A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Bridgewater is the Scene of Another Awful Deed.

The usual quiet community of Bridgewater, has furnished this year several terrible chapters for the criminal records of this county. Four men are now serving sentences in state prison for crimes committed there, one for life. And now comes a deed still more terrible, on Tuesday morning last Niles N. James, who had been in the employ of Chas. Gadd, shot a Miss Martha Minor, wounding her fatally, and then turned the weapon upon himself with fatal effect. It happened at the house of Mr. Gadd, who lives some five miles south of Bridgewater Station, $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles northeast of Clinton, and $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of what is known as the Manchester school house. The man had been in the employ of Mr. Gadd, who is a large farmer, for a long time, and was about 50 years of age. It seems that he had been paying attention to Miss Minor, who was employed as a domestic in the Gadd household.

The following is all that is known about the affair at this writing:

Mr. Gadd arose about 5 a. m. and built a fire in the kitchen stove, called Miss Minor and then went to the barn to do the chores. Returning to the house about half an hour later, he found that she had not yet gotten up, so he went to the stair door and called her again. He noticed that her voice was weak when she answered him, and he inquired if she was sick, and she said she was too sick to get up. He then went to the top of the stairs, and the door being wide open, a horrible sight met his gaze. James laid upon his back upon the bed, his feet upon the floor. Miss Minor was lying across his chest and head. James was fully dressed, but Miss Minor only partially so. Mr. Gadd rushed across the road to the home of his son Charles, who returned with him. Miss Minor was very badly wounded, although still conscious. When asked who shot her, she replied "Sam," that being James' nickname. She also remarked that it was the "Lord's will that done it."

Dr. J. L. Tuttle, of Clinton was hastily summoned and made her comfortable as possible.

Justice Benham impaneled a jury and held an inquest upon the body of James. Charles Gadd was the first witness sworn, and told the story given above.

He also said: "James had been around the place for several days, coming to the house last Saturday, between 4 and 5 o'clock. We were at supper and I called him to the table and told him he had better eat some supper, which he did. After supper Miss Minor and he went down the road together, and that was the last I saw of him until this morning. I also state that Miss Minor stated that James shot her while I was at the barn."

The testimony of Chas. L. Gadd, Harry Rogers and Dr. J. L. Tuttle was also given, and agreed fully with that of Mr. Gadd. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance therewith.

Miss Minor was shot in the right temple, pretty well forward, the ball bursting the skull on the opposite side. There are slight hopes for her recovery.

It is said that James has a wife living in Ohio, and his relatives have been notified of his death. It is surmised that James had been hanging about the place during the night, and when Mr. Gadd went to the barn to do the chores, he slipped in and went at once to her room.

What passed between them never will be known, but it is conjectured that he had urged her to marry him, and she had refused.

The gold democracy is finding its ranks greatly strengthened now that it has entered upon active campaigns in all the States where there are to be elections this fall. Large numbers of men who unwillingly supported the Bryan ticket and platform last year are now falling in line with the gold democrats in an attempt to secure true democracy and control of the body bearing that name.

Something About the Frog Trade—

Frogs legs are a delicacy that many people indulge in, and as there have been a great many offered in the market of late, nicely cleaned and ready for frying, a la spring chicken, something about how frogs are caught may be of interest.

The outfit for their capture is not elaborate nor expensive. A light boat, short, stiff fish pole with a short line attached, to which three hooks backed together are made fast, a head light and a box suitable for holding the frogs complete the equipment. The banks of the river where it is low and marshy is the place usually inhabited by this amphibious quadruped of the Rana family, and it is here the "hunters" usually go to find them.

Frog hunters travel in pairs, to do first class work. One man rowing the boat, another doing the "hooking." The helpless things sit and stare at the bright light with so much earnestness that their capture is not at all difficult. The three pronged hook brought under their very nose does not frighten them and with a jerk the hunter hooks his victim under the place where the chin ought to be, and Mr. Frog is quickly in the box with dozens of his friends and but little disfigured. Four or five dozen is considered a good night's work, and toward morning the hunters land, clean their "catch" and sell them to who ever will buy.

The business is not one of the most pleasant, and the fact that it is quite necessary to have at hand an antidote or snake bites makes it almost certain that the man following the business closely is quite apt to become addicted to the use of the antidote even though not suffering from the evil effects of a bite.

W. C. T. U. Notes—

The talk given by Miss Richards last Thursday, was full of suggestion as to the work there is for young women to do.

