PARIS TO COLOGNE.

Our Two Wheelmen Friends Tell of Curious Scenes and Curious People on Their Journey.

COLOGNE, GERMANY, July 20. Dear Mr. Editor:

We were leaving Paris when last I wrote you. The gate by which we departed was not such a one as we entered. The fortifications are very plain here and the great wall, with the moat, looks very formidable. St. Denis, the burial place of the French kings an extremely uninteresting place otherwise, was the first city on our route. We entered the ancient cathedral, which has been destroyed and rebuilt, has decayed and been rebuilt, until it is a curious mixture of styles of architecture. There was an atmosphere of awe and majesty which quite quelled my democratic spirit. After untangling the French streets, we resumed our ride toward Brussels.

GEORGIOUS TOWN PUMPS.

How amused you would be to see Harry and me wheeling along in our happy-go-lucky fashion. Now removing a turnip carefully from its bed (and discovering that it is a green beet), now gathering a few cherries and getting a volly of French oaths, wholly inoffensive to us because we don't understand a word; then again, seated by a stone wayside fountain with its grand semicircle of trees. The town pumps are such odd edifices—for they are edifices about 12 feet high; made of stone or brick or iron, 4 feet square and having an ornamental roof. The handle varies from six to ten feet in length and gives an enormous stroke. It is handled much like a base-ball bat—with a mighty sweep of both arms. Roads paved with stone but with good side-paths extended from Paris to Brussels. On both sides of the road, there are continuous rows of trees which furnish a most agreeable shade for a wheelman. COULDN'T GO TO BED WITH OUR SHOES ON.

We passed Chantilly where is the beautiful chateau and park of the famous Conde' and then Longpont with its antique, crumbling and unroofed cathedral. We stopped for the first night out of Paris at Tubise. Here we were requested by the good landlady to remove our shoes before going up stairs to bed. We complied and found our shoes at the foot of the staircase in the morning. We took breakfast at Waterloo, next morning, in sight of the Lion and the Prussian monument and commented learnedly during our repast upon the famous battles. From there to Brussels, where, upon our first entrance to the city it seemed a bedlam of market women. Even on the road leading into the city was a long line of small carts drawn by dogs of every pedigree and size. In the carts were brazen milk pails varying in grotesque shapes. The streets of the city were thronged with women venders of all sort of clams, of vegetables in all stages of decay, and of old clothes and live eels. But when we passed to the front of the magnificent Hotel de Ville, we found a boulevard where all was gaiety and the squalor and vileness of lower town unknown. Riding along the ostentatious boulevard, we viewed the public buildings and then wheeled away into the country toward Aix la Chapelle. We soon discovered that the language was changing. The French of western Belgium was getting mixed with Dutch and the compound was so hopeless a jargon that we nearly despaired. At forks in the road, one man would tell us in vehement French to go one way and another, in emphatic Dutch, to go the other. Then a fellow who spoke a mixture of both would tell us to go either. We were fortunate however and went the direct route to Aix la Chapelle.

THEY NEED AMERICAN WAYS.

At one time, my tire was badly cut on a sharp stone and as it was raining we took refuge in an old flour-mill which was run by a huge windmill. What a quaint old place it was, with the stolid Dutchmen sluggishly moving here and there to adjust machinery. They reefed the sails of the windmill while we were there and we studied the whole operation. This old-fashioned method is strange, but when we see all the reaping done by hand with a sickle, and the threshing done with a flail, and the women, with brawny, weatherbeaten arms, doing more than half the work, we are thankful that we live in progressive America. Men, women and children are all experts in balancing on the head, jugs, trays, baskets and anything portable. There is a curious uniformity in the leather bags which each of the myriad school children carries on his or her shoulder.

DRINK BY INHALATION.

They have a remarkable hydrant in this country. You press a button and the hydrant does the rest with full force at once. There is no adjustment but the water makes a terrific rush. It is funny to see us try to catch a drink "on the fly." We apply our mouths to the side of the torrent, and inhale, as it were.

THE COUNTRY TAKEN BY THE DUTCH.

We had a great surprise as we neared Aix la Chapelle. I went into a postoffice to get a stamp and was told my Belgium money was not good. Then I discovered that we were passing through a strip of Holland. It is a surprise, I assure you, to turn up suddenly in a country which you never expected to see. The small villages through this region were so full of pigs that we could not avoid running over them as they scurried about. The inhabitants and pigs took that good-naturedly so we did. We are getting accustomed to running over small boys, pigs and dogs.

FEAST FOR EYES BUT NOT FOR STOMACH.

I haven't time to tell the harrowing particulars of how we tried to eat the famous German black bread; nor Harry's chagrin when he found one evening that his hair had grown so long, he could not remove his sweater. I can only briefly suggest the appearance of a Dutch village with its slim, pointed church spires and little, dirty, whitewashed houses with red-tile roofs. Some of the chateaus are charming. In front of one, I remember a small pond of clear water, a small island covered with foliage; and just above the verdure, a charming sculptured Venus arose. Enough now more soon.

C. H. VAN TYNE.

DISEASED FRUIT TREES.

They are Very Numerous Within the City Limits.

Mr. Ganzhorn, the commissioner appointed to examine the fruit trees of the city with reference to the diseases known as the yellows in peaches and black knot in plums, expects to finish the inspection by the end of the week. So far he has found the yellows in 130 different places within the city limits, with from one to sixty-four trees in each.

He finds that the yellows is spreading with alarming rapidity, and that the only safety lies in the prompt destruction of the diseased trees.

That our readers may become a little better acquainted with their duty in this respect, we might say that the law is very plain and explicit. Any person notified by the commissioners must destroy, by fire, the trees found to be diseased within five days from such notification, and failure so to do lays them liable to a fine of $100 or imprisonment in the county jail three months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

In case the owner of trees refuses or neglects to take out and destroy diseased trees it is made the duty of the commissioner so to do, and the expense therefor must be paid by the city or township where such trees are located. The city or township can recover the money by levying the same as a regular tax upon the land.

Where this law has been lived up to and enforced the disease has been stayed in its ravages, and the only way to save our peach orchards is to have the law promptly obeyed.

Mr. Ganzhorn also found a new disease that he thinks is even worse than the yellows, as it attacks the young as well as the old trees. With this disease the leaves curl up and wither, have red spots on them, and eventually each limb dies until the entire tree is killed.

MICHIGAN GAME LAWS.

If You Hunt or Fish it Will Pay You to Read These Extracts From the Game Laws.

FISH-KILLING WITH DYNAMITE.

Sec. 17. It shall not be lawful hereafter at any time to kill or destroy or attempt to kill or destroy, any fish in any of the waters of the State of Michigan by the use or aid of dynamite, herculean or giant powder, or any other explosive substance or combination of substances, or by the use of Indian cockle or other substance or device, which has a tendency to stupefy the fish.

TO CATCH FISH WITH SPEARS.

Sec. 18. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take, catch or kill, or attempt to take catch or kill, any fish by the use of any kind of spear during the months of March, April, May and June of each year in any of the waters of the state, except lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, St. Clair, and Erie and in Saginaw bay; Provided, however, that the spearing or catching by dip net of mullet, grass-pike, red-side and suckers shall not be unlawful.

MUST NOT USE NETS.

Sec. 27. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to place a weir dam, fish weir, weir net or other device across any race, stream, lake or river of this state, in such a manner as to obstruct the free passage of fish up and down the same; and any person violating this section shall, in addition to the penalty provided for in section fourteen of this act, be liable to the payment of two dollars per day for every day that he shall continue such violation after having been duly notified by an elector of the township wherein such fish weir or weir net may be, feeling himself aggrieved thereby, to remove the same, said penalty or penalties to be recovered before any court of competent jurisdiction in the township or county where such offense shall have been committed; and in default of payment thereof, shall be confined in the county jail until such fine and costs shall be paid; but such confinement shall not exceed thirty days.

TO KEEP OUR STREAMS CLEAN.

Sec. 30. It shall be unlawful for all persons to put into any of the waters of this State, where fish are taken, any offal, blood, putrid brine, putrid fish or filth of any description; and any person so offending shall be fined in any sum not exceeding three hundred dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

NOT TO KILL FISH BY FIRE-ARMS, ETC.

Sec. 37. It shall not be lawful for any person to take, catch or kill, or attempt to take, catch or kill, any fish in any of the inland lakes and streams in this State with any kind of spear or grip hook, or by the use of any jacks or artificial light of any kind, or by the use of set lines, or night lines within the meaning of this act, shall be deemed to be a continuous line anchored at either end, to which shorter lines with hooks are attached, or any kind of net or any kind of fire-arms or explosives, or other device except the hook and line.

WHEN TO KILL WOODCOCK.

Sec. 194. No person or persons shall kill or destroy any woodcock save only from the fifteenth day of August to the fifteenth day of December in each year.

PARTRIDGES AND QUAILS.

Sec. 197. No person or persons shall kill, capture or destroy, or attempt to kill, capture or destroy, any ruffed grouse, sometimes called partridge, or pheasant, except from the first day of November, inclusive, in each year; or any colin or quail, sometimes called Virginia partridge, save only from the first day of November to the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each year.

TO PROTECT OTHER BIRDS.

Sec. 204. Any person who shall at any time, within this State, kill any robin, nighthawk, whippoorwill, flicker, thrush, lark, swallow, yellow bird, blue bird, brown thrasher, wren, martin, oriole, woodpecker, bobolink or any song bird, or rob the nests of such birds, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be fined five dollars for each bird so killed and for each nest so robbed, or confined in the county jail for ten days, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

CALIFORNIA AS IT IS.

A Conservative View of the Case—A Beautiful Land to Live In.

The following is from a letter written to Hugh D. Mars, of this city, by his brother-in-law, W. A. Chess, cashier of the First National Bank at Monrovia, Cal., and gives our readers a very conservative view of the situation of things there. We quote the following paragraphs:

"I received the Courier of August 21, containing a letter from one James P. Douglass, warning people to be careful about breaking up in the east and coming to California.

I wish to take exceptions to the general tone of his letter, but in some parts of it he speaks the truth, but the aim is to caution people against a supposed bad place. You know something of the country from former letters written you, but I wish to discuss the very points he makes, with fairness, for by your sending the marked copy it is implied that you want it discussed.

"If a man wants to come here and go to ranching, why he can make a living, perhaps something more, but even the average ranchman makes no more than a living."

This statement is probably true, but during these times there is no spot in America where ranchers are making money, barring exceptions. California is not alone in this.

"The business field here is overcrowded to a tremendous extent."

This is true of most every town. Goods are sold here nearly as cheap as in the east and some business men fail here as in other places, but energetic business men make a living, some of them make money.

"And they take all clerical positions at wages that will hardly keep body and soul together. They are content, if they barely exist."

