A very important invention which will be hailed with delight by every body using a stove or range for hot water circulation. After years of experience we have succeeded in producing a simple and perfect WATER BACK.

It overcomes all the present troubles of extracting lime and other sediments which accumulate in water backs, often making them useless and in great many instances becoming dangerous.

The outlay of dollars is reduced to dimes. No household using a range can afford to be without it.

No more trouble by using city water for hot water circulation. Can be used in any stove. Ask your stove dealer for Hutzel's Water Back.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

C. A. D. are the Hon. Charles A. Dana's initials, but nevertheless he is no CAD.

Mr. Beakes very innocently asks us to name the democratic boss of the county. Certainly, anything to accommodate. He spells it SAMUEL WILLARD BEAKES.

Mr. Liesemer, of the Washtenaw Post, has proved himself a brave politician and independent journalist. But few men of his standing would have the nerve to express their honest opinion in such an unmistakable manner.

Yaple's taffy for the people's party has been duly paid for by giving him the nomination for congress in his district. Yaple is no summer coon. When he talks 2-per cent. government loans for the benefit of paupers, he knows why he does it.

The Chief Justice of our Supreme Court seeking political preferment at the hands of his party, while holding the highest judicial office in the state! Is it not a spectacle? The idea that Judge Morse would so belittle himself, only shows his greed for office.

We understand that the republican convention for this congressional district has been called, to be held at Monroe, Sept. 6th. If the committee would kindly mail their call to the republican papers of the district, we presume that they would be glad to publish it.

The people have always been told that Judge Morse was a little superior to the common herd of office holders, but his action in holding on to the Chief Justiceship of our supreme court while seeking another office, and a political one at that, proves him to be just like the rest of them.

The last issue of the Washtenaw Post had a two column article in plain and excellent English. Congressman Gorman did not have to call upon his interpreter to translate it for him. But he probably went off all by himself and communed with his agitated thoughts for a season after reading it. It was a story with a moral and one that has a mission to perform.

The Commissioner of Labor in New York state thought to make some political capital against the McKinley Act, and the republicans generally, so he had statistics gathered in that state relative to wages and manufacturing enterprises. What he found was this: The net increase of wages for 1891 over 1890 in 6,000 establishments, was $6,377,925. This was for 285,000 employees, and made an average of $23.11 for each one. About 75 per cent. of all the industries of the state were included. The net increase of production was $31,315,130. The increase of wages of the laborers in the building trades was $49.96 each. So much for the calamity wailers. So much for the friends of Mr. Cleveland to put in their pipes and smoke.

The New Bank.

The new bank was organized last Friday evening. At a meeting of the stockholders the name of "State Security Bank," was decided upon, and the following board of directors chosen:

A. L. Noble, N. J. Kyer, Wm. Arnold, W. J. Booth, J. H. Wade, E. F. Mills, J. V. Sheehan, David Zimmerman, Herman Hutzel, John Heitzman, Eugene E. Beal, W. F. Stinson, C. S. Millen, A. D. Seyler, John Hauer, John Koch, H. J. Brown, Ernest Eberbach, Geo. F. Glazier, Herman Hardinghaus, J. D. Ryan

At a subsequent meeting A. L. Noble was chosen president, N. J. Kyer first vice-president and Wm. Arnold second vice-president.

It is understood that an excellent location has been practically decided upon, and that the new bank will start off with good officers and with excellent prospects of success.

Prof. Wm. E. Robinson, sup't of the Detroit schools, has been in the city several days during the week. He was one of the scholars of that famous Saline district school, and he had eight brothers and sisters there with him.

The democratic county convention has been called for Wednesday, Sept. 21st, for the purpose of nominating a county ticket, to be held at the court house, at 11 o'clock a. m.

If the cholera once gets a good foothold in Ann Arbor it will teach the people such a lesson on the sewer question as they never received before. But it will be a costly lesson.

All the little dry weather squibs we had last week were knocked out by a fine rain almost before the paper got to the postoffice, Wednesday. The rain was a blessing and as such was greeted by the people.

The Board of Health ought to be vigilant these days. With cholera, malaria, and the effluvia of thousands of cesspools to coax them on, our city is not in as good a sanitary condition as it ought to be.

The democratic convention for the first district, will be held at the court house, in the city of Ann Arbor, on Friday Sept. 23d. For the 2d representative district, will be held on Friday, Sept. 23d, at 11 o'clock a. m., at Saline.

An exchange says if you want to drive the rats out of your cellar, you should go into it with a bass drum after dark at night and pound away with might and main. The rats will leave; then plug up their holes and they will keep away.

J. Willis Parker, lit. 75, of Olathe, Kansas, has been nominated by the republicans of his district for state senator. He has been county attorney of Johnson county two terms, and has always been there, as he was here at his Michigan homes, very popular. He is of the right sort to make a senator out of.

William Crane, who has been clerking in Levinson's clothing store for some time past, shipped his household goods to Ann Arbor yesterday, and will follow in a few days with his wife. He will be employed there in Schaefer & Millen's dry goods store. Mr. Crane has made many friends during his residence here, and they all regret his departure.—Petoskey Daily Resorter.

Gertie Carmo, so called—that being her professional name—the little lady who made the ascension in a balloon at our county fair last year, and fell from a tree in which she "landed," and was quite severely injured, will make no more ascensions. She was killed in Detroit last Thursday. It was a windy day and she should have been prevented from taking the hazard of an ascension, but her daring and foolhardiness cost her her life. The balloon struck against one of the towers of the exposition building and she was so stunned by the shock that she fell to the ground and was instantly killed.

The fellow who a book can write, Feels full of pleasure and delight; And he who draws and paints with ease, Your commendation's sure to please.

Nearly the entire Courier force took in the Detroit Exposition yesterday.

A great bargain—The Ann Arbor Courier and the N. Y. Tribune both for $1.

The excursion on the M. C. R. R. to Cleveland has been postponed till later in the season.

In Ypsilanti they are allowed to use the lawn hose from 6 to 9 a. m., and 5 to 8 p. m.

Either running or stagnant water in the open gutters of our streets suggests sewers, does it not?

