FROM THE POEPL.

About Those Farm Mortgages.

Ed. Courier:—Some time since I noticed in the democratic papers a statement made by one Simpson, an accidental alliance Kansas congressman, I believe, that there were 9,000,000 mortgages against the farms and farm houses in the United States, representing billions upon billions of dollars. Was not the number given greatly exaggerated? As the last census took an accounting of the mortgages of the country, perhaps you can, Mr. Editor, through the columns of the Courier, enlighten the people upon this subject a little.

FARMER.

In answer to the above we would say that the census mortgage statistics prove Mr. Simpson and his band of calamity followers, great fallifiers. All of the mortgages on homes and farms, both city and country, number only 2,250,000 in the whole United States. The total amount of mortgage indebtedness in the United States is two billion five hundred and sixty-five million, which is about one-third of the value of the property encumbered.

The census also discloses the fact that about two-thirds of the total mortgage indebtedness represents purchase money. That is, a young man in the city or country has started out for himself, and not having sufficient to buy him a home or farm, has purchased one and given a mortgage back to cover the indebtedness. How many such instances each one of us can recall if we try.

Believes it would be a Paying Enterprise.

To the Courier:

Dear Sir:—From time to time I have noticed in the columns of the Courier, references to the establishment of a School of Music in Ann Arbor. The enterprise would be so certain to be successful that I have wondered that some of the moneyed men of the city have not taken hold of the scheme and pushed it.

Ann Arbor is already recognized as being the great educational center of the west. It is known in every city, yes, even in every little hamlet in the United States. Its fame extends everywhere almost that the English language is spoken.

How easy it would be to advertise a school of Music in such a place. It would seem as though the mere announcement of such a school would be all that would be necessary. It has been estimated by men not given to overestimating, that such an institution, properly equipped and managed, would have an attendance of 500 or 600 students in less than five years.

It is not a visionary scheme, but a practical, paying enterprise for men of capital if they will take hold of it.

I am aware, Mr. Editor, that this may seem like an attempt to use your valuable space to resurrect interest in an enterprise that has been allowed to fall for want of attention, but the opportunity seems so excellent to build up another great school here in Ann Arbor, that it is a great pity to let it go by without one more effort.

Why will those who are able to take hold of this matter, not do so? Yours in hope, MUSICIAN.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them.

The statement is made that the photographers of the country want a separate building at the Exposition, adapted to a magnificent photographic exhibit collected, from the whole world. A committee has been appointed to confer with the Exposition officials upon the subject. Our photographers could assist in making that room a thing of beauty. Both Gibson and Randall have pictures that would attract attention in any gallery, and it is to be hoped that they will be represented at the World's Fair.

The only radical cure for rheumatism is to eliminate from the blood the acid that causes the disease. This is thoroughly effected by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Persist until cured. The process may be slow, but the result is sure.

The Eames-Morgan Law Suit.

Lovett Eames of Kalamazoo, was a brother-in-law of E. W. Morgan. He died at Kalamazoo in 1863, nearly 30 years ago.

For many years prior to his death, he had borrowed large sums of money from E. W. Morgan, who at that time, was one of the wealthiest men in Ann Arbor. The sums loaned footed up in 1864, over $39,000, and were allowed by the Commissioner in the estate of Lovett Eames, of Kalamazoo. To secure the loans, Mr. Eames had given mortgages upon his property at Watertown, N. Y., wherein he had expended his own and his borrowed capital.

After his death it transpired that this property was hardly worth the incumbrance upon it. It was sold at administrators sale, subject to these mortgages, to Mr. Morgan, and bid in by him for $100.

The sale took place in 1869, and Mr. Morgan at once took possession of the property.

He held it until 1878, when it was deeded to Lucy W. S. Morgan who owned and occupied it until 1885, when she sold it to defendant, John C. Knowlton.

In 1887 Mrs. Morgan died, and in 1889, Mr. Morgan became an imbecile.

The heirs of Lovett Eames now appeared! With Mr. and Mrs. Morgan dead the estate of Mrs. Morgan lies inviting, and their heirs came forward, alleging that Mr. Morgan had never loaned their father any money and that he had committed a great fraud upon the Eames estate, and they sought to set aside all the proceedings, and to secure the Watertown property.

The purchaser, Mr. Knowlton, and the Executors of Mrs. Morgan, were the parties defendant. The difficulty of defending against a claim of this kind, was soon discovered by the Executors. The only persons who, if living, could meet these charges, were dead or incompetent.

A very remarkable incident occurred in the preparation for the defense by the Executors. They knew that Mr. Morgan had loaned Lovett Eames many thousands of dollars, but it became necessary to establish the details of these loans. They were satisfied that there must be receipts and other papers somewhere that would establish these loans. Mr. Morgan had become imbecile and no light could be obtained of him. Finally it was gleaned that in an old safe, formerly belonging to Mr. Morgan, there might be some of these old and supposed to be worthless papers. A person at Ann Arbor was in possession of the old safe. The Executors went to him and asked for these old papers. They were told that this bundle of old receipts was in this old safe, but they could not have the papers until they paid $500 for them, and so helpless were the executors that they actually were compelled to pay $500 for this little bundle of old receipts.

Some abstracts from the decision of Judge Williams, of Watertown, will be found interesting reading:

"He holds that the proceedings in the surrogate's court and the sale of the island property under the surrogate's decree were valid, and that the transactions with Lovett Eames and his estate were fair and honest, and that the account presented by him and allowed by the commissioners in the probate court at Kalamazoo was substantially correct, that the mortgage was unpaid at the time of Lovett's death, and finally, if otherwise entitled, the plaintiffs cannot recover because of laches."

The plaintiff is a serious question whether the plaintiffs are entitled to relief, if the facts were favorable to them otherwise, by reason of their laches and delay in seeking the aid of the law. The sale took place more than 20 years ago. This action was begun 23 years after the sale. The transactions from which the sale resulted began in 1869, five years before the sale. In the meantime, very many of the persons connected with and having knowledge of the matters in controversy have died, or are beyond the jurisdiction of the court and Mr. Morgan has become incompetent and is unable to give any evidence.

"Mrs. Morgan held title to and possession of the property until 1885, when it was conveyed to Knowlton for a fair consideration. This act was not commenced until two years later. It appears that the two older sons (Elisha and Lucia Eames) had in mind more than 30 years ago, some legal proceedings with reference to Morgan's possession and ownership of this property, and it is fair to presume whatever of fraud or wrong there may have been in the part of Morgan was known or could readily have been ascertained many years ago by the exercise of ordinary investigation. Nevertheless, these children have allowed the matter to rest year after year, until their adversaries, through loss of evidence and the incompetency of Mr. Morgan, are in a more or less helpless condition to defend themselves, and now seek to go back to transactions taking place from 23 to 30 and more years ago to establish the validity of the sale and deed of the property to Mr. Morgan."

