WHAT SUPT. PERRY SAYS.

Eight Students Suspended for Being Members of Secret Societies.

Eight high school students were suspended yesterday by Principal J. G. Pattengill. Their offense consists in belonging to Delta Sigma Nu, a secret society, whose membership is made up of high school students. The defense is in opposition to a rule of the board of education which reads as follows:

"Section 14. Any pupil of the high school who becomes or remains a member of a secret school society, subjects himself thereby to suspension, or forfeiture of diploma of graduation, or both."

Acting under the authority granted him by this rule of the board, Principal Pattengill has relieved the eight Delta Sigma Nus from further high school duties for at least some time. Last week, after the principal had satisfied himself of the guilt of these eight, they were offered the alternative of signing a pledge to absolve themselves from connection with their society or be suspended. Upon refusal to sign, the board's rule was executed. The president of the society has been given three days in which to debate and decide whether he will leave the society without a head or join the double quartette on the outside.

The action has produced the greatest consternation among the other societies of the school, of which there are two, the Sigma Sigma and Alpha Tau Omega. Unless they disband, there may be a further decrease in the registration of the school.

Supt. Perry, when interviewed by the Courier this morning, expressed himself on the situation as follows:

"It is true that eight students have been suspended for belonging to secret societies. They have not been expelled, for our jurisdiction in the matter does not extend that far. It has always been our policy to suspend students when it came to our knowledge that they were members of these societies.

"Our poorest students are in these societies. The better students do not belong to them at all. They are a detriment to the school. Their prime object of existence is a social one, and for the past few weeks they have been prosecuting that object so vigorously as to affect our classes.

"The societies defend their position by the assertion that they are not strictly secret organizations. But they have all the appearances. They have Greek letter names, wear badges, initiations, and in fact have every mark of the fraternity about them.

"I do not anticipate that there will be further trouble. The students are talking among themselves of disbanding the societies, although what action they will finally take I am unable to tell. This is no war of extermination of the societies. We don't want to make war against them; but the rules of the board must be obeyed and the societies must not effect the work of the school."

The names of the suspended students are: T. Wilson, O. and L. Tilton, W. Jackson, H. Danforth, W. Seavey, D. Zimmerman, and J. Brown.

The other fraternities and sororities in the high school are: Sigma Sigma, A. T. O., Alpha Delta Sigma, Zeta Rho, Beta Eta.

Gayley-Brown Memorial Service.

Newberry hall was comfortably filled yesterday afternoon with an audience composed almost exclusively of women anxious to pay the last tribute of respect and love to the memory of Mrs. Sarah Gayley-Brown. The exercises were very interesting. Mrs. H. S. Carhart read an interesting biography of Mrs. Gayley-Brown. Mrs. Jennie Cheever read several letters from young college women who had come into contact with the life of the deceased friend of college girls. Mrs. Barnard read a paper relating to Mrs. Brown's influence on college girls. Mrs. A. C. McLaughlin read a letter from Mrs. J. B. Angell commenting upon the beautiful Christian character of the woman. Several of Mrs. Gayley-Brown's favorite songs were sung, among them "The Star of Other Days," written by her son, Prof. Chas. M. Gayley.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

Frederick Schleyer of This City Struck by a Freight Engine.

At about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon word reached this city that a man had been run over and killed by a freight, on the M. C. R. tracks, some two miles west of the city. The facts in the case proved to be as follows:

At about 3:40 p. m., while about a quarter of a mile this side of Foster's Station, the engineer of an extra freight east bound, noticed a man on the track. Immediately an alarm was given; the bell was rung and the whistle screamed a warning, but all to no purpose. The man was either deaf or so absorbed he did not hear. Breaks were put on, but it was too late, and the man was struck, thrown some distance, and everything indicated, was instantly killed. His legs were both broken, his neck dislocated, and his skull crushed in.

The train stopped, picked up the remains and brought them to this city, where they were identified as being those of Fred Schleyer, of W. Fifth street.

Coroner Ball was at once notified and he had the remains removed to W. G. Dieterle's store and properly cared for, and the family notified. This morning he summoned the following jury: E. K. Frueauff, foreman, Wm. A. Clark, August Blaess, Arthur Crawford, W. G. Snow, and M. C. Peterson. The inquest was held this forenoon at Dieterle's store, and the following verdict returned:

"We, upon our oath, find that Frederick Schleyer, the deceased, came to his death January 10, about one-half mile east of Foster's Station, in Ann Arbor township, on the M. C. track by being struck by a Michigan Central engine of an extra freight train going east at about 3:40 standard time, said Schleyer not getting off the track after the danger whistle was given."

The deceased was a man 50 years of age, and had lived here since 1869. He was born in Wurtemberg, Germany. When first here he was employed a number of years by Christian Eberbach, to work about his house, and for a number of years he was the sexton of Bethlehem Lutheran church. He leaves a widow and six children, the oldest being a young man 21 years of age. His family are every much respected by the neighbors where they live, and have the sympathy of many friends.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, and burial will be in the German cemetery on Jackson ave.

Gov. Russell.

There will be no lecturer here this season, that the well informed person will be more desirous of hearing than the one whose picture appears below.

Ex-Gov. William E. Russell, of Massachusetts, is known as the boy governor, having been the youngest man ever elected to that office in the Old Bay State. His popularity at home can be judged by the fact that he was elected governor of Massachusetts three times, while the republicans elected the balance of the state officers. He is prominently mentioned as a presidential candidate of his party in 1896.

His subject Friday night, at University hall, before the S. L. A., will be "Individualism," one that he surely ought to be fitted to talk about. Everybody will desire to hear him.

COMPLETELY CAPTURED.

Alberto Jonas Won Every Musical Heart by his Splendid Recital of Last Evening.

Alberto Jonas is a master in arranging a program. In the first place he does not make it too long. The recital last evening was only about one and one quarter hours in length. It struck a popular chord in this respect; for though a few musical enthusiasts may enjoy a long-drawn-out instrumental program of unlimited duration, the average auditor is content with one of minor length. Also, in the character of the numbers, the program last evening was a model one. It contained music varied enough to prevent any monotony. Then, too, his selections were not long. Before there was the least feeling of tiredness, he had finished his piece and the audience was in just the best frame of mind to appreciate and applaud.

In the art of rendering a program Mr. Jonas equals his own skill in arranging one. He was accorded a reception that a Rubenstein himself might well have been proud of. While not presuming to criticize Mr. Jonas, perhaps the best estimate of his work is to be made in saying that he apparently pleased every one of the large audience that he had before him. Repeatedly he was compelled to acknowledge the hearty applause accorded him. After the "Polonaise in A flat major, Op. 53", he was applauded until compelled to respond to the well earned praise. That the program was not extended until a much later hour was not for lack of opportunities for encores. If any of the numbers are deserving of special praise, perhaps the "Prelude in D minor" and "Nocturne in D flat major" and his own "Romance and Capriccio" are to be accorded that distinction. It is certain that Mr. Jonas may be sure of an appreciative audience whenever he appears in Ann Arbor.

No New Jail Rules.

Sheriff Judson states in regard to the article which appeared in yesterday's Courier that he has made no new ruling, and that the handling of prisoners is the same that it always has been. It appears that a certain officer in the city arrested a man for disturbing a meeting here in the city, and came the next morning and took the man out of jail, and let him go on a private settlement, without his being brought before a justice. To prevent a repetition of anything of the kind Sheriff Judson then gave orders to his turnkey that no prisoner should be taken out without his (Judson's) orders, and from this has grown the misunderstanding between the city and the county officers of the law. Mr. Judson says he wants to conduct the affairs of his office right, and in order to do so he must know and understand all that is going on. In which position he is without the least doubt right. The Courier has no fears but that Mr. Judson will make a most excellent official.

But still there has always been a feeling that Ann Arbor was doing an injustice to the county by using the jail in which to confine prisoners arrested by city officers, and now seems to be a pretty good time to start a new plan. This paper believes that the city should at once proceed to establish a lock-up of her own, and have all persons arrested under her ordinances confined therein. The city would be ahead by means of this, and the eternal jangling over the county taking care of her prisoners would cease.

Another Lecture Course.

The Presbyterian church has arranged a series of lectures to be given in that church Sundays at 12 m. to University students and others interested. The addresses arranged as far as March 10, are as follows:

Jan. 10.—Why Do We Believe in a Future Life?—Rev. W. W. Wetmore.

Jan. 27.—The Book of Genesis in the Light of Assyrology—Prof. J. A. Craig.

Feb. 3.—Two Glimpses of Nature and their Lessons—R. C. McAllister.

Feb. 10.—Some Christian Phases of Natural Religion—A. H. Lloyd.

Feb. 24.—Drummondism from a Biological Point of View—Prof. F. C. Newcombe.

Mar. 3.—Christian Citizenship—E. F. Mills.

Mar. 10.—Are the Teachings of Biology and Religion Contradictory?—G. C. Huber, M. D.

A LUCID EXPLANATION.

The Y. W. C. A. and Woman's Auxiliary—The Two Work in Different Lines, but Hand in Hand.

There has been some confusion in regard to the Y. W. C. A. and the Women's Auxiliary. The latter is a part of the Y. M. C. A. and its object is to help in the social work of that association and to do for it the many things which need a woman's hand to perfect. The Y. W. C. A. is an entirely separate organization which does among the young women the same work which the Y. M. C. A. does for the young men. Each along its own lines, and in the most friendly spirit towards the other, is working for the good of the young people.

We do not want Ann Arbor to forget that there is a Young Women's Christian Association in the city, which, though neither so old nor so large as her brother across the street, is yet becoming an important factor in the lives of many of our Ann Arbor girls.

Due to the great kindness of the directors of the first National Bank the Association has a very pleasant home, and nearly all of the merchants of the city, as well as several other friends have helped to fit the rooms up with carpets, pictures, curtains, electric lights and other conveniences and comforts.

During the past ten weeks there have been classes in Elocution, German Conversation and Physical Culture, besides a large Bible class which is held in connection with the Sunday afternoon meeting at 3:30.

These classes have been under the charge of competent teachers, who have given their work to the Association free of charge. A small fee has been paid by the classes which has ensured regularity in attendance, and a continued interest. After this week these classes will be continued and in addition there will be a class in singing under the charge of Mrs. Prof. Kempf. The fact that the fee for such classes is but 25 cents for ten lessons to members of the Y. W. C. A. and 50 cents to outsiders, ought to result in large classes.

The rooms are open every Saturday evening, and this week, Jan. 12th, a special social is planned. We shall be glad to receive a call from the ladies of the city who are interested in the Association. We have not, nor do we mean to ask for money; we do ask interest and co-operation from the women of Ann Arbor. We are working slowly, but we think surely, for the girls of our city, and already see good results appearing.

