Gov. Winans and Hill's Boom will retire for solitude and reflection.

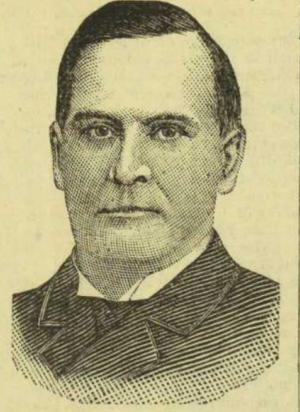

A GREAT REPUBLICAN DAY.

THE FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET OF THE REPUBLICAN CLUB OF THE U. OF M. A BOOMER.

The First Meeting of the National Convention of the Republican Clubs of the Colleges and Universities of America a Great Success.

Tuesday was a red letter day for republicans. It brought to them an enthusiastic organization of young men that is just as sure to make itself felt in the future of this country as the rising is to follow the setting of the sun.

As early as Monday delegates commenced arriving in this city from universities, and by Tuesday afternoon upwards of 200 of the young, vigorous, energetic and full of life college boys from nearly every college and university of any note in the United States had arrived in Ann Arbor to form the National Inter-collegiate Association of Republican Clubs. The crimson of Harvard, in the east, met the crimson of Leland Stanford, Jr. University, of California, and the college colors that floated here were numerous indeed. Only the south was not represented. As Hon. John Langston put it, no college in the south dare send a representative here to this meeting, except it be a colored college.

The business meeting of the National Club occurred at Newberry hall in the forenoon and at the opera house at 2 o'clock p. m., where the accredited delegates assembled, organized and elected officers. The result of the election was as follows:

- President—James F. Burke, U. of M.
- 1st Vice-President—J. D. Wallingford, Leland Stanford, Jr., California.
- 2d Vice-President—E. M. Pollard, U. of Nebraska.
- 3d Vice-President—A. E. Unger, U. of Iowa.
- 4th Vice-President—E. G. Smith, Lafayette, Indiana.
- Secretary—J. N. Perkins, Harvard, Mass.
- Treasurer—Benj. B. McAlpine, Princeton, N. J.
- Sergeant-at-Arms—J. N. McGuire, U. of M.

Owing to the fact that Dr. Angell did not consider that he had the power to open University hall for the occasion, the committee having charge of the matter had caused to be constructed, a stand at the south front of the court house, from which Gov. McKinley, of Ohio, was to speak, but several of the regents being in the city, they assumed the responsibility, and so University hall was opened to the people, and early in the evening it was filled to overflowing to listen to Ohio's statesman, and a warm and earnest advocate of the ideas of protection to American industries and laborers. As Mr. E. F. Johnson put it, in introducing the distinguished guest, "the greatest protectionist of the age, Ohio's second Garfield." Mr. Johnson as chairman of the meeting, introduced Gov. McKinley in an eloquent speech that was well received.

Upon arising, Gov. McKinley was greeted with a tremendous demonstration which being quieted, he proceeded with a calm, logical, earnest argument in reference to the platform of the republican party and its foundation stone of protection to American industries, American labor, and everything else that is American. His words were such as to carry conviction, and every one in the hall was sorry when he had finished. With the next issue we shall give the speech in full.

AT THE RINK.

From University hall the procession was formed and repaired to the Rink, where a beautiful scene met the gaze. Tier after tier of tables, stretching from one end of that great room to the other, loaded with all the substantial and dainty edibles that could be desired, decorated with tropical and other plants, with the walls nearly covered with flags and bunting, and graceful folds of the same, covering the beams and rafters of the ceiling, and all lighted by numerous electric arc lamps, which made a handsome spectacle to look upon. Hangsterfer did the catering and he did his best.

The stage for the speakers was at the east side of the room, so that all could hear. The exercises opened with music by the Chequamegon, followed with a prayer by Rev. Washington Gardner.

President Burke in a neat and pleasing way introduced the chairman of the evening Jean La Rue Burnett, of N. Y., who acted as toast master in a very happy way.

Gen. Alger was the first speaker, and he congratulated the young men upon the formation of this league, and thought the fact that it came into existence so near the old oaks at Jackson, where the republican party was born, very auspicious. He charged the boys to guard well the laws, the land and the flag of this country, that had been handed down to them by the cost of so much treasure and so many precious lives.

Judge Thurston, of Nebraska, after complimenting Gen. Alger, launched into one of the best and most convincing speeches of the evening. It was a ringing, clear, living presentation of the principles of the republican party, and reasons why the young men of the country should support them.

Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, of New York, being next introduced, put the audience in exceedingly good humor by his witty sallies and remarkably clever hits. He was liked so well that the audience endeavored to bring him up again, but he declined.

The Olivet College Quartette sang "The McKinley Bill," in a way that brought them an encore.

Hon. John M. Langston, of Virginia, was introduced as the first colored man that ever received an office by popular vote, and he made an earnest and almost pathetic plea for justice for the colored man and for the freedom of the ballot. There were only two duties of citizenship either white or black was allowed to perform in the south. One was to sometimes hold Federal offices, and the other elect delegates to conventions.

Wm. E. Mason, of Illinois, made a happy speech and held the attention of the audience in a remarkable manner. He told a good story about Judge Thurston buying a painted coach dog without getting an umbrella to go with it. Then appealing to the serious side showed up the rank inconsistencies of the theorists who insist that a tariff is a tax.

Of course all eyes were centered upon Gov. McKinley, and when he arose there was an ovation that any man might well feel proud of. He excused himself from speaking at length, because of having previously spoken during the evening, but what he did say commended itself to the good sense and sober judgment of every one there, even our democratic friends.

The speakers following were Hon. A. B. Humphrey, of New York, Hon. A. J. Lester, of Illinois; and Gen. B. M. Cutcheon, of this state.

The banquet closed at a little after 2 o'clock a. m., and was the greatest success of anything of the kind ever attempted in Ann Arbor.

There were fully one thousand people in the hall, and all went home pleased.

