DEATH BY HIS OWN HAND.

Edward James Twiss, a Former Law Student, Suicides.

WAS NOT UNREQUITED LOVE.

Despondency Due to Drink was the Cause—The Deed was Done at 14 S. Ingalls—Took Two Dozen Morphine Capsules.

"Give me two dozen morphine pills," said a young man of twenty-three years, to a clerk in Brown's drug store about 10:30 yesterday a. m. "I want to stop my headache."

An hour afterward, Edward J. Twiss lay dying at the home of Mrs. A. G. Hirsch, 14 S. Ingalls, from the effect of poison administered by himself.

Apparently Twiss had gone straight home from the drug store and had taken the entire amount of morphine he had purchased. When found he was unconscious. Drs. Lynds and Hughton were at once called and they worked over him for three hours, trying to save him. However, their efforts were without avail and at 1:15 he died.

The remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of O. M. Martin, where Coroner Ball began his official duties by empanelling the following jury: A. V. Robison, Wm. Clark, John R. Miner, Tom Mingay, Wm. Sturgeon and A. B. Wines. After examination of the attending physicians and one or two other witnesses, the jury rendered the verdict that Twiss died "from the effect of morphine or some other narcotic poison, administered by his own hand."

All the message that the young man had to leave was embodied in a brief letter that ran as follows:

"Mamma: Treat Hirsch's folks kindly; they were good to me. Treat ——— well. I loved her; she was more to me than anyone else in the world. I am going to Will now. Am tired of living. When you have put me in the grave, use Mrs. Hirsch kindly. She treated me well. Good-bye. ED."

The sweetheart mentioned in the note is a young lady of Port Huron. Will was his brother, who died about a year ago.

Mr. Twiss' home was in Port Huron, where his parents are very well-to-do people, the father being an alderman of the city. Young Twiss has been studying law in the office of Frank Whipple, since leaving the law department of the University last May. He did not graduate here, as stated in this morning's papers.

He had been in Ann Arbor for about a week, visiting the family of Mrs. Hirsch, with whom he had lived when here at school. Yesterday he had expected to go home and had ordered a hack to take him to the train. When the carriage came for him, Twiss was out and before the next train went he had committed the fatal deed.

This morning Mr. B. R. Whipple, of Port Huron, and lit. '92, of the University, arrived to take charge of the body, which was sent home on the 11:05 train.

In conversation with the Courier, Mr. Whipple was asked his opinion of the cause of Twiss' rash act. He replied:

"It was undoubtedly due to despondency and not to any love affair, as the papers have falsely stated. He had been drinking and a week ago last Friday night, was intoxicated in Detroit, before coming to Ann Arbor. While in this condition, he was arrested and on Saturday morning was brought into the justice court of Detroit. He was let off without fine. Thence he came to Ann Arbor. This affair had undoubtedly played upon his mind continually, and his shame was so acute that he hated to go home. Add to this the fact that he was inclined to be 'blue' and I think you have the cause of his action. Twiss was not a heavy drinker. Occasionally he had a continued 'spree' like the one in Detroit. He was a fine looking fellow and as good hearted as they were good looking. The affair will almost kill his parents, who are quite wealthy people of Port Huron."

THE GOODS AND THE THIEVES.

The Burglars Who Stole Sheehan's Goods Have Been Captured and the Goods Recovered.

A very pretty piece of prompt and excellent work has been done by the officers in the Sheehan burglary matter.

When Sheriff Judson was apprised of the crime, he got a description of the goods and sent it at once to Detroit, and placed Detectives Tuttle and Lalla of that city on the trail.

The result was excellent. The Detroit officers got on the track of the goods, and kept up the scent until they found most of them in that city, and the balance were found in the city of Ypsilanti, at the house of a woman named Sada Jenness.

The names of the persons arrested are George Obyrant, Doc Collins, both colored, Richard Thompson, white, and Sada Jenness. The three men arrested were known to have stopped at the Jenness woman's house, and in that way her arrest was effected, and a portion of the goods found in her possession. The above are all now in jail.

It is needless to add that Mr. Sheehan is very much elated over the discovery and return of his goods, and that he feels that the officers have done most excellent work.

It has been a long time since more prompt and efficient detective work has been accomplished and Sheriff Judson and Chief Banfield much credit is due for pushing the work to successful completion.

A City Lock-up.

Under the new ruling of Sheriff Judson, that after a man is placed inside the county jail the officer who arrested him has nothing further to do in the case, it will be necessary for Ann Arbor to establish a city lock-up.

Many of our citizens who know the workings of criminal matters, have long been in favor of this measure. The fees and fines that go to the county and county officials from offenses committed and arrests made in the city, are enough to pay for the running of a lock-up, with a considerable balance in the treasury.

It is estimated that in officer's fees alone, it will exceed over $1,500, and then the fines will make it many hundreds more.

Mayor Darling, Ald. Manly, Chief Banfield and several other city officials are greatly in favor of this proposition.

There has always been a feeling by the county supervisors that Ann Arbor was allowed privileges at the jail which she did not pay for. While on the contrary, the city police have always contended that the city arrests were a large source of revenue to the county and to the sheriff and his deputies, and they certainly are in a position to know.

By a few changes in the charter, arrests for almost any crime and misdemeanor can be made under its provisions, and it will be better all around to have her take care of her own prisoners, and not use the jail at all.

Then in strict justice Ann Arbor should have her share of the tax for the criminal business of the county remitted. But, of course, that will not be done.

A Comparison.

Detroit has a population of 260,000. Ann Arbor has a population of 10,000. Thus Detroit is 26 times larger than Ann Arbor.

Detroit expends on an average over $80,000 each week to keep up the cost of its city government.

Ann Arbor expends about $800 each week on an average for the same purpose.

Detroit's expenses are easily one hundred times greater than Ann Arbor's though she is only twenty-six times as large.

If Ann Arbor's expenses were as great in proportion as those of Detroit, it would cost $8,000 a week to run our city.

People who complain about the city taxes, and about the wonderfully high expenses here, ought to compare the same with those of other cities, and thus find out how fortunate we are here in Ann Arbor.

An Increase in P. O. Business.

The following figures relative to the business of the postoffice in this city, are given by the Argus, the editor of which, it must be admitted, is in position to know what he is talking about:

"Uncle Sam's receipts at the Ann Arbor postoffice show a slight increase over the corresponding period of last year. The receipts for the last three months of 1894 from the sale of stamps and stamped envelopes have been $8,463.21, an increase of $446.64 over the corresponding three months of 1894. The postoffice receipts are said to give some index of the relative prosperity of different periods. And in spite of the growth of the city, the receipts of the first six months of 1894 were about $150 less than for the first six months of 1893. The three summer months showed an increase of only $65.86, so that the increase of $546.64 over the same quarter of 1893 is a gratifying indication of the gradual return of better times."

"During December, 1894, there were 70,488 two cent stamps and 13,599 postal cards sold at the Ann Arbor office, besides about 30,000 envelopes. Special delivery is growing in favor, and 316 special delivery stamps were sold during the month."

He Deserves Tar and Feathers.

There is a thief somewhere about this city who deserves a coat of tar and feathers, if not something worse.

Night before last some miserable human skunk went to the house of Mrs. Vogel, on Hiseock st., 3d ward, and stole from her what wood she had and some chickens.

Mrs. Vogel is a widow lady, whose husband was killed in the service of the T. & A. R. R. a few years since, and she has struggled along, and supported herself and her three children ever since, by day's work. Too proud to accept of assistance from the proper authorities, she has lived by what she could earn by honest toil, and has managed to keep the wolf from the door for herself and family. This fact is generally known among the neighbors, by whom she is held in the highest esteem.

Any person who would steal from one like her, would commit any crime in the calendar. There is no punishment too severe for such a thief. The indignation runs high in that locality, and if the culprit could be found, we honestly believe he would be given such a compositick by the people of that locality that would send him clear over Maccabee hill and land him in the river.

MUST GET A HUSTLE ON.

ORDERS FROM WASHINGTON COMPEL THE MAIL CARRIERS TO MAKE QUICK TIME.

As a consequence of These Orders Postmaster Beakes has been obliged to make Some Changes, And if the citizens do not Assist the Carriers more will have to be made.

The Post office department at Washington, D. C., has issued some very strict orders in relation to the mail carriers working over time, and unless the citizens will assist the carriers as much as they possibly can in their work, the present free delivery boundaries will have to be reduced. So do not ask a carrier to do anything that takes a moment of his time.

Each carrier is allowed a certain specified time each day for delivering the mail matter on his route, and if he is unable to deliver all that he carries out with him and get back to the office at the hour set for him to return, he has orders to bring all such mail matter undelivered back to the office, where it will remain until it can be delivered—if not called for in the meantime.

As every one will see every minute must be used by the carriers to make their delivery. If citizens will either leave their front doors unlocked or put a mail box in a convenient place they will be assisting materially in this work. In fact one or the other is a necessity.

The postmaster and the carriers desire to accommodate the people as much as possible in collecting mail, but as the city is abundantly supplied with mail boxes, the carriers have been given positive orders not to collect mail from residences. A carrier can accept of a letter, of course, if it is handed to him already for mailing, but otherwise he must decline to take it.

Because of the above changes the time for delivery at carriers windows has been reduced from a half hour to twenty minutes—from 7:15 to 7:35 p. m., each day. The former hour was from 7:00 to 7:30.

The carriers have also had the time allowed them for their morning collections reduced, and are now rushed through with their work at a limited express schedule.

In this connection the following, taken from a communication of the Battle Creek postmaster in the papers of that city are applicable here: "Carriers are not expected to be delayed taking letters from the house for mailing. They should be placed in the street letter boxes. Private letter boxes should be on every house and in an accessible place for leaving the mail; and where the house stands back some distance from the street the box should be placed near the street. A carrier should not be asked to do errands of any kind. The carriers all wish to be obliging and would willingly serve the public in any capacity. While on their route, however, they must not be detained, as every minute's delay is robbing some other patron of his mailing facilities."

If our citizens will bear all these facts in mind when they are tempted to ask favors of the carriers, they will save those gentlemen the unpleasant duty of refusing to do a favor which they would be glad to do if allowed to.

Death of a U. of M. Boy.

Geo. D. Sones, lit '92, died on Saturday in Berkeley, Cal., where he was engaged as professor of Physics in the University of California. Mr. Sones was only twenty-eight years of age and had just begun a career that gave promise of exceptional brightness. While in the University of Michigan he had done special work in biology and botany that clearly indicated a scientific mind of more than ordinary acuteness. He left Ann Arbor to become principal of the Fresno, Cal., high school. Afterward he received the appointment that he held at the time of his death. Mr. Sones' parents live in Grand Rapids, where his father, F. W. Sones, is engaged in the furniture manufacturing business. The body was sent to the latter city for interment.

SENATOR BURROWS.

The republicans of the legislature, in caucus assembled, last evening decided by a fair majority, to elect Hon. Julius C. Burrows, of Kalamazoo, to fill the place made vacant in the United States Senate by the death of Francis W. Stockbridge.

There is no doubt but that Mr. Burrows will be an able representative in that body of the republicans of the State. Not the least doubt about it. He has been fitted by a thorough training in the House for the position, and will be in an eminent degree a representative of his party.