"Taking this case as a whole, and viewing it from the standpoint of justice and honesty, I do not perceive any reason why the equitable powers of the court should be invoked to set aside the deeds of property, and to interfere with the title of the parties holding the same. The property seems to have cost Mr. Morgan and his grantees nearly $40,000. At the time it was sold to Mr. Knowlton he paid what it was then fairly worth in the market, and all Mr. Morgan realized from the property of the estate that came into his hands, it seems to me was insufficient to pay the indebtedness of the estate to him."

"It seems to me the plaintiffs are not entitled to the relief asked for, and I must therefore order judgment for the defendants, dismissing plaintiffs' complaint."

We are glad to be able to make so favorable a report of the finances of the district. With the growth of the city and the schools, especially the High School, we should expect to levy larger taxes for the maintenance of the schools. But as a matter of fact the cost of the schools in the way of taxation does not increase in proportion to the increase in the number of pupils. The High School numbered 54 pupils more than the year before, and the tuition receipts were larger by about $700. The High School is a large institution and makes large demands upon the Board, but its returns to the district are also large and the sentiment of the district has always been favorable to a generous policy towards it, and in keeping its mark up to the highest point of efficiency. The item of $1,100 asked for a sewer may seem large but the sewer is a necessity and the amount is the sum the improvement can be contracted for. A cesspool has been used at the High School but it is insufficient for the demand upon it and sooner or later might become a source of disease. The sewer seems to be the only way out of the difficulty. The heating machinery or especially the steam pipes of the old High School building will soon have to be replaced. Prof. M. E. Cooley, on request, has furnished the Board with a new plan which will greatly improve the air of the rooms and economize the heating. The coat of paint which the First Ward building has received we hope will please the eye of all. The ward school buildings are all in excellent condition. It is the policy of the Board to keep them so. Our district library deserves a notice. Its growth is slow but the purchase of books is made with great care and this with its efficient management is making the library a valuable part of the educational facilities of our schools. A small appropriation each year for the enlargement would seem to be wise. During the last half and more of the preceding year the Board has maintained the teaching of German in the four primary grades of the second ward school in connection with the regular English studies of the course. The Board have arranged to continue in a similar way the German in that school the coming year. For many points of interest of the various schools we refer you to the annual report of the Superintendent just made to the Board. For the itemized account of all expenditures and for salaries those interested are invited to consult the records of the secretary which are always open for inspection. Our schools are in excellent condition and good repute. The teachers are competent and zealous. We believe the patrons and all citizens are reaping the fruit of a well organized, well administered system of schools.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

The Best Remedy for Nerves

In this world, says J. Hoffner, of Syracuse, N. Y., is Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic, because my son, who was paralyzed three years ago and attacked by fits, has not had any symptoms of them in over two years. I have used the remedy. I most heartily thank for it.

TERIE HAVIE, Ind., Oct. 17, 1890.

Some time ago a subscription to affected my nerves that at times they were beyond control, eyes were dull and without expression, and a twitching of the muscles of the face and almost constant movement of the hands and arms, especially the left side. There was immediate relief of speech and at times would be so overcome with dizziness as to be unable to stand. Heard of Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic, tried one bottle, and noticed a great change, tried another one, and now can say that I am enjoying perfect health, already cured of a great complaint, which I had lost entirely before using it.

Farm Notes.

Sow plenty of rye for pasture. Have the soil in good condition for fall seeding. Prepare a shed under which to store corn-fodder. Do not attempt to winter more stock than you can shelter. Better be a little ahead of the work now, than to get behind. If well fed, early hatched turkeys can be ready for market early. It costs less to fatten stock during the next two months than later. Store away plenty of bedding and make all the manure possible. It is no item to feed turkeys for size. Medium weights sell the best. It is usually not best to wean the colts and calves while the weather is hot. If grain is stored for higher prices, have the granaries water and vermin proof. When prices are good, it is generally best to sell the early potatoes and onions. Gauge the quantity of seed wheat by the time of sowing and the condition of the soil. Better sell a part of the stock now, than to be obliged to sell all half fat a little later. Do not sell off all the best animals on the farm and then expect your stock to improve by breeding. Bad grains and hay are dear at any price, and should not be fed to your horse simply because they are cheap. One item in cutting sheep oats before feeding is the saving of waste. Adding a little bran improves the value as a ration. There is no advantage in sowing grass seed unless there is sufficient moisture in the soil to induce a good germination of the seed. Prices of nearly all kinds have advanced some, but the best grades of beef cattle have advanced the most, while there is no advance in the cost. It is supposed that a damp nest is better than a dry one. This belief is not correct. In the summer a hen prefers a cool nest. In the winter her nest should be warm. If the hens prefer nests on the ground, that are covered with brush, it is not because they seek damp locations, or desire such, but because such secluded places are cooler and more comfortable. A close poultry-house in the summer season, if the roof is low, will often reach a temperature almost unbearable during the middle of the day, and the nests are avoided by the hens for that reason. In the winter, it may be noticed that the hens prefer the poultry-house, and seldom seek nests outside. Feeding the colts oats rather than corn will help to secure a better development of muscles rather than fat. It is very important if fall seeding of grass is to be done to arrange to do the work early, so that the plants can get well started to growing. It will pay to push the plowing for winter wheat, as the ground often gets hard and dry by the first of August, increasing the work very materially. Ten head of young cattle, well fed and kept comfortably during the winter, will bring a better return than twenty left to shift for themselves. When you can't plow corn or thresh wheat, it would be a paying job to haul the big pile of manure away from your barn lot and scatter it on weak spots. When skin milk is a waste product it can always be fed both to pigs and poultry with profit, but it is only in exceptional cases that it will pay to buy it. If stock is turned into the stubble fields so that it is not kept in too long, or animals will begin to run down, and what they lose will have to be made up again. Generally the pigs that return the best profit are the ones that are ready to market in the shortest time. This implies a quick growth and an early maturity. An hour spent in thinking out the best plan to accomplish a certain piece of work, is worth a whole day in the use of blind muscle to execute the same work. All old poultry not intended to be kept for breeding or laying should be marketed now. Later on prices are liable to get low, so that there is no advantage in keeping. There is no economy and no money in it to let a rusty trace chain or a broken collar chafe a sore on a horse's side or shoulder, and finally lose its services for ten days at least. "The man that is trying to cultivate sixty acres of corn with a thirty acre team, is finding that his team can't be spread out to meet the emergency," says the Lyndon, Kan., Journal. President Lawrence, of the Ohio Wool Growers' Association is out with the announcement that the Buckeye State "will add more than a million to the number of her sheep this year."

Between marketing, evaporating, and making into cider, sugar, and feeding stock, no fruit should be allowed to go to waste, and especially to rot under the trees, when it is possible to avoid it. The best "sign" of a good cow as a milk is a good milk and butter record for a year or more, but shiftless farmers are apt to forget it. Any man who depends on other signs deserves disappointment. Strength and Health. If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If "La Grippe" has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on Liver, Stomach and Kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with Sick Headache, you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50c, at Eberbach & Son, and Geo. T. Haussler, of Manchester.

