We are showing this week 100 styles in Ladies' Shirt Waists, in Percales, Dimities, Lawns, Organics, Linen effects, etc. made with extra large sleeves, Inlaid Collars and Cuffs, White Collars and Cuffs, Yoke full front and back. Materials in latest effects. You should anticipate your wants now, when you can get your pick of the entire lot. This spring the demand for Shirt Waists will be so unprecedented, it will be a question with us "how many we can get" not "how many we can sell."

Prices 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00.

SILK WAISTS.

There are few ladies who will not find it necessary to add at least one Silk Waist to her wardrobe. We can aid her materially in securing whatever she wants at a minimum of expense. It will be time well spent to visit our cloak department and see the beautiful new Silk Waists there displayed, at prices you will say, little more than cost of material. Very stylish Silk Waists, extra large sleeves, handsomely trimmed in Fancy Material, Checks, Stripes and Plaids at $3.75.

Black and fancy Waists, no two alike in make or material at prices from $4.00 up to $15.00.

The Swell Affair of the Season—

Space in a weekly paper is necessarily limited, and many things that ought to be treated more fully are often seemingly neglected for that reason. The successful, beautiful and highly enjoyable leap year party at the gymnasium last Saturday, for instance, ought to be accorded more space than is allotted to it. The affair was something of a novelty from the fact that it reversed the usual position of the sexes. The ladies did the inviting and conducted the entire arrangements. The music, however, was by a man's band, the ladies having never yet developed sufficient lip to successfully play the wind instruments so necessary in a good orchestra.

There were upwards of 500 couples upon the main floor of the gymnasium, taking part in the giddy mazes of the round dances; and the running track above, which had been turned into a spectator's gallery, was filled with those who merely desired to look on and see the success succeed.

Mrs. Angell was probably the most generous of the ladies present, for she took pity on four young men who had been skipped in the mad rush for partners and escorted them all to the dance.

Among the spectators of note present, were Miss Susan B. Anthony, who really looked youthful again, as she gazed admiringly upon the brave women who had dared to take this step forward in asserting their equal rights, and by her side was the Rev. Anna Shaw, whose eloquence in the pulpit is only equalled by her eloquence in behalf of the cause of equal rights. But alas! They were unaccompanied by gentlemen partners, and did not engage in the dancing. Of course they had not asked anybody. Being strangers here will account for their accompanying each other instead of escorting some nice young man.

Hand-painted souvenir programs were given each lady attending the dance, and there were 20 regular and five extras indulged in, the dancing continuing to near 6 o'clock.

The ladies were very modestly and plainly dressed, all but a very few being attired in shirt waists with skirts to match. The men were more elaborately gowned, many of them in full dress with coat tails that just missed touching the floor, and which swayed beautifully in the dusty mazes of the two steps and five steps.

The occasion will dwell long and lovingly in the hearts and minds of the participants.

In the meantime the ladies swelled their gymnasium fund some $450 by the affair.

A Letter From Capt. Granger—

Capt. Granger of Company A, writes that "All companies of the Michigan National Guard are required by law to parade in uniform under arms, at their respective stations on the 22d of Feb. and on the 30th of May in each year. The boys are not required to hire a band or make an elaborate parade, and as this year Washington's birthday fell on Saturday, and the boys had been excused from work in many instances the week before, the full number was not out, but more turned out, as it was, than is usual on the 22d."

The Captain sends the above explanation at the suggestion of some of the boys because the Courier of the week previous contained the following item:

"The Light Infantry had a parade Saturday, but not an elaborate affair."

How it is possible for any one to torture the above item into anything either critical or unkind, is past the comprehension of the writer.

The Courier has always felt a pride in this company, has always expressed itself in that way, and its proprietor has helped it in days past in other ways than through the paper. Many kind words have been said in these columns of and for this company, and the most excellent body of young men composing it. These words have been composed by a kindly feeling held toward the company, and its membership, and not influenced by any courtesies ignored or extended by the company to the paper.

We feel very sure that those who read this article, and see from what incipient mole hills mountains are imagined, will thank their stars that they do not run a paper.

Teacher's Association at Saline—

The meeting of the Washtenaw County Teacher's Association held at Saline last Saturday was a most successful and interesting one, over 100 teachers being present from all parts of the county.

President Essery, of Manchester, called the meeting to order at 11 o'clock a. m., and the morning session was mainly occupied with a paper on "The Fortune of English Syntax," by Prof. Austin, of Saline. This was followed by an extended discussion.

The popular sentiment seemed to be in favor of a somewhat free construction of the sentence, regardless of the technical rules of grammar, as long as the meaning was clearly expressed.

The afternoon session was opened with music at 1:30 o'clock, and this was followed with papers on "The Teaching of Reading in the District School," by Mrs. F. Caldwell-Heller; School Ethics by Miss Nettie Gillette; Teaching Drawing in the District School, by Miss Lena Mallory, of Ypsilanti; and What Should a Course of Study Embrace? by Supt. Whitney of Ypsilanti.

The program was interspersed with music from the different choirs of the Saline schools, and the entire day was a most profitable one for the teachers. The next meeting will probably be held in Chelsea.

School of Music Election—

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the University School of Music last evening the following directors were chosen for the ensuing year: O. Eberbach, H. S. Dean, Moses Seabolt, H. J. Brown, John V. Sheehan, James L. Babeck, G. F. Allmendinger.

At a subsequent meeting of these directors the following officers were chosen:

President—H. J. Brown.

Vice Pres.—Moses Seabolt.

Secretary—John V. Sheehan.

Treasurer—Ottmar Eberbach.

A Wonderful Boom—

On Thursday evening last Ann Arbor Lodge No. 27, A. O. U. W., did a remarkable feat, one not excelled by any lodge or order in the county, and seldom by any in the country. It initiated 170 new members in a body. The occasion was one of great jollification, and many of the notables of the order were present to witness the feat.

The chief workers in bringing about the great class, were John Baumgardner and Gottlob Luick, and after the initiation they were each presented with a beautiful P. M. W. gold badge.

An additional surprise of the evening was the unveiling of three large photographs of Messrs. Hollings, Luick and Baumgardner, which will decorate the lodge room wall with this legend underneath: "170 new members Feb. 27, 1896." There were 222 applications received, and 185 have been examined and accepted, so that another large class will have to be taken in soon.

This is a great record for the oldest fraternal insurance organization in the world, and shows that it is still popular and in the front rank.

A Physician Evangelist—

Commencing Sunday, March 22, there will be held in this city a series of meetings of wonderful interest. C. A. Dorman, M. D., of New Haven, Conn., a physician, who has been meeting with astonishing success as an evangelist.

Everywhere he has appeared there has been trouble to secure even standing room after the first meeting. He comes here under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting will be on Sunday p. m., at 2:45 o'clock, for men only, illustrated, when The Secret Sins of Men will be talked about.

The Effects of Alcohol Upon the Mind and Body, illustrated by large oil paintings, for everybody, will be next considered. Sunday evening, at the Congregational church.

At the Y. M. C. A. rooms Monday evening, Secret Sins will be continued, as will also be done on Tuesday evening at the same place.

The closing will be A Lecture for Boys Only, illustrated. At the High School Chapel. Wednesday evening.

No admission fee.

Free Seats at St. Andrew's—

We enter the church, and upon the walls of the vestibule, we read the somewhat alluring notice, "All seats in this church are free."

Is this a true reflection of the sanctuary, or is it a misnomer?

Is it intended that people shall occupy their seats without compensation? Far from it. The church is not endowed and every individual not in regular attendance is expected to contribute to its support. This is accomplished by such personal solicitation that many give beyond their means, and others, who cannot, feel that the doors of the church are closed.

It cannot be disguised that the primal object of the free system is increased revenue, and the system only needs full development to show that it rests upon quicksand.

It is undeniable that churches can not thrive without generous pecuniary support, but the conception and ideal of a church ought to repose upon a plane somewhat more exalted than the channels of commerce.

Let it not be forgotten that the edifice may be never so stately, the ceremonials of the church never so replete with measured magnificence; the fluted columns and the vaulted ceiling never so resplendent with art; the chancel may glitter with its gorgeous pagentry; and yet the spirit of the lowly Nazarene may never enter its portals. The poor, the meek, the devout, may come and hunger and thirst for spiritual food and water, and find only the burning sands of worldly pride and ambition. Humanity may be subdued and reverent while attending divine service, but the human impulses and sensibilities do not cease to exist, and the rational enjoyment of religious services is materially dependent upon the individual environment.

Where lies the necessity of separating friends and families when they enter the church? Is this inharmonious confusion agreeable to any one? System and order, even in the church, can not be unsightly or unwholesome. Is it offensive to see friends and families, intruding upon no one, attracting no disagreeable attention, diverting none in their worship, creating no confusion, quietly entering their allotted pews, and entering upon the solemnities of the day? Is it more gratifying to witness the halting at the door, the critical survey of the whole auditorium, and the final discriminating selection of some spot not objectionable?

There are parishioners who are social strangers and wish to be; there are others whose relations are delicate and strained; there are business and professional men who are not fraternal. Is it in the interest of religion to make a jumble of these incongruous elements? Why should not the church be so arranged that humanity may be at its best, and the hour of worship hallowed by all those surroundings and associations which may tend to bring peace and joy to the troubled soul?

Will any honest Christian sneer at the sentiment that holds in sacred and reverent memory the "Family Pew?" Will the child ever forget the spot where it first kneeled and whispered to the world its praises of God? When, with father or mother, or wife or husband, life's battle is ended, does not the vacant seat draw closer the tie of the church? Or does the spirit of "the end of the century" demand the banishment of those sentiments of mankind which hitherto have been the sword and the shield of the church?

Countless thousands make pilgrimage to the little church at Alexandria, to look with eyes of love and patriotism upon the seat where Washington listened to the word of God.

Is there any necessity for this revolution? Is it spiritual conduct, or muscular christianity, that allows the officers of the church, who inaugurated the new movement, to rigidly and regularly retain and occupy their former sittings?

The day is rapidly approaching when it will be discovered that the ties of the church are being relaxed; that the non-attendance by parishioners who formerly were in regular attendance has become a marked characteristic; that indifference has stealthily made its appearance; that the revenues of the society come with reluctance and diminution, and that sorrow and gloom impend the parish.

AN OBSERVER.

Every Little Helps—

The closing entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Lyceum course for the season was given last Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church. It was well attended, and very good, indeed. Mr. Grenville P. Kleiser ranks well as an impersonator and should he appear here again would be greeted with a large house, for he pleased the audience very much.