The monster coal trust has elevated the price again, and now our dealers are selling at $7 per ton.

Union services at the Baptist church next Sunday evening. Rev. Chas. Young is expected to officiate.

Morning services will be resumed at the Unitarian church next Sunday. Evening service will begin Oct. 1st.

There were upwards of eighty young gentlemen and ladies who took the special examination of teachers at the court house last Friday.

Rev. Ross Parish, of Midland, delivered a very excellent sermon to a large audience at the union service at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. Subject, "Reciprocity."

People in any way interested in schools can not help but read the report of Supt. Perry, to be found on the 4th page, with pleasure. It is the history of a prosperous year for one of the most prosperous schools in the country.

At the last meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew Messrs Ernest J. Dennen and S. W. Beakes were elected delegates to the national convention of the Brotherhood to be held at Boston, Mass., commencing Sept. 28th and continuing to Oct. 2d.

The third celebration of German Day will take place at Ypsilanti, on Thursday, Sept. 8th. The railroads will issue tickets good to return next day for half-price. The motor line will issue round trip tickets for 20 cents on that day. There will be a display of fireworks in the evening.

Chicken thieves are doing "good" work in this locality. Henry Osborn had 50 of them taken in one night, and James C. Allen also lost a number. It is thought the chickens find their way to this city. We understand that farmers are watching their coops and some one may get a charge of rock salt in sufficient quantity to preserve them for some time.

Politics in our burg is waxing warm these days. As the home of a congressional candidate, and of a possible county candidate, Scio's campaign timber is bound to be recognized. A number of trades union leaders headed by a prominent professional man contemplate organizing a "wind-jamming" fraternal order to advance Scio's political interests, and for the edification of the lesser lights during the coming campaign.—Cor. Dexter News.

Since the Delhi Mills changed hands everything here begins to wear a lively aspect and prosperity once again smiles upon us. The mills started last Saturday and are running full blast. They give employment in all, to eleven men, and it is possible the force will be further increased. The ground has been surveyed and there is every prospect that a side track will be laid to the mill this fall. "What's the matter with Delhi?"—Cor. Dexter News.

Very pat words from the Ypsilantian: "It is now time for the democrat press to exploit the grand achievements of the 52d congress. Mr. Gorman, it is said, came home from Washington with a brilliant halo about his head as big as a bushel basket, the light of which is so intense that the roosters of Lyndon crow all night under the mistaken impression, whenever they open their eyes, that the morning breaketh. Now let the Argus buckle down to business."

At the prohibition congressional convention for this district, held at the court house last Friday, R. C. Safford, of Plymouth, Wayne co., was put in nomination for congress; Prof. J. B. Steere, of this city, was nominated for elector and Wm. G. Block, of Monroe, as alternate. There were three or four candidates for the position and the convention at one time took on all the symptoms of a regular democratic gathering. However the storm blew over, after a time, and the white-winged Goddes of Peace and Prohibition hovered over the assembly, and its wings were ample to cover the entire board.

For the benefit of veterans and medical examiners who may wish to attend the National encampment of G. A. R. at Washington, D. C., the commissioner of pensions has issued a general order, giving to examining surgeons, leave of absence during the week of the encampment, with request that public notice be given of acceptance of the privilege. The members of the Ann Arbor county would like to ask city and county papers to notify claimants that in accordance with the terms of the order, there will be no meeting of the board Sept. 21st.

Golden Rule Lodge F. & A. M. will open the fall campaign to-morrow evening.

Michael Stabler will use the coal yards on the M. C. R. R. grounds vacated by E. B. Hall.

A new series of postage stamps, illustrating the discovery of Columbus will be on sale about New Years.

If you want to know the history of Hon. John T. Rich, read the story of his life on the 2d page of this paper.

It would take a column of solid nonpareil to give the names of all those who went to Detroit yesterday.

Hon. John T. Rich will be in the city on the last day of the fair and address the citizens of this county, regardless of politics.

Lewis Dwight of this place, came near becoming an angel at Decatur, the other day, by the tipping over of a boat he was rowing in.

Henry Paul, of Northfield, had 2,900 bushels of wheat, of which 702 bushels were threshed in one day, together with 688 bushels of oats.

A lady in the 6th ward has in her possession a wheelbarrow that the owner can have by proving property. He will not be asked to pay for this notice.

The county fair authorities have engaged Carver's Wild West Show for the last day of the fair. This will be an immense attraction, and draw a big crowd.

The Miller addition on Packard st. is being graded, streets lined out and everything put in condition for building. Several new residences will be commenced this fall.

On Thursday, the third day of the county fair Judge Morse, the democratic candidate for governor, will be at the fair and speak to the people about agricultural matters, of course.

Rev. A. B. Storms, of the Woodward ave. church, Detroit, will fill the pulpit of the M. E. church next Sunday a. m. He was a former student here and as such very favorably remembered.

There were 1,172 tickets sold from this station to Detroit yesterday over the M. C. R. R. Including children this made over 1,200 people. Quite a good sized village full. All returned good-natured but somewhat weary.

Do not forget that every agricultural paper you take pays you five times its cost in the suggestions it is continually making. Do not miss a single number. Mix brains, common sense and muscle in about equal parts and success is certain.—G. J. Kellogg.

As was hinted some time since, there was much dissatisfaction with the result of the recent democratic caucus in Chelsea that it has been decided to call another one, and it will be held to-morrow, Thursday night. There will be a season for well—not prayer.

Col. Winslow's horse became scared at the street cars last Saturday and made a lively scurry down E. William st., for a block or two, bringing up at O. Eberbach's residence. There was not enough left of the phaeton to make a basket full of kindling wood when the horse stopped.

Rev. Robert A. Holland, Jr., has decided to accept the rectorship of St. Luke's parish, Boston, and will leave therefor next Monday. Mr. Holland has been assistant rector of St. Andrew's parish for the past year, and in that position has won for himself the high esteem of the members of the parish as well as of the people of Ann Arbor in general.

A shooting affray occurred on Huron st. last Saturday evening, Jacob Anspaugh being the man shot and George Grenville holding the "arm" that did the shooting. The shot took effect in Anspaugh's arm. Grenville claims the shooting was accidental. He was brought before Justice Pond Monday and placed under $500 bonds to await the examination next Tuesday.

