OUR PRESENT CITY CHARTER.

What the Charter Tinkers are Proposing to do, and What Would Seem Reasonable to do.

There is considerable talk about making various and sundry amendments to the city charter, some of which are very good, and some of which are very bad.

To one who keeps thoroughly posted on city affairs it would seem as if the city charter needs few amendments in the interest of good government. The city never was managed better than it is to-day, under the present charter and any step tending to former methods under the old charter, is a step backward.

There are some changes, however, that could be made in the interest of the city, one of which is the power of appointment and removal of the entire police force of the city by the mayor, without hindrance from the council. This would put the entire responsibility upon the mayor, where it belongs. It now attempts to hold him responsible but divests him of authority.

There are two of the city officials who should be better paid. The city clerk and the city treasurer. With the latter a stated salary ought to be provided, and no collection fee charged tax-payers. If this is not done the fees should be changed from 1-2 to 1 per cent. The amount of work and responsibility now forced upon the treasurer is worth double the amount he now receives, which is about $600.

It would be a benefit to the city financially could a contract for lighting the city be made for more than one year.

The proposed change of the term of the mayor from one to two years, and then making him ineligible for re-election, is not particularly beneficial in any way. The proposition to do away with the president of the council and make the mayor the presiding officer, is a step backward.

The board of public works, and the other boards of the city government should not be touched or changed. They are all right, and under their supervision the affairs of the city have prospered, and been properly and economically taken care of. It is possible that an addition of two more members to the board of public works might be beneficial, but it is very doubtful. What especial benefit that would be, is difficult to perceive. It would only make two more to jangle over things, which is utterly useless.

The proposition to give the various wards representation in the council according to population would seem to be strictly just. Either that or the division of the city into more wards. It doesn't seem exactly right that the 1st ward, with its 500 votes should have only the same representation as the 5th ward, with its 200 votes.

There is one thing that appears to be evident. There are two extremes of opinion meeting in this charter changing business, and as that document takes the conservative middle ground between the two, it is probably quite safe as it is.

It is doubtful if our representative at Lansing could be induced to favor either side to any great extent, when a large majority of the people are content to let well enough alone.

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the greatest curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

PRETTY GOOD FELLOW AFTER ALL.

Tracy McGregor Puts in a Good Word for the Tramp—People are Unjust Toward Him—Ignorant Aid is no Aid.

Mr. Tracy McGregor's address yesterday morning in Newberry hall, on "The Tramp as I have found him," was of no small interest to the limited audience present. It was interesting because it presented a different view of the tramp than one is accustomed to see. And giving Mr. McGregor due credit for the experience he has had with the class concerning which he spoke, it cannot be denied that his view is more nearly correct, more human and more practicable than the orthodox way of looking at the matter.

In opening his address, Mr. McGregor made an appeal for more discrimination in dealings with the unemployed and dependent classes. He made the following analysis. Broadly speaking there are two classes: those who want work and cannot get it, and others who won't work if they can get it. The first class may be sub-divided once. First, there is the man who wants work, but does not care whether it is permanent or not. When he becomes at all dissatisfied with his place, his employers, or with his surroundings, he is ready and willing to drop his work, demand his pay, and move to pastures new. He has earned enough for immediate needs, and when his pocketbook is again empty he will seek a new job. This class is not entirely to be condemned. When they work they work well. They ask no one to support them. When they have to, they are ready to work.

The second subdivision of the first class is made up of those men who are out of work and are looking for a permanent place. They do not want to move about. Their situation is more to be pitied and demands even more intelligent sympathy than that of the first named sub-division.

There are also two subdivisions of the second class mentioned, that is, of those unemployed who won't work even when they have an opportunity. First, there are those whom we denominate as tramps. Their aim is to live honestly off other people. They would not steal, although they would occasionally borrow an overcoat. They simply have filed their objection to labor. Secondly, we have an element, larger than they are aware, that makes a living by systematic criminality. They despise work, and even scorn those who do work. Some of them are away up in their trade, others are away down in the scale. Some make a good thing out of it, others do poorly. They are all on the same level as to principle.

This was Mr. McGregor's analysis, which makes evident that the different men that make up the different elements need different treatment to get them into the ranks of honest workmen. Not nearly all of them are to blame for their condition and their situation. There are many causes for their position. Some of them date back to conditions of birth, others have arisen from the circumstances of life. Some are reasons within the man, others are without and beyond his control. The various conditions demands various methods of appealing to the man. You must trust them a little bit to get them started again. A great deal of the help extended is given so ignorantly that it had better not be given at all. Aid should be intelligently given or else withheld. In closing Mr. McGregor said that in all his experience he had had it more and more impressed upon him that the most efficient aid is always accompanied or animated by the principles of the Gospel of Christ. They must not be thrust upon men, but must be applied to each man according to his condition.

Edward Treadwell Passes Away.

At about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon the spirit of Edward Treadwell left its earthly tabernacle and passed out into that unknown land termed the Hereafter.

Mr. Treadwell had been for many years a prominent citizen and one whose everyday life had led him to be esteemed and respected. He came to this county in 1845, from Cayuga county, New York, where he was born in 1823. At first he settled upon a farm about two miles north of this city, removing a few years later to one at Dixboro, where he lived for twelve years. Then he came to this city to live, and purchased the residence No. 49 E. Huron st., in which he has resided ever since. After removing to the city he carried on an agricultural implement business a number of years in company with Jas. Osborn, after dropping out of which he engaged in no active pursuits, simply attending to his farms and finances, which occupied all his time.

Mr. Treadwell had been one of the directors of the 1st National Bank of this city, almost ever since its establishment. He was also for a number of years a member of the vestry of St. Andrew's parish, acting as treasurer thereof up to two years ago, when he was chosen senior warden to succeed the late John M. Wheeler.

The only political office ever held by Mr. Treadwell was that of supervisor of Ann Arbor town one year. During the term of Hon. Wm. G. Doty's office as mayor, Mr. Treadwell was tendered the position of member of the Board of Public Works but declined the position.

Mr. Treadwell leaves no family aside from his widow, and was considered quite well to do, financially. The funeral of the late Edward Treadwell occurred Sunday p. m. A short service was held at the residence on E. Huron st., at half-past 2 o'clock, and at 3 o'clock the regular Episcopal burial service was held at St. Andrew's church, where the deceased had worshipped so many years, and whose aisles were so familiar to his tread. A large number of friends gathered at the church to pay their last respects to one who had been a friendly man with every one while in life. The remains were taken to Forest Hill cemetery and deposited in the vault.

The honorary pall bearers were: W. D. Harriman, Philip Bach, B. M. Thompson, E. D. Kinne, Dr. C. B. Nancrede, S. Clements, Wm. Wagner, Harrison Soule, Noah W. Cheever, Dr. W. B. Smith, Dr. Fleming Carrow, Chas. S. Denison.

Active pall bearers: Moses Seabot, H. J. Brown, Geo. H. Pond, Geo. W. Patterson, S. W. Clarkson, L. Gruner.

Prof. Francis W. Kelsey and F. C. Newcombe will be ordained as new elders at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning.

Next Monday evening J. V. Sheehan will read a paper before Unity Club. It will be a recital of his experience last summer in Europe. One week from next Monday evening, Rev. John W. Langley of Cleveland, formerly a professor in the University will speak.

Mrs. Holmes, living on E. Huron st. has been doing something which will make many rise up and call her blessed. Although in feeble health, she has collected and shipped to Nebraska and Kansas, eight barrels of good clothing for the sufferers. How many more such angels of mercy can Ann Arbor boast of?

One of our readers hands us this: "The writer of this item was long years ago a business man in this city and an advertiser in the Courier, the value of which advertising was made manifest in the following way: A new brand of Japan tea came upon the market and the writer commenced to advertise and sell it, and in one year he realized a profit of $150 from the sale of his tea."

THE VIEWS OF HENRY CLEWS.

Henry Clews, the New York banker, in a special to the Courier, tells about the withdrawal of gold from this country to settle foreign credits, and then draws the following conclusions:

There can be little question about the cause of these immense withdrawals of capital to Europe. In the main, it signifies that our foreign creditors have become distrustful of our ability to save ourselves from drifting upon the silver basis. Their fear is not so much about the possibility of our taking care of such silver money as we at present have. It is that the silver faction, which has shown its ability to force on the country already 500 millions of what are virtually fifty cent dollars, and that it may still retain force enough to yet further increase those issues indefinitely; and they say that we have no satisfactory assurances to the contrary to advance—but hopes only, which it is claimed, find little backing in the present phases of Federal politics.

In all this there is a great deal of exaggeration of the worst features of our case, and perhaps little disposition to give due credit for the certainty with which we always ultimately correct our blunders; and the fact nevertheless is that our critics choose to take their own view of the matter, and their opinions can be changed only by some sort of conclusive demonstration that no further issues of silver money in the United States are possible.