An agricultural expert, who has tried both ways, says it is best to have a cow give 300 pounds of butter for five years and die on your hands, than to give 200 for ten years and then make 1,500 pounds old cow beef. Press work—Making cider. Goes before a fall—August. Not glass—Pain in the back.

A SCROFULOUS BOY

Running Sores Covered His Body and Head Bones Affected. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

When six months old, the left hand of our little grandchild began to swell, and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure, it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the cure of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula, of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA Remedies, using all freely. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five spots just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bone formations I removed. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child. Mrs. E. S. DRIGGS, MAY 2, 1888, 612 E. Clay St., Bloomington, Ill.

My grandson remains perfectly well. No signs of scrofula and no sores.

For twenty-five years the experience of millions of sufferers, old and young, male and female, have gratefully endorsed the medicinal virtues of this Pharmaceutical Paradox of the Age.

A vitalizing stimulant without alcohol. A nerve sedative without narcotics. A blood purifier without poisons. A liver cleanser. A purely vegetable tissue-maker, promoting digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion and respiration. A life-giving tonic, pure and simple, without the disastrous reactions of the deadly compounds of rum and alcohol usually sold as bitters.

Was never known before in the World. Its discovery among the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of California.

WAS A MIRACLE, and their combination into a phenomenal life-giving tonic.

A TRIUMPH of the CHEMICAL ART. The only change made in the formula during twenty-five years has been to present it in two combinations.

The old original remains unchanged, but being stronger, more laxative and better. A new form more agreeable to the taste and better adapted to delicate women and children, but comprising the same tonic properties, is now made and the science of the world is challenged to produce the equal of this.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

But what is a dollar?—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

If you had cents enough you would know without asking.

Four escapes from the state prison at Jackson within one week! Hadn't they better get Ex-Warden Hatch back again?

The whole world knows where President Harrison stands on the silver shark's coinage scheme. Ann Arbor Courier. Thank you! Now please let us know what the scheme is.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

What's the use of wasting words? Ex-Speaker Reed appears to have been powerful enough out of power to squelch the ambition of Roger Q. Mills—he of the (in)famous Mills bill—to be speaker of the next house. He did it with a little interview.

From complete returns received by the commissioner of Internal Revenue, the bounties to be paid on the next sugar crop will approximate $11,000,000. The crop is expected to reach 550,000,000 pounds.

The Sentinel says that World's Fair Commissioner Belden can call on republicans and mugwumps if he wants to, when he visits the county fairs, but the democrats don't want to see him. That may be a relief for Belden.

C. F. Newkirk, superintendent of the state public school at Coldwater, has resigned to take the general western agency of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., with headquarters at Chicago. And now one or two state papers can give up the idea of going into hysterics.

The passage of the law by the squabblers reducing the test of kerosene oil from 120 degrees flash test, to 95 degrees burning test, is making serious trouble. It not only endangers the lives of the people, but fails to reduce the price of oil any. Besides, all insurance policies in this state are based upon the United States test of 110 degrees.

Nearly one-half of the iron produced in the United States for the year ending Sept. 1st, 1890, was mined in Michigan. So says the Commissioner of Mineral Statistics. The exact amount produced by Michigan mines was 7,185,175 tons, valued at the mines at $26,000,000. There were 82 iron mines and 17 blast furnaces in Michigan that year.

And for forty years, like the ostrich which hides its head under its wing and imagines itself out of sight, the United States has kept out foreign competition and—foreign customers. If a little free trade is good for us, why would not a general policy be better?—Sentinel.

For the reason that it is not. Because one peach is good to eat, is no reason why you should make a hog of yourself and eat a bushel of peaches, regardless of condition.

The honest enforcement of the federal meat inspection law, with the microscopic examination for trichina, in the hands only of experts, will open the German and French markets to our pork products. Is it being done? Evasion of the law and the export of any but perfectly sound and healthful meats will result in keeping the foreign markets closed, and in doing an incalculable damage to the producers in this country.

The state of Massachusetts is to expend $10,000 in showing the world at the world's fair, what a complete school system she has. Has Michigan, with one of the best school systems of any state in the union, taken any step toward letting the people of the world know about it?

If you have a little time this fall, why not devote it to repairing the highway in front of your premises? If there are ruts and holes get the pathmaster of your district to buy a load or two of crushed stone at the jail, take your team, draw it and fill up the unpleasant depressions. One or two good examples in a community would be contagious, and in a little time the roads would become excellent. The saving to your team, let alone your peace of mind, would be sufficient pay for it all.

It might be well to call the attention of the land-loan advocates who are railing against railroads to the fact that under the land-loan bill introduced in congress, railroads and all other corporations owning land could borrow money on it from the government at two per cent, as easy as the farm owner. Not only that, but there are provisions deftly concealed in the bill that would enable land-owning corporations to get the lion's share of the benefits. The fact that the Alliance so generally approved of the Stanford bill, shows how little they really know about it.

In seven month's time the Detroit Tribune has accomplished a wonderful stride forward. It has put energy, money and brains into the paper and these three essential qualities, working together, will bring success to any enterprise. The Tribune now ranks with the great dailies of the country, and Michigan republicans have a metropolitan journal to which they can point with pride. Every department of the paper feels the force of this new impetus, and the consequence is a bright, clean, brainy, newsy newspaper, based on the solid rock of republicanism, is issued every day from the Tribune office.

By methods peculiar to southern democrats twelve states are made solidly democratic, eight of which are surely republican with a free ballot and fair count. By methods peculiar to northern democrats the same party proposes to render the republican majorities in several of the northern states of no account whatever, and thus control the country on a basis of repression, violence and shameless gerrymandering. Michigan is the first victim in the north of the proposed democratic plan. A large republican majority has been made of no value to the party, but so fixed as to give the democratic minority control.

The railroads are awful bad corporations, to be sure, but then, which one of our readers would care to disperse with them and go back to the old fashioned stage coach and lumber wagon? The freight and passenger traffic of this country could not be cared for with the modes of conveyance of a little over a half century since, and without these corporations we should have to fall back into the semi-civilization of Asiatic countries. Railroads have done quite as much, if not more, for the advancement and civilization of the world than any other one thing. While howling against the railroads my friends, think what the world would be without them. And in this connection it might not be out of place to suggest that the condition of our wagon roads are not just what they ought to be.

Lest some of our good democrat readers should think that a sound currency and honest money was purely a republican idea, we quote the following from that democrat of democrats, Grover Cleveland:

"The revival of business enterprise and prosperity so ardently desired and apparently so near would be hopelessly postponed. Gold would be withdrawn to its hoarding places, and an unprecedented contraction in the actual value of our currency would speedily take place. Saddest of all, in every workshop, mill, factory, store, and on every railroad and farm, the wages of labor, already depressed, would suffer still further depression by a scaling down of the purchasing power of every so-called dollar paid into the hands of toil. From these impending calamities it is surely a most patriotic and grateful duty of the representatives of the people to deliver them."