On Wednesday evening next, at the solicitation of a number of Ann Arbor ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Clinton Elder, late solo tenor of St. Thomas church, New York, and leading tenor of the Agnes Huntington Opera Company, will give an invitation recital at the Unitarian church, commencing at 8 o'clock. This will be a rare treat for the lovers of good music.

Information has been received here of the marriage, last week, at the seaside, of Edwin F. Gay, formerly of this city, and Miss Louise Randolph, of Toledo, Ohio. The bride was a former student in the university and very popular socially. The couple at once sailed for Europe accompanied by the bride's younger sister Miss Mabelle Randolph, and a younger brother also.

There were between three and four thousand people present at the Farmers' picnic at Whitmore Lake last Saturday, and the exercises went off very pleasantly for all concerned. Ex-Gov. Lucas delivered the address, and gave a talk that every one who heard it was pleased with. The occasion adds another link to the many that the farmers and others of that vicinity look back upon with pleasure.

The Scotsman, published in Edinburgh, under the date of Aug 11th, gives an extended account of the meeting of the British Association for the advancement of Science, in session at Edinburgh. In a speech made by Lord Klevin "Prof. Carhart, of Boston," received very complimentary notice. Lord Klevin should study up a little and learn that Prof. Carhart is from an institution far greater and more famous than any of which cultured Boston can boast.

How it Strikes a Mariner.

EDITOR COURIER--It strikes an average Mariner that the Times and Register Editors in their discussion of the water supply question have sort of lost their bearings, and are out of the channel, as it were, though curiously they seem to be in the same boat.

They appear chiefly concerned only to have enough water in "their'n," to float their own bark, and to get their supply, whether there should be enough for household uses or not. A few general propositions may serve as light houses in their befogged condition.

First, The Water Company never asked, or obtained of the City the right to furnish water for navigation. (See navigable gutters in various parts of the city.)

Second, Nor could it have secured the exclusive franchise for the use of our streets, to furnish water for motors only. Machinery is not dependent on water alone as a motive power though if preferred, any kind of water is good enough to run a motor. But to most people there is no substitute for good pure water for domestic purpose.

Third, The contract of the Water Company with city is to furnish wholesome water to consumers, and water pressure for fire purpose and important as the latter is the necessity for pure water for family use is still greater.

Fourth, The furnishing plenty of wholesome water, for domestic use and protection against fire, are proper functions for a city government. It will scarcely be claimed, that it is the business of the city to furnish motive power to run machinery for private enterprises no matter how worthy they are.

Fifth, The right of the household consumer of water should be first, and of the City for fire protection next. Both pay enough to secure good quality and plenty in quantity.

Sixth, If the Company can supply more, there is no objection to the surplus being used for motors. Or if the demand for water for motive power is sufficient the Company could put in a separate pipe direct from the river. Or, what might be preferable, use the present works entirely for fire and commercial purposes, and let another Company or the city secure a supply of water for domestic uses from Dr. Steere's flowing wells, or in that vicinity.

MARINER.

Prohibition County Convention.

On Friday last, after the storm of the prohibition congressional convention had subsided, a county convention was called to order and the business of nominating a county ticket was freely indulged in by the county delegates present. The result was as follows:

- Judge of Probate--N. W. Cheever, Ann Arbor. County Clerk--C. C. Warner, Lodi. Sheriff--Joseph D. Salen. Register--Joseph--Romyn P. Chase, Sylvan. Prosecuting Attorney--Circuit Court Commissioners--Corners--Joseph Falk, Ypsilanti; Charles Smart, Augusta. Representative 1st Dist.--John R. Bowditch, Ann Arbor. Representative 2d Dist.--Benj. F. Bailey, Ypsilanti.

Vacancies to be filled by the county committee.

The following county committee was then appointed: Ann Arbor--Prof. J. B. Steere, Chairman. " " --O. R. L. Crozier, Secretary. " " --E. B. Lewis, Treasurer. " " --B. J. Conrad. Ann Arbor town--W. F. A Perfect Success. VII. The Rev. A. Antoine, of Refugio, Tex., writes: As far as I am able to judge, I think Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic is a perfect success, for any one who suffered from a most painful nervousness as I did, feel now like myself again after taking the Tonic.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL, Toledo, O., June 9, 1890. We used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for epilepsy in the case of Mrs. Gorman, and it stopped the fits from the time she commenced taking it. We wish you an extensive sale for this beneficent remedy.

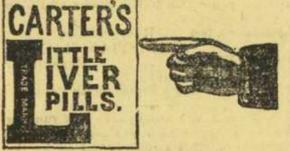

SISTER BRADY, Secretary. GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 8, 1890. I used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic in Mrs. Sullivan's case, and it gave entire satisfaction, and she has no end of praise for it, and never forgets to recommend it to the sick and suffering. I have heard others say they used it with the same good results. THOS. KEATING.

Defeat of Mrs. Lofty.

"I know just exactly the kind of a girl I want and the kind I'm going to have," said Mrs. Lofty with marked decision to Mr. Lofty at the breakfast table on the morning after Miss Judy Mulcahey had packed her two trunks, her three valises and two hand-boxes and departed from a house in which "no decent, self-respecting" girrl would sitay an' put up wid the looks av Mistress Lofty."

"The trouble with me has been," went on Mrs. Lofty, "that I've been too easy and yielding, and have made it too pleasant for our servant girls, and they've taken liberties on that account. Now I'm going to turn over a new leaf and be severe and unyielding. I'm just going to lay down the law to the next girl I engage."

Behold, then, Mrs. Lofty "laying down the law," to Miss Rosy O'Hoolihan, who has graciously consented to "shipake wid" Mrs. Lofty after that lady has spent "four solid days" going from one to the other of fifteen "employment agencies."

"I am looking for a girl," began Mrs. Lofty, "and I—" "How many in the family, ma'am?" "Four, and I want—" "Do ye kape but one girrl?" "I keep two, and hire the washing and ironing done out. I want—" "Do the two girrls slape together?"

