FARM MORTGAGES.

The statement of Ben. Butterworth at an Illinois fair, the other day, that mortgages are an evidence of prosperity, rather than the contrary in this country, is exciting some comment by free traders, who are bears on the market of American prosperity.

In England mortgages tell a sad tale of agricultural ruin, where they have been heaped up to afford money for the spendthrift nobility, and where free trade has wrought ruin to the soil tiller. Where mortgages are given for purchase money, for permanent improvements, to purchase stock, or more land, they indicate advancement.

The returns of the census show better than has been imagined. For instance, the West has been rated upon by pessimistic free traders, as groaning under unbearable burdens of debt. Let us take an example of Sarky Co. in Nebraska, which has 141,109 acres of farming land, valued at $5,841,000. Of this, 400,000 acres are mortgaged for $408,615. The causes of indebtedness are given as follows:

For purchase money 58 per cent.; to invest in mercantile business, 20 per cent.; to buy other real estate, 7 per cent.; for permanent improvements and stock 7 per cent.; to pay personal debts, 2 per cent.; unknown 74 per cent. This makes the inspiring fact of 92 per cent. of all the mortgages in that county as given for purposes of development and prosperous growth while only 2 per cent. are for losses and misfortunes.

Fifty years ago there was not a mortgage, or any other sign of civilization in Sarky Co. The country was a waste, included in what was then the "Great American Desert." The value of farms alone is nearly $6,000,000, and they are mortgaged for less than $500,000. There is a clear gain of $5,500,000 in farm property, not in fifty years but practically in half that time; and very much of it is due to the ability of settlers to borrow money on mortgages to purchase and improve the farms. Verily, mortgages in America are generally signs of prosperity, advancement and growth.

Congress did a good thing last week in passing a bill by which the grants of over $800,000 made to railroads are forfeited, thus restoring them to the public domain for actual settlers to take up. The republican house and senate have done this in spite of democratic opposition.

"The tariff is a tax." "Boots and shoes have risen in price from ten to fifteen per cent. because of the McKinley bill," says a free trader in town. And yet hides are on the list in the McKinley bill. Is it not strange?

ORGANIZATION AND PROTECTION.

Workmen who, at the solicitation of free trade attorneys, may be considering the advisability of supporting candidates committed to tariff repeal, should not fail to recognize the inconsistent attitude their unpatriotic advisers would have them assume. Just now the entire body of workmen are committed to the policy of protection. Every Farmer, Grange, every Knights of Labor Lodge, every Trade Union, not only urge the necessity for mutual protection in explanation of its existence, but find ample reason for continued organization in defending its members from influences and combinations against which individual resistance has been found ineffectual.

The men who have so well learned this first lesson in protection, and who have combined for defence against influences they could not individually resist, are now urged by free trade advocates to aid in removing still more formidable influences in other countries. The long endured poverty and limited ambitions of foreign workmen compel the acceptance of wages which the veriest "scab" workman in this country would reject as unsatisfactory.

Every imported article represents more or less of labor, nearly all of which could as well have been performed in this country. The reason that most of it is not given to workmen in this country is found in the fact that workmen can be hired for less money in other countries than here. The principle is a sound one that all such work as can as well be done in this country should be forced here by a protective tariff that will make the employment of foreigners instead of citizens of the United States an unprofitable arrangement for all who would otherwise find an excuse for it. Members of organizations for maintaining good wages for workmen and fair prices for all products of labor involve themselves in inconsistency when aiding with voice or vote those engaged in the unpatriotic effort to remove the barriers against foreign competition in any of the products of labor.

Following the lead of the New York World many papers have published price-lists and cents of various agricultural implements made by the Ann Arbor Co. to show that this company is selling machinery abroad cheaper than to farmers in this country.

Last week a letter was received from the chairman of the Oswego county Republican committee, N. Y., asking about the truth of these statements. We quote their reply which is a sufficient answer to these lying campaign sheets:

W. H. SELLICK, Chrm., Oswego Co. Republican Com., Williamstown, N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of Sept. 25 with clipping from the Palladium has been handed me. I am sorry to say that there is not one word of truth in the statement made in the clipping referred to. We do not sell to foreign customers at less price than to home customers. Indeed we have never sold a single implement to any customer in Spanish America at any price.

