A VERY UNFAIR STATEMENT

The Argus Prints a Great Table of Expenses for the Past Year and Charges

REPUBLICANS WITH WASTE

And Extravagance, While the Truth is that it Comes as a Legacy From Democratic Officials.

Last week the Ann Arbor Argus published a comparative statement of expenditures for the year ending Oct. 1st 1895, charging the large increase therein over the preceding year, up to the republican officials now in office, and who had been in office only nine months. Nothing could be more unfair, for two reasons.

The first reason is that these expenditures include three months expenses of retiring democratic officials after they knew they were to retire—that sometimes makes a difference

The second reason is that there was an extra session of the board of supervisors in January, and fully one-fourth of the year's bills were allowed and paid which are usually allowed and paid at the next October's session, and which are usually enumerated in the expenses of the year following.

The table given by the Argus starts off with the county clerk, charging him with an expenditure of $1,418.55, when in fact he should be charged with only $900, the balance being for expenses before his time.

The county treasurer's expenses are placed at $1,295.75, when the truth is Mr. Rehfuess has only drawn $750 salary, which, when the year is completed will be a saving of $200 to the county.

In this connection it might be well to remark that of the increase given there is quite a lot to be charged up to extra expense made the county by defalcation of the late democratic incumbent of the treasurer's office, Mr. P. G. Suekey. Several hundred dollars expense, including an extra session of the board of supervisors, is chargeable to that, and surely cannot be rung in as republican extravagance.

The prosecuting attorney's office is made to show an increase of $545. In this increase we find three significant items: A. J. Sawyer, for assisting Prosecuting Attorney T. D. Kearney in the Hand murder trial, $200. Thos. D. Kearney for office rent, $200. M. J. Lehman for office rent, $200. There is $900, which would make the alleged increase a decrease, and there are other items to add which we have not had the time to look up.

The commissioner of schools is charged with $825 increase, when there has been a decrease. The apparent increase comes from the fact that Mr. Cavanaugh's time as commissioner did not expire until July 1st, and consequently three-fourths of the expenses in that item are chargeable to his incumbency.

The supervisors are down for an increase of $1,668.36. As the board is democratic the Argus can not charge that to republican extravagance. But in justice to the board it should be stated that this entire amount comes from the cost of the extra sessions held in January. It was an extra expense to be sure, but one that law provides for, and one the republicans are in no way to blame for.

The deputy sheriffs and justices are charged with nearly $1,000 extra. One reason for this is that three months' services of these officials are paid for which would usually not come in until the following year, and another reason is alleged to be that when these gentlemen, the deputies, found that the people had officially deheaded them they made the most of the time left and ran up bills that were unusually large.

Since writing this article we find that the republican deputy sheriffs have not drawn one cent of the money given in the Argus figures. Every cent of that money, increase and all, was paid to the democratic deputies. No republican extravagance there, my friend.

Another item of "Books, etc.," is charged with an increase of $776.98. Of this account County Clerk Dansingburg's books show that of the $2,819.56 expended, only $563.28 have been expended during his term of office. All the balance is chargeable to democratic extravagance, if there has been any, which this paper does not believe.

There is also a great increase alleged in the sheriff's office. The reason for this is apparent. Mr. Brenner's board and turkey fees constitute the greater share of the figures given, for the books show that up to the 1st of last October Sheriff Judson was paid only $1,385.28 for turkey fees and board bill of prisoners. In this connection might be given a little inside history.

The bills of Sheriff Brenner that were allowed at the October session were marked paid on the treasurer's books before the orders had been drawn. This was done to tide over the Treasurer's shortage and in that way the committee of the supervisors was successfully hoodwinked as to the condition of the treasury. And the increased amount shown in the Argus table includes those bills. We are informed on excellent authority that our genial ex-sheriff had some difficulty in securing his pay by reason of these false entries.

The Soldier's Relief and Burial of old Soldiers accounts are charged with an increase of $321.89. It is but natural that the old soldiers should be falling off rapidly now, but as the Relief Commission is composed of such men as Capt. Manly, F. P. Bogardus and Jas. Kelly, all democrats, the Argus would not accuse them of increasing expenses unnecessarily.

Only $250 is charged up to expert testimony for the year 1893-4, and $100 for the year 1894-5. Wonder what the $500 allowed Dr. Sibbes in the Hand case, was charged up to? It was allowed in 1893-4.

The increase of the sparrow bounty comes from the change in the law allowing the killing of these birds at any time of year, and is money well invested.

Here is a stunner. Contagious diseases comes in for an increase of $1,558.21. This is charged up to the republican account, although over $1400 came from the small pox cases in Manchester of the year previous, and the balance from Ypsilanti, also of the year previous. And both places were then represented by democratic supervisors.

The republicans are charged with an increase of $591.35 for a hog house at the county farm. Well, that is a pretty expensive hog house, but it was built by direction of a democratic board of supervisors, under the supervision of a democratic board of county poor commissioners, and as the Argus made no kick about it after visiting the county farm and taking dinner there with the supervisors recently, we are inclined to think that he believes it to be all right.

There are a number of other minor items, for which the republicans are in no way to blame, and which the above will explain to all fair minded people.

To take the figures the Argus did, and hold the republicans responsible for the increase, is not only unfair, but not good politics, for when the people come to sift the matter, and find out the true status of the case, the attempt to bring discredit upon the republicans, will react upon the Argus' own party.

You can not hold republicans responsible for a year's business when they have only been in office nine months.

Then again the county tax levied this year will be only $20,000 against $25,000 last year. The proof of

SOME MORE PERTINENT FACTS

And Figures Relative to the Equalization and Assessment of This County.

A SUM IN DOUBLE RATIO

Or a "Heads I Win, Tails You Lose," Game as Annually Played in This County of Washtenaw.

The Ypsilanti Sentinel man criticizes the Courier for "jumping on the Supervisors," as he terms it, for "raising the apportionment of the cities and lowering that of the townships," after securing the printing of the board.

Perhaps the Courier errs in that respect. Perhaps it should wait until the printing of the proceedings is awarded to some other paper, and then be accused of saying what it has to say because of ill-feeling toward the board that would lend its arguments strength, would it? But does not the fact that the Courier makes its criticism under such circumstances prove that it is in earnest in what it has to say, and believes itself to be in the right? And that it is not influenced by public pap?—if this can be so termed.

The Sentinel gives a lot of figures to prove that the county tax is no higher in the city than in the county on a $1,000 assessment. No one said it was. If the Sentinel will read the Courier article over again it may ascertain the fact that the assertion is made and proven that the amount of taxes paid on $1,000 assessment is more than twice as much in the city as it is in the county towns. Our figures were taken directly from the assessment rolls.

If equal justice is done by all, there should not be so much difference between properties of equal value because of location. We claim, without fear of contradiction, that there are hundreds of farms in this county, upon which a man and his family derive all their living and income, which pays only $7 or $8 tax, while the home of the city resident, that does not bring in a cent of income, on the contrary is a continual source of expense but is a necessity for his family's existence, pays from $14 to $36 tax each year, to which is added from $10 to $15 water tax, and from $5 to $10 for insurance. What the Courier claims is that there ought not to be such a difference in what a citizen has to pay on property placed on the assessment rolls at the same value, because one is in the city and the other in the country. It farther claims that the city property is placed nearer its cash value than the country property on the assessment roll.

A table of percentage is given by the Sentinel as evidence that the cities should be added to every year and the townships diminished. If the percentage proves anything it proves that the assessed valuation in the city is too high as compared with most of the townships—there may be exceptions.

Perhaps the Courier can show that Ann Arbor property is assessed higher than it is in the country.

Here are a few instances:

The Franklin hotel property, at the corner of W. Huron and Ashley st., sold a few days since at private sale, with no necessity for selling on the part of the owner, for $4,500. It is assessed for $5,500.

The property at the corner of E. Ann and N. Division st., sold a few years ago for $5,500. It was assessed at $6,000.

Two houses and lots at the corner of E. William and Maynard st., are assessed at $7,500, and the owner has repeatedly offered them for $6,500.

A one-half interest in the Masonic block was purchased a few years ago for $18,000, just the amount for which it is assessed.

These are pieces located in different parts of the city, and all good locations, and are not exceptionally poor cases. In fact, they represent some of the best business and resident property in Ann Arbor.

Neither are these quoted to find fault with the assessor, but to prove that the property in this city is assessed at near the cash value, as possible, as the law says it shall be assessed. In fact that our assessor lives up to the law if others do not.