Many times it is found that the sentiment is strong against the saloon but the practice of using liquor is a very common one, and thought to be nothing harmful. The habit acquired by drink is just as harmful, whether the act be performed in your own house, or at the bar—it poisons the body and weakens the mind in either case, and if taken at home, places temptation before the family, who having inherited the weakness of the parent, are still less able to withstand or conquer the appetite, also inherited, they may have for liquor.

There is not even the trouble of going for it to perhaps deter him.

What right has any man to bring suffering and unhappiness upon those around him, simply to gratify his own foolish taste? Begin to think of this selfishness before the habit has such a hold upon you that you are too weak to control it.

There will be a meeting of the W. C. T. U. Thursday at 3 p. m., July 29th, at which a light refreshment program is promised.

If the tariff bill had passed four weeks ago it would have been worth over a thousand dollars to the berry interests of Ann Arbor. Several cars a day have been shipped to Detroit, to find a market glutted with Canadian berries, picked by cheaper labor and grown on land worth less than ours by one-half. That ruined the market and later pickings after paying freight and commissions left nothing to the grower. A duty of one cent a quart is now imposed, which will go a good ways towards making up the advantage Canadian growers had in the Michigan markets. This is only one little product, yet it shows in how many ways Michigan gets hit by free trade, and what advantage protection will give.

The gold democracy is finding its ranks greatly strengthened now that it has entered upon active campaigns in all the States where there are to be elections this fall. Large numbers of men who unwillingly supported the Bryan ticket and platform last year are now falling in line with the gold democrats in an attempt to secure true democracy and control of the body bearing that name.

THE OLD, OLD QUESTION.

Can a Public Nuisance be Removed, or Must it Exist Forever?

"If I was running a paper here do you know what I would do?" remarked one of Ann Arbor's best citizens a few days since.

"Why, I suppose you would give the people of Washtenaw County an awful good paper," was the reply.

"I've no fault to find with the COURIER, as far as that is concerned," said the gentleman, "but there is one thing that I believe is the duty of all you newspaper men here in Ann Arbor to do in the interest of the city, and that is, to make it so hot for the board of public works, or the Council, or someone, whose duty it is, that those miserable slaughter houses, right under the nose of the 5th Ward school children, and of the residents of a fine part of the city, to say nothing of the strangers who come here on the M. C. R. R., that they will do something to get them removed to a more remote place. That's one thing I would do, my friend, if I run a newspaper here in Ann Arbor. And if you all took up the question you could accomplish it."

"Perhaps we could. But you must remember that what is everybody's business is nobody's. The newspaper can call attention to things that are needed, but they have no power to do anything farther than create a healthy public sentiment in its favor."

"Yes, that is just the very thing that is needed. Call the attention of the public; invite them over to the brow of the bluff some moist morning and let them get a whiff of the aroma that arises therefrom," said the citizen.

"That has been done over and over again. At one time when Dr. W. F. Breakey was health officer here he made an effort to get those slaughter houses removed, and, if I am not mistaken, secured the consent of all the owners to remove their buildings, provided the city would furnish a new location. He found a location and ascertained that all the land necessary could be obtained for a few hundred dollars. But the common council had a great streak of economy strike them just at that moment and they wouldn't do a thing. Consequently the Klondike opportunity passed unimproved, and no one has had the courage to tackle the project since then. When you ask the council about it they will say, the board of public works are the one to attend to such business as that. Say anything to the members of that board and they refer you to the board of health, and so it goes. No one cares to assume any responsibility, and each one shifts it on to the shoulders of some one else. The city located the slaughter houses where they are and it may be hard to secure their removal on that account," remarked the scribe.

"Speaking of the board of health," continued the b. c., "I suppose they have the power, if they would exercise it, of securing the removal of these undesirable places. The statute provides that they may go ahead and order nuisances removed, no matter who or what stands in the way, and the city or township must pay for it. But then the members of that board are like other people, they don't want to do anything to make trouble, and so keep out of it. But it ought to be compulsory to take action in a case like this. It is a shame that such things should be maintained right in the heart of a city, and within a few rods of a school house, at that," and the gentleman moved away with his head bent forward thinking about it.

It was something of a surprise to the people of Ann Arbor when they read in the Sunday Free Press that the Wm. M. White Estate had disposed of the opera house in this city, to Louis J. Lisemer, the editor of Ann Arbor's only daily paper, and of one of her important German papers. The news was well received, for the opera house has not been properly kept up for the past few years, and it was believed that any change would be desirable. To have it go into the hands of such an enterprising, energetic man, as Mr. Lisemer is indeed a thing to be desired, for it will no doubt now be put in proper condition, modernized, and made a place that will command the respect of the play going people of our city, as well as of the profession who come here.

