The Verdict

Said Mr. M—the other day: "I want one of your seamless hot-water bottles that you warrant. I had one of them and it lasted six months with constant use. I bought two at —'s and they gave out very quickly."

We can give you the man's name if you want it.

These bottles will last two or three years with ordinary use.

CALKINS' PHARMACY.

PINGREE'S CANVAS.

One of the fortunate things about Pingree's campaign for the governorship is that it was started too early. The band wagon will at first attract children and lovers of novelties, but after following it awhile they see it is all useless noise, cheap tinsel, and leads nowhere worth following.

One of the strange features of his campaign is the way it seemed to carry off their feet that conservative part of our voters, the farmers. This was done by the mayor's talk against corporations. The farmer is having a hard time with the present low prices of his produce and is looking about to see how times can be improved. Some now say as they did four years ago: "Things can't be any worse, so let's vote for a change." Wool was then 20 cents and wheat 80 cents. They voted for Gorman and other free traders who forced through the Wilson bill, thereby lowering wool to 8 cents and wheat to 50 cents. Thus things did get worse.

Now they say after our recent high state tax: "That can't be higher. Let's put in a feller who will shake up the corporations." But they have only to look to the mayor's administration of Detroit to get an eye-opener on taxes, for when Pingree first became mayor he found a city debt of $600,000. Now he has raised it to $4,000,000, and the people who formerly believed in paying as they went, now find themselves under a debt they will not see paid in their life time. When the mayor went into office there was a horde of office holders in the city departments who did little work for large pay. Instead of cleaning them out, others were put in their places and the number largely increased at the tax payer's expense, until they form one of the most complete machines to be found in any city.

In the old days Detroit did not spend much money on lawyers and in expensive litigation, but of late years a large gang of attorneys has fattened on the continued suits brought, against good advice and sound judgment.

Farmers, business men, laboring men and even long headed politicians are not in favor of big taxes, useless employees, expensive law suits, band wagon politics, and all that makes Pingree prominent. They are going to have plenty of time before the convention to size up the mayor's administration and to conclude that they do not want Michigan plunged into enormous debt, never ending litigation and invested with a burdensome lot of political hangers on.

McKinley seems to be getting a lot of the New York delegates. In connection with that it is amusing to note how the friends of T. S. Platt who owns several railroads in that state and controls the U. S. Express company, and of Gov. Morton, who is many times a millionaire, charge that money is being used against them. The simple fact is that the people are resolute in wanting protection's champion in the White House. They do not want to run any more risk about free trade. Therefore they turn out and see to it that New York does not throw away their vote on impossible candidates.

Many republicans are wondering whether Mr. Pingree will take the democratic nomination after he fails to get the republican one. He is not fair to honest republicans who have a right to know his purpose on that point. It is expected that he will, and he does not deny it.

The prohibitionists hold their county convention here to-morrow, at the court house, to elect delegates to their state convention, which meets at Lansing April 15-16.

Opening of the New Armory—

During the fore part of the evening of Wednesday Apr. 8, a reception by the officers of the Michigan National Guard. At 8:30 o'clock the ceremonies of Guard Mounting will be gone through with, after which the company will be formed with open ranks and the three months regular attendance at drill medals will be presented. A short company drill will then take place, followed by dancing.

Guard Mounting is considered by the military to be the most interesting and pleasing of ceremonies, and will certainly be entertaining to those who witness it.

The day and evening after opening night, the armory will be open the inspection of those who care to visit it.

Ordination Ceremonies Sunday—

The ceremony of ordination performed at St. Andrew's church last Sunday morning, by which Lawrence T. Cole was made a minister of the Gospel in the Protestant Episcopal church, was very impressive and beautiful.

Many people were unable to secure admission to the church, so great was the desire to see and hear the services.

Right Rev. Thomas F. Davies, bishop of this diocese, performed the ceremony proper, assisted by Rev. Henry Tatlock, rector of the parish, Rev. W. O. Waters, rector of St. Andrew's parish, Detroit, who preached the sermon, and did it most eloquently, and who also read the litany, and by Revs. R. M. Beach and L. P. Jocelyn. Although it took nearly three hours to complete the ceremony, yet so interested was the audience that but few became fatigued.

It is quite natural that Mr. Cole should have many friends here, being a native of the city, and one who by a singularly pure and unselfish life has endeared himself to the public in general as but few, so young in years, have ever done.

A grandson of the revered and beloved Ex-Gov. Alpheus Felch, Mr. Cole has inherited many of the sterling qualities of his grandfather. He has felt from his youth up, that his field of labor lay in the line he has chosen, and those who know him best, are sure that he has made no mistake. If ever a young man has been called to the ministry, Lawrence Cole has been so called, and he has the earnest prayers of everyone for a long life of usefulness. May God speed and prosper him comes from deep down in the hearts of his friends.

As Viewed by Stearns—

The Adrian Press takes a pretty sensible, although unique view of things sometimes. Here is a specimen for instance:

Albert Bucholz, of Ann Arbor, had a chance to earn a few dimes by distributing bills around the streets, but the marshal, who can't see an open saloon on Sunday when the doors are wide open, was on the bill peddler's collar in a York minute, and snatched him before a judicial functionary, who told him it would cost him three dollars for trying to earn money.

"Will you take bills?" timidly inquired the prisoner.

"Certainly," said hizonner, in the blandest manner imaginable.

"Well, judge, I guess I have got through distributing bills."

The squire's smile slowly unwrinkled, and in severe tones he said "Seven days in jail."

And the dignity of the law was upheld, and the scales of justice didn't tip up, many way. That is the town where they fine boys for peeping through the fence to see a ball game.

