The Score

THE GAME OF THE SEASON.

Was the County vs. City Ball Game Yesterday.

CITY OFFICIALS VICTORIOUS.

The Score 15 to 13 Indicates How Hot the Game Was—Numerous Brilliant Plays—A Full and Complete Record.

The city officials are looking around for more worlds to conquer. After a wordy war which lasted for weeks the two belligerent teams met on a fair field and with no favor and fought to the bitter end. For nine rounds the valiant defenders of a people's rights stood face to face, nor winced from the ordeal until the heartless umpire cried, "It is done; the city conquers."

A LINE FROM LONDON.

An Ann Arbor Professor Stranded in the Great City.

The following is from a private letter to the editor, written for publication by Dr. C. G. Darling, ex-mayor of Ann Arbor, now traveling abroad:

Speaking of the landlord of Barr's Hotel, the Dr. says: "He seemed very kind and promised to tell me all about London. I plied him about two hours the first morning with questions upon the subject and he has not shown up since. He probably fears I will learn too much about the town and say some injurious things about it when I return to America."

"The people here do not seem so touchy about their town as Ann Arbor people do."

"I was on the 'Strand' for some time this afternoon. You might say I was stranded, for go which way I would, I was sure to get lost. I asked a policeman how I should get home and he advised me to take an omnibus, some of which would go very near the house. I tried to stop a few of them and converse with the driver, but it seemed to be their busy day, and after yelling something about London Bridge or Chelsea, Delhi or some other place off my beat, hurried along, just as the song 'London Bridge' says they do."

"It was growing late, and something must be done. So I took a chance mount on one which landed me at the Bank. This was not what you might call great progress, so I put it down under the head of experience. You see I was trying to take care of two ladies and see them home as well as look after myself. I stood on the corner and saw several hundred 'busses' pass, trying to find one that was going my way. Finally I saw 'Halborn' on the side and I chased it again with pretty fair success."

"To-morrow we expect to take a trip up the Thames to some of the parks and spend the day there. We leave Monday night for Berlin. You see we play only in the largest cities, and not in all of them."

A FEELING PROTEST.

Against the Indiscriminate Trimming of Our Beautiful Shade Trees.

The following communication calls attention to something that needs attention. Many residents of our city who have had the beauty of their trees almost entirely ruined by the slashing of wood butchers who had no idea of how a tree should be trimmed, will be in hearty sympathy with this writer:

Ed. Courier:—To trim off dead branches is an advantage; intelligent treatment may enhance their beauty; but to cut and slash, with no regard to symmetry, merely for the sake of trimming, is not only unwise, but worse. I think that many luxurious, and valuable branches have been sacrificed on our streets, for want of care and correct taste. Graceful lines and artistic contour, such as only nature can produce, and that, too, in many years, have been effaced, where it was useless for property owners, even to suggest with any hope of gaining a respectful hearing. If those persons in charge of this work, could know with what extreme care this kind of trimming is done in New Haven, Conn., (Elm City) for instance, (the loveliest of Eastern cities) and note the beautiful results, even if considered only from an artistic stand point! If, too, they could know how every lover of Nature is charmed by the beauty of our city as expressed in its stretching vistas, its play of sunlight, and wealth of green shade, they would surely realize the importance of very wise care in the treatment of those valuable trees. There is no beauty in a tree which is rimmed up to look like a feather duster tied to a mast head, brushing up against the "naked heavens."

HERBERT RANDALL.

THE PROSECUTOR'S REPORT.

What has Been Done for the Past Six Months in Washtenaw County.

For the first six months of his term of office up to and including June 30, Prosecuting Attorney Randall has made the following report of his work to the attorney general:

The figures will be of especial interest, as it has been charged that the authorities were allowing the vagrancy cases to be extremely frequent again, as they were in the palmy days of yore. All the vagrancy cases were prosecuted before Jan. 21st. Since that date there has been no prosecutions in that line.

Another nuisance in the line of public prosecutions, is the entering of freight cars by tramps. Prosecuting Attorney Randall says there is no doubt but that railroads need protection, and that many such cases ought to be prosecuted, but that if allowed abuses are apt to creep in, consequently the prosecution of such cases has been stopped. The figures given speak well for the good work done in the office by Mr. Randall. While there has been no useless expenses incurred, yet when it was necessary to call in the strong arm of the law it has been done effectively:

Total No. prosecuted	- 187
Total No. convicted	- 155
Total No. acquitted	- 1
Total No. dismissed on payment of costs	- 17
Total No. not prossecuted	- 5
Total No. discharged on examination	- 9

The offenses, charged and numbers under each charge are as follows:

Adultery	1
Assault and battery	20
" with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder	2
" with intent to commit rape	1
Burglary	5
Disorderly

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

"M Quad," the Famous Humorist, Takes his Old Place on the Free Press.

We find great pleasure in announcing to our readers that Chas. B. Lewis, the famous "M. Quad," has resumed his former place upon the Detroit Free Press. Since his retirement from the Free Press four years ago Mr. Lewis has been writing for one of the leading syndicates. His preference for direct newspaper work, however, led him to abandon that connection, and hereafter his popular writings will appear only in the Free Press. Mr. and Mrs. Bowser, Brother Gardner, Arizona Kicker, Zeb White, Abe Crofoot, Mrs. Gallup and many new characters, will appear regularly.

The publishers are making a special four month's trial offer of the Semi-Weekly Free Press for 25c to introduce their paper to new readers, and we would advise those looking for a great bargain to send in their subscription at once. The offer is good only until August 1st.

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling and give you renewed vigor and vitality?

The truth about the silver question is that the republican party is not bound to rush in and settle a democratic fight.

"Coin's" paper has suspended. The sort of persons to whom his lunacies appealed don't pay for any kind of a paper.

Lord Salisbury is the man. It will be remembered, who was so badly worsted by Secretary Blaine in the discussion of the Behring Sea case.

If Cleveland had a lot of patronage to distribute, it would materially promote the growth of the sound money sentiment in the democratic party.

Recent experiments show that the shrinkage in corn from husking time until the next June 1, is 16.5 per cent. or about the same as the present rate of shrinkage in the free silver movement.

Burglars succeeded in effecting an entrance into the grocery store of O'Hara, Boyle & Co., on the northside, Saturday night, but failed to secure anything. Patrolman Ambruster happened along just in time.

The iron question is of much more importance to the country just now than the silver question. A few more advances in the price of iron will leave nothing of the silver question but a putrid reminiscence.

Banker Morgan, who has just returned from London, reports an active demand over there for American securities, whereas before the defeat of the democratic party last fall they were being sent back here in large quantities.

Probably the Spanish authorities are correct in their assertion that the Cuban insurgents are doing some robust lying. The fact, however, that the rebellion sticks, and that where there is any fighting at all the rebels do the attacking, prove that Spain is hard pressed.

One great trouble with the third party is to find a name for itself. All that it has tried are in bad odor, and it would be well to adopt one that will stick. The most appropriate name that could be selected is the destructives. This means something and is warranted to wear.

"Pfeiffer is a fool, Stewart a knave and Tillman the material out of which anarchists are made," says the "Courier-Journal." The characterization is violent, but it is right. The fools, knaves and anarchists are trampled in the dust on every side. These are glorious days for the cause of business honesty and financial sense.

The victory for the sound money men on the platform delivered in the Kentucky Convention was complete and overwhelming. At every point the overlivers were beaten. This is an Apomattox victory for the honest dollar cause. Outside of Colorado, Montana and Nevada the silver monometalists are out-numbered, outclassed and discredited.

The President of the Florida Fruit Exchange, at Jacksonville, estimates the coming orange crop at 1,000,000 boxes, or about the yield of 1886. He says the records show the cold waves of last year to have been phenomenal, and he believes that prosperity is ahead for the orange-grower who keeps on with courage and energy.

USELESS TAXATION.

GEN. ROY STONE.

Among the taxes which the farmers pay there are some that are unavoidable, and these it is useless to talk about. There are others which farmers impose upon themselves, which they hesitate to share with others, which they submit to without a protest, and even cling to when they are being removed. These taxes we cannot talk about too much. These are taxes, too, which bring no useful revenue nor even support a taxgatherer. They are burdens as needless as the traditional stone which balanced the grist on the way to mill.

Through the failure of the government in the original surveys of the public lands to lay out a scientific system of roads and divide the lands accordingly, farmers have been left to lay out the roads for themselves, and generally they have put them on farm lines, going over all the hills that come in their way. The result of this is the hill tax in hilly regions, and what may be called the square corner tax on the prairies.

The amount of hill tax I have estimated in one county in New Jersey, and found that needless hills double all the cost of hauling in the county, making practically a money tax of $10,000 annually to the town. The people have paid this tax for one hundred years, and yet they wonder why they are poor. In the prairie regions, for want of the diagonal roads which the government should have laid out, the farmer, to reach a point ten miles to the northwest, for instance, travels seven miles north and seven miles west, adding forty per cent. to his distance, or for the average of all travel, twenty per cent. This is the square corner tax.

The mud tax is probably about equal in total to the hill tax, and this, again, doubles the cost of all wagon transportation. Yet many farmers are opposed to stone roads.

