Will Move to the Hall Over D. A. Tinker's Store About Jan. 1.

Last evening's annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was characterized by a great deal of enthusiasm, and if each succeeding annual meeting finds the association as anxious for its own success as it is at present, Ann Arbor will soon have one of the best associations in the state. The year has been a very successful one, although the first one of its life. President Wagner said in his address that the first year had been one of enthusiasm and blessing to each one of the association. The members had found that Christian work paid every day in the year and the zeal with which they have taken hold of the work has proved this. He said that the association had come to a critical point in its growth. It had now grown from babyhood to boyhood and a tutor in the person of General Secretary W. C. Hull, had now been engaged. His business would not be to take work off the shoulders of the members of the association, but would be to put more on. He congratulated the association on the fact that the past year had brought no deaths to them, but the fact that the first ballot for director was to fill a vacancy caused by death, sort of gave the president away.

Following the address of the president, came the annual reports of the officers of the association. Secretary Nathan Stanger reported that the membership now included 64 men 58 of whom were active members, and six associate. The sum of $275.00 has been spent in furniture and fixtures for the association rooms. A building fund has been raised that now amounts to $5,000 which will become available when the sum has reached $12,000. Treasurer Phillips gave his report, which showed a surplus in the treasury of $88.26, which is pretty good, considering the fact that he had only $1.82 to start with at the beginning of the year. Chairman Stimson of the religious committee, reported increased interest in the religious work of the association, as is shown by the increased attendance at the devotional meetings. The average Sunday afternoon attendance is now about sixty. The evangelistic meetings held by Mr. Patterson resulted in at least twenty-five conversions. The report of Librarian Alred Schairer shows the library to be in a growing and flourishing condition. A movement is now on foot to form a Y. M. C. A. orchestra, which will furnish music for the Sunday afternoon meetings and on other occasions.

The last business of the evening was the election of directors. Mr. E. F. Gilmore was elected to fill the unexpired term of A. L. Noble. McClellan Mogk was elected to succeed E. E. Calkins, who could not serve another year. Messrs. Wm. Goodyear, Nathan Stanger and R. E. Christman were elected to succeed themselves. After the election of directors, the officers of the association held a meeting and decided to rent the hall over D. A. Tinker's store for association purposes and will move into the new quarters about January 1, or as soon as they can be fitted up. This will give the Y. M. C. A. fully three times the room it now has in which to carry on its work. The election of new officers of the association will occur on Friday evening of this week.

The Y. M. C. A. directors have rented the entire 2d floor of the store occupied by D. A. Tinker, on S. Main st., and are having it fitted up for the use of the Association, at once. The space will be divided into three parts with folding doors between, so that the rooms can all be used as one if necessary, for entertainments, banquets, etc. In the rear will be a room for the use of the secretary, directors, etc., and the ladies have also spoken for kitchen and pantry facilities, which all will no doubt be arranged for. It is proposed to have everything fitted up and ready for the house warming on New Year's Day. The association is getting accessions constantly, the young men of the city finding it a very inviting association to belong to. It furnishes a place to spend an evening and amusements that are social and pleasant.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

ED. COURIER:
Dear Sir:—I notice by reading a number of editorials, news items, etc., in the various city papers that the Columbian Organ dedication concert is giving great promise of being a fine success in every way, and especially in a financial way. Now I hope, from the bottom of my heart, that this is so. But the success, or lack of success, perhaps I might better say, that I am having, as one of the canvassers, does not point so certainly in that direction.

We are certainly working the surrounding country as best we can and hope to have a large attendance from neighboring cities; but for one I do not want that concert to take place and know that the citizens and students are anywhere else than in University Hall. The people of Ann Arbor will make an irreparable mistake if they do not come to that concert in droves. Strangers must not have occasion to point the finger at us, and tell us that we want everything on the face of the earth, but want them to pay for it. The Columbian Organ is a magnificent instrument. Those who have never heard it cannot possibly realize what a revelation is in store for them. Its capabilities are simply marvelous. To have it located in our midst is a thing we will never cease talking about. People will never cease coming to Ann Arbor to hear it. Our May Festivals can now rival anything in the United States. Ann Arbor's prosperity will be greatly increased by it. A thousand fine fiscal results will follow, and yet many people who are thoroughly able to do so, hesitate and even refuse to invest $5.00 or even $2.00 in it. They say "why didn't you reserve seats for $1.00 each?" Simply because we could not raise money enough by so doing. Two dollars is not a high price for seats in any city for a first class entertainment; and when it is known that every dollar of this money, or its equivalent, is to stay at home, and be a lasting benefit to us, is it not a severe case of short sightedness for us to neglect our duty. When the matter of purchasing this organ was first talked about many people told me personally, that they would be glad to help pay for it by buying tickets at even a high price to attend the dedicatory concert. Now let them and every body else come forward and buy tickets at a low price; do what self interest dictates. Make yourself and each member of your family a Christmas present of a ticket. Exercise a little self denial and come to the dedicatory concert next Friday night.

A MEMBER OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

A Farmer's Market.

E. P. Cook, the liveryman, has rented the Rink, and will open therein something that almost every city in the east has got, and what this city greatly needs, a Farmer's Market. He will have the building arranged so that farmers can drive in with their loads of potatoes, apples, fruit, garden or farm produce, and have stalls arranged therein for their use. This market, when it gets to be established, will be greatly appreciated, not only by the people who have produce to sell, but quite as much by those who have to buy, and will become, we have not the faintest doubt, a very popular affair.

It has long been a wonder to eastern people visiting our city, that no such market has ever been established here, and it is believed that in Ann Arbor, of all other places, where there is such a demand for everything that the farmer and gardener raises, this sort of a general headquarters, where the head of the household affairs can go and buy what he or she wants fresh from first hands, will become one of the good features of the city.

Mr. Cook should be encouraged in every way possible by our citizens in this enterprise, which will not only be a benefit to housekeepers but to retail dealers as well, for it will furnish a place for them to supply their stores with such produce as they may need, without chasing all over the country.

OTHELLO, THE MOOR.

James Kay Applebee Gives a Masterful Interpretation of the Play.

James Kay Applebee is interesting in his personality, in his picturesque manner of expression and, most of all, in his thought.

Personally he is a conundrum until his words raise his audience above all thought of personal appearance and the apparent roughness of exterior is lost sight of amid the wealth of thought and verbal expression. Until then his hearers, at least those who listen to him for the first time, are wondering whether the personality of the speaker is to be an index of his thought. In some measure it is, for the ruggedness of the man is crystallized in his expression.

As to his mode of expression, Mr. Applebee cannot fail to be of interest. His interpretation of Shakespeare's characters is not only translated in his thought, it is apparent in his expression. His elocution is dramatic. He gives his hearers the picture of Othello telling the story of his love and Othello ranting out his jealous passion, with a gentleness of expression in the one case that melts the hearts of everyone into love, and with a dramatic violence in the other that puts everyone in sympathy with the terrible mental anguish of the apparently deceived and wronged husband. And then the pitiful and plaintive tone that accompanies Desdemona's mournful enquiry of Iago, "Am I that tainted name, Iago?" drives the audience into deepest sympathy for the deceived and wronged woman.

But in his interpretation of Shakespeare's characters, Mr. Applebee is most interesting of all. No matter how familiar one may be with Othello, or Iago, or Desdemona, his interest deepens, new thoughts are created and old and imperfect conceptions are destroyed by the new light thrown upon the characters. The strength and heroism of Othello, the wise and inimitable craftiness of Iago, the gentleness and sweetness of Desdemona, and the drunken foolishness of Cassio are displayed in a new light. Mr. Applebee's interpretation of the play and his closing words were masterly and masterful. His interpretation of Othello was this: The terrible consequences of man's lack of faith. An unwarranted jealousy drove Othello to murder. It is far better to have too much faith than too little. Man's lack of faith in man is the greatest bane of human life.

Mr. Applebee will lecture to-night in the Unitarian church on Hamlet.

TWO PLEASING PAPERS.

Those Who Attended the Inland League Last Evening Listened to Them.

It was very unpleasant out of doors Monday evening, but those who were brave enough to encounter the storm and attend the Inland League meeting at the Church of Christ, were well repaid for the effort.

It was a ladies night, and the clerk of the weather was not at all gallant to them. There were no gentlemen in charge. Ladies tended the door, ladies sold tickets, ladies ushered you to a seat, and did all these things with as much grace and ease as the men, if not more.

Then a lady, Mrs. Moran, presided, and introduced the speakers of the evening. She read a letter from Mrs. Angell, telling why that lady did not fulfill her part of the programme, being called away by the death of Mr. Angell's mother, in New York. Miss Liebig, who was to sing was ill and could not be present, but her place was very acceptably filled by Miss Volland, who sang Sancta Marie and Rose Marie, in a manner that was very taking, indeed.

Mrs. Elsie Jones Cooley gave an incident of her experience in Italy. She warned her readers that she should not inform them just where the embroidery began on the tale which she was to relate, and we do not believe there was one in the audience who could tell. Mrs. Cooley's incident turned out to be a real ghost story. It was charming, too, as strange as that may seem, and the audience followed her in its gradual unfolding with just enough tremor to make them look with a delicious anxiety for the appearance of the nocturnal visitor himself. But he—for it really was a male ghost—inspired a granddaughter to write Mrs. Cooley a letter after she had departed and tell her why he came to enact the scene of killing his beautiful wife and the writer's grandmother every night in the year, and sometimes several times during the night. The story was told in a modest, charming manner, and every one in the audience was sorry when it ended.