If the Sentinel knows of any property here worth $10,000 which is assessed for only $5,500, it will do a favor to our assessor and our citizens by making it public. Of course, when a person does not care to sell, he sometimes puts a fancy price on his property.

That the assessment in the county of recent years may be compared we give the increase and decrease of the assessed valuation in the county for the past two years:

	Increase.	Decrease
Ann Arbor City.....	$1,153,653
Ann Arbor Town.....		$ 84,375
Augusta.....		4,100

" city, 1st.....		7,250
" " 2d.....
Total.....	$1,711,653	$469,440

It will be seen by these figures that the cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti furnish $1,291,208 of the increase, while twelve out of twenty towns show a continued decrease in the past two years.

For the ten years preceding 1894 every township in the county had reduced its assessed—not equalized—valuation. The table is as follows:

	Increase.	Decrease
Ann Arbor City.....	$797,870
Ann Arbor Town.....		$188,595
Augusta.....		21,839
Bridgewater.....		88,300

" city, 1st.....		37,690
" " 2d.....
Total.....	$1,069,079	$3,029,885

The Sentinel in a princely manner flings the question aside because the amounts added each year to the city are such trifles. Even in that it is not fair because in order to add to the city's tax the same amount is taken from the townships. So it really amounts to double the Sentinel's figures. Then you know it is the single stones laid one upon another that builds the temple. Single drops of water compose the mighty sea. And these trifles have been accumulating upon one side and decreasing upon the other for lo, these many years.

Since this practice commenced in the year 1883, there have been $5,863,000 taken off the townships in equalized valuation and $1,698,000 added to Ann Arbor City, and some $300,000 added to Ypsilanti's 1st district. Within the same length of time the assessed valuation of the townships has been decreased $3,475,765, the assessed valuation of the city of Ann Arbor increased $1,951,528, and in Ypsilanti $419,200, or a total of $2,370,728, a difference of $5,846,493!!

Here is another table giving the changes in the equalized valuation for the past year:

	Increase.	Decrease
Ann Arbor City.....	$100,000
Ann Arbor Town.....		$5,000
Bridgewater.....		8,000
Dexter.....		15,000
Freedom.....		15,000

Superior.....		8,000

York.....		7,000
Ypsilanti town.....		50,000
" city district.....
Total.....	$150,000	$150,000

The townships of Augusta, Sylvan and the 2d district of Ypsilanti received none of the "divy."

There was no change in 1894, because the change in the mortgage tax law of the state lost the assessment roll of this city some $800,000, and we presume a proportionate amount in Ypsilanti city also. It was very considerably thought to be a sufficient raise for one year.

These are the facts as given by the supervisor's own record. If they do not show the Courier conclusions as being correct, then we have erred in judgment, that's all.

The election of Rev. G. Mott Williams as Bishop of the new diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, including the upper peninsula, and called the diocese of Marquette, is a worthy promotion of a worthy man.

Mr. Lincoln was wise when he used to give so much consideration to the border states. They have been slow in living up to his good opinion of them, but they are getting there at last, and the democratic party no longer controls their destinies.

A Plymouth man has a standing offer so it is said, of $2,000,000 for a perpetual motion machine of his invention. If the offer is able to stand alone, the inventor of the impossible device ought to seize it without hesitation.—Fenton Independent.

Among the daily papers of America, Chicago has reason to feel proud of her Inter-Ocean. It is up with the times in everything. In cartoons there are none better, and in gathering the news and presenting it in an entertaining manner it has no superior.

The famous Bob Ingersoll is said to have once remarked in a joking manner that "he would believe in hell when Kentucky should go republican." Now some of his friends are trying to enforce this promise. It is altogether probable that the genial infidel meant Texas instead of Kentucky.

The Turks are continuing their bloody work of exterminating the Armenians, and their cruelty was never exceeded even in the darkest days of the Dark Ages, or of the Inquisition. It is a terrible blot upon the civilized nations of the earth that the close of the 19th century should witness such horrible barbarity.

Only three of the eight members of Cleveland's cabinet—Herbert, Smith and Wilson—now represent democrats, and the number would be still smaller if an election had been held this year in West Virginia. In fact West Virginia is a republican state already. It's four congressmen are republicans, and their aggregate plurality was about 13,000.

The Lieutenant Governor of California recently died, and there is no provision in the constitution or laws of the state for filling the vacancy. Accordingly, the governor has appointed a man to the place under his general authority to fill vacancies, and this unusual proceeding on his part will probably be allowed to stand because there is no legal way to undo it.

The Parisian papers are making a good deal of fun of the appointment of M. Berthelot as Foreign Minister, because he is known only as a scientific student. He claims to have discovered a chemical process of creating artificiality, in exactly the same purity as the original growth, such products as sugar, tea, coffee, tobacco, indigo, and so on, at a comparatively small cost; and he certainly deserves any office in the gift of France with exemption from newspaper derision on account of his alleged ignorance of politics.

The proper thing for the democratic party to do is to secure the services of Schlatter, the Denver divine healer, and be touched by him. The touch of the people does not appear to have a beneficial effect upon its existence.

It is to be hoped that the rebellion in Cuba will not only cost Spain the loss of that island, but also place her in a prostrate condition financially. Her tyranny and that of the Turks have no place in this age of the world and neither nation deserves to exist.

Well, we have all recently contributed to endow the University of Chicago with another million dollars. John D. Rockefeller handed over the collateral, but every one of us who uses a gallon of kerosene contributed our mite to the fund.—Fenton Independent.

It is to be hoped that the government will continue to furnish funds for the sustenance of the Indian school at this place, for, laying aside all religious bigotry and hide-boundness, it is a blessing to our Indian children. Would to God that there were displayed all over the world even half the humanity that there is in that institution.—Harbor Springs Republican.

It is pleasing to note that the law relative to protecting young girls under 16 years of age from the lecherous and wicked acts of men both old and young, is being rigorously enforced in many parts of the state. When it is found that a term in prison awaits the destroyer of these young girls' lives—for that is what it amounts to—the practice will in a measure cease.

Japan's population of 45,000,000, which is almost a unit in general characteristics, gives it an advanced place among the powerful nations of the earth. The British empire, including its English colonies, and Germany are but little more populous and can hardly be called more patriotic. Japan owes this country a great debt for breaking through the wall secluded it from the world.

President Gorton of the State Agricultural College having been summarily dismissed by the authorities, his friends are coming to the front, and charging unfair treatment, etc. The applicants for the position are many, among the number being Prof. F. W. Arbury, for a number of years superintendent of schools at Battle Creek, and a graduate of the University, Mt. '82. He would make a most excellent man for the place.

According to the annual report of the commissioner of education, the number of pupils enrolled in the schools and colleges, public and private, of the United States is more than 22 per cent of the population. The highest figure attained by any other country in recent years is a fraction within 20 per cent, and the land thus distinguished strange to say is Ireland. Next after Ireland come Prussia, England, Canada, Scotland, Belgium, France, Austria and Holland in the order named; and following these, but at a considerable distance, Spain, Italy, Mexico, Russia and Turkey. In nearly every country there is now a compulsory school law, but in none is it rigorously and successfully enforced.

One of the leading shipbuilders in England says there can be no such thing as a finality in the speed of vessels, and he expects to see it rapidly increased within a few years. Eighteen years ago the fastest craft afloat could make only twenty-one and a-half knots an hour, but now, by the use of triple compound engines and high boiler pressures, the latest torpedo boats are doing over thirty knots an hour. The employment of water-tube boilers will probably carry this to thirty-five knots. The ocean liners have reached a steady rate of twenty-one knots an hour, and increased steam pressure with reduced weight may be counted on for an increase of several knots within the next decade. There is always the possibility of important new discoveries and inventions in machinery and the application of power. This experienced builder, therefore, feels confident that the ocean greyhounds will continue to improve their record indefinitely, and that no reason exists why they may not eventually run as fast as the flying torpedo boats.

Feeding Potatoes to Sheep.