This extra number makes six entertainments given by the Y. M. C. A. course, tickets for which were sold last fall for $1, bringing the price for each evening at only a trifle over 16 cents. Considering the class of entertainments given, nearly all of them of the highest order, this has been a wonderful venture.

The Y. M. C. A. of this city want a building and want it bad. In casting about for some scheme by which to help such a building fund along last fall, it was proposed to give a course of lectures and entertainments. The idea was not received with much enthusiasm by the older members of the board of directors, for the field was too well covered already. With the S. L. A., and the Choral Union courses, and with a course by the Unity Club and another by the Inland League, and others by nearly every church society in the city, there did not seem to be room for any more. But one gentleman said in effect: "I have attended nearly all of the entertainments given by the S. L. A. and Choral Union, and one thing has struck me as being peculiar. I see about the same faces at all of them. There is one class of people who attend, but but there is another, and larger class, in which the Y. M. C. A. is interested who do not attend. If we can give a popular course, one that is not so fine that it would be beyond the enjoyment of the general run of people, I believe it would be made to pay."

And so, working on that basis, a committee was appointed, and went to work. It was new business to each member of the committee, and as a consequence they made some mistakes, but none of very great importance. They endeavored to secure a class of entertainments which would please the ordinary individual, and which were at the same time refined and with the right sort of influence.

One entertainment was advertised which it was found impossible to give, and another quite satisfactory, was substituted. Some changes in date also had to be made. But tak-

TEMPTED BY SATIN. The republican senators in congress who were tempted by Senator Allen the populist, who promised them enough votes to carry the tariff bill, providing they would attach to that measure a free silver provision, very wisely refused to do wrong even to gain the much needed legislation asked for by the people.

The incident calls to mind a similar one in the life of Abraham Lincoln. When he was a member of the legislature of Illinois, he was intrusted by the people of Sangamon county with a bill to remove the state capital from Vandalia to Springfield. His heart and soul were in the measure. A number of other legislators had a scheme that Lincoln believed to be unwise. They had enough votes to carry Lincoln's removal bill, and brought a terrible pressure upon him to trade his principles for the success of his pet scheme. After being urged for several days and nights, his historian says he arose in the conference meeting and delivered one of the most powerful speeches of his life, closing with the words: "You may burn my body to ashes, and scatter them to the winds of heaven; you may drag my soul down to the regions of darkness and despair to be tormented forever; but you will never get me to support a measure I believe to be wrong, although by doing so I may accomplish that which I believe to be right."

Michigan's Food Commissioner seems to be getting into hot water, either by condemning things on hearsay evidence, or not having investigated sufficiently before promulgating his views in the bulletin issued by his department. He had to take back what he said about the Postum Cereal substitute for coffee, and now the Ry-O Company of Battle Creek have sued Mr. Storr, the commissioner for $25,000 damages, because he said the preparation made by them was only 33 per cent. food. The Co. would not content themselves with a retraction.

Poor baby! Your pity goes out to it and rightly. To be thin, for a baby, is to be deprived of its natural ease; to suffer and not be able to feel it; to wear a sad pinched face; to live on the edge of sickness; to grow imperfectly; and to lose the power of resisting disease. When a baby is thin it needs more fat than it gets from its food; it is starved, fat-starved. Scott's Emulsion is the easiest fat it can have; the fat it needs. Half of Scott's Emulsion is taken by babies. Mothers like it because it brings the dimples back.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Insist on Scott's Emulsion with trade-mark of man and fish. Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

The Late Mrs. Sinclair.

In the death of Mrs. Eliza S. Sinclair, which occurred at Detroit on Tuesday, Feb. 27, there was removed from life a lady who at one time and for many years was the leader of society, not only in this city, but in the entire state as well.

Her husband, William M. Sinclair, owned and operated for many years what is now the Argo Mills. Those were days when milling property was valuable much the same as silver mines have been in more recent years, and their owners princes in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair owned and resided in the mansion now the property of John V. Sheehan, on E. Huron st., and there they kept open house, which in the early day meant free hospitality to all who desired to enter therein. Perhaps more brilliant scenes have been enacted, and more prominent people entertained in the early days, in that mansion than in any other in this part of the west.

Mrs. Sinclair was 76 years of age, a native of Connecticut, and came to this city with her family at an early day. From this city Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair moved to Chicago, some 28 years ago, where the tide of fortune turned against him, and he lost much of his wealth, and died shortly afterwards. Mrs. Sinclair then went to Detroit where she had resided ever since.

Those of her family who survive her are her sisters, Mrs. Sarah C. Beakes and Mrs. Fannie Hubbard, her brother John T. Swathel, all of this city, and Mrs. H. W. Wait of Rahway, New Jersey.

Many of our older people who have enjoyed the pleasing society and generous hospitality of this lady, will regret to learn of her death.

LIKE HYPNOTISM.

Habits That Appear Almost Hypnotic.

Like Hypnotism, etc. The tenacity with which some habits stick to people, or people stick to habits, is very remarkable, particularly the tobacco and coffee habit. People act almost as if they were in reality under a hypnotic spell. They promise themselves and friends time and again that they will leave off, when they find health forsaking them, but they make one excuse or another and keep on the dreary way as if guided by an unseen spirit of evil. Physicians realize the uselessness of treating a patient for any of the multitude of nervous diseases so long as the poisonous alkaloids of tobacco and coffee are being taken into the system, even in minute doses. It is a simple matter to break the coffee spell if the food drink, Postum Cereal, is used in its place. This is a fac-simile of fine Moca coffee in looks when brewed, and changes to the rich golden brown of old Java when cream is added. Being made wholly of grains intended by the Creator for man's subsistence, it makes red blood quickly, and is fattening and nourishing. The muddy complexion disappears and in its place comes the clear skin of health with rich blood coursing back of it. Many people are sick and do not know that it is the insidious poison of coffee that prostrates stomach and liver and causes it. They laugh at first, but a trial of a week without coffee and using the food drink, Postum Cereal, makes one wake up to a great big live fact.

The children can sip from papa's or mamma's coffee cup, if it happens to contain Postum Cereal, and their little bodies will grow round and fat under the nourishment of the pure grains, but it is a heartless proceeding to feed the tender bodies on coffee as every one knows the puny, sickly looks of coffee drinking children.

Let people adopt healthful food and drink and "throw physic to the dogs."

The rather sensational trial of Rev. Dr. Brown, of San Francisco, ended suddenly last Thursday by a confession from Miss Overman, that she conspired with Mrs. Davidson, and put up the whole job. She hoped to save herself from manual labor and in order to do so was willing to besmirch her own name and character and that of Dr. Brown also. She confessed herself not only a black-mailer, but a thief. People who are always so willing and ready to condemn any minister of wrong doing, against whom the tongue of scandal may wag, simply and solely because he is a minister, but who have words of palliation for libertines and others of their ilk, will be sadly disappointed at this outcome. It also disproves the most detestable and dangerous of all the old sayings, because it is so universally quoted and believed that "where there is so much smoke there must be some fire." It shows how easily shrewd and designing people may ruin the character of the innocent, though an entire blameless life may be brought forward to help the innocent victim. For the cause of religion; for the cause of good morals; for the cause of humanity, we rejoice at the outcome of this trial. Dr. Brown deserves the thanks of the decent people of the nation for manfully fighting the battle through and vindicating himself.

A View From Mount Ararat.

At last we stood upon the summit of Ararat—but the sun no longer pierced the white vapor; a fierce gale drove across the forbidden region and whipped the eye, straining to distinguish the limits of snow and cloud. Vague forms hurried past on the wings of the whirlwind; in place of the landscape of the land of promise we searched dense banks of fog.

We were standing on the spot where the Ark of Gopher rested, where first the patriarch alighted on the face of an earth renewed. Before him lay the valleys of six hundred years of sorrow; the aridst pinnacle supported him, a boundless hope filled his eyes. The pulse of life beat strong and fresh around him; the busy swarms thrilled with sweet freedom, elect of all living things. In the settling exhalations stood the bow of many colors, eternal token of God's covenant with man.

The peaks which rose on the distant borderland where silence had first faltered into speech were wrapped about with the wreaths of fancy, a palpable world of cloud. Did we fix our foot upon these solid landmarks to wish the vague away, to see the hard summits stark and naked and all the floating realm of mystery flown? The truth is firm and it is well to touch and feel it and know where the legend begins; but the legend itself is truth transfigured as the snow distils into cloud. The reality of life speaks in every syllable of that solemn, stately tale; divine hope bursting the bounds of matter to compromise with despair. And the ancient mountain summons the spirits about him and veils a futile frown as the rising sun illumines the valleys of Asia and the life of man lies bare.—H. F. B. Lynch, in the February Scribner's.

For Weak Men With Nervous Debility This is Certainly the Chance of a Lifetime.

Weak men suffering from nervous debility, weakened powers and exhausted vigor, can now take new hope. Here is something which will powerfully interest them. It is a fact that until now sufferers have been debarred from seeking a cure by the great specialists in these complaints owing to the cost of travel to the large city and the high fees charged by these eminent physicians. Here, therefore, is a chance for weak men in our community which should not be lost. Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York City, who has the largest practice in the world and who is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing this class of diseases offers to give free consultation by mail to all weakened, vigorless and nerve-exhausted men. You have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene by letter describing your complaint and he will, after careful-considering your condition, send you a letter fully explaining all your symptoms, telling you everything about your complaint so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails you. He will also give you his advice, based upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating and curing such cases, as to just what to do to get cured. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best known physician and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and he has discovered many other most valuable special remedies. Write to him how, for this is the chance of a lifetime to get cured which you may never have again.

Private Letter From a Gentleman to a Druggist in New York.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29th, 1895.

Dear Friend George: I haven't any gold brick scheme to work on you, but I know of an article that you would have an immense trade on if you handle it. I know what it is and what wonderful cures it has made; it is the best Catarrh Cure in the world without any exception. I know of people who have been troubled for many years and could find no cure for it, this will cure and I know of many cases where it has. Every doctor in this city has it in his office and recommends it very highly. It has a wonderful sale here and throughout the west; but it is new and hasn't got far east. I sent a bottle to Mrs. Briggs for trial and I am sure it will cure her; you can go and examine it and see for yourself what it is. If you think well of it and can get the agency for it, I am sure it will be a paying investment. Inclosed find testimonials which are all first class. Your friend, JOHN F. STILTZ.

