MANY DRONES IN THE HIVE. The Mystery of How People Live is Partly Explained.

"Did you ever wonder, while riding through the streets of a city, what all the people do to make a living?" was asked of a gentleman whose business takes him about town to a great extent, and whom the writer was accompanying upon one of his regular trips.

"Yes, it was a great mystery to me for a long time, and I have taken pains to find out in a number of instances where my curiosity was excited. There, for instance, in that house right there, lives a family. Do you know what he does?"

"No."
 "Well, I'll tell you. He does nothing. Absolutely nothing. A more worthless fellow does not exist in the city. His wife keeps the family from want. She is a hard worker, has the sympathy of every one who knows them, and as she does the sewing that she makes a living at, well, has all that she can do. She is the only honey gatherer in the hive. The four others are all drones, and live off of her industry."

Coming to another street a fairly good house was pointed out, with a remark: "There is a different state of affairs. The man who lives there is a hard working, steady man, and provides for his family well, but the wife has false ideas of life. She keeps a servant when she and her two daughters ought to do the work themselves, and the consequence is they do not save up anything. It worries him, and that worry is fast turning his black hair to gray. Some day he will drop away and then what will become of the family? That thought perhaps has been canvassed in all their minds, but they have their way of living and it seems impossible to change. Three drones in there."

Coming to a little old house that looked uninhabitable my companion remarked: "In that tumble down old shell lives a family of seven. The parents and five children, the oldest of the children being 12. The father not only drinks up all he can get hold of, but he is ugly. He whips her sometimes when he is in his cups, and if he thinks she has a cent of money he will compel her to give it to him. And yet she clings to the beast, when she could get along a great deal better if she would fire him out. People would then give her work to do who now will not do so, because they think it will be drank up by him. It is a pretty sad case, I tell you, and the city has to help them or they would starve. The children are all bright but with such an example set before them, what will become of them? We wonder where all of the criminals and dissolute people come from; there is a breeder right there. The chances are if the father lives until they are grown up, that some of those children, if not all, will be inmates of brothels or jails. There are six drones in that hive."

"The man who lives in the house yonder I do not know where to place. He is not strictly a drone; he is a gambler; he does not exactly rob people, but he lives off the weakness and youth of his fellow men. He toils not, neither does he spin, yet but few people are arrayed like him. The woman who lives with him is not his wife, but as they have no children, the species is not likely to be propagated by them."

Another instance of the fifteen or twenty this gentleman told about, and we will close these answers as to how people live. Pointing to a house that still bore an aristocratic air, even in its somewhat neglected condition, our friend continued: "In that place lives a family of five. The father died some years ago, and when the estate was settled up it was found that there was nothing left except that house and lot, which a lawyer who was a friend of the family, saved from the wrecked fortune. Every one supposed him to be wealthy, and the family never knew a want that he did not supply, but an ill wind blew over his affairs, he became involved in debt, and the worry of it took him to his grave right in the prime of life. But to the family. This wife was left with three little ones. She knew nothing of management, and was like a child when forced to battle with the world for existence. Friends helped all they could, she rented rooms, tried to take a few boarders but failed, and finally her health succumbed to the strain and she became an invalid. The death of her father about that time left her a small amount which was taken care of by this friend spoken of, and so wisely invested, that with the aid of the rent from rooms it maintained the family in reasonable comfort until the two girls were educated. One of these girls became a teacher, the other married, and the boy is now old enough to help himself and his mother, but unfortunately for both, just at the period that he ought to have had a firm hand to guide him right, he was left to his own sweet will, and so got into bad company, and is to-day a good-for-nothing. The girl that was married lost her husband in an accident after a couple of years, and came back home with a little babe to care for. That is the history of that home. They have a little money, but the oldest daughter is the only worker there, and so four drones will have to be credited to that hive."

And so from street to street drove our friend, telling how this and that family lived, and how the drones often outnumber the workers.

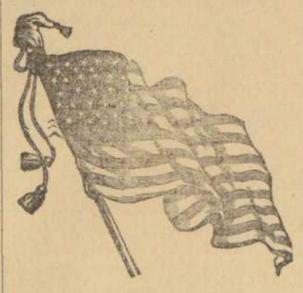

To Change the Day—
 Inasmuch as it is a growing tendency of young Americans to have fun on a holiday, and Decoration Day is coming more and more to be devoted to picnics, base ball games, races and other athletic contests, it is suggested by Judge Tourgee that it might be well to have Memorial Day come always on the fourth Sunday of May. Unless something like this is done, the beautiful intent of the observance will lose its significance, and the desecration of the day will be more and more in evidence. The G. A. R. Post of this city passed a resolution favoring the adoption of Sunday.

To Celebrate Their Anniversary—
 On Wednesday evening, June 16, the Ann Arbor Maccabees will hold a banquet commemorating the organization of the order. A large number of out-of-town guests and Maccabees of prominence will be present and the following program of toasts has been prepared: "Ann Arbor," response by Mayor Hiscock; "Ancient Maccabees," by Mrs. Sunderland; "Our Laws, Present and Future," Past Commander Hon. D. D. Aitkin, of Flint; "Fraternity," Sir Knight Rev. W. L. Tedrow; "The Future Maccabee," Commander N. S. Boynton of Port Huron; "Honesty, Equality and Patriotism," Sir Knight M. J. Cavanaugh; "Our Obligation," Sir Knight Hughes; "Our Sisters," Sir Knight H. Wirt Newkirk; "Sir Knights," Great Record Keeper Emma E. Bower; "The Progress and Present Condition of Our Order," Great Record Keeper Watson. Robert J. Whaley, of Flint, Great Finance Keeper, will be another prominent guest.

Judge Lane Accepts the Place—
 The regents, at their recent meeting, elected Judge Victor H. Lane of Adrian, to the Fletcher professorship of Law, from which the Hon. Levi D. Griffin recently resigned. Judge Lane has accepted the position, and will remove here with his family during the coming summer. He has over two years and a half yet to serve as circuit judge of the Lenawee and Hillsdale circuit, and will consequently resign that position to accept of this. When first elected he was the youngest judge on the bench in the state, yet he has so administered the affairs of the court that he has made himself prominent in the legal world, and held the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens to a remarkable degree. The regents have certainly shown wisdom in the selection, and the University is fortunate in securing the services of this former son of hers.

OUR NATAL DAY. LONG MAY SHE WAVE—THE GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY TO BE GLORIOUSLY CELEBRATED.

The committee of fifty, or at least a goodly portion of that committee, met at the office of County Clerk Schuh, at the court house on Monday evening, J. J. Goodyear was chairman and Geo. H. Pond, secretary. The meeting appointed the following sub-committees for the Fourth of July celebration: Executive committee—Walter C. Mack, chairman; John Lindenschmitt, Titus F. Hutzler, E. V. Hangsterfer, Michael Staebler, Fred Huntoon, Dean Seabolt, Theo. Reyer, A. C. Schumacher, Sid W. Millard, J. F. Schuh and H. J. Brown. Finance committee—J. J. Goodyear, Moses Seabolt, Glen V. Mills, Fred Schmid, Frank Ortman, George Spat-helf, jr.

Com. on Decoration—John E. Travis, Wm. Herz, Fred W. Weinberg, Chas. F. Staebler, Chas. H. Major, P. J. Lehman, W. H. Butler.
 Com. on Invitation—Capt. Chas. H. Manly, Capt. Ross Granger, Capt. Ambrose Pack, Maj. Sid W. Millard, Col. H. S. Dean, Gen. Arthur Brown, Lieut. Geo. Apfel, Ex-Mayor S. W. Beakes.
 Com. on Printing—Chas. A. Ward, Tom W. Mingay, Geo. J. Haller, jr., J. E. Beal, S. A. Moran, L. J. Lisemer, Eugene Helber.

Reception Com.—Mayor Chas. E. Hiscock, Ex-Mayor Warren E. Walker, Ex-Mayor Wm. G. Doty, Dr. Fleming Carrow, Prof. M. E. Cooley, Dr. John Kapp, Dr. W. F. Breakey, J. D. Ryan, Wm. Judson, E. F. Mills, Ralph McAllister, B. St. James, Wm. Goodyear, Chas. S. Millen. Power was given Mayor Hiscock to call to his aid any citizen he might desire to serve with him on this committee.