There are several things lacking yet for our rooms, and the following list has been placed before the girls, though other articles or a money gift will be found use for at once.

The Ann Arbor a Crusher.

A dispatch from Menominee in yesterday's papers state that the Ann Arbor No. 1, of the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railway, entered this port at 1 p. m., having broken her way through forty miles of solid ice. She came from Frankfort via Death Door, off Door Bluff. Winrows of ice from three to five feet deep were encountered, which occasioned a delay of several hours from the fact that the large ice-breaking wheel has not yet been coupled to the motive power. The run from the Door was made at the rate of eight miles an hour. The ice is now eight to twelve inches thick. The boat's entrance was witnessed by thousands.

Presbyterian S. S. Election.

The annual meeting of the Sunday School of the Presbyterian society occurred on Sunday last, when the following officers were chosen:

Supt.—Ralph C. McAllister.

1st Ass't.—E. F. Mills.

2d Ass't.—Frank Parker.

3d Ass't.—Mrs. J. H. Wade.

Sec'y and Treas.—Horace T. Purfield.

Librarian—Miss Ladd.

Chorister—Dr. C. G. Huber.

The reports read shows the school to be a thriving one. The regular attendance was between 300 and 400 each Sunday, and during the past year the school has given $100 to missionary work, and $50 to the board for the Sabbath School Extension Fund.

JUDGE KINNE'S CANDIDACY.

Friday's Evening News contained an interview with Judge Moore, of Lapeer, that sounded just a little queer, to say the least. If Judge Moore said the things he is recorded as saying, he certainly made a great mistake, for the interview gives an impression that it is a shrewd politician and not a careful, deliberate judge, that is talking.

The idea is carried that a number of his opponents are in the race simply for a little pastime, and that when they are thoroughly satiated with the amusement, they will turn their forces over to him. Among those mentioned is Judge Kinne, of Washtenaw.

There never was a greater mistake made, as far as Judge Kinne is concerned. While the judge is in no way bombastic, or one who proclaims himself from the housetops, yet he has many warm friends throughout the state, who believe he has attainments that peculiarly fit him for the position of judge of our Supreme Court. He has friends, also, who will stand by him until he is nominated, and they will be there in force. They are not in it for amusement in the least, but for the nomination, and it is fair to presume that the other candidates mentioned by Judge Moore feel the same way.

The candidacy of Judge Kinne is very promising, and he has many strong arguments in his favor, not the least of which—aside from his fitness for the place—is the fact that he has been twice overwhelmingly elected circuit judge in a circuit that is strongly opposed to him politically.

Washtenaw county has been for many years the strongest democratic county in Michigan. It has now given itself to the republican party, and that party should appreciate the fact and encourage it to stay there.

Washtenaw county has not been given a position on the state ticket by the republicans since the memory of man runneth back. Now it will come forward and ask that the republicans in this section be recognized. It will come in such a way, too, that its requests will not be brushed aside without consideration.

AFTER THE SOLDIER BOYS.

Now that the legislature is in session, the following resolution passed by the Livingston county republican convention last fall, is being given prominence by papers throughout the state:

Whereas, A recent statement of the public press shows the last encampment of the state troops to have cost $42,000, therefore,

Resolved, That we, the republicans of Livingston county, in convention assembled, consider said encampment an extravagant use of the public funds and hereby request our members of the state legislature to throw their votes and influence against further appropriations for that use, thereby reducing the burden of the people.

There is a feeling existing throughout the state, that the money which the annual encampment costs, is not a wise expenditure, and that instead of being a help to military knowledge it is simply a rollicking week off for the young men composing the militia of the state. This is probably true to a certain extent. We have heard a great many fathers remark that it was a dangerous thing, and that they would not consent to have their sons attend the encampment as a member of a company. And yet it is probable that the action of a few cause the entire militia to be censured. It is always well in times of peace to prepare for war. There is no knowing how soon our militia may be needed. And yet there is a question whether, in these hard times, when it is so difficult for the people to pay the burden of taxes assessed against them, whether or not the encampment could not be safely dispensed with for a year or until we get back to republican times again.

As things are at present it doesn't matter much whether Mr. Hill and Mr. Cleveland pull together or separately—they have reached the highest point of all their greatness, already.

The Ann Arbor Courier spelled it Burroughs. The senator will object.—Northville Record.

Oh, no he won't. He doesn't care a fig, now. There is only one way to pronounce it, any way.

If this present congress desires to resume pleasant business relations with foreign countries, the proper thing to do is to restore the reciprocity measures of the McKinley bill. That would restore trade and open up foreign markets for our products and keep gold at home.

Neither Blaine nor Logan added anything to his fame by his "promotion" from the House to the Senate. Let us hope that Burrows' transfer to the second chamber will turn out more happily.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The movement which is under way in several of the southern states for ballot reform is encouraging. A free ballot and an honest count would, even from a purely business point of view, be of the greatest benefit to the south.

It is to be hoped that Bland, in his two years' work on his farm which he says he will put in when he retires from office a few weeks hence, will render better service to the country than he has furnished in all his congressional career.

The Stockbridge Farmers' Club, at their January meeting, passed resolutions agin' the good road law. 'Course. We have used these same roads ever since the country was settled, and what was good enough for dad is good enough for us.

If the railroads are blacklisting men as is confidently asserted by the men themselves, and they are unable to get work in this line simply because some one of the railroads has a grudge against him for something, said railroads ought to be prosecuted for that kind of work. It is not only unjust and un-American but it is unhuman. The Interstate Commerce commission should investigate.

The report that the Crown Prince of Japan wants to marry an American heiress is an indication that the youth has decidedly progressive ideas. If a Yankee girl ever shares the throne of Japan, she will be the boss of Asia, and the fleets of Europe would be wise to withdraw to their own waters. No English admiral would ever then oppose Japan's fleet sailing up all the rivers in China, if they wanted to go there. And it is possible that they will do so anyway.

It is not surprising that the democratic party cannot handle the financial affairs of this government successfully. That party has not been a successful party in anything for generations. It has not attempted to build up anything for a half century, but on the contrary has constantly attempted to tear down whatever the republican party has proposed. You couldn't expect a railroad wrecker to turn into a successful banker in a day or a year—so why expect an impossibility from this party.

Ex-Senator Eustis is the ambassador of this country at Paris, and in striking for higher wages, renders the following as a partial account of a year's expenses:

House rent in Paris per year.....	$12,000
Ambassador's coach and livery.....	5,000
Diplomatic dinners and entertainments.....	3,000
One ball per annum.....	2,000
Entertaining American naval officers.....	2,000
Attending State Department functions.....	1,000
Official presentations.....	2,000
Total.....	$27,000

To the poor people who have hard work to get enough to keep soul and body together these times, the above figures look somewhat extravagant. Just think of it! Five thousand dollars for coach and livery!

New York's Hill is a Hollow. And the income tax will not generate enough volcanic power to elevate the depression to a very great Hill again.

The exposition grounds in Detroit have been sold to a manufacturing company. That's a good thing for Detroit, but a mighty poor thing for the state fair society.

The republicans in the legislature set an example in choosing senators and officers that the Detroit council would do well to follow. Faction means defeat. It means it in Detroit.

The amount of the government deficiency for December, was $33,778,000! That is to say, the government ran behind that much during the month past. That much more was spent than was received. Do you grasp it?

Representative Kempf of this district, has introduced a bill legalizing the commitment of insane patients from other states in private asylums of this state. This is in behalf of the private asylum at Flint, which is an admirable institution.

Senator Patton comes out of the contest at Lansing with the respect of all with whom he came in contact. We shall now that the Republicans of the state know him better, expect to hear from him, as to know a man of his admirable qualities is to respect him. It is comforting to those of his friends who were anxious to see him get the nomination, to know that no unscrupulous methods are charged up to his campaign.—Jonesville Independent.

Every Ohio paper that comes to our table bears the following at the head of its editorial page:

For President in 1896,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
OF OHIO.

Just a little premature. McKinley is a grand man, but the people may conclude to take some one else for a standard bearer. When you get right down to business Michigan's senior senator would make an awfully good president.

By the record as published in the daily papers, whereby the Carlisle bill was defeated, by a vote of 124 yeas to 129 nays, the member from this district, Mr. Gorman, failed to vote. His name is absent. It is not even among the pairs. Perhaps his ideas have not settled down sufficiently so that he can tell "where he is at." He did not want to offend "the government," evidently, by voting against the bill, and didn't want to offend a large number of his constituents by voting for the bill, so he did the very common thing for statesmen to do—he dodged.

Gov. Flower has learned a lesson at this late day and his party would have saved many votes had he learned it earlier in his official career. He absolutely refused to pardon a man convicted of a crime against the ballot box. Gov. Hill injured himself and his party by insisting upon running a man for supreme judge of that state, whose fingers were smutted with dishonesty and who attempted to secure advantage for his party by upholding bare-faced frauds upon and theft of political rights. An outraged public will resent these things coming from whatever person or party they may. The majority always has and always will favor honesty.

Speaking of a skeleton found in a sewer trench at Ann Arbor, the bones of which were grabbed by students and taken to their various rooms, the Courier says: "It will be a hard job to get him together again on the day of resurrection." To one who has faith in the Christian religion, the flippant blasphemy of the Courier must be shocking, and even a worldly man would wonder that a "family paper" should adopt the tone and language of loafers.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

The Sentinel starts the above item off with a falsehood, and then wrapping its religious cloak around itself with congealed tongue and coagulated blood, frozen to the marrow, stands mute in pious horror at the flippancy of a contemporary! Ye Gods, what a sight!

Mrs. Bloomer, the lady who first gave conspicuity to the garments which bear her name, has just passed away at Council Bluffs, aged seventy-six. It can be said in all seriousness that few women of the century have made a deeper or more evident mark upon their times. It required a bold and original thinker—a sort of female Columbus—to concede that her sex had legs, and to put them even in muffled evidence. The reform is only beginning to take hold upon humanity. It is the complement of the bicycle, and it is growing. Mrs. Bloomer has built out of flannels a monument more enduring than brass.—Chicago Times.

The proposition to make one of the requirements of the commissioner of schools for a county to be three years' service as a teacher, is one that should not be passed by the legislature. The present requirements are sufficient. It is now very difficult to fill the position in many counties by the present requirements, make them still more difficult and it will be impossible to fill the position at all in many of our northern counties.

The new municipal charter bill which will be presented to the legislature for consideration this winter, seems to be meeting with general favor. It is deserved. There seems to be no valid reason why each of cities of Michigan should carry on its official business under a special charter. Michigan cities and villages are not so different in their needs and so varied in their characteristics that each needs a separate and distinct law of life. The unification of their charters will be a good thing, and one that will be appreciated by the people of the state.

