HARVEY'S ROMANCE.

HOW A BOSTON BELLE WAS WON
BY A U. OF M. SWELL.

It was during his freshman year at Harvard that I first became acquainted with Harvey. He had come to college from a thriving western town where his father was a banker and a leading citizen. Harvey was a remarkable fellow in many ways. In the first place, he was one of the handsomest fellows I have ever known. He was possessed of rare talents and bore upon his face the unmistakable stamp of good breeding.

And yet when I first knew Harvey, he was a freshman in every sense of the word. You could hardly call him green. He has seen quite a bit of the world and society, too, for all that, but it was such as a boy sees under the chaperonage of a fond and indulgent mother. His experiences, while quite varied in their nature, were of a tame variety. So you will not deem it strange that when he arrived at Harvard, with an allowance of $300 per month and no chaperons but sophies and seniors, a new world was opened to him.

Like all freshman of his type, Harvey fell in with a fast set, joined a swell fraternity and went straight to the bad. And what a winding and mellifluous path his satanic majesty has provided for his college devotees! Of course Harvey's apartments were the best in the city. His dog had whipped everything that had been pitted against him, and his wine suppers to the fast set of which he was a part were the talk and envy of every cheap Cholly man of the college.

Long before the end of the first term Harvey was an acknowledged king of bloods. He was a greatly changed lad. All that simple charm and frankness that had marked him when he came were gone. His manner, talk and dress had all changed and conformed strictly to the ideas of the set of which he had become a part. At the junior hop occurred a little incident which was to mark an epoch in the affairs and life of the freshman, and in fact, to give birth to this story. The junior hop is the social event of the year at Harvard, and at all great American colleges, for all that. This is the high tide of the year when the freshman sends home for his best girl to show her something of college life and to show her how important he has become in one term.

A few months before a beautiful young lady, the daughter of one of the Back Bay millionaires, had made her debut in Boston society. Bessie Hill was so refined and so charming that it was but a short time before all of the young men, both in Boston and Cambridge, were wild about her. She was a model of beauty, but to stop here and say no more would be doing her great injustice, for she was not only a queen of beauty, but possessed of all the other qualities necessary to make her a type of perfect womanhood. Of course she would be at the hop and every fellow who had not already met her had set his heart upon an introduction. Every swell fraternity in the college attended in a body and every big fraternity man individually did all in his power to bring Bessie Hill to his booth and make her a part of his Greek letter circle. Harvey looked that night as I had never seen him look before. With the efforts of nature and the tailor combined he was by far the handsomest man in the ballroom. He was introduced to Bessie Hill. It was Greek meet Greek. They exchanged glances. Harvey bowed low. She extended her hand, while the polite audience of students, mammas, and sisters held their breath in astonishment. Never before had Bessie Hill extended her hand to any new acquaintance. She had been with Harvey but a short time when the cold and steellike glitter left her eyes and her cheeks were suffused with the rose of nature's rarest red.

They danced together. Harvey was a perfect terpsichorean. They glided off to the conservatory. Harvey's heart beat faster than usual and his bosom swelled with pride. But surely he had good reason to feel proud, for he had reason to feel proud, for he

THE CROSS.

"Blest they who seek,
While in their youth,
With spirit meek,
The cross, with truth,
To them the sacred Scriptures now display,
Christ as the only true and living way;
His precious blood on Calvary was given
To make them heirs to endless bliss in Heaven;
And e'en on earth the child of God can trace
The glorious possession of his Savior's grace.
For them he bled,
His Father's crown;
For them he wore
The thorny crown;
Nailed to the Cross,
Endured pain,
That His life's loss
Might be their gain,
Then hast to choose
That better part,
Now e'er dare refuse
The Lord thy Master,
Lest He declare
'I know you not.'
And deep despair
Should be your lot.
Now look to Jesus who on Calvary died
And trust on Him who there was crucified."

THE FIRST ONE A SUCCESS.

The initial concert of the Choral Union Series, given by the Theodore Thomas Orchestra last Thursday evening, was very successful, not only in the magnificent audience present, but in the superb music rendered by the orchestra.

This orchestra has improved since its last appearance here, and the selections were in part better. There was a little melody in some of them, and the great American public has not yet forgotten its love of melody, though they are rapidly educating their eyes and allowing their sensitive ears to fall into disuse—as far as music is concerned.

The selections were such as the educated musician could fully appreciate and the ordinary person in part.

The magnificent attendance must have been greatly encouraging to Prof. Stanley and the promoters of this series, for the great hall was filled. That people should continue their patronage so generously, is encouraging.

JOHN T. SWATHEL DEAD.

After an illness extending over the past 25 years, death came to John T. Swathel, on Sunday morning last, at the age of 78 years.

Mr. Swathel was a native of Connecticut, having been born at Middleton, June 15, 1819. When but 15 years of age he came to Detroit, where he was employed for three years as a clerk. After that he came to the village of Manchester, in this county, and still later to Ann Arbor. In 1848 he went to Wisconsin returning here in 1850, to enter into partnership with his brother-in-law, Wm. Sinclair, in the milling business, the two owning the mills now known as the Argo Mills.

In 1867 he sold out his interest and the year following bought the Ann Arbor City Mills, now owned by the Kyer Milling Co., in which he has always retained a third interest.

He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mary E. Noble, to whom he was united in 1857, and who died in February 1865, leaving one child, Mrs. Dr. Harriet M. Carbaugh, now living at Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

In December, 1865, he married Mrs. Elizabeth Roy, who survives him.

The deceased was at one time a vestryman of St. Andrew's church, and its treasurer. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock from St. Andrew's church, and interment was in Forest Hill cemetery.

THE COMING WOMAN.