The matter of securing amusements was left entirely with the executive committee. It was also resolved that the chairman of the executive committee be instructed to call a meeting of all the committees for Thursday evening, at 7:30 sharp, at the county clerk's office in the court house.

A resolution was also passed making the chairman of each committee a member of the executive committee. This sets things moving. Several of the committees held meetings after the general meeting was over, and mapped out plans for immediate action. The time is short, only four weeks from next Saturday, and it behooves all the active men of the city to take hold and push this thing along with all their might.

All the military companies that can be secured will be invited to help make the day a big one. A brigade of horses; a division of bicycles; a parade several miles long, and the finest display of fireworks ever seen in the city are already assured.

Ann Arbor has not celebrated for many years now, and she proposes to have a celebration that will, by its brilliancy, attract the people from all over this part of the state. Let the eagle scream!

What the City Fathers Did—

At the council meeting Monday evening John R. Miner sent in his resignation as supervisor of the 1st ward and his son J. Rice Miner was appointed in his place.

The sum of $175 was appropriated for work on Spring st., $150 on W. Huron st., and $150 for extending culvert on W. Seventh st.

A lot of petitions mostly in reference to sidewalks and street grading were received and referred.

Robert Hunter was given the contract to furnish the city with 10,000 aluminum figures. The finance committee reported $5,761.20 worth of bills which were allowed, of which $2,639.19 was from street fund, and from bridge, culvert, etc. fund, $628.83.

Mack & Co. were granted permission to extend their show windows permanently over the sidewalk 18 inches.

The tax levy for the year was fixed at $45,820, as follows:

Street fund	$15,000 00
Fire	7,000 00
Police	3,000 00
Floor	2,500 00
Water	6,000 00
City Cemetery fund	100 00
U. of M. Aid bonds	3,420 00
Bridge, culvert and crosswalks	5,000 00
Interest on sewer bonds	3,200 00
Balance to Contingent fund	600 00
	$45,820 00

The salaries of the city officers were fixed for the year as follows:

City Treasurer	100 00
Clerk	1,000 00
Engineer	1,200 00
Assessor	1,000 00
Attorney	800 00
Street Commissioner	800 00
City Physician	100 00
City Marshal	800 00
Health Officer	150 00
Health Board Inspector	100 00
Member Board of Health	50 00
Four Patrolmen, $600 each	2,400 00
	$8,400 00

The city clerk agrees to furnish his own help, the city attorney to hold the city free from any expense for aid in conducting city law business, and marshal to furnish horse and buggy for police department without expense to the city.

After appropriating the free telephone given each member of the council, the body adjourned.

Taxes in the Twin Cities—

The total tax levy for Ann Arbor city is $45,820, of which $6,620 is for bonds and interest as follows: The sum of $3,200 is for interest on sewer bonds, and $3,420 for principal of $2,000 and $1,420 for interest on aid given the University. There should be added to the above the amount of liquor tax, some $8,000 to get the total income. The total tax levy for our neighboring city of Ypsilanti is $31,800, of which $12,500 is for a sinking fund, in other words to pay bonds and interest on bonds. Their street and bridge fund calls for $4,300, while Ann Arbor's street and bridge fund amounts to $20,000. Quite a difference between the twins in that respect, and yet Ypsilanti's streets are in as good condition as those of Ann Arbor.

One or two important bills—important to tax-payers, at least, have become laws, among them being an act providing for the publication of the proceedings of annual school meetings, and an annual financial statement in graded school districts. Also for the printing or writing of financial statements of township for distribution at the annual town meeting.

The cartoon in the Detroit Journal of last Wednesday night, illustrating how the state capitol has been removed from Lansing to Detroit, was right bright. No particular credit to the state, though.

One good thing can be said of the late defunct legislature, viz: It passed fewer bills than any of its predecessors for many a session. The fact was not the result of wisdom, however, but of the inability of its members to agree among themselves.

The numerous friends of George C. Smith, who for many years has shined the quill on Ypsilanti papers, will be happy to learn that he has been appointed to a position in the Auditor General's office at Lansing. He is a worthy republican, and an honorable citizen, and deserves any good fortune that may come to him.

In the disagreeable jambooree with which the session of the late legislature closed, some one threw a book through the oil portrait of Gen. La Fayette which was hanging upon the wall in the Senate Chamber. The painting was an historical relic, a present to the people of Michigan by Gen. Lewis Cass, and was of more value to the state than the entire body of men—with a few notable exceptions—who have served their own interests at the capitol this winter.

Parties who are preparing to establish beet-sugar factories will be interested in a recent step taken by the Secretary of Agriculture in their behalf. Having supplied over twenty thousand farmers of the United States with beet seeds for trial crops, Secretary Wilson is now making a practical and intelligent investigation to determine the sections of country where beet sugar manufacture is most likely to be successful, the object being to assist those who desire to invest in beet-sugar factories.

THE FIGHT IN 1898.

Had the railroads of Michigan given the state in extra taxes the amount spent by them the past winter in maintaining an expensive lobby at Lansing; and had these same railroads made some concessions to the people, in the way of 500 or 1,000 mile family tickets, interchangeable, for instance, the said railroads would stand better with the people than they do to-day. Had they shown a desire to conciliate they would have been met half way, and both they and the people would have felt better than they now do. As it is the anti-railroad sentiment is growing, and but few men, in the rural communities especially, will be nominated for the next legislature who do not come out publicly and announce their position upon this question. The people get it into their heads that if the income of the railroads is sufficient to warrant the expenditure of so much money in what they consider an illegitimate manner, then the rates, for both passenger and freight traffic, ought to be reduced in keeping with the profits from other business investments. The truth might as well be looked square in the face, the next campaign will not be political, but the division line will be: Railroad? or Anti-Railroad? with other corporations arrayed largely upon the side of the railroads.

TO INSURE BUSINESS STABILITY.

Hon. Chas. N. Fowler of New Jersey has introduced a bill in congress that bids fair to solve the problem of the tariff and do away with the eternal jangling over duties to be imposed upon imports.

The proposition is to create a Tariff Commission, to be composed of seven members, each to serve for 21 years, whose duty it shall be "to investigate all questions of Federal taxation, and annually make a report to the President of the United States on or before the 1st day of November, with such recommendations for changes in import duties and internal-revenue taxes as they may deem wise and proper." The commission shall have power, with the President, "to suspend any part or the whole of any tax upon imports or of any internal tax which may have been imposed by congress," etc.

The objections to the bill have not as yet been presented. There may be reasons why the scheme would not be practical, but at this writing it looks as if the passage of this bill would give stability to the business interests of the country, and completely do away with the continual tinkering with the tariff.

One great argument in its favor would be the power of the President and this commission to act in case of need. Now, nothing can be accomplished save when the President and both Houses of Congress are in accord, which sometimes does not happen for many years. For instance, there was no time between 1875 and 1889 when such a state of affairs existed.

Unless there are objections not now apparent, the Courier believes that the proposition should be tried. At any rate, if there are valid objections, we should like to hear what they are.

Just as long as any considerable number of men in a community talk of hard times, poor business and bad management, just so long will they have an influence to make their town what they are claiming for it. It is true that legislation was expected that would bring about a speedy change among the laboring and business interests of the country. There has been some disappointment in this, but the man or firm that waits for legislation, expects legislation to make business for him, will wait in vain. It is the live, wide awake business man, who seeing business falling off, goes to work and by his own energies recovers the loss, that is then ready to take advantage of legislation when it comes. To come to a standstill waiting for legislation to put money in your pocket means no advancement and less business every year.—Cedar Springs Clipper.

Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for June contains an important contribution to modern economics by the Hon. David A. Wells on "The Nomenclature and Forms of Taxation." The poll-tax is shown to be a desirable form if popular opinion can be brought to favor it. The relative merits of direct and indirect taxation are discussed at some length, and the conclusion is arrived at that, while indirect taxation is generally favored by public opinion, it is much the most expensive and least desirable of the two.

