ABOUT BUSINESS.

Henry Clews Talks About the Encouraging Outlook.

In a special letter to the Courier, Henry Clews, the New York banker, says:

New York, October 22, 1895.

In Wall Street, the speculative interest still "hangs fire." There is hesitation and postponement, though in no sense positive distrust. The spirit of speculation and investment alike is conservative and cautious, and those who have made large profits upon the advance of the last few months are not disposed to risk them recklessly upon new ventures. There is a feeling that the not remote future has better conditions in store; but between the present and then there are contingencies which are regarded as possibly involving sharp tests of the strength of the market. Chief among those uncertainties are the course of gold movement after the opening of the new year, and the extremely sensitive state of speculation on the foreign bourses. The former of these uncertainties is viewed hopefully, or at least as being so far in the future as to warrant no acute misgivings at the moment. The bad possibilities of the transatlantic mining speculation, however, is a much more serious matter and compels prudent operators to keep on their guard.

The "Kaffir's" excitement is one of the wildest outbreaks of speculative mania experienced within the present century. It began with the remarkable success of a few ventures connected with the new gold discoveries in South Africa. This led to the creation of "syndicates" without end, and to the formation of companies for exploration and for dealing in the new issues of stocks and for the boldest banking undertakings. In respect to basis, many of the schemes have really none except that of air; whilst most of those that have actual property have very questionable deposits of the precious metal, and all are capitalized immensely in excess of their actual merits. In the exploiting of these ventures, the fine art of financing has been carried to the most daring pitch of excess. Dividends have been declared in the face of losses and in the absence of production or even of any development. By bold manipulation, the prices of these issues have been steadily forced up to a positively ludicrous inflation. It is impossible to state in exact figures the extent to which this furore of speculation has run, for of a large amount of the ventures no public information is obtainable. But, so far as respects the companies which give more or less publicity to their affairs, there are some 25 which have been paying dividends, with some regularity, averaging about 20 per cent and ranging in some cases as high as 65, 75, 90 and even 100 per cent. These may be regarded bona fide enterprises; and in the speculative enthusiasm they have excited lies the basis of the rotten superstructures of speculation on which the metropolitan and provincial stock markets are alike running crazy. The legal capitalization of these 25 companies is about $32,500,000, while their present market price represents $192,500,000 the dividends averaging about 9 per cent on the current price. Besides these, there are 133 companies reporting on the London market which are paying no dividends and pass muster on reiterated promises that are never fulfilled. These non-dividend paying mines have an aggregate capital of $139,000,000. Their market valuation last month was $565,000,000 or exactly four times the par value of the shares. Besides the 158 mining companies above referred to, there are 31 other various organizations, which are concerned in land, banking, estates, promoting, exploration, etc. These concerns have a total capital of $79,000,000, consisting principally of £1 shares; and, in this case again, the market value is exactly four times the par capitalization, being $315,000,000. Excluding from the reckoning the twenty-five dividend-paying mining stocks, we have here, first a total of 164 enterprises, representing either no value or very uncertain value, capitalized at $218,000,000; and second, this comparatively worthless scrip worked up to a fictitious market valuation of $880,000,000. France has also its schemes of like quality and similarly inflated, but we have no means of knowing their exact extent.

This is the measure of the mass of explosive elements that now underlies the financial markets of London and Paris. This is the quality of the investment material that those great centres are gloating over while contemptuously turning up their noses at American securities. It is not surprising that the sober part of London and Paris should begin to feel uneasy. That all this must end in a terrific explosion there is no possibility of question. That the catastrophe can be much longer postponed is not to be doubted. The symptoms are already ominous. The stage of distrust has been reached, and the next stage must be realizing; and when that comes the collapse will be instantaneous, and hundreds of millions of market value may be wiped out in a few hours or days. At the moment, the stronger speculators are attempting to stay the realizing process by main force of buying; but such stuff cannot be saved by any such tricks, and soon the big speculators and the little ones will be crowding each other to realize, with no buyers in the field. From the nature of the case it must be so; and it is none too early to discount the inevitable.

The interest of the New York market in this impending explosion lies in this: that as the collapse would affect the whole investment market, our securities held in England would suffer in sympathy, and might consequently be returned on this market. It is easy, however, to overestimate the extent of that danger. The class who have participated in this craze are not likely to be the same as those who invest in our securities or speculate in them.

The latter class might temporarily realize; but the demand would soon return, and the speculative interest in London would then centre upon Americans, as affording the most attraction to the conservatism in speculation which would then be the order of the day. Nevertheless Wall Street cannot afford to be indifferent to the coming end of this inflation. We shall feel the shock of the distant earthquake, and it will be prudent to keep a vigilant eye upon our china.

Home conditions affecting the market are generally favorable. The business of the country is proceeding upon a conservative but fairly profitable basis. The business of the railroads continues to gradually improve, and the increase of $180,000 in last month's receipts of the New York Central is regarded as an encouraging symptom. The conferences among the Western roads, with a view to stopping rate-cutting, are progressing favorably towards some form of agreement. The rise of 25 cents per ton in the price of coal is favorable to better results for the coal roads. The movement of produce to the seaboard is now fairly under way; which means not only better earnings for the railroads, but also a freer supply of exchange against grain and cotton, and a further decline in rates for sterling. The large outflow of currency to the interior is a healthy symptom, and is gradually putting up the rate of interest towards a normal scale, which has been much needed as a means of insuring a more wholesome regulation of the gold movement.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely affected by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

THE FIRST A WINNER.

The Lyceum Course of the Y. M. C. A. Auspiciously Opened.

The Lyceum Course of the Y. M. C. A. opened very auspiciously last Thursday evening, at the Presbyterian church, there being some 500 or 600 people present.

The Laura Dainty Co. of entertainers proved themselves good entertainers and first class artists. Laura Dainty, as everyone knows, is a reader of far more than ordinary ability and she was at her best that evening. The manner in which she rendered "How Salvator Won" was indeed thrilling, while "Jes' Fore Christmas," was very comical, and "Voices of the Night" well, the way she imitated the howling and whistling of the wind, made shivers creep and goosepimples form all over one's anatomy. Her rendering of "Aunt Melissa" convulsed the audience, and "Come Here" was effectively brought out. But few before realized how those two words could be made to convey so many different expressions and moods.

The Misses Robinson, in their musical parts—Miss Louise with violin and Miss Gertrude with harp—proved themselves very clever artists. They also established the fact that some of the old melodies could be rendered in an artistic manner and still retain the melody and the player lose none of her reputation as an artist—in fact if anything, add to it in the minds of the listeners.

Mr. Richards had a well trained voice and was very satisfactory to the audience. He proved himself thoroughly capable of mastering either classical or the popular songs of the people. His anvil song, "The Armourer," struck a very popular chord.

About the best test of appreciation of the concert was the fact that nearly every number on the program was encored. What greater compliment could be paid than that?

The Y. M. C. A. are to be congratulated upon their success in launching their entertainment course. It was no small undertaking, and that it has started out so successfully, when there are so many courses of entertainments here in Ann Arbor, makes it evident that there are some listeners among the boys. It is about the first time that anything of the sort of and for the towns people, has ever met with anything like success.

The most stubborn factor in the foreign trade situation is the largeness of the imports. For the month of September, the arrivals of foreign merchandise show an increase over 1894 of $14,600,000, or 29 per cent; and for the first nine months of the current calendar year, the increase has been $97,480,000, or nearly 20 per cent. On the other hand, the exports of merchandise are almost identical (both for September and the nine months) with those of the same time last year. Thus the course of our foreign trade, since January 1, '95, has been $97,500,000 less favorable than it was for the same period of 1894. In these nine months of 1894, the exports exceeded the imports by $73,000,000; this year, the imports exceed the exports by $43,000,000.