I see by a late Michigan Farmer, that C. M. Gaylord inquires in regard to feeding potatoes to sheep and seems to doubt if it will do to feed them to breeding ewes. As I have had experience in that direction, it may be of value to some of the readers of the Farmer. About 1877 I found myself with a small elephant on my hands in the shape of 1,000 bushels of potatoes. After selling a few at 10 cents a bushel, I decided to feed the balance to my sheep. I procured a strong box, made a maul for a masher and mashed them instead of cutting, which put them in the best possible condition to feed. I fed straw almost altogether till March, with a light feed of corn, which I fed with the potatoes, by which means the corn was more equally distributed than it would have been if fed alone. About March I increased the feed of potatoes, and from that time fed clover hay once a day. I never had ewes go through the winter in nicer shape. Not one out of a hundred died, and from 94 Merino ewes I put into winter quarters the following fall 96 lambs, with not a scrub among them—the best success I ever had in raising lambs, and I gave the potatoes credit for it in a large degree. I might say that during the lambing season I fed a little bran with the corn and potatoes. I think no better use can be made of 10 or 15 cent potatoes than to feed them to breeding ewes. If you think this worth a place in the Farmer, you can use it. J. EVANS SMITH, Washtenaw Co.

Mr. Smith is a veteran sheep-breeder, and his personal experience is certainly valuable for farmers with a big lot of potatoes on hand and a flock of sheep. We doubt if there is any kind of live stock on the farm to which cheap potatoes can not be fed with advantage. For sheep and cattle they should not be cooked, for logs and poultry they should be. The nutritive value of the potato, as ascertained by chemical analysis, is far from representing its true value when fed to man or animals. They exercise a beneficial effect upon the animal economy, and aid the digestibility of other foods given with them, such as corn meal, Middlings mixed with cooked potatoes and fed a little warm, will make as good pork, and grow it as quickly, as any other feed. Damaged flour, barley or oat meal, bean or pea meal, are equally as good as middlings, and the potatoes keep the digestive organs in good shape, and render such heavy food more easily assimilated. In feeding them uncooked to cattle or sheep, Mr. Smith's plan of mashing them, and mixing with corn meal, is as good a plan as can be followed, and the feed will be more fully digested than if the meal is fed alone.—Michigan Farmer.

The democratic papers are making a great howl about the increase of state taxes every year. In looking over their own figures we find that the terribly economical administration of Gov. Winans in 1891 cost the people $180,065.61 more than that of Gov. Luce of the year preceding, and $241,651.94 more than that of Alger in 1886. Perhaps it is the truth that the state is growing, that there were 147,565 more people in Michigan in 1894 than there were in 1890, and 387,796 more than 1886. Perhaps also, if Gov. Winans administration had not put the $700,000 received back from the general government to the credit of the current expense without any warrant for so doing, the last year of his administration would have cost the people over two millions of dollars.

The November Arena has an interesting article from Ex-Gov. James M. Ashley's pen, on "The Impending Political Advance." In his discussion of the inadvisability of having a vice president elected and of how to prevent frauds in electing a president without a change in the constitution, he gives many reminiscences and strong argument. One of the best points made is for a modification of the presidential veto power so that a majority vote of the members of both houses may pass a bill over the veto. We think it is a matter of grave doubt about the advantage of electing the president and senators by direct vote of the people, for the present way affords better safeguards against sudden outbursts of popular indignation which carry the masses off their feet and makes them do things they afterwards regret, as for instance, was the case in 1892, when they put in power a set of fellows who killed their country's prosperity by their ruinous free trade theories. As soon as the resultant panic came, their eyes were opened and they wished they had not had such power. It is a good thing to have the senate a stable body not too closely swayed by all the vagaries which sweep over the country such as the greenback, the populist, and free silver crazes.

Our contemporary, the Ann Arbor Courier, strongly advocates the abolishment of the county board of supervisors, and in their place have a county board of auditors or commissioners. In other words, he wants the same service performed by a body of men called by another name.—Wayne Review. Our friend only grasps a portion of the proposition, and a small portion at that.

The Rawsonville post office is to be discontinued, and mail directed there will be sent to Deleville after Nov. 15. This action is necessary because no one will serve as postmaster. An effort is being made by some of the patrons to find some one who will do the work for the magnificent salary of say $40 per year. If they succeed the office will be continued.—Ypsilanti Commercial. There is surely an opportunity for glory and patriotism. It is a great honor to be able to write P. M. after one's name.

S. F. Smith, D. D., of Newton, Mass., the venerable author of the national hymn "America," died at Boston, Saturday, while he was awaiting the arrival of a train. He was 87 years of age, and was born and had always lived in Newton. He was a poet, author, linguist, and had traveled a great deal. The American people should erect to his memory a noble monument, with "America" inscribed thereon. It should be a free gift from every child and person in this country, even if the subscription should not be over one penny from each. Why would not a penny collection from all the schools and Sunday schools and people be the thing to secure for this purpose?

The contrast between disease and health is as sharply marked as that between darkness and light. The sufferings of disease make enjoyment of life impossible and perfect health makes even a commonplace existence a bright and happy one.

The truest thing about disease is that most of it is needless. Nine-tenths of it can be subdued by very simple remedies. Even that most dreadful malady, consumption, can be cured in 95 cases out of a hundred, if it be treated in its early stages with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Consumption is a disease caused by impurity of the blood, and the first thing to be done in its treatment is to make the blood pure, rich and wholesome. That is half the battle. The other half is the impregnation of the blood with cleansing, healing, invigorating medicines. The "Golden Medical Discovery" does both. It first puts the whole digestive system into perfect order, rids it of all impurities and from the vantage ground so gained, reaches out to every fiber of the body and restores all to perfect vigor. It cures many diseases, simply because many diseases, spring from a set of common causes. The same disorder may lead to different symptoms in different people. What might be only a little indigestion in one person, may combine with a slight cold in another and result in consumption. A treatment that tones up the whole system is always the safest. A medicine that is good for the general health is pretty sure to cure ordinary diseases. Twenty-one cents in stamps sent to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., will bring a large 1000 page doctor book, it contains photographs and letters from hundreds who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

THIS IS THE LAST LETTER.

From Our Wheel Correspondent Who Has Been Doing Europe, and it is A Good One, Too.

Dear Mr. Editor:

The eternal city was 50 miles away when I closed my last letter. I did not tell, did I, how we went swimming in the Mediterranean? We did at 10 o'clock one moonlight night when we rode so near the sea that the sirens out on their reef, and the mermaids on the imaginary dolphin's back, and the murmuring, lapping waves on the hungry beach all allured us and we left our wheels and crawled down the black rocks to the Leo of dry seaweed which the tide had left and the sun had dried. But 'sharks!' you exclaim. Oh, yes, but we had forgotten about them and they weren't at home. It was a glorious swim.

HARD ROADS TO TRAVEL.

We reached Civita Vecchia that right and after getting into the slums of the city and being fairly mobbed by the roughest element in Italy, we found a respectable lodging and slept. Early in the morning we started on to make Rome that morning. The famous old Aurelian Way was our road, and at first in the dawning hour with the sea by our side, and the black rocks with slimy seaweed, now a charming villa and again an old ruin, we thought our woes were over but we soon left the sea, rocks and villas and entered upon the barren Roman Campagna. The dust was terrible, the heat "terribilissimi" and hills unintermittent. The land near Rome waves into huge billows and they break at last in the sever historic hills. Hill after hill we toiled up, coasted for a brief moment and then struggled up again. Sisyphus and the stone he rolled up hill, which always rolled down again, isn't a parallel to the actual fact of pushing a bicycle up the hills in the infernal plains about Rome. Sweat rolled from us until our veins seemed to be as dry as the dust about us. There was no water to be had. No houses, no towns, no ruins—even they had vanished from that forlorn region—no people; all we could see on the horizon was St. Peter's dome and that seemed a mirage, so long we were in reaching it. The man who wrote poetry about this campaign deserves the lowest round in Dante's purgatory. We wished more than once that the geese had not saved Rome. We had for the first time implicit faith in the Romulus and Remus and the wolf story. Nothing but a she wolf would abide in such desolation and she would take care of the boys just for sociability. These are the thoughts we indulged in before seeing the city but the last hill was climbed and the Niohe of nations was before us. We shouted for joy and thrilled with triumph. We felt as great, as proud, and as exalted as ever Caesar returning from his victories. The marble wilderness was ours; belonged to our eyes at least.

THE ETERNAL CITY.

Battle flood, time and fire have worked upon the city's wonders; so too the Vandal and the Christian; but where they have obliterated a work of art, they have left history, romance and legend until memory and imagination are overwhelmed by the demands upon them. But I should be writing in blank verse if I continued this strain long. You know what we saw in Rome. One without imagination would see little more than a quarry in the Forum, three huge old water tanks in the Pantheon and Coliseum and Mausoleum of Hadrian, and an old church with about half a mile of useless columns in a circle around the front dooryard, would adequately describe St. Peter's for him. Well we had imagination and we grew poetic, bombastic and eloquent at proper times.

