A BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL DAY. And it Was Impressively Observed at Ann Arbor.

This day never should be called "Decoration Day." The word decoration may be correct in a sense, but it does not sound appropriate, and its use conveys to the mind a wrong impression. The day is one set apart by the nation as a Memorial Day, to strew with flowers the last resting places of the dead heroes who imperiled their lives that the nation might live; to revive in our hearts the love we bore them; to teach our children what that love is; to recall in our minds the deeds of heroism and sacrifice they performed; and to instill into the minds of the rising generation a feeling of patriotism and love of country, impressing upon them the necessity of being ready, at any and all times to go to the defense of the grand nation of which they are the proud children.

The usual exercises attendant upon the decoration of the graves passed off without any halts according to the programme printed last week. Flowers were furnished in abundance, and each soldier's grave at the three cemeteries was covered with these beautiful rays of God's sunshine, given us in such varied forms to delight the eye and teach us kindly thoughts.

At the 5th ward cemetery the ceremonies were very impressive. The regular services of the G. A. R. were performed; two young ladies recited a piece, in an excellent manner, and Capt. Manly made a speech, which was one of the best efforts of his life. The cemetery was well filled with people, and the singing of one hundred school children of the ward was entertaining.

The children marched from the cemetery to the electric cars and were taken to Forest Hill Cemetery to take part in the exercises there.

The presence of children in the procession with their bright faces and sweet songs, was a pleasing feature. The Ann Arbor Rifles, the Sons of Veterans and Welch Post G. A. R., constituted the marching column, and the children were conveyed in carriages, as were also the city officials and others.

At Forest Hill Cemetery a grand cross of flowers to the memory of the absent graves, was erected by voluntary gifts of bouquets from friends and relatives of the soldiers who sleep in southern soil, or whose graves are elsewhere or unknown.

At the grave of Col. Norval Welch, whose name the local post bears, the procession halted, and Miss Nellie Mingay recited a poem, "They Strewed no Flowers on My Father's Grave," in a manner that betokened a thorough appreciation of the piece itself and in keeping with the scene and the occasion. The children also sang a song that was appropriate and well rendered. During these exercises a detail from the Post took flowers and went to each soldier's grave, which had been designated with little Union flags. This ended the afternoon exercises.

In the evening University Hall was filled with people who came to listen to the concluding exercises of the day. Commander J. Q. A. Sessions presided, and besides the usual complement of officials and dignitaries, upon the stage were grouped one hundred school children, under the leadership of Miss Lucy Cole, assisted by Miss Annie Robinson. The exercises of the evening were opened by Commander Sessions in a few remarks, which were followed with a song by the children, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," which they sang in a manner that indicated that the famous Choral Union of this city, would have to look well to their laurels in the not distant future. These young folks know how to sing, that's certain, and in arising and resuming their seats again, they can already give the Choral Union valuable pointers. These little singers gave evidence of having been well trained, and honored themselves and their teacher, Miss Cole, by their excellent work.

Scripture was read and prayer offered by Rev. J. W. Bradshaw, and

"Cover Them Over with Beautiful Flowers," sang by the choir.

A recitation by Miss Nellie Mingay, "The Roll Call," was given in a manner that the audience appreciated, and did that young lady much credit. This was followed by another recitation, by Miss Blanche Anspach, entitled "Searching for the Dead," in which she threw all of her dramatic powers. Possessing a good voice and a pleasing manner Miss Anspach made a very favorable impression.

The oration of the evening was delivered by Rev. Washington Gardner. He reviewed the history of our country, from its birth, and endeavored to illustrate to the younger people present the value of the liberty they enjoy, and its cost in human life and hard earned treasure. He adjured them to appreciate the gifts their fathers and forefathers had sacrificed so much to secure. The oration was an excellent one, filled with patriotism, loyalty to country, and enthusiasm for the future of this great republic.

After another song by the children, "Speed Our Republic," the exercises closed with a benediction by Rev. J. M. Gelston.

In this connection it is highly proper to speak of a thing that is very annoying at these meetings, viz: the habit some people have of getting up and going out during the exercises. At one time it was difficult to listen to the oration—especially in the galleries—by reason of the tramp of people—and they were not all children, either—who were so impolite as to disturb others that came to listen, by getting up and leaving the hall. This thing is a nuisance that good breeding and good sense ought to put a stop to. If people can not afford to remain and listen to all of these exercises which last only a little over an hour, they ought to stay away entirely. It is insulting to speakers, annoying to others, and a mark of ill-breeding for any one to leave a meeting of this kind while the exercises are in progress.

The Lazy Man's Revenge.

Jes' let me be,
Don't kere how much you do'er say,
Er' whether you're up at five o'clock,
Jes' to keep even up all day.
En' feed the children of your flock;
My children's mine,
If they be nine
I ain't goin' ter werk en' sweat en' crawl;
En' 'Till don't need a hat 'till fall,
En' 'there's good fishing down the bay,
En' we got bread ter las' ter-day.

You let me be,
'Taint your bizness if I set
Aroun' and talk about free trade,
Er' use a nicker fer a bet
That Sam Small's hide 'all all be frayed
For constable up in my ward:
I say feed your childrun, pard,
If my lot is nine
What's mine is mine
'En' I kin do jes' as I please,
You needn't stan' aroun' and sneeze,
'En' yann as if you'd say to me
What I owes to posteritee.

Jes' let me be
I know my biz' as well as you,
'En' if the folks here in this town
Doan't keep their nose out of it, too,
I'll be derned but I'll move down
To Bilksville.
Me and Till
Move 'em all right off the flat;
'En' what 'ud you folks say to that,
When nex' Monday you might seek
In vain fer Till to wash that week?

Pioneers' Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Pioneer Society will be held at the Opera House in Saline, on Wednesday, June 14th, 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., for election of officers and transaction of other business.

Several historical addresses will be delivered by some of our best writers. Among those who are expected to address the society are Andrew Campbell, J. D. Corey, E. P. Allen and W. D. Harriman. Good music, songs and a bountiful dinner will be on the programme.

J. Q. A. SESSIONS,
Secretary.

The clothing and boot and shoe stores of the city will close at 6 o'clock p. m., from now on, Saturday evenings excepted. This is a movement in the right direction.

Bent on disappearing—The rainbow.

Capt. Manly's Reminiscences of Gettysburg.

The long looked for address of Captain Manly, on the battle of Gettysburg, was delivered last Friday evening. The Captain spoke in his usual off-hand way, which made it all the more interesting. By the aid of his map he showed the position of the armies, and claimed, with a good deal of argument in his favor, that on two different occasions during this terrible engagement, that if Longstreet had obeyed the orders of Gen. Robert E. Lee, the outcome would undoubtedly have been a victory for the rebel forces, instead of an overwhelming defeat. In the Captain's words: "Twice then, does it seem an act of Providence worked in our favor, thus crowning our forces with victory instead of defeat on the field of Gettysburg."

The speaker gave a detailed account of his being wounded; his lying on the battlefield some 48 hours, from his position plainly seeing the formation of Pickett's division of 18,000 men, of Longstreet's corps, previous to its charge on the center of the Union line or the place taken by Gen. Meade as his headquarters; the amputation of his arm by the rebel surgeon and his assistants; his remaining in a rebel field hospital, which was in a hay-mow in a barn, until the 8th of July; and, finally, after leaving there, falling in with a young lady of whom he inquired if she could direct him to the 5th corps hospital; that he was informed by her that she could not, but she would direct him to a private house, that of Mr. Powers, where he could stop and recuperate; of his starting off to find the same; his becoming entirely worn out by fatigue and dropping down under a mulberry tree; of the attempt made by a German and his wife to drive him from his position—probably taking him for a rebel as his uniform had been taken from him, and he had on a pair of light pants and a dressing-gown; of his becoming lost and losing all remembrance of the instructions given him by the young lady; and of his once more dropping down, completely exhausted, under another mulberry tree, where he was found by an old lady who interested herself in his welfare, notwithstanding that she supposed him to be a "reb," and said she would "take care of him as she hoped the southern people would take care of her two nephews, if they should happen to fall into their hands;" of her taking him into the house and having a colored boy give him a good bath and good clean clothes, and then of the bountiful supper which he was invited to, but could not eat; of her showing him to a bedroom with a well-made bed, and on her retiring, of his lying on the floor instead of occupying the bed, until the colored boy again appeared on the scene and undressed him and stowed him away in the first bed he had occupied for many months; of his convalescence and daily visits to the battle field, accompanied by the young lady, whom he had met when first leaving the rebel field hospital, and at whose mother's house he was staying—having wandered there by accident, rather than by any knowledge of directions given him. The reminiscence was very entertaining and was well received by those who were fortunate enough to hear it. The Post extended the Captain a unanimous vote of thanks.