Now the question is, who shall succeed Mr. Burrows in congress for the third district? Several citizens seem to be willing to make the sacrifice. Among them are Your Uncle Jimmie Monroe, Secretary of State Washington Gardner, Milo B. Campbell, Col. Janes, and Mr. Clapp, who nominated Mr. Burrows in the caucus. Although Uncle Jimmie is pretty well advanced in years to be looking for a seat in congress, he has not developed any political spavins or stiffness in any part of his anatomy, and the younger aspirants had best look out for "the hero of four and twenty battles."

Mr. James R. Randall, the Maryland author, has given much time of late to urging the theory that malaria is conveyed in impure drinking water and never by the air. He is especially distrustful of surface wells, and holds that they are at fault in what is termed malarious districts, as can be proved when they are disused and drinking water obtained from the rainfall or from an artesian source. If the whole of mankind could be supplied with pure water for drinking and cooking the rapid disappearance of several diseases would probably border on the marvelous.

If this democratic administration can overcome its abhorrence of foreign entanglements, it will ask for a full and definite explanation from the Sublime Porte of the outrage which has recently been reported by the American Board of Foreign Missions. We do not imagine that any Turkish official has the right to open the mail of one American citizen sent to another American citizen, even within the Turkish Empire, yet that, according to the dispatches published a few days since, is what has been done. If America is a country worth living in, or if it has a government worth preserving, the democratic officials at Washington ought to demonstrate those facts by injecting a little vigor into the foreign policy of the United States.

At last Ingersoll has been converted. He is a believer in part, at least of a hereafter. The last election did it. A number of years ago he remarked: "I shall believe in hell when Missouri goes republican." And Ingersoll never breaks his word.

The nine republicans who united with the democrats in the Detroit council to organize that body and to elect officers, were like the calf that ran its head so far into the jar for milk that was at the bottom, that the jar clung to its head and remained there until help came to the poor beast. The democratic jar is now fastened so tight on those republican committeemen that it is doubtful if any help will be able to remove it. Their heads are in the jaws of the democratic trap, and the spring is a stiff one.

Now is the time to advocate the laws which should be passed at the next session of the legislature, so we shall say a few words in regard to the law which we think ought to be enacted. A man who buys a farm for six thousand dollars is still five thousand dollars in debt for which he generally gives a mortgage, bearing five or six per cent interest. This man is worth according to this transaction one thousand dollars; yet as the law now stands he pays taxes on six thousand dollars, five thousand of which he does not own. The man who holds the mortgage it is supposed pays taxes on the mortgaged property also. This system of double taxation ought to be done away with. A man should be exempt from taxation to the amount of his indebtedness. Tax a man for what he is worth not for what he hopes to be worth. There are apparent objections exempting mortgaged property from taxation, we believe a better plan than the present one could be easily devised.—Leelanau Enterprise.

Both the president of the senate and speaker of the house in taking up their work echo the sentiment of their constituents when they speak in favor of a short session and the most thorough economy. The majority of the people, however, regardless of their political belief, do not mean when they talk economy, that necessary expenses are to be staved off as long as possible under this plea, leaving an accumulation of expense to be met in the future. This is not what a good business man would do in his own affairs, and is not true economy. The needs of the different state institutions should be provided for as they are actually shown, and enough money appropriated so that that the state need not be compelled to discount any of its resources to obtain ready money. In short, the financial affairs of the state should be arranged just as any well-to-do business man would provide for his own matters, and all this can be properly attended to in a short session of the legislature.—Jonesville Independent.

The Railroad Gazette of Jan. 4th shows a great decrease in car building in 1894 from that of 1893. (The decrease in number built is fully two-thirds.

"Reports from thirteen companies make the total of 695 locomotives for 1894 as against 2,011 built in 1893. It need hardly be added that these figures are unprecedented in the locomotive building in the United States. It is to be noted that over 80 locomotives of the total number built in 1894 were built for export. The record of the car builders is even worse than that of the locomotive builders. In 1894 only seven companies reported as having built any freight cars, the output being 17,029 cars. In 1893, 51,216 freight cars were built by 43 companies. There were 15 important building companies that did not turn out a single car in 1894. As to passenger cars, the returns show that 510 cars were built by eight companies, as against 1,980 built in 1893 by 14 companies."

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

What an Ohio Paper Has to Say About the Great Institution.

The following is an article in part,
which appeared in the Republican Press published in Cambridge, Ohio, by James R. Barr, who was a student in the University here during '78-9. It appears in the issue of Jan. 3, 1895:

The University of Michigan, located at Ann Arbor, is unquestionably one of the greatest institutions of learning in our country. It is the oldest of our state universities, and was opened in 1817, with two professors and six students. It now comprises the Department of Literature, Science and the Arts, the Department of Law, the Department of Medicine and Surgery, the Department of Pharmacy, the Homeopathic Medical College, the College of Dental Surgery, and the School of Music. Its support is derived from the proceeds of government and state land grants, from special legislative appropriations, from a one-sixth mill tax, and from the students fees.

There are about twenty buildings on the campus, among which are, the "Main Building," erected at a cost of $167,000; the Law building, which cost $50,000; the Medical building, costing $29,000; the Chemical building, the Dental building, the Civil Engineering building, the President's house, "Tappan Hall," the engineering Laboratory, the Laboratory of Physics and Hygiene, the Anatomical Laboratory; the Museum which cost $41,000; the Gymnasium, costing about $80,000; and the Library, which cost $100,000. In vital connection with the Medical schools, are the two large hospitals, located in the northeastern part of city. All the buildings on the campus are heated by a mammoth heating plant, which has just been completed, at a cost of over $50,000.
The Astronomical Observatory, located on the heights in the eastern part of the city is well equipped with modern improvements, many of which were made in Germany.

Notwithstanding the number of buildings already on the campus, others are being erected.

But the real glory and pride of those who are interested in the University of Michigan, are attributable, not to the number and immensity of the buildings, but to the magnitude of the Faculty, and justly so. Instead of the two instructors of half a century ago, there are now nearly two hundred.

At the head of the Faculty is President James B. Angell, L. L. D., whose administration began in 1871. His superior qualification, his sound judgment, and his marked executive ability, have been largely instrumental in winning for the University the great reputation which it deserves. In 1879 he was appointed Minister Plenipotentiary to China, to secure a revision of the Burlingame treaty, which he succeeded in doing. He was also one of the three United States Commissioners appointed in 1887 to arbitrate the fisheries dispute with Great Britain. As a speaker, Dr. Angell is fluent, and as a writer he is no less celebrated, than as a scholar and diplomat.

It is worthy of note that a great majority of the professors are writers who are recognized among educators, as authority on their respective subjects. Not only is the superiority of the Faculty recognized by the students, but the extraordinary aptitude of the students is also recognized—by themselves. The most of them, however, prove "the faith by their works," and come to the recitation room fully prepared for duty. Being founded upon the German university plan, the U. of M. differs materially from those schools patterning after the model English college, in that there are practically no restrictions placed upon the student, and he is left to be guided by his own sense of honor. There are nearly three thousand students enrolled at present, about one-fourth of whom are women.

Co-education began in 1870. Prior to that time, men only, were admitted, since then, however, men and women have matriculated under equal restrictions, and pursued their work with equal privileges. It is thought that almost any student can be accommodated here, as there are so many different courses from which to select.

It may be said, also, that the expenses necessarily incurred by a student, are comparatively light. The tuition for non-residents of the state is $65 for the first year, and $40 for each succeeding year. Owing to competition, board and room can be secured for $2.75
a week. Of course anyone who wishes to do so, can find board and lodging for which he will have to pay from $6 to $8 a week; but most of the students are not in quest of such places. Many partially defray their expenses by "waiting" on table, caring for furnaces, or doing such work as they can find to do, while a few, some out of desire to save their money, and others out of sheer necessity, defray their entire expenses
by their work.

Ann Arbor, with its population of ten thousand, exclusive of students, is strictly a college town. The moral and religious influences are many and strong.
Kindness and hospitality exist among the people in an unusual degree, and the new student, though he may be from the opposite side of the earth, is soon made to feel that he is welcome, and that, although he is "a stranger in a strange land," there is manifested by his new hosts, a common interest in his welfare.

INSTALLED FOR THE YEAR 1895.

Large and Enthusiastic Assemblage of the Relief Corps and Grand Army Post Last Evening.

The G. A. R. hall was taxed to its utmost capacity last evening to accommodate the members present, and, after refreshments were served, the installation of the officers of the corps was proceeded with, Past Commander Henry
S. Dean, acting as installing officer.

The ladies had their parts well learned, and the exercises were performed without a break. In fact, they outdid the Post in performing the duties assigned them.

Past Commander Dean also acted in the role of installing officer for the Post, and the exercises proceeded in the usual manner until the installation of the Quartermaster Sergeant was reached.
Comrade Dean having been elected to that position, could not install himself, and therefore called upon Past Commander Soule to perform the duty, without giving him the key to proceed with. However, Comrade Soule felt himself equal to the occasion, and between the two the oath of office was considerably extended, and proved to be much more pleasing at least than that laid down in the ritual.

Speeches were made by Comrade
Krapf, the newly elected commander;
Comrades Dean, Childs, Sessions, Soule, Dr. Smith, Mrs. Dean, president of the Relief Corps, and others.

Relief Corps announced that the Corps had chanced their days of meeting from the 2d and 4th Wednesdays to the 2d and 4th Tuesdays in the months, commencing at 2.30 p. m.—the same days
the Post hold their meetings, and Comrade Soule suggested that it would be far pleasanter if they would commence later in the day, and serve lunch for the Post, thus saving the comrades the trouble of going home to supper.

The treasurer of the Corps made a brief report of the work done for the past four years; of the amount of cash, produce and clothing furnished to destitute soldiers' families, the amount proving quite satisfactory, and closed by stating that the Corps now had on hand some $238. In this the Corps again leads the Post, as the Quartermaster's books show only a cash balance on hand of $204.

The exercises of the evening were very pleasant and instructive, and the organization adjourned determined that it should not be the last evening spent in that way.

Mrs. Chas. Root, Cedar Springs, Mich., was told by physicians that they could do nothing for her. After taking two bottles of "Adironda" she was able to do her own work and ride to town to do her shopping. Sold by John Moore.

EVENING EDUCATIONAL CLASSES.

Y. M. C. A. will Carry on an Evening School Together with Its Other Good Work.

Although the educational advantages offered in Ann Arbor are many for those who must spend the day in manual labor, there are few opportunities to improve them. The Young Men's Christian Association, in offering evening classes, is therefore supplying a real need. Only a few lines of work will be taken up this winter, but if these are well patronized they will another year be supplemented by greatly extended courses.