A Scorcher Dumped—

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Thos. J. Keech was sitting in his buggy on Main st. talking with Street Commissioner Ross, when all at once he received a shock that nearly scared him out of a year's growth. It sort of dazed him at first, and his astonishment was in no wise abated when he turned around and found a man riggling in a limp manner across his rear buggy wheel. The fellow was a scorcher and his predicament the result of carelessness. He and a companion were coming down Main st. at a rapid rate. This particular fellow had his head down, and did not look forward for breakers evidently, or he would have avoided the catastrophe.

His front wheel struck the axletree of Mr. Keech's rig near the hub of the off wheel, and then bounded up and over the "ex," landing the rider on top of the buggy wheel as narrated above. His companion came back as soon as he could, and the first question asked was:

"Did it hurt your wheel any?" Mr. Keech remarked: "Hadn't you better ask if it hurt him any?" The wheel was not smashed very much nor the man injured to any extent, except having the skin taken off in a half dozen places or so, but every one who saw it thought it was the queerest accident that they ever witnessed.

There is one scorcher who has no doubt learned a lesson that he will never forget, and when riding he will hereafter look ahead and not rush blindly forward.

This accident, together with numerous other narrow escapes, argue strongly for a law against scorching on any of our main streets. It is dangerous.

He Stole and got "Cotched" at it—

There was quite a little rifle of excitement Saturday morning over the report that a burglary had been committed that morning at the residence of A. M. Clark, Esq., on S. Division st.

It seems that at about 8 o'clock in the morning, while working about the house, Miss Altie Clark heard a noise in her room, and going thereto she discovered a negro, who appeared to be appropriating whatever there was handy to get hold of. Instead of fainting, and giving the fellow an easy exit from the house, she asked him "What are you doing here?" with an accent on the here, that the thief did not appear to like, for he at once made a hasty departure.

Miss Clark at once ran after him and called for help. As soon as a couple of wheelmen gave chase she went to a telephone and notified the officers.

The wheelmen followed him to the bridge crossing over to the Northside, when he slipped away from them. He then went around to the Ann Arbor R. R. tracks, examined the pocketbooks he had taken, took the money out of one and hid the other, walked leisurely around to a beer saloon on S. Ashley st., where he refreshed himself with some beer and a lunch, and then started out for Ypsilanti.

Sheriff Judson in the meantime had got on his trail, and telephoned to Ypsilanti to have someone come this way and meet him. Deputy Cash Warner with another officer started on the road, and when near Carpenter's Corners the fugitive caught sight of the officers and skipped into a neighboring orchard. Here he climbed a tree and came near succeeding in evading discovery. Like Zacheus of old, when discovered the fellow came down, and was brought to Ann Arbor and jailed.

His name is Louis Peek, and his record in this line is not an enviable one.

He took from the Clark residence two gold watches, two valuable pins, and two pocketbooks, enough so that he can be kept out of mischief for a period of five years, if the court sees fit to give him the full extent of the law. All of the property except a small amount of money was recovered.

Depression of Spirits

so common in summer-time, accompanied by loss of energy, lack of thought-power, means a deficient supply of nourishment. The vital force is lost, isn't a question of muscle and bone, but of resistance and endurance. At any age, but especially in youth, it involves the risk of lung disease. Loss of flesh and a cough are threatening signs.

The farmers in Nebraska and Kansas are prosperous. They must be prosperous for during the past year they have paid off $38,000,000 of mortgages again to their farms, and the eastern capitalists are having their money returned to them with no new investments in sight.

It is estimated that the farmers in those two states have reduced the mortgages on their property over one-half in two years! Think of that, ye howlers!

The spirit of the old '49ers who colonized California, appears to be exceedingly rampant in the land yet, and needed only the rumor of the great gold finds in the Klondike river regions of Alaska, to kindle it into flame. But those who go to Alaska will find it a different country from balmy California.

If a strike throws out of employment a few workmen in a certain industry he maintains that the wheels of progress are completely blocked. He croaks because a republican administration has been unable in four months to repair all the damages of twice as many years of misrule.

He croaks because a tariff bill has not brought a flood tide of prosperity even before it has been formulated and placed upon the statute books.

He croaks because it is his nature to croak, just as it is the nature of his feathered prototype to fly. But he is a bird of ill omen, at all times and under all circumstances, and the voters of any state who adopt that symbol for their party stand and will see their colors trailed in the dust at the polls.—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE BUZZARD.

The buzzard will fly almost an incredible distance if need be in search for its chosen food. Over fields rich with waving grain and sweet with the perfume of flowers; past clear, sparkling brooks which carry health in every ripple, it soars, with never a stop, far above all the attractive things of life. It is seeking the dead. Instinctively and unerringly it finds the carrion on which it feeds.