Of a very different character was the paper of Mrs. Martin. She came there to relate in twenty minutes, the incidents of a journey of 10,000 miles, giving two minutes to every 1,000 miles. The time was too limited, although Mrs. Martin was on a limited express from the time she started in with her audience at Chicago, until she landed again with them at Ann Arbor. She spoke hurriedly, and successfully endeavored to give a glimpse of the grand tour she took last summer in company with her husband, Dr. J. N. Martin.

If it was impossible for her to give an account of that trip in so brief a space of time, how can we, in a still briefer space give an account of what she told that audience. It is simply impossible. We shall have to be content in saying that her description was exceedingly interesting, and she succeeded in making the audience see many things as they impressed themselves upon her mind in that grand tour. She told of the railroads, their strikes, and the cause of the strikes, in which the railroad authorities were severely condemned; of the hotels and their menu; of the scenery; the mountains, the plains, the forests and the flowers; of the cities, the health resorts; the mining camps; the ranches; the fruit farms and cereal farms; the climate; the irrigating streams; the fogs and the great Pacific sea; of the people, their past successes and failures and their prospects for the future. She also told of the fish—and right here let us remark that we thought we had told some pretty big fish stories ourselves, but now admit that we never had a faint conception of one. It is but fair to Mrs. Martin, however, to state that she merely repeated stories as they were told her by the "natives" of that wonderful country. The evening was far too short, and the ladies who so admirably entertained that audience are deserving of many thanks for the manner in which they did it.

It is reported that among other things to be found in President Cleveland's message, is a deficit in the treasury. Quite a find!

At the last round up there were just an even dozen candidates for associate justice of the supreme court from different parts of the state.

One million of dollars every three days! That is the way the government is plunging down hill and into debt now. It is simply terrific!

A friend who had the courage to read the president's message clear through, says the most noticeable thing in it aside from wild cat currency, is the president's gout. It permeates the entire document.

All bonds of the United States should be made payable in lawful money of the United States, whether it be gold, silver or paper money. No government bond should be made payable in either gold or silver alone.

The president comes out strong for civil service reform once more. We are glad to see that in that respect at least he manifests some of the vigor which once characterized his treatment of matters of state.

It took $1,700,000 to pay the pensioners by the pension agent at Detroit, this quarter. That much money being thrown into general circulation even though it is scattered all over the state, must have an enlivening effect upon business.

The Ann Arbor Courier suggests that our coming legislature limit their session to sixty days, and no jangling. That will certainly be ample time in which to do all the business necessary to the welfare of this state.—Northville Record.

The pension bureau has decided not to grant any more pensions to widows, unless they are entirely without an income. It is most always the case that the money paid widows is used for better purposes than is the money paid the men.

Over one hundred years ago the laws of Massachusetts declared that any man who held land in idleness three years, lost his title to it and it became the property of the man who cultivated it. Pingree should have such a law passed here for his potato raisers.

Miss Helen Peel, a granddaughter of the famous English statesman, has emulated Mrs. Peary by taking an Arctic voyage from England to the Kara sea. Of course Miss Peel will not make the same sort of a discovery up in that country that Mrs. Peary did.

At a recent fair held in Dallas, Texas, a book bindery of that place had a fine display of its work. In the display were the books for Dallas county which were all inlaid on the side with the Stars and Stripes in red, white and blue calf, and were the first books of the kind ever seen in the State.

An Exhibition of Printing is now in progress at St. Petersburg, Russia. Amongst the exhibits is a hand press, formerly belonging to Peter the Great, another which was found among the baggage of Napoleon I. on his retreat from Russia in 1812, and also one which was the property of the Russian Emperor, Catherine II.

A LAW NOT NEEDED.

Since the 1st of October there have been no less than seven murders in Michigan, and almost innumerable murderous assaults. What Michigan needs is a high-strung first-class hanging law.—Cedar Springs Clipper.

In Illinois they have that kind of law referred to by our contemporary, the Clipper, but as we read the Illinois papers, it is our firm conviction that they have more murders and more murderous assaults according to the population, in Illinois, than in Michigan. The same is true of every southern state. And the same is true also of nearly every state that has capital punishment. It is not the fear of being hung that will prevent a man from committing the crime of murder when there is murder in his heart.

Then again, if a man is innocent, and has been hung, the law has committed a terrible wrong that cannot be righted. If he is confined in prison the state can in a measure right the wrong. It will not, at least, have the stain of innocent blood on its hands.

No. Capital punishment is not the remedy. A rigid enforcement of the law, and the abolishment or ignoring by judges and courts, of petty technicalities brought forth by sharp lawyers, to save their clients, will go farther toward the suppression of crime than anything else.

We have the president's word for it we have nothing to gain in the Orient, but it would be just as well to be sure we have nothing to lose before trusting the matter wholly to the present secretary of state.

If there is any truth in the old saying "The early bird catches the worm," James O'Donnell, of Jackson, will be the next governor of Michigan. He is a candidate even now and don't deny it.—Jonesville Independent. Sometimes the early worm gets caught, you know.

The Chicago Record kicks on writing it "Xmas." The Record has no right to kick. As all algebraists know, "X" stands for an unknown quantity. In "Xmas" it stands for "Christ." And Christ is an unknown quantity in Chicago—or else Editor Stead is very much in error.

The two amendments to the constitution of the state voted on Nov. 6th, were carried by large majorities. The one allowing the soldier's resident in the Soldier's Home to vote there by about 100,000 majority, and the one requiring foreigners to complete their citizenship, by about 80,000 majority.

We are sorry that Mr. Cleveland failed to tell how it happened. He makes not the slightest reference to the recent democratic disaster. Doubtless he considered it none of his funeral, inasmuch as he remained silent during the entire campaign. Nevertheless he could at least have commiserated with his party.

For the first time in history Alaska is to be represented by law-makers at Washington city. The territorial convention held June 2 unanimously selected Thomas S. Nowell, a prominent mining man, as delegate, with instructions to secure, if possible, the same laws for Alaska as are now in force in Oregon, together with high license and local option measures.

The next house cannot, indeed, amend the present tariff, but it can, through its committees, investigate the blight which has fallen on the country's business and put before the world reports which will be of inestimable value as official aggregations of facts too deplorable to be forgotten and too universal to permit any denial.

Our consumption of sugar last year was 4,343,209,500 pounds, which at an average price of 2 3/4 cents per pound, would be worth $119,438,261. An ad valorem tariff of 40 per cent upon this amount would be $47,775,304. A differential duty of one-eighth cent upon 4,343,209,500 pounds would be $5,429,012, making a total breakfast table tax of $53,204,361. That is the way democracy "slapped the sugar trust in the face."—Lansing Republican.

While holiday premiums are being offered the public by various newspapers, the Courier has taken the price of these premiums off of its subscription price, and gives its readers the benefit thereof. Two daily papers for the price of one, and the weekly Courier and the N. Y. Tribune for 75 cents for both papers, for one year, is something almost unheard of in the way of cheap subscriptions. These rates are only offered to January 1st, '05, so it will be well to take advantage of them now.

The plot to steal the governorship of Tennessee, which has been attempted by certain democratic officials in that state, met with an unexpected setback by the refusal of the chairman of the democratic executive committee to become a party to such a disgraceful transaction. Every honest partisan will applaud the following manly words from him: "The democracy of Tennessee can afford to be defeated, but it cannot afford to be dishonest; it can afford to lose a dozen elections, but it cannot afford to steal even one."

THE LABOR PROBLEM.

As Viewed by John Burns the Great Labor Leader.

John Burns, the great labor leader of England, and member of parliament, who is on a visit to this country, says of his work:

"I am working," said Mr. Burns, "for the well-being and welfare of the working classes, for their improvement. There are 8,000,000 of workers in Great Britain, all of whom are overworked. They get no time to live decently and give proper time to their wives and families. With them it is all work. This condition creates the army of unemployed. At least 1,000,000 without wages, without purchasing power. This million workers have over 8,000,000 others dependent upon them. We have found that in every trade where the eight-hour law has been enforced employment has been found for the unemployed, while those who work have lost nothing. As a rule it comes out of the profits, and has possibly increased the cost of the service."

And this: "The standard of comfort of the mechanic working fifty-four hours is higher than the tram-men working ninety and one hundred. What is the reason? Simply this: Leisure is the basis of opportunity. Time to think cultivates new desires. To lead, a man's life begets a desire for new ways of satisfying them, hence a stimulus to trade. These faculties are dormant in the man who works long hours. A man has no right to be satisfied with a dog's life, a dog's kennel to live in, and the anaesthetic chamber of poverty in which to terminate his existence."

In speaking of how the idle should be employed he said:

"I believe that the cheapest, best and safest way of all to prevent the idle man, the potential loafer, pauper or criminal, from being a burden is to provide him with work which will be his salvation and the community's gain."

"And this at a cost to the state?" "Why not? The state must ultimately take care of him. Why not by exercising a little care, make a man of him? Disguise it how we will, hide it though we may, looming up in the great, the all-absorbing question for all countries and governments, in your country, my American friend, as much as in our country, to face, how can the honest worker be provided with work uncontaminated with pauperism's degrading taint and charity's demoralizing aid? The glib quotation of figures showing that official pauperism has decreased only insults the genuine worker who asks for work so that it may be reduced further still. But even the official statistics, when shown of all their complacent optimism, reveal the real nature of the problem."

