NEWBERRY HALL.
Its Dedication Sunday Afternoon.
The dedication of Newberry Hall last Sunday afternoon was an event that has been looked forward to with considerable anxiety by members of the Student's Christian Association for some time. The exercises were opened with an anthem by the choir followed with prayer by Rev. S. A. Carman, of the Baptist church, and the reading of a passage of scripture by Rev. Dr. Rush of the M. E. church.
A history of the Association was then read by Mr. A. E. Jennings to whose energy and influence much of the success of the enterprise is due, and from which we glean the following facts:
"In 1855, through the influence of Dr. Ford of the University, a society was formed among the students called the Society of Christian Inquiry, and two years later this grew into the Student's Christian Association. A small room was set apart for their use by the university authorities, which has been occupied by them up to the present time. At the twenty-fifth anniversary it was found necessary to erect a separate building, and a corporate body by the name of the Students' Christian Association was formed for this purpose. By personal solicitations four years later a sufficient sum had been raised to purchase a lot and leave $1,700 in the treasury. About that time Mrs. Newberry of Detroit gave $15,000 for a building. It soon became evident that this would not be a sufficient sum, but subscriptions began to pour in, headed by three of $1,000 each from General R. A. Alger, D. M. Ferry, and Senator McMillan, all of Detroit. In 1888, in the month of April, the cornerstone of the building was laid. In 1890 the funds gave out, and in February the building was closed and work stopped. Soon after by hard pushing and by various plans a sum was raised to complete the task commenced eight years ago."

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.
The Thirtieth Annual Graduating Class.
A Complete Report of the Exercises.

Friday morning witnessed the exercises of the thirty-second graduating class of the Ann Arbor high school, which were held in the chapel, commencing at 10 o'clock, a very large audience being present. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Chequamegon orchestra, and it is needless to say was of a superior quality. The exercises were opened with a prayer by Rev. Dr. Rust, followed by music. The first essay, "A Current History," by Miss Jessie O. Barber, of Kent, Ohio, was one of the best in point of thought and originality, of the entire number. The idea of liberty is as old as the human race, and it has been worked out in America in an especially excellent manner, for we not only have civil but religious liberty, and our religious liberty means not only the right to worship God as we see fit, but also not to worship Him at all if such be our convictions. She deplored an effort which is being made to secure in the national constitution the recognition of Christ as the head of the nation, and the enforcement of the laws pertaining to the Sabbath. The latter looks upon the face of it to nearly all good people like a most noble purpose, but to the Jew, the Sabbatarian, the Adventist, the infidel it is objectionable, and savors of tyranny, and in the name of the majority, in the name of truth, justice and morality a protest was entered against the proposed encroachments upon religious liberty.
Chas. H. Duncan, of Ann Arbor, discoursed upon "The Future of America," and pictured in glowing phrase the possibilities spreading out before us in the future years. This is the only government of the people, by the people and for the people that ever existed, ancient republics all being more or less monarchial in form. But there was danger ahead. The almighty dollar had great power; it buys the press; condones crime; corrupts legislatures; and for money senators sell their votes. At New Orleans, money which Italy refuses bribes Americans. The foreign population with anarchistic tendencies, were considered a menace to the future good government of the country also. The speaker dwelt upon the fact which is in the country with too much fervor. When he grows to manhood, and takes hold

In March last, another start was made and the building now stands completed. Dr. W. J. Herdman presented the treasurer's report showing the amount raised to have been $34,822.02; and the total cost of the building, building lot, $36,772.02. Of the amount raised $21,000 came from Detroit, $5,000 from the citizens of Ann Arbor, $2,500 from the students, $2,500 from the faculty, $3,000 from remaining parts of Michigan, and $3,000 from outside of Michigan and from all parts of the civilized world. Mrs. Newberry in addition to her subscription of $15,000, also assumed the balance of the debt at time of dedication, which was $2,760.
The dedication ode written by Prof. F. N. Scott, was then sung by the audience. It was as follows:
For Thee, O Lord, this pile we reared,
For Thee this holy place prepared;
Accept our gift, our labors seal,
This house we consecrate to Thee.