THE RUSH TO THE CITIES.

One of the most quieting features of the social condition of our times is the rush of young men to the cities. Resulting from this is the weakness and instability of the farming population as compared with the same class half a century ago. Steadiness of national character goes with firmness of foothold on the soil. We may well look with alarm on a condition in which all men of wealth and power shall be gathered in the cities, while the farms are left to the weak and inefficient or to the peasants of other nations. As matters are, the cities are great destroyers of human life. We have not learned properly to govern them nor to make them effective, and every city is full of human failures, results of misdirected effort. A tour of the principal streets, halls and meeting places on Sunday evening in any great city will show how terribly true this is. Certainly one-fourth the present population of such a city as San Francisco, for example, has no real business there. These people are doing nothing which is effective for themselves or helpful to others, and the condition of the other three-fourths, and most likely they are in no better condition, would be distinctly improved, if these misfit persons would go back to the farms.

No one can succeed in any country unless he is able or willing to do some one thing well and stick to it. Because the life of the country is simpler and more honest it is easier for a man of moderate ability to do it. I call it more honest because the farm life deals with nature first hand, while the city life deals with the shifting relations of men.

The farmer trades with nature through no middle man. Nature is as honest as eternity and she never fails to meet the just dues of those who have claims upon her.

In the city, opportunities to gratify ambition are more numerous and greater than in the country. But opportunity comes only to the man who can make use of it. For a man who can do important things and can do them well the city will always find something to do. Hence the success of thousands of men who have gone to the cities with their worldly goods on their backs and no capital but their brains.

But the great majority of those who leave the farms are not of this type. They have not learned to do anything well, least of all anything that the people of the cities want. Hence the failure of those who go to the cities without capital of any kind, or with capital of other kind than brains.

The great obstacle in the way of the effective working man is not organized capital. It is efficiency. It is the great crowd of those who can do nothing well and whose presence causes a general scramble whenever there is any work to be done. Capitalists could and would double the wages of labor if they were assured of intelligent, effective and loyal service. Brains and heart are the only servants that a man can afford to pay for. If you cannot furnish one or the other of these there is no help for you. You cannot live by the work of your hands. Least of all can you do this in the city where competition is severe and where three

Sometimes a burglar only succeeds in damaging the lock of a safe so that the combination won't work. Next morning the bank officers can't get at their own money. There may be millions in the safe, but if their credit depended on getting it in a hurry they would be bankrupt, simply because the combination won't work. A sick man is in very much the same fix about getting at the nourishment he needs to keep him alive. There is plenty of good food at hand, but his digestive organization is out of order; the nutritive combination of his system won't work. He can't possibly get at the nourishment contained in the food. He takes it into his stomach, but it does him no good. It isn't made into good blood. He is just as badly off as if the food was locked up where he couldn't touch it. He gets no strength or health out of it. All these mal-nutritive conditions have a perfect and scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts the nutritive "combination" of the system into perfect working order. It gives the digestive and blood-making organs power to make pure, red, healthy blood, and pour it into the circulation abundantly and rapidly. It drives out all bilious poisons and scrofulous germs, cures indigestion, liver complaint, nervousness and neuralgia, and builds up solid flesh, active power and nerve force.

Mrs. Rebecca F. Gardner, of Grafton, York Co., Va., writes: "I was so sick with dyspepsia that I could not eat anything for over four months. I had to starve myself, as nothing would stay on my stomach. I was so badly off I could not eat even a cracker. I thought I was going to die. I weighed only 80 pounds. I tried almost everything, and nothing did me any good until I got two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I am now as well as I ever was, and weigh 125 pounds."

"I was tired all the time, had no appetite and felt sore all over my body. I had backache so badly that when I stooped down it was difficult to straighten up again. I was hardly able to do my work and was just making up my mind to give up work when I noticed an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I read it through and determined to try this medicine. When I had finished one bottle I felt a great deal better, and after I had taken the third bottle I felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life. men are struggling for the chance to do the work of one.

There is no doubt that the congestion of the cities is in part the effect of unwise legislation. We have used every effort to be something more than a nation of farmers, and in this effort we have almost ruined our farms. But legislative action is not the main cause of the congestion of the cities. The other causes are bringing about the same result in all civilized nations. Even Rome has had a "real estate boom," an unfortunate condition as the people crowd into the capital. It is not clear what the end will be or how the evil will find its remedy.

But this we may say to every farmer's son: You have your own life to make. In the country you are sure of your ground. You will get what you deserve. While your rewards will not be brilliant, your failure will not be ruinous. Do not go to the city unless you are sure that the city needs you. If you go there with nothing to give that the city cares for, you will find yourself cast aside. Brains the city wants and will pay for and devour. Loyalty of service will be recognized and valued in this world or any other. Handwork, pure and simple, without skill or pride in it, commands no price in the market. There is no chance about this. The results are sure as fate. If you do poor things poorly, you will always be poor. What you can do, a bucket of coal and a bucket of water, guided by a thoughtful brain will do more effectively. When the time shall come that each workman can use his brains to the best advantage, we shall have an end to the labor problem. The final answer to the labor problem is that each shall solve it for himself.

Bicycle Proverbs.

A bicycle can do almost anything save climb a tree. A drop of oil in time may save many a gallon of perspiration.

It shall be said of all bicycles that their way is the way of the crank. It cannot be said of a bicycle rider that he begins the way he should go. It is a wise cyclistometer that can show its master an extraordinary day's run.

As the handle bar is bent, so shall the spinal column of the rider be inclined.

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but a soft tire filleth a man with evil thoughts.

The man who looketh behind him in a crowded path would better be a pillar of salt.

The rider who pursueth his way with his head bowed runneth to his own destruction.

As the spoke is bent, so shall the path of the bicycle deviate from the straight and narrow way.

The oil cup that goes too long uncovered will become possessed of as much grit as the rider of the bicycle thereof.

It is not meet that bicycles should greet each other with clapping of hand. Rather let them pay a formal distant greeting.

The bicycle hath wisdom which submitteth to the charge that it is at fault, and not its master, for running two days aike during the week.

"Table Talk" for June presents an unusual array of tempting dishes for the housewife. It opens with the third article in the series of gardening dishes, fully illustrated. The article in the June issue is "Gardening and Dishing Entrees, Salads, and Desserts," by Mary Roland, a widely known writer on "Domestic Science" topics; "Sandwiches and Drinks" from the able pen of Miss C. C. Bedford, is timely and tempting for the languid summer appetite; "Edible Weeds and How to Cook Them," by Eichel Ramsey, gives information that all good housekeepers appreciate; "Canning and Preserving," by Miss Joyce, a noted authority, gives recipes and careful instruction for canning for the month of June. Our readers can have a free sample copy, by applying to the Table Talk Publishing Co., Phil., Pa.

"Who is that lank party with the medals?" asked the drummer.

"That is our town champion," the rural grocer explained. "He has got his picture in the papers more times for being cured of more different diseases than any man in the United States."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bicycling on the Road.

There are very few people of the farming class who, if properly approached, will decline to take you in for the night, provided you are reasonably well dressed, a gentlemanly looking personage, and are not travelling in a company of more than two including yourself. You ride along through the day, and towards evening come upon some attractive looking farm-house. You approach and ask the mistress if she will take you and your friend in for the night, adding that you are travelling on a tour from such a point to such a point, that you will gladly pay for what rest and food she can give you. In nice cases out of ten she will take you in after a short talk. An evening spent with the farmer and his wife and family, if you enter into the spirit of the thing, is one of the most enjoyable of evenings, and at the same time one of the most valuable methods for picking up a knowledge of the people of this country who live out of your immediate sphere. Towards bedtime they will probably want to put you in the spare chamber, which, in such homes, means the one unused room of the house. If you decline and take one of the poorer but frequently used rooms you will be happier. In any case the measure of the house will probably think more of you and charge you less. Often in the morning when you set out to continue your journey the farmer and his wife will laugh at the idea of payment. In that case, it is due to those who come after you as well as to yourself that when you return home you send them something in the nature of a present or remembrance. In this way some very pleasant evenings are passed, and some attractive acquaintances made, new places are discovered, and new features of old places found out from day to day, and, over and above all, it is the most inexpensive method of traveling afoot or awheel that can be imagined.—Harper's Round Table.