How the city of Cleveland, Ohio, has prospered under ten years of republican protection and reciprocity, is well told by the recent United States census:

The present census shows that in ten years the number of manufacturing establishments in Cleveland has increased from 1,055 to 2,065; that the capital invested in manufacturing has increased in the same period from $19,430,989 to $53,974,346; that the number of hands employed has grown from 21,724 to 53,349; that the yearly wages paid have advanced from $8,502,935 to $30,423,635; that the value of raw materials used has increased by $24,691,336, and that the value of the product has grown from $48,604,050 in 1880 to $98,926,241 in 1890.

Such a record of industrial progress is more effective than all the free trade theories ever printed. It is an argument for protection whose force cannot be lessened by any amount of rhetoric.

Take the history of free trade in this country from its inception, and it will be found that its most fierce advocates are men who have believed that the laborer should be owned not hired. Don't take our word for it, but look it up for yourself.

Under the action of the McKinley law the exports of this country increased $111,340,102, in one year. Pretty good law, isn't it?

The editor of the Stockbridge Sun is mistaken, in stating that the editor of the Courier is a candidate for lieutenant governor. He has distinctly stated upon several occasions that he is not a candidate for any office.

The Courier had better soak its feet and go to bed early with a hot water-bag on the seat of its distress.—Adrian Press.

If the Press would soak its head sometime it would be "clear out of sight."

Among the news items Saturday, was one stating that a man 92 years old and a woman 65 years old, had eloped from Covington, Ky., and been married at Cincinnati. A case of second childhood, doubtless.

Hon. John S. Barbour, the senior senator from Virginia, died at Washington, D. C., last Friday, May 14, after an illness of a few minutes, and without any apparent suffering. The cause of death is credited to "heart failure."

There are said to be spots on the face of the sun. Old Sol has probably had a scrap with Senator Hill, of New York. The man who will be nominated at Minneapolis June 8th, will be able to knock those spots off all right.

The young Kaiser of Germany proposes to tax newspaper advertisements to help pay the enormous expense of royalty in that kingdom. If he does he ought to be the recipient of some "free advertising" at the hands of the press of Germany.

The English compartment cars are so often used for assaults and immoral purposes and sometimes murder, that it would seem as if they ought to be done away with, or else arranged more on the American plan, so that the passengers may not be so much shut off from each other.

The London Times says that one of the industrial effects of the McKinley bill is that "four well known English textile firms have moved the whole or a part of their plant to the United States, and many of the most skilled hands from the tin plate mills of South Wales have emigrated."

The g. o. p. machine is running at full pressure without a governor, and nothing is more likely than its balance wheel will burst from centrifugal force.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

It is a fact the Sentinel will not deny, that there is a great question of air near a rapidly revolving wheel, and that feathers are easily drawn in and destroyed, so don't stand too near that balance wheel, please, Mr. Sentinel man.

Capital always has and always will take care of itself. It is the laboring man that needs wise and beneficent protective laws. Under free trade in this country, capital, driven out of business here, would seek investment in foreign countries, probably, just as English capital driven out of England by the dry rot of free trade, is seeking investment in the United States, and buying up every great industry here that it can purchase. Do away with our tariff laws, and see how quick the change would come.

In connection with Maj. McKinley's visit to Ann Arbor it is of interest to mention the fact that one of the largest tin plate manufacturers of Wales, E. Morewood & Co., began last week the construction of a large plant for the manufacture of tin plate at Elizabethport, N. J. The works will cover three acres of ground and in three months will be in operation able to make 5,000 boxes per week. This is the first foreign company to start tin plate making in this country, and it is due to the McKinley bill. Long live McKinley and his Bill.

The Adrian Press does not think much of the alleged wisdom of the Wisconsin democrats, it is judged, by the following quotation: "While we do not care to criticize democratic policy in other states, yet as we read the financial plank of Wisconsin's democracy, it's our candid opinion, that for assinine political wisdom the builders of that platform, distance all competitors. They rake in the jackpot. They bet ten buttons that the republican anti-silver legislation is wrong, then show down with a regular republican policy, on a full hand against silver."

The will of the "recent" Wm. B. Astor in cutting off his daughter Mrs. Drayton, and his brother Henry, from inheriting a cent of his property, is no credit to his memory. Mrs. Drayton was his own daughter, and Henry was his own brother who committed the crime of marrying a pretty country girl whom he loved, and with whom he has lived happily several years, for which act he was disinherited by his father, and his share of the property given to Wm. B. Astor who now in turn cuts him off. That is snobbishness even in death. Such wills ought to be broken.

The democrats in congress are endeavoring to again bring before the house the question of the free coinage of silver, and hope to have a closure rule applied so that a prompt consideration of the bill may be insured. That is a consummation devoutly to be desired. By all means the democrats in the lower house should pass such a bill, and if necessary to adopt a closure rule, they should certainly adopt it. The country at large is just now pining for free silver, and closure, and the statesmen at Washington have no right to deprive them of that for which they are so much in need—in their minds. They really want closure more than free silver, though.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Why the Students in our Colleges Should not be Taught Free Trade Fallacies.

PART I.

The following article, taken from the Chicago Inter-Ocean, is given to our readers, who, being quite largely in a university city, are more or less interested in the ideas and facts stated:

Several students, one from Yale College, two from Harvard University, one from Madison, Wis., two from Evanston, and one from Lake Forest, Ill., have sent questions, all referring to the fact that so many—nearly all—of the professors of political economy in the colleges and universities of this country are, or have been teachers of free trade. The students ask The Inter-Ocean to give the reasons for such a state of things. The questions being similar, and seeking the same information, their publication is withheld, only to economize space, and not out of disrespect to the students. The following, I trust, gives the reasons asked for, and a full and fair reply to all the questions, which was written September, 1881, is for the first time published in The Inter-Ocean, whose principles were thus squarely announced:

"THE INTER OCEAN IS ON GUARD, as a sentinel over certain political truths vitally connected with the welfare of all American industries, agricultural, mining, manufacturing and commercial."