A Word to Supervisors—

Mr. Editor:

The following article in reference to a most vital subject, is not original with myself, but it is so applicable to the case here, and I presume all over the state as well, that I believe you will confer a favor upon your readers by publishing it:

"There is an idea that will ultimately tunnel itself into the heads of township supervisors, village and city boards, or whoever selects names from which the county clerk and sheriff draws the panel of jurors, viz., in exercising more care in such choice.

"As it is now, and has been for long, the only ones exempt from jury services, are the aged, the sick, idiots, doctors and (other) lunatics, and the result has been that cranks have been put upon juries who, when their peculiar idiosyncrasy was struck, were as hilariously insane and unreasonable as a bedlamite. Words were worse than wasted on them, and the longer they were labored with the firmer and more unyielding they became, and a disagreement necessarily followed.

"Again, there is the pigheaded, stubborn 'set in his way' man, who will hang a jury a week if necessary on a single thought, and an unreasonable one too, as his brother jurymen think.

"These men should be avoided in making up the list, because only men competent to reason and be reasoned with, should ever sit on a jury. We have had some glowing examples within the last few years, of how much this sort of men cost the county—whom time has proved at last in the wrong—and they should be avoided as much as a snapping-turtle which will hang on to a thing until its head can be pulled out far enough to cut off.

"Then there is the agreeable man—believes the last story, good or bad, and will only be convinced by overpowering weight of evidence on the other side; but he can be convinced. Still he is a nuisance, and a bother in the jury room; and so long as there are level-headed men enough without him, better not have his name on the list.

The time of year is approaching when names are selected, and it behooves those concerned to select good reasonable men—not mental cranks or cripples.

"Our jury system is the most abortive in the world at best, and the law as practiced before our courts is a fabric of rottenness from start to finish; so that when a man decides on having a law suit—unless it is forced upon him—he starts down the Jericho road with as positive assurance that in the end he will be covered with legal leeches, blisters, boils, and sores as that he survives the ordeal. W."

Something New in the Social Line—

One of the committees of the Baptist Young People's Union of the 1st Baptist church of this city, is known as the Milwaukee Club. Its object is to cause interest in the national convention of the union to be held next July at Milwaukee.

A very novel entertainment was given by the club last Friday, in the church parlors. It was advertised as "An excursion to Milwaukee, round trip 15 cents."

One room was fitted up as the Ann Arbor waiting room. Here tickets could be bought at the office, of the regulation form, good for round trip, first class passage to Milwaukee, and included meals at Jackson, Niles and Chicago. On presenting the tickets wraps could be checked free at the baggage room. The sound of a telegraph, ticking messages to those already at Milwaukee, the calls of the boys with papers and popcorn, and the entrance of the engineer for train orders, quite prepared the visitor to hear the call, "Train going west." From fifteen to twenty were taken on each trip, the route being through the several rooms. Refreshments were served by young ladies dressed as waiters at three stations and then the excursion train pulled into Milwaukee, where a committee made them welcome. This was the large lecture room which was decorated with flowers and bunting.

After all had arrived at their destination, a programme was given of convention songs, echos from last year's convention, talks about Milwaukee, etc. The social was voted by all a success, and the Milwaukee club can be sure of an attendance whenever they announce another entertainment.

Gave the Wrong Accent—

The following good story is told by a gentleman who vouches for its truth. A breezy chap drifted into town some weeks ago from the far west, and for a time held forth to a number of astonished "tenderfeet" who had gathered on an up-town street corner to hear extolled the wonderful, "wild and woolly west." As one came within sound of his voice he was struck with the fact that the fellow's early educational advantages had been somewhat limited. It was soon ascertained, however, that he had a pile of "dust," and education don't count when "dust," in sufficient quantity, of the ariferous kind, prevails.

It was soon gathered from his high flown language that he had "struck it rich" in the Cripple Creek country, and now had in view a project to connect his possessions by an electric car line that was to revolutionize the mode of travel in that district.

Our volatile hero had come back east to see his old home and at the same time to purchase the outfit for his road. After setting forth the brilliant prospects his scheme possessed, in rhetoric that would put to blush a Chesterfield, and cause the author of Gov. Luce's Arbor Day proclamations to turn green with envy. He was firm in the belief that he was just the man to conduct such an enterprise.

"Gentlemen," he said, as he threw back his big wolf-skin overcoat from his breast, and raised his sombrero, "I want to tell you that I have got a mon'-o-po'-ly (with the accent on the first and penultimate syllables, as indicated), I have got a mon'-o-po'-ly of the hull line, and what's more, I've got the cap'-i-city to run it—now you hear me!"

That was enough. The one who tells this story says he turned away thinking about the girl who lost her lover and said that she wept co-pi-ously.

One of the popular candidates for state treasurer is ex-senator George A. Steele of St. Johns. He is not only well fitted for the place by his business training but is fortunate in hailing from a portion of the state which has been but little represented among state officers.

The election of safe republicans to the common council this spring means a considerable help towards the election next fall, by its effect. In every ward let there be careful choice of honest men who have no axes to grind, and who will help keep down the taxes. Don't take up a man simply because he wants to run.

The area of Great Britain is about the same as that of the territory of New Mexico, and yet she rules over about 12,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface, or about one-fourth of the earth's land surface, and one-third of its inhabitants.

A spirit medium down east, who recently reported a conversation with the spirit of George William Curtis, would have been wiser had he studied his grammar more thoroughly. George William was very precise in the use of his language, and it is hardly likely he has deteriorated since passing into the spirit world.