Speaking of the red flag of anarchy, Mr. Burns remarked: "If a revolution should occur tomorrow, and the red flag come out triumphant and a French revolution would fall into the basket? Not the Goulds' and the Carnegies' and the Astors'. Oh, no! Much more likely the guillotine would be employed on the necks of the labor leaders themselves, the Burts, the Burnses, the Powderlys, the Arthurs. If the power of such a change under existing conditions were absolutely vested in me, I would rather cut off this hand than take advantage. We are right in fighting to improve the condition of those who toil in seeking a more equitable distribution of wealth. If not, we shall bring about our necks a tyranny worse than was ever dreamed possible, and destroy all hope for the ultimate amelioration of labor."

President Cleveland touches with gentleness upon the right of the Turkish government to maltreat Armenians who have become American citizens without her consent. But not one word about the horrible massacre of Christians in that country in September last. Can it be possible? Was not that event, wherein thousands of Christian men were slaughtered, and thousands of Christian women maltreated and then butchered, of sufficient importance to call forth a protest even, in the name of common humanity? Is the Turkish government not to be called to an account for this horrible and bloody work?

Of the 228,000 immigrants that came to this country during the year ending July 1st '04, all but 12,000 of them settled in the northern states. Why do they shun the south? The reason is easily told. It all springs from political intolerance and from the contempt for honest labor which still survives, in some degree, from slavery days. By reason of these twin follies men who want to be free and happy while they make their way in the world are led to seek homes almost anywhere else than in southern states which might be so rich in all that draws brain and muscle and capital.

WHY NOT APPEAL TO ARMS?

In respect to the Armenian outrages, new and horrible chapters of which are becoming known almost every day, the paragraph is noted in a recent dispatch from Rome:

"Appeals to the Vatican in addition have been made from England under the belief that none of the powers is willing to assume the responsibility of opening negotiations with the other powers for a joint intervention, and also in the belief that it is impossible for the Pope to remain indifferent to the sufferings of the Armenian Christians."

That shows the situation. No power in Europe dare interfere with the Sultan and his gang of cut-throats and fiends which he calls his army, for fear of getting into a quarrel with some other power.

It is all cowardice. There is no so-called Christian nation in Europe brave enough to stand up for Christianity.

Now, if the nations of Europe are really in earnest about wanting some one to teach the bloody and lustful Turk a lesson that he will remember for all time to come, they might ask their Uncle Samuel to do the job.

Why appeal to the Pope, who has no means of enforcing a demand? No talk will ever persuade one of those Mussulman butchers and debauchers to do different. Nothing but the sword and cold lead will ever have any effect on one of them. It is with them as with the Indian, no Mussulman is a good Mussulman until he is a dead Mussulman.

"A NEW YORK IMPORTER."

A press dispatch from New Orleans mentions dissatisfaction with the Senate schedule on rice. It seems the duty was made "largely on the request of a prominent rice miller in Louisiana," and the Senators who had the matter in charge say they thought the amendment would be satisfactory to the rice growers of Louisiana. Investigation, however, showed that Mr. G. A. Jahn, the promoter of the Senators, is "a New York importer of foreign rice," the rice mill in Louisiana being only a side show to his main business. It is said, "if you scratch a Russian you will find a Tartar," and it is pretty certain that examination will develop the fact that about every item in the Gorman bill has a New York importer back of it, unless, indeed, it was prepared by a trust.

A WISE SUGGESTION.

The suggestion of the Secretary of War that an increase is needed in the regular army, is a wise one. The Chicago strike demonstrated that, but it sounds very strange, coming as it does from a democratic administration. Any such suggestion emanating from a republican official would have made the eyes of the venerable Dana, of the N. Y. Sun roll in frenzy and glisten with bayonets. The howl that would have rolled off his tongue and out of his mouth: "Force bill!" would have scared all his timid brethren from Maine to Oregon and from Lake Superior to Eades' jetties—inclusive. By all means, let congress act favorably upon this suggestion.

The Adrian Press has not an exalted opinion of the present democratic Secretary of Agriculture. Listen: "Secretary Morton don't know what he is talking about. He's picking around in a field of mullein, skunk's cabbage and bull thistles, and thinks he's got a crop of corn, sweet potatoes and celery."

He steps on the cucumber vines while he carefully cultivates pursley. He tramples on the clover, and uses the waterpot for the quack grass.

"He picks a hornet's nest off an apple tree and thinks it is a pear."

One of the Detroit boys brought to the industrial school during the past week, has an interesting history. When but four years old he was kidnapped from his parents, who lived in Alpena. For years nothing was heard from him, although the most diligent search was made. Three years ago his mother, who had moved to Detroit, learned through an anonymous letter that he was living in Canada with a family who had adopted him from an orphan asylum. He had never been made to go to school and during the past three years has been unable to acquire the habit. Hence his removal to Lansing.—State Republican.

The opinion is confidently expressed that, not many years hence, electricity will furnish a large share of the power, light and transportation in all up to date farming communities. When it comes to pass that a farmer and his family can get on an electric motor car after supper, spend an evening at a social gathering or entertainment ten miles distant and be at home by reasonable bed time, life in the country will be very different from what it is now. The cost of building and equipping an electric line through a township will cost less than the average mile of steam railway, and by and by people will be smiling at the present expensive mode of traveling by rail.—Hillsdale Standard.

THE TIME NOT PROPITIOUS.

Agitation of the question of again submitting to the people an amendment to the constitution relative to an increase in the salaries of certain state officers has already commenced.

In view of the recent developments in amendment frauds, and the fact that those guilty of the fraud are as yet unpunished, the time does not seem propitious to ask the people to again consider the matter.

We are most heartily in favor of paying all state officials enough so that they can give their best efforts to the service, and believe that a fair salary attached to the official positions will be the best guarantee of efficient work that can be given. We believe the people will willingly grant such compensation when the proper time comes.

The recent amendment frauds are still too fresh in the minds of the voters to prevent them looking with suspicion on any attempt to tinker with the constitution.

We sincerely believe that there are several state officials whose salaries ought to be raised, and we would gladly vote for and advocate the raising of the salaries to a decent compensation for the work done. The Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Attorney General, are especially deserving, and ought to receive better pay. But we believe that the people would look with extreme disfavor on any proposition to increase salaries of state officers-elect. What their vote would be on an amendment raising salaries after expiration of present terms is difficult to tell. It is certain that the disgraceful result of the last vote to amend the constitution relative to an increase of salaries will make voters extremely conservative, should the matter come to them for decision in the near future.

HE RECOGNIZES HAWAII.

President Cleveland didn't dwell any great length of time on the Hawaiian matter. Here are his exact words:

"Since communicating the voluminous correspondence in regard to Hawaii, and the action taken by the Senate and House of Representatives on certain questions submitted to the judgment and wider discretion of Congress, the organization of a government in place of the provisional arrangement which followed the deposition of the Queen, has been announced, with evidence of its effective operation. The recognition usual in such cases has been accorded the new government."

Very brief. No kind and encouraging words for the plucky little republic of the great Pacific sea. No friendly hand extended. No words of cheer and comfort. No nothing, only "recognition."

Well, that cost Mr. Cleveland and his green-eyed secretary of state many and many a pang. But it had to come, for that brave little republic has the keenest sympathy of the people of this nation, irrespective of party, and should any power on earth ever attempt to molest her in any way, thousands upon thousands of brave American hands would spring to her aid, and force this country to action in her behalf, whether it desired to move or not.

But one thing is certain, no administration to come will ever dare, for a moment, to take an attitude unfriendly to Hawaii.

The Monroe doctrine will extend to the Islands of the sea—in this instance, at least.

Max O'Rell, the noted Frenchman, who can see nothing in Americans except the ridiculous, says that the American woman has a soft berth. Max probably confines his statements to the class he has had the best opportunity to observe. He ought to see the class—altogether too large—of women compelled to earn a living by manual labor, for a shiftless and drunken husband and a large family of children.—Fenton Independent.

Lawyers stand up in court houses before juries in the presence of immense audiences and denounce men as liars, scoundrels, perjured villains, and when the court adjourns the men thus abused appear to harbor no ill feeling against them. But let a newspaper faintly intimate that a man's character is not entirely without blemish, and the editor has to confront a pistol, stand a libel suit, or at least suffer the greatest of all mortifications—lose a subscriber.—Northville Record.

Yes, it makes a difference, you know, and the lawyer is just as thin skinned about it, as any other man.

President Cleveland has at last reconsidered his declination, to send a delegate to Armenia to inquire into the recent horrible outrages there, and having called upon the American legation at Constantinople to nominate a man for the place, Milo A. Jewett, United States consul at Sivas, was selected to act as the representative of the United States in making the investigation. Mr. Jewett was born in Sivas, Turkey, of American parents, his father being a missionary. He came to the United States in his youth and was educated in Massachusetts. He became a physician. He was appointed consul to Sivas by President Harrison in 1892 and is regarded as peculiarly fitted for the inquiry with which he is charged.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

The Adrian Press rushes to the rescue of Superintendent Watkins, Manchester, and has this to say in his defense:

"We can hardly think the Ann Arbor Courier just in defending the illegal appropriation of $100 yearly $ by the board of supervisors, to pay Judge Kinne's expenses for railroad travel, simply because the judge does not accept a railroad pass, or because Supervisor Watkins, of Manchester, who protested against the raid on the treasury, has taken pay for supervisor services, on days when he was not present. Washtenaw and Monroe each chipped in $100 to give the judge. There is no authority in law to warrant the appropriation, nor is there any justice in it. The judge does not have to go to Monroe many times in a year, and the fare is a small item for one receiving $2,500 for less than 200 days labor, with about six hours per day. We are not in any way defending Mr. Watkins from the charges made by the Courier, but because he has drawn pay to which he is not entitled, is no excuse for criticising his objection to wrongfully taking the people's money from the treasury. Mr. Watkins' objection to this raid on the treasury is right, no matter how much in the wrong he may be in anything else. His suggestion that Judge Kinne refund the money illegally appropriated, is pertinent, and should be heeded. It's appropriation violates the tax roll, and how could Judge Kinne render an impartial verdict in a suit before him, if this question should arise? What would be his judgment should he be on the supreme bench?"