"No, I—" "Divil a step would Oi go aff they did. Have Oi me Sundays and Thoorsdays out?" "Well—I—I was going to say that—" "Have Oi me Sundays and Thoorsdays out?"

"Well—er—yes. I think I could arrange it so that—" "Oi have 'em ma'am, or Oi don't care. Ye don't mind, a girrl having decent company to see her, ma'am?" "Well—no, I—I—guess not."

"An' ye'd not expect a girrl to entertain her frinds in the kitchen?" "I—I—that is—" "Divil a fut would Oi put in a house where Oi would be put upon loike that. Is there gas in me room, ma'am?"

"Yes; I was going to say that—" "An' does a girrl have the same to ate that the family has?" "Well, some girls don't care to have the same."

"Oi'm not loike some girrls, then; Oi kin say that to ye now, ma'am. Have ye this nasybit straw matting or a decent kyarpet in me room?" "There's matting on the floor now."

"It'd come up if I want to ye, ma'am. It makes me cr—r—a—pe to put me fut on straw matting. Are ye in the kitchen much, ma'am?" "Some; I think that—" "Begorry, the kitchen's no place for the lady av the house, ma'am!"

At six o'clock that night when Mr. Lofty came home to dinner and asked, "Well, any cook yet?" Mrs. Lofty replied wearily and meekly: "Yes; I've found one at last."

"That's good! Irish?" "I should say so! Her name is Rosy O'Hoolihan."

That One Oasis. There is a very high standard of chivalry after all existent in the citizens of the United States, though it is generally so well hidden beneath the appearance of hard practicality that careless observers are prone to overlook it and give its possessors no credit for it. At the democratic convention recently held in Chicago for the purpose of determining on the party's candidate for the coming presidential election, a good example of this feeling was given. While party feeling was excited to its highest pitch word was brought into the convention that one of their greatest political enemies, one of their leading and most powerful of the hostile camp, James G. Blaine, had been sorely stricken. Party spirit was at once extinguished for the time, and the whole vast assemblage united in one heartfelt expression of sympathy and condolence with their opponent who had lost his son—Cork (Ireland) Chronicle.

He Pants for Fame. A boy in the Wichita schools has been suspended for reading the following essay on "Pants": "Pants are made for men and not men for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, they are a pair of pants. Such pants don't last. Pants are like molasses; they are thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold. The man in the moon changes his pants during the eclipse. Don't you go to the pantry for pants; you might be mistaken. Men are often mistaken in pants. Such mistakes are breeches of promise. There has been much discussion as to whether pants is singular or plural. Seems to us when men wear pants they are plural, and when they don't wear any pants it is singular. Men go on a tear in their pants, and it is all right, but when the pants go on a tear it is all wrong.—Guthrie State Capital.

A Friend—Some Excellent Definitions.

This is the prize definition: "The first person who comes in when the whole world has gone out." The following are some of the best definitions submitted: A bank of credit on which we can draw supplies of confidence, counsel, sympathy, help and love.

One who considers my need before my deservings. The Triple Alliance of the three great powers, Love Sympathy and Help. One who understands our silence.

A jewel, whose luster the strong acids of poverty and misfortune cannot dim. One who smiles at our fortunes, frowns at our faults, sympathizes with our sorrows, weeps at our bereavements and is a safe fortress at all times of trouble.

One who, having gained the top of the ladder, won't forget you if you remain at the bottom. One who in prosperity does not toady you, in adversity assists you, in sickness nurses you and after your death marries your widow and provides for your children.

The holy of life, whose qualities are overshadowed in the summer of prosperity, but blossoms forth in the winter of adversity. He who does not adhere to the saying that No. 1 should come first.

A watch which beats true for all time and never "runs down." An insurance agency against misanthropy. An earthly minister of heavenly happiness.

A friend is like ivy—the greater the ruin, the closer he clings. One who to himself is true, and therefore must be so to you. The same to-day, the same to-morrow, either in prosperity adversity or sorrow.

One who combines for you alike the pleasures and benefits of society and solitude. One who acts as a balance in the see-saw of life. One who guards another's interests as sacredly as his own and neither flatters nor deceives.

A nineteenth century rarity. One who will tell you of your faults and follies in prosperity and assist you with his hand and heart in adversity. One who more than I am to myself.—Ludon Tit Bits.

Beware of Swindlers. We have exposed, during the last year, many swindlers who advertise, under the name of medicine, vile compounds which only increase human suffering. To all who need a pure medicine and blood purifier, we can honestly recommend Sulphur Bitters.—Editor Sun.

Atchinson Globules. Nobody is so much alive as the dead beat. Any sin is disgusting when you hear of another man committing it. Some men are like molasses—it is hard to get them away from the jug. The men admire the "good fellow" srot of gels, but they seldom marry them.

It is the ambition of nearly every boy to become big enough to whip his father. After a man has been married about two days his appetite begins to come back. A poor man may be just as good as his rich neighbor, but he has a harder time proving it.

To be a social success, you must pretend you are having a good time whether you are or not. This would be a pleasant world in some respects if women had as much confidence in their husband's word as they have in the word of a peddler.

If a man provided nothing but dry bread and water for his wife to eat, she would make a great roar, but she will go to a fashionable sanitarium and pay $15 a week to live on such a diet and boast of it.

The Field of Gettysburg is to the old soldier and the student the most interesting of all the earth's battle grounds. Those who go to Washington to attend the encampment of the G. A. R. in September, will have the best opportunity of visiting Gettysburg by taking the line of the Michigan Central and the Northern Central, which includes a side trip to Gettysburg either going or returning. For those who wish to return by way of Philadelphia, allowing "stop-over" at Baltimore, Philadelphia and Harrisburg. The stop at Philadelphia will permit of a side trip to New York and return at the low rate of $4.00.

During the summer season the Michigan Central gives the privilege of stopping over at Niagara Falls at any time within the life of the ticket returning, upon depositing it with the ticket agent there, affording a valuable opportunity to see the beauties of the great cataract and vicinity at leisure. Tickets are also sold to Washington via Toledo and the lines south and east therefrom.

