HEARTY WELCOME FOR DEPEW

Two Thousand People Greet Him and Do Him Honor in University Hall.

WORK FOR COLLEGE MEN.

It is They Who Must Solve the Problems of the Time—Coin's Financial School Walked Upon Rough Shod.

Two thousand people, mostly students, welcomed Chauncey M. Depew last Thursday in University hall. His special train from the west arrived at 4:30, and Mr. Depew was met at the depot by President Angell, Prof. T. C. Trueblood and Regent Levi L. Barbour, of Detroit. He was taken to the campus in a carriage prettily draped in yellow and blue. The party proceeded at once to the platform, having been reinforced in President Angell's office by Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia, and some of his friends, including Congressman Odey, of Virginia. When they reached the platform, Mr. Depew was greeted with a loud burst of applause and a hearty U. of M. yell, the latter seeming to please him greatly.

President Angell introduced the orator and man of affairs in a complimentary speech, and Mr. Depew began an address that lasted a full hour. Whether or not his oration was fully and previously prepared, it was a masterful one. His wit was keen. The laughter he created by his jokes gave him apparently as much pleasure in witnessing a good hearty laugh, as it did the audience. He continually rose to stirring eloquence and the closing paragraphs of the address breathed a moving optimism that will not be equaled in University hall again for many a day.

There was no demonstration of the students either before or after the address. Mr. Depew lunched with President Angell and left soon for Detroit where he spoke last night at the Chamber of Commerce banquet.

His address was in substance as follows:

I always feel a touch of enthusiasm when I meet college boys and come within the circle of collegiate influences. There was never a period when college men needed so much to be in touch with their college and there was never a time when college men were so much needed. At the close of this nineteenth century, they are met with all manner of trying problems and public difficulties, and likewise we have to fight according to the new method, powerful assaults on government, society and decency. We do not put down old heresies in the old way but rather we invite heresy by our new civilization. These assaults on society are not alarming, only because education is meeting them. It is by thorough education that the new warfare against facts, follies and heresies must be successfully waged. As an instance I will cite the recent appearance of a little book, known to the world as Coin's Financial School. Let me say of it as my opinion that it is full of lies, illogical arguments, false premises, false conclusions, absurdities, and taking pictures, which by the way form the best arguments in it. It is sold by hundreds of thousands and has converted thousands to this absurd way of financial thinking. Unless its influence can be counteracted, it will revolutionize the public sentiment of our country and will divide our parties on false political issues. But it cannot be whipped out of the public mind by ridicule; it came when all was hopelessness, and seemed to offer the way to light. Still it is amazing how great has been its success. It is a fad and one of the indices of our time. It is for the universities to overthrow such illogical fallacies of the public mind.

From my standpoint, if Coin's financial doctrines should be adopted, we should come to a financial crisis far greater than the one we have just passed through, and would continue so until we return to the sound principles of finance.

It is the American development of universities that has educated men for business for the manufactories and for the multitudinous walks of life. The old mediaeval idea of Oxford, Cambridge and that class of universities was to educate ministers and lawyers, but our modern university has spread out so that it prepares our people for every walk of life and makes a college education a necessity for modern success. Instead of Harvard and Yale, which were of the old style, we have four hundred new colleges, and Harvard and Yale are now the most radical of the radical in following the new ideas. Formerly on leaving our college, we had our profession picked out, we found our church selected, our political party chosen, and our girl picked out, and we married her. Now we are emancipated. The conservatism of the old is giving away in the progress of our new civilization.

But we find now that socialism is coming to the front, anarchy is raising its head and all conditions of unrest are bringing forth fanatical ideas. Still they need give us no fear. The education of our people will meet them. There is honest integrity and honest knowledge to overthrow them. Mr. Gladstone once told me that we had accomplished more in the way of emancipation in the last fifty years than in any other equal period of the world's existence. He said that he would rather have lived during the last fifty years than during any other half century of history. Let us therefore take a hopeful view of our future.

The strike led by Mr. Debs was one of the symptoms of the unrest. By it he tied up the commercial communication of 20,000,000 of people. By it he paralyzed business all over the land. It paralyzed local politicians and nearly frightened them to death. He even almost paralyzed our friend, Governor Altgeld. And though I differ from President Cleveland in many matters of principle, I will say that he showed the highest degree of patriotism and courage in sending the federal troops to Chicago to open our public communications. Again, I know of nothing in the history of valor and bravery, that is finer in action or was more beneficent in its results than was the charge of that little body of Chicago policemen who, at Haymarket charged over the dead bodies of their murdered comrades.

The cause of all this unrest and the accompanying evils is the wonderful progress in mechanical and industrial lines. They have ushered in new conditions too rapidly for their surroundings and other conditions to keep pace with. The loss is great to those who depend on the old. But the gain for good of the new is infinitesimal. Thirty years ago they said that our professions were crowded, and our learned men were not needed. But now they have found that an education is just as necessary in a business life as in a profession. And the number of employments open to the educated men of our universities, has widened the field of the professions and made education more than ever indispensable in every kind of business life.

To special education, young man, add a broad culture. We should get taken from us this millionaire incubus. The idea is now too prevalent that money is now the measure of success. There are four of our countrymen worth $100,000,000, but there are seventy millions of us that are not. Any man with good health and good habits, and who is able in his library to study and understand the moving questions of the day and who has a university behind him, that man is a success. All else is accumulation.

It is agitation that has made a success of our country. We were afraid to know and proclaim the truth, but now skepticism is fled, because it thrives only when persecuted. We never had so much liberty as today and that liberty is producing conditions infinitely better than we ever had. We saw an instance of that in the recent Chicago election, where civil service was carried by 40,000 majority in the most cosmopolitan city of the world.

I was glad to hear from your invitation that you had here an oratorical society. Somehow our old debating societies have died out since my college days. And as a consequence we never hear the eloquence of thirty years ago. But there is more demand for it than ever. There is more room for a young lawyer of eloquence in New York today than there ever has been for the past thirty years.

Mr. Depew closed his address with a most eloquent declaration that the German philosophy that would have us believe that the world of today is worse and growing worse than that of a half century ago, was monstrous fallacy, and with a touching appeal he pleaded with the young men to believe that the world was always growing better, and that the province of the college man was to contribute his share toward the general result.

ALLAY THE DUST NUISANCE.

A Progressive Gentleman Approves of the Suggestion to Sink a Well and Pump the Water to Standpipes.

ED. COURIER:—A member of the Water Co. remarked yesterday that he did not feel sure that the company was warranted in making an additional contract with the city to furnish it water for sprinkling purposes for a term of five years. Of course, at present, with the new supply, they could do it; but whether they could five years from now was not certain.

In reply to that we can suggest that the plan suggested in yesterday's Courier, and originally proposed, we believe, by Mr. Wines to the council last year, is available at any time, and perhaps would be best for the near future.

The plan is as follows: The large amount of fresh water flowing through the sewer near the electric light plant is positive proof that a good sized well in that locality will furnish all the water Ann Arbor will ever use for sprinkling purposes. By sinking such a well in that vicinity, then set up a steam pump, or rent steam power from the electric company, lay 2 1/2 inch gas pipes through two or three of the principal streets, with stand pipes at convenient points, we shall have all the water necessary at a minimum of cost.

The pipes could be laid very near the surface, as in the winter they could be entirely free from water and no danger come to them through frost. This plan, or some modification of it, it seems to us could be inaugurated and gradually established without increasing the amount of taxes one dollar. It would be economy to appropriate something from the street fund each year, for when streets are sprinkled they wear very much longer than when allowed to be pulverized several months every summer, and ruts and holes dug into them by the narrow-tired vehicles constantly passing over them.

Before casting this proposition aside, our citizens will do well to think it over, talk it over with practical men, and ascertain if it can not be done this way.

Yours for Progress.

WRITTEN IN ARABIC.