O, hallow, Lord, these walls of stone,
This earthly dwelling make Thine own;
Yon sacred Thy spirit may appear
To those who meet together here.
God grant no envy, hate nor pride,
Within this house of prayers abide,
With faith and hope, and steadfast love
Make here that peace we seek above.
These cherished walls may pass to dust,
These beams and bolts may mold and rust,
We, who build here, know yonder stands
That wondrous house not built with hands.
Build we well here—so draw we nigh
That heavenly home that stands on high;
With favor, Lord, our wages seal,
This house we consecrate to Thee.
President Angell gave the congratulatory address, which was couched in his usual pleasing language, and received as is all things of Dr. Angell's.
The key of the building was presented to Mr. C. P. McAllister, the president of the Student's Christian Association, who accepted the same and responded in a pleasing manner.
After passing a resolution thanking Mrs. Newberry, Mr. Brearley, the Ann Arbor Art Loan, Ladies, Prof. C. E. Greene, Mr. Jennings, etc., the exercises closed with the benediction by Rev. Henry Tatlock.

with his strong arm to reform the world, will find much in it that needs re-moulding, doubtless, but he will also find much that is good, enough to more than overbalance the evil.
"My Album Pictures" by Jessie E. Midgley, of Ann Arbor, was a pleasing bit of fancy. The faces brought to mind scenes of the past; those of father and mother were never looked upon without the old home, on a distant hillside, surrounded by shrubs and flowers, and all the pleasant things of childhood passed before the vision in panoramic view; and so on through the list. It was quite pretty in conceit and nicely read.
Harry L. Griswold, of Whitehall, Ill., thought "Our Treatment of the Foreigner" ought to be modified, and the hearty welcome which formerly was extended should now be tempered with discretion. He analyzed the emigrants; showed that the desirable ones came over from Great Britain and Germany, and the undesirable from the Latin and Slavonic nations, and came to the wise conclusion that we must shut out those who are not desirable.
Miss Emily J. Purfield told of "Americanisms." She thought that there was no country in which there was such a slight diversity of speech. In fact there was greater unity of language here than in England, which is no larger than one of our states. This was largely due to the opening up of the great west, and the wonderful influence of the press of the country in bringing all the people to use one language. The peculiar expressions of different sections were then told of and their derivation explained, not a few of the eastern phrases and terms coming from the dialect of the Algonquin Indians, "mugwump" for instance meaning ruler or chief. It was deemed advisable to drop all these slang expressions and words, and confine ourselves to pure language. It was quite evident that the essayist never was a boy or she would not advise anything so repugnant to boyhood.
The effort of James S. Handy, entitled "The Struggle of Liberty," received the most applause of any one of the day. From the fact that the speaker was the most graceful in delivery and easy upon the stage. Common place expressions would be given grace and interest coming from his lips. In his oration he traced the struggles of the American people for liberty from the landing of the pilgrims to the closing of the great war of the Rebellion, when 4,000,000 slaves were made free. He then referred to the inability of the black man to exercise his rights as an American citizen in several states of the Union, and

COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

Baccalaureate Address of Dr. Angell.
The following is the address of Dr. Angell, delivered Sunday p. m., in University hall:

The teachings of Christ in depicting life abound in paradoxes. The Beatitudes pronounced in the Sermon on the Mount contain perhaps one of the most remarkable collections of paradoxes in literature. Our Lord used these expressions, we may believe, not primarily because paradoxical forms of speech are sure to attract attention, but because his utterances are simple statements of profound truths. It is eternally and everywhere true that the poor in spirit are blessed, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven; that they that mourn are blessed, for they shall be comforted; that they that hunger and thirst after righteousness are blessed, for they shall be filled. Another of these spiritual paradoxes which our Lord seems to have been fond of repeating in one form or another to his disciples is that through humility we reach exaltation; that we are to move and lead and bless men by ministering as servants to them rather than by being served by them. Perhaps no one case did he set this forth more strikingly and emphatically than in his simple but wonderful words spoken to the twelve when the mother of James and John came to ask that her sons might sit, one on his right hand and one on his left hand, in his kingdom. When the ten were moved with indignation concerning the two brethren, he uttered those memorable words "Ye know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Not so shall it be among you; but whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister; and whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant. Even as the Son of Man came, not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

This doctrine of leadership through self-sacrifice may well be commended to your thoughtful consideration to-day. If there is any class of persons who are called to the duty and the privilege of leadership, it is the class who like you have received the advantages of higher education. Let me not overstate the case. Some who have received the most ample and thorough intellectual training are so wanting in other essential qualifications for leadership that they follow rather than lead. But the natural endowments being equal, the educated must and do guide the uneducated in a very emphatic sense. Taking the facts as we find them in our society, the well trained practitioners in the professions, the teachers, the statesmen, the editors, the business men of large intellectual grasp shape public opinion and mold the habits of life in a very marked degree. It is no flattery of you to say that you will find yourselves called to the discharge of this function of leadership in greater or lesser degree. It is a call which, I am sure, all of you are willing, and most of you ambitious, to obey. The conditions of success in this leadership it is well for us to understand. We try first, to guard against some mistakes in interpreting the words of our Lord, and secondly to examine the grounds upon which it is reasonable to believe that the spirit of self-sacrifice is the moral quality which preeminently fits one for high moral leadership.