The Courier believed, and still believes that the interests of the republican party demanded the presence of Mr. Burrows in the House, where he stood preeminently at the head. But the republicans have decided by a handsome majority otherwise, and majorities rule in this country.

As it now stands Michigan has two powerful men in the senate, while in the House she stands on equal ground only with the majority of the states. She has no man with extended experience and wide influence in that body to look after her interests, although no one fears but what her able delegation in that body will not let them go by default.

Nevertheless the Courier congratulates Mr. Burrows on his promotion, believing that he has earned it, and that the State and the party will find in him as worthy a representative of her interests in the Senate as he has been in the past in the House.

RELIGION NOT INTERFERED WITH.

Here is a paragraph, taken from the Detroit Journal, that ought to be read by the Pope himself:

"If those religious potentates who have decreed against secret societies could have stood up in a row in front of the distributing headquarters of the Mystic Shriners in this city and witnessed the giving out of great baskets of provisions to hundreds of poor people—Catholics, Protestants, and men, women and children of all beliefs—perhaps they would have seen more of the inner side of secret societies than they are willing to see from their standpoint of prejudice. Anyhow, the poor and destitute are blessed by the existence of such societies, through which come full and quick the answers to poverty's prayer. If fraternity, humanity and charity are bad things to cultivate, then secret societies are bad things to have around."

The writer of this knows whereof he speaks, when he says that there is not a single sentence or word in the initiatory service of any of the Masonic orders, or the Knights of Pythias, that in the least interferes with a man's religious belief, and there is no reason why the Pope should exclude Roman Catholics from those orders, or why he should not belong to them himself, as for that matter. The only ones whose views are interfered with are unbelievers. They can not conscientiously belong to these orders.

This edict of exclusion does not injure the societies, but it does have a tendency to prejudice people, unnecessarily so, against the Catholics in this country.

The trouble arises from the fact that the Pope is too far away. He doesn't understand or appreciate the condition or feelings of the common people of this sovereign nation. He should either come over here or else leave such questions as that to be settled by the Bishops and Clergy here, and they should investigate before they condemn.

If he had been alive to the circumstances, the funeral of the late czar would have bored him to death.

One of the southern railroads used to carry 1,000 barrels of flour every day for shipment to Cuba, and now does not carry a single barrel. It is thus that the new tariff law promotes prosperity.

Reciprocity brought trade, business, good feeling and good times. The present tariff policy brings nothing but disaster and trouble. Grover and Gresham should wake up and ascertain where they are at.

Can not this legislature do something to help the people secure better country roads? Let the prisoners at Jackson and in other state prisons prepare the material for roads, and sell it to the counties for actual cost. How would that do?

It is almost certain that President Cleveland will have to convene the republican congress in extra session in order to secure any legislation at all. The present house seems to be as imbecile, if not more so, than ever.

News from Japan indicates that the Japanese will not consider any treaty for peace until they have taken Peking. From that capital they will listen to what their pig tail cousins have to say about stopping the threshing business.

All of the European nations have closed their ports against American beef and pork, England excepted. The new tariff and the abrogation of the reciprocity treaties made by Mr. Blaine, is the cause. How does it please?

The wool clip of 1894 is placed at 140,000,000 pounds, a decrease of over 10,000,000 pounds from the previous year. The real wool clip of 1894, however, is the new tariff law and it works closer to the roots than the barber's implement.

The south proposes to send a solid train of corn to relieve the destitute settlers in Nebraska, which is one of the pleasant effects of the spread of republicanism in a section that has heretofore suppressed its better instincts in order to keep itself democratic.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The new president of Brazil is said to be a very popular man. Perhaps Uncle Sam can make a bargain with our southern sister and trade Grover off for him. If it comes down to a pinch Adlai might be thrown in as a clincher.

The budget presented by the board of estimates of New York City reaches nearly $40,000,000, the police department alone asking for about $6,000,000. It is a luxury to reside in the great metropolis, isn't it? Perhaps the Lexow commission will cause a shrinkage in portions of the expenditures.

The late cold snap extended way down into Florida, and it is said, has ruined the orange crop now on the trees, estimated at 2,600,000 boxes. Ice formed in the streets of Jacksonville, something unknown before since 1835. If these reports prove to be true, Florida oranges will bring fabulous prices.

A new fad is coming in the shape of a roller skate with pneumatic tire wheels about seven inches in diameter. It is said a person can make ten to twelve miles an hour on them on all ordinary smooth roads. A pair of these skates will weigh about two and three-quarter pounds.—Northville Record. Let 'er come.

At the caucus held by the republicans of the house of representatives at Lansing last evening, Judge Wm. D. Gordon, of Midland, was unanimously nominated for speaker. In this selection the house has acted wisely. Judge Gordon is a member of the last house, and one of its most active members, too. He is a graduate of the University, law '79.

The fellow who is always willing to accommodate and never expects any of the plums when the pudding is passed, may never lack for pleasant greetings or well wishes, but it has been noticed his clothes are always just about as shabby as his pocket-book—but what use have such as he for a pocket-book?—Grand Rapids Herald. There is at least one living example of the species spoken of here in Ann Arbor, and the description is correct.

If Mr. Gresham is such a great man, why does he not do something? He is secretary of state. The office that has been filled by statesmen. Heretofore whenever the nation has been in trouble and distress the secretary of state has devised some method for relief. What has Mr. Gresham done since assuming that office? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Oh! It had escaped our mind for the moment. He did do one thing. He ordered down the stars and stripes in Hawaii! That's all. And this man is attempting to fill the chair lately vacated by James G. Blaine!

There are 2,000 American born Chinese in California, and it is said that many of them will vote two years hence.

Michigan will present a solid front of fourteen votes in the next congress against the proposed treasury bill of Secretary Carlisle.

Chase S. Osborne of the Sault Ste. Marie News, has been appointed game warden, in place of Chas. S. Hampton, whose time has expired. An excellent appointment.

Of seventy Boston aldermen fifty own no property, states the New York Advertiser. They are active young politicians with no interests at stake. Dangerous for Boston.

The death of Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, of Jackson, which occurred at her home in that city, on Thursday Jan. 3d, will be received with general regret all over the state. She was well known throughout the nation as a sincere and earnest worker in the W. C. T. U. cause.

One thing is certain, Grand Rapids does not deserve to have a senator—not at least until some of the present race of politicians there die out. Some of them go on the principle of the Irishman at Donnybrook fair: "Faith, an' when ye sees a head, hit it, begorra." They are not willing that anyone outside of themselves and their friends should have anything. They are dogs in the manger.

Gov. Rich's most excellent message will be found in the columns of the Courier to-day. It is an excellent document, reviewing the needs of the state, and showing a complete familiarity therewith. Michigan has not had a governor in many a year who has acquainted himself more thoroughly with all departments of the state's varied interests than has Gov. Rich. Read what he has to say.

The republicans of the state, almost without exception, will rejoice at the re-nomination of Hon. James McMillan, of Detroit, for the long term senatorship, which occurred last night, at Lansing. Senator McMillan is one of the best senators Michigan ever had. He is gentlemanly, courteous, easily approached, and prompt in all things. He attends to the duties of the office he holds in the same way he attends to his own business, and stands right on all the great questions that come before the Senate. He is not a trimmer or a policy man, but goes forward doing what he believes to be right, and possessing good judgment he is sure to be right. Here is our hand for another six years.

It looks just a little as if even Dr. Parkhurst had got a slight attack of abnormal head. He has done some excellent reform work, there is no doubt of it, but when they went to giving him credit for the entire turn over down there in Gotham, the immensity of the thing appears to have been too much for the good Dr.'s hat band, and it seems to have burst. Dr. Parkhurst should not forget that he is an avowed follower of the Saviour, who, even upon the cross, in the agonies of crucifixion, exclaimed: "Forgive them." The good doctor has been successful, he has come out victorious, and a man who can not be magnanimous in victory is not a good Christian at heart.

Rehuff, the Washtenaw county treasurer elect has taken the oath of office. He isn't the only man who has taken an oath, over his election, not by a dinged sight. Well Washtenaw has a lot of democrats who throw up their hats for Cleveland, and think that, and swearing, constitute democracy. And right here is where we differ from some—a very few only—of Washtenaw's democrats. We've been trying to dam our flow of indignation over Cleveland's pig-headed, stiff-necked, self conceited, domineering policy, for two years, but we can't do it. We're too pious, and so let 'er flow.—Adrian Press. Hang it all, you ought to go down there and run this 'ere ship o' state to suit yourself.

Editing the waste-basket is as essential as editing the newspaper. Keeping things out of a newspaper requires a higher exercise of journalistic ability than letting them in. Common sense, firmness, courage and editorial perception are called into service tenfold as much in excluding as in inserting matter. Ten papers may be found which would permit themselves to be a catchall, to one which contains only sifted material. The newspaper which people delight to read is one in which every item which enters it first undergoes a careful censorship. The office watch dog is an essential member of every editorial staff. Trash should be eliminated from a paper just as it should from every other place. If the average editor would devote more time to keeping things out of his paper and less to putting them in, he would be surprised at results.

Old Stager says that they used to hunt with horns, but they fish with them now.

The New York Mail and Express remarks: In the death of Hon. Robert Charles Winthrop, Massachusetts loses one of its most distinguished citizens and the country its last surviving link between the old and new school of American statesmanship. He was the oldest surviving ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, having presided over that body from 1847 to 1849. In 1850 he achieved his greatest distinction in being appointed by the governor of Massachusetts to fill the unexpired term of Daniel Webster in the United States Senate, who in that year became Secretary of State. He was succeeded in the Senate by Charles Sumner, and then devoted himself during the remaining years of his life to literature and philanthropy. He was an eloquent and orate speaker, and was principally known to the public in recent years as the orator of imposing and important occasions.

CURIOUS NEWSPAPERS.

Curious newspapers by themselves form a readable chapter in the history of journalism. Here are a few odd samples. The largest paper ever published was (or is, for the promoters have the preposterous intention of bringing it out once every century) the Illustrated Quadruple Constellation.

The first number came out in 1858 consequently No. 2 is due 1958. It measured eight feet long by six feet wide; price, two shillings. The first number did not contain a single advertisement. The smallest newspaper in the world is El Telegrama, published in Mexico, exactly four inches square. In Japan, the Shi Gio Shu Dan Kwai Zasshi is printed with its sheets or leaves of different colors. The title is printed on white paper; the inside leaves are printed on various brightly-colored—green, orange and yellow.

It is not printed on both sides, but each sheet is folded at the fore-edge, not at the back, as in this country, and the printing is done on the first and fourth pages. It is about the size of a crown octavo pamphlet. The Austrian Fortnightly Review is a unique literary publication, in that it has contributors in almost every land, and each article is printed in the native language of the writer.

The City of Rome Express was a little paper printed and published on board an Atlantic liner. Every voyage it made its appearance, price 6d. a copy, and had a circulation of 400.

Hora Jocunda is a useful monthly periodical for the blind, printed in Edinburgh, from the "Braille" type, and all engaged in its production are blind.

The credit of having the smallest circulation in the world belongs to the Imperial Gazette, Berlin, of which two copies are printed daily. This exclusive publication is intended for the perusal of the Emperor alone.

In Turin is a paper printed with an ink that becomes luminous in the dark, so that the matter may be read without the assistance of artificial light.