The prospects of currency legislation by the present congress are fast vanishing, if they have not wholly disappeared. Any general scheme for dealing with bank circulation becomes more impossible of hurried realization as diversities of opinion develop. Time must be allowed for the comparison and maturing of views; and sentiment seems to be drifting in favor of the appointment of a national commission of eminent experts, who shall hear witness and report conclusions at the next session of congress. There is much to be said in favor of that course, especially as congressmen are imperfectly informed on the question, and as this method of treatment might develop the mature judgment of those best qualified to counsel better than any other.

AFFECTS MANY.

Attorney General Fred A. Maynard being asked to interpret the new amendment to the constitution adopted by the people at last fall's election, has defined and explained the same as follows: In substance the case is that no male inhabitant of foreign birth now residing in this state can vote until he shall become a citizen of the United States, which requires five years' previous residence. If, however, any foreigner has resided here two years and six months previous to Nov. 1, 1894, which would be May 8, 1892, and before May 8, 1892, had declared his intentions of becoming a citizen he can vote. Otherwise no foreigner can vote in Michigan who has not resided in the United States the five years necessary to acquire citizenship.

All citizens who have not resided in the United States five years or did not reside here previous to May 8, 1892, and did not give notice of their intention to become citizens previous to that date, cannot hereafter vote in Michigan, whether they voted here before or not. All such male inhabitants over 21 years of age are disfranchised by the constitution as it stands at present.

The attorney general adds that, voting being a privilege, not a right, the people can by a constitutional amendment take it away from or confer it upon any class of persons.

It is stated that President Wm. Ball of the State Agricultural Society, is favorably inclined toward the proposition to unite the state fair and the West Michigan fair. Mayor Fisher of Grand Rapids, formerly proposed the union to Mr. Ball and the latter writes that he has appointed a committee to meet the local fair men there on Feb. 11 and consider the details.

Last week Ex. Gov. Russell of Massachusetts, delivered a lecture in Ann Arbor on "The individual in government." Simplified to a sentence it was "Grover Cleveland as president of the United States, and myself as governor of Massachusetts." Two great individuals in government, sure.—Adrian Press.

It is enough to make a plantation mule smile to read of the presentation in the United States senate of a memorial from the defeated democratic candidate for Governor in South Carolina complaining that he has been cheated out of the office he tried to get by the crimes of the bold, bad Populists. When South Carolina democrats begin to howl and whine about election frauds, to use the elegant and courteous expressions which they taught the country when it was the republicans of the Palmetto State who complained of injustice, there is ground for renewed belief in the adage that time at last makes all things even.

The present legislature should bear in mind their motto of "short session." It should be borne in mind that a short session means the fewest possible days between the convening of the body and its final adjournment. Short session does not mean the fewest number of hours spent in work each day or the fewest number of days in session each week. The Record finds no fault thus far, but it is a good time now to commence thinking about the matter.—Northville Record.

The Fenton Independent is responsible for this: "When you come to talk about revivals," said an old Birminghamer, "there's to my notion, too many Wild Bill evangelists now-a-days. I don't dislike to see a preacher pound his pulpit Sunday so that a carpenter has a job every Monday morning, but those wild-eyed cowboy preachers that tell how bad they have been, they cause me to be weary. When one of these long haired ducks get up and claims he has killed his aunt and licked his mother before he was converted, it seems to me that he hasn't got so far away from his natural hellery but that it would be very convenient for him to backslide into it again."

Noah Brooks contributes this interesting bit of political history to the February Scribner as to the origin of the word "Whig" as applied to the former party so called: "It was in February, 1834, that James Watson Webb, of the New York Courier and Enquirer, hit upon the title of Whig for the National Republican party brought into existence by the administration of John Quincy Adams and led by Henry Clay. The name suggested, as Webb averred, by the fact that the party was pledged to resist arbitrary government, as the English Whigs resisted royal tyrants. It was sought, though unsuccessfully, to brand the Democratic-Republicans with the odious name of Tories. 'The Tories,' said Clay, 'were the supporters of executive power, of royal prerogative, of the maxim that the king can do no wrong;' the Whigs, he added, 'were the champions of liberty, the friends of the people.' What more appropriate distinction than this could be made between the Jackson men and the followers of the Great Commoner?"

Ex-Gov. Ashley of Ohio, for a number of years a resident of this city, has mapped out a new county, taking parts from Muskegon, Newaygo, Kent and Montcalm, which he proposes to call Zach Chandler county, and thinks this legislature can do nothing more appropriate.

About one hundred Michigan families have purchased land and settled in a couple of counties in Alabama and Mississippi. There are a large number from Ohio there also.

President Cleveland has succeeded in bull-dozing, wheedling and coaxing the democratic members of the U. S. Senate into passing a resolution approving of his contemptible, unpatriotic, un-American, and un-manly Hawaiian "policy."

Robert Burns, the famous Scotch poet, was born Jan. 25th, 1759, and died July 21, 1796, when only 37 years old, yet in that brief space of time he wrote himself into fame, and will never be forgotten as long as the Anglo Saxon race exists.

It is stated that a judge down in Georgia becoming disgusted with American citizens, etc., coming into court under the influence of "budge," sewed the following notice on them: "I wish to put everybody on notice that if they come into this court room while I am sitting on this bench drunk they had better look out."

The legislature will please let our congressional district alone. This part of Wayne county does not care to be kicked around all over the state at the will of every legislative body. It has for a decade been the tail wagged by the dog. Now it is rather the tail that wags the dog. We're just getting acquainted.—Northville Record.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore has retired from the platform. At the age of 73 she gives up active labors which have been continuous for over half a century. In all reforms, whether temperance, sanitary, or relating to suffrage, she has ranked among the wisest and ablest of America's women and has earned the rest which should now come to her.

A noted scientist asserts but probably not from personal observation, that the earth is slowing up at the rate of twenty seconds per century. We shall never live to see it stop, of course, but when it does stop, and everything is allowed to drop, where will it drop to? Then the famous hole in the sky that the late Senator Boutwell, of Massachusetts, told about in the Andy Johnson impeachment trial, will be in lively demand, for no one can conceive of dropping into nowhere.

Mayor Pingree's enemies, including and headed by several prominent corporation lawyers, packed the public meeting of citizens called by him in Detroit Saturday night, and prevented anything but a racket. The racket, however, was great. The mayor faced his enemies heroically for an hour and a half, and with all their crowd of volunteer and paid claquers they did not have power enough in the whole lot to make the mayor sit down for an instant. He proved himself of the sort of mettle that never gives up the ship. He tired out the crowd.

It is a noteworthy fact that the export of gold has kept pace with the deficit in our exports, and that the net amount of gold exported is practically equal to the balance of trade against us. This is a simple process of trade. No gift of prophecy was needed to foretell this result. History is simply repeating itself. We have had the same experience before. During the years from 1846 to 1860 the balance of trade against us was $420,000,000, and our exports of gold $430,000,000. The then recently discovered gold mines in California enabled us to keep up this losing transaction for years. At present there is nothing to protect us from such folly.

The University of Paris, the Largest in the World.

Who has not heard of the Quartier Latin? That is the ancient populous section on the left bank of the Seine, where the faculties are close huddled—though not contiguously so as to form as with us a campus—over a tremendous area. A visit will always repay the traveller from beyond the sea, and not, perhaps, so much to catch in passing the favor of the indefinable atmosphere of study and license which haunts the Boulevard St. Michael and its byways, not so much for the buildings themselves, which are, be it avowed, rather plain and—excepting occasional remnants—disappointingly modern, but rather to try the effect of a sensation, certainly novel enough to the American, of the grandeur of a great truly national institution.

He will find there the schools of the five regular faculties of theology, law, medicine, letters and sciences; he will see hospitals, clinics, libraries and museums, spacious and numberless, containing collections for every "ism," under the sun; he will note with astonishment special schools, such as those recently established, of comparative religion and living oriental language, and when he has done with all this, there is the College de France! Without counting the last named body, the courses of these various schools are attended by a grand total of some 11,000 students. That makes, if we will forget our quarrel about names, the University of Paris, facile princeps among the universities of the world. Vienna and Berlin, which follow in numbers and efficiency, have hardly more than half that number, and our largest American institutions barely reach 3,000. That may seem like a comparison by guide-book standards. Not at all. Happily in universities, at least, numbers may be taken as a sufficiently sure symptom of efficiency.—Chicago Times.

SHERIFF JUDSON CAUGHT ON

The Comical Side of it.

Only a Single Iron Bar Separated
Twenty-Two Washtenaw Prisoners From Freedom.