The Michigan Central is the shortest route, the best route, and offers inducements that no other line can give. Special trains will leave Ann Arbor about 6:45 p. m., Sept. 17th, to arrive at Washington the next day at 7:00 p. m. For reservation of sleeping car berths or any additional information apply to H. W. HAYES, Agent, Ann Arbor.

It is not so much what one does as it is the manner of doing counts. The man who is always afraid of being bossed is generally the one who needs it most.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Where Man Should Die. How little reck it where men die, when once the moment's past In which the dim and glazing eye has looked on earth its last— Whether beneath the sculptured urn the coffin form shall rest, Or in its nakedness return back to its mother's breast!

Death is a common friend or foe, as different men may hold, And at its summons each must go—the timid and the bold; But when the spirit, free and warm, deserts it, as it must, What matters where the lifeless form dissolves again to dust?

'Twere sweet indeed to close our eyes with those we cherish near, And wed upward by their sighs soar to some calmer sphere; But whether on the scaffold high or in the battle's van, The fittest place where man can die is where he dies for man!

Inconstant. Inconstant! O my God! Inconstant! When a single thought of thee Sends all my shivering blood Back on my heart in thrills of ecstasy!

Inconstant! When to feel That thou hast loved me, wilt love to the just, Were joy enough to steal All fear from life—the future and the past!

Inconstant! When to sleep And to dream that thou art near me is to learn, So much of heaven, I weep Because the earth and morning must return.

Inconstant! Ah, too true! Turned from the rightful shelter of thy breast; My tired heart flutters through The changeful world—a bird without a nest.

Inconstant to the crowd Through which I pass, as to the skies above The fickle summer cloud, But not to thee; oh, not to thee, dear love. I may be false to all On earth besides, and every tender tie Which seems to hold in thrall This weary life of mine may be a lie.

But true as God's own truth My steadfast heart turns backward ever more To that sweet time of youth Whose golden tide beats such a barren shore.

Inconstant! Not my own The hand which builds this wall between our lives; On its cold shadow, grown To perfect shape, the flower of love survives. God knows that I would give All other joys, the sweetest and the best, For one short hour to live Close to thy heart, its comfort and its rest.

But life is not all dark. The sunlight gilds many a hidden slope. The dove shall find its ark Of peaceful refuge and of patient hope. And should another's head Sleep on thy breast, and it should ever seem To be my own instead, Oh, darling! hold it closer for the dream.

God will forgive the sin. If sin it is; our lives are swept so dry, So cold, so passion clean, Thank him death comes at last—and so—goodby!

Self Conquered. Go, if thou wilt, beloved, far from me— What way soever pleasure beckons thee, But make this heart thy refuge still, alway, The key is thine—none other's. Stray or stay, When thou art wearied in that chamber rest, When thou art grieved, and deemest quiet best, When thou art glad or sad, My tenderness Shall shield thy mood of silence. None shall guess Thy presence there. Alas! what breaks my voice? Three times I tried to say, "Bring in thy choice Of one alone whose presence is most sweet, And I that friend with gracious word will greet."

Forgive, love, that I faltered. "Yes," I cry, "Bring in that friend thou lovest—though I die." —Kate Vannah.

Changes. Whom first we love, you know, we seldom wed. Time riles us all; and life, indeed, is not The thing we planned it out ere hope was dead; And then we women cannot choose our lot. Much must be borne which it is hard to bear; Much given away, which it is sweet to keep. God help us all who need, indeed, his care. And yet, I know, the Shepherd loves his sheep.

My little boy begins to babble now, Upon my knee his earliest infant prayer. He has his father's eager eyes, I know, And, they say, too, his mother's sunny hair. But when he sleeps and smiles upon my knee, And I can feel his light breath come and go, I think of one (Heaven help and pity me) Who loved me, and whom I loved, long ago.

Who might have been—ah, what I dare not think! We are all changed. God judges for us best. God help us do our duty, and not shrink, And trust in Heaven humbly for the rest. But blame us women not, if some appear Too cold at times and some too gay and light. Some griefs gnaw deep. Some woes are hard to bear. Who knows the Past? and who can judge us right? Ah, were we judged by what we might have been, And not by what we are, too apt to fall! My little child—he sleeps and smiles between These thoughts and me. In Heaven we shall know all! —Owen Meredith.

Across the Bay. I gaze across the rippling, shining bay, And watch the distant boats with eager eye, I wonder why the sails so far away Are whiter than the sails I see near by. Far out, the water glimmers in the sun, With dazzling beauty, as the daylight dies; The water near the shore is dull and dark, So full of shadows and of sad, drowned eyes. This is life's story from the first to last. 'Tis far off things for which we ever pray. The beauty that lies 'round us we see not, But gaze with loving eyes across the bay. —Florence A. Jones.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Fate. Two shall be born the whole wide world apart, And speak in different tongues, and have no thought; Each of the other's being and no heed. And these o'er unknown seas to unknown Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death, And, all unconsciously, shape every act And bend each wandering step to this one end— That one day out of darkness they shall meet And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life, So nearly side by side that should one turn Ever so little space to left or right They need no little stand acknowledged, face to face; And yet, with wistful eyes that never meet, With groping hands that never clasp, and lips Calling in vain to ears that never hear, They see each other all their weary days And die unsatisfied; and this is Fate.

The Old Fashioned Way. You kin talk about yore anthems, An yore arias an sich, An yore modern choir singin' That you think so awful rich; But you order heard us youngsters, In the times now far away, A-singin' o' the ol' tunes In the ol' fashioned way.

There was some of us sung treble, An a few of us sung bass, An the tide o' song flowed smoothly, With its 'compliments o' grace. There was spirit in the music An a kinder solemn sway, In singin' o' the ol' tunes In the ol' fashioned way.

The gals would lead the singin', An the boys would all join in, Till the volume o' their voices With its 'compliments o' sin; An I ust to tell the preacher, 'Twas as good to sing as pray, When the people sang the ol' tunes In the ol' fashioned way.

I remember oft o' standin' In my homespun pantaloon— On my face, the bronze and freckles Of the sun's youthful June— Thinkin' that no airily singer Ever chanted sich a lay As the ol' tunes we was singin' In the ol' fashioned way.

