BETTER THAN MERE WORDS

Are the Pictures our Artist has Drawn of the Great Ball Game Saturday.

U. OF M. COLORS DOWND.

The High School Officials are too Much for the Gym Trained Athletes of the University.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men."

WAITING FOR THE BALL.

School Commissioner Wedemeyer an alumnus of both institutions, did the umpiring. He was selected not so much for his knowledge of base ball, as for his good looks and fine physique. Both sides thought neither would dare sass the umpire and thus run the risk of expulsion from participating in athletics in the future. But when McLaughlin of the U. of M's tried to steal a base and score, there was a moment of indecision on the part of the umpire which lost him prestige and several decisions caused curses sub voce afterward.

SCOTT GETS A GOOD AIM.
(Which Scott? Either. Suit yourself.)

In the first inning the University men got badly rattled, and allowed their opponents to score six runs, but in the second they rallied somewhat, and the excitement when Worcester made a base hit was simply intense. Our artist pictures the scene:

OFF FOR FIRST.

A friend who viewed the game says: Dr. Lombard was a small game all by himself, and the ladies forgot to look at anybody else when his get-up came in evidence. He wore a yellow and blue straw hat two feet wide, yellow and blue tie and had a yellow and blue "S" for university senatorate on his back. Later on he became a star attraction by catching several high flies in genuine Eddie Shields style.

The great strength of the Universities was in their pitchers. They did poor work on the start, but improved in the second inning. Patterson giving way to Prof. Trueblood in the third, who after he got his nerves quieted and muscles limbered up, was a bird, improving with every inn-

ANN ARBOR HIGH SCHOOL.

Report of its 37th Annual Closing Exercises.

IT WAS A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

The Orations are all Good and Some Very Superior.

The High School Commencement

The graduating exercises for the 37th annual commencement of the Ann Arbor High School were held Friday last, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the chapel.

There were 74 names receiving degrees, six of whom received more than one, leaving 68 actual graduates.

The decorations of the hall were very pretty, the high school colors, maroon and lemon, uniting with those of the graduating class purple and orange, and those of the juniors light green and white, to relieve the eyes of any monotony or lack of variety in color.

The Welch language was explored for a class motto with the result of finding this: "Y gwyr yn erbyn y bidd." It has a meaning, though an Englishman would hardly think it. The juniors were content to adopt the Latin "Prorsum Sursum."

The stage was handsomely decorated with potted plants, members of the school board, the graduating orators, Profs. Perry, Pattengill, etc.

Music was furnished by the University orchestra, which opened the exercises, followed with prayer by Rev. J. M. Gelston.

The first graduate to deliver her oration—for the written essay, gaily decked with ribbon, etc., and read in a singsong manner was dispensed with—was Miss Winifred Bogle, of this city, and she talked about "Keynotes." She reviewed somewhat the advancement of the century just closing, and predicted that far greater things were yet to come in the century upon whose threshold we now stand.

That the people of to-day had more practical questions to face and settle than did those of our fathers, who dealt more in sentiment. The nations of the earth did not rush to war to settle disputes as formerly, but submitted to national arbitration.

She thought that we were practically entering upon an age of discovery and research, and that the end of this glorious 19th century would come in sunshine and not in sunset.

"The Man of One Idea" had a champion in James A. Campbell, of Ypsilanti. While admitting that the man who was well developed both physically and mentally was the one who took the best standing in the world, yet the man who confined himself to some one special purpose or study, and made himself master of it, was not to be looked down upon.

There was plenty of room in the world for the man with one idea, providing that idea was not impractical, in which case such a man was to be pitied. Then references were made to men who, working upon one idea had accomplished great things.

The drudgery of the world must be done, but the educated man will not do it, and it is left to the uneducated. Even the dud who cultivated style instead of his head has a place in the world, for he is a great antidote against the accumulation of wealth.

The plodder, the money getter, the scientist are not to be left uncounted in reckoning the benefactors of the human race!

Sarah Campbell, in "Pictures of Memory," carried the audience through a gallery and drew pictures for them to gaze upon, some of which were pleasing, some not so pleasing, and all children of fancy.

The great strength of the Universities was in their pitchers. They did poor work on the start, but improved in the second inning. Patterson giving way to Prof. Trueblood in the third, who after he got his nerves quieted and muscles limbered up, was a bird, improving with every inn-

Ann Arbor's Illustrated Boomer—

At last, after weeks of waiting, the much heralded Headlight has appeared. The publishers should change the name to Headlight. Many of the people whose portraits and biographies appear therein die off before the thing gets around, thus diminishing the interest felt in it.