At Prince Albert, a township in the Northwest Canada, a weekly newspaper appears in the handwriting of its proprietor who is also his own editor, reporter, printer and advertising agent. The paper appears in violet ink from a gelatine hectograph, and is said to be widely read, and is often quoted by the printed papers.

In France, M. Pol Martinet, the editor of the daily farthing newspaper published in Paris, has overcome the difficulty presented by the absence of the farthing from the French coinage. It is printed on alternate mornings on paper of two different colors. The purchaser, therefore, pays a half-penny for one day's color, and receives on the next the other color in exchange.—London Press News.

Many Aged Ones.

The books of Undertaker Oliver M. Martin show that he has been called upon to attend one hundred and forty-six funerals during the year, which is fully twenty below the average. But what is somewhat striking is the number of people over eighty years of age, who have died during the year, of which the following is a list taken from his record:

Jan. 6, Mrs. Amelia Meade, 92 years.

Pretty Ideas for Tea Tables.

This season's napery is, for its artistic scheme, of an elaborate and web-like texture. A solid piece of drawn work in squares, in which white embroidered silk by its aid gives to the cover great brilliancy. They should, for the tea table, hang a trifle over the edge, and can be lined effectively with cream satin. Still, fine linens are constantly used for this purpose, those embroidered in deep cream, with flowers, such as carnations and morning glories, or ornamental designs, will prevail.

All pretty tea services, with trays to match, are now in vogue. Cracker jars, in which the already-mentioned tint predominates. For delicacy of tone, ivory is the scheme, the gold being its charming decoration.

Brass tea kettles on a smaller table are still in use, but do not occupy such a prominent position as formerly. For refection, of course, the tea, with slices of lemon and a dash of rum; chocolate, with whipped cream, still holds its own, accompanied with delicate sponge cake, and sweet crackers.

Have a good-sized pitcher of good coffee, cold, creamed and well sweetened. Serve in small glasses. Just before serving place in each glass a tablespoonful of rich ice cream. This, with small, square, home-made cakes, is a beautiful refreshment for any lady's tea table.

The Days and the Year.

What in the world, my own little one? Our world belongs to that clock the sun. Steady it spins; while the clock beats true Days and seasons for me and you And tick-tick-tick goes the mighty clock Now left—now right; now day—now night, With a tick-tock to and fro.

The pussy-willow in coat of fur; A sweet pink rose in the wind astir; A maple leaf with a crimson blush; Then falling snow-flakes, and winter's hush— While tick-tick-tick goes the mighty clock, And the world swings on below, Budding—blowing; shining—snowing— With a tick-tock to and fro.

A little song when the heart is glad. A little sigh when the way is sad; Whether the shadows or sunbeams fall, Is the same that holdeth you and me, While tick-tick-tick goes the mighty clock, And the world swings on below, Smiling—sighing; singing—crying— With a tick-tock to and fro.

So this is the way, my own little one, Our world belongs to that clock the sun, And the hand that somewhere keeps the key Is the same that holdeth you and me, While tick-tick-tick goes the mighty clock, And the world swings on below, Now left—now right; now day—now night, With a tick-tock to and fro, —Harriet E. Blodgett in January St. Nicholas.

SOME CONCLUSIONS.

Drawn by Dr. Camden M. Coburn, from the Ancient Scripture of the Egyptians.

In the December issue of the Homiletic Review, Rev. Dr. Coburn, of this city, has an able article upon "The Sacred Scripture of the Egyptians." After reciting many interesting facts in relation thereto he draws the following conclusions:

"In view of the discussion regarding the origin, date and structure of the Hebrew Scriptures and the changes which have taken place in the text since their first publication, a few statements concerning the conclusions to which a study of the Egyptian 'Book of the Dead' has led us, may not be without some value. The comparison must be limited to the religious texts, as there are no historical narratives in the 'Book of the Dead.' Some of these conclusions seem entirely in the line of the most radical 'higher criticism' of Germany. These Egyptian Scriptures claim to have been of divine authorship. The chapters were sometimes found, as the Book of Deuteronomy was found in Josiah's day; but no author was ever assigned to them except Thoth, the god of wisdom. If one rejects this traditional view, he is forced to believe that even the noblest chapters of this great work came from the pen of 'the Great Unknown.'"

Again, this work is full of supernaturalism; a belief in divine appearances and other miracles. Much of it was evidently written under priestly influence and with priestly bias. Still further, it is almost startling to discover that the 'Redactor' has been at work upon almost every chapter; and that in the seventh century—the century so famous in the Hebrew history of the Canon—a seeming codification of the various religious texts took place, and thereafter what had been independent chapters became parts of a uniform and authorized volume.

So far there appears to be perfect harmony between the hypothesis of the higher critics of the Hebrew Scriptures, whose opinions are based solely upon internal testimony, and the conclusions of Egyptologists, who have reached their conclusions, not simply by the examination of late texts, but by a comparison of hundreds of texts of undoubted authenticity, separated from each other by thousands of years. Other necessary conclusions from this study do not seem, however, to fit so easily into the new theories:

1. This book of religion was already written and considerable textual criticism had been expended upon it before the days of Abraham. In the days of Moses, no one could be buried without carrying with him to the tomb a portion of the written word. It is incredible that Moses could have been a religious teacher trained in the Egyptian schools and not put into writing his precepts.

2. While there are many changes which have crept into the text of various chapters, these changes seem to have been due, almost always, to a misunderstanding of the primitive text, or to some comment upon the text, which in after centuries was regarded as the text itself.

All Egyptologists agree that there are few intentional interpolations or falsifications. A text of Abraham's day, when compared with a text of Josiah's day, is the same text, with only such exceptions as can be traced to the blunders of copyists or the addition of explanations. When priestly bias is displayed, it is shown usually, not by mutilating an ancient prayer or hymn, but by ascribing this to some other god than that to whom it was originally dedicated.

Whatever may be said of the Hebrews, the ancient Egyptians were very careful to retain the exact words of their sacred Scriptures, even when they did not understand at all the meaning of the words.

3. While a theological development can be traced in the 'Book of the Dead,' yet it proves to be very different from what might have been expected. There is no such growth in the Egyptian conception of God and the soul and the future life as has been affirmed by some modern critics of the Hebrew. Indeed, the oldest chapters have the least of magic and the most of sublimity in them. They are the latest, not the earliest chapters, which are the most fetishistic and polytheistic.

Even conservative critics have agreed to the proposition that a book of Scripture could be dated earlier or later than another, because of its more profound and supposedly 'advanced' ideas of God; but the 'Book of the Dead' proves that this is not an infallible test. In the oldest chapters there are such lofty conceptions that David's Psalms or the prayers of Moses and the prophets need not be rejected for that reason.

The development in the historic period was not from bad to better, but from good to worse.

In the earliest text of the most ancient chapters, the divinity affirms: 'I am Yesterday and the Kinsman of To-morrow,' but the later addition is: 'Yesterday is Osiris, and To-morrow is Ra.'

In this same most ancient text it is affirmed of Ra: 'His names together compose the cycle of the gods;' but the comment is, 'It is Ra who creates the names of his limbs which become the gods who accompany him.' A papyrus as old as Abraham's day puts into the mouth of Ra: 'I am he who clothe and he who openeth, and I am but One,' but by the time of Moses, the foolish words had been added, 'I was born from Nu.'

The latest chapters of this book—some of which were written as late as the Ptolemaic time—are full of some gibberish as the following: 'Osiris is the emanation of the two eyes. Sharshe oket is the name of one, Shapurka is the name of the other. His true name illuminating the earth on the brow of the Tum is Shakaamen-shak-anasa.'

It can hardly be doubted that if the age of the various chapters of this Scripture had to be determined by the spiritual insight and depth of theological knowledge manifested by the writers, there would be an inversion of the chronology which has been established by Egyptologists on the basis of contemporaneous documents. The first would be last and the last first, if the accepted canon of theological evolution were applied.

A Dastardly Deed.

Supervisor Grosshans, of Lodi, who lives about eight miles south of here—a mile or so beyond the Lodi town hall—made a discovery a day or two since that turns his stomach yet when he thinks of it. In drawing up a bucket of water out of his well a few days since, some hair and decomposed flesh was noticed in the bucket, and upon investigation it was found that there was a dead dog therein. The family had been using the water right along for culinary purposes, and you can imagine their feelings upon the discovery. The animal must have been in there some length of time. Mr. Grosshans can not imagine who could have been so unkind as to throw a dead animal in his well to poison himself and his family, but there is no other solution of the mystery, as it never could have got down there without hands. It was a dastardly deed, and the perpetrator thereof deserves severe punishment.

THE NEW YEAR.

How the Y. M. C. A. Started it out—A Pleasant Reception—A Present For President Wagner.

Those who attended the New Year's open house of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, were delighted.

Not only were they pleased with the genteel and cordial way with which the ladies of the Auxiliary received and entertained them, with pleasant speech, coffee and cake, but with the general aspect of the new rooms.

To be sure the rooms were not fully finished and furnished, but enough so to convince everyone of their extreme pleasantness. They are light and airy, and have a sunny cheeriness about them that is very taking.

Another thing is quite evident, that these rooms will be none too large, for although doubling the capacity of the Washington street rooms just vacated, yet the meeting last Sunday afternoon, and the reception yesterday, told plainly that they were none too commodious for this thrifty organization.

There is one thing that might be mentioned here, and that is the need of some pictures for the walls. Ten or twelve nice pictures could be used to excellent advantage in decorating the walls of these new rooms, and no one could do a handsomer thing just now than to make this society a present of at least one good picture, nicely framed.

The society is entirely supported by voluntary contributions, and from a little beginning it has kept on increasing in numbers, in deeds and in needs, until now it has ventured into larger rooms and more expensive quarters. Although the times are hard, yet the constant demands and increasing expenses of this society have been promptly met by small contributions of friends, and were it not the fact that it is filling a great need here in Ann Arbor this thing could not be done. A class of young men come together here that it is difficult to get hold of in any other manner, and the good influences thrown around them lifts and elevates, and gives desires for living a better life and for right doing and right thinking. It is for the purpose of helping young men that this society was formed, and it is accomplishing its purpose, to a far greater extent than its promoters anticipated.

Last Sunday afternoon there were one hundred and thirty-five young men in attendance upon the religious services, which was very encouraging.

One of the pleasant features of yesterday's doings was the presentation of a handsome cane rocker to the president of the Association, Mr. C. W. Wagner, members of the Board and a few other friends contributing funds for its purchase. It was received by President Wagner in a very pleasant manner, indicating that he appreciated the feeling that prompted the gift. May he continue to fill this chair for a long time to come, and be as successful in the future as he has been in the past, in guiding the destinies of the Y. M. C. A.

Another feature of the evening was the rendering of a fine musical program, that elicited much praise for its excellence.

County Treasurer Rehfuß Presents his Bond and the Same is Approved—A List of the Bondsmen.

This morning, at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors, the bond of County Treasurer Wm. F. Rehfuß, of Manchester, was reported to that body through the chairman of the proper committee, with the statement that the same had been examined by the Prosecuting Attorney found to be legal in form and correct.

