ANN ARBOR'S NEW P. M.
 Some Remarks About Him Wise and Otherwise.

The nomination of E. B. Pond as postmaster of this city, by President Cleveland, has caused a terrible ruction in the democracy of this county. No charges can be brought against the gentleman except that he has sometimes been independent in local matters, and is not as young as some of the other candidates.

The Detroit Journal dishes up the following:

According to the Detroit Journal of last Thursday, some of the dispatches sent to Washington, D. C., respecting the nomination of E. B. Pond as post master of this city were rather ludicrous. For instance, the late candidate for mayor on the democratic ticket accuses Pond of not being a democrat. That gentleman must have suddenly forgotten that he himself was a candidate for mayor in the republican convention a night or so previous to his nomination by the democrats, and that the last time he was elected to office it was upon the republican ticket. It hardly seems as though he could consistently question another man's democracy. Another dispatch was from a gentleman who claimed that Mr. Pond had run upon the republican ticket and defeated him for the office of justice. That was not a discreet dispatch. The admission that Mr. Pond defeated him was a pointer for the enemy. This city was easily 150 democratic at that time, and his election must have shown the authorites that Pond was really a popular person after all.

The assertion that "Pond's appointment is a disgrace to the democracy," as one dispatch stated, was not a wise one. It showed malignity for every citizen of Ann Arbor, and many citizens of the state know that no one can point to a dishonorable or even a questionable act of his life, and that there is no more reputable, honorable and pure man, in all the walks of life, to be found anywhere. His appointment could not bring disgrace upon any party, however much it may have nauseated other candidates and their friends.

Politics cuts up some queer antics occasionally, and this appears to be one of its freaky years.

The Adrian Press remarks: "The president has nominated E. B. Pond, for postmaster at Ann Arbor. Mr. Gorman was evidently asleep, for he didn't know the president was going to send in any name till he had filed his recommendations. The appointment is not his choice, but he ought to have expressed his choice, if he expected to have any influence. Mr. Pond is well known in Ann Arbor, and is a strong Cleveland man. He is a wheel horse of democracy, and has swung around rather too suddenly for the leaders."

The following paragraph is taken from the Evening Record, a paper of which S. W. Beakes of the Argus, was then editor and proprietor, published at Adrian, under date of Aug. 22, 1885. Of course, the calm, cool soothing advice then given is not applicable now. It is different. But many of our readers will be entertained in its personal:

"The whole trouble arises from the fact that Col. Eldredge did not secure the appointment of one good man, Capt. Manly, as postmaster at Ann Arbor but did secure the appointment of another man who is admitted by everyone, not excepting the Post correspondent to be equally as good. And this is a great matter over which to get up a quarrel that will disturb the party in the county! Because one man does not receive the reward he seeks for faithful party service, must forsooth a whole party suffer loss? Is a party made to advance the interests of a few leaders? We believe Capt. Manly to be too brave and manly a man to do aught that would lead his friends to adopt such a suicidal policy. We believe him to be too shrewd a politician not to see that it would ruin his own chances for future preferment. We believe also that he is too much of a democrat to think for a moment of doing so. Nor will he, if he be the wise man we think he is passively allow his friends to make a futile fight on his account. There is nothing now at stake. Mr. Duffy has been appointed postmaster at Ann Arbor. Everybody believes he will make a good postmaster. And Capt. Manly can look elsewhere for official honors."

The Detroit Journal dishes up the following:

Ann Arbor has been shaken from center to circumference by something and that something is solemnly asserted to be the referee system. The appointment of Elihu B. Pond to be postmaster of that city has given the fighting Democracy of that town the jimmies, which the most powerful sedatives are powerless to relieve. The wishes of the party, it is claimed, have been entirely ignored; the party hustlers have been unmercifully turned down, and the remains of the party itself are soon to be removed to the University pickling vats, in anticipation of which the medical students are sending fond farewells to their homes and hoping for the best.

And where was Gorman when the light went out? Where was the intrepid leader, the unshackled arbiter, the regular pap dispenser who was going to pass around the pie to the boys that saw the wood? Did the referee system get the start of him?

Was he compelled to succumb? Did he lie down and hold his breath while this Democratic elephant walked over him? Or did he jump on and ride?

All these questions will have to be answered categorically, without mental reservation or secret evasion, or even the squint of one eye. There is a fearful responsibility going to settle down somewhere and when it falls where it belongs there will be a sickening crunching of bones. Whether his sin be one of omission or of commission Congressman Gorman must pay the penalty.

Personally, the new postmaster is unobjectionable, which to some people is a very serious objection. Politically, he is a frequent contributor to the Detroit Free Press, and usually throws a good deal of light on ancient history. There is only one man in the state who can beat him at this and he is Byron G. Stout, of Pontiac.

Judge Pond is a handsome man and every pore of his body sweats pure Democracy. There can't be any jiggery-pokery about that. He was a Democrat before the present generation of Democratic hustlers in Washtenaw county ever smashed a nursing bottle. He is a man of much more than ordinary ability—but this is rubbing it in on some of the hustlers, and they are enough now.

Let us not lose sight of the main question. Was Congressman Gorman outgeneraled by the referees, or has he been fooling the boys?—Detroit Journal.

Does He Lose his Citizenship?

The idea that because a man enters the employ of the state that he must become entirely neutral in the affairs of government is a preposterous one. No person loses his citizenship in this country by entering the employ of the state or nation, in any capacity whatever, and all such "arguments" are but folly.

The danger to our free institutions does not come from the better class of people participating in political caucuses, conventions, and elections, but in their not participating therein.

A man who does not have sufficient interest in the government of his ward or township, in his county or state to devote a few hours each year thereto in an effort to secure the nomination and election of good men, is not a patriotic citizen.

He neglects a duty as sacred as is his duty to his family.

Instead of criticising such men for taking an active part in such affairs there ought to be a law compelling them to do so.

This country has nothing to fear from the activity of its good citizens in politics, whether they be professors, ministers, or business men, or employed in any other capacity. But it has much to fear if they neglect their duty and allow affairs to be conducted by the idle and "floating" element of society.

There is a good prospect for the United States Express Co. to come into Ann Arbor over the motor line. It would be a great help to the merchants, by giving better facilities and rates.

Death of D. D. Travis.