The classes which will begin work
next week are as follows: Monday evening, penmanship and book-keeping, taught by Edward Seyler; Friday evening, conversational German, taught by J. A. C. Hildner, of the University; Saturday evening, short hand, taught by O. E. Wagner, of the Commercial and Stenographic Institute. The association is also willing to give courses in mechanical drawing and in common arithmetic if the demand is sufficient.

These classes will be free to members of the association, but non-members will be charged the nominal sum of $1.50 for each course elected. Each class will meet once a week and continue for sixteen weeks. All who desire to enter should register as soon as possible with the general secretary, who may be found at the office any evening.

ESTATE OF LUCY W. MORGAN, DECEASED.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw.
At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, held at the Probate
Office in the city of Ann Arbor, on Wednesday, the 9th day of January, in the year one thou-

In the matter of the estate of Lucy W. S.
Morgan, deceased, Edward D. Kline, one of the executors of the last will and testament of said deceased, having resigned his trust as such executor, comes into court and rep-

Milan is to have a new veneering factory established there, the machinery for which has already been shipped.

There have been about $25,000 worth of improvements added to Northville's business blocks and residences the past year.

The Dundee Ledger makes a plea for the adoption of standard time. That would be too convenient, altogether, the people couldn't stand it.

The title on the outside reads: "The Novi Record." The headings upon the inside pages read: "The Northville Record." The reading matter reads "like the Northville Record used to." Perhaps its all right, anyway, only it struck us as being unusual.

The postage stamps of the present administration curl up like the sacred sun-burnt grass leaflets of drough stricken Nebraska. We have heard many remark: "What ails the new issue of postage stamps? they curl up so." Grover or Hill must have breathed on them, everything seems to be blasted that they have touched, even the Tammany ring itself.—Howell Herald.

Here are some facts from Mississippi that may give our supervisors a few points if they need any: The supervisors of Bolivar county, Mississippi, draw mileage from their journeys to the county seat, and the record reveals the following charges: Stephens 152 miles; Lovingood, 42 miles; Murrell, 52 miles; Beever, 200 miles; Wises, 162 miles. Thus one county in Mississippi is almost as large as the whole state of Rhode Island.

D. W. Barry, county drain commissioner, has made his final order establishing the proposed drain north of this village and has named it "Mill Lake Drain." He was here Tuesday and Wednesday preparing the assessment district.—Chelsea Standard.

As Captain M. T. Woodruff was leaving Light Guard Hall last evening, he was given a written petition for his resignation at once as Captain of Company G. The petition was signed by thirty-eight members of the company and is reported to be an outcome of dissatisfaction with Woodruff at camp last year.—Ypsilantian.

Be a good neighbor. It doesn't cost in dollars and cents near what Mr. Penurious Pod calculates. A generous heart grows always, and the more he grows, (judiciously of course,) the better qualified is he to see how and where he can make his business grow.—Fowlerville Observer.

The village of Chelsea and the township of Sylvan should join together in purchasing a stone crusher, and thus be able to make roads that would last forever.—Chelsea Standard. Another generation has got to come up and get hold of things in this county before any road work will ever be done. The present one is "dead agin' it."

A Washtenaw county man at 76 is in the clutches of the officers, the meshes of the law and the county jail, all for stealing a cow of the Jersey breed. He sold the cow over in an adjoining county, then after a while he wandered back for further inspection of dairy plants. That's where he made a bull of it, for he wasn't sharp enough to steer clear of Mike Brenner, the Italian sheriff, hence his arrest and entry into Ann Arbor select society.—Dexter Leader.

Benj. Becker is organizing a class of about twenty boys and young men with which he expects to shortly organize a brass band. Mr. Becker has been for the past ten years engaged in teaching bands and was several years connected with a state institution in Illinois. There is little doubt but that if Ben's patience and the boys' wind hold out, Dexter will have as soon as possible an excellent band.—Dexter Leader.

Aunt Dinah Posey, for so many years a resident of this city, where she has lauded the linen of many of our citizens from their early youth, died in Detroit last Saturday. Auntie Posey was formerly a slave, and escaped bondage before the war. Her age is not known, but it certainly can not fall far short of the century mark.

The remains were brought here for interment.

A little four years old daughter of Nicholas Webber, of Dexter was fatally scalded the other day by tipping a kettle of boiling water over onto itself.

This account of a New Year's picnic comes to us through the Northville Record, but without any affidavits accompanying it. It is true, of course or the Record would not record it: "Editor and Mrs. Slocum of Holly gave the clergy of that village, with their families, a New Year's dinner party. Slocum felt a little out of place and several times when a leg or a wing of the turkey escaped from his fork and slid, with a liberal amount of grease, clear across the table he was on the point of saying a word which is newspaperly spelled with a lower-case h and a 3em dash, but was fortunately checked each time by Mrs. Slocum's quiet, but decisive, "James!"

When the clergy sat down to the table they remarked that the dinner "was out of sight." Slocum who was counting on enough feed being left over to carry the family along for a few weeks, made the same remark after the appetites of the clergy had been satisfied."

Mrs. Ellen O'Hara, aged 88, died Jan. 9, at the home of her daughter Mrs. Conley, in Webster. She had lived in Scio over 60 years.

Mrs. Mary Harrison Wheeler, wife of John C. Wheeler, died Jan. 3, at her home in Webster. The couple were married June 14, 1849, have had five sons and this is the first death in the family.

An editor is a man who lives on what other people owe him till he starves to death. A subscriber is one who takes the paper and says he is well pleased and he tells everybody else "you ought to subscribe." After he has subscribed two years and a half, the editor writes to him to let him have $2.50 and the subscriber writes back to the editor and tells him not to send his old paper any more for there is nothing in it, and then the poor editor goes and starves some more.—Northville News.

Swindlers are said to be working the country school directors in this State. They claim to represent H. R. They visit the directors singly, ask them to sign orders for the new books, and the orders later turn up as promissory notes.

The Southern Washtenaw Farmer's Mutual Fire Ins. Co. has paid $256.66 losses during the year, of which only $40 worth occurred during the year, the balance of $216.66 occurring during the previous year. Total expenses for the year $317.31. Total membership 297. Total risks $696,955.

Mrs. Judge Babbitt, on behalf of the W. R. C., of Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Mary A. Starkweather on her own behalf, have signed the contract for the new Soldier's Monument for that city. The Sentinel says of it: "The design is one selected from a number by Mrs. Starkweather, and is both simple and handsome. An octagonal base supports a shaft, which is surmounted by a neat capital, the whole forming a pedestal for a statue of a standard bearer in the act of drawing his sword to defend his colors."

The statue, which will cost $1,500, is the gift of Mrs. Starkweather, who has increased the amount of her beneficence to that extent." There do not appear to be any Mrs. Starkweather here in Ann Arbor. If there are any they are very modest about it.

I. O. O. F. HALL, MILAN.

The new Odd Fellow hall at Milan, which was dedicated last Thursday with such great eclat, is thus described by the Leader, of Jan. 11th:

"On the 4th day of December, 1893, the present site of the new Odd Fellows' Temple was occupied by a two-story building owned by Mrs. P. A. Kelsey. On the morning of the 5th this building, together with its two neighbors on the east, was a mass of ruins. The big fire had swept them away in its fury, leaving desolation and loss in its track. Mr. Kelley began rebuilding his store at once, and purchased the Vescelius property between his and Mrs. Kelsey's lot and built another store now occupied by Dr. Harper's drug store."

"The Odd Fellows, whose term of lease in the Blackmer block would expire in a few months, now conceived the idea of purchasing Mrs. Kelsey's lot and erecting thereon a home for themselves. A committee was appointed to solicit funds among its members and others to purchase the property, and success crowned their efforts. From that time on the project has been pushed on with indefatigable energy by every member of Wolverine Lodge, and there now stands before you the completed building, and, as the illustration shows, it is a handsome one, a credit to the fraternity and the village. The cost of the entire building, furnishings, etc., will probably be close to $5,000."

"In addition to the lot purchased of Mrs. Kelsey a strip of land 4x100 feet on the west was donated the Lodge by Archy Gauntlett, the deed conveying the same stipulating only that the property should never be used for saloon purposes."

"The building committee having charge of this enterprise is composed of Nelson Taylor, Aaron W. Sanford, George Sherman, H. L. VanWormer, C. M. Blackmer, J. S. Bray, Asa Whitehead, and Wm. Lee."

"The building is 27x90 feet on the ground. The lower story is fitted up for a store the entire size of the building, and is to be occupied about the 20th inst. by J. M. Putnam & Co., better known as the "Racket Store."

"The second floor has a parlor 20x26 feet, banquet hall 20x51 feet, kitchen 12x24 feet and a closet, besides the hallway, and will be used for all the social purposes of the various I. O. O. F. orders."

The third floor is for lodge purposes only. The lodge room is 26 1/2 x 48 feet; ante-room 11x27 feet; waiting-room 11x13 feet; and three parapheralia rooms about 8x15 feet each, besides a small closet."

A new carpet occupies the floor of the lodge room and parlor. The ante-room and waiting-room are also carpeted; and new chairs have been added. The dedication is now being held.

The proper thing now is 'he's cutting ice.' Not 'he's sawing wood.' See!

In the new apportionment of delegates to the republican county convention, which are apportioned on the total vote for governor at the last election, there is a loss of 26, the precincts losing being as follows: Ann Arbor city—2d, 5th and 6th wards, Augusta, Bridgewater, Lyndon, Manchester, Pittsfield, Salem, Saline, Scio, Sharon, Superior, Webster, Ypsilanti city—1st, 2d, 3d, and 5th wards, each one; Ann Arbor town, Lodi, Ypsilanti town, and Ypsilanti town, and Ypsilanti city—4th ward, each 2. No precinct in the county made a gain.

The Official Notice is Here.

Postmaster Beakes received official notice this morning of the allowance of two more carriers for this office. These will be foot carriers not mounted, as stated yesterday. But just the same it puts this office in splendid shape to handle the immense quantity of mail matter that comes to this office, and do it within the time prescribed.

At present the carriers all leave the office for their morning delivery between 7:40 and 8 o'clock. Just after they depart seven mails are received at the office, which have to wait, of course, until the afternoon delivery. Now it is proposed to put on one carrier who will have the business part of the city to attend to alone, and who will make several deliveries each day.

The routes of all the carriers will be re-arranged somewhat, and it is believed much better satisfaction will be given.

This is very fortunate for the people of Ann Arbor, and especially fortunate for Mr. Beakes, who no doubt appreciates having a friend at headquarters.

Columbian Organ Program.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Callouette, Druggist, Beaverly, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store, I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's Drug Store, and Geo. J. Heausler, Manchester.