What the Courier especially objected to was the inconsistency of Satan in attempting to rebuke what he chose to call sin.

We can hardly believe, however, that the Press speaks candidly when it refers to "the illegal appropriation of $100." There is nothing illegal about it, and the talk of vitiating the tax roll is the merest bosh, brought out just at this particular time in the hope of having a dampening effect on Judge Kinne's candidacy, probably.

Speaking of building and loan associations the Farm and Fireside makes this excellent suggestion:

"It is a wonder the farmers of a certain township do not organize their own society. Some of them are paying high interest for borrowed money, and each year sending the interest out of the country. Now, let fifty or a hundred men organize a local society, pay in, say five dollars a month or more, and let those who have borrowed money take from the organization, pay off the foreign debt, and then keep all the money circulating at home. The beauty of it is that you can pay off the obligation, little by little, five dollars a month, may be, and scarce miss that amount, when to raise five hundred dollars would require great sacrifice in various ways."

Our Dumb Animals, is the name of a Boston periodical, published by and in the interest of the Humane Societies. It can not be accused of ever dabbling in politics in any way, but here is a quotation from its columns that may, possibly, interest the members of Congress down at Washington. An object lesson; a practical result of the impractical, business killing, cruel and inhuman tariff legislation:

"One of Boston's most prominent wool merchants, who is very familiar with the subject, tells us that the putting of wool on the free list by the late Congress is so disastrous to the sheep industry in Montana and the territories, that probably hundreds of thousands of sheep, which will not bring the cost of keeping during the winter, will be abandoned this fall to pick up a living as best they may through the winter. If the winter should be an unusually mild one, some of them may survive, otherwise they will die, and the owners will have only their pelts. This is the prospect which awaits perhaps hundreds of thousands of sheep in the far West during the coming winter."

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Pleasant Marriage of Mr. Farrand Bostwick and Miss Grace Kellogg.

Rarely does Ann Arbor see a more pleasant or happier marriage ceremony than that which united the fortunes of Mr. Farrand Bostwick, of Detroit, and Miss Grace Kellogg, daughter of Mr. F. E. D. Kellogg, proprietor of the Franklin House, in the parlors of that hotel on Saturday evening. A large number of guests were present, both from the city and from outside and the many beautiful, valuable and useful presents given the bride and groom is substantial evidence of the high esteem in which both are held by their many friends.

The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock in the handsomely decorated parlors of the Franklin House, Rev. W. H. Bartram, of Dearborn, an old friend of the Kellogg family, pronouncing the solemn marriage vows. Mr. James Kellogg, brother of the bride, stood as best man, and Miss Belle Foster, of Dearborn, acted the role of bridesmaid. After the ceremony and scores of congratulations, the wedding party adjourned to the dining room of the house where, amid handsome floral decorations, a sumptuous wedding supper was enjoyed.

The bride and groom took the 10:30 train for Detroit, which will be their future home.

Following are the guests that were present from out of town: William Moore and wife, W. M. Holton and wife, Miss Belle Foster, Miss Jennie Clarke, of Dearborn; Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Anderson and daughter, of Wayne; Miss Emma Sheridan, of Pontiac; Dewey W. Rhead, of Hudson; Mr. and Mrs. Ashbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brock and son, C. Crosby and wife, Geo. Renham, C. L. Rowley, N. Bostwick, Mrs. W. C. House, Jr., I. L. Warren and wife and Chas. O. Kellogg, wife and mother, of Detroit; W. H. Crofoot and wife, of Pinckney.

Among those present from Ann Arbor were S. M. Gregory and wife, Mrs. Fisher, the Misses St. James and Mr. and Mrs. Covert.

Northern Michigan Resorts

Few places offer so many advantages for tired people as do the popular resorts on the shores of Lake Michigan and its tributary bays.

Bay View, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, Traverse City, and Grand Traverse Bay Resorts

are peculiarly inviting during the hot weather the bracing air, cool nights and freedom from dust contribute to make this region a natural Pantheon, for the recuperation of exhausted energies.

To those interested, Bay View offers special advantages in the great Chataqua course and Assembly, held in July and August, the program of which will be of unusual excellence this year, comprising classes in many branches of learning and lectures by noted professors and teachers from the highest colleges and universities of this country.

The Way to Reach these RESORTS

IS VIA THE CHICAGO AND WEST MICHIGAN

Railway, which runs through the entire region, and is known as "The Scenic Line," on account of the beautiful scenery through which it passes, traversing the shores of lakes, rivers, and bays, for miles, which, with the splendid service offered by this line makes the trip a delightful one.

Through parlor and sleeping cars from Detroit to Petoskey and Bay View, are run during July, August and September; via the Detroit, Lansing & Northern Railroad to Grand Rapids, thence via the C. & W. M. Tourist tickets at reduced rates are sold at principal stations on these and other lines from June 1st to Sept. 30—good to return until Oct. 31.

UNIVERSITY.

One hundred and fifty new members have been added to the S. C. A. since the opening of the University in October.

The twenty laws who are to uphold the honor of their department in the pronouncing contest of Dec. 18, are practicing for the event. They meet almost every evening for rehearsals.

There is no truth in the rumor that the Ryan, of Michigan, who will put on the gloves with Jack Dempsey, the pugilist, is the Ryan that has done so much humorous work for the Wrinkle.

The S. L. A. lecture of Robt. J. Burdette has been indefinitely postponed on account of the inability of the management to secure him an available date. In his place, Fred Emerson Brooks, the California poet-humorist will appear in the course Wednesday evening, Jan. 9.

It is reported on good authority that there was an exciting time on one of the streets of Ann Arbor a few nights since. Two hilarious and belated laws were going home singing, "We are the S. C. A." An Irishman thought the tune was, "We are the A. P. A.", and sailed in to lay out the legal chorus. It is said that he succeeded. Students should be careful how they make use of the S. C. A. song.

It appears that Beardsley is not found yet. The interview with Mr. Kroeze, given in Saturday's Courier, intimating that the dispatches in the Detroit papers were incorrect, proves to be true. Yesterday morning's Free Press states that a dispatch had been received from Beardsley's home saying that the reports were untrue and that not a word had been heard from him.

ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION DOINGS.

The executive board of the Oratorical Association held a meeting yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, at which several important matters were acted upon. Committees of two from each literary class were appointed to select five members from each class to participate in the pronouncing contest of Dec. 18. It was announced that some person must be secured to act as presiding officer, inasmuch as President Angell will be out of the city at the time of the contest. Admission to the contest will be twenty-five cents, except to holders of Oratorical Association or S. L. A. tickets, who will be admitted free. It was announced that Regents Barbour and Cocker and Prof. Fulton will act as judges of the University Oratorical contest.

ANNUAL SOPHOMORE HOP.

It has been a long time since Granger's hall held a gayer, handsomer, happier crowd than it did last evening, the occasion of the annual sophomore hop of the fraternity men. Ninety-seven's beauty and gallantry were there in full force. Fully fifty couples were on the floor. The hop had been arranged by the committees with the avowed intention of making the hop of '97 equal, if not superior, to any ever held under similar auspices in previous years. The general verdict of those present last evening was that the gentlemen in charge of affairs had been successful in carrying out their laudable intentions.

Twenty-two waltzes, two-steps and polkas were on the regular program and ten extras eked out sufficient opportunity for the young people to secure what enjoyment they thought was justly their due.

The chaperones of the evening were the Mesdames James B. Angell, P. R. dePont, George W. Patterson, and James H. Wade.

The committees to whom the pleasure and success of the evening were due are as follows, with W. A. Starrett, Sigma Phi, general chairman.

Reception committee.—R. W. Hawkins, Beta Theta Pi, chairman; G. T. White, Chi Psi; D. G. Swannell, Phi Kappa Psi.

Invitation committee.—H. W. Cummings, Psi Upsilon, chairman; C. E. Mead, Chi Psi; Howard O'Brien, Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Arrangement committee.—R. C. Bourland, Alpha Delta Phi, chairman; A. B. Turner, Zeta Psi; R. I. Gilmer, Delta Tau Delta.

SOMETHING ABOUT HOPE COLLEGE.

President Kollen, of Hope College, is spending a few days in the city. He reports the institution of which he is president to be in a prosperous condition. Hope College now has 225 students. The work is done in the most careful and thorough manner. A large number of students from that institution afterwards come to the University of Michigan, taking courses in the professional departments. The high standing of Hope College may be inferred from the fact that the literary faculty of the University requires only a few hours extra work from A. B. graduates of Hope to secure the same degree here. President Kollen is a well-known educator, having taught for many years. He was inaugurated as president of the college in June, 1893, and has had a most successful administration thus far. He is a very pleasant, unassuming man, who takes the greatest interest in his students, as well as in the alumni of Hope College. He is being entertained by some of his former students while in the city. He attended the senior law lecture given by Prof. Alexis C. Angell this forenoon.

IT WILL BE CAPT. HENNINGER.