We got ambitious and ascended St. Peter's dome and you aren't very far from the owners of Golden Gate when you are at the top. The guide book makes you chase around after a lot of fountains, and old remains of walls. Then we did the Sistine chapel, a room like a huge coffin box and fully as dark and gruesome, but with some of the world's rarest art gems painted upon its walls. Likewise the Vatican and its sculpture and painting.

Our hotel in Rome, when the name and situation are translated, was the "Hotel of the Sun," in the piazza of Paradise. Now when we were driven out of Paradise we went to Naples and that is

THE DEVIL'S OWN CITY.

After getting our bikes on board the "Werra," the boat on which we were to return to America, we spent a day in Naples. We had made a duty deposit on our wheels when we entered Italy and were to get it back when we should leave. Such a time as we had getting that money. Every custom house officer told us to go to somebody else and at last I was ordered to get the signature of an officer who was somewhere in the bay of Naples. There were only 5,000 boats and ships there. I got the service of an oarsman who knew the officer and we started upon our quest. He rowed around every individual boat in Naples but we did not find the officer. Then I became desperate and told a head officer at the custom house that it was an outrage to dally so about a plain matter and I made some vague threats about the U. S. consul. Thereupon he signed my paper, which he might have done 3 hours before, and I received my money. Then we began sight-seeing. In Naples that consists chiefly in watching the people. Boys as old as twelve roll in the dirt, naked in the street. Older boys have a rag which passes over the shoulder and holds up a pair of trousers which have neither definite division for the legs nor the completeness of a skirt. In Naples your business is everybody's business. If you turn a corner some one runs and grasps your shoulder and with frantic gesticulations informs you that that isn't the way. "The way to what?" you ask. "Why to where you are going." "But I am not going anywhere," you reply. "Well that isn't the way anyhow." In the early morning on the following day we saw milkmen going around with cans and goats and milking them before the doors of customers. Gladly we escaped the dirt, vice and annoyances of Naples and boarded the tender which soon conveyed us to the "Werra."

ON THE DEEP BLUE SEA.

From the deck as the boat left the bay we took a last look at Vesuvius smoking tranquilly in the distance. We passed the Isle of Capri and soon, except the faint blue of the mountainous coast, there was nothing but that marvelous scintillating blue of the Mediterranean all about us. Night came and passed and with the dawn we began to see the faint line of that beautiful Riviera, the coast which flanks Genoa east and west. Soon we were entering the bay amid a forest of masts and a wilderness of cranes and through the web of cordage we could see Genoa with its white buildings and dirt. It is built upon a mountain-side and from the sea looks like half of a great amphitheatre. There we lay three days and with the ship as our stronghold we, in company with two other American boys, made sallies up into Genoa where we saw Columbus' monument and innumerable palaces and made life a burden for hackmen, whom we never intended to patronize but with whom we haggled and bartered then decided not to indulge, to their disgust. Then the hour of departure, and throng of fat and greasy Genoese came to the wharf to see their friends in the steamer sail. We got out to sea at mid-day, and that evening—could you endure the description of

JUST ONE MORE SUNSET?

As the sun disappeared the whole sea from the horizon to the vessel's side had a robe of gold. Above this was a red stained cloud. Then almost magically the golden robe was withdrawn and soon was enchantingly spread. This in time seemed torn into strips and between the lines of gold were lines of cerulean blue. Finally the wind seemed to blow away the gilded film and that soft Mediterranean blue lay like a richly brocaded silk. In the sky there was a gold rayed fan upon which colors came and went as if vibrations of the pendulum of beauty. There, it was not so bad; or did you skip it?

We passed the Balearic Islands with their rocky, seamed and convoluted cliffs. The shore looks as crude as if just from the Creator's hand. Then the coast of Spain, a stern and rocky succession of headland's, presenting a dark, rude and forbidding shore and behind were snow capped mountains. Africa too was sighted at last; a long low shore rising just opposite Gibraltar to a mountain peak. Gibraltar itself is a stupendous rock which we approached from the rear and then rounded to where we saw the long stone seawall and the white and yellow houses above it, on above burned vegetations and at the summit the broken ledge of the lofty ridge. The boat stopped five or six hours there and then

SET SAIL FOR AMERICA.

We began to make acquaintances and worried out the creeping hours studying them. There was a lady who wanted a "price list of the passengers" and whose sympathy went out to the steward in the following beautiful phrase "I should think the waiters would get tired a brin of grubs to the womins." Then the lady faced innocent man who isn't helpless at all, but insists that he is. He had crossed a dozen times and yet couldn't sleep nights for fear the boat was going down. He wondered why the motion of the screw wasn't utilized for making ice cream or butter. "All it does now is to make this boat go," he added, naively. A great cause of the sea was the water in it; so he wisely concluded. This fellow was always "surprised" and "dead with fright" at every new event on board. He called all the men waiters "Marys" and some "qucer Marys." He had lived everywhere for years and when we passed among the Azores he described his dwelling in each village that we sighted on the island shores. Then there was the ship's hand which tortured us from morn till dewy eve. They did not mind whether they were in time as long as they made noise enough. I must tell how there were four women and two parrots in one state room, and then set my friend and myself safely on land, thank you for watching our travels with kindly interest and close.

C. H. VAN TYNE.

A Letter From Mr. Foster.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 8, '05. To the Editor of Courier:

I see there has been considerable discussion in the papers concerning Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm and the wonderful success it has met with. One writer says that the ingenious chemist of Dayton, O., has taken up with the idea that camphors carry wonderful healing properties. Another writer says he got the idea from a French savant of the seventeenth century. Perhaps I can throw a little more light on this interesting subject. Raspail, a French chemist, born at Carpentear, and the creator of organic chemistry, in 1835, adopted the theory that disease is most frequently condoned by internal or external parasites, and fixed upon camphor as the best general agent for destroying them, which he prepared and sold first in the form of cigarettes, afterwards in the form of a salve. No matter where the Dayton Chemist got the idea he has prepared a great remedy for catarrh of the nasal passages. Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm certainly kills the parasites, if they exist, and heals the diseased membranes. The sores and sores in the throat and head are quickly healed and the disagreeable choking sensation which accompanies catarrh is stopped at once. Pretzinger's is a catarrh healer. Everybody in Port Huron uses it and we have lots of catarrh here. I unhesitatingly recommend it to every sufferer from this disease. Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm is not a secret remedy at all. Everybody knows that it contains the camphors that are the cause of its great curative properties, and I for one will only be too glad to have Mr. Pretzinger make lots of money out of it. It is a good thing to push it along. E. M. FOSTER.

A small sample can be had by sending a two-cent stamp to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, Ohio.

Andrew Mitchell, the celebrated chemist, formerly professor in chemistry in the University of Michigan, writes: I have made a careful examination of Gessler's Magic Headache wafers and find them free from Antipyrine, Quinine, Morphine Chloral or any harmful narcotics. I cheerfully recommend them for headache and neuralgia. Physicians and druggists everywhere say they are the only remedy we have ever found that will positively cure where all others failed. 25 cents at A. E. Mummary's.

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Kesty Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours truly, C. W. HONKTON.

Harper's Weekly

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a journal for the whole country. It deals with the events of the world that are important to Americans. In carrying out this policy, in 1895, JULIAN RALPH visited China and Japan, and journeyed through the West. RICHARD H. DAVIS took a trip through the Caribbean Sea; the evolutions of the new navy were described and illustrated by RUFUS F. ZOGRAFF; FREDERIC REMINGTON presented studies of Army and Frontier life; POULZENY BIGELOW attended the opening of the Kiel Canal.

In 1896 like attention will be given every happening. The chief events in art, literature, and music and the drama will be artistically presented. W. D. HOWELLS, in the new department, Life and Letters, will discuss in his interesting way books and the social questions of the time. E. S. MARTIN'S sprightly gossip of the Busy World will be continued. The progress of the Transportation Commission around the world will be followed, and CASPAR W. WHITNEY will conduct the department of Amateur Sport.

In 1896 will occur a presidential election. In its editorials and through its political cartoons the WEEKLY will continue to be an independent advocate of good government and sound money.

In fiction the WEEKLY will be especially strong. It will publish the only novel of the year by W. D. HOWELLS, and a stirring serial of a Scotch feud, by S. R. CROCKETT. The short stories selected are of unusual excellence and interest. In every respect HARPER'S WEEKLY will maintain its leading place in the illustrated journalism of the world.