Who goes to the club while her husband tends the baby, as well as the good old-fashioned woman who looks after her home, will both at times get run down in health. They will be troubled with loss of appetite, headaches, sleeplessness, fainting or dizzy spells. The most wonderful remedy for these women is Electric Bitters. Thousands of sufferers from Liver, Back and Weak Kidneys rise up and call it blessed. It is the medicine for women. Female complaints and Nervous troubles of all kinds are soon relieved by the use of Electric Bitters. Delicate women should keep this remedy on hand to build up the system. Only 50c per bottle. For sale by Ebnerbach & Son.

OUR BUSINESS MEN.

AN ANN ARBOR BOY WHO HAS RISEN BY HIS OWN EXERTIONS FROM THE BOTTOM ROUND TO THE TOP.

LARGEST STORE IN THE STATE.

IS NOW HIS AND HE HAS INCREASED HIS BUSINESS EVERY YEAR SINCE HE STARTED.

George Wahr, the book seller, is strictly a Wolverine, although his parents were from Germany, having first seen daylight in the township of Lima, a few miles from Chelsea, on the 18th day of February, 1861. His parents came to Ann Arbor within a year or so after that important event in his history, and he quite naturally came with them.

All the education Mr. Wahr ever received was in our schools, except a few terms in a private night school that was being carried on at that time for the youth whose days were employed, and to which he owed much of his success, for it gave him a foundation for the business career he was to follow. In 1873, when only 12 years of age, he entered the book store of John Moore, who was then in business in the same store. Mr. Wahr now occupies in the Savings Bank Block.

Mr. Wahr had the same experience that boys usually have. He swept out, built the fires, and did the menial work.

All the time, however, he kept his eye out for something to do. He made himself indispensable to his employers, and never left for some one else to do what he should do himself. He also absorbed at odd times much of the literature that lay about him, and in that way fitted himself for better things to come. From chore boy he rose to head clerk, and just ten years after he entered the store as a boy, he became one of the proprietors, and in company with George Osius and Chas. H. Ludlow bought out Mr. Moore, the firm being George Osius & Co. At the end of the first year Mr. Ludlow retired, the firm name remaining the same. After two years Mr. Wahr purchased the entire business, and has ever since carried it on in the same place.

In 1891 it was found that a branch store on State st. was necessary, and he started one placing his head clerk Mr. John Schlee in charge of the same, where he has ever since remained, being as careful, methodical, and popular as the proprietor himself.

One of the rules Mr. Wahr laid down early in his career was to increase his business in some way every year, but never to go beyond a safe depth. That rule he has strictly adhered to, until to-day he has the largest bookstore in Michigan, outside of Ann Arbor, and equal to any here.

Commencing as he did without capital, save such as was contained in his head and his willing hands, this grand result is one to be proud of. Probably no man in the entire state can produce a business record superior in any way.

In addition to his other business Mr. Wahr is a publisher of text-books. He has now published twenty-five textbooks, many of which are used in schools and colleges about the country and from which source he derives quite a handsome revenue. As he is a firm believer in patronizing home industries, he never goes outside Ann Arbor to have his works published, and always pleases his customers.

Added to the home retail trade is a large jobbing trade, not confined to the state, but orders are filled for all parts of the country. Ann Arbor is naturally the head of the book trade not only of the state but of this entire section of country, made so by the University.

Ann Arbor's schools are famous the world over, and that fact makes great demand upon the booksellers here, so they carry in stock works upon all subjects that are studied, and in miscellaneous works, anything that is sold behind a counter can be found or easily obtained. It is a rare thing for Mr. Wahr to have a call that he cannot fill, and he has his stock so well in mind, that when a customer asks him for a

RETURN THANKS.

It is meet and right so to do.

Those who are blessed with plenty of the necessities of life in this world, could add to the flavor of their dinners tomorrow by seeing that some one not so blessed had a good dinner, also.

Do not delegate the work to some one else.

Do not give a few pennies or a chicken or something that you can spare without a thought, but go and find some poor soul and make him or her give thanks for having put kind thoughts into your heart.

Give.

Not only thanks,

But food to the hungry.

Our Savior gave His life for you. Can you not give even one meal from your abundance to a famishing human being?

There are plenty of them.

You can find them if you try.

The New York republicans who were led into admitting that there is a better party than their own now know the difference between a visionary ideal and Tammany triumph.

Mr. Sovereign's friends announce that he will contest the democratic nomination in 1900 with Mr. Bryan. Old-fashioned democrats must be surprised when they examine the list of presidential aspirants in their party.

Where does the editor of the Ann Arbor Democrat get its tips from that Gov. Blaine will be the democratic candidate for governor this next fall? What a vision! Or did Col. Atkinson whisper it over the new telephone line?

That aristocrat agricultural-college combination are now talking strawberry culture. It is a good place to use the people's money, pay a few old croakers good salaries and send a few rich men's sons who never follow the pursuit of farming.—Cedar Springs Clipper.

What heresy!

Governor Jones of Arkansas, recommends to the state university the suppression of the game of football, and will recommend to the legislature a law prohibiting the playing of games of football within the city. Let's see. Arkansas is where Hon. John M. Clayton was assassinated some years ago, along in 1889, in cool blood, because he questioned the fraudulent returns sent in by a returning board. KUH republicans and negroes. But boys must not play football.

If Marcus Hanna can buy the senatorship of Ohio, whose business is it? The political situation in Ohio has resolved itself to this point.—Daily Times.

That is a very gentle way of announcing the fact that there are democratic legislators who are for sale. But they will not be needed. The republicans are loyal to Senator Hanna, notwithstanding the great effort democrats are making to defeat him. If they could get a few republican members to play traitor then the democrats might bring forward their for sale members, and claim some value for them. But that exigency will not arise.

Persistent Coughs

A cough which seems to hang on in spite of all the remedies which you have applied certainly needs energetic and sensible treatment. For twenty-five years that standard preparation of cod-liver oil, has proved its effectiveness in curing the trying affections of the throat and lungs, and this is the reason why: the cod-liver oil, partially digested, strengthens and vitalizes the whole system; the hypophosphites act as a tonic to the mind and nerves, and the glycerine soothes and heals the irritation. Can you think of any combination so effective as this?