The sureties on the bond, and the amounts in which each one justify, are as follows:

Eugene J. Helber	$10,000
Jacob Knapp	5,000
F. G. Schleicher	5,000
John Keppeler	5,000
Wm. G. Dieterle	3,000
John Schmid	5,000
Jos. Stabler	5,000
D. Cramer	5,000
Emanuel Wagner	5,000
George Wahr	2,000
John F. Lutz	2,000
Chas. Burkhardt	10,000
John G. Koch, Jr.	5,000
E. A. Hauser	5,000
Matthew Seeger	5,000
Daniel Nissly	5,000
J. Adam Klein	10,000
G. C. Mann	10,000
Bernhard Blummenaur	5,000
John Bauer	5,000
Peter Neiss	1,000
John Moelin	5,000
Jacob Luckhardt	5,000
Geo. J. Haessler	2,000
Wm. Neebing	5,000
Fred. Widmayer	3,000
C. F. Kapp	2,000
Columbus Aulds	1,000
John H. Schlicht	10,000
Henry J. Landwehr	4,000
Leonard Herman	5,000
Fred Schaible	2,000
Geo. L. Kuhl	3,000
Fred Breitenwisher	10,000
Arthur J. Waters	2,000
Wm. J. Holmes	1,000
$174,000

On motion of Supervisor Case, of Pittsfield, the name of E. A. Hauser was stricken from the bond on the ground that as a member of the Board of Supervisors he had no right to go on. This leaves a total of $169,000, or $19,000 more than required. Which fact speaks well for the most excellent favor in which our new treasurer is held.

The bonds were approved by the board as above, with Mr. Hauser's name stricken off.

Some Boys on Ice.

Among those who have been tempted to put on the treacherous skates, within a day or two were several of the older boys and business men. President Wagner, of the Y. M. C. A., is quite an expert on the steels, and can cut his name on the ice without making a skip. Ex-Ald. D. Fred Schaller is not quite as fleet of foot as Mr. Wagner, but he is all right on the circle—providing he has room enough. Treasurer Soule, of the University, bought himself a brand new pair of club skates yesterday, and went to the river with the enthusiasm of thirty years ago. He got along pretty well, I thank you. He didn't sit down only once when he didn't want to, and even then he was convinced before reaching the enticing surface of the ice, that it was the best thing to do, under the circumstances. Not one of these advanced class of boys have broken a hole through the ice, or broken their necks either one, as far as our informant knows, but two or three whose names will not be mentioned, out of respect to the ice, carry upon their persons some elegant specimens of shading—in black and blue. When one sees the kids, gliding over the glassy surface of the pond like so many spiders on a frolic, it does sort to make the blood tingle in one's toes; but then, some way, the boys appear to have a cinch on the glide.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction, she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work, and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's drug store, and Geo. J. Haessler, Manchester. Regular size, 50c and $1.00.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual business meeting in the parlors of the Presbyterian church next Thursday at 3 o'clock.

SUEKEY IN CUSTODY.

He is Arrested by one of his Bondsmen and out on $5,000 Bail.

Last evening there was a stir about the court house, and from murmurs heard during the afternoon it was thought something unusual would happen.

An uneasy feeling had crept around some way among the bondsmen of the late treasurer that there was danger of the ex-county treasurer departing from here, and whether there was any ground for it or not it had the effect of causing the arrest of Mr. Suekey.

Along in the evening a warrant was sworn out by ex-Sheriff, Chas. Dwyer the charge being that of embezzlement.

The complaint was made before Justice Pond, at about 9 1/2 o'clock p. m., who issued the warrant. The paper was placed in the hands of Sheriff Judson who served the same, and took Mr. Suekey in custody.

Then came the effort for bail. Justice Pond was roused up at 12 o'clock again, to fix the bail, and approve of the same should it be secured. The justice was not well and he declined to come down town, but suggested that $5,000 would be satisfactory.

Ex-Prosecuting Attorney Thos. D. Kearney, and ex-Representative Chas. H. Kline appeared as attorneys for Mr. Suekey, then routed up Justice Gibson who fixed the bail at $5,000 and approved the recognizance, Dr John Kapp and John R. Miner coming forward and signing the bond.

The complaint accuses the defendant of embezzling of $4,300 of county money. This is the first chapter of the final act. What the other chapters will be is not known.

The bondsmen, as a general thing, are not anxious to prosecute, several of them standing ready to pay their portion of the defalcation. Others are reticent. They do not relish being called upon to pay for doing a favor, and are in no enviable frame of mind. Some of them say that while they will not take any steps themselves, yet it is not justice to allow Mr. Suekey to escape without punishment for his crime. They argue that it will simply a bid for others to be dishonest, and that an example should be made, if for nothing more, as a warning to others.

It was reported on the street yesterday that Suekey did not togo Europe at all, when he went away from here, but simply remained in New York City believing that the affair would blow over during the time, that the bondsmen would cool down, and that when he came back they would not prosecute. However, those in a position to know deny this story point blank and insist that Mr. Suekey has done his utmost to save himself and his bondsmen.

It is a unfortunate affair, and regretted by everybody.

Mr. Suekey appeared before Justice Pond this morning, and examination was adjourned until January 18th.

Death of Giles B. Lee.

Last night, at his home, corner N. State and E. Ann sts., death came to Giles B. Lee, and relieved him of suffering.

Mr. Lee had been a sufferer for several years, but just what the disease was could not be ascertained. Last Monday he was taken with pains across the abdomen, while sitting in his chair at his home. He was helped to his room, and day by day since then he had declined, until yesterday the attending physicians pronounced his case hopeless. He sank gradually until about half-past ten o'clock last night, when death came like an angel of peace and bore his spirit away.

Mr. Lee was 57 years of age, and removed to Ann Arbor some five or six years ago from Green Oak, Livingston county, where he had resided since an early day. The opinion his neighbors held of him, in his old home is best expressed in the fact that they kept him in continuous service as supervisor of that township for some 23 years, his last term closing about 1880.

Mr. Lee leaves a widow and two sons, J. H. Lee, principal of the Mt. Clemens schools, and L. B. Lee, at present pursuing post graduate work in the University.

Funeral services will be held from the residence on Monday afternoon, probably, though this had not been definitely decided upon at noon today.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore bodily health for many years.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sickness, indigestion and biliousness. 25c.

A new trial has been asked for in the Sackett-Dancer case. The affidavit asking for the same recites some very peculiar circumstances, which if true, would be cause enough for a new trial.

Men who are well posted in horse-flesh say that the time is very near when the present low price of horses must advance. Old horses have been killed off and the breeding of colts almost entirely stopped. These two reasons of themselves are sufficient grounds on which to base the assertion that horses will be higher.

A. Lucas, of No. 6 Thirteenth St., has a mulberry tree that has been set out two years. The tree is there and the growth for a year can be easily shown. If there are any doubters Mr. Lucas will be glad to convince them of the fact.

Sometime during the night last night an old colored woman named Sarah Robinson, who lives in the neighborhood of the observatory, got up and wandered away from home. On New Year's Day, two or three gentlemen happened to be crossing the M. C. R. R. yards west of the passenger station, when one of them, who is a railroad man, happened to notice something out of the way with a switch on the main track. On going to the place, they found that some one had opened it about half way, just enough to have piled up the fast express that goes through on that track, in a heap. The discovery was a fortunate one. There is no doubt but the deed was the work of some vicious minded person who came along there and finding the switch unlocked, turned it on purpose to wreck a train. The fortunate discovery not only saved the M. C. R. R. a great deal of money and trouble, but no doubt it saved many human lives as well, for no train could have passed over that track without being wrecked.

Most people are honest, whether they are so considered or not. Sometimes honesty is rewarded and sometimes one's own conscience is the only reward for doing right. An instance of the latter sort occurred here in this city day before yesterday. A little Northside girl named Nellie Greenman was walking along E. Ann st., when she discovered a pocket book on the sidewalk. A little later she met a couple of ladies who seemed to be searching for something and she asked them what they had lost. One of the ladies replied that she had lost her pocket book. "Perhaps this is the one," said the little girl, "for it is one I found a little while ago." The lady took the purse and marched on, not even stopping to thank the little girl for her honesty, not to say anything about rewarding her. The pocketbook found was well filled and the owner might at least have been grateful for its return.

Cold, crisp winter weather of the last week or ten days, has set aside any fears one might have had that old winter was fooling around and might skip us entirely. There is no doubt but we shall have suitable weather in which to gather the ice crop and to thoroughly test the capacity of new furnaces and stoves, as well as to try the comfort of new warm coats and wraps before the cowslips and dandelions bloom again. If any one is not now prepared for winter it were better that he prepare at once, for it will be necessary.

Secretary Greenman, of Fraternity Lodge F. & A. M., received a letter a day or two since from a gentleman who was at one time well known in Ann Arbor, Ben. S. Knowlton. He will be remembered as being book-keeper for the Weil Bros. when they carried on an extensive tannery here. When they removed to Chicago, he went with them, and now he hails from Seattle, Wash., where he carries on an extensive business as an expert accountant. He was formerly auditor of the C. R. & S. W. R'y, and is the author of a book entitled "Expert's Assistant." A number of the old boys here in Ann Arbor will be glad to learn of him once more.

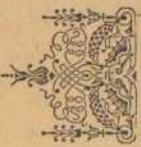

Chas. Dwyer, whose name was signed to the complaint made against Mr. Suekey, objects to shouldering all the responsibility of having the late treasurer arrested. He has a paper signed by the following bondsmen, directing him to proceed: Christian Martin, John Heinemann, Jacob Laubengayer, Wm. Herz, Gottlob Luick, Emanuel Luick, Herman Hardinghouse, J. Laubengayer, Albert Blaess, Michael Steeb, T. F. Hutzel. We are informed that twenty-one of the bondsmen altogether are in favor of the proceedings taken. Mr. Dwyer claims to be as lenient and good natured as any man, and desires to have it known that he is not acting alone without the sanction of the majority of the men who signed Mr. Suekey's bond.

Miss Daisy Hollister, the young daughter of Mrs. Edward Hollister, of Maynard st., had an abscess form on the cords of the neck, by reason of taking cold, a few week's since, and it became so bad that an operation had to be performed to save her life. This was done a few days since by Dr. Lynds, assisted by other physicians. The patient is doing well, and will probably recover all right. It was a very dangerous and delicate operation.

The new officers of the Lyra Maenuechor are Robert Gwinner, president; John Eibler, vice president; E. R. Wagner, secretary; Robert Staebler treasurer. The society is in good shape financially, and it felt so well over that fact that the salary of the director, Prof. Reuben H. Kempf, was elevated a notch or so. On the 25th of January the Lyra's will give a concert, for which the members are now practicing.

The Majestic Exhibit now being conducted at the store of the Eberbach Hardware Co. is attracting throngs daily, and its well worth your inspection. The factory representatives have one of these celebrated Ranges set up and are baking biscuits and serving delicious coffee to all who call. The Majestic being almost wholly made of malleable iron and steel is non-breakable and will last a lifetime, its economy in fuel is remarkable, requiring but half that used in other stoves and ranges. Special inducements are offered to buyers while the salesmen are here, and that the Eberbach Hardware Co. will sell a great many during this novel exhibit is evidenced by the large crowds who throng the store daily. Don't fail to see this wonderful Range.