However, the farmers themselves are doing away in many places with the enormous burden of the fence tax, and with it will go the snowdrift tax and the waste land on the roadside. They are slowly abandoning narrow tires and tracking wheels. Moreover, many of them begin to realize the enormity and absurdity of the hill, mud and square corner taxes, and we may yet hope in time to see in this country, as we do in France, beautiful hard roads everywhere winding through farms, with crops growing close to the wagon tracks, and the roads serving perfectly every purpose of public works and private convenience.

On several past occasions Mr. Cleveland has referred to the Nicaragua Canal as a praiseworthy American enterprise and one in which the patriotism of the country is properly enlisted. The time is apparently near when these words will be tested, as England has come to regard Mr. Cleveland's foreign policy as her golden opportunity.

One trouble Russia is contending with in Eastern Asia is that the Japanese have 40,000,000 people on the ground and could place in the field an immense army of good fighting material at short notice. Japan has contracted for several additional battleships in Europe, and it is in order for Russia to proceed with caution in Corea, where she cannot possibly collect an army able to cope with that of Japan. The masterly silence of the Japs about Russia show that they understand their advantages.

A new serial story by Brander Matthews will be published in Harper's Weekly, beginning in the first number that will appear in July and continuing for three months. The title of this story is "His Father's Son," and its scene is laid in the city of New York, with special emphasis upon that interesting region of New York which the event of the last twelve months have marked as the cor cordium of Prosperous America—Wall Street. Illustrations for this story will be by T. DeThulstrup.

Rebecca Harding Davis's story, Doctor Warrick's Daughters, beginning in Harper's Bazar of July 6th, will continue during the rest of the year. The scene opens in Pennsylvania after the war, but much of the action takes place in the Southwest, a part of the country with which Mrs. Davis is familiar, and which affords opportunity for much picturesque description. Full of movement, and contrasting several marked types, Doctor Warrick's Daughter will fascinate every reader. It is safe to predict an army of readers for so absorbing a story.

Nine illustrations of Edwin A. Abbey for Andrew Lang's comment on Midsummer-Night's Dream; twenty pictures of Chinese life by C. D. Weldon; six sketches of Florida cowboys by Frederick Remington; four drawings by R. Caton Woodville for Poutney Bigelow's German Struggle for Liberty; eleven sketches by W. T. Smedly illustrating short stories; and three paintings for the Joan of Arc serial by F. V. DuMont—these are some of the pictorial attractions of the August Harpers Magazine. A spirit of recreation and good humor prevades the number, which is one of the most entertaining as well as artistic ever published.

THEIR SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

Lambda Chapter of Beta Theta Pi Celebrates its Fiftieth Anniversary with a Magnificent Banquet Last Night.

One of the pleasant features of last week was the fiftieth celebration of the foundation of the fraternity of Beta Theta Pi. The Semi-centennial banquet was held last night in Hangsterfer's hall and a large number of the fraternity men of Lambda chapter and some from other chapters sat down to the festive board. There were about seventy-five. Among the alumni who participated were the following: George L. Becker, '46, a prominent lawyer of St. Paul, Minn., who has served as congressman and governor in that state, and who was the original founder and promoter of Lambda chapter; Maj. W. C. Ransom, '48, of Saginaw; Wm. A. Moore, '46, of Detroit; E. S. Bacon, '50, of Niles; A. D. Rich, '51, of Chicago, Ill.; E. B. Chandler, '58, of Chicago, Ill.; Hon. Levi T. Griffin, '57, of Detroit; J. H. Grant, '82, judge of probate of Manistee county; Frank L. York, '82, of Detroit; J. E. Beal, '82, of Ann Arbor; Hon. John J. Lentz, of Columbus, O., who was Washington's birthday orator at his alma mater this year; F. B. Babcock, '85, Chicago, Ill.; W. J. Gregory, '86, Manistee; C. L. Andrews, '86, New York; L. B. Lee, '88, J. H. Lee, '88, and J. J. Goodyear, '76, of Ann Arbor; G. C. Manley, '87, of Denver, Colorado; R. S. Babcock, '89, of Manistee; L. R. Doud, '89, of Winona, Minn.; Dr. E. A. Fletcher, '91, of Detroit; Prof. E. W. Dow, '91, of the university faculty; W. H. Turnbull, '91, of Lansing; E. M. Smith, '92, of Chicago, Ill.; A. S. Brown, of Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Frank Rich, '93, of Manistee; E. S. Beck, '93, of the Chicago Mail; W. S. Cheever, '93, of Bay City; E. F. Wilson, '94, of Ann Arbor.

At the banquet J. E. Beal, '82 acted as toastmaster, and responses followed the banquet to the sentiments as follows: "Te Salutamus," R. W. Dunn, pres., '95; "The Starter," Geo. L. Becker, '46; "Beta Stalwarts," O. F. Hunt, '81; "Old Times," Wm. A. Moore, '50; "The Fraternity," Geo. Manly, '87; "Chicago Convention," Bruce Chandler, '58; "How it Look to Outsiders," W. C. Sprague, Denison, '82; "College Boys," Edward Bacon, '50; "The Majority," W. C. Ransom, '48; "Silver Greys," H. B. Otis, '95; "Wrox," John H. Grant, '82.

FOR RAILROAD MEN.

United States Law for Their Benefit Goes Into Effect July 1.

On July 1 there will go into effect an act to promote the safety of employes and travelers upon railroads, which declares: It shall be unlawful for any railroad company to use any car in inter-state commerce that is not provided with secure grab irons or hand holds in the ends and sides of each car for greater security to men in coupling and uncoupling cars. After July 1, 1895, no cars, either loaded or unloaded, shall be used in inter-state traffic which do not comply with the standard height of drawbars for freight cars. Secretary Moseley of the inter-state commerce commission says the railroads are or will be ready to comply with both provisions of the law. All cars have been provided with secure grab irons or hand holds, and the standard height of drawbars on freight cars has been determined to be 34 1/2 inches for standard gauge railroads in the United States; maximum variation from that standard height, to be allowed between the drawbars of empty and loaded cars, both for standard and narrow gauge railroads in the United States, three inches.

This law was the outcome of persistent effort in congress and repeated urgent recommendations sent to congress by the president for legislation for the protection of the lives of railroad employes. It is stated that during one year alone 369 brakemen were killed and 7,841 maimed while engaged in coupling cars, and that the total number of railroad employes killed during the year was 2,451 and the number injured was 22,390.

Regents End Their Business.

The board of regents held its final commencement session Thursday afternoon, adjourning until Wednesday July 17. The homeopathic matter came under discussion. It was announced that Dr. R. S. Copeland, of Bay City, and Dr. LeSeure, of Detroit, had accepted the chairs tendered them.

It is yet uncertain whether Dr. O. R. Long, of Iowa, will accept the professorship and deanship offered him. Dr. Milner, of Grand Rapids, is yet undecided whether or not to accept the chair offered to him.

J. H. Neely, president of the graduating dental class was appointed assistant in the dental laboratory at a salary of $500. There was a grist of re-appointments on Wednesday.

The board has accepted the Ford property on Washtenaw avenue at the valuation of $13,000. It includes three houses and an acre of land.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

ST. THOMAS' COMMENCEMENT.

An Interesting Ending of an Excellent Year's Work.

The commencement exercises of the St. Thomas high school were held in the school hall June 25th, in the presence of a large and appreciative audience. The exercises were of especial interest from the fact that the school has been put on the University list, and that the class of last evening was the first to complete the work of the regular, approved Latin course.

The graduates were Misses May Clarken, Victoria Fohey, Lizzie Fitchel, Gertrude Kress and Clara O'Hearn. The program was an excellent one, the essays by the graduates showing originality of thought and care in preparation. The first number was a beautiful waltz from Chopin rendered on the piano by Miss Katharine Burns, the winner of the free scholarship in the conservatory. Miss Burns proved herself well deserving of the honor conferred upon her. It is only fair to say that in the contest for the scholarship Miss Burns was crowded closely by the Misses Nellie Brown, Lulu Rinsey and Amanda Johnson.

The first essay entitled, "Here and There in Hope," was read by Miss Victoria Fohey. The writer pointed out that hope bids us emulate the grand masterpieces in literature, music and art. This essay was followed by music by the St. Thomas Banjo and Guitar club.

Miss Gertrude Kress followed with an essay on "Roman Characters." She pointed out the simplicity of the Roman character in domestic life, religion and government. She spoke of the magnificence of the Caesars and followed this with a discussion of the fall of Rome.

Next came a vocal selection after which Miss May Clarken read an essay on "A Glance at Republics." Miss Clarken spoke of this as an age of republics, holding up the United States as the model. She thought that the Italians, clinging as they do to a kingly form of government, showed the least intelligence in government. She said that it looked very much as though some Chicago individual of designing turn of mind with a facility for cornering the market, had delivered to the Italians goods that had become mildewed in the elevator.

After a musical selection the last essay on the program was read by Miss Clara O'Hearn, who took as her subject "American Characters." She spoke of the simplicity of the characters of Washington, Adams and Franklin, and also discussed the characteristics of some of the leading American writers. This essay was followed by a beautiful rhapsodie from Liszt, played on two pianos, eight hands keeping perfect time.