"HOME AGIN'."

JOE LINCOLN.
I've jest been up to the city, to visit my granddaddy Bess, She married a feller with money—wuth quite a little, I guess. They're puttin' on frills now, I tell yer, and 'slingin' a barrel of style. And I reckon the house that they live in, must a cost 'em a whole 'nother pile. Pictures 'n I dunno what-all, every thing best of the kind, and footmen 'n servants, Gee! what a tribe they have got. Flee? Well it is, if you like 'em, somehow I never set store. By style and new-fashioned fringes, I'm glad to get back here once more.

Walkin' up through the lane from the station, knowin' the folks that I pass, Seem'n no signs in the madders, tellin' me "Keep off the grass." Hearin' the cowbells a-jingle, smellin' the lilacs a-bloom, Gosh! It's like gittin' to Heaven, after a spell in the tomb. Just here them robins a-singin', isn't that music? And—bark! Don't hear them blabbers a-totin', down in a stuffy old park. Won't hear no cars on the pavements, won't be no trolleys, to keep Bangin' their gongs when its bedtime, stoppin' a feller from sleep.

Ah! there's the house and the stable. Ain't that a picture? And—say! There's Mary Ann on the door-step, here comes old Towser this way. Hi! there, old boy, don't you eat me—Well, he remembers me yet. Ain't any dog the country knows more 'n that one. I'll bet. Well! Mary Ann, you look heavy. Feelin' all lonesome? That's right. Ah, Mother give me a kiss now, say, but I've missed you a sight. Gee! it does seem good to git here, I ain't no great hand at nothin'.

Look at that supper a-steam! No use in talkin', I'm HOME.

DAUGHTER OF THE REGIMENT.

The Daughter of the Regiment—all radiant she comes: There's a signal from the captain and a welcome from the drums; And cheer on cheer rings o'er the ranks; a lily of the May. The Daughter of the Regiment blooms in the blue sky to-day.

The Daughter of the Regiment! But never would crimson on a battlefield could she but face her foes; No black wreaths from the reckless spear she holy heavens revile, For love hath aureoled here brow and peace is in her smile! —Atlanta Constitution.

BLOSSOM-TIME.

High above in the cherry tree The bees are holding a jubilee. The time is in the trees a-bloom, And the air is sweet with the rare perfume.

"We need not wait for the fruit to grow," The bees hum busily as they go. "The blossoms are sweet, and the wind is shy! He loves to scatter them by and by!"

High above, among the blossoms gay, The bees are gathering sweets today. And Robin wisely shakes his head: "They're welcome; I'll wait for the cherries red!" —Agnes L. Mitchell in June St. Nicholas.

THEY KISSED.

Under a walnut tree they sat; He held her hand, she held his hat, I held my breath and lay quit flat— They kissed; I saw them do it!

He held that kissing was no crime, She held her head up every time; I held my peace and wrote this rhyme. They never knew I knew it.

Poor Girls

The poorest girls in the world are those not taught to work. There are thousands of them. Rich parents have petted them, and they have been taught to despise labor and to depend upon others for a living, and are perfectly helpless. The most forlorn women belong to this class. Every daughter should learn to earn her own living, the rich as well as the poor. The wheel of fortune rolls swiftly around; the rich are likely to become poor, and the poor rich. Skill added to labor is no disadvantage to the rich, and is indispensable to the poor. Well-to-do girls should learn to work. No reform is more imperative than this.—London Gentleman.

Progress in Victoria's Reign.

"When Victoria was called to the throne the United Kingdom contained 26,000,000 people," writes William George Jordan of "What Victoria has Seen," reviewing in the June Ladies' Home Journal, the world's progress during the sixty years of the English sovereign's rule. "To-day it has over 39,000,000. The 'wise men' of the time said the nation would go to pieces. They claimed it could never govern its home and colonial possessions. Under Victoria the new territory acquired alone is one-sixth larger than all Europe. To-day Victoria rules over 402,514,000 people, or twenty-seven per cent. of the population of the globe. Her Empire extends over 11,260,316 square miles, covering twenty-one per cent. of the land of the world. The United States, at the time of Victoria's coronation, had only 17,000,000 people; to-day it has 70,000,000. Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana were then Western frontier States. All our territory west of the Mississippi contained less people than Philadelphia has to-day. Our present trans-Mississippi population exceeds in number that of the whole country in 1837. Our territorial area has increased seventy-five per cent.; our National wealth has increased about seventeen hundred per cent."

Fred Wasn't Grasping.

"So you want to marry Fred, do you?" said the father.
"Yes, papa," replied the daughter, with her arms about his neck.
"And go away and leave me alone?"
"Why no, papa; I know Fred will be willing to leave mamma with you!"—Odds and Ends.

What is the condition of our streets, to-day? Muddy? Or dusty? —

PRESIDENT SETH LOW.

May Be the Republican Choice for Mayor of Greater New York.
Seth Low, who is so warmly supported by many eminent citizens for mayor of Greater New York, is the president of Columbia university, and one of the most remarkable educators in America. He was made president of the big college when he was but 40. He is now approaching 47. Prof. Low was graduated from the great institution over which he now presides before he reached his majority. His father had been a merchant, and when Seth left college he undertook to master the details of the business. He did it so well that in four years he was made manager of it. Early he took an interest in politics, and at 30 he was the foremost republican in Brooklyn. He took a prominent part in the campaign in which Garfield was elected president, and a year later he was elected mayor of Brooklyn, in spite of the efforts of the political bosses to defeat him. Until his election to the headship of the great school he was never regarded as a scholar, but during the seven years he has officiated as the director of Columbia he has shown himself to be not only a man of the widest culture, but a man of affairs. He has handled the interests of the university with such skill as to make it the marvel of the east. Prof. Low knows civic government thoroughly, and some of the most prominent men in Greater New York demand his nomination from the republican party. He might have been the republican nominee for the New York mayoralty in 1888, but he did not agree with the party platform, and declined the honor.

LOGAN MONUMENT.

Splendid Memorial to the Great Soldier Erected at Chicago.
The Logan monument, which is to be unveiled at Chicago with elaborate ceremonies July 22, will be a fitting memorial to the soldier statesman. The equestrian bronze statue will rest upon a granite pedestal surmounting a huge oval mound, within which will be constructed crypts for the reception of the bodies of the dead soldier and his widow when she too shall have passed away. This mound will be 200 feet in length and 150 feet wide, sloping gradually upward 18 feet from the ground, with a flat surface at its top 24x33 feet. Around the edge will be a stone coping bordering a five-foot walk which will encircle the pedestal. The latter will be four feet high and the statue will rise 23 feet above, making the total height of the monument above the ground 44 feet. The figure of Logan will be nine feet high. The design shows the general as he appeared when he dashed to the front with a regimental standard grasped in his left hand, to assume command of the Army of the Tennessee upon the death of Gen. McPherson before Atlanta. The crypt will be sealed, and the only mode of access will be through a trap sunk in the graveled walk on the top of the artificial mound surrounding the base of the statue. On the sides and ends of the pedestal will be inscribed the battles in which Gen. Logan fought. The dates of his birth and death will be as follows:

• Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, Born in Illinois, Feb. 3, 1826, and Died in Washington, D. C., Dec. 26, 1886.
The monument will be placed in the Lake Front park at the foot of Eldridge court.

The Next Sultan of Turkey.

Rechad Effendi, the heir-apparent to the Turkish throne, is a red-haired Turk, with blue eyes. If Rechad Effendi ever becomes sultan he will have to dye his hair jet black. Rechad is a great favorite with all who know him. Unlike his brother, the sultan, he is the reverse of fanatical. His two wives dress like fashionable Frenchwomen. They speak French, German and English fluently. Rechad himself is a good pianist.