The members of the foot ball team met in room 9 last evening for the purpose of electing a foot ball captain for next year. Manager Baird made a few general remarks, in which he strongly advised all members of the team to vote for a captain not from personal motives, but for the best interests of University athletics. He asked all the players to help along all branches of athletics in the University, and in every way to show themselves worthy of the support and regard of faculty and students alike. The manager urged the men to come out for spring practice, and stated that the men would probably come back earlier next fall. The team will probably be taken out to a summer resort about the middle of September. There will probably be enough money on hand to enable the athletic management to take the men out early and get them in shape for the earlier games. Captain Baird's earnest and sensible remarks were well received by the team.

An informal ballot was then taken with the result that Mr. Henninger received all the votes. The successful candidate made a few remarks, in which he stated that he appreciated not only the honor but the responsibility of the position. He promised to do the best he could for the team, and said that he believed that if the men gave him their hearty support he would be able to get out a winning team. Captain Baird made a few remarks in which he thanked the men for the support they had given him. Mr. Price arose and said: "We have had the best foot ball manager in the college world." The cheers with which this statement was received plainly showed the esteem in which the manager is held by the members of the eleven. Speeches were also made by other members of the team, and the utmost enthusiasm and good feeling was manifested.

FOOT-BALL IS ALL RIGHT.

President Angell and President Harper both approve of the game of foot-ball. President Angell, being invited by President Smart, of Purdue, to attend a meeting of college presidents, for the purpose of abolishing some of the abuses at present existing in foot-ball, made reply that he thought the necessary reform could as well be made through correspondence as any other way, but as far as the U. of M. is concerned he has no fault to find whatsoever. He stated further, that in his opinion, we have an ideal board of control of athletes here, and it has always been their policy to choose only men who are gentlemen in the strictest sense of the word to play on the team. President Angell also stated, that while the game is doubtless a little rough, he wishes it understood that he heartily approves of foot-ball as it is played here, both because it tends to the development of courage and discipline, and because it is also conducive to the formation of regular habits, and through its example has a salutary influence on the morals and character of the students.

President Harper, of Chicago University, defends the game in these words: "Because a thing is abused, furnishes no sufficient reason why it should be abolished. I can at least say three things about foot-ball: In the first place, I believe in foot-ball as a college game most thoroughly. We must never consider the question of abolishing it. In the second place, I disbelieve just as firmly in any and every kind of brutality connected with it. This brutality is unnecessary and must be eradicated. In the third place, the colleges must stand for a clean foot-ball regime, clean as to professionalism, and clean as to brutality and unfair play. We must make it a game that is respectable.

"The college has got to have games; they are as essential to university life as any other part of the university, but they must be decent and respectable in every particular, and if they are not that to-day they must be made so. Furthermore, a man who isn't square must be immediately dropped from the team and dismissed from the university. The University of Chicago will encourage foot-ball to the fullest extent, especially inter-collegiate foot-ball, but only with institutions in which the same ideal is cherished."

SENIOR LAWS WILL FOUND AN ANNUAL.

A meeting of the senior law class was held in the law lecture room at 7:30 last evening. On motion of Mr. Wheeler it was decided to hold an election of the remaining class day officers on the first Saturday after the holiday vacation. Mr. Aaron moved that a committee of five be appointed to draw up a constitution for "To-Wit" the senior law annual. President Walsh appointed the following committee: Messrs. Aaron, Wedemeyer, Mays, Zimmerman and Downing. On motion of Mr. Keerns it was decided that the senior law class found a class annual. It was then decided to discharge the committee previously appointed and to re-appoint it for the purpose of preparing a constitution for the senior law annual. This motion was to obviate the misunderstanding that might arise from the use of the words "To-Wit." Mr. Bingham moved that a committee of three be appointed to select a class cane. This motion was adopted and the following committee appointed: Messrs. Doyle, Cockett, Bartels and Bingham. This committee will also select a silk hat to be worn by such members of the class as may desire to do so. Messrs. Burnham, Barr and Orr were appointed a committee to see the faculty in regard to having a lecture delivered on Dec. 15, instead of Dec. 21. This would enable the members of the class to leave for their homes on Thursday evening, as has been done in previous years. The resignation of J. V. Rosencrance from the position of second assistant marshal was accepted. A number of the committee appointed from the various sections to ascertain how much could be raised in case the class decided to get a bust of Judge Cooley, made an encouraging report. However, the main committee was unable to make a report last evening, and the matter will probably be brought up again at the next meeting of the class.

R. from places within 100 miles of Ann Arbor, for one price for the round trip, to enable those who desire so to do to attend the grand Columbian organ concert Friday evening, Dec. 14. There will doubtless be many who will avail themselves of this privilege.

A Gentle Corrective is what you need when your liver becomes inactive. It's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; they're free from the violence and the griping that come with the ordinary pill. The best medical authorities agree that in regulating the bowels mild methods are preferable. For every derangement of the liver, stomach and bowels, these tiny, sugar coated pills are most effective. They go about their work in an easy and natural way, and their good lasts. Once used, they are always in favor. Being composed of the choicest, concentrated vegetable extracts, they cost much more than other pills found in the market, yet from forty to forty-four are put up in each sealed glass vial, as sold through druggists, at the price of the cheaper made pills.

"Pleasant Pellets" cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in sealed glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. Whether as a laxative, or in larger doses, as a gently acting but searching cathartic, these little "Pellets" are unequalled.

As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day after dinner. To relieve the distress arising from over-eating, nothing equals one of these little "Pellets." They are tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules. Any child readily takes them. Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

A free sample (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

A good one is told on a girl that dwells in Ypsilanti. It is said that she had on her bureau a box containing charcoal powder. Her lover called at dusk, and in the gloom she hastily seized her puff, and thoughtlessly dabbed it into the charcoal, and applied it to her face. She spent two hours with her lover, still in the gloom, and after leaving him glanced in the mirror. Fancy her feelings.

The Ann Arbor Courier has nominated Judge Kinne for the supreme bench. That may answer for local pride, but what we wish to know is, has Judge Kane taken that old oak tree out of the sidewalk in front of his premises? He'll not get our support for judge, so long as he insists on obstructing our way to him. Kin a man be elected who grows acorns in the public sidewalk? Kinne? We should say not.—Adrian Press.

Spare that tree. Touch not a single bough. It is a barr oak, or swamp oak, and is indicative of how the judge swamps his enemies when he runs for office.

All the magazines are charming this month, making a special effort to hold the old and secure new subscribers for the year to come. The sales of some of the Christmas numbers of the cheaper ones are enormous. The excellence of the daily and weekly newspapers of the day, and the enormous amount of reading matter they give for a few pennies, has put the magazines to their wit's ends to keep up their circulation. Many of them have gone into illustrations, some of the cheaper ones quite profusely, which makes them very attractive, but if this thing continues where will our art periodicals come in?

The United States has 19,855 newspapers, while the whole world about 41,000. The United States can claim nearly half of the intelligence of the world under these statistics. And Ann Arbor can come in for her just proportion of the number in the United States, with her 3 dailies, 6 weeklies, 1 semi-weekly, and 8 monthlies, besides a large number of annuals. The printing press is glutting the market with reading matter. The present average head is not large enough to devour the current literature of the day. President Angell is in receipt of information from Geneva, N. Y., to the effect that his mother, who is now a lady 87 years of age, is in a very critical condition, and liable to die at any moment. Some weeks since she had a slight stroke of paralysis, and has been sinking ever since. She is living with a daughter, Mrs. Dr. Collier, who is at the head of the Experiment Station, at Geneva. In the event of death Mrs. Angell will be carried to Providence, R. I., for burial.

The Detroit Journal says: The citizens committee appointed to assist in raising the funds for Detroit's payment on the Columbian organ at the University is meeting with gratifying success. Yesterday the committee received several subscriptions of $25 to $50 each. The Detroit members of the alumni of the University, numbering nearly 300, are subscribing liberally. Tickets are being sold, good for the return trip to Ann Arbor, luncheon and admission to the dedicatory services for a special rate of $5.

The bids for wood received by the school district ranged from $2.45 to $2.85 for basswood; $3.75 to $4.00 for white and yellow oak, second growth; $4.20 for oak and hickory mixed; $4.50 for maple; $5.00 for hickory. The board contracted with David Ehms and Christian Nagle for basswood; and with Christian Nagel, A. Frey, George Schulerle and P. O'Neil for white and yellow oak, at from $3.75 to $6.00 per cord. They take no maple or hickory.

The most popular place in town just now and the one most talked about is Hangsterfer's new store, at the corner of Washington street and 4th avenue. Everyone traveling on E. The report of the post office department of the United States, puts Ann Arbor eighth on the list of Michigan post offices as regards receipts. Ann Arbor's receipts are given as $28,955 for the last fiscal year. Twenty-six offices of the state have receipts over $10,000. Detroit, Saginaw, e. s., Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Battle Creek stand ahead of Ann Arbor.

The Detroit Journal says: The citizens committee appointed to assist in raising the funds for Detroit's payment on the Columbian organ at the University is meeting with gratifying success. Yesterday the committee received several subscriptions of $25 to $50 each. The Detroit members of the alumni of the University, numbering nearly 300, are subscribing liberally. Tickets are being sold, good for the return trip to Ann Arbor, luncheon and admission to the dedicatory services for a special rate of $5.