There appears to be some diversity of opinion in regard to the merits of this publication. To a practical printer it looks very cheap. There has been an attempt to crowd too much material into too small a space, to the detriment of the whole thing.

The portraits of the University people for instance, have the appearance of those diminutive tin-types 20 of which are sold for 15 cents.

Had more space been devoted to buildings and descriptions and less to pictures of tutors and their biographies, the value of the book as a "boom edition" would have been greatly enhanced.

The old cuts of the ball teams, and glee club, etc., tend further toward making it a cheap John affair. There is but one first class page of illustrations in the entire work, and that is page 33. Some of the cuts however, are passably fair. But few of the residences show what they really are, and no one would get any conception of the city itself from the book. Hon. J. T. Jacobs' house resembles a Caughnagh Lake summer cottage and Evart Scott's residence is almost entirely in the perspective.

The picture of the High School is no made from a photograph (at least it doesn't look as if it was) and it is a mighty poor illustration.

No one would recognize the opera house.

The churches, without exception, are diminutive and indifferent pictures.

The University buildings might be termed fair, but no stress could be laid on that, with the exception, perhaps, of the medical building.

No artistic taste has been used in taking the views, if any views were ever taken, from which these illustrations were made.

The representations of the Ann Arbor Agricultural Works and Luick Bros' mill, the Michigan Furniture Co's buildings, the Gas Works, etc., are something wonderful to gaze upon.

No one familiar with either would recognize them, and the only salvation for them is, that like the school boy's picture of a cow, they are labeled.

The interior view of University Hall, showing the big organ in a diminutive way in the back ground, will pass for good work.

This is not written in a captious or envious spirit, but simply as an honest opinion of the merits of the publication.

The cuts representing the college organizations detract from the value as a boom edition, and giving up so much space in biography and portraits to unimportant people at the University lumps up the book to the exclusion of valuable matter.

It is all right as a souvenir for students now attending the University, classes who graduate this year particularly, but for a work for Ann Arbor people to send away to help build up the city it will not compare with the pamphlet issued by the Ann Arbor Business Men's Association some years ago.

This is simply an opinion. If any of our readers feel differently about it, we are very glad of it.

Sure to Win.

The people recognize and appreciate real merit. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale in the world. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures—absolutely, permanently.

It is the One True Blood Purifier. Its superior merit is an established fact, and merit wins.

For Vice-President.
GARRET A. HOBART,
Of New Jersey.

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Here is in brief the demands of the republican party as embodied in its platform adopted at St. Louis:

An honest dollar; an honest count; an honest enforcement of the Monroe doctrine; an honest and patriotic foreign policy; an honest administration of the pension department; more stringent immigration laws, and their honest enforcement; an honest and patriotic hand extended to the Cubans; a strengthening of our navy and coast defenses; an honest effort toward reciprocity; and last and greatest of all, a protective tariff that will protect; and the stopping of issuing of bonds. That's what the republican party demands; are you not in favor of it?

If there had not been a demand—a demand that could not be ignored—by the people for Maj. McKinley's nomination he would have not been nominated. And whom the people want they are going to have. He will be the next president of the United States.

SCOTT'S Emulsion

Is the standard emulsion the world over. There is not a man, woman or child who is run down or emaciated or has weak lungs that Scott's Emulsion will not benefit. When you ask for it you will likely be told by the druggist that he has an emulsion "just as good." It is not true. No emulsion is as good.

Scott's Emulsion has benefited millions of people. Ask your druggist if he can refer you to a single case that has been helped by the unknown emulsion he sells, and if so, we will send you a book giving thousands of cases. You want the standard; not something that nobody knows anything about.

All druggists sell Scott's Emulsion. Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

SELLER-LINCOLN SIMILARITIES.

"Similarities" between Teller the silverite, and Lincoln the patriot: Lincoln was not a slave owner. Teller is a silver mine owner. Lincoln believed that color distinction was a great evil.

Teller believes that color distinction is the salvation of himself and all other mine owners—but that color must be silver.

Lincoln believed all human beings should be free.

Teller believes that all silver should be free, but that the human family should be made its slaves.

Lincoln was so broad that he had charity for all, malice toward none."

Teller is so narrow that he can see no good in anything but some scheme to advance the pecuniary interests of the silver mine owners of the west.

Lincoln was a man of the people.

Teller is an aristocratic mine owner with no thought of the people save as they can be used to his own advantage.