Kentucky is a great tate. Her legislature fought over the election of a senator for three months or more, got so excited that Gov. Bradley was obliged to call out the militia to keep the peace, and finally adjourned without electing anyone or without passing necessary appropriation bills, either one. The body was a tie politically, hence the unhappy result.

It is understood that the A. P. A's will put a ticket in the field for president, and that Congressman Linton of the Saginaw district, will be their nominee for the first place. It should be borne in mind by every person in this country that the constitution of the United States gives every citizen a right to worship as his conscience dictates, and that when religion enters into politics, it is dangerous to the peace of the republic.

It is quietly hinted that the delegates from this vicinity will work for the nomination of a Dexter man for an important office on one of the county tickets this fall. Which ticket it is or who the man is, we are not at liberty to say, but can assure our readers that it will be a clear case of the office seeking the man, not the man the office.—Dexter Leader.

That is very indefinite, but a good guesser can guess. He is a good man, in every way worthy and well qualified, duly and truly prepared, and not only that but is deserving, and has hosts of friends in this county in every nook and by-way who believe in him and will work for him.

your doctor. The doctors approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York

The French have placed a tablet on the house that Benjamin Franklin occupied in 1776. Franklin at that time was an insurgent colonist, which is to say that he was a man Spain would shoot before breakfast or send to a deadly African prison.

A leading English sanitarian contends that 70 per cent. of the human race would attain the age of 110 if all lived according to the laws of hygiene. The present average of 35 years has a long way to climb before it reaches the natural limit.

Republican clubs composed of white voters are beginning to appear in South Carolina, one in Charleston having over 1,000 members. There are many sensible men in the state who want something better than a choice between worn-out politics and Tillmanism.

The new United States ram Katakhdin has gone into commission with a crew of ninety men and seven officers. This ship has some novel features, and just what it can accomplish in a sea fight is a matter of conjecture. But its purpose is to go straight at an invading fleet and try conclusions.

Tesla's idea of passing solids through solids by means of the new ray opens possibilities that go far ahead of chemical food tablets and emergency rations. Just think of an atomized viand scintillated through the body by the mysterious energy of light electrically applied.

By April 1st, thirteen republican state conventions for the election of delegates to the national convention will have been held, and eight more have been called for April, so that by May 1, probably a definite estimate can be made as to the relative strength of the several candidates.

It is promised that the Grant monument at Riverside Park, New York, will be completed on the anniversary of the General's birth, April 27, of next year. The fund amounts to $529,931.91, of which three-fifths has been expended. New York has been slow in this undertaking, but it is hoped that the date now fixed will not be subject to further change.

President Harris, of the Reading Railroad, estimates that the original contents of the anthracite coal fields amounted to about 14,453,400,000 tons, of which $2 1-2 per cent remains to be worked. We can have coal at the rate of 60,000,000 tons a year for 100 years to come, he says, and so we need not begin to bother about that matter until after several more Presidential elections.

E. Everett Howe, author of "Chronicles of Break o' Day," the story that broke new ground in fiction and gave the writer, a poor Ingham county boy a big boost up the ladder of fame and a prominent place in the ranks of successful novelists, has written another book along entirely different lines, that will be ready for the publishers in about two weeks.—Chelsea Standard.

French editors are always comic when they mention names and places in America. One of them says Spain will not retreat before "Sherman, the brother of the slayer of the Colorado Indians." The Frenchman had Sheridan and the Piegans in mind. Victor Hugo referred to Grant as the executioner of John Brown, a statement supposed to have some relation to the fact that Lee commanded the troops that captured Brown.

A number of independent and democratic papers, of the Detroit Evening News stamp, are publishing great stories about the friends of McKinley contributing thousands upon thousands of dollars to take McKinley shoulders down to the St. Louis convention to carry the day for him by wind. The stories published are so absurd that were it not for their utter falsity, people would be inclined to laugh at them. It is well known that McKinley does not have to hire "clackers" to keep up the enthusiasm for him and his cause. The people are for him and with him. Even the "favorite son" scheme does not work, for he has so many friends in all the states of the Union that no subterfuge can be worked against him by scheming and designing politicians. He represents the doctrine of protection to American industries and American laborers, under which this nation prospered for so many years, and as the most prominent, and most capable exponent of that doctrine, the people will nominate him, despite the falsehoods set in circulation by political opponents, and intrigues of political wire-pullers and bosses. McKinley will be the next president of the United States.

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit. No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success. Read this statement: "When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

No one believes that these manufactures contribute the large sums of money necessary to boom the idol of the republicans to-day from sentimental motives. They are in politics to be bought up to vote for their pocketbooks, and they expect to make the dear people pay for all the money they contribute to secure higher protection. They are making business investments.—Argus.

The same old song. The manufacturers pay the campaign expenses. But as the people have had the sad experience of three years of free trade, for which English manufacturers paid, they have sagely come to the conclusion that it is to their interests to have the American manufacturers pay these alleged fabulous sums. It is prosperity for them, and prosperity is what they are in search of. The people do not have to be bought up to vote for their own interests, and the practical lessons of the past few years has thoroughly taught them where their interests lay, so that all clap-trap like the above will not have the least effect.

Then again McKinley does not have to buy up followers. The people are for him. All the people, and they will not be bluffed, brow beaten or scared by any silly campaign lies started for that purpose.

You can carry the little vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets right in the vest-pocket of your dress suit, and it will not make even a little lump. The "Pellets" are so small that 42 to 44 of them go in a vial scarcely more than an inch long, and as big round as a lead pencil.