A bold attempt at jail-breaking was frustrated in the nick of time last night by Sheriff Judson. The lower rear window of the jail had been forced open by the prisoners, this being accomplished by pulling the staples out of the wall, and one of the iron bars, an inch in diameter, had been sawed almost off, while work had just begun on a second. The severing of these two bars meant freedom to twenty-two prisoners if they chose to accept it, and an awful lot of trouble to Sheriff Judson and his deputies.

At the time the work was being done, the whole number of prisoners were in the lower corridors. From six o'clock until eight the men are unlocked from the cage for supper and a little stretching of their legs. It was during this brief time last evening that the men got in their work.

Three men are suspected of being to blame for the matter. They are George Bryant and Richard Thompson, alleged to have been implicated in the Sheehan store burglary, and John Tilton, who is awaiting trial for burglarizing a Mooreville store. These three are tough customers and Sheriff Judson has caused them to be put where, as Turney Canfield expresses it, "they may saw all day and it won't do them any good. They now languish in one of the safest cells in Washtenaw's jail, the one occupied so long by Clifford Hand, the Pulver murderer. They profess to be very ignorant of the whole matter and innocently asked the turkey what was the matter. They were jokingly told that some farmers had been trying to break into the rear of the jail, and their wonderment as to why farmers wanted to get into jail was something laughable.

The instruments used to saw their way to liberty show that the workmen are no amateurs. They had carried some of the steel knives with which they eat, back into the corridors probably secured by the aid of their sleeves. These by the side of a file obtained in some mysterious way, they had made into remarkably good saws that did the work well. Of these there were four or five, while another sort of file had been made by wiring together a short piece of steel band and heavy wire. Other eating knives had just been subjected to the saw-making process, but had not been completed. The making of these utensils showed a good knowledge of the work in hand.

Sheriff Judson made the discovery of the attempted outbreak at 8 o'clock upon asking the rounds of the jail as he is accustomed to do. The work had evidently been left suddenly upon his approach, for the instruments of delivery had been dropped at the work. The doubly, it is needless to say, is now windowly barricaded.

Of Course He Did.

She was a winsome country lass,
So William, on a brief vacation,
More pleasantly the time to pass,
Essayed flirtation;
And as they strolled in twilight dim,
While near the time of parting drew,
Asked if she would like to have from him
A billet-doux.

Of French this simple girl knew naught,
But doubting not 'twas something nice,
Upon its meaning quickly thought;
Then in a trice,
Her rosy lips together drew,
For purpose plain, and coyly said:
"Yes, Billy, do!"

And William did.

Charged with Poisoning.

Mme. Henri Joniaux, who is on trial in Antwerp on the charge of having murdered her brother, sister, and uncle in order to obtain the money for which their lives were insured, has indignantly repudiated the charge of poisoning and the suggestion that she had speculated on the death of her sister. She declared that her object in effecting insurance upon the life of brother, sister, and uncle was to obtain money to pay a secret debt of honor, amounting to 30,000 francs, that had been revealed to her by her mother on the latter's deathbed.

The High Tide at Gettysburg.

A cloud possessed the hollow field,
The gathering battle's smoky shield,
Awhar the gloat the lightning flashed,
And from the heights the thunder pealed.
Then at the brief command of Lee
Moved out that matchless infantry,
With picket leading grandly down
To rush against the roaring crown
Of those dread lights of destiny

Far heard above the angry guns
A cry across the tumult runs,
"We've won the battle through Shiloh's woods
And Chickamauga's solitudes,
The fierce South cheering on her sons

Ah, how the withering tempest blew
Against the front of Percebe!
A kamin wind that scorched and singed
Like infernal flame that fringed
The British squares at Waterloo!

A thousand fell where Kemper led:
A thousand died where Garret bled:
In blinding flame and strangling smoke
The remnant through the batteries broke
And crossed the works with Armstrong.

"Once more in glory's van with me!"
Sheridan cried to Tennessee,
"We've won the battle, come what may
Shall stand upon these works to-day,
The reddest day in history!"

Brave Tennessee! Reckless the way
Thou leadest her comrades,
"Close round this rent and riddled rag!"
That time she set her battle flag
Amid the guns of Doubleday.

But who shall break the guards that wait
Before the awful fate of Fate?
The tattered standards of the South
Were shriveled at the cannon's mouth,
And all her hopes were desolate

In vain the Tennessee set
His bravest 'gainst the bayonet!
In vain Virginia charged and raged
Akin to her weak neck and
And all the hill was red and wet!

Above the bayonets, mixed and crossed,
Men saw a gray, gigantic host
Receding through the battle cloud,
And heard across the tempest loud
The death cry of a nation lost!

The brave went down! Without disgrace
They leaped to ruin's red embrace,
They only heard Fame's thunders wake
And saw the dazzling sunburst break
In smiles on Glory's bloody face!

They fell, who lifted up a hand
And bade the sun in heaven to stand!
They smote and fell, who set the bars
Against the progress of the stars
And stayed the march of motherland!

They stood who saw the future come
On through the fight's delirium
They smote and stood who held the hope
Of nations on that slipper slope
Amid the cheers of Christendom!

God lives! He forced the iron will
That clutched and held that trembling hill,
God lives and reigns! He built and lent
The heights of Freedom's battlement
Where floats her flag in trumpet's stent!

Fold up the banners! Ring the guns!
Love lives! Her gentler purpose runs
The miles of Mother Earth in tears
The pages of her battle years,
Lamenting all her fallen sons!

Office of THE PIONEER PRESS COMPANY, C. W. HORSTICK, Supt., St. Paul, Minnesota, Sept. 7, 1894.
Eureka Chemical and Mfg Co., La Crosse, Wis.
Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keely Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.
Yours truly,
C. W. HORSTICK.

I intend to sell more Stoves in the next sixty days than any dealer in Ann Arbor. The price and quality of goods will do it.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

Rev. R. E. MacDuff, of Flint, is to deliver a lecture entitled: "The South Before and After the War," at the Dexter opera house, Feb. 7th.

Although Michigan has been a famous wheat region for sixty years, such a thing as a failure not having occurred, yet owing to the low price of that cereal as well as the maintenance of the fertility of the soil, it is essential to our farmers to turn their attention to raising more cattle and hogs, and to change to long woolled sheep.—Chelsea Herald.

A new industry has been started in our village. A firm shipped a crate of cats to a wholesale house in Detroit one day last week.—Pinckney Dispatch. S'cat!

A Fowlerville lady dressed a chicken last week from which she extracted a liver weighing half a pound. The chicken had been feeding for some time previous around the Review office and had evidently swallowed a "Iye" brush.—Northville Record.

Two boys from the east side of town stole Peter Wanty's dog. They were arrested on Monday, and before square Bishop pleaded not guilty. Trial set for Friday (today), and in the meantime they boarded at Ann Arbor with a party named Judson.—Milan Leader. Dogs must be a plaguey sight more valuable over in Milan than hereabouts.

Lyman Burnham, of Milan, has a clothes line ax-hitted eye, all caused by not sending his wife out to split the wood.

On February 12th a lodge of Knights of Pythias is to be instituted at Milan.

To keep cider palatable for use a long time, but two things are necessary. Oxygen must be kept from it, and so must the small boy with a straw.—Adrain Press. Yes, and the big boy with a pitcher, also.

D. F. Reeves, of Saline, has gone to Mecosta county to get logs in for his mill that he will move there in the spring.

At the meeting of the school board last Thursday evening, three text books were changed: Metcalf's grammar was substituted for Reed and Kellogg's; Abbey G. Hall's botany for Gray's; and Huston's physical geography for Appleton's.—Saline Observer.

A Farmers Institute will be held at Howell on Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 19 and 20, in the opera house. An interesting program has been arranged, and Hon. Wm. Ball, of Hamburg, will be one of the principal speakers.

The Livingston County Teachers association will hold a meeting at Fowlerville Feb. 28 and March 1st next. T. E. Barkworth will be present, it is expected, and deliver an address.

The ladies of Columbian Hive No. 284, L. O. T. M., will give a Lady Washington tea party, February 22d.—Chelsea Standard.

In Mr. Smith's absence, Mr. Coe is filling the Commercial's local columns with bright sayings—but he omits his wittiest remarks.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

The Adrian Press has this aged item: "Ira Ward, born in Connecticut in 1792 and his wife, Hannah Graves Crumpton Ward, born in Vermont in 1798, are living on a farm near New Hudson, Vt. They were married in 1817."

They say a good color for whist is invisible Green.—Sentinel. And we hear that a good Cook also helps a whist game.—Commercial. Coe rect you are! —Ypsi. Sentinel. Can't you work in Tully and Ike Davis?

Some way the proposition to start a canning factory at Chelsea has got lost. The Standard thinks it should be found and put to work.