This is true in some cases, but there are men and women here employed at good wages. When persons get to liking the country they will work cheap rather than leave it.

"Above all things don't come here expecting to get any clerical position, or anything of that kind, the chances are a thousand to one against you."

This is true if you are a stranger. It is true in any spot in America at the present time.

"People in the east who have comfortable homes and are doing even fairly well, should not think of giving up their good homes and coming here."

This is good advice, but to people who are barely existing in the east I would say you can lose nothing by experiment for I had rather barely exist here than in the east.

You see this man is simply telling you that times are hard here as well as in the east. Nobody denies that. When I come west I came with the idea that I had rather work for wages here than in Cassopolis, Mich. I think the same today. I'll tell you why I think so. Because the laboring man can go on a picnic nearly every Sunday in the year. It is nearly always fit weather for one to be out. I haven't had my ears frozen since I left Michigan. The coal oil does not freeze in the lamps here, potatoes don't freeze if left on the kitchen porch all winter. Cally lilies do not freeze. Last winter the tomato vines did not freeze, yet it is cool and sometimes chilly every evening of the summer. My wife is shutting the doors now and says it is chilly.

Mr. Douglass said nothing against the climate. He saved his bacon. You know what I had when I came here. I did not even have good health. I have lived as happy as human beings ever live and paid my bills, but I have not got rich, probably never will. I now get $1,000 a year. I never could have got this salary in Cassopolis. There is no field there. There are too many others that want to remain by the old firesides. Some body must go west, and of course many come here who are disappointed.

I am careful about advising people to come who are doing well in the east, for it is difficult for them to better themselves.

I think you could make a living here. I am most sure of it. I think the chances in printing would be better than in other lines you named. I asked the editor of the Monrovia Messenger what pay good printers received and he said $18 a week, but it is difficult to get positions."

Tammany has been reorganized. It will present a new set of hands to milk the public treasury, and new brooms sweep clean.

Berlin's new census falls short of the estimate 120,000, but these incidents are likely to happen in growing towns. The official figures are 1,616,381, an increase of 37,137 in five years.

One of the judges of the Massachusetts supreme court charges Ben Butler with having committed a fraud. With all his faults that was not old Ben's way of doing business, and it would be only fair to wait for full particulars.

An official count shows that there are nearly 50,000,000 silver dollars stored in the national mint at Philadelphia, and one of the papers of that city says that all efforts to get them into active circulation have been futile. Facts of this kind make demands for more silver coinage ridiculous.

The missionaries in China just now are having a hard time of it. The riots and mobs are in every instance headed by the local government at the places where they occur. They should convert the officials first, and then stand some show for their lives.

The fire loss of the United States amounts to one-fifth of the net profits of all the industries of the country. The insurance money paid in America is about one-half of the total throughout the world. This is chiefly pure waste and no reasonable excuse can be found for it.

The "good western man" whom Hill says the democrats ought to nominate may be beaten out of the candidacy by Cleveland in 1896 as he was in 1892. The man who gave victory to the democracy after its quarter of a century of uninterrupted defeat has a big pull on the party yet.

In proportion to population, Germany raises nearly ten times as many potatoes as the United States, and finds them a profitable crop. As this country is importing between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels potatoes a year, our farmers should take the hint, and need have no fear of over production.

It turns out that a great lot of the stuff published about Holmes was unmitigated rot. Dr. Russell whom he was accused of making away with has turned up in Grand Rapids, and others have also been heard from. Not enough evidence has yet been secured to convict him of any crime.

This has been a great week in Petoskey and around the bay, and no mention of emul has been heard from any quarter. With a regatta, two circuses, hops, concerts, lectures, etc., ad infinitum, all in one short week, who couldn't enjoy himself.—Petoskey Daily Resorser. And yet people go to these "quiet" resorts for rest!

G. W. Stevenson of Coldwater, who celebrates his 86th birthday anniversary Aug. 16, is one of the few men living who was honored with the privilege of shaking hands with Lafayette when the latter visited this country in 1824. Mr. Stevenson was at that time an officer in a militia company which met him as he landed at the battery, in New York.

If any one can succeed in tumbling through or over a poor sidewalk now-a-days, it is surely good for $1,000 for him or her. That appears to be the fixed price for such injuries.

The army of Germany and the railway army of the United States contain the same number of men. It is Uncle Sam's impression that he has decidedly the advantage in this arrangement.

Mr. Whitney would stand a better chance of securing the presidential nomination if the democrats could forget that he is more responsible than any other one man for the second term of Cleveland.

The new census in Wisconsin, shows a growth that he leading cities since 1890 of about 15 per cent., but the increase of population in the country districts has not been large. The state is nearing the 2,000,000 mark.

The records show that 685 firms and corporations have voluntarily advanced the wages of 514,000 employees during the present year, which is more than all the strikes have ever done for the promotion of the interests of labor.

A suit is now pending in a New York court over the possession of a silver dollar which is one of only twelve now remaining, so far as is known, of the mintage of 1804. The fact that these coins are worth from $600 to $2,000 apiece shows that there are some silver dollars in the country that were not hurt by "the great crime" of demonetization.

Boston is justifiably proud of its new public library and is finding ways to enlarge its usefulness. The trustees have decided to establish three delivery stations in different parts of the city, where people can order books in the morning and receive them in the afternoon. The Yankee idea of keeping a good book in motion is commendable.

Jim Corbett, who was heralded as a gentleman when he first whipped Sullivan, is proving to be a cur. He has been divorced from his wife and married again within a few days. Then he got mad at his trainer and whipped him, using his superior strength and science in a cowardly way, and has done many things that entitle him to be classed among the thugs and plug uglies. It is hard work for a man to be a brute and a gentleman at the same time. Pugilism can not combine the two.

"To the Clerk of—County, Mich.: I am the father, mother or guardian of M—, a female who has not yet attained the age of 18 years, and I hereby consent that a license be issued for her marriage, as required by law. Dated, Residence, name."

The above is the form of the blank which must be filled out, under the new law, by one of the parents before a marriage license can be issued to a girl under 18 years of age.

There are indications that China is about to change its policy as to railroads, of which it has but a total of 230 miles in the entire empire. Representatives of China are now in this country to study the subject of railway transportation, and the erection has been begun in a leading Chinese city of extensive blast furnaces, steel works and rolling mills. The Government also is educating native students in various branches of engineering connected with railroads.

Justice Jackson's death reduces the number of democratic members of the supreme court to three, as compared with five republicans. Probably a democrat will be appointed in his place, which will make the count four to five. However, the partisan complexion of the members of this tribunal makes little or no difference in their attitude toward the questions which are likely to come before them hereafter. Neither partisan nor sectional lines were revealed in the income tax decision.

According to the latest directory figures Detroit has a population of 352,731 souls, an increase the past year of 21,843. The City of the Straits seems to be making progress straight ahead. Chicago wants to watch out. The old fogies who held Detroit back so many years, and let other western cities get the start of her, are all dead now, and there is no knowing what the handsomest and best located city in the United States may yet do in the way of growing. It has taken her a long time to get a start on account of the long life of some of her early settlers who "Gobbled up" most all of the good land and refused to sell or improve it, but once on the road of progress she may eclipse them all.

Stevenson is going to Alaska, which signifies that he is the latest democratic statesman to recognize the advantage of having a large body of salt water between him and his party at the present time.

Turkey belongs to another age and has no claim to a place in the company of respectable nations. When the Powers proceed to obliterate it from the map no protest will be heard in America.

London has decided to convert into parks and playgrounds for children the 173 disused graveyards in that city. There is an element of poetry in this benefaction from the long-forgotten dead, and it is a pity England has no laureate to put it into fitting words.

The engineers' estimate of the cost of the Nicaragua canal was $64,000,000 in 1888 and $90,000,000 in 1891. The commission just returned from a journey along the route place the figures at $110,000,000. Plainly the project is one to be considered with extreme caution.

The New York Sunday shaving law has been declared constitutional, notwithstanding the fact that New York City and Saratoga are exempted from its provisions. It thus seems that a state may declare a thing to be against good morals in a general way, but entirely consistent with morality in special localities.

The light grain crops of 1894 have affected the earnings of the western railroads injuriously almost to the present time. This year's heavy crops, however, ought to make up this loss. If the conditions remain for the next four or five weeks as favorable as they are now the aggregate cereal yield will be the largest in the country's history.

A physician writing in the "Popular Science Monthly" says that children who habitually lie are usually suffering from disorders of mind or body "which radically interfere with the transmission of conceptions and preceptions from the internal to the external processes of expression." Perhaps this is what ails the free silver prevaricators.

The democrats of Illinois are likely to lose a congressman through the discovery of tickets fraudulently marked with a cross by some device worn on the thumb of one of the election judges in Chicago. As the democrats of the Northern States elected just thirteen members of congress last fall, they may be willing to part with one of them just for luck.

If Gen. Harrison would accept the office of Justice of the Supreme court of the United States, President Cleveland would do a very gentlemanly and generous act by appointing him to the position. Both are even as far as the presidency goes, each has defeated the other, so this act would be one that would always redound to the credit of the president if he could get off his partisan perch long enough to do it. But he will not.

A new law in New York goes into force September 1, which requires secrecy to be maintained by all who handle telephone messages. Under its provisions any telegraph or telephone employe who improperly reveals a message may be fined $1,000 or imprisoned for six months, and the same penalty is fixed for any person who wrongfully obtains a message. The law makes no distinction, as far as secrecy is concerned, between the telegraph and the telephone.

The only city that has successfully fought the caterpillars is Rochester, N. Y. For several years a forestry association there has offered children prizes for gathering cocoons, and in the summer of 1893 it destroyed 132,648 cocoons, 44,900 of which were brought in by one boy. In 1894 the number gathered and destroyed was over 9,000,000, at a cost in prizes of $655. The offer was repeated this spring, but only 400,000 cocoons were found. The pestiferous depouiler had given up the fight for once.

Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, expected to profit by the assassination of Stambuloff, but, on the contrary, finds himself exposed to general wrath and scorn on account of that shocking event. The people of his country are generally opposed to him, and Russia, whose favor he sacrificed everything to win, has repudiated him. He has no support and no sympathy, and the probability is that he will soon be retired to private life and permanent disgrace.

A prominent geologist, who has been looking into the formation of the bed of the Ohio river, forty-three miles below Pittsburg, says the old river bed is 300 feet above the present water level, and he finds there stones of Canadian granite, whose nearest home now is on the Canadian side of Lake Ontario. In the glacial gravel he came across a rough arrow head, which he attributes to the glacial period, perhaps 300,000 years ago. The testimony of the rocks is in the nature of sensational news, in spite of its great antiquity.

ORGANIZE REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

An effort is being made by an organization calling itself the "Honest Dollar Club" to organize free silver clubs throughout the state. It is sincerely to be hoped that republicans will not become members of such clubs. So far as political action is concerned it is the privilege and duty of all republicans to urge and influence their party for or against any policy or issue, as the good or ill of the country may demand.