Long and Discouraging Illness With Symptoms of Consumption

All Medicines Fail Except Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "Gentlemen:—Ten years ago, my wife's health began to fail. I consulted a physician, and for one year she remained under his care and took all the medicine prescribed, but still grew worse. We then consulted other physicians, and she doctored off and on for four years without any improvement. As her mother died of consumption, and I expected my wife would go the same way. However, feeble as my wife was and though

Given Up as Incurable by the physician, I could not give up hope, and she still clung to life. Then we began to try different medicines. We found that of all the preparations taken, a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla had seemed to do her the most good, so she determined to take that medicine again. I bought six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and while taking this lot she seemed to get better. This was so encouraging, after so

Long and Discouraging Illness, that she continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Her health has improved and she has ceased to complain. She is still taking the medicine, and feels so much better and stronger that we believe her to be in perfect health. Altogether, Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

We have spent $25 for Hood's, a very small amount compared to the big bills in those four years, and considering the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has done her permanent good." JOHN L. NICHOLS, No. 228 Springfield Ave., Canton, O.

WASHTENAW'S BANKS.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES ARE SHOWN BY THEIR REPORTS.

There are Over Two and One-Half Millions of Dollars on Deposit, and Over Two Millions of Dollars Loaned Out by Them—The Specie Amounts to Over $100,000, Mostly Gold—But Very Little Silver Kept on Hand.

There are eleven banks doing business in Washtenaw county, aside from the private banking house of the Kempf Bros., at Chelsea, viz: Four in Ann Arbor, two in Ypsilanti, two in Manchester, one each in Chelsea, Milan and Dexter.

These banks appear to be in a prosperous condition, and as they are the pulse of the people, they must show to a considerable extent the financial condition of the people, as a whole, in this county.

These banks indicate by their deposits the surplus cash of the thrifty, and by their loans the demand there is for business ventures. In each of these particulars the banks of the county indicate a very healthy condition of affairs.

The following table gives the deposits and loans:

Banks.	Deposits.	Loans.
A. A. Savings Bank.	$10,820.24	$11,182.35
" 1st National.	290,495.91	311,317.02
" F. & M.	326,408.04	261,227.56
" State Sav.	185,528.04	139,498.17
Ypsl. 1st Nat.	364,682.98	290,390.69
" Savings.
Manchester, People's.	80,258.40	58,523.35
" Union Sav.	25,783.21	24,320.00
Chelsea Savings.	151,735.99	108,974.41
Milan, F. & M.	70,484.59	51,737.02
Dexter Savings.	111,251.35	68,832.79
Total.	$2,457,448.00	$1,783,879.66

Before publishing this article we were in hopes of securing the report of the Ypsilanti Savings Bank, but as their last report has not been published in any paper, and a persistent use of the telephone has failed to secure the desired report, we are obliged to give it to our readers without their figures, which would add some $300,000 to deposits, $250,000 to loans, $50,000 to capital stock, etc.

Then these various banks have in the columns of "Stocks, bonds and mortgages," and "Overdrafts," which are in fact all loans, the following amounts:

Banks.	Stocks, etc.	Overdrafts.
A. A. Savings.	$108,815.65	$1,818.85
" 1st National.	31,009.00	2,028.00
" F. & M.	81,788.96	1,567.40
" State Sav.	55,294.34	914.95
Ypsl. 1st Nat.	90,674.80	840.81
" Savings.
Manchester, People's.	43,383.10	579.53
" Union Sav.	10,761.84	22.17
Chelsea Savings.	54,438.37
Milan, F. & M.	25,101.52	2,025.57
Dexter Savings.	54,238.45
Total.	$613,625.11	$9,309.43

Adding the three items, "stocks, bonds, mortgages," "loans" and "overdrafts," and there is a total loaned by these banks in the county of $2,656,808.20.

It will perhaps be noticed that the Ann Arbor Savings bank has more stocks, bonds, mortgages, etc., than all the other banks combined.

Another thing to be noticed is the fact that the Chelsea Savings bank and the Dexter Savings bank are the only ones out of the entire number that have no overdraft to report.

One item not included in the overdraft of the Ann Arbor Savings bank is this one: "Due from Washtenaw county, $11,118.15." No remarks are necessary. A great rich county like Washtenaw, with such an overdraft!

Two other items of interest is the "capital stock," and amount of "Undivided profits." In these two respects the banks stand as follows:

Banks.	Capital.	Und. Profits.
A. A. Savings.	$50,000	$172,827.31
" 1st National.	100,000	65,210.32
" F. & M.	50,000	35,811.31
" State Sav.	50,000	7,893.85
Ypsl. 1st National.	75,000	69,567.45
" Savings.
Manchester, People's.	50,000	7,303.18
" Union Sav.	24,320	324.75
Chelsea Savings.	60,000	7,461.75
Milan, F. & M.	25,000	8,344.75
Dexter Savings.	40,000	5,929.02
Total.	$524,320	$380,068.70

We have united the surplus and undivided profits for each bank.

It will be noticed once again that the Ann Arbor Savings bank has nearly as much as all the other banks combined in its surplus. It is on this fund that a bank makes most of its money usually.

The gold and silver coin reported on hand by the banks, is:

Banks.	Gold.	Silver.
A. A. Savings.	$35,400.00	$2,000.00
" 1st National.	6,620.00	2,199.50
" F. & M.	2,260.00	1,351.00
" State Sav.
Ypsl. Savings.	1,620.00	830.00
Manchester, People's.	1,160.00	288.65
Chelsea Savings.	1,455.00	1,306.50
Milan, F. & M.	4,850.00	245.75
Dexter Savings.	680.00	558.15
Total.	$53,790.00	$9,277.55

The 1st National bank, of Ann Arbor, and the 1st National bank, of Ypsilanti, do not divide their coin, but report both as specie, of which the Ann Arbor bank has $13,741.15 and the Ypsilanti, $25,861.00, making a total of specie held by all banks of the county of $102,699.70.

The Union Savings bank of Manchester has been organized but a short time, and is the baby out of the lot. The banks rank in point of age, as nearly as we are able to tell, in the following order, commencing with the youngest: Manchester Union Savings bank, Dexter Savings, Ann Arbor State Savings, Milan Farmers' & Merchants', Ann Arbor Farmers' & Mechanics', Chelsea Savings, Manchester People's, Ypsilanti Savings, Ann Arbor Savings, Ypsilanti 1st National, Ann Arbor 1st National.

COLLEGE WOMEN AT PLAY.

Their Attempts at Hazing are of the Mildest Order.

The Century for January has a symposium on "Festivals in American Colleges for Women," written by women connected with the institutions, that gives an interesting glimpse of the amusements of the fair collegians. In grouping these brief papers the editor's intention was to show how the women's colleges, in their festivals and amusements, were cultivating "the love and art of grace and beauty."

Miss Susan G. Walker writes of Bryn Mawr:

The early experiences of the students at Bryn Mawr differ from those of students in other colleges in that hazing in its ordinary form does not exist. In its place has developed one of the oldest and most characteristic of our customs, that of "the presentation of lanterns," a ceremony which is the essential feature of the sophomore play. The sophomores greet the freshmen with a song, and present each one with a "lantern" to light her steps through the unknown ways of college life, and especially through the mazes of the "group system." Sometimes much sage advice is given with the light, and once the unfortunate freshmen won their lanterns only after passing an impromptu oral examination. The form of this play differs with the character and resources of the class giving it; but as preparations for it are begun in the freshman year it is expected to be both clever and original.

This very courteous sort of hazing is acknowledged a month or two later by the freshmen, who give an entertainment in honor of the sophomores. The freshman play is usually less ambitious than the sophomore play, but of the same general character, and it is most interesting to see the first expression of the ability of the new class; for it is at this play that the freshmen first sing their class song, and give proof of any power or originality they may possess. No class in college has failed to receive the lantern; for, in order that '89, the first class to enter Bryn Mawr, might not be forced to feel its way in darkness, the younger classes united to give its members lanterns to light them on the part of their way that still lay before them.

Of Mount Holyoke, Miss Henrietta E. Hooker writes:

Time was when croquet or a game of bean-bag was the resort for vigorous recreation; but since physical culture has offered to college women the same means of development that is provided in colleges for men, all gymnasium exercises are in favor, particularly the class designated "heavy gymnastics," and those who excel in vaulting and the high jump, or are skillful in the manipulation of basket-ball (the present fad) are ready for the more athletic games of the campus.

In early autumn and late spring, when gymnasium work is given up for open-air recreations, a baseball nine is usually formed; and if it never attains the excellence that dares challenge college neighbors, well-worn tracks give evidence that good runs have been made, while ruddy countenances and strengthened muscles testify to the healthfulness of the exercises.

Included in the college grounds is Lake Nonotuck, well supplied with boats in constant demand; and although there has not been an overplus of enthusiasm for organized crews, some good rowing-matches are witnessed, and there is opportunity for each student to learn the art of rowing, which few neglect, and in which many attain grace and skill. The same lake is equally popular in winter as a skating-ground, and the slopes toward it for coasting. The inventive power manifested in improvising substitutes for sleds for the multitude when a favoring crust appears is hopeful for the future of women. Brooms and dust-pans return to their retreats after such occasions, valuable only as souvenirs.

But the tennis-courts increasing yearly in number, and always in use out of class hours, show which is the most popular of campus recreations. A tournament is held each year in June, and much class pride is taken in the contests and awards.

Miss Harriet C. Seelye says of Smith:

The social side of college however, is not cultivated to the exclusion of outdoor life. Here one finds less originality, and, perhaps, more likeness to the amusements of men's colleges. Nevertheless, the feminine character of the college is clearly revealed in the manner in which these healthy sports are conducted. Even against the base ball that was played one spring no charge of masculinity could be brought. A glance at the young women playing after supper in train dresses, the batter forgetting to drop the bat as she ran for the base, would convince any doubter of the feminine character of the game.

Baseball, however, died a natural death at Smith College before the attractions of basket-ball. Here train-dresses are not allowed; the scientific spirit of the game demands gymnasium suits and an absorbed interest. The principle is much the same as in foot ball—two baskets hung about eight feet high, forming the goals; but the grace, self-control, and politeness developed among girls by such a game are most interesting. In a Harvard-Yale foot ball contest one does not hear opponents saying at an exciting crisis, "Pardon me, but I think that's our ball," or "Excuse me, did I hurt you?"

The enthusiasm for basket ball culminates at the end of the winter term in the contest between the two lower-class teams. Although the second class, with its year more of practice, generally wins, it is never safe to predict; and the audience which fills the running track is as full of interest and gay-colored excitement as cheers and banners can express. The game is even more attractive out of doors. Fortunately the field is retired enough for the girls to play without embarrassment in gymnasium suits, and the groans which rise when time is called are but slight indications of an enthusiasm which counts as nought bumps, bruises, or total loss of hair-pins.

Of Wellesley, Miss Katherine Lee Bates writes:

A Wellesley class supper involves no bills for broken plates, and Wellesley hazing rarely gets beyond ice-cream and flowers. Yet the Wellesley collegian loves fun of a finer and fairer sort, and delights in the opportunity for aesthetic revels afforded by the resources of a girl community. In the intervals of study, and apart from the vigorous exercises of the athletic field, the Wellesley eight hundred find here and there a joyous hour for concert or masquerade, or for drama so modern that on its impassioned and unimpunctuated lines the ink of sophomore genius is not dry. Halloween beholds each cottage and hall bright with a fantastic company, where George Washington lifts his cocked hat to Puss in Boots, and the Cumean Sibyl sends Mr. Micawber after a fresh supply of oak-leaves. But the merry-makings which are especially Wellesley's own are those springtime festivals known as "Float," and "Tree Day."