The new Congregational Church at Chelsea is to be dedicated Thursday, Jan. 31st. Services at 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. Rev. J. W. Bradshaw, of Ann Arbor, is to deliver the morning sermon.

The Mail proposes to publish a souvenir of Plymouth, proclaiming to the world the beauty of that little village.

A Dundee man claims to have the best memory of any man in Michigan. His wife gave him a letter to mail one evening and he actually posted it the first time he went to the post office.—Dundee Ledger. That will do to tell to the marines. Had the item been true the wife's affidavit would have been attached thereto. No sir! You can't spring that sort of an assertion on a gullible public, in that sort of a manner.

A number of citizens who are interested in good local government are agitating the question of having the marshal of the village elected by the people the same as the other officers. In order to do this it would be necessary to amend the by-laws by special ordinance. But the principal stumbling block seems to be whether the marshal could be thus elected and be controlled by the council. As election is but a few weeks ahead, any change in this direction must be made at once. What are your views?—Dexter Leader. Now that you have asked we'll tell you. If he is elected by the people he will be accountable to the people, and not to the council. If you want a marshal who will attend to business, let him be appointed by the president of the village or the council, and removed by them at will. Then elect the right sort of a president and council, and you will get the right sort of a marshal.

It will be very pleasant news to the people of St. Andrew's parish to learn that the late Edward Treadwell did not forget the society with which he was so long and happily connected, and provided in his will for a legacy of $1,000 to be added to its endowment fund. This makes the endowment funds of the parish now reach $5,000.

Sunday night the store of John Rafferty, at Chelsea, was broken into and a lot of goods, such as are carried by a merchant tailor, stolen therefrom. Word was sent out by Sheriff Judson to his deputies to be on the watch, and early Monday a. m. Deputy Thos. Bell, of Dexter caught the thief and recovered all the goods that was pretty quick work.

Speaking of the Hawaiian affairs, the Ypsilanti Sentinel says: "Mr. Carter's death brings the trouble pretty near home, since he was a son-in-law of J. Austin Scott, of Ann Arbor." Which is not exactly correct. J. Austin Scott is not of Ann Arbor. He is of Heaven. For of such as he was the Kingdom of Heaven is certainly composed.

If the republicans here in Ann Arbor expect to be successful in coming elections, they better be just a little careful how they commence to fight among themselves now. A fight at the coming municipal election, might, possibly, cause a feud that would be carried into the county election two years from now. That's the way such things work. And the republicans have no cluck on this city or county, by a long shot.

Ex-County Clerk Howlett met with a lucky mishap Sunday. He was out driving (for pleasure—thermometer 5 deg. below zero) and as he attempted to cross the railroad track on S. Main st., one runner of the cutter struck the rail of the track in such a way as to send him over into a snow drift head first. He hung on to the reins with a firm grip and succeeded in throwing his horse after it went a short distance. Then Fred had to nearly unharness his horse before it could be extricated and got into good working order again. By the time he got around home he was quite willing to sit down by a warm register for a time.

Both of the conductors on the two freights were Ann Arbor boys, George Wolaver and Adelbert Keeler. The accident was caused by the air brake on Wolaver's train refusing to respond when called upon.

It is singular how some people, who have no faculty or gift for either public speaking or reading, insist upon getting themselves upon programs and then inflict their rasping voices and tiresome presence upon a suffering audience for an indefinite length of time, for when they once succeed in getting upon the platform it is as difficult to get them to sit down again, as it is to keep a small boy out of the preserves. Take a man for instance with a voice that sounds like a cross between an Ayrshire bovine and a corn stalk fiddle, and just imagine what a sense of relief comes to an audience when such an one finally sits down. But somehow those sort of people never realize their own position, and when the audience cheer out of sheer happiness that their torture is at an end, they take it unto themselves as a compliment to their matchless eloquence and resistless oratory, and are as self-satisfied and pleased as a kid with a new pair of shoes.

There is complaint in the 6th ward that the school house of the ward is inadequate to the demands made upon it by the 6th ward youngsters, and the latter are being sent to other wards. The Hausfreund-Post suggests another school house on Hill street, near Holmes' livery barns. As the school district owns one of the finest locations in that part of the city, at the corner of Hill st. and Forest ave., there would be no trouble about location.

"Conducting the newspaper business as the Courier people do, it is certainly very inopportune for them to talk of any necessity for cutting wages, etc."—Register. The trouble is our neighbors are doing all the talking, and evidently having all the trouble. The Courier mends its own business, pays its workmen promptly, settling its bills when due, and will continue to do so after some of its green-eyed detractors are buried beneath the debris of their own wrecked fortunes. In the end it is that way of conducting business that wins. Wind may bluster for a time, but soon blows itself out.

"Why don't the street car authorities hang out a sign on the car that goes to Ypsilanti so that people can see it?" This question is asked a dozen times a day. It would seem as though it would be an advantage to the street car people themselves, for we have noticed many times that people who have been waiting for the car would go out and stop three or four cars before they would get the one they wanted. It would seem as though a sign "Ypsilanti" visible to the naked eye, displayed on the motor making the Ypsilanti connection would be a good thing for patrons and patronized alike.

The attempt to break jail by the shrewd birds in Sheriff Judson's care, has caused considerable comment and wonderment among our people, for they were told when this jail was erected that it was utterly and absolutely impossible for a prisoner to cut or dig his way out of it. But it seems that nothing is impossible in that line.

Reports to the state board of health show that influenza, bronchitis, neuralgia, rheumatism and tonsillitis in order named, caused most sickness in Michigan during the week ending January 19. Consumption reported at 227 places, scarlet fever 64, diphtheria 43, typhoid fever 27, measles 11 and small pox at 6 places. This is the first week in which influenza has been the leading disease, causing more sickness than any other disease.

The telephone exchange Friday called up all its subscribers and told about this approaching storm. The information was received from the Michigan station of the weather bureau at Lansing, and comes directly from there. The enterprise of Supt. Keech in this respect, ought to be and we believe is appreciated by its subscribers. The information sent out yesterday of this approaching storm must have been very valuable to many people contemplating a journey, for instance.

With a lively realization of the necessity of more stringent laws for the extermination of peach yellows, prominent fruit growers of all sections of the state will endeavor to have a new yellows law passed by the present legislature, the law now in force having been found too faulty to admit of its being patched up by amendments. The yellows made fearful inroads on the big orchards of this section last year and the commissioners found themselves powerless to stay the invasion, owing to the defects of the law.

A certain business man who has spent considerable money in advertising and who never bites on the fake advertising schemes, said to-day that if a person would drive for five miles out in the country in either direction he would find that 80 per cent. of the firms whose advertisements appear on the barns and fences were now out of business. He says that in his opinion a firm that throws its money away in this manner cannot last long. This gentleman is one of the largest advertisers in the city, but you never find his name on fences or in anything but a newspaper. This he claims is the only legitimate way to advertise and he says that years of experience have taught him this one fact, although it cost him money to find it out. Board fences, posts and barns may answer for patent nostrums but legitimate business firms never will prosper that way.

It costs the city of Detroit $24.08 per capita per year to educate the pupils in her public schools.

"Great guns! Gosh!" was the expression which escaped the lips of a young lady this morning on stepping out in one of the snow banks accumulated by last night's storm. That probably thoroughly expressed it, from her standpoint.

In the circuit court Saturday a. m. it was ordered that the names of Geo. Bell, Alphonzo Baker and Edgar F. The Ann Arbor Organ Co. has received word from their London, Eng. agency that the beautiful sample organ that was made by them and shipped some weeks ago, reached its destination in that city, all smashed up, not being able to give out a note. The fault was probably in the packing, together with a rough voyage. This is bad news, as that organ was expected to help the company to make many sales among the Englishmen.

A cigarette is slow poison, dead sure, and sure death, while a cigar is said to contain acetic, formic, hyaluric, valeric and paoponic acids, prussic acid, creosote, carbolic acid, ammonia, sulphurette hydrogen, poridine, viridine, picoline, and rubidine, to say nothing of cabbageine and burdockine acid. No wonder a cigar will make a small boy sick. He never received so much for his money before in his life.

All Hope Gone Eight Years of Suffering—Death Would Have been Relief

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Effected a Perfect Cure.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "For about eight years I have patiently suffered from a discouraging and weakening failure of the liver, kidneys and bladder. During this long time I suffered everything but death. Different medicines were taken but without any avail. It was on the fifth of August, 1891, that the doctor told my mother that he

Had Not the Faintest Ray of Hope of the recovery of her child. For eight weeks I lived on nothing but brandy and beef-tea. I could not even keep milk on my stomach. In May I was just able to be taken to a hospital, where I remained till January, 1893. The physician declared my case incurable. All hope was gone, but I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. From the day I began to take the medicine I began to feel better. I have taken several bottles and have been able to assist my mother in light household duties. I surely owe my life to that great medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE SITUATION IN HAWAII.