In the economy of nature the buzzard may fill a niche of its own and serve a helpful purpose, but the scavenger bird, too cowardly to fight, too lazy to earn a living by active competition and too debased to have any aspiration above the offal on which it gorges its ill-odored carcass, is not a figure to attract nor a model to be admired.

But certain buzzards do not fly. Some of them walk and wear clothing. Those that fly have no voice; those that do not have little else. The calamity wailer is the buzzard of the industrial world. He does not hear the hum of awakening prosperity; he does not perceive the smoke arising from the factory chimneys long given over to the feathered masons for their habitation; he does not know that the bank clearances are heavier, that business failures are fewer, that times, however hard they may be, are better now than they have been at any period since democratic mismanagement and administrative inefficiency sent wages and profits down to low-water mark.

The calamity buzzard sees nothing which makes for business improvement, because he does not look for it. He is seeking not for a commercial life but for industrial death. If a firm becomes embarrassed he sets up a loud croaking to apprise the whole world of the disaster. If a strike throws out of employment a few workmen in a certain industry he maintains that the wheels of progress are completely blocked. He croaks because a republican administration has been unable in four months to repair all the damages of twice as many years of misrule.

He croaks because a tariff bill has not brought a flood tide of prosperity even before it has been formulated and placed upon the statute books. COMING TO JESUS.

"Jesus, I come to Thee: no one beside Calls for the sorrow I am striving to hide.
Hopeless and desolate, tired with my sin;
Open Thine arms to me, Lord; take me in!"

Far from the narrow way long have I strayed, Dark clouds have covered me when I have prayed.
Now to Thy mercy I come with my sin;
Pity and comfort me, Lord; take me in!"

Back to Thy dear love for shelter and rest
Fled, O Lord, like a bird to its nest;
Nothing but bring Thee but sorrow and sin;
Open Thine arms for me, Lord; take me in!"

THREE DAYS.

"Take a dash of water cold
And a little leaves of prayer,
A little sandalwood and some Dissolved in the morning air;
Add to your meal some ferment
And a thought for kith and kin,
And then, as a prime ingredient,
A pint of work thrown in.
But spend all with the essence of love
And a little wine of pleasure
Let a wise old Book and a glance above
Complete the well-spent day."

WHAT WOULDST THOU BE?

"A blessing to each one surrounding me,
A chance of dew to the weary hours,
A sunbeam of joy, bidding sorrow depart,
To the torn-tossed vessel a beacon light,
A nightingale song in the darkest night,
A beckoning hand to a far off goal,
An angel of love to each friendless soul,
A smile such would I be.
Oh! that such happiness were for me!"

Our Ambassadors.

Why is it, I wonder, speaking of selfishness, that the American ambassador in London almost invariably draws upon himself the malevolent criticism of his own newspapers—particular if he happens to make himself more than usually popular in England? John Hay, for instance, has just succeeded Mr. Bayard, and many people have remarked to me that it was a refreshing change—that Mr. Bayard had become corrupted by contact with the English Aristocracy, that he had become un-American, that in John Hay we would have a true republican, who would show Englishmen a specimen of genuine Americanism, etc.

John Hay, as the author of "Jim Bludsoe" and other literary things, is doubly welcome to England, first, because he is the visible representative of our republic, and secondly, he is an American man of letters. Since early childhood I have known him, and as an American feel proud that such men can be induced to accept public office on a salary that does not cover house rent let alone the entertainment of his official colleagues. Motley and Lowell were both hailed with journalistic enthusiasm when they were first appointed to London; both turned out to be snobs, on the same authority, before their respective terms had expired. John Hay comes to London with an official and social experience behind him almost unique in the annals of American public life, and opens the American embassy under auspices most favorable to success. Yet I venture to think that history will repeat itself, and that before this Jubilee year has passed away the papers that now sing his praise will denounce him as having his head turned by the British aristocracy.

READ THE FOLLOWING LETTER:

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 23, 1897.

Messrs. Wadhams, Ryan & Ruele, Ann Arbor, Mich.:—We closed our entire stock of suits to Mr. Ryan to-day, and your portion, amounting to $3,164.00, is now on the way. We trust our loss will be your gain.

Yours respectfully,

L. ADLER BROS. & CO.

The above means over three thousand dollars ($3,000) worth of purchased of L. ADLER BROS. & CO., makers of the Best Clothing in the World, at our own figure. "Everything comes to him who waits." To you who have waited until now for your new suit, the time has come when you can save dollars by securing one of our bargains. The test for the buyer is comparison. We ask you to compare our prices on these suits, and if we are not dollars lower than you will find them elsewhere, we do not ask you to buy.