The Papers Found in the Captured Goods Were Written in That Language.

The letters, note books, and papers found, in the packages of goods at Lawrence farm, spoken of yesterday, and which puzzled all the officers, and others looking at them, it is found were written in the Arabic language.

The letter to the Waco, Texas, man, tells of the writer's success in smuggling goods, into this country, and may be of much importance to Uncle Sam's officials. The writer had found a new route to get goods into this country without paying the duties, avoiding custom houses and custom house officers.

One note book contained a list of articles simply. The goods coming from Bayreuth, and tells of different stations in this country where the goods are taken to be sold.

The other note book tells of a love affair the writer had got himself tangled up in, and gives some very happy sentiments.

The letter to the Toledo man in no way implicates him in the smuggling business. It appears simply to be a letter to a friend.

What will be done with the prisoners is not decided yet. It is probable, however, if they are wanted at Toledo, Prosecuting Attorney Randall will allow them to be taken there for trial.

The find, however, is no doubt an important one.

The village of Howell votes the 20th inst. on the matter of bonding the village for the payment of the T. & A. bonus. The bonus, together with the money spent in the endeavor to avoid paying it, foots up to a nice little sum, and the tax payers sorrow accordingly.

Here's a victory for Michigan that is worth something. It beats base ball, or glove thumping. At a type writing contest in Cleveland last week Mrs. Loretta Spratt, of Jackson, won first prize for rapid work in a stenographic contest. Won for Michigan. Won of a lady. Good for Jackson. It's in the second congressional district. That's ours. So three cheers for Mrs. Loretta Spratt, on behalf of the district, and three more on behalf of the state.—Adrian Press.

One way to solve the silver problem is to give every man all he wants of it.

The trend of public sentiment is that the next president must come from the west. Ohio appears to feel that way, and certainly Michigan can present a man in every way worthy.

The next meeting of the republican editors of the state will be held at Eastings May 16 and 17. The residents of that city are making extensive preparations for their entertainment on the occasion.

It looks now as though the state of Michigan was going back to the laws of dark ages, when the doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth was considered just the thing. Capital punishment will probably be adopted by the present legislature.—Mt. Clemens Press.

The men who are everlastingly questioning the ability or the motives of others, and who desire to hold the control of affairs in their own grasp, are not always the best men to trust with the power they seek. The green-eyed sneers of such men have sometimes effected their ends, but lose their force after people find out the motive for them.

The Sunday Free Press has letters from eight prominent wealthy men of the nation, upon the question, "Does the possession of riches bring content?" They are unanimous in the belief that it does not. Several of them state that they were happier in their days of poverty than they ever have been since becoming wealthy. And still not one of them would care to exchange his unhappy riches for happy poverty.

The poor old sunflower! How sad that it should ever have been Oscar Wilde's fad! It had always been respectable, favoring the cottages of the lowly, and cheering the yards of the less pretentious. Wilde took it from its modest place, and elevated it beyond its deserts—taking it into the palace and public places. Now it will fall back into its old place and be admired and loved again by its true friends.

The sympathy of the best nations of the world are with Japan, and there are many who would be glad to see her stand up for her rights and whip Russia, too, if necessary. Russia stole an island from Japan in 1875, a deed that the Japs are boiling over yet, but which they were powerless to prevent then. It is to be hoped she will at least not be bluffed off by Russian bullying. It would be simple justice to take that island back, now that she has the power to do it.

If the title to the site of the city hall in Detroit it should rest in the Regents of the University, as stated, the noble generosity of the citizens of Detroit, in always coming to the rescue of the University and its interests which needed, has earned for that city the free and hearty transfer of an interest the Regents may have therein. Detroit has always, from the time the University was first started, and the observatory erected, taken a great interest in its welfare. Its people have given to nearly every fund that has been raised, and the great Columbian Organ never have been secured had it not been for some of the generous spirits there. The U. of M. owes much to Detroit for financial and moral support. To be sure gratitude is a rare article in these greedy, grasping, selfish days, but it is to be hoped that it has not yet entirely and completely died out.

How would Russia feel, if, after a victorious war, some other country should step in and say: "The result of your victory affects my interests, you shall not receive the reward you have earned?" Would Russia stand that sort of interference? Is she not placing herself in a despicable position before the nations of the world? Would it not be better for her, the strong, great nation that she is, to keep her hands off, and not set a precedent for the future that may possibly become a bad one for her own interests?

The last issue of the Ypsilanti Commercial contains the announcement of the withdrawal of Geo. E. Smythe of the firm of Coe & Smythe, he having sold his interest to Mr. E. S. Reed of River Falls, Wis. This change is made necessary by the declining health of Mrs. Smythe. The press throughout the county will regret to lose Mr. Smythe. He has been a genial, pleasant brother of the quill, and always a gentleman, in whatever place he finds himself. May he find success wherever he goes, and we can wish his successor no better fortune than that he may fill the place made vacant by his predecessor.

NATIONAL EDUCATORS.

A Few Words About the Next Annual Meeting of the National Educational Association at Denver.

The next Annual Meeting of the national Educational Association will be held in Denver, Colorado, July 5 to 12. We have just received from the Committee of Arrangements for Michigan, a pretty little folder giving a report of railroad route selected, the accommodations said road offers its patrons and several other matters of interest to those contemplating the trip. A large number of our local teachers are talking of taking the opportunity of visiting Colorado and the great West and Northwest. To such the following extracts from the report of the committee will be of great interest. Superintendent W. S. Perry, of this city is chairman of the committee, W. A. Greeson, of Grand Rapids, and State Supt. H. R. Pattengill, being the other two members.

The committee, after careful investigation, have selected the Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line, as the official route for the State of Michigan from Chicago to Denver. For this occasion the Chicago, North-Western Railway will, on July 4, 5 and 6, sell excursion tickets from Chicago to Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Manitou, at a rate not to exceed one fare for the round trip (with $2.00 added for membership fee). The round trip rate from Chicago will not be higher than $31.50, including membership fee.

The committee has also been advised that from points in Michigan tickets will be sold July 3, 4 and 5 at a rate not to exceed one fare for the round trip to Chicago. From a number of places in the State the rate will be even more favorable. Arrangements have been made so that under certain conditions the return trip can be made at any time prior to Sept. 1, thus affording an excellent opportunity for a summer sojourn in the Rockies, or trips to Salt Lake, the Black Hills, Yellowstone National Park, or the Pacific Coast.

The train service over the Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line is of the very finest. The "Denver Limited" leaves Chicago every night at 10:30 p. m. arriving in Denver the second morning in time for breakfast. This is a solid vestibuled, gaslighted train with Palace Sleeping Cars, Free Reclining Chair Cars, Dining Cars, and at the time of the meeting Tourist Sleeping cars will be added. Sleeping car rates are from $2.50 to $6.00 from Chicago to Denver. In the Dining Car meals will be served "a la Carte." Under this plan either a light lunch or a complete meal can be ordered at a very reasonable price.

The selection of Denver as the next meeting place seems to have been a most happy one, for, aside from the manifold attractions of the beautiful scenery itself, it is so situated that the grand scenery and numerous health and pleasure resorts of Colorado and Utah including Colorado Springs, Manitou, Estes Park, Glenwood Springs, Pikes Peak, The Loop, Garden of the Gods, Royal Gorge, Totter Gorge, Salt Lake, Ogden and many others, are all within easy reach and can be visited at a reasonable expense. Special side trips have been arranged for at very low rates. Yellowstone Park, Black Hills and the Pacific Coast can also be reached at special cheap rates.

In Denver the committee have selected Broadway Hotel as headquarters for the Michigan delegation. The rates at this hotel are $1.50 per day for board and room. The hotel is convenient to the hall where the meetings of the Association are to be held. The rates allowed are available for anyone desiring to make this trip at the time of the meeting, whether they are teachers or not.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

A Sketch of Martinus Sievking.