Above refers to Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm. This remedy is a most welcome exception to all Catarrh cures and treatments with which the country is flooded and the people duped. We invite most severe tests as to its efficiency. Sample sent for two cent stamp, or a full sized package for 50 cents—three for $1.25. Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, Ohio.

Temperance and the Home.

(Conducted by the W. C. T. U.) The next regular meeting of the local union will be held March 12th, at three o'clock, in the P. O. block. At that meeting the course of studies arranged by the Michigan W. C. T. U. will be commenced. These studies comprise twelve lessons on the Bible, by Mrs. E. P. Calkins, state superintendent of evangelistic work, 12 lessons on Civil Government and History, by Carrie C. Faxon, and 12 outlines of Scientific Temperance Instruction, by Mrs. Julia R. Parish, state corresponding secretary. Only a few moments at each meeting will be devoted to these studies, but under competent leaders the results will be most beneficial. At the last meeting Mrs. Garner gave a very interesting "Talk to Mothers." Mother's meetings are now conducted in nearly all W. C. T. Unions, in connection with the social purity department. Some of the subjects studied and discussed at these meetings are as follows: How shall we order our own lives so that the influence upon our children shall always be for good? How shall we lead our children to greater devotedness to God's service? How shall we promote Sabbath observance and train our children to love God's house? How shall we train them to truthfulness? Obedience? Purity? Physical training; hygienic diet; amusements. Light reading. To what extent shall it be allowed? The influence of dress upon the formation of character. Our duty to the children of deceased mothers. Mother's duties to the public schools. Discussion on health topics and heredity. Loyal Temperance Legion.

The L. T. L. organized last fall by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union continues to increase in membership and interest. Meetings are held every Saturday at 2 o'clock in the hall over Calkins drugstore, on State street, to which every boy and girl in the city is most cordially invited. Master Harrison Van Valkenburg celebrates his seventh birthday, by giving a party this evening to the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion, about sixty in number.

Like an open book, our faces tell the tale of health or disease. Pain and suffering and wrong living write their history on our features in unmistakable lines. Hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, listless steps and languorous looks tell of wasting debilitating disease some place in the body. It may be one place or another, the cause is generally traceable to a common source—impure blood, and impure blood starts in the digestive organs. That most dreadful disease—consumption is what is known as constitutional. In reality, it is scrofula of the lungs, and it can be cured 98 times in 100 if proper treatment be taken in its early stages. Sending good, clean, pure, rich, wholesome blood continuously through the diseased parts will gradually eradicate the disease. If the medicine taken be strongly purifying, healing and soothing, the cure will be even more rapid.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, stimulates digestive action, searches out disease-germs wherever they exist and puts the whole body into a vigorous, strong and healthy condition. It builds up solid, useful flesh, rubs out wrinkles, brightens the eyes and makes life really worth living. A big book of 200 pages entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated, telling all about it and full of good, sensible health hints, with numerous testimonial letters and reproduced photographs and address to those cured, will be sent free to any one who sends twenty-one cents, in one-cent stamps, to cover postage and wrapping only. Hutzel's Water Back!

A very important invention which will be hailed with delight by every body using a stove or range for hot water circulation. After years of experience we have succeeded in producing a simple and perfect WATER BACK.

It overcomes all the present troubles of extracting lime and other sediments which accumulate in water backs, often making them useless and in great many instances becoming dangerous.

The outlay of dollars is reduced to dimes. No household using a range can afford to be without it.

No more trouble by using city water for hot water circulation.

Can be used in any stove. Ask your stove dealer for Hutzel's Water Back.

Mason & Davis Co's. ranges for sale at C. Eberbach are provided with our improvement.

Everybody call and examine this useful invention.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

Big bicycle show at Ypsilanti March 19 and 20.

Monday, March 9th, is the date for all village elections.

Harvey Ferguson, aged 50, who lived about three miles west of Milan village, died Feb. 24.

Mrs. Jane Corkins, for many years a resident of Saline, aged 80 years, died at Detroit recently.

If Adrian gets the three new railroads she is after, she will then be as great a railroad center as is Durand.

Miss Dora A., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. VanAtta, of Salem, was married Feb. 19 to Chas. C. Orlaman, of Detroit.

The new cemetery at Milan is to be known as "The Marble Park Grove Cemetery," and contains 16 acres. A new vault will be built in it.

The many friends of Mrs. Amanda C. Ball, of Milan, surprised her on her 70th birthday, Feb. 24, and made her a happy one for her.

At Northville they have one saloon, and some are anxious to reduce the number, and the municipal election will be fought over that proposition.

L. W. Watkins of Manchester, has been appointed by the Michigan Ornithological Society, chairman of a committee to make a study of the migrating birds of this state.

The Northville Record proposes a flower carnival preceding Memorial Day. Unless it is an uncommon year flowers are too scarce about that time. Not a flowery proposal.

The Ypsilanti Sentinel has compiled the mortgage sales running in the various county papers, and finds 24 in all, of which 4 are on Ann Arbor city property, 5 Ypsilanti, 3 on Bridgewater, 2 each Manchester, Saline, York, Augusta and Pittsfield, and one each Freedom, Lodi and Lyndon.

The next meeting of the Saline Farmer's Club will be held at S. R. Crittenden's residence on Friday of next week. The subject for discussion will be a reduction in the force of clerks, etc., necessary to carry on the affairs of government. Mrs. H. D. Platt will read a selection and Miss Ida Shaw give a recitation.

The sale of the Babcock hotel property to Homer C. Sill was completed Wednesday. About the first of May Mr. Sill will commence the demolition of the hotel, preserving the brick store occupied by O. L. Youngs, the west wall of which is the east side of the old hotel, by carrying up a brick wall on that side. Some time during the season Mr. Sill will erect a store on the site of the old hotel for his hardware stock.—Milan Leader.

The Northville Record gives a remedy for ear-ache and advises the sufferer to make a paper funnel, stuff in a wad of cotton batting, that has been saturated in chloroform. The sufferer should then place the funnel in the ear and blow into the open end of the funnel. When he can do that trick, his ear ache will be a thing of the past. It might necessitate building the ear upon one shoulder, but the healing principle would be the same. Dr. Neal should secure a diploma, and hang out an "M. D." shingle.—Adrian Press. That is about the trick the Press is advising the people to do with free trade. Buy free trade goods of foreigners, blow the money all out of their own pockets, issue bonds to pay the running expenses of the government, make destitution, idleness and poverty on every hand, and then try to place the blame on the republicans. It causes the people to hump their backs, but they must take Dr. Stearns' dose for two years longer. Dr. Neal is a better physical doctor by far than Dr. Stearns is a political one.

Impure Food.

The Pure Food Commission selected a number of articles from stores and examined them, and found but very few of them pure.

In brief, the results of the analyses may be stated as follows:

- Allspice, four samples; all pure.
- Buckwheat flour, six samples; one pure, four adulterated with wheat and corn flour and one with wheat flour.
- Cinnamon, three samples; all casia.
- Cloves, two samples; one pure.
- Cocoonut, two samples; both pure.
- Coffee, two samples; both pure.
- Cream of tartar, six samples; one pure and five adulterated with varying proportions of corn starch, acid phosphate of lime, alum and gypsum.
- Glinger, five samples; all pure.
- Honey, one sample; adulterated with glucose and cane sugar.
- Strawberry jam, one sample; pure.
- Jelly, two samples; both illegally labeled.
- Maple syrup, two samples; pure.
- Mustard, nine samples; three pure, five adulterated with wheat flour and colored with turmeric and one adulterated with turmeric.
- Pepper, ten samples; one pure and nine adulterated. The adulterants being rice, wheat, corn, rice hulls, buckwheat hulls, cayenne pepper, mustard hulls, pepper hulls long pepper, tapioca and olive stones.
- Vinegar, four samples, one pure and three adulterated by being colored with caramel.

The man who stands idly by and sees the life fading out of his wife's face, sees her health going, sees her becoming old and faded and wrinkled when she should still be in the prime of vigorous, useful health, is either less than a man or else does not know of the one remedy which will bring her back to health and strength. Perhaps her husband cannot persuade her to go to her doctor, because the naturally dread the inevitable "examinations" and "local treatments." He can persuade her if she needs persuasion, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This truly wonderful medicine has cured hundreds of women after the best physicians have failed. It has been in constant use and tested every day for thirty years. It is not an experiment, there are no chances about it. It is a certain cure for all derangements, weaknesses, irregularities and displacements of internal organs peculiar to women.

Cures, absolute, permanent cures have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world and the first place among medicines.

Mortgage Foreclosure.

DEFAULT having been made, in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Michael Kenny, a single man of the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, and State of Michigan, to Jeremiah Walsh of the same place, dated the 18th day of April, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, on the 20th day of April, A. D. 1885, in Liber 57 of Mortgages at page 616. Also another mortgage made by said Michael Kenny and Mary Kenny, his wife, of the same place, dated January 25th, A. D. 1895 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, on the 25th day of June, A. D. 1895 in Liber 7 of Mortgages, on page 292, on both of said mortgages together there is claimed to be due at the date hereof two hundred and thirty dollars, ($230.00), and an attorney's fee provided for in said mortgages and by the statute in case of foreclosure proceedings, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgages, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgages and the statute in such cases made and provided.

NOTICE is hereby given that on Monday, the 27th day of April, A. D. 1896, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, city time, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the western front door, or entrance to the Court House, in the City of Ann Arbor, that being the place where the Circuit Court for Washtenaw County is held, the premises described in said mortgages, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgages, with interest as provided in said mortgages, and all legal costs, together with the attorney's fee provided for by statute in case of the foreclosure of said mortgages. The premises described in said mortgages being the same in each mortgage, are situated in the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, known and described as lots numbered six and seven, and the south half of fraction lot number eight, in block numbered four, north of Huron street, in range numbered three east, according to the recorded plat of the Village, now City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw, Michigan.

Dated January 22nd, 1896.

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and assigned by Charles Mills and Frank E. Mills of Pittsfield, Washtenaw County, Michigan, to George M. Fenion of the same place, and dated November 18th, 1894, in Liber 10 of Mortgages, on page 80, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, the sum of one thousand nine hundred and eighty-five, and an attorney's fee of thirty-five dollars, provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law or in Chancery has been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, by virtue of the Power of Sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the twenty-eighth day of March, A. D. 1896, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of said day, I shall sell at Public Auction to the highest bidder at the south door of the Court House, Ann Arbor Mich., that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage and the note accompanying the same, with seven per cent. interest and all legal costs and expenses connected with this foreclosure.