The valedictory was given by Miss Lizzie Fitchel. The young lady spoke in a very pleasant and fitting manner of the closing days of school life, speaking the farewell words of the class to teachers, scholars and friends.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Frank Kennedy, of Ypsilanti, who took as his subject, "Good Reading." He pointed out the advantages of good reading as a companion in sickness, in youth and in old age. He showed how it broadened the mind and served as a daily teacher. The address was full of good, wholesome thought on the subject of general literature and the advantages to be derived from a study of the same. Among other clergymen present were Father Fleming, of Dexter, and Father Goldrick, of Northfield.

The presents were exceptionally fine and numerous. Gold watches, chains and rings were among the presents, while every graduate carried away enough books to make a very respectable library. The distribution of the presents and the conferring of honors marked the close of a very interesting and successful program.

Women Among the Graduates.

There were exactly one hundred women graduates in the class of 1895. This number was distributed as follows: Bachelors of letters.....16 Bachelors of science (in biology).....4 Bachelor of science (in civil engineer'g) 1 Bachelors of science.....9 Bachelors of philosophy.....26 Bachelors of arts.....25 Masters of letters.....2 Masters of science.....2 Masters of arts.....2 Doctors of medicine.....9 Bachelors of laws.....2 Doctors of dental surgery.....2 Total.....100

Elected Officers.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of Bethlehem church elected the following officers last evening: President—Emil Richter. Vice president—Miss Pauline Allmendinger. Cor. Secretary—Miss Johanna Neuman. Rec. Secretary—Miss Carrie Krause. Treasurer—Will Rohde.

It is Known By Its Cures

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.

This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.

Now if you need a good medicine, why not try that which has done others so much good. Remember

ARE YOU A FORESTER?

But Whether You are or Not You Will be Interested in this Article.

Through the courtesy of L. C. Weinman, Court Deputy of Court Ann Arbor, No. 1554, we have received the following interesting facts concerning the Independent Order of Foresters, one of the most prosperous fraternal insurance orders in existence:

During the month of May the number of applications for membership received by the Medical Board was 4,022, of whom 3,611 were accepted, showing an advance of over 500 on the highest number of applications ever received in any one month.

The Surplus Fund of the Order on the 1st of June showed the high total of $1,317,000.

On the 30th of May the corner stone of the Foresters' Temple was laid by His Excellency the Earl of Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada, in the presence of an immense concourse of Foresters and friends.

The Temple will be eight stories high and will be the finest Fraternal Headquarters on the continent.

The Foretric year closes on the 30th of June, and in every particular it will be the most prosperous year in the history of the Order.

The increase in the Surplus has been $300,000.00, and in the Membership about 18,000.

For this month of June it is expected that at least 5,000 applications will be received.

During the year New Courts have averaged 35 per month.

The Supreme Court will meet at St. Martins' Town Hall, Trafalgar Square, London, England, on the 1st day of August.

The High Court of Ontario will meet at London, Ontario, on the 8th of October.

every one of the painful irregularities and weaknesses that prey upon women. They fade the face, waste the figure, ruin the temper, wither you up, make you old before your time.

Get well! That's the way to look well. Cure the disorders and ailments that beset you, with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It regulates and promotes all the proper functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength. It's a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nerve, imparting vigor and strength to the entire system.

Mrs. ANNA ULRICH, of Elm Creek, Buffalo Co., Neb., writes: "I enjoy good health thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery. I was under doctors' care for two years with womb disease, and gradually wasting in strength all the time. I was so weak that I could sit up in bed only a few moments, for two years. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery, and by the time I had taken one-half dozen bottles I was up and going wherever I pleased, and have had good health ever since—that was two years and a half ago."

Hutzel's Water Back!

A very important invention which will be hailed with delight by every body using a stove or range for hot water circulation. After years of experience we have succeeded in producing a simple and perfect WATER BACK.

It overcomes all the present troubles of extracting lime and other sediments which accumulate in water backs, often making them useless and in great many instances becoming dangerous.

The outlay of dollars is reduced to dimes. No household using a range can afford to be without it.

No more trouble by using city water for hot water circulation.

Can be used in any stove. Ask your stove dealer for Hutzel's Water Back.

Mason & Davis Co's. ranges for sale at C. Eberbach are provided with our improvement.

Everybody call and examine this useful invention.

MIDSUMMER HUMOR.

LAUGHING GAS ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

"Between the Dreamy Waltzes"—Sentimental Sally at the Seashore—A Human Weakness—Flotsam and Jetsam from Tide of Fun.

BETWEEN THE dreamy waltzes— In the intervening calm, They sat on the veranda, Beneath a spreading palm; And he whispered love in rapture, "Alone, at last, are we!"

And she murmured, "Yes, its lovely, But it's horrid when there's three."

"Aha!" laughed little Cupid, As he hurried a final dart, Then gathered up his arrows And made ready to depart, While a shadow crossed their dreaming, A cloud rose in their sky— The summer night grew colder, And each sadly wondered why.

Nor guessed at all the reason; But the little love god knew, And scoffed at human wisdom, As the fickle sprite will do, "Alas! poor foolish mortals, Perhaps you've never heard That three's a delightful company If Cupid is the third."

Vengeance of Basil Underdonk. Chapter I. "Not a thousand times no!" The fair girl raised herself up proudly and her lips curled in contemptuous scorn.

"I spurn your proffered gold! Your threats are idle. I have plighted my troth to Mortimer Dusenberry. Poor he may be, but I love him, and if I am his'n I can't be your'n."

Chapter II. Outside the humble cot that was the home of Irene McGillicuddy the sinister face of the millionaire worked in a spasm of convulsive hate. "Take him, then," he hissed. "But I will have my revenge."

Scowling a few more times, just to keep his hand in as it were, Basil Underdonk, the baffled banker, slunk out into the night.

Chapter III. "Forgive me, I was mad!" Basil Underdonk held out his hand. "I have come to your wedding, Irene, and as a mark of my esteem and affection for you both, I have made over, as a wedding present, a handsome house on Halsey street, Brooklyn, the city of homes."

Chapter IV. Basil Underdonk scanned his morning paper with ghoulish glee:

"The motorman arrested for running over young Mortimer Dusenberry has been discharged by the coroner, it being proved that the fate of this latest victim of the trolley was due to his own negligence. The saddest feature of the affair is that Mr. Dusenberry leaves as his widow a bride of a few short months."

Chapter V. "Ha! Irene Dusenberry, nee McGillicuddy, did I not swear to be revenged? A bride of two short months, a widow now, and—a burst of fiendish laughter came from the lips of Basil Underdonk. "You always told me you looked like a fright in black!"

But a merciful unconsciousness came, and she sank senseless to the floor, while over her, happy in his hatred, stood Basil Underdonk gloating—gloating.—New York World.

His Careful Caution.

"Will you?" The landlady glanced across the table at his empty plate. "Have some more soup?" With that spirit of cautiousness that is fostered and grows rapidly in a boarding house atmosphere he replied evasively:

"Um, er—that is, ah, what kind of meat have you to-day, Mrs. Skraggs?" For a moment the landlady assumed a thoughtful expression. But that was only a bluff. Presently she answered sententiously:

"Chicken."

Readily recalling many former experiences with the bony necks and meatless wings, the border with the V-shaped nose hastily passed his plate for more soup.

WILL YOU BE THERE?

And if Not, the Question is Why Not?

The congregation of St. Patrick's church of Northfield will join in the usual celebration of the Nation's birthday, July 4th, at Whitmore Lake by a grand picnic and jubilee.

Under the guiding hand of Rev. Fr. Goldrick, pastor of that church, these occasions have been very enjoyable ones in the past, and the coming one will be no exception.

If you want a real jolly good time that is the place to go to.

The following programme will be presented:

- Introductory Remarks.....Rev. L. P. Goldrick, Toastmaster
- Minnik Orchestra.....
- Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue. The Day we Celebrate.....Rev. Frank Kennedy
- Beethoven Quartette.....The Merry Cobler
- Comic Song, selected.....Jas. Harkins
- Our Country.....M. J. Cavanaugh
- Tenor Solo.....Bruno St. James
- Bass Solo, "There will never be one like you".....J. A. Kelly
- Soprano Solo.....Miss Lizzie Kinzie
- Patriotism.....J. Grove Campbell
- Who Stole my Poodle.....Beethoven Quartette
- Comic Song, "The latest of the late".....

Comie Dialogue.....Anderson Dramatic Club

My Country 'tis of Thee.....Minnis Orchestra

All will join in the singing of this national air while accompanied by the orchestra.

A special excursion train leaves the Toledo and Ann Arbor depot at 10 standard and leaves the lake in the evening at 7. Only 25 cents for round trip, 15 cents for children.

A good time is guaranteed all who visit this beautiful summer resort on July 4.

Wet or Dry—Which?

The Grass Lake News remarks: "Is it desirous to have an end to drounths? Then blot out drainage laws, kill the drainage commissioners, fill up the public ditches and pull all tile out of the marshes and low laying lands throughout the west. Supplement this by planting forest trees in generous tracts, and nature will restore to earth her spring and summer and fall rains, the fields will again "be arrayed in living green," and the influences be stayed that are converting uplands into deserts."