Miss A. A. Wood writes of Wells:

Of course, living on the shore of beautiful Cayuga Lake, we spend a good deal of time on the water. There are large club boats, and smaller skiffs for the favored few whose nautical skill and training give them the freedom which all women, though born free and equal, are not permitted to enjoy. We have quiet woods, with their temptation to wander without aim or purpose but that of enjoyment, as do the birds and rabbits whose domain we share, not invade. We have ravines large and small, with waterfalls, and with flowers and ferns which may be gathered without seeming to diminish their numbers; and cliffs, points and beaches all along the lake shore, with good roads for walking, driving and wheeling. For those whose lines have fallen in such pleasant places, what occasion or opportunity is there for anything else or more than the walks, rides and rows which take us into the midst of these delights? Tennis in spring and fall, and coasting in winter when there happens to be snow enough for it, take up most of our time that may be left, and complete the list of our regular sports.

We have no base ball nine and no foot ball team, and for the very same reasons we have no college yell. These we gladly leave to our brothers.

A Curious Timepiece.

A curious French timepiece is in the form of a sunflower, which protrudes from a white crystal vase, graceful in shape and soberly decorated. The stalk is of brown gilt, the leaves green, the petals yellow and the heart of the flower deeply oxidized. Hour and minute marks are engraved around the heart of this flower, which faces the looker-on. A lady-bird of spotted red enameled gold apparently rests on the flower on the line dividing the heart from the petals. This pretty insect, which moves imperceptibly by means of a mechanism hidden within the flower, shows the time. By only a close inspection can one detect the time division on this original dial, which is granulated all over and is bluish-black. As to the hollow circular line on which the lady-bird travels, it is completely invisible.

FORGING AHEAD.

A Society that is Accomplishing a Good Work—It Keeps Pushing to the Front.

The anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Sunday, Jan. 20th, at the M. E. church, instead of upon the 13th as heretofore announced.

This change has been caused by the inability of Rev. Mr. Davis, of Detroit, who is to deliver the anniversary address, to be present here on the 13th. The Baptist, Methodist and English Lutheran churches will all unite with the Y. M. C. A. on this occasion, not holding any service in their own churches.

It was thought best to divide the churches, and not have them all unite in this service because there is no church edifice large enough to hold all the congregations. Next year the other churches will unite with the association in this anniversary.

The Y. M. C. A.'s annual report will soon be out, and it will make a good showing, better than most people anticipate. It will show the average attendance at the meetings to be between 70 and 80, and that a number of young men have not only given evidence of leading better lives, but in some instances have made profession and taken steps to unite with some of the churches in the city.

The estimated expenses of the society in their new and handsome quarters, is $1,200. A moderate amount, and especially so when compared with the good work the association is doing.

It has not been to the credit of this city that heretofore there has not been a place where a young man could go and spend an evening, either in games, in reading, or in social conversation. Now there is such a place and the more it is becoming known, the more it is appreciated, and the greater demands upon the society.

On Thursday evening of next week, which is the week of prayer, the men and young men of the various congregations will unite with the Y. M. C. A., and hold service at their rooms, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. The ladies of the various congregations will unite with the Y. W. C. A., at their rooms over the 1st National Bank.

Program for the Week of Prayer.

At the meeting of the Ann Arbor Ministerial Association held on Monday, Dec. 31st, the following program was adopted for the observance of the week of prayer:

Monday evening, Jan. 7th, union services in the English Lutheran church, on S. Fifth ave.

Tuesday evening, Jan. 8th, union services in First Baptist church, on E. Huron st.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 9th, services in all the churches.

Thursday evening, Jan. 10th, union services—men's meeting in rooms of Y. M. C. A.; ladies in Y. W. C. A. rooms. Friday evening, Jan. 11th, union services in the Congregational church, on State st.

These services will be in charge of the local clergy and a most cordial invitation is extended to all to unite with us in the same.

An Ann Arbor Boy's Marriage.

The Seattle (Wash.) Post-Intelligencer of Sunday, Dec. 23d, has an announcement of the approaching nuptials of Henry A. Kyer and Miss Alice E. Augustine, both of that city, to take place on Wednesday, Jan. 23. Mr. Kyer is a former Ann Arbor boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson J. Kyer of this city. He is now the general passenger and freight agent of the Oregon Improvement Co. The bride prospective is a well known elocutionist of Seattle, and the paper states that the affair will be an important social event, to which all the society people of that city are looking forward with great anticipations. The hosts of friends of Mr. Kyer here in Ann Arbor will extend good wishes.

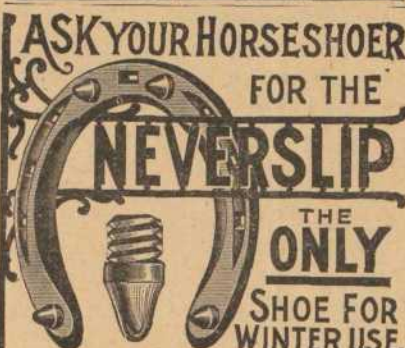

"Little" Japan.

Possibly it is because Japan is the pet of the American public that she is so frequently spoken of as "little Japan." Among the nations of the earth Japan is not specially little either in area or population. The area of Japan is 147,655 square miles, larger by 27,000 square miles than that of the United Kingdom. Furthermore there are 41,000,000 people who are subjects of the mikado, against 38,000,000 in the United Kingdom, taking latest census results in both cases. Japan's population is larger than Italy's by fully 10,000,000, while her area is 37,000 miles greater. No one speaks of Italy as "little Italy," although she is not so populous as Japan. Japan is nearly ten times the area and almost twenty times the population of Denmark. Japan is not a "little" country save as compared with such unwieldy masses as the Chinese Empire, or such a giant as the United States. That she is big enough to hold her own she has evinced in battle, to the amazement of her great antagonist.—Boston Transcript.

Harper's Magazine

THE SIMPLETONS, a new novel by Thomas Hardy, will be begun in the December number, 1894, and continued to November, 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that Thomas Hardy stands foremost as a master artist in fiction, and the SIMPLETONS may be expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked the success of the story of the year. Another leading feature will be the PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF JOAN OF ARC, by the late Louis de Conte, Her Page and Secretary, and which give the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on CHARLESTON AND THE CAROLINAS, the first of series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empires. The next volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict present life there. JULIAN RALPH will prepare for the magazine a series of eight stories depicting typical phases of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the long stories there will begin in the January number the first chapters of A Three-Part Novellet, by RICHARD HARDING DAVIS—the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete serial stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the magazine.

Harper's Weekly.

IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event, promptly, accurately and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chinese Railway strike and the China-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. JULIAN RALPH, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. WELDON, the well-known American artist, and for many years resident in Japan who has been engaged to cooperate with Mr. RALPH in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of statesmen and women who are making history, and powerful and and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

FICTIONS. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockade, a stirring romance of olden days by STANLEY J. WYMAN, the author of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by BRANDER MATHEWS—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers.

THIS IS FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

And Tells the Bashful Young Man How He Must Proceed to Legally Wed the Lady of His Choice.

Many people undoubtedly think that the matter of committing matrimony is but an easy thing to accomplish. All one has to do is to secure the price of a license, go before the county clerk and secure his permit and then call on the parson in order to complete the job. Those who are building their matrimonial castles on that flimsy foundation, however, are very much mistaken.

If the thing is properly done the would-be groom who applies for a license to wed, must have at his tongue's end the family genealogy of his intended and must also know his own pedigree beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

We make the statements herein contained for the purpose of aiding those contemplating matrimony as we are informed by the officials that very many applicants appear in search of licenses who are not in the least qualified to answer the questions which the law requires of them, and consequently the application is defective.

The statute requires that the applicant give his age at last birthday, residence, birthplace, occupation, father's name, mother's maiden name, and also make the same statement in relation to the woman he is intending to marry.

He must further make oath according to his best knowledge and belief there is no legal impediment to the consummation of the marriage contract between the parties.

As to what constitute legal impediments, the following from Howell's Annotated Statutes covers the ground: Every male who shall have attained the full age of eighteen years, and every female who shall have attained the full age of sixteen years, shall be capable in law of contracting marriage, if otherwise competent.

No man shall marry his mother, grandmother, daughter, granddaughter, stepmother, grandfather's wife, son's wife, grandson's wife, wife's mother, wife's grandmother, wife's daughter, wife's granddaughter, nor his sister, brother's daughter, sister's daughter, father's sister or mother's sister.

No woman shall marry her father, grandfather, son, grandson, stepfather, grandmother's husband, daughter's husband, granddaughter's husband, husband's father, husband's son, husband's grandson, nor her brother, brother's son, sister's son, father's brother, or mother's brother.

No marriage shall be contracted while either of the parties has a former wife or husband living, unless the husband shall have been dissolved. No insane person or idiot shall be capable of contracting marriage.

All marriages heretofore contracted between white persons and those wholly or in part of African descent, are hereby declared valid and effectual in law for all purposes, and the issue of such marriages shall be deemed and taken legitimate as to such issue and as to both of the parents.

Act No. 137, laws of 1887, relating to divorces, prohibits divorced persons from remarrying within a certain period of time, to be specified in the decree of divorce, but not to exceed two years.

Three Wants.

"Reason's whole pleasure, all the joys of sense, Live in three words, health, peace, and competence."

So says the poet. Competence comes for little when one is sick, and peace is disturbed when health is upset, so that the poet rightly places health first. To have good health you must have pure blood. From the blood the system receives all its material of growth and repair. The best blood-purifier is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is world-famed and sold everywhere. It is a sovereign remedy for all diseases due to impoverished or impure blood, as consumption, bronchitis, weak lungs, scrofula, old sores, skin diseases, and kindred ailments.

RHEUMATISM!

The Sure Cure is Dr. Greene's Nervura. Weak Kidneys, Weak Nerves, and Poor Blood Always Accompany Rheumatism. They Can All Be Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy

NATHAN G. BATCHELDER.

With rheumatism, come weak kidneys, weak nerves, poor blood. Weak kidneys mean death, because they lead to serious kidney diseases, which always kill. The symptoms are weak back, pain in the back, bloating, muddy water, tired and languid feeling, gas in the stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, headache, dimness of vision, dryness of skin, and nervousness.

Just so surely as you have these symptoms, your kidneys are out of order, and you need the sure cure, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Try a bottle and see how quickly these symptoms will vanish. It cures rheumatism, a most dangerous complaint, for it leads to fatal heart disease. Mr. Nathan G. Batchelder, of Hardwick, Vt., writes:

"A year ago I was badly bloated, and it was said I was going to die with the dropsy. I commenced taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. At that time I was a sight to behold. My usual weight was 135 lbs., but I then weighed 185 lbs. from bloating. I also had rheumatism so that I could not get into a sleigh or wagon, and was bent over badly. My stomach was so bad that I could not digest my food, and it pained me a good deal. It had been in this condition for seven years before I began to take Dr. Greene's medicine, but since taking it I can eat as hearty a meal as anybody. I have not been out for eight winters until this winter, but this winter I have been out constantly, and took care of my horse and driven frequently. After I got out, many of my friends did not know me, I was so changed and looked so well."