The Government Fully Competent to Sustain Itself From all Internal Enemies.

From a private letter dated at Honolulu Jan. 11th, the following interesting statements are made of the true situation of affairs there:

You will be anxious to hear personally from Honolulu, and in our excited state do not know who can write private letters. Well, as you will have learned by the papers, the blow has fallen and we are feeling the effects of Cleveland's policy. We believe that he withdrew the men-of-war from here with the hope if not the direct assurance to the rebels that it was his wish that they might succeed. But we can assure our friends of one thing, and that is the true American spirit is here and here to stay, at any sacrifice. Monarchy is dead for all time, and, although our own country and friends have deserted us in our time of need and have put us to the blush of humiliation, still we are true and tried Americans with revolutionary blood in our veins. We have an unflinching reverence for the flag which has been dragged in the mud by Cleveland—not by the American people.

We have no personal fears for our safety except for that of our soldiers. God knows when and how they will return to us. The republic can and will take care of itself. Our two boys have been in the field since Monday with hardly a moment of sleep. C— is captain of a volunteer company and H— is a member of the same company. We hear good reports of their bravery. Professor Hosmer (the president of Oahu College) has been in the field from the first as a sharpshooter, and, in fact, all our best citizens are under arms. We are expecting to hear at any moment of the enemy's surrender, as they are being driven from ambush to ambush, in the mountains back of our place.

It is now evening and the Alameda has not been reported. We hope to have some decisive news to send forward by her. We are all about worn out with anxiety.

Friday Morning—The Alameda is in and we cannot yet report the fighting over. The rebels are still in the mountains. They changed their position during the night so that it is hard to locate them. Yesterday more prisoners were captured, but they could only tell where they left their leaders, Wilcox and Nowlein. You remember the dense lantana bush in the mountains. This furnishes them hiding places, but their dislodgment is only a matter of time. You will see by the list of arrests that many of the insurgents are in safe keeping, and it will go hard with them when the time of reckoning comes.

Sam Parker and Charles Wilson have taken no part in the uprising, and they are about the only Royalists who are not under arrest. The Queen is badly frightened, but has not as yet been arrested. She is being guarded and will be attended to later. I would write more, but the mail closes at noon.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean sends his impressions of the situation under the same date, as follows:

1. There is no general uprising of the natives on this island.

2. On the other islands nothing was known on Monday and Tuesday last concerning the attempted revolution here.

3. The better element among the natives on this island stand up for the republic.

4. The rank and file of the rebels are without enthusiasm for their cause. Having witnessed some of last Monday's skirmishes I am satisfied that the rebels care far more for their personal safety than for the defeat of government forces.

5. The latter are well organized and the rebels are not. Government forces are superior to the rebels in numbers and armament.

6. Evidently the backbone of the rebellion was broken last Monday. When the leaders, Robert Wilcox and Sam Nowlein, are captured and executed, and others who furnished the money for arms are severely punished, we shall hear of no further efforts to reinstate Queen Lil.

President Dole evidently does not fear assassination; he frequently walks from his house to the Executive Building or down town without a single attendant.

MR. SAWYER TOASTS THE WOMEN

He Delivered a Bright and Witty Speech at Detroit last Week.

The morning's Tribune gives a very good synopsis of the response of Hon. A. J. Sawyer of this city, at the Masonic exercises last night in the armory. It says:

Mr. Sawyer was received with applause, the ladies leading.

"Out home there is a sweet little lady to whom I have said many pretty things. (Laughter.) She has often asked if I knew any more nice things to say, and I have told her I knew no more. When she heard upon what subject I was to speak to-night she determined to come along and she is here. Now I'm in a fix. (Laughter.) I want to say all the nice things I can, and I have learned several from the elder, and if I tell the ladies anything I haven't told my wife—well you know what will happen. (Laughter.)

This was Mr. Sawyer's beginning.

After reviewing a number of the traditions of Masonry Mr. Sawyer said that one of these landmarks provided that every candidate for Masonry must be a man.

"This is from no lack of confidence in and respect for woman," said Mr. Sawyer, "On the contrary, the history of the order discloses that the wives, children, widows and orphans of the worthy brother Masons have always been among the chief objects of Masonic care.

"The first free school ever instituted for the protection and salvation of exposed little girls was instituted by the Masons in the sixteenth century."

Mr. Sawyer mentioned several other schools which had been established by the Masons in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

"From these examples set by Masonry," said he, "the world has profited until to-day we stand upon the eve of a system of universal free schools.

MASONRY IN THE DARK AGES.

"It was Masonry that in the darkest of the dark ages gathered together the widows and orphans of their slain brethren and provided for their wants and necessities. The world, profiting by this example, has continued in the good work until now public almshouses are found everywhere."

To the question of why the doors of Masonry were barred against women, Mr. Sawyer answered, "Because of her dependent condition in life," which he said Masonry did not create and Masonry was powerless to remove.

Mr. Sawyer told about the attempts of Queen Elizabeth to exterminate the Masons after they had denied her admission to the order. The soldiers whom she sent to seize the Masons were initiated into the lodges instead, and returned to her with the report that the government had nothing to fear from that source.

"But why not admit ladies who are not dependent?" the speaker was asked.

He answered by saying that Masonry had a difficult time as it was to escape the tongue of calumny.

"What do you think would be the result," he asked, "if a select few women were to be placed in the chamber of reflection?"

But then, he said, it is suggested that husbands and wives be admitted.

"The trouble is," said he, "that they do not die at the same time. The wife often survives her husband and there is no way provided in nature and certainly none in masonry by which she can be forced to accept a mason for her second husband. Must masonry then open its doors to whoever she may see fit to marry? If so then the selection of candidates for masonry must be conferred upon widows and not upon brethren of the lodge."

LADIES DON'T LIKE THEM.

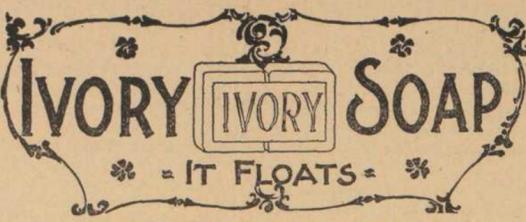

The speaker related an amusing incident, illustrating the detestation with which many women view masonry. One of his lady clients who had been faithfully served gathered up her papers and sailed out of the office in a rage when she found out that he was, "A Murdering Mason." (Laughter.)

"But the better informed class of ladies," said he, "know too well the benefits that fall to the wives, widows, daughters and sisters of masons not to respect the institution of masonry. If they knew what the masons know, could they but faithfully comprehend how other dangers that lurk about the pathway of the daughters, sisters, wives of masons deftly removed, if they but knew how often the strong arm of masonry had protected its sisters from want and destitution, could they but understand the quiet, secret influence that had been thrown around them by the hand of Masonry no female voice I am persuaded would ever be heard against Masonry."

The speaker closed with the following toast which elicited great laughter: "To the ladies—God bless them, while they can never be made Masons, yet from them all good Masons spring."

They Held Sway in Waterman Gymnasium Friday Night.

Youth, beauty, Terpsichore and the chaperones held sway in Waterman gymnasium Friday night in place of the brawny athletes, the sprinter and the agile performer on the horizontal bar. The latter respectfully bowed themselves out and made way for the gay old goddess Terp. Or else they went home, exchanged the decollete' gymnasium garments for a full dress shirt and a spike-tail coat and came back to take their exercises in the mazy waltz or the jerky two-step.

The junior party was a most successful social affair. At least so every one voted it who was there. Fully 150 couples were present, despite the hard snow storm that raged all night. It was about nine o'clock when the orchestra began the dance program and the ball had really begun. From that time until three o'clock this morning the dancing continued, the program consisting of twenty-five regulars and five extras. The twentieth dance was a special two-step, "The Juniors of '96," written for the occasion by Mr. Leon M. Jones.

The chaperones of the party were Mesdames Harrison, Soale, and Warren Lombard, of Ann Arbor, and E. S. Clark, of Milwaukee. No little praise is due the two members of '96's social committee; Mr. T. P. Hickey and Miss Katherine Punccheon, whose efforts made the hop the pleasant affair that it was. The reception committee was made up of the following juniors: Misses Allen, Danforth, Robinson, Stevens and Holbrook, and Messrs. L. A. Pratt, W. Decker, W. D. McKenzie, D. M. Ferry, Jr., R. D. Ewing, J. A. Brown and F. P. Sadler.