The article in The Inter Ocean June 9th, 1892, is as follows:

Owing to early and erroneous tuition, there seems to be implanted in many American minds a sort of servile sentiment, causing a too ready acquiescence in the theories of English political economists—a fact well known to every close observer. The class to which we refer seem to have engrained in them the idea that English political economy must be accepted as the only safe guide for American statesmen—that whatever is conducive to English interests will be "promotive of the general welfare" of the United States. This class is influential, because there is unfortunately a large number of persons in this country who accept their political faith, as they take their medicine when sick, from the written prescriptions of others, in blind confidence, or as they accept their religious beliefs, ready-made by the hands of others, and not the result of their own investigation or the independent conclusions of their own minds and mental efforts—the result of

READING, RESEARCH AND REFLECTION.

Webster defines political economy: "That branch of philosophy which discusses the sources and methods of material wealth and prosperity in a nation." The language of the United States Constitution (see preamble) shows that two of the principal purposes were "to provide for the common defense" and "to promote the general welfare." To securely provide for the "common defense" we must have the means of supplying ourselves with the means of defense, by ourselves and within ourselves, free from dependency upon others. The "promotion of the general welfare" can not be better effected than by the development of every class of native industry, enabling us to supply our own wants, whether for defense or welfare by our own labor, out of our own materials, by our own industry. Hence the first law ever passed after the formation of our constitution was a tariff law. A fatal mistake with American free traders is the assumption that there is a political economy alike adapted to all countries; that what is beneficial to one country must be good for all. Herein lies of every free trader. All history refutes the theory. Nature gives it to the lie. Sad and bitter experiences to many and many a people, often resulting in national destruction, has time and time again shown up the sophism in all its falsity and evil effects. It was free trade in a great measure that ruined the Roman Empire and caused its destruction.

Whoever carefully reads the speeches and pamphlets, or works of American free traders, chiefly those of American professors, principals, etc., will observe that they are almost wholly English ideas, extracts, or eliminations from English authors dressed up in American clothes. There is this contrast, however: Englishmen, when arrayed in American garments, are greatly improved thereby in their personal appearance. English free trade theories strut about awkwardly when covered only with American cloaks; their borrowed plumage is not suited to the climate. The difference in the forms of the American and English governments would alone prove the futility of a like system of political economy being equally

BENEFICIAL TO BOTH COUNTRIES.

There are other adverse circumstances and matters of fact, showing how impossible it is to have a single system promotive of the "material wealth and prosperity" of the one nation, and equally productive of good to the other. English free traders claim the advantage it would be to England if American farmers could be induced to buy all of their manufactured goods of England, shipping in return therefor their farm products. England aims to be the workshop of the world, to manufacture for all the world at her own price, taking their agricultural and raw productions at her own price also. That is the jug-handle theory that England advocates nowhere finding so many sympathizers as in the United States. No where does the recruiting sergeant of the Cobden Club induce so many to take the "shilling" as in this country, where there are more foreign members of the club than in all other foreign countries combined. The Cobden Club comprehend their American cousins; they have studied their simplicity and

GAUGED THEIR GULLIBILITY.—they know their customers.

England and America are totally dissimilar, as to their natural resources. We have not only an illimitable supply of raw materials of nearly every kind, but our food supply is practically inexhaustible. Great Britain without her colonies (who have enacted tariff laws for their own protection), under her present system can not raise sufficient food for her own people. For years she has been and is now largely dependent upon other countries for her physical sustenance. All nations must eat or starve. Food, clothing and shelter are the trinity of a nation's as they are of individual's, imperative necessities. The object in repealing the Corn Laws was to provide the working classes of England with lower priced food, so they could work for less wages, and hence could supply other countries with manufactures cheaper than those countries could make their own. The repeal was at a time when England was at her zenith in manufacturing power, and when judicious, well-directed, liberal subsidies were developing her merchant steam marine into the front rank, destined, as afterwards proved, to CREATE LINES OF MERCHANT STEAMERS, surpassing the fleets of all the world combined—thus enabling her to transport more cheaply and more rapidly raw materials, breadstuffs, merchandise, etc., than could be moved by any other nation. Every nerve had been strained, with most lavish expenditure of money, to develop her manufactures by improved machinery, unequalled in capacity and extent, with the most skillful mechanics and artisans, so that as was then said: "If the machinery of England was run to its full capacity for one year, it could supply the whole world with manufactured goods for seven years." It was with England as Artemus Ward said of the Puritans: "They claimed to enjoy their own religion, and tried to prevent every one else from enjoying theirs."

A work that will be of intense interest to Michigan people, those believing in the republican doctrines especially, and in fact of interest to people all over the United States, is being published by Banker's Art Publishing Co., of Detroit, and will be entitled "Under the Oaks at Jackson, Eighteen Hundred and Fifty-Four and Since." Michigan's war governor, Austin Blair, in agreeing to write his recollections of what then occurred, says: "Most of the actors in the events I expect to chronicle have passed off the stage of human action, and I hope to recall the memory of them to some extent."

On June 7, the national republican convention at Minneapolis will nominate a winner. Cut out this and paste it in your hat.

The Chicago Globe refers to the liquid sent through its city water pipes as "unspeakable water." "Unspeakable" is good, but "uncrawable" would be better.

Let the republican party be deposed from power and see how quickly the laboring masses will find out which party is their friend. But if such a thing is done the mistake may be found out too late.

The laymen of the Methodist church are in the minority at their general conference, and the question of giving them more power is again postponed another conference year. That will perhaps be its fate continually.

When the agony is over, and the game is lost and won, and every state's brave delegates have had their fill of fun, oh, where will be the "favorite son?" Ask of the waves that loudly roar on Minneapolis' peaceful shore, and on Chicago's banks of gore! They'll sadly answer: "Never more!"

George Washington Childs would make a good presidential candidate. It might reduce his avardpous a little if he should run very fast, but he could spare quite a lot and then have sufficient left for comfort. And he is a person that no one could say ought against. The printers ought to nominate him.

There doesn't seem to be many Pingree men in this county, but as the tactics of that gentleman are not to hunt ducks with a brass band, but on the contrary to work the still hunt plan, it is possible, if Rich's friends are not on the alert, there may be several Pingree delegates from this county in the state convention.