Last week, D. D. Travis, of Cooper, Kalamazoo county, father of John E. Travis and Mrs. J. E. Beal, was in Ann Arbor, but when the physicians told him that his sickness was from cancer of the stomach and would soon terminate fatally, he asked to be taken back to the old homestead to die among his old neighbors and friends. He was taken on Monday to Kalamazoo where a special train took him on the G. R. & I. railroad to the station of Travis, on his farm. To the last his mind was clear as ever. He greeted his relatives, neighbors and friends who came from all about the county, bidding them good bye. All the details of his approaching funeral he discussed, picking out the hymns to be sung, and the old minister from New York state, whom he wished to preach. He died on Tuesday morning, nearly 72 years old, having lived over forty years on the farm which he subdued from the wilderness. Every foot of it was dear to him, crowded with memories of hard but sweet and successful labor. He was always ahead of his work, taking pride in it and doing it thoroughly. His heart kept ever young, so that he had even more friends among the young than among those older. Very independent in character, with a high ideal of honor, a quaintness and originality of expression, just such an one to make a force among men and leave behind pleasant memories full of helpfulness. The funeral takes place tomorrow at his old home.

The Kalamazoo Telegraph, of April 10, has this notice of the deceased: Daniel D. Travis, of Cooper, died this morning at 1 o'clock. He was 71 years old. He had lived in Cooper sixty years and at the home where he died forty-four years. He was born near Albany, N. Y. His father's family removed to Ohio when he was 8 years old and to Michigan three years later. He was married to Miss Louisa Hart, of Cooper, forty-five years ago. She survives him. All his children were constantly with him for the last ten days of his life. His children are James N. Travis, of Plainwell, John E., of Ann Arbor, Mrs. J. E. Beal, of Ann Arbor, and Frank D. who lives in the homestead at Cooper.

Judge Pond is a handsome man and every pore of his body sweats pure Democracy. There can't be any jiggery-pokery about that. He was a Democrat before the present generation of Democratic hustlers in Washtenaw county ever smashed a nursing bottle. He is a man of much more than ordinary ability—but this is rubbing it in on some of the hustlers, and they are enough now.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Cooper Rev. James H. Williams of New York state, a former pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Bochoven, of Cooper. The interment will be in the Cooper cemetery.

"Mr. Travis was a pioneer of Kalamazoo county. He was widely known and much respected for his integrity. From choice he had never held office of any kind. He had accumulated much property by industry and thrift, strictly, as he never speculated. He was a consistent member of the First Congregational church.

"Mr. Travis was a man who did many good actions in an unostentatious way. That these facts were appreciated appear from the large number of friends who called to express their sympathy during his last illness. Among these were some who had formerly been in his employ and who realized the kindly relations which they had sustained with the deceased.

"The subject of this sketch was patient to the last. He realized that death was coming and coming in a painful form, but he did not murmur. He was taken to Ann Arbor for treatment about four weeks ago, but it was evident that there was no hope for him and one week ago he was brought to Cooper, he saying that he wished to die in the old homestead. There, surrounded by the kind ministrations of his family and friends, he passed away.

The great feature of the entertainment is a mimic game of foot ball, participated in by two mighty teams, known as the Hayales and the Hearties. This is said to be absolutely the funniest thing of the kind ever seen on the stage, and reflects great credit on Messrs. Primrose & West, as originators.

Monday of last week was Thos. Jefferson's birthday. The republicans celebrated it in a way that must have made the ashes of the old statesman assume a carmine tint. Even Chicago came into the republican camp. There appears to be no place to which the democrats can turn for consolation.

There were many democrats who voted the republican ticket for the first time last week. To them we wish to extend a hand of welcome, and express the hope that they may feel so much at home that they will remain where they naturally belong, with the party of progress, the party that believes in protecting American labor, American products, American industries and American homes. It is the party that brings prosperity to the nation, and happiness to the people—stay by it.

Mr. Whiting, of Port Huron, announces himself a democratic candidate for governor as against any candidate favored by Hon. Don M. Dickinson and the referees. Mr. Dickinson will probably allow Mr. Whiting to have the nomination without contest, well knowing that the people will "settle his hash" at the polls next November, and re-elect Gov. Rich by the largest majority any governor ever received. That will be the graceful thing for Mr. Dickinson to do, and will effectually dispose of his rivals.

The sort of government the populists would give the people is very plainly shown by their deeds wherever they have come into power. Within a period of less than two and one-half years the populist governors of Kansas, Colorado and South Carolina have found it necessary to call upon the state militia of their respective states, to back them up in their arrogance and to put down the people for whom the populists are supposed to stand. A set of cranks can never run the affairs of state in a peaceful and intelligent manner.

A report has been prepared by the Canadian government, from the returns of the custom houses, which shows that in the year 1893 no fewer than 42,000 Canadians had come to the United States with the intention of making this country their home, returned to their native land.

The fact presents the misfortunes of the American republic, following the establishment of democratic rule at Washington, in a most striking light. Times must be very bad here when 42,000 Canadians are driven home in a single year. Usually all that is necessary to make a Canadian settle down in this country forever is a few months of life on the live side of the border.

One of the first battles ever fought by men on the road to civilization was that for the right to own land. The fight is still going on in some parts of Texas. For many years the stock of cattle and sheep owners roamed indiscriminately over the unpeopled lands of the great state. Then small owners bought the lands. The sheep owners in some cases are still claiming the right to pasture their flocks on the same ground. There is a war between the free grazers and the ranchmen. Two of the sheep herders were lately killed on the Pecos river. But the free grazers will have to give in ultimately to the men who own the land and want to pasture their own stock upon it.

Mrs. Lease lectures upon the subject "Am I a Mason?" There is a way of ascertaining the fact if the lady is willing to be tried.

In Hillsdale the republicans elected every supervisor in the county with one exception. What a host of committees that poor fellow will have to serve on to represent the minority!

Barnum was right. The people like to be humbugged—particularly the anti-saloon people, and the catchy "non-partisan" at election time, will humbug 'em every time.—Democrat.

In deed?

It has long been the proud boast of Britons that the sun never sets on English soil. Americans have a right to brag in this way also for when it is 6 p. m. at Atto Island, Alaska, it is 9:36 a. m. the next day on the coast of Maine.—Northville Record.

Uncle Sam has known this for over a quarter of a century and never thought it worth bragging over.

When we secure the Hawaiian Islands then we shall have sunshine all the time.

Judge Hoadley, of Ohio, who is still a democrat, of course, says the cause of all the gloom and business depression is "the attempt of the southern brigadiers to ruin the country as they did in 1861." The judge is a wise judge in this respect. Any approach this country has ever made toward the southern doctrine of free trade has always brought about business disaster and ruin to the country. It is refreshing to hear a democrat give the true cause.