They cure constipation. One "Pellet" is a laxative; two a mild cathartic. One taken after dinner will stimulate digestive action and palliate the effects of over-eating. They act with gentle efficiency on stomach, liver and bowels. They don't do the work themselves. They simply stimulate the natural action of the organs themselves. That is where they differ from all other pills. That is what makes them better than all other pills. You don't become a slave to their use as with other pills, because their help lasts. Once used, they are always in favor. CAUTION.—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them. For a free sample (4 to 7 doses) of "Pleasant Pellets," address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Rout of Braddock's Army.

On the 9th of July, at mid-day, they waded the shallow Monongahela, but eight miles from Duquesne, making a brave show as the sun struck upon their serried ranks, their bright uniforms, their fluttering banners, and their glittering arms, and went straight into the rough and shadowed forest path that led to the French post. Upon a sudden there came a man bounding along the path to meet them, wearing the gorget of a French officer, and the forest behind him swarmed with a great host of but half-discovered men. Upon signal given, these spread themselves to right and left within the shelter of the forest, and from their covert poured a deadly fire upon Braddock's advancing lines. With good British pluck the steady regulars formed their accustomed ranks, crying, "God save the King!" to give grace to the volleys they sent back into the forest; the ordnance was brought up and swung to its work; all the force pressed forward to take what place it could in the fight; but where was the use? Washington besought General Braddock to scatter his men too, and meet the enemy under cover as they came, but he would not listen. They must stand in ranks, as they were bidden, and take the fire of their hidden foes like men, without breach of discipline. When they would have broken in spite of him, in their panic at being slaughtered there in the open glade without sight of the enemy, Braddock beat them back with his sword, and literally cursed them for cowards. He would have kept the Virginians, too, back from the covert if he could, when he saw them seek to close with the attacking party in true forest fashion. As it was, they were often shot down by the terror-stricken regulars behind them as by their right foes in front. They alone could tell in such a place how the battle fared? No one could count the enemy where they sprang from covert to covert. They were, in fact, near a thousand strong at the first meeting in the way,—more than six hundred Indians, a motley host gathered from far and near at the summons of the French, seven-score Canadian rangers, seventy-odd regulars from the fort, and thirty or forty French officers, came out of sheer eagerness to have a hand in the daring game. Contrecoeur could not spare more Frenchmen from his little garrison, his connections at the lakes being threatened, and he sorely straitened for men and stores. He was staking everything, as it was, upon this encounter on the way. If the English should shake the savages off, as he deemed they would, he must no doubt withdraw as he could ere the lines of siege were closed about him. He never dreamed of such largeness of good fortune as came pouring in upon him. The English were not only checked, but beaten. They had never seen business like this. 'Twas a pitiful, shameful slaughter,—men shot like beasts in a pent here where they covered close in their scarlet ranks. Their first blazing volleys had sent the craven Canadians scampering back the way they had come; Beaujeu, who led the attack, was killed almost at the first onset; but the gallant youngsters who led the motley array yavered never an instant, and readily held the Indians to their easy work. Washington did all that furious energy and reckless courage could to keep the order of battle his commander held so madly chosen, to hold the regulars to their blind work and hearten the Virginians to stay the threatened rout, driving his horse evenly into the thick of the murderous firing, and crying upon all alike to keep to it steadily like men. He had but yesterday rejoined the advance, having for almost two weeks lain stricken with a fever in Dunbar's camp. He could hardly sit in his cushioned saddle for weakness when the fight began; but when the blaze of the battle burst, his eagerness was suddenly like that of one possessed, and his immunity from harm like that of one charmed. Thrice a horse was shot under him, many bullets cut his clothing, but he went without a wound. A like mad energy drove Braddock storming up and down the breaking lines; but he was mortally stricken at last, and Washington alone remained to exercise such control as was possible when the inevitable rout came.

 It was impossible to hold the ground in such fashion. The stubborn Braddock himself had ordered a retreat ere the fatal bullet found him. Sixty-three out of the eighty-six officers of his force were killed or disabled; less than five hundred men out of thirteen hundred who had but just now passed so gallantly through the ford remained unhurt; the deadly slaughter must have gone on to utter destruction. Retreat was inevitable—'twas blessed good fortune that it was still possible. When once it began it was headlong, reckless, frenzied. The men ran wildly, blindly, as if hunted by demons whom no man might hope to resist,—haunted by the frightful cries, maddened by the searching and secret fire of their foes, now coming hot upon their heels. Wounded comrades, military stores, baggage, their very arms, they left upon the ground, abandoned. Far into the night they ran madly on, in frantic search for the camp of the rear division, crying, as they ran, for help; they even passed the camp in their uncontrollable terror of pursuit, and went desperately on towards the settlements. Washington and the few officers and provincials who scorned the terror found the utmost difficulty in bringing off their stricken General, where he lay wishing to die. Upon the fourth day after the battle he died, loathing the sight of a redecoat, they said, and murmuring praises of "the blues," the once despised Virginians. They buried his body in the road, that the army wags might pass over the place and obliterate every trace of a grave their savage enemies might rejoice to find and desecrate.—From "Colonel Washington," by Woodrow Wilson, in Harper's Magazine for March.

 Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bacco" and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and am horridly craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.
 Yours truly,
 C. W. HORSTICK.

Last Thursday was the day the sun crossed the equator on its journey north, and according to the almanac, was the first day of spring. But it wasn't a very spring-like day. It was a regular bolsterous February blizzard. The storm that raged all day with the wind in the north cleared off cold, and the air the next morning was clear and stinging, an indication, according to past weather signs, of a late spring, and of late frosts in May, and perhaps June. But as all signs fall in a dry time, we shall hope for a failure of the late spring sign this season.