How I long again to hear 'em Flowin' forth from soul to soul With the treble high an meller, An the bass' mighty roller, But the times is very different, An the music heard today Ain't the singin' o' the ol' tunes In the ol' fashioned way.

Little screechin' by a woman, Little rumblin' by a man; Then the organ's tweedle, twaddle, Jest the empty space to span; I shall hear the angel chorus 'Tisn't proper fur to say That you want to hear the ol' tunes In the ol' fashioned way. —Paul Laurence Dunbar.

The Lonesome Husband. Since she went home— The evening shadows linger longer here, The winter days fill so much of the year, And even summer winds are chill and drear, Since she went home.

Since she went home— The robin's note has touched a minor strain, The old glad songs breathe but a sad refrain, And laughter sobs with hidden, bitter pain, Since she went home.

Since she went home— How still the empty rooms her presence blessed! Untouched the pillow that her dear head pressed, My lonely heart hath nowhere for its rest Since she went home.

Since she went home— The long, long days have crept away like years, The sunlight has been dimmed with doubt and fears, And the dark nights have rained in lonely tears, Since she went home. —Robert J. Burdette.

Two Sinners. There was a man, it was said one time, Who had a wife, and a fair girl beside; And lo! he uncheked is a dangerous guide To wander at will by a fair girl's side.

The woman repented and turned from sin, But no door opened to let her in; The preacher prayed that she might be forgiven, But told her to look for mercy in heaven; For this is the law of earth, we know, That the woman is scorned, while the man may go.

A brave man wedded her, after all, But the world said, frowning, "We shall not call." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

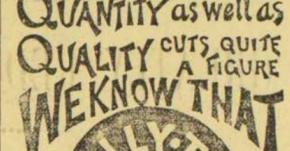

Take It In. If you'd make life worth the living In this fuya here below, Take the fun in with the labor— Take enjoyment as you go. If you'd live the noblest, truest, Keeping cheerful, brave and strong, Do not slave for future pleasures; Take them as you go along.

Do not lay up all your treasures, After years of life to bless; Meet the fullness of success, Do not wait until your efforts Rest will nerve the arm to labor; Labor, too, brings sweetest rest. Work with steady, earnest effort, In the pushing, crowding throng; But do not forget the pleasures; Take them as you go along. —Smiley's Enterprise.

Age. And the mossy mantles rest On the lips that has prest In their bloom, And the names he loved to hear Have been carved for many a year On the tomb. —Holmes.

BAD SKIN ERUPTION

Many Years. All Manner of Medicines and Doctors Fail. Cured in One Month by Cuticura.

In 1885 I had an eruption come out on my skin, and while at first it did not amount to much, it grew to be very aggravating and at times unbearable. The skin would get hard, inflamed, and peel off, leaving an entire new skin, acting same way for weeks at a time, always worse at nights. I have tried all manner of medicines and had doctors prescribe to no effect. I bought a box of CUTICURA Remedies and used CUTICURA RESOLVENT for my blood. I am fully cured, and in less than a month it was a most aggravating skin disease, and now I am enjoying ease and comfort. I have had untold benefits. Anyone trying CUTICURA REMEDIES cannot help but derive benefit. Anyone writing me will receive an answer and my advice to give your REMEDIES a trial. A. B. PATTON, Manager Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., Garden City, Kansas.

Doctor Uses Cuticura

We have opened a drug store at this place and are having a splendid sale on CUTICURA REMEDIES, which we keep a full stock of. I would not be without your CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP for $5.00, just for the benefit it did my little boy. When he was six months old, his face was covered with eczema and he was very rough. We had tried your medicine for five years, and never heard a complaint against them, but abundant praise. We sold our drug store in Kansas, and will continue in the drug business here. C. TEAGAR, M. D., Haller City, Seaboard Co., Washington.

Literary Notes.

It may not be known to everyone that Mrs. Benjamin Harrison is one of the best of American flower-painters. Since she has occupied her position of lady of the White House, however, her public duties have largely prevented the exercise of her artistic genius; but in that period she has found leisure to paint one of the loveliest representations of flower-life that ever came from an artists brush—a magnificent group of orchids on a porcelain panel. With that broad and kindly spirit which has marked her career, she has presented this single production of her scant leisure to the public, and Demorest's Magazine has the honor of being the medium through which this painting is offered to the mothers, wives, and daughters of America, to whom it is lovingly dedicated.

There is no taint of politics in it; it is simply the tribute of a good woman's love for the women of her nation, superbly expressed in color and form—the foremost woman of the republic cementing, by means of her art, her sisterhood with all others of her sex in the land. Mrs. Harrison's painting has been reproduced in the highest style of art, of the same size as the original (11 1-2x15 inches), and is an absolutely perfect counterpart, in every particular, to the faintest tint of color, and even to the peculiar texture of the porcelain. With each copy of Demorest's Magazine for October one of these wonderful reproductions of "A White House Orchid," painted by the president's wife, in the White House, from an orchid grown in the White House, is to be presented free.

The Magazine of Art for September has for its frontispiece an etching by Charles Country of Zamacois's "The King's Confessor"—variously known as "The Good Pastor" and "Rival Confessors"—one of the best-known paintings of one of the eminent Spanish painters of the latter half of the century. The opening article of the number is devoted to Onslow Ford, the English Sculptor, and is by Marion Hepworth Dixon. "Charles Keene: His Life and Work," has for its foundation Mr. George Somers' life of Keene published here by Macmillan & Co. Apropos of the Shelly centenary Mr. Theodore Watts contributes a poem which is illustrated with a page drawing by C. Ricketts. The new Grafton Gallery, which is to succeed the Grosvenor in purpose, and popularity perhaps, is carefully described by M. Phipps Jackson. There is an article on the subject of "Artistic Homes," and there are copious notes that bring the number to a close. Cassell Publishing Company; $3.50 a year in advance.

The Quiver for September lies before us and reminds us that the melancholy days are coming though not quite here. The opening article tells us of "Those Other Mothers" who devote their lives to the care of children not their own. "Jonah" is the subject of the fifth of the sketches of "Spiritual Failures." Then we come to an interesting account of "Bath and its Memories," by Herbert Russell, illustrated with characteristic sketches of that quaint old town. One would scarcely think that there was variety enough in Alms-Boxes to make an interesting article on the subject, but there is, and the illustrations that accompany the article are proof of the statement.