It is not necessary or to be desired that all republicans shall fully agree upon all national problems. There is growth in investigation and life in discussion, and there is room and freedom within the republican party for investigation and the candid discussion of all important public questions.

It may not be possible to secure the adoption by the party of all the purposes which individuals may possess or through it to advance all the varying interests which localities may deem important, but the history of our country since the organization of the republican party vividly reveals the fact the greatest good to the greatest number can best be secured by and through it.

The membership of the republican party is so formed as to quickly and intelligently respond to the important issues involved in every great question. The well doing and well being of the homes and shops and schools and stores and industries of our country have been the themes and principles upon which it was established and upon which it has been maintained. Its relation to all that pertains to the welfare of such interests is even closer and greater today than ever before.

Let all republicans who desire to discuss present and possible political issues with their fellow republicans assist in the formation of republican clubs as the best mediums through which such discussions can be effective. The argument in the club may be influential in caucus and thus find expression in state and national platforms.

Our country is governed by parties, it is therefore the duty of every republican to see to it that the government by his party is patriotic and wise.

DRY BONES VS. JUICY BONES.

The Register says its article about a proposed change of postoffice site, "stirred up the dry bones," at this end of town, and then proceeds in a long article to try and convince itself that the postoffice would make no difference as to the value of property wherever located.

If our bones over here are dry, the bones of the other fellows over there appear to be very juicy—right out of the pickling vat, in fact.

The fact still remains a fact that to allow the postoffice to remain where it is harms no one, to move it to the proposed location on Washington street will harm over one-half of the business houses of this city, causing them to depreciate in value from one-quarter to two-thirds.

There are those who believe that any cause that necessitates the pulling down of others to build itself up is a poor cause, and there is no other way to look at this proposition. One of the Washington street boomers remarked to the writer: "Ann Arbor is in need of a public park, and if we get the postoffice moved then Ann Arbor can secure some cheap lands for park purposes, right in the heart of the city." That expresses the thing in a nutshell, and tells the whole story.

The Cuban revolutionists are rapidly arranging things so that it will be easy for the United States and other friendly nations to recognize their rights as belligerents.

The strength of the Spanish army is placed at 115,000 men, and the actual number with the colors is 90,000. This force must be reduced by the 50,000 sent to Cuba, and the call for more is urgent. A collapse at Madrid may happen before the one expected at Havana.

Edward Wilcox, one of the oldest engineers in the service of the Michigan Central railroad, died at Michigan City recently, from the infirmities of age. Wilcox enjoyed the distinction of being at the throttle of the engine that pulled the funeral train that bore the remains of Abraham Lincoln from the national capitol to Chicago. He was a warm personal friend of Lincoln, whom he had known from boyhood and for this reason was assigned the duty of guiding the funeral train on the memorable journey from Washington.

The statistics show that a large proportion of our trade with Canada has been diverted to Great Britain under our present tariff policy. That is one of the ways in which democratic rule makes itself obnoxious.

In order to judge of the inside of others, study your own; for men in general are very much alike, and though one has one prevailing passion, and another has another, yet their operations are much the same; and whatever engages or disgusts, pleases or offends you in others, will engage, disgust, please or offend others in you.—Chesterfield.

No human face is exactly the same in its lines on each side, no leaf perfect in its lobes, no branch in its symmetry. All admit irregularity as they inevitably change; and to banish imperfection is to destroy expression, to check exertion, to paralyze vitality. All things are literally better, lovelier, and more beloved for the imperfections which have been divinely appointed, that the law of human life may be effort, and the law of human judgment mercy.—Ruskin.

"AN AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL System In Fact," as Viewed by E. P. Powell In the Forum.

The article that follows taken from the Forum is being quite extensively republished by the press of the country.

"The University of Michigan was founded as early as 1817. The charter implied one of the broadest and most radical educational programs ever conceived. It discarded all those elements that stood in the way of making common and higher schools a unit. It adopted the idea that higher education, as much as that of the common schools, was an affair of the state. It enacted that the university should be sustained by taxation.

A UNIFIED SECULAR SYSTEM.

It was not till 1870, however, that Michigan connected all the high-schools of the state to the university, admitting their graduates to the university exactly as secondary schools received as pupils graduates of the primaries. So it came about at last that one state had a completely unified secular system of instruction, reaching by natural gradation from the lowest schools to the university. This university was the crown and bond of all the rest. The plan adopted by Michigan has been followed by one after another of the newer formed states, until there now exist state universities from Virginia to California. They have in a few cases surpassed their example, particularly in having more completely affiliated scattered colleges as well as common schools.

IT WAS THOMAS JEFFERSON'S PLAN.

The Michigan system is Jefferson's educational plan completed. It seems to have been very nearly what he hoped for when he labored to create a university of his native state.

OLD FASHIONED CHURCH COLLEGES, ETC.

In England the colleges were established by the church for the church. When church power began to wane in political and educational affairs, too many old and rival institutions existed to allow any one of them to become the specific state institution and the head of secular education. Most of our eastern states still have colleges and universities scattered about, without relation to each other; each striving to build its own influence, more or less at its neighbor's expense. New York and other middle states each followed the New England policy. Every college arose as the organ of some church policy, or was considered in some way as affiliated with a religious sect.

But the drift for about a third of a century has been to loosen ecclesiastical influence. The problem is most difficult in states where, ignoring existing institutions of rank, the legislatures undertook to create universities, de novo, by edict.

The result has been state universities that have had to elbow their way with universities not of the state, but equally entitled to be, and in nowise likely to be hid under a legislative bushel. These are, in some cases, as honestly entitled to state patronage as the creatures of the state.

AN AFFILIATION OF ALL COLLEGES.

The affiliation of all colleges and universities that are non-sectarian, or are willing to become such, would be a wiser course. In a few of the older states, however, circumstances have elevated a single college to a rank equivalent to a state institution. Yet in a few of these cases have the states adopted a college, and made it systematically a recipient of public taxes.

THE WEALTHIEST IN NEED OF HELP.

The present system leaves all our colleges in need of support. So vast are strides of education in methods that it is impossible even for the wealthiest institutions to keep pace with the advance.

Meanwhile what can be said of the smaller, and in some cases older and more renowned colleges? Simply that they exist on the generous self-sacrifice of their undergraduates and patrons.

What, then, are we to do with our colleges that have been left in the rear, that can never hope to do work of this advanced type?

Our youth demand an education up to the times. They know well that in a large and well endowed institution they can secure advantages not possible in a small college with an income of $25,000 a year.

SMALL COLLEGES WILL GROW SMALLER.

The small college will grow smaller, relatively if not actually. It may sustain a semblance of life. It will do so only if able and willing to reach out into that sphere of studies and research which you distinctively pass over to the universities. As a consequence there is no line of demarcation between our colleges and universities. It is true only that some of them do more university work than others.

TRANSFER FROM CHURCH TO STATE.

There is but one outcome for this confusion. The transfer of our older educational system from church to state must be completed. There is no good reason why it should not be. The system existing in the newer states is rational and has been naturally evolved. It grades from the lowest upward, and points to a national university to be. Our own scattered colleges, now "undenominationalized," if not secularized, can be gathered into groups and unified.

BREACH OF SPIRIT AND METHOD.

The breach of common schools and colleges or classical schools has been not only in organic relation; but, as a consequence, there has been a breach of spirit and method.

The colleges, untouched by the popular life, have remained more medieval in temper and in curriculum.

On the other hand the lower schools have suffered from the same alienation, but in another way. Secondary education has been diverted from pointing right onward toward higher education, and rests contented with arrested development.

A WONDERFUL INCREASE.

The recent increase of high schools from 500 to 5,000 is only to increase a state of affairs that ought not to exist at all. The Committee of Ten has endeavored to reach down the classic method, and interlink the college curriculum with that of high schools. But it is questionable whether the popular modern spirit of the common schools is not still more needed in the colleges.

CLASSICS MUST YIELD.

I see no way for harmony in our school system but for the classics to yield ground to the extent that, while language is pressed back somewhat upon the common schools, science is accepted more fully as the real soul of a wise culture in our colleges.

Finally it will be possible to create a national university in its most perfect sense only as we have our state systems completely graded and unified.

A NATIONAL UNIVERSITY WILL DO IT.

Politically, America is marvelously one. Federalism became possible, however, only because there was a similarity of state organizations. Education remains largely inchoate and fragmentary because of state idiosyncrasies or neglect. To complete an American educational system will be the glory of our age. We cannot defer the work without great waste, perhaps disaster.

To Down Spooks.

A wealthy bachelor declared that a horrid hag had glared at him during the night. His friends laughed at him but he insisted that the house was haunted. He grew ill complaining of extreme heaviness in the stomach, his appetite failed, he grew sallow, emaciated and despondent, believing he was going to die, the spook being a warning, and declared he could hear funeral bells ringing in his ears, and even hinted at suicide. A friend induced him to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and he rapidly grew well, spooks and all his distressing symptoms disappearing. A torpid liver and dyspepsia caused his suffering and the medicine cured both. A pamphlet free or a large Book, on Liver and Stomach diseases and how to cure them (136 pages) for 6 cents in stamps. CHICKAMAUGA—CHATTANOOGA.

A Letter in Which the Old Veterans Will be Interested.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Aug 12, 1895.
ED. COURIER:

With the approach of golden brown September, veterans the country over have for their watchword Chickamauga, then Mecca Chattanooga. Already the city, once the scene of bloody fray, now basking in the sunlight of prosperity, lying at the foot of Lookout Mountain, is preparing for the hosts which will assemble within her gates for the dedication of the great Chickamauga-Chattanooga National Military Park, September 18-21. With characteristic energy, Chattanoogaans are lending their efforts for the proper celebration of the greatest national military event of the fading century. Every American heart is an altar whereon is offered to the Goddess of Liberty the incense of patriotism, and every American citizen feels now an ownership in the great National Park. The chief executives of states will be present when the dedication exercises are declared duly in order and every state in the union will be represented officially or by citizens.

For the dedication Ohio will have on the Chickamauga battlefield fifty-five monuments erected, Minnesota five, monuments erected, Minnesota five, Illinois thirty-six, Indiana forty, Kansas three, Massachusetts one, Michigan eleven, Missouri three monuments and eighteen markers, Pennsylvania seventeen, Tennessee four, Wisconsin nine. The government has had constructed eight pyramidal shell monuments, marking the spots where eight brigade commanders fell, and one private monument has been erected to Lieut. Landrum of Ohio, an officer of the staff of Gen. Thomas. A program arranged by Daniel Lamont, secretary of war, will be rendered, in which Senators Sherman, Ohio; Walthall Mississippi, and Manderson Nebraska, and Govs. Stone of Missouri and Oates of Alabama will take part.