C. Baluss, who has been up in the north woods hunting, returned Saturday. Among the other game that he brought back was a savage looking wild cat, that might make one nervous to meet alone in the woods. #### THE ONWARD MARCH of Consumption is stopped by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there is complete recovery and cure for us we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N.Y.

Drs. W. F. Breakey, P. B. Rose and W. W. Nichols were re-elected trustees of the M. E. church last night, and Major W. C. Stevens was elected to take the place of A. L. Noble. The treasurer's report showed over $1,000 spent on improvements to the church during the year.

They have been accumulating these shoes for a number of years, and have a collection that in point of bringing good luck ought to overwhelm the entire force with fortune.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ann Arbor Agricultural Co. this forenoon, the following gentlemen were elected directors: Moses Seabolt, Fred Schmid, Evert H. Scott, Eli W. Moore, Chas. S. Denison, Junius E. Beal, John Finnegan. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Evert H. Scott was elected president, John Finnegan secretary and treasurer, Eli W. Moore general superintendent. The annual reports were read and the business reported good during the year, considering the terrible year.

The plan of having a city lock up is a good one, and the common council decided last night to establish one in the firemen's hall building. The fines and fees will then go to the city, making it more than self sustaining. The justice can sentence a drunk or any one else breaking city ordinances to hard labor. Let the tramps and drunks pay for their breakfasts by saving and splitting wood back of the engine house, for the city poor, or running a stone crusher for use in the streets.

At the annual meeting of the Washenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Company, held last Wednesday at the court house, the following directors were re-elected: John F. Spaford, of Manchester; Wm. Campbell, of Pittsfield; and Edwin Ball, of Webster. For auditors: H. W. Bassett, of Lodi; J. W. Wing, of Scio; A. W. Chapman, of Sylvan, were elected. There was a lively time at the meeting this afternoon, over the election of the third director, the northwestern part of the county making a plucky fight for a place on the ticket but owing to the division of the county into districts, they were not successful.

One of the most common reasons given by merchants for not advertising is that "business is too dull," as well decide not to eat, because you are too hungry. The only possible object for a merchant in advertising is to improve his business. If a dealer has all the business he cares to do, there is no use to advertise. If a man is so sick that there is no use of his taking medicine, there is little hope for him. Similarly, when a man's business is so poor that advertising will not stimulate it, he wants to keep his eye out for the sheriff or something is liable to happen.

That there have been no disasters in Ann Arbor from her many public halls is to the credit of good fortune and not to the provisions of the builders of the halls with modes of exit. There is not really a safe public hall in Ann Arbor in this respect, not even University Hall, and any agitation that will bring about any greater provisions, for the saving of human life, in the event of a panic, is a good thing. Two halls in the city are especially dangerous in the event of a scare, one is Newberry Hall, where the stairways are so narrow and cluttered up that no power on earth could save an audience in the event of a stampede. It would be simply a carnage. And the Light Infantry armory is not much better. There should be provisions made in each case for better exits. There are other places also. The new Y. M. C. A. rooms, though on the 2d floor, are reached only by a single narrow stairway, and there might be serious results therefrom. A back stairway could be easily put up, at slight expense, and might, possibly, save many lives. And these are not the only ones by any means.

Deputy Alexander, of the Register of Deeds office, was called into court with his books to prove the record on a deed, Tuesday, and by a curious coincidence the piece of property in question was one that his, Alexander's father, transferred to the party April 11, 1856. As the date was 10 years before the present deputy was born, he does not remember a great deal about that transaction.

It is rumored that the Young Mens, Sunday Evening Club of the Congregational church contemplate giving a social in the near future and have voted to cook all the dishes thereof themselves. They are spending their spare moments now a days studying the cook book and quizzing their wives and "best girls" as to the ingredients of toothsome dishes. Their guests will doubtless have an opportunity to taste some novelties in the cooking line.

It may not be generally known that Ex-President Harrison will not appear this year in the lecture course, as it was at first hoped. The ex-president wrote the S. L. A. management some time ago, that it would be impossible for him to find time to get together a lecture such as he would like to give here. He wrote that he had several ideas in his mind that he was going to incorporate into a lecture when he found time. The worthy gentleman need not feel bashful about coming up here with one of his old speeches. In fact he may bring along one of his inauguration addresses, the one for instance, that he never had a chance to use. But perhaps those are the notes that he is waiting to make into a speech.

Let us hope these have all "sworn off." The crank who opposes all public improvement for fear it will increase his taxes or benefit some one else more than himself; the sneak who spends his time circulating stories derogatory to the social or business standing of his fellow men (and there are many of them); the ladies who hold a street car full of people for five minutes while they are kissing and adorning their friends to "write, sure;" and the people who get in the end of a row of seats at an entertainment and at its close take a half hour or so to put on their wraps while all the people in the row are nervously waiting for their impolite actions to cease, that they may make their exit from the hall before the lights are turned out.

The Supreme Court Decides That Mrs. Fillmore Cannot Collect Her Claim This Way.

On Wednesday last the Supreme Court handed down a decision that will be of great interest to the local tent of Maccabees, and probably be the means of saving the great camp a considerable expenditure of money.

About two years ago Catherine M. Fillmore, of this city, widow of the late Ald. Fillmore, of the Third ward, brought action against the local camp to recover on a policy held by her late husband. She asked the court to set aside the order made just previous to his death expelling him.

Mr. Fillmore joined the order in 1885, and at that time one of the by-laws provided that no member should be connected in any way with the sale or manufacture of spirituous liquors. A later rule was passed which stated that a member who violated this rule should forfeit his membership and all benefits accruing thereto, and that no officer of any tent should accept dues and assessments from him.

PURCHASED BREWERY STOCK.
Afterward Fillmore became the owner of $5,000 worth of stock in a brewery. Action was taken to expel him, but he subsequently paid one assessment, but was notified that it could not be treated as such and would be paid back on demand. It was not forwarded to the great camp. Fillmore soon died and the widow was informed that her claim was worthless on account of the above rules. She sued for the amount of the policy. The Supreme Court dismissed the complaint and reversed the decree of the Circuit Court, allowing the claim.

The Supreme Court says that the basis of the widow's claim is the endowment certificate, which provides for the payment of $2,000 to her, provided the assured shall in every particular comply with the rules and regulations of the order. The conditions were: Satisfactory proof of the death of her husband; surrender of the certificate; that he had in every particular complied with the rules and regulations of the order.

Among the first allegations of Mrs. Fillmore's bill is that of compliance by her husband of all the rules and regulations. The denial of this raised the question of fact upon which her right to the fund depends, and this question the association claimed could not be tried by the tribunals of the order, and that the decision of the latter is final.

Section 83 of the rules and regulations of the order is cited as sustaining this contention. It is as follows:

"The executive committee shall have power to pass upon all death claims, and if in their judgment any such claim is not valid on its face they shall notify the beneficiary or beneficiaries of the deceased member thereof, and give them or their attorneys an opportunity to appear before such committee within ninety days thereafter and present such evidence as they may have to establish the justness of the said claim, and such decision will be binding on such claimant unless an appeal be taken to the great camp. The notice of the appeal from the decision of the committee must be filed with the great record keeper within sixty days thereafter. The decision of the great camp in all such cases shall be final and no suit in law or equity shall be commenced or maintained by any member or beneficiary against the great camp."

PROVISIONS ARE BROAD.

The court says that the provisions of this section are broad. If the language means anything it is that all who have death claims must submit them to the executive committee, and that its decision, or that of the great camp, if an appeal be taken, shall be final.

The contention of Mrs. Fillmore's counsel that this section means that if the beneficiary sees fit to submit a claim to the tribunals of the order the decision is final, but if she does not choose to do so the courts have jurisdiction, which is equivalent to saying that a beneficiary may appeal to either at her option, the court says, does violence to the language. The section gives power to the executive committee upon all death claims, in express language. If they question the validity thereof, they shall notify the beneficiary, and give an opportunity to be heard. This was done in this case, or if it be contended that it was not regularly done the right of a hearing remains under this section. It was claimed, however, that this section cannot be literally construed because it is opposed to public policy that a citizen should be denied the privileges of the courts, and the case appears to have turned upon this point in the circuit court.

This question the court says, as applied to mutual benefit associations is not a new one in this state. It was passed upon in the recent case of Hemmer versus the Great Camp, and was elaborately discussed by Justice Montgomery, and authorities cited. The opinion says, therefore, that it must be considered settled that the section referred to is valid and does not so far contravene public policy as to permit parties who contract with reference to it, or their privies, to seek relief in the state courts, rather than in those of the order.

ALLEGED FRAUD.

The bill of complaint also alleged fraud on the part of the order, and it was further contended that Mrs. Fillmore's case had been prejudged, and that there were sufficient reasons to entitle her to relief in equity. As to the question of fraud, the court says it may be passed with the remark that the evidence shows no bad faith on the part of the order or committee. If not satisfied with the decision of the committee, the case may go before the order itself, the great camp, which presumably, at least, will be disposed to do justice. The great camp had taken no action in this matter. The most that can be said is that the great commander, upon request of Fillmore's local tent undertook to expel Fillmore, and later the executive committee notified the widow that, in their judgment the claim was invalid. The court says that in this there was nothing to disqualify the great camp, and that the widow should have prosecuted her claim before the tribunals of the order in accordance with the contract made by her husband when he became a member. The decree of the circuit court was, therefore, reversed and the bill of complaint dismissed.

How Antitoxines are Developed.

The new treatment of diphtheria is a practical application of the latest advances of experimental bacteriology. The general facts upon which it is based are briefly these: Certain bacteria, when developing in the organism of an animal or man, produce an albuminoid poison called toxine, which, circulating in the blood causes disease. For example, the Klebs-Loeffer bacillus, growing in the throat of a child, generates a toxine that produces the systematic condition called diphtheria.

If some of these bacteria be removed from the organism and placed in artificial media, such as broth, under proper conditions they will grow and multiply and produce the same toxine as before. This toxine may be separated from the bacteria by filtration, and if introduced into an organism by inoculation it will produce the disease as readily as if it had been formed in the organism. But the virulence of the disease thus produced will vary with the quantity of the toxine injected. Moreover, if the first dose given is so small as to produce only slight illness, a larger quantity may be introduced a few days later without producing a corresponding effect; and progressively larger doses may be administered from time to time, until at last the animal receives with impunity, doses many times larger than could possibly be borne at first.

In the case of the diphtheria toxine, for example (obtained, as has been said, by growing the diphtheria bacillus in meat broth), if fifteen drops of filtrate containing the toxine be injected into a vein of a horse, the animal will be severely poisoned. But by repeating the injection from time to time in progressing doses, at the end of three or four months the animal will bear a dose of two hundred times the original quantity. In other words, the animal has become immune to the disease.