"For years I only ate one slice of bread in one day, and drank one or two cups of tea, which was all I could eat, and I sometimes suffered from that. I was about as bad a used up man as ever lived for a long time, and I expect to die any time, but thanks to Dr. Greene's wonderful medicine, I am greatly improved."

"Now all my blood is gone, and I am as well of that as ever. My rheumatism is practically gone, and my stomach is sound and digests my food perfectly, and I sleep soundly. The doctor who treated me did me no good, and he said I would not live six months I was in such bad order. Other doctors said it was the most remarkable case they had ever known, to have me come up the way I did. My case is widely known."

"I can recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as the best medicine I ever saw or heard of, and I will cheerfully answer any inquiries about my case, but for seven years I could not write my name I was so trembly."

Mr. H. R. Kimball, druggist of Hardwick, says: "I knew of Mr. Nathan G. Batchelder's remarkable case, and the statement is true."

It cures quickly and permanently, rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney and liver disease, and makes good blood and strong nerves. Everybody, both physicians and the people, everywhere acknowledge Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to be the greatest known cure for disease. People who take it get well."

Why waste time in trying uncertain and untried remedies, when here is a physician's prescription, a discovery made by the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City. If you take this medicine you can consider yourself under Dr. Greene's direct professional care, and you can consult him or write to him about your case, freely and without charge. This is a guarantee that this remedy will cure, possessed by no other medicine in the world.

Original Greenbackers.

"Talk about your fish stories, gentlemen," said a well known man about town, yesterday, "I don't suppose you will believe me, but when I was out fishing last summer I saw a queer sight. A queer queer sight, gentlemen. One morning early I got up and went down to the lake, and sure as you live there were hundreds of greenbacks lying all around on the grass; hundreds of them. I could hardly believe my eyes."

"Why didn't you fill your pockets, and come home and buy something for the boys?" asked a credulous listener. "I'll tell you friends, I tried to catch some of them, but as usual they were too quick for me, and they all jumped into the lake and swam away. They were croakers, you see, the original greenbackers."

And he walked away with the air of one who had said something smart. The listeners looked at each other mutely for a minute and then without a word being spoken each one put his hands in his pockets and started off to see a man.

He was Born in Ann Arbor.

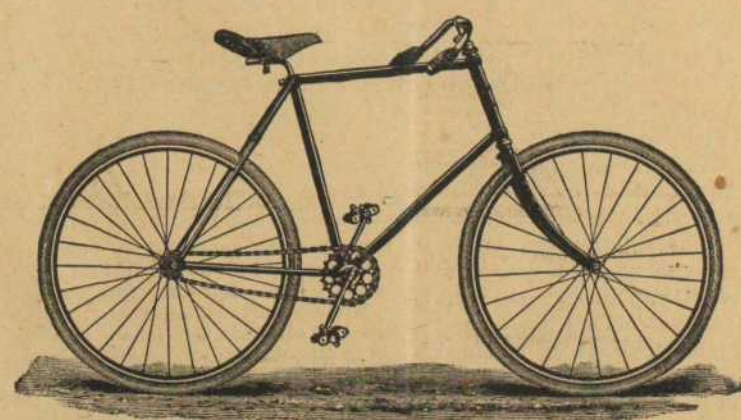

The following short sketch of Judge McAlvay, is taken from the Detroit Evening News, and will interest many of our readers who remember him well:

Aaron H. McAlvay, Manistee county's candidate for supreme justice, was born in Ann Arbor 47 years ago. He graduated from both the literary and law departments of the University, and in 1871 moved to Manistee.

He has been city attorney of Manistee, prosecuting attorney, and was judge at 30. He was also candidate for regent of the state university. His law practice has been extensive and lucrative, and it has brought him into close contact with all the varied interests of Michigan. He is also considered studious and scholarly. Although a republican, he was elected to office in a strong democratic county. His hobby is horticulture, which he indulges on a comfortable 10-acre homestead.

The judge is about 6 feet tall, straight and sturdy, and weighs 200 pounds.

There Appears to be a Difference Existing.

The Detroit News of Thursday evening has this write-up of the feeling that seems to exist between a portion of the city council and the board of public works:

"There is great breathing of threat-enings and slaughter in the municipal atmosphere in Ann Arbor. The president of the Board of Public Works, A. M. Clark, in an unguarded moment, made the remark that the Ann Arbor Water Co. owned a part of the Board of Aldermen. A reporter overheard the saying, and it was printed in a local paper."

"Now the Board of Aldermen are giving an exhibition of pyrotechnic rage. Ald. Snyder, of the third ward, has said that the Board of Works must go, and is not alone in the assertion. The legislature at Lansing will be called on to legislate the said Board of Public Works out of existence."

"In this virtuous rage it appears that a great many citizens join, who hold the old board responsible for the expensive mistakes made in building the main sewers, and also a goodly list of people with their respective adherents, who aspired to succeed to the office of street commissioner at the recent death of Nelson Sutherland. The street commissioner is wholly the officer of the Board of Public Works. They have failed to appoint one as yet, and apparently do not intend to appoint one for several months to come, so the thirty or more aspirants for the office are conspiring to down the board and get the office made lective. The board will die hard, however."

FROM THE STATE CAPITOL.

THE PONDEROUS FORMALITY OF OPENING THE LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS.

A Racy Account of the Opening Day—The "Governor Was There"—The Senatorial Caucus and How the Galleries Were Filled—Our Special Tells all About it.

LANSING, Jan. 3.—From the tone of Governor Rich's message, it is evident that the University has nothing to do except from the legislature at this session. The governor concludes that the institution is now on a solid foundation. In his message he said: "Our State University stands not only at the head of our own educational institutions, but well up in the front rank of universities in this and foreign countries. The act of the legislature two years ago, in providing for the one-sixth mill tax places the institution upon a proper and substantial foundation. It is known in advance what the University has, and saves the time of our legislature in considering that matter. It also guarantees the University itself a permanent income, and with increased amount now charged for tuition, and a gradual increase of the fund as the valuation of the taxable property in the state increases, it will place this institution beyond the need of asking further aid from the legislature for years to come. If the governor's word goes in the case, as it probably will, the regents will make an idle request if they ask the legislature for special appropriation for new buildings. The idea seems to be that retrenchment is the proper way to meet the wants of the state, hampered as the people are by continued prevalence of 'hard times.' Few state institutions, if any, will get increased appropriations for 1895-6, and the university will have to be content with her present income, at least until better times prevail.

John Donovan's popularity does not wane. His desk was the only one in the house to-day which kind friends had thought to make attractive with flowers. Several of the senators were lucky enough to be remembered, but no member of the House, except Donovan, received such recognition. And he is the favorite of Speaker Gordon, too. Whenever there is a committee to be appointed, Donovan always gets the recognition due the democratic minority. The mention of his name is always the signal for vigorous applause. He sits well back on the speaker's right, and is always the synonism for all eyes. Whenever the representative brings in a friend the first object of interest he points out is "Donovan, of Bay." "That's him, see?" The minority never fails to retain his innate modesty which goes not a little toward keeping up Donovan's stock.

There is not a little of ceremonial left yet in the Legislature. It is most apparent on days like the opening ones of 1895 have been. It requires a committee of three to inform the governor that the legislature is in joint session. Then a second committee of five is necessary to bring the chief executive in. The chairman of each of these committees has the unnecessary task of announcing the results of the committee's laborious task, which he usually does in a manner as devoid of grace as it is full of pomposity. The chief executive comes in surrounded like a criminal with officers of the law and advancing through the main aisle of the representative hall, the whole sextette stops in front of the speaker's desk, when the chairman, in stentorian tones, announces: "Mr. Speaker, the committee appointed to bring the governor in is ready to report. The governor is here." The governor is doubtless glad to be told that he is present, and of course the house is equally as glad to learn of his excellency's presence. As soon as all parties are satisfied that he is really there, the message is begun.

BURROWS CHOSEN.

LANSING, Jan. 3.—Julius Caresar Burrows was easily nominated for the short term senatorship to-night at 11:15 on the second ballot, his vote being 70. The result was received with tremendous applause.

THE SENATORIAL CAUCUS.

The sergeant-at-arms and his assistants well earned their salaries at last night's caucus. At seven o'clock there was a howling crowd about the capitol, struggling for admission to see the fun. Only three hundred of them got in, for each senatorial candidate was allotted a hundred tickets with which to supply his henchmen. In each case the loudest and most enthusiastic lunged supporters were picked out.

The galleries furnished the fun. They made lots of noise. Each of the three leading candidates had many fair supporters in the galleries who gave their smiles and clapped their hands with all the enthusiasm of the male element present.

Precisely at eight o'clock, Secretary Dennis Alward called the caucus to order, and Speaker Gordon was unanimously chosen chairman. Senator Barnard, of Kent, nominated Senator Patton. Senator Clapp, of Battle Creek, did likewise for Mr. Burrows. Rep. Campbell, of Ingham, nominated S. S. Olds, and Byron S. Waite, of Menominee, and Rep. Chamberlain, of Gogebic, did nomination duty for Stephenson and Hubbell respectively.

Then followed a useless, long, monotonous list of speeches in support of the five candidates. Patton was supported by Woodruff, of Wayne; Senator Eaton, of Lenawee; Kimmins, of Oakland; Kempf, of Washtenaw; Senator Shaw, of Newaygo; Graham, of Kent; Senator McLaughlin, of Wayne; Reps. Rice, of Presque Isle; Walters, of Wayne; Lee, of Lapeer; Kingsley, of Wayne.

Burrows was helped out in the oratorical display by Kelly, of Muskegon; Senator Townsend, of Saginaw; Redfern, of Clinton; James, of Hillsdale; Weeks, of Kent; Earle, of Ionia; Taylor, of St. Clair, and Foote, of Kalamazoo.

Olds' support came from Kilpatrick, of Shiawassee; Matthews, of Wayne; Foster, of Ingham; Barnum, of Emmet. Chairman Gordon called Rep. Cavell to the chair and made the most eloquent speech of the evening, and it went for S. S. Olds.

Then, on motion of Rep. Cavell, the balloting began at 10:30. The first ballot ended at 10:45 as follows: Burrows, 64; Patton, 23; Olds, 32; Stephenson, 7; Hubbell, 5. Whole number cast, 131. Tremendous applause for Burrows.

Rep. White withdrew the name of Stephenson in favor of Burrows, and the second ballot proceeded with the following result: Burrows, 70; Olds, 32; Patton, 25; Hubbell, 4. Everything belonged to Burrows. He was soon escorted from his gallery and responded to the enthusiasm, encouraged by Rep. Chamberlain's motion to make the matter unanimous, in a well-rounded speech. Calls for Patton and Olds resulted in a trio of senatorial speeches.

Both houses have adjourned until Tuesday next. OTTAWA.

Electricity in Farm Work.

During the last year the availability of electricity for all the mechanical work required on a farm has, it is claimed, been fully demonstrated. The result has been not only a great saving of labor but a large reduction in the cost of doing the work and a great lessening of the risks of fire losses. The success of the experiment has shown that farmers need no longer fear that their stacks of hay and straw and their stores of grain will be consumed even before they are safely housed. The unwieldy and dangerous steam thrashing machine may be dispensed with, and all the work it accomplished, with much more besides may be more cheaply and expeditiously done by means of electricity.