The democrats of Iowa are not to be misunderstood. They are for their favorite son Gov. Boies, first, last and all the time, and so instructed their delegates. Unlike Illinois and Indiana, they didn't propose to place themselves in any false position simply for police's sake. Boies man not get there, but his friends have the right sort of grit and back bone.

It has been discovered at Ann Arbor that the city is in need of a new first class hotel. Would the Courier object to a government appropriation?—Adrian Press.

Certainly. The government has no right to expend public money in private enterprises any more than it has a right to expend public money as a sop to re-elect a democratic congressman.

Some anonymous correspondent sent Postmaster General Wanamaker $1,000 the other day, to relieve his conscience, as he said that he had taken the money from the government dishonestly. It was turned over to the conscience fund.

'THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED,' AND 'THE BIG 5.'

TWO GRAND TRAINS DAILY BETWEEN THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY AND THE FOOTHILLS.

ONE NIGHT OUT OR ONE DAY OUT. TAKE YOUR CHOICE. BUSINESS DEMANDS IT AND THE PEOPLE MUST HAVE IT.

The popularity of "The Great Rock Island Route" as a Colorado line—it having long time since taken first place as the people's favorite between the Lakes and the Mountains—has compelled the management to increase its present splendid service by the addition of a train that is one night on the road from Chicago to Denver, Colorado Springs or Pueblo. This train will be known as the "Rocky Mountain Limited," and will be put in service May first. Leaves Chicago daily at 10:45 a. m., arriving at the above cities in the afternoon of the next day, earlier than any of its competitors. Special equipment has been built for this train, with the view of making it a limited in every sense of the word, and best of all, there will be no extra charge. The route of this exceedingly fast train is by the Rock Island Short Line, and a few of the larger cities through which it passes, are Davenport, Des Moines, Lincoln, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Beatrice, Fairbury, Bellevue, Phillipsburg, Colby, Smith Centre and Goodland. This makes it the most desirable route, and particularly interesting to the traveler. Another point: The popularity of our dining-car service is still on the increase, and no money spared to make this service what our patrons always say, "the best."

Our "Big 5" will continue as usual, leaving Chicago at 10 p. m., and arriving at Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning, being but one day out, and this fast and popular train goes through Omaha.

Our No. 11 will leave as heretofore at 6 p. m., arrive at Kansas City at 9 a. m., and will reach Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the second morning.

Our Colorado service is made perfect by this new "Rocky Mountain Limited" and the "Big 5," and gives to the traveling public two flyers daily.

Manitou passengers should consult the map and time tables of our line, to fully appreciate the advantages in time saved by taking this route, when on their summer vacation.

I Had Faith.

About six months ago I was advised to consult Mrs. Hall, the great Spiritualist doctor, to see if she could cure me of Scrofula, from which I have suffered from childhood. She said if I would have faith in the medicine she gave me, that she could cure me. I took her medicine, and in less than three months I was cured. Why, the way the medicine worked was a miracle. I begged her to tell me what the medicine was made of, but she said she could not do so. Finally she told me the medicine was Sulphur Bitters, and that she never knew it to fail in all such cases as mine.—Mrs. Clara Knowlton, 35 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

BAD ECZEMA ON BABY

Head one Solid Sore. Itching Awful. Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle. Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA Remedies, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to steadily improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from the crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of his face, and small places on different parts of his body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his fingers out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We feel your CUTICURA Remedies cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others.

A Reply to Rev. Sunderland's Article.

Ann Arbor, May 17th, 1892. Mr. Editor:—The excellent article in your last issue concerning instruction in the public schools, and several articles of similar import in other papers, disclose a healthy condition of the public thought about the education of our children.

They may also suggest to some the propriety of a word of explanation, on the part of the school authorities, especially as said articles imply some criticism of the management of the schools.

The articles in question are all aglow with the love of nature, and especially with admiration of the new life constantly unfolding before us in these vernal days. It is just such a spirit as our teachers like to see manifesting itself in their pupils. For if there is any doctrine more than another that our primary teachers believe in, and try to act upon, it is that the opening mind develops and gains power mainly by observation—the use of its senses. No one could sit many minutes in one of our primary departments and come to any other conclusion. The recent introduction, with no little effort, of the kindergarten with its gifts, songs, plays, etc., almost exclusively objective in methods, would justify this assertion.

I should be sorry to have any one suppose that our children in the primary grades are busied with, or mainly taught, through books; and I should be equally sorry to have our teachers belittle in the least the value of books to their pupils. For these books are priceless treasures, that contain the best fruitage of the world's wisdom of all time. Certainly the ability to master books must ever remain the condition of reaching any marked degree of mental power or culture.

Now while the general purport of these articles is to be commended, the methods of operation advocated are open to question. One of these favors "Taking the children into the fields Saturdays." Mr. Sunderland advises practically the same thing, "to explore the fields, ground, plants, flowers, stones, bugs, spiders, spider-webs, insects of a hundred kinds; to explore the fields and gardens and woods, and brooks and river-banks, within reach—all of them as full of undreamed-of and wonderful things as any fairy land."

This is a beautiful picture of elementary science topics for a primary school as all fairy stories are beautiful; but our schools, like other departments of life, operate under limitations which the fairies cannot remove.

Firstly, there are no teachers in the ward schools "competent" to give instruction in "bugs, spiders, spider-webs, and insects of a hundred kinds." The schools where our teachers are educated furnish no instruction in Entomology. University graduates, with rare exceptions, have fared no better.

Secondly, it may well be doubted whether any teacher, with her experience fresh in mind, in keeping 30 to 50 ordinary children in the educational path, where she had all the helps of school-room and organization, would hopefully take her charge to the "woods and brooks and river-banks," with the view of making the excursion educational in character. What with dangers of water, climbing of trees, and racing away from control, the teacher would be for the most part in the surge of a veritable picnic. Here is a bit of history: One of our teachers undertook one afternoon to take her pupils "to nature." In the midst of the stroll the fire-bell rang. Upon rounding up the party soon after, some of the boys were missing. They had responded to the fire-bell, fireman fashion. One of these boys was not found by his parents till late that night! Who was responsible?