1. Let us notice some erroneous views concerning what is involved in cultivating the Christian spirit of self-sacrifice.
1. It is an error to suppose that such a spirit forbids intellectual development and culture. There is no shadow of support for such a belief in any teaching of Christ or of his apostles. On the contrary the whole drift of the teachings of the New Testament is a practical injunction to us to develop to the utmost our powers of searching after and finding truth. We are reverently and eagerly to study God's ways and God's works. We are to press on in our quest after truth as after hid treasure. We are to train and discipline and enlarge our powers of apprehending the great thoughts of God. Learning is not necessarily the enemy of humility, but may be its ally. It is pedantry which is proud. Great scholarship is modest. Historically it has been true that wherever the Church has flourished in greatest purity and power, schools and colleges and universities and libraries and museums and all the agencies of intellectual culture have sprung up innumerable as the stars of heaven for the blessing of mankind. And among those great Christian leaders, who have helped to make epochs in the history of the Christian Church is a long roll of men, who have been equally conspicuous for their spirit of Christian self-sacrifice and for their brilliant and profound scholarship.

2. Again, it is an error to suppose that the spirit of self-sacrifice does not exist in one who is conscious of intellectual and moral power. The Christian spirit does not do violence to the constitution of any being. A man who has marked mental and moral force and so the power of influencing men cannot grow up to manhood without finding it out, any more than a giant can grow up without finding out that he is stronger than most of his fellows. He may be taught to say that he does not know anything of his power, but to say so is hypocrisy and falsehood. It is also true that an inordinate conceit may lead a weak man to believe that he is strong, and a fool to believe that he is wise, and a Pharisee to believe that he is righteous. But a man morally and intellectually strong may without a lack of proper humility before God, in whose sight he knows his strength is but weakness, be aware, after the tests of experience, of the power with which God has endowed him, and may lay his plans for leading men aright as becomes one who is responsible for the worthy use of such power. Nay, it

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An immigrant girl landed a nose 5-7-8 inches long, in New York last week. There's a nose calculated to create a sensation.—Adrian Press.

There is no envy upon the part of the Press man in this instance.

President Balmaeda, of Chili, is having $12,000,000 of paper money printed by the American Bank Note Co., of New York. Senator Pfeiffer, Sockless Jerry, O'Donnelly, and other fiat money, 2 per cent. leaders might with great propriety emigrate to that blissful country.

The N. Y. Press asserts that Ex-President Cleveland called his intimate friends together to consult upon his chances for presidency, recently, and that they all agreed that "Grover is the man." Among those present was Hon. Don M. Dickinson, of this state. Providing they find his candidacy impracticable, then they will bring forward Senator Gorman, of Maryland.

The action of Gov. Winans in vetoing the free text book bill of Senator Bastone's, is commendable. It will go far toward making up for some of the deeds of the governor that were not so commendable. The children of today do not want to be brought up with too lax notions in regard to doing something for themselves. Besides, the free text book bill is bad policy for any state or community to adopt.

Neal Dow is living in the house built by himself in Portland, Me., in 1829, and in which he has resided ever since his marriage. The house in which he was born, built by his father in 1800, is also standing. The same is true as to the house in which his mother was born, built by his grandfather in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and that in which his grandmother was born, built by his great grandfather somewhere about 1740. Each of these houses, save the last, is standing on the spot where it was originally built, and is still owned in the family.

A Good Record.

The COURIER office has not been in the habit of parading before its readers the amount of work it has been doing in its job department, but at the present time and under existing circumstances, we feel like telling of the handsome amount of work turned out since the 1st of April last.

In the first place the COURIER has been issued regularly, and with a greater amount of composition than ordinarily. The Chronicle-Argonaut has appeared on time every week, with its 1,000 copies; The Bulletin, the paper published by the Student's Christian Association, has been published on time, making 1,500 copies of 24 pages.

The following work has also been done:

	COPIES.	PAGES.
Castellan	1,000	300
Omega	500	100
University Record, No. 1	3,000	24
High School Catalogue	1,500	40
Art Loan Catalogue	1,500	70
Pamphlet	500	4
Pamphlet for Cong. church	500	16
Pamphlet for U. of M.	1,000	24
Commencement Program	4,500	10
University Record, No. 2	200	28
University Record, No. 3	1,800	24
Commencement Annual	1,000	72

Besides the above there have been about 300 separate jobs, varying in magnitude, several of them reaching 5,000 impressions, and requiring a large amount of composition.

The Washtenaw Times, with 2,400 impressions daily should be added to the above. Included in the work were 12,000 full sheet posters.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

This week is, as usual, a beautiful one, as far as the weather is concerned. For some reasons, commencement week is nearly always pleasant, but one or two bad and unpleasant ones ever being remembered by city residents.

The exercises of the week opened Sunday p. m., with the baccalaureate address by Dr. Angell, which is given in full in this issue.