The legislature has adjourned. Hurray for the legislature.

In going west, young man, pause at Duluth and have the kinks combed out of your whiskers.—Saratogan.

It is possible that the United States may see the day when it will regret the insult offered to China by the action of the present administration.

Out of 1,525 bills introduced at the recent legislative session, 463 were passed. That's a pretty good record. The legislature was not so bad as it has been painted by its enemies. Not by a long shot.

By reversing a ruling of Commissioner Raum in reference to pensions the present administration expects to make a saving of some $15,000,000 off the old soldiers who gave their services and imperiled their lives in defence of the Union. This is evidently an administration that is influenced by the fellows who fought on the other side.

Some good may result to the southern states if Georgia's commissioner of agriculture carries out his plans. He proposes to call a meeting of the agricultural commissioners of several southern states to "devise plans to elevate the standard of farming in the south." They will have an immense field to work in. If there is one thing in the whole industrial world of America, which needs reforming more than any other it is the tillage of the soil in former slave states. These millions of acres of grain yield hardly enough for seed, year after year.

T. C. Sherwood has been re-appointed to the position of bank commissioner by Gov. Rich. This is an appointment that reflects credit upon the choice of the governor, and does justice to a gentleman who is deserving. Mr. Sherwood has done the pioneer work in this office, and has done it well. While thoroughly investigating the condition of the various banks of the state, he has retained their respect and confidence to such an extent that they all joined in a petition to the governor for his retention in the office. The people of the state are to be congratulated upon this appointment as well as is Mr. Sherwood.

Last Sunday the World's Fair was opened, and was visited by 200,000 people. The saloons and other questionable resorts of Chicago were empty. Can any good Christian throwing all prejudices aside, doubt but that Christianity was better served by the opening of the Fair than it has been in the past by keeping it closed? Everything in those grounds is elevating and ennobling. A visit to them is a benefit to every one who goes there. The same can not be said of the attractions outside of the grounds. Is it not better, in the language of that Great Teacher, "to do good than evil on the Sabbath Day?" The opening of the Fair on Sunday is doing good to thousands and keeping them away from temptation and vice. The doors to Satan's allurements are always open, wide open, and when people are denied admission elsewhere Satan is quite apt to catch them, for they are idle that day, and seeking for something to occupy their time and mind.

A Sturgis cashier is suffering from blood poisoning, the result of moistening his finger tips while counting bank bills. We mention this for the caution of the editorial fraternity.—Adrian Press.

The Tecumseh Herald has discovered that "the woman who marries a man to reform him, undertakes a job that will ruin her complexion." The editor's remark we take to be based wholly upon observation.—Adrian Press.

The people of New York state are just beginning to find out how much democratic muscle costs them. The appropriations of the democratic legislature for 1893 are about $4,000,000 greater than those made by the republican legislature for 1892.

If there are any democrats in Michigan who think that Mr. Cleveland will forsake Mr. Dickinson for Mr. Campani they might as well hang up their musical instrument. It would be base ingratitude for him to do so, and then "Komp" is too light a weight.

Wm. E. Quinby, of the Detroit Free Press, has received his pay for eliding to Hon. Don M. Dickinson, in the shape of a commission as minister to the Hague. The position is one held for a number of years by James Birney, of Day City, and is no doubt suited to Mr. Quinby's tastes.

People are clamoring for capital punishment. They argue that when a man is hung for murder that he is dead and there is no chance for his escape. That is true but we do not believe the state has a right to take any man's life. It may confine him so that he cannot do further harm but it has no right to take life.—Manchester Enterprise.

Our amiable(?) and sweet tempered(?) republican contemporary traveled quite a distance out of its way last week to throw a handful of mud at the Courier. It is always noticeable that when an institution of the kind is "on its last legs," that it takes every possible occasion to abuse its neighbors, and our esteemed contemporary appears to be no exception to the rule. There is not a paper in the city, with perhaps one exception, that it does not try to abuse.

The bill granting the right of suffrage to females in municipal elections, passed both branches of the legislature, and is now the law. This bill has an educational qualification, and no one can vote who can not read the ballot she casts. This is a step toward universal female suffrage. The people of the state, after this law has been put in practice, will be able to judge then, whether they care to extend the right any farther or not. The law will not add to the class of ignorant voters, and if it is successful will be the means of inserting in the general election laws an educational test, for all voters, which all the better class of people are heartily in favor of. Whether or not the presence of women at the polls will have a tendency to purify local politics will now be brought to a test.

The men who took part in the lynching of Sullivan, the Durand murderer, last week, are as great criminals as was Sullivan himself. There is this difference: Sullivan admitted his guilt; these criminals sneak out of it and find safety in numbers. The coroner's jury that rendered a verdict that Sullivan came to his death by suicide, "in the manner of a felon and of his malice aforethought," ought to be imprisoned for their dastardly verdict. It was a cowardly act to help screen the law-breaking villains who took upon themselves the punishment of a criminal, only to become criminals themselves. There is no excuse for such a mob in Michigan. It was a disgrace to the state; a stain upon the fair name of our people; a blood-thirsty proceeding that no self-respecting human being would take part in or even countenance.

It is a good time to call to mind, and to govern one's self accordingly, that there is always a demand for the best goods. The farmer who sends first-class fruit, berries and vegetables to market soon makes for himself a reputation that is worth a great deal. The man whose strawberry boxes are filled with first-class berries all the way through, is the man who finds raising strawberries profitable, for buyers rely on his honesty. Though a man may be honest and sell seconds instead of firsts he will not find farming pays as well. It costs as much to raise poor crops as good, except in labor; it costs more in reputation, which is to a farmer what credit is to the merchant; indeed, it insures credit to the farmer. In these days of competition no man can afford to waste his energies in producing anything less than the best. It is better for him all round, in pocket and in credit, to raise only one kind of article and to have that first-class, than to raise several varieties which are only average. With every year the tendency to specialties increases. The time may come when each farmer will be a specialist.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT.

The rapid changes taking place in the world is clearly shown in the fact that this country can raise only a surplus of about 75,000,000 bushels of wheat now, while ten years ago it had fully 150,000,000 bushels to spare. The extent of wheat producing land has not been increased but our population has increased at the enormous rate of one million and a half souls yearly. The time is not so far distant, at this rate of increase, when America will need all the wheat she can raise to supply her own people with bread.

At the same time the ability of Europe to supply the demands of her own people is decreasing instead of increasing, and the coming year the demands from abroad for wheat will be greater than ever.

The N. Y. Sun has been looking up the figures upon this subject, and finds that the prospective demand of the wheat-importing countries, on the basis of their population on May 1, 1893, will be over 360,000,000 bushels, distributed as follows:

| United Kingdom | Aggregate Requirements | Imports |
|--------------------------|------------------------|-------------|
| France | 241,300,000 | 170,200,000 |
| Italy | 353,400,000 | 43,000,000 |
| Belgium | 147,800,000 | 21,800,000 |
| Germany | 40,000,000 | 22,100,000 |
| Netherlands | 113,2 0,000 | 16,000,000 |
| Switzerland | 17,900,000 | 12,100,000 |
| Spain | 14,900,000 | 12,400,000 |
| Greece | 84,000,000 | 9,400,000 |
| Sweden and Norway | 11,100,000 | 5,100,000 |
| Portugal | 5,200,000 | 4,200,000 |
| Turkey in Europe | 11,100,000 | 1,600,000 |
| Denmark | 4,750,000 | 500,000 |
| Russia, etc. | 4,200,000 | 300,000 |
| South Africa | 6,500,000 | 2,500,000 |
| Japan | 15,200,000 | 200,000 |
| India and tropical lands | 40,000,000 | 40,000,000 |
| Total | 1,139,500,000 | 367,000,000 |

To meet this demand for 367,000,000 bushels, the wheat exporting countries of North and South America, of continental Europe, of Asia and northern Africa, will be able to contribute in the following quantities:

| United States | 76,500,000 |
|--------------------------------|-------------|
| Canada (all) | 10,000,000 |
| India | 10,000,000 |
| Romania | 3,000,000 |
| Austria-Hungary | 18,000,000 |
| Bulgaria | 9,000,000 |
| Serbia | 2,000,000 |
| Argentina | 15,000,000 |
| Chile | 3,000,000 |
| Uruguay | 2,000,000 |
| Australia | 8,000,000 |
| China | 2,000,000 |
| Egypt, Tunis, etc. | 2,000,000 |
| Anatolia, Serbia, Persia, etc. | 10,000,000 |
| Total | 291,500,000 |

These figures are considered entirely reliable, and according to them, it will not be much more than ten years before the world's supply of wheat will be wonderfully short.