"And it is well to be warned that low lands will speedily approximate a like arid condition. In many cases examination shows that low tracts on either side of public ditches are becoming too dry, and really need the water distributed through them that is being carried away through artificial channels.

Fill up the ditches whereby the former areas of moisture will be restored and there will be an end of dry falls, April without showers and rainless summers."

That is excellent in theory, and may be the true reason for the drounths. But is there not enough water surrounding the state without having a nest of fever and ague breeders every few miles?

And then again why will not the same thing apply to Ohio, Indiana, and other surrounding states, which have had plenty of rain this year, while we "have gone dry?"

Softly—Inkerman's ads get bigger every week. How can he pay out so much for big ads?

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction, she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work, and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's drug store, and Geo. J. EVERYONE CAN HAVE GOOD BOOKS

The "Traveling Library" of the State, and How to Obtain its Benefits.

A lady writer in the Michigan Farmer, in the "Home Chats with Farmer's Wives," gives the following that should be, and probably will be of interest to all of our country and village readers. It is a wonderfully fine thing for every community:

"While attending the annual meeting of the Michigan Woman's Press Association at Lansing last week, the Household editor paid a visit to the State Library, and became greatly interested in the method recently adopted by means of which any resident of the State, no matter how remotely located, may obtain the benefit of the books therein contained.

"Almost the first thing which attracted my attention upon entering, was a neat oaken case containing fifty volumes of standard reading matter, which forms one of the traveling libraries, which by a law of our last legislature are now being sent out over the state.

"The books are selected very carefully and embrace works of religion, natural science, poetry, travel, history, and biography. A number of volumes of fiction are also found in these libraries, although no one need look for any great proportion of it, and what there is, is of the best. The case in readiness to be sent out at the time of my visit contained by way of fiction some of the works of W. L. Alden, Amelia E. Barr, Richard Harding Davis, Helen Hunt Jackson, Thomas Nelson Page, Sir Walter Scott, Robert Louis Stevenson and Kate Douglas Wiggin, twelve volumes in all.

"Special selection will be made in case any reading circle or association so desires in order to cover some special period in history, or in order to furnish information upon any special subject; but a selection of fiction entirely will not be allowed.

"In order to avail themselves of this opportunity twenty-five tax payers of any community may make application to the State Librarian who will furnish the blanks necessary to be filled, when a case of the books will be sent them. This set of fifty books may be kept six months if desired, or it may be changed for another set at the end of three months; thus affording an opportunity of having two hundred volumes in a year. The total cost is five dollars a year.

"Another way in which these books may be obtained is for any library of 1,000 volumes or over to make application for associate membership with the State Library. In this way any library containing the required number of books to entitle it to this membership may receive the traveling libraries in the same way upon the payment of the five dollars a year the same as the tax payers.

"Still another feature of the new law is that upon request of the librarian of any associate library, the State Librarian may issue to such associate library any book which may be called for by any patron of such library, except such books, pamphlets, papers, etc., which in the discretion of the State Librarian cannot consistently be spared from the State library. Expense of transportation of such book to be borne by the person sending for it.

"It seems to me that no law has been made which is more beneficial to the residents of the State at large than this, which practically brings the State Library within the reach of its remotest inhabitant. Many an isolated community will now receive all the benefits of direct communication with the libraries of our large cities. It gives an opportunity for intellectual development never before to be had in the rural districts. Only one State besides our own, I believe, has made a move in this direction. New York has these traveling libraries in circulation governed by the same rules as ours.

"And now, sisters, let us avail ourselves of this unparalleled opportunity to supply ourselves with good reading. If there is no library in your vicinity through which the offer may be made available, surely it will not be a difficult matter to obtain the twenty-five tax payers and receive the library through them. In our own neighborhood we have our L. L. A. through which I have already made such application and expect soon to receive a case of the books.

"Further information may be had by addressing the State Librarian at Lansing.

"Mrs. Mary F. Spencer of the library has been largely instrumental in carrying this scheme through and is anxious that it be generally taken advantage of by residents of the State.

"Think of having access to fifty books of our best authors every three months! Is not the very thought inspiring? Let us take advantage of this most generous offer of the State of Michigan to benefit ourselves."

It takes a rich man to draw a check, a pretty girl to draw attention, a horse to draw a cart, a porous plaster to draw the skin, a toper to draw the cork, a free lunch to draw a crowd, and an advertisement in a newspaper to draw trade.—Mansfield (Ill.) Express.

AN EVENING SONG.

The city's dense fates are quiet,
Lights twinkle in each narrow way,
And softly night sprinkles the dewdrops
On dusty domains of the day,
But hush: now the silence of evening
Is into a melody made,
As softly, in measures of sweetness,
Rise notes of a serenade:

"Oh, sleep for the night is upon thee;
In balmy forgetfulness rest;
The darkness that baffles thy vision
Should shadow the cares in thy breast.
The zephyrs are lulling the rosebuds,
The night is distilling the dew,
And stars in the distance are keeping
The watch of the spheres over you.

Then sleep while the hours are dusky,
E'er long will be dawning the day:
The goddess of slumber is waiting
New strength on thy heart to lay.

Sleep: sleep for the moments are deep'ning
The dusk that is making the glade:
Sleep, sleep, while softly are dying,
The notes of the serenade.

Ann Arbor, June 28, '95. MYRA WILEN

One Day's Experience.

The following taken from the Jonesville Independent, will be relished by a number of the gentleman's friends in this city, but by none, perhaps, any more than the gentleman's father, himself:

"C. F. Wade, cashier of the Grosvonor Savings Bank, had a funny experience going over to Ann Arbor last week. When he transferred at Jackson it was discovered that through an error his baggage had not come with him. He sent a drayman after it and tendered him a quarter for the service. As is well known Mr. Wade has been compelled, on account of a broken leg, to resort to the use of crutches. When the robust trunk smasher received the silver piece he toyed with it a moment and then bashfully said, with a side lance at the crutches, 'Here stranger, you need this more'n I do. Keep it.' C. F. however, partially convinced the man that he would not notice the absence of the coin, and so the matter was not pressed any further. Upon arriving at the city of the University, the first hack driver Mr. Wade saw, hastily glanced at the crutches and with an air born of much experience, said, 'Which hospital do you go to, sir?' Explanations followed but the victim of so many mistakes took a close carriage for the residence of his father, fearing he would be detained as a cadaver if the thing did not stop soon."

The above incidents show the deep sympathy and quick appreciation of the situation which exists in the American character. There are but very few nations of the world in which the above could have happened.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure), $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO CENT STAMPS FOR SAMPLE BOX. Eureka Chemical and Mfg Co., La Crosse, Wis.

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keely Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.

Yours truly,
C. W. HORSTICK.

Although Ann Arbor had a worthy candidate for the place, and one whom she would have been glad to have seen appointed, yet the choice of Col. DeLand is so just to a man who has worked for the party early and late, that we can but rejoice over it. There ought to be such a thing as a man being rewarded for services rendered, though oftentimes party conventions prefer to give positions to those who never have given a penny or spent an hour's time in the service of their party.

One of the interesting bits of history revived at commencement was of the old fraternity war, when the University authorities in 1850, told the students they must give up their connection with college or their secret societies. Among those who stood by their fraternity, the Beta Theta Pi, and left college was A. J. Poppleton, who went to Union college. He afterwards became a man of great power in the Missouri valley, was the attorney of the Union Pacific railroad, and the leading corporation attorney at Omaha. But he always felt the University had done him a great injustice, especially after admitting its wrong position by allowing the societies to exist. Recently he has lost his eyesight and become entirely blind. In the light of these things the regents did a signal act of justice Thursday by granting him a master's degree, which so far as possible now rights the wrong of forty-five years ago.

Company A have a new flag, which will be dedicated July 4th.

The University library will be open five hours a day during the summer vacation, 9 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 5 p. m.

The only thing occupying the attention of Ann Arbor residents just now is how to get out of town and not have it cost anything.

Rev. E. W. Moore, who has been pastor of the 2d Baptist church for the past year, has resigned the position and will remove to Denver, Col. in a few days.

New floor, new linoleum covering for said floor, new paper on the walls, new whitewash on the ceiling! All this style is being put on in Justice Pond's office. Business must be good.

Prof. M. W. Harrington, chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington, D. C., has something new in store for the public. It is asserted that he is to forecast the seasons hereafter, and that farmers will know just what sort of crops to sow or plant, and when to do it.

John Shadford, who fell from an elevated platform while fixing a trolley wire, and sustained injuries from which he never will recover, has entered suit against the Ann Arbor Street Railway Co., in the sum of $50,000. Hon. A. J. Sawyer is his attorney.

Horace G. Hadden, the pugilistic law student who threw Emanuel Allmendinger down stairs, has been let out on $400 bail to appear at the next term of court to answer to a suit for $2,000 damages. Profs. Knowlton, Thompson, Mechem, Bogle, and Johnson are on his bond.

The Lyra Maennerchor will go to Lansing on July 4th to assist in the dedication of a handsome banner of the Lyra Kranz singing society of the capital city. The local society will go in the special car "City of Ann Arbor."

Chris Brenner brags quite a little about his livery barn now that he has it fixed up. He has electric light, and everything right up in shape. Chris has made a great change in the looks of the Monitor since purchasing it, that's certain.