A number of visitors from outside cities were present. Theta Delta Chi fraternity entertained the following ladies: Misses Gertrude Geiger, Elizabeth Nelson, Emma Yeager, Rose Maynard, Florence Sawyer, and Misses Van Tuyl and Engle, of Detroit; Miss Hamilton, Chicago; Miss Sutphen of Defiance, Ohio; and Mrs. H. G. Van Tuyl, of Detroit, chaperone. This fraternity will give a house party in honor of its guests this evening.

Men and Women in New York.

The census reveals some curious facts about the distribution of New York's excess of women. New York City has 20,000 of them; Brooklyn, 17,000; Albany, 5,500; Troy, 5,000; Utica, 3,000; Rochester, 4,000; Syracuse, 1,100. They are all, practically, in the larger cities of the state, the one exception being Buffalo, which has 4,000 more men than women. It would be interesting to know more about these 4,000 superfluous Buffalo men, whether they are Polacks, Italians, lake sailors, canal-boatsmen, or merely lively young bachelors from the country in the western part of the state who have gone to Buffalo to seek their fortunes. New York City's business opportunities, which attract crowds of men, seem to attract quite as many women. Yet the excess of women in New York is comparatively small. The city has 45 women to every 44 men, while Brooklyn has 26 women to every 25 men, and Troy 11 women to every 10 men. Why should it happen that in the suburban counties nearest New York there should be more men than women? It would seem that of the population drawn by the metropolis to this end of the state the unmarried men would nearly all live in the cities, and the dwellers in the suburbs would for the most part be people with families. Yet the suburban counties all show an excess of men—1,300 in Westchester, 1,700 in Richmond, and 2,300 in Queen.

A Laughable Mistake.

Two ladies entered a book-store recently and the younger asked the clerk for a book called "Favorite Prescription." The puzzled attendant was unable to comply with her request and she left the store disappointed. Inquiry elicited the fact that she had overheard a conversation with two literary ladies in which "Favorite Prescription" was mentioned with extravagant praise, and had jumped to the conclusion that it was a book. She now knows that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign cure for the illis and "weaknesses" peculiar to women, for she has been cured by its use. Send for a free pamphlet, or remit 10 cents in stamps for Book (88 pages) on Women and Her Diseases." Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

GERMAN FARMERS' MUTUAL.

Statistics of What the Company has Been Doing the Past Year.

The annual statement of the German Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company for 1894 has just been printed. Many of the figures given will be of interest. The present membership of the company includes 1541 members, 113 of whom were added during the past year. Fifty-three members have withdrawn during the year.

The net amount of property now at risk is valued at $3,722,400, $172,670, of which has been added during 1894. $130,920, in risks have been withdrawn, canceled or terminated.

The total available resources of the company are listed at $3,722,526.50, while the liabilities are put at $1,425.30, of which latter amount $1,250.30 are for unmaturred losses, and $175 for interest on borrowed money.

Receipts during the year aggregated $13,759.68 which together with the balance left from the preceding year amounts to $13,797.94. Disbursements amounted to $13,796.30, of which $6,950.60 was for losses of the year, including $1,314, of losses of 1893.

The report shows an improvement in the affairs of the company since 1893.

The County Insurance.

Sec. 528 of Howell's Statutes, provides that, "when directed by the board of supervisors, the county treasurer shall cause to be insured any or all public buildings belonging to the county, as said board shall direct, and the insurance thereon shall be taken in the name of the treasurer and his successors in office." The next section makes provision for the treasurer to collect from insurance companies any damage or loss that may occur.

According to that law, and there has been no change in the law we are assured, the insurance now upon the county buildings is not worth a rush. If the court house should burn tomorrow not a cent could be collected from the insurance companies if they chose to stand out about it, for not a policy is drawn in the name of the county treasurer, but they are all drawn to the Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw county.

A number of years ago, we understand the county treasurer did this work as the law directs, but the supervisors concluded that the duty was one of their own, so they took it from him and had it attended to by the building committee. And so it has been done ever since, contrary to statute.

It might be well for the building committee to attend to this business at once, and have the policies all made to read as the law directs. This might be a very serious matter to Washtenaw county, and might cause her no end of trouble.

Verein Officers.

The Ann Arbor Arbeiter Unterstutzungs Verein held their annual election Monday evening, and chose the following officers:

President—John Meyer.
1st vice president—Titus F. Hutzel.
2nd vice president—Emanuel Spring.
Rec. Sec'y—George Lutz.

Treas.—Albert C. Schumacher.
Cashier—F. Steeb.

Trustees—Wm. Feldhauser, Julius Trojanowski, Chris. Schlenker, Louis Walz, Christian Martin, Wm. Hiller, August Hinz.

This society is in excellent financial standing, with a balance in the treasury of $3,291.70. There was paid out last year $362.00 for sick benefits, and $1,085.90 for death assessments. There are 152 members in good standing. The above amounts were all paid out to people in this city. A meeting is to be held to-night of the old and new officers to transfer the books, and transact such other business as may arise.

IN 1895.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly and exhaustively and accompanied by illustration and descriptive text of the highest order.

The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway Strikes and the China-Japanese War, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that unknown country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. JULIAN RALPH, the distinguished writer and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. WELDON, the well-known American artist, and for many years resident in Japan who has been engaged to cooperate with Mr. RALPH in sending to HARPER'S WEEKLY exclusive information and illustration.

During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the highest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and and caustic political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. The Busy World, with its keen and kindly comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department.

FICTIONS. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated—The Red Cockade, a stirring romance of olden days by STANLEY J. WEYMAN, and a novel of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by BRANDER MATHEWS—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers.

The Dime Bank Man.

"If you want romance, if you want stories of gold, blood, luck, everything that goes to make up the gamut of human passion, come with me to the patent office, and behind those cases filled with dry-as-dust specifications and legal phraseology I will show you skeletons that once had red blood in their veins."

Thus spoke a friend of mine, one of the best known patent attorneys in Washington, and then he walked across the room and picked up from his desk one of those little cylinder banks to hold $5 worth of ten cent pieces which were all the rage a few years ago. Holding the toy in his hand, he said:

"When you come to write the romance of the patent office, you can make a chapter of what I am going to tell you. You remember the craze for these banks a few years ago, and how it turned everybody to saving dimes until at last there was an actual scarcity of that coin created? Well, the history of this patent is worth while telling."

"I never advance a man money on his patents or speculate in them. That is not my business, which is simply to represent him in a legal capacity before the office. But one day a man came into my New York office with an idea which he wanted to patent and about which he wanted to consult me. I told him that the fees and expenses would amount to $135."

"Mr. Connolly," he said, "I haven't $135 in the world, and I never expect to have that much at one time."

"I looked at the man, and I looked at the model and said to him, 'I have never yet taken an interest in a patent, but I will pay all the expenses in connection with this patent if you will give me a quarter interest in it.'"

"Why?" he asked.

"Because you have a fortune there," I told him.

"However, the man said he would see about it. A few days later he came back with his brother-in-law, who had advanced the money. I procured his patent for him."

"Now, to go back and tell how this man conceived the idea for the bank. He was in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. at Jersey City, receiving a salary of $14 a week. He was not an uncultivated man but had a little knack of mechanics. He was in the habit of spending his Sundays with his sister, and one day when he called there he found his nephew, a child of about three years of age, sitting on the floor shaking a toy bank and trying to get the money out. His sister explained that whenever the youngster dropped a cent into the bank he, like most children, was wild to get all the money out to count, and she went on to say to her brother, 'Why can't you invent a bank which will show how much there is in it?'" and the brother said he thought he could.

"That gave him the idea. After he got his patent he had a few banks made, and on Saturday nights he used to put them in a basket, carry them around to the toy shops in the neighborhood and dispose of them. He found only one drawback—he could not make them fast enough to supply the demand. After he had been doing business in this way a few weeks he came to see me. He told me what he was doing and then went on to say: 'Mr. Connolly, do you think you could find someone who would lend me $2,500? There is a factory in Newark which I can buy for that amount, and which is just the thing I want for making my banks. If I can get hold of that factory, I am sure I can sell all the banks I can make.'"

"I told him I thought I could get him the money and to come and see me in the course of a few days. A few days later he came in and said he didn't think I need bother about finding him that money, as he expected to have it next week. I asked him where he was going to get it from."

"You will think I am embellishing this story, because it sounds so improbable, but I am simply relating the facts without the slightest exaggeration or ornament. He said he had a lottery ticket and he expected it would draw a prize. But wait; let me tell this story of the lottery ticket. He and some other men working at Jersey City decided to make up a pool and buy a lottery ticket, each man to put in $1. When the time came, the others backed out, and only himself and one other, a carpenter, put in their dollars. The ticket drew $5,000."

"With his share he bought out the Newark factory, and in a short time had six hundred men at work turning out these banks, and even then he could not keep up with orders. He was soon making a clear profit of $1,000 a week, then $2,000, then almost that much a day. During the time the craze lasted, and you know it was not of short duration, he made a large fortune."