1887	Umbria	6	4	42
1888	Etruria	6	1	55
1889	City of Paris	5	19	18
1891	Mablette	5	18	8
1891	Tenouille	5	16	31

It will be noticed that the greatest single reduction was made in 1882, when the Alaska bettered the time of her sister ship, the Arizona, by nearly 13 hours. The smallest changes in the record were made in 1877, when the Britannic clipped of 44 minutes, and in 1887, when the Umbria cut down the Etruria's time 49 minutes. The most significant fact set forth in this table is that in the nineteen years since 1873, the record has been lowered no fewer than fourteen times. This rapid series of reductions, together with the gain of 9 hours and 24 minutes since 1888, affords the best possible reasons for believing that progress toward the five-day voyage will continue unchecked.

OUR FAIR.

All About the Great Show And Its Attractions.

In an interview with President Braun, of the Washtenaw County Agricultural and Horticultural Society, we learn that the coming fair promises to be the best ever held at Ann Arbor.

The grounds are beautifully located and are graced with new, clean and neat buildings. There is as good a half-mile track as can be found in this part of the state, better than the old track ever was.

Plenty of water on the grounds as the city mains have been extended there.

The Ann Arbor Electric Street Railway run their cars to the gates of the grounds every 12 minutes, and it costs only a nickel to ride there.

Farmers coming to town can get their teams housed on N. Main-st., and it will cost them only ten cents for the day.

Among the special attractions at the fair will be the grand balloon ascension to take place on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 30th, and Oct. 1st. Miss Carmo, the daring lady ascensionist will make the ascension, and she challenges the world in her trapeze performances while ascending in the balloon.

On Wednesday afternoon the grand cavalcade of live stock takes place, and some of the best races will be on that day also.

On Thursday Gov. Winans will talk to the assembled multitude, and ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer will address them also. On the afternoon of the same day the Ann Arbor Light Infantry will give a prize drill.

There will be races every day, and special attractions to keep the people interested. Good music is also promised.

The M. C. R. R. give a rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip, and the T. A. A. & N. M. R. R. the same, for those who wish to attend, tickets good to return until Oct. 3d.

It should be noted that entries in the live stock department closes Sept. 22d, one week before the fair.

Now comes another important pointer towards the needs of sewerage, in the fact that the immense cesspool built four years ago at great expense for the county is already full. Probably another will have to be built soon. That is the usual result with cesspools which are a nuisance and heavy expense.

Prof. Eugene Davenport, of the Agricultural College, at Lansing, has been offered the presidency of a new college that is to be established in Brazil, by the government, at a salary of $6,000 per year and all expenses.

It's about time for Texas to be passing the hat around for a Houston monument, the Austin News thinks. "Sam Houston was to Texas what Washington was to the United States. Without them neither could probably ever have existed. General Houston was one of the great men of the era of Napoleon, which glitters with genius; one of the grandest figures in the history of the Southwest, or that of the United States. With the odds against him, in the apparent shadow of impending fate, with a handful of badly-clad, poorly-armed, half-starved patriots, Houston carved out of Mexico a republic, the light of whose magnificent destiny now begins to illumine the horizon of coming history."

AMUSEMENTS.

At the grand opera house, Ann Arbor, on Saturday evening, Sept. 12th, "A Social Session" will be given by the same troupe that gave the "Postage Stamp" here last year in such an excellent manner. Of this play the Virginia city (Nev.) Enterprise says:

"A Social Session" is advertised as a very funny entertainment, and those who were at Piper's opera house last evening have additional faith in advertisements. There is not a single cry in the whole show. But there is a laugh for almost every line in it. The fun is of that character which does not require any hard thinking to appreciate. Everybody laughs and laughs hard. While the auditors were not laughing they were being highly entertained with music and song. The house was packed to the doors and everybody went home happy."

And the Lewiston, Me., Journal says: "A Social Session" was a social session indeed. This successful company played last evening in Music Hall, and left an excellent impression with the audience. One can unequivocally commend the general intent of a company that tries so uniformly to please. The music is new and catchy, and the comedy is diversified by bright songs, lots of new business and curious practical jokes. The play and company gave universal satisfaction, and is the talk of the town to-day, and no wonder.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal, Sept. 7, 1889.

In addition to having the best band and orchestra on the road, Sprague's Social Session Company presented one of the most pleasing entertainments ever seen here. This organization is composed of talented people who give a clean performance well worth seeing.—Salt Lake (Utah) Herald, Mar. 13, 1890.

The play of Uncle Tom's Cabin, old as it is, having been given over and over again every year, always draws. The opening of the opera house for this season last Friday evening, by Hank Goodman's troupe, was not an exception. The troupe is a good one, and enough specialties are introduced to keep everything moving in first class style. The audience are continually being moved to laughter and tears, by the antics of Topsy, the drolleries of Marks and the seriousness of Uncle Tom and Eva.

The declining powers of old age may be wonderfully recuperated and sustained by the daily use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The fact that the sale of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets exceeds that of any other pill in the market, be it great or small, is on account of the fact that they are tiny, little, sugar-coated granules, and that in most cases one little "Pellet" is sufficient for a dose; that they are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless; and for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and all diseases arising from derangement of the liver, stomach or bowels, they are absolutely a specific. A gentle laxative or active cathartic, according to size of dose.

Use the great specific for "cold in head and catarrh—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy."

My Head Was Fairly Rotten, And how much I suffered it is hard to describe. That loathsome disease, catarrh, caused the above, and the doctors said they could not relieve me. I paid hundreds of dollars, for which I received no benefit. I got more good from two bottles of Sutherland Bitters than from all the money I paid to doctors. I shall continue the Sutherland Bitters, as I have great faith they will cure me.—S. M. Day, 41 Hanover st., Boston.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was, I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIA A. GORF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

On Wednesday last, the Dexter boys played the Stockbridge club, and at the end of the 8th inning the Stockbridge boys drew out, which by rule gives the game to the Dexter club 9 to 0. When the game was stopped the score stood 7 to 7 and the Dexter boys had two men on bases and only one man out. The double umpire system did not appear to work well.

How it Grows!

[The following is respectfully dedicated to Aigh-Jeigh-Ess, chief of the Cava-Naugh-Ers, by his majesty our devil:]

When a man doth wish to angle,
A hook like this he loves to dangle:

His line is both good and strong,
And he catches a fish about so long:

Before he gets home the fish doth grow (?),
And he tells his friends it measured so:

But his friends, who have a-fishing been,
Know that the man hath lied like sin,
And they slaply sit and smile and grin.

O-ho! O-ho! O-ho!

condition is provided for in the water carriage system by giving the sewers such an inclination that the sewage may flow with sufficient velocity to remove the solid matters suspended in it, and by giving them such transverse dimensions that the stream of sewage should be concentrated, thereby economizing its scouring power, increasing its velocity, and preventing the stranding of solids along their interior. A velocity of from two to two and one-half feet per second will remove all objects of the nature and dimensions of those that are likely to be found in sewers. A mean velocity of three feet per second is generally sufficient to prevent deposits. The greater the concentration of the stream, the less will be the relative surface of contact between the sewage and the sewer, and consequently the frictional resistance, and the greater will be the velocity and scouring power for a given grade. The quantity conveyed by a given pipe increases with increase of velocity.