Lima is going to be patriotic this year, and is making preparations for a grand celebration next Thursday. There will be bicycle, foot and wheelbarrow races, climbing greased pole, chasing greased pig, base ball and various other games. There will be plenty of music. In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks.—Chelsea Standard.

E. J. Ottaway, who has been on the Daily Courier editorial staff since its foundation, left Saturday to assume editorial management of the Petoskey Daily Resorter, published during the summer months by Chas. Chas. S. Hampton. The work is not new to him as he has been there before, and understands it. Mr. Ottaway is a good newspaper man, a hustler and one of the best interviewers in the country.

At the business meeting of A. A. L. I. Friday evening, Noble Monroe and Fred Huntton were appointed as corporals. Chas. Dibble was voted in to the company and one man kicked out for non attendance at drills. A committee consisting of Lieut. Armstrong and Corporal Huntton, was appointed to make arrangements to attend the celebration at Monroe July 4th, and report at a special meeting to be held on Monday evening next. The company was out for drill during the evening, and made a fine appearance.

Mrs. Jane Root, formerly of Salem, died at the county house Saturday a. m. aged about 80 years. The deceased was a reputable but unfortunate old lady, who had been a beneficiary of the Ladies' Charitable Union for the past twenty years. Some two months ago she fell and broke her hip, and it became necessary for her to go to the county house. Her remains were taken from the house that day by the ladies of the Charitable Union, the Episcopal service was read at the grave by Rev. Henry Tadlock, and interment was in the city cemetery on the Northside.

Making Business!

That's what we intend to do for the next two weeks (profit not considered) in order to accomplish this we must sacrifice a lot of Clothing and other merchandise.

--$7.50--

That is the price we will make in a couple Hundred Men's Suits. These goods were made to sell for $10.00 and $12.00, but we would rather lose a little money than carry them over.

--$1.98--

Three Hundred Pairs of Pants we bought of a manufacturer late in the season which everybody sells at three dollars. Will go at the above low price.

AT THE TEMPLE OF JUSTICE.

Complete Report of the News at the Court House.

FOR BURGLARY AT EMERY.

Marriage Licenses—New Cases Entered—Transfers of Realty—Police Courts, and Various Other Items of News.

There are no new cases in the police courts. Justices Pond and Gibson may as well take a vacation until after the glorious Fourth.

County Clerk Dansingburg reports that up to Dec. 31, 1894 there were in Washtenaw county 704 births and 394 deaths. This is as against 574 births and 349 deaths for the previous year.

Officer Archie Gauntlett arrested three men at Milan Sunday morning for the robbery of a store at Emery, and brought them up to jail. The description was perfect. They had $8.56 with them in half dollars and quarters, etc., and about $9 in that money was taken at Emery. Nevertheless the money could not be identified and consequently the men were discharged this morning. They were strangers in this section, and gave their residence as Jackson. The officers think they had the right men all right but could not prove it.

NEW CASES.—CIRCUIT COURT.

610.—Joseph A. Bucknall vs. Harry B. Respinger and M. C. Peterson. Action, Trespass on the case. John W. Bennett, plaintiff's attorney.

611.—Adam H. Maier vs. David F. Maier. Action for Trespass on the Case. M. J. Cavanaugh, plaintiff's attorney.

Circuit Court case No. 610 above is a suit for $10,000 damages. The plaintiff's room was searched some time ago for some dental instruments which had been stolen. The goods were not found and Mr. Bucknall avers that the unjust suspicion has been very damaging to him. It is claimed that there is a flaw in the search warrant and hence on ground of "abuse of process" suit is instituted.

THREE SCORE YEARS AND TEN.

Mrs. Wm. Lambie, of Ypsilanti, Celebrated Her Seventieth Birthday.

Saturday, June 29th, was the seventieth birthday of Mrs. Wm. Lambie, of Ypsilanti, she having been born on that date in 1825, on the banks of Bonnie Doon, made famous in song and story by Robert Burns. Her birthplace was within five miles of that of the famous poet, in Ayrshire, Scotland, and Mrs. Lambie partakes of the sturdy Scotch character of her country.

Mrs. Lambie came to this country when seventeen years old, and was married in 1880 to Wm. Lambie, of Ypsilanti. She came to Washtenaw county some years previous, or fifty-three years ago.

There were three generations present, and the older people were made joyous by the grand children with their merry laughter and shout.

Robert Campbell, of this city, who is a brother, was present with his family. The brothers present were William and Andrew Campbell, of Pittsfield, and John Campbell, of Augusta. Another brother Prof. Gabriel Campbell, of Dartmouth, was not able to attend. There were about forty relatives present however.

About three hours were devoted to the literary part of the program, consisting of talks and reminiscences by the older members, the younger ones furnishing the musical part of the entertainment. A few presents were given, but they were not made a specialty.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambie are among the most noted of the pioneers of the county. His name is frequently attached to some pioneer verse, and he at one time published a book of his poems, and received a congratulatory autograph letter from Wm. E. Gladstone, the grand old man of England, acknowledging a receipt of a copy of the same.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

Class of 1870, University of Michigan, Review Old Times.

From the Detroit Free Press.

The class of 1870, from the literary department of the University of Michigan, held their quarter-centennial reunion at Ann Arbor on the 26th of June. The class graduated seventy-six men, of whom eleven are dead. It numbered among its members, who did not graduate, all residents of this city, Hon. Wm. C. Maybury, late member of congress; James D. Hawks, the eminent civil engineer and manager of the Bay City & Mackinaw Railroad, and the late William Stagg, treasurer of the Wayne County Savings Bank, who died Oct. 28, 1894.

There were present from Detroit at the reunion George W. Bates and C. F. Burton, the attorneys; Hon. C. R. Whitman, late regent of the University and railroad commissioner; Harlow P. Davock, late member of the legislature, and at present president of the board of health; C. P. Gilbert, manager of the Edison Electric Light Co., and Rev. James E. Jacklin.

The others present were Prof. W. W. Beman, of the university; E. F. Cooley, Washington Hyde, Rev. Eugene Ketchum, Prof. Edward E. Darrow, Edward Fleming, editor of the Buffalo Courier, (and for a number of years The Free Press Washington correspondent), and Messrs O. J. Campbell, C. F. Carter, Geo. E. Dawson, W. T. Emerson, Clark Olds, S. B. Price, Hon. Aaron Perry, of Pontiac; L. B. Swift and Judge Chas. G. Wing, of Ludington.

Alfred Noble, the distinguished engineer, member of the United States Nicaraguan canal commission, a member of this class, received from the university, the following day, the honorary degree of LL. D.

Reading Aloud.

Among the accomplishments which girls may cultivate to advantage none surpasses that of reading aloud to the satisfaction of others. It is singular that more of us do not acquire this delightful art. I do not mean that we should become elocutionists, or study to be proficient in dramatic effects; I simply advise girls who wish to give pleasure to their families to practice the art of reading intelligently, in a clear and distinct voice, pronouncing their words plainly, giving each sentence its full meaning, and being careful not to drop the voice too suddenly at the end of a paragraph. It is so natural to let the voice fall too much and too far at the close of a paragraph, that those who wish to be heard make a point of learning how to use the rising inflection—not to the degree which implies interrogation, but, so to speak, leaving off with tones on the level, so that the voice carries well across the room.

During vacation you will have opportunities to exercise this gift if you possess it. Half a dozen girls may enjoy the same story if one reads aloud while the rest work. The dear auntie whose sight is failing, and who is bidden by the doctor to rest her eyes, will be very much obliged to you if you will read to her an hour or more a day at intervals, as she and you may find convenient.—From Harper's Round Table.

THE CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITAL.

It is to be Started in a Private Way.

It had been hoped by some people that the recent legislature would provide for the establishment here of a hospital for consumptives. To this end the physicians of the state headed by Dr. V. C. Vaughan worked long and hard, but in vain. However it seems that the project is not yet to fail, if we are to judge by the contents of a neat little circular letter which was distributed freely during commencement week to students, citizens and visitors. From this circular the following paragraphs will be interesting:

"Ann Arbor, as a prominent educational and medical centre, has long felt the need of a modern Sanitarium for the scientific treatment of such acute and chronic diseases as require special appliances not easily obtainable in a private home. To meet this need, it has been decided to open such an establishment at Ann Arbor, Michigan, October the first, eighteen hundred and ninety-five. A separate home for the treatment of persons suffering from pulmonary consumption and other forms of tuberculous disease, under the care and control of Prof. V. C. Vaughan, of the University of Michigan, will be an important feature of the enterprise. A student's department will receive special attention. Here the young man or woman far from friends and home, suffering from sickness or exhaustion, may find kindness and sympathy; the best medical advice, and skillful nursing. A liberal menu of the best variety and quality will be provided; the cuisine to be directed by the medical faculty, and where advisable a carefully prepared diet card will be issued with explicit directions as to what should be eaten.

"We are receiving enthusiastic encouragement from many sources. We hope to reach every man, woman, and child in the State of Michigan, and many more in the sister states, and interest them in the work.

"We appeal to every student in our great and world renowned University of Michigan to aid us in this worthy enterprise. The ladies of Ann Arbor are responding nobly in the way of furnishing the home, by contributions of souvenirs.