Lookout Mountain, the theme of poets, the home of Nature's best endeavors, and the scene of the famous "Battle Above the Clouds," will be invaded again, but with the army of peace, and on the picturesque and historic heights guests will be entertained.

All railroads have reduced rates for the occasion; local transportation line have followed suit and the visitor will find southern hospitality free and unrestrained during dedication week.

Chattanooga did her full duty to the Epworth League convention June 26, and by an experience borne of conventions and large gatherings will surpass herself on September 18. Ample accommodations, reasonable rates, fair dealings and liberality will be given to the stranger, for nowhere on the American continent is "stranger a holier name" than in Chattanooga. Throughout the week the city will be in holiday attire. Decorations, military reviews and displays will beautify it to gorgeousness.

The one hundred thousand guests will enjoy the points of interest which place Chattanooga as the garden spot of the south, without inconvenience, and with Bancroft will revel in the "grandest scenery on the American continent." Missionary Ridge, famed as a battlefield, has now on its summit two observation towers, seventy-five feet high, erected by the government, and a magnificent monument to the Second infantry, Minnesota state troops.

The magnitude of the Park dedication has appealed to every state and generous appropriations have been made, though some of the monuments will not be completed when the gavel falls on the dedication exercises.

It is anticipated that President Cleveland will accompany Secretary Lamont and staff and that Chattanooga in '95 will show even greater courtesy and hospitality to the chief executive than in '87.

The dedication of the National Military Park has turned the eyes of the nation on Chattanooga, which "a miracle of life and energy, blossoms like a flower in the huge foot-print of death," and when the dedication has become added to her sacred war memories, her reputation for hospitality will have been securely established. Her citizens have anticipated every emergency and with her co-operation the government will make the dedication of the National Military Park a military achievement of unparalleled grandeur. Her sister cities will share her triumph, and the dedication of the grounds consecrated by martyrs' blood and hallowed by valorous deeds will be a fitting finale to the battle record of Chattanooga.

SCHOOL DAY AT THE FAIR.

A Word From Secretary Mills to the Schools of the County With Regard to School Day, Sept. 25.

Secretary F. E. Mills addresses the following to the School Boards and teachers of Washtenaw county. School Day at the County Fair "is a good thing—push it along."

The Fair Society solicits the hearty co-operation of all the schools of the county in order to make School Day at the Fair a success. We desire to aid you in showing to the people what the common schools of the county are doing and in starting them on the way to establish school libraries. Last year the Society offered four flags for attendance at the fair; by a vote of the Board of Managers, after the Fair we presented ten schools in this county with fine flags. This year the Society has increased its premiums not only for attendance at the Fair, but also for school-work. It is hoped that teachers will take an interest in the work and that School Boards will give the teachers and pupils the day. We expect to make it a great Institute day.

In addition to the premiums offered by the Society we have many fine special premiums offered by friends of the Society, for which we hope there will be a lively competition. These premiums have been offered after consultation with the Commissioner of Schools, Mr. Wedemeyer, and Ex-Commissioner Cavanaugh. Let every teacher take an interest in the affair.

The list of special premiums will be completed in the Fair News, which will be the last publication of the Society before the fair. These will be ready by Sept. 1st. If you do not receive a copy send to the secretary. We hope that every school will compete for some of the prizes. Remember School Day is Sept. 25th.

Doings of the School Board.

The city board of education assembled last night in regular monthly session and transacted considerable business.

Bills to the amount of $1,317.57 were ordered paid. Twenty-five cents a week was allowed the librarian for assistance during the summer.

The committee on teachers and textbooks reported the following recommendations:

That $100 be appropriated for supplies at the chemical and botanical department under Prof. Montgomery. That Mrs. Trueblood be employed at $450 per year to drill the junior and senior classes. She to give three recitals per year, one half of the net proceeds go to the school district. The elocution shall be compulsory in the junior and senior classes in the High School for one semester each. That her recitals shall be known as the High School Elocution Recitals.

That Miss Whedon be appointed in the place of Miss Grace Taylor, resigned, as teacher of higher English, Miss Whedon's salary to remain as at present.

Miss Nancy C. Purdum to take Miss Whedon's place at $500 per year.

That Miss Downs be paid $500 for the ensuing year on account of her long service, superior ability and scholarship. That Miss June Carpenter take Miss Donaldson's place at $500 per year pro rata.

That Miss Sarah Ballard be hired as ward teacher at $300 per year. Miss Sarah O'Brien as ward teacher at $300 per year. That Miss Mabel Benham and Miss Weibrecht be appointed cadets.

That the secretary notify the cadets that in accepting their positions as cadets that the board is under no obligations to employ them as teachers.

These recommendations were all adopted.

H. B. Doddsley was appointed to take the school census.

Committee on buildings and grounds reported work on buildings as progressing, and recommended that a dwelling for the janitor to cost $600 or $800 be erected in the fourth ward. The committee was instructed to secure plans for such a building to cost $800.

Prof. Cooley reported plans for coal vaults and other repairs to cost $5,000. The committee with the addition of Beal was ordered to secure bids for these repairs etc.

The basement of high school building was ordered thoroughly cleaned.

Miss Bower extended her thanks to the board for the uniform courtesy shown her during the past year.

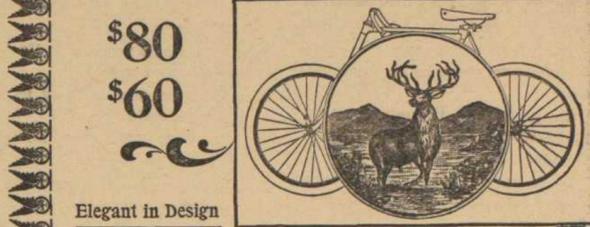

The board then adjourned.

A. W. Gasser bade good bye to his many Ann Arbor friends Thursday, and with his family left on the evening train for their future home in Cleveland, O. Mr. Gasser regretted to leave Ann Arbor. It has been a pleasant home, and he has been surrounded with congenial associates, but he regrets the necessity of leaving no more than do his friends who will hereafter be deprived of his genial and pleasant society. We commend him to the good people where he goes, and bespeak for him their kind offices. He is one of the sort however, who will never lack for friends, wherever he may locate, and will soon draw about him a circle of admirers. Success to him and his family, is the wish of the Courier.

Dr. R. B. Pope, formerly of Ann Arbor, is now at Bay View, and on Sunday last took the hour assigned to Chaplain McCabe, who was delayed by train, and could not reach there. The Resorter is warm in praise of Dr. Pope's impromptu address.

Toledo newspaper men appear to have been accorded privileges and given news that Ann Arbor newspaper men were emphatically denied. Just why that should be so is as much of a mystery as is the person who hit Clancey over the head with a sandbag and killed him.

Commencing with Friday last the tax rolls of sewer districts Nos. 3 and 4—Hill and Huron sts., are at the Treasurer's office. The Hill st. rate is $36.18 per thousand dollars. Huron st. $15.65 per thousand. All sewer taxes on these rolls draw interest at 5% from the 1st day of August 1895 until paid.

Eugene Helber says that he will start his fifteen months old trotter, Jennie Flashlight against a field of eighteen horses at the Tecumseh Trotting Matinee, on Saturday of next week. Probably the first yearling that has ever been started against a field in Michigan before.

Having the main University building on their Boston exchange badge, the Knights Templar believe that they will have a good ad. for the University, which the people down east never appear to know anything about. These badges cost the Commandery about $300.

Wm. C. Sprague, author and publisher of “An Abridgement of Blackstone,” and founder and president of Sprague's Correspondence School of Law, Detroit, and also publisher of the Collector and Commercial Lawyer, and who has many friends here in this city, was unanimously elected president of the Commercial Law League, at its session in Detroit yesterday.

An Ohio court has decided that a mileage ticket on a railroad is good until it is used up, and that it doesn't make any difference whether it is used by the one whose name is on it or not. That is a decision in the interest of common honesty and justice.

The railroads have for years enforced a rule in regard to these tickets that was not honest. They cheated people out of money paid in advance, and then if a poor devil was caught stealing a ride on a freight train because he was too poor to pay, he would be put in jail, unless very fleet of foot. It certainly is not right for a man to steal a ride even if he is poor, neither is it right for the railroad companies by sharp practice to cheat people out of what they have paid for.

It is expected that the new compulsory school law will greatly increase the attendance at the public schools of the state. Under it the parents will have little to say about the schooling of their children. The truant officer, whose appointment is obligatory upon the school board, is obliged to arrest all children between the ages of 7 and 16 years of age who do not attend school and take them before a justice of the peace, who is obliged to fine them not less than $5 or more than $50, or imprisonment ranging from two to sixty days. The attendance at school shall also be consecutive and where sickness is urged as an excuse, the school board may send a physician to ascertain the truth by examination. Michigan youngsters have got to be educated, whether or not they want it.

The money orders designed some months ago are gradually coming into use, though Postmaster Beakes has a supply of the old ones on hand that will last for a couple of months yet. This is not the time of year for Ann Arbor to use many. The new blanks are in the form of a blank draft, and if one were mixed up with a lot of drafts it would hardly be distinguished by any one who had not seen it. The printing is done by lithography and the ink used is a sea green shade. The effect is artistic and pleasing, and altogether the form and appearance of the new blank are such as to make the recipient feel more than ever as if he had a good thing. The old scheme of notched numerals at the left end is retained, as it has proven a great convenience and a safe guard.

Word was received a day or two ago from his friends at Troy, N. Y., asking for Wm. Maloney, who had been confined at the jail for safe keeping. The authorities here have forwarded him on the way toward his home in New York.

Our 1,800 rail roads carried last year about 600,000,000 passengers, which means that if every passenger had been a different person, half the entire population of the globe would have traveled over our lines.

Men do not make their homes unhappy because they have genius, but because they have not enough genius. A mind and sentiments of a higher order would render them capable of seeing and feeling all the beauty of domestic ties.—Wordsworths.

O. M. Martin expects shortly to erect a three-story brick building on his recently purchased property between Washington and Liberty sts. He will visit several leading undertaking establishments in the east during the next few weeks, looking up desirable plans.

I wouldna gie the liltie's song, sae merry on the broomy lee, for all the harps that ever rang in all the halls of minstrelsie; mair dear to me, where bush or breer among the pathless heather grows, the liltie's wild sweet note to hear, as on the ev'nin breeze it flows.—Burns.

The directors of the Ann Arbor Organ Company met Friday eve, and opened bids for the construction of their new factory building. The building committee was authorized to enter into contracts with Charles Saur for the carpenter work and with Charles Tessmer for the brick work.

Walter Toop who has the bakery at the rear of C. H. Cady's State st. grocery, has arranged to open a grocery store in the room now occupied by R. E. Jolly. The latter has rented the fine room in the Sager block now occupied by Hazelwood's billiard parlors. Hazelwood is going out of business.