The above from so good an authority as Henry Clews, affords a most significant view of the results of the Wilson bill. The theory and argument of free trade is that it will open up foreign markets to our manufacturers. The actual results are that we sell no more abroad, but import more, making the balance of trade against us. This we have to pay either in gold from our treasury or in bonds. Actual practice of free trade principles has shattered the corner stone of that blighting structure. Tearing down our own walls does not tear down the walls of other countries. They continue to buy where they can buy cheapest. That is in India, and South America, where labor is cheap.

OUR COUNTY FAIR.

A Readable and Racy Report as Given by General Superintendent Mills.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES

That the People of This County Will be Interested in, and the Reason Given Why There was a Deficit This Year.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Board of Managers of the Washtenaw (C. Agricultural and Horticultural Society:

By Law No. 11 requires that at this meeting the general superintendent shall report the transactions of his office and the condition of the society.

Your superintendent has received and turned over to the treasurer, for rents, per centages and entry fees, $322,775, the full amount received.

Orders have been drawn for bills allowed by your auditing committee amounting to - - - $2018-65

Note for last year's deficiency - - - 121-67
Premiums - - - - - 1195-04

Total - - - - - $3335-36

By referring to last year's books, I find the expenses allowed at that time amounted to $2220-60. We have decreased that expense by $141-88.

The premiums in 1894 were $941-10. This year they amounted to $1195-04. We have also paid a rate of $121-67.

By many people your grounds are considered as public property. It is a source of much annoyance to ascertain who commits the depredations. We need the friendship of the public and I have endeavored to be lenient with all in respect to the use of grounds and track. I have observed that those who use the track do not find the stalls satisfactory, so tear down and remodel them to suit their own tastes. Consequently when fair time comes around, the society has to bear the expense of repairs. Yet some of these people complain bitterly because the society does not do more for them.

The track is the source of greatest expense connected with the grounds. Each year it washes away along the home stretch and at the back, and that too, at a time of the year when there is no money to pay the bills. This year, for the first time, I have been able to make the house account balance the track repairs. While we have been censured because there was not more work done on the track, the parties using it do not and will not give anything for the use of it nor help to improve it, claiming that it is the duty to the society to have everything silver plated for them. My experience with these people has been that when the gates are locked they gain entrance by a private right of way. The nature of the soil is such that the track suffers worse in a dry season than during a wet time. Actual improvements upon it will cost quite a sum. From our resources I cannot remedy the state of affairs and for this reason, to take this responsibility with you, believing that I have done my best with the means at my command. I hope that or next year the board will appoint a track committee, to take this responsibility with you, believing that I have done my best with the means at my command. I hope that or next year the board will appoint a track committee, to take this responsibility with you, believing that I have done my best with the means at my command. I hope that or next year the board will appoint a track committee, to take this responsibility with you, believing that I have done my best with the means at my command.

Our main hall seems to have grown smaller. We could have had twice the exhibit in it this year had there been more room. During three weeks before the fair, we were denying space for parties wishing to make exhibits and to some of the society's best friends. Different parties in business have expressed their willingness to join with others in building an exhibition hall. I believe that at the present time something of the kind [Continued on 8th page.]

What a beautiful thing this having the markets of the world is; our imports increase and our exports decrease. The trouble is, it's the other fellow who has our markets.

There will be an election in eleven states next month; Ohio, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Iowa, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky elect governors, and in Kansas, Nebraska, New York and Pennsylvania other state officers are to be elected. In New York the principal fight is liable to be on the reform or anti-reform movement in New York City.

State Statistician C. V. De Land, of Jackson, is after some of the counties of the state, where the acreage has shrunk to an alarming extent within the past few years. For instance, Oakland county has shrunk 27,737 acres, Wayne county 32,000 acres, Saginaw 24,000 acres. The question is, where has this land gone to? He proposes to find out.

Teachers should remember that the law now requires the cause and spread of communicable disease as well as the effects of alcohol and narcotics to be taught. A child was reprimanded in school the other day for uncleanness which was not agreeable to the parent. The teachers are protected by law in this kind of instruction as uncleanness is a very fertile cause of disease.

If President Cleveland wishes to convince the people that his Americanism is as prominent as his friends claim it to be, he will be obliged to hustle a little and recognize struggling Cuba before congress assembled. There is no question about the action that congress would take. It will be a republican and an American congress, and will find plenty to do in building up what has been knocked down during the last four years.—Fenton Independent.

The primaries in Detroit resulted in an overwhelming victory for Mayor Pingree. Delegates favoring his nomination for a fourth term received some 28,000 votes to about 4,600 ballots for Mr. Vernor, his antagonist. The populists, in view of the fact decided not to make any nomination, but endorse Pingree. The democrats had hard work to get enough men together to hold their caucuses. Pingree will probably be the next mayor by a greater majority than usual.

Chicago University has dismissed Prof. Bemis. There is nothing sensational in that bare statement but frequently an innocent looking item may hide much that is interesting. It transpires, from some of the published correspondence, that Prof. Bemis in some of his public utterances and, perhaps in class work, had scored exorbitant and trusts, not that he told untruths about them, on the contrary it is conceded that he told the truth and that is where the trouble came in. Chicago University is endowed by men who have made their money squeezing the world on short markets, and they didn't relish criticism of that kind from a man dependent on their bounty. So the fiat went forth that he must shut up or quit. Being a man he chose the latter course.—Gratiot Journal.

PAULINE HALL

Miss Hall Says Dr. Greene's Nervura Surely Cures.

She Recommends Dr. Greene's Nervura for the Weak, Tired, Nervous and Debilitated. Says it is the Best of All Medicines.

MISS PAULINE HALL.

Pauline Hall, the empress of song, is celebrated the world over as the representative American beauty, who has in the presentation of her new operatic comedy, "Dorcas," achieved the success of her eventful life. In a conversation with the representative of this paper she stated: "I have in my professional experience assayed a number of roles that have been more or less trying upon the physical and nervous system, but in none that I have attempted have I ever experienced the terrific strain that the various characters which I assume in my new operatic comedy, "Dorcas," have subjected me to. The assumption of one character in a presentation is generally conceded to be a sufficient undertaking for any one person, but in "Dorcas" I assume three all different, and I might say diametrically opposite to each other. "The terrific strain naturally resulting from such difficult work, which is a new and direct departure from anything I have ever presented to the public before, naturally had a very distressing effect upon me, and I was constrained to seek some relief from the mental and physical exhaustion from my labors. After trying several remedies that were commended to me as being exceptionally good for the nervous exhaustion which I was subjected to, I was eventually induced to make a trial of Dr. Greene's celebrated Nervura, and the great relief which it afforded me was almost instantaneous in its effect and I have no hesitation in unqualifiedly endorsing Dr. Greene's Nervura as the best tonic and restorer of a nervous and debilitated system of any remedy that I have ever tested. It is remarkable for the rapidity with which its restorative qualities assert themselves. It is absolutely harmless, and the instantaneous relief which it affords to the nervous and tired system is grateful in the extreme. I can readily understand why it is that so many hearty recommendations are given by people of prominence, especially those in our profession, for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and my own experience justifies me in recommending it as absolutely the best remedy which I have ever used."

BY THE PEOPLE.

The recent conversion of Ex-Senator Ingalls to the theory that presidents and senators should be elected by the people has brought that question to the front again, and it is being hashed over and over by the newspapers.

The assertion is made that such a course would be more democratic. That it would bring these officials nearer the people. For one, we doubt it very much.

Its advocates say that the change would prevent or diminish bribery in case of U. S. senators for instance, and secure a better class in those offices. It is not easy to see how it would work in that way. The nominations for senator would have to be made in state conventions, as those for governor and other state officers are. It would be as easy for a wealthy and ambitious aspirant to bribe a majority of a convention as it would a majority of a legislature. It would, indeed, be easier, for the delegate is a creature of a day only, while a member of a legislature is, nominally at least, in existence for from one to two years. The delegate drops into the obscurity from which he emerged before the people have a chance to get a glimpse of him, while the legislator is, so to speak, in the "public eye" from one election to another. Obviously the latter would have more reason to fear detection and exposure, and therefore would be more likely to resist temptation than the former.