The sums though not large, are slowly pouring in to the Women's gymnasium fund. It appears to be a slow but sure affair. And yet there is quite a mountain in front of the committee. It is yet even larger than the one behind them. It seems as if there ought to be some wealthy lady in Michigan who would come to the rescue of this worthy project.

"In the Beginning,"

Of a new year, when the winter season of close confinement is only half gone, many find that their health begins to break down, that the least exposure threatens sickness. It is then as well as at all other times, and with people even in good health, that the following facts should be remembered, namely: that Hood's Sarsaparilla leads everything in the way of medicines; that it accomplishes the greatest cures in the world; has the largest sale in the world, and requires the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to the preparation of the proprietary medicine. Does not this conclusively prove, if you are sick, that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine for you to take?

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. At the township caucus held in Pittsfield last Friday, the following delegates were named to attend the county convention: S. R. Crittenden, M. F. Case, Andrew Campbell, Thos. Smithwait and Henry D. Platt. A straw vote for president resulted: McKinley 12, Reed 3, Allison 1.

An Ypsilanti democrat, being asked if he wanted a "Pingree button," answered, "He is my man," and was then led to the rear of a grocery store and presented with an enormous potato. An exchange tells us that an old custom in Austria has been for the school children to kiss their teacher on coming and going. The imperial board of education has just issued an order forbidding the practice, on the ground of a decision of the sanitary council that kissing is dangerous to health, and therefore not to be permitted except when absolutely necessary. How fortunate that it does not apply to this country, and that it does not extend outside the ranks of school marm and school children.

The people of Northville are becoming spiritually minded. One would hardly believe it, by reading the Record, but nevertheless it is said to be absolutely true. They have discovered that the old town clock ran down and stopped at 5:42 last Friday morning and that John Gardner, who gave the clock to the village, died at about the same time. Hence the problem of spirits passing from the old clock to the sick room of Mr. Gardner, is the subject of investigation by the theologians of prosperous Northville.—Pontiac Gazette.

Attractive Women.

Why is one woman attractive and another not? The most admirable and attractive thing about an attractive woman is her womanliness. Everybody admires a womanly woman. She must have health, of course, because without it she would lose the brightness of her eyes, the fullness of her cheeks and her vivacity. Real health must mean that a woman is really a woman. That she is strong and perfect in a sexual way, as well as in every other way. That she is capable of performing perfectly the duties of maternity. Some are born with what is called "constitutional weakness." Those who do not enjoy perfect health, need only take the proper precautions and the proper remedy to become well and strong. In a letter from E. F. Knickerbocker, from Chekiang, China, to the Milan Leader about the missions in that country, occurs this paragraph: "Let your map of Michigan and look at the following counties: Macomb, Oakland, Livingston, Ingham, Jackson, Washtenaw, Wayne, Monroe, Lapeere, and you have about the size of our mission district. The whole district has a population of about 1,000,000. Now imagine three missionaries in Detroit, two missionaries in Jackson, and a native preacher in Lansing, Pontiac, Ann Arbor, Adrian and Monroe, and you readily see that we are not crowded very much. Could you not spare us a few workers from Milan?" And how about some of the young men attending college here? Is there not one among them who can afford to give his life to this grand work?

To Editor of Courier:
I read with interest in your paper what C. H. L. Walker, Louisville, Ky., had to say about taking care of one's health. One day last November, I was suffering so intensely with an awful attack of catarrh, and old catarrh sufferers know what misery it means, that I thought I would try Pretzinger's which I had seen highly spoken of. I snuffed it up my nostrils as directed, and to my great surprise the relief was almost instantaneous. I used the remedy for about two months and have had no return of the catarrh. I can breathe freely through my nose and have had no return of any of the disagreeable symptoms. My wife is very sensitive to colds, but she has found that if on the first signs of a cold in the head she would take Dr. Whetstone's prescription of hot lemonade with a free use of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm at night before going to bed, she would be well the next morning, and by this means has kept herself free from colds all winter. You can get a small sample of this remedy by sending a two cent stamp to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton Ohio. FRED L. FOSTER.

THE GIANTS OF OLD.

PREVIOUS AGES SUPPLY US WITH ENORMOUS FOSSIL BONES.

Lizards Three Times the Size of the Largest Elephant and a Turtle Whose Shell Looked Like a Hut—Marine Giants and the Remarkable Plated Lizard.

The belief in a race of giants was once almost universal and held until recent years. Even today large skeletons when found are sometimes reported as being those of giant human beings. This was especially true of the period about the tenth and eleventh centuries, and in the latter a most amazing discovery was reported, which threw the scientific world of the time into great excitement. It was said that the body of Pallas, the son of Evander, had been discovered beneath the tomb of the emperor Henry III. The bones were enormous, and it is unnecessary to state, proved to have belonged to a huge fossil elephant. As late as the fifteenth century a war of words was waged over a find of large bones, one party claiming that they belonged to the giant Teutochuchus. In 1857 a giant was discovered in Switzerland. The council of Lucerne requested a learned scientific man, Professor Felix Plater of Basel, to report upon it, and he not only announced the bones as part of a human giant, but made a complete restoration, showing the man 20 feet high, which the proud city adopted as an ancestor in the arms of the commonwealth. The design and some of the bones can still be seen in the college of Jesuits at Lucerne. Unfortunately for the theory and much to the discomfiture of the people who had raised to a high pinnacle this mighty ancestor, it was found to be the remains of an elephant.