The premises being described as follows in said mortgage: "All that certain piece or parcel of land being the same as is more fully described in the plat of the same, in the Township of Pittsfield, in the County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan and described as follows, to-wit: the north-east quarter of Section 17, in Range number six, East, in said State; excepting and reserving from the said half thereof the north twenty-six rods in width, and the north twenty acres in area, and from the west half of said quarter section, the south, thirteen and nine-tenths acres, and the part of said last mentioned quarter section, westerly of the Ann Arbor and Saline Gravel Road, containing six and one-tenths acres. The north line of the strips taken from the south line of said quarter section, and being the land known as the George M. Fenion farm on the Gravel Road."

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure), $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO CENT STAMPS FOR SAMPLE BOX. Booklets and prices free. Eureka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La Crosse, Wis.

Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keely Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider you "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours truly, C. W. Hornick.

Brings out the Music—

The Aeolian attachment, which is to be placed in the Columbian organ next Friday evening, will bring forth from the organ the greatest volume of music that has ever been heard from it. Orla D. Allen, the organist of the First Presbyterian in Detroit, will manipulate the stops and pedals. The invention is not intended to do away with organists nor to interfere in the slightest degree with their vocation, but for concert purposes the Aeolian fills an important and useful field. The rolls for these instruments are arranged from the full orchestral scores and from this it can be understood that it would be beyond the abilities of an organist to handle the organ as does this device; there being at times in an instrument of this size the equivalent of sixty keys depressed and over one thousand pipes speaking.

The G. A. R. Evening—

The G. A. R. evening in the Unity Club course at the Unitarian church Monday evening, was very good indeed. The paper by Mr. Saunders lost much of its interest to the audience by reason of their not being able to hear what he said. He talked too low. Karl Harriman failed to appear, and his place was filled very acceptably by W. K. Childs with a recitation entitled "A Word Picture of the War." Col. H. S. Dean gave the audience a clear exposition of the G. A. R. and its purposes. The music was fine, "Tenting on the old Camp Ground," being especially pleasing.

The New Telephone Exchange—

The new telephone company, which has been granted a charter by the council, is making a hustle for business, and at the rate of $15 per year for residences expects to secure some 400 or 500 phones in the city. So far the new venture is meeting with unexpected success. It is only a question of time when a telephone will not be a luxury but a necessity in every home, and this new company is speeding the day.

The Fencing Master—

"The Fencing Master," an operatic production of unusual merit, well-known to theater-goers who enjoy a musical performance of superior conception through the glowing press comments it has been accorded wherever presented, will be given a grand representation here next Friday night March 6, at the Grand Opera House.

The Circuit Court in Motion—

The regular March term of the circuit court convened on Monday, the jury being called for yesterday. The docket started out with 21 criminal cases, 44 issues of fact, 1 issue of law, 11 chancery 2d class, 3 chancery 2d class, 19 chancery 4th class.

Monday was spent in calling the calendar, and yesterday the criminals were arraigned and pleaded, all of them not guilty and the following had their cases nolle prossed: The People vs. Jacob Dingman, rape; the same vs. Chas. Hines, robbery; the same vs. Jacob Mack, false pretenses.

In the suit of the Board of Supervisors, vs. Paul G. Suekey, for appropriating public money to his own use, an order was issued allowing the plaintiff to file an amended bill of particulars.

These cases were continued by consent: Thomas Suoy vs. Thomas Birkett; Adam Brown vs. Fred Eiting; John F. Feldkamp vs. Henry Koebke; People vs. Edward H. Wint.

The People vs. Walter Fick, assault and battery, sent to Detroit House of Correction 3 mos.; Herbert Flowers, larceny, one year at Ionia; Charles Thompson, larceny, one year at Jackson; Wm. D. Day, larceny, one year at Jackson; Sadie Le Veer, drunkard and tippler, one year at Detroit H. C.; Geo. Richel, violation of liquor law, $25 and costs. Paid.

People vs. C. P. McKinstry, defendant waived information and admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500, with A. L. Nowlin as surety.

Judgment was given Hugo Sherer against the Ferguson Road & Cart Co. for $195.03; J. D. Corey against John T. Feldkamp, $1,168.89.

The time was extended until the first day of next term in which to file a bill of exceptions in the case of Whalen vs. M. C. R. R.

Bequest to the University—

Dr. A. E. P. Marsh, of Greeley, Col., who was known to Ann Arbor people some 25 or more years ago as Miss Anna E. P. Eastman, died at her home some two weeks ago of paralysis, very suddenly. By a will executed a year ago, she bequeathed all of her property, except her house in Greeley, to the Michigan University. Her possessions are said to include valuable lands in Colorado, Phoenix, Ariz., and in the east, besides considerable personal property, and notes of great value. "The Michigan University," says the Denver News, "was the sole devisee, outside of her husband, of her entire estate." Her body, by the terms of the will, was left to the state Homeopathic college at Denver, and was delivered there by her husband. Mrs. Marsh was a former teacher in the high school here, and lived for many years with her mother on E. Washington st.

The Road Man of Texas.

One of the features of a most valuable medium to the isolated settlers of the Lone Star State is the Road Man. Equipped with a team of wiry mustangs, and wagon, whose capacious interior is filled with the many necessities of pioneer life—from the tiny rattle for the baby to the calico for the dress, canned fruits, etc. and last, but not least, medicines needed by the dwellers whose neighbors are often miles away. The road man is shrewd and knows a good thing when he sees it and how to profit by it. Mr. J. G. Lincoln is a road man and he writes under date of Feb. 16, '96, "I had the good fortune to come into possession of a package of your Catarrh Balm, and although I have been troubled with catarrh for several years I can say that it cured me. I think it is the greatest catarrh medicine out. I am a road man. Since using your remedy I have told several people where I travel and these would buy it if I had it. At what price can you sell it to me in quantity.—My Sunday point is Paris, Texas, for the next two Sundays." Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm is endorsed by all who give it a trial and its worth is becoming known far and wide. Sample for two cent stamp, or a full sized package for 50 cents, by Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, Ohio.

The fire alarm yesterday was caused by an incipient blaze at the Franklin House.

PROFESSIONAL CHESS PROFITS.

The Pecuniary Rewards Small in View of Demands on the Intellect.

Professional chess players, considering the laborious nature of their work, the character of mind, and the long preparatory study required, are probably as ill paid as any kind of intellectual workers. The professional chess player who earns by his play more than a decent modest living is a highly successful man. An expert may be hired to run a chess automaton and play with all comers at a salary less than some typewriters earn. There are in all the world probably less than half a hundred highly skilled professional chess players. The Hastings convention brought together 22, and the number was notable.

A few professional chess players are men of means, but for the most part the passion for the game leads the professional player to put aside material considerations in order to follow his bent. Some of the best known players dress shabbily and live plainly. The ablest and most successful usually eke out their incomes made directly from the game by writing on chess, discussing problems, and the like. Books on chess succeeded one another rapidly, but none has a large sale. They are costly to produce, and the stereotype plates are of small value. The aggregate of considerable prizes offered in chess contests throughout the world amounts in any one year to only a few thousand dollars, and a stake of $1,000 is a large one. Amateurs, who far outnumber the professionals, provide the purses and meet the expenses of the match games. St. Petersburg is an important chess center, and there the traveling expenses of the professionals are made up by the local clubs.

Professional chess players are rarely men of liberal education and usually men of one idea. Chess has been the diversion of great and broad minded men, but it is commonly the business of men devoted to one idea. The professional chess player seems tireless in the pursuit of the game. One whose duty it was to play six hours a day with all comers at a place of amusement was accustomed to follow his day's work with two hours of laborious study of special chess problems. It was this spirit that made Paul Morphy of New Orleans abandon a promising career at the bar and cling to the game until his physician warned him that he must give it up or lose his reason.

Famous as chess has long been, there are comparatively few really skilled amateurs, and it is impossible to maintain anywhere a very large chess club. One of the largest in the world is in this city, yet it is not a large club compared with other successful clubs formed on different lines. It is almost impossible in this country to form a large chess club on any but socially democratic lines. Some of the best amateur chess players are mechanics who would find the atmosphere of the ordinary social club quite unendurable. There is a strong contingent of good chess players in the German quarter. They frequent a locally famous club, lodged in an old house down Second avenue, but known to chess experts the country over.

There are some oddly placed chess experts in remote villages who come to New York perhaps once a year, as to the chess headquarters of the country. One such man is a bank officer and general factotum in a small border state city. Although occupied with a thousand business details he finds time to conduct games by correspondence with European experts, to arrange chess tournaments and to write upon chess. When he comes to New York, he busies himself among chess players to the neglect of all his friends not equally devoted to the game.—New York Sun.

The Pope's Private Apartments.

To the pope's bedroom only his private valet and his secretaries have access. It is of small dimensions, and contains only a bed, in an alcove adorned with graceful marble columns, a writing table, an armchair and kneeling stool and one wardrobe.

Besides these, there is his private study, in which the table and chair stand upon a little carpeted platform, other tables being placed on each side upon the floor, together with an extremely uncomfortable but magnificent straight backed armchair, which is one of the gifts offered on the occasion of the episcopal jubilee. There is, moreover, a little room containing only an old lounge and an old fashioned easy chair with "wings," and nothing else. It is here that the holy father retires to take his afternoon nap, and the robust nature of his nerves is proved by the fact that he lies down with his eyes facing the broad light of the window.

This private apartment occupies the second floor, according to Italian reckoning, though we Americans should call it the third. It is on a level with Raphael's loggie. The floor above it is inhabited by Cardinal Rampolla, the secretary of state.—Marion Crawford in Century.

A Boston Preacher.

The Rev. Robert MacDonald is one of Boston's clergymen who may be described as sympathetic preachers. He has an easy presence in the pulpit and a face whose character denotes sympathy. When in the midst of a warm passage of his sermon, his words pour out in a torrent and by the very impetuosity with which he himself seems carried away he holds his hearers and puts his thoughts into the minds of those whom he has brought into sympathy with him.—Boston Traveller.

Complained to the Wrong Man.

The mendicant stood before the wayfarer with outstretched hand. "Please, sir," he said, "I have seen better days."
"Well, that's no affair of mine," said the wayfarer. "Make your kick to the weather man if you don't like this kind of a day."—Chicago Post.