Little brown seed, O little brown brother, what kind of a flower will you be? I'll be a poppy, all white like my mother; do be a poppy like me! What? You're a sun-flower—how I shall miss you when you've grown golden and high. But I shall send all the bees up to kiss you! Little brown brother, goodbye.—Anon.

Some of our citizens who have fruit have decided to take advantage of the new law and will prosecute boys or any person caught taking fruit from their premises. Heretofore nothing has been done—although they have actually known who took the fruit—because they did not like to have a boy arrested or cause anyone trouble, but the new law was passed expressly to protect people who have gardens or fruit farms and if possible a stop will be put to the annoyance of petty thefts.—Manchester Enterprise. And we understand that the same is true here in Ann Arbor, so boys you better “look a leedle out.”

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union hold their next regular meeting Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock in the parlors of the Presbyterian church.

Herbert O. Wilcox and Anna Hyatt who were married at Fenton on Wednesday of last week, will reside in Ann Arbor until Mr. W. completes his education.

At the same time that Frank Parkerson builds his two stores on E. Washington st., Mr. Sudworth, the owner of the lots adjoining, will also erect two stores. Each block will be of three stories.

Arthur Sweet asks the city to pay him $2,567.15 for injuries received by being buried in the Packard street sewer just for a little while. He evidently did not enjoy the attempt to bury him alive.

George Wahr is a crank on lead pencils. The latest is a triangle pencil, ten inches in length and about three-quarters of an inch on the sides of the angle. They are made by the Graphite Company, of American lead, American wood and American workmanship, and are a little ahead of the imported article. Try one. This item was written with one, and this manuscript can't be beat.

Pawnee Bill's Combined Shows, Historical Wild West and Grand Mexican Hippodrome is without any exceptions, the best we have seen for many years. It is a pleasing and refined entertainment. At the afternoon performance, their vast canvas enclosed park was packed, and in the evening hundreds were unable to obtain admission.—Harrisburg, (Pa.) News. See this big show on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The fire kindled by Mr. Ganzhorn in the evening recently, and for which complaint was made against him for violating the city ordinance, turns out to be one that he ought not to have suffered for. He was not burning rubbish, but was burning diseased peach trees which the law compels him to burn up. He burned them in the evening because he thought it would be less dangerous to public travel, not knowing that there was a city ordinance to the contrary. He was let off by Justice Pond on payment of costs.

Hard coal is quite reasonable this season, and it is said eastern small mine owners are trying to get the large coal producers to restrict the output until consumption overtakes the production. Falling in this they propose to throw on the market a vast amount of coal, putting the price down to a point so low that the few big operators will be glad to come to terms. The principal part, it would seem, of the supply of anthracite coal is produced from mines owned by two or three of the big railroad companies, and the large number of individual small operators may have considerable difficulty in convincing the big fellows that they ought to shut off production and put up prices.

Prof. Fred C. Clarke left this morning for the Georgian Bay and its Ten Thousand Islands.

The members of the Beethoven quartette were entertained Monday evening by Z. S. Vosburgh, of Volland st.

The Wagner palace coaches have arrived at the T. & A. yards, which are to convey the Ann Arbor Commandery to Boston to-morrow.

John Frey, of Salem, was brought before Justice Pond Monday, on action to give surety to keep the peace. The case was finally settled on his promising to apply for admission to the Soldier's Home at Grand Rapids.

Two of the prisoners who broke jail at Toledo recently are said to be hiding in the woods on the Lake Ridge and working their way north. One named Mundy will bring his captor $250, and the other Pat Daly is worth $200 to the one who takes him. The men are said to be well armed and desperate, but nevertheless a couple of our officers went after them this morning, and we believe that if they once get on track will round them up.

Chief of Police Benj. Raitz, of Toledo, Chief Detective Robinson, of the L. S. & M. S. R'y, and Deputy Sheriff H. W. Stevens, of Tecumseh, came up from the south yesterday and are closeted with Sheriff Judson and his deputies at the jail. They are after six prisoners who broke jail at Toledo on Saturday, and who burglarized a store at Ridgeway last night stealing quite a quantity of clothing, probably the better to disguise themselves. Several of them are known to be in this vicinity. Daly, under sentence to be hanged for murder, is among the escaped prisoners.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

Druggists say that their sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla exceed those of all others. There is no substitute for Hood's.

If you have a headache you cannot afford to be without them.” They are guaranteed to cure or your money refunded. A. E. Mummary, your druggist, will tell you there are none half so good. Price reduced to 25 cents per box.

We shall have 10 bushels more of those home grown nutmeg melons to select from to-morrow. Be sure and call. C. A. Maynard, State st.

IMPORTANT TO OLD VETERANS.

And to Any Others Who May be Expecting to Attend the Dedication of Michigan Monuments at Chattanooga.

Capt. Chas. E. Belknap sends the Courier the following circular which contains much valuable information, with a request to publish, which we cheerfully do:

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 7, 1895. It appears from numerous letters received by this Commission that its previous circular in regard to furnishing quarters in camp barracks has been construed to mean that such barracks will be erected without regard to the orders received, and that those desiring these quarters can obtain them upon their arrival at Chattanooga. This, however, is not the case.

As Congress made no appropriation for free quarters, a plan was devised by which barracks accommodations could be provided by the Citizens' Committee of Chattanooga at a very low rate for all who might order such a sufficient time in advance. It is the intention to extend barracks as orders for accommodations are received. Such accommodations can not be provided under applications received after August 30, 1895.

Those who send two dollars to Captain Charles F. Muller, Chattanooga, Tennessee, will receive in return a ticket which will entitle the holder to a comfortable barrack bunk for the entire time of his stay at Chattanooga, including safe storage for hand baggage and toilet accommodations. It will not be possible to furnish ladies with quarters in these barracks, or to supply meals or lunches in connection with them. It will be necessary for each person to bring his own blanket and towels. The barracks will be constructed upon the plan adopted at the last Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, where a very large number of veterans were thus housed. Such structures will be erected in Chattanooga where, within convenient distances, meals and lunches may be obtained at reasonable prices.

Communications in regard to barracks addressed to Captain Muller, who was selected by the Citizens' Committee to take charge of this work, will receive prompt and reliable attention.

The indications of a very large attendance at the dedication are such as to lead this Commission to urge that all contemplating attendance make arrangements in advance for quarters. A Citizens' Executive Committee, of which Captain H. S. Chamberlain is Chairman, is now canvassing the city of Chattanooga to find quarters in private families for those who desire such accommodations. Full information may be obtained by addressing that Committee, and assurances have been given that rates will be reasonable.

J. S. FULLERTON, Chairman of Commission.

THEY WERE NOT TRAMPS.

But They Tramped—How Two Wealthy Ann Arbor Boys Got to Bay View.

The Daily Resorter of Aug. 31st has the following interesting sketch of a couple of our county and University boys:

"Two Ann Arbor boys arrived at Bay View Sunday morning somewhat the worse for wear, but feeling just as happy as if they had their full dress clothes on and a whole row of diamond studs down their shirt front. When questioned as to whether they were tramps, they would neither plead not guilty, nor would they admit the truth of the charge. They gave their names as Clarence Noble and Thad E. Leland. The two had worked their way from Ann Arbor to Bay View and they expect to work their way back. Just after commencement they left home "broke," their aggregate stock in trade inventories as two shirts, two pairs suspenders, two pairs trousers, two pairs shoes and stockings, two hats, two coats, two vests and a coil of wire, the last being the important part of the accoutrement. From the wire they make tidy holders, selling them and with the proceeds paying whatever debts they incur.

"From the University city the two travelled to St. Joseph and thence to Holland, doing moderately well with their wares. At Holland they made an arrangement with a lake captain to carry them to Traverse City, if they would scrub deck, heave anchor and do whatever work was necessary. The trip was not altogether a smooth one and besides heaving anchor they heaved various other things. Scrubbing was not exactly in their line, but after a few lessons the captain had them so that they could do tolerably well. At Traverse City they got off and sold enough tidy holders to pay their way to Bay View, where upon taking another inventory, the stock in trade was found reduced to two badly battered straw hats, two shirts (alleged), one and one-half pairs of suspenders, two pairs of trousers (less several minor vacancies), two pairs shoes, no stockings and $2 in cash.

"Messrs. Leland and Noble will return to Ann Arbor after the same fashion, paying their own way."

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Henry Clews Writes About it—The Treasury Reserve Will be Further Depleted.

Special letter to the Courier.

New York, August 10, 1895. The general investment and speculative situation has changed little since my last advices. The attitude is still more or less hesitating, and the drift of the moment seems to preponderate in favor of those who incline to a waiting and cautious policy. The crops develop nothing new. So far as respects wheat, the general conclusion is that we may calculate upon something less than a good average yield, though the farmer seems likely to be compensated by higher prices than those of last year; in regard to corn, the balance of western estimates favors a very large increase of output over 1894. In the industries at large, there is no abatement of the sanguine expectations that have developed within the last six months. The rise in raw materials and the continuance of the remarkable recovery in wages from the decline of 1893 and 1894, shows conclusively that manufacturers are anticipating a material increase of consumption; and it is to be presumed that their expectations are based upon facts existing in the conditions of trade.

All this is satisfactory and naturally induces a large measure of public confidence. And yet there is unquestionably some withholding on account of certain factors in the financial situation. As matters now stand, there is a clearly defined misgiving as to what may be the state of the treasury gold reserve after the 1st of October, when the obligations of the Loan Syndicate to the treasury will cease. If, after that date, the relations between the banks and the treasury remain as they have been for the last two years, the treasury will have to supply all gold required for export and yet it will have no gold income from the custom house or from any other source. It is hardly necessary to say what that means. One thing admits of no doubt; that, in absence of ability to maintain the gold reserve and in presence of renewed resort to borrowing in order to secure gold, there must be a reaction from the now prevailing state of confidence and prosperity; how serious that relapse would be each may judge for himself.

Certain it is that no mere commercial activity could stop the depletion of the gold reserve so long as the treasury had no gold income and yet was compelled to supply the gold needed for our fixed exports of specie. It is the plainest truism that, neither abroad nor at home can there be any settled confidence in our investments until we have a strong and normal assurance that under any and all circumstances the United States government will be able to maintain payments in gold.

It is the absence of an adequate assurance to this effect that is producing the hesitation about our investments now observable in the markets of New York and Europe. It seems incredible that means will fail to be adopted to bring about the desired security. It is a mere question of practical finance; it requires no new or special contrivances; it demands simply a return to the old method of exchanges between the banks and the treasury; the use of gold as it was used up to 1893; the payment of gold for customs duties, and the payment of gold by the treasury at the clearing house. It is not worth while to inquire why those relations were broken up; such an inquiry might show that treasury management was largely responsible for it. But this is no time for adjusting blame, or making recriminatory charges. The plain fact today is that the treasury and the banks have it in their power to so readjust their relations as that each will have enough gold for all the requirements of safety and credit; and it is inconceivable that they can much longer delay coming back to their old relative positions.