Monday was class day for the law department, with history, prophecy, etc., all of which can be found in full in the Commencement Annual.

Tuesday was taken up with class day exercises for the literary department in university hall in the morning, and in the afternoon under the Tappan oak. The class poem, by Miss Hibbard, will be found on the inside of this paper, and the other papers of the day will all be found in full in the Commencement Annual.

The senior reception last evening was a brilliant affair, and very successful.

To-day is taken up largely with alumni and business meetings, this afternoon Ex-Secretary Bayard delivering the annual address before the law class.

This evening the commencement concert will be given under the auspices of the University Musical Society.

The lit. classes of '61, '71, and '81, are holding re-unions with a goodly number of the old boys in attendance.

The Supervisors' Special Session.

The board of supervisors met in special session at the court house Monday at 10 o'clock, a full board being present. Mr. Davenport, of York, was elected permanent president. Messrs. Osborn, Gilbert, Hughes, Miner and Young were appointed a committee on equalization.

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the prosecuting attorney be and is hereby directed to enter a nolle prosequi in any case in which in his opinion there is reasonable doubt of securing a conviction unless sufficient bond is given to secure the costs of prosecution by the parties interested. Adopted.

Mr. Miner offered the following: Resolved, That the necessary railroad expenses incurred by circuit judge be paid by the county. Adopted.

The basis of equalization was fixed at $28,000,000, and Supervisor Kearns was appointed as the representative from this county to the meeting of the state board of equalization at Lansing, and Supervisor Gilbert was sent as an assistant.

The board then proceeded to the election of a county commissioner of schools, the ballot resulting in the choice of Martin J. Cavanaugh, by a vote of 22 out of 23. Compensation was fixed at $1,500 per year.

For member of the board of school examiners for two years, Geo. H. Pond, of Ann Arbor was elected, and for one year Prof. A. D. Chisholm, of Salem was chosen.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the systemic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, and I did not feel good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."

The board of Supervisors at their special session Monday elected Martin J. He is alive and keeps fully abreast of the times, and the schools of the county have not only retained their excellent reputations, but have kept advancing in efficiency under his guidance.

Death of Wm. Bush.

In the death of Wm. Bush, of Ann Arbor town, which occurred Wednesday evening, the county has lost an old pioneer, the community in which the deceased lived, a good citizen, and his family, a loyal, kind and affectionate head. The deceased was born in western New York, April 7th, 1822. Removing to Salem, in this county, he was married upon reaching his majority, to Miss McCormick, by whom he had six children, four of whom survive him. Upon the death of his first wife he was again married to Mrs. Mary Townsend and after a short residence in Salem, they took up a residence in Superior township, removing from there in 1883 to the present farm just north of this city. By the second wife there are two children, Luella and William, the latter of the '92 dental class. During his lifetime the deceased had done much to improve property in the county, having, since his first residence in the county, lived upon seventeen farms, and leaving them all much improved by his residence upon them. The funeral, held Saturday at the Dixboro M. E. church, was one of the largest attended ever held there. The services were in charge of Rev. Laing, the local preacher, and Rev. Rust, of this city, preaching a highly commended funeral sermon. The remains were placed to rest in the Dixboro church yard.

DON'T GIVE UP

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complaint of years; persist until a cure is effected. As a general rule, improvement follows shortly after beginning the use of this medicine. With many people, the effect is immediately noticeable; but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the curative process may, therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. Perseverance in using this remedy is sure of its reward at last. Sooner or later, the most stubborn blood diseases yield to

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least sudden motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and my family physician, I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and continued it till the poison in my blood was thoroughly eradicated."—L. W. English, Montgomery City, Mo. "My system was all run down; my skin rough and of yellowish hue. I tried various remedies, and while some of them gave me temporary relief, none of them did any permanent good. At last I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, continuing it exclusively for a considerable time, and am pleased to say that it completely

Cured Me.

I presume my liver was very much out of order, and the blood impure in consequence. I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any one afflicted as I was."—Mrs. N. A. Smith, Glover, Vt. "For years I suffered from scrofula and blood diseases. The doctors' prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and now feel like a new man, being fully restored to health."—C. N. Friak, Decorah, Iowa.

Class Poem.

The following is the class poem for the literary class day, delivered yesterday and written by Miss Ida Z. Hibbard, of Detroit:

Away from the busy world of care,
Forth into the forest glade!
Where subtle fragrance fills the air,
A breath of peace to the troubled heart;
Where sturdy oaks a strength impart
That leaves no room for dark despair.

Alas! from the gracious sheltering shade
Gone are the fairy forms,
Who once in wildest revel played,
Who vexed man's mind, confused his tongue,
Close to his side in mischief elung,
Till over all a spell was laid.