While half a century old, The Tribune is as youthful in spirit, and fresh in tone as when it was founded. Properly managed by young and eager men, a newspaper could never grow old, and The Tribune has not.

The paper is absolutely for American and the American people, against foreign encroachments of any kind, either upon American trade, territory or interests. For farmers it has no superior, containing an excellent and useful department of agricultural information every week. Nothing is lacking to make it become a good, all round family newspaper or to maintain its position at the head of the Republican press of the United States. The poor inventor can have his ideas exploited in The Tribune free of charge, if these possess enough novelty and real merit. The quaint and masterly writings of Roswell F. Holt will be continued; and love stories, jokes, household matters, fashions and other dear to the heart of woman are given amply. The paper is full of illustrations, which include, among other things, the best and freshest comic pictures of the two continents.

Above all things, The Tribune is decent. If poor ering humanity descends into depravity and crime, The Tribune gives the necessary news, but does not revel therein, gloat over the wretched criminals, or fill its articles full of suggestions and remarks which can only debase those who read them. It is probably this, among other things, which has endeared The Weekly Tribune so dearly to the homes of America.

A dollar cannot be spent to better advantage than in buying The Weekly Tribune for a year. Even more important than keeping one's person and clothes clean and pure is the keeping the mind pure, the conscience honest and the heart patriotic, and that The Weekly Tribune will do.

Its print is large and easy to read. Of the Daily, Henry Jones, proprietor of the greatest clipping agency in the world, certifies voluntarily, that "day by day and week by week, The Tribune contains far more original matter than any other newspaper in New York." With perfect truth he might have said this same of The Weekly Tribune.

Republicans should go into the clash of battle armed with The Weekly Tribune. Its accuracy of facts is unquestioned, and even the most case-hardened adversary is obliged to admit its penetrating power.

"In the Beginning,"

Of a new year, when the winter season of close confinement is only half gone, many find that their health begins to break down, that the least exposure threatens sickness. It is then as well as at all other times, and with people even in good health, that the following facts should be remembered, namely: that Hood's Sarsaparilla leads everything in the way of medicines; that it accomplishes the greatest cures in the world; has the largest sale in the world, and requires the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to the preparation of the proprietary medicine. Does not this conclusively prove, if you are sick, that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine for you to take?

Ah, March! We know thou art
Kind-hearted, spite of ugly looks and threats,
And, out of sight, art nursing April's violets.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, Manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

All the week day services of St. Andrew's parish during the Lenten season have been changed from the chapel to Harris Hall. One-half the services have been held at the hall all members of the parish have been so inconvenienced hereby that it has been decided to hold them all there.

Bishop Gillespie, of Grand Rapids, for many years rector of St. Andrew's parish in this city, has been a bishop just 21 years, and is the only bishop the Western Michigan diocese has ever had. He has been in the ministry over 50 years, and is 77 years of age, but yet hale and vigorous.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Tatlock left this morning for Stamford, Conn., being called there by the death of Mr. Tatlock's brother, Rev. Wm. Tatlock, D. D., of that city. The deceased was a very prominent clergyman in the east, being rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Stamford, arch-deacon of Fairfield, and ex-secretary of the American House of Bishops.

On the 8th page of this paper will be found a few words relative to Warner's Catarrh Cure. This is a home cure. It is made here by Mr. Warner, whom we all know, and it is a valuable remedy. Mr. Warner has faith in it and he has effected cures where all other medicines have failed. Any one having catarrh and seeking a cure will find one in this.

Frank A. Smith of Ypsilanti, will give a violin recital in the Unity Club course, assisted by Miss Clara Jacobs contralto, and Miss Minnie Davis, pianist, next Monday evening. Mr. Smith is highly recommended as a violinist and Miss Jacobs and Miss Davis are both well known in the city, the one as a singer and the other as a pianist.

It astonished a good many "critics" who have been carping at the University for educating foreign students, to learn that the foreign students were really a source of income and permitted the University to do better work than it could do without them. In the law department the fees from foreign students alone come within a few dollars of paying the entire running expenses of the department.

The contract for erecting the new gymnasium building has been awarded to H. Carew & Sons, of Detroit at $45,500, exclusive of the plumbing. This, combined with the boys gymnasium, will make one of the finest buildings of the kind in the country, and the taxpayers of the state have not been called upon to pay for any of it, but it has been made a present to them by enterprising and broad gauged citizens.

A street car and the gray team of the fire department on their way to a fire came near having a collision at the corner of Main and Huron sts., yesterday noon, but the motor man stopped his car by a hair's breadth, and the people who were looking on, with the hats on their heads perceptibly raised by the hair attempting to stand up straight, in expectation of a smash-up, drew a long breath of relief as the grays passed the track in safety, and the crash was avoided.

Workmen who were repairing the residence of Mrs. Oswald on E. Huron st., so badly injured by fire last week, in removing a sliding door, discovered a whole handful of matches which had been carried there by mice. This discovery doubtless tells the story of this mysterious fire, and no doubt solves the mystery of many another one. It is very dangerous to leave loose matches around where mice may get at them. There is something about the phosphorus that is very attractive to these little fellow's bright eyes.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

How the Relation between the two are Being Adjusted by New and Common Sense Methods.

The following is a paper read before the Present Day Club, at Dayton, Ohio, by John H. Patterson, the president of a large factory in that city. It deals so sensibly with the grand question of capital and labor that we give it entire, believing that every thinking person who reads the Courier will be interested:

Lincoln in his first message to congress, said: "Capital is but the fruit of labor, and never could have existed if labor had not first existed."

This is true, and all will admit that the question is not whether earnings should belong exclusively to labor or to capital, but what proportion should be given to each. We must take into account, that while labor is not a commodity, the various kinds have a certain market value in proportion to their scarcity or abundance. We must remember, also, that capital is forced to bear all losses and risks, which are so great in the manufacturing line that manufacturers demand twice the return from such investments that other capitalists require. Justice to both classes demands that capital should be reimbursed for its outlay and receive a profit proportional to its investment, while labor should receive that proportion of the net earnings which are due to it.

CENTRALIZATION OF CAPITAL AND LABOR.

It is upon this question of division of earnings that so much dissatisfaction is felt. The discontented note the tendency to centralization of capital which has been both the means and the result of progress.

This centralization of capital makes the benefits of civilization accessible to all. One man's capital might be sufficient to build a railroad from one village to another, but it is the combined capital of many which is required to connect the Atlantic with the Pacific and make the whole land kin.

When our earth is yielding up oil in such vast quantities that all nations can be supplied from the product of one oil field, no one man can assume the immense outlay attendant upon refining and supplying it for the commerce of the world.

There is a centralization, also, of brain power. A premium is put upon brains and there is a demand for experts in all departments of trade. Technical education is the rule and no one has any use for the "jack of all trades."

Some cry out that a few men are growing richer every day, and that the working classes are growing steadily poorer. There is nothing upon which to found this statement, for wages have increased all over the country. When I was a boy doing all kinds of work on a farm, workers were paid $8 per month and board, while now they are paid $19. Again, there are certain influences which prevent the continuance of wealth in any one class or family. We have no laws of entail to lock up fortunes, and at the death of the millionaire his fortune is widely distributed among those who spend it lavishly, not having earned it. There is a saying that there are but two generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves.

Senator Sherman said, "I apprehend no party of the rich against the poor and believe that human wants and the natural tendencies of the human race will equalize us more and more as time goes on."

Students of economics recognize, as an existing fact, that communities where one or more capitalists live are more prosperous than those where no large fortunes are found. It seems to be one of the immutable laws of our existence that we cannot accumulate anything which enriches ourselves without paying a toll which benefits others in the same proportion.

Andrew Carnegie says: "Under our conditions, the millionaire who toils on is the cheapest article that the community secures at the price it pays for him, namely, his shelter, clothing and food."

Any surplus which the millionaire may have after supplying himself and supplying his family with the necessities of life is valueless to him unless it is used. If he employs it to extend his business or invests it in any other enterprise, he immediately furnishes employment to others; if he puts it into the bank it is loaned to others to use in carrying on their enterprises. Through whatever channels his money flows, large numbers are enriched besides the capitalist.

As all employes desire the largest possible wages, and the employer desires the largest return for the wages paid, the difficulty is to co-operate without antagonism. It is certain that nearly all workmen will increase their daily output provided they are assured of a larger return, and I have found by experience that employes can afford to pay high wages provided each man turns out proportionately more work. I also believe that workmen should receive this increase whenever possible, not when, but before they ask for it.

We believe in securing the best men for any position, and prefer to choose for positions of greater responsibility those who have served the company in lower capacities; in other words, we promote from the ranks.

In many cases we pay by the day and prevent this method from becoming leveling by holding out the hope of promotion. In fixing our rates we consider in each case a man's integrity, habits, ability, industry, health, knowledge of the business, condition of his bench or work room and, if he is a foreman, the kind of men under him—in short, everything that will enable us to fix a just rate for each man.

We pay a great many by the piece work system, and in fixing rates we seek to eliminate all guess work by timing each operation in accordance with statistics. In order that our men may not fear to increase their output, we guarantee that no reduction will take place within a certain time. During the last few years in which we had the system in operation we have had no labor troubles. This is the more remarkable, as strikes are more common in large factories than in small ones.

Our old idea of increasing profits was to cut down the pay roll. This was a shortsighted plan, for the small amount saved in this way diminished by just so much our ability to supply those wants of our prospective customers which would net us a far larger return. It is well known that white sheep eat more than black sheep, for there are more of them. We can make more by taking from our large number of customers than from a small number of employes.

Our present plan of paying dividends, as it were, is to increase the pay roll. We pay twenty of the officers, in addition to their salaries, monthly dividends in proportion to monthly shipments. In return for this, our employes have concentrated their entire effort upon the work of convincing and supplying one million prospective customers. We thus get a sufficient return to clearly demonstrate that our methods do not spring from philanthropy alone.

We have been rewarded by the faithful, friendly services of our people, who have become a home-loving, home owning community, and have found that whatever benefits them benefits us, while loss to them, in any way, means a corresponding loss to us.

Another method which we employ, both as an act of justice and to promote a friendly feeling among all employes, is to award prizes of money and diplomas to workmen for the best suggestions for improvements in the manufacturing department. This encourages our men to read observe and think, which makes them more efficient. Our business is peculiar and, as it is a factory and not a school, we employ only skilled workmen. We make an exception in the case of our salesmen who are of necessity obliged to prepare themselves in the agents training school. This instruction is given to them at the company's expense, in a school established by us.