HENRY CLEWS.

An Echo Meeting at Dexter.

There were eighteen people from Ann Arbor who attended the B. Y. P. U. Echo meeting of the Baltimore convention, held at Dexter Friday evening. It took one bus and two carriages to convey them to and from the same.

The party were delightfully entertained at tea by Miss Cora Warrens, from which place they went to the meeting at the Baptist church.

Among the speakers of the evening were Rev. T. W. Young, pastor of the Baptist church here, Rev. N. S. Burton, a former pastor, and Prof. and Mrs. P. F. Trowbridge.

Delegates were also present from Ypsilanti, Chelsea and Gregory, making a congregation of some 250 people altogether. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, and inspired every one present with a desire to do still harder work in the great cause for good and right.

THE FARMER'S PICNIC.

It Will be a Glorious Success and Tom Palmer Will be There.

The Regular annual Farmer's Picnic is to be held at Whitmore Lake, on Saturday, August 24.

Where is Whitmore Lake? Why, don't you know?

Whitmore Lake is a delightful resort in Washtenaw county and on the lines of the Toledo & Ann Arbor, and Grand Trunk railways.

It is expected that all railroads will give a one fare good.

There are two good hotels at Whitmore and they will accommodate all who may desire to patronize them.

A cordial invitation is hereby extended to every one.

Music is in charge of Erwin Ball, of Hamburg, which insures good music.

That the speaking will be good, goes without saying for it is to be done by Farmer Tom. Palmer, Ex-United States Senator and Minister to Spain, President of the World's Columbian Commission and proprietor of the Log Cabin Stock Farm. Hon. Wm. A. Moore, one of the leading lawyers of Detroit and a former Washtenaw boy, is also expected to speak.

As are also Rev. Fr. Goldrick, of Northfield, and Hon. Wm. Ball, of Hamburg.

And then time permitting a general love feast will be indulged in and ten minute speeches had from any one the people may desire to call on. E. T. Walker will be the marshal.

TO BE STRONG AND FAIR.

Use a Diet of Fruits Hot Milk and Cereals—Corn Meal Good For Health.

One wise woman in Chicago pins her faith both for herself and her daughter to a Garden of Eden breakfast during the summer. The original idea was to eat nothing but fruit, but she found this diet insufficient, so she added a cereal and perhaps a graham cracker or two to the breakfast menu. This fare, together with lemonade, orangeade, fruit juices or root beer to drink, rendered that family the envy of all their acquaintances.

Figs, dates, prunes, stewed currants, and even dried apples can be made to do duty for this purpose, and it is surprising what an amount of nourishment and working strength can be extracted from a fruit diet. Apples, oranges, shadocks, bananas and canned fruit, of course, are excellent fare for spring, but the cheaper dried fruits are by no means to be despised.

In England this regimen, with the addition of brown bread and butter or cream, is followed all the year round with the children of upper-class families, and the Scotch choose oatmeal for a similar use. In many places on the continent black bread and a piece of watermelon, cucumber or an onion is the standard breakfast—oftentimes the dinner and supper, too—of the average workman.

Our own western children are proof of what good flesh and bone can be built on a steady diet of corn meal. Oat meal is a little too heavy, and rice, cracked or whole, hominy, or yellow corn meal should be substituted for breakfast. The more of these dishes, served with fruit and cream, you can eat throughout the day, the sooner you will have forgotten that you have been ill.

In addition to the beverages already mentioned, all phosphates are good. Wheat or rye coffee is the reverse of harmful, and nothing can be better than a glass of water flavored with unfermented grape juice. This may be taken clear if you are very weak and can afford it, and if you feel that you must have something hot to drink, take hot milk, well salted, and drink it whether you like it or not.

At one of the famous sanitariums in America hot milk several times a day, sipped slowly and taken as near boiling as possible, is insisted upon with all the weak or nervous patients. It is famous for producing healthy flesh, and is an innocent and never failing stimulant when one is exhausted at any time of the year. Beef tea is good, too, at most times, but the less meat or meat extract you take just now the better.

POSTMASTER BEAKES' REPORT.

Year Ending July 1, 1895, One of the Largest in the History of the Ann Arbor Post Office.

The receipts of the Ann Arbor post-office from the sale of stamps, envelopes, postal cards and box rents for the year ending July 1, 1895, were $30,719.85, an increase of $2,153.55 over the corresponding receipts for the year ending July 1, 1894. This increase is in the sale of stamps, postals and envelopes, for owing to the extension of the free delivery system and to the improvements in the old free delivery district the box rents fell off from $719.40 for the year ending July 1, 1894, to $593.60 for the year ending July 1, 1895. The next year bids fair to mark a still further reduction in box rents, as the reduction in box rents did not begin until after the first quarter of the past year had elapsed and the box rent receipts for July of this year were $39.30 less than the receipts for July of last year.

There were only two months during the past year when the receipts were less than the corresponding months of the preceding year. These were the months of August 1894, when the decrease was $11.10 and the month of September, when the decrease was $25.78. Every other month shows a marked increase, aggregating for the year $2200.43. The months of the greatest increase were March, $690.02, February, $473.98; October, $333.95, and May, $304.88. The bulk of the increase has been in the past six months, when the sales increased $1,627.06 over the corresponding six months of 1894.

The month of August is the smallest month in the year at the postoffice, the receipts in 1894 being $1,482.20 during that month as against $3,110.38 receipts for the month of October. The three best months in the past year were March, October and January. The three best months of the preceding year were April, October and January.

As the postoffice receipts are a pretty good indication of general business about the city, the marked and encouraging increase of the past six months is an excellent indication of reviving times in business circles.

BULLS AND BEARS.

An Explanation of Stock Exchange Terms and Phrases.

The following may stop the uninitiated asking so many questions, and enable them to read market reports understandingly:

In speculation of any kind, a "bull" is a person (or "operator") who believes that prices are going up; a "bear" believes they are going down.

A bear sells "short;" that is, he sells at a high price stock that he hasn't got, hoping to buy it at a lower rate and so make money. A bull likes to be "long" of a stock (to have plenty of it) if he thinks it is going up in price; then he will sell at an advance.

A "margin" is a certain amount of money put up by a speculator in the hands of his broker, generally a small percentage of the value of a certain stock. The broker buys the stock "on a margin" and holds it "for a rise." If the price goes up he sells and the speculator makes the money, getting back his "margin" and the advanced price. If it falls in price the speculator loses his margin and his stock, unless he increases his margin.

A "lamb" is a greenhorn who tries to speculate. He is apt to be "shorn." A "corner" is where an operator secures control of all the shares of a certain stock; the object is to make the bears who have sold "short" pay higher prices for the stock, which they must buy to cover their shortage.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

Miss Mabel Thompson, who has been visiting relatives in Webster, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bonner have returned to Ann Arbor which will be their future home.—Manchester Enterprise.

Miss Mollie Kirchofer has returned home to Manchester, after a six week's stay at the University summer school.

While Rev. Fr. L. P. Goldrick is absent on his vacation with friends in Pennsylvania, Rev. Fr. Dwyer, of Minnesota, has charge of the Northfield parish.

Washtenaw county had a representative present at the recent opening of parliament in London, in the person of Assistant Secretary of State Edwin F. Uhl, a native Ypsilanti.

It will be a sad day for the poor boys of the west, for the farmer boys of Michigan, if the doors of the U. of M. should ever be closed. This is essentially the poor boys' college.

Capt. H. S. Boutelle of Ypsilanti, has been appointed to attend the dedication of the Michigan monuments at Chickamauga, as a representative of the 4th Michigan cavalry. A good selection.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ferguson of Ann Arbor, were listed among the guests at the marriage of Miss Meda L. Osband, of Ypsilanti and Karl S. Judson, of Grand Rapids, at the home of the bride's parents in Ypsilanti, Wednesday. It was a sweet pea wedding and said to have been very beautiful.

A good many farmers in this vicinity where the loss of the spring seeding of clover is so universal, are going to sow clover seed with rye. Those who have done so in other years say that it does well, the rye forming the very best protection for the young clover during the first winter.—Jonesville Independent.

The Kemp Sisters supported by the Kemp brother, in their great triple attraction and grand exhibition races, have been secured by the county fair association for the annual fair, to be held Sept. 24-27, inclusive. This is probably the greatest feature ever secured for a county fair in this part of the state, and will add many hundreds to the attendance.

The Ypsilanti Driving Association have decided to postpone their races so as not to conflict with the Ann Arbor fair, and this action should meet with a hearty encouragement from the people of this city. The dates now decided upon are Oct. 8, 9 and 10, and there will be trotting, pacing, running and stake races every day. Entry blanks have been sent out to all the prominent horsemen.

The Dexter Leader remarks: "Now Howell is to the front with a day of sport, Aug. 26th. Several other towns in the state have also knocked the head out of a barrel of fun by having a day of special races and games of various kinds. Now what's the matter with Dexter getting into line and dishing up some wholesome sport? Anyone anything to say? Speak quick and all at once, please."

Mrs. Florence S. Babbitt has returned from her trip east, and brings with her about 50 additions to her already large collection of old dishes. Among them is a plate from the home of the poet, Samuel Wordsworth who wrote the "Old Oaken Bucket," presented to her by Mrs. Northy, who resides on the old farm. The "old oaken bucket" now in use at the well, and from which Mrs. Babbitt drank, is not the one of which the poet sang, but one presented by the Richmond (Va.) Cedar Works, owned by the Parish Bros.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

German Day is to be celebrated again this year, this time at Ypsilanti, on Aug. 22d. From the formidable array of speakers it would appear that there will be no lack of oratory. Mayor Wells and John P. Kirk both of Ypsilanti, together with ex-Congressman Gorman, of Chelsea, will address the crowd in English, while Louis J. Liesemer will talk in their native tongue. The latter has been preparing his speech and will present to his hearers a scholarly effort. This celebration is peculiar to this vicinity, and the Germans always enjoy its festivities.

The intelligent papers in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor contain this item: "A. J. Murray has resigned his work at the 'Soo' to accept a position in the Coldwater schools." Evidently the cities that claim to have the only state institutions to teach the public, don't know that Michigan has a state public school in Coldwater to which Mr. Murray has been called. Better study up your state institutions, brethren of the quill!—Coldwater Republican. The learned editor of the Republican can teach the difference 'twixt tweedledum and tweedledee so well, that there is no need of the editors referred to, "studying up."

Daniel E. Hoy, of Dexter, is in the market to buy 10,000 sheep.

Miss Howard, of Ann Arbor is visiting Misses Lucy and Lulu Burch.—Manchester Enterprise.