Before determining the sizes of sewers, it is necessary to ascertain the volume of sewage that they will have to carry. There are two distinct systems of water carriage sewerage, namely, the "separate" and the "combined" systems. By the first, the house sewage and other waste liquids, with or without a limited portion of the storm water, are conveyed in one distinct system of sewers, the surface and subsoil waters being conveyed in other distinct systems. By the second, a single system of channels is provided for the conveyance of all will be the relative surface of contact between the sewage and the sewer, and consequently the frictional resistance, and the greater will be the velocity and scouring power for a given grade. The quantity conveyed by a given pipe increases with increase of velocity.

By far the greater portion, if not all of Ann Arbor needs no under drainage. Her porous subsoil is able to take up readily and allows to soak away all rainfall that is moderate in amount, as it has disposed heretofore of all our liquid wastes. There are very few places in the city where the surface water in more violent storms cannot still be allowed to find its way into the natural water courses without inconvenience to the public, or damage to the streets. For such parts as would be benefited by storm water drains, short and independent underground channels can be provided. I have therefore planned a system for house drainage exclusively. The moderate cost of the "separate" system makes it possible to carry out a system of sewerage when the expense of the "combined" system would in some cases make the construction of sewers impossible. Usually the cost of the combined system is more than three times that of a separate system. Sewers on the "separate" system can be built which need not cost the owner of a lot more than the expense of what would be considered a good brick cesspool.

With reference to the employment of sewers for household wastes only, I will add a few words. That portion of the city lying west of Allen creek, namely, a greater part of the second and third wards, as well as those parts of the first and sixth wards lying south of Packard, Jefferson and Orleans sts. and Forest Hill cemetery naturally drain into Allen creek. It should not be a sewer, but a creek which would take all the surface and storm water as well, and thus obliterate the creek and improve the land. Those who have noticed the flow of that creek in the time of spring freshets, when a heavy rain fall carries off the snow, will judge that the culvert openings now built at the various street crossings are not excessively large. A brick sewer, to be large enough for that storm water, ought to be from five to six feet in internal diameter. Such a sewer would require from 250 to 300 bricks per running foot, and the cost would be some five dollars, or more, per foot.

If the property owners through whose land it flows desire at any time to reclaim the bed of the creek and utilize it for building purposes, they may properly consider the question of cost, and in such a case such an improvement, if the land becomes valuable enough to warrant it; but there is no immediate prospect which would make such an expenditure wise.

As a sewer for house wastes, however, it would be most undesirable. The midsummer flow of the creek is extremely small, and the tributary stream would make a trickling stream on the comparatively flat bottom of the lake sewer, close to the city velocity by the roughness of the bricks; deposits would accumulate by reason of the sluggishness of the flow, and decomposition would set in and continue until a shower of rain should flush the sewer. It would be economical, besides, to carry so large a sewer from the mouth of Allen creek to the outlet of the sewer, wherever that may be. It is unnecessary to discuss, in addition, the water right which exists on this creek.

How comparatively small a pipe is needed to carry the household wastes is shown by a gauging at St. Louis, Mo., of the flow in a sewer seven feet in diameter, where the sewerage from 8,200 people in a district having 1,390 water taps, was dammed back and passed through a 12 inch sewer pipe, giving then only seven inches depth of flow. The transporting power of water depends on the depth, as well as the velocity, substances wholly or largely immersed will be swept along, when they would lodge in a shallow stream. A man can wade through a stream which is knee-deep, even if the velocity of the water is considerable, but let the water reach his waist or shoulders, and a moderate velocity will take him down stream.

The amount of sewage derived from the drainage of houses, public institutions and manufacturing establishments may be approximately taken as equal to the water supply, at that season of the year when water is not used for streets and lawn sprinkling. At present, for Ann Arbor, that amount may be put at from 500,000 to 750,000 gallons daily. The maximum flow is in the morning, and allowance for such flow is to be made in proportioning the sewers. Future growth of population and extension of the system must also be provided for, and such provision I have endeavored to keep in view. The calculations have been based upon 15 persons per 100 feet of sewer, or five persons to a house on each side of the street, through the outlying residence portion of the city, and double that number in the central part, with an allowance equivalent to some 60 persons per 100 feet in business streets. The quantity of sewage per person is 75 gallons per capita, average daily flow, and a maximum discharge at times at the rate of 150 gallons.

Whatever the plan finally adopted for the disposal of sewage, whether by immediate discharge into the river, or by filtration or by chemical precipitation, after which the effluent finds its way to the same channel, or by pumping to some other place for purposes of irrigation or otherwise, the sewage must first be collected and such bringing of it together will be accomplished at the lower levels of the city. Hence the system of pipes laid down on the accompanying map will be necessary, either as a whole or for the main part, whatever disposition is made of the sewage.

In any case except that of direct discharge into the Huron river, the storm water should be excluded, or should be diverted at upper points by storm water overflows or wasteways, to obviate the necessity of, at times, dealing with such a large volume of water.

If it becomes necessary to pump the sewage to some other place, for disposal by irrigation or filtration, it is enough of a task to pump an amount equal to the water supply; for that work alone an outfit nearly if not quite equal to that employed by the water works would be required, and an annual expense for pumping and management which would probably amount to $2,500 or $3,000.

No sewage farm that I am aware of has proved a pecuniary success, for though promising crops may have been raised, but only an annual expense. From 40 to 80 acres of sandy land, susceptible of drainage, would be required for irrigation. Where filtration, irrigation or chemical precipitation must be resorted to, no adequate return can be counted on from crops or from the sale of sludge and such products, but an annual outlay for maintenance and running expenses may be confidently expected.

It comes, then, to the consideration of the direct discharge of the sewage into the river. Sewage from the mouth of a sewer properly built, which conveys the flow through the city with reasonable velocity, so that, from the remotest point, the sewage passes to the outfall before putrefaction sets in, is not offensive to the senses, looks much like moderately dirty washing-water, and is diluted with the contents of the flush tanks, and such ground water as lies in the slight imperfections in the many joints. The household wastes ought to flow at least one and one-half miles per hour, and will soon reach the river. Observers and inspectors of well constructed sewers, working in manholes and at the outfall, all experience no inconvenience and notice very little odor. My experience as a city engineer and my inspection of work in other cities, enables me to speak from positive knowledge on this point.

The contemplated outfall, is 22 inches in diameter, to flow half full. Can one anticipate that the amount of sewage discharged by such a pipe will be noticeable in the Huron river below the city? It will bear but a moderate ratio to the water which runs through one wheel at Swift's mill.