It is true that implements of our make have been sold by us to export merchants in New York and may have been shipped by them to different countries and sold at such prices as they, the said export merchants, saw fit, we having no control over the prices which they might fix.

The prices given in the clipping are our wholesale prices and our retail prices were referred to in a letter which they are sold. The wholesale prices being net at factory for knock down goods, the retail prices subject to discount for cash or if without discount one year's time, the goods being set up and delivered.

I would further state that in consequence of great depression in 1884 this company was obliged to make an assignment, and have from that time to the present been doing business through an assignee. This would not indicate that protection has enabled this company to plunder American farmers.

Respectfully yours,
ANN ARBOR AGRICULTURAL CO.
By Ed. W. Moore, Manager.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

On what sort of meat doth Mr. Gorman feed?

Mr. Gorman should gird on his Armour!

The road to success this fall appears to be quite brilliant for the republicans, notwithstanding the great democratic tidal wave promised.

Just two years of free trade, or tariff for revenue, would make every sane man in the United States, (even an importer) a rank protectionist.

The democrats of the second representative district of this county met at Salline, Saturday, and re-nominated Hon. James M. Lowden for the legislature.

Is it true, as stated, that one of the delegates to the recent democratic congressional convention at Adrian, said in reference to Mr. Liesemer's nomination, "d—n the Dutch anyway?"

Mr. Gorman is making speeches in Hillsdale, Lenawee and other parts of the district, in advocacy of his own election to congress. If the Free Press is correct in reporting him, he frequently refers to Capt. Allen, his opponent, as a "political fog-horn," and "the calloper from Ypsilanti." Strong arguments (?) for Allen's defeat.

Don't muzzle your mouth any Jimmie. Just give it full swing.

In a recent interview Hon. E. P. Allen had the following to say of James M. Turner: "I served with Mr. Turner in the Legislature of 1887, and there learned to appreciate his business abilities and common sense. He did not talk very often, but in two minutes he could state a business proposition so clearly that he carried his point where a ready speaker would have failed to gain an advantage. The state needs another good business man for governor. What made Gov. Luce's administration so signally successful was his good business sense."

A subscriber in Superior propounds these conundrums:

"Did the Armours, of Chicago, the millionaire beef packers, visit Lansing, either in person or by proxy, to secure the passing of the meat inspection bill in the last legislature?"

It is true, as reported, that every senator who voted against the bill received $1,000, and did Mr. Gorman vote yes or no upon the final passage of the bill?"

The first two questions asked we cannot answer. It is asserted as a fact that the Armours did have their agents at Lansing during the consideration of that bill. They probably were well supplied with money, but whether they used it unlawfully is a question that cannot be answered. Certain senators are said to have suddenly changed their views relative to the bill, and thereby broke solemn promises to their constituents.

The arguments used by the Armour lobbyists were very convincing, evidently.

The last question can be easily answered. Senator Gorman was not present on the final passage of the bill. See Senate Journal 1889, page 889.

DEMOCRATIC DISCORD.

The County Convention that Did not Harmonize.

On Thursday last the democratic county convention convened at 10 o'clock a. m., and was called to order by Chairman Schuch, who called Edward Duffy to the chair temporarily. Frank Joslyn, of Ypsilanti, was chosen temporary secretary.

The following committees were then appointed:

Credentials—D. P. McLachlin, York; P. O'Hearn, Ann Arbor; Wm. Covert, Lima.

Permanent Organization—J. F. Schuch, Ann Arbor; Frank Stadlan, Sylvan; Wm. Geer, Superior; John Terns, Ypsilanti; John Gillen, Saline.

Resolutions and Rules—C. R. Whitman, Wm. J. Miller, Ann Arbor; John McDougal, Superior.

An adjournment was then made until 1 1/2 o'clock p. m.