Miss Emma Hauser of Saline, and Miss Carrie Miller, of this city, have gone to Plymouth, to visit Rev. Mr. Ehnis and family.

The Sunday School of St. James Episcopal church, Dexter, will have a picnic at Mrs. Seper's cottage, Base Lake, on Wednesday, the 21st.

N. A. Wood, of Lodi, will remove to Ann Arbor in a short time, and has advertised to sell his personal property at auction on the 30th.

Among those who took the teachers' examination last Thursday and Friday, were Misses Mae Henion, Emma Koffberger, and Messrs. Herbert Witherell and Joseph Lamb, of Manchester.

Incidentally, those who have got their threshing done, are improving the opportunity to take a general survey of the situation. When a farmer gets his wheat and oats in the bins, he can form a good idea of how he is going to come out financially at the end of the season. He can at this time make a close estimate on the yield of his corn, bean, potato and apple crops. The yield he can figure on almost to a certainty, but the price—that is different. The dealers fix that for him.

A county superintendent in a neighboring county recently asked every teacher at the county institute that took their local paper to hold up their hands. Out of 160 present, only six responded, at which he not only expressed surprise but said: "You don't spend a dollar a year with these papers, yet you expect them to print free of charge, notices of institutes, insert programs of the same, take full report of what you do or say on these occasions, publish your school reports and then expect them to advertise you and your ability in your chosen profession, thus assisting to climb the ladder to higher positions and better salaries without a cent's patronage in return."

The honor system in examinations which has been in vogue in Princeton college for three years has proved so satisfactory and has developed such a high state of honor among students that a mass meeting of the college was held to adopt a constitution to regulate and perpetuate the system.

Oberlin college recently received the handsome gift of $200,000 to be devoted to the erection of a men's gymnasium and a building for the advancement of scientific research. The donors are said to be Messrs. Warner of Elyria, O., and Barber of New York, both of whom are directors of the college.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Chicago is the lion in the educational world just now. His gifts to western institutions alone amount to not less than $2,000,000, eight colleges being the beneficiaries. Of these Beloit has received $200,000, Knox $50,000, and Chicago Theological school $50,000. He delights to aid small and worthy institutions.

DON'TS FOR SUMMER GIRLS.

Don't fall to run about cheerfully and do things for your father or mother.

Don't insist on riding with the driver when you go out with a coaching party.

Don't wear an abbreviated bathing suit unless your figure is above criticism.

Don't go to more than one hop in a week and don't stay late at any of them.

Don't think that life is impossible without passing the summer in the country.

Don't forget that the bearing capacity of the average hammock is very limited.

Don't lay in a great stock of candy wherewith to make yourself sick at the seashore.

Don't go to sleep in a hammock in a conspicuous place or where tramps may happen by.

Don't be because you are not able to excel in athletics dub the women who are "mannish."

Don't let your summer young man witness your reception of your fiancé at the depot.

Don't pay more attention to your clothes than to the development of your muscles.

Don't forget that plain and inexpensive clothing is the most appropriate to the country.

Don't write to your friends at other summer resorts that they ought to be where you are.

A furious splashing in the water under Huron street bridge, Ann Arbor, attracted the attention of two young men, who by moonlight saw what they think was a man, to whom they called; but he made no answer, and ran spluttering down stream, out of sight. It was probably a mermaid.

The Ann Arbor Courier thinks that state troops should march to the encampment, but the Times asserts that it would cost $20,000 instead of $2,500, and sees in the plan a chance to rake part of the surplus the legislature in its broad-hearted penuriousness withheld from the university. Yes, the university is footing it, this year, while the troops ride.

"Col." Jeff Davis, of Ann Arbor, colored, was born the slave of the brother of the Confederate president, Jefferson Davis, but escaped before the war by tunneling under the Ohio river. He knew and was on a pretty nearly equal footing with Henry Clay and Tom Marshall, who occasionally had a Kentucky bender, and whom he, "Col. Jeff," has assisted to bed in their boots when neither of them could get through a double door without hitting both sides of the casing.

An Ann Arbor man just returned from Zukey lake, had for his companion one of the meanest men the Press has ever heard of. They had in their boat the old style muzzle-loading guns. By accident the Ann Arbor man dropped his powder flask overboard. He couldn't swim, but the other could and offered to dive for it, which he did. As he did not reappear in due time, the Ann Arborite peered down and saw him sitting on the bottom of the lake, pouring the powder out of the Athenian's flask into his own. There has been a coolness between them ever since.

A Foreign Pest.

This paper has, from time to time, had articles relative to that widely and fast spreading nuisance, known as prickly lettuce. But here is another article on the same subject, upon which too much can not be said:

The prickly lettuce, Lactuca scariola, is a noxious weed introduced from Europe and spreading rapidly in Michigan, and other states as well. Some of the experiment station bulletins and many of our agricultural papers have given timely warning to our farmers to war against this noxious intruder. This weed is an annual, it is a strong grower, with the earlier plants now in bloom and some of the seeds ripening. It is closely related to the common lettuce, but has the leaf, edges, the midrib and lower stem covered with prickles. It can be found in great abundance in almost every direction, even in our village lots and streets, some fields are filled with it and but little effort being manifested upon the part of the farmers to eradicate it. In some parts of the state crops were almost ruined by this intruder—the lettuce is much taller than oats and very thick on the ground. It is the rule of farmers now to sow their wheat and oats, land to grass; if the prickly lettuce is allowed to ripen and seed this stubble land, it will be ruinous to next year's crop of grass. The seeds like those of the thistle are carried by a peachy down and are thus transferred for miles.

Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best Cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's drug store, and Geo. J. Heausler, Manchester.

Fitch, of New York, an attorney for the brewers' trust, says "the republican party will be overwhelmed" if it increases the tax on beer in this Congress. The republican party can not pass any partisan legislation. It is not in control of the government. It has the House of Representatives, but it has neither the senate nor the president. The only necessity there is for an increase of the tax on beer or anything else has been created by Fitch's party in failing to provide enough revenue.

The local base ball team went to Milan Saturday for a game and were beaten to the score of 8 to 9. This in itself was not bad but the boys complain greatly of the treatment accorded them by the Milan team, which, it is said, promised to bear the visitor's expenses. They did not do it and some of our boys had hard work hustling to get home.

THE WHEELS THAT GO ROUND.

And Another Grist of Interesting Items About Them and Their Propellers.

Quite a number of Ann Arbor cyclists will go to the national circuit meet at Mt. Clemens on the 22d and 23d.

Next year will be still a greater year for wheels in this city than this one has been.

If the soldier of the future is to be mounted on a bicycle, as some enthusiasts declare he will be, then he will lose all fear for himself in battle. All his thoughts will be centered upon the danger he runs of puncturing his tire amid bullets and bayonets that he will have no chance to think of the danger he himself is in.—Wheel.

The other day a young woman rode down S. State street shrieking "Help! Help!" A pedestrian rushed out to her, and she said, with a sweet smile: "Please be so good as to turn me around. I'm tired and want to go home." The man acted as a turntable, and the woman wheeled away with the happy expression on her "bicycle face."

The recent state meet held at Battle Creek was the largest one held in this country this year, excepting the national meet at Asbury Park. At no race meet before or after it, this year have there been so many contestants who were really great stars.

The New York Mercury says: H. E. Caldwell, the crack long-distance and road racing man of New England, a former resident of Manchester, N. H., is now a resident of Detroit. One experience on the famous Hilsendegen, Belle Isle, course convinced Caldwell that this is the greatest course for training." Caldwell will be remembered as the winner of the time prize in the recent road race at Battle Creek.

Leo T. Flansburg, and Henry Eddy, both of Kalamazoo, and both well known as riders, have been suspended by the racing board of the L. A. W. for thirty days for riding in a race at Plainwell recently that was unsanctioned. Both young men have too good a reputation among the riders of the state and no one will believe that they were aware that the races were not sanctioned by the racing board.

Edward Clegg, Coleman Nickolds and Henry Christensen, British bicycle tourists, were arrested at Chardon, Neb., for fast riding recently, and fined $1 and costs, a total of $5.70 each. Although abundantly supplied with money they refused to pay their fines and were committed to hard work on the street. They would not work, however, but instead sat down under a load of hay. They will claim the protection of the English government.

An Indianapolis genius has invented a contrivance which he calls a tack-catcher for bicycles. When a pneumatic tire picks up a tack the tack does not penetrate very deeply at first, but is forced further into the fabric with every revolution of the wheel, until the inner tube is punctured. The device of the Indianapolis man to prevent this consists of a curved, comb-like piece of metal, armed with pointed teeth and extending backward from the forks of the machine, close to the surface of the tire. These teeth are intended to engage with the tack as soon as it enters the tire and extract it.

The woman on the wheel is provoking a good deal of discussion among the medical writers. Some of them contend that she is certain to be injured by such exercise, but the prevailing opinion seems to be that she will derive benefit from it. One of them calls attention particularly to the fact that women are not by nature weaker than man, but that they dress with such disregard of natural laws that their strength is impaired, and the bicycle forces them to correct this fault by adopting a costume that is calculated to promote health and general vigor.

Over a million is the estimate of the sales of bicycles this year and next, and all the political candidates are becoming enthusiastic for good roads.

While a vast deal of comment is made on the fact that bloomers are now an optional costume with women, no attention is paid to the coincidence that men are adopting knee breeches in similar sports. It is an era of evolution in dress and not of bloomers alone.

The time is coming—and not far distant, so rumor goes—when the bicycle that now costs $100 can be bought for next summer for $50 or $60. A report has been circulated to the effect that a syndicate is being formed for the purpose of putting on the market on or before April 1, 1896, 400,000 bicycles, which are to be made at $18 each and sold as low as $30. This bicycle is to be as good, for all ordinary purposes, as the $100 wheel of today, and it is supposed it will lead in the cutting of prices.

Don't dodge a bicycle rider either male or female. Stand still and the rider will get along all right. Posts, trees, stones, etc., never dodge, and only beginners ever run into them. If you see a "bike" coming straight at you, don't dodge; if you do you will confuse the rider. If you stand still "in the middle of the road," or wherever you happen to be, the rider will take care to give you plenty of room; but if you go dodging to get out of the way, the chances are there will be a collision and you will be the worse hurt of the two. Therefore, don't dodge.

THE CITY FATHERS IN COUNCIL.

Lighting Contract Discussed but not Let—Street Railway Wishes to Run on North State St.

At eight o'clock last night Clerk Mills called the roll, twelve aldermen responding. It was a regular meeting.

The first business of course was the reading of petitions. There were but two of these. Several citizens living north of Geddes and east of Twelfth st. complained of the street crossings, which, especially during the winter months, were many of them in wretched condition. Their petition was referred to the sidewalk committee.