It is exceeding well for children to go out "to nature," to the fields, the flowers, the brooks, the bracing air, etc., but the chaperones in large part should be their parents. Moreover a picnic, profitable as it is, cannot usually be made scientific enough to be called educational.

So far as I know there is but one public school in Michigan, organized especially to study elementary science. That school has a special supervising teacher. Its classes never go into the fields. Individuals and teachers gather the materials and bring them to the school-room for examination.

Perhaps it may be well to add here a resume of the observational and science work done in the Ann Arbor schools below the high school.

In the 1st and 2nd years there is much kindergarten work, including clay modeling, form studies and drawing from objects throughout the course.

In the 2d and 3d years, classes are taken to the fields occasionally for the study of areas and surfaces with the definite purpose of gaining geographical notions and representing them. The use of sand tables in the 2d, 3d, and 4th grades. In the 3d grade lessons on dew, mist, clouds, rivers, sand gravel, clay, etc., etc.

As soon as leaves appear in May, the 4th grade begin a daily and orderly course of leaf studies. At the same time the 5th grade is similarly engaged upon flowers and stems, finding all findable points, but not attempting a scientific classification. In the 4th grade, the reading book is wholly upon flowers and plants; in the 5th grade it is wholly upon animals, and both, as far as possible, are illustrated with the best obtainable specimens. In grades 5 and 8, pupils study physiology and hygiene with a text-book, with special reference to the effects of alcohol and tobacco. In grade 8, some excellent work is done in elementary physics and geology. That in geology, I am inclined to think, will fairly match the best that is done in the same grade of any school in the country.

Only a word more is needed. Neither the quantity nor the quality of this kind of instruction is yet up to the ideal and plans of the teachers in our schools. We hope in the near future to place elementary science on a more scientific basis; especially as regards an orderly arrangement of matter and graded methods of instruction.

Believes in the Irish.

"For downright hustling politicians having a 'git-there' gait, give me that portion of the Celtic race that comes to us from Ireland," said a good citizen to the writer a few days since.

"No better illustration can be had than right here at home," he continued. "Why, just count up: There's Gorman in congress, representing this county; there's John Sheehan just been chosen a national delegate to Chicago; there's Ex-Postmaster Edward Duffy, a member of the most important state board in existence in this state to-day; and we'll grant he is a good one too; there's Sheriff Charlie Dwyer; and Register of Deeds Seery; and Circuit Court Commissioner P. McKernan; and State Senator McCormick; and Commissioner of Schools Martin J. Cavanaugh—not the least among them either, mind you. Then there's Dick Kearns and Jim Duffy at Lansing, and possibly others that may have slipped my mind, besides Oil Inspector O'Brien, of Jackson, of this district. Then in city offices, O'Hearn is one of the best assessors any city ever had; W. H. McIntyre is a member of the board of public works; Supervisor Kearns, of the 3d ward; Aid. O'Mara of the 4th ward."

"You have no fault to find with them, hav you?" was asked the g. c. "Not in the least. They are, without exception, good men and well fitted for their positions. That is not the point I referred to. It was their 'git-there' ability. They are hustlers, and get to the front. When they want anything they not only say so, but go to work and get it. For a real successful politician give me an Irishman every time."

And the words of that good citizen cannot be disputed very well.

In a Bad Fix.

"This is the blardest (hic) town I ever (hic) shaw," said an individual the other evening, who was endeavoring to keep the telegraph pole at the corner of 4th and Huron sts. from tumbling down.

"Why?" was asked. "There's no sh-(hic) shreet signs, and how am I (hic)-(hic) to (hic) find my way h-(hic) home, I'd like to know (hic)?"

It was a poser. Respectfully referred to the proper committee.

Annual Meeting of the Pioneers.

The annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Pioneer Society will be held in Chelsea on Wednesday June 8th at 10 o'clock a. m., for election of officers and transaction of other business.

Several historical addresses will be delivered by some of the best writers and speakers in the county. Among those who are expected to address the society are Mrs. Bowen, of Lima; Mrs. Julia Dexter Stannard, of Dexter; and E. B. Pond and W. D. Harriman, of Ann Arbor.

Picnic baskets can be left at home as the matrons and lassies of Chelsea and vicinity will prepare and serve a bountiful dinner. Good music and pioneer songs will be a part of the "bill of fare."

UNIVERSITY.

Attend the U. of M. Minstrels at the opera house, on Friday evening. Randall has the contract for the senior lit., senior law, and senior pharmac class photo's.

On the second Friday of each month the Japanese students hold a literary meeting at McMillan hall.

The Intercollegiate Prohibition Club will hold a meeting at Newberry hall Friday and Saturday May 20 and 21.

A large number of the lady students take advantage of the gymnasium afternoons Saturdays, at McMillan hall.

The Choral Union concert, The Damnation of Faust, will call to Ann Arbor lovers of music from all over the country.

Miss Susan B. Anthony will address the Woman's League on Monday evening May 23d at Newberry hall. A general invitation is extended.

The U. of M. Minstrels will give the people of Ann Arbor a grand entertainment next Friday evening, at the opera house. It will be full of rollicking fun.

The Choral Union will hold its last rehearsal but one before the concert on Wednesday evening May 18th, at 7 p. m., sharp. A prompt and full attendance is very much to be desired.

Some of the University students murmur because the base ball management has fixed the admission price of games, at fifty cents; but it is alone worth four shillings to see the umpire kicked.—Adrian Press.

The last college to adopt a summer school is Hillsdale. With the great libraries to draw from here at the University it seems as though that by little effort a summer school in Ann Arbor would prove a great success.

Dr. N. A. McLachlan and Dr. J. C. Wood have been in attendance upon the annual session of the State Homoeopathic Association at Detroit, where they were on the programme for papers. Drs. Mack, Gatchell, Clark and Wilder were also in attendance yesterday.

It is a pretty big question with many people whether or not the Athletic Association have not made a mistake in putting the price of admission to the ball games at 50 cents. A half dollar is a pretty good sized coin to most people, especially base ball cranks.