Many who supposed they went through the hot weather all right, have been suffering from its effects since that time.

Maybelle A., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthello H. Gage, died on the 21st, aged 19 years. The remains were taken to Ypsilanti for interment.

The Lyra Singing Society has been having a gay time at Whitmore Lake. The rush for Europe costs Ann Arbor many thousands of dollars, and the numerous excursions to Detroit, Toledo, and elsewhere, each costs the town many hundreds of dollars. Now the question suggests itself, what is Ann Arbor doing to replenish this outgo?

The very last of the season, with no return engagement for the year takes place to-morrow—an eclipse of the sun. It will commence at 6:50 in the morning and last all day until 10 o'clock in the evening. It will be visible to people here if the clouds don't get mad about it and pull a curtain over the scene. Heavy rains are scheduled to follow the event, which no one here will object to.

All the arguments against a Protective Tariff can be answered by the fact that, when we have had a protective tariff we have had prosperity; and whenever we have not had such a tariff we have had panic and poverty.—Louisville, Ky., "Commercial," June 23, 1897.

There is some one or ones, along the bicycle path who evidently have little love for wheelmen. They are doing something mean and contemptible all the time. They may not know that there is a heavy penalty for obstructing the highway, but there is, and as nearly all the courts are wheelmen that penalty is liable to be pronounced.

Last week Marshall Sweet received a letter from Chas. A. Witter, of Au. Sable, stating that his wife had left him a week or two previous, and he believed her to be in Ann Arbor. The Marshal looked her up and found that she was living here, but was opposed to going back to live with her husband, because he made life so unpleasant for her.

An accident happened at the gas works last Friday, by which Ferdinand Hoffrein came near having a serious time. He was covering gas pipe with hot tar when the pipe exploded, throwing the tar in his face, burning him very bad. Dr. Breakey attended him and reports that his eye sight will be uninjured.

P. T. Barnum (and though he is dead still lives) once said: "If you have ten dollars to put in use, put up one for the article and the other nine for advertising. I can out talk any man but a printer. The man that can stick type and the next morning talk to a thousand people while I am talking to one is the man I am afraid of and I want him for my friend."

Chas. G. Palmer, engineer '96, of Detroit, has gone to the Klondike gold fields, sailing from Portland on June 12th last. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edward A. Henderson, and her little 2 year old daughter. Mr. Palmer wrote home to his father, Ervin Palmer, from St. Michaels, reporting that the trip there had been a very rough one, and that they had arrived just five days to late for the Youkon river steamer. The scenery he describes as being something grand. He confirms the reports of the gold finds there.

"I just think it's shameful the way that girl spits slang," said one Ypsilanti girl to another on a motor car yesterday.

"My! If I twirled my talker as she does, my blooming old dad would tan my duds until the dust was thicker than fleas in fly time." "You betcher brass, and serve you right," replied the other young lady. "My parents are sunflowers of the same hue, and if I should make a raw crack in my conversation they'd thrash the cussedness out of my angelic anatomy quicker than chain lightning." And then they proceeded to suck lemon juice through a stick of candy.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Everything seems to have a tendency to drain the money out of town. The rush for Europe costs Ann Arbor many thousands of dollars, and the numerous excursions to Detroit, Toledo, and elsewhere, each costs the town many hundreds of dollars. Now the question suggests itself, what is Ann Arbor doing to replenish this outgo?

It is everybody's social Friday evening, August 6th, on the grounds of F. Schmidt, at 104 S. Main st. The Y. M. C. A. boys promise you a good time. Becker's military band will furnish music, and the balloon will go up at 9:30 to a tick. It will cost you only ten cents to go, and you will have a dollars worth of pleasure.

Monday was ushered in by plenty of clouds which, along toward 9 o'clock developed into a fine rain. Although some of the good housewives who always do their washing on Monday, rain or shine, were put out a little, yet the downpour of moisture was something that had been prayed for for so long time that it was no doubt taken in a Christian way by them, while all others rejoiced.

County Clerk Schuh received yesterday from the supreme court a remitter in the case of James Linnen vs. Paris Banfield, John V. Sheehan and David Collins, reversing and vacating the judgment of the court below, and remanding the case for a new trial. It will be remembered that Judge Kinne took the case from the jury and ordered a verdict in favor of the defendants. This case came out of the arrest of Mr. Linnen for the burglary of Mr. Sheehan's store. Afterwards the persons who stole the goods were arrested in Detroit and the goods found in their possession. Linnen then brought suit for damages for false imprisonment.