These experiments were conducted on a large estate in Moravia. All the farm work required was done by a direct current generator of thirty-five amperes capacity driven by a thirty-horse-power engine. A central station was established in a planing mill on the estate from which two powers circuits of a total length of about six miles were distributed over the estate. One of these circuits served to operate a grist mill and a dairy, besides supplying all the power required on two different farms. It has been found that all kinds of farm work can be done by electricity better, more economically and more expeditiously than by human or animal power. Electric plows turn over the soil as precisely as it can be done. Electric seeders deposit the grain with a regularity which cannot be surpassed. Electric cultivators demolish the weeds with an efficacy which cannot be equalled. Electric reapers and mowers cut down the grain and grass. Electric spades thin out root crops. Electric rakes gather up the crops and fruits. Electric thrashing machines separate the grain from the straw and electric buckets carry it and deposit it in the barns prepared for it.

Numerous advantages over the use of portable steam engines having revealed themselves. No hauling of coal and water is required. The motor cars are much lighter than the steam engines and can be more easily moved from one part of the farm or field to another. During the winter months, when not required in agricultural work, the motors can be moved to the farm yard and used for operating irrigating pumps, should irrigation work be necessary, or if the farmer desires to brew his own beer he has all the necessary power ready to hand. The success of these experiments will, it is believed, bring about a revolution in the methods of agriculture. The system as described seems particularly adapted to the farms of the West and Northwest.—Chicago Post.

RING OUT THE OLD, RING IN THE NEW.

BUT ONE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY OFFICER NOW ON GUARD.

Republican Faces Greet You in All Corners of the Court House but the Northeast—Judge Bab-bitt is the Lonely Donovan of Wash-tenaw.

January 1st witnessed a wonderful transformation scene as far as political plums are concerned, at the Washtenaw County Court House.

The long line of democratic officers was sadly broken into, and republicans put in their places.

SHERIFF.

Michael Brenner, who has held the office of sheriff a single term, stepped down and out and gave place to his successful republican competitor, Wm. Judson.

Mr. Brenner has made a good sheriff, and during his term of office no extra tramp bills have been run up, and the county has had to pay for what it received, and nothing more, for Mr. Brenner is an honest man, and never defrauded anyone out of a cent.

His republican successor is known from one end of this county to the other. He is a through-going, pushing business man, and his party has made no mistake in selecting him for this position. That he will fill it with credit to himself and honor to his party, is the belief of every one who knows him.

Sheriff Judson has appointed Jay A. Wood, of Chelsea, under sheriff and he has already moved into the jail, where he will reside. Mr. Canfield will be the turnkey.

The deputies appointed for this place are Zena Sweet, Wm. E. Eldert, and Fred Huhn.

COUNTY CLERK.

The retiring county clerk, Arthur Brown, has held the office the conventional two terms, and has made one of the best officials the county has ever had. Although elected against bitter opposition, and having much to contend against in his own party ranks, yet he overcame it, and has proved himself a valuable man as county clerk. Everything in this office is in excellent shape. All the documents are properly filed, and the work of the office kept up promptly and in a business way. There is no denying the fact that Mr. Brown has had few if any superiors, as clerk, and leaves the office in most excellent condition for his successor.

Wm. Dansingburg, the new republican county clerk, comes from Augusta, where he has cultivated his farm for many years. He has always been a popular man at his home, and when the republicans needed to elect a supervisor they put him on the ticket and he never failed them. Mr. Dansingburg came to this city directly after election and has been studying up the duties of the office since that time, and has got the run of things so that he feels he can go it alone without trouble. Although he will have some difficulty in making a better clerk than his democratic predecessor, yet his friends and his party feel that he will make fully as good a one, and that is all that can be asked of him.

Fred Dansingburg has been appointed deputy county clerk by his father, and will commence his duties next Monday.

REGISTER OF DEEDS.

Andrew Hughes, the out-going Register of Deeds, has held the office but one term. He has made a good record, and leaves the office in good condition. He has also made many friends in the city since his residence here.

Cardie P. McKinstry, of Ypsilanti, who succeeds to the office, is stepping into something right in his line. He is an expert with the pen and with books, will fill the office creditably, and become popular with the people he is to serve. His party looks to him for a more than ordinary record as Register of Deeds, and believes that with his ability and experience that he will fill the office as acceptably and even more acceptably than it ever has been filled before.

George Alexander, of Ypsilanti, formerly clerk of the Hawkins House, is the deputy in this office, and has already commenced business.

COUNTY TREASURER.

The events of the past few weeks in respect to this office is well-known to perhaps every person in the county who pretends to keep posted at all upon the current affairs. The retiring treasurer, Paul G. Suekey, failed to make the balance on his ledger "jibe," and has been to his old home in Europe, in the attempt to raise the money necessary to settle up his defalcation, and save his own honor and that of his family and friends. It is understood that he failed to secure the necessary funds, and has returned and given himself up into the hands of his bondsmen, for them to do what they deem wise with him. It is a sad chapter, and although the COURIER has never been an admirer of Mr. Suekey, and fought his election with all the strength it had, yet it is with the deepest regret these facts are accorded of his defalcation and downfall.

It is a mistake in any party to take up new men who have but recently come into the county especially men who have hardly lived in this country long enough to take out their citizenship papers, and put them in offices of trust. We do not blame Mr. Suekey as much as we do the party who foolishly nominated him, when there were others who had lived here all their lives, and who were one with us and of us. The party that put him in the position should suffer for his wrong doing.

Wm. F. Rehlfuss, the gentleman who takes the position of county treasurer is a republican and comes from Manchester. He is known throughout the entire south-western portion of the county as a prompt and wide-awake business man. He has transacted business there for many years, and that his neighbors and friends have confidence in him is proven by the fact that they have signed his bonds for a quarter of a million dollars, right in the face of the fact that his predecessor was a defaulter. If there could be any greater proof of confidence and friendship, the COURIER has not sufficient imagination to even conceive it.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY.

The gentleman who retires after one term of service as prosecuting attorney, Mr. Thomas D. Kearney has developed considerable ability while holding the office. He proved himself capable of contending with the older lawyers at the bar when forced to do so, and has made a good prosecuting officer for the county, devoting his time thereto, and although he allowed the expenses in the Hand case to run up pretty high, yet his anxiety to succeed will probably excuse a good portion of that, while in other things he has saved the people expense, by not allowing trivial things to be brought into court.

Seth C. Randall, the new prosecuting Attorney, is a good lawyer, and will make a good record. Although he has not had an extensive practice at this bar, yet he has had enough to convince the people that he understands the law, and has a sufficient quantity of sand in his make up to push things vigorously. Mr. Randall is an old soldier, the only one that was on the ticket with one exception.

CIRCUIT COURT COMMISSIONERS.

Ever since the writer of this commenced taking an interest in politics—and he is no kid—Patrick McKernan has been a "Circuit Court Commissioner for Washtenaw County—in Chamber." Pat. has been a court house fixture ever since the court house was built. Of course all things have to change, but really, we were in hopes that Pat would die in harness—that is that he would not be turned out into the cold world officeless until the Great Reaper took him in, ripe in years. But he couldn't withstand the great republican cyclone last November, so he had to give up his long filled, and honorably filled position, and turn it over to a younger man.

Mr. Butterfield, the Ann Arbor Circuit Court Commissioner, who will take McKernan's place, is one of the rising young lawyers of the county seat, and a partner of Hon. John F. Lawrence. This position is not the only one he will fill if he lives and is healthy, or this pen is no prophet.

The other retiring commissioner is Tracy L. Towner, of Ypsilanti, and his successor is Fred Webb, a young attorney of the same city.

CORONERS.

There is another old standby that the COURIER forewarned away along last fall, but he would not heed the warning. That was Martin Clark, Coroner. He is coroner no more. He quit business as such night before last, at 12 o'clock midnight. He went out with the old year. Mr. Clark has not been a bad coroner, not by any means. He has been a good one, and as in the case of Mr. McKernan, he has held the office so long that it came to be looked upon as his by right of original entry, or discovery, or something of the sort. But he too, was picked up by that little November blizzard and landed on the "other side of Jordan."

The Coroner's duties for the County Capital will be attended to hereafter by Harris Ball. Mr. Ball has not resided in the city many years, but he has lived in the county almost ever since it was a county, and is one of the best republicans in Michigan. He will be able to hold an inquest in good shape, and no one in the nation took more delight in "sitting on" the defunct democratic corpse a couple of months since than he.

SURVEYOR.

Ever since the year One, Chas. S. Woodward has been the surveyor of Washtenaw county. Long enough, at least, to have surveyed it, and resurveyed it, and platted it all into suburban city lots. But time changes, and men who do not change their politics in time, or straddle the fence and get on both tickets are sure to get left in the end if they hang on long enough. That was Woodward's fate, and he got left. His chain didn't have links enough in it to reach this time, and so he will not officially survey this county any longer.

Jerome Allen is the man who will be called upon to do the surveying now. He is a good surveyor. He went down south during the 60's and helped Uncle Sam survey the Southern States. He held on to that job until it was done and he got an honorable discharge—which is just about the best recommendation any man can have these days.

The Chelsea Standard and Adrian Press both copied the same item from an Ann Arbor paper last week, the Standard crediting it to the Argus, and the Press to the Courier.—Milan Leader. That is rather strange.—But then you know the old saying great minds run in the same channel, of course.

Up to last Sunday morning the Congregational society was short about $1,300 of the amount needed to entirely pay for their new church edifice. On that day pledges to the amount of $779 were made. It is hoped to be able to have the society free from debt on the day of dedication.—Chelsea Standard.

Stone sidewalks are durable and there are no spikes sticking up through them to stub your toe against and to tear one's dress. They are as oily as a book agent's tongue and when a little of the beautiful falls upon it, alas, the wicked stand in slippery places. Some folks sit down upon the walks hard enough to crack them, but they have stood the racket well.—Manchester Enterprise. The builders of cement walks here have obviated that slipperiness by slightly corrugating the surface of the walks when constructing them.

MILAN'S L. O. O. F. TEMPLE.

The Milan Leader gives this account of the dedicatory services on Thursday evening next:

"Preparations are going steadily forward for the proper dedication of the handsome new Odd Fellows' Temple, just completed and furnished. The handsome carpets and other furnishings of the lodge room and parlors present an appearance of elegance and comfort, and the new home of the Odd Fellows, Campers and Daughters of Rebekah will be one to be appreciated and enjoyed. The dedicatory ceremonies will begin as soon after seven as possible and will close with a banquet, at which accommodations will be made for more than four hundred people. Music will be furnished by the Minnis orchestra of Ann Arbor. The various committees have been hard at work for several weeks, and are still at it, and report everything coming on in good shape. Three-linkers will be here from almost everywhere, and a most enjoyable affair is anticipated. Capt. Charles Manly, of Ann Arbor, has consented to be Master of Toasts, and responses will be made by Grand Master M. R. Salter, of Ithaca, Past Grand Masters, Jonathan Sprague and Harrison Soule, of Ann Arbor, H. Wirt Newkirk, of Dexter, Col. E. H. Sellers and J. Nelson Lewis, of Detroit, and others."

Mrs. Chas. Root, Cedar Springs, Mich., was told by physicians that they could do nothing for her. After taking two bottles of "Adironda" she was able to do her own work and ride to town to do her shopping. Sold by John Moore.