The bids for wood received by the school district ranged from $2.45 to $2.85 for basswood; $3.75 to $4.00 for white and yellow oak, second growth; $4.20 for oak and hickory mixed; $4.50 for maple; $5.00 for hickory. The board contracted with David Ehms and Christian Nagle for basswood; and with Christian Nagel, A. Frey, George Schulerle and P. O'Neil for white and yellow oak, at from $3.75 to $6.00 per cord. They take no maple or hickory.

The most popular place in town just now and the one most talked about is Hangsterfer's new store, at the corner of Washington street and 4th avenue. Everyone traveling on E. Washington st., takes the south side so that they may get a good look at the inside of the store with its elaborately decorated windows and delicate furnishings. Then, if anyone escapes the hankering for an ice cream soda or something else equally good, that involuntarily arises, he is a good one. Everything about Mr. Hangsterfer's establishment looks brand new. It is indeed a fine establishment and one of which the city may feel proud. A beautiful banquet hall has been arranged in the third story of the building.

Splendid Results Disabled by Dyspepsia

Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:"

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with splendid results. I was troubled with dyspepsia so bad that I could not work. I am 36 years of age and a carpenter and joiner by trade. I commenced a course of treatment with one of our physicians, but in vain. Finally I was persuaded to buy a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

I Took Just One Bottle and I have not lost a day's work since, on account of my old trouble of dyspepsia. It has also improved my general health and I feel much stronger. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent blood purifier." ALEX. HOLTON, Alden, Michigan.

Charity that "Curseth Him Who Gives and Him Who Takes."

There is many a rich man seated to-day with easy conscience at a table shining with cut-glass and silver, who would be ready to stretch out a helping hand to those who need it, if they were not "all so far away." He is living in another world. What he does is to make his annual contributions to our charitable societies, and that is all. Some day we shall begin to calculate the evil resulting from such contributions. Again and again it is true of the charity of to-day that "it curseth him who gives and him who takes." On the one hand the poor man, sinking down into the mire of pauperism, realizes dimly the bitterness of his degradation, and takes the alms offered him with curses in his heart; while on the other hand the rich merchant and manufacturer, who is daily disregarding the health of little children and delicate girls, quiets his conscience with a large check in the name of charity. And society applauds the generosity of such a man, and his eyes are blinded. "It is so tempting to the rich to think that by giving a check for the support of a social scheme, poverty may be abolished, and they be left free to enjoy their wealth. They always hope that something, not themselves, might meet all needs."

One is often asked the question, "What can the rich man do for the relief of suffering?" I believe that there is but one answer: Let him give not alms but himself, and the wisdom comes with the giving. I knew a young apprentice in a great machine-shop who was stricken down with consumption. His parents were old and feeble, and it was only through the gifts of the employer his last days were made comfortable, but more to them than the gifts was the fact that the employer came himself to the little home in the East-side tenement, and spoke friendly words. From every such natural friendship there grow more and more chances for helpfulness, and for that truest charity of all charities—the treating of others as if they were of our own kind.—December Forum.

Englishmen and their Newspapers.

The newspaper is a member of the family in England, and regularly comes to breakfast with the other members. The London "Times" is a kind of oldest son among newspapers, and "Punch," the jolly bachelor uncle, who makes occasional visits. Englishmen take their newspapers into their confidence, and have a naïf way of writing to them on all sorts of subjects. If an Englishman rows down the Thames and stops for luncheon at an inn and is overcharged, he writes to his newspaper, just as a little boy runs in to complain to his mamma of the rough treatment of his playmates; and later on this letter is followed by others, in which the comparative merits and cost of light lunches on the continent, in Seringapatam, in Kamchatka, and everywhere else where Englishmen have eaten and drunk—and where have they not done these?—is discussed au fond. If horses stumble and fall in Rotten Row, there are letters on the subject which go into the matter of road-building, modern horsemanship, and the like, with quotations from Virgil and anecdotes of accidents that happened half a century ago. Of late there have been many letters concerning the lynching of Negroes in our Southern States, and here again John Bull, with his ponderous disregard of the fact that he knows nothing at first hand, delivers himself naively, as usual, of his superficial omniscience. Not only the more serious weekly but also the daily newspapers give one the impression that they feel themselves to some extent responsible for the contemporary auditing of the accounts of the Day of Judgment. On the other hand, the better-class of English newspapers do not indulge in rash suppositions, hasty generalizations, uncertain guesses at probable future happenings, and the daily exploitation of the personal affairs of notorious nobodies. And one may be permitted to say diffidently that perhaps this is preferable. If Mr. Balfour, for example, were to go abroad for a holiday, it would be considered vulgar to chronicle his doing and dinings, and absolutely brutal and boorish to write particulars of the dress and behavior of his sister—or of his wife, if he had one. The sense of fair-play of a nation of sportsmen does not permit an editor to torment even his enemy from behind a woman's petticoats.—December Forum.

Poor Digestion

Leads to nervousness, fretfulness, peevishness, chronic dyspepsia and great misery. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy. It tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and gives a relish to food. It makes pure blood and gives healthy action to all organs of the body. Take Hood's for Hood's Sarsaparilla cures.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them. 25c.

What the Senators Do.

"What do the senators do, papa?"
"The United States senators do?"
"They are patriots all, my good little Paul. They are patriots tried and true."
"But what do the senators do, papa?"
"The United States senators do?"
"Oh, they talk and debate for the good of the state. They are statesmen leal and true."
"But what do the senators do, papa?"
"The United States senators do?"
"Each talks in turn until they adjourn; They are workers stern and true."
"But what do the senators do, papa?"
"The United States senators do?"
"Oh, they draw their pay in the regular way, In the old immemorial way."
"They are orators wise and true."
"Oh, what do they do, I pray?"
"Oh, they draw their pay in the regular way, In the old immemorial way."
—New Orleans Picayune.

Hancock at Gettysburg.

A hundred guns—yes, fifty more—
Rained down their shot and shell
As if from out its yawning door,
Drove the red blaze of hell.
The ceaseless iron hail!
The ceaseless iron hail!
All this for half the day I own
It made the stoutest quail.
But sudden, far to left, we heard
The band strike up and lol
Full in our front—no breath was stirred—
Came Hancock, ridin' slow—
As slow as if on dress parade.
All down the line to right
And back again By my good blade,
Was ever such a sight?
We lay at length. No ranks could stand
Against that tempest wild:
Yet on he rode, with hat in hand,
And looked, and bowed, and smiled;
Whatever favors we had before,
Were gone. That light, you know,
Just made us fly thousand more,
All hot to face the foe.
You've heard the rest. How on they came,
Earth shakin' at their tread:
A cheer! Our ranks burst into flame:
Steel crossed the foe had died.
You still that dante's form I see,
Slow ridin' down the line,
Was ever deed of chivalry
So grand, O comrade mine?

The Christian Deed of a Christian Woman.

A few weeks ago a poor man from the northern part of the state brought his twelve year old boy to the city to have his eyes operated upon. Arriving at the hospital the Doctor found after making a thorough examination of the boy's eyes, that in addition to the cataract which caused the blindness in one eye, the other was so badly inflamed that the boy would need treatment for several weeks before an operation could be performed. The examination was made at a clinic and when the professor gave the decision and explained that the operations could not be made at present the father's grief was something pitiful. "I cannot take him home. It would kill his mother," exclaimed the poor man, while those in charge quickly understood that there was no money to provide for the boy's treatment. The scene so touched the heart of a student present, that he hurried home to his landlady and told the story of the boy's needs and of the father's impetuous circumstances. Although she had a household of boarders and a heart full of cares the generous hearted woman found room for the boy and is giving him not only his board and a place to sleep but a mother's love and care while he is taking the necessary treatment. She has also found work for the father and in a few weeks will have the satisfaction of seeing the boy's eyesight restored and both father and son go home to the anxious mother with good news and happy hearts. Surely it is more pleasure to give blessings than to receive them.—Democrat.

A Word About the Concert.

The people of Ann Arbor can not afford to be stingy in a matter of the Columbia Organ dedicatory concert. This grand organ will be the means of helping the city more than the cost of the instrument, many times over, and our people should feel like making some sacrifice to help pay for it. If people outside the city have given more than one-half the cost of this instrument, there ought to be enough people here in the city directly benefited to cheerfully contribute the other half.

There ought to be 1,000 people here in Ann Arbor willing to pay at least $2 each toward this fund, and $2, or $2.50 is the common price of concert tickets in most cities of the union.

It will be no credit to the citizens of Ann Arbor if they fail in doing what is plainly for their own interests to do.

Ann Arbor can not afford to assume the position of mendicant, asking and accepting alms, and that is practically what this will be if she does not come to her own rescue.

While a great many tickets have been sold, there are a great many more to be sold if this concert proves a success; and residents of this city are told, are slow to perform this duty they owe to their own future prosperity.

Harper's Magazine IN 1895.

THE SIMPLETONS, a new novel by Thomas Hardy, will be begun in the December issue, 1894, and continued in November, 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF JOAN OF ARC, by the Sieur Louis de Conte, Her Page and Secretary, under which guise the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the heroic maiden of the CAROLINAS, the first of series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empire. The next issue of HARPER'S MAGAZINE will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict present life there. JULIAN RALPH will prepare for the magazine a series of eight stories, depicting typical phases of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the longest story there will be a new story, the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on CHARLESTON AND THE CAROLINAS, the first of series of Southern Papers.

Harper's Bazar IN 1895.