Upon reassembling the report of the committee on credentials was read and on motion of one of its own members was adopted. The temporary officers were made permanent, and the committee on resolutions and rules, after some considerable delay in hunting up the chairman, Hon. C. R. Whitman, reported a series of unbecoming resolutions. Ex. P. M. Duffy made a few remarks in taking the chair. He thought that in these days of oppression and tyranny of every kind, from the halls of congress and the senate down, and the oppressive bills brought before and passed by congress to tighten the chains upon the people, it was high time the democratic party called a halt. The tendency of republican legislation was toward centralization, and there were few virtues in any republican measures. Everything tended to make the rich men richer and the poor poorer; to tax the poor for the benefit of the rich, (funny then that there are so many rich men among the democrats— they should all be republicans). He then told a story of how a sharp traveling man had endeavored to sell him a large bill of goods in the cutlery line, on the strength of a tremendous raise of prices on account of the McKinley bill. He didn't tell the convention whether he did or not, however. He again asserted that republican legislation was vicious and villainous, and only such as would be tolerated by the czar of Russia.

The names of all the delegates were called, and they marched up and deposited their ballots. There were no speeches, and no chance for eloquence to influence the delegates, who had already made up their minds.

While the vote was being counted, Ex-Mayor S. W. Beakes asked the privilege of addressing the convention. He commenced by stating that for the last time in his life would he ever ask a man to vote for him for any office, and had objected to having his name used at this time. As he had gone about the county seeking support he had felt himself demeaned by the act. He hoped the time would come when no man who goes about the county seeking office would be given one.

The speaker then stated that he had always been true to his party, had never in his life bolted a candidate, but felt that he could do so no longer. The reason was the intense feeling that exists in all parts of the county. He had heard ugly threats that if this man or that man was put on the ticket he would be defeated. As a democrat who would never allow personal feeling to sway his judgment, "I would say to you now, that there are two names which if put upon the democratic ticket to-day, will go down in defeat. The democracy of Washtenaw county will not submit to ring rule. There comes a time in the history of every party when it is loaded down with men who form combinations to control its affairs. Such a ring now exists in Washtenaw county, and it has gone from one end of the county to the other and put up delegates against the better judgment of the good men of the party. It is not proper for the convention to nominate any man connected with that ring."

As Mr. Beakes sat down his remarks were greeted with cheers mingled with hisses. At this Dr. D. P. McLachlin, of York, arose and said:

"That's right, his a better democrat than you ever dare be. His a better democrat than any of your family ever dare be. I stand here a democrat clear through, and one who never bolted a nomination. I am not a candidate for the office of county clerk. I want to have the democratic party successful, I want the best interests of the party represented on this ticket, and I do not believe that any man who has been connected with this fight should be nominated. This convention should say to these candidates: 'A plague on both your houses, a plague on all your houses, I'll have none of you.'"

"I have traveled all over Washtenaw county, been the length and breadth of it, and I want to say to you, I want to whisper a word of caution in your ear, nominate two men here to-day and there are 1,000 good democrats who will not vote for them, and I am proud to say that I will stand by them in that resolve."

"The party in this county will not approve of corruption and ring rule. Look at Wayne county for an example. Mr. Burr received 10,000 majority there for governor, and the republicans elected a majority, and the best part of their county ticket. What caused that astonishing change in votes? It was because the good men of the democratic party had not retired from the corruption ring that controlled things there, and they cleaned them out."

The speaker then appealed to the convention to take up new men for these two offices, as it would endanger the state as well as the county ticket. He was not exaggerating the case a particle, and believed that if the convention persisted in nominating any man connected with this fight it would lead to defeat.

This speaker was also greeted with cheers and hisses.

Mr. Beakes rose again and said that he wished to reiterate what he had said before, approve of what Dr. McLachlin had said, and add that as editor of the "Michigan Herald" he would assure the convention that that paper would not support two men if they were nominated to-day.