Then as to the question of qualification, do governors who are elected by the people rank higher on the general average in ability and character than senators who are chosen by legislatures? No reasonable being will say they do.

Suppose presidents were chosen by the popular vote, how long would the country have to wait for the result of an election? Take the election of 1888, when Harrison's lead was 95,000 on the popular vote. Nobody could tell whether he had any lead at all until after Texas had counted her votes—that is to say, until two or three weeks after election.

In the canvass of 1884 Cleveland's plurality was only 23,000; in 1880 Garfield's was but 9000.

Six or seven weeks would have to pass in a case like that of 1880, before the country could tell who was elected, and the temptation in the large and thinly populated states like Texas to hold back the vote and "doctor" the returns to suit exigencies would be very strong.

During all these weeks, of course, business would be on the rack of suspense, and society would be in a condition of convulsion.

This condition alone condemns the proposed change.

The demoralization and expense of such a state of things would be humiliating and disastrous. The country will hang on to its present system of electing presidents, even though it is a little cumbersome and unscientific. The reasons, however, against the change in the case of senator are not quite so strong as this.

Attorney General Maynard has rendered an opinion to the state board of corrections and charities to the effect that all prisoners in the county jails may be forced to work during the time for which they are sentenced. The only reason the law has heretofore been a dead letter is because the supervisors have failed to provide the work. Here is a chance for the various boards of supervisors throughout the state to take some action that may relieve Michigan of the tramps who make their periodic visit to the state.—Coldwater Republican.

The Lord's Prayer in Verse.

The following beautiful composition was found in Charleston, South Carolina, during the war. It is printed on very heavy satin, and is quite a literary curiosity.

Thou to the mercy seat, our souls dost gather, To do our duty unto thee.—Our Father, To whom all praise all honor should be given; For thou art the great God, who art in Heaven, Thou, by thy wisdom, rulest the world's whole frame Forever, therefore, hallowed be thy name. Let nevermore delay divide us from Thy glorious grace, but let thy kingdom come. Let thy commands opposed be by none, But thy good pleasure and thy will be done And let our promptness to obey be even The very same, on earth as it is in heaven. Then for our souls O Lord, we also pray: That wouldst be pleased to give us this, day The foot of life, wherewith our souls are fed, Sufficient raiment, and, our daily bread; With every needful thing do thou relieve us, And of thy mercy, pity, and forgive us All our misdeeds, for Him whom thou didst please To make an offering, for our trespasses. And forasmuch, O Lord, as we believe That thou wilt pardon us, as we forgive Let that love teach, wherewith thou dost acquaint us To pardon all, all those who trespass against us; And though, sometimes, thou find'st we have forgot This love for thee, yet help, and lead us not Through soul or body's want to desperation. Nor let earth's gain drive us, into temptation; Let not the soul of any true believer Fall in the time of trial, but deliver Yes, save them from the malice of the devil, And both in life and death, keep us from evil. Thus pray we, Lord, for that of thee, from whom This may be had, for thine is the kingdom, This world is of thy work thy wondrous story To thee belongs, the power and glory And all thy wondrous works have ended never, But will remain forever, and, forever, Thus we poor creatures would confess again, And thus would say eternally.—Amen.

Will it Keep?

In reply to a correspondent asking Mr. Speer about his Oporto Grape Juice, he says he will warrant it to keep any length of time in bottles if they are kept full and well corked. The Juice is not likely to keep long after allowed to come in contact with atmosphere over 40 degrees temperature. It is excellent for invalids.

The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindness and good humor that health brings, is bound to make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out"—and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine. It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes. In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

Mr. Gaudy has resigned the position of commissioner of the Board of Public Works at Ypsilanti. He became convinced that he could not retain his self-respect and act in harmony with the common council, and as he thought more of that than of either the office or the council, he resigned, so they will not have such a gaudy board down there as formerly.

A good many farmers throughout the county use old rails or other wood in the threshing engines. But there is one company at least, which flatly refuses every time, and that is the Washtenaw County Mutual.

Boys, you will have to put that apple core in your pocket till you get some where else, as the council has passed an ordinance prohibiting you from throwing it into the streets. That ordinance is a good one; now if the council will pass an ordinance making it compulsory that a citizen's neighbor's hens scratch only in their owner's garden and posy beds, they will confer an everlasting favor upon many of their constituents, and may depend upon a re-election next spring.—Milan Leader.

A certain doctor of this city of a piscatorial turn of mind, after considerable trouble obtained a fine lot of minnows which he intended to use in a fishing excursion the following day. To keep them fresh and lively he decided to put them in his watering trough over night. What was his horror when he arose in the morning, to find that his pet cat was doing a little fishing on her own account, and her efforts met with such success that the fishing trip had to be deferred to some future time.—Ypsilantian. Quite a catastrophe.

Some of the residents of Lima township are inclined to poke a little fun at the commissioners who had the assessing of property for what is known as Mill Lake Drain of Sylvan and Lima. These commissioners, on affidavit of one Taylor, that some pollywogs were wont to swim up there and when the water dried up would be left to die and dry up, and so become an unhealthy nuisance, assessed the township of Lima $142 for building the drain because of the improvement it would be to the health of the township. One of the sad events that occasionally take place in this world, was the death by suicide, last Saturday morning of Myron H. Cady, brother of C. H. Cady of this city, at his home in Ypsilanti. The deceased had recently removed from his 480 acre farm in Pittsfield, and was engaged in the erection of a new house. Although possessed of plenty, yet he became worried in some way over money matters, and settled the whole matter in the manner indicated. Walter B. Cady of the University, is a son of the deceased. The affair was a great shock to the many friends of the deceased and the family who have the deep sympathy of the community.

Temperance and the Home.

(Conducted by the W. C. T. U.)

God has given us a bright and beautiful world, pure air and glad sunshine. He has also furnished fuel for our comfort, grass and grain for the animal creation. The Indian, anxious to have a share in everything, twisted the tobacco leaf and smoked it; then the white man, with his superior intellect, followed in the footsteps of his red brother, and for years smoking tobacco has been the popular pastime of our boys and men, rich and poor alike, until we have become a smoking nation. Sometimes even our songs and prayers ascend to heaven through a cloud of tobacco smoke.

Tobacco was introduced to the knowledge of civilized nations on the discovery of America. It derives its botanical name (Nicotiana) from Jean Nicot, French ambassador to Portugal, who introduced it into France, and did all in his power to render its use fashionable. In 1621, a ship brought over to America sixty girls, and sold them for 120 to 150 pounds of tobacco. Think of it! Tobacco was the price of our first slaves, and are those slaves were young innocent girls. To-day men become slaves to this same tobacco and find the master such a tyrant it is hard to break the chain and be free.

Physicians, chemists and botanists agree in pronouncing tobacco one of the most deadly poisons known. It taints the breath, ruins the digestion, obliterates taste and smell, spoils the blood, oppresses the brain, depresses the heart, irritates the nerves, wastes the muscles, obstructs the liver, dims the vision, stains the skin, and deteriorates and contaminates every organ and tissue with which it comes in contact in the body. Its influence is to lessen vitality, to numb the sensibilities, to shorten life, to kill.

The use of tobacco in any form is harmful, but cigarette smoking is by far the most injurious.

Cigarettes are made from inferior tobacco; stumps thrown away by the smoker (perhaps a smoker with a contagious disease) are gathered, and used largely in the manufacture of cigarettes. This being poor tobacco salt-peter is freely employed to keep it from becoming musty. Salt-peter is highly injurious. Cigarettes are strongly impregnated with opium. The paper wrapper has lead or arsenic, sometimes both, in it.

Cigarette smoking, is an evil which has sprung into prominence within a very few years, and it is one which, unless checked and stamped out, will work untold injury to our nation. It is doing more to-day to undermine the constitutions of our young men and boys than any other one evil.