Lincoln's heart was flesh and blood, beating in sympathy with the heart of every other human being, whatever his condition or race.

Teller's heart is of silver, and it throbs only as the white metal goes up or down in the marts of trade.

Lincoln served all the people.

Teller leads a few and seeks to drive the remainder.

Lincoln had room in his great intellect for all the varied interests of his country.

Teller has room but for one interest—silver.

Lincoln never allowed selfishness to control any of his public acts.

Teller allows nothing but selfishness to control his public acts.

Lincoln never placed his own opinions above those of his party.

Teller sets up his own opinions as greater than all things else, and because the judgment of his associates is overwhelmingly against him he boits his party.

These are a few of the "similarities" between these two men, as seen by those who look dispassionately at things.

Teller is as far from Abraham Lincoln as Jeff Davis was from being a patriot and a soldier.

A consistent ticket would be Teller & Teller!

Before election the people will recognize the fact that it is the tariff, and not the finances that need revision.

Now that the silver senators have left the republican party they should resign their offices given them as republicans.

A suggestion to the Chicago convention: Whitney & Hopkins. That will take in the good and the bad—both have votes.

Detroit is well fixed now for democratic daily papers. It has three of them: The Free Press, the Tribune and the Evening News.

If there are any people among us of foreign birth who will applaud a sound money policy that people will be the German. They as a nation hate any pretense or sham. They are by nature sturdy and solid.

Judge Eldredge at Mt. Clemens has made the injunction issued against Sunday ball playing permanent. The Judge evidently believes that Sunday is a day of rest and consecration, not of hilarity and desecration.

The attempt to palm off Teller as a second Lincoln, is realy funny. If Lincoln had owned a lot of silver mines, and had betrayed his party because of his selfish interests, do you think he ever would have been heard of? Not much.

That the high schools of Michigan are of great benefit to the sons and daughters of poor men, has been proven by State Supt. Pattenhill, who in a recent address before the graduating class of the Lansing high school said that in Michigan this month there will be graduated from the high schools about 5,000 students of whom less than 2,000 are boys. The speaker said he had made an investigation to determine the occupation of the parents of the graduates. He had found 36 1/2 per cent laborers, 18 per cent professional men, and 17 per cent merchants. The remaining 3 per cent, could not be classified. Of these classes 12 per cent pay taxes on $20,000 or over; 17 per cent on from $5,000 to $10,000; 35 per cent from $1,000 to $3,000; 18 per cent, on less than $1,000, and 12 per cent pay no taxes. These figures, Supt. Pattenhill asserted, show conclusively that the high school is the poor man's college.

SOME OF OUR EXCHANGES.

The Grass Lake News has a paragraph on ducks under the head of "Baptist Notes." That's all right, come to think about it.

The front page of the last Fowlerville Observer was a full sheet poster. Probably a good thing for the advertiser but a thing that cheapens a weekly paper wonderfully.

—O—

Neal, the Northville Record, won't have much of a paper next week. His wife spent this week in Monroe county and Neal stayed at home. That is, he is supposed to have stayed there, but Mrs. Neal will hold him up there, fire questions at him after she gets back, and the young man won't have time left, if he tells the whole week's history, to write up half a column of locals.—Adrian Press.

The defense can now have the witness.

—O—

The platform and candidates of the republican party will mean no more nor less than an appeal for a return to the conditions and policies which prevailed when the democrat victory of 1892 caused a change. Surely there should be no objection on the part of any citizen of our country to such a return.—Cadillac News & Express.

That's an honest, clear statement of the case.

ABOUT CURRENT LITERATURE.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps will publish in McClure's Magazine for July her recollections, which are very intimate and interesting, of Longfellow, Whittier and Holmes.

Harper's Weekly of to-day will be the republican convention number. It will contain a double-page drawing of the convention, sketches of the convention life, and a front-page portrait of the republican candidate.

Rudyard Kipling, as he showed himself to his intimate friends just before he became known to all the world, will be the subject of a paper in McClure's Magazine for July. It is written by the man with whom Mr. Kipling was associated in the editorship of a newspaper in India, and will be illustrated with portraits and other pictures from photographs furnished by Mr. Kipling's family.