Hon. Chas. R. Whitman then stepped forward to pour a keg of oil over the seething and furious waters. He enlarged Dr. McLachlin for the grand good work he had always done for the party, and attempted to pour a keg of oil over the seething and furious waters. ated it was the duty of every good democrat to support him (and ask no questions). That they must go out from this convention to-day united, harmonious, hand in hand (Oh, for a painter's brush to picture it out) and push forward to victory. He wanted to see a democratic county clerk, in fact every county official democratic, an unbroken column, as that was what helped to win democratic victories.

He closed with this stirring appeal: "Stand by democracy."

Capt. Manly then added a few words, pleading for harmony. He spoke in the highest terms of Messrs. Beakes and McLachlin, and believed them good and true, and hoped they would not bring any discord into the party. Whoever choice may fall upon the ranks should close up and every man on the ticket receive 1,000 or 1,500 majority. The speaker then referred to the lynx-eyed county, who was even then, as he was speaking, taking notes of the great schism in their ranks, and who would write it up for the paper with fiendish glee, but when it goes out to the world it should strike the solid and unbroken ranks of the democracy.

Dr. McLachlin again arose and told the convention that he was sicker than that he made no threats but that he was simply sounding a note of warning to this convention. He knew there were men in the room who hated him worse than the devil did holy water, but he wished to repeat what he had heretofore said, and warn them of the defeat which surely confronted them if they persisted in nominating men distasteful to the party.

The chair then stated that the result of the informal ballot would be announced, which was as follows:

Arthur Brown..... 81
S. W. Beakes..... 13
D. P. McLachlin..... 12
E. Wagner..... 12
Frank Joslyn..... 1
Blank..... 1

A delegate moved that the ballot be declared formal and that Mr. Brown's nomination be made unanimous. This was carried with a few dissenting votes. P. McKernan then moved that Mr. Behm be renominated for county treasurer.

P. McKernan moved that Michael J. Screey be renominated for register of deeds. Mr. Whitman supported the motion on condition that McKernan allow some one else to occasionally nominate a candidate, which Pat agreed to.

Mr. Sheehan renominated Mr. Lehman for prosecuting attorney.

Mr. Whitman recognizing the fact that the modesty of Mr. McKernan would preclude the possibility of his renominating himself made an omnibus motion that P. McKernan and Frank Joslyn be renominated for circuit court commissioners.

Martin Clark and Dr. Kapp, of Manchester, were placed on the track for coroners, but Dr. Kapp, with a dangerous look in his eye declined the honor, when Dr. Edward Batwell, of Ypsilanti, was substituted.

Chas. S. Woodward, of Ypsilanti, was added to the ticket as surveyor, evidently to find a route to pilot the entire crew down the safest of the whirlpool rapids of salt river.

Repeated calls were made for Mr. Liesemer and that gentleman took off his coat and surprised the audience with a neat little speech that pleased everybody. There was a keen bit of sarcasm running through it when he referred "with pleasure" to the enthusiasm of the convention, and stated that it was such "unholy" that would elect a democratic legislature, and congressmen, and so on to the white house. Of course it was meant all right enough, but it sounded a little ironical.

John Sheehan was then called out. He had hoped that his might, by getting into one of the juror's chairs, escape any recognition of his friends, and he left with a melancholy of his own meditations. He thought the party should be congratulated upon the harmony of the later end of the convention. It became a victory that would take this glorious country out of the withering clasp of the republican vulture. "It matters not who have the offices, God knows I never want one myself, but I only ask the quiet privilege of casting my ballot with my party" (unknown, unhonored and unused).

He felt that the suffering millions must be relieved; that the tax-paying people must be rescued from oppression and slavery. We must redeem this congressional district.

Mr. Allen who represents it now is nothing but a fog-horn; a disgrace to each one of the four counties in the district. (One of John's deep and convincing arguments?) You notice. The republicans do not win their victories by merit but by bribery. They buy up the ignorant and feeble minded democrats at $2 per head. We must be alert and watch the enemy; we must appoint our mittes to go to these feeble minded ones and take them by the hand and lead them to the polls, place tickets in their hands, see they vote right.

The speaker did not want the county clerk's office in the hands of a republican, for that was the mill in which democratic voters were ground. It might make a difference with the grist.