Michigan has 419 W. C. T. U. local unions, with a membership of 7,217; 314 Y's and 176 Loyal Temperance Legions with a membership of 3,493. Michigan has passed a law fixing a heavy penalty upon railroad companies for the employment of persons addicted to the use of intoxicants.

Miss Willard reports that tetotism is very much in vogue in England. In her cycling tours she frequently noticed hotels labeled with signs which read, "Milk for bicyclists."

It is the sober decision of urbane men of business, from one end of Africa to the other, that an essential preliminary to successful administration is to prevent the sale or supply of spirits to the natives.

We are continually met with the account of some one who uses his daily dram, and at fifty is hale and hearty. But wait, the end is not yet. The child of such a father may be overborne by a weakened will, and die a drunkard. If we sow the wind, we must reap the whirlwind.

Which Are You?

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

There are two kinds of people on earth to-day. Just two kinds of people—no more, I say.

Not the sinner and saint, for its well understood. The good are half bad and the bad are half good.

Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth you must first know the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for in life's little span who puts on vain airs is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift-flying years bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.

Not the two kinds of people on earth, I mean. Are the people who fit and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses are always divided in just these two classes.

And oddly enough, you will find, too, I swear, there is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load of overtaxed lifters who toll down the road? Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear your portion of labor and worry and care?

A Novel Idea.

It is free, and deeply interests everybody who has aches or pains, or who is weak and sickly. Anyone can learn the surest and quickest means to get strong and well by accepting this splendid free offer of the great specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York City. He has established a system of letter correspondence through which all sick and suffering people can learn exactly what ails them, and how to get well, without expense and without leaving their homes. All they have to do is to write to the Doctor, stating each symptom from which they are suffering, and he will answer their letter, explaining their case thoroughly, telling just what the trouble is and what to do to be cured. He gives the greatest care and attention to every letter, and tells the cause of each symptom so plainly that patients understand instantly just what ails them. And all this costs nothing. It is a splendid opportunity for those who cannot afford the time or expense to go to the city. Dr. Greene makes a specialty of curing patients through letter correspondence. He is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and is the discoverer of that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervous Blood and Nerve Remedy. Those who write to him get cured.

No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy. Subsequent events prove it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, it was in the end profitable, nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used. There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial, and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

Hood's Pills for the liver and bowels act promptly, easily and effectively.

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUD- DENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. An iron clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure), $2.50. Office of THE PIONEER PRESS COMPANY, C. W. HONSTICK, Sept. 7, 1894. Eureka Chemical and Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis. Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Kooly Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours truly, C. W. HonstICK.

The Camphor Hospital of 1785.

Before the French Revolution, a learned French savant and physician, Dr. Thielman, started what for a time was known as the "camphor craze." The doctor lectured before the institute on the wonderful curative properties of camphor and held that this one medicine, properly applied, would cure all the ills of the body. He established a hospital, was soon crowded, and he performed some really wonderful cures. The French Revolution came on soon after and swept the institution out of existence, but camphor is still "the great healer." The ordinary camphor is soft and healing, and if applied to a burn or a sore will relieve the pain and subside the inflammation. In the liquid camphor it is the alcohol that smart. A very bright chemist of Dayton, Ohio, has compounded a balm that contains not only the ordinary camphor, but rare and costly camphors in addition that are known to but few chemists. This compound is known as Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm, and can be had at any drug store, and is widely known as the only remedy that can be relied upon to allay the inflammation of the nasal passages. It relieves the inflammation instantly and heals the diseased membranes. It is a "Catarrh healer." It can confidently be relied upon at all times. Everybody now-a-days uses "Pretzinger's." A small sample can be had by sending a two cent stamp to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O.

Harry Clark, son of Joseph Clark, supt. of the University hospital, has been obliged to relinquish his position with the Milwaukee firm in whose employ he has been, and will soon go to Mobile, Ala., with the St. R'y Co. of that city. The change was made necessary because of ill health.

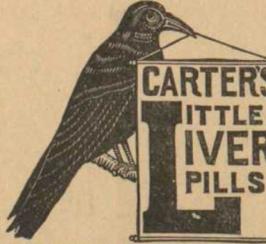

Hugh R. Jenkins, who was a resident of this city for many years, died very suddenly, at the home of his son H. R. Jenkins, Jr., in Jackson, on Monday evening. He was born in Canandaigua, N. Y., March 15, 1823, and came to Ann Arbor about 1872. He leaves five sons, of whom Grant E. and John O. will be remembered here. The remains will be interred in the city cemetery on the Northside.

A most entertaining evening was given at G. A. R. hall Tuesday. It was a semi-public affair, and consisted in each of the comrades from this post who attended the national encampment and the Chickamauga National Park services, telling their experiences. Col. Dean J. Q. A. Sessions, and Frederick Pistorious were the gentlemen, and they told their stories in such a way as to please their audience very much.

The survivors of the old 16th Mich. Vet. Vo. Infantry, whose meeting in Ann Arbor, a year ago our citizens remember, will hold their next annual reunion at Plymouth, Oct. 29. A considerable number of members of the regiment were recruited from Washtenaw and adjoining counties. The resident members in Ann Arbor are Surgeon W. F. Breakey, Quartermaster William Wash. Sergt. Michael Donahue, and Col. H. S. Dean made honorary member of the Regimental Association last year. The Plymouth Comrades and citizens are emulating the example of the hospitable greeting and entertainment given the old veterans here, and promise a warm reception to the old 16th. One of its cols., N. E. Welch, was buried in Ann Arbor and the local G. A. R. post bears his name.

The council held their regular semi-monthly meeting Monday evening, and enjoyed a lively debate over the resolution of Ald. Coon, relative to the extravagance of the council, but he found himself alone when it came to adopting it as the sense of the council. On recommendation of Mayor Walker the following special police, to serve without expense to the city, were appointed; J. M. Perkins at the campus; Chas. S. Putt at A. A. E'y depot; John B. Tice at M. C. E. R. depot; H. J. Burke asked that the Sorg mortgage held by the city against property belonging to his father's estate be discharged by the city. The matter of opening Catharine st. between Division and State was postponed. Money expended by the city in building sidewalks in front of private property was ordered spread upon the tax roll. Resolutions complimentary to the directors for giving our city's name to the Ann Arbor Railway Co., were adopted. A resolution was introduced to pay the city treasurer $50 per month instead of $100 per year, which certainly, in justice to that official ought to have passed, but which was laid on the table to the next meeting. It is no more than simple justice that the treasurer should be paid something near what he earns. Hereafter the council will be called to order at 7:30 p. m.

Hughie McGuire is probably one of the fleetest youngsters on foot in the city, he came out ahead 14 1-2 minutes on a 100 yard race this morning with the famous sprinter Clarence Sweet, so he says.

A Bible reading club has been formed at the M. E. church, 300 people pledging themselves to commence with the first chapter of Genesis, and read one chapter each day until they completed the entire Bible. Everybody is invited to join the club.

Every member of the mother supreme council of the world, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Free Masonry, 27 in number, were in their seats on Oct. 21, when the council was called to order in Washington D. C. Several important questions were decided.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sweet, of this city, go to South Bend, Ind., tomorrow, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sweet's sister, Lavonia M., wife of Thomas S. Taylor of the postoffice department, who died at Washington, D. C., on Sunday last. The deceased had been a resident of the national capital for 22 years.

The ladies composing the Aid Society of St. Andrew's parish, have in contemplation a very fine series of entertainments for December 3, 7, 9 and 10. It will be called the "Festival of the Holidays," and they will illustrate in a very pleasant manner Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years St. Valentine's Day, Independence Day and perhaps G. A. R. Memorial Day. The festivals will be given at Harris Hall and the ladies will bring out something well worth seeing and listening to.