It is very doubtful if there is a court in the state of Michigan that would hold the so-called "jag-cure" bill passed by the legislature last week, constitutional. It is a species of legislation that ought never to receive the time and attention of our legislators.

Hoke Smith's city, Atlanta, Ga., owes a heavy debt to protection. In 1880 the average annual earnings of employees in manufacturing industries in that place were $242. In 1890 they were $420. Atlanta's assessed valuation rose in the same period from $18,000,000 to nearly $42,000,000. Hoke should bring these facts and figures to the attention of his chief.—N. Y. Press.

The Australian banks which have failed within the last three months owed, in the aggregate, a sum equal to about 75 per cent. of the interest-bearing debt of the United States. Their liabilities exceed the total indebtedness of all the business concerns which have failed in this country since the beginning of 1891. Failures of equal relative magnitude in the United States would involve not less than $8,000,000,000, which is more than the civil war cost, both sides together, and more than our railroads are worth. It is not surprising, in view of such facts, that a day of prayer and humiliation has been appointed in the Anglican diocese of Melbourne, where the heaviest blows have fallen, for the purpose of imploring salvation from further financial disaster.

How full of lessons Memorial Day may be, and how the influence of the day is increased by honoring it as the Day of the Dead—those who, having lost their lives, have also found them in the heart of the nation. No hamlet is too small to have had some soldier belonging to it, and his grave should have its tribute of remembrance. No day in the year should be so rich in its moral effect upon the young; it lies with every town to make it this. Instill into the children's hearts and minds all this day means and anarchy will never find a footing here. Make the day what it is in intent, and our youths will find better and more fitting ways of observing it than by spending it in games which belong to festive days, not to one of national mourning. Only so far as the day has a meaning is it well to keep it as a holiday. Were it devoted to direct patriotic teaching it would be a safeguard to the nation scarcely to be equalled by any other force. It is the duty of each man and woman to devote it to this end so far as it lies within one's power.

Sufferers from the effects of La-Grippe will find "Adironda," Wheeler's Heart and Nerve Cure, a blessed boon; it quiets the nerves and tones up the system. Sold by John Moore.

PROSPERITY OF SAVINGS BANKS.

The growth of these friends of the people is not fully comprehended by the average reader. The Home Market Bulletin has collected some statistics that give an idea of their prosperity:

During the last twelve years the number of savings banks in this country has increased from 629 to 1,059.

From 1886 to 1892 the number of depositors increased from 3,418,013 to 4,781,605. The average to the credit of each last year was $358.20.

There are still no returns from Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nevada, Missouri, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Virginia, Wyoming, Alaska, Arizona, Indian Territory and Oklahoma, and presumably savings banks have not yet been organized there, though they should have been at least in Missouri, Kentucky, Kansas, Oregon and Virginia.

The highest average to each depositor anywhere is in California, $750.32. The next highest is in Rhode Island, $485.01. New Hampshire is third, with $426.24; New York fourth, with $388.07; Connecticut fifth, with $385.57; Maine sixth, with $342.83; Massachusetts seventh, with $326.67, and Vermont eighth, with $305.60. The smallest is North Carolina, with $45.21.

In the states where there is the most manufacturing mining and commerce—in other words, where industry is most diversified and labor most remuneratively employed—there are the most savings banks and the deposits are the largest.

Wasn't all Bishop.

The late Bishop Selwyn of New Zealand and Melanesia was well known during his university days as a devotee of the noble art of self defense. He incurred a great deal of animosity from a certain section of New Zealand, owing to his sympathy with the Maories during the war. One day he was asked by a rough one of the back streets of Auckland if he was the "bishop who backed up the Maories." Receiving a reply in the affirmative the rough, with a "Take that, then!" struck his lordship in the face.

"My friend," said the bishop, "my Bible teaches me that if a man smite thee on one cheek, turn him the other, and he turned his head slightly the other way.

His assailant slightly bewildered, struck him again.

"Now," said his Lordship, "having done my duty to God, I will do my duty to man," and taking off his coat and hat, he gave the anti-Maori champion a most scientific trashing.

On another occasion he was going down the River Waikato with a Maori, when the latter, who was very lazy, left off paddling the canoe, at the same time muttering that if Selwyn were not a bishop he would—"go for him." In a moment the bishop told the man to turn the canoe ashore, where, stripping himself of everything episcopal, he said, pointing to his robes, etc.: "The bishop lies there; the man is here. I am quite ready; come on." The Maori did not "come on," however, but quietly resumed his work without another murmur.—Washington News.

Crisp and Casual.

In 1890, 24,306,905 gallons of wine were made in this country.

The United States contains 194,000 square miles of coal fields.

Guaranteed Cure.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, upon this condition: If you are afflicted with a Cough, Cold or any Lung, Throat or Chest trouble, and will use this remedy as directed, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We could not make this offer did we not know that Dr. King's New Discovery could be relied on. It never disappoints. Trial bottles free at Eberbach & Son, Drug Store, and Ger. T. Haussler, Manchester. Large size 50c and $1.00.

The Cause of the Trouble.

"This is a strange life of ours. Conditions sometimes arise in it that render the continuation of friendship impossible."

"You think so?"

"Yes. There are Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones, they used to be the closest friends; now they are at daggers drawn."

"What broke up their friendship?"

"Mrs. Smith moved into a house that Mrs. Jones had just moved out of, and, woman-like, she could not resist the temptation to say it was the dirtiest house she ever moved into. This came to Mrs. Jones' ears and, there was blood on the moon at once. Funny creatures we are.—N. Y. Press.

NARCOTICS.

Their Uses and Abuses—Timely Words of Warning.

More money is spent yearly in the United States for whisky, tobacco and opium than would be required to pay off the National debt. These deadly evils are working sad inroads upon the minds and constitutions of the best men of this favored land, wrecking homes, breaking hearts, ruining and sending men and women into untimely graves and insane asylums. Many remedies for the cure of these habits have been put on the market, all of which have proven sorry failures, for the reason that they expect more of the patient than he is able to stand, compelling him to exercise his will power in abstaining from the use of stimulants while he is taking the medicine. The absurdity of such treatment shows on its face, for were the sufferer able to give up his habits he would have no need of medicine.

Hill's Chloride of Gold Tablets is the only genuine remedy made. It is a positive guarantee cure for the use of Liquor, Opium or Tobacco in any form. It requires no will power, but allows the patient to continue his habits until he drops them of his own volition and without the least struggle. The medicine is pleasant and contains no harmful drugs. Where desired wives and mothers can give it in tea or coffee without its presence being detected, while the usual good results will speedily follow. These Tablets have been on the market for years, and thousands of testimonials have been furnished, telling of their wonderful cures and the lives that have been blessed through their use. Ask your local druggists for Hill's Tablets, or write to the Ohio Chemical Co., sole manufacturers, Lima, Ohio.

Some Don'ts for Cyclers.

Don't expect to get a wheel that will climb a fence.

Don't do anything against the dictates of your own conscience and the directions you see along the road.

Don't call a convention of yourself and by a unanimous vote declare yourself to be the best rider in town.

Don't forget to keep your mouth shut on a dusty road, unless you have a fair damsel by your side.

Don't think that whisky lubricated the wheels.

Don't try to cover more ground than you can spread over with hands, feet and body.

Don't try to see how close you can come to a pedestrian and miss him.

Don't borrow a wheel. Neither lend it.

Don't inquire for churches along the road when riding on Sunday, and thereby add hypocrisy to it.

Don't make a pedal mount. Do the mounting yourself, via the step that was made for that purpose.

Don't oil your machine and never clean it, if you are anxious to have a new one each season.

Don't forget that it is to your credit to talk less of your cycling accomplishments, let the other fellows herald them.

Don't open your season by riding too hard. The world was not made in a day.