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of payment of a certain mortgage made the thirtieth day of March, A. D. 1895 by George S. Nixon to George M. Clark to secure payment of a part of the purchase price of the lands and tenements therein and herein mentioned, whereby the power of sale therein contained has become operative, which mortgage was recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, on the thirtieth day of March aforesaid in Liber 81 of Mortgages, on page 168, and which mortgage was duly assigned by the mortgagee to the undersigned by deed of assignment dated the fourteenth day of July, A. D. 1895, which deed of assignment was recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds aforesaid on the seventh day of November, 1895, in Liber 12 of assignment of mortgages of page 259, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of five hundred and twenty-two dollars, and no proceedings at law or in equity having been instituted to collect the said sum of money or any part thereof. Notice is therefore hereby given that on the 15th day of February, A. D. 1896, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the south front door of the Court House, in the city of Ann Arbor, State of Michigan, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and lands and tenements by the said mortgage conveyed will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder to satisfy the principal and interest secured thereby and the cost and expenses of these proceedings, including a reasonable attorney's fee provided for therein.

The lands tenements and premises in the said mortgage mentioned and then and there to be sold are described as follows: "All that certain parcel of land situated in the city of Ann Arbor, being a part of the north-east quarter of section No. thirty, in Town Two, south of range six east, state of Michigan, bounded as follows, to-wit: Beginning on the south line of Huron Street at a point twenty rods westerly of the east line of said section, which point is also the north-easterly corner of lands formerly occupied by Ira Allen, and running thence southerly parallel with the east line of said section, twelve rods; Thence easterly parallel with Huron street, eight rods; Thence northerly parallel with the east line of said section, two rods to Huron street; Thence westerly along Huron street to the place of beginning."

A Guild That Makes Things Hum.

The annual meeting of the Needlework Guild was held on Friday last at the residence of the president, Mrs. Perry, 61 E. Washington st. About 50 were present. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Cushman showing that $20 garments were contributed last year and 1,031 this year. It was thought the number could be made up to 1,100, in which case the Guild could stand as a city branch in the annual report to the parent guild at Philadelphia. For this as well as other obvious reasons all delinquents were requested to send in their garments as soon as possible.

In the absence of the treasurer Mrs. Perry reported a bill of $3.15 for secretary's books and leaflets paid and the Guild out of debt. A little money is needed every year for directors' and section presidents' blanks, a dollar a year is ample.

Mrs. Perry made a few remarks on the work and spirit of the Guild, especially noting the cheerfulness with which the donations were made, and the large results of organized effort. She urged the officers to use no undue influence to secure members, but to keep the offerings voluntary. She made a few suggestions for next year and thanked the society for its support and enthusiasm.

Mrs. Angell, the honorary president, spoke in a most pleasing manner of the substantial value of this work and of the value to its members in bringing such members together on common ground to work for a common cause. She thought the Master was touching the hearts of the people in this work.

About 100 families were reported as needing help, 900 garments have already been distributed and a few are reserved to be given out later at the discretion of the president. The garments were assorted and placed on exhibition and the 1,000 new garments made a very excellent display. The collection was composed of good, useful articles and very wisely selected, which shows that it is not necessary to advise in regard to it.—Daily Times.

The Engineers Alright.

Prof. Greene's lecture before the Unity Club Monday evening, upon Engineering and Engineering Schools, was greatly enjoyed by the audience. One would have supposed that the subject would be dry and uninteresting, but as handled by Prof. Greene, it was interesting and instructive from beginning to end. Prof. Greene showed very clearly that we do not realize how much we owe to the engineers for our comfort and progress. He made the engineering the fourth learned profession, and showed that the engineer is quite as potent a factor in modern civilization and progress as the doctor, the lawyer or the clergyman. The audience Monday evening was not quite as large as usual, Tribby, with her beautiful and poetical feet being evidently more attractive to the average citizen—though the play was not any too well patronized—than the practical and prosy subject of engineering.

Thou Shalt Not Kill—

Out of season, and as this is the season when killing is allowable, it may be of interest to sportsmen to know what the law is in regard to it, so that they may keep out of the clutches of the game warden:

Section 12, Public Acts of 1891, reads as follows: "No person or persons shall kill, capture or destroy, or attempt to kill, capture or destroy, any ruffed grouse, sometimes called partridge, or pheasant, except from the first day of November to the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each year; or any colin or quail, sometimes called Virginia partridge, save only from the first day of November to the fifteenth day of December, inclusive, in each year. Provided, that in the Upper Peninsula, partridge, or ruffed grouse, may be killed from the first day of October to the first day of January, inclusive, each year."

Build the South Wing—

A prominent citizen and one very much interested in the success and welfare of our public schools, said to the writer, a day or two since: "In my opinion, the most sensible thing for this school district to do is to build a wing upon the south side of the high school building and have it devoted entirely to school and recitation rooms. In this way the entire 7th and 8th grades, belonging to the grammar department could be accommodated in this central building, as they should be, and the ward schools thus relieved."

Besides relieving the ward schools and providing room that is absolutely necessary, it would be an ornament to the central building, relieving it of its present one-sided effect.

"What do you think about it?" he asked. Not being prepared to answer, but remarking that the idea certainly seemed a very sensible one, we lay the proposition before our readers for what it is worth. But is it not a sensible proposition?"

Prefers Hades to Yale—

At the meeting of Christian Workers in New Haven, Conn., last Thursday, the wife of Rev. E. M. Poteat, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of that city, gave Yale college this magnificent(?) send off:

"I would as soon send a son of mine to hell as to Yale college. I make this statement before the newspaper reporters, and I would make it to President Dwight himself."

She said she had seen many Christian young men ruined at Yale. The first year they were good, the second they had pipes in their mouths, and the third they had disappeared.

Being a resident of the city where Yale is located, she probably knows whereof she speaks.

The Great Masonic Exposition—

The preparations for the big Masonic fair and exposition which is to be held in the new Masonic temple, Lafayette ave. and First st., Detroit, Nov. 25 to Dec. 7, have in the past week rapidly approached completion. Col. Lou Burt of the entertainment committee announces that he has secured for his department Prof. Streudell, the master of electrical appliances, who is considered a wonder even among electricians. In this department the professor will illustrate the progress of electricity during the century and show how even nature can be duplicated from dewy morn until eve by electrical appliances. He has also secured Miss Hortense Van Zile, the distinguished daughter of Judge Van Zile, for dramatic readings.

Geo. W. Fowle this week received a letter from Isabuzzel Pasha, of Stamboul, conveying the information that the goods and people ordered from Turkey had been shipped by two steamers and would certainly arrive in time for the fair. He also announced that in the Turkish harem, which was to form one of the main features of the Oriental fairland, an even 100 of the most beautiful maidens of Detroit would be present. The committee on program and souvenir, of which Hon. F. B. Dickerson is the chairman, has prepared a souvenir plate on which a picture of the temple is reproduced in repoussé, a program which contains the history of Masonry in Michigan, with interesting information and an official daily bulletin which will be distributed free to all at the fair. Chairman W. E. Barker, of the Council of Administration, says that there is no doubt about the new temple being ready in time for the great fair and exposition. All indications point to a most successful dedication, so to speak, of the new temple.

Until Jan 1st., J. F. Schuh's of rice and shop will be at No. 37 S. Main st., up stairs over Lindenschmitt & Apfel's. Special attention will be paid to plumbing and heating contracts. Also sewer and water connections.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

For more than a hundred years the Shakers have been studying the remedial properties of plants. They have made many discoveries, but their greatest achievement was made last year. It is a cordial that contains already digested food and is a digester of food. It is effective in removing distress after eating, and creates an appetite for more food so that it becomes a pleasure. Pale, thin people become plump and healthy under its use. It arrests the wasting of consumption.

There never has been such a step forward in the cure of indigestion as this Shaker Cordial. Your druggist will be glad to give you a little book descriptive of the product.

Rev. E. D. Kelly performed a ceremony at St. Thomas' parsonage last Thursday evening, that united in marriage the lives of Mr. Herman Pipp and Miss Kittie Irwin, both of this city. The couple will receive the congratulations of many friends here in Ann Arbor.

The complaints that come from people obliged to travel the streets that have been torn up this fall for the sewers, is something horrible to listen to occasionally. A teamster had his horse sink down in one of the holes so that it took several hours to dig him out recently, and a man driving in with a load of potatoes got mired in one of the holes, had a wheel smashed, and it cost him more to get in traveling condition again, than he got for his potatoes. The mounted mail carriers say they have to be pretty expert with the reins to keep their rigs above ground. Isn't there something wrong in this?