If now a vein of the immune animal be opened and some blood withdrawn, the serum of that blood (the other constituents being removed) may be injected into the system of another animal or human being without ill effect, and the animal or human being thus inoculated becomes immune to the disease, in virtue of the inoculation. More than that, if the organism inoculated had already acquired the disease, the inoculation, within reasonable limits, is curative. For example, if a child has been exposed to diphtheria, inoculation with the serum of a horse rendered immune to diphtheria as above described will prevent development of the disease. At a later stage inoculation tends to cure the disease.

These are the facts as applied in the new serum treatment of diphtheria.—Harper's Weekly.

Ann Arbor is Interested in This.

The January number of the Song Journal is one of great neatness and attractiveness, and to the people of Ann Arbor one of great interest. The front cover page contains a beautiful picture of the Columbian Organ, the picture being so true that it shows even the spot above the organ caused by the rain at one time discoloring the wall. The number is handsomely printed on the very best of paper. It contains a complete description of the great organ, and it also contains excellent portraits of Gov. Rich, President Angell, Gen. Alger, Prof. Kelsey, Prof. Stanley, Alberto Jonas, Gardner S. Lamson, Prof. Reuben H. Kempf, and Prof. Rosseter G. Cole, all excellent portraits. Eight of these large pages are devoted to Ann Arbor, its big organ, and noted musicians. Besides this Journal has a number of excellent pieces of music that alone are worth far more than the price of the issue.

Mr. Wilcox the new editor and manager is making a grand publication out of this magazine, one that has already taken its place in the very front rank of all similar publications in America.

Outside Aid Not Needed.

As many of our citizens have been asked to donate money and provisions for sufferers in Nebraska, a little information respecting matters and things there may be of interest to our readers.

Mr. A. G. Kingsbury, who has been a resident of that state for several years, and who has quite an extensive law practice at Ponca, Neb., is a member of the senior law class, coming here a short time ago to perfect himself in some branches of the profession. He has letters from judges of the courts and other prominent people, showing his standing at home as a citizen, and you feel after talking with him a little that what he says can be thoroughly relied upon.

Mr. Kingsbury is inclined to be indignant over parading the poverty of that state, and denies it. He says that in a few counties of the state there may be some distress because of the failure of crops this year, but there is nothing that the people of Nebraska can not and will not take abundant care of.

A copy of the Republican, published at Wakefield, Nebraska, of Dec. 20, '94, has been handed us by Mr. Kingsbury, containing the report of the State Auditor of Nebraska for the past year, which shows that in nearly all parts of the state the amount of products raised and shipped were ahead of 1893, and closes with these paragraphs:

"These figures do not begin to tell all the story of Nebraska's wealth and resources."

"The facts are that even this year when drought prevailed over the most of the northern half of the United States, Nebraska raised a crop sufficient for the actual needs of her people, except in the sandy regions above referred to. And we believe that our people will take care of all the worthy poor within our borders without asking assistance from other states."

SOME THINGS THEY DID.

At the W. M. F. I. C. Annual Meeting Wednesday P. M.

The Courier of yesterday only had time to give the result of the election of officers for the annual meeting of the Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co., held at the court house.

There were several other matters that came before the meeting. One was the case of David Rockwell, of Sylvan. His claim was for barns burned in December 1893, which claim was rejected in Feb. '94, by the unanimous vote of the board of directors, because it was shown that he had no title interest in the buildings at the time of the fire—he having deeded them to his wife a year or so previous, and no notice of the transfer of title was given the company. The meeting decided to place this claim—for $800—that any member may pay it or not as he chooses, ordering it assessed separately by the secretary.

This disposition of the case may be a just one, but it is pretty hard on the secretary, whose work it doubles, while the explanation to each member as he comes in to pay his assessment will be something enormous. Secretary Childs should secure an audiphone at once, get the story all told in that, and when a person comes in to pay, just press the button and let the talking machine do the rest. There is no other way possible to do the talking necessary, for a human being can ever do it.

Another case was that of Wm. Robbins, of the township of Augusta, who had made application to the company for insurance, and there was delay on the part of one of the directors in making the survey, and before the company's official got around to Robbins's place, lightning struck his house and damaged it to the extent of about $20. It was decided that the directors should allow him a just compensation for damages sustained. Which was generous on the part of the stockholders.

The resisted claim of Paulina Marken, of Lodi, for $37.23, was brought up and allowed. Her claim was for personal property burned in a building in which a stove pipe had been run through the side of a building without entering a chimney, which was against the rules.

The claim of Wm. Long, of Sylvan, for a wagon burned on his premises, belonging to Jas. Runciman, a member of the company, was considered. The claim was for $26.66. The directors disallowed the bill because the property was destroyed while off the owner's section, but the meeting ordered it paid.

The compensation of officers was fixed, for directors $2 per day, and for secretary $500 per year.

Two features of the meeting were the unusual quietness of Populist Peters, of Scio, and the usual activity of Populist Nordman.

Wm. Campbell had a close shave in his re-election, as director, having only one vote to spare. But then one is as good as a thousand.

Edwin Ball was only elected on the second ballot, he then having a majority of six.

The directors held a meeting after the annual meeting was through with, in the office of the secretary. At this meeting a president and secretary were elected. The former president, J. F. Spafard, of Manchester, absolutely refused to serve longer as president, and he moved that Emery E. Leland, of Northfield, be chosen president, which was passed unanimously.

W. K. Childs was re-elected as secretary.

This closed the day's business, which was one of considerable activity and hustling.

How Time is Counted.

This year is 365 days, five hours and forty-nine minutes long; eleven minutes are taken every year to make the year 365 1-4 days long, and every fourth year we have an extra day. This was Julius Caesar's arrangement. The eleven minutes taken from the future and are paid by omitting a leap year every 100 years. But if a leap year is omitted regularly every hundredth year, in the course of 400 years it is found that the eleven minutes taken each year will not only have to be paid back, but that a whole day will have to be taken up. So Gregory XIII. who improved Caesar's calendar in 1582, decreed that every centennial year divisible by four should be a leap year, after all. So we borrow 11 minutes each year more than paying our borrowings back by omitting three years in three centennial years, and square matters by having a leap year in the fourth centennial year. Pope Gregory's arrangement is so exact, and the borrowing and paying back balance so nicely, that we borrow more than we pay back to the extent of only one day in 3,866 years.

Harper's Magazine

THE SIMPLETONS, a new novel by Thomas Hardy, will be begun in the December number, 1894, and continued to November, 1895. Whoever may be one's favorite among English novelists, it will be conceded by all critics that Thomas Hardy stands foremost as a master artist in fiction, and THE SIMPLETONS may be expected to arouse enthusiasm not inferior in degree to that which has marked Tribby—the most successful story of the year. Another leading feature will be the PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS OF JOAN OF ARC, by the Sieur Louis de Conte, Her Page and Secretary, among which give the most popular of living American magazine writers will present the story of the Maid of Orleans. In the January number will appear a profusely illustrated paper on the CAROLINAS AND THE CAROLINAS, the first of series of Southern Papers.

Northern Africa is attracting more attention than at any other time since it was the seat of empire. The next volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE will contain four illustrated articles on this region, and three of them will depict present life there. JULIAN RALPH will prepare for the magazine a series of eight stories, depicting typical characters of Chinese Life and Manners. Besides the long stories there will begin in the January number the first chapters of A THEATRE NOVELLETTE, by RICHARD HARDING DAVIS—the longest work yet attempted by this writer. Complete short stories by popular writers will continue to be a feature of the magazine.

Harper's Weekly.

IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the China-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. JULIAN RALPH, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. WELLS, the well-known American artist, and for many years resident in Japan who has been engaged to co-operate with Mr. RALPH in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

Fiction. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockade, a stirring romance of olden days by STANLEY J. WEYMAN, and a novel of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by BRANDEN MATHews—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers.

Annual Report of the Needlework Guild.

It has occurred to me that your readers, who contributed so generously to the Needle Work Guild of Ann Arbor, might be interested in a brief report of what has been done.

On Dec. 4th, 820 new garments were sent in for distribution, all of which were given to our own poor. The list included mostly stockings and warm underclothing, with a sprinkling of clocks, dresses, hats, shoes, &c.

Names of needy families were solicited from individuals, pastors of the various churches and the Charitable Union. Teachers of the ward schools also kindly assisted in furnishing names of pupils insufficiently clad. A meeting of a dozen ladies was called on Dec. 3d, to consider these names and classify them with reference to destination, striking out unworthy ones if any. Previous to this a good deal of work had been done to learn the number and ages of children with their greatest needs. These lists were of the greatest importance in the distribution, and were followed as far as possible. A complete record has been kept of garments distributed.

Although a few families have come to our notice since that time, it must be that nearly every needy family was remembered in some way—with warm stockings, or undergarments, or both, 100 families were helped. In some cases contributors asked that their donations be given to certain people. These requests were always honored. A few families were helped whose names have never appeared on the needy list, but they are hard-working people who could not earn enough to clothe their children properly. The help was given quietly and they will never know where it came from.

The only organized effort in behalf of the Guild is that of the King's Daughters of the Unitarian church. They have sent five warm comfortable, made by their own hands, to be given to any who need them, and they are working right on for next year's needs. May not this be a worthy example for other King's Daughters to follow, and I would like to suggest infant's outfits for our hospitals or private families, as something very much needed.

I have yet to find the first person who doesn't see great good in this movement at the least possible outlay of time and money. The organization calls for only one annual meeting, and two new garments from each member during the year.

Next year the distribution will occur the first week in November. The officers are:

Honorary Pres.—Mrs. James B. Angell.
President—Mrs. S. Perry.
Treasurer—Mrs. N. W. Cheever.
Secretary—Mrs. Elmer Cushman.

SECTION PRESIDENTS.

Mrs. A. C. McLaughlin. Mrs. Walter L. Taylor.
Miss Julia Roy. Mrs. Wrt Cornwell.
Mrs. Dolg. Mrs. Thos. J. Keech.
Mrs. Giles B. Lee. Miss E. Cora Duffy.
Mrs. Henry Dean. Mrs. Victoria Morris.

Each section president is entitled to four directors. I omit these names as I fear I have already taxed your courtesy too much.

Mrs. Walter Taylor collected the largest number of garments, and Mrs. Wrt Cornwell the next, both exceeding the requirement of 110 garments for each section president.

We are hoping for the full number next year, 1100 garments, but we must all feel that 820 garments for the few weeks we were at work made a most excellent showing, and I am sure that many people have been made comfortable during the winter who would otherwise have been cold, and many hearts have been cheered in the hard battle for a comfortable existence.

If there are those who desire to identify themselves with this work, they can give their names to any one of the above mentioned officers. I wish to again thank you for your kindness. Respectfully,

MRS. W. S. PERRY,
SENATOR WATTS WAS LUCKY.