He also referred to the heaviness of Grover Cleveland by

EUGENE E. BEAL, Ann Arbor, Mich., October, 1930. Postmaster.

LOCAL.

What's the matter with the republican ticket? It's all right.

There seems to be plenty of quinces in market, but sweet apples are scarce.

It looks entitled to see the handsome electric cars running through our streets.

The first meeting of Hobart Guild will be held Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock at Harris hall.

The horses take to the street cars very nicely, not becoming as frightened as one would suppose.

To-day Earl Ware takes the position of regular carrier in place of Asa Allen on the P. O. force.

If the street cars had not gone on and ring them at street crossings they may get in trouble.

Ed. Cole, of this city, made the balloon ascension and parachute drop at the Plymouth fair last week.

The Board of Public Works have been doing some excellent work upon the streets in the Second ward.

Welch Post, G. A. R., turned out with nearly full ranks, to attend the funeral of Thomas Kearns.

The annual renting of pews in the M. E. church will take place on Thursday evening next at 7:45 o'clock.

The enrollment in the high school for the first month is 554 against 513 for the same time last year a gain of 41.

Walter Taylor, son of the late Capt. L. J. Taylor, has been appointed assistant mailing clerk at the post office.

Gov. Felch celebrated his 86th birthday last Saturday. A few personal friends gathered at his home to gladden the occasion.

The fair in progress at the grounds is a boomer. So far the weather is pleasant, and everything denotes a big crowd to-day and to-morrow.

The faculty at a meeting Monday evening, took action allowing J. R. Breakley and R. R. Bradley, two of the suspended sophomores to return to college at the second semester.

A young man named Tedd Sopp, son of Marshall Sopp, of Northfield, 20 years old, accidentally shot himself last Friday while out hunting with companions, and died instantly.

On the 1st page of this paper will be found an article prepared by the officials at the dead letter office that will both surprise the reader and instruct also. It is well worth reading through.

One of the most convenient records in the city, and one often consulted is that kept by O. M. Martin, of the deaths occurring in the city, and the funerals attended by him. It is a valuable record.

As a representative in the state legislature, no man will have at heart the interests of his constituents more than will the Hon. J. T. Jacobs, and it is for the best interests of the people of this district to elect him.

The U. of M. Daily made its first appearance yesterday, and proposes to fight its way through to success. It is to be conducted by the Independents, and will give mostly college news, and denotes a wonderful spirit of enterprise. The COURIER extends its best wishes for success.

There have been twenty changes in the postoffice of this district, and of this number thirty-two have been given to old soldiers, including the important offices of Adrian and Tecumseh. This is an old soldier record never before reached by any congressman in this district.

Postmaster Beal to-day received notice that his application for street boxes suitable for depositing 3d, 3d, and 4th class matter had been granted, and that the boxes will be placed in position as soon as received. This is a much needed improvement in the service, and the public will doubtless appreciate it.

Among the other events of yesterday was the starting up of the electric railway system of the city. On the night previous a car was sent over the line, and at about 10:15 o'clock yesterday the first regular trip was made. After which cars were run regularly. To-day passengers are being taken to the fair grounds and the system brought down to solid business.

Mayor Manly received a pass from the city street railway company, which he returned. If such an example of uprightness were followed by more of our officials in city, county, state and nation the people would have better chances for justice from corporations. Where law makers and law enforcers are honest and to get them to protect the people's interests from encroachments. This is the direct line of the Republican state platform pledging its officials to refuse passes on railroads.

If the democrats had a war dance over the nomination of one official this year, what will be the result two years from now, when besides the army of born democrats there will be at least three tender-feet democrats who have been converted from republicanism recently—for revenue only—who have been promised three of the most prominent positions on the ticket, namely: sheriff, treasurer and prosecuting attorney? The rumble of the spouting geyser can be heard even now. But to-day, Washtenaw county will be republican by that time, probably.

Attend the fair and see the great Southern exhibit.

The infant child of John J. and Emma M. West, of the third ward, died Saturday last, Sept. 27th.

Augustus C. McCormick, of Monroe, has been nominated for state senator in this district, by the democrats.