The New Crusade—

The July number of this excellent little magazine maintains the usual high standard. It contains an able and scientific article on "Heredity" by Louise C. Purington, M. D., and another of Mrs. J. H. Kellogg's practical and helpful papers, "Teaching Children Self-Control." The White Cross and White Shield Departments are given up to an extract from a very forcible sermon by the Rev. Jenkins Lloyd Jones on "No Sex in Crime." This partial enumeration is sufficient to indicate the valuable character of this little magazine. I should be in the hands of every parent and teacher, every young man and young woman. It deals with questions discussed by no other periodical and does so in the most delicate scientific, practical manner. 50 cts. per year. The Wood-Allyn Publishing Co., Ann Arbor, Mich.

Women TO FARMERS.

Who are nervous, weak, worn out with local troubles find pure blood, nerve strength, and perfect health in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We do not say the above to raise false hope. It has been the experience of many, very many women in those intensely trying periods which demand and consume so much force—those special physical trials we delicately indicate by merely using the words—Mad, Mother, Matron.

Like a confidential friend we suggest the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, a reliable blood purifier and tonic; it has helped many others and will help you.

Good Work of the 5th Ward Pupils—

The 5th ward school held an exhibition Tuesday, of school work of the entire year, from the kindergarten up through the upper grades. The room in which it was held, was tastefully decorated with potted plants, and festoons of colored paper made by the little kindergarten.

Among some of the most attractive exhibits were clay modelling by pupils of lower grades, illustrated stories of "The Three Bears" and other juvenile stories, putty maps by pupils of fourth and fifth grades, a great variety of nature work in fourth and fifth grades, consisting of written descriptions of leaves, flowers, fruits, seeds, etc., all profusely illustrated with drawings; maps in colored crayon, etc.

In making this offer, we know that we are giving our readers one of the most acceptable presents we could make.

A great number of parents of the ward showed their appreciation by their presence, and were delighted at the results of their children's work.

One of the honored visitors was Dr. Smith, of the school board.

Fourth of July at Manchester—

Manchester and Grass Lake both have had a dog poisoning epidemic. Many lovers of good horses are attending the meeting of the Ypsilanti Driving Club, now on in that city.

D. P. Palmer, who has been a resident of Bridgewater for over 60 years died at his home there last Friday.

Mrs. Sarah Barton, of Lyndon, aged 74 was taken ill and died while attending the recent pioneer meeting at Chelsea.

Manchester will take care of you in fine shape on the 4th of July. It is one of the best places to go to in Michigan for a right down good time.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Seeley, of Ypsilanti, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage recently, which makes the fifth event of the kind in that vicinity within a few months.

Felix Dunlavy, of Dexter village, died last Saturday, with Bright's disease. He was a wealthy farmer and had business interests in several sections of the state. He leaves a wife and five children.

It is a healthy sign to note so much space being devoted by our county contemporaries to the closing exercises of the schools. On the prosperity of our schools depends the prosperity of our nation. Long live the schools.

It is said that potatoes and apples may be kept two years by wrapping them in a newspaper in such a way as to exclude the air. The newspaper must, however, be one on which the subscription is paid in full, or the dampness resulting from what is done will cause the fruit to spoil.

The railroads have promised special trains and half fare and our citizens will give all visitors a hearty welcome.

BRAINY GUESTS.

Frequently Have Trouble With What is Found on Fashionable Tables.

It has been discovered by some of the society ladies in some of the larger cities that a number of the most esteemed guests at their "functions" are more or less disagreeably affected by coffee, this fact being particularly observable among the brilliant and brainy ones.

To meet the want of coffee fanciers with whom the substance does not agree, Postum, the health coffee, has been quite largely introduced in fashionable quarters.

This is a singularly appetizing drink made from cereal, (wheat, &c.) by the Postum Cereal Co., Linn, Battle Creek, Mich., which incidentally looks and smells like fine coffee, but instead of producing the unpleasant disturbances with the digestive organs, as coffee does in numberless cases, it agrees perfectly with the weakest stomach and is nourishing and fattening, being made wholly from pure grains. It can be served strong as an after dinner coffee with perfect success as to looks, taste and effect upon the guests.

A reliable grocer will never offer a cheap or weak imitation of a genuine original article because he happens to make a little extra profit.

But it is well to observe that when genuine Postum Cereal coffee is ordered, that you get Postum and not a spurious imitation offered as "just as good."

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUD-DENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked nothing else, except cigar, cigarette, & pipe. I have tried every known remedy, but none have affected, until my physician told me I might give up the use of tobacco, and this time he was at least. I tried the so-called "Keely Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using it, and have not since had a cigarette, nor a cigar, nor a pipe. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.