Nearly all the mastodon finds in this country were attributed to giants, but there is no evidence that a human giant ever existed over 8 feet in height, and it is extremely doubtful if this height was ever attained.

Giants other than human are very common in all branches of the animal kingdom—giants in every sense when compared to their pygmy representatives of today. Some years ago some laborers in the Senalik hills of India were engaged upon a government work when they came upon the remains of a turtle that proved beyond question that these animals had their giants in the days of old. The shell which the men exposed might have been used as a shelter for several men, and at first, before its bony nature was observed, it was thought by the natives to be a hut of some kind. Fortunately the bones were uninjured, and they were taken out and removed to the British museum, where a complete restoration of the animal may be seen. The length of the turtle was 10 feet, its horizontal circumference 25 feet, and its girth 15 feet, but it was estimated by scientists that this was not an adult, and that when fully grown this huge creature would display a domelike back 8 or 9 feet high, giving a total length of 20 feet.

One of the common animals in equatorial South America and in Central America is the lizard, iguana, which attains a length of 4 or 5 feet and is considered a large lizard, but it was a pygmy when compared to an ancestor that once wandered over England and various portions of the world. A number of years ago some workmen were excavating and blasting in a quarry near Maidstone, England, when some bones were uncovered that caused profound astonishment on the part of the finders. The skeleton was perfect, and as it was lifted out, bone by bone, their amazement increased, and the news was spread all over the country, attracting large numbers of people. When the bones were placed in their proper position, they were found to be the skeleton of a gigantic lizard that when alive must have been three times as bulky as the largest living elephant and stood upon its hind legs like a kangaroo, tearing down branches from the highest trees. Such an animal was a slow mover and sluggish and must have fallen an easy prey to the human hunters, if they existed.

The marine giants were even more bizarre and remarkable than the land forms. If we can imagine the little iguana lengthened out to 80 feet, its back spines changed to broad finlike objects, we form some idea of the appearance of one of the small dinosaurs, Stegosaurus unguatus, one of the most uncanny and remarkable creatures ever found. It is called the plated lizard, and the best skeleton was found on the eastern flank of the Rocky Mountains. Some of the plates with which this armored lizard were protected were two or three feet in diameter and the spines over two feet in length. From the fact that the hind limbs were the largest, it is evident that this strange creature could lift itself up and sit like a kangaroo, resting upon its powerful tail, which, with its enormous spines, must have been a terrible weapon.

A giant from America had a skull that measured eight feet in length. Almost over the eyes were two large horns, a third placed over the nose. The great length of the skull was given by a huge crest that was protected by a ridge of long plates. The mouth of the triceratops was protected by a horny beak. In life it must have presented a formidable appearance, with a body clumsy and low like that of a hippopotamus, and a long tail like an alligator's, its head calling to mind the rhinoceros. This monster was 25 feet in length and must have been one of the strangest animals of its time.—Philadelphia Press.

Sitting Up Late.

There is nothing so tends to shorten the lives of old people and to injure their health as the practice of sitting up late, particularly in the winter evenings. Vinegar by a Quick Process.

Vinegar may be made in a very short time by a sort of filtering process that can be handled by any person of ordinary ingenuity. A large barrel has a perforated shelf fitted in a few inches below the top. From the holes fall ends of pack thread, which are knotted at the upper end so that they may not be drawn entirely through. Glass tubes are fixed to the shelf as air vents. The lower edge of the barrel is filled with holes placed about six inches above the bottom, and a siphon carries off the liquid that accumulates below this point. Diluted alcoholic liquor, slightly sweetened with honey or with extract of malt, is slowly dripped through the holes in the shelf and runs through beechwood shavings that have previously been steeped in good vinegar. The liquor, which should be kept at a temperature of 75 to 85 degrees F., filters down through the threads and over the shavings to the bottom of the barrel, whence it runs over through the siphon. After awhile the temperature in the barrel rises to about 100 degrees F., the chemical action going on meanwhile. It is necessary to pour the liquor again and again through the generator before it is satisfactory. From three or four to half a dozen filterings are usually sufficient, though more are sometimes required, depending a good deal on the quality of the materials and the temperature at starting.—New York Ledger.

She Was Not Engaged.

Mrs. B. had changed girls, and was undergoing the usual catechism at the hands of her kitchen's future ruler. After a succession of damsels from "the old darts" her husband had strenuously insisted that she try "an intelligent and cleanly American girl." He had found such a one and was sure she would prove a treasure. The lady of the house even thought he might not be mistaken, so trim and neat was the newcomer.

"Yes, I'm a splendid washer," that person said, "and I can iron shirts to beat a Chinaman—I always did up father's at home. I always had time, for, you see, I know how to manage. Flat things, sheets, tablecloths, napkins, I fold and lay around in the chairs; they come out beautifully smooth when you have sat on them a day or two. And that reminds me to ask, where had you rather I put them, here in your chair or your husband's?"

It took Mrs. B. sometime minutes to recover speech, but finally she managed to say that on the whole she feared she would not suit a domestic so progressive.—New York Journal.

How Crockett Lived.

S. R. Crockett, the Scotch writer, has been telling how he used to raise the heat when a hard up student in Edinburgh. He lodged with a friend over a great coal station, and he used to go out in the evening and pick up the coals which the carts had dropped in the streets. "Sometimes," he says, "I grew so bold as to chuck a lump of coal at a driver, who invariably looked for the biggest lump on his load to hit back with, which was what I wanted. Thus the exercise warmed me at the time and the coal warmed me afterward. And occasionally we got a large enough stock to sell to our companions, and buy a book or two. But I wish, here and now, solemnly to state that I never, never condescended to lift a lump off a cart, at least hardly—well, unless it was manifestly inconveniencing the safety of the load or overburdening the safety of the horse, you know!"