Scotch Farms.

According to the government return just issued there are in Scotland 9,237 agricultural holdings of one acre and under, 20,150 of from one to five acres, 33,921 of from five to 50 acres, 25,565 of above 50 acres, and 76 of more than 1,000 acres.

THE ROYAL WAY.

High-Born Dames Carry Their Own Bedding on Their Travels.
Few royal folks when traveling require their bedsteads and bedroom furniture to form a portion of their luggage, as the queen does, for instance. But many great ladies there are who carry their own beds and bed linen, blankets and quilts, and always a mackintosh sheet to spread over the mattress to guard against dampness for lack of sufficient airing in transit from place to place. Grand Duke Paul of Russia, it is true, is always, when traveling, accompanied by a bedstead, which he has had built in sections, and which is put up by a special mechanic, under the superintendence of the royal valet, wherever the grand duke goes, but then it is simply because he can seldom, owing to his great height, meet with one long enough for his comfort, says the Philadelphia Press.

It does not appear to be generally known that among the servants of the queen are two bearing the title of her majesty's tappers. One of them follows the court wherever it may be, and the other remains permanently at Windsor. The duty of these functionaries is to superintend the packing of the queen's baggage when the court migrates, and their work is so perfectly organized that every member of the establishment concerned knows almost to a minute when he or she must be ready to receive a visit from the packer. It is also the duty of the tappers to maintain communication from palace to palace with reference to all matters which cannot be brought within the limits of the royal mail boxes; to know by heart all railway and steamship routes, and to be able to convey any desired article from one place to another by the swiftest and safest method.

NATURAL COKE.

It is Claimed There is a Deposit of It in the State of Utah.
In works of mineralogy it is learned that there is such a product as natural coke, but so far as known there has but one deposit of this commodity been found in the United States, and this was in the vicinity of Richmond, Va. Although the deposits of coal in Utah are immense in their proportions, it was never dreamed that among its commodities of trade and commerce the state could boast of beds of this natural coke, but such is the case, however, and the Salt Lake Herald is informed that a short time ago a vein of this coke had been discovered in a section of the country about 140 miles south of this city, and within 15 miles of a railroad.

This deposit crops out on the surface for some distance, and a 25 to 30-foot tunnel has disclosed a body of coke that is all of five feet in width, and there is every reason to believe that with depth the size of this deposit will increase. In quality the coke is all that could be desired, and at the assay offices at which it has been tested the statement is made that it is a pure article, and that it is even superior to the manufactured coke, as it is entirely free from sulphur, bitumen, and that it gives out no smoke when burned, and makes less ash than the manufactured article.

The new find, which is considered as being among the most valuable that has been made in the state, is owned and controlled by ex-Mayor R. N. Baskin and several other Salt Lake gentlemen, who have located 640 acres in the immediate vicinity of the discovery.

FORGET THEIR CHANGE.

Men in a Hurry to Get Away After Making Their Purchases.
A man entering a State street bookstore, made several small purchases, threw down a dollar bill to pay for them, and as soon as his package was handed to him turned to go out. The clerk called after him, says the Chicago Times-Herald.
"Hi, there! Don't you want your change?" and he handed the customer the best part of his dollar.
"That happens every day," said the clerk, "and we give quite an amount at the end of the year to charitable organizations from the fund created by change that has not been called for. It seems as if customers have only one idea, and that is to get their goods and go away."
"Do they ever come back for the change?"
"Very rarely, and then it is always for change that was left somewhere else. I often wonder how such people get through the world. And another funny thing is, the customer never seems to expect the change when we offer it to them, that is after he has forgotten it. You saw how that man looked when we called him back—just as if I was making him responsible for some other man's mistake. It takes all kind of people to make a world."

Sinking of Cape Cod.

The Boston Transcript refers to the recent indications that Cape Cod is gradually sinking or wearing away. A few days ago workmen at the Provincetown pumping station found, 17 feet below the level of the surface of the ground and six feet below the sea level a four-inch stratum of mold composed of decayed leaves, fibrous matter, and fragments of tree trunks and branches. This would seem to indicate the land has sunk, for fresh water is found on the cape at a level about equal to the sea level at neap tides.

Eight Golden Weddings.

Eight golden weddings were celebrated recently at Anderlus, near Brussels. The whole town turned out in honor of the occasion, they had a public dinner and a ball, and each one of the old people received the present of an armchair.

New England's Population.

Irish and French Canadians constitute 70 per cent. of the foreign population in New England.

THE SULTAN'S HEIR.

His Eldest Brother, Who is Little Known Among the People.
The sultan's heir is not his eldest son, by the eldest brother. The eldest male succeeds. Such is the law of Islam, and the fruitful source of dynasty murders in almost every reign since the Turks became a power, says the London Echo. The sultan has four brothers; not one, only, as was lately alleged. This eldest brother is Rechad Effendi; that is to say, he is the eldest after ex-Sultan Murad V., who, being insane, is not counted. The third brother is Waredin, and the fourth Suliman. The sultan's eldest son, Prince Selim, has no earthly chance of succeeding his father. He has too many uncles and uncles' sons for that. But Prince Selim is lucky, if he knows it, for he is not "dangerous." He lives a life of freedom, whereas the heir is, by the custom of the Ottomans, a kind of life prisoner.

Rechad Effendi is rarely seen. Every time he drives out he is escorted by a troop, less by way of an escort than as a guard. The few who do know him like him, for he is said to be courteous, humane, well-informed man, acquainted with current politics and keenly interested in them. He is a good farmer. The pretty palace known as the Tegeragan is his residence. Of course, Rechad's visitors are searched before they are admitted, and when they are leaving, by the sultan's officials. During this time of trouble in Armenia, Constantinople and Crete, Rechad has been more narrowly watched than ever, for the sultan and his clique know that Rechad is popular. Unlike the sultan, Rechad is one of the most handsome men in Constantinople.

WOOD MOSAIC OF SAWDUST.

Highly Ornamental Process for Molding Doors and Floor Material.
In the reports of the Industrial union mention is made of a new process of floor mosaic, says the Yale Scientific Monthly. Small particles of wood, as sawdust, wood flour and fine shavings, are treated first with a mixture of shellac and alcohol, and then with a cement made of eurd and slacked lime. While this mixture is still damp, it is put into hot molds of the desired shape and size, and placed under pressure. The joint action of the heat and pressure unite the wood most thoroughly with both the shellac and the cement. After a few minutes the compound is taken out of the molds when it is thoroughly cooled and hardened. Great care is necessary that no foreign substance, especially of an oily nature, be present, as it would prevent the cement from being absorbed into the pores of the wood. In making different colored mosaic the natural color of the woods used is taken into consideration, then the wood itself is dyed, and lastly dyes dissolved in alcohol are mixed with the shellac. The process is then performed as before. In spite of its hardness this compound possesses all the perfection of wood, so that it is particularly well adapted for use as a floor covering in living rooms and private dwellings. An important advantage over all other processes of manufacturing mosaic floors is that it is not affected by any change of temperature.

THE TROLLEY BUZZ.

And Something About the Trolley Cars as a Cure for Headache.
"Ever hear of the trolley buzz?" said a Brooklyn resident whose business is in New York. "They say that some people who travel regularly on the trolley cars get the trolley buzz. You know the sound of the trolley, the b-z-z-z-z that begins low and rises gradually as the car increases in speed, keeping a uniform tone when the car is running at uniform speed, and then declining again as the car runs slower and stopping when the car stops?" They say there are people who travel regularly on trolleys who hear this sound all the time wherever they are, except when they are asleep. They call this having the trolley buzz.
"I never had the trolley buzz, but the trolley cars sometimes do me a great deal of good. They cure me of headache. I work here all day, keeping very busy, and sometimes when I start home at night I have a hard headache. I get into a trolley car and take a seat over one of the axles. They say that no electricity gets into the car, but I imagine there must be more or less of it in the air. I know there is something there that cures my headache. I sit down in the car with the headache bad; I get down from it after a ride of about three miles, feeling bright and fresh and with the headache gone."