The second lecture in the Unity Club course was given Monday evening, by the Rev. J. B. Whitford, upon "Dante." Mr. Whitford is the Methodist clergyman, located at Caro, Michigan. He is a natural born orator and his lecture was very interesting and instructive from beginning to end. He is a profound student of Dante, and of the condition of thought and society in Italy at the close of the Middle Ages when Dante lived. It was a great theme, handled eloquently and well. It was fully up to the high standard of entertainments given by Unity Club.

On Sunday evening last Mrs. C. Robison, the mother of A. V. Robison of this city, died at the home of her son, of old age, having reached 87 years. Mrs. Robison was a native of New York, where she was born June 23, 1808, was married in 1826 to James I. Robison, with whom she came to Michigan in 1844. One son A. V. Robison, and two daughters, Mrs. Della Pack of Ann Arbor, and another living in Manchester, survive her. Brief services were conducted at the residence last evening by Rev. Dr. Coburn, and the remains were taken to Manchester this morning for burial.

Mrs. Catharine Hangsterfer, who died on Sunday morning, after a somewhat extended illness, was born in Hesse Darmstadt, Germany, April 16 1825. She came to this country in 1833 with the family, settling in Pennsylvania. In 1848 she was married to Jacob Hangsterfer, and they came to Ann Arbor to reside in 1854, where they carried on a confectionery store with ice cream parlors and prospered so rapidly that after a few years they erected the block now occupied by Wadhams, Ryan & Reule, at the corner of S. Main and Washington sts., and which her many years was the finest in the city and contained the only public hall of prominence in the town. Mr. Hangsterfer died in 1873, after which Mrs. Hangsterfer carried on the business alone for several years. The children surviving are J. Wm., of Detroit, Edward V., Miss Lizzie, Mrs. Grainger and Mrs. Limpert, of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Luyckx and Mrs. Stevens of Detroit. The funeral was held yesterday from the house, Rev. Mr. Beach, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church conducting the services. The honorary bearers were Moses Seabolt, P. Bach, W. D. Harriman, L. Gruner, C. H. Worden, J. T. Jacobs. The active bearers were the sons and sons-in-law. And thus passes away probably one of the most widely known women of this city. She was a good business woman, and has always been held in the highest respect by our citizens in general.

UNIVERSITY.

The annual reception given by the R. Y. P. U. to the University students was one of the enjoyable occasions of Friday night last.

Prof. Jonas, of the School of Music, went to Chicago Sunday, and gave a concert there last evening, under auspices of one of the societies of that city.

The grand stand at the Athletic grounds burned Monday noon. How it caught fire is a mystery, but probably from a cigar or cigarette dropped by some one Saturday.

A reception was given the freshmen ladies of the professional departments, by the upper class girls of the same at Newberry Hall, Saturday evening, which said Freshmen enjoyed.

Rev. Merle A. Breed, lit. '84, is visiting his father, Rev. Samuel D. Breed, of E. Ann st. He has resigned the presidency of Benozonia college, and is on his way to Westboro, Mass., to accept of the pastorate of the Congregational church there.

A committee from Newark, N. J., composed of the mayor and a number of other prominent citizens of that city, visited the University last week, with special reference to the library, to ascertain points for the new public library building to be erected there. The chairman of the committee, James Edward Howell, law '70, was a former U. of M. student, and one of the founders of the Phi Delta Phi fraternity. The committee paid our library the compliment of being the best and most systematically managed of any they had visited—and they had been to Chicago.)

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mt. Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtaken, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

The W. C. T. U. meets on Thursday at 3 o'clock p. m., in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

The Political Equality Club has changed its meeting night from Thursday to Tuesday evenings.

Miss West has been transferred from the 5th to the 1st ward school, and Miss May O'Hearn appointed to fill her place.

The first at home, or entertainment of the Womans' League this year, will be held at McMillan Hall on Saturday, from 3 to 6 p. m.

At the services held in Cinnati, Thursday in memory of the late Judge Jackson, George P. Wanty, of Grand Rapids, was one of Ann Arbor's famous boys, was one of the speakers.

The solos sang during the offertories at St. Andrew's church Sunday, by Mr. J. N. Korlick of Detroit, in the morning, and Walter Taylor in the evening, were of an unusually high order.

The Monroe Democrat man has had his ear to the ground and arises to remark in regard to the Ann Arbor & Detroit Electric St. R. R. Co., that "as to its 'maintainers' it needs none on earth. It's an air line." Well that is a sort of favorite with newspaper men, after all.

On the 6th of November next, it will be just fifty years since Conrad Krapf and Charles Spoor, of this city, took the first degree in Odd Fellowship. Should they both be alive and well on that day, it might not be a bad idea for the order to have a sort of semi-centennial in this city in their honor.

On Saturday the wind turned into the north with a whew, and from the Alaskan glaciers and fastnesses it blew, until the average man it chilled completely through. Then a snow storm of moderate dimensions came on, and all day Sunday the flakes kept occasionally coming down on the dust of the streets and roofs of the town, until quite a sheet of white wrapped the earth at night—Monday morning the sun came out and smiled on the work of the Frost, and all the green leaves drooped and fell to the earth. This was the first real hard freeze this fall.

Jas. R. Bach's insurance business is now in charge of John E. Alford.

Thanksgiving gets around on its usual time, the turkeys will have only five weeks more to grow and get fat in.

The lecture course given by the Baptist Sunday School, six evenings for 50 cents, is an excellent one, and well worth the price.

The residence at No. 9 Geddes ave., occupied by Mrs. St. John, was damaged by fire on Friday night last, to the extent of about $300, worth. Fully insured.

The city offices had a narrow escape from destruction Friday night. A blaze got nicely started in the room between the clerk's and the engineer's offices, and was discovered just in time to prevent a sad loss. The fire boys put it out with chemicals, as it was.

That improved fast mail service, promised by the government for Michigan, will be greatly welcomed by our business men. Some way the postal service for this state doesn't seem to have kept up to the standard since Hon. Don. M. Dickinson held the reins of that department.

The fire alarms now a-days come in pairs. The department has had three double alarms in succession during the week, but the boys proved themselves equal to the emergencies, and were on time at each and every call. The secret of our fire department's great success, is its promptness.

The remains of Virgil C. Lozee, who died at his home in Detroit last Thursday, arrived in the city Saturday p. m., and were met by a number of the Masonic fraternity and escorted to Forest Hill cemetery, where interment took place. The deceased was the husband of Celia A., daughter of the late Rev. George Taylor, for a number of years a resident of Ann Arbor.

A number one Ann Arbor traveling and business man, was heard to say one day in the past week that of all the villages in Michigan, Pinckney was ahead in nearly everything—straight business men to deal with, up to date, and always bound to hold her own and advance.—Pinckney Dispatch. Of course he was a No. 1 traveling man, and knows, evidently, that honey is more palatable than a/ces

Regent Hackley has just donated to the Board of Education of Muskegon, $50,000 to be used in building a Normal Training School, to which he agrees to give $5,000 a year for salaries during his life-time, and at his death to endow it with $100,000. This is in addition to some $300,000 or $400,000 already given to his own city, Muskegon, previously. Michigan would be glad to have a few more Hackley's.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Washtenaw Co. Agricultural and Horticultural Society Friday afternoon, the treasurer, Fred E. Belsler, was directed to collect fifteen per cent. of the guaranty subscriptions pledged by our citizens. That amount will be needed to put the society on a firm foundation, and pay all liabilities incurred. The society has been well managed, and it is no fault of its officials that such a course has become necessary, but it has been placed between two fires, and in that way crippled. When a house is divided against itself it can not stand. When two factions in the county carry their fight into the county fair, of course the fair suffers as has been effectually proven heretofore. Neither party has strength enough to carry the fair through successfully, but either can prevent it from becoming a success financially. Under those circumstances would it not be best to drop the annual exhibitions until all can unite in making it a success? The exhibit is of no especial benefit to Ann Arbor's business men, yet they of course have a pride in having it kept up and its debts promptly paid. But they do not feel like contributing to an enterprise that fails to be self-sustaining through factional quarrels that should not exist as far as the fair is concerned. The Courier has heard many of our business men, who have been firm supporters of the fair express that opinion. They feel that it would be best to discontinue the yearly exhibitions until all can unite in making it a success.