By paying premiums for hard work and intelligent co-operation, we maintain a high quality of production, a high quality of work, with a steadily diminishing cost. Self respect among our workmen is constantly on the increase; a large proportion of them attend church, and a general air of intelligence is taking the place of the tread-mill methods from which we suffered in our old factory.

Organization is our watch-word. With perfect organization, one of the greatest examples of which is seen in the Catholic church, whose chief strength lies in its organization, we have not the ideas of a few, but all the ideas of all our men, in every capacity. We accomplish this result without a superintendent, by a series of committees which increase in importance as they reach the highest committee. This representation by committees prevents favoritism and gives each man a voice. As a further means of preventing favoritism, no foreman is allowed to employ his relatives under him.

We have never objected to Trades Unions among our people, but have found that our best men do not always care to join them, for our practice of rewarding any increased ability satisfies their sense of justice.

WHAT THE EMPLOYER CAN DO FOR THE EMPLOYEE.

The employes of large numbers of men are apt to grow apart from their workmen. Under our new system they grow together, and instead of strikes we have conferences.

Such men as Carnegie, Armour and Pratt have found it expedient to establish libraries, workmen's clubs and manual training schools, and soften the harsh relations so often existing between the two classes. Few manufacturers can afford to establish large charities, but all may and should provide these small acts which are necessary to the health of their employes, such as providing proper lavatories, and well-ventilated workrooms, made clean and cheerful by whitewash and paint. The increased capacity for work which the occupants will gain will prove a sufficient return.

We have found that our men are affected by their surroundings, and when they see that the best workers receive the best rates and that they move quickly and work harder, the rest soon get into the same spirit and the whole shop takes on a more rapid pace.

We have found that to accomplish the largest amount of work possible our men must be healthy. We therefore endeavor to teach them how to take care of their health. The whole office force is given systematic calisthenic exercises in the middle of each morning and afternoon. When our new building is completed there will be baths, where each employe may bathe once a week, in the company's time. As a further aid to health we have given each woman in the company's employ a membership in the cooking class in this city. To those who do not see the connection between the question of health and the matter of conducting a paying business we would say that a healthy operative turns out more work than a dyspeptic.

WOMEN IN THE FACTORY.

Many writers have said that factory work has had a bad effect upon the health of women and girls. We have succeeded in refuting this statement so far as it applies to our factory.

The women begin work later than the men and leave earlier; we give them fifteen minute's recess with calisthenics, in the middle of each morning and afternoon, a half holiday every Saturday and a whole day's holiday once each month. They all receive six full days of ten hours each, and earn about a dollar per day. They work in clean, airy rooms, separate from the men, under forewomen of high character. Each department has a colored janitress, and we serve gratis each day, from three kitchens, hot coffee, tea and soup, or some other nutritious food, such as baked beans, potatoes meat, and rice.

We find the average cost of these lunches to be three cents each and that by reason of them each woman does one-twentieth more work each day. This amounts to five cents apiece making the gain two cents or 66% per cent. We noticed an instant improvement in the general health of the women; there was less delay from sickness, fewer absences and an ability to work harder and more enthusiastically than when they ate cold food. In fact, I do not know of any privilege given to them which has proved of greater benefit to them and to the company. We give them rest rooms provided with cots, a limited membership in the Women's Gymnasium, clean aprons and sleeves, and in every way consult our own interest by improving their health and increasing their capacity for work.

We have found that when hours of labor are shortened and safeguards to health adopted, persons of education and superior mental calibre are immediately attracted to the work, and it is easier to retain them after they have become skilled. It is safe to estimate that three skilled women remain with us each year who would have left our employ to seek positions in offices if we had not adopted this new policy. We estimate that each skilled worker who remains with us each year because she has no inducement to seek a better position elsewhere, nets a return of at least 2 1/2 per cent upon the time and money expended.

CONVENTIONS AND CLUBS.

We hold three conventions each year which are attended by our agents and about two hundred of the people in the factory. At these meetings, which continue for a week, we generate more enthusiasm than could be obtained from any other single method, and the more conventions we have, the more our business grows.

In addition to the Advance Club which I have already alluded to, we have an Officer's Club of twenty-two members. This is a daily convention at which social and business questions are brought up for exchange of ideas. It often has for its guests representative commercial men and others.

A Social Club of the employes living near the factory is held in the library three times a week on Sunday afternoons. Here the literary and social side of our employes is cultivated. We supply them with magazines and other periodicals and the daily papers, while cigars are furnished at cost. Business men, ministers and others are invited to address them. This effusion of life produces growth, enthusiasm, and the most friendly relations between the employes and the officers of the company.

THE NEW SYSTEM AND THE OLD SYSTEM. Our system is the new factory system and is as great an improvement over the old as the new High school is over the old High school. Under the old system, too much merit in an employe was side tracked before it came to the notice of the officers; the workmen were nearly all eye servants who did their best only when a foreman was watching, and those who were slow and dull did not get much aid. In the new factory, dull ones are awakened to effort by the example of others who were formerly almost as dull as themselves. Our new factory life is an educator which trains workmen to regard the factory as a fine piece of mechanism in which each individual is an important part. The intelligent co-operation required of each person is a powerful aid to good citizenship.

A Dayton manufacturer said to me: "You are making a pace for us which we cannot follow." I replied: "It won't cost you anything to put a respectable woman over the twenty-five girls in your factory and give them clean, airy, suitable work-rooms."

We were long ago impressed with the idea that many changes should be made in our system, but were timid in taking any steps. Many prejudices had to be overcome before the desire to deal justly with our employes took effect. When we saw, not only that it was just, but to our own interest to adopt a system of mutuality, we gradually made the change. We learned that in order to gain unusual ends one must adopt unusual methods.

We now aim for co-operation and the strength there is in union, and the more we strive for this, the more success we meet. It seems to us, after trying both the old and the new factory system, that in the latter lies the close realization of the words of Abram Hewitt, who said:

"Beyond all dreams of the Golden Age will be the splendor, majesty and happiness of the free peoples when, fulfilling the promise of the ages and the hopes of humanity, they shall learn to make equitable distribution among themselves of the fruit of their common labor."

Dr. J. T. Felling, Des Moines, Iowa, a man that is way up in his profession and a specialist in nervous diseases, writes as follows: "I have used Gessler's Magic Headache wafers in my daily practice and find them to give excellent satisfaction. I have prescribed and given them in a great number of cases and have yet to hear of the first case they did not cure. I do not hesitate to recommend them to both practitioners and the public as a sure cure. A. E. Mummery sells them at 25 cents a box."

SYPHILIS EMISSIONS STRICTURE CURED
Their New Method Treatment cured me in a few weeks. Their treatment is wonderful. You feel yourself gaining every day. I have never heard of their failing to cure in a single case.

IMPOTENCY VARICOCELE EMISSIONS CURED
Wm. A. Walker of 10th Street says:—"I have suffered untold agonies for my 'gay life.' I was indiscreet when young and ignorant. As 'One of the Boys' I contracted Syphilis and other private diseases. I had ulcers in the mouth and throat, bone pains, hair loose, pimples on face, finger nails came off, emissions, became thin and despondent. Seven doctors treated me with Mercury, Potash, etc. They helped me but could not cure me. Finally a friend induced me to try Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method Treatment cured me in a few weeks. I recommend them."

CARRIES NEITHER PURSE NOR SCRIP.

Let Love alone. He is divinely led, And feels the way his veiled eyes do not see. No throne nor principalities hath he, Nor any place to lay his royal head. No care hath he about his daily bread: He rocks not whether he be bond or free; But, full of faith and sweet security, He goes forth cheerily to woo and wed.

For Love believes that all God hath is his, Freely he takes, freely he gives away. With melting, mingling touch of hand and lip, Let Love alone. He claimeth all there is. The whole world trembles with his potent sway.

The king who carries neither purse nor scrip.—

SLAVE RAIDS IN AFRICA.

More Than a Hundred Villages Destroyed in One Campaign.

As we approached the falls we saw that the river banks had been depopulated and the villages were in ashes. We passed dead bodies floating in the river. Canoes were standing on end like hollowed columns; crowds of fugitives were afloat and hiding among the reedy islands. These were all signs of a general terror, but we could get no information of its character. Vague ideas of an invasion from some savage tribe came to our minds, and now and then we had a misgiving that there must be Arab slavers in the neighborhood.

Continuing our ascent, on the third day we came in sight of a huge Arab camp on the right bank, and before long we discovered that the Arabs of Nyangwe (Livingstone's farthest point), having heard the most exaggerated reports of our successful descent of the Kongo in 1877, had hastened after us to reap a harvest of ivory and slaves. They had been too successful. Over 118 villages had been destroyed below Stanley falls alone, a rich plunder of ivory was in their camp, and several hundred slaves, old and young, were herded like goats and heavily fettered in the slave pen. It then appeared that while we had been negotiating with the negro chiefs along the river, making roads, building stations and hauling steamers overland, the Arabs of Nyangwe had been coming down the river, laying the country waste. We had at last met, about 50 miles below the falls. A glance at the scenes of the camp was sufficient to reveal what a future awaited the Kongo valley had we not conceived the project of opening the river to civilizing influences. There was not a moment to lose. We had no authority to open fire on the miscreants. They were subjects of the Prince of Zanzibar, who was a protegee of England, and to plunge into hostilities with them might possibly involve us in serious complications. But while we dared not use force we believed that by continuing the same system we had found so successful with the native chiefs we could check the audacity of the slavers by our mere presence among them. After some days spent in cautious and friendly negotiations with the Arabs we were permitted to establish a station at the falls, and after seeing it well advanced we turned the prow of our steamers down river toward Leopoldville.—Henry M. Stanley in Century.

No Kick Coming.

One day when a coupe driven along Broadway at the rate of ten miles an hour had come within a hairbreadth of running me down I followed it up for three or four blocks until it came to a halt beside the curbstone.

"Do you know," I said to the driver, who grinned as he saw me approach, "that you nearly ran me down ten minutes ago?"

"Yes, sir," he promptly replied. "You had me in between your carriage and a cable car, and it was a close call."

"Yes, it was, sir." "You didn't even try to pull up your horse," I persisted.

"No, sir." "Then you didn't care whether you ran me down or not?"

"No, sir." "Well, that's cool! Are you in the habit of killing people who may be crossing the street as you come along?"