The Annual Harvest Festival and Picnic of the Counties of Washtenaw, Oakland, Wayne, and Livingston, will be held at Whitmore Lake, Saturday, Aug. 28th. Among the speakers expected are Gov. Pingree, Ex-Gov. Luce, and Rev. Fr. Goldrick. Excursion rates will be made on the Ann Arbor and Grand Trunk R. R., and trains will leave the Lake as late as 10:30 p. m. The committee reports that there will be vocal and instrumental music. This picnic, Mr. Peters informs us, will be the largest and most successful yet held. They are making preparations for a crowd of 30,000 people this year.

Parties from Toledo have been visiting our city, and wish to locate here and start a factory for the manufacture of glassware. They have submitted a proposition which I desire to present to the citizens of Ann Arbor. WELL FED BOILERS

The right boiler feeder saves trouble, time, fuel. The most perfectly automatic, the safest, most economical feeder made is the U.S. AUTOMATIC INJECTOR. More lasting than others. No other injector has an overflow valve which will never leak from wear. No other injector has a drip cock or a check valve leaky, which drains the injector and prevents freezing, which prevents suction pipe from getting hot.

It is easier to operate, feeds hotter water, works with lower and higher steam than any other automatic injector. If your dealer does not keep it make him order it for you, or write to

The hot weather sent the corn booming.

The sweet clover crop this year is immense everywhere.

Mrs. Mary M. Markham, of Whitaker, died July 22, aged 59 years.

I. P. Savery, of Lima has bought Mrs. Blakely's residence on B. st., Dexter.

Chas. Runkleman, an old resident of Dundee, died July 23, of heart disease.

Fishermen along the river report black bass fishing as being excellent this season.

Misses Grace Hewitt and Cora Fletcher of Sharon, attended the Toronto Export League Convention.

Philip Ullrich, of Sharon had a sunstroke during the hot week, but is now convalescing. It was a narrow escape.

Mrs. Ester D. Newton, who lived near the Peninsular paper mills, in Ypsilanti township, died on July 20, aged 79 years.

A number of the people of Chelsea object to the fast driving on Sunday that some of the would-be sports of that vicinity indulge in.

The huckleberry crop which promised to be so abundant this spring will be almost a failure. The berries dry up and fall off the bushes.—Chelsea Herald.

The village of Williamson is asked to pay Mrs. D. Wilson $10,000 because of a defective sidewalk on which she fell and sustained injuries. That's a good deal of money these days.

John Osler, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Belleville, committed suicide Saturday by hanging himself in the woodshed at the rear of his residence.—Ypsilantian.

The bicycle club of Chelsea has started a healthy fund with which to build a cycle path to Cavanaugh Lake. Either work or money is accepted. The object is one well worth working for.

Cavanaugh Lake is about four and one-half miles west of Chelsea, and is one of the handsomest inland summer resorts in Michigan. You can travel quite a distance and not find its equal.

According to Express Agent Keith's books, there were 320 bushels and 1 peck of strawberries shipped from this station this year, a considerable less amount than last season.—Dexter Leader.

There is a world of wheat in Michigan and if other states have an equal harvest we shall be able to supply foreigners with all they need. All we want is an order for several million bushel at $1 a bushel.

Certainly our citizens do not have to go out of town in search of a quiet place to rest, these having—harvest days. The streets, excepting mornings and evenings, are as quiet as a country graveyard.—Enterprise.

Until recently, Cavanaugh Lake has not had as many campers this year as usual perhaps on account of the extremely hot weather. Now, however, nearly every cottage is full, as they are also at North Lake.—Chelsea Standard.

Frederick Lombard, of Lodi, died July 19, aged 88 years. He leaves one son, three daughters, and 121 grand and great grand children. That's a great many. He lived in the country 50 years, coming here from Stuttgart, Germany, his native place.

A carload of Oregon horses arrived here yesterday and were corralled in the stock yard, where they attracted considerable attention. They belong to a son of the late Jacob Vogel of Bridgewater, and were taken to the farm in that place.—Manchester Enterprise.

A divorce was granted a few days ago to a couple in Tecumseh because they could not agree as to who should furnish the bread and carry the water. It does seem that they might have lived on pie and milk, and thus saved trouble over the bread and water question.—Hudson Post.

A serious dispute has arisen between Livingston and Ingham counties but it will not end in bloodshed. It is all about one Mr. Patrick, to which county he belongs. He is now in the Livingston County poor house.—Howell Republican. Well, possession is nine points in law, is it not?