On Wednesday morning last, Jacob Baessler, of No. 69 N. Main st., died at his home, of typhoid fever, aged 50 years. Funeral services were held Thursday and remains interred in the city cemetery on the northside.

The street cars are to be vestibuled, and Robert Hunter has the job. This is not only a nice thing for the motor men, but a humane thing, and in the state of Ohio, for instance, the law compels that to be done.

Robert Phillips and Robert Burns are and were both Scotch. Consequently when the former became possessed of a number of souvenirs of the latter, as he did recently, it was the cause of much happiness on his part.

The fire department had two calls last Thursday noon, caused by the burning of the barn belonging to Joe Clay, a colored drayman, who lives on Linden st. It seems that there were a few sparks left in the first attempt at quenching the blaze, and the heavy wind soon fanned it into a flame again.

Thousands of dollars invested in the printing business here in Ann Arbor, most of it paying taxes, and yet not an office in the city capable of getting up good enough stationery for our county offices, or announcements for some of the lecture courses given here. That does not speak well for Ann Arbor's establishments, does it?

The great candle of Eberbach's, started during fair time, burned out last Thursday evening, and the best guesser was the one holding ticket No. 1,027, the guess being 174 hours or 7 days 6 hours. The candle burned 173 hours, 56 minutes, or 7 days 5 hours and 56 minutes. Two others, Nos. 1,467 and 1,542 guessed the same, but the number mentioned was the first to record that guess.

'She wore a high hat to the play. What did the man behind her say? Well, not what he ought. If he'd said what he thought, But he didn't—he just went away.'

Wm Thielsen, the tailor, has rented a store of Clay Greene in the Arlington block.

On next Sunday morning Rev. Dr. Coburn has for his subject: "Are There few That be Saved?"

County Clerk Dansingburg issued five marriage licenses Saturday. Quite a rush considering the hard times.

It will cost five cents to get in where the ladies and pies are, at the Presbyterian church to-morrow evening.

On account of the death of Mrs. Granger's mother, all classes at Granger's Academy are omitted until Thursday evening.

There should be a good attendance at the social in the Northside chapel to-morrow evening. The entire world invited.

On the 30th inst, Christian Jenter, formerly of this city, is to be married to Miss Louise Potter, at Geneva, N. Y., where he now resides.

A pamphlet, having for its object the interesting of people in general in the work of the English Lutheran church here, has been issued by Rev. W. L. Tedrow.

It is the intention of the Adventists who have purchased the German M. E. church, at the corner of E. Liberty and S. Division sts., to put a fine church edifice thereon before a great while.

The Adrian Press believes that all church bells should cease their noise, and that in future all people should go to church by their own clocks. This is another attempt to foist standard time on the people.

Capt. Allen is spending two weeks in Ohio making stump speeches for the republicans. He is not very far down in the state, hence come the loose murmurings which can be heard o' nights when the wind is in the south.—Ypsilanti Commercial.

The Y. W. C. A. of this city will give a social at their rooms in the post office block on Thursday evening, Oct. 24th. Tickets at 10 cts. each will be on sale at various places down town and also by members of the Association. Come everybody and bring your friends.

Farmers are getting quite "flip" ever in Washtenaw county. A Granger's academy has opened in Ann Arbor, and a "Granger's school of dancing" is advertised. Wait till they foot the bill for the republican taxes this year and you will see dancing that comes without instruction.—Adrian Press. You mean democratic taxes. The $700,000 and over that was left as a legacy from the Winan's administration is probably what you refer to.

On the evening of Oct. 8, while George S. Hull, who lives in Hamburg a few miles north of Whitmore Lake, and his family were at supper, a terrific explosion not only stunned the entire family, but blew the rear end of the house pretty much to pieces. An inspection of the premises disclosed the fact that some one had attempted to blow the house and its occupants into eternity by means of dynamite. Suspicions were entertained as to who the cowardly perpetrators of the dastardly deed were, but nothing definite could be obtained and the officers of Livingston county seemed loth to act. Finally interested parties came to Ann Arbor and secured the services of Chief of Police Peterson to ferret out the criminals. He went out there and commenced work, and soon had another job put up by the guilty parties and such evidence secured as would convict. Upon the arrest of the two brothers, Erastus and Dudson Webster, by the Livingston officials, the thumb screws were put to them, and they confessed to the whole business. The reason given for doing the deed was revenge for a few real or fancied grievances, one of which was the selling to them by Hull of a bushel of peaches which were tainted with the yellows, and which made their mother, who is an old lady, sick. It hardly seems as though for such trivial reasons men would do such awful deeds, but some people are queerly constructed. The Websters are both unmarried, their mother keeping house for them. They formerly resided in Salem in this county, but did not bear a very good name, it is said. Between the ferreting out of this crime, and the conviction of Cuyler Barton, the barn burner, Washtenaw county officials are entitled to a great deal of credit.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,

To the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw in Chancery:

The petition of Stanley W. Turner, Auditor General of said State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State of Michigan, respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all lands in said County of Washtenaw upon which taxes have remained unpaid for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee as provided by law, and the cost of advertising and other expenses of sale of each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 208 of the Public Acts of 1883, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively, except such of the taxes as were returned to the Auditor General according to law prior to the 12th day of June, 1883, and remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and cost of advertising and other expenses of sale, as set forth in said Schedule A, are a valid lien in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, and that the several parcels of land described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said parcels of lands have remained unpaid for more than one year prior to the first day of May, 1885; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, and that the several parcels of land described in said schedule, as well as the several parcels of land in and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

Dated August 14, 1885.

STANLEY W. TURNER, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of the State of Michigan.

A SWEEPING DECISION

Rendered in the Suit Brought Against the Estate of the Late Elijah W. Morgan.

IT IS GIVEN BY JUDGE SWAN

of the United States District Court—A History of the Litigation, and An article of Great Interest to Washtenaw People.

Judge Swan, of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Michigan, at Detroit, has just handed down an opinion in the case of George Lant Sr. vs Charles H. Manly, administrator of the Estate of Elijah W. Morgan, Edward D. Kinne and Otis C. Johnson, executors of Lucy W. S. Morgan, Deceased and Lucy D. S. Parker, executrix of the estate of Franklin L. Parker, which is very important in so far as it effects the titles of property in Washtenaw County and also apparently puts an end to litigation in various forms which has been pending in this and other counties of the State. It passes upon a claim that George Lant Sr. pretended to have against the Estate of Elijah W. Morgan.

The following is an account of the litigation as stated by Judge Swan in his opinion, with the result.

November 20th, 1873 E. W. Morgan gave to Hattie C. Eames three notes, two for the sum of $1000 each and one for $1333, payable 18 months after date. These notes were endorsed September 16th, 1876 by the payee to George Lant Sr., the complainant. Lant brought suit upon these notes in the Washtenaw Circuit Court and on July 12th, 1887 recovered judgment against E. W. Morgan for $5882.27. Practically nothing was done by Lant with this judgment for the reason that at that time E. W. Morgan had become financially embarrassed and had no property. On February 2nd, 1891, about ten years afterwards, Lant brought an action in the U. S. Court on this judgment. A writ of attachment was taken out and levied on a very large amount of described property situated in Washtenaw County, which was then in the possession of Edward D. Kinne and Otis C. Johnson, as executors of E. W. Morgan and Franklin L. Parker, or some of it. E. W. Morgan was then living and was served with a summons in this case. Morgan appeared to defend the case by his attorneys, but the case was never pressed by Lant's attorneys until after Morgan's death in Jan. 1892. On December 20th, 1895 in a petition of Lant's in the Probate Court of Washtenaw County Charles H. Manly was appointed administrator of Morgan's estate and on February 3rd, 1893 the suit in the U. S. Court was revived as against Manly as administrator and the complainant forewith recovered judgment against him as administrator of Morgan's Estate in the U. S. Court in the suit heretofore referred to for the sum of $8702.20. Execution was taken out on this judgment and levied on a large number of descriptions of property in Washtenaw County. The property levied upon must have been valued at from one to two millions of dollars at least and included the Post Office site and a number of store and residence properties in the City of Ann Arbor, and in fact every piece of property almost that E. W. Morgan in his life time had ever had any connections with, either as owner or in fee or by tax title or otherwise. Most of the property levied upon had been occupied by the present owners or occupants for many years and their title was apparently unquestioned. A large amount of the property levied upon was also in the hands of the defendants as executors of Lucy W. S. Morgan's estate and the estate of Franklin L. Parker.