Elegant and exclusive designs for Out-door and In-door Toilettes, drawn from Worth models by SAMPSON & CHAPMAN, are an important feature. These appear every week, accompanied by minute descriptions and details. Our Paris Letter, by KATHARINE DE KONGER, is a weekly transcript of the latest styles and caprices in the mode. Under the head of New York Fashions, plain directions and particulars are given as to shapings, fabrics, trimmings and accessories of the costumes of well dressed women. Children's Clothing receives special attention. A fortnightly Pattern-sheet Supplement enables readers to cut and make their own gowns. The woman who takes HARPER'S BAZAR is prepared for every occasion in life, common or informal, where beautiful dress is requisite.

AMERICAN SERIAL, Doctor Warrick's Daughters, by REBECCA HARDING DAVIS, a strong novel of American life, partly laid in Pennsylvania and partly in the far South, will occupy the last part of the year.

My Lady Nobody, an intensely exciting novel, by MAARTEN MAARTENS, author of "The Greater Glory," etc., will begin the year.

Harper's Weekly IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the China-Japan war, are examples of its almost boundless resources. JULIAN RALPH, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has written for the year of war, and there joined by S. D. WELLES, the well-known American artist, and for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to co-operate with Mr. RALPH in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and timely comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

Exciting, this powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockade, a stirring romance of olden days; NEW YORK, entitled The Son of His Father, by BLANDER MATEWES—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE SOUTH

Is being furthered by the Queen & Crescent Route by means of a special series of Monthly Excursions to Southern points at One Fare for the Round Trip. These rates are in effect from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Lexington, Ky., on November 6th and December 4th, good twenty days from date of sale for return. They are sold on these dates to all points in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida (except Key West,) and to New Orleans, and all points on our line in Louisiana.

Stop-overs are permitted on these excursions at any point south of the Ohio River, within the final limit of the tickets. This offers an excellent opportunity to those who desire to go South to look into the present great movement of Northern farmers to that section.

The Q. & C. has over a million acres of farms and timber land for sale along its line at $3.00 to $5.00 per acre, on easy terms.

Send us your name for advertising matter and any information you may want as to lands and immigration to the South.

WHERE THE SUMMER BREEZES BLOW

Would you fly if you could
To give the wings of a dove?
To a spot in the shade
That nature hath made:
Rich with ferns and wild flowers
One of nature's fair bowers?
What is life to the soul
If to labor is all?
What is joy to the heart
When for rest we depart?
To the woods and the dells,
Does your heart cry for rest
In a place that is best,
With no shadow or sorrow
Nor care for the morrow?
If so, send your address for a list of "SUMMER TOURS," published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. Geo. H. Hefford, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

AN EXPENSIVE WATCH.

An Incident of the War That Has Caused a Great Deal of Trouble.

A case that has attracted a great deal of attention because of the prominence of the parties, and especially in Ann Arbor because of their acquaintance here, was that of Elroy M. Avery, of Cleveland, O., against Henry C. Spaulding, of Dundee, Mich. Mr. Avery was educated here in Ann Arbor, and was an active student, of good character and much push and energy. He left his studies to enter the army as a non-commissioned officer in the 11th Mich. cavalry, and it was while down south the event occurred that caused all the trouble.

A gold watch obtained by Spaulding while on a foraging tour near Athens, Ga., when both he and Avery were members of the famous 11th Mich. cavalry, has been the subject of this controversy lasting twenty years. Avery was then a non-commissioned officer and Spaulding a private. Avery, upon the day following Spaulding's capture of the watch, was ordered by his superior officer to go with the owner of the watch, a Mr. Pond, who was a northerner residing in the south, and obtain the watch from Spaulding. The watch was handed over to the citizen who was introduced to Spaulding as the owner. Mr. Pond left the watch in Avery's hands for safe-keeping until the close of the war.

In February, 1891, when Avery was a candidate for the postmastership of Cleveland, O., Spaulding happened to be in the city. He swore out a warrant for Avery's arrest on the charge of stealing the watch from him in Georgia, but the justice refused to issue it on the ground that he had no jurisdiction.

Another warrant was obtained in which the place of the alleged stealing was laid in an Ohio county. These warrants were intended by Spaulding to be used to scare Avery into turning over the watch. Mr. Avery was arrested and searched by a detective and as he was a candidate for postmaster, the Cleveland papers and also the papers of other cities published articles in regard to it. Avery claimed that Spaulding inspired many of the articles. The suit was never prosecuted, and was finally dismissed for that reason.

Avery brought suit in the Monroe county circuit court against Spaulding for malicious prosecution and personal libel. The suit was discontinued by Avery after the testimony was nearly all in because his attorney, Judge Tillotson, of Cleveland, was a necessary witness, and he refused to testify and act as an attorney at the same time.

Suit was begun in the United States circuit court by Avery, wherein he claimed $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution and personal libel. The case hinged upon whether or not the parties had previously entered into an agreement of settlement. Avery claimed that a preliminary or conditional agreement had been effected at Toledo, O., Spaulding claimed that the agreement was final. He was supported by the testimony of his attorney, S. C. Randall, who was present when the agreement was made. Avery's testimony was corroborated by that of Judge Tillotson, who was his attorney and who was also present when the agreement was made.

One of the peculiar circumstances brought out on the trial was that Spaulding believed that the man introduced to him as Preston B. Pond, the owner of the watch, when Avery demanded it at Athens, Ga., under command of his superior officer, was a fictitious person. This belief continued, he said on the stand, until last summer, when his attorney, C. A. Golden, and Avery's attorney, Edwin F. Conely, went to Massachusetts and witnessed the taking of Mr. Pond's affidavit. Mr. Pond, then nearly 80 years old, made affidavit exonerating Avery from the charge of theft, and also stated that the watch cost him $100 in Liverpool and "something besides for getting it over here."

The watch was an open-faced one and had Mr. Pond's name inscribed. It also had a varied history. During one of Mr. Avery's vacations, while he was a student at the University of Michigan, he went to his father's home in Monroe county, W. Va. and found he had lost the watch. Vigorous search failed to bring it to light. Almost two years afterward his father found it filled with rust while plowing. Shortly afterward the elder Avery died and the watch could not be found among his effects.

The jury, Saturday afternoon, after about four hours' deliberation, decided the case in favor of Mr. Avery, giving him $1,500 damages.

THAT FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS.

It will Come Very Handy to the Ann Arbor Carriers.

John L. Duffy, of this city, has been down at Washington, D. C., for a few days, in the interest of the mail carriers at this postoffice, who have claims in for extra services rendered.

For a long time the routes of the carriers in Ann Arbor were so long, and the amount of mail matter carried so great, that it was impossible to get through with their work in the eight hours prescribed by law, and it more often took ten hours.

The carriers kept an account of all the overtime put in, and some months ago presented their case to the department at Washington, D. C.

Last fall an official from the P. O. department was in the city looking up the matter, and his report was favorable for the allowance of the claims. Nothing having been heard from headquarters, those interested sent Mr. Duffy to Washington as an attorney to look after their interests. He called upon Postmaster General Bessell, Ass't Postmaster General Jones and the attorney general of the postoffice department, relative to the claim, and secured their aid in expediting the matter, and a Washington dispatch states that the claims will probably be reported to that treasury department for payment to-day, and the same will be recommended to congress for immediate settlement.

The carriers most interested are Will Baxter, George Blum, Jas. O'Kane, and Chris Donnelly, each one of whom has put in a claim for about $700. The other carriers who will come in for lesser amounts are Frank O'Hearn, Earl Ware, Will Armstrong, Jo. Polhemus, Asa Allen and Al Fruhauff.

The total amount will reach $4,000, and each one of the boys claim that they would like to have it drop in just about this holiday time.

Hope it will.

METHOD OF CREATION.

Prof. Steere Tells About the Method of Creation by Species.

Prof. Steere yesterday gave the third of his lectures on "Evolution from a Christian Standpoint." His subject, "The Methods of Creation of Species," was very interesting and instructive. A short review of the preceding lecture was given, the main point of which was the adaptability of animal life to surrounding conditions.

The terms, germs, species, order and class, are misleading, because they give the idea of fixity to the plan of creation. The nomenclature of this science is too unbinding; it is important to the scientist, yet is misleading in so far as it fosters the theory of species creation.

The difference between two varieties of the same species is often more marked than that between two different species.

There are three principal ways of species creation: 1. The species may live in one place for a long time, under the same conditions, but changes gradually with the slow changes in the life conditions surrounding it. This method gives no way for the creation of new species. 2. By isolation; that is, where groups of an existing species are separated and live in a new area. The conditions in this area must be enough like the conditions in the old to support life. This method allows of rapid multiplication of species. 3. By fusion of closely allied species. Nature desires but one form of life to satisfy one set of conditions. Thus to avoid two or more species for the same conditions she uses the method of fusion. This was illustrated by giving examples of fusion of different species of birds.

The last lecture of Prof. Steere will be given next Sunday at noon.

The Pains of Rheumatism

According to the best authorities, originate in a morbid condition of the blood. Lactic acid, caused by decomposition of the gelatinous and albuminous tissues, circulates with the blood and attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly in the joints and thus causes the local manifestations of the disease. The back and shoulders are the parts usually affected by rheumatism, and the joints at the knees, ankles, hips and wrists are also sometimes attacked. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism. It has had remarkable success in curing the most severe cases. The secret of its success lies in the fact that it attacks at once the cause of the disease by neutralizing the lactic acid and purifying the blood, as well as strengthening every function of the body.

IS BEARDSLEY FOUND?

The Missing Student Reported to be Hopelessly Insane.