The hired man on a farm in Deerfield township, Livingston county while alone one day refused to give anything to eat to two tramps who called there, whereupon they held him up with a revolver and devoured the dinner he had just sat down to and then left without even saying "thank you."

"Go for somebody quick! There's a bug down my back," cried a Dundee girl to her best young man while out walking the other evening. "Hadn't I better go for the bug?" he suggested. Then she fainted dead away and when she had unswooned the bug had finished its evening stroll and gone home.—Petersburg Sun.

WOMAN'S LONG HOURS.

SHE TOILS AFTER MAN'S DAY'S WORK IS DONE.

What She Has to Contend With—Work That Sooner or Later Breaks Down Her Delicate Organism.

The great majority of women "work to live" and "live to work," and as the hands of the clock approach the hour of six, those employed in stores, offices, mills and factories, half closing time with joy. They have won their day's bread, but some duties are yet to be performed, and many personal matters to be attended to. They have mending to do, and dresses or bonnets to make, and long into the night they toil, for they must look neat, and they have no time during the day to attend to personal matters.

Women, therefore, notwithstanding their delicate organism, work longer and more closely than men. They do not promptly heed such signs as headache, backache, blues, pains in the groins, bearing-down, "all gone" feeling, nervousness, loss of sleep and appetite, whites, irregular or painful monthly periods, cold and swollen feet, etc., all symptoms of womb trouble, which, if not quickly checked, will launch them in a sea of misery.

There is but one absolute remedy for all those ills. Any woman who has to earn her own living will find it profitable to keep her system fortified with this tried and true woman's friend. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound speedily removes the cause and effects a lasting cure.

We are glad to produce such letters as the following from Miss M. G. McNamee, 114 Catherine St., Utica, N.Y.: "For months I had been afflicted with that tired feeling, no ambition, no appetite, and a heavy bearing-down feeling of the uterus. I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Soon those bad feelings passed away: I began to have more ambition, my appetite improved and I gained rapidly in every way, and now I am entirely well. I advise all my friends to use the Compound, it is woman's truest friend."

well, the poorest excuse for a drinking fountain that could be gotten up. If this is what is called prosperity, the Lord deliver us.

A novel shirt stud is being worn by one of our youths, which consists of a live pinch-bug, fastened with a bit of black thread to his shirt front.—Chelsea Standard.

If the bug should happen to break his fastenings and drop down the fellow's clothes, he might reverse the order of things and make his captor ridge and squirm awhile.

The Manchester Enterprise has a hornet's nest in its sanctum, and when the fellow with blood in his eye and a club in his hand asks for the editor, he just throws an ulster over his head, gives the nest a poke and the hornets do the rest. It is a sure cure. The bloodthirsty chap never repeats the visit.

Asa B. Sanford one of the early picnickers of York township, died at his home near Mooreville Wednesday morning of last week, that day being his eighty-fifth birthday. Until a sickness three years ago he had been a strong and healthy man, but since that time he had slowly failed until his death. The funeral was held at the Baptist church in Mooreville, Friday.

The first load of wheat since balance shipments was here last week. It was old wheat and brought 70c. Some new wheat will be threshed this week near here and it will be of good quality, and it will start out at about 65c. The new crop will be secured this week and is better than last year's crop, both as to quantity and quality. The rye is generally secured and will be much better than last year in quality but much short in quantity. The growing oats and corn now promise to be good average crops. Potatoes will be a short crop. The early ones are small and scarce and bring 80c per bushel.—Chelsea Standard.

The farmers this season have every reason to rejoice and be glad. The hay crop has been a very heavy one and they have been favored with good weather to cut and cure it. The wheat crop exceeds anything of its kind in years, it stands up well, is well filled and is being harvested in nice shape.

Oats are a fair crop and in some sections quite heavy. Corn was slow and backward in the spring, but is coming on and in many fields is nearly as far advanced as is customary for the time of year.

Other crops are looking well and will be plenty. Hogs and cattle are doing well in price and their numbers in this section are not small.

There are many other things about the farm that bid fair to net the grower a good income this fall. True of these articles, none of them sell for the big prices they did years ago, but all must remember that everything has fallen correspondingly.—Saline Observer.

The supervisors of the townships up in Midland county have discovered some diseases new to the medical profession, and in their health reports the following are some of the causes of death last year: "Calfary infantum," "decline after measles," "hooping cough," "new monia," tubercular consumption," "cholera phantasm," and "spinal." And there are others, outside of Midland county.