As knowledge of the career of an artist always adds to the interest of the audience, we give a short account of Martinus Sievking, the pianist of the Festival.

Martinus Sievking is a Hollander by birth, coming from a very old and aristocratic family, which dates its ancestry back into the 15th century, and still includes among its members many famous statesmen and professional men. He was born in Amsterdam March 24, 1867, from musical parents, his father being a well known local musician and his mother a noted opera singer.

From his infancy he displayed characteristics indicative of his future career. His parents testify that as soon as old enough to sit up in the cradle he would sway his body back and forward to any music he heard, changing his movements accurately to suit the change of time.

His first instruction he received from his father, who led him through the first tedious technical steps of his study. After having played in public with marked success, at the age of ten years, the First Concerto of Beethoven, he was placed under the tutelage of two good masters. Franz Coenen, a famous Dutch master, gave him instruction in harmony, counterpoint, composition and orchestration; and Julius Kontgen (a first prize Leipzig Conservatory pupil) in the higher art of solo playing. This study continued without interruption for eight years, when his masters informed him that they could teach him no more, and that all he needed in the future was contact with the world and experience.

He first went to Paris, where in two years his unaided efforts brought him such success as to have a suite of his compositions played by the orchestra of M. Lamoureux, then, as now, considered to be the finest orchestra in the world.

He first went to London, in 1890, where his uncle, Sir Henry Sievking, is physician to Queen Victoria. From here he made two tours with a concert company, including Edward Lloyd, the famous tenor, Fernando Arnoz, violinist to the Queen of Spain, and J. P. the famous cellist. Following these tours in the same year were two tours with Patti, who showed her appreciation of his work by presenting him at the end of the tour with a beautiful diamond pin, together with a signed portrait of herself.

He then decided to come to this country to see the World's Fair, and making many friends, was finally persuaded into remaining here, where he has since been most successful.

Sidetracking Whitmore Lake.

The long talked of plan of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern Michigan railway to shorten its route is about to be put in practical form. The plan is a comprehensive one. The grade north of the city of Ann Arbor is very steep, and cannot be changed without a heavy expense. The grade is so steep that it has interfered with the increasing freight traffic. Either small trains had to be hauled or additional locomotives used to help the trains over the grade.

Many preliminary surveys have been made. The result of this work has been to show that the most feasible grade is a line commencing about half a mile north west of Emery about a mile three miles west of Whitmore Lake and across Strawberry Point between the two lakes striking the main line near Hamburg. The grade on this line would hardly be up to the average of the present main line and the heaviest freight train could be hauled without difficulty.

At the present time the main line of the road has the anomaly of being two parts, three miles of Grand Trunk track being used between Whitmore Lake and Hamburg Junction.

The company proposes to make inducements for people who desire to build cottages at the lakes. The new line will also shorten the distance three miles. If another change of line north of Hamburg, which has been considered, will be made, a number of very pretty lakes in Oakland county will be touched.

It is to be regretted that Whitmore Lake will be side tracked, as Ann Arbor people have learned to consider it almost as a part of the city. It will necessarily take a year to do the work. Everyone will therefore do well to visit Whitmore Lake this summer.

R. D. Thompson, of the Ann Arbor road, is now engaged in securing the right of way for the proposed change of route.—Argus.

The above is not exactly correct. For instance, to touch the lakes in Oakland county the road would have to go several miles east. Then again the road has no design of shutting out Whitmore Lake, we are informed, and will run two and one-half miles west of Emery instead of the distance stated.

THE KICKER STILL LIVES.

He has Always Opposed Public Improvements in Ann Arbor.

Whenever any public improvement is proposed there are always those who object.

When the water works were put in there were kickers.

When the electric lights were put in it caused a howl.

When the M. C. R. R. put its new station on a level with the tracks, there were hundreds who kicked because the building was not erected on top of the hill.

When the street cars were given permission to lay their tracks upon our streets, the objectors went so far as to endeavor to prevent the enterprise by bringing suit in the courts. When the council first gave permission to residence owners to extend their lawns and thus beautify the streets and save the shade trees, there were hundreds who called it an outrage and advocated plowing said improvements up, and the delivery boys were encouraged by some people to drive over those extensions and continue their old practice of using the shade trees for hitching posts.

And so on indefinitely. And yet all these improvements went through, and it is very difficult now to find a person willing to admit that he opposed any of them, or even had a word to say in opposition.

That will be just the outcome of the street sprinkling business. It is not a luxury, but a necessity that the good health as well as the comfort of our city demands, and there will be a way to accomplish it cheaply and well.

The people who figure that it will cost $10,000 or $15,000 to sprinkle our streets are those who for one reason or another are opposed to it.

The principal streets can be sprinkled at a moderate cost. No one propose to sprinkle all the streets of the city. That could not be done, but the main business and resident streets can be kept in a condition that makes life endurable, and at a moderate cost.

The city need not depend upon the City Water Works for water to use for street sprinkling purposes. There is an inexhaustible supply of water almost anywhere along the line of Allen Creek. A well could be sunk say on W. Washington st., near the Electric Light Works. Power could be rented at a small cost, a pump put in and the water pumped to tanks situated at various places about the city to be used for sprinkling purposes.

The city has not given away the right to use its own streets to lay pipe for this purpose, and water could be furnished at a mere nominal price. The City Water Works Co. has its hands full in furnishing sufficient water for its daily consumers. Here is a way to relieve it of this much, and at the same time give the city a relief from the dust nuisance. This plan is both feasible and practical. The great cost in street sprinkling is the water. Here is a way to obtain water cheap.

All that is really needed in this matter is a determination on the part of the friends of this public enterprise to push it through to success.

As a gentleman remarked yesterday? Let the principal streets of this city be sprinkled, and the dust nuisance abated, and Ann Arbor's fame as a desirable residence city will be at once increased twenty five per cent.

These improvements are all extensively advertised. There go out from this city to hundreds and thousands of homes all over this broad land, every year messengers of Ann Arbor's beauty, thrift, enterprise and desirability as a city of homes. This improvement is one that will aid wonderfully in advertising the city.

And we hope and believe that it will eventually be crowned with success.

It is a good thing. Push it along.

Emil Mollenhauer.

A younger member of a distinguished family of musicians, was born in New York in 1855. His precocity as a violinist, when but a boy of fifteen, attracted the attention of Theodore Thomas who added him as first violinist to his famous orchestra. Discovering later that the lad's attainments as a pianist were little, if anything, short of his ability as a violinist, he was frequently called upon to accompany on the piano many of the greatest artists in the world. For several years he was one of the leading violinists of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under Wilhelm Gericke, and more lately has been associated with the Boston Germania Orchestra and Military Band as leader and conductor of that time-honored organization, which position he still holds.

As conductor, he has few equals, and has during the present season served as conductor at numerous musical festivals throughout the country. He has made of the Boston Festival Orchestra a superb concert organization. He has won a very enviable reputation in Boston, and in the estimation of the majority of musicians is destined to become one of the great conductors of the world. In this opinion his many friends in Ann Arbor will most assuredly agree.

SHALL THEY BE SPRINKLED?

A Citizen Who Believes it is Not Only Possible but Practicable, and Gives Some Wise Suggestions.

The following letter to the Courier in reference to the question which is being so thoroughly agitated, that of sprinkling the streets, is given place with pleasure.

Dear Sir: I notice by the matter published in the papers of late that there is serious talk about sprinkling our streets. It cannot be done too soon. The item of expense is the only thing in the way, of course. This is one of those things that we should go into gradually, learning as much as possible, to be taken advantage of in the future.

Let the common council divide the city up into districts and at first sprinkle but one or two of them, assessing the cost upon the district sprinkled. If the council does not think itself competent under the present charter to assess the cost in this way, there is still time to go to Lansing and have the proper amendment passed, using one of the skeleton bills now there, and in the hands of the proper committee.