"Not in the habit, no, sir. You see, it was this way. A gent picks me up at the Fifth Avenue and wants to get down to the Star theater in five minutes. I can't get him there in five, but I can in eight if there isn't a block and the wheels stay on, and I does it and gets 50 cents extra."

"But where do I come in?" "You? Why, you escaped with your life, and there's no kick coming to you. Wait till you are run down and killed and then let the widdy do the kicking."—Detroit Free Press.

Roach on the Assembly.

Sir Herbert Maxwell, M. P., retells a tale about the lord high commissioner of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. When Mr. Disraeli was forming his administration in 1874, a certain noble earl, noted, in addition to many estimable qualities, for his fecundity of forcible expletive, expressed a strong desire to become master of the backwoods. "Well," said Disraeli, "I had myself thought of that post for your lordship, but the truth is that her majesty is very particular about the language used in the hunting field, so I have determined to submit your name for her approval as lord high commissioner to the general assembly!" And that post he was appointed accordingly.—Westminster Gazette.

The Oldest Known.

A French medical paper prints what is believed to be the oldest known medical recipe. It is a tonic for the hair, and its date is 4000 B. C. It was prepared for an Egyptian queen and required dogs' paws and asses' hoofs to be boiled with dates in oil.

Gold, silver, copper, iron, tin, lead, mercury, sulphur, carbon, antimony, bismuth and zinc were the only minerals known at the time of the discovery of America.

The ancients, according to Pliny, made a very excellent sympathetic ink, using new milk as the basis.

ELECTRICITY IN THE EARTH.

Is It the Awful Force That Will Finally Destroy the World?

"Take a spade, turn up a small quantity of soil, hold a portion in your hand, hold it to your ear, then smell it. You will observe first a slight motion, hear a faint sound as of the moving of distant timber, and readily notice the odor of heat. Do you know that the forces held in your hand are from electricity; that the earth for three feet deep is alive with the invisible power and forms the secret of vegetable life? Waves of electricity are constantly passing through the soil in unseen billows, thus keeping the soil from souring, as the billows of the ocean keep the waters from becoming stagnant. To demonstrate this fact, go to some rock bound pool, dip out a small quantity of the polluted water, place it in a bottle, cork and set aside in a warm place for a short time. Then take the bottle into a dark room, shake the bottle, draw out the cork, and you will see tiny flocks of blue lightning shoot out from the bottle, and if you keep perfectly quiet you will hear faint mutterings like thunder. This comes from the flintlike rocks preventing the unbroken flow of electricity through the soil and from the air becoming charged and emptying itself into the water.

"Electricity, as is being gradually shown, is fire—the fire of friction, if you will, the first known by the inhabitants of our globe. Look at an arc lamp and see its combined sparks as they emit from the carbons so swiftly that they are taken for a regular flame of eye bedazzling light. In the ages to come the charge of electricity will keep on accumulating until some commotion of the earth will cause it to ignite, when, in the twinkling of an eye, our world, with all it contains, will be wrapped and consumed by a conflagration that will startle if not frighten the inhabitants of other planets as they look down upon the flaming mass and see burn up one of the greatest works of the Almighty's creation."—Philadelphia Times.

CREDITED MISS ROCKEFELLER.

She Couldn't Quite Understand Why the Shopman Was So Gracious.

A pretty story is told of Mrs. Harold McCormick while she was Miss Edith Rockefeller, showing the simple manner in which she regarded her father's great wealth.

The incident occurred when she was a pupil at one of the fashionable New York schools. She, with a party of girls from her class, presented herself at a certain furniture dealer's to choose a gift for a favorite teacher. The price of the pretty writing desk, however, was more than the sum in their possession. The girls suggested that if the desk was sent they would forward the balance as soon as possible.

The proprietor very politely, but also very decidedly, informed the girls that he could not do as they asked. "But," he said, "if you can think of any New York business man with whom any of your fathers are acquainted and who will vouch for you the matter may possibly be arranged."

"Why," said the daughter of the great petroleum magnate, "I think my papa has an office down on Broadway. Possibly we can get the money there."

"Who is your father?" queried the dealer.

"His name is Rockefeller," replied the girl simply; "John D. Rockefeller. He is in the oil business."

The merchant gasped and looked at the girl in amazement. "John D. Rockefeller your father? Is John D. Rockefeller good for $25?" he repeated in excitement.

Then he recovered his presence of mind sufficiently to order the desk packed up and sent immediately, while Miss Edith, very much astonished at his unwonted excitement, thanked him with pretty and simple grace.—Philadelphia Press.

The Lord Mayor's Costumes.

The lord mayor has to put on three suits of clothes on taking office. He wears a wide sleeved, velvet faced, fur trimmed robe of purple silk rep on presenting himself to the lord chancellor at Westminster; this he uses afterward as a police magistrate. For his show he wears a robe of superfine scarlet broadcloth, faced with sable fur and lined with pearl satin; this he must wear when greeting the judges at the Old Bailey and on All Saints' days. The dress for evening and formal receptions is a black damask satin robe, embroidered with silver gilt. Under these he wears a velvet coat and knee breeches. The robes are perquisites of the office and cost $1,000. The chain of the office has on it diamonds worth $600,000, and each lord mayor must give bonds for its safe return on receiving it. When the queen passes through the city, a fourth robe is necessary; but, as that seldom happens, it is bought only when the occasion arises.

The Gate Where "Poor Joe" Died.

"Tom All Alone's," the dismal graveyard in Russell court, Drury lane, immortalized by Dickens in the Poor Joe episode of "Bleak House," is now almost an open space, owing to the extensive demolitions in the neighborhood. The old dismal passage and steps have gone, and the yard is paved and laid out as a poor children's gymnasium, but the bars still remain, and is, like the space, in the custody of the London common council.—London News.

Why He Didn't Take His Wife to Ride.

A professor of mathematics in an eastern college is so completely absorbed in his profession that he is becoming more and more absentminded every day. Not long ago he said to one of the students, "You see, I wanted to take my wife out for a drive and give her some fresh air, but when I came to make preparations I suddenly remembered that I never had a wife."—Golden Days.

SAVED BY A CAT.

How a Bashful Young Man at Last Got a Spoon.

There is a man, well known in judicial circles as one of the most polished and courteously gentlemen, who tells the following story:

He had not, in his early youth, those advantages which tend to produce ease of manner. When about 15, he was much in love with a neighbor's daughter, and, according to his statement, was at this time nearly 6 feet tall, ungainly, shy and with the proverbial ubiquitous hands and feet.

One Sunday he was at dinner with his rosy cheeked sweetheart, and when the guests had been served with soup the youth discovered that he had no spoon. He grew red in the face and was in an agony of mortification and dismay. If he asked for a spoon, he felt sure every one would look at him; if he did not eat his soup, his hostess would be sure to remark it. What was he to do? He felt his hands growing larger and more in the way than ever, and his feet caused him untold emotion by absolutely refusing to unfold his chair.

Great beads of perspiration stood out on his face and trickled down like rain. The situation was becoming unendurable when a terrified cat, pursued by a small but game terrier, rushed into the room and sprang upon the table. The guests jumped up, and in the general confusion the embarrassed youth retained his seat, and turning to the servant remarked calmly, "I'll have a spoon, please."—Washington Times.

The Skeleton of De Soto.

The local historians of Baton Rouge, La., believe that the mortal remains of Fernando De Soto lie buried between two gigantic oak trees near the present site of Port Hudson. The books tell different tales about the death and burial of the great discoverer. Some say that he was wrapped in his mantle and thrown into the Mississippi; others that the remains were incased in a hollow log. In 1853 three hunters—Rigsby, Davis and Hurin—were encamped near what is now Port Hudson. While kindling a fire they found a human skeleton in a hollow log that had been lying in a drift. The bones were those of a man six feet tall. In the log a helmet, a rusty sword and a large bronze crucifix were also found, and on one of the fingers of the skeleton's hand a large seal ring. The discoverers of this ghastly memento believe that the remains were those of De Soto, the discoverer of the Mississippi river. The burial place of the bones is well known to the Rigsbys, who still reside in Louisiana.—St. Louis Republic.

Cold and Clothes.

People who are susceptible to the cold should make a point of wearing loose clothing in cold weather. Loose garments are always warmer than tight fitting ones, not only because they allow room for circulation, but also because they permit a layer of air between the skin and the outside cold.—New York Sun.

A SURE CURE

Most people in Ann Arbor know those who have testified as follows:

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 16, 1895.
Warner's Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—After suffering for a number of years from catarrh and trying almost every cure I could hear of, I was persuaded to try your catarrh remedy, and I am glad to say that after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I would cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering from catarrh as I am sure if it cured the catarrh that I had it will cure others.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. W. DAKE.

Grand Haven, Mich., Sept. 20, 1895.

Warner's Catarrh Cure Co.:
Dear Sirs:—It affords me much pleasure to add my testimony, as to the value of Warner's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken two bottles of your remedy and am greatly relieved and by taking one more bottle I will be cured.

WILFORD W. DAKE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., October 5, 1891.
Warner Catarrh Cure Co.:
Dear Sirs:—I was troubled with catarrh for a number of years. I tried physicians and different remedies without getting permanent relief. Warner's Catarrh Remedy was recommended to me by one who was cured of chronic catarrh with your medicine. The first bottle I took stopped the dropping in my throat, and I must admit that three bottles positively cured me of catarrh of the head and stomach. In conclusion I will say that I most cheerfully recommend Warner's Catarrh Remedy to all who may be troubled with Catarrh in any form.

Yours truly,
BENJAMIN GLASSFORD.

Leroy, Ohio, Feb. 13, 1895.
Warner's Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—Your remedy has cured my daughter and myself; also three members of a Phillips family and a Miss Grafton, all having been sufferers of catarrh. Please ship at once one dozen bottles.

Yours truly,
MRS. B. McFARLAND.

These are People who

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23, 1895.
Warner Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—Having had catarrh for over twenty-five years, and spent several hundred dollars with the best physicians, and different remedies, without getting permanent relief, after two months treatment with your Catarrh Remedy, can state that I now feel perfectly well, and I most cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering with that dreaded disease in any form.

Yours very respectfully,
PUSEY W. MOORE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 23, 1895.
Warner Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—Your Catarrh Cure is all right, as my son has tried it and it has helped him wonderfully, and I feel sure it will cure him by the time he takes another bottle.