Talk's cheap, but when it's backed up by a pledge of the hard cash of a financially responsible firm, or company, of world-wide reputation for fair and honorable dealing, it means business!

Now, there are scores of sarsaparillas and other blood-purifiers all cracked up to be the best, purest, most peculiar and wonderful, but bear in mind (for your own sake), there's only one guaranteed blood-purifier and remedy for torpid liver and all diseases that come from bad blood. That one—standing solitary and alone—sold on trial, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

If it doesn't do good in skin, scalp and scrofulous diseases—and pulmonary consumption is only lung-scrofulin—just let its makers know and get your money back. Talk's cheap, but to back a poor medicine, or a common one, by selling it on trial, as "Golden Medical Discovery" is sold, would bankrupt the largest fortune.

Talk's cheap, but only "Discovery" is guaranteed.

What's the Answer.

She was a bright mathematical scholar and pretty, and when she rattled at the stamp window and laid down a dollar bill, the handsome young clerk in a blue necktie, on the inside was all attention.

"There's a dollar," she said; "give me four times as many twos as ones, and the rest in threes."

"I beg your pardon," he stammered.

She repeated her request.

"Certainly," he said, and began to lay out the stamps.

He worked at it ten minutes without success, she waiting patiently the meanwhile.

He wasn't busy with any one else and she didn't seem to mind watching him calculate, so she gave him another five minutes.

Then a customer came in.

"Just keep the dollar," she said sweetly, "and I'll come around in the morning and get the stamps in the proper proportions.—Detroit Free Press.

Total Number of Prizes for this County, 226.

CAUTION.—No Tags will be received before January 1st, 1894, nor after February 1st, 1894. Each package containing tags must be marked plainly with Name of Sender, Town, County, State, and Number of Tags in each package. All charges on packages must be prepaid.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctly different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

Very sincerely,
THE P. J. SORG COMPANY, MIDDLETOWN, OHIO.

A list of the people obtaining these prizes in this county will be published in this paper immediately after February 1st, 1894.

GREAT ACCIDENT

At No. 25 S. 4th Ave. Last Evening.

Owing to the great rush of people at the Wall Paper Emporium, No. 25 South 4th Ave., some five thousand rolls of paper fell down and became mixed, so that Mr. Stabler either had to turn the excited crowd out into the street in order to sort out the high priced goods from the cheap, or sell them at a great sacrifice; and seeing that the people were becoming uneasy at the delay, he immediately gave orders to sell the paper at great reduced rates in order to make room for an immense new stock that has just arrived, so that those who wish to take advantage of this great sacrifice sale can do so for the next 10 days.

REMEMBER—YOU CAN BUY 10 ROLLS of ELEGANT PAPER for 50 CENTS.

This is no "Bankrupt Stock," neither is it a "Great Fire Sale," but owing to the great tumble the price tags have become lost and Mr. Stabler is selling regardless of cost. Call and see the best stock of goods in the city going at rock bottom prices. Also the finest lot of Picture Frame Mouldings ever brought into Ann Arbor. Bring your pictures and have them framed in the latest style.

Only during this sale we will be open until 10 p. m.
Come early and avoid the rush.

UNIVERSITY.

The U. of M. humorous paper is no joke.

The Jeffs mauled the Websters at base ball Saturday 22 to 19. All laws.

The U. of M. Minstrels at the opera house last Thursday night disappointed many people.

Prof. Carhart took the students in electrical engineering to Detroit Monday, to examine several electrical plants in that city.

The Tecumseh Herald has a good U. of M. correspondent who keeps its readers well posted about the affairs of the University.

The Cornell defeated the U. of M. base ball nine at Detroit yesterday, by a score of 7 to 5. And we are sorry for it. Our boys deserved the victory.

The U. of M. nine made up for their defeat at the hands of the University of Minnesota boys by "walloping" the Wisconsin team Saturday by a score of 15 to 4.

Dr. Gatchell is in Chicago this week, in attendance upon the World's Congress of Homeopathic physicians and surgeons. On Friday he delivers an address before the section of Clinical Medicine, of which he is president.

Dr. W. A. S. Williams, of Petoskey, medic. class of '79, died very suddenly on the 11th of May. He had been sick only a few hours with neuralgia, and died at 7:30 p. m. He was a native of the West Indies, was 58 years of age, and had lived in Petoskey since 1880.

There is much criticism on the part of old soldiers and their friends because Decoration Day is used as a day of recreation, or a common holiday. Perhaps the title "Decoration Day," may have given the people the wrong impression of its meaning. The title should be changed to what really expresses its meaning: "Memorial Day."

The annual election of officers of the Student's Lecture Association will take place in Room A, on Saturday, June 3d, at 9 o'clock a. m. Any person who bought tickets for the recent course will be entitled to vote. Considerable interest is being manifested in the election, and candidates are numerous. The real contest appears to be between the law and the literary departments for supremacy.

On Saturday the organization to effect the establishment of a humorous journal in the University was completed and the following officers elected: President, Prof. J. H. Drake; secretary, B. F. Wohlman; treasurer, H. H. Smith; advisory board, Prof. Scott and Mr. Weeks; editorial board, R. L. Wagner, W. E. Bolles, J. L. Lorie, H. A. Williams and G. A. Harris. The first issue of the paper will be in October next.

The following taken from the Ann Arbor Democrat, expresses a sentiment that the Courier warmly concurs in: "I am told that Dr. J. C. Wood, professor of geneecology in the Homeopathic college of the U. of M., has received a very flattering offer from the Cleveland, O., training school for nurses, and thinks seriously of accepting. Should the doctor decide to leave here, the college would lose one of its most worthy and talented professors and the city a highly respected and esteemed citizen, but it is hoped that after mature consideration he will decide to remain in Ann Arbor."

Musical Recital.

A very pleasant recital was given at the Ladies' Library building, Wednesday afternoon of last week, by the pupils of Miss Lucy Cole, Miss Bertha Hill and Mr. E. N. Bilbie.

The programme was well chosen, consisting of selections from Low, Reinecke, Foerster, Dr Beviot, Handel, Schuman, Beethoven and others. The pupils in their interpretations showed not only careful training in technique, but good musical understanding.

The programme was opened with a piano number by little five year old Eva Clement who played her part with that childish unconsciousness which is always pleasing. Other piano solos were well rendered by Miss Alta Beal and Miss Mary Weidenmann. A notable feature of the piano numbers was the entire absence of notes.

The vocal selections were choice, varied and well sung. The pupils placing their tones nicely and singing with good expression. The Misses Muma, Grace, Sunderland and McAllister and Neumann being the singers.

The violin solos given by Mr. Long and Mr. Smith were excellent, being played con spirito. The audience were especially pleased with the familiar Handel Lagro, played in unison by thirteen of Mr. Bilbie's pupils, with which the programme ended.

Y. P. S. UNION MEETING.

Reports of Excellent Work Done During the Year.

The Young People's Christian Union held a meeting at the Presbyterian church at 6:30 last evening. This union is made up of the young people's societies of the various churches of the city. The meeting was given up to reports of work done during the past year.

W. W. Bishop, of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church, reported that the work of the society had been successful, and that the present membership was 115. Dr. Brown stated that the Young People's Christian Association of the English Lutheran church now numbered 33 members, the success of whose work was largely due to the generous aid received from the other societies of the city. J. H. VanTassel gave an outline of the thorough work done during the past year by the Epworth League, of the Methodist church, numbering 258 members.

The work of the Epworth League in the Fifth ward was discussed by E. K. Towle. The mission church in this ward is conducted by young people from the various religious societies. The Sunday school and Sunday evening meetings have an attendance of 70 or more, while the Thursday evening meetings are attended by an average of 25 persons. The regular church membership is about 30.

Miss Tenny gave a report of the year's work of the Baptist Y. P. U., which now numbers 100 persons with an average attendance of 50 or more. Miss Bertha Sherron stated that the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Disciples church has a list of 41 active and 7 associate members. The work of the Hobart Guild, of the Episcopal church, was reported by E. J. Dennen, who discussed the work being done at the Posters and Geddes mission schools, as well as that of the Young People's Vespers, now numbering 75 members. B. H. Kroeze, the president of the union read a report of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the German Evangelical church, which had been prepared by J. A. C. Hildner, who was unable to be present. This report showed a membership of 39 active and 19 associate workers. The work of the Y. P. S. of the Presbyterian church was reported by Mr. Seeley, who stated that the present membership of the society was 240. The work of the High School S. C. A., which now numbers 125 members was reported by Miss Seabolt.