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper.

SUNDAY THEATERS—NO.

The Times and the Democrat, both in language identical, advocate Sunday theatricals, and assert that any one who opposes the same is narrow, bigoted and filled with intolerance.

Well, it may be so.

The Savoy taught that it is better to do good than evil on the Sabbath day. It is possible that Sunday theatres may be justified in the minds of some on those grounds. But there are many who can not be convinced that there is any good in a theatre, even on a week day.

The inference, however, to be drawn from the article referred to, is that people who attend religious services on Sunday do so because of the amusement it affords them.

Is that true?

If it is a satisfaction and pleasure for people to attend divine worship on the Sabbath Day, and feel that they have done their duty in so doing as Christian people, they should not be placed in the same category with people whose only religion is their own amusement, and who perform no acts of devotion on the Sabbath, but make the day one of pleasure seeking entirely.

Leave out the teaching of Christ, and the Sabbath desecrator is no better off. Since the day that Moses delivered the commandment from Mt. Sinai that the seventh day should be the Sabbath, and a day of rest, has been so observed by all nations of the earth. All nations do not agree upon the particular day, but all nations agree upon the principle, and the people of all nations observe some one of the seven days of the week as a day of rest.

Now comes a plan to compel a certain portion of people to work on Sunday—as actors—that another portion may be amused. There can be nothing very broad, liberal or ennobling in that proposition.

Some people like to dance. Why not have Sunday dances for them?

Some people like to attend boxing bouts and prize fights. Why not have an arena opened for pugilistic pummeling on Sunday, to amuse the class who enjoy such things?

Some people delight in drinking and carousing. Why not throw open wide the doors of saloons for all such?

If you commence to allow Sabbath desecration, on what class of liberty loving people will you draw the line?

Liberty is right. License is wrong. He who runs liberty into license forges chains of restriction upon himself and his neighbors.

The opening of theatres on Sunday is not in accord with the spirit of a large majority of the people of this country, who, if they do not believe in the Christian religion themselves, respect the feelings of those who are believers. And in a free country the majority, not the minority, rule.

Let us be content, then, with our Sunday as a day of devotion for those who are religiously inclined, and a day of rest for all.

And let the theatre be content with six days of labor that it may rest on the seventh.

"Now that the smoke has cleared away" the net gain of two republicans in the senate seems to be the most significant items in the list.

Ohio republicans are celebrating and not quarreling. The democratic effort to cultivate a republican split in that state has been dismissed as amusing.

Gen. Blanco finds that Weyler has reduced Cuba to a wretched remnant. The Spanish army on the island is but a shadow of the host sent to Weyler.

One American firm has just received an order for fifty-six locomotives to be sent to Canada, Brazil and Finland. That may fairly be called a cosmopolitan demand.

With Bishop Doane, of Albany, we deplore anything that would breed strife between John Bull and Brother Jonathan. But the first mentioned John must teach his pet lion to keep his paws off of America or said paws may get touched with the hot end of the poker.

Sunday concerts in London, where only sacred or classical music is permitted, are growing in popularity.

The aggregate attendance sometimes reaches 20,000. At most of them the price of reserved seats begins at 6c or 12c, and the best places are 50c.

A large number of seats are free, and there is gratuitous standing room at Albert Hall for 4,000 persons.

But it should be remembered that these concerts are not theatricals, where pink tights and broad jets are abound.

Ex-Secretary Lamont says he is out of politics. He must be surprised when he looks around and finds Hill and Cleveland in the same condition, by general request.

Gen. Miles suggests Gatling guns for the protection of the national treasury. It would be well to amend by inserting after the word guns—"and a republican administration."

The Ann Arbor Democrat serves notice on the pops that there will be no fusion with them this year. The democratic party in Michigan considers itself strong enough now to walk alone.

Democratic papers advise the Ohio republicans to quarrel like cats and dogs in order "to purify the party." The Ohio republicans have just got through with purifying the democratic party and feel too well satisfied to quarrel.

New York City is beginning to realize that its identity has passed away. A New York paper says the Comptroller just elected will interfere with underground transit because he is "a Brooklyn man, susceptible to Brooklyn influences."

Col. Watterson has no occasion to assume, and probably does not assume, that the sound money voters of Kentucky are in a minority. The total vote of the state this year is 100,000 less than in 1896, and the democratic plurality is less than 18,000.

The State of Michigan has just completed the stocking of the new bass ponds at Mill Creek, 17 miles south of here, and now commences some of the most important work ever attempted in the way of artificial propagation of fish in the United States.—Cedar Springs Clipper.

The U. S. government crop report for November, gives 23.7 bushels as the average yield of corn per acre; buckwheat 20.7—in New York 22 and in Pennsylvania 21; tobacco 64.5 lbs.; Irish potatoes 64.6 bushels; hay 1.42 tons. The wheat crop in Europe falls far short of the average, and the same is true of Manitoba.

Miss Alice Thompson, who is of course beautiful, ran for county superintendent of schools out in N. Dakota, and being on the populist ticket, was defeated by C. L. McLaughlin, a republican. Since the election the victor has married the vixen he, the incident simply showing the remarkable tendency there is throughout the west toward fusion in politics.

For many years water, oil and natural gas have been obtained by boring into the earth, and now it is proposed to bring up steam. It is calculated that a temperature of 228 degrees will be found at a depth of 10,000 feet. As water boils at 212 degrees, it is almost certain that steam will be obtained if a well can be sunk to that depth and piped. The experiment is being made near Pittsburg, Pa.