It was in the third inning that the great play of the game was made by Prof. Lombard. There was but one run made that time, and it was made by the Prof. obeying instructions to

When the fifth inning was called each side appeared somewhat "groggy" in prize ring vernacular, and the umpire with his quick wit divined how both sides felt about it. Here was his opportunity to get back his lost prestige, and when he suggested that he should call the game on the 5th inning, heartfelt words of praise gave place to those bordering on the profane which had been mentally said a little time before. The umpire smiled a satisfactory smile. He had won the game.

A Cat.Fish Story—

The flowing well of D. F. Allmendinger on W. Washington st., has nearly given out, which he thinks might have been caused by the Ann Arbor Water Works boring some six or eight wells on their lot next west of Mr. A. Another well has been sunk on a more elevated part of his lot which gives a fine flow of water, to supply his numerous artificial ponds on the lower part of his grounds. One of these ponds is well stocked with German carp fish, which are so tame that they will come up to the edge of the water and eat their meals when bread crumbs are thrown in. Mr. A. has an old tom cat who has been watching this business and made up his mind he too would have a good breakfast, so he hid himself in the grass close by the edge of the water, and when his prey unconscious of danger, came along, old Tom reached out his fore paws and had the game in his clutches as easily as if it were a mouse.

Some time ago Mr. A. had occasion to draw off part of the water in this pond, which made it so shallow that one large carp was seen very plainly, swimming on the surface of the water. Old Tom was on the alert again, and bound to have a larger game this time, so he sprang like a tiger, right on the back of the fish and had a severe battle with it. The claws of the cat lacerated the sides of the fish but he finally got away from Tom, and is sailing around in his native element again. This may be called a big cat-fish story but it is never-the-less a true one.

By a press of other matter at the last moment, there were many things of a local nature left out of the Courier last week. In the announcement of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, out of 14 professors, four are from the University of Michigan. They are Henry M. Hurd, '66; Franklin P. Mall, '83; John J. Abel, '88, and Wm. H. Howell, lecturer in '89. The high standing of that institution is shown from the fact that it is the only one in the country requiring its freshmen to be literary graduates.

Among the many other weddings to be celebrated on Thursday the 25th, is that of Mr. E. Lyman Jones, law '95, post graduate '96, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss E. Anna Flynn, of this city. The bride is so well and favorably known to so many Ann Arbor people, that many feel a peculiar interest in this event. To say that the best wishes accompany this couple but faintly expresses it.

The supervisors met at the court house last Monday, according to law, and organized by the election of John R. Miner as chairman. It was agreed to equalize on a basis of $25,000,000. The assessed valuation of the county as reported by the supervisors was $29,307,927, against $29,836,683 for 1895, a loss of $528,656. The city of Ann Arbor reports some $200,000 additional to its real estate which would in reality make the falling off in the township rolls of over $728,000. The board chose the veteran supervisor, Morton F. Case as its representative on the state board of equalization which meets in Lansing next August.

A College Wedding—

Last Wednesday night there was concluded in the M. E. church another of those matrimonial alliances that are constantly tending to draw the nations of this earth together in ever closer bonds of love and sympathy. The parties were Dr. Alfred Schafer, of Brunswick, North Germany, and Miss Mary, E. McPherson, late of Washington, D. C. The wedding was unique in the high, scientific and literary attainments of both bride and groom, Dr. Schafer being Instructor in Embryology and Histology at Harvard, and Miss Mary having taken her M. A. degree from Columbia University, Washington, in '95.

The church had been beautifully decorated with wild and garden flowers and plants. Arches of evergreens interspersed with marguerites spanned the main aisles, and a luxuriant mass of palms and ferns quite hid the pulpit from view. Above the pulpit, over the railing of the choir loft, were very appropriately intertwined the flags of the United States and Germany.

At 8:30 the bridal party appeared, as the organ pealed forth the blissful strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bride and groom were preceded by the ushers, Misses Ella Bennett, Alice Rothman, Ada Stevens, Stella Westcott, Katherine Puncheon and Anna McOmber, and two little golden-haired flower girls, Hazel and Genevieve Stimson.

The bride was elaborately and tastefully arrayed in pearl satin, with the conventional chaplet of orange blossoms and white, vapory veil. The Maid of Honor was Miss Evalin A. Cobb, of Pittsfield, Mass., a former college friend of the bride. Her beautiful costume of pink brocaded silk formed a pleasing contrast to the gentler shades in the bridal gown. Mr. Arthur M. Sweet, of Providence, R. I., officiated as groomsman.