In a recent issue our neighbor of the Argus grew very indignant because some of the ministers of the city had interested themselves in city affairs, and had spoken their minds relative to the enforcement of the laws. He had nothing to say, however, relative to the interest taken in politics by every bar in the city, and the influence wielded by them seven days in the week. What the ministers were striving to do was to get one day in the week when their opponents would have to keep quiet and they themselves could be heard.

The Democrat calls the Hon. T. Griffin down because he had the honor and manhood to vote against his party colleagues in congress when he knew them to be wrong, and attempting an injustice. Mr. Griffin had investigated the case, knew what he was doing when he voted as he did, and acted from honorable motives, such motives as ought to actuate every member of congress, no matter what party he may represent.

It is just possible that had the editor of the Democrat understood the case as well as did Mr. Griffin, the criticism would never have been uttered. It is easy to find fault, especially when the faultfinder knows nothing about the matter; but the people respect a man who acts honestly even if that action does not help questionable party designs along.

The prediction of Edison that at the end of this century horses would be no longer used for draft purposes in the great cities of the world, bids fair to become realized. An Englishman in London has perfected a wagon that is propelled by electricity, the current being supplied by accumulators placed beneath the body of the vehicle, and capable of traveling fifty miles, at any rate of speed desired up to ten miles per hour, with one charge. The interior of the vehicles is lighted by electricity, and the steering is easily done by means of a wheel in the hands of the motor man. In England it is thought the electric wagon has come to stay, as tests made prove that this motor costs less than half the expense of horse power. Besides it is clean, neat, noiseless, and more compact than the ordinary wagon. All hail the electric wagon.

The Power of the Law.

Every criminal is an enemy of society. The aggregation of criminals constitutes a great army at war with society. It costs society—the good people of the country—an immense sum of money to protect themselves agaist the foe. Under these circumstances it would seem that every law-abiding citizen should always act with his own class; extend his sympathies to the good rather than the bad, and beware of doing anything to aid, comfort or encourage the enemy.

The reason crime is as rampant as it is, lies in the fact that crime does not understand how strong law is, or might be. That is the lesson that ought to be taught—the overwhelming power of the law. If that were done the innocent might sleep, or walk the highways in peace and safety.

Reprieves, pardons, remission of penalties, delays in the operation of law are favors conferred on the enemy. It should be seriously considered whether society, in the present circumstances, is in a condition to grant any favors.—Kansas City Star.

THE FRUITS OF FOLLY.

The employers of labor in the Connelly coke region have been reaping the legitimate fruits of their own folly, and if their property has been endangered they have nobody to blame but themselves.

When they had trouble with their American miners and coke workers a few years ago, a movement which has resulted in filling counties of southwestern Pennsylvania with foreign workingmen was decided upon. Men were imported by the thousands from the worst quarters of Europe to take the places of independent Americans. These men were chosen because they had been used to pauper wages at home and because it was believed they could be more easily handled in case of trouble than the workmen whose places they were to take. No sooner did the Huns, Poles, and other foreigners become used to American ways, however, than they began to cause trouble. They have little regard for the law, and force is the only weapon to which they resort when they have demands to make.

The riots that have been in progress in and around Uniontown, Scottsdale, and other places affected by the coke strike might have been expected when a reduction of wages was decided upon. The laws ought to be enforced and we hope they always will be, but we do not think any sympathy should be wasted upon the employers who have made the occurrence of such outbreaks possible.

Crop Report for April.

March was remarkable for high temperature and moderate amount of precipitation. Reports are not yet at hand from all stations in the State, but at the State Board of Health station at Lansing, the records show it to have been the warmest March in sixteen years. The mean temperature of the month was 40.48 degrees, or 9 degrees above the normal. The mean temperature of the first twenty-four days was about 44.65 degrees, or 13 degrees above the normal. The highest temperature recorded was 74 degrees on the 18th. A cold wave passed over the State on the 25th, and the weather from that date to the end of the month was severely cold. The mean temperature of the last week of the month was below 28 degrees. On the 25th the temperature dropped to 10 degrees. This was the lowest point during the month.

Since April 1 the temperature has gone below the freezing point on all except two days.

The average precipitation in March was 1.26 inches. Three inches of snow fell on the 28th.

As usual wheat on the summit and west side of hills, and on clay and undrained lands, has been somewhat injured, but as a whole the crop has wintered well.

The averages of the estimates of correspondents are for the southern counties 39 per cent; central counties, 41 per cent; northern counties, 49 per cent; and State, 90 per cent, comparison being with average years.

Correspondents, in their remarks, report the crop in good condition, much better condition than usual at the end of an "open" March.

In 1893 the average condition April 1, in the southern counties was 81, central 91, State 84; in 1892, southern counties 90, central 89, State 90.

The average condition this year, in the southern counties is eight points better, and in the State six points better than on April 1, 1893.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in March is 1,138,557. At 27 elevators and mills from which reports have been received, there was no wheat marketed during the month.

The average condition of clover meadows and pastures is as follows: Southern counties, 49 per cent, central, 87, northern, 95 and State, 82 per cent.

Farm animals are in good condition.

During the warm weather that prevailed previous to the 25th of March fruit buds developed to some considerable extent, and grave fears were felt that the cold wave of that date would work great harm if not ruin to the crop. A large number of letters, which will be published in full in the final report, have been received from fruit specialists since April 1, but at the time they were written the growers themselves were not entirely satisfied as to the amount of damage. The Grand River Valley Horticultural Society, March 27, believed no harm had been done, but one of its members a few days later found pears and peaches badly injured. Iowa growers think their crop injured but a trifle. A St. Joseph correspondent thinks peaches all killed. At South Haven a fair crop of all kinds of fruit is expected. In Washtenaw peach buds had "started to bloom," in some cases showing color. All such on low ground are killed, while those on higher ground are not injured. Apples and other fruits on high lands have escaped.

A fair conclusion from these letters is that the early and tender varieties of fruit, especially peaches and pears, have been injured, but the later and harder kinds are yet safe. This is particularly true of apples. There is no reason why a full crop of this fruit should not be expected.

Hardwood ashes are worth from $22 to $40 per ton for use as fertilizers in the eastern states, yet you can find an ash pile in the rear of nearly every farm house in the country. They are worth just as much to the farmers here as they are in New York and Pennsylvania. If properly used they will return to you their value in an increase of crops.

They are particularly rich in the elements that contribute to the growth of fruit. Many of these apparently trivial matters are the leaks that take away the profits of the farm and cause the farmers to announce that "farming don't pay."

Poor farming don't pay nor never will.

MARTIN HALLER.

Who Can Answer This?