Mrs. Barrows gave the treasurer's report of the Y. P. U., and also the report of the development committee. This report showed the faithful work of the union in the aid and organization of new societies, among which was the Epworth League of the African Methodist church.

A very interesting series of reports then followed showing the work done in the various ward Sunday schools.

For the Second ward school, W. J. Hammell reported an average attendance of 80 pupils, with 11 teachers. This school has been self supporting and has been very successful. Tomorrow a picnic will be given to the scholars.

The Fourth ward school, with J. W. Parker as superintendent, has had an average attendance of 40 pupils, with eight teachers.

Mr. Roberts, of the Third ward school, was not present, but Mr. Walker stated that this school had an average attendance of over 100 pupils, and had been very successful in its work.

Mr. Crittenden gave a brief account of the work done at the poor house. The young people of the various churches have taken hold of this work willingly, and have done much good. Rev. John Neumann frequently preaches in German, thus reaching a certain number whom the young people could not aid.

The closing report was given by Henry H. Walker, president of the union during the past year. He gave a more detailed account of the work done during this, the first year of the existence of the Y. P. U. His report was a summary of the reports made by the others and showed the great work done in the building up of Christian men and women, in the growth of Christian lives.

The work for the next year starts out under favorable auspices and there is every hope for success under the efficient leadership of B. H. Kroeze, who has been elected president for the ensuing year.—Daily Times.

Mrs. Persis Hammond Hampstead died at her home in Stanton, Mich., on May 24th, and her remains were interred at Ypsilanti. The deceased was a daughter of J. S. Hammond, buried one week previous, at the same place, and a sister of the late Albert R. Hammond who died March 16th last. Mrs. A. F. Martin, of Ann Arbor, is also a sister.

The rhetorical programme given by the pupils of the 8th grade in the high school chapel last Friday afternoon was highly entertaining, and pleased the audience very much.

A great many people went down to the M. C. R. R. station Saturday afternoon to see the famous Columbian engine on its way to the World's Fair. It went through without stopping, but nevertheless was quite a sight.

H. J. Brown, Dr. C. B. Nancrede and Prof. Geo. W. Patterson have been elected delegates, and Mayor B. M. Thompson, E. Treadwell and Geo. H. Pond alternates, to attend the diocesan convention being held in Detroit, to-day and to-morrow.

There are hundreds of people who would like to go to the World's Fair here in Ann Arbor, but who are deterred from going by reason of the high rates of railroad travel. When one comes to pay $10.50 each for a ticket from here to Chicago and return, for himself, wife and several of the family, he doesn't have much left for board and other necessities at the White City.

The conference of health officers in this city on the 15th and 16th inst., comes very opportune. They may make observations that will tend to hurry up the building of sewers here.

The father of Deputy Sheriff Pat. McCabe died last Saturday at his home at Birkett, and funeral services were held Monday. He was over 80 years of age, and had been a resident of Dexter town a great many years.

A special train will take the members of the Arbeiter Verein to Jackson on the 14th inst. The same train stops at Ypsilanti, Dexter and Chelsea to take on members of the order desiring to attend the meeting at Jackson.

The members of Arbor Tent K. O. T. M., of this city, will celebrate the anniversary of the order on Friday evening June 16, and are already making preparations therefor. The Bees never do things by halves, and always have a good time.

For right down lively legislation probably the Ann Arbor officials can beat the world. The record made by Mayor Thompson, President Watts, City Clerk Miller, et al., last week in securing an amendment to the city charter on the sewer question is wonderful.

It looks as if the Methodists of Ann Arbor were about to get a Deaconess to assist the pastor in this large field. A large subscription was taken for this purpose last Sunday morning, but considerable more needs yet to be assured before the enterprise will be commenced.

The meeting of the Young People's Christian Union, held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening, was largely attended, and reported the praise worthy efforts of the society in the various churches the past year. The Sunday Schools in the different wards which it carried on were a very prominent feature of their good work.

An Ann Arbor pastor preached a sermon on "How to Spend a Happy Sunday," last week. We wouldn't have you mention it for the world, but from appearances we are of the opinion that he gave a number of Coldwater people a quiet tip that the only way to extract the greatest amount of happiness from the day was to go fishing—Coldwater Courier.

Cards are out announcing the marriage, on Thursday evening, June 8th, at half-past seven o'clock, at the First Methodist Episcopal church, in this city, of Miss May Stevens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Breakey, with Mr. Ephraim Douglass Adams. The couple will be at home after October 1st, at Lawrence, Kansas. The bride is one of Ann Arbor's most popular young ladies, and with her will go many and many a kindly wish and God speed. The groom is a brother of Prof. Henry C. Adams, of the University.

Some native Methodist Christians from Africa assisted in the singing at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. Although it had not been announced that they would sing, the church was crowded, to hear the lecture of Dr. Coburn's on "The Apple and the Serpent or the Fall of Man," and all who came were glad of the surprise that awaited them. The great church is getting too small for the magnificent audiences that gather to hear these lectures. The topic of next Sunday evening's address will be "Noah and the Flood."

In response to a request for aid from Phil. Kearny Post, of Richmond, Va., to assist them in decorating the soldiers' graves in that vicinity this year, Welch Post sent them $6.00, on receiving which, the treasurer of the post there, an old 20th Mich. boy—David R. Wilson, who enlisted as a private in Co. B, of Ypsilanti—immediately replied, acknowledging the same in a very enthusiastic, though appropriate manner, and also forwarded to Welch Post a fine photograph of Libby Prison as it was in 1863, which, on motion, will be framed and hung up in the Post room.

There never was a time in the history of this country when wheat and oats were so nearly equal in price—wheat 65 cents and oats 45 cents per bushel. There is perhaps two reasons for this. The first is that wheat is depressed in price by board of trade speculators, and second is that more oats are consumed for food by people than ever before. The various preparations of oat meal and rolled oats for breakfast food, calls for an enormous supply of that cereal. It has taken the place of wheat to a certain extent, which may also have something to do with the price of wheat.

The Ann Arbor Agricultural Co. has repaired the damage done to its foundry by fire recently, and work has been resumed therein.

Last Sunday was the anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Howlett, and they received some very pleasing reminders of the occasion from friends.

More tickets have been sold for the Choral Union Wagner Concert to-night than for any other this season. It is to be the grandest concert ever given in University Hall, so say musicians.

The yellow and blue was everywhere yesterday morning. The boys carried banners and canes decorated with the college colors to cheer their base ball team with, at Detroit.

The Telephone Co. is putting in improvements, new wires, etc., which when completed, will allow Ann Arbor people to talk with Chicago with as much ease as they now talk with Detroit. Speed the day.

Rev. Dr. Coburn's lectures on special topics from the Bible, are drawing large audiences. Last Sunday evening the African Native Choir gave some of their charming music for the entertainment of the large audience present.

Mrs. Huttenlocher, of Munith, sister of Mrs. M. J. Lehman, died at her home on Saturday last, aged about 36 years, and was buried Tuesday p. m. She leaves a husband and several small children. Mr. Lehman and family attended the funeral services yesterday.

Thirsty Ypsilantians who visit the World's Fair may drink freely of the water supplied in Jackson Park, as Prof. Vaughan, of Ann Arbor, says it is all right.—Ypsilanti Commercial. Probably the Commercial and Dr. Vaughan are both safe in granting that privilege.

Quite a number of our good citizens who are fond of flowers and spend much energy in cultivating them, have about concluded to give up trying to raise them hereafter. The miserable thieves are getting so numerous that one can receive no benefit whatever from their labor.

Yesterday was a quiet day in more senses than one. Not only were there about 2,000 people out of town but those who were left could not get into the front or even the back door of a saloon in the city. Everything was closed up, to the credit of the good name of Ann Arbor, and the honor of Mayor Thompson.

Christian Gensley, of Collegeville, Kansas, is visiting his brother-in-law Gerhard Josehans and family, of E. Ann st., and other friends and relatives in the city and vicinity. This is his first visit here since leaving the city fifteen years ago. He sees many changes since then, and is much pleased with the progress of his old home.

The legislature having passed the bill giving Wayne county another circuit judge, Gov. Rich has appointed to the place the Hon. Robert E. Frazer, formerly of this city. Mr. Frazer is a man of sound judicial mind and training, and we believe will become one of the best judges Wayne county ever had. His many old friends here will rejoice at his good fortune.