A Gibraltar Legend.

One of the stock of ancient legends relating to the Rock of Gibraltar, from which the passing griffs were formerly regulated, relates how a young Scotch subaltern was on guard duty with a brother officer, when the latter in visiting the sentries fell over a precipice and was killed. When the survivor was relieved from duty, he made the customary written report in the usual form, "Nothing extraordinary." And this brought the brigade major down upon him in a rage. "What! When your brother officer on duty with you has fallen down a precipice 400 feet high and been killed, you report nothing extraordinary!" "Weel, sir," replied the Scot calmly, "I dinna think there's anything extraordinary in it, ava. If he had fa'en doon four hunder feet and not been killed—weel, I should hae ca'd that extraordinary."

Human Broth.

A very singular superstition has just come to light. According to an authority in Shanghai, the heathen Chinese lives under the impression that the healing qualities of the human flesh are practically unlimited.

For this reason when a father or mother is taken ill the flesh of one of the children is frequently sacrificed in order that it may be made into what one might describe as beef tea for the stricken parent.

Not long ago a clerk in a government office deliberately cut off his finger in the belief that when made into soup it would improve the health of his mother, who lay ill.

Atmosphere.

There is a wide difference of opinion among the learned men of the world as to what would be the effect of wholly removing the atmosphere. Some think that if it were possible to live afterward all the stars, planets, etc., would be visible in broad daylight. Others declare that there would be no day, and that the sun itself could not be seen under such conditions.—St. Louis Republic.

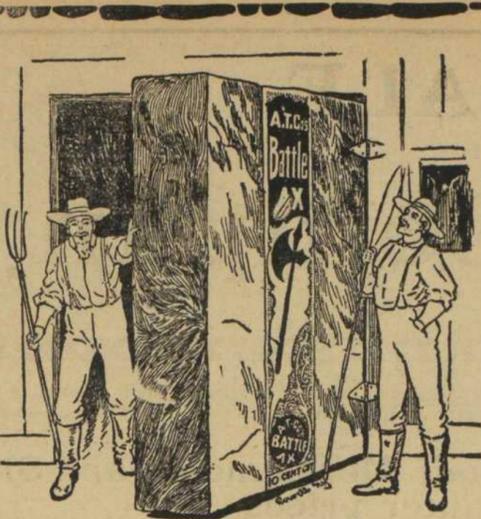

Great Aid to Conversation.

"You play beautifully," exclaimed the lovely visitor.

The virtuous rose from the piano with a bow.

"Thank you," he murmured.

"You made me think of such a number of things to say," the woman proceeded, with undisguised rapture.—Detroit Tribune.

A SOCIETY ITEM.

A Striking Object Lesson in the Ethics of Nomenclature.

It was at the Emerald ball, and the young society reporter sharpened her wits and her pencils, that full and satisfactory description of each costume might be presented. Surrounding her were those most desirous of seeing their names and gowns in print, and in the crowd stood a shoppier, gowned in filmy pink cheesecloth of indescribable cut.

When her turn came for inspection, it was with a hopeless eye that the reporter surveyed the toilet. The artful question, however, was asked, as usual: "And your name and gown?"

"Miss Matilda Jenkins, attired in pink crepon and diamonds," was the studied and prompt reply.

"Pink crepon," wrote the newspaper woman, delighted with the new and elegant name for cheesecloth, but her pencil refused to add "and diamonds" until her quick eyes had discovered on the girl's collar a tiny rhinestone as big as a pinhead. Then "and diamonds" went down in the notebook as proudly as if announcing tiaras and stomachers of purest luster.

The next day all the girls behind a notion counter exclaimed enviously over a well worn newspaper clipping which read, "Miss Matilda Jenkins, attired in pink crepon and diamonds," and when the society reporter glanced over the printed words she felt never a pang as to the accuracy of the information she had given to the public.—New York Times.

De Tabley and His Books.

The side on which I was most capable of appreciating Lord de Tabley's gifts as a collector was the bibliographical. If I am anything of a connoisseur in this direction, I owe it to his training. His zeal in the amassing of early editions of the English poets was extreme; he was one of those who think nothing of hanging about a bookshop at 6 o'clock in the morning waiting for the shutters to be taken down. But his zeal was eminently according to knowledge. He valued his first edition for the text's sake, not for the bare fact of rarity. Every book he bought he read, and with a critical gusto. A little anecdote may illustrate his spirit as a collector. In 1877 he secured, by a happy accident, a copy of Milton's "Poems" of 1645, a book which he had never met with before. Too eager to wait for the post, he sent a messenger round to my house with a note to announce not merely the joyful fact, but—this is the interesting point—a discovery he had made in the volume—namely, that the line in the "Nativity Ode," which in all later editions has run—
Orb'd in a rainbow, and like glories wearing, originally stood—
The enamel'd arras of the rainbow wearing,
"which," as he said, "is a grand mouthful of sound and ever so much better than the weak 'like glories.'"—Contemporary Review.

GREAT REMOVAL SALE

AT THE

Ann Arbor Organ Company,

51 SOUTH MAIN STREET, ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN.

The store we now occupy has been sold in order to close an estate. We have received notice to vacate it as early as possible. We have secured no suitable store, and do not know of any in a desirable location suitable for our business. We have a tremendous stock, and 57 rented pianos will come in the middle of June. Last year we rented the rink to make room for this extra stock. This year we cannot secure it. There is but one way—

We must close out our entire stock of Pianos, Organs, Bicycles, Small Merchandise and Sheet Music before removing. We have determined to slaughter prices.