Ed. Courier:—A friend of the writer, who is a legal voter in one of the wards of this city, but who is a student of the University also—such a combination I believe is legally possible is it not?—registered, and offered his vote at the recent municipal election. His vote was challenged, and in the oath that the inspector of election proposed to administer to him was incorporated in writing a sentence to the effect that he must swear that he was not a student of the University.

The young man could not swear that he was not a student when he was one, although he was a legal voter and had a right to exercise this highest privilege as an American citizen.

What I should like to know is where that board of election received its authority for changing the oath to be admin' tered from the form that is laid down in the statute?

Did not the board assume an unwarranted authority when it added that sentence, and are the members thereof not punishable under the law for disfranchising a legal voter by compelling him to swear to that if he exercised his right of franchise?

If I am not mistaken it is a serious offense under the law to illegally disfranchise a citizen, and I should like to have you, Mr. Editor, tell the people, if you can, where that board obtained its authority for the action that it took.

Very truly yours,

JUSTICE.

(The editor of this paper is not a lawyer, and makes no pretense at understanding the many intricacies and technicalities with which modern law is often hedged about. It is our opinion, however, that if the board did as represented, it overstepped its authority.—Ed.)

How Ruthie Worried Grover.

It was evening at the white house, and all was quiet. The head of the great nation was reading beside a table; the powerful body of the great head rested in easy negligee in a comfortable chair. He was reading the editorials in the Squawkinville Statesman. In glowing terms and incontrovertible logic they upheld the policy of the administration. It was evening at the white house and all was quiet. But while he read his wife and two children entered the room. The great man gave them a pleasant smile and continued reading. It was a pleasant scene; the great man, the beautiful woman and the happy children; the beautiful woman busied with some handwork and the children playing near by on the floor. Then the little girl commenced to sing nursery songs in a low tone. She sang:

"Monkey, monkey, barrel of beer."

"How many monkeys are there here?"

"One, two, three, four goes he."

As she sang the words she pointed to the persons in the room and ended with Grover. He heard her, and frowning slightly, stirred in his chair.

"That's not pretty to sing to papa;

Ruthie must sing something else," said the beautiful lady. Then after a little silence the childish voice trilled out again:

"Wire, briar, brier lock,

"One flew east and one flew west,

"And one flew over the cuckoo's nest."

The last word was drowned in a groan as the great man rose from his chair and fled hastily from the room. The lady followed him. He left one of his slippers on the way.

The little child went and looked at it in wonder. Then she dragged it after her parents. It was evening at the white house and all was quiet.

ANDY NAME.

Bright Spring Days.

The spring should be pre-eminently a season of contentment, happiness and hope. In these bright and pleasant months the country should enjoy its highest degree of tranquillity and prosperity.

But spring, it is well known, is often a period of discomfort and disturbance in the physical system.

Important organs of the body become torpid or irregular in their action, and the fact is instantly reflected in the mental condition of the individual. A disordered liver means disordered nerves and a dull and unsteady brain.

Anything which will bring the physical system into harmony with budding Nature confers an enormous benefit upon the nation, besides the mere alloying of physical discomfort. Hood's Sarsaparilla does this, as thousands of grateful and happy men and women can testify, and increased use of this standard spring medicine is of more real practical importance in promoting health and quiet in the business world than reams of abstract theorizing.

Clay Waite, of Scio, has gone into the poultry business.

Dexter's marshal has a new uniform which is quite martial in looks.

The republicans came out ahead in Wayne by majorities ranging from 141 to 172.

The republican ticket was elected in Dundee by majorities ranging from 180 to 320.

Wm. Clements, of Lodi, received a prize at the World's Fair for wheat which he exhibited.

At Plymouth the entire republican ticket was elected by majorities ranging from 270 to 300.

The stock yards at Chelsea are being moved further west to make room for C. J. Chandler & Co's new warehouse.

"Ike" Davis has shaved since election, and is a handsomer man than the Times pictured him.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

Ike Davis, who made a phenomenal aldermanic run in Ypsilanti, looks like a copy of the U. of M. Wrinkle.—Adrian Press.

Peach trees troubled with yellows, and cherry trees affected with black knot, must all be cut down and burned up. So says the law.

The Citizen's Lecture Association Course at Pinckney, paid all expenses and had $3.55 left on hand. C. M. Wood is the new president thereof.

Clinton, Lenawee county, elected the republican ticket entire at the last election, for the first time since the memory of man runneth back, says the Local.

George Calvin DeCamp, of Webster died March 30, aged 37 years. Funeral services were held at the Webster M. E. church, of which he was a member.

The Sunday School held every summer at Robert's school house east of Saline, has been started up again, being under the superintendence of W. J. Canfield, as formerly.

The cyclone Ypsilanti had this spring didn't destroy as much property as the one that visited the city last spring, but it hurt some candidates' feelings a great deal more.

Grass Lake's new butter factory began business Tuesday. The natives will now devote their leisure time to watching the butter-ly.—Dexter Leader.

Oh! my! How rancid!

James H. Webb sends in the election returns from Pittsfield and says the republicans make a gain in the majorities of over twenty votes. Coming events cast their shadows before.—Ypsilanti.

The last Stockbridge Sun came to us printed on calendarized book paper. Pretty expensive, but as the republican ticket was elected in that township by majorities ranging from 48 to 80, it is perfectly excusable.

Mrs. N. E. Crittenden, of Ypsilanti town is credited with having collected 57,000 common postage stamps that have been cancelled.—Dexter Leader.

Yes, but what does she propose to do with them? That's the sticker.

F. J. Riggs, well known here and a former pupil in our schools, now steadily rising in the law profession, making plans to practice law in Detroit, several well known legal firms having made him excellent propositions.—Chelsea Standard.

An exchange remarks: "It will soon be time to make gardens, and chickens should be confined so as not to trouble neighbors, says one of our best subscribers." Oh no! Don't shut up the chickens. They are needed to cultivate the ground, don't you know.

A Monroe chap last week slipped as he tried that oft repeated fool trick of catching on a moving train, and was flung with his feet under the cars. Strangely enough he drew those Monroe feet from under the car in time to save them. Everybody is wondering at it.—Adrian Press.

Brighton is to have a hydraulic system of water works. A company will utilize a large natural spring near the Wesleyan church and will put in a hydraulic ram with a capacity of running over 200 barrels a day. Pipes will be laid and residences supplied with water at a small expense.

Judging from the racket Monday night and the appearance of our streets Tuesday morning one would have imagined that the governor had called out the state troops and that they had put in several hours of active work.—Saline Observer.

If Saline ever had a right to rejoice, that was the night.