The calendar of the University of Michigan is out in new form this year. It is more compact and lighter than former issues, thus making a saving in postage. It is handsomely printed from electro plates, by a Boston printing house. The summary of students shows 2,692.

Nashville, Tenn., papers speak in very high terms of the address of President Angell at the Peabody Normal College, in that city on the 7th inst., the subject being "The Religions of China." While in Nashville Dr. Angell was the guest of Chancellor W. H. Payne, of the Peabody College.

The annual game of base ball between the U. of M. and Cornell clubs, takes place at Detroit on May 30. A rate of $1.25, which will secure admission to the game, has been given by the M. C. R. R., and it is believed that it will take a long train of cars to accommodate the crowd who will want to attend.

The Freshman Banquet was held at Nickle's hall last Friday evening, and was successful, notwithstanding the vain efforts of some of the ungentlemanly Sophomores to make it otherwise. They acted in a manner that they may regret, and which may possibly come back to them as does a boomerang, sometimes. Mesdames Angell, de Pont, Stanley, Gally-Brown, Knowlton and Rolfe acted as chaperones for the evening.

The University Minstrels, booked for the grand opera house on Friday evening next, drew a large house last year, and this year they are said by those who know what they are talking about, that they are better than ever before. The house will be crowded, there is little doubt about that, and those who attend will be well repaid for the time and money expended. The boys give their audience pure fun without any of the coarse and broad jests that have brought minstrelsy into disrepute. Go and hear and be entertained.

There is some consternation among the colleges throughout the country occasioned by the Chicago University's raid on their best professors. With Rockefeller's millions they are enabled to offer high salaries which are very tempting. Michigan University, so far has been very fortunate in having her best professors stand by her. It is notorious that Michigan pays her college teachers less than they can get at most other institutions, and unless some of the salaries of such men as Carhart, Adams and Kelsey are raised we stand in great danger of losing them. We do not think all full professors' salaries should be raised, but those who have shown distinguished ability or learning, or who have gained a position among American thinkers by their writings, thus helping not only themselves, but their university—these should be encouraged and retained, for in the coming sharp competition among colleges for men and professors we cannot afford to let go from us our best material. A strong corps of teachers attracts students far more than is generally believed. It is to be hoped that the regents will not let go some of the ablest professors who are now considering offers from other colleges.

Wadhams, Kennedy & Reule

WAS A MODERN ELIJAH.

He was small and black—a child of an inferior race. There was nothing in his appearance to suggest the hero, and if you had told him that he was a hero he would scarcely have known what you meant. An unschooled, illiterate, ugly, bullet-headed negro, he had nevertheless been baptized by the same spirit which had caused the face of St. Stephen to shine as the face of an angel.

One winter day—almost a year before the event which gave him a chance to come into the hotel looking for a job. The office was brilliantly lighted and filled with a crowd of handsomely dressed men. There were politicians, club men, men about town, reporters, many members of the sporting fraternity, and usual loungers and hangers on, an occasional hay-seed—all forming a very startling background for the rags and filth of the poor, shivering, half-starved, little darkey. It was no easy matter for him to steer his course to the desk, and when he got there the splendor of the man behind it dazzled him, so that his voice almost failed him. He had, however, even at his early age, reached the point where he had to work or starve. So his necessities made him eloquent. His eloquence prevailed. He was the next day placed on the payroll of the great hotel.

As a bell boy he was not a success. I fear I must confess he was lazy. People liked him—I do not know why—and for some reason or other he was a favorite with his employers. If he had not been they would have dismissed him before his first week was out. Instead of doing that, they concluded to find more congenial work for him, so they put him in charge of one of the elevators.

Among the passengers who used to ride up and down with the boy was a little five year old girl, the daughter of a family living in the hotel. She was as perfect a type of her race as he was of his. With her fair, white skin, golden hair, deep blue eyes and pretty womanly ways, the child was a general favorite. Everyone knew her; everyone loved her.

Between her and the boy a great friendship had sprung up. He was devoted to her, and his attentions to the little Caucasian were so grotesquely chivalrous as to be almost pathetic. She accepted them with a dignity and grace that were charming. Her family lived on the top floor of the hotel, and as she always rode in his elevator when she could do so, the boy and girl saw much of each other. Once she was ill. The medicine that helped her most was a wretched little bouquet sent her by her dusky friend.

It was winter again. The evening of which I write was very cold and clear. The stars were diamond-like in their brilliancy. Everything was frozen up—the wheels creaked on the snow.

The hotel was crowded with guests, not more than two or three of the hundreds of rooms were unoccupied. A belated traveler, who had been on a weather-bound train, came in at 1 o'clock, tired and cold. He ordered a fire in his room and went to the bar for a drink. A few minutes later he stepped into the boy's elevator and was carried to the top floor.

The great house was quiet. Most of the lights in the office had been extinguished. Two night owls were talking in low tones on one of the settees which lined the walls of the lobby. The bell boys were most of them asleep. The clerk was drowsy.

Two o'clock! The night owls got up and walked into the cold air. A drunken man poked his nose in the door. The sleeping porter seemed to scent him, for he hustled the poor fellow out.

The quiet deepened till it became almost oppressive. The air was heavy with it.

Suddenly, without a note of warning, the cry of "Fire!" ran through the house. There was life enough now. Scantly-clad people were scurrying wildly through the smoke-filled corridors. They came plunging down the stairs to the office, and so out into the freezing night. Shrieks and curses and groans and prayers—it was Babel broken loose. All the bells in the house were ringing. The smoke grew denser. It seemed to come from everywhere—above and below. Great volumes roll through the long halls. Outside the streets were jammed with people. The engines, with their clanging gongs, hurried to the scene. Ladders were raised, and the work of rescue began.

It was time, for there was a white figure in almost every one of the multitudinous windows. The awful wall loomed up in the darkness, story after story, dimly seen as to its upper half, for that part of it was wreathed in the blinding smoke. The smoke turned to flame—flame bursting through scores of windows. The terror-stricken creatures began to jump. The people in the street below were frantic.