Pianos must be handled with care, and cannot be stored excepting in suitable rooms. We are therefore left no alternative. We must close out our entire stock regardless of cost. This will be a surprise to many, as it was a surprise to us, when we learned that we must vacate our present store, but it will be of benefit to every person desiring anything in the music line. We have determined to slaughter prices in order to move the goods quickly, and when the Ann Arbor Organ Company makes a statement of this kind, everybody knows it means just what it says.

Temperance and the Home.

(Conducted by the W. C. T. U.)

The Loyal Temperance Legion meets every Saturday at 2 o'clock, in the hall over Calkin's store, on State st. Every boy and girl in the city is invited to the meetings.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. occurs tomorrow, at 2:30 p. m., in this Y. W. C. A. rooms in the P. O. block. The exercises will consist of brief addresses and annual reports of officers and superintendents, to be followed by a social hour. Light refreshments will be served.

The 20th annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of the 2d congressional district, will be held in this city, April 14-16, in the Baptist church. Miss Willard was expected to address the meeting, but the call for help from Lady Henry Somerset was so imperative that she will soon go to England. Miss Bessie Ackerman, one of the most successful of the "Round the World Missionaries" of the W. C. T. U., will take Miss Willard's place. She is a charming speaker, and will doubtless talk of her travels. She recently gave the following statistics in a report of her two trips around the world:

"Years traveled 7, miles traveled 259,000, cities visited 610, day schools visited 200, Loyal Temperance Legions visited 183, entertained in homes 1,886, addresses 560, lectures 976, meetings held 1,717, pulpits filled 210, saloons visited 1,910, new members for the W. C. T. U. 9,986, pledges—men 21,840, Unions formed—local 290, national 2, colonial 2, Sunday schools visited 225, money spent in the work $11,876, postage $1,260, interviewed by leading papers 67, photographed 84, slept in beds, in homes, tents, steamers, hammocks 2,003, sent out newspaper articles on the work 480, sent out tracts 100,000, sent out manuals 3,000, sent out circular letters 2,000, traveled on steamers 69, written letters 6,940, spoken on steamers and vessels 41, interpreters 175, languages 37, presented to 2 kings, 10 Asiatic princes, 2 sultans, 3 premiers, 2 rajahs, 2 maharajahs, 1 emperor and empress, 2 queens 2 governors, and was a member of 10 deputations to different parliaments, traveled by mule, horse, camel, elephant, canoe, steamer, sailing vessel, skiff, junk, cable car, electric car, horse car, stage, carriage, ekka, tonga, jenrickshaw, buffalo, bullock, camel cart, sedan chair, wheelbarrow."

A GLASS OF GIN.
Robert J. Burdette says: "My homeless friend with the chromatic nose, while you are stirring up the sugar in a ten cent glass of gin, let me give you a fact to wash down with it. You may say you have longed for years for the free, independent life of a farmer, but you have never been able to get money enough to buy a farm. But there is where you are mistaken. For some years you have been drinking a good, improved farm at the rate of 100 square feet at a gulp. If you doubt the statement figure it for yourself. An acre of land contains 42,560 feet. Estimating for convenience, the land at $43.56 an acre, you will see that it brings the land to just one mill per square foot. Now pour down the frey dose and imagine you are swallowing a strawberry patch. Call in five of your friends and have them help you gulp down that 500 foot garden. Get on a prolonged spree some day and see how long it will take to swallow a pasture. Put down that glass of gin; there is dirt in it—100 feet of good, rich dirt, worth $43.56 per acre."

What They Believe.

Noble's Star Clothing House believes there is only one way to reduce a large stock of clothing, that is to cut the price at present thrice. Boy's and children's stock amounts to about six thousand dollars. In order to reduce it 50% they have inaugurated a reduction sale of what the goods cost them. They fully understand what a dollar should buy these close times, and accordingly one dollar spent at their store means a saving of 25% to you.

Burke-Burnside—

On Wednesday evening last, at the home of her brother-in-law, Wm. F. McGee, No. 32 E. Kingsley st., Miss Ellen Burnside, and Mr. James E. Burke were united in marriage, Rev. J. W. Bradshaw performing the ceremony. The bride is a former resident of Jackson, but has been living with her sister for the past year or so. The couple left immediately for a trip west, after which they will take up their residence permanent on the farm owned by the Burke estate, just this side of Whitmore Lake. The couple have many well wishers in Ann Arbor.

Don't Delay Handing in Notices—

Same old thing. People who have notices and items for the paper always wait until the last day in the afternoon, and then flood the office, and wonder why there is any objection. Last week there were at least a half-dozen notices, ads and items that did not reach this office until after the paper had gone to press, so if there is a wonder on any one's part why the same did not appear, they can blame themselves for being so dilatory. It takes time to set type, and the Courier goes to press Wednesday forenoon. So all notices should be in this office as soon as Tuesday p. m.

A National Musical Circuit—

Prof. Stanley has done a very wise thing in forming a musical circuit, so to speak. While at Chicago recently representatives of Choral Unions from various western cities were present, and the result was that a combination was made with St. Louis, Mo., Louisville, Ky., Cleveland, Ohio, Oberlin, Ohio, Milwaukee, Wis., and Ann Arbor, by which programs for the various May Festivals will be so arranged that all these places will secure the great soloists of this nation, and the world, for that matter. Prof. Stanley is chairman of the committee. Good for Stanley, and Ann Arbor.