A few weeks ago a lady on Strawberry street put a hen to setting on a full nest of eggs. The hen was taken sick and died after a week or so, and the lady took the eggs, placed them in an old bread steamer, put a lighted lantern under it, and in due time was rewarded by seeing a number of little chicks pop from their close confinement. "Dundee first; the balance of the world afterward."—Dundee Ledger.

The Saline Farmer's Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. G. Hard on Friday April 13th. The topic for discussion will be "The Kind of Farming that Pays Best." T. Josenhans will lead the discussion and select reading will be given by Mrs. J. S. Wood.

The Courier accuses us of having had our streets "cleaned up and made slick and nice." For goodness' sake if such a report has spread, let us do a little to merit the accusation and not let the Courier forever lose its reputation for veracity.—Chelsea Standard.

The Chelsea Herald truthfully remarks: "A great source of disease is the pile of rubbish and filth that accumulates in yards and alleys during the winter months, and property owners should see that their premises and adjacent alleys are thoroughly cleaned before the weather gets too warm."

Gus Peters has got an office at last. He is now a member of the Board of Review of Scio township. It is a brilliant reward of the ambition of a lifetime. He can at last say: "I have sought it for years, at last I have got it, and now I shall review my neighbor's assessments." The office is not quite as acceptable as congressmen would have been—but it's an office, you know.

The Michigan electro-automatic telephone Co. are trying to establish their system of telephones in this city and it is probable that if 50 subscribers can be secured, it will be done. This system does away entirely with the central office and each subscriber makes his own connections. Their rates are $50 for residence and business place, $25 for residence and $30 for business places.—Ypsilanti.

After having been in a livery stable for seventeen years, a horse got tangled up in a blanket, and fell and broke his neck. He was much prized by the young people of Hillsdale, because he was so old and reliable that he was perfectly safe to drive in the evening with the lines dangling loosely over the dash.—Hudson Post. The writer of the above seems to understand all about that horse.

Over 1,000 citizens of Howell petitioned the council to have the liquor law enforced in that city.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Heaven for its mercy!—do the authorities of Howell, require the moral backing of a thousand citizens to enforce plain, every day laws? A city government like that hasn't time enough in its spine to whitewash the brim of a clown's hat.—Adrian Press.

That's probably true. It was democratic, you know.

Ypsilanti Sentinel: "A good story is told of the mayor-elect by one of the g. o. p. whom we will call Smith because that is not his name. A few days before the election, Smith met the 'non partisan' standard-bearer and suggested that he was a queer representative of the ministerial party, inasmuch as he had the reputation for the careless use of language. 'That is all right,' replied the candidate, 'I have quit swearing.' 'Quit! You can't quit! It isn't in your make up to quit,' said Smith. 'But, by ——, I tell you I have quit!' exclaimed the candidate—and his earnestness satisfied Smith."

For long time there has, between F. F. Tucker and Geo. Hammond, been considerable fun and strife as to who could out-do the other in fat wethers. Last Saturday they came together friendly and the fact was fully demonstrated that Mr. Tucker was entitled to wear the badge. On that day George delivered to our local buyer 96 head that gave an average weight of 121 pounds and Mr. Tucker unloaded at the same time and place 60 head, averaging 141 pounds each. Three and three-fourths and four cents was the price they received.—Saline Observer.

The Chelsea Standard makes this observation: "Parents who take their children out of school before they have finished their education, to set them to work or to let them learn some trade, as so many do yearly, make the greatest mistake possible, and one which they will all sometime regret. This is one of the most erroneous notions of economy one can conceive, and the example of hundreds who now regret this error, can be cited as evidence of this fact. Leave your children in school until they have learned all they can, no matter how hard you struggle with poverty, and your efforts will sometime be paid a thousand fold."

The new democratic supervisor of Sylvan is given the following send off by the Chelsea Herald: "Hiram Lighthall, our newly elected supervisor was born at Akron, Erie county N. Y., April 11, 1851. His parents were engaged in agricultural pursuits and Mr. Lighthall worked on the farm until he was 18 years old, when he learned the carpenter and joiner's trade, and was employed at that for 8 years. He came to Michigan in 1854, locating in Ingham county. He was engaged in farming near Leroy for 12 years, at Macon for four years, employed as carpenter at Saline for six years. In 1877 he located in Chelsea and for several years he was associated with Lathon Miller in the Chelsea Foundry and Machine Shop. After severing his connection with that concern, he established the Chelsea Planing and Saw Mill, which he still continues to run. Mr. Lighthall is a democrat whose exertions have added strength to his party in this county. He has acceptably filled a number of village offices. Socially he is as pleasant as a June morning. He possesses the qualifications necessary to make a popular supervisor."

HOW THE YEARS FLY!

The following, clipped from the Sharon correspondent of the Manchester Enterprise, will be pursued with interest by some of our readers:

It has been said, naught steals so silent as the foot of time. We never realized the saying so fully as when we heard that our neighbor, R. K. Fellows was 59 years old Wednesday. Those we live beside from year to year grow old apace, yet we are slow to see the changes time brings to us, for "the years steal something every day; at last they steal us from ourselves away." Mr. Fellows was born in Sharon, Washtenaw county, Michigan territory, March 28, 1835, and has noted the advancement of the country of "ye oiden time," up to the present. He attended school for the first time in 1840 with Miss Cynthia Fisk, now Mrs. Addison Hunt of Norwell, as teacher. The building was a crude affair, since owned by Barney Limbert, and was reduced to ashes last August. As but few could recall the succeeding teachers' maiden names, we shall give them as they are known to-day. Mrs. Jay Everett of Chelsea, Mrs. Susan Granger of Ann Arbor, Mrs. James McMahon of Manchester and Mrs. Wm. Bowers of Sharon. John J. Robison came in 1844, and like Gladstone "swayed with a rule of iron." The scholars of that district to-day who are in the land of the living, are Virgil Peck of Grass Lake, Mrs. Ella Robison of Ann Arbor, Minerva Bullard of Jackson, and Mrs. Cunningham. As memory brings to mind the good old days and recalls the voices long since hushed, "it's sweet to know how grows our store in paradise." If teachers or remaining scholars scan these lines, they will find "Lulled in the chambers of the brain, Their thoughts are linked by many a hidden chain." Awake but one, and low what myriad rise! Each stamp its image as the other flies."

DEATH OF FRANK PATTEE.

From the Daily Times, April 9. Yesterday afternoon a few minutes before 6 o'clock occurred the death of Frank Pattee at his home on Chicago ave. The deceased was taken sick last Monday morning and gradually sunk in strength till death claimed him. He was conscious to the last, however, and recognized and bid good bye to his many friends who called upon him Saturday and yesterday.