Rev. Dr. Studley had an immense audience at the M. E. church last Sunday evening, to hear his farewell sermon.

Caroline Warren, of Pittsfield, died Friday, Sept. 26th, of dropsy, aged 75 years. Interment in Geddes cemetery.

Mowry R. Ide, formerly a resident of this city and student in our schools, died Sept. 19th at Chattanooga, Tenn, aged 23 years. Buried in Forest Hill cemetery.

New telephones have been put in at the republican headquarters (at John R. Miner's office) the Argus office, at the Carbons works, the Fair grounds, and at H. G. Prentiss's residence.

Wm. Exinger, of the 4th ward, died Sunday a. m., aged about 65 years. Mr. Exinger was known to many of our people from keeping a second hand store in the 4th ward for a long time.

Detective John Manly, of Toledo, in one of his visits to this place, detected one of Ann Arbor's fair daughters as being the finest in the world to him, and as a result he and Miss Nellie Hoban were married yesterday at St. Thomas' church.

Among the names announced by Col. Henry M. Duffield, president of the state bar association, as committeemen, we notice the following from this city: On legal education and admission to the bar—H. M. Thompson. On grievances—J. C. Knowlton, R. B. Emerson. On the committee on jurisprudence and law reform; and A. C. Angell upon publications.

Our citizens will be given an opportunity to hear the distinguished native Esquimaux lady, Miss Olof Krarar, at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening, Oct. 9, at 8 o'clock p. m. Her subject will be "Greenland, or Life in the Frozen North." The lady gives her audience an excellent idea of the peculiar life, customs and belief of the Esquimaux people. She will appear in complete Esquimaux costume during the evening.

The following courses of study in the Presbyterian Sunday school for the year 1890-91 have been given out:

1. Evidence of the historical credibility of the new testament. Rev. J. M. Giddens, For University students. To be organized the second Sunday in October.

2. The history of the first Christians from the Greek text, Prof. F. W. Kelley, For University students. To be organized the second Sunday in October.

3. The Acts of the Apostles, Mrs. S. M. Browne. For young ladies of the University. To be organized the second Sunday in October.

4. History of the Jewish church, Miss C. L. Giddens. For young ladies of the High school. To be organized Sept. 7th.

5. History of the Christian church, F. G. Giddens. For young ladies of the High school. To be organized the first Sunday in October.

The people of the city were shocked Monday morning last to learn of the death of Thomas Kearns, alderman of the 3d ward. He had been ill but a few days, and it was not generally known that he was confined to his home. The disease was peritonitis. Mr. Kearns was a native of this city, having been born here in 1841. During the war he served as a model soldier in the 8th Michigan Cavalry. Mr. Kearns has been an alderman of this city for seven years, having been elected four times, and each time by increased majority. No man in the city had a larger circle of friends, and no man was more respected. A blacksmith by trade, he was industrious, temperate, even-tempered, a man of good judgment and good sense. He always took a conservative view of everything, but once convinced he was right, there was no change. He was a member of the G. A. R., and also a member of the republican county committee. He leaves a wife and four children, two boys and two girls, all of whom are well. The funeral services will be held this a. m. from St. Thomas church. The council room has been draped in mourning, and the flags upon the court house and fireman's hall placed at half-mast.

A FINE CONVENTION.

The Republican Nominating Convention an Enthusiastic Success.

The Republican nominating convention was held at the court house yesterday and was one of the largest, most enthusiastic and best feeling conventions the party has ever held in this county.

Chairman Gilbert called Hon. George S. Wheeler, of Salem, to the chair, and John W. Bennett, of Ann Arbor, was chosen secretary.

The following committees were then appointed:

On Permanent Organization and Order of Business—A. F. Freeman, Manchester; Jas. B. Worthy, Ypsilanti; W. K. Childs, Ann Arbor.

On Credentials—Geo. H. Pond, Ann Arbor; Capt. H. S. Bottelle, Ypsilanti; John F. Stettin, Manchester.

An adjournment was then effected until 3 o'clock p. m.

Upon reassembling the committee on permanent organization reported the temporary officers for permanent ones, and an order of business.