He Drew three Chairmanships in the List of Senate Committees.

Rep. R. Kempf was made chairman of the house committee on public lands. He was also placed on the committees of private corporations and state public schools. Rep. J. B. Wortley was given places on the following committees: federal relations, northern asylum for insane and village corporations. Speaker Gordon disregarded precedent in the matter of minority representation on committees and gave Donovan the chairmanship of the federal relations committee besides places on the education, local taxation, normal school, rules and joint rules, state affairs, state capital and public buildings and ways and means committees. Donovan will have plenty to do.

Senator Watts drew three chairmanships, those of the committees on enrollment and enrolling, executive business and senatorial appointment. Besides this, he is on the finance and appropriations committees.

The best country paper published in Michigan is the Grand Traverse Herald. This is said without mental reservation whatever. It is not among the best. It is the best.

WHAT THEY ALL SAY.

Beautiful Women Give Some Wonderful Information Concerning Female Beauty. We do not Think it Will Take Women Long to Act Upon This Idea.

The poet and philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson says:

"If eyes were made for seeing, Then beauty is its own excuse for being."

Beauty of feature and elegance of form have ever been the desire of the feminine mind. And it is a perfectly laudable and natural ambition. Women are born to sway the hearts and minds of men as much by their beauty and attractiveness, as by the subtler charms of goodness and purity.

And yet, how few women attain the beauty which should be theirs, and in those few who are beautiful, how quickly their beauty fades! This is wrong. Women are naturally beautiful—at least of pleasing and attractive appearance—and in nearly all the cases where women lack these physical charms, the fault is their own.

Good looks and beautiful forms are entirely dependent upon good health. One must have strong nerves and pure blood to be beautiful. Failing to have these, is to fail of good looks and fine figure, and the woman who becomes broken in health, even in the slightest degree, will see her beauty gradually fade.

The moment women realize this, that moment will they understand that physical beauty is a matter within their own control. And just how it is, is told by Mrs. Frances Lytie, of 2 Hunter Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

"I was very pale and delicate," she says, "and had no color, and had female weakness with leucorrhoea, and suffered great pains at my periods. I am now well, thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My face is plump and my cheeks red, and my complexion pure. When I began the use of this remedy, I only weighed 81 pounds, and now I weigh 115 pounds and am still gaining. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a wonderful medicine. I have not had any trouble since I began taking it."

Miss Emma Marlatt, of Oxford, N. Y., says:

"I have been a sufferer for ten years, and the victim of a large tumor weighing twenty pounds, which I had removed, and I suffered untold agony for many months after."

"I tried the skill of many physicians, all of whom utterly failed to give me any relief."

"I then used that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and after using a few bottles I was entirely cured."

"To those who have been suffering from various diseases, and have failed to find any relief, I am, to-day, a living testimony and witness to the wonderful and marvelous curative powers of this great medicine. To persons suffering from various diseases, I earnestly recommend the use of this remedy if they would be cured. For further information the promoters went to the late Z. Roath and consulted with him about the advisability of starting such a society here. His answer was:

"Oh, no, boys, we do not need anything of the kind. Most of our members are young and healthy men, and it will be several years before we need such a society here. When we do, I will help you organize it," or words of like import.

All know the history of the next few days. Before the society could be formed he was taken ill, and death came to him before his friends could have received any benefits therefrom. He, of all the Masons in the city, was called before the presence of the Great Architect.

This shows how necessary it is to be prepared. No one of us should be so selfish as to not care what becomes of our friends after we are through with life. It is one of the sacred duties of every man having a family to provide something for them in case of his own demise. It is a duty that especially no husband or father is excusable for neglecting.

Many men can not by reason of physical defects, obtain life insurance. Here is an opportunity for every member of the Masonic fraternity to provide a sufficient amount at least so that his family or friends may give him a respectable interment.

The Association is growing with rapidity, and it should grow until every member of the Masonic fraternity in Ann Arbor is also a member of the Mutual Benefit Association.

Do not delay. Delays are dangerous.

And now the democratic majority in congress propose to double the tax on beer and thus add $30,000,000 to the treasury vacuum.

tion I will willingly, cheerfully and promptly respond."

Miss Delia T. Shea, of 210 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., makes the following statement:

"About seven years ago I began to feel very uncomfortable after eating, so much so that I found it impossible to keep the lightest food on my stomach. I grew worse for three months, so I was obliged to give up work and go to the hospital."

"I tried many remedies and doctors, but they did me no good. A friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

"I began using it, and after a week felt much better. When I had taken four bottles the weakness in my stomach was all gone, and I could eat anything without distress, while a short time before I found it impossible for weeks at a time to even drink a glass of milk and keep it in my stomach."

"I was unable to wear anything but a loose dress, and I did not go out of the house for months at a time. I am now cured of my troubles, and am well and strong. My cure is wonderful. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done what the hospitals, doctors and other medicines could not do."

"It is a splendid medicine, and I urge every suffering person to use it. I love to think of the good it is doing, and wish everyone who is not perfectly well would take it."

Miss Rose McCarthy, of 347 East 87th St., New York City, writes as follows:

"For a long time I was troubled with nervousness and violent headaches. I would lie awake nearly all night, and was in constant misery. Previous to this, my complexion was a very healthy color, but now it became very bad."

"I took three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and was entirely cured. My nervousness and headaches left me, my good complexion returned, and I slept perfectly. I can safely say to everybody who is suffering, just give it a trial, and you will be cured. I hope my statement will find relief for many people who do not know the benefit of such a wonderful medicine."

It is thus evident that women can get well—can secure perfect health, strong nerves and pure blood by using the great vital restorative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. If, therefore, women will maintain their health and strength by this remarkable medicine, we will guarantee them beauty of face and form, the bright eyes, pink cheeks and clear complexion of youth, and the rounded form, graceful lines and elastic step of vigorous physical development.

This remedy can be used without hesitation by all, as it is purely vegetable and is endorsed and prescribed by physicians; indeed, it is the prescription and discovery of our most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 13th St., New York City, who can be consulted at any time, without charge, personally or by letter.

The Lady or the Tiger.

Frederick C. Lee gave a very entertaining lecture last evening, before the Inland League, having for his subject "The Lady or the Tiger." The story of Mr. Stockton with this title, furnished the text.

The reading public will remember how that story ended, or rather failed to end. In the old time one form of trial was by placing a famished tiger in a cage at one side of an arena and at the other side a beautiful maiden, and if the accused chose the tiger, it was considered ample proof of his guilt, and was immediately devoured by the hungry beast. If he chose the cage with the lady, it was proof positive that he was innocent, and the lady became his bride.

The story having this title tells of a fine young man who aspired to the hand of the king's daughter. That was his only offense. But it enraged the king and he condemned the young man to the usual ordeal. In one cage was placed a beautiful maiden, a former sweetheart, in the other, the tiger.

The king's daughter in some way gained knowledge of what maiden had been selected for the cage, and was filled with jealous rage, and before going to the arena that day managed to ascertain in which cage was the maiden, and in which the tiger. As the condemned man entered the arena his eyes caught those of the king's daughter. Something in the glance convinced him that she knew the secret, and as he glanced toward her again, she indicated by her fan which cage to choose. Here the author leaves the story to let each reader complete it by his or her own imagination.

The lecturer gave many solutions, one of which was that the tiger was the king's daughter herself. Then he told of social tigers, and political tigers, and domestic tigers, and tigers of many kinds. He was pleasing in address and handled the subject admirably. All present felt that they had been well repaid for attending.

ANNUAL CHURCH REUNION.

A Very Pleasant One Given by the Unitarians Last Evening.

The annual reunion of the Unitarian church was held last evening when 125 sat down to a bountiful supper served at 6:30 o'clock. At the close two hours were delightfully spent by the company in listening to toasts, reports of work, music, &c. Prof. Pettie acted as toast master, introducing the various speakers in the happiest manner.

Mr. Robert Phillips, president of the Unity Club, gave a report of its work, speaking especially of the valuable influence of the club, in the community as a non-sectarian organization intending to break down sectarian principles, and in furnishing a broad and free platform where Protestant and Catholic, orthodox and liberal, college man and non-college man, can meet on an equality, and find a respectful hearing for their thoughts.

Mr. A. P. Gilmore spoke for the Young Men's Liberal Guild, telling of its monthly meetings for friendship and discussion of important socio-religious topics, its committees which are engaged in various lines of social, helpful and religious work, and its Sunday Bible class with a membership of over fifty.

Miss May Taylor reported for the King's Daughters, which is the largest organization of King's Daughters among college girls in the country. Besides the regular monthly meetings, partly for business and partly social, the organization has a Sunday Bible class of over thirty members, under the leadership of Mrs. Jordan, which is devoting the year to a study of the great spiritual teachers of the ages, and the leading charities and philanthropies of our day. There are five working committees or "tens." The Flower Ten, which furnishes flowers for the pulpit on Sundays; the Visiting Ten, which call upon strangers; the Lend a Hand Ten, which do charity work; the Sunday School Ten, which help in the Sunday School; and the Sewing School Ten, which conducts a sewing school in the church every Saturday afternoon, and help in the sewing school in the city.

Miss Ida Allen, who has charge of the church sewing school, gave an account of the excellent work in sewing for the poor that the school is doing.

Mrs. Pettie spoke for the Ladies' Union, putting her address very happily in the form of verse.

Mr. J. Sivert gave some very interesting reminiscences of his past life; Captain Danforth spoke of the value of a liberal church; Mr. J. T. Powers gave some illustrations of the value of a liberal church to students; Professor Mechem made an address that very happily blended wit and earnestness upon the subject of "Religion and Law;" Mr. W. K. Childs presented the business side of the church, and urged generosity in giving to its support; Mr. B. A. Finney followed in the same line; Mrs. Sunderland spoke upon the social side of the church.

The speaking was very pleasantly interspersed with recitations and music by Miss Sykes, Miss Millsbaugh, Miss Taylor, Miss Lucy Cole, and Mr. Flinterman.

Altogether the meeting was one of the pleasantest and most successful of the kind ever held in the church.

Beyond Comparison

Are the good qualities possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Above all it purifies the blood, thus strengthening the nerves; it regulates the digestive organs, invigorates the kidneys and liver, tones and builds up the entire system, cures Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Catarrh and Rheumatism. Get Hood's and only Hood's.

John Lary, '96 law, of Logansport, Ind., is missing. He left home something over one week ago to return to the University and resume his work, but up to the present time he has failed to put in an appearance. His chum has become anxious for his safety, and knowing that he left home with considerable money in his possession, it is feared that something of a serious nature has befallen him.

UNIVERSITY.

Bathing facilities in Waterman gymnasium will at once be increased.