Mrs. M. M. Tuttle, who has carried on a large millinery business in this city for some time, for a number of years at No. 60 S. Main st., died last Monday of paralysis. Mrs. Tuttle was a stirring business woman until attacked with this disease, and she will be missed from the business circles of the city. She leaves a husband and two sons. Funeral services held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Henry T. Schulz, of this city, was married last Monday evening, to Miss Alice F. Osborne, at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Pierce, No. 70 W. 3d st., Rev. J. AT NOBLE'S Pantaloons Sale!

FOR THREE DAYS,

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY

CHOICE OF WOOL PANTALOONS.

$2.49 WORTH $3.00 TO $5.00

35 South Main St. Sign of Red Star.

At last Memorial Days are beginning to be pleasant. For two years now we have had pleasant weather. A more perfect day than was yesterday it would be difficult for the elements to give us.

A little son of M. J. Lehman came near cremating that gentleman's residence Friday p. m. He took an old shingle from a pile in the woodhouse, and thrust it into the kitchen stove, then after it had caught fire he threw it back into the woodhouse thus setting fire to the whole pile. A can of kerosene was setting near by, and that exploded when the flames reached it, thus attracting the attention of the occupants of the house. Mrs. Lehman got out of a sick bed and assisted in putting out the flames, and was assisted by some neighbors who happened fortunately to be within calling distance. It was a very close call for their house, which has been known as the Crossman place, between Dexter and Jackson streets, on the Grand View subdivision. It is never safe for children to play with fire.

Last Friday evening Miss Dora Grayson, the talented soprano of Teumseh, rendered a very pleasing song recital at the 2d Baptist church. She was greeted by a large and appreciative audience whose expectations she fulfilled in every particular. Her rendition of the song "Across the Dee," was particularly worthy of praise and her interpretation of it called forth the most enthusiastic encores. Not the least of the evening's entertainment came from her supporting artists, among whom Mr. Johnson a bass singer, Miss Johnson and Miss Cooper are especially deserving of praise. The church was beautifully decorated, and Mr. Brown and Mr. Underwood are to be congratulated on their able management of the whole affair. Miss Grayson left last evening to fill a musical engagement at Jackson, taking with her the admiration and esteem of all who heard her.

On Monday next Robert Cuthbert and wife will leave Ann Arbor permanently, and take up a journey to the golden state of California. It was his intention to have gone last winter at the time Chas. S. Fall and party went, but financial affairs prevented. Now he has disposed of all his Ann Arbor property and has nothing to hold him here. Mr. Cuthbert has been a resident of Ann Arbor for a great many years. He has been a sober, industrious, quiet citizen, and has a large circle of friends in the city who will regret to lose his society and that of his estimable wife, and whose best wishes will go with them to their new western home. Mr. Cuthbert is a past master of Golden Rule lodge F. & A. M., and stands well in Masonic circles. Here's hoping that "when his weary feet shall reach the end of life's toilsome journey, and from his nerveless hands shall fall the working tools of life," he may find himself surrounded by friends as warm and true as those he leaves behind.

It's a strong stomach that can stand the ordinary pills, with their griping and violence. What kind of a man or woman can it be who buys them?
It's some one who doesn't know about Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—that's certain. They're better—they're the best, in every trouble of the liver, stomach, and bowels. They do more good, do it easily and naturally, and do it so that it lasts—cleansing and regulating the whole system. Sick and Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Biliary Attacks, Dizziness, are surely prevented, quickly relieved, and permanently cured. They're the cheapest pill you can buy, too, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction.

Here's Another!

Having just bought another large line of Hats and Bonnets at less than cost to manufacture, we will sell them for one week at half regular price. Sale commences

Thursday, May 18, and continues until Wednesday night, May 25.

To the ladies, living in Ann Arbor and vicinity, would say that, if intending to buy a good hat or bonnet, you can save your fare here and return and enough to pay for your time besides.

Yours Respectfully,

A FINANCIAL MISSAPREHENSION.

Lillian Axton was a silly little affectionate woman, who loved her husband, and whose husband loved her. They were recently married, but not so recently that Tom Axton had not time to find out that his wife had absolutely no head at all for finance. She could not keep accounts. They bewildered her and always ended in a hopeless muddle. She was like the woman who, being urged to keep some account of her expenditure, triumphantly showed her husband her book with the two entries on the debtor and creditor side, "Received $50," and "Spent it," and who was exceedingly pleased to see that the $50 on the one side balanced the $50 on the other.

Lillian had the most vague idea about checks. It seemed to her that if a book were filled with unused checks, their bank account, therefore, was unlimited.

Now there are two things for a man to do when he finds himself in such a situation as Tom Axton found himself. One of these things is wise, and one of the things is foolish. If he is a foolish man he will endeavor to teach his wife how to keep accounts. If he is a wise man he will simply make up his mind to earn more money and let the accounts go. So Tom Axton, being wise, bothered his wife very little about accounts, settled the bills when they came in as well as he was able, and bent his energies towards the accumulating of a good and reliable balance at the bank.

And so things went on very comfortable and pleasantly until winter set in.

One night when Tom came home, Mrs. Lillian, who was a most transparent kind of woman, began a conversation on the subject of sealskin jackets. She said that they were most economical garments, that a woman with a sealskin coat was always well dressed, that the apparent costliness of the garment was a delusion, that the woman who had bestowed upon her a sealskin sacque at the beginning of a hard winter had little else to ask for until spring.

Tom listened gravely, and finally said:

"There is nothing personal in all this talk, is there?"

Lillian averred that there was not, and indignantly repudiated the insinuation that she was thinking about herself at all. She was merely interested in a general way. And Tom said quietly:

"Lillian, my dear, what is the price of the particular garment you have been looking at?"

At this point in the conversation she came over and sat upon his knee, and finally Tom received the information that a perfectly lovely sealskin coat could be had for $200 which was worth, at the very lowest figure, $300.

"In that case," said Tom, "it is rather a pity not to buy it, isn't it?" and she admitted with some reluctance that it was a shame to let such a chance go by.

Tom did some figuring, and found that a heck for $200 would be hon- at his bank, and still leave a little credit remaining.

His overcoat was on next morning, and he was just about to depart for his office, when he opened the drawer of the table in his room, took out check book, and wrote a check to the order of his wife for $200.

Mrs. Lillian was overjoyed, but Tom was away before she could thank him. She looked at the check with the ink still wet upon it, waved it for a moment in the air to dry it, and then she held it lightly with its face towards the fire that was blazing on the hearth. How it happened she never knew, but the check gave a little curl at the corner, and burst into flame in her hand. She dropped it, tried to snatch it again, but the charred remains escaped up the chimney.

Mrs. Lillian's face became as white as the ashes on the hearth, and she sank into the arm-chair before the fire, covering her face with her hands.

Tom Axton was a somewhat stolid, quiet, industrious, unsuspicious man. He frequently thought his wife a little frivolous, but, on the whole, he rather liked it.

When he came home that night the door was opened to him by the servant girl instead of by his wife, which was unusual. There was panic in her face.

"Oh, sir!" she said, have you seen the misses?"

"The misses?" said Tom. "No. Isn't she here?"

"No, sir," said the girl, looking as if she were going to cry; "after you left this morning, sir, she took on awful, and then she went away. I thought perhaps she had gone to you, sir."

Tom stood in the hallway without removing his coat, thunderstruck. Through his unsuspicious mind flashed the circumstances of the case. The check for $200; the "taking on," and the departure.

Tom threw himself down with his overcoat still on, in the arm-chair by the fire, and tried to think over the situation. The absolute uselessness of starting out in the night and trying to find her was the first thing that impressed itself upon him. He shrank from giving notice to the police. The ticket seller at the railroad station would perhaps remember if she bought a ticket for any place. The first thing evidently to do was to find out if she had left the suburb, and, if possible, where she had gone to.

Once more he called up the servant girl.

"Did—did Mrs. Axton leave the house alone?" he asked with some hesitation.

"I think so, sir," said the girl, "but I don't know. I heard the front door close, and a while after I found that she was gone, and when she did not come back to lunch, I did not know what to do."

"Oh, it is all right," said Tom, with a confidence he himself was far from feeling. "I think I know where she has gone. A friend of hers is ill. She has very likely been detained. I will go and bring her home."