The Rev. Dr. Camden M. Coborn, pastor of the 1st M. E. church, performed the ceremony in English with great impressiveness, after which the Rev. John Neumann, pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran church, addressed the married pair in German, his remarks containing a very happy allusion to the words: "Immuta fides," and "Nec aspera terrent," inscribed upon the family escutcheon of the Dukes of Brunswick. A beautiful and unusual feature of the service was the presentation of the ring from the bride to the groom, a distinctively German custom.

The bridal party then retired to the parlors of the church, where they received the congratulations and farewells of their friends.

The bride comes from good old Scotch ancestry. Her father, the Hon. Marcus L. McPherson, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was one of the pioneers of that state, settling there in 1849. He served two terms as state senator in Iowa, and was one of the delegates who helped nominate Abraham Lincoln at the famous wig-wam convention in Chicago. He held prominent positions during the war, after which he was appointed U. S. district attorney for the western district of Iowa, but died before the expiration of his term.

As was remarked above the bride's education has been exceptionally extensive. She took her A. B. degree at Wellesley in 1893, spent a year in Zurich, Switzerland, in medical studies, and took her M. A. degree from Columbia University in 1895. For the past year she has been attending lectures in the University of Michigan, and working upon the translation of a medical treatise, which is now passing through the press.

Dr. Schafer is the only son of Carl Schafer, late Hofrat to the Duke of Brunswick, a position which he had occupied for fifty years. After receiving his doctor's degree in Munich in 1890, he was appointed assistant professor at Koenigsberg, and was then employed in the Anatomical Institute of Zurich, Switzerland. He is now an instructor in embryology and histology in the medical school of Harvard.

Dr. and Mrs. Schafer left for the east by the 10:12 train. They intend stopping at Niagara and other places of interest, and will then sail for Germany, to visit the honored Hofrat, in the ancient city of Brunswick.

Many of the boys of other days are in Ann Arbor this week, in honor of the 25th anniversary of President Angell's holding of the University reins. The old town has outgrown their expectations in almost every instance and the places they once knew are not to be found. Even the professors have so changed that but few faces remain who were known when they were in college. To many it is a sad experience, to others it is a marvel.

There is a very deep feeling in this city in regard to the raising of salaries of city officials at this time. Had the salary of the city treasurer been placed where it belonged there would have been little criticism, but to raise officials whose places could be supplied and well supplied, too, over and over again at the old salary was not the thing to do these hard times, everyone is groaning under the pressure of slack trade and small profits. The council should be careful, for the people are in no pleasant mood over this act of theirs. These are no times for extravagance. There will be a reckoning at the polls for it.

The Bar Association's Action—

In respect to the death of Gov. Felch: The Washtenaw County Bar is in mourning. Alpheus Felch died at his home in this city on June 13th, 1896 in the ninety-second year of his age. For over 50 years he had been a member of this bar and during the greater portion of the time an active practitioner. It is fitting that we should place upon record some appreciative testimonial, in words of love and respect for the grand life among us and so beautifully finished, but in this case, death was without its sting. It came as naturally as sleep.

Honorable Alpheus Felch was born September 28, 1804, in Limerick, York County, Maine. He was left an orphan at about three years of age, and lived with his grandfather, Abijah Felch, a soldier of the revolution who had removed to that region while it was still a wilderness. Young Felch was ambitious to obtain an education and prepare for college and for that purpose entered Phillips Exeter Academy in 1821. He afterwards entered Bowdoin College and graduated therefrom in 1827. After graduating from Bowdoin, he entered upon the study of the law, and in 1830 was admitted to the bar at Bangor, Maine. Soon after being admitted to the bar he determined to settle in the west and removed to Monroe, Michigan, in 1833 and entered upon the practice of his chosen profession. In 1843 he removed to Ann Arbor, where he has since resided. Governor Felch was a member of our State Legislature in 1835-7 and in 1838-9. He was also appointed one of the State Bank Commissioners in 1838 and served as such for two years and did much to improve the banking system of our state. In 1842 he served as Auditor General for a short period. He was appointed one of the Justices of our State Supreme Court in 1843 and served until 1846 when he assumed the duties of Governor to which office he had been elected. He was ex-officio Regent of the University of Michigan 1842-45 and 1846-47. In 1847 he resigned his position as Governor of the state and was elected to the Senate of the United States in which position he served until 1853. He was afterwards appointed by President Pierce one of the commissioners to settle the Spanish and Mexican land claims in California under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo and was chosen President of the Commission.