Football is a time-honored game, and has borne a high reputation as an athletic sport. Talk of prohibiting it by law can hardly be taken seriously. If the game has become dangerous to life or limb the rules should be amended. Players were never killed at football until recent years. Plainly, a simple amendment of rules would meet all objections. Modern football may be defined as a good thing that has been carried too far in certain rough features and needs a little regulating. It can be toned down without losing its merits as a vigorous sport or its attraction for the public.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Here is a bit of philosophy from the N. Y. Star that the editors of our free silver papers would do well to give a thought. Just let the idea penetrate their heads once:

"What is a dollar? Just what congress pleases to make it. If congress chooses to make dimes dollars no farmer when selling would want dollar wheat. If a dime became a dollar in this way it would buy no more of anything than it does to-day when it is called a dime. 'Sonny, how many legs will a calf have if you call its tail a leg?' 'Five,' answered Sonny promptly. 'No my boy, calling the tail a leg would not make it one.' Congress could pass an act to call a cat's tail a leg, but for all practical, numerical purposes the tail would remain a tail just as a dime for all practical and numerical purposes continues to be a dime, notwithstanding an act of congress changing its name so as to call it a dollar."

ONLY A LITTLE WORD.

Only a little word, softly and kindly Breathed in the ear of the sad and oppressed; Oh! how it tenderly steals like a melody Over life's billows and lulls them to rest. Only a little word whispered in love.

Only a little word, softly and kindly Dropped in a heart that is blighted and chilled; Oh! how its gentle strains tunes every chord again.

Only a little word that sorrow had chilled. Only a little word whispered in love.

OLD SKIDDLE-DE-WINK—(THE OWL).

BY HERBERT RANDALL.
Old Skiddle-de-Wink went blinkety-blink,
And he couldn't see a mite;
What do you think Old Skiddle-de-Wink
Had a most remarkable sight.

Old Skiddle-de-Wink lived up in a tree,
Away in the topmost height;
And solemnly there, with a wild wide stare,
He sat from morning till night.

And then—what surprise!—with his magical eyes

That funny old owl could see.

And, rather I think, Mr. Skiddle-de-Wink
Was as happy and happy could be.

When I was a boy, a wee little boy,
I went to the woods to play.

When the sun was low, just so I could know
What Skiddle-de-Wink would say.

He spread out his wings and went flapping about;

Till he lit on an old dead tree;

And what do you think! with his comical wink

He talked this way to me:

"Tis time little children were snug in their beds;

Now go along home—Booh! Booh!"

I ventured to ask him, "Who is it you mean?"

He answered, "Whooo! Yooo, Yooo!"

And when you went into the woods to night,
As I when a boy used to do,

Old Skiddle-de-Wink with his blinkety-blink
Would talk the same way to you.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

Bevere, bewere, chrysanthemum,
For you will have a fall!

From year to year you boldly come
In size that appall.

And, not content though you've attained
A wondrous size and vigor,
You strive—to note it we palmed—
Uncensing to get bigger.

Do not forget how oft distress
Will follow vain pretensions;
The real gem does not impress
Because of its dimensions.

So heed the warning of this text,
This brief prophetic ballad;
You'll turn into a cabbage next,
Not even fit for salad.

—Washington Star.

THE M. C. R. R. IS ALL RIGHT.

Commissioner Wesselius pays the Michigan Central railroad a fine compliment in his annual report. He says:

"Nothing can be added in the way of favorable comment on this excellent line. It is as near perfection in the way of construction, appointments, service and able management as can be conceived in modern railroading. No skill or expenditure has been spared to make it the modern railroad of the country. Improvements are constantly being added in the way to heavier and more substantial construction, interlocking appliances, etc. The general appearance of the property, the symmetry of the grade, cleanliness of the right of way, station buildings with ornamental and well kept grounds and perfect fences, attract special attention."

ATHENS THEATRE

"My Friend from India" is coming and it is a person all play lovers will want to see and hear.

William Gillette is said to have already realized $100,000 in royalties from "Secret Service" and the play is only in its second season. Playwriting is certainly profitable.

One of the most exciting scenes ever seen on the stage occurs in "Secret Service." A Union prisoner is permitted to escape and is purposefully allowed to enter a house where his brother is a guest disguised as a Confederate captain. This ruse is employed in order to throw the latter off his guard, as he is suspected. The plot fails however, as the fugitive promptly shoots himself, the brother grasping the weapon as the Confederates rush in. Pointing to his dying brother, he coolly remarks, "Sergeant, there is your prisoner," completely turning the tables on his enemies.

Frederick Warde

The romantic play "Iskander," which will be presented at the Athens Theatre Wednesday evening, Nov. 24, by the eminent actor, Frederick Warde and his splendid company, depicts the life of one of the greatest heroes of the middle ages. During the early part of Prince Iskander's career, he was at the conquest of Constantinople. The following curious story may be of interest to those who at times live with history in the past. "Over the chancel on the wall of St. Sophia in Constantinople was a wonderful picture in mosaic of the face of Jesus. It was covered with plaster and painted over when the city fell. The Moslems have a saying that St. Sophia will never again become a Christian temple until the face of Jesus shall be seen within it. It is a sinister augury for them that the picture has begun to show itself through the old coating, which the patient finger of time is slowly scaling away." Who can say that the Nineteenth Century, by other hands, and through agents then undreamed of, may not, before its close, see fulfilled the purpose which four hundred years ago fired the great heart of "Iskander" and that St. Sophia may not hail the twentieth century with thanksgiving to Him from whose birth the years of modern history are numbered?"

Secret Service

Perhaps the greatest love story ever written is that which Mr. William Gillette has embodied in "Secret Service," which will be presented at the Athens Theatre, Saturday evening Nov. 27.

It tells of the love of the daughter of a Confederate General and a member of the Union forces which is thrilling and exciting. It has for its background an incident of the civil war when the Confederate forces were occupying Richmond and the Union forces were endeavoring to overthrow the city. Louis Dumont of the U. S. Secret Service is in Richmond disguised as a Confederate Captain and is endeavoring to send a false message in order to weaken the Confederate forces. His sweetheart finds him out through the efforts of a rival and her love turns to hate. The cloud finally disappears, however, and the lovers are once more united. Numerous exciting incidents occur during the progress of the play, the most notable one being the volunteer shooting of a Union soldier in order to shield his brother from exposure and possible death. The company which is to present "Secret Service" is one of Mr. Charles Frohman's best which is a sufficient guarantee that it is a competent one. All of the original scenery and effects are to be used in the production which insures an artistic success.