The water of the Huron river has been comparatively low during the past and preceding year; the small lakes which are its head waters have been shrinking away for a series of years, and the same thing has been reported this last summer of the great lakes which border our city. The lakes which have been diminished rainfall. How small it has been the past year, few realize. Since 1881 Ann Arbor, as well as the state, has experienced an almost steady fall in the precipitation. The average annual rainfall for Michigan, and for a good agricultural country, may be put at 33 to 35 inches. In Ann Arbor the rainfall for 1881 was 40.4 inches; for 1882, 36.2 inches; 1883, 33.3 inches; 1884, 29.3; 1885, 35.5; 1886, 27.6 inches; 1887, 28.6 inches; 1888, 26.5 inches, and in 1889 only 23.3 inches. 3.6 inches fell in December. Is it any wonder that crops are poor and that a long low, judging from data from a long series of years, there is reason for supposing that a change will presently take place, and that we shall return to a normal condition of things. If not, the country will become unproductive and there will be no need of such an improvement as the one contemplated.

Further: the sewer at the outfall is proportioned for the discharge of the sewage of the whole city, and for a population of from 15,000 to 20,000, and that it will not need rebuilding after the growth of the city. For several years, if the sewers are constructed by degrees as called for, as is usually the case, the sewers will be of limited extent, and the number of houses draining into them comparatively moderate. It is therefore entirely practicable to turn into the main sewer for some time a portion of the flow of Allen creek. The sewerage will be still further diluted, and any objections to turning it into the river will be so far modified or obviated. When the sewage of the city increases sufficiently in volume, the creek water can be shut out, and if the discharge into the river then becomes objectionable, other plans of disposal can be considered.

Pipe sewers are designed to run half full and their sizes are fixed accordingly. They have the same velocity of discharge and hence double the capacity when flowing completely full, and a somewhat greater velocity and discharge when flowing to a depth of about 0.85 of the diameter. The outfall sewer below the city can run full without harm.

A system of sewers branches and tapers like the trunk and limbs of a tree. The main or trunk sewer may empty, 1st, at the first railroad bridge below the city; 2d, at city highway bridge at the east end of Wall street; or, 3d, opposite the slaughter-houses near the foot of Thirteenth street, where the university sewer now discharges. It passes by the side of the Michigan Central railroad, crosses under the railroad at Fifth street to Summit street, and thence west to Allen's creek, up which it runs, partly through streets and partly through private property, to Madison street. Whether it is better to run through private property as shown on the plan (although only indicated approximately as to location), or to excavate to the depth required in certain streets, as at the lower end of Madison street, is a question of cost.

Its proposed sizes and lengths are as follows: From the outfall at the railroad bridge, to Main st., at corner of Summit, 22 inches, length, 6,200 feet; from Summit st. to Allen's creek, 24 inches, length, 2,300 feet; from Catharine to foot of William st., 15 inches, 2,200 feet; from William st. to Hill st., at crossing of creek, 12 inches, 3,500 feet; from Hill street to Grove st., 10 inches, 700 feet.

The general plan shows practically all the houses in the city, the elevations of most of the street intersections above the city datum, the elevations of the sewers at the same points, the grades of the sewers and the length of the several parts which may be modified in some minor details of arrangement without essential change in the general plan. The lines shown are intended to give a liberal provision for future growth, and many of them should not be built until needed. Manholes are to be placed at each intersection, change of direction and grade, and not more than 300 feet apart, so that there shall be a straight reach of pipe between every two man-holes, to permit of inspection and removal of accidental obstructions. At each dead-end or upper terminus of a sewer, where the grade is moderate, automatic flush-tanks will be provided supplied from the city water pipes, and discharging rapidly as a flush from 125 to 150 gallons of water, once or twice in twenty-four hours, and roughly flush the laterals. All of the pipes except those of the main sewer above mentioned will be eight inches and six inches in diameter.

The cost of the sewers, exclusive of lower portion of the main sewer, including everything complete, may be put at from $1.00 to $1.20 per linear foot, or $6,000 per mile. The city engineer of Kalamazoo reports for the year 1887, 7,129 1-2 feet of laterals, six and eight inches in diameter, cost, $7,831.49; average cut 8.56 feet, and average cost per foot, eighty-three cents. The average cost is considerably in excess of that for several years previous. This is due chiefly to the more than ordinarily difficult trenching, considerable advance in cost of sewer-pipe, and less competition on the part of bidders. The total extent of the separate sewerage systems was then twelve miles built at a total cost of $69,256.13, and an average cost of $1.09 per foot. Total cost of annual maintenance, with semi-weekly inspection, $204.97. The main sewers have never been cleaned except by regular flushing, and the pipe upon examination has been found in perfect order. If any one desires to estimate in detail, sewer pipe may be figured at the following prices per foot: 6 inch, 15 cents; 8 inch, 25 cents; 10 inch, 35 cents; 12 inch, 50 cents; 15 inch, 65 cents; 18 inch, 85 cents; 20 inch, $1.10; 22 inch, $1.35; 24 inch, $1.60. Cement, gasket and laying at from four to 12 cents. Excavation and re-filling for six inch pipe, seven feet deep, 35 cents; 12 to 15 feet deep, $1.05; 17 to 20 feet deep, $1.35; 21 to 22 to 15 feet deep, $1.50. Manholes, $35.00 each. Flush-tanks, $50.00 each.

The trunk sewer at lower end, as far as Main street, is estimated at $2.00 per foot. The piece from the railroad bridge to the east end of Wall street will cost $3,600. From Wall street to the foot of Thirteenth street, $2,000. From Thirteenth street to the foot of Main street, $6,500. The sewer from the foot of Main street to the foot of Madison street is estimated for 6,000 feet, at $1.50, or $9,000. The cost of the trunk sewer, on a liberal estimate, from Madison street to the foot of Thirteenth street, where the university sewer now discharges, will be $15,000; and here it may terminate, until the sewers are used to such an extent that the outfall becomes objectionable there, when it can be extended to the railroad bridge.

The portion of the city from the old cemetery and Forest Hill cemetery northward, but thence built up at present, will be readily sewered down Thirteenth street, and the Fifth ward will be sewered through Wall street eastward, and thence through the creek, bringing everything together at the same place.

The following are some of the many plans adopted for assessing the cost of sewers:

1. By a general sewer tax, paying for the sewers as fast as built.
2. By issuing bonds and providing for their gradual payment by general tax.
3. By assessing the property benefited.
4. By paying for sewers by a general tax, and charging for permits to enter private drains.
5. By assessing property adjoining sewers in proportion to the frontage of each lot.
6. By assessing adjoining property in proportion to the area of each lot.
7. By assessing adjoining property in proportion to the value of each lot.
8. By assessing a certain part of the cost (varying from one-fourth to three-fourths) on the adjoining property, in proportion to the frontage, area, or value, and raising the remainder by a general tax.

The method of assessing the cost of a sewer upon "the property benefited" gives rise to practical questions. The judgement of different individuals will differ widely as to the limits of the district benefited, the proportion of benefit derived by each lot owner, and the relative value of the lots. In amount the cost of sewers in any section on the abutting property, a difficulty arises from the fact that some parts of any system will be much more expensive than others, and the extra cost will not be justly chargeable to the adjoining property. In support of any system of sewers, the sewerage of a whole town, and the convenience of all the citizens, will require the construction of mains costing from two to four times as much as the laterals; and the cost of sewers in any section may necessitate much deeper cuts in some localities than in others. To compel the owners of lots adjoining the mains and deep cuts to pay all the cost of them, when the extra expense is incurred to benefit distant property, is a manifest injustice. The burden of expense may be more nearly equalized, either by paying for the whole system by a general tax, or by assessing upon the lots a uniform amount per foot front, in proportion to area, etc., and paying the remainder by a general tax.