In Santa Clara county, Cal., there are 200 miles of road sprinkled at the public expense. One wagon and team goes over five miles of road twice a day. The water for the wagons is raised by horse power, the same team raising the water and distributing it on the highway.

The water for sprinkling the roads in Santa Clara Co. Cal., is obtained from creeks, and wells sunk for the purpose along the roads. In some places hydraulic rams are used to raise the water into tanks, in others gasoline engines, and in others, horse-power.

It is found that when roads are sprinkled daily, all ruts and chuck-holes disappear and the smooth road bed that is substituted saves many a dollar in the way of wagon repairs and horseflesh. So they say in Santa Clara Co. Cal.

TIRED WOMAN.

The Housewife, the Farmer and the Toilers of all Vocations.

Depression of the nervous system at the approach of spring is a fertile source of blood impurities. That tired feeling, which is the natural result of the depressing effect of warm weather immediately after the invigorating cold of winter, quickly disappears when Pe-ru-na is taken. Thousands are daily testifying to its priceless benefit. General lassitude, dull, heavy sensations, continual tired feelings, with irregular appetite, and sometimes loss of sleep. Pe-ru-na meets every indication and proves itself to be perfectly adapted to all their varied peculiarities. Pe-ru-na invigorates the system, rejuvenates the feelings, restores the normal appetite and procures regular sleep.

This tired-out feeling is especially true of the housewife in spring time—used up fagged out, jaded and weak. There are thousands of them every where. A few bottles of Pe-ru-na would do them untold benefit. As a tonic and nerve invigorator it has no equal. It builds up the nerves, it gives strength to the circulation and at once restores the appetite and digestion. No feeble woman should be without Pe-ru-na.

COOLEY BUST DEDICATION.

Arrangements Almost Completed for the Event of the Year in the Law Department.

Chairman Gardner, of the committee on the Cooley bust dedication, told the Courier this morning that arrangements were now almost completed for the dedication. The date is now dependent upon Judge Hornblower, of New York, but will be either May 20 or 24, the date being at his option.

Judge Hornblower will speak for the nation concerning Judge Cooley. Gov. Rich, it is expected, will speak in behalf of the people of the state. Professor Levi T. Griffin will give an address for the faculty, and R. J. Barr will present the bust to the regents in behalf of the class. Prof. Stanley will see that appropriate music is provided.

The bust, which is now completed and is eminently satisfactory to Judge Cooley and his family, will probably be placed in the law library. It will be on a mahogany pedestal, on which will be a bronze plate containing the names of all members of the class. The exercises upon the dedication will take place on the afternoon of the date chosen and will be held in University hall.

Proposed S. C. A. Amendment Did Not Receive Enough Votes.

The proposition to divide the S. C. A. work into two departments, so that the men and women would each pursue separate lines of work, was defeated at the business meeting of the association Wednesday after a hot debate of over two hours. The proposed amendment to the constitution has developed a contest between the faction desiring a Y. M. C. A. organized in the S. C. A., and those desiring simply separate lines of work among the two sexes. Last night the Y. M. C. A. faction fought hard to defeat the amendment, with the result that the proposition was lost on a vote of 39 to 32, it requiring a two-thirds vote to amend the constitution. A large number, however, had left the hall before the matter came to a vote and the ballot was light. The amendment will be taken off the table at the next meeting and an attempt made to pass it again. That the Y. M. C. A. seems to be conceded, but how they will now act with reference to the other plan is a matter to be decided by future meeting.

GIVEN A HEARTY RECEPTION.

James Mays the Oratorical Victor in the Hands of Admiring Students.

The voices that awoke a good many people from the sleep of the just at 12 o'clock Saturday night was due to the return of J. H. Mays, from the scene of victory in Iowa City. He and Mr. Ingraham were met at the depot by a large number of students, and were taken to a carriage, the horses were detached, and after speeches by Messrs. Mays and Ingraham, telling about the contest, the students pulled the hack through Main street and up Liberty to State. There a stop was made and a vote taken as to whether President Angell should be invited to make a speech. It was decided that he should and the crowd proceeded to his residence, yelling in front of it for half an hour in a manner more unceremonious than sensible. Finding that President Angell would not consent to his part on the program, the crowd returned to Calkins' hall on State street, where an impromptu banquet was spread and several speeches were made, among the speakers being Messrs. Bingham, Barr, Wedemeyer, Sadler, Wilcox, Rubin and President Diehl of the Oratorical association.

DUTCH CIGAR SHARPERS.

A Queer Sort of Roping-in That Is Practiced in Rotterdam.

"Americans are apt to think that they belong to the only enterprising nation in the world," said a New Yorker lately returned from Europe to a New York Sun man, "but I had a little experience in Holland recently which showed me that business is business all the world over. I was walking through one of the principal squares of Rotterdam smoking a cigar, when I was approached by a well-dressed, middle-aged man, who had an unlighted cigar in his hand. He stopped me, and in good English asked me for a light. I gave him a light, and was about passing on when he said: 'I see that you are smoking a Dutch cigar. Would you mind telling me where you bought it, and what you paid for it?' Though somewhat surprised at the request, I told him I had bought it in a large shop in Hoog straat, and that I had paid 10 cents (about 3 cents American money) for it. 'The reason I asked, he said, 'is that they do not deal honestly with foreigners here. You should have got a better cigar for that money. If you wish I can show you the place where I get my cigars, and where you can get twice as good a cigar for the same price as the one you are smoking.' As I had intended to lay in a supply of cigars for a few days at least, and as I had nothing else to do, I agreed to go with him.

"He led the way through quaint and crooked streets and over many canals to a tiny tobacco shop in a narrow, out-of-the-way street. We entered the shop, and my new found friend had a brief conversation in Dutch with the woman behind the counter, which resulted in the production of a box of cigars from a shelf near by. Taking my cigar gently out of my hand my mentor sniffed at it, and then with a sudden gesture of disgust threw it out of the doors. He then took a cigar from the box and offered it to me to try, saying that it would not cost me anything. While I was smoking this in a tentative way he had another conversation with the shopkeeper, and then, having apparently arrived at some compromise, he told me, with a glad light in his eyes, that she had agreed to let him have the whole box of fifty for 4 guilders (about $1.60), and seemed very much pained when I told him I did not care for so many, as I had to pass the English custom house in a day or two. I finally bought half the box and departed.

Incrustation of Boilers.

The proposed plan of preventing the incrustation or corrosion of boilers by means of a certain enameling process has for some time engaged the attention of engineers, and favorable results are said to have attended its use. According to the account given of this method, the interior surfaces are coated with a deposit in the form of a smooth black film of enamel, thick enough to protect the metal underneath from corrosion, and so thin that the boiler loses none of its steam generating power; the application is entirely simple, the material employed being injected into the boiler through a cock of lubricator pattern at such times as desired, the surface below the water level thus becoming coated with the enamel. It is claimed for this process, among its various advantages, that the enamel is impervious to acids, protects the boiler from the corrosive agents contained in almost if not all waters, prevents incrustations, does not harm the boilers, and is of slight cost.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous symptom. It means a lack of vitality in the blood—a decrease of the red corpuscles upon which the strength and richness of the blood depends. It comes especially in the Spring because the system has been subjected to unusual demands during the cold weather. The wasted vigor must be re-supplied. That tired feeling must be overcome, or else the approaching hot weather will have most serious effects. The best

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Kinky Cure," "So-To-Be," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.
Yours truly,

The building has been closed for one week to arrange for the great sale. The entire building will be open again and the fire sale will commence Saturday, May 11, at 10 o'clock a. m., and last for five days only. Everything will be sold at retail at 33 percent less than actual cost to manufacture. The stock consists of Fine Clothing for Men's, Boys' and Children's wear. $169,500 worth of Fine Tailor-Made Clothing for Men's, Boys' and Children's wear, saved from the late Cincinnati fire, must be sold by order of the insurance companies. The appraisers for the insurance companies, after carefully examining the stock of clothing, concluded the same was not badly damaged as claimed by the assured manufacturer, and failing to agree as to the actual loss, were forced to take the stock, turn it into money, and the goods must be sold at once in order to make a final settlement. All goods guaranteed as represented or money refunded.