Listen to this now from the Northville Record: "The Freshmen's pranks hallowe'en night at Ann Arbor, sent the earthquake and cyclone possibilities so far in the shade that no danger from these sources will ever be feared. A city that lived through what Ann Arbor did on that night will give Gabriel a hard tussle to disturb." We will wager a box of cigars that there was no more disturbance here on that night than there was in Northville, the two places being taken into consideration.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

It was an immense crowd that assembled at University Hall to greet the Thomas' Orchestra last evening. There was not a vacant seat, the aisles were filled and many stood during the concert. That our people are interested in music and in the Choral Union course was amply proven by such an attendance on such a night, for the elements were on quite a lark, the wind and the rain and the snow uniting to make it disagreeable. They were well repaid for their enthusiasm, for the concert was a success from an artistic standpoint, the difficult pieces of the masters being rendered with great precision and expression.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

The Saline Observer says of the new Corn Husker and Fodder Shredder: "This machine is making a great change in the manner of handling the corn crop. Two thirds of the value of the entire corn plant is in the fodder. When it is shredded as soon as the corn is fit to crib it equals in value the best of tame hay, and as the machine husks the corn at the same time, it results in a great saving to the farmer."

The Grass Lake News signs for a few crumples in this way: "What Lake really needs is a smash-ahead foot ball team. There's not a boy in town with a barked shin or a sore head. This won't do, you know. Monotony of this kind will kill the town. Look at Toledo! Two footballers there broke their legs last week, and one in Racine had his elbow put out of joint. But here in Grass Lake we haven't even an organization."

NO MORE RHEUMATISM

Sheriff Howe Cured of Rheumatism by Dr. Greene's Nervura.

No One Need Longer Suffer from Rheumatism or Neuralgia. Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy Always Cures.

SHERIFF E. W. HOWE.

Half the world suffers from pains and aches when there is not the slightest reason for so doing. Headache is alarmingly frequent and leads to serious results. Backache is most common and keeps thousands in misery. Neuralgia pains of side and chest torment myriads of victims. All this suffering is caused by a weakness, irritation or diseased condition of the nerves and blood, is entirely unnecessary, and can easily be cured.

Sheriff E. W. Howe, of Northfield, Vt., advises you in all such cases to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. He tells the great good this remarkable medicine did him, and to show the high esteem in which he is held by his townspeople and that you can trust implicitly in every word he says, it is only necessary to state that Sheriff Howe has been Sheriff and Deputy Sheriff of Northfield for 23 years; is Town Trustee, Street Commissioner of Northfield, Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, Town Grand Juror and School Committee, besides being a prominent business man well known throughout the state of Vermont. The word of a man should be taken and his advice followed by all.

"I was sick five months which left me with asthma and rheumatism. The asthma would take me most any time, especially nights, when I was obliged to get up and open windows and doors to breathe. It took me once on my way home so bad that I was obliged to have help to get home. I suffered greatly with this trouble. My rheumatism at this time was very bad, being so that for six weeks I did not leave the room and for five months I did not do a day's work."

"I saw Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised and the cure effected by its use, and thought it might hit my case, and it did. The asthma is greatly improved, in fact, it is nearly cured, and the rheumatism is greatly helped. I think very highly of this remedy for it is good. I could recommend anybody to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for asthma or rheumatism, for it is a good medicine. I deem it simple justice to a great remedy to write this letter. I never expected to do any more work when I was sick, but the Nervura did me a great deal of good and I am now able to work again."

It is not a patent medicine but the prescription of the most successful living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York City. He has the largest practice in the world this grand medical discovery is the result of his vast experience. The great reputation of Dr. Greene is a guarantee that his medicine will cure and the fact that he can be consulted by anyone at any time, free of charge, personally or by letter, gives absolute assurance of the beneficial action of this wonderful medicine.

The Courier don't like it a little bit that the board of supervisors each year in their equalization session, take so much from the townships and pile it onto Ann Arbor. You ought not to kick brother Courier, that act is an evidence that the hub of our county is absorbing the moisture of riches to her center, while we are the losers.—Saline Observer. Prove your proposition and we will take it all back and swear we never said it.

Harper's Bazar

The twenty-ninth year of HARPER'S BAZAR, beginning in January, 1896, finds it maintaining its deserved reputation both as a Fashion Journal and a weekly periodical for home reading.

Every week the BAZAR presents beautiful toiles for various occasions. SANBOS, BAYNE, and CHAPUIS, illustrate and engrave the newest designs from the finest models in Paris and New York. Fashion's epitome, current styles in New York. A fortnightly pattern sheet supplement with diagram and directions enables women to cut and make their own gowns, and is of great value to the professional modiste as well as to the amateur dressmaker. Children's clothing receives constant attention. Fashions for men are described in full detail by a man-about-town, our Paris Letter, by KATHARINE DE FOREST, is a sprightly weekly recital of fashion, gossip, and social doings in Paris, given by a clever woman in an entertaining way.

Both the serials for 1896 are the work of American women. Mrs. Gerald, by MARIA LOUISE POOL, is a striking story of New England life. MARY E. WILKINS, in Jerome, a Poor Man, discusses the always interesting problems of the relations between labor and capital. Short stories will be written by the best authors.

Special Departments. Music. The Outdoor Woman. Personal. What We Are Doing. Women and Men, report and discuss themes of immediate interest.

BOB BURDETT'S BEST.

His Quaint Description of How the Brakeman Attended Church.

Rob Burdette visited Lebanon, Ind., and on his return this happened to him:

On the road once more, with Lebanon fading in the distance, the fat passenger drumming idly on the window-pane, the cross passenger sound asleep, and the tall, thin passenger reading "General Grant's Tour Around the World," and wondering why "Green's August Flower," should be printed above the door of "A Buddhist temple at Benares." To me comes the brakeman, and seating himself on the arm of the seat, says:

"I went to church yesterday."
 "Yes," I said, with that interested inflection that asks for more. "And which church did you attend?"
 "Which do you guess?" he asked.
 "Some union mission church?" I hazarded.

"Now," he said, "I don't like to run on those branch roads very much. I don't often go to church, and when I do, I want to run on the main line, where your run is regular and you go on schedule time, and don't have to wait on a branch. Good enough, but I don't like it."

"Episcopal?" I guessed.
 "Limited express," he said, "all palace cars, and $2 extra for a seat; fast time and only stop at big stations. Nice line, but too exhaustive for a brakeman. All train men in uniform, conductor's punch and lantern silver-plated, and no train boys allowed. Then the passengers are allowed to talk back to the conductor; and it makes them too free and easy. No, I couldn't stand the palace cars. Rich roads enough. Don't often hear of a receiver being appointed for that line. Some mighty nice people travel in it, too."

"Universalist," I suggested.
 "Broad gauge," said the brakeman; "Goes too much complimentary business. Everybody travels on a pass. Conductor doesn't get a fare once in fifty miles. Stops at all flag stations, and won't run into a union depot. No smoking cars on the train. Train orders are vague though, and the trainmen don't get along well with the passengers. No, I don't go to the Universalists, though I know some awful good men who run on that road."

"Presbyterian?" I asked.
 "Narrow gauge, eh?" said the brakeman, "pretty track, straight as a rule; tunnel right through a mountain rather than go around it; spirit-level grade; passengers have to show their tickets before they get on train, mighty strict road, but the cars are a little too narrow; have to sit on a seat and no room in the aisle to dance. Then there are no stop-over tickets allowed; got to go straight through to the station you are ticketed for, or you can't get on at all. When the car's full no extra coaches; cars built at the shops to hold just so many and nobody else allowed on, but you don't often hear of an accident on that road. It's run right up to the rules."

"Maybe you joined the Free Thinkers?" I said.
 "Scrub road," said the brakeman; "dirt road-bed, and no ballast; no time card and no train dispatcher. All trains run wild and every engineer makes his own time, just as he pleases. Smoke if you want to; kind of go-as-you-please road. Too many side tracks and every switch wide open all the time, with the switchman sound asleep, and the target lamp out. Get on as you please and get off when you want to. Don't have to show your tickets, and the conductor is not expected to do anything but amuse the passengers. No sir, I was offered a pass, but I don't like the line. I don't travel on a road that has no terminus. Do you know, sir, I asked a division superintendent where the road run to, and he said he hoped to die if he knew. I asked him if the general superintendent could tell me, and he said he didn't believe they had a general superintendent, and if they had he didn't know any more about the road than the passengers did. I asked him who he reported to and he said "nobody." I asked a conductor who he got orders from and he didn't take orders from any living man or dead ghost. And when I asked the engineer where he got his orders from, he said he'd like to see anybody give him orders, he'd run that train to suit himself or he'd run it in the ditch. Now, you see, I'm a railroad man, and don't care to run on a road that has no time, makes no connections, runs nowhere, and has no superintendent. It may be all right, but I have railroaded too long to understand it."