Their haunts and homes deserted lie;
Still now their elfish glaze
The child alone with eager eye
Now seeks among the shining grass,
Where men with careless footsteps pass,
Some trace e'en faintly to descry.

For now no flowery twinkling bell
Summons at midnight's hour
The fairy host from mossy dell,
To follow the path of silvery light,
To plan revenge in elfish spite,
And at dawn of day to bid farewell.

Yet now a fairy still may sleep,
Rocked in its wind-swayed couch,
For magic influence seems to creep
From ferns with gently drooping grace,
And myriad buds that from their place
Among the green leaves slyly peep.

In truth a spirit still remains
Noble in all its intent,
Unbounded are its fair domains;
Where'er a throbbing human breast
Makes known a plaint or sad request
Its voice is heard in moving strains.

It asks no boon, no mood it craves,
Busy in every clime,
In the stream of Lethé the heart it laves;
Or when the soul too slumberous grows,
This charming voice a new tone knows
To make the life in the struggle brave.

'Tis the spirit of melody divine,
Living, by time unharmed,
Revealing depths of a golden mine,
Exhaustless in its precious notes,
That like the dancing sunbeam's notes,
Change at a breath and anew combine.

The brown wood-thrush half mad with gloom
Perched on a swaying bough,
In his ruffled throat feels an ecstasy
Which swells till it bursts in ringing song,
And echoing answer sweeps along
From every songster in grove and lea.

The brook, at first a silent stream,
Laughs now and joins in the lays;
For touched by the voice, as from a dream,
It murmurs, sings, caprice it plays;
While on its bosom sunny rays
To its music dance in their flashing gleam.

But changed the scene when with wild shriek
Rushes thro' forest glen
The roar of the storm, and the tree-tops speak
A howl of anger, a wail of grief,
A mournful tale from leaf to leaf,
Till dying rage again grows weak.

Or stand by mighty ocean's side,
Gaze on its foaming crests—
In the sound that moves with the surging tide
Is it only a hollow deafening roar,
A monotonous rolling and nothing more
That wears the hearts that near it abide?

Ah, no! for here the same sweet voice
Rides o'er the dashing spray—
A messenger held to the hearts of its choice
To the maid on the shore a glad refrain
Of safe return of love again,
What tenderer theme to make her rejoice?

And thus to every changing mood,
Melody answers true,
Sometimes invoked, sometimes unwooded,
At times, a message clear defined;
At times a shadowy half-divine,
When lost in nature's solitude.

But nobler still the garb it wears
Visiting human heart,
A comfort, cheer, and peace it bears,
A warmth to nature's harsh and cold,
Inspiring new thoughts for the old,
Till gone are all perplexing cares.

Sometimes come moments when we feel
Thoughts that no utterance find,
Upon our tongue seems placed a seal;
We fain would rise from common things,
Would drink from the ideal springs,
And yet who can the path reveal?

Then touch a chord of harp or lute,
Softly in tender strain—
To our touch its strings are never mute,
But in responsive thrills it wells

From struggling heart, and rapturous swells
Translated thought, none can refute,
In depths of true receptive heart
Nestling it seeks a home,
And the life it inspires becomes a part
Of the grandest theme—of heavenly love,
Which lifts the soul to realms above
Tho' life be passed in busy mart.

And thus the masters of music and song
Their message gave to the world—
From out their hearts the thrifting throng
A clear pure stream of melody gushed
And bursting its bonds, the world stands
(bushes)

As the flood divine bears the soul along.

O, wondrous spirit, marvelous joy,
How'er thy name be called,
O, dwell in our hearts from day to day,
Transform our harsh discordant vein
Into a harmonizing strain
Of love, and help along life's way.

And when the last full notes are sung
Here on this earthly sphere
Then let the band with heavenly tongue
Take up the far resounding strain,
Where mortal voice must dumb remain,
And blend in harmony complete
The work in earthly toil begun.

The Problem Solved.

AN UNRIVALED BLOOD PURIFIER.

Found at last in Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup—a remedy which expels all poisonous matter and taints of disease from the blood. A well known citizen of West Lebanon, Ind., testifies to its value:

Gentlemen: It affords me pleasure to state that my wife has received greater benefit from Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup than from any medicine she has ever taken. We have used bottles, and find it to be the best family remedy and the greatest blood purifier that we have ever used. It is truly all it is claimed to be by its founder. You cannot recommend it too highly.

Yours truly,

SIR JOHN THOMPSON.