"While you are enjoying your vacation please give our enterprise a dollar's worth of effort, and when you come back in the fall gladden our hearts with the fruits of that effort.

"Constitute yourself an agent in this good work by asking a few friends to contribute ten cents or more if they feel so inclined. Ask your lady friends for souvenirs, anything that will be useful or ornamental in the home. Ask the little children to give you a nickel and their photographs or autographs, which we will place in our picture gallery as memorials of infantile generosity."

APPOINTMENTS FOR 1895-6

Among the appointments made by the board of regents this week appear many new names. Several of the professors and instructors were reappointed for a term of years. Dr. J. B. Fitzgerald was made director of the gymnasium for three years at $2,000 per year. A. H. Lloyd was made acting professor of philosophy at $2,000. Ernst Voss was appointed instructor in German to succeed Mr. Mc Louth, who goes to New York. L. A. Strauss was promoted to an instructorship in English. E. C. Godard, of Saginaw high school, was made instructor in mathematics. Chas. R. Gillies succeeds S. D. Townley as instructor in astronomy, the latter going to Europe for a year. E. E. Brandon will succeed B. P. Bourland as instructor in French. Henry F. L. Reichle takes H. A. Sanders' place in Latin. Edgar Pierce, Ph. D., received an instructorship in philosophy. D. B. Luten, who goes to Purdue, will be succeeded by Hawley J. Gondling as instructor in descriptive geometry and drawing.

Henry L. Coon will take Dr. Markley's work in mathematics this year, while the latter is abroad. Victor E. Francois takes J. R. Effinger's place in French for a year, while Mr. Effinger is in France. Chas. W. Gray was made assistant in English at $300. Perry F. Trowbridge was made instructor in chemistry at $300. Prof. A. B. Stevens was reappointed assistant professor of pharmacy at $1600.

OF INTEREST TO LADIES.

We offer no apology in placing before you "The Ladies' Safe Protector," it is absolutely reliable, easily adjusted, does not become misplaced and insures protection. Can be worn when desired without observation or knowledge of another and prevents disagreeable annoyance under certain conditions. If you use it once you will never be without it. It is a faithful, safe and reliable friend whenever needed by special circumstances requiring its use. It is an article every woman should keep ready for immediate use. It is simple to use, and inspires confidence to the woman using it. It is reliable and scientifically made, insures protection without injury to health, as any good physician would say. We are of the opinion that no article has ever been made which will give as much satisfaction to the women of to-day as "The Ladies' Safe Protector." The immense sales of this article is a substantial indorsement of our claim. Do not therefore experiment with any of the numerous unreliable articles, as it is both dangerous to health and expensive to do so. Such experimenting can only result in loss of time, disappointment and dismal failure. Ladies should remember this before ordering other goods and not waste their time and money on inferior articles. The best is always the cheapest. "The Ladies' Safe Protector" is sold under a positive guarantee for use for one year, with full directions and is sent sealed in plain wrapper upon receipt of express money order for $2.00, three for $5.00. Do not wait but order at once. Address THE LA CROSSE SPECIALTY CO. LaCrosse, Wis. 1774 1 yr.

To Pay Rent with a Rose. That unique event, the "Feast of Roses," will occur next Sunday, when the congregation of Manheim Zion Lutheran church will pay the ground rent upon which the edifice stands by laying upon the altar one red rose, says a Philadelphia special. Baron William Henry Stiegel founded Manheim more than a century ago. He presented a plot of ground to the Zion Lutheran church and stipulated that all it should cost would be one red rose every June. Hence the unique ceremony. The rose is plucked by a certain member of the congregation, and it is laid with great solemnity upon the altar. There are special religious services held on that day. The life and virtues of the generous baron are retold, hymns are sung, and prayers said. If next Sunday shall be a fine day a great crowd of people will assemble at Zion church to see the sacred rose. Usually, however, bushes of roses are sent to the altar, although one is enough legally to cancel the rental.

WON A WIFE BY BRAVERY.

Romantic Adventure in Japan of a San Francisco Sailor.

Charles Litner is one of the luckiest sailors that ever sailed out of this port on a sealing schooner. He is going to be married to one of the prettiest girls in Japan. Not only is she very pretty, but her parents are very wealthy, according to the story told by C. Burdell, says the San Francisco Examiner. Burdell came up on the steamer Coptic last week. Speaking of young Litner, he said: "Charlie is the son of Sebastian Litner, a laborer, who lives out on Nineteenth avenue. He is an athletic young fellow and has always had an ambition to see the world. That's why he shipped on the schooner Jane Grey and went roving over the seas in search of seals and adventure. While at Hakodota, Japan, a few months ago Litner happened to be on one of the chief thoroughfares one afternoon when a spirited pony ran away with a Japanese girl, Miss Siena Kato. Litner saved the girl's life by springing in front of the runaway and striking the pony a stunning blow on the head with a club. The act was regarded as one of rare bravery, and before we left Japan it was announced that Litner was engaged to marry Miss Kato. He was hurt in the accident and was first taken to a hospital, but was afterward removed to the young lady's residence at the request of her parents. The marriage ceremony was to have taken place two weeks after we sailed. They are probably married by this time."

THE BLOW GUN.

Only Malays and American Indians Use This Wonderful Weapon.

The blow gun is one of the most remarkable savage devices in which compressed air is used as a motive force. The blow gun is a simple tube of cane, smoothly cleared of the joint partitions, through which light darts, feathered with a tuft of down or pieces of pith, are propelled by the breath. The blow gun is used for killing birds and small animals. Frequently the arrows are poisoned, rendering the light dart effective on larger game. The chief merit of the blow gun is its accuracy and the silence with which it may be employed. The penetration of the blow gun dart is greater than would be imagined. At the distance of fifty feet I have driven a blunt dart one-quarter of an inch into a pine plank. It is stated that the range of the blow gun among some tribes is from eighty to 100 yards. The blow gun is a tropical device and may be looked for in regions where bamboo or cane grows. Nevertheless, these tubes are often made of hard wood, single or of two pieces hollowed out and joined together. Frequently one tube is thrust inside of another to secure rigidity. The examination of many of these blow guns inspires a great respect for the ingenuity and mechanical skill of the workers. The North American specimens are from the Chetimachas of Louisiana, who frequently combine the tubes in series, forming a compound blow gun, and the Cherokees of the Carolinas. From Central America, the Indians of Honduras and Costa Rica; from South America, several Amazon tribes from Ecuador east and from British Guiana employ the blow gun.

HOW TO TELL THE KEY.

Just Remember These Nonsense Lines for Sharps and Flats.

"Amateur musicians often are somewhat embarrassed by the unexpected query as to what key a piece of music is in when playing in company," remarked a well-known music teacher. "They can tell on a little reflection, but an array of four or five sharps or flats is apt to temporarily confuse the best of them."

"Here is a simple little guide or reminder, which, if rehearsed a few times, will always keep them right and ready to make a quick response to such a question:

"In sharps just dot down this sentence, the capital letter beginning each word representing an additional sharp, from one to six: 'God Deluged All Earth By Flood.' In flats the same rule obtains in connection with this amusing line: 'Fanny Baker Eats Apple Dumplings Greedily.'"

THE COMMENCEMENT DINNER.

A Happy Time in Waterman Gymnasium—Speeches by Three College Presidents—Speeches by Gov. Rich and Others.

The commencement program is ended for the fifty-first time. Following the commencement proper in university hall yesterday morning, came the closing number of the week, the commencement feast, in Waterman gymnasium. Those who attended the dinner formed in line just after the conferring of the degrees and marched to the scene of the banquet with appetites well whetted by the long exercises in university hall. The gymnasium presented an enticing appearance. Across the west end was laid the speakers' table, while from it at right angles extended four long tables the length of the big building, with a capacity for seating five hundred. Every cover was turned, and some were turned away, while others laid an impromptu table by the side of the others. Some of the fresh baby alumni demonstrated that President Hall's remarks, made later on in the program, were not applicable in the west, however, it may be in the east. He said that to a great many college men the world was already a "sucked orange," they were never freshmen, they knew the ways of the world too well. The baby alumni yesterday attempted to take seats at the table always provided for the worthies, at the head of the banquet tables. They were foiled in their attempt by the vigilance of some of the attendants, and they had to take seats at the farther end of the hall, being a proper fulfillment of the scripture that "he who will be first shall be last."

When the seniors—no longer seniors but alumni—had exchanged places with the speakers, Rev. Henry Tatlock asked the blessing and the gustatory part of the program was soon over.

President Angell, as usual, on these occasions, acted the part of the toastmaster. The first one he called upon for a talk was Edmund Fish, the only representative of the class of 1845. He spoke only for a moment, simply giving the younger element an opportunity to see what sort of stuff the men of the middle of the century were made of. Following him, C. S. Carter, of Milwaukee, spoke in behalf of the class of 1870, which held a banquet and reunion here Wednesday evening, about twenty of the class being present.

President Charles Kendall Adams, of the University of Wisconsin, was next called upon. He scored the late legislature for its parsimony and then gave an eloquent eulogy of President Angell. Michigan's university owed more to three men than to any others. They were Superintendent of Instruction Pierce, in office in 1837, President Tappan and President Angell. He thought it would be the proper thing to endow the presidency of the university and give Dr. Angell the appointment for life. Then it would be the right thing to do to endow a chair of international law and let President Angell occupy that so long as he lived. Finally he would like to see a system of fellowships and scholarships begun in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of President Angell's occupancy of the executive chair. It was a just and glowing tribute to Michigan's grand president.