All goods are appraised at 33 cents on a dollar at manufacturer's cost. As this is all we want for them, the great fire sale will enable the people of this city and vicinity to secure their clothing for almost nothing. Sale will positively last for five days only. As the time of the Great Sale is limited, everything will go off rapidly. This is the first time a sale of such extraordinary magnitude has ever taken place in this city, and may never occur again. In order to show what gigantic bargains will be offered, a few prices are mentioned; and remember there are 4,000 different articles we cannot mention here. Save this, bring it with you, and ask for the following mentioned articles, and remember, the Great Sale will last for FIVE DAYS ONLY.

A young man about 22 years of age, whose father is a commission merchant, had sent him out in the country to make some purchases. He came to Ypsilanti, met a "dealer" who brought him here to Ann Arbor where they met another "dealer." Between the two "dealers" the young man found himself about $60 out of pocket, and had to borrow $5 of one of his new made friends to get out of town on. It is thought that the incident may cause some trouble for some parties interested in "selling" the young man.

John C. Snow who at one time did the principal draying business of Ann Arbor, but who left here in 1878, to reside in Allen, Gratiot county, is in the city to-day. The old gentleman has retained among his keep-sakes orders from some of the principal and prominent men of the city, many of whom are now gone. His little souvenir note book has the autograph of the late Dr. Haven, and Dr. Frieze, of Dr. Angell, and Gov. Felch, etc. He placed the first piano ever in University Hall. He is considerable of a coin gatherer and stamp collector also, and has over 700 different coins that he has picked up in his business.

If you want to get consumption, diphtheria, typhoid fever, pneumonia and almost everything else that is going, pet and fondle a dog. Have him live in your house and sleep in your bed. A French physician, Dr. Meguin, calls a dog "an arsenal of diseases." Hydrophobia comes from filthy feeding on the part of dogs, he says. Dogs are peculiarly sensitive to consumption, he informs us, and no animal has done so much to spread infectious diseases of all kinds as this pet of men and especially of women. Human beings very readily take consumption from dogs.

A man by the name of Jacob Kapp who lives south of the T. & A. A. tracks on Brown st., in the 7th ward was trundling a wheelbarrow along on the railroad ties Saturday a. m. when all at once a train appeared. Kapp turned out it seems, but did not get quite far enough away, and being a little deaf he probably did not fully realize his danger. The wheelbarrow was hit by the engine and Kapp was thrown violently to the ground and seriously injured. One arm was broken, as was also his collar bone and hip bone. Dr. Herdman, the attending physician, believes the man will recover, however, although the case is a serious one.

Chas. C. Miller died Saturday a. m. at 12:20 o'clock, of consumption, at the home of his father George Miller, at 42 N. Division st., aged 23 years and five months. Funeral will be held Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock at the house. Rev. Max Hein officiating. The deceased was a brother of Ex-City Clerk Miller, and of Geo. Miller of the firm of Wahr & Miller. He was a photographer by trade, and had the making of a good artist in him. He had been ill nearly all winter, but rallied some days ago, and it was thought he was on the mend; but he was taken with a hemorrhage of the lungs last night and died this morning as stated. He had many friends, and there are many who sympathize with the family in their affliction.

Andrew Mitchell, the celebrated chemist, formerly professor in chemistry in the University of Michigan, writes: I have made a careful examination of Gessler's Magle Headache wafers and find them free from Chloral or any harmful narcotics. 98% of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, be cured. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like palliatives.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

A recent wool circular contains the following information: "The values of wools have undergone a strange metamorphosis in another fashion by shrinking. Scoured values have been so crushed together that grades are much less regular than before 1892. In the old days there was a difference of 20 to 25 cents the scoured pound between extreme grades. Now a XX fine Chio costs only three cents a scoured pound more than a 1-4 blood combing. March 1, 1893, Ohio XX scoured wool cost 69c., same date in 1895 same grade wool cost 35c. Michigan X scoured was worth 62c. in March 1893, and 32c in March 1895. March 1893, 1-4 blood combing wool cost scoured 47 c., cost 32c in March, 1895."

Denison as chairman, to act with the other organizations of the parish to secure entertainment, and make arrangements for the convention.

Charles Griener, of the Northside, attempted to raise some garden truck this spring, but as fast as the plants would come up they would be trampled down and destroyed by dogs. Mr. Griener notified the several owners of the mauling canines that if the animals were not kept off his premises he would get mad and hurt some of them. The owners paid no attention to the warning, and the dogs kept on destroying his garden. A few days ago he loaded up an old shot gun with bird shot and blazed away at them. It had the effect of scaring the dogs, but the owner of one of them got wrathful about it, and had Griener arrested for shooting within the city limits. He was before Justice Pond this morning, who upon hearing all the evidence in the case, discharged the prisoner, upon his paying the costs in the case. It is possible that the gun may be loaded with something heavier next time, and as near as we are able to learn, the neighbors believe Griener would be justifiable if it was.

The Ypsilanti Commercial Insinuates that it is immoral to go fishing on Sunday. It may be that it is, but it makes some difference what sort of a package one carries his bait in. There are very few Ann Arborites who adopt the Ypsilanti plan of carrying their bait in a bottle.

What a difference there is in places. Up at Grand Rapids the postmaster has been authorized to rent a number of bicycles for the use of the mail carriers, and at the end of a month report the advantages to be obtained, if any, from their use. Here in Ann Arbor, not so very long ago, a carrier who had the temerity to ride his wheel while making collections, was reported for daring to do such a barbarous thing, and was censured for the deed. Does the world progress or recede?

The "Strollers" of Ann Arbor, were greeted with a very small audience here Tuesday night, but they gave a first class entertainment, nevertheless. The work of Mr. Handy as a reciter and Mr. Alexander's art talk were especially pleasing to the audience. The musical part of the program was also warmly received. The Strollers are good entertainers and it is unfortunate that their entertainment was given so late in the season, for they are certainly deserving of hearty support.—Dexter Leader.

May 1st of all the year has ever been the day of changes, when the domestic coxrs and windows open out on new scenes, when childhood comes in possession of a fresh romping ground when the mother trains the ivy and the vine over the doors and windows of a new home, when the father passes the evening hours with his children under a broader or narrower shade. In the cities the vans and the carts are crossing the busy streets to and fro with the earthly home effects of the mechanic and the laborer. Instability seems to be the order, with temporary restlessness as the immediate sequel. When domestic equilibrium is established and maintained in harmony, then and not till then have we learned life's central object lesson of peace and happiness.

It may seem a little strange that the government should go way down into Kentucky and Florida for contractors to carry the mails in this county, but such is the fact. A man from Florida has the contract for carrying the mail from here to Dixboro and Geer, while a Kentuckian has the contract for carrying Uncle Sam's mail matter between this city Weinsberg and Eckert. These contractors are not very happy, either. The Florida man has to pay the sub-contractor more than he himself receives and the Kentuckian is trying, with poor prospects, to get out even. The Southerners have begun to realize that white labor and horse hire costs more up north than colored labor and mule hire does in the south. They will probably not get their fingers burned a second time.

SENATOR DANIEL'S LECTURE.

Americanism Expounded by the Eloquent Virginian Last Night.

Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia, spoke before an audience nearly filling University hall last evening, on "Americanism and the Monroe Doctrine," his lecture being the last one of the S. L. A. series for 1894-5. His lecture was greatly enjoyed, especially the portions relating to the current Nicaraguan troubles. He was eloquent at times and held the attention of his audience in a masterly manner.