Now that Sir John Macdonald has passed away, the question is being widely discussed, as to who shall be his successor, and the future of the vast Dominion of Canada is looked upon with great anxiety. It is not the tariff-question alone, which is causing the eager inquiry for a competent leader. Racial and religious prejudices have to be contended with. The French, whose ambition and wealth are equally strong, are laboring under a restraint and are concocting schemes for the establishment of another French republic on this side of the Atlantic. And it was but a year ago, that in the debate concerning the Jesuits' estate bill the fury of religious passion, which is extant in Canada, blazed forth. The Catholic party are fully aware of their power and demand the right they believe themselves entitled to. They make their influence particularly felt in the discussion of the succession to St. John. Their choice is Sir John Thompson, who is at present holding the office of Minister of Justice who is a Catholic. On the other hand, the protestants would like to see Sir Chas. Tupper their premier. Thus at the very outset, a bitter contest is to be expected. The French favor Thompson, while the inhabitants of Ontario are strong in their demands for Tupper. It is doubtful, whether Thompson, as premier, would be able to hold the antagonistic elements in control. His mind is said to find but little pleasure in politics. His life's great desire has been to achieve prominence as a lawyer and he was forced into politics only by his friends. Macdonald, recognizing Thompson's ability called him to a place in his cabinet. It is believed that he is not even anxious for the premiership and would rather resume his law practice. Though fitted in every way for statesmanship, there is a straightforwardness about him that would seem to some to render him in some degree, unfit as a diplomatist. Thompson is a Nova Scotian by birth and though brought up in the protestant faith, afterward became a Catholic. The near future will undoubtedly bring about great changes in Canadian affairs, whatever party may gain the ascendancy.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Eberbach & Son, druggists.

A Boy Clothed for $1.51.

Our bright contemporary, the Evening Sun, relates that one of its newsboys, a lad of 14 years of age, was taken to a Bowery clothing store by a gentleman who wanted to see how cheaply a boy could be clothed, and was fitted out from head to foot for $1.51. Here is a schedule of items given:

Suit	79 cents.
Cap	8 cents.
Shoes	49 cents.
Tie	5 cents.
Stockings	10 cents.
Total	$1.51

The moral with which this story of cheap prices is pointed is that in no other country could a lad be fitted out for so little money, and the low prices are one of the results of competition among manufacturers originally encouraged and always fostered by protection in the tariff laws.—The New York Press.

How the Tariff Reduced the Price of Bunting.

Gen. B. F. Butler, in a speech delivered in Boston recently, said: All through the war of the rebellion no bunting was made in this country. It could not be made; it was not made. We depended upon Great Britain. There was no tariff on bunting except the very ordinary tariff of that class of goods, for another purpose, and we were paying from $25 to $35 for the different grades of bunting; and no soldier or sailor fought in the great war under a yard of American bunting.

Well, at the request of the secretary of the navy, I undertook, with some of my young friends up in Lowell, to see if bunting could be made here.

We found out how to make it; sent a man over to England to learn; and started it with 12 looms, and there was a 40 per cent tariff put on the bunting.

What was the effect of that? I would not, if I could have had my own way, had more than 10 per cent put on it. Everybody said: "Oh, General Butler, put a great deal of tariff on bunting." I knew too much for that.

What was the effect of that? The tariff was so high that within 12 years there were 13,000 looms weaving bunting in the United States, and the bunting now has come down so that the very best that can be made on earth may be got for $18 a piece, instead of $30 to $35.

And so it is with every article. I hear some people say, "Why, the tariff is always an addition on the price."

The last I knew about cotton cloth (for I am not a cotton cloth weaver, and somebody will correct me if I am wrong) the tariff was five cents a yard on calico cottons, print cloths as they are called; and I can buy all the print cloths in this country for three and three-quarter cents, as you all know.

LE MAIR, Plymouth Co., Ia., May, 1889. I suffered from temporary sleeplessness from overwork for two years, for which I used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at once recovered as the best medicine for similar troubles.

F. BORNHORST, SOMERSET, Ohio, Nov. 11, 1890. My wife was troubled with nervousness, which so affected her mind that I became very much alarmed, as a mental derangement was hereditary. After using Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic one day she could sleep soundly, her lamenting ceased, and I can say that her mental condition is very much improved.

JOSEPH A. FLAUTT, TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 7, 1890. I certify that Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has had a wonderful effect. Prior to using it I had epileptic fits two or three times a day, and I have been subject to them for the last seven years.

THE Ann Arbor Savings Bank

Is Introducing in this City

THE NICKEL SAVINGS STAMP SYSTEM.

Designed Especially for

THE SAVING of SMALL SUMS

And is Intended for Children and People of Moderate Means Laying Aside Part of their Earnings as

The Foundation of a Fortune.

This System saves the Depositor the expense of Time, Trouble and Money in reaching the Bank, and

HAS ACHIEVED a WONDERFUL SUCCESS

In Frankfort Germany, where it was first introduced by the Frankforter Sparkasse in 1882. The system was first inaugurated in America, by the Citizen's Savings Bank of Detroit, Mich., and the People's Home Savings Bank of San Francisco, Cal.