President J. Stanley Hall, of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., was one of the best speakers of the afternoon. Speaking extemporaneously, he held the company spell-bound for fifteen minutes or longer. He deplored the spirit already alluded to, that to most college men in the east at least, life had no interest, and the freshmen, the sophomores and the juniors were bound to have no real interest in the proceedings of the world. In fact, they considered it beneath their dignity to appear to take any interest.

Governor John T. Rich was present and Toastmaster Angell would not excuse him from duty. He made a good speech, taking the opportunity to defend the action of the legislature and his own in vetoing the university bill. It was his duty to look upon all the state institutions as equal, so far as favors were concerned. The tax rolls must be kept down. The state was already deep in debt, and he could do nothing except what he had done. He avowed his loyalty to the university and said that he would stand by it so long as he stood by his honor and his country. He was loudly applauded when he concluded.

Senator J. R. McLaughlin, of Detroit, one of the university's staunchest friends, spoke. He had sympathy for the governor, for he knew the position in which he had been placed. He was glad to note from the governor's speech that he did not carry the idea that the university must henceforth get along without state aid. He hoped that time would never come.

The last speaker was Supt. Nightingale, of Chicago, who spoke eloquently of the secondary schools. President Angell asked Dean D'Ooge to start the the doxology and with that glorious old tune the commencement exercises of 1895 passed into history and the class into the world.

DEGREE OF B. L. RESTORED.

Regents Raise all University Fees Five Dollars—Miss Butler Will Get Her Diploma.

At the meeting of the board of regents yesterday, the action of the board last month in cutting off the B. L. degree, was reconsidered and the degree restored. This was done because of the feeling that was manifested among the alumni that they had been given a degree and then the regents had taken it away. However, the requirements for admission for this course were raised so that two years of language will be required hereafter, or as soon as notice can be placed in the University calendar. The action that may be taken some time in the future will be a general leveling of all degrees to that of A. B. without requirement in Greek.

Another important piece of business was the raising of all fees $5. This will result in an increase in the revenues of the University nearly $15,000, provided that no one is kept away by higher fees.

It was decided to let Mrs. Anna B. Butler have her degree of LL. B. She has taken all the work and the only objection to her graduation was that she had not been here an year as one of the rules of the board requires. Routine appointments were made.

The Alumni Banquet.

Wednesday's alumni banquet was a great success for the first one. Nearly two hundred alumni young and old sat down to the banquet table in the gymnasium. According to announcement, Hon. Thomas W. Palmer was present and acted the role of toastmaster, in a model manner. He opened the banquet with the admonition "Not to eat too fast, to masticate thoroughly and laugh and talk all you want to." Then the sumptuous dinner served by Hangsterler was disposed of. After the dinner, the first one whom the toastmaster called upon for a speech was President Angell, who talked about "The University." He impressed upon the alumni the utter dependence of the University upon them. He thought the alumni dinner would be a factor in bringing the alumni into closer connection and he was glad it had been inaugurated and he hoped it would grow.

President W. J. Stuart, of the Literary alumni association, was the next man called upon. He spoke of "The Alumni." The other speakers were as follows: Miss Cora Benson, of the Massachusetts bar, "The Ladies." Edmund Fish, "The Old Boys." President C. K. Adams, "The Relation of the Alumni to the University." Dr. Edmund Andrews, of Chicago, "The Alumni and the Medical Alumni in Particular." Prof. B. M. Thompson, "The Lawyers." Liberty E. Holden, "College Memories." Prof. Andrew TenBrook spoke in conclusion.

It was the intention to make the banquet as informal as possible and that intention was carried out. There was the greatest good fellowship. Tom Palmer created a great laugh by singing a solo, "The Son of a Gamboller."

Chi Psi House Burned.

The fire department was called out this morning at 4:30 o'clock by the burning of the residence at the corner of Washtenaw and E. University aves. The alarm was not given until the flames had got a good hold of the house. In fact the neighbors had to arouse the inmates in order to save them, so silently and rapidly did the flames spread.

The house was an old one with brick upright and wooden additions and the wooden portion was entirely consumed, together with a large quantity of household goods stored therein belonging to J. Dowler who occupied the house. Mr. Dowler had no insurance and loses some $500 in household effects, which is a serious loss to the family.

Mr. E. Lee, who occupied rooms in the brick part of the dwelling sustains some loss on furniture.

The house belongs to the Chi Psi fraternity, and was of no great value.

The fire was the work of an incendiary, no doubt, as these had been no fire in the part which was destroyed, and the family did not retire until half-past 11 the night before. And it is said that one or two attempts to burn the house had been made before.

When these facts are appreciated by trade advertisers they will see that paying ads in costly space are superior to out-of-date advertising. Then they will be paid by the realization that a good ad is better than a good salesman. It reaches more buyers in one month than the salesman can in two years.—Business.

DR. BREAKEY'S ADDRESS.

He Said Some Pertinent Things in His Address to the Medical Alumni.

At the meeting of the medical alumni association this afternoon, Dr. W. F. Breakey gave a pointed address.

He spoke of the formation of the alumni association and the earlier history of the medical department, and gave extracts from letters received from alumni and speeches made at that time. Speaking of the attitude of the alumni he said, "The medical alumni, who may have differed about minor matters, regard the science and the profession of medicine above all personal feelings, and their Alma Mater has no truer, stronger, or worthier friends than her own children."

In regard to the attacks on the University he said, it is a matter of profound satisfaction to know that the filthy attacks made on the University and the medical department in particular by sensational writers in a few papers were ignored by the greater and better part of the newspaper press. They are less harmful, no doubt, because of what may be characterized as the outrageously malicious or vulgarly silly spirit and tone. Such attacks may spatter and deface solid walls but can never undermine nor batter them down.

It is more serious to observe the efforts apparent in many ways the last year to discourage state aid to the University and the willingness to see the Department of Medicine and Surgery and the Hospital crippled and arrested in their career of usefulness. The Department of Medicine and Surgery was organized on a high standard for medical schools of that day, and was fortunate in the men who comprised its faculty and in the support it received from the University authorities and these singly other department of Literature, Science, and Arts. In its very establishment they considered the state committed to the maintenance of a school of scientific medium the highest attainable character, and themselves agents and servants in carrying out that determination. They expected, in a literal sense, the frequent work of the ordinance of 1789 that "Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary and good government and the happiness of mankind, schools another means of education shall forever be encouraged."

The charge sometimes made, that a medical education is capital and that it is not the function of the state to furnish this, but rather to provide moderate education to all the children of the state,—applies with equal force to students in literature and science, in civil, mechanical, electrical and mining engineering, in chemistry, pharmacy, assaying and agriculture, as with medicine and how. The degree of the students in Greek or Latin is as much a capital in looking for employment as is M. D. or L. L. B. It seems a reasonable proposition that the State having found a School of Medicine, is under the obligations to maintain it at the highest possible standard. In support of this proposition Dr. Breakey read a number of extracts from addresses of Dr. Tappan, and Dr. Horen, showing the intent interests of the authorities then to maintain a Medical school of the highest scientific development.

SIX HUNDRED NINETY-TWO.

That was the Number of Degrees Conferred on the Graduates of Today.

COMMENCEMENT ORATION.

Delivered by James Hulme Canfield—His Subject "The Unit of Power"—Conferring of the Degrees—The Commencement Dinner.

Last Thursday was the great day of commencement week. Early in the morning the campus was astir, and by half past eight the graduates were gathered at the various departments to make ready for the triumphal march to university hall for the last time. The procession formed about the various department buildings and after considerable marching and counter-marching finally arrived safely in the hall, and took their appropriate seats, under the direction of Major Soule and Secretary Wade.

The hall was, as usual, packed to the doors with the people anxious to see the last act of the drama of the classes of '95. On the platform were the members of the university senate, together with the speaker of the day, James Hulme Canfield, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, and president-elect of Ohio State University. Shortly after ten o'clock the crowd was in its place and the exercises began. President-elect Canfield spoke at length on "The Unit of Power." His address was a scholarly effort. He spoke in substance as follows:

Self government as an experiment in the United States is little more than a gigantic co-operative scheme. The national capitol is nothing more than a general office of a great company, the place where the board of directors and the various officers meet. The states are special work shops, each under its own local government, though wisely and properly subordinated to the general control. This is neither socialism pure and simple, nor communism, nor nihilism. It is, however, a magnificent example of the best socialism—not yet perfect, being in all respects human—but with sufficient divinity stamped upon it to render true the scornful remark of the old French abbe, "A sort of special providence watches over old women, little children and the people of the United States of America."