The committee on credentials reported the following delegates entitled to seats in the convention:

Ann Arbor—First Ward—Robt. Campbell, A. V. Tobison, W. K. Childs, W. A. Chamberlain, L. P. Zella.

The nomination of candidates being in order, Evert H. Scott, of Ann Arbor, and O. A. Sober, of Superior, were appointed tellers.

On motion of A. W. Hamilton, Capt. H. S. Bottelle, of Ypsilanti, was unanimously nominated for the office of sheriff.

For the office of county clerk the names of Wm. G. Dietler, of this city, Morton F. Case, of Pittsfield, and Albert E. Ford, of Ypsilanti, were placed before the convention. The first informal ballot resulted:

W. G. Dietler..... 47

M. F. Case..... 36

A. E. Ford..... 2

W. E. Stocking..... 6

F. E. Schmitt..... 2

Fred B. Braun..... 3

Blank..... 1

Total..... 107

The formal ballot resulted:

W. G. Dietler..... 78

M. F. Case..... 34

A. E. Ford..... 1

Total..... 113

Mr. Dietler being nominated appeared before the convention and accepted in a few very appropriate words, and asked the cordial support of the entire party. He was heartily applauded.

On motion of W. K. Childs Edward Gorman, of Lyndon, was nominated for county treasurer. Mr. Gorman is a G. A. R. veteran and accepted the nomination in a modest and pleasant manner.

For register of deeds Wm. J. Clark, of Ann Arbor, a one-armed soldier of the late war, was placed in nomination and also accepted in a few appropriate words.

For prosecuting attorney A. F. Freeman, of Manchester, was placed in nomination, and after considerable urging permitted his name to remain.

For circuit court commissioners Archibald Wilkinson, of Chelsea, and John W. Bennett, of Ann Arbor, were placed in nomination.

Dr. W. F. Breakley, of Ann Arbor, and Dr. Frank K. Owen, of Ypsilanti, were chosen coroners and Jerome Allen, of Ypsilanti, surveyor.

The convention then closed its work and each delegate went home feeling that not only had a good ticket been nominated but a winning ticket as well.

LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION.

The republican convention for the first representative district was held in the council room of the court house at 10 o'clock p. m. Tuesday.

Hon. C. H. Wines of Chelsea presided and Dr. W. F. Breakley of Ann Arbor was made secretary.

After the report of the usual committees, it was found that every township and ward in the district was represented.

A. W. Hamilton in a neat little speech presented the name of Hon. Joseph T. Jacobs of this city, for the office of representative in the state legislature. There being no other nominations made Mr. Jacobs was declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

Being called upon he made a neat little speech accepting the same and asking for the cordial and hearty support of the people.

After appointing a committee consisting of Geo. H. Pond, Geo. S. Wheeler and Jas. L. Gilbert, the convention adjourned.

A FALL TOUR.

A Bit of York State as Viewed by a Wolverine.

This fertile section is about twenty-five miles wide and a hundred or so miles long. Through it runs three rivers having their fountain head in the Adirondack mountains. At one point these three rivers come within ten miles of each other. Their waters are colored by the logs floating down them as are the waters of the Saginaw, Muskegon, etc., in this state.

The pine, hemlock and other forests in the great Adirondack region are fast floating down to the mills and being sawed into lumber for commerce. These three rivers are the Racquette, the Grasse and the Oswegatchie, and the three towns representing them are Potsdam, Canton and Ogdensburg, the latter being on the St. Lawrence river also, and the largest of the three cities. Canton is the county seat of this great county,—as large as the state of Rhode Island,—and is a conservative town, much after the manner of Ann Arbor.

The Universallists have a large university here, and the place appears considerably to literary ways. Electric lights, water works, streets made of crushed stone, and a good system of sewerage donate the enterprising character of the inhabitants. The theatre of the place is the town hall, built and owned by the township, and it is a nice building, much finer than Ann Arbor's opera house.

In this building is located the postoffice and also the board of trade rooms. This board of trade is a lively place Saturday afternoons, when the product of over