The old friend "By" has had a narrow escape it seems from this account given by the Dexter Leader. There is no doubt that it happened in order to impress upon him the fact that he ought to pay Sunday go-to-meeting bet he made last fall: "Supervisor B. C. Whittaker was the central figure in a runaway last Saturday. In company with A. E. Phelps, he had just driven from Base Lake and stopped at the barn. Mr. Phelps had alighted from the wagon and Mr. Whittaker, who is not as spry as he used to be," was just climbing out, when something started the horse and away he went. At the end of the alley on C street he turned short and out rolled Mr. W. to the ground. The horse ran around Dr. Lee's barn, left the wagon at the pump and went back to the barn. Mr. Whittaker was only slightly bruised but he as well as his friends regard his escape as a very fortunate one."

There is nothing so Good.

There is nothing just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, so demand it and do not permit the dealer to sell you some substitute. He will not claim there is anything better, but in order to make more profit he may claim something else to be just as good. You want Dr. King's New Discovery because you know it to be safe and reliable, and guaranteed to do good or money refunded. For Colds, Coughs, Consumption and for all affections of Throat, Chest, and Lungs, there is nothing so good as is Dr. King's New Discovery. Trial bottles of Eberbach Drug & Chemical Co.'s Drugstore, and Geo. J. Haussler, of Manchester. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Y. W. C. A. Notes—

The work of the educational department has been put on a basis somewhat different from that of previous years. Nine courses, under the subjects of Music, Needlework, English, Elocution, and Bible Study, will be offered and certificates given at the close of each. These classes will as before, be given at the nominal rates of 25c and 50c for each ten lessons. Announcements will soon be out giving particulars as to each class. These can be had at the rooms or they will be sent to any address. The secretary would like the names of a hundred girls who might be interested in this matter, to whom she might send these little books. If you know of such please send the names and addresses to the rooms at once.

A junior course has been planned, open to girls under fifteen. This will be in the form of a Girls' Club with badges, membership privileges, and including a number of things which girls enjoy doing. If a half dozen girls wish to do so this club can begin at once. The secretary will be glad to obtain the names and addresses of young girls who might be interested in this.

The Finance Committee meet at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Board meeting Monday evening.

Dangerous Counterfeits in Circulation—

The secret service has sent out notices to agents in the various states that some dangerous counterfeits have made their appearances. These notices have been received in the city. These counterfeits are two and five dollar bills of the issue of 1896. They are made by photographing the original bills and printing the photographs on thin paper. Then the two sides of the paper are pasted together and a silk thread run between them, giving them the look and general appearance of the genuine. The five dollar bill is the particularly dangerous one. So far as known these bills have not made their appearance in Michigan. The two dollar counterfeit is of the issue of the recent design of $2 bills. They have lately flooded Chicago. This counterfeit bears check letter B; J. Fount Tillman, register; D. N. Morgan, treasurer; No. 463,878. No plate number is to be seen. It is printed on two pieces of paper, one of which has blue and red silk fibre distributed through it, then pasted together, making it similar to the government distinctive paper. The general appearance of both the face and back of the note is blurred and indistinct. The back has a dull faded appearance. The green ink is of lighter shade than that used in the genuine. Local banks undoubtedly will be on the lookout for them.

A Question Raised—

Detroit's new school superintendent proposes to make his ten strike in the primary and grammar grades. If all reports are true, that is where some effective work can be done in Ann Arbor. —Daily Times.

The Times probably means that more attention should be paid to the lower grades, and less to the upper. Carried to its legitimate conclusion that would mean that the masses who never get beyond the primary grades should receive the best possible education, while those who go farther might secure less polish. The strength of the high school course in Ann Arbor is what has made it famous, and what has brought here in the past, hundreds of foreign pupils, every one of which helps the school and also the city itself. While more attention might be paid to the primary grades to the advantage of the pupils attending them, yet it would be a suicidal policy to lower the character of the work in the upper grades.

This Will be a Fine Excursion—

The W. R. C. of this department is to give an excursion on Tuesday, Aug. 3d, to Detroit, St. Clair Flats, The Oakland, and Port Huron.

One can go to Detroit or on to the other places, as they choose.

It gives an opportunity for a fine boat ride, which many of us inland people, is a great treat.

Mrs. Judge Babbitt, of Ypsilanti, who has charge of the affair, tells us that no pains will be spared to make the excursion a pleasant and profitable one for those attending, and we all know that Mrs. Babbitt is a worker who always does everything well that she undertakes.

There is no doubt but that many will take in this chance for a nice ride at little expense.

The time card and rate schedule is as follows:

| Leave | A. M. | To | Pt. Huron | To Rd. Trip |
|----------------------|-------|--------|-----------|-------------|
| Chelsea | 8:36 | $1.15 | $1.65 | |
| Dexter | 6:46 | 1.10 | 1.55 | |