A Brief Description of the System:

The Banks issue to their Agents a large number of gummed stamps, similar to postage stamps, each one of which, when pasted in one of the Bank's "NICKEL SAVINGS BOOKS," has the value of five cents. Any person desiring to open a Savings Bank Account goes to the Bank's nearest agent, buys one or more stamps and receives free a NICKEL SAVINGS BOOK, each page of which is divided into twenty spaces of such size that one five cent stamp may be readily pasted within each square. When all the squares on the page are thus filled, the leaf represents $1.00. The depositor now fills out in ink the signature slip attached to the back inside cover of his book, and takes the book to an agent who tears out the leaf and the signature slip and sends both to the Bank, which files away the signature slip and issues a regular deposit account book, showing a credit to the depositor of $1.00. This book is delivered through the agent to the depositor. The depositor then begins to fill another page with stamps, and when it is full he writes his name on the back of the leaf and sends it to the Bank through the agent. All money deposited in the Bank before the fifth of the month, draws interest from the first of the same month. All sums deposited after the fifth of the month, draws interest from the first of the following month. Whenever the depositor is twelve years of age, or under, the bank issues a handsome and durable Silver and Gold Face Deposit Card instead of a Deposit Book, when the first dollar's worth of stamps is deposited; but just as soon as the holder of the card has $5.00 or more deposited in the bank, he receives a regular deposit book. Money deposited by the holder of the card draws interest and can be withdrawn just the same as though the regular deposit book had been issued.

hoped that God would speed the day when freedom, in reality, as it is in name, would shine with equal lustre upon the black and the white alike. Laurence Seymour, of St. Louis, Mo., told in a modest, pretty way of "The People We Meet." In our daily walks we find the variety that makes life worth the living and very enjoyable; what is the wit of age is the folly of another; and some profess mortal terror of a pun. The poetical man the scientific man, the metaphysical man, the absent-minded man, all were commented upon, especially one of the latter class who came into the room threw his paper into the fire and spit upon the table, and the young man, who becoming too warm, called a servant to move the stove. In those we meet we often find our greatest help, and also find that which we wish to avoid as our greatest danger in forming character.

"In the beginning God created the Heavens and the Earth." was the way in which J. Sterling St. John commenced one of the excellent orations of the day. Heavenly bodies move according to fixed laws, all the works of creation are based upon sound principles, and a clearly defined plan was formed before creation began. Everything that is successful must be the result of a system, and if a man or even a country be not actuated by correct principles they will fail. He then spoke of the two first colonies formed in this country. The one in Massachusetts being composed of people who came here to find homes and build a nation for themselves; the colony in Virginia being adventurers who came more for pleasure, without any fixed ideas to guide them. The one prospered, the other did not; freedom was the outgrowth of one, slavery of the other. All along down the ages are wrecks of nations destroyed because of unsound foundations. It is said that boys may sow their wild oats and then settle down and be good men; such a thing is impossible, for as ye sow so shall ye reap; if a boy sows the wind, as a man he will surely reap the whirlwind; the only way to live happy and successful lives is to begin aright and lay solid foundations on which to build; as a class let us feel that our record here has been one that we may look back upon with pride.

Miss Florence E. Smith of Ann Arbor, discoursed upon "The Man in the Moon" in a happy vein. Who this individual is, and whether he really exists or not, has occupied the minds of many men from away back in the distant ages. There have been many methods to attract the attention of this man; and who knows but that with all the wonderful devices in science, but that some one may discover a plan to converse with this strange being? The Moon began its existence at the same time as the Earth, and has seen all the wonderful changes upon the earth. If this man could be interviewed by some energetic reporter, what a mine of information might be found. He looked down upon the Garden of Eden and could solve the mystery whether man descended from apes or apes from man, etc., etc. Almanacs derive much of their interest from this famous personage. The saying that a person knows no more than the man in the moon is a base slander, for that man is full of wisdom; he is as inane as is generally supposed. If he could only visit this sphere he might be induced to deliver a course of lectures.

The paper of Miss Nettie Treadwell of Ann Arbor town, entitled "Earth's Battle Fields," was a thoughtful and excellent production. Some of the great battle fields of history were reviewed and their effect upon history shown. But the greatest battles were not fought upon the field with saber and bayonet, but in the hearts of individuals by conquering wrong impulses and courageously doing right. Gen. Grant rose from the ranks to one of the greatest positions in the world, but his first battle was not in the civil war, nor his first victory at Fort Donelson, but in his early days he fought out battles that made him the successful man that he was. The life of Lincoln was another illustration of how one can rise by manfully fighting life's battles; how did he do it? Not by idling away time, but by studiously employing the days of his youth. One battle fought and won makes us so much stronger for the next.