Mr. Pattee was 45 years of age and had been a resident of this vicinity since boyhood. During the late rebellion he served on the cause of the right with Co. A, 11th Mich. Cav., for 2 years and 17 days and was only mustered out when the war closed. Returning to his home here he commenced in the printing business and continued at it until about five years ago when he was appointed a government postal clerk. His efficiency in that line is best told by referring to an article published about a fortnight ago in the Times concerning the extraordinarily fine examination he had passed before Chief Clerk Gilbert. His first assignment to duty under the government postal services was on the Detroit and Logansport run, but was later transferred to the Ypsilanti and Hillsdale branch of the Lake Shore, where he continued to discharge his duties until last Monday, when taken ill.

In politics Mr. Pattee was an ardent Republican and was one of the staunchest to uphold the principles of that party. His long connection with newspapers, backed by his wonderfully retentive memory, made him one of the best informed men, in the most general sense, that lived in Washtenaw county. The deceased died in the faith of the Episcopal church. He leaves a bereaved widow and two children, a son and a young daughter.

Mr. Pattee held a policy in the Modern Woodmen amounting to $2,000.

Work of the W. C. T. U.

As the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Ann Arbor, is about to enter upon the duties of another year, a renewed sense of gratitude for past blessings, and a great desire for increased usefulness in the future, seems to press upon the hearts of all its members. The outlook is full of encouragement. Twenty-five new members have been received during the past few months, two of whom, Mrs. Vorhees and Mrs. Morehouse, have been district presidents for many years, and others have had rich experience in different fields, which make them valuable acquisitions.

The monthly reports of officers and superintendents of departments, have shown unflagging interest and zeal. All were re-elected for the ensuing year, with the addition of three new superintendents.

The National W. C. T. U. is the largest society ever composed entirely of women, and conducted by them. It has been organized in every state and territory of the nation, also in Canada, Great Britain, India, Japan, Africa, Australia and New Zealand. The number of local unions in the United States alone, is estimated at ten thousand, with a membership of about two hundred and fifty thousand. Its object is the forming of a better public sentiment; purer education of the young; reformation of the drinking classes; transformation by Divine Grace of the slaves of alcohol; and securing entire abolition of the liquor traffic. Its work has been broad and far-reaching. It has united the hearts and interests of the women of nearly all civilized countries, in work for God and humanity. More than one-half of all the school children of America are taught the effects of alcohol and other narcotics. In other branches of educational, and also in evangelistic work for all classes it has been most zealous, and its influence upon public sentiment through temperance publications, lectures, and conventions, has been great, and increasing each year since its organization. If the past ten years has seen the accomplishment of so much, in this one branch of temperance work, what may we not hope from the next decade?

We, as a local union, are proud to belong to this noble army. The field of labor in Ann Arbor appeals most strongly to every worker, on account of the thousands of young people gathered here, who are for the time being, deprived of accustomed home influences and safe-guards, and surrounded by temptations on every hand. We need the prayers and heartiest co-operation of every Christian woman in the city, and any who are not members of our union, will be cordially welcomed any Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, at McMillan Hall, where regular meetings are held. Ladies who have been workers in the W. C. T. U. in other fields, are urgently invited to identify themselves with the work here, at their earliest convenience.

Mrs. Willard has said, that "the most we women can do is to help create a new atmosphere in which all pure, reasonable, righteous things conquer." The State Convention which meets in this city, the third week in May, is anticipated with special interest as a grand stimulant in this direction.

THE GREAT ORATORICAL CONTEST.

The Northwesterners Win by Four Points Only.

Friday evening the intercollegiate debate between the representatives of Northwestern and Michigan Universities was held in University Hall. It was a little after eight o'clock when President Angell and Gov. Rich, followed by the debaters, took their seats on the platform.

After music by the Chequamegon orchestra President Angell arose to make a few introductory remarks. He said that he had only words of heartfelt welcome for the representatives from Northwestern University. They came not as strangers, but rather as a part of our own family. The president referred to the fact that President Rogers of Northwestern was formerly connected with the University of Michigan. He said that though our opponents should win still there would be some consolation in the fact that the victory would rest with kindred. President Angell's expressions of pleasure at the presence of Gov. Rich were received with the greatest applause by the audience, which showed its appreciation of the very friendly attitude of the present executive of Michigan towards the University.

Gov. Rich made no introductory remarks, but immediately stated the question, "Resolved, that it ought to be the policy of the federal government to bring about the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands." He introduced E. W. Marlatt, of the U. of M., as the first speaker on the affirmative.

Mr. Marlatt opened the question for the affirmative. As a first proposition he stated that no nation possesses on any sea a commercial route of importance unless the same is guarded by one or more harbors of refuge and coaling stations. The business instinct and experience of centuries leave this lesson to the nations of Europe. As a second proposition it was maintained that these islands are so situated that they are destined even to command the waters of the North Pacific. They are the focus of nine commercial routes. Their distance from our shores renders them doubly desirable. It was also argued that we must have an outlet westward.

E. I. Goshen opened for the negative. He said that by the treaty of 1875 the United States secured commercial advantages, which would be ours as long as Hawaii remained an independent nation. Annexation of Hawaii is unnecessary for the protection of our western coast and would be as illogical as to annex Cuba for the protection of our southern coast. The fate of other nations shows the evils of annexing territory, especially such as is not contiguous. Annexation would be the first move towards launching the government of the United States upon the sea of imperialism. The American idea is not by annexing territory to perpetuate her cherished institutions, but to present a government so eminently beneficial that the nations shall adopt her standard and thus bring about the federation of the world. But she must first settle her great questions—questions which would be made more difficult by the annexation of any territory even though desirable in itself.

Mr. Lindley, the second speaker for the affirmative, spent part of his time in answering the arguments of Mr. Goshen. He then laid down the argument that the Hawaiian people had proven themselves incapable of maintaining a stable government, and that American and Hawaiian interests in the island, American and Hawaiian commerce, American and Hawaiian peace and prosperity demanded that the United States give this island the permanent government it should have. Mr. Lindley also maintained that there is every likelihood of foreign interference. He said that the islands would undoubtedly be seized by some great naval power, and would thus become a menace to our western coast.