President H. S. Dean of the County Fair Association asked that policemen be detailed to preserve order and to protect property at the fair grounds during the fair. Referred to police committee.

Nine bids were opened and read for the $30,000 5 per cent. sewer bonds advertised for sale. Two of them were from local firms, the Farmers and Mechanics bank and Mrs. Grube. Referred to finance committee.

Matter of Herman Hughes' claim on the city for damages was referred to the Board of Public Works for investigation.

Committee on sewers recommended that all the curbing screws but 25 be sold. Adopted.

The street committee asked that a survey of Third street between Huron and Washington streets be made and that proper steps be taken to protect the rights of the city therein. Adopted.

The same committee recommended that $150 be appropriated to grade down south drive of S. University ave., and $250 to grade W. Washington st. Adopted. Also that the M. C. R. R. be ordered to place a flagman at the Fuller street crossing. Adopted.

The street committee recommended that the grade be established on portions of W. Washington, Broadway, Beakes, S. University and E. University. Also that repairs be ordered on W. Jefferson and W. Huron streets. Adopted.

Next came the report of the lighting committee with regard to their investigation of the responsibility of the Michigan Electric Company and the advisability of awarding to them the contract for lighting the city during the next five years. The committee reported in favor of awarding the contract to the Detroit company.

Alderman Butterfield wished to offer a motion. He said there were many difficulties in the way of awarding the contract to a firm from outside the city. He made a telling speech exaggerating in no way the troubles such a course might bring. He said that the Ann Arbor-Thompson-Houston Company, the present holders of the contract for lighting the city knowing well that the acceptance of the bid made by the Michigan Electric Company would jeopardize the entire business interests of the local company, had secured possession of the bid of Wm. H. Porter of the Michigan Electric Company, the lowest bidder. In concluding Mr. Butterfield moved that that the city accept the bid of Wm. H. Porter, of Detroit, with the understanding that all rights under the bid were transferred to the Ann Arbor-Thompson-Houston Electric Company.

Alderman Brown asked for the last report of the lighting committee. This was read in the shape of a long and intricate contract prepared by Prof. Carhart and the city attorney. In this President Lockwood of the Michigan Electric Co., had made certain peculiar chances, which Prof. Carhart claimed defeated the ends desired—the maintaining of the best service. Pres. Lockwood claimed that they would furnish as good light as the city now receives. A lively discussion between these two gentlemen arose, in which Prof. Carhart evidently came out ahead.

The councilmen seemed unwilling to decide at once on the matter and the report of the committee was laid on the table until the next regular meeting.

Dr. Dell was given permission, rent free, to run a driving track at Felch Park.

The street railway ordinance was put on its third reading. An amendment was offered permitting the company to lay tracks from the M. C. depot down North State St. to connect with its track at William St. This change looked suspicious to the seventh ward aldermen. They thought it should not pass without giving the residents on that street a chance to protest if they wished. The matter was finally laid over for one week to be acted upon at a special meeting.

Arthur J. Sweet asked damages, etc., to the amount of $2,567.15 on account of injuries received July 25 by the caving in of the Packard St. sewer. He claimed that the curbing was improper and insufficient. Referred to finance committee.

Alderman Koch presented a resolution asking the street commissioner to distribute the city's work more evenly to the men and teams about the city. One alderman claimed that if a man was not a relative or personal friend of the commissioner or some member of the B. P. W. he could not get any kind of a job from the city. It was said that one or two men had had regular work every day for a year, while others fully as deserving could get no work at all. Another alderman thought the B. P. W. would do as it pleased about it the council's request to the contrary notwithstanding. This seemed to be the general opinion, but the resolution was passed.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

The council concluded to rent the road roller to the county fair for certain purposes about the grounds for $5 per day, the actual cost of running it.

Alderman Coon asked the street commissioner be ordered to destroy the obnoxious weeds in the streets of the College Hill addition. Several aldermen kicked—claiming to have weeds in their yards fully as obnoxious. However, the resolution of the alderman from the sixth ward was finally adopted.

Adjourned to meet next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

EX-REGENT WALKER ARRESTED.

The Sheriff Went to His Summer Residence at Old Mission for Him.

The St. Johns News of Aug. 14, has a long account of the preliminary proceedings to the arrest of Samuel S. Walker, of that city, who was a regent of the University from 1876 to 1884.

The complaint was made by one Mary J. Chilson who asserts, under oath, that she paid $1,000 to Mr. Walker to pay up a mortgage held by Walker & White against her home, that Walker himself gave her a receipt for the money and told her that it was not convenient just then to go to the Register office but that he would see that the mortgage was discharged, which he never did and it was never discharged but on the contrary was assigned to Hobart College, and that she was still held for the payment.

Prosecuting attorney W. A. Norton, of Clinton county, being interviewed on the subject said:

"The case is brought under a statute which provides 'that any person to whom money or other property, which may be subject to larceny, shall have been delivered, shall embezzle or fraudulently convert it to his own use, shall be deemed by so doing to have committed the crime of larceny.' I have been waiting until the prosecutor until I had a case which I could commence on a sure footing and I have found it. There are many other cases which might have been started under the criminal law, but while 'three of a kind' is good, I have been waiting to hold four aces, and I now have them, and there is no possible way of dodging the charge and the defence may bring here the whole bar of Michigan, but it will make no difference. There is but one interpretation to the law and it means conviction.

"I have a supreme court decision on this very point and unless that tribunal exactly reverses a former finding there is no question of the outcome of the trial. The maximum penalty is 5 years in states prison.

"The report has been circulated on the streets that Sheriff Leland had authority to settle the case but the talk is of course the merest bosh. When Mary J. Chilson signed her name to the complaint the possibility of a settlement was removed. It then became a matter for Mr. Walker to settle with the people of the state of Michigan and the state does not accept bribes or receive money from persons arrested on criminal charges which might be tendered to buy liberty."

The lady making the complaint and her husband are well along in years, and the mortgage is on their home which they supposed was clear until the "failure" of the firm of Walker & White some months ago.

It will be remembered that when Zina P. King of this city failed to produce all of the money in the Alumni Fund, of which he was treasurer, some years ago, Mr. Walker was one of the most violent of Mr. King's persecutors. He had no words too harsh to use, and finally had Mr. King tried in the Wayne circuit, even after a compromise had been effected under which Mr. King restored all that he possibly could and did all that he could possibly do to make amends for his wrong doing.

Mr. Walker was then made treasurer of the Alumni fund. We are told that he secured this fund so that it will not suffer by the collapse of his firm.

But there are many private citizens here in Ann Arbor who have suffered, and we have been credibly informed that the amount they have lost by this firm, will reach a surprisingly large sum and it is a great wonder that no one has made a move in the matter before.

Perhaps there is a little more kindness and brotherly love in Mr. Walker's

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

feelings just now than there was some years ago. It is possible that he may look back on the past and have a hope spring up in his breast that people will not deal with him as he did with one who had done wrong—with this difference: No one suffered from the loss sustained through Mr. King, though the principle was probably the same. But in Mr. Walker's case those who had confidence in him as a man of honor, who let him handle their funds because of that confidence, have been the victims, and have suffered greatly at his hands.

How much better it would have been had Mr. Walker in his entire career (for Mr. King was not the first victim of his attempted persecution) have kept in view the golden rule:

"Do unto others as ye would that others would do unto you."

The Annual School Meeting.

The annual school meeting for this city district will be held at Fireman's Hall on Monday, Sept. 2, for the election of three trustees in place of W. W. Whedon, Christian Mack and Junius E. Beal, whose terms expire.

Polls will be opened at 9:30 o'clock a. m., and close at 1:30 p. m., legal time.

The regular business meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m.

Under the new law only those will be allowed to vote whose names appear on the tax rolls, or who are resident parents or guardians of children attending the schools. This change in the law will make a difference in the number of votes that may be cast.

DYSPEPSIA AND LOSS OF FLESH FOLLOW THE GRIPPE.

This Disease Attacks the Weakest Parts of the Body. The Harmful Effects can be Prevented by Properly Strengthening Those Parts.

A CASE CITED IN OCEANA CO.

A Further Case Cited by the Jackson Patriot, in which Rheumatism, Resulting from Same Cause, was Cured in the Same Way.

From the Muskegon, Mich., News.
Oceana County, Michigan, is widely known as one of the finest fruit-growing sections in the country, and especially for its fine and luscious peaches. But all the peaches grown on trees are not to be placed in comparison with the peach bloom which has again returned to the cheeks of one of the best known ladies in Hart, the county seat of Oceana county. How this wonderful and beautiful effect was obtained, and the history of the illness preceding the cure, has been known long since to residents of Hart and others throughout the county, but to a News reporter of Muskegon, who was in Hart at the fair, the following interesting and joyful tale was unfolded recently by Mrs. W. S. Eggleston, the person who once was a helpless invalid. To-day a more happy woman can nowhere be found.
"In 1891," said Mrs. Eggleston, "I resided in Cass county, at which time I in common with nearly everybody in the county suffered a severe attack of the grippe, only it left me with a still more serious trouble. The greatest part of my trouble then was in my stomach. I had no appetite and wasted away until I lost twenty-four pounds. Of course I was doctoring, but nothing reached my case. I moved up to Hart in June, 1892, and my ill health continued, although I tried two resident physicians. I grew disgusted finally and quit doctoring, as it seemed it would take over all, and yet I grew no better and looked like a skeleton. My husband read in a paper of a medicine called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he immediately got some for me. I had no hope hardly and was not enthusiastic over the new pills, but I am now.
"It is a solemn fact that I began to get better the very first day and kept on improving. In a short time my stomach had a better feeling; my appetite picked up and I could eat everything I wanted to. I had a second trouble, however, which I did not expect the pills would reach, but they did, and the result is that a swelling in my right side, caused by some ovarian trouble, is almost entirely gone. I can lie on my right side now with comfort, and this is not all the relief I obtained.
"Formerly in wet weather my bones would ache terribly. Now I do not notice any bad effects whatever. I am able to walk three miles at a stretch now, for I did that last week in going to visit a friend. I tell every one of my wonderful cure, and many of my afflicted friends are using the Pink Pills now with good effect. I now weigh 132 pounds, a gain of twenty-one pounds."
Mrs. Eggleston's husband was present during the narration of his wife's troubles and triumphs, and he willingly corroborated the statements made by her.
A neighbor, Mrs. Brown, who happened to drop in, stated that Mrs. Eggleston did not look like the same woman who came to Hart a year ago.
RHEUMATISM'S VICTIM.
How He Was Attacked—How He Was Treated—How He Was Cured.
From the Jackson, Mich., Patriot.
How often are seen people a little past the meridian of life who, but for the lingering effects of some ailment of an unusually stubborn nature, might still be enjoying robust health, but who on account of the lack of a remedy to assist nature in throwing off the disease are broken down and worn out long before the allotted time.