Prof. J. J. McCook, of Wesleyan University, has made a thorough study of the causes and the extent among people of the several nationalities, of the venal voters in Connecticut; and the proportion of purchasable citizens is alarming. He will publish his investigation of the subject in the September Forum. The proper organization and management of campaign committees are discussed in the September Forum, by the Hon. M. D. Harter, of Ohio, and Mr. Herbert Welsh, of Philadelphia, who both advocate the utmost publicity—even the publication of expenditures.

The financial report given above shows in some detail the receipts and expenditures during the past year. The Board congratulates themselves and the taxpayers of the district on the favorable exhibit they are enabled to make. The Board believes in a policy of strict economy, but not in a way to the detriment of the schools; and so every real need of the schools has been promptly supplied. Besides the necessary repairs during the year, considerable painting has been done on the High Schools and 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th ward buildings. Also four school rooms have been re-seated—two of them with new single desks, the other two with single desks made from double desks which had been in service more than thirty years. The sewerage of the High School building is now in excellent condition, but the building itself, especially the old part, needs to be thoroughly overhauled for better ventilation. The Board have an elaborate plan made by an expert for such a work upon the building, and only need the funds for carrying it out.

With respect to the teaching of German in the second ward school, the Board are able to say that the instruction has been given in a manner very satisfactory to all parties interested. And in order to extend the experiment and continue it under more varied conditions, it has been decided that German shall be taught the coming year in the first four grades also of the third ward school, and that Miss Gundert be placed in charge of the work in both schools.

For more than a year we have been aware that the first and second ward schools would soon need more room for pupils. A new addition to first ward building was discussed, but as there was an unused room in the fourth ward building, considerations of economy prevailed and it was decided that for the coming year a teacher be employed for the room now vacant, and the ward district boundaries be changed enough to fill it from the schools in first and second wards. Early in the year upon the recommendation of the Superintendent a "truant officer" was employed and duly sworn in as policeman, to look after school truant and unmanageable pupils. His work seems to have been much appreciated by a number of patrons of the schools. The teachers speak favorably of it—and the street corners, the post office, and other gathering places for truant and vagabond boys, have not been so free of loafers in many years. As the expense of the work is slight it would seem advisable to appoint such an officer for the coming year.

This may suggest that the schools are often helpful to the young in other ways than giving them a book education. We ought to expect that the schools shall be a source of moral influences which may find their way into many homes and may produce good effects throughout the community.

Our High School, the crown of the city schools and the pride of the city, was apparently never in better standing both at home and abroad. Its last graduating class of more than 90 indicates in one way the grand work it is doing. For interesting items of school management and points of progress in the field of education, we refer our patrons to the report of the Superintendent now published. For schedule of itemized expenditures and business details we refer you to the books and files of the Secretary.

Respectfully,
CHRISTIAN MACK,
WM. W. WHEEDON,
Secretary.

DIED.

On Friday, the 26th inst., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis, in Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Lucy Ball, widow of James Ball, Jr., formerly of the township of Webster, in this county.

Mrs. Ball was born January 12, 1803, and hence was in her ninetieth year. She came to this State with her husband and young children in 1836, and settled in the township of Webster, then almost a wilderness, where she lived until some time after the death of her husband, in 1852. With the vigor and fortitude characteristic of the mothers of olden times, she battled with the hardships attending life in a new country in those days, with her own hands doing all the work of her household, and the rearing of her children, even to spinning and weaving much of the cloth worn by her family. No labor was too great nor hardships and dangers too severe for her to undergo, that she might do her utmost for the comfort and well-being of her family and the nurture and education of her children. Amidst all her home cares, she found much time also to minister to the needy and sick of the neighborhood, and there may yet be some who will recall the comfort she at times brought to those suffering with the malarial diseases so prevalent in those early days. She was always an active worker, together with her husband, in whatever tended to the social and religious advancement of those among whom she lived, and particularly the young. Not only her own children, but many others have arisen to call her blessed.

In 1864 she went to Marquette, where she made her home with her son, D. H. Ball, for several years. In 1871 she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Lewis, then lately married and settled in Atlanta, Ga., where she spent the remainder of her life, enjoying, in the filial devotions of her daughter and her children, and in tokens of affection from her sons, the fruits of her early struggles.

She leaves two sons, D. H. Ball, living at Marquette, Lucius Ball, at Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Mrs. Lewis (formerly Phebe Ball), at Atlanta, Ga.

"A MERE SOP TO ANARCHY."

Michigan Democratic Platform Seathed by The Sun.

Editor Dana, of the N. Y. Sun, fires hot shot at Michigan democracy. Editorially the Sun says:

"The platform adopted by the democrat convention of Michigan last Wednesday is about as cheap and nasty a sample of demagogism as we have seen lately. Three-fourths of it is a cringe and a crawl before organized labor. At a time when the militia at Homestead and at Buffalo is the sole barrier against anarchy, the Michigan democrats think themselves called upon to assert that:

"The civil authorities of the state are constitutional conservators of the peace, and the military should only be called into requisition in cases of great emergency, and then only as aids and subordinates to the civil authorities."

"This is nothing more nor less than a sop to anarchy. If the Michigan democrats had availed in so many words that they didn't approve the use of the militia to put down the violence committed by strikers they would have expressed themselves not a whit more plainly. While actual or virtual war is going on in three states, the platform of the Michigan democrats is a distinct encouragement to the forces of disorder.

"Not a word of censure for the murderers of Pinkerton men, the rioters of Coeur d'Alene and Buffalo, the thugs and incendiaries who are doing their best to make the labor unions an abomination and a curse; not one strong and manly word in defense of the right of freedom of contract and labor. Not one word in denunciation of the brutal and vulgar despots, the masters and grandmasters, who are leading organized labor to its ruin.

"If the Michigan democrats mean a compulsory arbitration they mean a doctrine and remedy as far removed as possible from democrat principle and as impossible as squaring the circle. If they mean voluntary arbitration they mean nothing. They might just as well say that the multiplication table is a remedy for labor troubles.