H. S. Hadley for the negative said were it not for the tendency of our people to get on different sides on national questions there would be practical unanimity in the conclusion that we do not want Hawaii. The verdict of history is that all annexations are dangerous. No annexation that has been made by this country can stand as a precedent for the annexation of Hawaii. Louisiana, Florida and Texas were added to our country by the force of circumstances that could not be impeded. The speaker dwelt on the fact that the annexation of Cuba and San Domingo had been defeated. The difficulties of the past, the questions of the present and the dangers of the future are all due to the conflict of material interests resulting from the wide extent of our territory and its different stages of development.

Mr. Mays, the next speaker for the affirmative, spent part of his time in replying to the arguments of the speakers on the negative. He then argued that the islands would be advantageous to us in times of war because of their relative position, their harbor facilities and their place as supplying the needs of modern war vessels. He argued that the actions of other nations left no doubt as to what they would do in times of war. He said that the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands had been advocated by the leading statesmen, even at times when the objections were much greater and the conditions not so favorable. Quotations were given from Webster, Legare, Marcy, Clayton, Everett, Buchanan, Seward, Fish, Bayard and Blaine to prove the point.

C. B. Campbell closed the debate for the negative. Political agitation for annexation has led to exaggeration of the value of the islands. Their strategic importance rests upon the assumption that we are sometime to have foreign war. Our neutrality, 80 years without war with European powers, the growing spirit of arbitration prove that this assumption is gratuitous. He said that the development of commerce with Hawaii must be slow. He said that the Hawaiians would not abrogate the treaties already made because they greatly favor the islands in a financial way. The annexation means large expenditures by the United States to maintain government in the islands. Our constitution would have to be made to fit the hideous forms of a monarchy or an oligarchy. From peaceful acquisition we shall go to the forcible conquest of any islands we may.

Mr. Marlatt closed for the affirmative, devoting his time entirely to the rebuttal of the arguments of the negative.

The work of every debater is deserving of the highest praise. Not only were strong and able arguments presented, but every debater had a direct and powerful delivery. If this debate is an indication of what may be expected in the future, intercollegiate debates will be among the most interesting and important events in college life. Victors and vanquished may alike feel proud of their work.

After the close of the debate the Chequamegon Orchestra rendered an excellent selection. During this time the committee men were busy adding up the marks of the judges. At last the report was made and the expectant crowd was told that Northwestern had won the first of the series of debates between the two great western institutions of learning. The Northwestern had received 1,614 points out of a possible 1,800 and Michigan, 1,610.

After the debate a banquet was given at the residence of Prof. Thompson to Gov. Rich, the debaters, the judges and a few invited guests. Waiters furnished elegant refreshments, and visitors and vanquished alike seemed to enjoy the repast. Many pleasantries were exchanged on both sides and all went away feeling that the debate was in every way a great success. The debate committee is indebted to Prof. Thompson for his kindness in throwing his house open for the banquet and reception.—Daily Times.

The following table gives the markings of the judges:

Suicide of Miss Lois Janes.

Yesterday afternoon the startling announcement was made that Miss Lois H. Janes, was not to be found. She had left the family home in the morning stating that she was going down town on an errand. It seems she went to the post office and mailed a letter to her sister in which she stated that she was going to the river to drown herself. This letter was delivered at about 2 o'clock and the officers notified of it some two hours thereafter. Search parties were at once organized but her body was not found until this morning, when it was discovered on the bank of the river, at Cedar Bend. She had taken poison, and died from the effects thereof, and did not drown herself. She obtained the poison, which was strychnine, by representing that it was wanted to make a paste with which to poison rats. It seems that Miss Janes had become very much discouraged. She had hoped to secure a position as teacher, but had so far not been successful, and it preyed upon her mind so that at last she committed the awful deed of taking her own life. Miss Janes was one of a family of four, having two sisters and a brother, all of whom lived together at No. 46 E. University ave. Her father, Capt. L. L. Janes, remarried last fall and went to Japan where he holds some government position. She was a member of the junior literary class, a brilliant student, and a beautiful girl. She was about 20 years of age. The family have the greatest sympathy in their terrible affliction.

Answers to Correspondents.

Farmer—Yes, South Dakota furnishes an excellent field for diversified farming. Wheat, corn, barley and flax are produced in abundant quantities and find a ready market at good prices, while the cost of production is much less than in the eastern states. Stock raising and wool growing have become successful industries in South Dakota, where thousands of acres of the finest land in the United States can be secured at reasonable figures and upon long time deferred payments. School Board Meeting.

At the School Board meeting last evening, a petition was presented by W. B. Stickney, of more than ordinary importance. It urged the extended teaching of German in the schools; the introduction of manual training for the boys and the teaching of cooking and garment cutting for the girls; courses in physical culture, etc., in the high school. A committee consisting of Messrs. Beal, Perry and Smith was appointed to investigate the subject. Next week they will visit the Toledo Manual Training School where these branches have had a thorough trial.

Prof. Kelsey's Cleero was adopted as a text book instead of Allen & Greenough's.

Each person present is asked to bring an offering of silver as a gift for the anniversary.

Michael Weimer, an old resident of Scio, died Monday afternoon, at his home in that township, aged 63 years. Funeral services will be held to-morrow, Thursday, forenoon at Salem church, Scio, Rev. Julius Klingman conducting the same. The deceased had lived in this county since 1851. He leaves a widow and eight children, three sons and five daughters, among the latter being Mrs. John Heinzman and Mrs. Eugene G. Mann, both of this city.

The farewell services at Zions church were well attended Sunday, both morning and evening. The church had been handsomely decorated for these last services and every member of the audience felt a pang of sorrow as he bade good bye to the old church. On Monday morning workmen commenced tearing it down. The new edifice to be built on its site will be a fine one, in the shape of a Greek cross, will have a spire 135 feet high, and be in every way in keeping with the growth of the community. The congregation have been granted the use of the high school chapel in which to worship during the building of the new church edifice.

An attempt is being made by our citizens to secure the lowering of the bridge over the M. C. R. R. tracks on Beakes st. The bridge should never have been placed at its present height or built at its present width, and ought to be both widened and lowered. If the M. C. will not consent to that, then the city should erect a bridge over the tracks at N. State st., which it reserved the right to do, and place the structure at the proper height and make it the width of the street so that there will be one roadway to the north side that will be as it should be. A bridge on State street would be used nearly as much as the Beakes street bridge, and will have to be built in the course of time, anyway.