Mrs. Morgan died in May, 1887 leaving a will of which Judge Kinne, Otis C. Johnson and Franklin L. Parker were appointed executors, to whom was devised and bequeathed all of her property for certain purposes. The will was probated in the Washtenaw Probate Court in June 1887 and the executors duly qualified and are still acting as such executors and trustees.

Franklin L. Parker died in February, 1894 leaving a will whereby he gave all of his property to his wife, Lucy D. S. Parker in trust for certain purposes specified in the will and she was appointed sole executrix. The will was probated in March, 1894 and the administration was granted to Mrs. Parker, who qualified and executrix.

The bill filed by Lant in the U. S. Court alleges that he has reason to believe that the estate of E. W. Morgan has property which the plaintiff has been unable to reach by execution and that the executors have personal property in which the Estate of Morgan was beneficially interested and they ask for a discovery from the defendants, executors, for the purpose of finding out, as they allege, what property is so held and the terms and conditions on which it is held. They allege on information and belief that certain conveyances made by E. W. Morgan to his wife, Lucy W. S. Morgan were without consideration and asks for a discovery as to the amount and value of the land so conveyed. The same facts are alleged in reference to conveyances made to Franklin L. Parker and a discovery is asked from Mrs. Parker, his executrix. It alleges that a certain deed from E. W. Morgan to Franklin L. Parker made in January, 1873 was without consideration and voluntary and ask that Parker's executrix be declared a trustee of the property, real or personal, belonging to the estate of E. W. Morgan and a general discovery is prayed for from all the defendants in reference to all books, papers, documents, etc. in their hands which may throw any light upon any property belonging to E. W. Morgan and a general discovery is prayed for from all of the defendants in reference to all books, papers, documents, etc. in their hands which may throw any light upon any property belonging to E. W. Morgan. By way of relief the complainant asks, in addition to the discovery, for an account from the executors of E. W. Morgan and Franklin L. Parker and also for a receiver, etc.

All the defendants appeared in the case and demurred to the bill, by Bowen, Douglas and Whiting, of Detroit, their attorneys. Judge Swan rules every point in favor of the defendant the executors of E. W. Morgan and Franklin L. Parker's will and dismisses the complainant's bill as being absolutely without equity. Some important questions are passed upon. The Court says: "The first question presented is as to the jurisdiction of the U. S. Court to interfere with the property in the possession of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw. This bill calls upon the Court to dispossess the administrators of Mrs. Morgan and of the executors of Franklin L. Parker of all control of the property in their charge and assume administration of that property and its distribution among interested parties. The rule is well established that the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States between states can be interpreted by the laws of the state which prescribe the means of redress in other courts and regulate the distribution of their judicial power; but the complication of the application of this principle is that the Courts of the United States in the execution of their jurisdiction over the parties cannot seize or convert the property while in a custody of a court of the state. This and many other cases are cited and approved. In Beyers vs. McAnley, 149 U. S. 895.

Under the decisions of the United States, Judge Swan says, "In cases where a citizen of another state has recourse to the Federal tribunals for the assertion of his rights against the administrators of a decedent citizen of the state where the suit is brought the utmost relief which he can obtain is the establishment of his debt by the judgment of the federal court against the administrator. He then becomes entitled to enter in under the law of the State for such payment upon his judgment as the law warrants to creditors of his class. He obtains no prior lien upon the property, but simply fixes by judgment his status as a creditor, which the administrator is bound to recognize in the payment of the debts. The Federal Court in enforcing the payment of this debt will not interfere with the State tribunal which has acquired jurisdiction of the estate of decedent. The relief prayed for cannot be granted and the bill cannot be sustained against the defendants. As the property attached on the complainant's judgment was then admitted in the possession of the defendants Kinne and Johnson as administrators of Lucy W. S. Morgan the attachment was a breach of the rule of comity which protects property in the possession of the State Court from process issued out of a Federal Court and was invalid.

Judge Swan, however, does not decide the case alone on this legal point; but decides that the bill in all of its statements is absolutely without equity and Lant is not entitled to any of the relief asked for. The laches or delay in the parties in asking the aid of the Court is strongly commented on and attention is called to the fact that there is no affirmation of the plaintiff's pleading of ever having made the slightest inquiry in relation to the facts.

Numerous decisions of the United States Supreme Court are cited to the point that laches and delay in asserting the rights until after the death of the parties against whom these rights are claimed was inexcusable and forbid the granting of relief. Judge Swan says, in February, 1876 the complainant claims that he procured for a valuable consideration the notes given by Morgan to Hattie C. Eames. These notes were then overdue. It does not appear for what, if any, consideration they were given by Morgan to the payee. Lant held these notes without making any effort to collect them from Morgan and did not present them for payment until the statute of limitations had nearly run upon them. They became due May 20th, 1875. On the 12th of July, just before the power of the Statute would have been a protection against the notes he received judgment. Whether this negligence was from his confidence in Morgan's ability to pay them and his desire to continue as long as possible his investment at the profitable rate of ten per cent is a matter of no moment. If he knew that Morgan was disposing of his property, as he claims that he did, and did nothing to enforce his claim, he is manifestly barred from relief to the plainest principles of equity. If he did not know of this conveyance he is equally inexcusable for ignoring the information which was spread upon the public records of the County. It is not claimed that any demand was ever made upon Morgan for the payment of this judgment or that the same was ever presented to Parker, his guardian, or to Manly, Morgan's administrator. The bill fails to aver that Manly, Morgan's administrator, has ever been requested by the complainant to institute an action authorized by Section 5884 and 5885, Howell's Statutes. The complainant seems to have remained quiescent although, as he avers, from the year 1873 Morgan, before that time a man of large property had become practically insolvent by the conveyances which are now charged to have been fraud to his creditors, and from which the bill seeks relief. No excuse is shown for this inaction and the failure of the complainant promptly to seek the remedy in the State Court as a judgment creditor of Morgan and that are sought against these alleged fraudulent conveyances. Neither Morgan's condition nor the fact that he was under guardianship constituted any impediment to the enforcement of the complainant's claim if it was a fair and honest one. More than this, on the 20th of June, 1887 Lucy Morgan, the wife of E. W. Morgan and his alleged co-conspirator in the alleged frauds sought to be avoided, died and any light which she could have thrown upon the transactions complained of was lost forever. This fact is strongly commented on.

Touching the conveyance to Franklin L. Parker, the only fact which would in any way tend to impugn the conduct of Parker is the fact that Morgan's deeds to him were not recorded until two years after their execution. As Morgan is alleged to have been a man of large property and it is not claimed that the deeds to Parker embraced all his real estate, withholding them from record was not necessarily or probably a fraud upon complainant. The deed from Morgan to Parker was before he became Morgan's creditor and he had no right to complain of a transaction perfected before he became such.

In reference to the acts of Lucy D. S. Parker, the Court says, "The allegations in the bill are too insufficient and vague to mean anything. The fair inference from the allegations in the bill is that all of the conveyances were seasonably recorded and seasonably made. They were all publicly recorded and are evidenced and where matters complained of as frauds are evidenced by public records accessible to all it is settled by the judgments of all courts alike that the party who seeks to avoid the effect of such notice must show more than concealment by mere assignment some affirmative act of deception, etc.