"And what became of the man?" I asked.

"Oh, they put him in an insane asylum. He couldn't stand prosperity. He lost a great deal of his money about as rapidly as he made it, although fortunately he put a couple of hundred thousand or so in real estate, which his wife now has."—Boston Globe.

DEPUTY MARSHAL WOOD.

A Man Everybody Knows Tells of His Wonderful Cure by Dr. Greene's Nervura—The Strongest Evidence Possible That This Medicine Will Cure You.

DEPUTY MARSHAL, A. B. WOOD.

When such a widely known public man as A. B. Wood, Deputy Marshal of West Indianapolis, Ind., makes a statement, that he means every word of it. Mr. Wood resides at 91 Marion Ave., West Indianapolis, Ind. He has been cured by the great medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, from utter nervous prostration and exhaustion. He deems the cure most wonderful, and the medicine which cured him a most wonderful remedy. He is anxious, therefore, to tell the world of his remarkable restoration to health, and to thus lead others to health by the use of the same grand remedy.

"I had been troubled," said Mr. Wood, "for twenty years with nervousness, heart disease and gastric catarrh of the stomach, ending two years ago with a complete prostration, and was taken to my bed."

"I was under the care of two eminent physicians. Finally through a friend I was induced to try Dr. Greene's blood and nerve remedy."

"After taking one bottle I began to improve, and after using three bottles, my usual health was restored. I can now eat anything set before me. I have gained 30 pounds in flesh, now weighing 165 pounds."

My wife is similarly diseased and is now taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, so far with beneficial results.

"Thus knowing my personal experience the great value of this grand medicine, I write this that others, who have similar troubles, may be induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and be cured."

People who are sick or ailing in any way make a serious mistake if they delay a moment longer to use this, without doubt, greatest medical discovery ever made. Even if you have been disappointed because other medicines failed, we promise this remedy will cure.

It is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City. He has the largest practice in the world, and this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure, and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

STILL AN OPEN QUESTION.

Ministers' Association and Reform League Debate the Advisability Of Pushing for Five-Mile Legislation.

At a joint meeting of the Ann Arbor Ministers' Association and the Reform League held this week in secret session, the question whether to join forces in a struggle for a five-mile law to protect the University was discussed at considerable length but without definite result. In fact there is difference of opinion as to whether the present is the best time to go forward with this movement.

The COURIER discussed the matter this morning with one of the city pastors who was present at the joint meeting. He said that personally he was in favor of five-mile legislation, but that that sentiment was not unanimous. Some thought it best not to spring any further measures on the legislature at this session, inasmuch as several important measures of this nature were before them now. Some think it wisest to help push the matter of securing a vote for a prohibitory amendment, this being one of the resolutions now introduced. Others have different ideas and it is not easy to say what will be done. One thing was certain: if a five-mile bill was introduced it must be introduced soon, as only twenty-five days remain in which bills may be placed before the legislature.

The two associations adjourned to meet at the call of the president of the Reform League.

ROB INGERSOLL'S OPINION.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll recently said: "What are the markets of the world? We manufacture nothing that we can sell at a profit in England, France, Germany, Belgium, or any country in Europe. The market in Africa is worth nothing to us; we have very little interest in Asia, very little in Japan, and less in the islands of the Pacific. America is the best market for what Americans can manufacture, and we cannot afford to desert our market for what they call the markets of the world. I think we've learned a lesson. I think the laboring man has found he cannot injure his employer without hurting himself, and the people of this country are going to retrace their steps, and are going back to protection and prosperity, to reason and Republicanism."—Peoria, Ill., Journal.

UNIVERSITY.

G. C. Maul, '93 lit, has been engaged as teacher of mathematics in Flint high school.

J. B. Overton, '94 lit, has been assistant principal of schools in Black River Falls, Wis., since Jan. 1.

The January announcements of Henry Holt & Co. include "Classic French Letters," edited by Prof. E. L. Walter of the University of Michigan.

Michigan sends twenty-six students to Yale, twenty-three to Harvard, and eight to Princeton.

T. Vlademiroff, '95 lit, will lecture in the Webster Christian Endeavor lecture course next Friday evening.

Two hundred and twenty-four new lockers have been ordered for the gymnasium. Of these all but six have been taken.

E. B. Baker, son of the newly-elected Senator Baker, of Kansas, is a student in the University, and is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

The University debaters, who are yet to be selected, will meet the following men from Northwestern: E. P. Bennett, H. M. Ward and H. M. Cook. The latter is the only law student of the three.

It is reported that Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer has resigned her office as dean of the woman's department of Chicago University. Prof. and Mrs. Palmer will spend next year in Europe.

Dr. E. M. Houghton, assistant to Dr. Cushman in pharmacology, has just accepted a position in the experimental laboratory of Parke, Davis & Co., of Detroit. He will assume the duties of the position on Feb. 1. Dr. Houghton was phar. '93 and medic '94.

At the senior lit class meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel it was voted to have a class social in the gymnasium. It was left to the discretion of the social committee as to the proper time to hold it. The affair will be a cap and gown swing out and will probably not take place until after Lent.

Dr. Fitzgerald of the gymnasium says that the announcement made in the COURIER some time ago to the effect that Regent Barbour would transfer his gift of $25,000 from the art fund to the co-ed's annex fund is true. He says that the annex will probably be ready next year.

There is likely to be no Harvard-Yale Freshman base ball game this year. The cause lies in the disgraceful conduct of the Yale freshmen who filled the gallery at the Glee and Banjo Club concert Monday night, and by cheers and showers of placards, which recounted the glories of '98, disturbed the performance through half the program.

The art recital of Alpha Nu literary society on Saturday evening was greatly enjoyed. After the evening's program the semi-annual election of the society was held, resulting as follows: R. R. Lyman, president; Miss Minnie J. Gardner, vice-president; Edmond Block, treasurer; E. S. Hinckley, librarian; H. A. Dancer, critic. The election of secretary was postponed until a later date.

It is becoming very evident to the laws that the rule relative to the periodical examination of note books by the faculty is not going to be a dead letter by any means. Yesterday Judge Champlin told those persons whose names begin with A. B. C. or D. to hand in their note books. And he added, to the amusement of some and to the discomfort of others, that those who took stenographic notes should read them to him at a certain hour.

The fierce contest over the Republican nomination for United States Senator in the Kansas legislature has finally terminated in the choice of a U. of M. graduate, Lucien Baker. Mr. Baker is one of the many distinguished graduates of the law department of the University, from which he graduated in 1868.

He is a successful Leavenworth lawyer, and a member of the state senate for that city. He has never been very prominent in the politics of the state, but has always been known as a very able and successful lawyer. Senator Baker was nominated by the anti-Burton men in order to defeat the man who was most prominent in the contest for the office. The new senator enters the upper house of congress in the prime of life, being but 48 years of age.

Freshmen are hereafter to be excluded from participation in the active management of the various athletic associations of Princeton. An amendment to the constitution of the Princeton athletic association was passed at a meeting this week, depriving freshmen of the right to vote at the elections of all officers of the athletic organizations. This change is regarded with warm approval by the entire body of upper classes, while the freshmen are naturally inclined to do a little grumbling over the matter.

College journals are purely American in origin and purpose. No European institution of learning in any wise comparable to our American college can claim the issue of a journal by its students. The dearth of such literature among continental students is evident. They have not the facilities for editing journals, nor the liberties of speech; the organizations, college and class "spirit" of the American colleges. And for that reason they do not require the journals we find essential to our college life.

G. A. Damon will speak before the Engineering Society next Friday evening on "The Electrical Equipment of the Northwest."

About one hundred people attended the reception given to Tracy McGregor Saturday evening in Newberry hall. A very pleasant evening was spent. During his visit, Mr. McGregor was the guest of General Secretary D. F. Merz, of the association.

ADELPHI IN NEW QUARTERS.

Its New Hall Dedicated Saturday Evening With an Attractive Program.

Saturday evening the Literary Adelpi appropriately celebrated its advent into its new hall, formerly room N, which is now one of the finest society halls in the University. The occasion marked also the thirty-eighth anniversary of the society. The program consisted of short talks by former members of the society, now attending the graduate school, or who are professors in the University. There was also excellent vocal and instrumental music.

The male quartette gave two selections and responded to an encore. The banjo duet by Messrs. R. E. Newton and Oleson was well received. An especially entertaining number was the vocal duet by Messrs. Burdick and Lamont. The string trio consisting of Messrs. R. E. Newton, Oleson and Thomas, received an encore.

The speakers dwelt chiefly upon the Adelpi of years gone by and told many interesting stories of the days when they were members of the society.