Senator Daniel said that a great deal had been written on Americans but that no one had ever defined Americanism. In his opinion, it consisted of several leading characteristics, for traits, that were predominant among our fellow countrymen. The most prominent one of these was go-ahead-activeness, followed by self-reliance; inventiveness, partysm and above all things, publicity of everything.

He said: "I believe that the secret ballot system now in vogue throughout the land should be revised, and that all voting should be done viva voce. The people are the sovereign power of this country, controlling all governmental affairs. Now the president appoints all his officers openly and submits them to the senate. The president is the servant of the people. And I advocate that if we want purity in politics, the only way to accomplish it is to have each man stand out and openly state for whom he has voted. This is Americanism, pure and simple.

"As self-reliance is one of the elemental principles of the American people, and as we have existed for the past years without any standing army, and as our volunteer militia are to be relied upon in an emergency, I am thoroughly opposed to increasing the standing army.

"Some of the other characteristics of Americanism are: Patriotism, independence, constitutionalism, unionism, nationalism, raceism and stateism.

"The dangerous tendencies that the signs of the times point to are the concentration of wealth and power and the flocking of the people to the cities. The political powers of the federal government are fast becoming overwhelmed with business that they cannot attend to. These conditions have grown out of a peculiar individualism, which is greater than the power of the government itself. It is a natural result of freedom. It lies with the different states to counteract these tendencies.

"The Monroe doctrine is Americanism pure and simple, put into effect beyond our boundaries. James Monroe, after whom this doctrine was named was the fifth president of the country, and was a man of restless activity. No American ever lived who was in closer touch with his country. His term of office was included in that part of our national history commonly called the era of good feeling. He was a statesman, equaled by few and surpassed by none. At the time Monroe issued his famous doctrine, there were too incidents attracting attention in the diplomatic world. At this time Russia had issued a decree forbidding anyone fishing within three hundred miles of the Aleutian Islands. In Europe the Holy Alliance, or Conspiracy of Kings, as it was called here, had just been formed. A few years previous to this the revolt of Spanish colonies in Central America had taken place. Spain determined to enforce her claims with the sword, and in this was backed by the Holy Alliance. Great Britain became alarmed and consulted the United States as to the best methods of forcing Spain to desist from her attempt. Monroe at this time consulted Jefferson and Madison, and the famous Monroe Doctrine was advocated by both of them. Jefferson said that our first maxim was never to take part in any European controversy and never to allow any European power to oppress the nations of the two Americas. This sentiment was welcomed throughout England, South America and the United States. But shortly afterward the doctrine, under changed circumstances, became distasteful to England for she could not gain any new territory under its provisions.

"There are four main ideas in the Monroe Doctrine. First, it advocates a non-interference on our part with political conditions in Europe. Second, it advocates a non-interference with the then existing state of affairs. Third, it prohibits an extension of European colonization and an extension of the political system of the European powers on the two continents. Fourth, it guarantees freedom from oppression by European nations to the now existing independent states and nations of the two Americas.

"This doctrine was not formally made a law of the land, but it is like the old common law of England, written in the hearts of all loyal citizens, and freely stated is merely the policy of the country declared by Monroe. It has been a great effect on the destinies of the South American countries. Through its beneficent operations, liberty and freedom have become household words therein. The doctrine was a product of the spirit of the times and has often been called the second declaration of independence. John Quincy

Adams advocated its principles, President Pope reiterated it in 1848, during the Yucatan trouble, in 1852 it was brought to Great Britain's notice in the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, General Grant made preparations to enforce it when Maximilian obtained control of the Mexican government, and it was mostly through this that he was forced to retire. When the Panama canal was started, Secretary Blaine called the attention of France to it, and indeed, all the leading men of the country have advocated it.

"In regard to the recent Nicaraguan trouble, I do not think that England has overstepped herself, but she is on the perilous verge of it. If, as the time goes on, it turns out that Great Britain has been employing these means to gain a foothold in Central America, then it will become our proud duty, and our rightful one, as the mother republic to take the part of both Venezuela and Nicaragua and demand that England shall desist. We have denied these countries the right to seek European protection, and if they are unlawfully oppressed, it is our duty to protect them. As matters now stand, I think that Secretary Gresham has taken the correct view."

William H. Rieger.

William H. Rieger has never sung in Ann Arbor. It is safe to say, however that he is easily the most important tenor soloist who has ever sung under the auspices of the Choral Union. He is the favorite tenor of the present time, and has won triumph after triumph at the most important musical events of the last few years.

Mr. Wm. H. Rieger as "Dunker" was admirable and won an abundance of deserved applause.—Spy, Worcester, Mass., Sept. 27, '93.

Mr. Wm. H. Rieger made his hit in the opening recitative "The Moonlight Glitters," and did not lose it in the aria which followed. Mme. Nordica and Mr. Rieger made notable features of the duets.—Post, Worcester, Mass., Sept. 27, '93.

Mme. Nordica sang superbly, and Mr. Rieger won an equally pronounced success.—Herald, Boston, Mass., Sept. 27th, '93.

Mr. Wm. H. Rieger's beautiful tenor was heard to great advantage. The smooth flowing melodies were given in an artistic manner, just captivating the audience, his high tones in the aria were exquisite; had the music been less common-place, this number sung so beautifully would have been one of the chief gems of the evening.—The Republican, Springfield Mass., September 27th, '93.

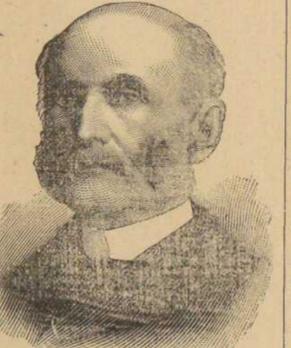

The honors were fairly divided between Mme. Nordica and William H. Rieger, the aria from "Mighty Kings" by the former and "Sound an Alarm" by the latter aroused intense enthusiasm. Mr. Rieger's interpretation of "Judas" was one of the best things that has been done at Worcester.—Herald, New York City, Sept. '93.

W. J. BRODIE.

1057 W. Polk St., CHICAGO, Oct. 27, 1895. THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO.: Gentlemen—Solely in the interest of others who are, or may become similarly affected with myself, I venture to offer my experience with the use of the Owen Electric Belt, and that I am actuated entirely by that motive, must be apparent from the fact that until you see my name and address recorded on this letter you had no knowledge of either. I had long been a sufferer from chronic dyspepsia and nervous prostration, contracted or aggravated by many years residence in the East Indies. About three years ago I purchased one of your Belts in the hope that its use might afford me some relief, and wore it continuously as directed for about four hours every afternoon for a month or so, and the result was perfectly marvelous. My indigestion with all its attendant miseries, nervousness, depression, irritability and insomnia, from which latter I was a great sufferer, have disappeared. I then discontinued the use of the Belt (the existence of which I had indeed forgotten), until about six weeks ago, when a recurrence of my old trouble very forcibly reminded me of it. I again put it into wear (after ceasing its use for over one and one-half years), and with the same extraordinary results, being again restored to health, strength and vigor, after wearing it for only ten days. Under these circumstances I can most emphatically recommend to others suffering from the ailments which I have endeavored to describe, the adoption of the use of the Owen Electric Belt. I had long been aware of the curative powers of electricity from what I had read on the subject, and on my return to England I purchased from Pulvermacher of Regent Street London, the combined chain bands, of which he is the patentee, for which I paid three guineas, and although I must admit that I derived some benefit from their use, I am bound to say the general result did not approach the benefit derived from the use of the Owen Belt, besides which its utility is so great an improvement in comfort and convenience; Pulvermacher's being cumbersome and complicated in adjusting to the body, besides causing from being uncovered, blisters and sores, and above all not being able to regulate the current as is the case in the Owen Electric Belt. You are at perfect liberty to make what use you think fit of this letter, and I shall be glad to answer either verbally or by letter any inquiry made from me on this subject. I am, gentlemen, Yours respectfully,

W. J. BRODIE.

GLASS OF FASHION.