The ordinance now in force at Kalamazoo, as amended after experience, stands as follows: "In the construction of 'lot' sewers, all property adjoining or abutting upon that portion of a street or alley through or along which the lateral sewer shall extend, shall be assessed at the rate of $1.50 per foot front, and at the rate of 33 1-3 cents for each foot of connecting sewer that may be necessary (or that may be desired by the property owner) to connect said lateral sewer with said property, and the city shall assume and defray all other expenses incident to the laying of such lateral and connecting sewers."

On corner lots, not exceeding four rods by eight rods, when a sewer is built on two sides, the two sides are built together and divided by two to determine the frontage. Respectfully submitted, CHAS. E. GREENE, Ann Arbor, Feb. 26th, 1890.

Did Tommy Get It.

"If I were a darling big mamma like you," said Tommy one day, "do you know what I'd do? I'd take out a dime and I'd say: 'Tommy, dear, Just hold your little hands up to me here.' I'd put the dime in them, and then I should say: 'You've been a good boy, little Tommy, to-day.' So put on your hat and go right down the street, And buy you some nice chocolate candy to eat.' You'd run, and come back, and you'd jump and you'd laugh, And kiss me and hug me, and give me a half. So now, mamma dear, don't you think I'd be fun? Give me a dime and just see how I'd run?"

The Liver

When out of order, involves every organ of the body. Remedies for some other derangement are frequently taken without the least effect, because it is the liver which is the real source of the trouble, and until that is set right there can be no health, strength, or comfort in any part of the system. Mercury, in some forms, is a common speed for a rash-gish liver; but a far safer and more effective medicine is

Ayer's Pills.

For loss of appetite, bilious troubles, constipation, indigestion, and sick headache, these Pills are unsurpassed.

"For a long time I was a sufferer from stomach, liver, and kidney troubles, experiencing much difficulty in digestion, with severe pains in the lumbar region and other parts of the body. Having tried a variety of remedies, including warm baths, with only temporary relief, about three months ago I began the use of Ayer's Pills, and my health is so much improved that I gladly testify to the superior merits of this medicine."—Manuel Jorge Pereira, Porto, Portugal.

"For the cure of headache, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the most effective medicine I ever used."—R. K. Jones, Dorchester, Mass.

"When I feel the need of a cathartic, I take Ayer's Pills, and find them to be more effective than any other pill I ever took."—Mrs. E. A. Alston, Quilman, Texas.

"I have found in Ayer's Pills, an invaluable remedy for constipation, biliousness, and kindred disorders, peculiar to miasmatic localities. Taken in small and frequent doses, these Pills on the liver, restoring its natural powers, and aiding it in throwing off material poisons."—C. F. Alston, Quilman, Texas.

"Whenever I am troubled with constipation, or suffer from loss of appetite, Ayer's Pills set me right again."—A. J. Kiser, Jr., Rock House, Va.

"In 1823, by the advice of a friend, I began the use of Ayer's Pills as a remedy for biliousness, constipation, high fever, and colds. They served me better than anything I had previously tried, and I have used them in attacks of that sort ever since."—H. W. Hirsch, Judsoulia, Ark.

ESTATE OF ANDREW J. SUTHERLAND.

SUBV. SS. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, on Saturday, the eighth day of August, 1891, there came for filing and record a petition, signed by one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one persons, J. Willard Babbitt, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Andrew J. Sutherland deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Elizabeth T. Sutherland, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to herself or some other suitable person.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

Northville voted 103 yes and 94 no, on the question of putting in water works.

Dr. J. H. Brown has gone from Dundee to Olathe, Kas., and Dr. Unger takes his place.

It is expected that Bishop Newman will be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new M. E. church at Ypsilanti.

The bean crop is being secured, and is quite generally pronounced a good one. They being about $1.50 per bushel.

Miss Cora A. Dakce, of South Lyon, will teach at Albert Lea, Minnesota, the coming season. She left here yesterday for her work.—So. Lyon Picket.

J. W. Howlett, of Lyndon, has had three strokes of paralysis as a result of being stung in the eye by a hornet. But is slowly convalescing now.—Chelsea Herald.

It is quite evident that the Northville Record man got some of the advertising. Nevertheless the Detroit Exposition did not pay expenses this year and was pronounced by a large majority of the people attending, a flat failure.

This is an open season on quail and "Bob White" has changed his appeal from "more war!" to "O, quit!" Merciless man and murderous dogs, however, give him no quarter. Like his larger cousin, the partridge chicken, it means his extermination.

Oscar Stimpson, one of Saline's energetic horsemen, last Saturday, made a fine sale of his 3-year old trotter to Toledo parties, for the snug little sum of $1,050. Does it pay to breed good stock? We would say yes, every time, and Oscar will keep right on.—Observer.

Mr. S. N. Millard, of Glyndon, Minn., preached at the Baptist church last Sunday morning, and at the Congregational church in the evening. He is a missionary of the American Sunday-school Union, and is laboring in northwest Minnesota and northeast Dakota. Mr. Millard spent 19 years of his early life in Dexter, and left here 36 years ago.—Leader.

A tent of Maccabees is being organized at Farmington. This is the largest insurance and benevolent organization in the state, and is doing a grand work in furnishing insurance to thousands who would not feel able to pay the high rates demanded by the old line companies. Many a poor widow has found herself lifted above want through the beneficence of these organizations. Success to them all.—So. Lyon Picket.

Good beef is high because of a scarcity of good beef cattle. The great western ranges, which to an important extent govern prices, are by no means overstocked. Hay firms and syndicates are now buying up all the cattle they can get in Texas and Colorado for shipment in September. The fact that big operators are in the field exclusively as buyers is an indication that cattle will command a good figure in the fall.—Journal.

HOW TO TELL WHO'S BOSS.

"When you pass a farm," says a writer in the Charlotte Republican, "and see a large barn and a small house you may know the man is boss. When you see a fine house and a dilapidated barn you may understand that the woman has things her own way; and when there is a new house and a good barn you may take it for granted that the woman and man are equals and work together in harmony."

THE CHELSEA SCHOOLS.

The Chelsea Union School will open about Oct. 1st, 1891, with the following corps of teachers: Superintendent, Prof. A. A. Hall; Preceptress, Miss Ida Hopkins; 8th and 9th Grades, Miss Nettie Storms; Grammar School, Miss Florence Bachman; Intermediate, Miss Libbie Dewey; 4th and 5th Grades, Miss Dora Harrington; 3rd Grade, Miss Mary L. Wheeler; 2nd Grade, Miss M. A. VanTine; 1st Grade, Miss S. E. VanTine.—Herald.