ELECTRIC PROTECTION OF SAFES.

Listing So Arranged That the Slightest Break Will Raise Alarm.
The latest idea for the protection of money and valuables is to have the safe which contains them secured inside a cabinet, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Where a safe is kept in a vault, the vault serves the purposes of a cabinet. In either case an electric lining is used, consisting of strips of metal mounted in connection with thin metal sheets, so arranged that even a pin thrust through the cabinet and penetrating the lining will sound the alarm. The door of the vault cannot be opened, nor can the curtain of the cabinet be raised, until a time-lock has disconnected it from the alarm system. In order that the alarm box may be proof against molestation it is made of steel and placed within a hood lined in the same way as the cabinet. Any attempt at tampering with it will cause an alarm to be sounded as in the case of the cabinet. The door is held closed by heavy lag bolts, the partial removal of any of which will give a warning signal. There are several of these lag bolts, and before the door can be opened they have all to be removed, which requires a considerable length of time.

Blind Persons in Europe.

Nalkenhoff, of Geneva, says there are 311,000 blind persons in Europe, mostly from fevers, and that 75 per cent. would have kept their sight had they been properly treated.

OSWALD OTTENDORFER.

German Editor May Be Greater New York's First Mayor.
Among the prospective candidates for the mayoralty of Greater New York none is regarded with more favor popularly than Oswald Ottendorfer, the veteran journalist. He is the father of German Journalism in America. Mr. Ottendorfer is the proprietor of the New York Staats Zeitung, and has lived in the United States since 1850. He grew up to young manhood in Moravia, and in 1848 he, with others, attempted to overthrow the Metternich government. He held the rank of first lieutenant in the battalion which was commanded by Robert Blum during the uprising in Vienna. He always fretted under monarchic government, and gave all the assistance he could to the popular revolution in Saxony and Baden. His work in that campaign placed his head in jeopardy, and he fled to Switzerland and thence to America. Here he found employment on the Staats Zeitung, and when Jacob Uhl, the proprietor, died, his widow intrusted much of the management of the property to Mr. Ottendorfer. On the marriage of the brilliant German with Mrs. Uhl the property of the Staats Zeitung passed into his possession. This was as long ago as 1859, and since that time he has directed the editorial and business affairs of the greatest German paper in America with striking success. His eminence and importance in this field brought him into contact with leading men and politicians. He was an alderman in 1872, and in 1874 was a candidate for mayor. Mr. Ottendorfer is public spirited and his candidacy would be acceptable to many Greater New Yorkers.

BARNARD'S AIR SHIP.

Unquestionably the Best Flying Machine Yet Manufactured.
Perhaps the most interesting flying machine at present is that made by Prof. Arthur W. Barnard, of Nashville, who made a successful trip from the Nashville Centennial grounds. The ship has an air chamber shaped like a cigar and 46 feet long by 18 feet in diameter. It is made of silk and cotton and filled with hydrogen gas. This chamber is confined in a network of small ropes, which holds the metallic framework and aeroplane underneath. The seat is made on the order of a bicycle frame, and from this the operator controls the wings or earplanes, on either side. The two propellers, or screws, extend in front of the operator, acting on the principle of an augur. In guiding the air ship the operator moves the screw from right to left in the direction he wishes to go, and ascends or descends by raising or lowering the side wings. The aeroplanes are frames of light wood, and are covered with a cotton fabric. The other framework is of metal, and the parts were made in Nashville, New York, and Connecticut, and put together by Prof. Barnard. The greater part of the air ship he made himself, without any assistance and during his spare hours.

Prof. Barnard drew the plans of the present ship about ten years ago, and they have been changed in only a few respects, the alterations being in the supports and mechanism.

Constitution of Gases.

In his new work entitled "The Constitution and Functions of Gases," S. J. Corrigan, of St. Paul, Minn., has advanced a new and interesting theory of the constitution of gases. Heretofore it has generally been believed that the molecules of a gas are in continual motion, and the pressure exerted by a gas is due to "bombardment" by millions of these flying particles. Mr. Corrigan considers the molecule at rest, and composed of a large number of atoms, which continually describe orbits about its center with great velocities. As the gas becomes rarer the "orbits" increase in size, and the pressure of the gas is proportional to the angular velocity of the atoms in their orbits.

Blind Persons in Europe.

Nalkenhoff, of Geneva, says there are 311,000 blind persons in Europe, mostly from fevers, and that 75 per cent. would have kept their sight had they been properly treated.

DELAY MEANS DECAY

A house and barn, farm tools, wagons, buggies, everything is improved with paint. There are almost as many different kinds of paint as there are things to be painted.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS BUGGY PAINT was made originally to paint buggies with, but it is just the thing to use on articles requiring an out-door exposure—porch and lawn chairs, boats, benches, etc.—where a fine varnish finish is wanted.

Our booklet, "Paint Points," tells of the different kinds of paint, tells what is good paint, what is bad paint, tells how to paint and what to paint, tells how to take care of your brushes. It can be had for the asking. You may not be thinking about paint to-day, but send for "Paint Points" anyway—it will keep.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS are sold by over 10,000 dealers, and are the best paints for all paintable things.

WELL FED BOILERS

The right boiler feeder saves trouble, time, fuel. The most perfectly automatic, the safest, most economical feeder made is the U.S. AUTOMATIC INJECTOR. More lasting than others. No other injector has an overflow valve which will never leak from wear. No other injector has a drip cock which enables injector to start (even if the check valve leaks) which drains the injector and prevents freezing; which prevents suction pipe from getting hot.

It is easier to operate, feeds hotter water, works with lower and higher steam than any other automatic injector. If your dealer does not keep it make him order it for you, or write to

HYSTERIC.

Women Should Understand This Strange Nervous Derangement.

A Symptom of Something Far More Serious—Mrs. Barris, of Beaver Springs, Relates Her Experience.

The spasm at top of wind-pipe, or in bronchial tubes, the "ball rising in the throat," violent beating of the heart; laughing and crying by turns; muscular spasms; throwing the arms about, etc., tell of a derangement of the female system.

Any female complaint may produce hysterics, which must be regarded as a symptom only. The cause, whatever it may be yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It acts at once upon the organ affected, and the nerve centers; removes the cause, and dispels effectually the symptoms.

Mrs. Barris relates her experience for the benefit of others.

"I had been sick with ulceration of the womb, causing all kinds of disagreeable experiences, such as irritability, sleeplessness, faintness, and at times hysterics. My physician said it was the worst case he ever had. My back ached, leucorrhoea very profuse, and I had a severe bearing-down pain. The physicians thought I should never recover, and as the last remedy, they procured your Vegetable Compound. I had not taken more than one-fourth of a bottle, before I was more comfortable. I continued its use, also the Sanative Wash, and Liver Pills. After using four bottles, I was able to be out, and do almost all my work. I think the Vegetable Compound is the only medicine that will cure female complaints, and it will reach the worst cases in a very short time. I know it saved my life."—MRS. M. BARRIS, Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania. All druggists.

The recent closing of the school in dist. No. 8, Bridgewater, taught by Miss Julia Kirchhoffer, was one of the finest affairs of the kind ever held in the district. The program was an excellent one, and developed much training and work on the part of the teacher.

Last week the Courier published an article relative to the necessity of farmers cleaning the rye from their wheat fields, if they desired to receive a good price for their wheat. Wheat having rye mixed in with it, makes black flour, and as a consequence such grain will sell for only the price of rye.

Abraham Losjford, of Howell, died recently at his home in that city, aged 77 years. "Uncle Abe" as he was familiarly known to Howell people, was the first colored man the writer of this ever saw, and for many years he and his family were the only colored people in Howell. He was a jolly old soul, and a general favorite with everybody. Peace to his ashes.

Hamburg seems to be infested with a gang of burglars, who are bent on getting whatever of wealth they can break in and steal. No less than two attempts have been made to raid the Ann Arbor depot at that place within a week past. Two of them were caught at their nefarious work last Friday night, but escaped before a shot could be fired at them.—Howell Herald.

