught?

At the conclusion of Mr. Allen's remarks there was a great applause on the floor and in the galleries. The applause was so great that the chair had to make a threat to clear them out.

Some Very Interesting Figures.

At a recent meeting of the Saline Farmers' Club, held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Crittenden, the question: "Resolved, That there are no harder for farmers than ten years ago," was discussed.

The following figures show the price Mr. Hoyt sold his wheat and wool for during the past eight years:

WHEAT. 1880. 1881. 1882. 1883. 1884. 1885. 1886. 1887. 1888. 1889. 1890.

Mr. Hoyt also quoted figures showing a considerable decrease in the value of farm mortgages recorded in several counties of this state, from which he concluded that farmers had paid some debts despite the "hard times."

Elen Huckman seemed well enough satisfied with profits of farming. He had raised good crops and thought he could pay debts as easy now as ten years ago.

A. A. Wood was another who thought the cry of "hard times" had become chronic, and many farmers had no one to blame but themselves for many of their seeming failures.

John S. Henderson, of the 1st ward and 21st Precinct, aged 64 years, died of consumption of the bowels. Mr. Henderson was for many years a prominent hardware merchant, being a member of the firm of Richardson & Henderson. He was also one of the prominent democratic politicians of the city, and for many years connected with city affairs. He was an alderman in the 1st ward several years and had held other positions, always filling them with fidelity. A wife, daughter and several sons survive him. Funeral services were held Sunday p. m., from the family residence on E. Washington st.

But little interest was manifested in the election held last Monday, to vote upon the proposition to raise $5,000 with which to put down cross walks in the 1st ward. The vote was 128 "yes," and 205 "no." Of course the Board of Public Works cannot build these crossings without money, and it would be necessary to raise the money to build them. It would have helped the good looks of our city could the cross walks have been put in, and the comfort of pedestrians would have been materially added to as well. But the majority rules in this country.

"Deserted," expresses it. A feeling of awful stillness pervades the old halls and lonesome, hollow echoes alone answer one's footsteps who wanders about the buildings. It is vacation sure enough.

Ed. H. Smith, the new managing editor of the Chronicle will sail from New York, July 12th for Paris, where his parents reside, to be absent during the summer. He will return in time to hustle for the Chronicle next year.

And now it transpires that the regents of the Kalamazoo professors who was so fast to expel the students there for rowdiness, a short time since, was a student at the Ypsilanti Normal two years ago, and during a vacation expedition with the boys one night was run into the cooler and remained over night.

The class of '90, held a meeting last Thursday, chose officers, and resolved to hold its first reunion in Chicago, during August, 1893. Jas. E. Duffy of this city was chosen president, Miss Ruth Willoughby of this city secretary and treasurer; H. N. Bates, of Chicago, chairman of the executive com., and E. L. Miller, of Detroit, toastmaster.

Among the many pleasant events of commencement week was the presentation of a silver cup to the oldest child of any member of the Pharmacy class of '84. Willie, the son of A. C. Schumacher, wife Elizabeth & Son, was the fortunate child. The inscription reads: "Willie, Aug. 31, '87. Presented by the class of '84 of the U. of M. Pharmacy Department." Best feels happy over it.

President Andrew D. White has purchased the two paintings owned by H. Randall, one of the campus looking east, and the other of the observatory, both painted by Cropsey in 1855, (of which a description has been given in these columns) and has presented them to the University through the Board of Regents. These will be valuable additions to the art gallery, not only as works of art, but as souvenirs of the past.

U. of M., and as relics of the now famous artist.

Clare Belmer Tallman, a law student who graduated at the last commencement, died at No. 11 N. State st., of typhoid fever, on Saturday, June 28, aged 33 years, and a month before he was to be present on commencement day, and his diploma was sent to him, but it never did him much good. The remains were taken to his home in Starbuck, Pa., on Saturday evening, by his father, who had come to see him graduate. Mr. Tallman was a young man highly esteemed by his fellow students, and by people generally, who knew him. Such a death is sad indeed.

The regents conferred the degree of Ph. D. upon Mrs. L. H. Stone of Kalamazoo. She is one of the most highly cultivated women in the state, and her articles in the Detroit Tribune signed "L. H. S." are always bright, full of interest and instructive. The Kalamazoo Telegraph says:

This is a highly deserved and well merited honor for Mrs. Stone has been an educator for more than 50 years, has traveled nearly all the world, and is the author of a number of scientific and literary subjects, and as a linguist she has but few superiors. Her culture and her people generally, who know her. Such a death is sad indeed.