And so, putting on his hat, he resolutely resolved to go down and see the man at the railway station. When he closed the front door behind him and went down the steps towards the front gate, he saw in the darkness the figure of a woman who seemed to have been loitering there, and who now hurried away.

As he came out in the street, something of her evident desire not to be seen, convinced him that the retreating figure was that of his wife. He followed quickly, and as soon as she noticed this she broke into a run.

Now Tom realized that it was a risky thing to run after and overtake a flying woman, especially if she turned out not to be the person of whom he was in search. But Tom was desperate, and he took the risk.

Seeing that she could not get away, she stopped at a lamp post, leaning against it, and as he came hurrying up to her he heard the shuddering cry:

"Oh, Tom!"

"Lillian," he said hoarsely, grasping her wrist, "what is the meaning of this? Have you gone crazy?"

She leaned against the lamp post and wept.

"Come," he said briefly, and without resistance she accompanied him in silence broken only by her sobs, back to the house.

The girl let them in, and at once surmised by the grief of her mistress that the friend who was ill had died.

Tom led his wife to their sitting room, and there she sank into a chair covering her face with her hands. She saw by his stern demeanor that he suspected her guilt.

He closed the door, then standing before her, said sternly:

"Lillian, I want an explanation."

"Oh, Tom, Tom!" she said pitifully, "Don't look at me like that, or I shall never be able to tell you the truth."

"You must tell me the truth, no matter how I look."

"That check, that check," she moaned.

"Well, what about it? What has the check to do with your going away?"

"The check," she murmured, "is gone."

"Who has it? Did you cash it and have you lost the money?"

"I have lost the money," she said, "but I did not cash the check. It was burned."

"Burned! Who burned it?"

"Oh, I did, by accident. I was drying the ink before the fire, and somehow it caught, and I had not presence of mind enough to save it."

"But what has all that to do with your running away?"

She looked up at him in surprise.

"It has everything to do with it," she said. "I could not face you after losing $200."

"Good gracious, Lillian," he cried, a light breaking in upon him. "You surely don't imagine you have lost anything by the burning of the check?"

"Was it not for $200?" she asked in surprise.

Tom's overstrained feelings gave way. He sat down on a chair and laughed.

"Lillian," he said at last, "is that all?"

"All!" she cried, astonished at his behavior. "Is it not enough, when we have so little money?"

"My dear girl," he said, rising and kissing her, "the check is but a piece of paper. It is not like a bank note. The burning of the check is nothing. It only puts me to the trouble of writing another. Ignorance may be bliss, but it has given me a very bad half an hour."

"Dear me," said the little woman, looking at him with wide eyes. "What in the world did you suspect?"

"Nothing," said Tom.

Classification of Noses.

Were a classification of noses made according to their respective merits as judged by the ordinary phrenological standard, they might be placed in something like the following order:

First Class.—The classical Roman and Grecian types.

Second Class.—The blended Graeco-Roman type; for example, the great Napoleon, Savonarola, and Marie Antoinette had noses of this class.

Third Class.—The sanguine type; a long, straight nose, with which many illustrious men and women have been endowed, such as Francis L. Henry Irving, Charles Dickens, Thomas Carlyle.

Fourth Class.—The Jewish type. Though distinctive of the race from which it has taken its name, many Gentiles have been equipped with this powerfully-outlined nose—the late "George Eliot," for instance, though without the slightest strain of Jewish blood in her veins, was highly distinguished in this respect.

Fifth Class.—This class, while still a good type of nose, is slightly indicative of weakness, and yet mirable dictu, notable men like Martin Luther, Charles Darwin, and Pasteur had nothing better to show.

Sixth and Seventh may be bracketed together, as they include both the various common types of nose to be seen every day, and the weak, imperfect type owned to a large extent by the thriftless and criminal classes.—Cassell's Family Magazine for June.

In the Mormon Tabernacle.

"There never was a building like it in the world," said the bishop. "It was Brigham Young's idea."

In we went and stood in the enormous interior in which 6,000 persons may sit on any day, and 10,000 can be seated if stools are brought in. Not even Henry Ward Beecher's old Plymouth Church is more plain and bare. It is just a great hall with a wide gallery around three sides, with little wooden posts, which look like marble, to support the gallery; with battalions of pews on the floors, and a gigantic organ at one end rising above the greatest choir space I ever saw in a church. And that, in turn, is above a terraced series of platforms leading down to the main floor, like a very broad but short staircase.

A man stood at the end of the church. He said: "Go up in the gallery and walk to the other end of the building. It is 250 feet long and 140 feet wide, yet when I whisper you will hear me, so perfect are the acoustic properties of the building." I walked the length of the church.

My footsteps were repeated so many times in echoes that the reverberation sounded like a drummer's roll-call—almost as if 'twas a regiment marching. From where I stood at last, the man who had spoken looked like a boy. He held up his hand. "Answer me in a natural tone when I speak to you. I am going to whisper." (Then the whisper came, distinctly, "Can you hear me whisper? I am going to drop a pin on this altar rail, see if you hear it.") He held the pin two inches above the rail and dropped it. I heard it as if—as I never supposed a pin could make itself heard a foot away. "And now," said the man, "see and hear what I do now."

He rubbed his hands together, and a sound like a loud rustle of silk floated through the hall. Afterwards I sat by that amiable and ingenious man, and saw him go through the performance for others. The only trick was in the building.

Bishop Preston, seated with me in the echo-haunted hall, then told me what I would see were it Sunday. In the choir space I would see 300 trained singers and the organist. At the top of the terraces of benches would sit President Willford Woodruff (the Brigham Young of to-day), an aged man who knew the founders of the church, was long an Apostle, and now is "Presiding High Priest." He has two counselors, and all three compose what is called the First Presidency of the church. Next below—one step down—I would see such of Twelve Apostles as might be then in Salt Lake City, and their President. These, I was told, are gifted eloquent preachers and theologians. Then would be seen on lower tiers the Seventies, who now number 100 quorums of seventy ministers each. Every Seventy has seven Presidents, who are the directors of the group. The seven First Presidents of the Seventies are the directors of all the Seventies in the world. They are ministers spreaders of the gospel. Their work is that of the Apostles, who are too few in number to do what is required, and therefore have this assistance.

Next below would be seen, on a Sunday, the Presidents of Stakes—a stake being what we call a county. These diocesan rulers have spiritual control over all the bishops, whom they instruct and direct. Next would come the Eighties, or elders, of whom there is a host. They are often called upon to preach, and are preparing to become "Seventies," or full-fledged preachers. Next would be seen the Presiding Bishops in charge of the temporal affairs of the church. The Presiding High Priest, his two counselors, the Apostles, and the Presiding Bishops, are the general officers of the Church. On each side of these terraced platforms was an enclosure, railed off. One was for the Bishops of Wards, and the other for High Counsellors and High Priests. Ending the series of departments, between the leaders and the plain saints, was the communion table, on which the bread and water rest every Sunday.—Julian Ralph, in Harper's Weekly.

Fleming, of Dexter; Kelly, of Ann Arbor; Goldrick, of Northfield; DeBever, of Detroit; and Kessler, of Detroit, and Kennedy, of Ypsilanti. The church was well filled and presented a handsome appearance. —Ypsilanti Sentinel.

The Manchester Enterprise starts out with this: "The latest fish story, but a true one, is that Jackie Kessler saw a large pickerel swimming in the pond near Rehlfuss' ice house, and picking up a stone, hit it on the head, stunning it so that it swam around and finally went over the dam, when Fred Werner jumped into the water up to his arm-pits, caught the fish and brought it to shore."

The Dexter News says that on Tuesday of last week "The tail of a western terror whipped through our village and tore things up in great shape." The fact is the village had a close call for a cyclone, but the wind did not get in first-class working condition before leaving town. Several barns were taken off their foundations, chimneys blown down and roofs damaged, but no such wind as Ypsilanti had. The News tries hard to dim the lustre of Ypsilanti's great event, but doesn't quite make it.

Secretary Baker of the state board of health says that act 137 of the public acts of 1883, authorizes the health officer of any township, city or village in case of small pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever or communicable diseases dangerous to the public health, to "order the prompt and thorough isolation of those sick or infected with such disease so long as there is danger of their communicating the disease to other persons," and provides for a fine not to exceed $100, or imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding 90 days or both, for any violation of the acts.