Respectfully,
JAS. B. WILLIS

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 23, 1894.
Warner Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—My experience with Warner's Catarrh Remedy has been so satisfactory that I most cheerfully recommend its use to anyone who needs a throat application or has catarrhal trouble.

Yours truly
F. T. McOMBER.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 12, 1894.
Warner Catarrh Cure Co.:
Gentlemen:—I wish to state that I have been bothered for several years with a bronchial catarrh which has been a constant annoyance in speaking and singing. I was so bad last summer that my voice almost failed me. I could not use my voice in singing, and only in moderate speaking for some time. I have used a great deal of medicine, and several remedies warranted specifics for the trouble, but found no relief until I used your remedy. I can now use my voice for singing and anticipate a complete cure through the use of your remedy. You have my permission to refer to me in the matter as you may see fit.

Very truly,
CHAS. W. MELLOR.
266 College Ave.

The Washtenaw Evening Times says of Mr. Warner and his Remedy:

"C. C. Warner is having a splendid success with his new catarrh remedy, and though he has done practically no advertising at all, reports that the sale is increasing so rapidly that he expects to soon be obliged to rent a building for the sole purpose of manufacturing the remedy. The Times congratulates Mr. Warner on his success, which is well deserved. The remedy is certainly a good one for there are numbers of well-known and prominent people right here in Ann Arbor who have been cured of long standing cases of catarrh. They are so well pleased with their cure that they give Mr. Warner considerable very valuable advertising by telling of the efficacy of Mr. Warner's remedy in their cases. Among those who have been cured of catarrh here may be mentioned, F. T. McOmber and C. W. Mellor. Mr. Mellor's case was an especially bad one it compelling him to give up his singing last year. The Times hopes to see Mr. Warner succeed in building up a fine business, for the good character of his remedy certainly deserves to bring him success."

Now the important question is, Have You the Catarrh? The time to cure it is RIGHT NOW and, if you will believe your neighbors whom you know are honest, you will use WARNER'S CATARRH REMEDY because it cures. For Sale by all Druggists. Manufactured only by en as a whole the course has been very satisfactory, and the best ever given for the price in Ann Arbor.

DOINGS OF SEVEN DAYS.

The committee having the course in charge have worked against many disadvantages, chiefest among which has been a suitable place for holding the entertainments. Through the kindness of the Presbyterian Society that church was secured for the entire course, but if the entertainments could be given in a public hall the sale of tickets would be far in excess of what they have been, for strange as it may seem, there are large numbers of people who will not attend entertainments in a church, and for reasons diametrically opposite.

At one time it looked pretty dark for the committee, but through the untiring efforts of the Y. M. C. A. management the course will come through all right, and about $100 be turned over to the building fund of the association as net profits.

Next year, now that the course has been so successfully started, and the people find that by patronizing it they secure a good class of entertainments at a nominal price, it is hoped that every one will rally to its support, and instead of $100 give the building fund a boost of $1,000. That could be easily done if the association had a hall of its own, in which to hold the entertainments.

The Y. M. C. A. Lyceum course has come to stay. It is for the people, with the people, and the people will make it a great success.

It is evident that with an organization in which the people have confidence, they will do something for the town boys. These boys have been sadly neglected in the past. It is time they received some attention. The work of the committee has been entirely a labor of love on their part, for they have not only served without money and without price, but have contributed of their means to the support of the enterprise the same as other patrons.

Her Departure Regretted—

The New York Daily Tribune of Feb. 26, under the above heading, had the following relative to the new dean of women in the U. of M.:

The decision of Miss Eliza M. Mosher, of No. 196 Joralemon st., to leave Brooklyn and accept the call of the University of Michigan to become professor of hygiene and act as woman's dean in the University, will deprive the Brooklyn Young Woman's Christian Association of one of its valued workers. When Dr. Mosher's acceptance of the call to Ann Arbor was announced, in the Tribune about a month ago, Dr. Mosher was called upon by many women connected with the Christian Association who expressed their regret at her decision.

The association will give a formal expression to its sense of loss in a statement that will be published in the year book, soon to be issued. This is what the book will say: "The medical report recalls the fact that it is the last we can have from the pen of Dr. Mosher. In accepting the call to the University of Michigan as professor of hygiene and as dean of the literary department, she must soon leave the city. Dr. Mosher has from the outset of our life as an association been a most loyal friend, giving freely of her time and medical advice without material reward. Who can tell of all she has been able to accomplish for the girls who have come to her in her mornings spent in counsel with them in our little medical department tucked away in the basement? Our congratulations, therefore, to Ann Arbor University in securing Dr. Mosher are tempered by a sense of the loss we sustain in saying goodbye to such a warm friend and valued fellow-worker."

In the report of her work for the association, Dr. Mosher will merely say that the number of patients enrolled in the year ending February 1, was 162, that the number of prescriptions given was 240 and that the amount received was $131.89. She will also add in explanation:

"The medical office has been open four hours each week during the year, except in July and August, when both attending physicians were absent from the city. The patients have not all been new ones, but it was necessary to present some of those in attendance with new cards, hence their names had to be re-enlisted. A number of those in attendance were not members of the association, but most of them were introduced by members or friends. The service rendered has in most cases seemed to be especially needed, and it has also been received with grateful appreciation."

Electric Roads are Coming—

As a general thing the business men of Ann Arbor do not take kindly to the proposed electric line to Detroit, the idea being that it will work a great injury to their business. Whether this would prove to be a fact or not, remains to be demonstrated. It might injure business in some ways, and then again it might better it. There is a certain class of people who will trade in Detroit any way. We have known women to step to a telephone here and order goods from Detroit, pay the express charges and the telephone message, when they could have bought the same article they ordered, in the store from which they telephoned, at the same price, or perhaps a trifle less than they paid the Detroit merchant, not counting telephone and express charges.

That class of people are no benefit to Ann Arbor business men anyway. The electric road may add to that class somewhat. But it must be remembered that this road will bring people to Ann Arbor as well as take them away, and there are hundreds living along the line of the road who will be glad to come to Ann Arbor to trade, whose means nor desires neither one, will take them to Detroit. Where Ann Arbor will lose a few she will gain many. At least that is the view of a prominent and practical gentleman. The fact that Ann Arbor is the county seat and many people will be obliged to come here to transact business, adds to that view of the matter.

Then again, he says that with this road making hourly or bi-hourly trips to Detroit, there are many wealthy people there who would come out here and build themselves fine homes and live here, for the benefit it would be to their families. This would become a beautiful and wealthy suburb, as it were, to the great metropolis of Michigan.

But whether this proposed road will help or injure Ann Arbor business men will not be considered. The capital invested will not come from Ann Arbor or its vicinity, and the right of way has all been secured, it is understood. The right to use the streets of the city would not be denied, and even if it should, the city street railway company would be glad to sell its franchise and plant at a moderate sum. Its owners having never been surfeited with profits from its earnings.

It will not be more than a decade hence when the entire state will be honeycombed with electric roads. We should not be surprised to see the Adrian, Clinton, Tecumseh & Ann Arbor line yet revived and built. And the smaller towns that are not now connected with the outer world will in the near future be given electric connection.

It is only a question of time when cars will be running to all the towns and cities of the state, and three cent per mile railway passenger rates relegated to the past, no matter if the state did make a foolish bargain in its early and impecunious days.

The children of Michigan believe that their fathers had no right to mortgage their interests for such an unreasonable length of time, and they will find a way to work out of the weary and heavy load placed on their shoulders without their consent.

Electric roads will be the death knell of three cent per mile passenger rates.

Another Pioneer Passes Away—

On the night of the 25th of February, at her home in Augusta, the spirit of Mrs. Hannah Frost Bemiss Childs, widow of the late Hon. Aaron Childs, passed away, after an illness, from paralysis, of something more than nine years. During that time she had been a most patient and uncomplaining sufferer.

The deceased was born in Windham, Vt., and at the time of her death was nearly 82 years of age. She came to Michigan with her husband in 1832, and settled on the farm where she died, which her husband took up from the government.

There were nine children in her family, five of whom survive her: Col. J. W. Childs, of Washington, D. C., (the first born); Mrs. Robert Campbell, and W. K. Childs of Ann Arbor; E. M. Childs and Miss Alma C. Childs of Augusta.

Funeral services were held at the family residence on Saturday Feb. 29, Rev. Wm. E. Caldwell, of this city, preaching the sermon, and the burial was in the 1st Congregational church cemetery of Augusta. The funeral was attended by a large concourse, a great many being old friends who had known her since the pioneer days.

In the death of this aged pioneer, one of the salt of the earth has passed away. She was a noble woman in the days of her prime, and she did what she found to do as a Christian, and with the spirit of Him who suffered for others on the cross. She lived to be ripe in years, and although called upon to pass through excruciating suffering in her later years, yet the patient and uncomplaining spirit proved how thoroughly her soul had been moulded to that of her Saviour's.

Nothing Succeeds Like Success.

The success of the Speer N. J. Wine Co. in producing an extra quality of Grape Brandy is marvelous. They rely alone on the grape for body and flavor, and hence there is a wide and growing demand for this Brandy which rivals the old brands of Cognac, France.

Nothing is sweeter than Speer's Old Climax Brandy and his Old Port, five to fifteen years old. For table use their Claret, Sauternes, Burgundies and P. J. Sherry are unsurpassed. For the sick room, hospital and Sacramental purposes their Unfermented Grape Juice is recommended and used by both physicians and divines. Sold by druggists.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ill, biliousness, jaundice, indigestion and sick headache.

Results Tell the Story.

A vast mass of direct, unimpeachable testimony proves beyond any possibility of doubt that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually does perfectly and permanently cure diseases caused by impure blood. Its record of cures is unequalled and these cures have often been accomplished after all other preparations had failed.

Boston not Ashamed of American Art.

Boston alone can boast a museum that has any claim to represent American art-history, and even that representation is feeble and inadequate. Why is it that we can furnish heat, light, and lodging for Bouguereau and Vibert, while no one cares to take Gilbert Stuart and his contemporaries in from the door-step? What matter that West and Copley were immature painters? So were Cimabue and Hogarth and Rene of Anjou. Some one had to make a beginning, and West and Copley were beginners of whom we have no reason to be ashamed. At any rate they were our own, and if our improvement in art has been rapid since their time, all the more reason why we should preserve the record of our growth.—February Scribner's.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Callouette, Druggist, Beaver-ville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store, I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's Drug Store, and Geo. J. Heaussler, Manchester.