"Back! back!" they shrieked. "Wait! we'll save you! don't jump!" Which is the pleasant, to be roasted alive, or to be mashed out of shape on the stone pavement? If there is to be any saving done it must be done quickly. Many people were busy saving themselves. The sleeping clerk and porter and bell-boys had gotten out.

But what of the little black fellow in the elevator? He, too, had been asleep. He had been awakened as the others had been by the first cry of fire. Unlike them, he had that "two-o'clock-in-the-morning courage" which Napoleon said was the rarest sort. In an instant he decided that it was his duty to stick to his post. And stick he did.

Up and down he went, and every time his car touched the office door it was loaded with people. The journey was a frightful one, but he did not shrink. How long he could continue to make the trip he could not tell. The elevator might drop any minute. Very well, let it drop. Some of the people in it might survive the shock. It was sure to catch fire sooner or later. Even then he would be on the way to safety with his passengers. And at any rate he knew that he could bring some people out of the fire burning above.

He had not been good at going up-stairs, but he could run his elevator. Trip after trip he made, each worse than the last. The firemen at the bottom of the shaft to whom he turned over his living freight sought to stop him in his dangerous work. The whole well was full of smoke, and far up toward the roof, the fire could be seen.

Still he kept on, and it did seem that every time he started skyward he was going to certain death. But he knew that the rooms and halls were swarming with people, and he would take any chance to save a life. The firemen were doing their best outside; death was busy within; and he finally made up his mind that it was no use to go back again, till all at once he remembered that he had seen nothing of his little friend.

Could he weather the storm and flame once more? He could try. He pulled the rope, and the journey began. It was slow, oh, how slow. The smoke was terrible—worse even than the fire—but he held his breath and fixed his mind upon the business in hand.

The flame kindled the woodwork of the car. He fell on his hands and knees, but he kept his hold on the rope. At last he reached the floor. He found her room, and found her. She was asleep and alone.

Wrapping her in the blankets, and throwing about her a rug which he snatched from the floor, he struggled through the flame and smoke back to the jaws of hell! It was that he brought her, fighting the fire away from her every inch of the way down. He had just strength enough to stop the car.

The children were taken out and carried to a drug store across the street, the girl alive and well and the boy seemingly dead.

He was horribly burned. Among the people who stood around were the parents of the little girl. They had been out to an evening party, and returning after a long, cold drive, found their home on fire. Every effort had been made, in response to the agonizing appeals of the father to save the child—and now here she was, safe and sound, laughing in her mother's arms.

And the hero. He opened his eyes. "Did I bring her froo all right?" "Yes, yes," said the father, "and how can we ever thank you for what you have done?" "Nebber min," bount dat, boss. Ef she's safe dat's nuff for me." And he closed his eyes.

Dead? Yes, dead and gone to heaven in a chariot of fire.—Richard York in Romance.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

The sum of $1,000 will be raised by direct tax this year to run the village government of Chelsea.

Wm. Barker, formerly of Chelsea, died at Leslie, May 6th, aged nearly 78 years.

On Tuesday evening of last week the Manchester blue lodge visited the Chelsea blue lodge and exemplified work in the 3d degree. A rich feed followed.

John O'Connor, who had lived on his farm in Sylvan over 40 years, died of cancer Saturday May 7, and was buried from St. Mary's church Tuesday.

A man who was a King by name, but not by nature, received some rough handling by a mob at Brighton, recently, for improper behavior on the streets.

The teacher in the Brighton high school had his nose broken by a young man pupil whom he was attempting to correct, recently. That young man was altogether too striking.

Chelsea has taken on a quiet little boom this spring. A large amount of building, repairing and general fixing up, is going on, and the village never was in a more prosperous condition.—Herald.

Many of our county exchanges advocate proper attention being paid to the lawns this summer. It would be a good thing to do. A little labor judiciously expended in that way makes the home look 100 per cent better.

The records of the Chelsea schools show the fewest tardy marks last month of any month for the past eight years. The Second Primary had no tardy marks and the High School had but three.—Herald. A record hard to beat, that's certain.

E. A. Mann & Son have bought the flouring mill at Pinckney of T. Grimes. The scare about the frost killing all the fruit buds is on its usual annual spring tour.

Only one drug store at a time in Ypsilanti, will be open for business on Sundays after this.

The G. A. R. post and W. R. C., of Dexter, will see that Memorial Day is properly celebrated at that place. Memorial Day will be properly observed by the people of Fowlerville. It ought to be by the people of every place.

Samuel M. Yerkes, of Howell township, died May 6th, aged 79 years. He had resided on the farm where he died since 1845.

E. Jedele, of Dexter, proposes to buy wool this year and has already purchased 4,000 lbs. of last year's clip, just as a starter.

Over 1,700 cut worms were captured in Van Buren county in one night recently and Mr. Lowden thinks them more destructive than a Squawbuck legislature.—Ypsilanti.

The "lifting gang" have been in business again in Dexter. They get peculiar freaks on occasionally, that causes them to do odd and often unwise things at unseasonable hours.

The Epworth League of Chelsea had a fine time last Friday evening celebrating the 3d anniversary of its organization, in the M. E. church. A delegation from Dexter went up and helped them.

One of the subscribers of the Pinckney Dispatch has been feeding its editor with honey. It is not very often that an editor gets an opportunity to be sweet on a subscriber that way, but the Pinckney editor does it with dispatch.

The News advises the senior class of the Dexter high school to secure some noted man to deliver an address on commencement day, instead of going through the usual programme. That would be quite the thing to do, and right in style.

The Rev. Mr. Manning, of Detroit, is engaged to deliver the Memorial Day address here this year. The services are to be in the Presbyterian church, where, also, Carpenter Post will attend divine service on the Sunday preceding.—Ypsilanti.

The Dexter News tells of the killing by George Francisco, of that place, of a tern or sea swallow, whose native place is in the southern Pacific ocean. He killed it on the mill pond at Dexter, and being struck with its beauty, had it mounted by John Bross, and then looked up its pedigree. How did it get in Dexter?