"Secret Service" is said to have broken the record at regular prices of the Empire and Garrick Theatres, New York and also Hooley's Theatre, Chicago. This is certainly encouraging to American authors.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Burs and Beggar Ticks—

My settler comes out of the underwoods, after one of his incursive rambles, garnished with strings of green "stickers" and with harsh, brown burs clinging tenaciously to the long feathered hairs of his tail and about his legs and ears. I have kept in the narrow path to avoid these pests of the autumn woods only to find that they have laid fast hold upon my clothes when by some unwitting step I brushed against the border tangle. In picking them off I notice their curious forms and the fact that they are not all alike. Here are some slender daris that seem to hold by barbed heads; there a row of flattened pods clinging by their whole surface; while numberless tiny brown burs are gathered in groups or scattered promiscuously about trouser legs and coat skirt.

It is strange how an interest is suddenly awakened about the most commonplace objects in life. We move for years among old, familiar things without giving them a passing thought, when all at once some subtle spell is cast about them, and they become vested with a charming interest. I have tramped many times through autumn woods and picked off the "stickers" with no good will, but to-day they strike me as more than "stickers." I have discovered an old friend among them. Withered and brown, I should scarcely have recognized the friend of my springtime rambles but for a certain odor of the roots and a sprig of young green leaves by the side of the old, dry stalk. It all comes back now—sweet nicely of the spring woods with its umbels of white blossoms and that sweet, anise-like smell of its roots.—Appleton's Popular Science Monthly.

Her Ruse.

"Well," said Miss Twitters, "I think I am safe now."

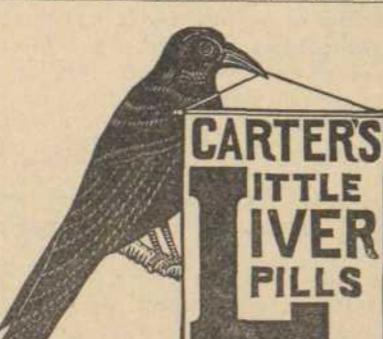

"Safe from what?" asked Miss Kittish, "Burglars."

"Were you in danger from burglars?"

"I think I was. Everybody is, more or less, but more especially an unprotected lady in a big house. I've been afraid of burglars ever since John and his wife went West and left me by myself."

"What have you done to insure safety?"

"I have bought four men's hats, of different styles and sizes, and I have hung them on the hat-rack in the hall. When Mr. Burglar surveys the array, he will decide that there are too many men in that house to make his exploit as he might wish, and he will go on to some other house. I rather flatter myself that this is a pretty good plan. Don't you think so?"—Harper's Bazaar.

New York Fashions, Etc.—

Individual fancy has full scope in respect to skirt trimmings, as the newest costumes show extremes in both directions; the ornate styles however seem most appropriate to plain fabrics, as those in figures or combinations of color require little or no trimming.

Black braiding is now fully under way, but plait, narrow black braid is always genteel, attractive, and much less expensive than that in fancy patterns.

Skirts are not wide the most economical being cut in five gores, quite plain at the front and sides, but for evening or full dress, seven gores are considered necessary. Some skirts open up the front, over a braided or embroidered V. and this may easily be done at home; adding greatly to the general effect. Tucks even in heavy cloth have not passed out of style, often so narrow as to be mistaken for cords.

Everybody will wear fur this season from the superb seal or Russian sable garment, to the cheapest edging on a half-worn material—simply because it is in such enormous demand. Fur capes have decreased in width, but no change in length is apparent. A seal or Persian lamb blouse, is the leading novelty in furs, with small sleeves and four elegant enameled buttons at the front and a metal belt around the waist.

Many fur capes now have yokes, admitting of attractive combinations of fur, which however was earlier in the season a doubtful matter; but as Mr. C. C. Payne, (the autocrat of the fur trade) is exhibiting Persian lamb and Alaska sable in one garment, mink and Persian lamb, or seal and chinchilla, that fact sets the matter at rest.

Collarettes are varied in size, combination and style of collar, a novelty being of Persian lamb, narrow on the shoulders, with a point at the front reaching the waist (giving exactly the effect of a large rever). In picking them off I notice their curious forms and the fact that they are not all alike. Here are some slender daris that seem to hold by barbed heads; there a row of flattened pods clinging by their whole surface; while numberless tiny brown burs are gathered in groups or scattered promiscuously about trouser legs and coat skirt.

He expects to get from each bushel 2 1/2 gallons of oil, worth $1.25 a gallon, or over $300 an acre.—Chelsea Herald.

The Monthly Bulletin of Vital Statistics, reported by the state department at Lansing, gives 38 deaths in this county for October, of which 9 were under 5 years of age. The average death rate is 10.4 per 1,000 inhabitants. In the city of Ann Arbor there were 11 deaths, the rate being 10.6, but a trifle greater than in the country.

The ladies of the Northside will give a genuine, old fashioned Thanksgiving Dinner at the Chapel, to-morrow, Thanksgiving Day, and meals will be served from 2 to 9 o'clock p. m.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend. The proceeds go toward the new church, and as the ladies over there are noted for their good cooking, three things will be accomplished by going there for dinner, viz. you will get an excellent meal, you will encourage those enthusiastic and hard working ladies, and your money will go for a good cause. Surey the reasons sufficient.

This year the taxes in Ann Arbor city are $1.39 on $1,000 assessment, higher than last year. The city tax is $5,234 greater than last year—and look at our streets; the county tax is $880.25 greater than last year; the state tax is $2,089.49 greater than last year; the school tax, including the mill tax, is $2,439 greater than last year, making a total of $10,642.74 that the city has to raise more than last year—and look at our streets. The rate last year was $14.08 per $1,000. This year it is $15.47 per $1,000—the fall rate being $8.42 and the city $6.65—and look at our streets.