SOME NEW NOVELTIES FOR FEMINE WEAR.

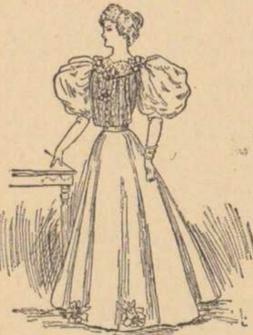

A Stylish and Dressy Jacket for Street Wear—A Gown and Some Advice About It—Current Notes of the Modes.

EVERY FEW OF last season's fancy capes will be eligible for wear this spring. Little lap-seam, tallormade melton affairs for the street and promenade are all right, while for reception, calling, and "dress" the only correct thing is a cape of changeable silk, reaching barely to the elbows, and finished at the edge with a close ruche or ruche of the silk. Over this is set a cape of lace or perforated cloth. Sometimes the lace is attached to the silk foundation, but more often it is free about the neck comes a high, soft ruche of lace, or a feather collar. Such capes are new, very dressy, warmer than they look, and they have the advantage of "going" with almost any shade of dress. Among the new models was a dainty one embroidered with sequins and similar beads on black velvet. It was quite short, very full around the edge, and was lined with shot silk that toned with the sequins. The design of the embroidery was conventional, and here and there little scrolls came out of the design and ran up toward the neck. A full chiffon ruche and two blue silk poppies trimmed the neck. The poppies were impossible flowers, but that does not matter nowadays, and some such bit of brightness is essential. The prize trick of making over was done by a girl who, having cut out the central medallion of her parasol cover, that she might make a place for her head to go through, utilized the removed central medallion for the crown of a hat and drove all her friends nearly crazy with envy.

Advice About a Gown.

For the bodice of the dress shown in illustration there is a fitted blue lining covered with spangled tulle, and the bouffant front is further enriched by several rows of white velvet ribbon embroidered with jet and steel. A tiny yoke of white velvet, also embroidered, almost fills in the cut-out, and a blue velvet belt comes around the waist. Blue velvet also gives the sleeves and bows of the same ribbon dot the skirt and bodice. All this is beautiful and elegant, and is all right for the lucky few who can afford such richness, but for the others, the whooping big majority as electors put it, it gives a chance for a timely bit of advice. It is that, now fashions change so rapidly, it is not necessary to buy the best materials for a party gown. All sorts of silks come with a big red "cotton filled" in them; these silks look well, they are stiff enough to stand out nicely in sleeves, and they are almost as cheap as good cotton. While the purchase of cotton-and-wool goods for street wear, or of cotton velvets or cheap satins and silks for dresses that are to constitute a stand-by part of the wardrobe is unwise, the party gown that at best can be worn only two or three times may as well be of some inexpensive material that need not be kept to make over when the gown is worn. A little party gown for a brunette of slender figure made of straw-colored silk of the suggested sort, with a little front of white tulle, is as pretty as can be, with just a plain, wide skirt and a wide-belted bodice fitted simply to that too much strain need not come in the material. Such a dress can, perhaps, be considered possible in a money way, when real good material would make the gown out of the question. Time was when it was worth while to buy rich goods and have them cleaned for several wears, but it is as cheap and a lot more fun to get new stuff these days.

For Fashion's Critics.

If the day ever comes when critics will abandon the silly twaddle about fashion in which they have so long indulged, the world will be much the rainer by the change. For a good many years fashion, its frivolity, its senselessness, its absurdity and its uselessness, has been the subject of screeds without number, each critic apparently trying to hold it up to keener ridicule than his predecessor. As a matter of fact, on fashion and its changes rest the foundations of commercial prosperity. If the old were as pleasing as the new, many of the factories would go out of business, the importers would go to the trouble and expense of importing goods for which there was no imperative demand, and, one by one, industries that employ thousands upon thousands of persons would languish and die. If a five-year-old dress was as pleasing as a new one, women would not take the trouble and worry that they now do to provide fresh costumes for all seasons; but this thing which we call fashion demands novelty and variety, and to meet its requirements manufactures and trade are ever kept alive. Within reasonable limits, therefore, fashion, as we now use the term, means business prosperity and gainful occupations to the many. It would be a good idea to elevate the literature of fashion to its proper plane and do away with much of the silliness and frivolity that characterize it.

Women on Paris Streets.

Women as well as men are employed to remove the dirt from the streets of Paris. Groups of both sexes, armed with brooms, gather at certain points all over the city, especially about the Opera and the Place de la Bastille. Employees of the prefecture promptly appear and divide them into brigades, assigning to each a certain section from which the snow, ice or dirt is to be removed or deprived of its dangers to the pedestrian, for it is the duty of the "direction of public ways," as the street-cleaning department is called, to clean off the sidewalks as well as the streets, and to sprinkle cinders in slippery places. The coming of the snow means much to the Parisian poor, and cloudy skies are anxiously watched and a heavy snowstorm hailed with delight. In winter the daylight is short, so the sweeper's work begins and ends in darkness. The fixed wage of ten-hour's labor is five francs, or about $1 in American money. In Munich, too, the women street-sweepers are a familiar spectacle. They have not only brooms but shovels, and they wear men's boots, felt hats and wadded woolen jackets. The stranger at first does not distinguish them from the men.

Stylish and Dressy.

There are hardly as many new jackets offered as is customary at this season, but the artist contributes a stylish and dressy one in the accompanying sketch. Made of a brown silk and wool texture, it is cut with a moderately long and deeply plaited bodice. Its fronts turn back in revers covered with gulfure, and four buttons are placed in the waist. The garment hooks in front and has a gathered vest of white silk partly covered with gulfure in addition to a jabot of the white silk. A folded collar of the latter finishes the neck, but the full sleeves are of the mixed goods.

With Fancy Waists.

Black satin and brocade, crepon and woolen goods are being made up into skirts, to be worn with fancy waists. These skirts are flaring at the hem and are quite long, rather too long, indeed, for comfortable walking, but this objection is made light of by ladies who declare that even though the skirts are ordinary walking length, it is necessary to raise them a little to avoid the continual striking on the pavements, which discolors and wears them off in less time than it takes to talk about it. Indeed, a single promenade of any length takes the first freshness from any skirt if it is allowed to hang, scraping the walks at every step. If it is short enough entirely to clear, it is not considered good form, and therefore women have compromised by slightly raising it and wearing it comfortably on.

THE LAND OF PHILISTIA.

Rev. Dr. Cobern Tells of His Experiences in a Strange and Dangerous Land.

Rev. Dr. Cobern, in the Methodist church last Sunday evening, began a series of lectures on his trip through the unknown land of Philistia. He went by the old royal road which had been traveled by Nebuchadnezzar and the Pharaoh of the Oppression, and saw many strange sights. His Arab couiser was a remarkable animal, being of such a genuine antiquity that no beating could hurry him. "The west was on his back and the Orient was in his heels." He seemed a relic of the forgotten past and as he would stop at times and gaze mournfully about upon the desolation wrought by the last few centuries, the deep suspicion finally darted into the mind of his rider that this was one of the chariot horses of some great lord of the Philistines, who had fought with the Israelites at Al or Aja'on!

The trip which Dr. Cobern took was very dangerous. The governor of Joppa went to him saying that his life would be of no value unless he took a military escort, but the military guard cost a great deal, and besides Mr. Cobern had lived so long among the Arabs that he determined to go alone, accompanied only by a guide. He said to Rolla Floyd: "I can get along with the Arabs. I have a little gun here in my pocket that talks beautiful Arabic, and if worst comes to worst, I'll let it talk to them." But Mr. Floyd replied: "You have been with the town Arabs. They are very different from the Bedouin that you will meet on this trip. Remember, that is seven Bedouin come at you and you kill six of them, the seventh won't run." Dr. Cobern narrated some of his adventures and gave many instances of fulfilled prophecies.