Henry Krause, of Lodi, died on Thursday last, of heart failure, and funeral services were held Saturday, from the family residence. He was born in Switzerland 88 years ago, and came to this country many years since. He was a successful fruit grower as well as farmer. He leaves four sons, Henry, Fred, Caleb and John.

The people of South Lyon think that a tamarack pole fence on one of its main streets is not just the thing to induce immigration and the investment of capital, but as a council-man owns it, he probably understands that tamarack is the best kindling wood in the world. It snaps and cracks and makes the fire fly besides making itself heard.

"Squire Barr, of Stony Creek, noticed our mention of Erastus Samson's old account book, in which was reported his purchase of a life, about fifty years ago, for $1.25, and last Saturday he brought in the identical instrument for us to see. It is as good as the day it was bought, and still responds with enthusiasm to its owner's skillful manipulation. His dental vicissitudes have compelled him to employ a mouthpiece, but the life shrieks as shrilly now as when young Watson Barr led the column at the big Clay barbecue; and he played again for us the Harrison march, with which in 1840 he helped to rouse the enthusiasm that carried into the presidential chair the grandfather of our present Chief Executive.—Ypsilanti.

The Dexter News is responsible for this good one: There is food for thought on the Sabbath in the following farewell address of a clergyman who had become discouraged in trying to keep the wolf from the door with a $200 a year salary and a donation thrown in: "Brothers and sisters, I come to say good bye. I don't think God loves this church very much, because none of you ever die. I don't think you love each other because none of you ever get married. I don't think you love me, because you never pay my salary, and your donations are mouldy fruits and wormy apples, and by their fruits ye shall know them. Brothers, I am going away from you to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of the state penitentiary. Where I go ye cannot come now, but I go to prepare a place for you. Good bye."

Drunkness or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It is manufactured as a powder, which can be given in a glass of beer, a cup of coffee or tea, or in food without the knowledge of the patient. It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Cures guaranteed.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

(OFFICIAL.)
OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS, 1 ANN ARBOR, MICH., May 11, 1892.

Regular meeting.
Board met and was called to order by Pres. Keech.

Roll called. Full board present.
Minutes of the previous meeting read and approved.

Mr. Schuh, to whom was referred the matter of the employment of an engineer, submitted the following report:
To the Board of Public Works:

Your committee of the undersigned, to whom was referred the question of the employment of some person as City Engineer, beg leave to submit the following report:

I have had several interviews with Mr. Woodard, of the city of Ypsilanti, and the most favorable terms which could be obtained from him was the sum of five dollars per day, and to furnish all necessary help.

George F. Key has authorized me to submit for your consideration the following proposition: He will accept the position for one year for the sum of sixty dollars per month salary, that he will devote all of his time to the duties of such office from May 1st to the first day of October next, doing all necessary work and making grade plats of the city, after which time he will do and perform all necessary and needful current work for the city. Mr. Key will be here about three years and thinks in that time he will be able to make a complete grade plat of the city.

Respectfully submitted,
J. F. SCHUH.

Mr. McIntyre moved that the report of Mr. Schuh be accepted, and the same transmitted to the Council with a recommendation that Mr. Key be employed.

Yeas.—Messrs. Keech, Schuh and McIntyre.
Mr. Keech moved that the bids for culverts on Hill and Fifth streets be opened and inspected. Which motion prevailed.

The bids were found to be as follows:
HILL STREET CULVERT.
W. G. McLay.....$420 00
Christian Koch.....505 00
G. Schneider.....335 00
Paul Tessmer.....449 00
Pike, Gage & Clancy.....320 75

FIFTH STREET CULVERT.
Pike, Gage & Clancy.....540 00
Paul Tessmer.....325 00
G. Schneider.....325 00
Christian Koch.....695 00
W. G. McLay.....315 00

Mr. Schuh moved that the respective bids for culverts on Hill and Fifth streets be transmitted to the Council with recommendation that the bid of W. G. McLay, at the sum of $315.00, for building Fifth street culvert be accepted, and the bid of Gottlob Schneider, at the sum of $335.00, for building Hill street culvert be accepted.

Which motion prevailed by a ye and nay vote as follows:
Yeas.—Messrs. Keech, Schuh and McIntyre.
Nays.—None.
On motion the Board adjourned.
W. J. MILLER, Clerk.

The three Littlefield brothers: Foster, of Webster, and Elias, of the city of Jackson, and DeForrest, of this village, received, last week, intelligence of the sudden death of their oldest brother, Wm. R., at his home in Santa Cruz, California. With the exception of a few months visit at his old Michigan home in 1857, Wm R. has been a continuous resident of California since 1852. It was the intention of his brother Elias to spend next winter with him in his western home. His death was caused by paralysis of the heart. The deceased was a cousin of Ex-President Pierce, and will be remembered by some of our old settlers as having worked at wagon making in the old Hosler shop.—Dexter Leader.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The bill to encourage American ship-building was passed in the senate on the 9th and the resolution for payment to the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations for their interest in the Choctaw and Arapahoe reservation was agreed to. In the house the river and harbor bill (447,000,000) was passed by a vote of 186 to 64.

The senate received the river and harbor bill on the 10th from the house and it was referred to the committee on commerce. The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was agreed to. In the house the Pennsylvania contested election case of Reynolds vs. Shook was decided in favor of Shook (rep.), the sitting member. The sundry civil bill ($2,157,787) was considered.

On the 11th a bill was introduced in the senate creating a new grade of letter carriers, to receive $1,200 per annum. A bill was passed appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Pierre, S. D. In the house a favorable report was made on the bill to remove the duty on silver lead ore. Mr. Bland offered an amendment to the sundry civil bill requiring that appropriations be paid in silver. The amendment was ruled out. Mr. Watson gave notice that hereafter the alliance members would object to all requests for unanimous consent.

The senate on the 12th bills were introduced authorizing the president to proclaim a general holiday commemorating the 40th anniversary of the discovery of America, on October 12, 1846, and to encourage American ship-building. The naval appropriation bill was considered and the nomination of T. Jefferson Coolidge, of Massachusetts, to be minister to France was confirmed. In the house the time was occupied in committee of the whole in discussing the sundry civil appropriation bill.