The Court then points out distinctly what course Lant could have pursued against Morgan in the State Court had his claim been a just one or had there been any reason to doubt the bona fides of the transaction complained of between E. W. Morgan, his wife, Franklin L. Parker and his wife. The Court comments also upon the fact that Lant delayed inquiry and pursuit with knowledge of the acts he now complains of until after Morgan, by reason of age and infirmity, had become incompetent, until after his wife, Lucy W. S. Morgan, had died and until after Franklin L. Parker had also died, and the only parties who were familiar with the facts of the transactions complained of and of the further fact that the complainant waited to file his bill until after Franklin Parker died in February, 1894, the last of all of the actors in the transaction of which he complained. The Court says, "The bill makes absolutely no case whatever against defendants Kinne and Johnson." And the Court grants a decree dismissing the bill of complaint of Lant as being absolutely without equity.

At the same time Judge Swan sustains a bill filed by Judge Kinne and Otis C. Johnson as executors of Lucy W. S. Morgan's Estate, which sought to set aside the attachment levied upon lands, being more particularly the property now in their hands as executors.

The decision is entirely adverse to the complainant. Lant and removes entirely any cloud to the title of any of the property affected. The litigation has been pressed by Lant and his counsel with great vigor and this is the first time that the merits of his claim against this estate have ever been thoroughly investigated and passed upon. The opinion is far reaching and conclusive.

Mayor Pingree's Books.

Facts and Opinions, by Hazen S. Pingree, mayor of Detroit. The above is the title of a book containing 200 odd pages, very much in line, as to letter press, with Coia's publications, and at the popular price of 27 cents. The work is not extremely remarkable in any way, yet it contains a great many truths, some opinions that are excellent, and some that might stand quite a little criticism. The illustrations are much worse than the opinions. That is the pictures carry an impression that borders on anarchism, while the opinions can not be said to justify such an assertion. As one gentleman remarked "the pictures are the worst of it, for there are thousands who will read only the pictures, and drink in the spirit of the book through them." At this distance the book looks like a bid for the vote of the great masses who believe that all corporations are their enemies and who applaud anything said against them. The book also is expected to become so furiously popular with the laboring element that there will be a mayor called to the governor's chair and then to the White House at Washington. But Mayor Pingree forgets two things. One is that the masses do not read books and will not read his—except perhaps the pictures. The next is that the masses are fickle. They shout and applaud a great man one day, and the next day they mob him. The Duke of Wellington is a prominent instance that happens to come to mind. People who write books with the sole object of catching popular favor, are treading on dangerous ground, for while the object may be accomplished for a time, it is altogether probable that when a reaction sets in, as it is sure to do, the writer will be greatly worried, if not condemned beyond resurrection by some of the "opinions" expressed. It is the Courier's private opinion that Mr. Pingree has made a mistake in writing this book.

could be easily brought about.

The 1895 fair was one of the greatest ever held in the county. Every department overflowing except those of fruit and swine. Most of the department superintendents take an interest in the work. However I must say that they do not begin early enough. Our fairs have outgrown the little one-horse fairs of ten years back. Now the day before the opening of the fair is more than the second used to be. A rule should be made that any article or animal not on the grounds by 4 p. m. of the first day of the fair, shall not be considered by the judges. (Perhaps you could make an exception for the school exhibits.) There is nothing gained by waiting for the tardy ones.

Superintendents of the horse department should collect from each person using a horse stall, two dollars, to be refunded if the horse enters any of the contests for premiums; if not, to be turned over to the society.

Department superintendents must look to the society's interests, act as its agents, not lend or give its badges, so that anyone whosoever can gain admission to the grounds or grand stand. Some life members have abused their privileges by procuring tickets for other parties, the gate keepers not being able to distinguish. It will be a good plan to declare membership forfeited where tickets are so transferred.

There should be some rule as to the number of attendants each exhibitor shall have. Attendants should be furnished with passes good until 9 a. m. If any one has work on the grounds, it must demand his attention by that time. It should be some one's duty, too, to see that parties on the grounds in the morning are furnished with the necessary passes. This year some persons obtained passes for men who worked but one or two hours. A certain man with his horse had two attendants, a driver and the owner. He is still unreconciled because I thought one attendant all I could pass. All employees of the society were compelled to be on the grounds at 7 a. m. There is no reason why others couldn't get there by 9. Complimentary tickets should be good for one person only. To avoid confusion, I would suggest that you establish a separate gate for all passes—life memberships and complimentary. It will cost the price of gate keepers, but will either save room on the grounds for other people or increase your treasurer's receipts. And put in turn tiles to record the number that enter.

I wish to tell you some of the difficulties I have had in leasing privileges on the grounds. You may either censure or stand by and share the responsibility. In accepting this position I realized its duties and have performed them to the best of my ability. On September 1 we were met with a condition, or rather threat; if the society did not do certain things, certain persons would exert themselves to injure the fair. Our fairs were held up to the public as unclean resorts, not fit for respectable people. This was done by people who never supported the organization nor knew its rules. Ministers in this city's churches made statements which many in the audience say were not true. These same ministers never tried to find out the truth. You have on your board twelve residents of Ann Arbor, some of them members of the very churches which censured us. While we may have been in the wrong with regard to what was done on the fair grounds, as citizens we are entitled to honest treatment. Do not understand me as questioning the honesty of those who censured us; I simply wish to show you their course of procedure. They were inclined to place all the blame upon the general superintendent, but by the reports, or rather, lack of reports, and statements from the pulpit on September 8, such gentlemen as Sedgwick Dean and Col. H. S. Dean were included when they came to my assistance. In spite of these statements we read of these same persons advocating Ann Arbor as an excellent place for educating children. The only conclusion I can reach is that some persons wished to create a sensation and get before the public at our expense. Some of these even tried to break up the school program and went to the school board trying to persuade them not to close the schools that the children, as has been customary, might attend the fair. To the credit of the board they investigated matters and voted to close the schools. Previous to this, the parties at the bottom of all this work had made application for a stand to the ground. The privilege was granted on the same terms as to other stands of the same general character. When the time of settlement came they were not yet ready. I requested them to send me a statement and 15 per cent of the receipts before the next Friday, but have not heard from them even yet. This is apparently the class of people who wish to establish a clean fair.

There is yet another class which complains of your rules, claims you are too particular to make the fair a great success. I refer to the cheap jewelers' show and gaming men. I would advise that your next superintendent allow no one stand privilege who is not ready the day before the opening of the fair.

I wish to thank the board for the support you have always given me; to the president and to the chairman of the business committee, Mr. S. Dean. All have been ever ready to do or advise for the good of the society.

F. E. Mills, General Superintendent.

Knights of the Maccabees.

The State Commander writes us from Lincoln, Neb., as follows: "After trying other medicines for what seemed to be a very obstinate cough in our two children, we tried Dr. King's New Discovery and at the end of two days the cough entirely left them. We will not be without it hereafter, as our experience proves that it cures where all other remedies fail."—Signed P. W. Stevens, State Com.—Why not give this great medicine a trial, as it is guaranteed and trial bottles are free at The Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's drug store, and Geo. J. Heussler, Manchester.

How to Make Money.

Mr. Editor:—I read how Mr. Walton made $47 a month. I am only seventeen, but I can beat that. I received a fine outfit from Gray & Cox Columbus, Ohio, for plating gold, silver, nickel and white metal. It was complete, and all materials, formulas, trade secrets, and instructions, they teach their agents. I silver plated a brass ring in five minutes to test it. Made $39 first week plating tableware and jewelry, $65 second, $243 first month. Brother makes $11 a day selling outfits; got all I can do. Anyone can do as well by having good outfit. Hard times can not starve me.