At St. Mary's Rectory Tuesday evening June 1st, 1897, at 8 o'clock George F. Staffan and Miss Mae Wood both well known society people of Chelsea were joined in marriage by the Rev. W. P. Conditine, rector of St. Mary's church. Messrs. Edward McKone and Henry Wood and the Misses Kate Staffan and Blanche Cote attended the happy couple.—Chelsea Herald.

Patrick Flemming of Dexter township, one of the well known pioneers of the county, who died on the 21st ult., was born in Ireland Aug. 15, 1822. He worked for the M. C. R. R. Co., from 1845 to 1848. He went to California in 1850, and remained for four years, accumulating quite a fortune. In 1856 he went again, but returned as soon as he could sell his mining interests there.

A rural editor, not far away, had a bicycle item in his paper which said that "Miss — looked charming in her short skirt," but in setting the item, the compositor ran onto an "it" which had strayed into the "k" box, which by the way is a peculiar annoyance we all have to put up with, and the poor editor lost 13 subscribers before the ink on his edition was dry.—Plymouth Mail. Such things usually work the other way.

William Karl Klein died at the home of his parents in Saline Monday of last week, aged 32 years and 6 months. He had been in ill health for some time his case being a peculiar one which greatly puzzled the doctors. Some months since he was taken to Ann Arbor and operated upon for appendicitis. This only relieved him for a time and soon after his return home he began to grow worse again. After his death a close examination showed a cherry pit lodged in one of the smaller intestines which had produced inflammation.—Standard.

Woman's Home Life.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson asserts that men are the members of the community who have homes. Women have to sleep and live and eat in the place where they do their work. She thinks that the greater part of the work now done in the family dwelling is destined eventually to be removed from its social precincts, and when this is done, she says, women will have homes.

What is the condition of our streets, to-day? Muddy? Or dusty?

CAN CURE ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER.

A Noted Physician Offers to Prove This to all Sufferers in Ann Arbor

The majority of sufferers from Asthma and kindred complaints, after trying doctors and numberless remedies advertised as positive cures without avail, have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for this most distressing disease, and these same persons will be the more in doubt and skeptical when they learn through the columns of the press that Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann, the recognized authority who has treated more cases of these diseases than any living doctor, has achieved success by perfecting a remedy which not only gives immediate relief in the worst cases, but has positively cured thousands of sufferers who were considered incurable. These were just as skeptical as some of our readers now are. Dr. Schiffmann's remedy no doubt possesses the merit which is claimed for it or he would not authorize this paper to announce that he is not only willing to give free to each person suffering from Asthma, Hay Fever or Bronchitis in this city, one liberal "free trial box" of his Cure, but urgently requests all sufferers to call at Good-year's Drug Store, Ann Arbor, within the next three days and receive a package absolutely free of charge, knowing that in making the claim he does for his Cure, a strong doubt may arise in the minds of many, and that a personal test, as he offers to all, will be more convincing, and prove its merits, than the publishing of thousands of testimonials from persons who have been permanently cured by the use of his Asthma Cure. "Dr. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure," as it is called, has been sold by druggists of this city ever since it was first introduced, although many persons may never have heard of it, and it is with a view to reaching these that he makes this offer. This is certainly a most generous and fair offer, and all who are suffering from any of the above complaints should remember the date and place where the distribution will be made, and avail themselves of the same. Persons living out of this city who desire to test the efficacy of this most wonderful remedy will receive a package free by writing to Dr. Schiffmann, 330 Rosabel street, St. Paul, Minn., providing their letter is received before Oct. 16th, as no free samples can be obtained after that date.

The Windstacker.

In our trade and agricultural exchanges we note some discussion concerning the merits of the Pneumatic or Wind stacker. We believe the farmers of Johnson County, situated as they are, in one of the best agricultural regions in the world, are to be felicitated for their excellent judgment in adopting improved methods in farming without being governed by prejudice or hearsay. To the farmers of Johnson County, who have been familiar with the Wind stacker since its introduction in 1891, discussions at this time concerning the merits of the Wind stacker must be amusing. When they know that they have straw stacks that have stood for three, four and five years with the straw bright and clean a few inches below the surface, they certainly cannot help wondering why the Wind stacker could anywhere be condemned because the straw would not keep. The geographical position of the County, the whole of which lies within forty miles of the capital City of the State, makes it readily accessible to the agents of all the agricultural implement manufacturers. For that reason, this County is particularly favored in having the first opportunity to receive and judge of new inventions. We suppose the contests by agents for sales of machinery are as keen here as they could possibly be anywhere. If, therefore, there should be any weaknesses or defects in a machine, the agents of competing machinery would be swift to discover them and point them out to buyers. The fact is, that a thresherman in this County to-day without a Wind stacker, has very little to do, and none of them thinks of buying a new machine without it. Farmers will no longer endure the disagreeable and arduous labor required in stacking straw, nor can they secure hands in a busy season to do such work. The manufacturer of a threshing machine in this day, which is not adapted to work in connection with the Wind stacker, has no sale for his goods in this County, and we are surprised that farmers or threshermen in any locality would think of using old time methods or machinery not adapted for the best use of progressive improvements.—Franklin (Ind.) Democrat.

Road Book of the Michigan Division, L. A. W.

After months of hard work, the new road book of the Michigan Division L. A. W. is now ready for distribution, and the committee are mailing them out as fast as possible to those who did not get a road book last fall. It is the most complete and thorough road book ever issued by the Michigan Division, and, in fact, by any other division. It is simple in style and handsomely bound, and contains 136 pages, giving 223 routes in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, New York, Canada and Pennsylvania, ranging in distance from 10 to 571 miles in length and covering over 10,000 miles of road and passing through and connecting 928 cities, towns and villages. The routes out of the state are well known and popular long distance tours, such as from Detroit to Niagara Falls, Buffalo to New York City, Ontonagon to Chicago, [Grand Rapids to Cincinnati, Detroit to Cincinnati, Jackson to Pittsburg, Port Huron to Niagara Falls, etc., etc. The plan of the book is unique, as it gives well known long routes and arranges so that all towns in the state can connect on to them. In fact, a wheelman can make an entire circuit of the state from any point, either east and west, north and south, diagonally or in a circle. There are also many other features, such as a list of League hotels, both in Michigan and in the towns out of the state through which these routes run, which give discounts of from 10 to 30 per cent to L. A. W. members; a list of local consuls located in the various cities and towns, who always stand ready to furnish traveling wheelmen with any information they desire or extend to them other courtesies. The bicycle ordinances of the various cities are also given, so a wheelman may know what to expect. Also, a large lithographed map, in colors, of the state, giving all the main roads, towns, etc. In addition to all this, there is much other useful information for the touring cyclist. The book is given free to new L. A. W. members, and to others sells for $1.50.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Bicycle Costumes—Graduating and Wedding Dresses—Verandah Hats—Plaited Collars.

The rage for bicycle riding has introduced some very expensive white or light-colored costumes which are however only appropriate to clean roads and sunny skies, whereas a dress of Scotch mixture will come unharmed through any vicissitudes of weather, and look thoroughly practical and genteel. Purple cloth braided in black is very handsome, or dark myrtle green broadcloth, but strange to say the color least popular is navy blue, but light blue with applique work on skirt, sleeves, revers or pocket straps is considered stylish. Heavy green linen trimmed with fancy white braid looks very attractive and can be washed which is always an advantage. Suits of white cloth fancifully trimmed with crimson cloth and gilt braid look very dashing, and with a white skirt a crimson blazer trimmed with gilt may be worn. Usually hats match the costume, and a white chiffon vest, white gauntlets and white satin ribbon collar trimmed with lace, are deemed but fitting accessories to a white cloth costume.