The Payne house that has just been moved from its place occupied for so many years on State st., to an Ann st. frontage on the rear end of the lot, is one of the oldest aristocratic mansions of the city. It was built by Mr. Hooper, an Englishman who came here in an early day and made a fortune out of a brewery (brewing ale almost exclusively) that was located at the corner of Fuller and N. State sts., now the M. C. R. R. grounds. This home was a companion and exact counterpart of Gov. Field's house next south, and they were considered fine mansions when erected. The only one of the Hooper family now left is Fred B. Hooper, who resides in Detroit.

The city will employ an expert electrician to inspect the electric lights every evening. In case the full power agreed upon in the contract is not furnished, the aldermen will decline to pay full price for the lights.—Register.

That is a scheme to give another man a city job, and have the salary come from private sources.

Of course a man who takes such a job understands that his salary depends upon his ability to find enough fault to pay his way. It is possible that the new office of city expert, may be a costly one for the city.

Prof. J. E. Reighard, of the University of Michigan, and Herschel Whitaker, of Detroit, have been appointed commissioners by the governor to attend the general fisheries conference, which will be held in Tampa, Fla., January 19, 1898.—Daily Times.

Manager Liseemer of the State Telephone exchange, is very happy over the astonishing success of the new company here in Ann Arbor. The list of takers this morning numbered 313, and there is always luck in odd numbers. This bids fair to be the largest exchange in the state outside of Detroit.

Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, is to talk to Ann Arbor people, in one of the series of lectures of the Student's Christian Association Course. Her subject is "The study of a Chicago Alderman." The lady must have been a bartender's clerk, if her study facilities were complete.—Adrian Press. Not necessarily. You do not have to drink whisky to see its effects.

This is an Anti-Debt week in the Salvation Army barracks, all over the Union. From the 21st to the 27th, the members of that organization are endeavoring to clear themselves from debt of every description. That's business and good religion at the same time, for debt makes want and debt and want together are responsible for sin, and no religious order has a right to set a bad example.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Babcock gave an elaborate six o'clock dinner on Monday evening the 22d, to a few friends, in honor of Mr. Babcock's mother's 87th birthday, and of their guest, Mrs. Winchel D. Bacon, of Waukesha, Wis. The surprise of the evening was an immense cake, handsomely decorated with 12 lighted candles, typical of the twelve coming months of the year which is just entered upon, while the numbers 87 in raised letters occupied the center. This was brought out with the last course. The floral decorations were chrysanthemums.

Bishop Doane, of Albany, who is to deliver the course of lectures this season before the Hobart Guild, commencing one week from Sunday at St. Andrew's church, is quite a noted man. He attended the great Anglican peace conference at Lambeth recently, and fresh from there, he scores Americans for their jingoism, or in other words, their great love of twisting the British Lion's tail. He is firm in the conviction that the two great English speaking nations should be as one in sentiment and thought, and condemns with great severity those who attempt to foster an unfriendly spirit or feeling between the two. Well, the Bishop is about right.

The Board of Public Works, in taking the action that it did relative to preparing Main st. for paving, showed a wise forethought. The Water Works Co., the Gas Co., and the sewers should all be compelled to make all necessary arrangements for connection with each and every building or where it is possible that a building may be erected, so that if pavement is put down it will not be necessary to tear it up every little while for connections. This ought to be done at once, so that the earth will have time to settle and all sink holes in the pavement avoided.

Then if paving is to be done, it ought to be the best, and no sand foundation allowed on any streets that are traveled to any extent. Our streets are the laughing stock of the surrounding farmers. One blind old farmer said the other day: "Oh, yes, you fellows in the city want to tax the farmers for better roads. Why, I had to leave my team out here at the city limits and walk into town. After I struck your city roads I would not be cruel enough to my horses to make them haul me over their muddy surface. Talk about good roads! Why, man, come out on the South Ypsilanti road and see what we have done there. It's gravel that makes your good road. You have plenty of gravel in the city, why don't you use it?"

Electric Light

THE BEST

Some of the Advantages of Electric Light:

	Cubic feet of air vitiated.	Cubic feet of carbonic acid produced.	Heat produced in 1 lb. Watt's raised 1° Fahrenheit.
12 c. p. Incandescent Lamp	None.	None.	13.8
12 c. p. Gas Light	345.25	3.21	278.6
12 c. p. Kerosene Lamp	376.30	3.54	232.6

Some of the Disadvantages of Gas:

Air consumed.	Carbonic Acid thrown off.
Heat.	Unsteadiness of Light.
Frosting Pipes.	Danger of Suffocation.
Humidity.	Danger from use of Matches.
Ceilings Blackened.	Water and Air in Pipes.
Sulphur thrown off.	Metals and Gildings Tarnished.
Ammonia thrown off.	Sulphureted Hydrogen thrown off.
Gas cannot be inverted to throw light down.

None of these Disadvantages Accompany Electric Lighting.

In general the Incandescent Electric Light is much healthier and much more convenient to use than any other method of lighting, and is more economical for amount of light furnished than gas.

Electricity for all kinds of Power. Electricity for Heating.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

"Will you kindly allow me," writes Miss MARY E. SAIDT, of Jobstown, N. J., to Mrs. Pinkham, "the pleasure of expressing my gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking your Compound? I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration and general debility, caused by falling of the womb. It seemed as though my back would never stop aching. I could not sleep. I had dull headaches. I was weary all the time, and life was a burden to me.

I sought the seashore for relief, but all in vain. On my return I resolved to give your medicine a trial.

I took two bottles and was cured. I can cheerfully state, if more ladies would only give your medicine a fair trial they would bless the day they saw the advertisement, and there would be happier homes. I mean to do all I can for you in the future. I have you alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am very grateful."