D. F. Wilcox, '94, R. C. Campbell, '94, Mr. Hartman, '88, the latter a former president of the Adelpi, and S. R. Thornton, '76, gave short talks. Prof. R. C. Davis one of the founders of the Adelpi and Prof. M. L. D'Ooge, '62, related many incidents of those good old times. Prof. B. M. Thompson, '59, the Adelpi's second president, urged the society to devote itself to the practice of extemporaneous speaking. He also referred to many of the Adelpi who had been eminently successful in life. A letter of regret was read from Hon. C. K. Davis, United States senator from Minnesota. In replying to an invitation to be present he wrote "It is not very probable that I can be present at the interesting occasion to which I am invited by your esteemed favor of the 29th inst. I have received few invitations that give me greater pleasure than this, but I can see very clearly that my professional duties at the date indicated will probably prevent my being there. If possible I shall attend."

MICHIGAN POLITICAL SCIENTISTS.

They Will Meet in Kalamazoo During the First Week of February.

The February meeting of the Michigan Political Science association, of which there are several members in the University and city, will be held in Kalamazoo during the first week of February. As usual, an interesting program has been arranged. Professor H. B. Hutchins, the new dean of the law department, is down on the program for a paper, as are also Prof. H. C. Adams, F. M. Taylor and Prof. Otto Kirchner, president of the association, of Detroit. Rev. Dr. Prawl, of St. John's church, Detroit, will present a review of Kidd's "Social Evolution." Prof. Waldo, of Albion, will read a paper on "Estimating Methods of the Gold Supply." The subject of Prof. Taylor's address will be "Commercial Reform in the United States."

Seventy Years Ago To-Day.

Dear Editor:—As there has been some doubt in the past as to who was the first white child born in Ann Arbor town, I will give you the following facts taken from the family record of the late George Rash, who settled on Section 25 in September, 1825: Mary Rash was born in Ann Arbor on January 29th, 1825. And she died March 16th, 1831, aged six years. The next child born was E. W. Rumsey Smith, born November 24th, 1825. The third child born was J. S. Rowland, who was born June 13th, 1826. James G. Rash (brother of Mary) was born Nov. 19, 1827. He has resided on the same premises up to the present time, 67 years.

Now a word in regard to the remains found on State st., recently. The correspondent of a Detroit paper claims it is one of the Mundys who lived on the premises at a very early date. I think he is mistaken, as John C. Mundy and Edward, came from Illinois in 1831, and lived on N. Fifth street a number of years. John C. Mundy married Minerva Rumsey in 1835, and lived over his store on Main st. about three years before he moved to State st. The body may be that of G. W. Noyes who was killed at the raising of Mr. Nowland's house in 1826, as his brother James Noyes lived on the premises at that time.

THE WOMAN'S LEAGUE.

Mrs. Palmer's Words of Advice and Cheer Before the Woman's League Yesterday.

There was scarcely a vacant seat in McMillan Hall Wednesday p. m. The audience consisted entirely of ladies, who were there to listen to Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer's one hour talk before the Woman's League. And every one present was delighted. No young lady could possibly listen to what Mrs. Palmer had to say, and not feel elevated and filled with noble purposes thereby.

The talk was addressed to the young ladies, and was overflowing with good, wholesome advice. She cautioned them not to devote all their efforts to the securing of knowledge to the detriment of other desirable accomplishments. In her position she was frequently called upon to recommend young ladies for positions, and there were always other qualities than book learning that were demanded. Good morals and good manners are quite as essential, and in securing an education one should cultivate all the faculties. A bright, pleasant face, denoting a sweet loving disposition often goes a long way in one's favor.

Another thing Mrs. Palmer cautioned the young ladies against was in aiming too high. For instance she was flooded with applications of those who desired to fill chairs of English literature, etc. She advised them to fit themselves for all positions—the kindergarten work, the primary grades—all need the cultured brain and the intelligence which comes from a thorough education. It was as essential to the perfect development of the human mind and heart that the lower grades should be provided with kind and intelligent teachers and instructors, as that the higher grades should be so provided. God's work lay all about for willing hearts and trained minds, and was not confined to the highest chairs.

These were the ideas Mrs. Palmer so beautifully impressed upon those who heard her.

Then the speaker paid a glowing tribute to the University of Michigan, her beloved alma mater. This was the first great university to open its doors to women. Others had left the door ajar and allowed the women to longingly look within, while some had erected annexes for them, but this noble institution had thrown wide its portals and bade them come and partake of its fruits, and it was reaping its reward for the well doing.

It would be impossible to give a synopsis in this short space that would do Mrs. Palmer justice. The large majority of those present consisted of lady students, and the words that greeted their ears that day will never be forgotten.

Politics in the Legislatures.

Boston Journal: The relative strength of the political parties is shown more in detail, and in a sense, more accurately, in the composition of state legislatures than in the make-up of congress; because the smaller legislative districts afford more chance for the representation of minorities. It is not at all an unusual thing that a state sends a solid delegation to congress; but a legislature absolutely solid for one party in both branches is a rare phenomenon.

Nearly all studies of political results at the election of last November have had to do with the heads of the state tickets, or with the congressmen, or with the legislators only with reference to their action in the election of United States senators. No attempt, we believe, has been made to exhibit, in a compact tabular form, the political complexion of the several legislatures. For this reason we offer the following statement of the strength of the parties on joint ballot in the legislatures of the different states, so far as ascertained, which affords interesting material for study:

A SAD PENSION CASE.

Wherein the Laws of Congress Have Worked a Great Injustice to a Worthy old Soldier.

A case wherein a great injustice has been done to an old soldier who served faithfully during the entire war of the rebellion, has come to our knowledge recently, and it is such an unusual one, and does the man so great injustice that we feel justified in reciting it to our readers, for they can not but help having their sympathies aroused thereby.

John Springmann, the old soldier referred to, lives in Lodi, where he has resided for a number of years. He is a poor man with a good sized family to support.

John was born in Germany, and in 1862 he came over to this country. He had not been over here but a short time when he enlisted as a private in Company F, 111th New York volunteer infantry, which was an American regiment. This was a little singular, too, for he could not at that time speak one word of English. But he made a good soldier, just the same, and served faithfully up to and including the Battle of Gettysburg, in which fight he lost a portion of his right hand by a gunshot wound. He was sent to a hospital and remained there until his wound healed, when he was detailed for service in a government bakery, he being a baker by trade, and transferred to the veteran reserve corps. He then went from one bakery to another as he was needed, and by reason of these many transfers, his descriptive list was lost. On July 30, 1895, the government concluded that it did not want John's services any longer, and dismissed him from the service, failing to give him a proper discharge. He was then at work for Uncle Sam in a government bakery at Newark, N. J.

Some eight or ten years ago he made application for a pension, and not having the proper papers on which to obtain it, he went to New York, and Pennsylvania, at a considerable expense, found the former officers of his company and regiment, and proved the above story to be a true one by their affidavits. The government was satisfied of the genuineness of his claim and granted him a pension of $6 per month. At this time he should have filed in the record division of the war department these papers and had his record cleared up on Uncle Sam's books, but his attorney neglected his business, and it was not done.

The act of 1889, under which he was permitted to do this expired by limitation July 1st, 1894. A few weeks ago he received notice from the pension department that he was borne on the rolls of the war department as a deserter, and therefore not entitled to a pension, and unless he could, within the space of thirty days, prove the contrary to be true, to the satisfaction of the pension department, his pension would be cut off. He at once filed his application reciting the above facts in full, and asked to have his record corrected in accordance with the proofs already furnished the pension department. But it seems that proof to the pension department does not count when it comes to the record division of the war department, and the only real satisfaction he received was a notice from that department that the time had elapsed when he might make an application for the correction of his record, and therefore his pension was cut off, with no relief possible under existing laws.

The lapse of time, and the many places he was transferred to, together with the fact that he was entirely unfamiliar with the language of this country, makes it difficult to recall incidents and names that would assist him in proving his case over again.

But Comrade Springmann's disability is one that shows for itself, he having lost a portion of one hand in battle, and the portion that remains is very much crippled, really entailing him to a much larger pension than the one he received.

We understand that the case has been presented to Rep. Gorman, and that he writes that a bill is now before congress to extend the time for the correction of these records in the war department, and that he will heartily support it.

This old soldier is a worthy citizen, a poor man, and unable by reason of his wounded and crippled hand, to earn what ordinary men should earn to support his family. He served this country faithfully and well in its hour of great need, and now, in his hour of need, this government should not leave him dependent upon public charity.

This is a peculiarly sad case, for besides being in need of the pension so unjustly cut off, he suffers from the imputation of being a deserter, a thing that is exceedingly distressing to the mind of a brave soldier who did his whole duty.

It is most devoutly to be hoped that this instance of cruel injustice may be righted.