GRADUATING DRESSES

may be extremely simple or very much ornamented, and handwork with scarcely any limitation can be expended upon tucks or ruffles. A fine muslin with tucked skirt and tucked yoke, merging at the back into a sort of sailor collar is new and most appropriate. Other styles, however show lace skirts trimmed with many rows of satin ribbon, and corsage and sleeves to match; or insertion and double ruffles may alternate on the skirt, and insertion on the waist may be used diagonally, forming two diamonds on the sleeves and one at back or front. White organically under muslin gives a soft effect, and where a colored lining is desired, organically may be substituted for silk. The variety of silk, organically, net, embroidered batiste, braided pique, duck or light wool dresses now shown by leading houses, make shopping the first consideration; but despite all other attractions, no summer list of purchases ever fails to include a good supply of Murray & Lamman's Florida water, so refreshing and delightful at all times but especially at this season of the year.

TRAVELING DRESSES

are no longer objects of special consideration, as any neat dress of plain or mixed stuff and cambric or silk skirt waist with a cape or jacket for protection from sudden changes, answers every purpose. Those who desire the most expensive and fashionable wedding dress, buy white satin, and cut the train round, with a gored front breadth and circular sides. Crepe de Chine over flimsy satin is soft and pretty with a full round waist trimmed with lace and long sleeves with the material wrinkled over the satin, with tucks at the edges if required.

THE LARGER PROPORTION of shade hats are lavishly trimmed with drooping ostrich plumes and Leghorns as usual are in the ascendancy. Colored fancy straws in green, straw color, pink or white, are really prettier, trimmed with flowers and velvet loops. A great deal of tulle is still noticeable, particularly on the edge of the brims, but sharp contrasts are not placed together, and trimmings not conspicuously high. Mill hats show satin edged ruffles on the brim, with broad loops at the front where pointed pieces of mill are hemmed and plaited in imitation of wings. High skirted crowns belong to this style, but with a shirred brim accented pleated pull is bunched around the low crown, forming a sort of wreath.

MANY NEW SHIRT WAISTS

have a standing ruffle (plaited) around the neck, sometimes almost meeting, then again only at the back. A velvet collar with plaited lace and belt to match is very pretty on foulard silk waists. Velutina is well adapted to this purpose, as it produces a softening effect. Full neck garnitures are almost the rule, and plaited or plaited silk ties or colored chiffon, with a bow at the front, are fastened around linen or satin stocks.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskidwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co's Drugstore, and Geo. J. Y. W. C. A. Notes—

The board of managers spent the evening of Monday June 7th in discussing the new plan of organization for the coming year. The result is that the Association now has four departments, Business, Educational, Religious and Social. Under "Business," are the membership and Finance committees, under very competent chairmen. The Educational department will include consecutive courses in at least four branches. If anyone wishes that a particular study should be offered, please speak to the secretary at once, as the teachers meet soon to complete the schedule. The Religious work is again in the hands of Miss Gaard who handled it so well last year, and the Social department will be divided among a number, each left free to carry out her own inspirations.

Mr. George Wahr has made the Y. W. C. A. a present of a large package of paper and envelopes. This is not the first kindness the Association has received at his hands. Now they need pencils, pens and paper to be used in class work and for press notices, etc.

Next Tuesday evening the rooms will be open both to ladies and gentlemen. The program will be furnished by the education and music classes and light refreshments served. A series of shadow pantomimes will be an amusing feature of the evening and guessing will be in order. A pleasant time is promised and a fee of five cents will be charged at the door.

Be sure and be at the Sunday afternoon meeting.

How many new members will you secure this month?

W. C. T. U. Notes—

The state convention just held at Benton Harbor, was an inspiration to all present, and it cannot help but be felt through the Unions whose delegates were there.

Among those from headquarters not belonging particularly to Michigan were Mrs. Grubbe, National Superintendent of Foreign Work; Miss Austin, of the W. T. P. A.; Miss Winteringer, editor of The Young Crusader, and Miss Smartz of Chicago, each contributing in some way to the good thoughts and suggestions to be carried to the homes and home work.

One Ann Arbor president and state treasurer was elected as delegate to the World's W. C. T. U. Convention to be held in Toronto, Canada.

The last evening there was a grand demonstration in which the entire delegation marched through the church with banners; explaining later the meaning of each one.

The general officers received a bouquet of carnations and the State President received a silver cup and saucer and $70 in gold.

Dr. Wood-Allen will deliver her lectures in the Salvation Army Hall Sunday June 13 at 3 p. m. and Monday and Tuesday evenings.

A Jolly Good Time—

The meeting of the O. E. S. at Masonic Temple last Wednesday evening, was one that the members of the order present will remember for a long time. After initiating two candidates, a fine program was given, consisting of music by a mandolin trio, consisting of Messrs. Hartloff, Parsons and Ahlers; after which a quartet rendered several very fine vocal selections, and Mrs. Berryman gave a vocal solo in a charming manner. Karl E. Harriman very kindly favored the audience with several of Riley's selections, and did it in a way that brought down the house, and he cheerfully responded to encores, thus fully ingratiating himself into the good graces of the many bright and sparkling Stars who composed the audience.

Protection in Our Colleges.

EDITOR AMERICAN ECONOMIST: You remark in a recent issue upon the strange acquiescence of protectionists in the teaching of unmixed free-trade economist in our colleges. It certainly does seem curious that these institutions, which are supposed to be centers of impartial scientific thought, should so long have been permitted to suppress the truths of finance that our national experience has taught us. Our pride, as Americans, should resent the bondage in which our schools are kept to the selfish tyranny of English thought, and our public spirit should rebel against the one-sided interference of our universities in politics. Two questions thus arise, which I shall here attempt to answer. How has it happened that the fallacies of Cobdenism are taught as sacred gospel in so many American colleges? And why have not the friends of protection interfered in the interests of truth and of national prosperity?

I observe in the first place that the progress of free-trade doctrine has been largely a literary movement. The significance of this fact is easily seen when we consider the number of distinguished men of letters who have allied themselves to its cause. It follows that the traditions of the schools are literary traditions by which the rhetorical brilliancy of its founders is still witnessed by an elaborate pretence of style among their degenerate successors. The thralldom of our professors of economics is then but an instance of our long literary vassalage to England. Just as our poets have caught their inspiration from Wordsworth and Tennyson, and just as our critics have bowed before the great names of Carlyle and Matthew Arnold, so our academic economists have yielded to the magnificently penned sophistries of such men as John Stuart Mill.

But now the question seems doubly pressing,—why have not our clear-brained politicians and men of business who have learned finance, not from literary traditions, but from the public and private profit-and-loss-account—why have they, as regents and supporters of our colleges, not interfered in behalf of truth and justice, and seen to it that protection was fairly represented in the lecture-room? There have been two reasons. The first has been a generous sentimentality; knowing that truth is certain to conquer at last, they have hesitated to force matters. The second reason is more practical: the harm done has not been very great.

For mark this fact: Though the professors throughout the country have been so largely free-traders, their students have been ardent protectionists. In truth, the last person to whom the bright young thinker would look for political guidance is his professor of political economy. The student is not slow to discover the narrowness of his instructor's mental horizon or to notice how many of his text books bear the impress of a London publisher. It is from the practical experience of his business friends as well as from the writings of Americans, who show that they understand American conditions, that he is willing to learn politics. Moreover, the admirable organization of the republican party is itself a powerful allure to young ambition; and once within the ranks the influences for good are so strong for backsliders to be other than rare.

This, I believe, is why protectionists have troubled themselves so little about the teachings of free-trade doctrines in the universities. The point is none the less well taken that the men who support colleges and the men who send their sons to college, have a right to demand that a fair statement be given of the grounds and the effects of protection in the United States.

New Idea for State Encampment—

It is understood that the state military board has purchased shelter tents, big mess kettles, tin plates and cups to equip a regiment for field duty on the plan used in the regular army, and this year each regiment will be ordered out for a 24 hours trip with the outfit. Next year the board expects to equip the whole brigade. Another innovation decided upon by the military board for the M. N. G. this year will be canvas cartridge belts to take the place of the old leather belts and cartridge boxes. The old forage cap with the "pancake top" will be done away with forever, and the new cap as used in the regular army will take its place.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUD- DENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO CUBO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CUBO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure), $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO CENT STAMPS FOR SAMPLE BOX. Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, and my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Kinky Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.
Yours truly,
G. W. HONNICK.