SALINE'S BLOODED STOCK.

For a place of its size, the fact cannot be denied that Saline can produce the greatest number and some of the best breeds in the country. Anything in the line of fine horses or trotters, registered fine-wool sheep, Jersey and other noted cattle, high-grade and imported poultry, hogs of all the best breeds are to be found here, and are sold according to the kind and grade. True it is some stock is sold or offered at good round figures and it is right. A breeder who spends time, money and years of experience in getting his flock or herd in a high-grade condition and keeps them so cannot afford to sell stock for the same figure as one who takes no care or has but an ordinary line.—Observer.

As usual Saline breeders capture her share of the premiums at Detroit. True as it is often said, Saline is a dead town and the people have no life or enterprise, yet we cannot but notice that whenever a good exhibition is advertised and our people are there with their productions a good proportion of the premiums come this way, and so it is this season. Mr. A. A. Wood, who has a fine showing of fine wools at the exposition, carries off a little over two-thirds of the premiums in that class. Artie never goes by halves as a rule. Not only with sheep do we claim a victory. Eugene Helber tells the people of Michigan that the Cleveland Bay owned by himself stands at the head of the line, and when the judges came along to this class, of which there were nine fine horses, the ribbon that called for cash was tied to Mr. H's, which we imagine caused Eugene to smile. Mr. H. was also represented in the class of Shires and captured his portion of the prizes offered.—Observer.

The Superior Cornet band will furnish music for the county fair at Ann Arbor.

Morris Topping, of Plainfield, was appointed postmaster in 1853 and has held the office since then continually. He has done stamp licking service under presidents Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison.—Stockbridge Sun.

Never before in the history of our town has there been such rejoicing among the farmers. Oats and wheat are yielding most abundantly and potatoes are above an average crop; but what pleases them most is the prices which produce commands under the present system of government.—Superior cor. Ypsilantian.

At the present time Washtenaw and surrounding counties are overrun with a lot of peddlers who are selling steel ranges from wagons. Now we think that a much better steel range can be purchased from home merchants at $40 to $50, than is now being sold by the peddlers at $68. We advise our readers to give the peddlers a wide berth.—Chelsea Herald.

Word has been received here of a serious accident of which Dr. J. A. Watling, now travelling in the west, was the victim. It seems the Dr. and Mrs. Watling went buggy riding with a friend from Jamestown, Dak., out over the "Bad Lands." When some distance from home the horse became frightened and ran away, throwing the occupants of the buggy out, breaking the Doctor's leg above the knee. It was a long time before help could be secured, but finally he was taken to the railroad, and the section men carried him on a hand car to Jamestown. The railroad physician was summoned from 40 miles away, and he at length arrived and set the limb. It is believed that the Watlings' will be detained in the west for some six weeks by this accident.—Ypsilanti Commercial.

SPORTSMEN INTERESTED.

"Sportsmen should understand," says an exchange, "that owing to the new law not taking immediate effect, partridge may be killed from Sept. 1 to Oct. 1, on which date the new law goes into effect, making the open season from Nov. 1 to Dec. 15, inclusive, in the lower peninsula, and Oct. 1 to Jan. 1, inclusive, in the upper peninsula. The new law makes the open season for woodcock from Aug. 15 to Dec. 15, but as this new law does not take effect until Oct. 1, woodcock must only be killed this year from Sept. 1 to Dec. 15. After Oct. 1, 1891, nothing but hook and line can be used in any inland lake. Even set lines or night lines are prohibited, and to be found on a lake with spear, net, set-lines, artificial light, explosives, etc., is prime facie evidence of guilt."

Many farmers throughout the state are anything but pleased with the new law permitting sportsmen to kill quail this fall, and they state emphatically that notices will be placed around their farms forbidding persons thereon, and further that suit for trespass will be brought if they do not heed the warning. As a reason for this they claim the quail is to them a benefit, and they propose to protect them.—Chelsea Standard.

HOW THEY WIN.

Score one for a couple of bright Ypsilanti boys. Like many other boys they were drifting, loafing about and smoking cigarettes for want of something better to do, slipping downward imperceptibly but surely. The Athletic Association attracted their attention. That offered something which they could do, and Field-day with its prizes woke their ambition. "You have got it in you," said one of the prize winners, in praise of their first efforts, but let me tell you something—"you can never win prizes while you keep up cigarette smoking." Away went the cigarettes, and our boys spent the leisure time they had wasted in loafing, in exercises calculated to develop their muscles; and when the school term closed they went out to work on a farm to make men of themselves—men with the stuff in their physical makeup which gives activity, strength and endurance. Those boys have the right spirit. They propose to deserve a prize ever if they do not win one, and some older and bigger boys might profitably follow their example.—Ypsilantian.

HOW EDUCATION HELPS.

Young people are too anxious to get into business when they leave school before completing the course of an ordinary high school. The desire to get out and earn something for themselves and their friends dependent upon them, is a worthy one indeed; but it is not always or often the wisest thing to do. Many a young man or woman has done so simply because he or she desired to be independent. But why is this not wise? It is simply because with education that young person could have had a much broader field of labor and much higher possibilities of success. The experience of thousands of young people in our country today testifies that, other things being equal, the young man or young woman who has improved the privileges of education stands much the best chance of making life a success in every way. What shall we say to those who wish to be farmers and mechanics and clerks and housekeepers, who say they do not need to have a high school or college education for their business? All honor to their choice of an occupation! The world has need of them. But do they not know that the higher their intelligence the wider their sphere of usefulness in whatever honorable calling they are engaged? Not only will they be more useful, but their capability to enjoy life is enhanced in proportion to the intellectual culture obtained. Every young person owes it to his country as well as to himself, to improve every opportunity afforded for such culture.—Wayne Review.

DECEIVED THE BEST OF THEM.

Many citizens of Northville and vicinity as they meet each other on the streets now-a-days with a "Oh, I wish somebody would kick me" sort of a smile, ask the question "How do you like your history of Wayne county?" And then they proceed to relate their experience with about as slick a rascal, they allege, as ever struck the town. His plan was to get people to give a biographical sketch of themselves and then subscribe for the book. Many told him they did not want the book and he gave them (as they supposed) a little guarantee that they need not take the work unless they desired it. Now comes another very pleasant gentleman to reap the harvest the other laborer had planted. This one gently insinuates himself into the presence of the victim and says in his oily way "My dear Mr. So and So here is your History of Wayne county, $15 please." "Well," says the victim of man's inhumanity to man, "I told the agent that I did not want the book, and would not take it." And then with an air, like the fellow that had got exempted from the draft in war time, he produces his little guarantee, or paper protector which the other fellow soon convinces him is a legal contract to take the book. Like 'Davy Crockett's coon' he then comes down and takes the book and pays for it. The work is evidently a good one, but the way it has been sold here appears to be a swindle and an imposition upon the people.—Plymouth Mail.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

A Little Girls Experience in a Light-house.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a Fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, and yet you may get a trial bottle free at Eberbach & Son's, and Geo. T. Haussler, of Manchester.