"Next, the Michigan democrats give a couple of resolutions protesting against the employment of convict labor in penal and reformatory institutions. Of course they have nothing to say about or against the force bill. Men who witness immoral attempts at the subversion of social order in the north with indifference are not likely to be much concerned about subversion of social order in the south. Besides the labor unions are not interested in the force bill. They are too much engaged in applying the doctrine of force for their own benefit. Plain talk is best. When labor anarchists are raging to the top of their bent no party can afford to pat them on the back or haggle with them for their votes. We are sorry to see Michigan democrats doing so. It is a mistake. In the present condition of things it is more than a mistake. The democrat party outside of Michigan has no stomach for dickering with the labor tyrants. For that matter, we don't believe that a majority of the Michigan democrats have. They have been made the victims of a resolution committee composed of imbeciles and sneaks."

McKINLEY FREE TRADE.

Springfield (Mass.) Union: Perhaps this caption looks like a paradox, but a little examination of the results of the McKinley tariff will show that the country is really enjoying a larger degree of free trade with the outside world than ever before in its history. During the twelve months ending March 31, 1891, including six months of old tariff and six months of the new, before the sugar repeal and the reciprocity provisions went into effect, our imports of merchandise, free of duty, amounted to $309,260,699, or 37.01 per cent. of the total imports. During the twelve months ending March 31, 1892, the imports, free of duty, amounted to $461,473,523 or 55.13 per cent. of the total. Thus, while before the revision of the tariff a little more than one-third of our imports were free, under the McKinley tariff more than one-half are free. And yet we continue to hear that the people are being robbed by the McKinley tariff. Back number orators and last year newspapers keep up the old fiction in the hope that the people can be further deceived. But the facts are too plain to be blinked out of sight. While the McKinley tariff raised the duties on some articles, for the protection of people who are producing those articles in this country, it reduced or abolished the duties on articles which do not compete with home products. It is hard for some people to get this point into their heads, but that is the plain and simple fact about protection. The awful Chinese wall of protection which the democrats declare was to be built around this country to shut out foreign trade, has resulted in a freer trade than we ever enjoyed before.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklin's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and we have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Eberbach & Son, and Geo. J. Haussler, Manchester.

McKINLEY PRICES.

The senate committee, appointed soon after the passage of the McKinley measure to investigate its effect of prices and wages, have recently reported with the following results:

During the 28 months from June 1, 1889, to September 1, 1891 (the act took effect Oct. 6, 1890), average retail prices of 241 articles of common consumption among the people declined 64 per cent.; wholesale prices of the same article declined 33 per cent.; prices of agricultural products advanced 18.67 per cent.; and wages advanced .75 per cent.

This is the result obtained and unanimously accepted by Senators Aldrich, Allison, Hiscock and Jones, for the republicans, Senators Harris and Carlisle for the democrats. The details of the investigation were conducted by Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of the department of labor at Washington, D. C.; General Francis A. Walker, Professor Henry C. Adams, Edward Atkinson, Professor Edmund J. James and William Grosvenor. Of these assistants the first is independent on the tariff question, the next three are pronounced free traders, and the last two are protectionists. All are men of unquestionable probity and of a world-wide reputation as economists and statisticians. With their seal upon the latest condemnation of the McKinley prices and wages liar, he ought not to show his head again in this generation.—Saginaw Courier-Herald.

Bicycle Races at the State Fair.

In three weeks the city will be crowded with all sorts of people, visitors to the forty-fourth annual Michigan state fair. This promises, from all appearances, to be the best and largest ever held in the history of the association. To-day the secretary is busy sending the advertising posters all over the state. These posters are very attractive, being printed in nine different styles and are sure to draw attention.

A feature that will doubtless be very prominent is the bicycle tournament, for which the programme has been arranged. Such was the success of this venture last year that the association has seen fit to double the amount of prizes and it is seldom that a better list can be shown than that given below. No horses will be allowed on the track, and the entire meet, which will be under the auspices of the Lansing bicycle club, will eclipse all former occasions. The following is a list of events and prizes:

1. One mile safety—First prize, gold medal, valued at $25; second, toilet case, $8; third, patent-leather shoes, $6; fourth, one-half dozen bicycle hose, $4.50.
2. Two mile handicap—First, suit of clothes, $30; second, oak table, $15; third, silver shaving mug, $5; fourth, Dunlap derby, $5.
3. One mile Lansing bicycle club championship—First, gold medal, $20; second, fruit dish, $16; third, silver cup and saucer, $7; fourth, one pair bicycle shoes, $2.50.
4. One half mile—First, dressing case, $50; second, epergne, $20; third, silk umbrella, $6; fourth, cut glass perfume bottle, $6.
5. Two mile Michigan state fair championship—First, gold medal, $25; second, marble clock, $28; third, opera glasses, $10; fourth, cuff and collar case, $6.
6. Quarter mile dash—First, writing desk, $20; second, pocket knife, $10; third, one-half dozen dress shirts, $9; fourth, sterling silver cane, $7.
7. Five mile handicap—First, toilet case, $30; second, bronze statuary, $30; third, English club satchel, $8; fourth, carving set, $5.

Listen to This, Boys.

Boys, I want to tell you something that you ought to know. When calling on a young lady, do not stay beyond the usual time even if you are enjoying yourself immensely. You may be causing her a great deal of embarrassment, although out of courtesy to you, she will hide it and endeavor to appear at ease. Many parents have decided views on the hours their daughters should keep and when gentlemen callers stay beyond the appointed time, the girls are frequently treated to a severe curtain lecture after their departure and no matter how agreeable and entertaining you make your self, the opinion of your hostess is not likely to be a favorable one if you are the cause of her receiving a reprimand. Some girls are sensible enough to tell their gentlemen friends that they can only remain until a certain hour, and they respect her all the more for her candor. After all, boys, it is a good plan to make your stay short and sweet and then you will be sure of a welcome when you come again.

Your next week's washing will look whiter, will be cleaner and will be done with less labor if

is used. The clothes will smell sweeter and will last longer. SANTA CLAUS SOAP is pure, it cleans but does not injure the fabric. It does not roughen or chap the hands.

Millions use it. Do You?