"Did you try the Methodist?" I said.

"Now you're shouting," he said, with some enthusiasm. "Nice road eh? Fast time and plenty of passengers. Engines carry a power of steam, and don't you forget it; steam gauge shows a hundred and enough all the time. Lively road; when the conductor shouts 'all aboard' you can hear him to the next station. Every train lamp shines like a headlight. Stop-over checks given on all through tickets; passenger can drop off the train as often as he likes, do the station two or three days, and hop on the next revival train that comes thumping along. Good, who's souled, companionable conductors; ain't a road in the country where the passengers feel more at home. No passes; every passenger pays full traffic rates for his ticket. Wesleyanhouse air-brake on all trains, too; pretty safe road, but I didn't ride over it yesterday."

"Maybe you went to the Congregational church?" I said.
 "Popular road," said the brakeman, "an old road too, one of the best in the country. Good roadbed and comfortable cars. Well managed too; directors don't interfere with division superintendents and train orders. Road's mighty popular, but it's pretty independent, too. See, didn't one of the superintendents down east discontinue one of the oldest stations on this line, two or three years ago? But it is a mighty pleasant road to travel on. Always has a pleasant class of passengers."

"Perhaps you tried the Baptist?" I guessed once more.
 "Ha, ha," said the brakeman, "she is a daisy, isn't she? river road; broad, beautiful curves, sweeps around anything to keep close to the river, but it's all steel rail and rock ballast, track all the way and not a side-track from the round house to the terminus. Takes a heap of water to run it, though; double tanks at every station, and there isn't an engine in the shops that can pull a pound or run a mile in less than two gauges. But it runs through a beautiful country; these river roads always do; river on one side and hills on the other, and it's a steady climb up grade all the way till the run ends where the fountain head of the river begins. Yes, sir, I'll take the river road every time for a lovely trip, sure connections and good time and no prairie dust blowing in at the windows. And yesterday, when the conductor came around for the tickets with a little basket punch, I didn't ask him to pass me, but I paid my fare like a little man—twenty-five cents for an hour's run and a little concert by the passengers thrown in. I tell you, Pilgrim, take the river road when you want—"

But just here the long whistle from the engine announced the station, and the brakeman rushed to the door shouting:
 "Zionsville! This train makes no stops between here and Indianapolis!"

LOOKS LIKE COFFEE.
 But Made of Nature's Pure Grains—A Pure Food.

The ancient Germans were a sturdy race and history records that they were great users of grains in their daily food.
 Persons who stick to a plentiful diet of grains, bread, meat and fruits are reasonably sure to keep well. Much butter or sweets should be avoided, as the starch of the food is turned to sugar and finally to fat. Tea and coffee make themselves felt with thousands of Americans of the present day. They delay digestion, as shown in late experiments, and this fact explains the cause of the serious disorders which frequently come to old and steady tea and coffee drinkers.

A new drink, called "Postum Cereal," has lately been produced by a careful preparation of the grains, and it possesses the important elements of being fac-simile in looks of the finest Mocha coffee, and has a rich, pungent flavor and is easily digested by the weakest stomachs. It is a nourishing food drink of the most perfect character and is quickly taken into the circulation. The makers claim that "it makes red blood," and the results justify the claim. It is especially good for the production of a clear skin, through which the coursing red blood can be seen in pink and ruddy flashes, producing that charming complexion so much admired in the thoroughly healthy woman or man.
 "Postum Cereal" can be used by the children as well as the adults, and the chicks become very fond of their "coffee." Being composed of grains alone it is absolutely pure and healthful, a natural food drink.

Praise for the U. of M. Team—

It is so seldom that an eastern paper or critic will admit that anything good can come from out western institutions, that the following written by Caspar W. Whitney, in Harper's Weekly, must certainly be taken as great praise for our boys:

"Harvard's game against Michigan Saturday, which they just managed to win by 4-0, was notable chiefly for the excellent work of the western university, which played fast and strong, was especially good on interference, and proved how near the east and west are approaching in football science. Harvard showed a slight improvement over their game at Princeton in defensive play, but their interference was sluggish and ineffective, and they exhibited their costly tendency to holding in the line. Unless the line braces greatly, the ball gets into the runner's hands more quickly, and the full-back is better protected on kicks Harvard will certainly be defeated by Pennsylvania on the 26d."

OUR DEPENDENT CHILDREN.

How Michigan Cares for the Destitute and Neglected Little Ones—Who Has a Home for a Bright Boy or Girl?

The state public school, for the care of the dependent, neglected and ill-treated children of Michigan, is an institution of which the people of Michigan may well be proud. It has solved the financial problem of taking care of these children, and as a protective measure against pauperism, vice and crime, its value to the public is immeasurable. Before its foundation there was no place for the children thrown upon public charge, except the county houses, where they were necessarily under the debasing influences of pauperism and vice. At a time in their lives when impressions received are more lasting, they were thrown among those whose influence is almost uniformly bad, and their young lives were thus blighted.

The establishment of the State Public School marked an epoch in the child life of Michigan. The state assumes the right to the guardianship of those children who are dependent, neglected or ill-treated, and cares for them by furnishing them a temporary home at the school where, by means of perfect physical comfort and beautiful moral training, they are led to forget their old life and become prepared to take their places with their more fortunate fellows in the families and public schools throughout the state. Before admission to the school they have known little of comfort and happiness. Their residence time, short though it usually is, gives them a new idea of life and they have no desire to return to the old manner of living. The price of admission is dependence or ill-treatment, and the qualifications are that they shall be between one and twelve years of age and sound mentally and physically. They are not tainted with crime.

Since the opening of the institution in 1874, nearly 3,500 children have been received and cared for. There are now in the institution about 220, and over 1,100 are with good families throughout the state and under the supervision of the school. The others have passed out from under the school. Those with families are placed on contracts which provide for their proper care and education.

It is not probable that there are many in the vicinity who would gladly take one or more of these children into their homes and make them their own?

The best selections are boys from 4 to 8 years of age, and it is believed that the homes would be blessed fully as much as the children by taking the children into them.

Any information desired may be had by addressing A. J. Murray, Superintendent, Coldwater, Mich., or D. B. Green, Ypsilanti, Mich.

The estimate upon the state property here is taken from the figures given out by the Auditor General's office. The other property is of course estimated. That it is below actual value instead of above will be patent to every one who stop to think about it.

The personal property of the railroads is hard to get at, yet a good yard engine alone would cost more than either road is charged up with here.

These figures may set the people to thinking.

A Lady Makes Money.

Mr. Editor.—I am always interested in reading of the success of others and will tell of mine. I tried school teaching, clerking and sewing, all hard work for small pay. I met a lady making $15 a week selling National Dish Washer—best made. I ordered 1-2 dozen, washed mother's dinner dishes in two minutes, sold all first afternoon; profit $12. The next week I made $37, in a month $143; I am a good talker, I buy of the World Mfg. Co., Columbus, O. They are very kind to me; they manufacture aluminum and electric goods. Many new, rapid selling articles for agents. Others can do as I have by writing them. CORA MILTON.

GEN. ALGER FOR DELEGATE.

For one of Michigan's delegates-at-large to the next Republican national convention no better man could be selected than Russell A. Alger, the man who has been so universally loved and honored by republicans, not only in this state but elsewhere. The General has always been one of our most public-spirited citizens, ever ready with aid to all worthy causes—a staunch supporter of the party, and one whose heart and brain and tact are equal to any emergency.

Michigan ought to have at the head of her delegation such an able man of influence, one who has a wide acquaintance with the leaders of the party in other states and who, when the nominee of the convention is elected (as our next one is very sure to be) shall have influence at the White House.

We quote the following from the Lansing Republican:

OUR NATIONAL DELEGATION.

Recently the Republican has noted several articles in Detroit newspapers relative to the selection of delegates-at-large to represent Michigan in the next republican national nominating convention, and passing mention has been made of several real or supposed candidates for that honor, it being generally conceded that one delegate at least would come from Detroit.