He continues the subject next Sunday evening.

MR. CLARK MAKES HIS REPLY.

Gives the History of Dealings With the Jackson Tile Company.

THE CHARGES ANSWERED.

Denies That He Made Arrangements of Any Kind to Receive Compensation—Honorable to be a Candidate for Office.

A. M. Clark, president of the Board of Public Works, has filed his answer to the charges preferred against him by Chas. H. Manley and on which he will be tried to-morrow. In brief, the answer is as follows:

ANSWER TO CHARGE I.

Charge first is couched in the following language: "First, with official misconduct in the performance of the duties of his office." The gravamen of the language under this charge is that, as president of the Board of Public Works, I voted to use in the construction of the lateral sewers what are known as Jackson tile and that I did, after a part of said tile had been laid and the contractors had more on hand to lay, cause said tile to be rejected by my vote and influence on said board. That immediately after this action, a representative of the Jackson Sewer Tile Co., visited me and promised me 5 per cent. of all the monies to be paid for said tile to the contractors, if said tile were used in the construction of said lateral sewers; and thereafter I caused a resolution to be passed allowing the use of said Jackson sewer pipe or tile, which had been condemned, and that thereby and through such corrupt influence I procured the use of such Jackson tile, which I well know were greatly inferior to other sewer tile which it was my duty to require to be used.

In answer to this charge I solemnly aver that it is absolutely false in every particular, and the Board was never consulted in any way by the contractors by citizens, by the mayor, or by the council, in relation to the Jackson sewer tile, until after the contractors had begun to lay the pipe.

According to my best recollections, E. W. Groves, one of the inspectors appointed by the Board, whose duty it was, not only to supervise and inspect the laying of the tile, but to reject any imperfect tile that was presented, called my attention to the breaking one of the tile. Thereupon at our solicitation, Prof. Greene made a test of the tile then being used, and it was found by it is test, which was a concentrated load test, that the Jackson tile would not stand the amount of weight that certain other tile would stand. At that time I had no knowledge of what strength of tile would be required, or ought to be used in the construction of such a sewer, and upon this test being made, the board passed a resolution to the effect that notice be served upon the contractors that the Jackson tile were not equal to the test required, and that the board was satisfied with the Ohio Valley Fire Co. Tile.

That after this meeting, both Mr. Smith and Mr. Crego, claiming to represent the Jackson Company, applied to me as President of the Board, for permission to be heard on the subject of test applied, and in that application they called my attention to the fact that the test applied was the concentrated load test which was specially applied to a certain point upon the surface of the sewer pipe. That while the test was a proper one of its kind, it was not the test that the tile would be put to when used in the sewer. That the test to which the tile would be subjected would be that of the distributed load test. That in applying the test of Professor Greene the tile was in no way supported, and that when placed in the sewer trench and properly bedded, the bedding would constitute a support to the tile and that then the pressure would be that of the distributed load test, and that with such a test, their tile would be found to be abundantly sufficient. They also called attention to the fact that their tile had been used throughout the state, for many years, mentioning Lansing, Kalamazoo, Jackson, Saginaw, Port Huron, Bay City and Grand Rapids, calling attention to the fact that after using their tile for a long period of years, they had now ordered a further supply, showing its durability. They also mentioned that in the same places this tile had been placed in sewers 29 feet deep, and had invariably stood the test, and that in the last case the tile was bedded in clay soil, which, it is understood, has at least five per cent. greater pressure than any other soil.

From my investigation of this matter, I became satisfied that the representations relation to the Jackson tile were true and that they were sufficient for the use to which they were put. Not only so, but it was then late in the season and it was desirable that the sewers be put in by the time mentioned in the contract, to-wit, Dec. 1, and that the street should be restored to their proper condition at as early a date as possible; and if the contractors should be required to go elsewhere and purchase tile, the work would be delayed and the streets kept torn up and in a dangerous condition without any corresponding benefit to the city.

Another fact that had weight in every mind was that the contractors had on hand a large quantity of Jackson tile and discontinuing its use would have been a severe loss to them; and as long as I was satisfied that the city would be abundantly protected by the use of the tile, I thought it my duty to consent to the use of the Jackson tile, and therefore, I offered at a meeting of the Board, a resolution, which carried, to the effect that the use of Jackson tile be continued.

I further aver that the representatives of the Jackson Co., never held out any inducements to me or offered to give me 5 per cent. or any other per cent. of the cost of said tile, or any other consideration whatever for my vote or influence in the matter; and that I have never received anything for my vote in the matter of accepting the tile, otherwise than the consciousness of having done my duty thoroughly and honestly.

ANSWER TO CHARGE II.

The second charge is as follows: "Second. With being indirectly interested in the purchase of material to be used in public work." The specification is that I was to receive a certain commission for the Jackson tile. A full answer to this charge and specification under it will be found in my answer to the first charge. I also add an express denial thereto.

ANSWER TO CHARGE III.

The third charge against me is as follows: "With unfaithful performance of the duties of his office." The specification is that while a member of the Board I became a candidate for the office of street commissioner and that it was a part of the duty of the Board to fill such vacancy, and that I then impudently offered the other members of the Board to appoint me to such vacancy, and thereby obstructed the city business to its great damage; and finally that I by my own vote and influence procured the appointment to said office of one Bassett, well knowing him to be without experience or ability to properly perform the duties of said office, that Bassett was related to me in the marriage of my daughter to his son, to the great disgrace and scandal of the good people of the city.

To this charge I desire to say that being an American citizen I have never been taught that it was a disgrace to be a candidate for a respectable position in any community. My action in respect to being a candidate for commissioner is honorable and above board. That at the same time, George Wicks was candidate for the same position, and Jacob Schuh favored his appointment, while George W. Bullis was favorable to my appointment, I did not vote at all and finally withdrew my name.

That the name of Mr. Bassett was presented for consideration of the board and, on the first ballot, he was elected. And I point with pride to the conduct of the affairs of this city as administered by Mr. Bassett as street commissioner and challenge the closest scrutiny to his work, and before his office shall have expired the citizens will find occasion to express gratitude for his election.

It is also true that my daughter is married to Laverne Bassett, both of whose reputations will not suffer in comparison with the reputation of the distinguished gentleman who has urged these charges against me.

ANSWER TO CHARGE IV.

The fourth is charge as follows: "With being inefficient and not qualified to perform the duties of his office." The specification is that said Clark has not the necessary qualifications for a member of the Board, in this, that he is not possessed of the necessary knowledge and experience to judge properly of the kind, quality and character of the materials and labor required in conducting the public improvements of the city.

In answer to this attack made against me, I can only report briefly the history of my life among the people of this county and city.

Then follows an account of Mr. Clark's life all of which was spent in Washtenaw county, and of his work on the Board of Public Works. The record of the Board is one of continual activity.

All of which Mr. Clark signs and respectfully submits to the council.

WOMAN AND HER WAYS.

The Czarina is an expert swimmer. Rochester has an organization of women called the Fortnightly Ignorance club.

It has been discovered by a German scientist that thinking is one of the chief causes of wrinkles.

Among Hindoo women there are instances of the highest attainments. Calcutta can boast of several that have taken high degrees in medicine and science.

The "Six of One and Half a Dozen of the Other" club is reported to be the latest addition to the society organizations in Gardiner, Me. It is a ladies' whist club, and the name is very appropriate, inasmuch as six of its members are maidens and six are matrons.

In making tea in Japan, the hostess pours the powdered tea from the caddy, and the water from the kettle simultaneously into a bamboo dipper, as a French waiter pours hot milk and coffee, and stirs it carefully with a "chosen" strainer, one end of which is split into small slivers.

A New York paper says that eggs are the latest fad among the women of that city. "It has become a common sight at leading ladies' restaurants in the shopping districts to see whole regiments of women file past the man at the counter busy breaking eggs in wine glasses. The beverage is then tossed down in a single swallow."