The Wabash railway is reported will build a new line into Chicago. That road is making the Lake Shore, Central and other roads hustle and we are not sure but that the project to shorten the route from Detroit to Chicago by the way of Manchester, may yet be adopted by the Lake Shore.—Enterprise.

As the fire engine was not in working order at the last fire in Manchester, the fact was brought out that the chief could not get men to help keep the fire apparatus in working order without any compensation for services, and so the council has voted to reorganize the department, and to pay those who work at fires and at testing trials.

The friends of Larkins, Jones and Lyons who were recently acquainted at Ann Arbor, of the murder of James Richards, are circulating a subscription paper among the people of Birmingham, where the boys live, raising money to reimburse them for the cost of their trial.—Stockbridge Sun.

Will they get enough for one of the young men to pay his expenses in defending himself from the charges preferred by his former sweetheart?

Miss Nellie Keal has just completed a new set of officers' regalia for Washenaw Lodge F. & A. M. to replace the set recently ruined by fire. The body of the aprons is white lambkin, bordered with royal blue silk velvet, edged with silk fringe and braid, the pattern being an original design. The emblems are embroidered in silk. The ties and tassels are blue. The combination forms a beautiful effect and we doubt if a lodge in the state has a handsomer set of officers' regalia. Miss Keal is an artist in this line and her work is receiving much praise.—Dexter Leader.

The Century Magazine for the Coming Year.

The Century Magazine, with its November number, enters upon its twenty-seventh year. During its long existence, by reason of its many notable successes, it has won an assured and commanding position.

During the coming year The Century will maintain its exceptional position as a magazine of entertainment and as a leader in art and thought.

Its pictorial features will be notable, and it will command the services of the foremost artists, illustrators, and engravers of this country and of Europe.

Nothing like a complete announcement of its literary features can be attempted now. Dr. Weir Mitchell, whose novel of the American Revolution, "Hugh Wynne," is the great success of the year, has written a new story for the present volume. It bears the piquant title: "The Adventures of Francois: Foundling, Adventurer, Juggler and Fencing-Master during the French Revolution." The tale is full of romance and adventure. Mrs. Burton Harrison contributes a new novel of New York life, called "Good Americans," in which contemporaneous social types and tendencies are brightly mirrored and described.

There will be a group of clever stories about horses and people who like horses, under the general title of "Gallop's."

"A Woman's Reminiscences of the French Intervention in Mexico" will be given in a series of graphic and highly picturesque papers by Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson. Further contributions to the interesting series of "Heroes of Peace" will be made by Jacob A. Rus, Gustav Kobbe, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, and others.

For the benefit of the readers of The Century an unusual combination offer is made for this year. There has been issued "The Century Catalogue of One Hundred Portraits," made up of the finest engravings that have appeared in the magazine, and representing a total expenditure of nearly $30,000. These are printed on heavy plate-paper, with wide margins, like proofs. The retail price of the gallery is $7.50, but this year it will be sold only in connection with a subscription to The Century, the price of the two together being $6.50.

YPSILANTI NEWS ITEMS.

A. A. Belcher is now a resident here, having moved from Milan.

M. J. Lewis is improving his house by building a large porch in front.

Don Lawrence, the football player, is now clerking for C. S. Worley & Co.

The bicycle path on the south road to Ann Arbor is being pushed rapidly to completion.

The party to be given at Light Guard Hall Thursday evening, bids fair to be well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, of Adams street, introduce their 10 lb. daughter to their friends.

The '98 and '00 medics played a game Saturday of foot ball, the '00 winning by a score of 4-0.

There were over 100 Ypsilantians who attended the Theodore Thomas orchestra concert at Ann Arbor Thursday night last.

The Newton Ladder Co. has been reorganized, and is now a stock company with $20,000 capital. The factory and central office will be in Detroit.

Chester Parsons has gone to St. Louis, Mich., to take the vocal culture classes of his sister Miss Lorina Parsons, who has gone to Alma College to teach.

The Ypsilanti H. S. team defeated Northville Saturday by a score of 12-6. The first game was 44-0 in their favor. So it seems that Northville is improving.

The "Prisoner of Zenda" was one of the finest plays that the people of our city have seen in many a day, and was greeted with a full house. The stage settings are very fine.

Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage, on Dec. 1st, of Miss Mary M. Fisk, at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fisk, to Frederick D. Minard.

Peter W. Carpenter having resigned as city clerk to enter into business, the fact has been suddenly developed that there are a great many Ypsilantians who consider themselves just fitted for the place. There are several candidates for each alderman to tackle.

Last week an Ypsilanti dray horse got so befuddled on seeing the Commercial editor establish his sanctum on Congress street, that the beast ran away and took refuge in a butcher shop. The butcher held up his hands and cried, "Nay, nay," but the horse wouldn't neigh. The butcher was terribly "cut up" over the affair, but the horse got out, before he was served the same way.—Adrian Press. That was a narrow escape.

Mrs. Austin George of Ypsilanti, last week attended a meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Saginaw and read a paper on "Michigan—Romance and Heroism in its History." We concede the "romance" to Professor George's courtship and marriage, but unless she recounted the success of P. A. Latta in removing the secession flag from the flagstaff

Mortgage Sale.

Whereas, Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage bearing date the 23rd day of May, A. D., 1878, made by Hugh McLaughlin his wife, in the township of Sylvan, county of Washtenaw, Michigan, to Rice A. Beal, of the city of Ann Arbor, county and state aforesaid, and recorded in the office of the Register of deeds for the Washtenaw county on the 23rd day of May, A. D., 1878, in Liber 66 of mortgages, page 224, etc.