Despatches to this morning's papers state that Carl R. Beardley has been located in a small Canadian town, and that he is hopelessly insane. No very definite information regarding his condition has been received. Beardley was a son of ex-Senator Beardley, of Indiana, once a prominent figure in state politics. It was feared by his friends that he letter sent to his home from Detroit was a forgery and that he had been foully dealt with. This supposition, however, seems to be entirely unfounded.

In conversation with Mr. B. H. Kroeze, an intimate friend of Mr. Beardley he said that in his opinion, the reports of Beardley's insanity are entirely untrue. He gives several reasons for his belief. In the first place he says that Beardley had sufficient reason for leaving his friends that any sane man would consider a sufficient motive for his apparently strange conduct. This reason lies far back of his trouble with University work, although that may have been an immediate cause. What this reason is, is known only to Beardley and his more intimate friends in Elkhart. Mr. Kroeze is entirely convinced that aside from an inordinate stubbornness, Beardley was perfectly normal. Another reason for disbelieving the despatches is that Kroeze received yesterday a letter from Toronto, saying that Beardley had not been found. Still a third reason and a strange one exists in a letter received yesterday by Mr. Kroeze from Rev. Townsend, Beardley's Elkhart pastor, in which he anticipates the story of lunacy that has been sent out. Mr. Townsend said that this would undoubtedly follow this reason. Beardley wrote to his mother telling her to distribute his property among certain relatives. The charge of insanity would obviate such distribution.

Townsend's strange anticipation of the reports is peculiar. The case seems to be getting more and more complicated every day, and it will be interesting to see whether Mr. Kroeze's view is correct, or the despatches.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which there are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Eberbach Drug and Chemical Co., and Geo. Hoessler's, Manchester. Regula size 50c, and $1.00.

Crop Report for December.

Wheat has not made large growth this fall, yet it goes into the winter in very good condition. Correspondent's estimates indicate that, compared with vitality and growth of average years, the average condition in the southern counties is 88 per cent, central 92, northern 96, and State 90. The figures for the southern and central counties and the State, are higher, and for the northern counties the same as on December 1, 1893.

Correspondents this month have made a second estimate of the proportion of the wheat crop that is being fed to stock, the first estimate having been made in October. The average of present estimates is, for the State, 24 per cent, indicating that about one-fourth of the crop will be fed. The average for the southern counties is 25 per cent, the central 21 per cent, and northern, 22 per cent.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in November is 1,119,639. The number of bushels reported marketed in the four months August-November is 4,740,367, which is 1,618,004 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year.

The average condition of live stock in the State is reported as follows, comparison being with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition: Horses and sheep 94 per cent, cattle 95 per cent, and swine 97 per cent.

Dyspepsia seldom causes death, but permits its victims to live on in misery; Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

In St. Andrew's church next Sunday morning the Rev. Henry Tatlock will treat of the ministry as a calling for earnest young men.

Columbian Organ Program.

Prof. Stanley has announced the program for the Columbian Organ Concert of one week from to-night, as follows:

I. (a) Prelude and Fugue, G. minor
 (b) Aria
 (c) Pastorale

II. Andante, from first symphony—Beethoven (Adapted from Orchestral score by A. A. Stanley)

III. Sonata, C minor—Merkel

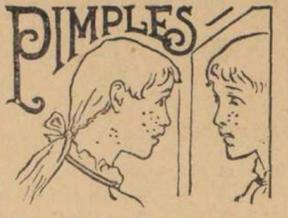

IV. Adagio, B minor—Allegretto

V. Fantasie, E minor ("The Storm")—Widor

VI. (a) Canon—Lemmens
 (b) Lamentation—Gullmant

VII. (a) Entre Act "Lakine"—Delibes
 (b) Grand Processional March—Gounod

The Ann Arbor City band, Frank E. Chase, leader, are securing instruments for their use as rapidly as they can afford to purchase them. The latest instrument secured is an E Flat contra bass, made by the house of C. G. Conn, Elkhart, Ind., and cost $75. Mr. Case informs us that it is a very superior instrument, one of the best made, and as far ahead of the ordinary band instrument as the Columbian organ is ahead of the ordinary organ. The band boys are very much elated over the securing of this particular instrument.

A Note From the A. M. E. Pastor.

The A. M. E. church on 4th ave. is lathed and plastered. We feel very thankful to our many friends for their kindness in helping us to lath and plaster our church that has been standing three years without. We owe but little on the work. We are in hopes to be able to go there within a few weeks and worship. It will take $650 to do it. So we trust dear friends, to have your sympathy and aid still further to help us through.

Many thanks to the members and friends who so grandly surprised us with a fine donation. Come again.

Fraternally,
 WM. COLLINS, Pastor.

How the Taxes Are Coming In.

The city treasurer is receiving taxes at a pretty fair rate, considering that the tax collected this year is considerable less than last year. The following is the record by days:

Saturday, Dec. 1, - $829.05
 Monday, Dec. 3, - 901.58
 Tuesday, Dec. 4, - 690.44
 Wednesday, Dec. 5, - 796.75
 Thursday, Dec. 6, - 974.20
 Friday, Dec. 7, - 974.20
 Saturday, Dec. 7, - 482.95
 Monday, Dec. 10, - 394.33
 Tuesday, Dec. 11, - 577.03

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

Wm. Bell, of Ypsilanti, has been granted an additional pension.

Guess we've got pretty near all kinds of thieves in Dundee. There are chicken thieves, clothes thieves, wood thieves and thieves that will hook anything that isn't nailed down or locked in a vault.—Ledger.

Alex. Dancer, of Lima, Washtenaw county has just had an auction and moves into town. He should locate in Waltz, though we believe there to be a dancing berg somewhere about the court house in Ann Arbor soon.—Adrian Press.

Ypsilanti Lodge No. 128, F. & A. M., elected officers Friday evening as follows: W. M., E. N. Colby; S. W.; John Mathews; S. W., Geo. Wilson; treasurer, E. B. Newhall; secretary, Frank B. Deubel; S. D., A. J. Fay; J. D., Joseph Peck; Tyler, H. P. Rafston.

After a protracted illness the death of Benjamin McCullough occurred Sunday evening at his home on E. Congress st. The deceased was 27 years of age and well known in this community as a young man of sterling integrity and industrious habits. He was a member of the firm of McCullough Brothers, whose foundry east of the iron bridge is one of the landmarks of the city. The funeral services were Tuesday afternoon.

What a Word Will Do.

Byron reminds us that a word is enough to arouse mankind to mutual slaughter. Yes there is power in a word—Marathon, for instance, Waterloo, Gettysburg, Appomattox. Great battles there, but what a great battle is going on in many a sick and suffering body. In yours, perhaps. Take courage. You can win. Call to your aid Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts powerfully upon the liver, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities; cures all humors from a common Blotch or Eruption to the worst Scrofula, Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short all diseases caused by bad blood. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially potent in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings" and Enlarged Glands.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure permanently constipation, biliousness, sick headache and indigestion.

Greek Must Go.

President Schurman's second annual report shows the prosperous and satisfactory condition of Cornell University in the years of 1893-1894. The total number of enrolled was 1,801, a gain of 101 over the attendance of the preceding year. Of the 1801 regular students, 225 were women. New York sent 1,003. President Schurman calls attention to the large number of positions in American Universities recently filled by Cornell graduates. He gives a list containing the names of seventy-five instructors, which are distributed in forty colleges and universities, among which are such representative institutions as Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Chicago, Yale, Wellesley and California. In discussing the important changes in the curriculum, which were made last year, President Schurman shows the striking tendency in American Universities to cut down the time assigned to Greek. He gives a valuable series of tables showing the exact amount of time devoted to Latin and Greek in forty representative institutions. His conclusion is that in the long run it is pretty certain to be decided that Greek is not an absolutely essential subject in all liberal education.

WHY NOT BE STRONG.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT THAT WEAKNESS MEANS.

There is a Limit to Your Endurance. Have You Reached It.

Beware of the Last Straw! It Will Come Like a Shock.

Shakespeare says: "When sorrows come, they come not single spies but in battalions." How true this is of disease. How surely will over-work lead to nervousness, headache, nervous exhaustion, prostration, paralysis and the most terrible nervous diseases.

Bad blood causes humors, stomach, liver and kidney complaints, rheumatism, bad complexion, tumors and all kinds of blood diseases. That tired feeling means exhaustion of the nerves and vital forces—it kills. If the liver is torpid, constipation follows. This clogs the circulation the circulation and causes congestion of all the organs.

You must stop these complaints right where they are, if you value your life. The way to do it is to take Dr. Green's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It cures disease and makes you well.

MISS ROSE MCCARTHY.

The popular Miss Rose McCarthy, of 347 East 87th Street, New York City, writes:

"For a long time I was troubled with nervousness and violent headaches. I would lie awake nearly all night and was in constant misery. Previous to this my complexion was a very healthy color, but it now became very bad."

"I took three bottles of Dr. Green's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and was entirely cured. My nervousness and headaches left me my good complexion returned and I slept perfectly. I can safely say to everybody who is suffering, just give it a trial and you will be cured. I hope my statement will find relief for many people who do not know the benefit of such a wonderful medicine."

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy strikes disease like the lightning's flash, which nothing can resist, and where it strikes it cures. Put it to the test in your own case and see how quickly health and strength will be yours.

Physicians recommend it because it is the discovery of the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York. You can consult him free, personally or by letter.

A CONVERSATION.

They Met Each Other Down Town and Agreed to Meet at the Same Place.

"Why, how do you do, Mrs. K.?" "Very well, indeed. How are you getting along, Mrs. A.? How is your daughter?" "Oh, she is getting along nicely