The next republican presidential convention will be one of the most important gatherings of republican leaders which the party has held since its organization. Upon the result of its deliberations will largely depend that success which is essential to a proper solution of the grave questions which are now confronting the country as the result of mal-administration by the democratic party. To be a member of that body will be no slight honor, and no republican of Michigan who aspires to that honor need apologize for doing so.

On the other hand, the very importance of the occasion should suggest to republicans that they owe to their party and the state an imperative duty in those selections which may not be lightly or carelessly performed. It is not enough that the aspirant is a republican and has performed some local service for his party which has made him popular in some sections of the state. Nor should he be a mere republican. On the contrary, the man whom it is sought to honor with a position of such importance should be a broad man—a truly representative man of his party; a well tried man, whose republicanism is of the highest order, and whose person and reputation are at least well and favorably known to the people of his state. If they should chance to be national, so much the better.

Of the Detroit republicans who have thus far been mentioned as known candidates for the position of delegate-at-large to the national convention, it would appear to the Republican that no one more closely meets the requirements here mentioned than does Gen. Russell A. Alger. Gen. Alger has always been known as an unswerving republican, aggressive, and actively loyal to the decisions of his party, whether expressed in state or national councils; and while his fidelity is unquestioned, his record is remarkably free from local intrigues, factions, and jealousies—a fact which ought to make him acceptable to all interests. Add to these qualifications the fact that he will be no new and untried man, his past experiences having thoroughly familiarized him with the details of business in such a body, with his acquaintance and reputation as a business man, a politician, and a prominent figure in social and Grand Army circles is national, and it can be fairly concluded that among the many gifted and popular republicans of Detroit, no one possesses more of the essentials for a representative Michigan man in such a body than does Gen. Alger.

Carelessness in girlhood causes the greatest suffering and unhappiness in after life. Little irregularities and weaknesses in girls should be looked after promptly and treatment given at once. the pudding is in paying for it as far as the tax-payers are concerned, and they are not called upon to pay for any extras this year.

If the Argus desires to make a comparative statement, it should wait until the republicans have had a clear year of it, and then try it's hand.

The Monroe Democrat Says—

The printing on the Inter-Lake column of the Democrat this week was worse, much worse than the jokes. We have managed to decipher the following, however:

The Northville baby show was a screaming triumph. Some, perhaps, were not delighted with the awards, but all admit that it was a "square deal."

Frank Legg and Franc Dorr were recently married at Ann Arbor. Would it be a "two-Frank" statement to remark that the groom is no longer one-legged? (Yes.)

President Angell, of the University, has been appointed by President Cleveland one of the three United States deep water ways commissioners. The two presidents have always thought a great deal of each other's abilities and both were right. (Very angelle, indeed.)

The Salvation Army at Ann Arbor, is preparing to move immediately on the works for the prince of the power of darkness, the capital of whose kingdom is supposed to be there, and over whose parapet wall and frowning facade is occasionally whisked a barbed tail, amid sulphurous flashes which ever and anon reveal the form of the beast "with the seven heads and ten horns." (There has been an improvement since Brother Smith left.)

Will some Ann Arbor paper rise up and state whether the council has provided a bath tub for the fire department. The city has an excellent fire force who work like beavers to save property, get soaked through to the skin, and then—unless somebody has pried open the heart of the council with a crow-bar—are allowed to take a bath with a curly comb. (Observe the silence! We believe that one of our citizens offered to give the boys some tubs, and even then they could not secure water, soap and towels run them with.)

The Trials of Life.

What shall I do? I am so debilitated with this malarial fever that I cannot attend to my ordinary duties. Well, do as others have—try Aunt Rachel's Malarial Bitters; they are unexcelled and will act favorably on all the functions of your system, and restore them to vigorous action. They are simply Spencer's Wine, with such herbs and roots as physicians use daily in their practice for the cure of malaria.

YOUR LAST CHANGE!

Positively Limited to December 24th.

Never again will there be another Special Offer made on this great Standard Dictionary and Encyclopaedia of the World's Knowledge. We fully intended to advance the price on October 31st, but thousands of people in all walks of life have requested an extension of time until Christmas. After careful consideration, we have decided to continue our Special Offer until the above date. This is done simply and only as a means of advertising this wonderful storehouse of information. We do not expect to make money by this offer, as the very low price on extremely liberal terms little more than pays for paper, printing and binding; but the tremendous amount of talk created will help to advertise this most modern and up-to-date home reference library. No advertisement can do the work justice; it is its own most eloquent advocate. Recently adopted by the schools of St. Louis, Mo., and many other cities, in preference to all other dictionaries and encyclopedias. It is equal to a college education.

FOR A CHRISTMAS GIFT NOTHING COULD BE BETTER!

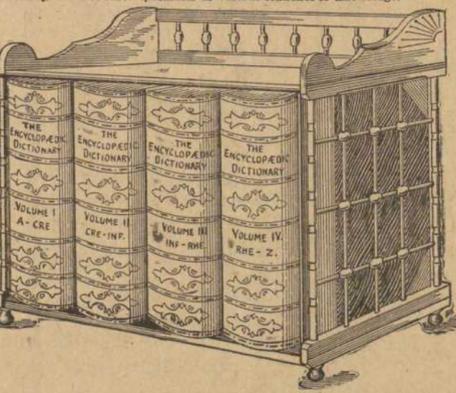

Your pastor, teacher, friend, parents, or your children will appreciate this great work beyond expression. It will last a life time and always give satisfaction. No business or professional man, teacher, student, mechanic, housewife or any other person who wishes to keep abreast of the times, or who is interested in the laudable enterprise of self-education, can afford to allow this rare opportunity to pass without careful investigation. Understand, this great work embodies all the features of a complete Dictionary and a thorough Encyclopaedia. The new and entirely up-to-the-times is now offered all readers of this paper at the rate of 7c. per day, in monthly payments of $2.00 each, until the sum of $14.00 is paid. This is but little more than one-third the regular price.

This greatest of all Dictionaries and Encyclopedias was edited by such world-renowned scholars as Dr. Rob't. Hunter, A.M., F.G.S., Prof's. Huxley, Morris, Hertzog, Estoclet, Williams, etc., assisted by scores of other specialists in various branches of knowledge.

Don't forget this special offer holds good only until Christmas Eve, at which time the price will be advanced to $42 to $70 per set, and absolutely no deviation from these prices will be made. It is not for sale in book stores, and can only be obtained from us or our authorized representatives

The above is an exact reproduction of THE ENCYCLOPAEDIC DICTIONARY Four massive volumes in a handsome case of polished wood. Weight about 40 lbs.

Over $750,000 Required to Produce This Magnificent Self-Educator.

It is a Complete Dictionary of the English Language. Every word is exhaustively treated as to its origin, history, development, etymology, pronunciation and various meanings.

It is a Thorough Encyclopaedia of anatomy, botany, chemistry, zoology, geology, art, music, agriculture, physics, philosophy, mechanics, history, mythology, biblical knowledge, etc.

It is a superb Library Book, substantially bound, printed from new plates, in large, clear type, on heavy white paper, and illustrated with thousands of new pictures made especially for this work.

It is better than all other dictionaries, because the latest edition of Worcester contains but 116,000 words and 2,129 pages; the latest Webster contains but 16,000 words and 2,201 pages; the Standard contains but a little over 200,000 words and 2,818 pages, and even The Century contains but 225,000 words, and sells for $60 to $100. Encyclopaedias of various kinds sell for $50 to $200. This great ENCYCLOPAEDIC DICTIONARY, containing 5,357 pages, over 3,000 illustrations, bound in four handsome volumes, has over 250,000 words, 50,000 encyclopaedic subjects, and is the accepted authority of the English language.

Nine Opinions—Thousands More Equally Good.

The Encyclopaedic Dictionaries ordered for use in the public schools are giving excellent satisfaction. After an exhaustive examination of all the leading dictionaries, yours was selected in preference to any other. As an unabridged dictionary, your work leaves nothing to be desired, and the profusion of encyclopaedic matter, terse, yet comprehensive, covering thousands of important topics, saves many a long search through the more cumbersome encyclopaedias.—Elmer E. Lacey, Chairman Course of Studies Com., St. Louis Board of Education.

I have Webster, Worcester, and the Century, and for Encyclopaedias I have the Britannica and Appleton's. The Encyclopaedic Dictionary is a magnificent substitute for all of them.—J. H. Atwood, Esq., Attorney-at-Law, Leavenworth, Mo., U. S. A.

Serves the purpose of a complete reference library.—Christian Herald, New York.