"A Page of History" by Vance P. Wilkins of New Orleans, La., recited the struggles of Toussaint L'Ouverture, the hero of the Haytian rebellion, when Napoleon I. attempted to crush him and his followers; and how his bravery and valor held at bay that ambitious monarch until he had so complicated himself with the nations of Europe that his downfall soon followed. Had it not been for that Napoleon would have used the immense territory of Louisiana, then of unknown extent, which he had acquired from Spain, as a base of operations to have conquered the American colonies, and instead of fighting Great Britain alone, our ancestors would have had to fight France also to have maintained their liberties, and so the fate not only of this nation but of Napoleon and France as well was effected by the black hero. How trivial things often produce wonderful results.

The exercises were of an entertaining nature. As usual, it was difficult to understand some of the timid ones, whose voices were not strong enough to reach the farther end of the hall, but as a general rule, the audience was quiet, which is a good indication that they could hear.

Council Proceedings.

[OFFICIAL.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 20, 1891.

Special meeting.
Called to order by President Cooley.
Roll call.
Present—Ald. Wines, Martin, Allmendinger, Fillmore, O'Hearn, Ferguson, Taylor, Rehberg, Hall, Kitson, Pres. Cooley.
Absent—Ald. Herz.
The call for the special meeting was read.

To the Honorable, The City Council of Ann Arbor.

The Special Committee selected by you from the Council, the Board of Public Works and the Business Men's Association to examine the subject of sewerage, beg leave to report that they have given the subject careful consideration and that they are of the opinion that the system planned and recommended by Prof. Charles E. Greene will be ample for the requirements of this city, even should it double in population.

We therefore earnestly recommend to the Common Council the adoption as the system of sewerage for the city of Ann Arbor, the one planned and recommended by Prof. Charles E. Greene. Your committee feel confident that if the Common Council adopt that plan the city of Ann Arbor will secure satisfactory sewerage and at less cost to property owners than by any other plan known to them.

Your committee have also examined the subject of ways and means and report that there is a strong probability that there is yet time to procure the necessary legislation to enable the city to raise the necessary funds by issuing bonds or partly by taxation and partly by bonding. The only other way would be by spreading a tax (to be voted by the people) of $20,000, on the rolls, in addition to the regular tax of the year, which we regard is too heavy for a single year. We therefore recommend that the Common Council appoint a committee of three to go to Lansing and endeavor to secure the passage of an act to embody these features.

The submission to the people of a proposition to raise the sum of $20,000 of which $2,000 shall be spread on the rolls for this year, the remaining $18,000 to be divided into six equal installments of $3,000, the first to be paid the year after the last of the Hospital bonds is paid, the others following yearly thereafter.

As the construction of lateral sewers will be called for at once, we recommend that the cost of these be assessed to the property benefited, as has been done at Kalamazoo. The laterals will call for immediate outlay on the part of many of our residents, as will also the house connections with them. We therefore believe it will be a good policy to issue bonds to pay for the main sewer, that both items involved in the matter may not fall upon our tax-payers at one time. Respectfully submitted,

T. J. KEECH,
JNO. R. MIXER, Chairman pro tem.
Clerk of Committee.
Ann Arbor, June 19, 1891.

By Ald. Wines:
Resolved, That the report of the joint committee on sewers be received and adopted.

Yeas—Ald. Mann, Wines, Martin, Allmendinger, Fillmore, O'Hearn, Ferguson, Taylor, Rehberg, Hall, Kitson, and President Cooley.
Nays—None.

Ann Arbor, Michigan,
June 20, 1891.

To the Common Council:

Your committee on sewers beg leave to submit that they have had the matter under consideration, and would respectfully report as follows:

That two meetings of the joint committee have been held in which the various questions bearing upon sewerage the city were thoroughly considered. Your committee recommend the adoption of the report of the joint committee, and also that a committee of three, consisting of the Mayor, the City Attorney and the Hon. Chas. R. Whitman be appointed by this Council for the purpose of presenting this matter to the Legislature at Lansing and securing the passage of an act authorizing this city to raise the necessary funds as set forth in the recommendations of the joint committee.

CHRISTIAN MARTIN,
L. D. WINES,
M. E. COOLEY,
Committee.

Ald. Hall moved that the report of the Common Council committee on sewers be received and adopted.

Yeas—Ald. Mann, Wines, Martin, Allmendinger, Fillmore, O'Hearn, Ferguson, Taylor, Rehberg, Hall, Kitson, and President Cooley.
Nays—None.

By Ald. Wines:
Resolved, That the committee to visit the legislature shall be empowered to fill vacancies.

Carried.
By Ald. Wines:
Resolved, That the City Clerk furnish certified copies of the reports of the two committees and of this evening's proceedings to the committee going to Lansing.

Carried.
Council then adjourned.