Whereas, by reason of said default there is now claimed to be due and payable, and said mortgagee, and the statutes of the state of Michigan, the undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on the 23rd day of February, 1878, at 10 o'clock A. M., at the time of the sale, at the west door of the court house in the city of Ann Arbor in the county of Washtenaw in said state, on Friday the 17th day of December, A. D., 1877, at 10 o'clock in forenoon of that day, subject to all encumbrances of mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of said sale, the following described real estate, to wit:

All that certain piece of land situate and being in the City of Ann Arbor County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, described as follows: Commencing twenty-two feet south of the northwest corner of the block one north of Huron st. and range five east, running thence south along the east line of said block one hundred feet, running thence east at right angles to said last mentioned line one hundred feet, running thence north at right angles to said last mentioned line twenty-two feet, running thence west at right angles to said last mentioned line one hundred feet to place of beginning, running thence with right of way to the south end of said described premises, six feet wide. Commencing on Ann st. at a point one hundred feet east of the northwest corner of Huron st. and range five east, running thence east at right angles to said last mentioned line one hundred feet, running thence north at right angles to said last mentioned line twenty-two feet, running thence west at right angles to said last mentioned line one hundred feet to place of beginning, running thence with right of way to the south end of said described premises, six feet wide.

All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Washtenaw, and state of Michigan, known, bounded and described as follows, viz.: The southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section thirty-five (No. 33), in township one (No. 1) south of range three (No. 3) east (Lyndon). The north part of the northwest fractional section two (No. 2), in township two (No. 2), south of range three (No. 3) east (Sylvan) containing eighty-eight acres and twenty-eight one hundredths of an acre more or less. The north part of section three (No. 3) south of range one (No. 1) and range last aforesaid, known bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of said section three, running thence west on the north line of said section about seven rods, thence west with the east line of said section to the south far enough to include within a line drawn east parallel with the north line of said section to the east line of said section forty acres of land, thence east to the east line of said section, and thence north to the east line of said section, being forty acres of land taken from the north and one hundred and forty acres of land sold and conveyed by Thomas Snow and Elizabeth Snow to James Snow by deed, bearing date the 26th day of December, A. D., 1877, and record in the Register's office for the county of Washtenaw, in Liber W. 18, page 42, to which deed reference is made for greater certainty of description.

The whole number of acres of land hereby intended to be conveyed being one hundred and sixty-eight and twenty-eight one hundred acres more or less.

ESTATE OF JAMES RICHARDS.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw, Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Wednesday the 3d day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.

Preston H. Wirt Newkirk, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of James Richards deceased.

John Shankland, the administrator of said estate, comes into court and represents that he is not prepared to render his final account as an administrator.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Thursday, the 25th day of November next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for examining and allowing such account and that the same shall have been allowed and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be held at the Probate office in the City of Ann Arbor, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioners is denied. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Ann Arbor Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

UNIVERSITY ITEMS.

President and Mrs. Angel will have a Turkey dinner to-morrow.

The University closes to-day for Thanksgiving and there has been a general getting out of town by students.

Prof. Alberto Jonas is in Boston and the east, playing some engagements with the Boston Festival Orchestra.

The electric lights were used for the first time at the Thomas orchestra last Thursday night, and made the old hall look bright. It is a grand improvement.

The game of foot ball will be all right when the dangerous roughness is eliminated. Six men piled on one is opposed to the Saxon idea of fair play.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Acting President Hutchins should have turkey for Thanksgiving if he wants it, for he is proving himself an able man in the place of the greatest college president in the United States to-day.

There are nearly 100 students in the various literary societies who desire to compete for the honor of meeting Chicago in debate. So our friends can see that oratory as well as athletics, is popular.

The time is coming, and not far distant, either, when every University association or society will have upon its board or in its organization somewhere, a member of the faculty. This is called out by recent S. L. A. rumors.

A Homeopathic Guild, having for its object the assisting of people who are in need of treatment at the Homeopathic Hospital, but who can not afford to remain long enough to be benefited, was formed at the home of Maj. Soule last Saturday.

The pronouncing contest Friday evening, between the laws and the lits, resulted in a victory for the laws. There were 26 laws and 24 lits in the contest and 4 laws were standing when the lits went down. There was a large crowd present.

H. A. Sanders, who has been studying at Munich for two years under the Latin lexicographer, Woelflin, paves, on closer acquaintance which his visit to this country is now yielding, no less attractive as a man than as a writer. His public readings from his own works seem to give his audiences the highest satisfaction; and in the busy course of friendly dining through which he has been put since he landed he has shown himself the kindest and most unassuming of guests of honor.

Mr. Hawkins is now 34 years old. He began life as a lawyer, and in 1892 he made a vigorous but unsuccessful canvas for a Liberal seat in Parliament. While waiting for clients he began to write stories. He made his way but slowly at first; he had been writing four or five years before he achieved a pronounced success in "The Prisoner of Zenda." "The Dally Dialogues" followed and confirmed his popularity. It is an interesting fact that while he is visiting in this country an American magazine will begin the publication of a sequel to the story which was his great success. McClure's Magazine for December will contain the opening chapters of "Rupert of Hentzau," a new Zenda novel which contains the history of the love and adventures of Rudolf Rassendyll and Princess Flavia. They were extremely engaging people as they presented themselves in "The Prisoner of Zenda"; but those who have had the privilege of reading the new story say that they are still more engaging in it, and that the series of adventures through which it carries them is one to keep readers sitting up all night. The story has been illustrated for McClure's by the author's personal friend, Charles Dana Gibson.

At the 4th annual reception given by the Oratorical Association in honor of famous actors and orators, last Thursday afternoon, Frederick Warde was the guest, and delivered an address upon "The Actor and His Art." He claimed that actors must have the natural gift for the art in order to be great artists. He also claimed that the art was the greatest of all arts, as it combines the musician, the painter, the sculptor, with its own.

Two students Frank N. Bacon and George H. Allen, while returning from Dexter last Sunday night, were "held up" by tramps.

They betook themselves of the college yell which they always have with them, and giving it to the tramps, the would-be highwaymen did not stop to let any grass grow under their feet.

You can't keep the boys from singing somewhere.