The speaker held it to be at least questionable whether there is any other civilized nation in which the problem of self government presents as many difficulties as are found in the United States. Our immense territory, embracing as it does, a vast variety of interests, constantly threatens, at least, to fall to pieces by reason of its own weight. This territory is crossed and recrossed by what has been long considered natural boundaries. Moreover we have great diversity of climate, by which it has come to pass that there are two races here, almost distinct in temperament and in general characteristics. Of our population there is scarcely a single block that can be pointed out as distinctively national and American. In addition to all these factors, there is a general want and restraint in personal and local affairs, and a more or less wise confidence in the mutual inter-dependence of both sections and states. These are a few of the difficulties and dangers of our national problem; all to be augmented and multiplied when we have not, as we have now, more room than we need, but a population of say 200 to the square mile, with innumerable great cities—those plague-spots on the body politic.

Now what have we as a nation with which to oppose these anarchical tendencies? What can we regard as the power preservative? What is the Unit of Power? The speaker then stated that there are some thoughts, theories or principles that seem common to man, which come, we hardly know whether by instinct or by environment or out of the depth of experience, and always seem to come late. One of these is the principle of individualism; which was defined to be the idea of life other than life in herds, of an existence other than mass existence, of movement other than following the crowd, by a present not wholly dominated by the past, of a future which each man may largely determine for himself. The discussion of the rise and growth of this thought or principle formed the burden of the address.

Chancellor Canfield discussed this principle or rather its lack in the old governments. The Hebrew theocratic republic was of divine origin, and relied but little upon individual man. In the Greek state there was a recognition of man, but that which was foremost was the state and not the citizen. In the Roman republic and in the Roman empire we have the state again, municipal power, even more sharply developed in some respects than in Greece. It was the city ruling the entire world. The speaker then turned to the "barbarians," or the Teutons, on the north Roman frontier. These so-called "barbarians" had within their grasp thoughts and purposes and principles, germs of future belief and future national life, that were worth far more than anything Greece or Rome ever produced. The speaker then took up the rise of the different forms of government after the form of Rome, defining most clearly what he called legitimate democracy. In this the old Teutonic element was well at the front again. The speaker could not conceive of the Reformation as beginning in a Latin race. Individualism gradually percolated into institutions, but it was not to win so easily. The people were mistreated, then ignored—and then came the French Revolution. It was an explosion—destructive, disastrous; yet very few movements in the history of the world have brought more or greater blessings to the world than came with that. It was the last blow at feudalism.

Turning to our own country, the speaker said that our struggle had been marked by the cool and conservative temper of the Anglo-Saxon and of the Puritan. Our civil revolution was bloodless. When we completed a government, it was a federal government and not a pure democracy. But at the end of the first twenty-five years, we had practically thrown aside our extreme federalism and were rapidly becoming the democratic republic of today. The speaker then referred to the fact that this growth in individualism had been accompanied by the recognition of women, although such recognition was tardy indeed. Men doubtless had always drawn half their inspiration and all their moral courage and strength from their wives. The moment, however, that a great moral question like slavery arose in the United States, woman came at once to the front. Her first coming was not a pleasant event to any of us, and it was certainly not an enjoyable experience to her. Women are instinctively right and righteous. Men are generally and persistently and sullenly wrong. Like the old weather cocks in New Amsterdam, man has to be set by force of arms every morning to agree at all with the governor.

The development of individualism in all classes and both sexes moved on rapidly after 1835. The most marvelous proof of the very highest forms of individualism in thought and action undoubtedly came in the attempt to make us all see what a horrible thing human slavery was. "Where there is no vision the people perish—and there were prophets in those days." The speaker paid a strong tribute to John Brown as one of those men. The greatest lesson of the war was the lesson of the responsibility of every man and every woman for the status of society. The air is full of a marvellous moral and mental activity which has grown out of this struggle. This is seen in all forms of life.

No one denies that there is danger in freedom. Freedom unchains all forces of society, the bad as well as the good. There is no such thing as partial freedom if we are to secure the best results. The frivolous minds and the ill-balanced minds and the merely inquisitive minds, are put upon the same footing and given precisely the same liberty as the strongest, the best and the wisest minds. It is better that all men should go free and alone, even though some fall, never to rise again, than that all men should go in leading-strings.

The speaker closed with an earnest exhortation to the students of the university and especially to those who are leaving its halls to remember that individual accountability compels us to seek the truth without regard to the results to ourselves. The time has passed when the world is to be fed on truth in homeopathic doses, because some over wise people think it is not strong enough to bear full diet. It is the truth in all things that will make you free in all things. One might be very glad to belong to a church in which the priest carries all the sins of the people or to live under a government where the monarch alone is responsible, and the greatest care placed on any citizen is to see that cream rises for his own coffee the next morning. But this today does not mean life. It is a hard thing to grow. It is uncomfortable to yourself and to everybody about you. But you should never consent to be one of the human flints that never by any accident strike fire. You must labor to succeed and all labor is painful. It is not all truth but the truth, your truth, the truth you have learned by patient effort, the truth which you are ready to hold against all comers, the truth which has won your devotion for its own dear sake. This is the truth that makes you free. And "to be free" is the same thing as to be pious, to be wise, to be temperate and just, to be frugal and abstinent, to be magnanimous and brave."

Who dares not follow truth where Her footsteps lead,
But says, "O, guide not there,
I have not strength to follow where My feet would bleed;
But show me worn ways, trodden fair
By feet more brave!"
Who fears to stand where truth broad glare,
What others dared not will not dare,
Is but a slave.

After the commencement oration, came the conferring of degrees upon the 692 graduates of the various departments and in the various courses. The slow process of calling the degrees by sections was abolished last year, and following the custom instituted then, the work was done today in a very short time. The array of presents in room A was elaborate. All the graduates seemed to have been remembered in some way or other by their friends.

The procession reformed immediately after the adjournment from the hall and under the command of Major Soule marched to Waterman gymnasium where the commencement dinner was served. After the dinner there were speeches by some of the prominent men present and one or two by the members of the graduating class.

HONORARY DEGREES.
After the conferring of degrees upon the graduates this morning the President announced the following honorary degrees as being authorized by the board of regents:

Master of Laws—upon Robert H. McMurdy, lit '80, of Chicago, president of the Alumni Association of that city.

Master of Arts—upon Mij Wylis C. Ransom, lit '48, of Lansing.

Miss Amelia Clara Chapin lit '75, at present Professor of Greek in Wellesley College.

Hon. Andrew J. Poppleton, of Omaha, Nebraska.

Rev. Wm. Frackelton, lit '67, of Sidney, Australia.

L. L. D.—upon Alfred Noble, lit '70, U. S. Commissioner to Nicaragua.

Henry Mills Hurd, lit '63, superintendent of Johns Hopkins University Hospitals and dean of faculty.

THE FIRST ALUMNI DINNER.

What Was Done at the Meetings of the Alumni Associations Yesterday.

After the alumni dinner Wednesday, the various department associations held their annual meetings. The lit. alumni association met in the lecture room of Tappan hall, to the number of about one hundred. Considerable important business was transacted.

After the reading of the minutes of the meeting of 1894, Treasurer James M. Crosby, of Grand Rapids, read his report, showing that the various receipts for the year were $5,858.50, and the present amount in the Williams Professorship fund is $13,392.41. At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the board of directors of the association, it was decided to change the fund into a fellowships, and letters were sent to the subscribers to the fund asking them if they had any objection to this disposal of the money. Twenty-five said they had not, four said they had and four did not know whether they had or not. Inasmuch as objections were raised to converting the fund into a fellowship fund, all talk about the matter was abandoned, and the money will remain where it can increase as rapidly as possible until there is enough to make it practicable to use it for a professorship. Treasurer Crosby was directed to place the money where it would be getting a good rate of interest.

William A. Moore, of Detroit, suggested that the money be used to complete the co-ed gymnasium, but this was as impracticable as the other proposed disposition.

The report of the society's necrologist, T. R. Chase, of Detroit, was read. Prof. Hamilton, of this city, offered a resolution that at future banquets of the association, smoking be prohibited, as it was understood that it was objectionable to the ladies. On the eye and nose vote it seemed that there was a tie, but upon a division, the smokers appeared to lack the stamina to stand up and the resolution went through with flying colors. Numerous amendments were made to the constitution and by-laws. One of them provided for a board of ten directors, instead of five, whose terms of office were to be three years.

Prof. B. M. Thompson offered a resolution, which was carried, to the effect that a committee of five be appointed to see that the university was properly set forth in the eyes of the electors and taxpayers. It was decided to continue the alumni banquet as an annual feature of commencement week.

The following officers were elected: William Savidge, of Spring Lake, Mich., president; W. J. Cocker, of Adrian, vice-president; Prof. J. H. Drake, secretary; James M. Crosby, of Grand Rapids, treasurer; Dr. E. L. Sherrill and Edgar Rexford, directors for one year; H. R. Pattengill and J. O. Reed, directors for two years; and Prof. W. S. Perry and Senator J. R. McLaughlin, directors for three years.

The law alumni association met in the law lecture room. It was decided to organize the society on a firmer basis. E. F. Johnson was elected secretary in place of Dean Knowlton, and with this exception all the officers are re-elected. It was decided to have a grand law reunion in 1900, and E. F. Johnson was appointed to make what immediate arrangements were necessary for the event.

The medical alumni association met at the residence of Dean Vaughan, and after the reading of the address of Dr. W. F. Breakey, president of the association, a part of which was published in yesterday's Courier, there was an informal social session.

The dental alumni met in the dental building and transacted some minor business.