A little girl was sent into a neighbor's house the other evening to borrow a copy of the local paper. She departed with the treasure, but returned a few moments later with the request that the man of the house loan her mother his spectacles. "Well, by George!" ejaculated the astonished citizen, "isn't that asking a little too much?" "No, indeed," answered the little girl, "mother says you won't need your glasses as long as she has your newspaper; you can spare them just as well as not." He spared them. —Chelsea Standard.

The Sparrow Pest.

The following relative to that unmitigated nuisance, the English Sparrow, will meet with a hearty response from every place where this pest has been present. It is taken from the Saline Observer: "When the sparrow law was a few years ago by the legislature voted upon the people of this state, many looked up to it as an outrage, and a useless burden of expense. True it is, it may have had that appearance, yet who will not to-day stand firm to have it continued in force. A few years ago sparrows came in flocks, and with the exceptions of a few blue jays, black birds, and robins, were the only birds we had, the sparrow law came in effect and this spring we can readily see its effect. Only now and then do we see a sparrow, and songsters and many more of our native birds are coming back where they will be welcomed. The sparrow law should become a fixture and remain in force so long as a sparrow remains on the face of the globe."

Geo. Conkleman, a Morenci wagon maker, was married in Adrian Wednesday last week, to Miss Jennie Rockoll, of Ann Arbor. The wagon maker, being a right good "fellow," Jennie found her "tongue" as soon as he "spoke" about it, without waiting to be "hounded." Then he "reached" his arm around her and said he would "bolster" her up through life as long as there was a "hub" above the mud. —Adrian Press.

Again one of Ann Arbor's citizens has been honored. Mr. Frank Minnis, of this city, has just been notified that for his invention of a patent filled razor strop the distinguished title of "Member of Honor," with award of the first-class diploma and the great gold medal of the Parisian Inventor's Academy, of Paris, France, has been conferred upon him. —Daily Times.

The lives and liberties of Ann Arbor are endangered by children in arms with sparrow guns. Aluminum armor and helmets are suggested as the most practicable means of safety. Well, that would be one good way. Another would be for parents to fall upon the army and perform an electric rattatattoo, upon the rear guards. —Adrian Press.

But when the male parent is as bad as the son, then what is to be done?

Masculinities.

A grievance to a man is what a sore heel is to a boy. There is nothing the devil works harder to do than to keep a bad man from thinking about his good mother. When a member of a corporation wanted his picture in an heroic attitude, the artist painted him in the act of refusing a drink.

One day of sickness will do more to convince a young man that his mother is his best friend, than seventeen volumes of proverbs.

GEMS IN VERSE.

The Fortune Teller.

She stood in the weird first twilight
By the fire of the gypsy camp,
Surrounded by shadows, half startled
By the crackle of horses' tramp;
New England, blue eyed and slender,
And Italy, haggard and fell;
The past had been spoken—the future
Those ominous lips should foretell.

"My husband," she blushed; "shall I see him
Ere the maples turn to gold?"
"Your husband," she pondered, "your husband,
Ere olives are picked you behold;
His face is handsome and manly;
His hand has the grasp of a king;
Ask not beyond this for the harvest;
Know only how fair is the spring."

"In palace or cottage or castle,
In city or town shall we live?"
"Ah, daughter, you ask of the future
More than you wish I should give.
If the hand that shall guard and protect you
Has love in its press, ne'er complain;
Your home shall be sweeter for dreaming,
Though your castle's—castle in Spain."

Zack Bumsted uster flosserize
About the ocean an the skies,
An gab and gas from morn till noon
About the other side the moon,
An 'bout the natur' of the place
Ten miles be-and the end of space.
An if his wife sh'd ask the crank
If he wouldn't kinder try to yank
Hissell outdoors an git some wood
To make her kitchen fire good,
So she c'd bake her beans an pies,
He'd say, "I've gotter flosserize."

An then he'd set an flosserize
About the natur' an the size
Of ancel's wings, an think an gawp
An wonder how they made 'em top.
He wondered ef yer bored a hole
Right through the yerth 'um pole to pole,
An then sh'd trip an stumble through,
The best thing you had ought to do.
He'd calculate how long a skid
'Twould take to move the sun, he did,
An if the skid wuz strong an prime,
It couldn't be moved to supper time.
An w'en his wife 'ud ask the lout
Ef he wouldn't kinder wait about
An take a rag an shoe the flies,
He'd say, "I've gotter flosserize."

An so he'd set an flosserize
About the yerth an sea an skies,
An scratch his head an ask the cause
Of w'at there wuz before time wuz,
An w'at the universe 'ud do
Bimeby w'en time had all got through!
An jest how fur we'd hev to climb
Ef we sh'd travel out er time,
An ef we'd need w'en we got there
To keep our watches in repair.
Then, of his wife sh'd ask the gawk
Ef he wouldn't kinder try to yank
To where she had the table spread
An kinder git his stomach fed
He'd leap for that ar kitchen door
An say, "W'y didn't you speak afore?"

An w'en he'd got his supper et,
He'd set an set an set an set,
An fold his arms an shet his eyes,
An set an set an flosserize. —S. W. Foss.

When Jim Was Dead.

When Jim was dead,
"Hit saved him right," the nabors sed,
An 'bused him for the life he led,
An him-lyin' that ar rest to do.
With not a rose upon his breast!
Ah! menny cruel words they sed
When Jim was dead.

"Jes' killed hisself," "Too mean ter live."
They didn't hev one word ter give
Of comfort as they hovered near
An gazed on Jim a-lyin' there!
"Thar ain't no use to talk," they sed,
"He's better dead."

But suddenly the room grew still,
Wh' God's white sunshine seemed ter fill
The dark place with a gleam of life,
An o'er the dead she bent—Jim's wife
An with her lips close, close to his,
As though he knew an felt the kiss,
She sobbed—a touchin' sight ter see—
"Ah, Jim was always good ter me!"

I tell you when that cum to light
It kinder set the dead man right,
An round the weepin' woman they
Threw kindly arms of love that day,
An mingled with her own they shed
The tenderest tears—when Jim was dead.
—Frank L. Stanton.

A Gift Divine.

This gift is given,
This gift from heaven,
Unto a few
Through veins with human frailty filled
A glow divine is found distilled.

There's music rare
Played in the air
To such a one,
And measured by its mystic flow
His breathing and his movements go.

As through the sky
The meteors fly,
So dart his glance,
Or it would seem, though soft hands
Had waved before his face like fans.

By man and beast,
From great to least
He will be loved,
A child will sit upon his knee
And seek his face confidingly.

He cannot rest
Without the best
The world can give.
Our trustest thought to him we bring;
Our sweetest song to him we sing.

And if we find,
Like all mankind,
He, too, can sin,
We feel, though we sigh or weep,
His part divine is but asleep.

—Eleanor B. Caldwell.

Drawing the Cider.

To draw the cider we were sent—
We two on mirth and mischief bent—
She bore the candle flaring high;
The old blue figured pitcher, I.

What shadows o'er the cellar wall
Tossed, huge and shapeless, dim and tall!
What eerie sounds from rack and bin,
And casks that pent real spirits in!

The spigot turned, both heads bent low
To watch the amber current flow;
The candle light flared strangely dim—
The pitcher must not overbump.

So close, so close our faces drew,
Our lips had touched—before we knew,
And ere they parted—rogues disgraced—
Six quarts of cider went to waste!

—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

Love Is Not Free.

Love is not free to take, like sun and air,
Nor give away for naught to any one.
It is no common right for men to share.
Like all things precious, it is sought and won.

So if another is more loved than you
Say not, "It is unjust," but say, "If she
Has earned more love than I it is her due.
When I deserve more it will come to me."

—Susan Coolidge.

From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods there be,
That no life lives forever,
That dead men rise no more,
That even the wisest die,
Winds somewhere safe to sea.

Mrs. Million's Ride.

When Mrs. Million goes to ride, she travels forth in state,
Her horses, full of fire and pride, go
prancing from the gate;
But all the beauties of the day she views with languid eye,
Her flesh in weakness wastes away,
her voice is but a sigh.

For Mrs. Million is in an advanced stage of catarrh, and all the luxuries that wealth can but fail to give her comfort. She envies her rosk waiting-maid, and would give all her riches for that young woman's pure breath and blooming health. Now, if some true and disinterested friend would advise Mrs. Million of the won-

Remedy, she would learn that her case is not past help. $500 reward is offered by the manufacturers for a case of catarrh in the head which they cannot cure.