Harvard, Yale and Pennsylvania are figuring on a track athletic meeting with Oxford and Cambridge, in England.

An ice polo team is the latest college athletic organization. Harvard has one that thinks it can beat anything on ice.

Chicago University has established thirteen University extension centers in Michigan.

Chicago University has $600,000 in sight with which to defray expenses for 1895-6. Mr. Rockefeller has just given $175,000 to this fund.

An inter-collegiate gymnastic association is on the tapis, and the local association is considering the advisability of being one of it.

By computations of the S. C. A., it has been ascertained that over one-half of the student body is affiliated with some church.

The junior lites have decided to hold a class social in the gymnasium. At least so says the U. of M. Daily. The date has been set for Jan. 25.

B. W. Newton, '94 lit., has just closed a contract with the Detroit Bridge Co., and will leave his graduate work to accept the position at once.

Prof. A. C. McLaughlin is preparing what will doubtless be an interesting paper on "The First Missionary of America," which will be read in Newberry hall, Sunday morning, January 20.

T. G. Grothers, '94 law, of San Jose, Cal., has met with a streak of luck that will be pleasing to his many old friends in Ann Arbor. By the will of the late Senator Farrar, of California, Mr. Grothers will receive from the Farrar estate, the sum of $25,000, and by the provision of the will he is made one of the four executors of the estate, which is estimated at from thirty to forty millions.

GIVEN A HEARTY RECEPTION.

Few speakers, as little known to an Ann Arbor audience as was Fred Emerson Brooks before his appearance last evening, leave the platform of University hall with the assurance that they have conquered the prejudices of a student audience. Yet this was exactly what Mr. Brooks did last night. He showed that he recognized his position, when he remarked that he "liked to speak before a student audience—when they liked to hear him." The interest in Mr. Brooks' recitations never flagged from his first selection to the last. His humor provoked unlimited laughter and applause, but his serious verse was none the less appreciated because it failed to draw out resounding plaudits. It appealed to the heart instead of to hands and feet.

Mr. Brooks remarked before his first selection, "The Chicago Fair," that he liked to read his own poetry, "in fact," he said, "I am the only one who ever does read it." Whether that be true or not, people like to hear him read it.

"The Chicago Fair" was an ingenious conglomerate of dialect, which was well rendered. The whole two hundred pounds of the poet's avoirdupois is in his elocution. In "The Lumberman of Calaveras," he has the old idea that Bob Burdette makes use of in "The Brakeman at Church," that is, of seeing characteristics of the various denominations in familiar objects. "Yosemite" was one of the best of the serious pieces, "Don't you think So Bill?" The only cheap element in last night's entertainment was the advertisement that Mr. Brooks gave his books, which he took occasion to say were on sale at a certain book store. Whether anyone asked him to do so or not, he had better left it to hand bills or the advertising column.

PRESIDENT HARPER'S IDEA.

In his regular statement to the trustees, professors and students of the University of Chicago, President Harper discusses the subject of athletics in the following sensible manner:

"Much ado is being made at the present time about college athletics. Because in some cases there have been exhibitions of brutality a hue and cry has been raised against some of the most popular forms of activity. It is the old story of use and abuse. That which may be abused must not be used. But the principle if carried out would work vast mischief. There is no virtue which may not be made a vice. Shall everything capable of abuse be given up or shall we not perform a greater service for the world by going forward under proper rules and regulations? We may grant that limbs are broken and lives lost; but we must remember that there is no form of life's activity which is not attended with risk. We close our eyes to all danger to life and limb when questions of business are concerned. If the world can afford to sacrifice the lives of men for commercial gain, it can much more easily afford to make similar sacrifices upon the altar of vigorous and unsullied manhood. The question of a life or of a score of lives is nothing compared with that of moral purity, human self-restraint, in the interests of which, among college men, outdoor athletic sports contribute more than all other agencies combined. If athletics have been prostituted by gamblers and pugilists, let the college world come to the rescue and assign them to the place to which they belong. We betide the day when our college men, without temptations of every kind besetting them, become slothful, so demoralized, so diseased, as to lose their interest in athletics. In the University of Chicago athletic work is directly and exclusively under the control of the University authorities. It will so remain. The University has encouraged athletic sports; it will continue to encourage them. We believe that this is the most important part of University life. We shall see to it, however, that no man upon a University team shall ever have the second opportunity to disgrace either himself or the University. [Applause.] At home or with the teams of other institutions we shall endeavor to cultivate a spirit that shall be in the truest sense elevating."

JOHNS HOPKINS FOR 1893-4.

The nineteenth annual report of President Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, covering the academic year 1893-94, has appeared. The statistical introduction shows that the academic staff numbered during the year eighty-three teachers, including seventeen in the medical school. The number of students enrolled was 522, of whom 260 came from Maryland, 240 from forty other states, and 22 from foreign countries. Among the students were 344 already graduated, coming from 143 colleges and universities. The degree of A. B. was conferred upon 41 candidates, and 33 received the degree of Ph. D. The following aggregated statistics are instructive: During eighteen years, 2,457 individuals have been enrolled as students. Of these 1,439 entered as graduate students and 1,018 as undergraduates. Of the undergraduates 232 have continued as graduate students, many of them proceeding to the degree of Ph. D. It thus appears that 1,672 persons have followed graduate studies there. Since degrees were first conferred in 1878, 422 have received the degree of A. B., and 310 the degree of Ph. D.

RES GESTAE EDITORS.

A meeting of the Res Gestae board was held in room 14 of the law building yesterday afternoon. The following were chosen officers of the board: Managing editor, Daniel F. Lyons; first assistant, J. W. Bingham; second assistant, W. M. Wheeler; business manager, S. C. Hubbell; first assistant, W. A. Keerns; second assistant, C. B. Henderson; secretary, W. O. McNary. The board discussed the methods of work, adjourning to meet at 4 p. m. Saturday. The Res Gestae board has organized with the brightest of prospects. The managing editor, Mr. D. F. Lyons, is a graduate of the literary department of the class of '94, is a gentleman of fine literary ability and has undoubtedly had closer relations with college publications than any other man on the board. S. C. Hubbell, the business manager, was formerly a member of '94 lit. His business qualifications eminently fit him for the position of business manager.

CRAZY FROM OVERSTUDY.

Claude E. Sheldon, a senior law, has gone crazy from overstudy. He continually labors under the delusion that he is drunk. His salutation to a friend who called on him yesterday that he had just drunk four gallons of whiskey.

Mr. Sheldon's case is a particularly sad one. He was a very bright student. He was taking work in the literary department with the expectation of getting the Master of Science degree next June. Besides this he was working hard on his senior law work, expecting to take the examination in March for admission to the bar in Ohio. He is a Ph. B. of Hiram College, Ohio. His home is in Windham, Ohio.

His father has been telegraphed for, to come and take his son home. It is thought that a prolonged rest will set him right.

County Officers' Bonds.

The bonds of County Clerk Dansingburg, with Fred A. Howlett and Arthur Brown as sureties to the county, and Jos. T. Jacobs and D. Fred Schairer as sureties to the state, were approved by the board of supervisors Tuesday.

Also the bond of Carlisle P. McKinstry as Register of Deeds, with Allan L. Nowlin and Chas. F. Barnes, both of Ypsilanti, as sureties.

Sheriff Judson presented his bonds which were approved, with Wm. J. Knapp, Wm. F. Rehmenschneider, Harmon S. Holmes, of Chelsea, as sureties.

Circuit Court Commissioner Butterfield's bonds with John F. Lawrence, as surety, and Fred Webb, with L. Gruner as surety, were also presented and approved.

It appears that the Board of Supervisors, by ordering the name of E. A. Hauser, of Saline, erased, vitiated the bond of County Treasurer Wm. F. Rehfuess, and that he is now obliged to do the work of securing bondsmen all over again. This is certainly a hardship, for it is no desirable thing to do, even once.

Keep your blood pure and healthy and you will not have rheumatism. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives the blood vitality and richness.

Any one having second hand clothing to spare can do a kind and charitable act by giving such garments to the Ladies' Charitable Union. The ladies know of many cases of actual destitution, and the calls upon the Union are greater than can be filled. There is a receptacle at Harris Hall for all such things. While you have plenty of others are suffering—remember the poor, for now is the time they need to be remembered.

Mothers.

"One good mother is worth a hundred schoolmasters," said George Herbert. Men are what their mothers make them. But if the mothers are peevish and irritable, through irregularities, "female weakness," and kindred ailments, they find no pleasure, no beauty in the care of their babes. All effort is torture. Let all such, who feel weighed to the earth with "weaknesses" peculiar to their sex, try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They will find the little ones a delight instead of a torment.

To those who are about to become mothers it is a priceless boon. It lessens the pains and perils of childbirth, shortens labor and promotes the secretion of an abundance of nourishment for the child.

LAMENTABLE LACK OF TRUTH.

It is a fact that the American people has scant respect for those whom it chooses to make, interpret and execute its laws. While an obsequious and slavish submission should be left to absolute monarchy, and though by the principles of free government, the agent of the people is no more to be revered than the citizen who delegates to him his functions as an officer, still a moderate amount of respect, an amount that at least calls for the exercise of the truth, is in the highest degree desirable. That this respect is not always accorded may have its explanation to a great extent in partisan politics. Yet partisanship is no excuse for under stating facts. The party organ that will vilify or calumniate a deserving public man is undeserving the support of any party. Partisan issues ought to be fought out on the open field of truth.

To call the agent of the people a rogue, when the people has just expressed its appreciation of him as a public officer, is to call the people rogues. And to cast reflection upon a man to whom the people openly, deliberately and advisedly commits the power to make its laws is to cast reflection upon the people itself. This is exactly what the New Washtenaw Post did last week in commenting upon the selection of McMillan as United States senator, from Michigan. It said, concerning the two selections for senators: "The merit of the first (McMillan) is that he is a millionaire, while the latter (Burrows) really has qualifications for the high office."

The plain inference is that Mr. McMillan's only or at least his highest merit, is that he is a moneyed man. Nothing could be farther from truth. His money had no more to do with his election than did the New Washtenaw Post. The people of the state were and are satisfied that Mr. McMillan is worthy, by virtue of his qualifications as a thorough, painstaking and honest man and legislator, of the high trust imposed upon him. That a man is a millionaire should be no hindrance to honest political preferment. If the people of Michigan had wanted someone in the place of McMillan, they would have said so. That he is the unanimous choice of an almost unanimous republican legislature should shield him from such slurs as the Post would cast. In slurring him that paper slurs the people also.

Let us have due consideration and respect for our public men.

The latest European alliance is said to embrace England, France and Russia. But just why England should desire such an alliance cannot readily be seen, as her interests and Russia's must conflict. Such an alliance cannot be a lasting one.