An effort is being made in the city to create a sufficient amount of interest in the cause to form a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Literature has been distributed throughout the city through the various church societies, and the pastors of the churches have been interested in the movement. It is a thing devoutly to be desired. Although instances of cruelty to dumb animals are not so numerous as in larger places, yet there are instances here sufficient to warrant an organization of the kind. The difficulty in these societies is to secure officials who can and will act. Usually the humane people are those who are so busily engaged in other things that they have no time to devote to this, and the consequence is that these societies in cities like Ann Arbor soon languish and die out from sheer neglect. If our police could be interested in the matter, it would be a great help. To be sure the police have their hands full already, but there is no reason why the city should not have another policeman, one recommended by this society for instance, who should be specially detailed for this work with his other duties. There should be a policeman stationed on State st., or about the campus, and with this addition to the police force there might be some good accomplished by the society. To organize such a society with no one to act has been tried here already and proved a failure. It was not practical. If some such arrangement as has been suggested could be made, then it would accomplish the ends desired and much abuse and cruelty to animals be stopped. The laws are already upon the statute books and what is needed is their enforcement.

The Christian Endeavor Union of Washtenaw county, will assemble in convention at Dexter, Friday April 20th. Excellent programmes have been prepared for the three sessions of the day, the first commencing at 10:15 a. m. Two very attractive features of the convention will be the addresses by Mr. C. L. Stevens, ex-president of the State C. E. Union, and Miss Florence Ben-Olie, a Jewess from Jerusalem. Each society in the union is urged to send a large delegation.

W. W. Tidd, formerly of this city, now a resident of Galveston, Tex., in a private letter to a gentleman in this city, says: "I should dearly love to visit Fraternity Lodge again, and see the M. W. degree conferred. They work so differently here, and, to my idea, spoil some parts of the work, that it makes me long to see it done as in Ann Arbor. I have seen live Masters do the work here, and not one can approach the Master that raised me—Chas. B. Davison." Mr. Davison's work in that line is famous all over the country, and it is doubtful if any better W. M. can be found in the Union. In connection we might add that there are a large number of the boys here who would like to see Tidd's genial face and bald pate up here once more. He would get a warm grasp of the hand if he should come.

To the Common Council:

The undersigned members of the Board of Election Commissioners of the city of Ann Arbor beg leave to report as follows:

An examination and count of the official ballots before they were delivered to the inspectors of election, and after they were returned to the City Clerk, shows that there were delivered in all to the various wards four thousand five hundred and twenty-five (4,525), which were accounted for as follows:

FIRST WARD.

We also find four extra ballots which are supposed to have been thrown out during canvass of vote as void.

We find that everything connected with the election, so far as came within our observation, was done according to law, the seals all intact and the ballots returned properly, with the exception that some wards placed both poll books in the ballot box, whereas in all cases one should be placed in the box and the other should be returned to the City Clerk.

Very respectfully,

FROM THE SAME.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Sidewalks, to whom was referred the petitions asking for the construction of sidewalks on and along the north side of East Catherine street from Ingalls to Thirteenth street, and on and along the south side of Geddes avenue from the line of walks already built to the city limits. We would report and recommend that the grading and construction of the walks are a necessary public improvement and your committee caused to be prepared and herewith submit the proper resolution ordering the same.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR J. KITSON,
C. H. MANLY,
J. O'MARA,
FRANK WOOD,

Sidewalk Committee.

Accepted and recommendation concurred in as follows:

Yea—Ald. Schairer, Martin, Snow, Wood, O'Mara, Ferguson, Taylor, Manly, Prettyman, Kitson, Pres. Watts—11.

Nays—None.

Ald. Taylor, chairman of the Finance Committee, recommended the allowance of C. H. Manly's bill of $182.75 for 175 assessor's maps.

Accepted and recommendation concurred in as follows:

Yea—Ald. Schairer, Martin, Snow, Wood, O'Mara, Ferguson, Taylor, Manly, Prettyman, Kitson, Pres. Watts—11.

Nays—None.

Ald. Taylor reported the bill of Mrs. Mary Kenny, of $121.15, amount of judgment against the city, and stating that Mr. Kearney, attorney for plaintiff, would like to be heard. The permission was granted and Mr. Kearney was heard.

Ald. O'Mara moved that the bill be allowed and warrant be ordered drawn for $121.15.

Accepted and leave being granted, the following resolution was offered:

By Alderman Kitson:

Resolved, That the grading and construction of the sidewalks hereinbefore mentioned is deemed and declared a necessary public improvement.

Therefore, It is hereby ordered that plank sidewalks be graded, built and constructed on and along the following streets and in front of the following property in the City of Ann Arbor, viz:

On and along the north side of East Catherine street, from Ingalls to Thirteenth street.

Or and along the south side of Geddes avenue, from the line of walk already built, and extending easterly to the city limits.

Hutzel's Water Back!

A very important invention which will be hailed with delight by every body using a stove or range for hot water circulation.

After years of experience we have succeeded in producing a simple and perfect WATER BACK.

It overcomes all the present troubles of extracting lime and other sediments which accumulate in water backs, often making them useless and in great many instances becoming dangerous.

The outlay of dollars is reduced to dimes. No household using a range can afford to be without it.

No more trouble by using city water for hot water circulation.

Can be used in any stove. Ask your stove dealer for Hutzel's Water Back.

Mason & Davis Co.'s ranges for sale at C. Eberbach are provided with our improvement.

Everybody call and examine this useful invention.

REPORT FROM THE SEWER COMMITTEE.

To THE COMMON COUNCIL:

Your Committee on Sewers to whom was referred the petition and claim of Jerome A. Freeman, administrator of the estate of G. W. Henry praying for damages for the death of said Geo. W. Henry, beg leave to report that they have fully considered the same and find the petition and find that the party was not in fact in the premises and is not responsible or legally liable to pay damage to said claimant or to any person for the death of George W. Henry, and we further find and report that the person represented in said petition as widow of said deceased is not entitled to compensation for the death of said George W. Henry in any event.

You committee, therefore, recommend that the present, said petition be denied.

All of which is to your committee submitted and your committee beg to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Dated April 5, 1894.

TO THE COMMON COUNCIL:

Your Committee on Sewers to whom was referred the petition and claim of Ambrose Kearney, administrator of the estate of Richard Suppel, for damage for the death of said Richard Suppel, to report that they have fully considered the same and find that the party was not in fault and is not responsible or legally liable to pay damage to the said claimant or to anyone for the death of said Richard Suppel, and we further find and report that Mrs. Kennedy, in her said claim was filed, is not entitled to compensation for the death of said Suppel in any event.

Your committee, however, found that Mrs. Kennedy is very poor and in destitute circumstances and that she has no means of support and it would be an act of desecration if some suitable provision could be made for her, so that in old age she would not be left to suffer, which question your committee would recommend to the new common council.

All of which is to your committee submitted and your committee beg to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.
